Off the wall: Acid test

CARNATION, Wash. (AP) — The culinary taste of 571 finicky felines are enough to give an executive an acid stomach if the cats don't like what's put before them.

The cats and their discerning palates test new recipes for Friskies and other cat foods at The Carnation Research Farm just east of Seattle.

"We do a very serious job here," assures Ed Kane, the eatery's manager. "These cats make the decision of what will get out on the market."

With their keen senses of taste and smell, the cats can detect the slightest change of ingredients.

"When that cat walks away, the consumer won't buy again," Kane said, and that could mean millions of dollars in losses for a pet food company.

New state taxes seen

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Another tax increase will be difficult to avoid in 1985, two key Texas House members told the Texas Association of Taxpayers Friday.

But the chairmen of the House Appropriations Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee said they and the legislative leadership are committed to cutting current state spending and trying to dodge a tax hike.

Taxpayers already have been hit hard enough, they said, by last summer's special session $4.6 billion tax increase to fund education reform and highway improvements over the next three years.

State Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, head of the tax bill-writing Ways and Means Committee, said: "Obviously, we want to avoid a tax bill, but we have an awfully tough job."

The only solution lies in making difficult cuts in current spending levels, he said, adding that budget experts from the association and other businesses would be welcome to help his committee and the Legislature find areas that can be trimmed.

Some of those tough decisions, he said, could include:

- Freezing the state work force and ignoring increased workloads and population growth problems.

- Providing no pay raise for state employees, despite complaints that health insurance increases have already resulted in the equivalent of pay cuts for many workers.

- Ignoring calls for relieving the tax burden on local property taxpayers with state funds.

- Rejecting all proposals for any new construction at state facilities, including state prisons and mental health-mental retardation facilities.

- Spending nothing extra on prisons or mental hospitals,

Dancers sparkle at gala

The downtown Main Street event was tabbed Jamaica Gala Day, but the festivities gave away to the popular break dancing routines performed by several local youths.

Approximately 400 people were in attendance at the gala celebration sponsored by six Big Spring United Way organizations. The festivities lasted from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday.

The receipts from the various booths will be used to benefit the United Way fund drive in Big Spring. Bert Andries, this year's division chairman of special events for the United Way, said he was "frankly, disappointed" with the turnout for the fund raising event.

The gala day was modeled after the Heart of the City downtown promotion, he said.

However, the break dancers added an additional spark to the gala. A crowd gathered before a makeshift stage as several contestants in three age divisions competed for a first place trophy.

A dance-off was needed to determine the winners in the 7-12 age division and also the 13-17 age division. Tiny Jeremy Balios, 3, was the only entry in the 4-6 age contest and easily captured the top spot to the delight of the crowd.

Johnny Lozano, showing some of his original "breaking moves" nabbed the trophy in the 7-12 age bracket edging out Alonzo Parras. Michael "Double J" Lang danced off his closest challenger, Darrell Young, to claim the first place trophy for the 13-17 age division. Adriel Saldivar, a break dancer himself, served as the judge in the contest.

Winning the turkey shoot competition were Jerry Sutton and David Booth.

The organizations represented at the gala were the American Red Cross, the Boy Scouts of America, the Girl Scouts of America, the local YMCA, the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the West Side Community Center, the West Side Day Care Center and the local chapter of the Boy's Club of America.

Andries said he did not know whether the Gala Day will be held next year. This year marked the first time the United Way had sponsored such an event.

The United Way was hoping to raise fund to meet the goal for 1984 of $202,500.

Montford contributions outpace GOP opponent

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Campaign finance in the District 28 Texas Senate race seems to be a rather one-sided affair, with Democratic incumbent John T. Montford way ahead of Republican challenger Sol O. Thomas.

District 28 contains 14 counties, including Howard, Martin, Dawson and Borden. Montford and Thomas both are of Lubbock and many of their contributions come from that area.

Montford, however, also logged in numerous contributions from political action committees, known as PACs, of various special-interest groups around the state.

According to the latest campaign finance reports filed with the secretary of state, Montford received $204,324 in contributions and spent $57,571 during 1984 through Oct. 27. He also earlier reported $31,654 left unspent from 1983.

Thomas' totals through the same period of 1984 are $32,969 in contributions and $16,487 in expenses.

The expense figures for both probably will jump dramatically for the 10 days between the Oct. 27 reporting deadline and Tuesday's election. Candidates must file a final report 30 days after the election and must file telegrams listing major contributions between Oct. 27 and election day.

Montford's file on Friday contained telegrams showing $1,000 contributions each from Steve Late and Hal B. Lambert, both of Odessa, a group called SCOPE of Amarillo and a trucking industry PAC.

Other major contributions for Montford during the latest reporting period included:

W.K. (Bill) Barnett of Levelland, $1,000; Texas Mortgage Bankers

Quality stamps the mail

Says district boss

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

The utilization of automation and improvement of employee awareness are two ways the U.S. Postal Service is trying to enhance customer service, said North Texas District manager Charles Losasso.

Losasso was in Big Spring for an area meeting of the Texas Branch of National League of Postmasters held at the Holiday Inn.

Losasso was the featured speaker at the Saturday evening luncheon held. He said the increased volume of mail in the North Texas district alone has prompted the Postal Service to employ machinery to speed up the sorting of mail and help improve efficiency, he said.

By utilizing automation, the post offices can process mail faster and also be free of human error, he said.

The postal service is trying to get "employees' work on a higher level of quality," Losasso said. He said his dinner speech would center on the importance of each individual post office and employee.

"We will also review the past fiscal year and point out areas of improvement in our district," he said.

"Our area has been marked by tremendous high growth," said Losasso, whose district covers approximately 750 post offices. "We are trying to keep up (with customer needs). But the larger facilities are getting jam-packed."

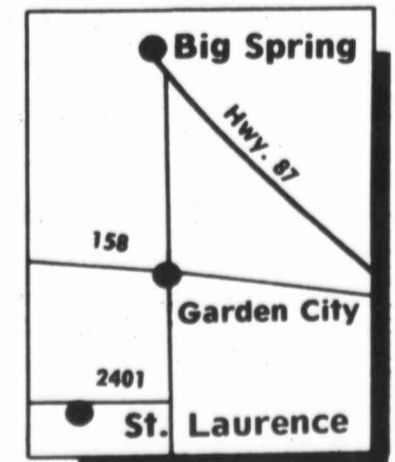

Losasso said overall the postal service is interested in having nationwide service. He added that rural and smaller post offices will not be eliminated for that reason alone.

"We are constantly trying to find ways to improve service to our customers."

He said the outdated equipment in the larger facilities is the reason for the lack of better service. The use of automation has helped service a great deal, he said.

The meeting of the 90 West Texas postmasters began at 10 a.m. following registration. Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel gave the welcoming speech.

Seminars were conducted on finance, mail classification, promotional upward mobility, membership and insurance.

Weather

Blue skies remain

By The Associated Press
A weak ridge of high pressure lingered along the Texas coast Saturday and continued to drift eastward, but the rest of the state enjoyed mostly blue skies.

A Pacific cold front, meanwhile, moved into the Texas Panhandle late Saturday afternoon, but the National Weather Service predicted no significant weather changes associated with that trough other than shifting winds and cooler temperatures.

South and southwest winds averaged between 10 and 20 mph across most of the state but shifted to the northwest in the Panhandle to 15 mph.

Generally mild temperatures were the rule statewide, with readings mostly in the 60s and 70s. But cloudy and foggy weather in some portions of Central Texas kept the mercury steady near 60 degrees. At 4 p.m., temperature extremes ranged from 59 degrees at Austin to 83 at Wink.

The forecast called for mostly fair and warm weather Sunday with decreasing cloudiness in South Texas and the possibility of widely scattered thunderstorms along the lower coast near Brownsville.

Lows will dip to the upper 30s in the Panhandle and rise to the 40s in northwest and western areas. South and North Texas were expected to have lows in the 50s and 60s.

Highs will be in the high 70s to the 80s.

A Pacific storm that battered the Northwest with heavy snow, rain and wind moved over the central part of the nation Saturday with strong, gusty wind but little rain or snow.

Strong northwesterly wind blew across the high Plains but powerful, gusty southerly wind prevailed ahead of the cold front from northern Texas to the upper Great Lakes.

Wind gusted to 56 mph during the morning along the foothills west of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Gale warnings were posted for the upper Great Lakes; lake wind advisories were issued in Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas, and high wind warnings were issued for south-central Montana and southeastern Wyoming.

Teen in hospital, woman arrested following crashes

A Big Spring teen-ager injured in a traffic accident Friday night was listed in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital late Saturday night, according to a hospital spokesman.

James Dowell, 14, was hurt when he and another 14-year-old were injured in a one-vehicle accident at approximately 8 p.m. at Comanche Trail Park, police reports said. The truck the youths were riding in struck a rock post which caused the vehicle to flip over.

A hospital spokesman said Dowell was "doing fine; his condition is excellent." The other teen-ager involved in the accident, Larry Wilson, Jr., was treated and released from the hospital.

Two women were also treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital after an accident on 1700 E. Third at approximately 8:50 p.m. Friday, police reports said. One of the drivers, Janice Hart, 36, of Lubbock was later arrested for suspicion of public intoxication, failure to maintain financial responsibility and exceeding the allowable speed limit, reports said. She was released on bond at 11:48 a.m. Saturday.

The driver of the other vehicle, Gayle Moran, 31, of 538 Westover was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital shortly after the accident.

Relatives of Ms. Hart said she was enroute to the hospital to see her son, who was involved in the earlier accident, when the collision with Mrs. Moran occurred.

The three vehicles involved in the two separate accidents were badly damaged and were towed away by a local wrecker service, reports said.

Son of former UT regent found with 7 machine guns

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The son of a former University of Texas regents chairman has been jailed on charges of possessing seven unregistered machine guns and four silencers, police said.

John Robert Peace III was arrested in his home after police found what they called the largest cache of weapons seized here in recent years.

Peace is the son of the late John Peace Jr., an influential San Antonio resident. The elder Peace, who died in 1974, was a regent on the University of Texas board from 1967 to 1973.

The younger Peace, who told police he was self-employed, was arrested Friday by agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and ordered held in lieu of $500,000 bond, police said.

In addition to the illegal automatic weapons, agents seized at Peace's home in fashionable Terrell Hills 1.5 pounds of plastic explosives, a dozen simulator hand grenades, 10,000 rounds of ammunition and 240 mostly semi-automatic rifles and pistols, police said.

Local ATF agent M. Stewart Allen estimated the cache was worth at least $100,000. He refused comment on what Peace might have planned to do with the weapons.

"The semi-automatic rifles are the type used in guerilla warfare," Allen said. "And the plastic explosives, with that amount, could do a lot — I mean a lot — of damage."

Allen said ATF agents had been investigating Peace for several weeks and the investigation would continue. He said he could not say if there would be more arrests.

Peace told reporters Friday the weapons were part of a private collection and that he had planned to register them soon.

Taxes

despite federal court orders. Instead, the state would have to find more ways to keep people out of those institutions.

Even with all those steps, Schlueter said, "we'd still have to report a tax bill for $500 million."

State Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, head of the House Appropriations Committee that writes the House's state budget proposal, said he and House Speaker Gib Lewis are committed to present a budget that will not require a tax increase.

Legislators will have to see "whether they want another tax bill or whether they can live with the heat," he added.
Though he acknowledged that no new taxes will mean eliminating some state programs, keeping more criminals out of prison and turning more mental patients out on the streets, existing state employees would not be fired, Rudd said.

If the Legislature can hold the line now, he said, maybe in two years the oil and gas revenue outlook will be better for Texas and the state budget won't have to be so austere.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock told the crowd that although the state will have $4 billion in additional revenue to work with compared with two years ago, all of that and more will be needed to fund what the state already is committed to in teacher pay raises, highway needs, as well as keeping programs close to current funding levels.

"Say the Legislature allows 4 percent for inflation," he said. "They'll have to bring in $1.5 billion more." If the state's expected growth of more than 500,000 people over the biennium is taken into account, Bullock said, another $2.1 billion will be needed.
"But I really don't know if people are willing to go for another billion dollar tax bill," he said.

However, he suggested that legislators will find little fat in the state budget to cut.

Raid nets pornographic videos

BEAUMONT (AP) — More than $250,000 worth of pornographic video tapes and obscene material have been seized from five local businesses after an extensive investigation involving about 30 video dealers, authorities said.

The raids, which came Friday after an undercover operation that was launched in October, ended in the seizure of more than 10,000 tapes, said Beaumont Police Chief John Swann.

He said authorities "checked every store that we were aware of that dealt with video tapes" before some 50 police officers, armed with search warrants, moved in Friday on the five businesses.

Vice Lt. Art Van Dorn said the raids came in response to citizens' complaints.

Fire kills 49 in Egypt

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — A fire swept through 400 mud and thatch houses, killing 49 people and injuring 24 in a Nile Delta village, police said Saturday.

The fire in el-Dahria, 43 miles south of Alexandria, was ignited Friday when winds blew sparks from a stove, on which a woman was baking bread. The sparks landed in hay stacks on neighboring rooftops, causing the conflagration, the officials said.

Solidarity priest buried

WARSAW, Poland — The independent labor federation Solidarity enjoyed a brief resurrection Saturday, the day its slain chaplain was buried in the courtyard of his Warsaw church.

A crowd of Solidarity supporters estimated by church officials at 250,000 gathered for the funeral of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, 37, a strong supporter of the outlawed union movement who defended it from the pulpit of St. Stanislaw Kostka Church.

They carried pro-Solidarity banners and shouted slogans and the name of Solidarity leader Lech Walesa. Later, an estimated 25,000 of them marched three miles to the center of Warsaw. It was the largest public showing of support for Solidarity since the June 1983 visit of Pope John Paul II.

IRA warned of revenge

DUBLIN, Ireland — An IRA political leader predicted Saturday that Britain will seek revenge for last month's hotel bomb attempt to kill Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her Cabinet members.

"The British government is not going to sit back and allow the situation where the Cabinet was almost wiped out and not take reprisal action," Sinn Fein President Gerry Adams said in an interview as the Irish Republican Army's political branch opened its annual convention.

Sandinista's push vote

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The leftist Sandinista government, assured of winning Sunday's elections, pushed hard for a strong turnout to back up its claim that the vote is legitimate, despite the lack of substantial opposition.

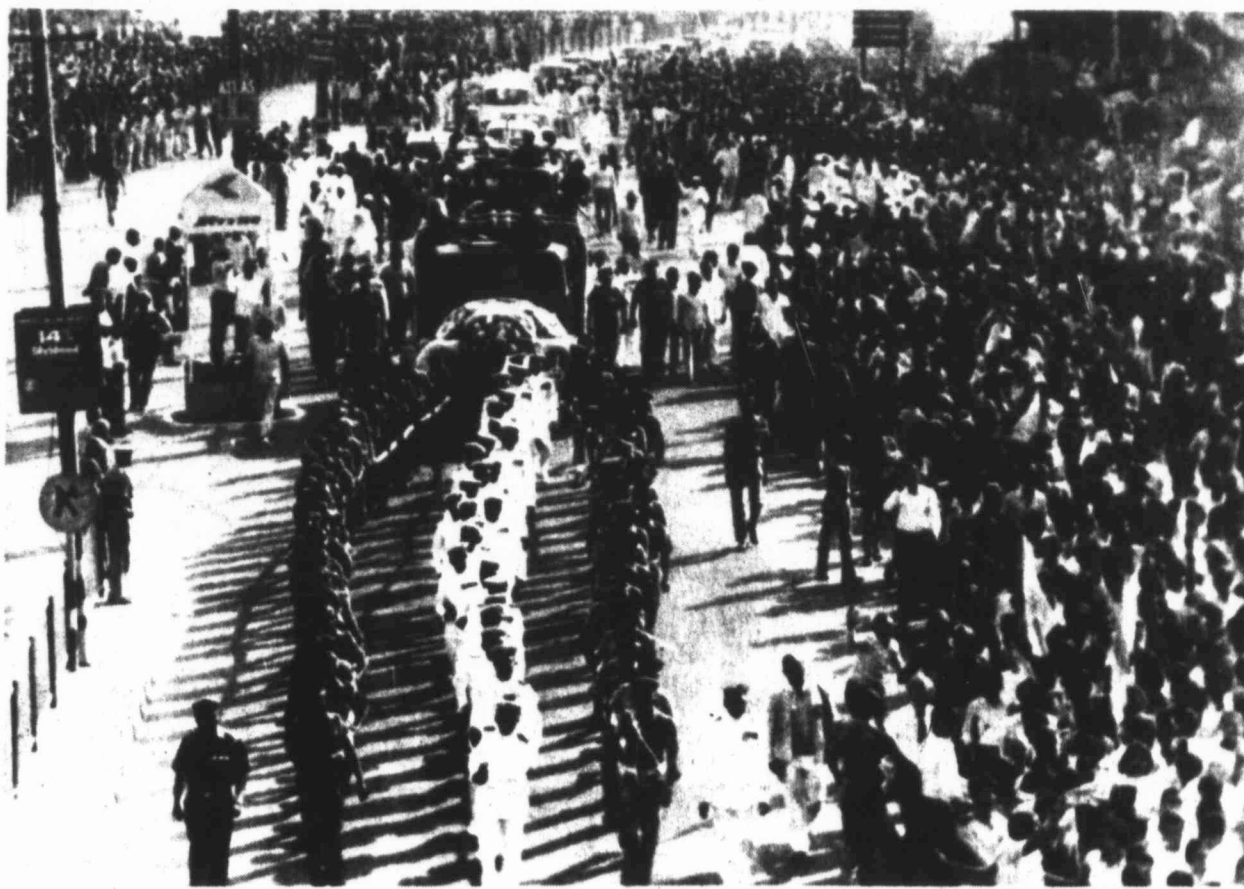

Officials predicted that 80 percent of the 1.58 million eligible voters would go to the polls Sunday. Some residents said Sandinista militants were pressuring them to vote.

The official Sandinista newspaper, BARRICADA, carried a headline quoting Mariano Fiallos, president of the Supreme Electoral Council, as saying "The citizens will turn out massively at the polls."

Iran makes spy claims

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran charged on Saturday — the eve of the fifth anniversary of the Nov. 4, 1979 seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran — that U.S. embassies around the world are spy centers, and repeated its characterizations of the United States as a "demonic creature."

The Foreign Ministry statement, carried by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency and monitored in Nicosia, reiterated many of Iran's frequent charges against the United States.

PAYING TRIBUTE — Indira Gandhi's funeral procession winds through New Delhi Saturday before the slain Indian leader is cremated in a public funeral rite.

Last respects

Mournful India witnesses cremation of Gandhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Rajiv Gandhi, dutiful son, circled his mother's body seven times and touched her face lightly with a burning piece of sandalwood. Then, as hundreds of thousands watched, he lighted the butter-soaked logs beneath her.

The 40-year-old Gandhi, who already had taken over Indira Gandhi's office as prime minister, was now fulfilling his role as sole surviving son, consigning her to eternity in the ancient Indian rite of cremation.

As the flames leaped higher, he and other mourners built up a pyramid of logs over her flower-covered red sari, and Hindu priests chanted mantras, prayers beseeching that her remains be scattered to the air and ground, the wind and water. White smoke curled into the air.

The estimated 400,000 Indians swarming over the grassy flats beside the Yamuna River raised cry after cry of tribute to the assassinated government chief, the woman assassinated Wednesday who had led the country for 15 years.

"Long live Indira Gandhi!" they shouted.

There were no speeches on the funeral platform. Rajiv Gandhi, a former airline pilot and relative newcomer to politics, helped pour camphor, clarified butter and pieces of sandalwood on the fire. At one point, he handed his son, Rahul, 14, a piece of wood to put on the fire.

Rajiv Gandhi spent more than two hours on the platform as dozens of relatives and friends paid their last respects, sprinkling handfuls of camphor mixed with incense and powders.

Much of the time he stood holding his arms folded across his chest, watching the fire grow.

It was the fourth time he had performed this grim family duty. He also presided over the cremation of his father, Feroze Gandhi, in 1960, of his grandfather, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, in 1964, and of his younger brother, Sanjay, in 1980.

All of Mrs. Gandhi's immediate relatives walked around the pyre, including Rajiv's wife, Sonia, and his son and daughter, Priyanka. Sanjay's widow, Maneka, who had feuded with her mother-in-law, also briefly paid her respects and brought her son, Varun.

Mrs. Gandhi's funeral cortege had wound seven miles through the capital, symbolically pulled by three columns of soldiers holding ropes of red and dark and light blue.

Pakistan leader attends funeral

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Zia ul Haq pledged Saturday to strive for improved relations with India as he headed for New Delhi to attend the funeral of the assassinated Indian prime minister, Indira Gandhi.

"There is always an opportunity, if minds and conscience are clear, to improve relations," Zia told reporters at Islamabad airport.

He said he would meet Mrs. Gandhi's son and successor, Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi after the funeral, probably on Sunday. Zia's trip marks the first time that a Pakistan head of state has attended the funeral of an Indian leader.

Hazardous waste found

MACDILL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. — A dozen hazardous waste sites discovered here and at an Air Force bombing range 65 miles away could threaten groundwater supplies and parts of Tampa Bay, an environmental report said.

The report, prepared for the Air Force by the Gainesville consulting firm of Water and Air Research Inc., was made public Friday.

The dozen sites included six base landfills, a training area for firefighters, two fuel-storage areas on base, a storage area for paint solvents and waste oils, and two landfills at the Avon Park bombing range.

Gang shooting kills 1

LOS ANGELES — Shotgun blasts fired from a passing car killed one teen-ager and wounded another early Saturday in what police said was apparently a gang-related shooting.

The shooting occurred just after midnight when the pair left a high school dance and crossed the street to go to a taco stand, said police Detective Raul Reyna.

"A vehicle seen cruising earlier in the area ... drove by and did a drive-by shooting," killing 15-year-old Javier Perez and wounding 15-year-old Gumerindo Carido, who was in stable condition at County-USC Medical Center, Reyna said.

Train kills 3 beachgoers

SANFORD, Fla. — A freight train slammed into a truck full of beachgoers at a railroad crossing, killing three youths and critically injuring a fourth, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

The truck's passengers apparently were returning from a day at the beach when the accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m. Friday at a crossing marked only by railroad signs. The truck was pushed into a ditch after it was struck by the northbound Seaboard System Railroad train.

Police suit appealed

CHICAGO — A $1.6 million judgment against the city of Joliet, its police chief and a former officer who fatally shot a 19-year-old man reaching for identification will be appealed, an attorney for the defendants says.

A U.S. District Court jury Friday awarded the sum to the parents and siblings of 19-year-old Ronald Sherrod, who died in 1979.

Sherrod was shot as he reached into his pocket for identification after the officer stopped Sherrod's car because he recognized the passenger, a suspect in a burglary, said attorney Andrew Horwitz, who represented Sherrod's family.

Q: We have friends who just bought a house in another state by a loan assumption. What is this?

A: As an example — Couple A bought a home three years ago. They made a down payment, secured a loan and have been making monthly payments. They now have been transferred and must sell. Couple B wants to buy A's house. Couple B is able to purchase A's equity in the property and has arranged with the lender to "assume" Couple A's original loan. Couple B moves into the house and makes or "takes up" the payments on the loan as established by Couple A. While this example is oversimplified, the mechanics are basically the same. Also, because of the high cost of money, in states where law allows, the lenders may increase the interest on assumption loans.

Nation, courts Re-elect Reagan

A vote for the re-election of President Reagan is the best decision voters can make Tuesday because he is the best man to deal with a cornerstone issue in this country — the economy.

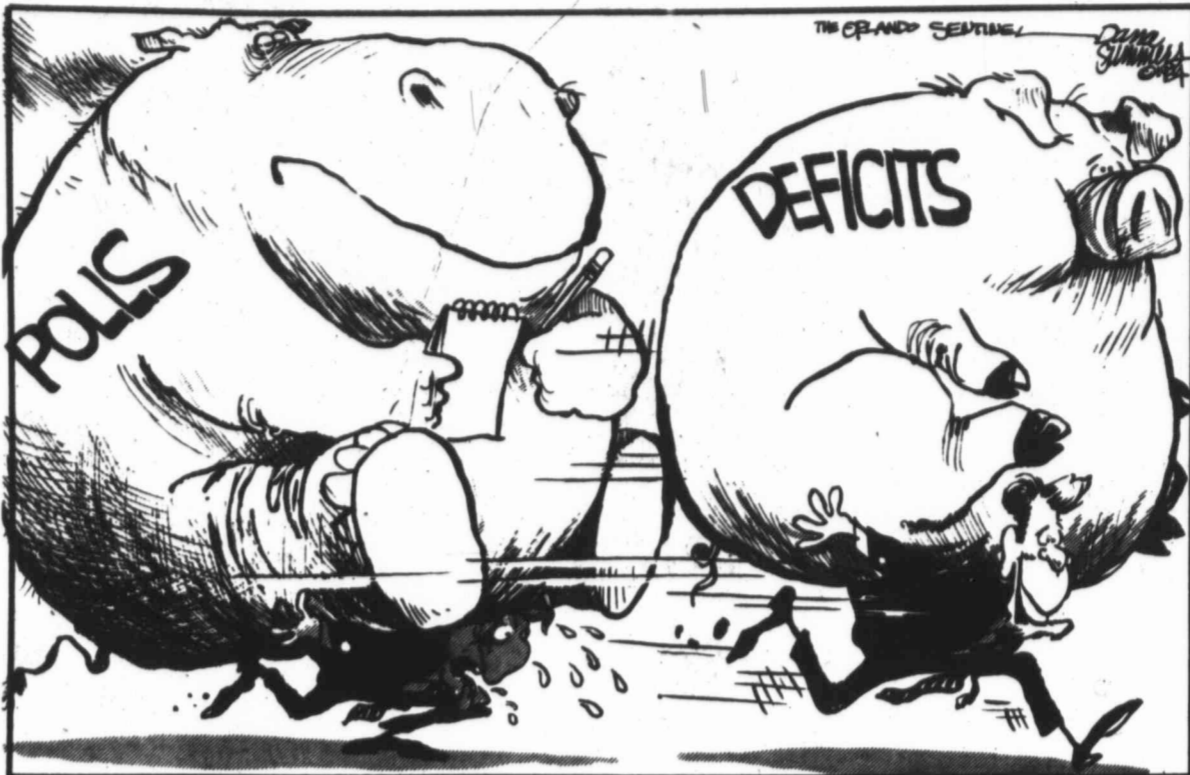

Were we to take Reagan's exemplary record in economic achievement away from his administration, we would be hard-pressed to otherwise endorse his second term.

But the specter of ravaging inflation, oppressive taxation, and a malaise of presidential leadership that haunted the Democratic White House of Jimmy Carter is too close to consider electing Carter's second-in-command to take up where the peanut farmer president left off.

Reagan has juggled the economy successfully, cooling inflationary fires and then warming the economy without rekindling them. Public enemy No. 1 of the late 1970s was inflation, and it has been banished.

On the debit side, Reagan has unacceptably high unemployment and huge deficits, and he must deal with both of them. But unemployment must be solved largely in the private sector. The cost to government of artificially buying higher employment through work programs is simply too great for a debt-ridden government. Likewise, we must confront deficits with an austere government, and not continually fatten the tax rolls to pay for federal largesse.

Mondale will take the second path in both cases, toward more government. The possibility of a return to high inflation, high interest rates, a higher tax burden — all sacrificed without solving joblessness or deficits — is too real a worry to take a chance. Reagan's proven commodity is best for this country.

Around The Rim Sick call

By KEITH BRISCOE
Ronald Reagan's age and Walter Mondale's high blood pressure have risen as major issues during the presidential campaign. Are they healthy enough to handle the tremendous responsibilities of the White House?

If history is a guide, then we shall profit by electing the sicker man. Many of our greatest presidents were very ill.

Franklin Roosevelt, a wheelchair-bound victim of polio, also suffered from cerebral ischemia and may have had skin cancer as well.

Thomas Jefferson called in sick many days with debilitating migraine headaches. James Madison, while leading the country, experienced bouts of hysterical epilepsy. And Woodrow Wilson was totally disabled by a stroke suffered in office.

Chester Arthur contracted an excruciating kidney disease, and Grover Cleveland was put out of action for several weeks by treatment of cancer.

Among the more physically wrecked chief executives were George Washington and Andrew Jackson, both strong of will but very weak in body.

Washington, disabled for 109 days while in office, was mangled with tuberculosis, smallpox, and crippling rheumatism.

Jackson, who looked like a walking corpse at 6 feet and 129 pounds, was so disabled during the last of his administration he was unable to give a farewell address to Congress.

"Old Hickory" was burned out. A lung abscess caused him to cough up blood and pus regularly while occupying the nation's highest office. He also was afflicted by chronic diarrhea, chest hemorrhaging, blindness in one eye and loss of hearing.

Lincoln, considered our greatest president, labored with a childhood brain injury, causing uncontrollable fits of depression and melancholy. He believed in visions and premonitions, and one month before his assassination the surgeon general described the president as being "on the verge of a nervous breakdown."

Despite terrible physical ailments, these presidents managed tremendous achievements. If doctors alone elected presidents, the country would have been afflicted with more men like our healthiest presidents — Herbert Hoover, Calvin Coolidge and Jimmy Carter, to name a few unhalloved leaders.

There's a big difference between sickness and disability. A healthy body may be a sign that intelligence and experience have made no demands on it.

Off the wall: No retirement

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Nadine Carpener has no plans to quit as superintendent of this city's municipally owned buildings, a post she's held for 31 years. Naturally, she was shocked when she heard of a city council resolution honoring her upon her retirement.

"Someone told me, 'I didn't know you were retiring,' and I said, 'Neither did I,'" said Mrs. Carpener. "At first it was just a little shocking, because I didn't put in for it."

Councilman Arnold Orsatti Jr., who sponsored the resolution, said he received a telephone call inviting him to a retirement party for Mrs. Carpener that actually turned out to be a birthday party.

About those endorsements

There are two ways to tell it's getting close to an election: letters to the editor and newspaper endorsements.

The former don't take much explanation. I think every reader realizes that spirited public debate knows no greater scale than at election time. Every candidate has his supporters (and detractors), and those backers can be quite vocal in their views.

Letters to the editor page's "Mailbag" are a popular forum for mixing up opinions about who is the best candidate for office. Letters can influence opinion, but I doubt that any reader mistakes a letter-writer's opinion for set-in-stone fact.

Ultimately, each voter makes his or her own choice in an election and casts his ballot accordingly.

Endorsements are kind of like letters. They are opinion, and they — like letters — hope to influence voters' perceptions. Friday's edition contained endorsements of constitutional amendments one, two and eight. Today, opinions about the presidential election, the U.S. Senate race and the contest for chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court are offered. Monday's edition will bring endorsements in the state Senate race and the local county commissioners election.

Where letters are the opinions of readers, endorsements are the opinion of the Big Spring Herald editorial board consisting of Publisher Tom Watson and myself.

The process of deciding an endorsement is one of discussion — and sometimes debate — between myself and the publisher. If consensus is reached, we endorse; if not, we pass.

The Herald is owned by Harte-Hanks Communications, but endorsements in the Herald are in no way influenced by what other Harte-Hanks papers are doing or by any corporate mandate. Each Harte-Hanks newspaper in the nation is guaranteed editorial autonomy by the corporation.

That's the way it always has been.

Corporate thinking is that individual newspaper executives, who best know their own towns and their readers, would be ill-served by any general editorial philosophy dictated from a central source. Each writes what it thinks best in its hometown.

Endorsements in the Herald reflect the combined newspaper experience of more than 30 years of watching campaigns, candidates and office-holders. We don't take the endorsement process lightly. Endorsements represent our studied opinions of candidates who we believe will best represent the views of the Howard County constituency and of issues, such as the constitutional amendments, which we believe deserve your support.

Our opinion — reflected in endorsements — isn't gospel. It's just opinion. I think the endorsements deserve your careful consideration. But then I would, I wrote them.

Gramm for Senate

The catch phrase of the 1984 Senate race — "a clear choice" — is apt. Our choice for the U.S. Senator to replace John Tower is Congressman Phil Gramm, a College Station Republican.

A strong defense, a tough stance on crime, right to work for all — union and non-union, accountability in government spending, balanced budget spending, rapport within the Republican Party. Gramm has carved an agenda that strikes accord with most Texas voters.

Whoever takes John Tower's place in the Senate must have the capability to cover ground quickly in attaining senatorial stature. Tower, a senior member, chairs the Armed Services Committee. Gramm, as a Republican, can advance without competing with our Democratic senator, Lloyd Bentsen. A balance of Republican and Democratic representation also will enhance Texas' standing in the U.S. Senate.

There is a clear choice for U.S. Senate. It is Phil Gramm.

Hill for Chief Justice

Former secretary of state and two-term Texas attorney general John Hill will make an outstanding chief justice for the Texas Supreme Court.

It takes a candidate beyond personal reproach to forge a platform based in part on enhancing public confidence in the "competence, integrity and performance of judges and lawyers." Hill has hammered at that issue, because he is confident his candidacy has these ingredients.

Hill hopes to effect changes in the judicial system which will streamline it to improve its effectiveness. Justice delayed is justice denied, both for the criminal and the victim.

Hill deserves the top judicial seat in this state. He will honor the position, respect its power and advance the cause of justice.

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 4, the 309th day of 1984. There are 57 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Five years ago, on Nov. 4, 1979, Iranian militants stormed the U.S. embassy in Tehran, seizing hostages and demanding the return of the Shah of Iran, who was in the United States at the time. Although some of the hostages would be freed several weeks later, for 52 of them it was beginning of 444 days of captivity.

On this date:

In 1842, Abraham Lincoln married Mary Todd in Springfield, Ill.

In 1879, humorist Will Rogers was born in Oologah, Okla.

In 1880, the first cash register was patented by James and John Ritty of Dayton, Ohio.

In 1884, Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected to his first term as president, defeating Republican James G. Blaine. (Cleveland was defeated for re-election in 1888, but won back the presidency in 1892.)

In 1922, the entrance to King Tutankhamen's tomb was discovered in Egypt.

In 1924, Republican Calvin Coolidge overwhelmingly defeated Democrat John W. Davis and Progressive Party candidate Robert M. La Follette in the race for the White House.

Also in 1924, Nellie T. Ross of Wyoming became the first U.S. woman governor. She was elected to fill out the term of her husband, William B. Ross.

In 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected the 34th president of the United States, defeating Democrat Adlai Stevenson in the first Republican presidential victory in 24 years.

In 1956, Soviet troops moved in to crush the Hungarian Revolution.

Montford should win re-election

To the editor:

I would like to set the record straight on the way John Montford voted on House Bill No. 72, school reform and funding thereof.

He voted NO. This is the bill that raised sales tax, car tags and etc.

It has already proved to be the worst bill to ever pass in Texas history.

John Montford had the farsight to see this bill was too hastily put together and would do more harm than good.

He deserves credit for this and other things he has fought for and should be re-elected. Mr. Montford returns phone calls himself.

Retirees should band together

To the editor:

For 22 years I worked hard and paid into a Civil Service Retirement Plan. I felt sure during those years that the government would keep its promise in regard to cost of living entitlement. But no! While the cost of living was going up, my entitlement was unfairly being frozen and thousands of senior citizen retirees were experiencing the same thing.

At the end of 1982, Congressman Phil Gramm from Texas and Congressman Latta from Ohio introduced a bill called the "Gramm-Latta Reconciliation Bill." Congress passed this bill by about seven votes. It drastically cut the cost of living raises due retirees and postponed it six extra months. It seems Congressman Gramm and Latta and those that voted the bill into law didn't care if the elderly did have severe setbacks or hardships, because during those same months, CONGRESS GAVE THEMSELVES ALMOST A TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR per year raise. That is very near being the "Code of the Jungle"; the strong surviving off the weak.

May 1, 1984, retirees were once again due a cost of living raise of three percent. (for example from $100 per month to $103 per month.) This cost of living raise was also postponed, this time for 7 months. The information I received stated that NOT ONE of our elected leaders voted against the postponement. Many of the other state leaders did vote against it.

Apparently, if Gramm-Latta and Congress have their way, the next "courageous action" will be to freeze our cost of living raise then cap it. "Where's the promise?"

On top of all this, Mr. White and his pals in Austin raised taxes and increased the burden on the elderly. Do civil service retirees have friends in Austin-Washington? Friends like these we do not need.

If there is any doubt as to the validity of these facts, check them out. Retirees, senior citizens and their children: Let's send a message to Austin & Washington D.C. If they are against us, we will have to vote them out. We are many in number.

ID checks make Mondale his pick

To the editor:

I find myself in a difficult position where picking a president isn't an easy choice. I must say though that the debates helped me choose, especially the second presidential debate.

The question was asked to the candidate how they felt about the Simpson-Mazzoli Bill. Now if there is ever an issue on human rights this is definitely one. One that is faced here in our country and not in South America, or South Africa, yet one that is being ignored. Mr. Mondale is for the Simpson-Mazzoli Bill in part 1) He agrees there should be sanctions on employees who hire workers from across the border. 2) that workers that have lived here should be given amnesty if they have been here for a certain time. 3) Mondale was against this part which states that employers would have the right to question anybody they wanted to, to prove their citizenship by carrying an ID card.

Mr. Reagan on the other hand endorses all phases of this bill. Innocent people will be harassed by having to prove citizenship. Especially the Mexican-American.

So I wonder when the polls were taken how many hispanics were polled in California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, and Texas. Why should we who have made our lives here in the United States, born and raised here, paid taxes, be humiliated like this? This injustice

Phony birth control pills found

DALLAS (AP) — Counterfeit birth control pills, some of which have been found in the Dallas and San Antonio areas, are easy to distinguish from the real ones, a U.S. Food and Drug Enforcement official said.

Pharmacists received telegrams Friday from G.D. Searle & Co., an Illinois-based chemical plant, ordering them to stop sales of Ovulen, a popular oral contraceptive, in lots 489 and 441.

"It's really easy to tell the good from the bad," said Ted Rotto of Dallas, chief investigator for the FDA's Texas-Oklahoma-New Mexico region. "If (a tablet) doesn't have the name 'Searle' imprinted on it, it's obviously counterfeit. If it has 'Searle' on it and it is spelled wrong, it's counterfeit."

"It's really easy to tell. Whoever counterfeited this didn't do a very good job," he said.

John Kraskosky, an FDA drug monitor in Dallas, said Friday that pills from Lot 441 had been reported at an Eckerd's store and pills from Lot 489 had been distributed by Arlington's McKesson Drugs, one of the largest drug distributors in the Southwest.

In San Antonio, federal officials said more than 1,500 phony birth control pills were discovered Thursday at a McKesson Drug Co. warehouse.

"It's not known yet what's in the counterfeit pills," said Dr. Herbert Brown, medical director for Planned Parenthood of San Antonio.

The counterfeits are refills with the lot numbers stamped on the pill container. Investigators believe the counterfeit manufacturer sold the phony pills at lower prices to distributors who thought they were saving money. The pills, however, lacked vital ingredients.

Eckerd's spokeswoman Lynn Morgan said she hoped customers would keep up with the news and said the company did not plan to contact purchasers.

"It's really an awful situation," Ms. Morgan said. "If I were on that, which luckily I'm not, I would have been in the store last night."

She said she believed the pills in the Dallas stores came from Interstate Drug Exchange in Plainview, N.Y., which is believed to have distributed about 1 million of the counterfeit pills along the East Coast.

The counterfeit pills were discovered when two women in Florida and Kansas complained to their pharmacists about abnormal bleeding after taking the pills, Kraskosky said.

Kraskosky said neither the FDA nor the FBI had suspects in the case.

The fake pills also have reported in Detroit, Denver, Philadelphia and parts of Kansas and Wisconsin.

Election 1984

President

Harte-Hanks News Service

In the 1984 race for Texas' 29 Electoral College votes in the presidential election, two political slogans are heard frequently and seem to sum up the campaigns.

Republicans: "We're confident, but not complacent."
Democrats: "The only poll that counts is the one on election day."
And there's another political slogan heard from both campaigns that may sum up the election: "Turnout will be the key."

Both parties carried out massive voter registration efforts in Texas this year, each side targeting particular areas or groups that have been supportive in the past.

And both say they will mount efficient get-out-the-vote efforts on election day, Nov. 6.

How well each side turns out its supporters could determine whether President Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush win another four years or are replaced by former Vice President Walter Mondale and U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro.

Voters also will find the name of independent presidential candidate Lyndon LaRouche on the Texas ballot. LaRouche, who has run unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination on a strongly conservative platform, won a ballot spot with a successful petition drive. His running mate is Billy M. Davis, a Mississippi farmer.

LaRouche's campaign basically has consisted of some network television ads warning of the Soviet Union's threat.

Even if LaRouche collects enough votes to deny a majority to either Reagan or Mondale, the candidate with the plurality would take the state's votes in the Electoral College, which officially elects the president and vice president in December.

From the earliest days of the presidential campaign in Texas, Republicans have been confident of winning the state.

The Reagan-Bush ticket has led every major opinion poll in the state by margins of up to 30 points. Reagan-Bush carried Texas with 55 percent of the vote in 1980 against the then incumbents, Jimmy Carter and Mondale.

U.S. Sen. John Tower, Texas chairman of the '84 Reagan-Bush effort, said he sees little evidence that the ticket's support has waned in four years.

"It really looks very good," Tower said. "The president is leading by 20 to 30 points, according to the surveys we've seen." But he added quickly, "We are not complacent."

Even top Democrats have conceded that Mondale and Ferraro have an underdog status in Texas.

Just a few weeks before the election, Democratic Gov. Mark White admitted that President Reagan would win if the election were held then. He predicted the gap would close by election day, but he also was quoted as saying of Mondale, "If he doesn't do something dramatic, he's going to lose."

In the eyes of Democrats, both nationwide and in Texas, that "something dramatic" came in the first presidential debate on Oct. 7, which many Republicans concede was "won" by Mondale in terms of impressing the voters.

Dwayne Holman, White's top political operative who was loaned to Mondale-Ferraro to manage the Texas campaign, said Mondale's good showing in that debate turned around many Texas Democrats who had thought Reagan was unbeatable. Financial contributions and offers of help surged after Oct. 7, Holman said.

The report cards on the Bush-Ferraro debate on Oct. 11 and the second presidential debate on Oct. 21 were less clear, leaving the question of Mondale's momentum up for argument.

Unluckily for Holman, he and other Democratic campaign leaders had to divert their attention in mid-October to deny rumors that the national Mondale-Ferraro campaign had written off Texas as unwinnable.

Undeniably, the national planners reduced their pledged amounts for get-out-the-vote telephone bank operations, but Holman explained that Texas Democrats never expected the full amount and would just run an operation with fewer trills.

Reagan-Bush Texas spokeswoman Karen Parfitt Hughes said the Republicans' effort in Texas remains at full steam, with 21,000 volunteers organized in almost all 254 counties and 52 phone banks working in urban areas.

WALTER MONDALE

Walter F. "Fritz" Mondale, 56, grew up in Minnesota as the son of a Methodist minister. His official campaign biographical sheet says his early years during the Great Depression "formed an enduring respect for human worth regardless of race or sex or creed or economic circumstances — and a lasting belief in the obligation of government to help citizens overcome problems beyond their own control."

He began an early interest in politics, working in 1948 Democratic campaigns before he could even vote.

One of those 1948 candidates was Hubert H. Humphrey, the late senator and vice president with whom Mondale developed a close friendship.

Mondale received political science and law degrees from the University of Minnesota. He won an appointment and then election as Minnesota's attorney general and then as U.S. senator. He served more than 12 years in the Senate before being selected by presidential nominee Jimmy Carter as his running mate in 1976.

After their election, Carter gave Mondale a serious advisory position within the administration in addition to the usual ceremonial duties of the office.

Mondale and his wife, Joan, have three children: Ted, William and Eleanor.

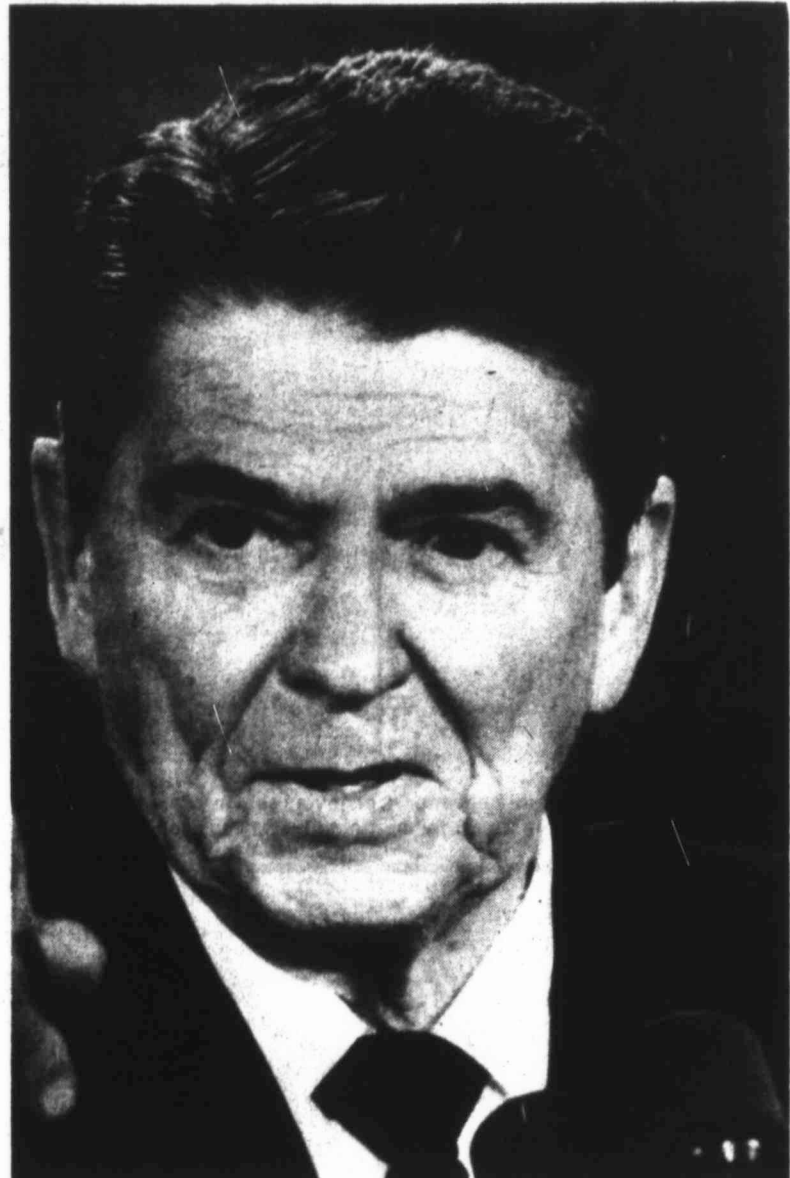

For his vice presidential candidate, Mondale made the unprecedented selection of U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York City. She is the first woman candidate for vice president on a major party's ticket.

Her father was an immigrant from Italy, who died when she was 8 years old. Her mother worked in the garment industry to support the two children.

Ms. Ferraro is a Catholic and is married to John A. Zaccaro and they have three children. She keeps her maiden name professionally.

Ms. Ferraro has a bachelor's degree from Marymount Manhattan College and a law degree from Fordham University.

She was a teacher, attorney and assistant district attorney before winning her first of three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives in 1978.

RONALD REAGAN

Ronald Wilson Reagan, 73, is the 40th president of the United States and is seeking a second four-year term.

He was born in Tampico, Ill., and was graduated from Eureka College in Illinois in 1932 with a degree in economics and sociology.

After a brief time as a sports broadcaster and editor, he moved to California and became a movie star. During his career, interrupted by three years in the Army Air Corps during World War II, he made 50 motion pictures.

Reagan served six terms as president of the Screen Actors Guild and two as president of the Motion Picture Industry Council. In the 1950s he moved into television and hosted "General Electric Theatre" and "Death Valley Days."

He was elected governor of California in 1966 and 1970. In 1975 he began a nationally syndicated radio commentary program, newspaper column and speaking schedule that helped make his reputation as a leading spokesman for conservative causes.

He lost the 1976 Republican presidential nomination to President Gerald Ford, who then lost the general election to Jimmy Carter.

Four years later, Reagan won the nomination and selected his chief GOP opponent, George Bush of Houston, as his vice presidential running mate. They won a landslide victory in November 1980 against incumbent President Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale.

Reagan is married to the former Nancy Davis. They have two grown children, Patricia Ann and Ronald Prescott. The president has two children by a previous marriage, Maureen and Michael.

His running mate, Bush, 66, is a native of Massachusetts. He won three air medals and the Distinguished Flying Cross as a carrier pilot in World War II. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Yale University with an economics degree and then moved to Texas to enter the oil business.

Senate

Harte-Hanks News Service

This is not a political love story. U.S. Senate candidates Lloyd Doggett and Phil Gramm don't like each other much. Nor do they agree on much.

Doggett heightened the political drama by chastizing his rival for waging a "lie-and-buy" campaign and for having a "poor truth record."

Gramm, incensed at Doggett's characterization of Gramm's stance on tax issues, called his opponent "shameless." He has even suggested Doggett be given a lie detector test.

So bitter were the attacks that the candidates, in the final weeks of the campaign, sought a tenuous "I'll-stop-if-you'll-stop" name-calling truce.

The plot lines in this drama are well defined. The differences in the main characters begin with their backgrounds and grow greater on political issues.

Doggett is an Austin native, a Democrat, a lawyer and 11-year member of the Texas Senate. His pro-consumer stance earned him a reputation as one of the Texas Legislature's more liberal members, an image he has downplayed.

Win or lose his U.S. Senate bid, Doggett gives up his Texas Senate seat.

Gramm, a Georgia native, moved to Texas as an economics professor at Texas A&M University. He lost his first political race — a 1976 Democratic Primary bid to unseat U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen — but won the first of his three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives two years later.

Gramm, in a highly publicized fight with Democratic congressional leaders, resigned his Democratic seat but won a special election as a Republican in 1983. He sports a conservative record on economic and military issues.

Doggett assails President Reagan's economic program. Gramm has guided its implementation.

Win or lose on Nov. 6, Gramm gives up his U.S. House seat.

Perhaps on only one point — their differences — do they see eye-to-eye.

The battle for Republican John Tower's soon-to-be-vacated U.S.

LLOYD DOGGETT...Democrat

Senate seat, Doggett points out, "is not a battle between Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale. It's not even particularly a contest between two parties. It is a contest between two very different individuals."

Echoes Gramm: "We're down to a clear choice in this race between people who have totally different philosophies."

The U.S. Senate seat is the Super Bowl of Texas politics, and the winner keeps the trophy six years. National Democratic and Republican Party officials are closely monitoring the race, aware the GOP now controls the 100-member body, 55-45, and convinced the Texas race is pivotal. Both candidates won playoff berths by defeating challengers in their respective party primaries. Gramm trounced lesser-known and under-financed rivals. Doggett won the Democratic Party's nomination after he and U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock sent former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger to the showers. Doggett made Hance join Krueger after a bitter runoff election.

Doggett's election strategy is simple: Portray his opponent as cold and insensitive to working Texans. Doggett rarely fails to chastize the Gramm-Latta bill that has become the foundation of Reaganomics. Budget cuts made under that program, Doggett charges, have hurt the elderly and the handicapped. "Phil has been a servant for those who already have got it made," he says. Doggett has even given Gramm's budget product a new name: "Grim-Latta." Gramm, however, preaches a different economic litany and strives to tie himself closely with Reagan. The nation's chief executive has repeatedly lauded Gramm's economic wisdom. Gramm's speech is the same at nearly every campaign stop. Reaganomics, he says, "is working for the working people of Texas. Under that program we have brought the inflation rate down from the highest peacetime levels in the history of our nation to the lowest levels in 20 years."

Legislature. He came out in the (Democratic) primary for raising taxes, he came out for increased spending, he opposed the Reagan budget...he voted against voluntary prayer in schools."

Gramm shuns suggestions that the nation's nearly $200 billion budget deficit should be whittled down with income tax increases. Doggett favors elimination of tax loopholes he claims benefit corporations and the wealthy. He supports a minimum corporate tax.

Doggett suggests Gramm has worked to undermine Social Security. Gramm maintains he helped engineer a bipartisan legislative effort to save the retirement program.

Gramm supports continued covert funding in Central America because, he believes, Communism cannot be allowed to "get a firm foothold on the mainland of the Americas." Doggett calls such aid "a waste of our tax money...What we have done with Nicaragua has not worked and we need to try something else."

Both candidates have crisscrossed Texas personally and over television and radio airwaves hoping to get their messages across. At points in the campaign, Gramm has been praised and assisted by Reagan and Tower, the incumbent.

Gov. Mark White has stumped on behalf of Doggett as have U.S. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Doggett, who has consistently trailed Gramm in a variety of political polls, also has found it hard to match the Republican's campaign war chest dollar-for-dollar.

Gramm, in the latest round of campaign financial disclosures required by both candidates, reported raising $3.1 million and spending $3.1 million between July 1 and Sept. 30. That figure brings his election-year contribution total to $5.4 million with $6.5 million in expenses.

Doggett, meanwhile, listed a total of $3 million in contributions and $3.2 million in expenses thus far. Contributions in the most recent reporting period, he said, amounted to $1.4 million with expenses of $840,458.

• Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — A feud between Mitchell County Attorney Pat Barber and several law enforcement officers here has sparked a strong write-in challenge to Barber's re-election.

Barber, 38, faces write-in candidate Pete McKinney, an attorney with the firm of Thompson, Rees and McKinney, in Tuesday's general election.

The latest salvo in the campaign came Friday. In a paid advertisement on local radio, Barber broadcast a tape recording which he says bolsters his long-standing complaints about the work of two highway patrolmen.

Barber has steadfastly refused to take cases from four Mitchell County law enforcement officers, including two DPS troopers, James Burson and Thomas Johnson.

McKinney entered the campaign last spring because of what he termed a rift between the county attorney and the law officers. "It appears that a gap is growing steadily wider," McKinney was quoted as saying last March. "There needs to be a change made."

Burson and Johnson were present at an incident in 1982 where two men, Felix and Guadalupe Abrigo, were allegedly victims of official oppression and assault by two members of the Colorado City Police Department.

Both Johnson and Burson were asked to give sworn statements concerning the events they witnessed at the alleged incident. The two men were later reprimanded by the DPS after having been found untruthful.

Two policemen, Chief Jimmy Roundtree and Lt. Jessie Dominguez, were indicted by a Mitchell Grand Jury and later acquitted of the charges.

In the Barber advertisement, which aired Friday over KAUM-KVMC radio station in Colorado City, Barber made public a taped conversation of Austin DPS Internal Affairs officer Sgt. Jim McElroy where he said the two troopers "failed to fully and adequately, completely and truthfully recount the events," in the Abrigo trial.

Barber said he aired the taped recording because, "My opponent is attempting to mislead the people with his radio advertising."

In the Oct. 25, 1984 edition of the San Angelo Standard-Times, DPS Captain G.J. Matthews of Abilene, said, "They (the DPS troopers) were reprimanded for not being timely with their story, for not telling us all they should when they should have."

Captain Matthews failed to mention the officers were less than truthful.

DPS Public Information officer David Wells, in a telephone interview from Austin Friday afternoon said, "I feel it is not appropriate for us to respond to this ad. We have not heard it and do not know what context it is being used in."

The Austin office did not confirm or deny the conversation took place between Barber and McElroy.

Barber in a written statement said his refusal to vouch for the credibility of these tainted officers is a matter of principle, "not a personality conflict."

"There are a few officers who I do not like personally, but professionally, I accept their cases for prosecution because I have no reason to doubt their credibility," said Barber.

In a telephone interview Saturday morning, McKinney said, that being a write-in candidate does have its disadvantages. But because the campaign has received such attention, McKinney said the campaign is "not your regular write-in campaign."

"It's hard to tell how the campaign is shaping up," he said. "It's going to be interesting."

McKinney said he did not know how the Barber radio advertisement concerning the untruthfulness of Burson and Johnson would affect the campaign.

McKinney, who decided to run for county attorney after the filing deadline on March 7, said if he is elected he will "evaluate the situation, and the first thing I will do is call every law enforcement officer in the county to a meeting . . ."

Barber in the past has also come under fire for his prosecution and of handling of DWI cases.

"When a person is charged with a misdemeanor offense, and that person wants to know what punishment I will recommend to the judge, I need to know more than the facts contained in my case file to make a decision," Barber said.

"Some of those needed facts contained are whether the person is employed, what his take home pay is and how many dependents he is supporting. I try to arrive at a just and fair recommendation, not only to fit the punishment to the crime, but also to fit the punishment to the individual."

• Crossroads Country

Mitchell, Sterling and Borden counties lead the way in the six-county Crossroads Country area as local candidates wait for the last days of Tuesday's General Election.

The county attorney's race will be among the three contested races in Mitchell County. In other races, incumbent Ann Hallmark will battle Republican opponent Coleen Palmer for the treasurer's seat and Democratic nominee Edward Roach will face Republican challenger Jackie Joiner for the Precinct 1 County Commissioner's seat.

Borden County will see former county sheriff Frank Curry face Herman Ledbetter, who earlier beat him in the local Democratic primary in May.

Curry will be a write-in candidate in the general election. The candidates for the District Attorney's seat in the 132nd Judicial Court are incumbent Lealand W. Greene and his Republican opponent Gene L. Dulaney.

Sterling County will also see voters decide on two contested races. Incumbent Sheriff Terry Wright has declared himself a write-in candidate and will face Lloyd "Poke" Brown, who won the local Democratic Primary.

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Voters have eight chances on Nov. 6 to change the state's much-amended constitution — something that's been done 263 times since its adoption in 1876.

Summaries of the proposed amendments and the pros and cons of each (as analyzed by a non-partisan legislative research office known as the House Study Group) are:

No. 1 — Amend the constitution to give state banks the same rights and privileges as national banks.

Pros: A system of both state and national banks is good for everyone and this amendment would keep that system alive. Federal changes for national banks, including the possibility of allowing branch banking, could create severe competitive disadvantages if the Texas Constitution does not allow state banks to follow suit.

Cons: The proposal is "nothing more than a back-door repeal of the constitutional prohibition on branch banking." Branch banks can be nothing more than a store-front operation in some communities, draining capital away from those communities.

No. 2 — Create a special higher education assistance fund for construction and related activities, restructure the Permanent University Fund and increase the number of institutions eligible to benefit from the Permanent University Fund.

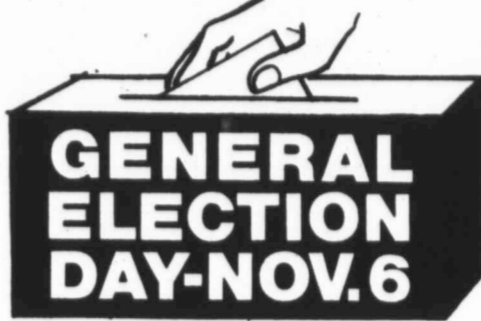

Pros: This will not increase taxes and will not threaten the future of the Permanent University Fund, once enjoyed almost exclusively by the University of Texas at Austin and Texas A&M University. It will help other state universities, including UT and A&M system schools, obtain much-needed construction funds without going begging to the Legislature.

Cons: At a time when state revenues are scarce, it makes no sense to create a massive new fund dedicated only to college construction, repair work and library book purchases. College enrollment is leveling off, and taxpayers should vote to keep construction at a minimum. The amendment also creates problems by encouraging colleges to use their share of the fund or lose part of it.

No. 3 — Authorize the Legislature to financially assist surviving dependent parents, brothers and sisters of certain public servants killed while on duty.

Pros: In cases where firefighters or policemen don't have a wife or children but do have invalid parents, brothers or sisters, this would provide for those dependents through the state's survivors aid program. The amendment would simply clear up an oversight of the Legislature that omitted these dependents.

Cons: The financial implications of the amendment are not yet clear and should not be adopted until they are.

No. 4 — Abolish the office of county treasurer in Bexar and Collin counties.

Pros: The position of county treasurer no longer serves a useful purpose in either county and is a waste of money.

Cons: The position may be obsolete everywhere, and the issue should be decided in all counties at the same time.

No. 5 — Authorize the state Senate to fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor.

Pros: Currently, the president pro tempore of the Senate takes over in the absence of the lieutenant governor, but that position has become largely honorary. Senate tradition and a wish to honor one member should not prevent senators from picking the best member to take on the lieutenant governor's duties in case of death, impeachment or disability.

Cons: This amendment is unnecessary. The constitution does not make the president pro tempore office an honorary one, and senators should select someone worthy to succeed the lieutenant governor.

No. 6 — Permit the use of public funds and credit for payment of premiums on certain insurance contracts of mutual insurance companies authorized to do business in Texas.

Pros: At one time, mutual insurance companies raised capital by assessing policyholders some extra amount on their premiums. That practice effectively barred any political subdivision from buying a mutual policy because of provisions in the constitution. This amendment would allow the purchase of mutual policies as long as assessments are not charged.

Cons: No apparent opposition.

No. 7 — Give the State Commission on Judicial Conduct more flexibility in dealing with misconduct by judges; create a special tribunal to conduct trial-type proceedings; give the Legislature the right to decide whether a judicial misconduct case taken to the Texas Supreme Court should be open to the public; and allow the designation of one municipal court judge and one county court-at-law judge to replace one appeals court judge and one district court judge on the 11-member commission.

Pros: Current disciplinary measures, including suspension and removal, are too severe for some cases. Creating a special tribunal would give the judge a chance to appeal any decision to the Texas Supreme Court. All judges subject to censure by the commission should have some representation on the commission.

Cons: The amendment contains several discrepancies that need to be cleared up. Any move to give the commission more flexibility will encourage reluctance to discipline judges appropriately. Mandatory punishments should be established instead. As for the possibility of closing the Supreme Court hearings on misconduct, the public has a right to know when its judges have been accused of misconduct and the investigation warrants a formal hearing. Openness benefits judges, too. If the charges prove to be unfounded, their exoneration is on the record.

No. 8 — Replace the current $30 daily expense allowance for legislators with an allowance that floats to the maximum daily amount allowed by federal tax laws, currently $75 a day for ordinary and necessary business expenses incurred by a state legislator.

Pros: This amendment would grant legislators adequate compensation for extra work they do during a legislative session, better allow part-time, citizen legislators to leave their regular employment and minimize their financial sacrifice. Serving in government shouldn't be restricted to only the wealthy.

Cons: When state employees are being asked to tighten their belts, it is hardly time to seek a legislative pay raise. The Legislature meets only 140 days every two years in regular session, and in light of that work load and other benefits received by legislators, a pay raise in the form of a daily expense reimbursement is unnecessary. A better solution is to create an independent state salary commission to depoliticize the matter by removing legislators from the process of setting their own pay.

Even in races for the Texas Supreme Court and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the search for votes seems to be following a classic split.

GOP candidates are going for conservatives, as well as praying for some straight-ticket voting and a Reagan landslide.

The Democrats are counting on a good turnout in a state that usually shuns Republicans for any office that doesn't require moving to Washington.

In the case of the Court of Criminal Appeals, no Republican has been elected to that court since it was created in 1891. Researchers are less certain about the Texas Supreme Court, but say no one from the GOP has been elected to that court since Reconstruction.

An added twist to the Democrat-GOP duels this year is that the Republicans in both contested statewide court races are converted Democrats.

Waco attorney John Bates, the Republican candidate for chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, switched 12 years ago and wastes no time in establishing his current position. "I'm a true conservative," he said.

Two years later, at age 63, Bates said that in his weekend travels and stops at parades and fairs around the state, he makes sure everyone listening knows his Democratic opponent, former Attorney General John Hill, "is as liberal as can be. That's nothing new. He has all the liberals, and I think I'm going to get the conservatives."

But Hill, the odds-on favorite who may spend as much as $25 for every $1 by Bates, said those conservative-liberal arguments have no place in a judicial campaign.

Often referred to as a millionaire lawyer, Hill, 60, has served as attorney general, secretary of state and campaigned unsuccessfully for governor in 1968 and 1978.

Criminal cases are left to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Running as a Democrat for that court on Nov. 6 is incumbent Justice Sam Houston Clinton, 60. His challenger is Virgil E. Mulanax, a 47-year-old district judge from Gilmer who recently switched from the Democratic to the Republican Party.

Poverty lingers in Dallas suburbs

PLANO, Texas — In the middle of affluent Plano, where the income is $30,000 and above, some families still remain in poverty. In East Garland, another Dallas suburb, the story is almost the same.

"It's like a different world," said Alex Williams, who grew up in Douglass, the community in Plano, where nearly half of the residents live in poverty.

Down the road in East Garland, two of every three residents live below the poverty level, the Dallas Times Herald reported in its Sunday editions.

Douglass has been home to most of Plano's black population since the early 1900s.

"I worked hard since I came here," said 82-year-old Rhue Hardaway, who moved to Douglass 40 years ago from Pittsburg in East Texas. "This (sturdy rock house) is the only place I got to live."

In 1980, U.S. Census Bureau officials reported the average family income in Plano at $30,000 a year. Douglass families, however, averaged $10,500 a year and one out of every two Douglass residents live below the poverty line, the bureau reported.

"There's some rich folks around, but we're poor, old colored folks down here," said 84-year-old Gladys Dabbs.

Plano's chief building official admits the North Dallas suburb has two extremes.

"You almost feel like you're in a different city when you're over there," said Greg Jones.

"There are lots of houses that people are living in that you'd think were abandoned because they're in such bad shape," he said.

But Alex Williams and Ben Thomas have formed the Douglass Land Co. to buy vacant lots in the neighborhood and build affordable housing that they hope will attract younger people to the area.

Williams, a probation officer, and Thomas, a businessman, fear that the neighborhood will wither and will be taken up by land developers.

"Most of the kids who, when they get up and get able, get out," said Geneva O. Smith, who moved to Douglass in the 1930s to teach. "You know I wonder about it. As we old ones die out, it's going to be up to our children to say what happens."

Baby girl has heart transplant

HOUSTON (AP) — An 8-month old Houston girl who underwent a heart transplant operation Thursday is in "excellent condition," her physician said.

The girl was listed in "very stable condition" Saturday at Texas Heart Institute, said spokeswoman Cindy Fox.

Ms. Fox said the child's health showed "no dramatic changes. She's awake and alert."

Dr. Denton Cooley, the surgeon who directed the transplant operation, said the infant was "lethargic and very weak" the evening after her surgery, but her condition the next morning was "truly remarkable."

"Now she's bright-eyed and moving all her extremities," Cooley told a press conference Friday. "Hopefully, this infant will survive long enough to go on into childhood and adulthood, but that may be beyond reasonable expectations."

Jury awards couple $130,000

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A jury has awarded $30,800 to a Texas couple whose suit claimed they were cheated in a gold-mining venture involving the legendary Lost Dutchman Mine.

The Maricopa County Superior Court jury on Friday assessed the damages against Robert S. "Jake" Jacob, 55, a Chandler miner and rancher who claimed he discovered the mine in 1975 in the Superstition Mountains east of suburban Mesa.

But jurors assessed no damages against a second defendant, Dr. John B. Farnham, a Scottsdale osteopathic physician who has grub-staked Jacob for at least $150,000 since 1978, according to court testimony.

Harold Stephenson, a Flagstaff lawyer representing Keith and Georgia Belle Alexander of Brownwood, Texas, said he will seek a new trial against Farnham.

Stephenson had asked jurors to assess more than $5 million in damages against Farnham, who was described by his lawyer, Donald Maxwell, as a dreamer who has a hobby of grub-staking others.

Subsidized Housing	$4.5	$7.8	+ $3.3	+ 73.3%
Food Stamps	$9.1	$11.6	+ $2.5	+ 27.5%

Despite all the rhetoric surrounding the Reagan "budget cuts" spending on many social programs increased during the last three years.

Because inflation has been drastically reduced, some benefit recipients are able to buy more with their benefits than in the past.

The term "budget cuts" can be very misleading, many "cuts" were simply reductions in the rate of spending growth.

Where actual cuts occurred, they affected those with well above poverty level incomes. (For example, some food stamp cuts affected those families of four with incomes as high as $17,750, or 180% of poverty income).

An important question to ask Mondale is how much of these programs will he cut if he is elected. If unemployment, due to higher taxes, puts a greater demand on these programs, then how will he cut these programs in order to keep his promise to reduce the deficit? Or does he keep true to his form and raise taxes again, which will in turn cause more unemployment and an even greater demand on these programs....

TENDING THE CROSSBAR

R.C. Owens was a pass receiver for the San Francisco 49ers and Baltimore Colts. He had also been a superb basketball player in college, averaging 27.7 rebounds a game. He had also high-jumped seven feet. During a pro football game in 1960, the 6 foot 3 Owens watched a Detroit field goal attempt barely clear the crossbar. From that experience, he began to formulate a plan which he later tried after being traded to the Colts. As Redskin Bob Khayat attempted a 40-yard field goal against the Colts, Owens waited under the crossbar. With a mighty leap he deflected the ball and prevented the field goal. To this day, Owens holds the record for goal tending in football.

Board members recognized

Many times the hard work and dedication of a school board goes unnoticed. Members of the Sands school board attend many meetings concerning the welfare of the students. These meetings sometimes last until early morning. So it goes unsaid that these special members put in a great deal of extra hours and hard work for the benefit of our school. And benefit our school, they do!

The board has given us many conveniences. One of which, dances, all students thoroughly enjoy. Never in Sands history were we allowed dances, but with the help of the Booster Club, the Board took the affirmative vote. Thanks!

Members of the school board are: Eddy Herm, Ed Billingsley, Marion Lea Snell, Joe Dean Hall, Joe Barnes, Lloyd Robinson and Richard Pitts.

On behalf of the student body, I'd like to thank the school board members for everything they have done for us. We do appreciate it!

Students have hectic week

Last week was hectic for everyone with both Halloween and homecoming at the same time.

On Monday, five choices were made for the homecoming queen candidates. They were: Adrienne Allen, Key Club; Becky Griffith, French Club; Julie Miller, Student Council; Priscilla Escanuela, El Rodeo; and Brenda Shirey, Meistersingers.

The week was declared homecoming spirit week by the Student Council to get the students ready to support the Steers to a victory over the Abilene Eagles. On Monday, students wore the craziest glasses, on Look Out For The Steers day. Tuesday, Robin Wilson won for her trash bag costume. The day was called Trash The Eagles day. Halloween was Wednesday, so appropriately, students and faculty dressed to Spook The Eagles. Thursday was Inside-Out day and Friday (of course) was Black and Gold day.

Competition between all the classes began last week. Students bought links for the spirit chain of their class at 10 cents a link. Friday, the class with the longest chain won. BSHS had a homecoming dance last night in the cafeteria. It lasted from 8 to 12 p.m.

Friday afternoon many clubs from BSHS plus all the classes joined in the homecoming parade with their floats. At the game, the band performed for the last time this year at Memorial Stadium. Besides performing at halftime, the Steer Band performed a special post-game show for the band booster club and other fans. Saturday, six band members along with 21 choir members were inducted into the BSHS Hall of Fame.

The BSHS band received a Division I (superior) rating at the UIL marching contest Oct. 27. Judge Ragsdale from Houston said, "A very well-planned show; creative and good integration of guard into drill; Nice description of music with design...Great rifle work. Flags, too. Outstanding color guard work."

Thursday, money for annuals will be collected. They cost $20 plus 50 cents for a cover. Don't forget your money.

Choir to have free concert

The choir of CFCS invites the public to join them Friday for a concert. Admission is free. The concert will start at 7 p.m. at Christ Fellowship Church at 3401 FM 700.

The CFCS students are selling candy bars for 50 cents and a dollar. The money raised will help finance our trips to State and International competition next spring.

Last Thursday the CFCS Stallions competed with Hillcrest in football and volleyball. The stallions volleyball team was victorious over the Eagles, by scores of 15-10 and 15-0. The Stallions football team kept their winning streak alive by defeating the Eagles 26-0. Next Friday, we will be traveling to Lamesa to compete against Faith Christian Academy in football and volleyball.

PTA hosts seat belt program

The Big Spring City Council PTA will discuss seat belt safety awareness when it meets Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

A panel composed of Police Officer Ray Meek and representatives from the Department of Public Safety and Malone-Hogan Hospital will talk about new laws concerning use of seat belts and car seats and driver responsibility for compliance with the law.

The City Council PTA will start a Seat Belt Safety Awareness Program Jan. 1 to inform the public about the new law.

The group said 17,000 lives are lost every year because people do not use seat belts and car seats. Personal injuries also would be lessened, and $20 billion in accident costs could be saved, the group said.

Forsan band takes honors

FORSAN — The Forsan High School Buffalo Marching Band recently was awarded a Division I rating at the district band contest in Odessa.

The band is composed of 96 students in grades 8-12, approximately one half of the student body. Junior high and high school cheerleaders, as well as athletes, also are in the band.

Director Bob Fishback said most of the bandmen participate in other school activities and maintain straight A averages in classwork.

The Division I rating, the first in five years for the band, is the highest rating, Fishback said.

Strength in numbers

Thank you Big Spring!
You breathed some fresh air into a rather stale subject by the support you showed the Steers Friday. True, the game was extra special since it was this season's Homecoming affair, but the fact remains — the stands were full, loud and pepped up.
It's a shame that couldn't have been the case every Friday night the Steers were within the confines of Memorial Stadium. Perhaps Friday's Homecoming crowd can be duplicated in the future. One suggestion would be to keep the same seating arrangement as Friday's — band, students, fans and everyone backing the Steers on one side of the stadium, leaving the other side to visiting teams.
The old format of having the student section and band on one side probably worked great when BSHS had a somewhat larger enrollment and as much space as could be utilized necessitated such seating.

There is no shame in smaller enrollment or opting for change. Just because most of the other schools within District 4-5A apply the same seating arrangement as Big Spring usually does, doesn't mean it good for Big Spring. Sometimes change is good and for the better.

Whomever was responsible for this year's Homecoming seating might very well want to consider it as a permanent fixture. After all — there's strength in numbers, especially when those numbers are closer together.

TEAM CLOSE ALSO

Speaking of strength in numbers, it would be so easy for the Steers to simply go through the motions this week in preparing for San Angelo Central.
It would be, but it won't happen.

In talking to head coach Quinn Eudy and from observations at recent practices one thing is plain.
Just because the season is coming to a close for the Black and Gold doesn't mean they are singing the blues.

"We've just got to continue working this week like we have every week. If we let down now we could be in for a long, long game on Friday," said Eudy.

One thing that would be nice to see is a bevy of fans from Big Spring make the trip south and back the team to the hilt against the pre-season favorite and current third place Bobcats.

'Horns get by Tech — barely

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas specialist Jeff Ward kicked two field goals in the final moments Saturday as the second-ranked and unbeaten Longhorns escaped with a 13-10 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech.

Ward's second kick, a 35-yarder, cleared the goal post with three seconds remaining. A 25-yard shot was good with 2:14 left.

The Longhorns, 6-0-1, had to overcome six turnovers and a fierce Red Raider defense as they retained their SWC lead with a 4-0 record.

Texas Tech dropped to 4-4 for the season and 3-3 in the conference.
Texas quarterback Todd Dodge drove the Longhorns 62 yards for the tying field goal and 39 yards for the winning kick as an overflow crowd of 50,722 witnessed the defensive classic.

The Red Raiders jumped off to a 10-0 lead on a first-quarter, 42-yard field goal and a one-yard run by Tim Smith in the closing seconds of the first half.

Texas struck back in the third period as Dodge drove the Steers 45 yards in six plays and winged a 4-yard touchdown pass to flanker Bill Boy Bryant.

Dodge hit passes of 17 yards to Bryant, 18 to Brent Duhon and 20 to Russell Hays to set up Ward's first field goal and rifled a 25-yard shot to William Harris to set up the second.

Tech missed a prime scoring opportunity in the fourth period when Mike Kinsey recovered a Texas fumble at the Longhorn 24. Texas held for three downs and Ricky Gann was off-target on a 36-yard field goal attempt.

TCU 21

Houston 14

HOUSTON (AP) — Kenneth Davis and Tony Jeffery scored on runs of 2 and 1 yard and Anthony Gulley threw for another touchdown as 20th ranked Texas Christian rolled to a 21-14 Southwest Conference victory over Houston, the only league team they had never beaten.

TCU, one of the top turn-around teams in the country after a 1-8-2 finish last year, improved its record 7-1 for the year and 4-1 in league games and beat the Cougars, 4-4, 3-2, for the first time in nine games.

TCU cornerback Sean Thomas turned back Houston's final two scoring attempts with interceptions at the 37 and 13 yards lines in the last 3 minutes.

Davis, one of only two 1,000-yard rushers in TCU history, set up Jeffery's touchdown with a 57-yard first quarter run and put the Frogs ahead for good late with 1:39 to go in the third quarter on a two-yard run.

Big plays set up all three first-half touchdowns as the Horned Frogs took a 14-7 lead on a one-yard dive by Jeffery in the first quarter and Gulley's five-yard pass to Dan Sharp in the second quarter.

Davis, the nation's No. 3 rusher, shucked safety Audrey McMillian on the sidelines and dashed 57 yards to the Houston one prior to his one-yard touchdown run. Gulley scrambled 9 yards to the Houston two after being trapped behind the line prior to his 5-yard pass to Sharp.

Houston quarterback Gerald Landry hit Anthony Ketchum on the sideline for a 44-yard gain prior to Sloan Hood's one-yard second quarter touchdown dive.

WACO, Texas (AP) — Tailback Ron Francis ran for two touchdowns after New Mexico failed on a fourth-and-one play, leaving Baylor to explode for 28 points and defeat the Lobos 38-2 in an intersectional football game

Saturday.
It was the fifth straight loss for New Mexico of the Western Athletic Conference. The Lobos are now 4-5 and have allowed 145 points in their last three games.

Hawks fly to second win 89-67

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

For the second time in as many games the Howard College Hawks are winners.

The latest win in the young Hawks young season came Saturday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum when the Hawks overcame a sluggish start to beat the Lubbock Christian College JV, 89-67. The Hawks are 2-0 and will play on Monday against Wayland Baptist in another game slated at the Coliseum.

Against LCC the Hawks of first year coach Ed Sparling had trouble getting things going in the first five minutes of the first half — unlike their opener where they won going away 128-45 over Sul Ross' JV.

In fact, LCC led a couple of times at the outset before HC took over. Walt Reynolds, Greg Jones and Joe Burney were the culprits that gained a 7-4 lead for the Hawks after LCC led 4-2. After gaining the lead, the Hawks never gave it up. And with Reynolds sweeping the boards for 19 rebounds, including 10 defensive carooms, LCC was never able to get closer than six points on one occasion in the first half. For that Sparling thanked the defense.

"We maintained pressure on defense," said Sparling. "Offensively we looked a little sluggish, we weren't moving like we need to. Part of that may have been from too long a practice Friday."

Still, Sparling liked what he saw from the stand point of participation.

Unlike Thursday's opener where lone returning starter Michael Porter carried most of the offensive load, particularly in the first half, Saturday's contest saw freshmen Reynolds, Jones, Burney and Bruce Kimble get involved earlier.

Burney followed Porter's 22 points with 19 of his own. Kimble scored 16 while Jones and Reynolds chipped in 11. Will Rogers came off the bench to score 10. Jones also was high on the boards with 10 rebounds. Porter, meanwhile, found time to make six steals.

HAWKS (89) — Michael Porter 10-22; Bruce Kimble 7-21; Joe Burney 7-19; Will Rogers 3-10; Greg Jones 4-3-11; Walt Reynolds 5-1-11; Totals 36-17-89.

Rams take LSC win

COMMERCE, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Ned Cox tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to Wilbert Jefferson with 3:56 left in the game to give Angelo State a 17-14 Lone Star Conference football victory over East Texas State University Saturday.

The victory gave the Rams at least a tie for the LSC championship. They are 6-3 for the season and 3-0 in conference play. East Texas dropped to 4-4 overall and 0-2 in LSC play.

Texas Colleges

Sul Ross 12

Austin Col. 9

ALPINE, Texas (AP) — The Sul Ross State Lobos overcame a halftime scoring deficit to push past Austin College 12-9 here Saturday afternoon.

Sul Ross is now 3-4-1; Austin College is 4-4-1.

Trinity 44

Colorado Col. 14

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Trinity, Texas, Tigers scored in every quarter to overpower the Colorado College Tigers 44-14 Saturday afternoon.

Senior tailback Rickey McKinley, playing his last game for Trinity, rambled for 106 yards and scored two touchdowns. Fullback John Holmes also contributed a pair of touchdowns.

Trinity now stands at 3-6, Colorado at 1-7.

Lamar 20

Nicholls St. 16

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Freshman quarterback Brent Watson passed for 202 yards and two touchdowns Saturday night to lead Lamar University to a 20-16 non-conference victory over Nicholls State.

UHOH — Timmy Smith (33) of Texas Tech looks over his shoulder at James McKinley (87) of the University of Texas during the second period Saturday in Lubbock. Smith lost nine yards on the handoff from Tech quarterback Aaron Keese and Tech lost the game, 13-10.

Wolves, Buffaloes sew up playoff spots

Two teams in the Crossroads Country football area clinched playoff berths Friday night in contrasting ways.

COLORADO CITY used a balanced attack and tough second half defense to shut down Sonora as the Wolves claimed a lock on second place in 7-3A with a 21-17 victory over the Broncos.

The Wolves are 8-1 overall and 3-1 going into the final regular season game this Friday in Crane. Sonora is tied for third at 2-2, but has lost to both front runners Ballinger and C-City.

Head coach Tom Ramsey said, "It was an exciting game. Defense was the difference though." C-City scored seven more in the second half after a 14-14 deadlock at half while limiting Sonora to a mere field goal.

And because of a sore-armed Doug Chitsey, the Wolves kept the ball on the ground more than usual. Sammy Rivera paced the 193-yard rushing attack with 164 steps on 30 carries. Chitsey did put the ball up only 14 times, but he was good on 10 of those efforts for 170 yards.

Ramsey said it appears C-City's bi-district opponent will be Gatesville. The Hornets were a winner Friday to maintain their one game lead in 8-3A and are expected to have little trouble with Burnet in the season finale.

FORSAN, meanwhile, lost its much heralded showdown with the Roscoe Plowboys, 27-13. The Buffs are in the playoffs for the first time since 1976, however due to Garden City's upset defeat against Loraine. Forsan is 3-1 in the South Zone of 7-A and 8-1 overall while the Plowboys are 8-1 and 4-0. Roscoe ends the regular season against Garden City while Forsan is at winless Roby.

Head coach Jan East said his smaller line (average 165 vs. Roscoe's 200 pound front) was just overpowered by the larger and stronger Plowboys.

"They shut us down good and gave us a good old country whipping," said East.

It showed in the stats. Forsan's chief running threat, Mitch Hays, was limited to only 53 yards while Forsan as a team picked up only 99.

One bright spot was the passing of Todd East who completed seven of 13 for 131 yards and one touchdown. Bobby Headrick was the top threat catching the ball with three receptions for 62 yards and a score. He went down with a knee injury right before halftime, however.

"We'll just load up and get ready for this week and the playoffs after that," said East.

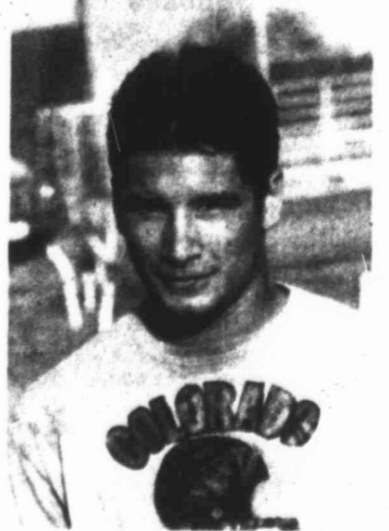

Forsan's playoff opponent from the North Zone is still muddled because of a possible three way tie in that race, but it could be O'Donnell, Klondike or Wilson.

KLONDIKE took a step toward the playoffs by beating Meadow, 56-18. The Cougars are 6-3 overall and 3-1 with the season finale against O'Donnell which is 4-0. Wilson is back at 2-2, but owns a win over Klondike. The Cougars will have to beat O'Donnell to get into post-season action.

Against Meadow, Klondike coach Jimmy Thomas was not happy with his defense, but said, "Our offensive execution was the best it's been all season."

Robert Guerra with 103 yards and Tim Cope with 105 gave the Cougars a potent rushing game while Brent Airhart keyed the defense with a 50-yard interception return for a score despite playing on a sprained ankle.

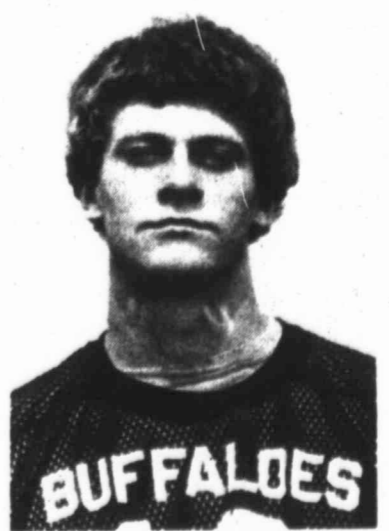

Down at GARDEN CITY the Bearkats saw their faint playoff hopes dim with a 12-7 upset at the hands of Loraine. G-City is 3-5-1 and 2-2 after going into the game with a chance to tie Forsan for second place.

One Loraine score came about when G-City's offense left the ball on the ground at its own 25. Another time the G-City defense had Loraine facing fourth and eight with just under six minutes to play in the game and the Bulldogs were able to squeeze a touchdown out of the situation.

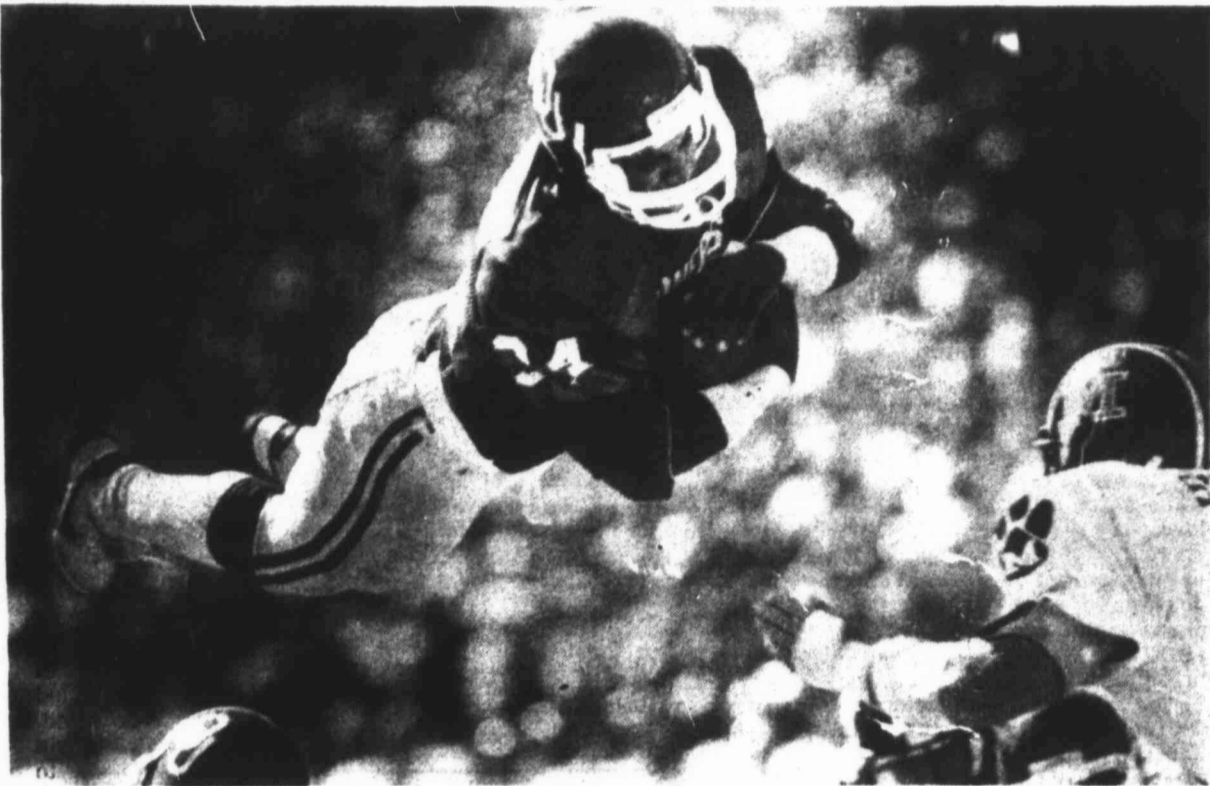

TODD EAST

G-City's brightest moment came when Doug Hoelscher rambled 90 yards for a go-ahead score in the third quarter.

G-City head coach Tony Stricklin said one factor in the loss was Loraine's ability to penetrate well. "They had some big, strong players and were a little tougher than we may have expected."

Change in plans aids in victory for Gamecocks

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — On South Carolina's final drive Gamecock Coach Joe Morrison was preparing his fifth-ranked team for a field goal to break a 28-28 tie with North Carolina State. Then Thomas Dendy changed the game plan.

Dendy broke loose on a 6-yard run, his second scoring run, with 50 seconds left to give the Gamecocks a 35-28 victory.

"We were going to run the trap one more time to get close for field-goal position, but he broke it loose," Morrison said. "In the second half we were able to get the points we needed to win. Any time we line up, we're going to have people shoot at us. Coach (Tom) Reed had his team ready to play and we didn't play well in the first half."

South Carolina, playing before scouts from the Sugar, Citrus and Gator bowls, saw drives stalled, passes dropped and fumbles lost in the first half.

The Gamecocks couldn't put together complete drives until the fourth quarter — and then they put them together every time they touched the ball, scoring four times.

South Carolina, after being held to just over 100 offensive yards in the first half, exploded for 423 yards in the second half.

That explosion blew North Carolina State's hopes for an upset — for the third straight week. The Wolfpack had lost their two previous games to North Carolina and Clemson, both when things fell apart in the third quarter.

"Yes, we've been through this before," Reed said of his Wolfpack. "You have to play good defense to be a winner. We didn't have it today when we needed it. Until you believe that success belongs to you, it's hard to win. The effort and courage was there. We've got to believe that success belongs to us."

came after the Tigers' second turnover of the opening half.

Butler added a 40-yard field goal following the other mistake by the Tigers, 5-3-1. He kicked a 37-yard field goal midway in the final period following yet another Memphis State mistake.

The Tigers' only score came on a 61-yard field goal by Don Glosson early in the second period.

(No. 6) Miami 38

Louisville 23

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Bernie Kosar passed for three touchdowns and ran for another and set three school records to lead No. 6 Miami to a 38-23 victory over Louisville in college football action Saturday.

The victory upped Miami to 8-2 on the year, while Louisville fell to 2-7.

Virginia 27

(No. 12) W. Virginia 7

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — Virginia's defense smothered 12th-ranked West Virginia in a convincing 27-7 Cavalier victory.

Led by linebacker Charles McDaniel, who made 11 tackles, and safety Bob Sweeney, the Cavs repeatedly turned away West Virginia to run their record to 6-1-1, the school's best start since 1951.

(No. 13) Florida 24

(No. 11) Auburn 3

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Neal Anderson bolted 36 yards for a tie-breaking touchdown in the third period and added a 15-yard scoring run in the final quarter as 13th-ranked Florida ended No. 11

BSHS swimmers take Abilene

ABILENE — BSHS Lady Steer swimmers swam to their first win of the year here Saturday when they outpointed Abilene High, 42-17 in tri-meet competition that also included Cooper.

Hartley Newell swam to first places in the 200 freestyle and as a member of the 200 medley relay and 400 freestyle relay. Newell's time in her individual race was 2:33.43.

Her relay teammates consisted of Margaret West, Victoria Logan and Rose Meier in the 200 event which the Lady Steers won in 2:26.97. In the 400 action Newell, West and Meier joined Tiffany Milch for a first place time of 4:54.22. Theresa Shepherd had two Big Spring firsts in the 200 individual medley and 500 freestyle. Milch joined the first place ranks in the 100 freestyle.

Against Cooper it was a different story as the Cougars outdid the Lady Steers, 65-41. Big Spring's highest finishes were seconds in the 200 freestyle by Newell, 50 freestyle by Meier and the 400 freestyle relay.

BOYS DO THE SAME
The Big Spring boys fared the same as the girls by outscoring Abilene 48-35, but falling to Cooper, 52-30.

Against Abilene, Big Spring got first places from Louis Morelion in diving and Wimberley White in the 50 freestyle, Cade Loftin in the 100 butterfly, Scott Ferguson in the 500 freestyle and Mitch Houghton in the 100 breaststroke. Houghton teamed with Ferguson, Loftin and Brigham Martin for another first.

White, again in the 50 freestyle, was the only first place Steer finisher against Cooper which coach Harlan Smith calls, "an extremely strong team."

Big Spring swimmers will be in action on Tuesday, Nov. 6 when they host San Angelo Central in dual match competition at the Big Spring YMCA pool beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Steer Sophs nip Eagles 14-12

ABILENE — Using a consistent long drive offense, the Big Spring Sophomore Steers beat Abilene, 14-12 here Saturday.

Harry Marquis scored the first Big Spring touchdown and Deeg Young added two points as the Soph Steers began rallying from a 6-0 halftime deficit.

Phil Matthews added the other Big Spring score while Chad Wash and Andy Dominguez, "did a good job quarterbacking the team," according to coach Roland Atkins.

Atkins also cited the offensive line of John Moore, Mark Gomez, John Meyer, John Ramirez and Robert Sumner as a large factor in helping the Sophomores stretch their record to 5-4.

Joe B. ... Jimmy Casey and Marcus Ramos had good games receiving and Ricky Valencia and Jody Hernandez came up with interceptions on defense.

Other defenders who played well included Eric Thompson, Ray Mitchell, Danny Wise, Dicky Kelly, Ronnie Miller and James Weaver.

"We displayed a lot of character. I'm very proud of these young men," said Atkins. "Hopefully we can end the year on a positive note," he added.

The Sophomores will close out their season Thursday by playing Sweetwater.

JV Bulldogs win 20-7

OZONA — The Coahoma Junior Varsity football team came from behind here Saturday to claim a 20-7 win over Ozona and make the JV Dogs season record 6-2-1.

Paul Gonzales got things started for Coahoma with a 14-yard run in the second quarter. The extra point failed, however and Ozona went ahead, 7-6 at halftime on the basis of a 15-yard scoring pass.

Gonzales rallied Coahoma with a 21-yard run in the third quarter through and Alex Jones got the two points on the conversion. Ray Uranga added an insurance score in the fourth quarter with a seven yard run.

Randle Crawford, although not scoring, paced the JV Bulldogs with 131 yards rushing.

Also singled out for good performances were Anthony Hernandez, Butch Wood, Scott Earnest and Ismo Ontiveros along the offensive line and Andy Griffith, Chris Wilson, Frank Galaviz, Mike Duckworth and Rodney Gee for the defense.

Raiders vs. Bears is heavyweight bout

By The Associated Press The Los Angeles Raiders wear black. The Chicago Bears wear dark blue. The colors are apt for what should happen when they meet Sunday at Chicago's Soldier Field.

losses are to Denver, the Raiders are actually two games out — if they were to tie for first, Denver would be awarded the division title, leaving Los Angeles to fight for a wild-card spot.

New England, 6-3, is three games behind Miami in the AFC East and almost certainly will have to depend on a wild-card berth to make the playoffs.

The key to the game may be the protection the Dolphins give Dan Marino, who's been sacked only four times all season while setting a record pace of 27 touchdowns passes.

Stricken tanker falls apart; oil soaks bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A petrochemical tanker battered by three explosions broke apart after stormy weather Saturday and the stern section sank, leaking much of its more than 1 million gallons of oil, the Coast Guard said.

The bow remained afloat and was being towed around the area, trailing its own oil slick on the wave-tossed Pacific as officials tried to get Coast Guard approval to bring the ship under the Golden Gate Bridge to port.

The stern of the 632-foot SS Puerto Rican, which had been struck by three mysterious explosions Wednesday, sank in 2,400 feet of water about 26 miles off the northern California coast.

"The Coast Guard will not permit the owners to tow it into the bay until they can show us there is no chance of it leaking more oil or of it sinking in the bay," said Coast Guard spokesman Ken Freeze.

The other option the owners have, Freeze said, is to take all the fuel off the tanker and then bring it in, which would take more time and money.

"No one was aboard the ship when it broke up," Chief Warrant officer Dale Puckett said.

"There's very little chance the oil will come ashore," said another Coast Guard spokesman, John Hollis. He added that the stern tanks had held 1.43 million gallons of various oils while the floating bow held 2.8 million gallons of oils.

The sunken stern section leaked a three-mile circular oil slick, Hollis said.

About 25 miles to the southwest, where the bow was being towed by the tugboat Sandy M, a swath of ocean 24 miles long and a third of a mile wide was covered by a brownish-orange sheen plus visible oil, he said.

The Coast Guard said there was "no sign of any impact on marine life in the area."

"The bow section is intact and on an even keel," Puckett said.

Nine people were injured and three men were hospitalized after Wednesday's pre-dawn explosions some 10 miles from the Golden Gate. One man was reported missing and is presumed dead.

The FBI was investigating the possibility that a bomb was planted aboard the ship.

Union officials have denied any involvement in the ship's destruction.

Quake shakes Wyoming

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — The second earthquake in three weeks shook Wyoming with an "awful" roar early Saturday, cracking walls, windows and foundations and jolting Lander residents awake with a motion like "a surfboard."

No major damage or injuries were reported in the state's fourth quake this year, but animals were panicked before the tremor hit.

"I thought we were having a tornado," said police investigation secretary Sue Beisheim. "It sounded awful. It sounded like a tornado coming. The roar was awful."

Ms. Beisheim said the sound of the 2:30 a.m. quake awakened her before she felt the tremor, which threw her back into bed.

"It felt like we were on a surfboard.... It made the courthouse sway," said Tess Piercy, the communications officer on duty at the Fremont County Sheriff's Department in Lander when the earthquake occurred. She reported getting more than 150 telephone calls about the tremor.

The moderate tremor, which measured 5.0 on the Richter scale, was centered 25 miles southwest of Lander in the South Pass area of the Wind River Mountains, according to the U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Center at Golden, Colo.

Ms. Beisheim said high wind on Friday had driven most animals inside, but her neighbor's cat was out. "I heard her crying and looked out the window. She was going around in circles," she said.

"The horses were going crazy. So the animals knew," she said.

Then, Ms. Beisheim said, she felt the quake. "My whole house shook," she said.

Bill Brooks: a man of many talents

By KIM KIRKHAM

Lifestyle Writer

People call it the doll house. It's a two-story, yellow Victorian home near Malone-Hogan Hospital, in the shadow of Scenic Mountain. It's the house Bill Brooks built.

Brooks, 43, incorporated his design hobbies with his skill as a craftsman and love for history to build his showcase home at No. 4 Kiowa Circle.

An independent home designer who helped restore Big Spring's Potton House, Brooks drafted the plans for his home, carved an oak fireplace and made 10 stained-glass windows. When he finishes, there will be 14 stained-glass windows. He did much of the challenging woodwork that gives the home an old-fashioned atmosphere.

"The first exposure I had ever had to Victorian architecture is when I did restoration on the Potton House," Brooks said. While doing renovation work on a Victorian Hotel, Brooks' interest in Victorian homes grew. "The more catalogs we received from the companies, the more interested we were in it," said Brooks. "There's a trend back to the Victorian architecture. We found that out after we started researching."

Brooks had to work out a floor plan to serve his family's needs yet look good in a Victorian setting. "In a lot of the old Victorian houses, the floor plan would be horrible, but the outside would be beautiful," he said.

"The reason we wanted to do it is because we wanted something out of the ordinary. As a designer, we wanted something that would be a little unusual."

"I've always enjoyed things that were done two or three hundred years ago," Brooks said. "I kind of enjoy stuff like this."

Brooks, who opened his business "The Design Place" in 1976, majored in industrial arts at North Texas State University. He graduated in 1963.

He taught industrial arts for 10 years before opening his business, including two years as a drafting teacher at Big Spring High School.

"I just learned how to carve wood by carving wood and stain glass by staining glass," he said. "You've just got to do it to see how it works best." He has been working with wood for 20 years and stained glass for six years.

"The hardest part about stained glass is being really good at it. It takes a lot of practice," he said. And getting the overall design and color right also is difficult.

"Color is very important to get just right, because stained-glass windows can look completely different in one light than others. That's what makes it so exciting," Brooks said. "If you're inside you get a color in your room that's nice and if someone is passing by (outside) they get the benefit, too. It's not just something you get from one side," he said.

Brooks made a large, 7 x 9-foot stained-glass window for Trinity Baptist Church. "It's the largest I've done," he said. He also has done many pieces for private individuals and restaurants. Brooks recently finished a stained-glass window to go in the chapel at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

His favorite stained-glass window is of a cotton plant with the bolls opening up. However, "the most challenging one was the one at Trinity because of the size," said Brooks.

He also does repair work on antique stained-glass windows. "Usually on the repair work, it's a matter of matching the glass," he said.

Brooks designed the McMahon-Wrinkle sign at the airport. He also made a wood carving for the Heritage Museum from the earliest known photograph of the Big Spring. "I enjoy the carving more than anything but probably do less of it," he said.

His carving of a flag-raising scene with four children of different nationalities looking at the flag won first place in a National Woodcarvers Congress contest in 1976. It now is in the Woodcarvers Museum in Davenport, Iowa. Brooks' favorite carving is "Bunkhouse Door," which is hanging in his office.

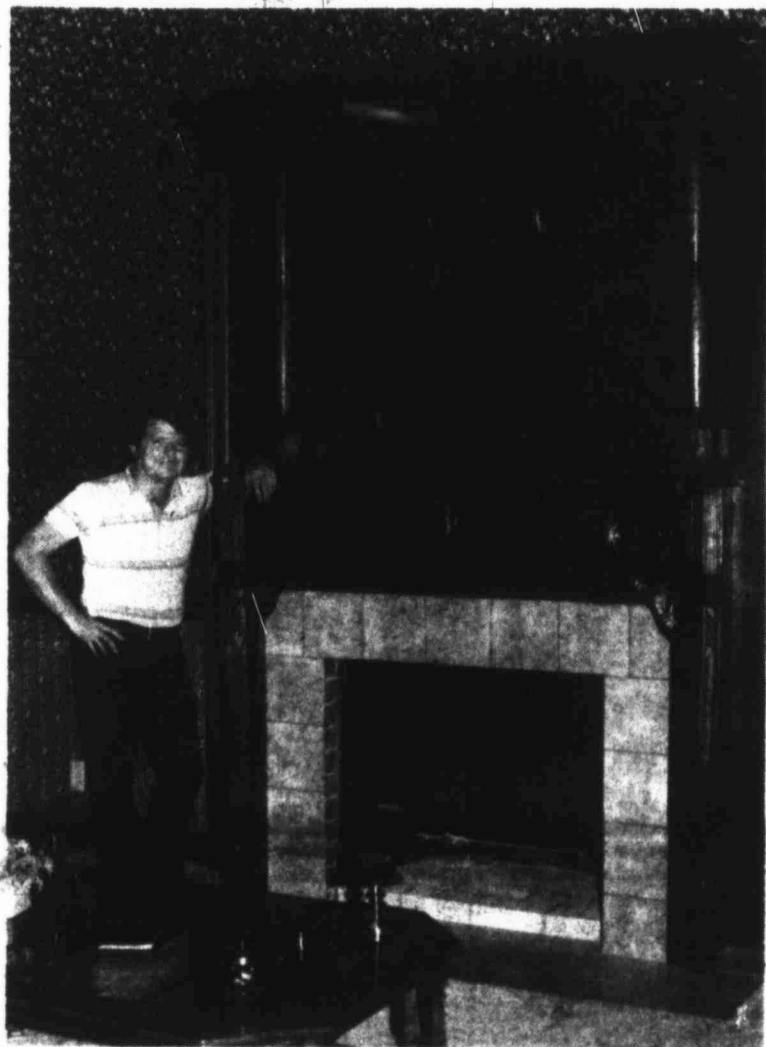

Brooks, who uses his middle name Duane as a pen name, also is a writer. He used to write a column that ran in 15 newspapers, including the Herald. Once a week he

Home computers

Mind machines have fingers walking and heads thinking

People have the idea that by buying a computer, it will do it all, says Michael Moore, a computer user. It won't unless the person is willing to spend the time and patience to learn how to use it and the programs. However, most users agree that the benefits from using computers are worth the effort and price.

"I got a computer because I wanted to use it for work," said Steve Treezise. "So I had to learn about computers. But I've discovered I have to have a lot more storage to use (mine) for work — more disc storage." He has one disc drive and would need to expand for his business needs. He dreams of acquiring more software, a more versatile computer, and a printer some day.

"Recently I've gotten interested in beating that sucker in chess," he said. Treezise claims to be a good chess player, but he has trouble beating the computer on the second level. The chess program has nine skill levels. "Computers never make a stupid mistake. You have to out-think it."

"I learned a lot of things I wouldn't have learned otherwise," he said about using his computer. "After all, we are in the information age and need to keep up with it." He's learned to program in the languages of Microsoft BASIC, C-BASIC, PASCAL and C-Language, and has written programs tailored to his business needs.

"There's programs for any interest in life. There's a user group for almost everyone," he said. He is fascinated by the network that develops among computer users and the way they communicate with each other through computers. "You have no idea who they are or anything about them," but you communicate with them, he said. "All they are is a blinking dot on a cathode ray tube."

THE MOORES BOUGHT their first computer, a business system, about four years ago. Moore got started on it with his children. At that time, his children would ask him questions; now he goes to them with his questions.

Moore thought he'd let his son Trevor Moore and nephew Zane Rutledge play on the computer. "They couldn't hurt it," he thought. A few days later, Moore came home to find them programming in the BASIC language. The youths were 12 at the time.

The boys work with the computer every day, Moore said. "There's a whole group of kids out there. All the kids log on the bulletin board system almost daily. I think they're exchanging information on 'Dungeons and Dragons'. They are learning so

WHAT IF — "I got a computer because I wanted to use it for work," says Steve Treezise. He uses his computer and a Zencalc program, shown above, for making business decisions. He also enjoys playing chess with the machine, although he has trouble beating it on the second level. "Computers never make a stupid mistake. You have to out-think it."

much." He believes that people can't imagine what young people are capable of until they try to do programming themselves.

Trevor uses the computer's word processing program for his homework when his teachers let him; he and Zane also write game programs.

"Trevor and Zane are writing a game on Apple. Forty-five percent of it is written in assembly language. I can't comprehend it," Moore said. "Like I said, they used to ask me, now I ask them."

If a person wants to purchase a computer, Moore says, he "first needs to think about what he will use it for and how much he wants to spend."

"I think for anybody with a lot of patience that thinks they might be interested in computers, there will always be a challenge. You can't learn it all," he said.

He bought his first computer to do inventory for his business, Sam's Liquor Store. "We got so involved in the hardware of the computer, we forgot about the business part."

Today, Moore worries about the hardware and lets his children handle the programs. Trevor has written programs for Moore's inventory printouts. It gives him the item cost and selling cost automatically.

"I primarily mess with business systems," Moore said. He has a multi-user business system and has gone into selling these systems as a side job.

Moore has thought about opening a computer business in Big Spring for the youths to operate. From what he has seen them do with computers, he believes they could run the business.

"The biggest use now I can see for computers is the communications capability, using phone lines to communicate," Moore said. He believes word processing and communication makes up 80 percent of computer usage. "I don't know what it will be like a year from now."

MOORE'S NEPHEW, ZANE, got his Apple computer about three years ago at Christmas.

"I did program a little when I first got it, but basically I played games and experimented." He enjoyed graphic games at first. "Probably the graphic art on the business computer caught my eye, and I wanted to know how to do that," he said.

"Eventually I got Zork (game) and realized graphics weren't necessarily necessary." Zork is an underworld adventure game in which players decide on their moves by reading the text. Trevor and Zane would tear programs apart and try to figure what made them tick. Eventually they began writing their own programs. Now they are writing the text to their own adventure game. "We learned from our mistakes and we made plenty of them," Zane said.

"Now that I have worked running a computer, I have come to the conclusion that I'd rather write software. There is no creativity otherwise. Playing games is fun but writing games and seeing someone else play is more fun to me," he said.

The youths use the computer for communicating with other users and computer services, word processing and programming. They have started programming several programs but have never finished them. "If we ever pull our efforts and write one and finish it, it will probably sell," Zane said. "But until that day..."

PAUL HOPPER, A KNOTT farmer, uses two computers for his farming business, a Radio Shack model 3 and a Kaypro — which he calls his "numbers cruncher."

"Mostly our computer work is for business reasons," he said. He uses the Kaypro when he has a large amount of data to work with. A spread sheet program easily lets him do complex "what if" problems to help him make business decisions.

"Enterprise analysis" is the buzz word for that," he said. "If I didn't have a computer, I wouldn't do it. (A spread sheet) is a decision making tool...It makes me take a cold hard look at numbers instead of being prejudiced in my operations." He has talked himself out of several "entrepreneurial avenues" after looking at them on the computer.

"It's a word processor, too," Hopper says. He

Big Springer among 38-voice University Chorale

Big Springer RICHARD WEBB is among the 38-voice University Chorale at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. The premier Music Department choral ensemble, the Chorale is the only chorale group from Texas invited to perform at the eighth national convention of the American Choral Directors Association next March in Salt Lake City, Utah. And speaking of music, LADENE HARTIN is the band director of Eden High School. Ladene is the daughter of MR. AND MRS. DEL HARTIN, Rt. 3.

In her first year as a band director, Ladene's band received a first division in marching for the first time in many years. Ladene is a 1979 graduate of Forsan High School and a 1983 graduate of Angelo State University.

The FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY are sponsoring a Peter Hurd Art Show and Invitational at the Howard County Library, at 8 p.m. Nov. 16. A Ruidoso, N.M. art dealer is supplying seven originals and 40 prints for the viewing. Congratulations to EUNICE CHOATE, TERRY STOVALL and PHIL STOVALL on releasing their new country western record. The songs were written by Eunice. I heard "Dirt Poor Farmer's Kid" on the radio the other day and it sounded great. I hope listeners throughout the state will think so, too. I'd like to see this venture become even more successful.

Dear Abby

Youth worried that looking is same as doing

DEAR ABBY: This is driving me crazy. I am 13 years old and I have decided to save myself for the man I marry, but I have a problem. I'm not sure I'm a virgin.

When I was about 5 or 6 years old and my brother was 15 or 16, he'd check me for ticks (we lived on a farm), and then I would check him for ticks. As I recall, we gave each other a pretty thorough checking over, but I honestly don't remember how far we went. I know we both took a pretty good look at each other. Does that count?

No other boy has laid a hand on me since. Am I still a virgin?
WORRYING IN NEBRASKA

DEAR WORRYING: Quit worrying. "Looking" does count. You're still a virgin.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, show to decline and accept invitations and

Dr. Donohue

When will running results show?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What kind of progress can I expect from running? I mean how fast will I see results? — F.M.

What kind of results are you looking for? Let's take weight loss. That depends on how hard and how often you run. You should aim for loss of from one to two pounds a week. That's quite enough. If you are looking for overall improvement in fitness, aerobic capacity as the physiologists put it, again that depends on the intensity of your program. A very rigorous one can give more than 30 percent improvement in just one week. That's not an exaggeration. And even with modest effort, you can expect a 40 percent improvement in nine weeks.

Depressants are drugs that are highly abusable, and often produce a very severe withdrawal when their usage is terminated or decreased. Taken as ordered by a physician they relieve anxiety, irritability, and tension, and are used to aid sleeping. Higher doses produce an intoxication with a sense of well-being similar to an alcoholic intoxication, as well as depression, apathy, and impairment of speech, judgement, and control of motor functions.

The chance for addiction is great in most depressants, but somewhat less with the benzodiazepines (Valium, Librium). The barbiturates, Doriden, and Quaaludes have the highest amount of addiction but ALL of these drugs produce a "Psychological dependency" in users that are prone to depend on chemicals to solve problems. Weddings

Dagestad-Clanton

Cynthia Louise Aken Dagestad and Jimmy Don Clanton were united in marriage Saturday afternoon during a ceremony at Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Arlie Knight, ordained minister, officiated at the 3 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Aken, 2600 Albrook. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Clanton, Gail Rt.

The couple was wed before an altar decorated with a line of burgundy roses, pink carnations, a touch of blue and baby's breath. The setting also contained a Bible and lighted blue candles. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a Victorian-styled light blue gown fashioned with a high neckline and V-yoke, which was edged with a deep ruffle. The Bishop sleeves ended in deep cuffs. The skirt fell from an empire waistline to the floor. It was decorated with two deep flounces along the bottom. The bride wore two floral hairpieces to complete her ensemble.

The bride carried a nosegay of burgundy roses and pink carnations, accented with a touch of blue and baby's breath.

Rose Griffin was matron of honor. Best man was James Kenny Clanton. Margaret Dagestad and Jinean Clanton were flower girls. Jeremy Clanton was ring bearer. Ushers were Rochelle Mings and James Franklin Miller Jr.

MRS. JIMMY D. CLANTON

Following a wedding trip through parts of Texas and Mexico, the couple will live in Big Spring.

Hepner-Pruitt

East Fourth Street Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding ceremony of Danne D. Hepner and Tracy Scott Pruitt, Saturday. The Rev. Guy A. White, pastor, officiated at the rite before an altar decorated with greenery and stephanotis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Hepner, 4505 W. Highway 80. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Jansch, 1500 Stadium.

Cathy Pruitt, pianist, provided music for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a white waltz-length gown of peau de soie fashioned with a sweetheart neckline. She also wore a Juliet cap adorned with seed pearls, which held a veil of illusion lace. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, white roses, white stephanotis and baby's breath on a white Bible.

YOU HAVE A CHOICE

I believe the candidates in the race for Commissioner Precinct 3 have different ideas as to how the County Government should be run, consequently you have a choice.

Do you want a Commissioner who believes that the tax dollar should be wisely spent on service for our citizens? A Commissioner who believes the tax rate should be in an amount that meets a predetermined budget — a budget that meets the needs of our citizens?

Do you realize that the present Commissioner has consistently supported a tax rate that has resulted in a surplus of tax dollars that exceeds 3 Million Dollars?

In spite of having a 3 Million Dollar surplus in the County treasury your present Commission voted for a reduction of only .01 cent per $100 valuation for the budget year 1985. The surplus on hand would just about support our County Government's needs for a year.

There is recent talk of using the excess tax dollars for a new jail. My experience through the years has been that the tax paying citizens should have a say in whether or not capital improvements of such magnitude should be undertaken. The voters usually say yes or no by approving or disapproving a bond issue that provides for financing for such capital improvements.

If elected, I will press for a reduction in the tax rate that will take into account our tax dollar surplus. I am convinced that a substantial tax reduction can be accomplished by using the surplus tax dollars now in the County treasury to supplement a reduced tax rate.

I do not believe the County Government has the right to tax us beyond the reasonable needs of the County Government.

If elected I will vote to get a tax rate that meets the budget needs — not one that accumulates a surplus.

Teenagers show less interest in babies than younger girls

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Teenage girls — 14 to 15 years old — show far less interest in babies than do girls of ages 10 and 11, a University of Rochester psychologist has found.

"Previously it has been thought that after puberty, girls become more attracted to infants, while teen-age boys' interest in babies declines," said associate professor Ann Frodi.

FITNESS FACTS
 By Laurie Churchwell

Cellulite
 Cellulite is a name given for fat deposits under the skin that bulge to produce a dimpled, orange-peel appearance, usually on the thighs, hips, & buttocks. Theorists argue that women are affected more than men by cellulite because of their physical & hormonal make-up.
 From a scientific point of view, the cellulite concept is irrational. Biopsy studies of fat from people w/dimply lumpy fat tissue & those with normal appearing fat tissue offered clear results: there was no difference in the chemical composition of the fat cells. The difference in appearance of fat is caused by an increase in the size of fat cells which may cause fat compartments to bulge, producing a waffled appearance of the skin.
 Since there is no basis that cellulite is different from regular fat, don't waste your money on products promoted as cellulite removers. You must lose weight before stored fat will decrease. A sensible diet & exercise program is important for weight loss.

THE CLASSIC CAP CUT

The current version of the classic cap cut offers a soft and sophisticated short cut. First, the hair is blunt-cut just under the ear. The cut then gives way to medium-long layers at the side and top for more body. The result is a cut that swirls over the brow, then away from the face in a smooth shape. The front bang can be brushed upward to reveal a smooth, clear brow. Or, it can be pulled down to give a seductive look to the eyes. This cut gives a bold impression with a classic cut. It has versatility, yet is easy and fun.

Hodnett- Webster

MRS. DAREN WEBSTER

Toya Hodnett and Daren Webster were united in marriage Dec. 6 at the Chapel of the Bells in Dallas. The Rev. Harry Cage, pastor, officiated at the rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pickett of Odessa, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Dyer, 1701 Alyesford, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Hodnett of Coahoma. The bridegroom is the son of Helen Webster of Dallas and the late Morris Webster.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The fitted bodice was overlaid with lace forming the Queen Anne neckline. Bishop sleeves highlighted with lace appliques were gathered to deep lace cuffs and narrow ruffles at the wrists. The bodice and cuffs were encrusted with pearls and French crystals. The A-line skirt was enhanced with lace appliques and a lift-up front effect with a sheer organza ruffle. The ruffle encircled the entire hemline and chapel-length train.

She also wore a matching Juliet headpiece that held a waltz-length veil of silk French illusion gathered forming a double tier. Brussels silk embroidery edged the veil.

Lisa Moody was matron of honor. Chip Wood was best man. Flower girl was Kimberly Pickett, and ring bearer was Coy Dak Pickett.

The bride is employed by Eastern Onion. The bridegroom is employed by Lamonts of Dallas. The couple will live in Dallas.

Tax & financial planning

MORE THAN 50% REQUIRED

An important provision in the 1984 Tax Reform Act concerns property used partly for business and partly for personal use. Such property must now be used more than 50% for business, or no investment credit or accelerated depreciation deductions will be allowed. Therefore, computers, boats, airplanes, automobiles, trucks, and other property used partly for business and partly for personal entertainment or recreation will be subject to this test.

You may be wondering how the IRS will know if you use a boat or computer 40% or 75% for business. The burden of proof, beginning in 1985, will be on the taxpayer. You are required to keep adequate "contemporaneous records" to substantiate your business usage.

If a taxpayer doesn't have adequate contemporaneous records — that is, records kept currently during the year as the business usage occurs — no credit or deductions will be allowed for the item. If a taxpayer claims credits or deductions without adequate records to support them, he will be subject to negligence penalties.

The contemporaneous records must state the business use of the property as well as the business purpose.

Where business usage of equipment is more than 50% in the first year but decreases in later years, recapture of investment credit and deductions is required.

Tax return preparers will be required to advise taxpayers of the rules and get from their clients written certification that the taxpayer has kept adequate records. If you haven't already done so, you will want to check with your accountant for assistance in making this recordkeeping requirement as simple as possible, while still complying with the law so as not to lose your deductions.

Ora Burson hangs up her dancing slippers

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

What does one dance for an encore after the applause?
"That's a $64,000 question," Mrs. Ora Burson said Thursday afternoon at the Big Spring YMCA.
Mrs. Burson was the object of attention as former dance pupils of hers and the staff of the YMCA celebrated her first day of retirement after 26 years of teaching dance at the YMCA.

"I'll tell you this — the rocking chair isn't going to get me," Mrs. Burson said.

Mrs. Burson, originally from Houston, has taught ballet and athletic dance since the Big Spring YMCA opened 26 years ago. Before that, she danced professionally in New York, New Orleans and Chicago nightclubs.

She came to Big Spring from Houston about 27 years ago because her mother and father retired here.

"Was I a tough teacher on my former students — no, not really. Students can do what they want through love," Mrs. Burson said.

"We hate to see her go," said Wallace Gill, director of the YMCA, "she's an institution around here."

"I'm the sixth or seventh director she's been associated with at the Y, and she was also one of the first employees here. That's a pretty good record," Gill said.

Gill later presented Mrs. Burson with a plaque commemorating her services.

Mrs. Burson has seen ballet's popularity grow through the years.

"It's accepted more now. It use to be a little flub-de-dub thing but now people who teach and perform ballet give all that they possibly can," Mrs. Burson said.

writes many professional and political letters and his speeches' texts on the computer and stores them. He also has learned programming and has been able to tailor programs to his business needs. He uses CompuServe, a service available to computer users with modems, to find out aviation weather reports, market analysis and other information for his farm business.

"I'm not gung-ho computer or live for the computer, but it's a good tool...It makes everything so much faster. It's more convenient," Hopper said.

Craig Rember, a Forsan High School student, is the system operator for the local bulletin board system (BBS). An electronic BBS program provides a forum for exchange of information between computer users.

Craig used his Apple computer for some of his school work until he started the BBS. "Now I use it just for BBS. I tell people that and they don't believe it. I enjoy doing that."

Through his cousin Curtis Kidwell of Dallas, Craig was introduced to BBS. His cousin wrote a program and operated an individually-run BBS in Dallas. He provided Craig with the program, and as far as Craig knows, he offers the only BBS service in the Big Spring area. It's been in operation about five months.

He has made several friends through the BBS, even though he hasn't actually seen some of the people he communicates with. "There's still some I haven't met. I wouldn't know who they were if they passed me on the street."

Anyone can call the BBS if they have a computer and a modem. The telephone number is 263-4680. "It's free and on 24 hours a day," he said. "To get on, you have to have a user I.D. and a password." If a person doesn't have one of these, they can enter Help or their user I.D.

To some people, computers are the boringest thing in the world. But to many area residents who use them, they are entertaining, informative, as well as educational.

Conservation of water is top problem

People must be more careful in their management of water, said Mrs. Tom Barber during her program on water conservation at the Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution meeting, Oct. 20. The meeting was at the home of Helen Ewing.

Water conservation is one of Texas' biggest problems, Mrs. Barber said. The water in reserve is not growing with the population growth. By the year 2,000 Texas residents will have a critical water problem if they fail to make changes in their lives today, she said. According to Mrs. Barber, voters in the southern part of the state always vote "no" when a water bill is presented to them.

Members were reminded of the Tree Dedication at the Veterans Administration Medical Center at 1 p.m. Nov. 12. Mrs. W.D. Tiner, state regent, and other out of town guests will be in attendance for the dedication.

The next meeting will be at 605 Colgate, at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 17.

Widowed women cite biggest mistake

If you're recently widowed or divorced, don't rush into new relationships primarily in the hope of giving your children another father. Most widowed women cite this as their biggest mistake, says Family Circle magazine. For your children's sake and your own, remember that male members of the family can be fine father figures, the magazine says.

Political women featured

The Americanism theme used by the 1905 Hyperion Club for its Oct. 18 meeting focused on "Women in Politics". The meeting was in the home of Corinne Elliott.

Maryon Barber delivered a short resume of several women currently in the political arena. Spotlighting the service of women in the 1980s, she included Geraldine Ferraro, Anne Armstrong, Jean Kirkpatrick, Nancy Reagan, Elizabeth Dole and Barbara Bush.

"History was made this year when Walter Mondale chose a woman to be his vice-presidential running mate," Ms. Barber said. "In fact, a woman's role in America has been changed forever. Changes have been slow in coming; for example, it wasn't until 1920 that women could vote. Now any woman can prepare herself for our highest office. And mothers can say, 'Daughter, you can become the president of the United States,'" she said.

At the next meeting, Christmas gifts will be brought for the girls in Giristown.

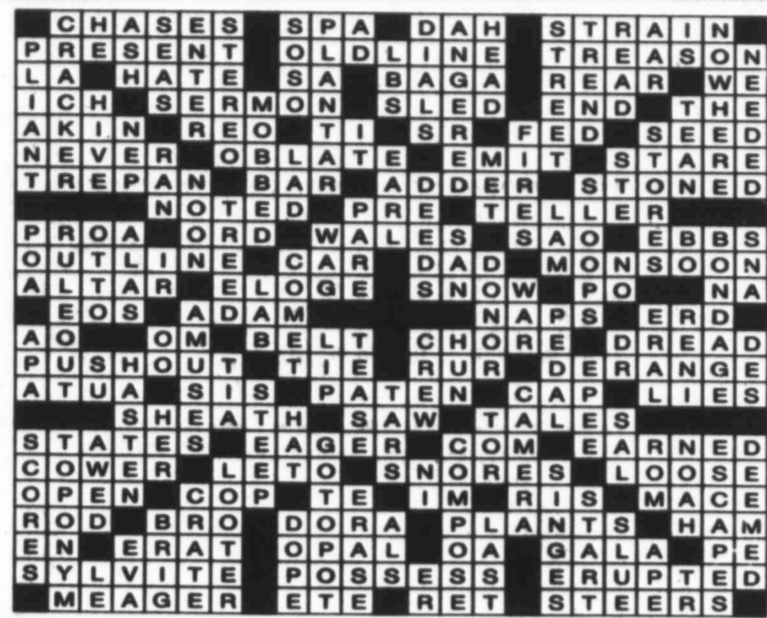

Chocolate can help fight tooth decay

NEW YORK (AP) — Recent studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Forsyth Dental Center in Boston indicate chocolate can help fight tooth decay, reports Chocolatier magazine.

Findings indicate that chocolate contains a heat-resistant, water-soluble protein team component that inhibits the activity of the mouth enzyme, dextranase. This enzyme is a key element in the formation of plaque, which is one of the first stages of tooth decay.

In addition, the magazine says, the cocoa butter present in chocolate helps clear foods quickly from the mouth, and the faster a food leaves the mouth, the less its cavity-producing potential.

Lifestyle policies

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS

Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding.

Achievement Day planned by clubs

The Martin County Extension Homemakers Clubs will have their Achievement Day Thursday. The event will be at the Martin County Community Center.

Registration and coffee begins at 10 a.m. Lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. A style show will be presented at 12:30 p.m. Tickets for lunch are $3.50 per person.

Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS

Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.
