Oil prices drop again

But rig count posts gain

From staff and wire reports
The leader of independent petroleum group said he remains optimistic about West Texas oil production despite an announcement Monday that oil prices continue to fall.

Oil prices resumed a slide, with fresh declines in commodity trading and a new round of cuts in the price companies are willing to pay for the major grade of U.S. oil.

Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said West Texas oil producers "have survived all these other happenings. They will survive this."

Dropping prices "haven't scared anybody and I don't look for them to."

In fact, the Permian Basin continues to rebound from a bust, Thompson said. Last week's rig count was 400, the highest it has been in 22 years with the exception of the boom years in 1981 and 1982.

"We don't look for any shakeup. We're in pretty good shape out here," Thompson said.

Citgo Petroleum Corp. and

Crown Central Petroleum Corp. both said Monday that they had reduced the price they will pay for West Texas Intermediate crude oil, the benchmark domestic blend, further undercutting levels established earlier this month by the nation's leading oil companies.

Thompson said the two corporations were among the holdouts from previous price-cutting rounds. He said the situation is "settling out."

"Crown doesn't do much business out here," Thompson said. Citgo does more business in the West Texas area.

Both Crown and Citgo, "are getting in line with the rest of the people" who have cut their prices.

While neither price cut surprised Thompson, he said most people in the West Texas oil business, "are waiting to see what is happening with OPEC."

Although Thompson expects oil prices "will probably continue to go down a little at a time" during the coming months, he added he thinks the sharp downward spiral

New tax plan to cut payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — American taxpayers would find their federal tax bills tumbling, on average, by 8.5 percent, under a proposal officials said Treasury Secretary Donald Regan was to unveil today to dramatically revamp the ungainly tax system.

Some 80 percent of taxpayers would see their income tax payments falling or, at the least, holding steady, under Regan's nearly yearlong effort to come up with a better way to tax the nation.

Twenty percent, mostly those in high tax brackets, would turn over more to the government's coffers by being stripped of ways to shelter their income from the tax collector, said administration officials who would speak only on condition they not be identified.

President Reagan ordered the Treasury Department in January to undertake the study in an effort to make fairer and simpler the complicated tax code. Adoption of wide-ranging changes would mark the biggest overhaul of the system since the income tax came into being 71 years ago.

The president got his first look at the plan on Monday and his spokesman, Larry Speakes, said it fulfills his order for a simplified system.

But the president is expected to consult with advisers and congressional leaders in coming weeks before outlining his final plan in the State of the Union address early next year. The tax changes would have to be accepted by Congress.

But the likelihood Congress will go along with any wholesale revamping is questionable. Some influential members have vowed that steps to reduce the budget deficit, projected to run in excess of $200 billion this year, will take priority over tax simplification.

Indeed, some have argued the tax plan would present a handy vehicle for raising taxes to trim the budget red ink.

Lobbying groups will no doubt go

Hard freeze predicted for area tonight

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer
Motorists wondering if their cars have enough antifreeze will get a chance to find out tonight when temperatures fall into the low 20s.

The frigid weather will be the result of a cold air mass headed for the Big Spring area, according to a bulletin from the National Weather Service.

The hard freeze will be particularly rough on exposed water pipes, automobiles without antifreeze and exposed houseplants.

Investigation continues in shooting death

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

An investigation continues into the shooting death of a San Angelo youth on Highway 87 Sunday morning by a Howard County Sheriff's deputy.

Joe Guadalupe Garza, 16, a San Angelo Lake View High School student, was killed Sunday morning by Howard County sheriff's deputy O.D. Majors as Garza and passenger Richard Edwin Flores, 17, of San Angelo approached a roadblock on south Highway 87 in a stolen vehicle from San Angelo.

Standard said Majors "fired a warning shot when the car approached the roadblock. He fired a second shot as he jumped away to avoid being hit by the car, which he said was coming right at him. His life was in peril. He fired as a last resort." Authorities said the roadblock was set up at the request of Big Spring police, who were pursuing the car.

Flores was transferred from the Big Spring Police Department to Howard County jail Monday afternoon on charges of auto burglary and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Judge Lewis Heflin set bonds of $10,000 and $15,000.

Texas Ranger Charles Brune, who was asked by Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard to investigate the shooting, said he couldn't reveal any results of the investigation until it is completed.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said he had met with Brune on Monday and wanted to make sure that the investigation was carried out in a thorough fashion.

LEWIS HEFLIN A.N. STANDARD

Hamby said the chances of the case going to the grand jury were "50-50." He said results of the investigation would not reach his office soon. The district attorney said investigations involving a law enforcement officer are lengthy. Chief Deputy William Shankles, who was assigned to the case by Sheriff A.N. Standard, said he didn't have diagram results indicating distances between the roadblock and the victim at the time of the shooting, nor of the point where the stolen vehicle came to a halt. He said he hoped to have results sometime today.

Heflin requested Monday that the autopsy on Garza be performed in Howard County.

Standard had requested an autopsy through Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee of Ector County after Garza died at 7:40 a.m. Monday in Odessa's Medical Center Hospital.

"The sheriff knows he doesn't have the authority to request an autopsy," Heflin said.

Heflin said he called Lumpee on Monday and the Ector County justice agreed to Heflin's request. The autopsy was performed Monday by Big Spring pathologist Robert Rember.

Heflin said investigation results "would go by what the doctor says." Asked why the autopsy should be performed locally rather than in Odessa, Heflin said that "here we're a little closer to the doctor, where you can't get that in a big city."

"When one of our officers gets into a shooting," Heflin said, "we want to take care of it."

Heflin said he believed the investigation would show that Majors acted correctly in firing shots at the vehicle.

"I don't blame him," Heflin said about Majors' action.

Local

Today's forecast calls for highs in the mid 50s and light winds. Tonight's temperature will fall into the lower 20s with light and variable winds. Tomorrow the temperature will rise into the mid 50s.

State

Much of West Texas had the first hard freeze of winter today, and strong north and northwest winds continued to force cold air into the region.

The chilling winds continued to press into other parts of the state. A cold front passed through much of the state late Monday, pushing eastward along the Texas-Louisiana border and extending southwestward along the Gulf Coast.

The National Weather Service issued a freeze warning for the Concho Valley and the Hill Country for tonight and a frost warning for South Central and Southeast Texas.

The forecast for Wednesday calls for afternoon highs in the 30s in the Panhandle, the 60s and 70s in South Texas and the Big Bend, and the 40s and 50s elsewhere.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS: Hard freeze likely east of the mountains tonight. Warmer, mainly north, and sunny Wednesday. Highs today upper 30s Panhandle, 40s most areas except mid 60s in Big Bend. Lows tonight low 20s east of the mountains, upper 20s far west to mid 30s lower elevations of the Big Bend. Highs Wednesday mostly in the 50s except mid 60s valleys of Big Bend.

School introduces U.S. to foreign students

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The youngsters who attend Newcomer High School have never eaten a hamburger and fries, gone to a football game or danced to Michael Jackson. Most can't speak a word of English.

"Some of the children have only been in the country for a few days," said Newcomer High Principal Paul Cheng. "Others are fresh off the plane."

This year, nearly 500 students from 35 nations, most in Latin America and Southeast Asia, attend Newcomer. It's believed to be the only school in the country devoted solely to integrating foreign youngsters into mainstream America.

"It was a big step (for San Francisco). ... We went out on a limb," Cheng said.

"These students are here now to build a new future and learn a new way of life. The job of Newcomer High is to assimilate these children, to teach them English and what American life is all about."

The school runs a one-year program. Counselors and teachers work to prepare students for regular high school classrooms. At the end of the year, the students are transferred to other schools.

"The aim of the school is not to keep students isolated here. It's to teach them basics that will help them in regular high schools," Cheng said.

The 37-year-old educator, who became the school's principal in 1982, explained that few students have more than eight years of formal education.

Most students arrive with horrors to forget. Some recall living in "concentration" camps in Cambodia. Others say they left behind guerrillas, death squads and the sound of endless gunfire.

"I remember the shock of waking up in the morning and finding the dead bodies of young men in the streets. Every day you lived in fear, never knowing what would happen, yet knowing that it could happen to you," said Israel Martinez, 17, of El Salvador.

Zian Abay, 15, said her family fled Ethiopia to escape the political upheaval that country is going through.

Both said they miss their native lands, but will never return. Ms. Abay said she wants to stay here, "master English and go on to college."

Cheng said each student must take intensive English instruction, a math class and two courses in social studies, geography or world history.

Judith Levy-Sender, teacher and counselor, said teachers have to teach English, mathematics and science to students who speak 24 different languages.

Many people had doubts about the school, including city officials and residents of affluent Pacific Heights, where the school is located, Cheng said.

But the 1979 influx of Central Americans and "boat people" from Southeast Asia convinced the board the school was needed and it opened that year, he said.

Pacific Heights residents came around when the district painted the unsightly gray building, a former elementary school, in Victorian hues of blue, he said.

Even though the average class size — 32 — is large, about 97 percent of the students at Newcomer go on to regular high schools and a few will enroll in college, he added.

"The staff has to take affirmative steps to get the youngsters to get out and get involved. Many of the students come from cultures where they are taught to be quiet and obedient. But it's just the opposite in America. Teachers have to draw them out. It's a real challenge," Cheng said.

Most teachers agree that it's worth the effort.

"It's a pleasure to work here. There's no or very little discipline problems. The students here all want to learn. They realize what a privilege education is," Ms. Levy-Sender said.

Many students like the school and are reluctant to leave after a year, Cheng said.

Sheriff's Log

Man pleads guilty to theft

A Big Spring man pleaded guilty Monday in 118th District Court to a charge of burglary of a vehicle that occurred last January at Bob Brock Ford, 500 W. Fourth.

Albert Gonzales Jr., 22, 404 NE 10th was given four years probation by District Court Judge James W. Gregg.

In other sheriff's reports:

- Delbert Gene Chesney, 50, 1102 Runnels, was released from custody of Howard County jail after serving 10 days and being given credit for five on a driving while intoxicated (DWI) charge.
- Big Spring Police transferred Antonia

Granados Gomez, 36, 1703 Young to county jail on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Melvin Darratt.

• Rosendo G. Jimenez, 22, Route Two was transferred by police to county jail on suspicion of DWI. He was released on bonds totalling $2,000 set by Judge Darratt.

• John Wayne Mellor, 21, of Abilene was arrested on a warrant issued by Taylor County for revocation of probation. He is being held in county jail.

• John Edward Jackson, 48, of Lexington, Texas was released on $1,000 bond for suspicion of DWI.

• Big Spring Police transferred David Buendia, 21, 2525 Gunter to county jail on suspicion of contributing to a minor.

Police Beat

Speakers taken in burglary

A stereo and speakers were stolen in the last month from a house on Mesquite, according to police reports.

Kathy Perez of 1600 Mesquite told police the stereo, which included a cassette player, was taken between Oct. 29 and Friday. The stereo was valued at $298.

Windows were reported broken on several buildings and automobiles, including St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Rockhouse Restaurant, police reports show.

A plate glass door at the Lutheran church at 808 Scurry was broken between 5 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday. Jane Jensen told police. Damage was estimated at $100.

Cecilia Adams told police that someone broke the window glass at the Rockhouse Restaurant between noon Saturday and 6 a.m. Monday.

Three windows and a window screen were broken in an attempted burglary at 1201 Mesquite, according to Pedro Perez of 1007 Sycamore. The windows were broken between Sunday and 5 p.m. Monday, and damage is estimated at $47.

Mike Murphy, the manager of American Satellite at 1201 Gregg told police that someone broke the window and lock on his 1979 Jeep while it was parked outside the store. The incident occurred between 1 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Monday. Damage is estimated at $50.

Harvey Clay of 1602 Runnels told police that someone broke a glass window on his house between 4 p.m. Friday and noon Monday.

In other police reports:

• Barbara Allison of 609 Colgate told police that someone stole her wallet between 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday inside the TG&Y store in Big Spring or the Midland Mall. In the wallet was $15 cash, a $10 check and three credit cards.

• James Daniel of Lubbock told police Monday that someone stole a $50 ice chest between 10:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Friday from the bed of his 1980 Chevrolet truck. The truck was parked in front of Fina's Cafe at 200 N. Gregg when the incident occurred.

• Earl Kolden of 1400 State Park Drive told police someone stole $60 of used automobile batteries from his house between 5 p.m. Oct. 15 and 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

• Ann Holcomb of 1907 Alabama told police someone cut the hose on her truck and removed about $20 of gasoline from it. • Police arrested Big Spring men at 7:40 p.m. Monday at 12th and Gregg in connection with alcohol-related offenses. Police arrested Leslie Robert Lloyd, 18, of 2525 Gunter on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcohol and David Buendia, 21, of 2525 Gunter on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

advised homeowners to cover their exposed water pipes to prevent them from freezing during the night. Tender houseplants should be brought in from outside or protected.

And motorists are advised to make sure their cars have enough antifreeze in them to weather the freezing temperatures.

Tonight's cold weather will be preceded today by sunny skies and highs in the low 50s. Winds will be northwesterly, 5 to 15 miles per hour.

But as the cold air mass settles in, winds will drop to light and variable and temperatures will fall into the low 20s. By tomorrow, sunny skies will prevail with highs in the low 50s with southerly winds, 5 to 10 miles per hour.

Tonight's chilly weather comes on the heels of the first official freeze of the fall, according to Bill Fryrear of the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station north of town. Last night's official low was 31 degrees.

Area farmers have been awaiting chilly temperatures to kill their cotton plants so they can harvest what little cotton weathered the long summer drought, Fryrear said.

"Because it was such a short crop, most (farmers) have not used any kind of harvesting chemical," Fryrear explained.

Last night's 31 degree reading, "was not cold enough" or extended enough to harm most plants. The temperature wasn't really cold enough to harm the city's trees, either, Fryrear said.

Fryrear expects tonight's freeze to make the cotton crop drop its leaves. Harvest should begin within two weeks, he said.

Freezing temperatures were late this season, Fryrear said. Big Spring's first freeze usually occurs around Nov. 8.

Oil prices

will slow down, "unless we start another price switch."

The drop in prices will affect state taxes, however, Thompson said. "This will cut the state severance tax, which is paid on the gross amount" of sales.

Giant Texaco Inc. said Monday that a reassessment of the outlook for prices of oil and natural gas contributed to its decision to write down the assets of some of its oil exploration and producing properties as part of one-time charges that will reduce its fourth-quarter profit by $765 million.

The decline in world oil prices during the past six weeks already has helped lower gasoline prices in the United States, halting an unseasonal autumn runup in prices at the pump.

Tax plan

through Regan's tax plan with a fine-tooth comb to find any recommended changes that will hurt their interests. Word of some of the proposals has already aroused the ire of business groups worried that favorite breaks might be on the chopping block.

The Regan plan, according to the officials, centers on a "modified flat" tax proposal for individuals that slashes the number of tax rates and gets rid of many deductions, exclusions and credits. A pure flat tax plan would tax everyone at the same rate, regardless of income, and wipe out nearly all deductions.

The Treasury's modified plan clips the current 16 tax rates to three, with the top bracket sliced from 50 percent to 35 percent for the wealthiest taxpayers. The two other rates are set at 25 percent and 15 percent, according to these sources.

The lowest rate currently is 11 percent.

Local man injured in crash

A 26-year-old Big Spring man was injured about noon Monday when his motorcycle collided with a car in the intersection of E. 11th Place and S. Goliad.

Steven Wesley Schumpert of 301 E. Fifth was treated and released from Cowper Clinic Monday after the accident, in which he was flung from his 1980 maroon Honda motorcycle.

The driver of the other vehicle, Susan Walker Paeth, 34, of 604 E. 11th was uninjured in the accident. Schumpert was traveling east on 11th Place and had entered the street's intersection with Goliad when the accident occurred. Paeth, who was driving a 1978 green Buick LeSabre, was in the right lane of northbound traffic on Goliad.

Paeth stopped for a red light and then proceeded to enter the intersection when the collision occurred. The motorcycle struck the front bumper of the car and Schumpert was flung off of the motorcycle.

The motorcycle slid 72 feet to rest on the north curb of the 500 block of E. 11th Place.

For the record

A Friday obituary notice on Helen Acuff contained an error. According to Polly Mays, a member of the Pottom House commission, the Pottom House was purchased by the Dora Roberts Foundation and donated to the city. The obituary said Mrs. Acuff's family had given the Pottom House to the city. Mrs. Acuff's family suggests memorials be sent to the Pottom House Preservation Fund, 602 Highland, Mrs. Mays said.

Deaths

Mrs. Bill Ballard

Mrs. Bill (Enola Myrlene) Ballard, 52, died Sunday afternoon at her home.

Services will be at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Baptist Temple Church with the Rev. Leslie Kelly, a Baptist minister, and the Rev. Eldon Cook, pastor of the Sand Springs Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in the Coahoma Cemetery.

She was born Oct. 22, 1932, in Lamesa. She married Bill Ballard May 7, 1950, in Silver City, N.M. She had lived in the Big Spring area since 1955 and was a member of the Elbow Baptist Church.

She had been active in the Coahoma band boosters for many years. She was active in the Baptist Women's Missionary Union and the church GA program on the associational and state levels.

She taught Sunday School and had been active in church work for 28 years.

Cab driver fined $500

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — A woman locked in a taxicab for nearly 30 minutes by a driver who refused to change her $10 bill after a $2.50 ride was "effectively imprisoned," according to a court that fined the driver $500.

The state Court of Appeals, in its ruling last week, also placed George Blue Street, 54, on three years probation in the August 1983 incident involving Valerie McNeal.

Street unlocked the doors and allowed Ms. McNeal to leave the cab after she persuaded a passerby to change her bill.

Man gets life prison term

ATLANTA — A man who said he smuggled drugs to cover an alleged job with the Central Intelligence Agency in Colombia was sentenced to life in prison without parole for his involvement in a ring that allegedly brought five tons of cocaine into the U.S. in 14 months.

Harold Rosenthal, 53, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge G. Ernest Tidwell on Monday one month after he and eight others were convicted in the first trial arising from indictments returned in January against 53 people by grand juries in Atlanta, Los Angeles, Miami and Little Rock, Ark.

Division to appeal ruling

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, which has opposed racial quotas, says it will appeal a federal court order that traditionally black Tennessee State University's enrollment be 50 percent white by 1993.

The division Monday filed papers saying it will appeal to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals the September order by U.S. District Judge Thomas A. Wiseman Jr. that was meant to settle a 16-year-old lawsuit.

Court gives judge the ax

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — A judge accused of forging another judge's signature as a favor to a political supporter was ordered removed from office by the state's highest court.

District Judge Stanley Y. Bennett, 49, removed immediately by Monday's order from the Court of Appeals, said he was surprised and disappointed by the decision.

He was accused of forging the signature to reduce the severity of the reckless driving conviction of the grandson of a local Democratic leader. A grand jury that investigated the incident did not return an indictment against Bennett.

Couple face life terms

DAYTON, Ohio — A couple charged or wanted for questioning in eight slayings last summer in the Midwest face life sentences after pleading guilty to federal kidnapping charges in Ohio.

Alton Coleman, 28, and Debra Brown, 22, entered their pleas Monday, the same day that Indiana authorities charged them with murdering a 7-year-old girl.

HIJACK LEADER — Somali army Capt. Awil Adan Bourhan said in Addis Ababa after surrendering Tuesday that the three-day hijacking was a success because the Somali government agreed to spare the lives of seven condemned students.

A Somali surrender

Dissidents release passengers, given asylum

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Three Somali dissidents this morning safely released 103 passengers they had been holding hostage since hijacking a Somali jetliner four days ago. The hijackers, who had threatened to blow up the plane, surrendered and were granted asylum.

The leader of the hijackers said the Somali government had met one of their demands — for a reprieve for seven youths sentenced to death — but the Somali government denied that any demands had been met or that any executions were scheduled.

Ethiopian Foreign Minister Goshu Wolde earlier said the three hijackers had been joined by two passengers, but only the three men identified as the hijackers appeared at an airport news conference. There was no mention of whether any passengers had joined them or had subsequently asked for asylum.

Goshu said the three would be permitted to stay in Ethiopia or travel to any other country of their choice. Somalia and Ethiopia are longtime enemies in the Horn of Africa, and the two countries have no diplomatic relations.

Goshu said all the passengers appeared in good condition.

"We are not terrorists," said Awil Adan Bourhan, the Somali army captain who said he led the hijacking. Instead, he said, the hijackers were political activists opposing the government of Somali President Mohamed Siad Barre.

Bourhan, who appeared at the news conference wearing a fresh uniform and a green beret, had demanded that the executions be canceled and that 14 prominent political prisoners in Somalia be released. The two other hijackers wore civilian clothes and did not appear to be soldiers.

The hijackers several times set and then postponed deadlines for blowing up the Boeing 707 with the hostages aboard.

The chief stewardess on the Somali Airlines flight, Suad Mohamed, 26, said the passengers cheered and applauded when the hijackers surrendered.

She said she had tried to block Bourhan from forcing his way into the cabin when the plane was commandeered Saturday on a flight from Mogadishu, the Somali capital, to Jidda, Saudi Arabia, but "he was too strong."

James Dell, 30, of Orangeburg, N.Y., identified as the only American hostage, told reporters: "They kept us frightened as best they could, so they could control us."

Dell, a U.S. Navy lieutenant stationed at a construction site in Berbera, said, "They kept telling us to lower our heads, duck down so they could plant more bombs."

Bourhan said the hijacking was a victory because Somali authorities, who had publicly rejected the hijackers' demands, had "guaranteed the safety" of the seven condemned youths. He said the guarantees were made to Italian diplomats acting as intermediaries. Two Italian geology professors were reportedly among the hostages.

Goshu said hundreds of Somali youths had been jailed for opposing Siad Barre and 37 had been given life imprisonment.

Japan protests to Russia

TOKYO — The Foreign Ministry called in a Soviet Embassy official to protest Friday's violation of Japanese air space by Soviet aircraft, the ministry said.

Takehiro Togo, counselor of the ministry's European and Oceanic Affairs Bureau, conveyed Japan's protest Monday to Lyudvig A. Chizhov, minister-counselor at the Soviet Embassy, the ministry said.

Con returns from exile

MONTREAL — Quebec separatist Raymond Villeneuve, convicted of several bombings in 1963, has returned to Canada after 15 years of exile in Cuba, Algeria and France.

Villeneuve, 41, a former member of the Quebec Liberation Front, does not face outstanding criminal charges but must appear before the National Parole Board for a ruling on whether he should spend more time in jail because he violated his parole by fleeing to Cuba in 1968, said his legal aid lawyer, Anne-Marie Jones.

Vatican loss in millions

ROME — The Vatican will have a deficit in 1984 of $30.6 million on an income of $64.2 million, an Italian banking magazine reports.

The Vatican announced the deficit in March but did not give a breakdown on income and expenditures.

Savings Bulletin, a monthly published by the federation of Italian savings and loan associations, said Monday its information on the highly secret Vatican finances was based on "unofficial but well founded" sources.

It said the Holy See would spend 158 billion lire ($94.8 million) for the year on its worldwide activities while its income from gifts, stamps, entrance fees to museums and investments would be 107 billion lire ($64.2 million).

Warsaw Pact heads meet

MOSCOW — Defense ministers of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact will hold a regular meeting in December in Budapest, Hungary, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced.

The brief Tass dispatch Monday carried no further details about the planned session and did not specify the date. The alliance's defense ministers meet twice a year.

Warsaw Pact foreign ministers are scheduled to gather in East Berlin next month.

Runaway train injures 31

ATHENS, Greece — A crowded subway train ran a warning light and rammed into a train that was halted in a station at the foot of the Acropolis, injuring 31 people, police said.

The crash Monday morning caused a derailment that blocked the Athens-Piraeus subway line for several hours.

Police said the driver of the moving train ignored a warning light and ran his train into the rear of a train stopped in the Thission station.

British commissioner assassinated in India

BOMBAY, India (AP) — A British diplomat riding to work in his car was shot and killed today. Police said at least one foreign gunman was involved and one investigator suggested the Irish Republican Army might be responsible.

Percy Norris, 56, appointed deputy high commissioner in Bombay a month ago, was shot as he was being driven to his office shortly before 8 a.m., said Bombay police and the British High Commission in New Delhi.

Police said three shots were fired at Norris as his car slowed down to take a turn about a quarter-mile from the office. He was hit by two bullets, one in the temple and one in the heart.

He was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at Breach Candy Hospital.

"The identity of the attacker or attackers is not known," said Ronald Nash, spokesman for the high commission in New Delhi.

Commissioner Percy Norris killed.

"There is no evidence yet available to suggest a motive."

In Bombay, the Maharashtra state home secretary, B.K. Choughule, said Norris was shot by a man who escaped on foot.

According to a description released by police, the gunman was a foreigner about six feet tall with "wheatish complexion," wearing a brown or gray suit and white shirt.

Graham Otway, a cricket specialist for the Press Association agency, quoted a police inspector as saying two men were involved, one dark-skinned and one white.

"I can't do anything other than guess at the moment that it was the work of the IRA," the inspector identified as Chewan, was quoted as saying. The predominantly

Catholic IRA is fighting for independence for the Britain's predominantly Protestant province of Northern Ireland.

The ugly faces in Britain's strike

Britain's coal strike, now into its ninth month, is already the longest major labor dispute in that country's history, and is rapidly becoming its most bitter. Violence on the picket lines is a daily occurrence, and uncompromising attitudes on both sides have turned what might have been merely a knotty labor-management quarrel into a virtual class war. It's that serious.

Strikes, high unemployment, low productivity and a declining standard of living are not new to the British scene. What is new, and most troubling to those who value the unique British contribution to democracy and the concepts of compromise and fair play, is the unremitting bitterness and polarization that the strike, and the underlying national issues it symbolizes, have magnified. In and out of Parliament, within and between political parties and socioeconomic groups, the tone of the debate has turned nasty, and the willingness to play by the rules, and to accept defeat when it comes, has been seriously eroded.

One important factor in this change is the uncompromising style of Conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who has won public support for sticking to the government's decision to retire about 10 percent of the nationalized coal industry's capacity in the face of low prices, oversupply and slack demand. The violent response of miners, to be seen nightly on the television news, has been a contributing factor in that support. But in standing so firm on the issue, Thatcher has made compromise on larger national issues — on turning back much of the nationalized industrial sector to private enterprise, for example, and on austerity programs that help to keep unemployment at an all-time high of over 13 percent — that much more difficult to achieve.

That's not to say that Thatcher is the sole villain in this piece. The miners' leader, Arthur Scargill, has so blatantly defied not only the government but the courts as well, that the Labor Party leadership has tried to distance itself from him. That has done nothing, however, to heal the break within the Labor Party itself between the moderate socialists in Parliament and those militant leaders within the party structure who want to turn Britain into an isolationist, non-aligned Marxist society.

All of this could be a passing phenomenon. Britain, after all, made its first notable contribution to the art of compromise in the year 1215, with the signing of the Magna Carta, and has weathered innumerable storms since, including wars, plagues, depression, regicide and civil war. But if it's true there will always be an England, it's not so certain that that the country's liberal traditions and conservative values will survive intact. An ugliness has crept into British public life that no admirer of Britain, or of democracy, can contemplate with indifference.

Nice guys don't raise taxes

Now that he has been reelected president, Ronald Reagan has miles to go and promises to keep. The promise that voters will remember the most is that Mr. Reagan said he could see no situation where he would raise the people's taxes. The president was not just whistling "Dixie" — he really meant it.

Therefore, you can imagine how aghast I was when I walked into the Treasury Department cafeteria and found a fellow at a table studying a top secret manual titled, "Death and Taxes for the '80s."

"That's an interesting book you have there," I said.

"We've all been instructed to memorize it," he said confidentially. "It provides the guidelines to interdicting the deficit during the next four years."

"You're not going to increase taxes?"

"Of course not," he said. "President Reagan promised if elected he would kill them, not raise them."

"Then how are you going to cut the deficit?"

"It says in the book we're going to add revenue enhancers."

"Isn't that the same as a tax?"

"Wait a minute," he said, leafing through the pages. "No, it's just the opposite. We are going to reform the code so that people will pay less instead of more taxes."

"How do you plan to do it?"

"Here it is on page 12. 'One way to keep the tax base from rising is to stop people from deducting their state and city income taxes from their federal tax.' By doing this the government should be able to make $30 billion on the deal."

"If people can't deduct state and city income taxes from their federal returns, they'll still be paying more than they did before."

"Yes, but they'll get mad at the state and city officials and not at us. They can't fault the president just because he wants to close a notorious tax loophole."

"I should hope not."

"It says here that one of the ways to win the hearts and minds of the people is to withhold revenue on unemployment insurance."

"You're going to tax unemployment insurance?"

"No, we're going to enhance it, so that people entitled to it will give a portion of it back to the government."

"It sounds like a tax to me."

"It will only affect those out of work. If you have a job it won't cost you anything."

"Do they have any other 'revenue enhancers' in the book?"

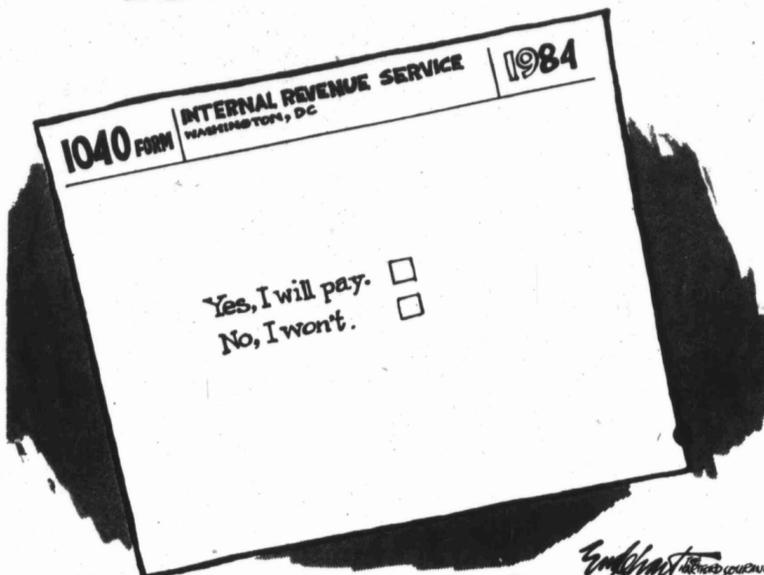

"Here's one we'll take a shot at. We are going to simplify everyone's taxes so even if they start spiraling up in the first five years, they will go down in the next six, providing inflation stays at 4 percent and the Gross National Product goes up to 7."

"Do you think you can get away with that?"

"We can't, but the president can. That's why the people elected him."

TAX SIMPLIFICATION

Avoiding the other Cubans

WASHINGTON — Anti-Castro Cubans in Miami have invested money, men and munitions in the guerrilla war against the Sandinista government of Nicaragua, but their efforts have embarrassed the Nicaraguan contras, who initially welcomed their help.

Rebel leaders are afraid the Cubans' irresponsible tactics will give the whole anti-Sandinista movement a black eye.

A recent example that gave contra leaders cause for concern was the shooting of a Costa Rican businessman last month by gunmen directed by anti-Castro Cubans. The assault was ordered on the grounds that the merchant was a Sandinista sympathizer.

The attack occurred within Costa Rica, and contra leaders are afraid the incident — and the Cubans' evident willingness to commit similar unsavory acts — will cause the Costa Rican government to crack down on contra operations emanating from Costa Rica. Up to now, the government has turned a blind eye to all but the most provocative actions of the guerrillas. But Costa Rica has no army, and its hospitality to anti-Sandinista guerrillas could invite retaliation by the Managua government.

In this delicate situation, the Cubans and their hirelings constitute a loose cannon that could fire in any direction. A team of six to eight Cuban exiles from Miami has set up a secret training and supply base in the jungles of northwest Costa Rica near the Nicaraguan border, and has recruited deserters from the contra group known as ARDE.

It's not just that the Cubans are independent of control by the contra leadership, as one ARDE supporter explained to my roving reporter, Jon Lee Anderson, "They've recruited the worst elements from ARDE — the cattle thieves and the killers."

In an attempt to put some distance — literally — between themselves and the Cubans, ARDE leaders recently moved several of their camps away from the Cuban area, even though it meant relocating at more vulnerable sites practically on the Nicaraguan border.

In one of these precarious camps within sight of Lake Nicaragua across the border, ARDE's military chief, Fernando "El Negro" Chamorro, said that talks have begun with the Cubans in the hope of drawing them into the ARDE fold under his command.

"We can't permit them to get involved as freelancers," Chamorro said. They have to incorporate with us."

But the Cubans in Costa Rica have their own pressures to deal with. As one source explained, they depend on right-wing anti-Castro exile groups in Miami for their funding. Unable to fight Castro directly, these groups have targeted instead the left-wing Sandinistas, who are supported by Castro.

And once this guilty by association is accepted as a strategy, such dubious tactics as the attempted assassination of an allegedly pro-Sandinista Costa Rican businessman become justifiable.

So far the anti-Castro Cubans have done little actual fighting, beyond an attack early this month on a small Sandinista border garrison. They laid siege to the post with mortar and machine-gun fire for almost a day before withdrawing, according to ARDE sources.

Other Cuban-exile intervention in the Nicaraguan hostilities included the financing of several hundred anti-Sandinista Nicaraguans two years ago when the CIA-backed covert war first began, prior military training in South Florida, and the provision of medical treatment by Cuban doctors to Honduran-based Nicaraguan rebels earlier this year.

The right-wing Cuban groups seem willing and able to provide money and guns to contra groups operating out of both Honduras and Costa Rica. The only thing stopping them appears to be the Nicaraguan rebels' reluctance to taint what they consider their patriotic movement by association with Cuban extremists.

HACKER'S MISTAKE: Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, chairman of the Ethics Committee, has been moderately embarrassed by a computer error. But it wasn't the kind of glitch familiar to newspaper readers: a computer that mistakes someone's bank balance or sends out a million-dollar electric bill to a welfare mother.

Stevens' headache involved a mix-up in his two computer systems: one for his Senate office work, the other for his re-election campaign.

A tired campaign worker mistakenly sent a message to Washington on the House Information System, which Stevens is using on an experimental basis.

Continuing the conservative revolution

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — There was a time when the Heritage Foundation drew little attention. The private research group clearly doesn't travel the middle of the road. Its scholars are deeply conservative.

But since Ronald Reagan moved into the White House people have begun to sit up and take notice. The president and the "think tank" are on similar wavelengths, although its new publication, "Mandate for Leadership II: Continuing the Conservative Revolution," indicates some important differences.

Mandate, a report designed to guide Reagan's second term, is chock full of proposals on national security, foreign policy, defense, education and social welfare. Some were "leaked" last week, others were officially released. Many more are to be announced next month.

Four years ago, "Mandate I" offered the new president more than 2,000 recommendations. Heritage kept watch, and after Reagan's first year in office it issued a report card. His grade: B.

He will score "a little bit higher" in the second term, Edward J. Feulner Jr., the president of Heritage, predicted at a news conference Tuesday.

That's problematic, at this point, although in addition to the philosophical kinship there are Heritage alumni in posts at the White House, the State and Education Departments, and elsewhere throughout the administration.

Perhaps the most attention-getting proposal was that the United States should consider supporting insurgents in such Marxist countries as Nicaragua and Afghanistan when U.S. interests are imperiled.

Use of American troops is not specifically endorsed. In fact, the support may be merely vocal; a way of bolstering the rebels by letting them know they are not alone. Even so, the idea is controversial and could conjure up memories of U.S. intervention in Vietnam, Central America and other troubled regions.

On arms control, while Reagan is steering the country toward negotiations with the Soviet Union, the Heritage proposals are extremely skeptical of both the process and of Moscow. The report warns that past agreements have not enhanced U.S. security and recommends not making arms control the centerpiece of American foreign policy. Widespread Soviet cheating is charged.

Moreover, "Mandate" recommends the president announce "at an early date" that the United States is ending its voluntary com-

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Carol Kuhler never got a chance to reach out and touch someone with her new telephone credit card. But someone using her card put the touch on the phone company to the tune of $33,533.

A long-winded mystery caller had gotten hold of Ms. Kuhler's new telephone credit card number, and rang up calls on pay phones to places like Indonesia, Italy, Bangladesh, Sweden, Egypt, Kuwait and Jordan.

"My favorite call of these was to Bangladesh from Wichita. It was for 176 minutes and the total was $527.37," said Ms. Kuhler, 19, a student at the University of Texas at Arlington.

"My mother is the only one I ever call and she lives in Dallas," said Ms. Kuhler, who applied for a credit card in September. The card never arrived, but the telephone company called in early October to ask her why she was using it so much for overseas calls, and called again to brace her for the bill.

Ms. Kuhler said the ease with which the caller used her number soured her on the idea of a calling card. She told the company to cancel her account.

Tumbling after

LEMON HEIGHTS, Calif. (AP) — A 1974 issue of the children's magazine Jack and Jill just showed up at the home of J.J. Mauldin, but the child it was sent to is now of voting age.

"I suspect the post office has a slow reader who began browsing through my June-July issue of Jack and Jill magazine in 1974 and just got around to delivering it to me Friday," said Mrs. Mauldin.

"My daughter was only 9 when I didn't get that copy, and now she's 19... I hope receiving this copy isn't prophetic. I sincerely don't plan on producing any more readers for them," she said.

Jack Parsons, superintendent of the post office that delivers to Mrs. Mauldin's home, said he had no idea how the delay occurred.

"We probably didn't get it until 10 years later. It may have been in a supposedly empty sack," said Parsons.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Nov. 27, the 332nd day of 1984. There are 34 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Nov. 27, 1978, San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and City Supervisor Harvey Milk, a gay rights activist, were shot to death inside City Hall by former City Supervisor Dan White. White, convicted of voluntary manslaughter, was paroled in January 1984 after serving five years in prison.

On this date: In 1901, the Army War College was established in Washington, D.C.

In 1910, New York City's Pennsylvania Station opened. At the time, it was the largest railway terminal in the world.

pliance with the unratified 1979 Strategic Arms Limitation agreement. At the very least, the report says, the terms should be allowed to expire, on schedule, at the end of 1985.

There are proposals also to construct a U.S. missile defense in Wyoming, to seek congressional approval for 40 MX missiles in the current fiscal year and to proceed with the Strategic Defense Initiative with more zip than even the eager administration is showing.

And there is some muted criticism of Reagan's first-term performance.

"The strategic modernization package announced by President Reagan in October 1981 laid the foundation for the long-term recovery of U.S. nuclear forces, but it fell short of providing a short-term response to the Carter-Mondale legacy of strategic neglect," the report said.

"It remains, nonetheless, a useful framework for shaping the strategic forces agenda for the next four years and beyond."

On the domestic side, "Mandate" suggests Americans be given the option to drop out of the Social Security system and obtain private coverage.

It indeed is an agenda for "continuing the conservative revolution," and holds Reagan's feet to the fire, if ever so gently.

Dear Abby

Wife fears she has half a husband

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for three years to a man who divorced his wife because she was having an affair with another man. I was already divorced when I met him. Now the problem. My husband feels guilty about his divorce. He talks to me about his concern for her mental health, and he worries about who is comforting her sexually. I've heard this for three years now, and it isn't doing much for my mental health.

His ex-wife has the house in her name and their two children live with her. She's currently seeing a very wealthy man who has remodeled her home and takes her out, and I presume he "comforts" her.

Meanwhile, I'm living in a modest apartment with a 6-year-old child from my previous marriage and a husband who is worrying about his ex-wife's mental health and sexual needs.

I feel like saying, "My first marriage failed, too, but I've picked up the pieces and gone on. I married you because I loved you. I still do, but I don't spend my time worrying about my ex-husband's mental state or sexual needs."

What is wrong, Abby? Why am I beginning to feel like I have half a husband?

SECOND THOUGHTS IN LOUISVILLE: Your husband is too preoccupied with his ex-wife, and you are beginning to feel that you have half a husband because you have. He needs counseling in order to let go of what he no longer has: her. Tell him what you feel like telling him

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for all the good things you had to say about Marriage Encounter. But Abby, we must ask for a correction immediately.

Marriage Encounter is all the things you said it was. It is for couples who have good marriages. And it is a crash course for couples who want to put the honeymoon sparkle back into their marriages and keep it there. But it is not a counseling session in any form whatsoever!

If a couple needs counseling, they should seek it first, and when they are back on the right track, they should treat themselves to a Marriage Encounter weekend to reaffirm their commitment of love and marriage.

H. AND C. SPITZER
IN S.C., LUTHERAN
MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER

DEAR H. AND C.: I submit this correction with my apologies. The trouble with "corrections" is that those who have read the erroneous information rarely see the corrections.

Holiday credit spending can be a benefit or a hardship

COLLEGE STATION — Beautiful merchandise and liberal credit arrangements can encourage consumers to spend — and overspend — for Christmas.

Many department stores now invite their customers to charge merchandise without having to pay the bills until January or February. These "no payment" plans can work to your advantage if you are already a good credit manager, says Texas A and M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Nancy L. Granovsky.

If you do not have to pay a finance charge, extended credit amounts to a free loan, she says. Then during the time you postpone payments, you can save up the cash to pay the bill.

"But if you are already over-tended, postponing payments may only add to your money woes," she said. "Delayed spending can give consumers a false sense of security or encourages them to spend more than they would have spent when paying cash."

One way to avoid the need for extended credit at Christmas is to purchase gifts year-round and take advantage of sales and other specials, she says.

But even if you shop only during the Christmas season, planning your gift purchases and setting spending limits can help you stay within the family budget.

Setting spending limits is an especially good idea if you use the no payment feature of your credit cards, she said, and can prevent an unpleasant surprise when the February bills arrive.

Dr. Donohue

Teen's pains are unusual

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 17-year-old girl who experienced extremely severe cramps around the time of menstruation. For the past six months they have been getting steadily more severe. I often experience chills, constipation and abdominal pains. One doctor told my mother this could be caused by sexual activity. I have never had sex. I wonder if there could be something wrong physically and whether these are normal monthly pains. There have been times when the Motrin doesn't help and I have passed out from the pain. — C.C.

You don't need a doctor to tell you you are not having normal monthly periods. Many women do have some discomfort at the time of their periods, but not to this degree. You have to be examined promptly, and if you have already seen one doctor about this, then find another more experienced in female illnesses. You first have to be assured there is not something wrong with your reproductive tract. There could be a variation in the way it developed, and that could be causing your pains. Or you may have a chronic infection.

I don't want to frighten you. Most of the conditions I mention can be treated. In fact, such pain is most likely due to abnormal uterine muscle activity together with a slight reduction of blood flow to the uterus at the time of the period. That's the usual cause when there's nothing amiss with the reproductive tract itself. Such symptoms are from an overproduction of a chemical, prostaglandin, or from the oversensitivity of the uterine muscle to that chemical.

There are many drugs to counter that, indomethacin and naproxen being just two. Aspirin can do it, but in some women that may cause too heavy bleeding during the period. Exercise helps for some women. I believe you when you say your trouble is not caused by sexual activity so you should ask your mother to find a doctor who will listen to your story.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am interested in getting an explanation of these terms: Irritable bowel syndrome, diverticulosis, and mucous colitis. Could any of them turn into cancer? — Mrs. B.G.

Irritable bowel syndrome and mucous colitis are one and the same. In this the digestive tract's normal motility (activity) is not quite right, causing periods of constipation alternating with diarrhea. Abdominal pain is another feature. This does not turn into cancer.

Diverticulosis is a common condition in our society. It means that tiny sacs have formed on the wall of the colon. If they become inflamed, that's diverticulitis and that is painful. However, neither turns into cancer.

Colitis, other than the mucous kind mentioned, describes a variety of conditions. A serious form is ulcerative colitis, marked by abdominal pain and bloody diarrhea. In this, cancer incidence is higher in those who have had it for a long time than in those with normal colons.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you comment on the Pelger-Huet anomaly? Is it present from birth? If so, how is it recognized? How does it affect a person? — R.R.

Medically, an anomaly is any irregularity or deviation from the norm in a body part. The Pelger-Huet anomaly is inherited and present from birth. The white blood cells are involved. Viewed under a microscope these cells have nuclei somewhat different from normal ones. This condition, however, does not make a person more susceptible to infection. These white cells work just as well in fighting infections as do normal-appearing cells.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read the booklet, "Peptic Ulcers: The Modern View and Treatment." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

"I'm in the business of telling jokes, but sometimes jokes are not enough..."

SPECIALLY for families in crises, the unemployed, the alcoholic, the homeless, the elderly and others facing difficult times. Millions of these people will receive a helping hand from The Salvation Army this Christmas season.

Shut-ins in nursing homes and hospitals will be visited by its League of Mercy. Those who have no family celebration to attend will have holiday meals at Salvation Army centers. Families in need will receive baskets of food, clothing and toys for the children. Prison inmates will be able to send gifts to their children with the help of the Army's special Toy Lift Programs.

And throughout the year, The Salvation Army will meet the day-to-day needs of many with its corps community centers, day care centers, senior citizens residences, feeding programs, shelters, rehabilitation centers and other facilities which number more than 11,000 nationwide.

This wonderful ministry needs your support in order to flourish. Won't you help these Christian soldiers in their work by tossing a generous contribution into a Salvation Army kettle or sending a check to your local Salvation Army? Your gift to The Salvation Army will keep the Christmas spirit of sharing alive throughout the new year.

Developers hope to turn hen houses into malls

ADDISON (AP) — Amid an urban vista of upscale shopping malls and high-tech office towers, goats and chickens noisily surround visitors to Eddie Henderson's ramshackle compound.

The goats boldly sample visitors' clothing and the chickens aim a staccato stream of abuse at the guests, while BMWs and Mercedes flash by on the Dallas Parkway a few feet away.

Neither the traffic nor the animals in the compound surrounding the house intimidate the visitors. That's because the compound Henderson shares with a dozen goats and a hundred chickens sits on 70 acres of undeveloped land immediately north of Adelstein Plaza in the 15600 block of Dallas Parkway.

It's the type of property that leaves developers with golden visions of high-rise office buildings and low-rise malls.

"I used to get a lot of them (developers) visitin' me 'til they figured out I don't own the land," Henderson said. "Two or three ladies used to come by and see me, but they slowed down after they found out I was just stringing them about the property." Henderson is a 62-year-old Willie Nelson look-alike with a dozen stories in his pocket for every one he gets to tell. He said his boss, veterinarian William L. Anderson, has rented part of the rural property for him since 1980.

But that may soon change. Real estate sources revealed last week that a Dallas partnership headed by Hurd Development Co. is negotiating to buy the 70-acre property for an estimated $100 million from the owner, Oklahoma Publishing Co. of Oklahoma City.

The prospect of moving to make way for development doesn't faze Henderson.

"It's all right with me," he said. "It's going to come, so what are you going to do about it? They tell you to vacate and if you don't they'll send out the sheriff."

"I'd have to find another place for these animals. I like my goats and chickens."

Henderson has already moved once in his nine years in Addison. He lived on the site of Adelstein Plaza until construction began four years ago, then he relocated several hundred yards north to the present site.

Despite the development of nearby office towers and malls, he likes the country atmosphere of the Addison property, Henderson said.

"I killed a coyote out here four or five years ago," he said. "I call it my $3,000 fur 'cause that's what it cost me in chickens before I got her."

Henderson has worked for the veterinarian since 1963 and has seen Addison blossom from a rural area to a center of high-rise development. He pointed to various office towers and explained what each used to be in its rural days.

But he also said he understands the inevitability of development in Addison. He said that if he owned the property he lives on, he would sell it.

With a glimmer in his eye, the goatherd revealed that he owns three undeveloped lots in Eastvale, north of The Colony.

SURROUNDED BY PROGRESS — Eddie Henderson feeds goats from the front porch of his Addison home. Henderson's home is on 70 acres of undeveloped land being sought by developers.

"That's a good area for a developer to look at," he said with a smile. "You think you could get that in the paper?"

BSISD taking its lumps in skirmish with TEA

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Texas school districts are again waging war over state education funds, but the latest battleground is the Texas Education Agency, not the Texas Legislature.

And this time, the skirmish is not between the state's largest and smallest school districts, but between large and mid-sized school districts. Although the war is far from over, the Big Spring Independent School District appears to be taking its share of lumps.

At issue is the Price Differential Index, which is designed to reflect the different costs of teacher salaries and other education needs statewide.

That index, combined with the state's education formula, currently gives the Big Spring Independent School District $1,620.64 for each of its 5,214 pupils. The Texas Legislature, in its special session on education last summer, established the index for the current school year, but gave the State Board of Education power to change it in subsequent years.

A variety of proposed changes in that index now being reviewed by a State Board of Education committee would cut that per-pupil expenditure in the Big Spring school district to a minimum of $1,510.15 or a maximum of $1,526.52.

School district officials, during public testimony to the committee Monday, said those changes could lead to significant changes in school district tax rates statewide.

Changes in the index must be approved by the full board by Dec. 9. Determination of a final index will determine state assistance to Texas school districts for the 1985-86 school year.

During Monday's public hearing, representatives of the state's mid-sized school districts appealed for change. Representatives of larger districts, meanwhile, urged that the current index be continued.

Representatives of the mid-sized school districts, including those from San Angelo and Abilene, favored suggested changes in the index to reflect the cost of teacher salaries statewide rather than strictly among school districts in one county.

San Angelo School Superintendent Bill Graves said school districts in his county traditionally pay the minimum state teacher salary. The index established by the Texas Legislature, Graves said, gives the San Angelo school district enough money to compete with surrounding school districts, but not comparable sized districts elsewhere in Texas.

"It (the current index) is unfair to the district's children because it (the district) will not be able to complete with the larger, wealthier districts and the smaller oil rich districts in our area," Graves said in written testimony.

"Students in San Angelo deserve equal access to the same quality of teachers to which the other large and wealthy districts have," he added.

That theme was echoed in written testimony from O. Henry Young, president of the Abilene Independent School District's Board of Trustees.

Young said Abilene and other Texas school districts that lack substantial suburban populations are penalized because the index bases the cost of teacher salaries on lower paying, sparsely populated school districts.

"We would agree that salary supplements paid to teachers in large urban areas would have to be greater than in some other areas," Young wrote. "The Price Differential Index in the large urban school district would be the highest. It does not, however, seem rational to award the suburban school districts of this large urban school district with the maximum index."

Holiday accident deaths reported down in Texas

By The Associated Press Fewer people died on Texas streets and highways this Thanksgiving holiday weekend than last year, Department of Public Safety officials said.

At least 32 fatalities had been reported by 11 p.m. Sunday when the weekend officially closed, according to a count by The Associated Press.

That was 17 fewer than the 49 reported a year ago, the DPS said. Charles William Casteel, 72, of Taft, Calif., was killed about 1:40 a.m. Sunday while walking in the middle of U.S. Highway 80 in Midland.

Craig Allen Wing, 23, died in a one-car rollover accident on a rural road in Comal County on Sunday after his car failed to negotiate a corner, authorities said.

The count officially began at 5 p.m. CST Wednesday and continued until 11 p.m. Sunday.

Beatrice Taylor, 42, of Houston died at 10 p.m. Sunday, the victim of a hit-and-run motorist. She was standing in a Houston street talking to someone when a car that was reportedly driven by a man hit her and sped away. Police arrested a suspect later in connection with the incident.

Three Austin residents were killed in separate one-vehicle accidents late Saturday and early Sunday, officials said.

Daniel Cory Jones, 23, was killed after his car struck the guard rail on a low-water crossing in north Travis County about 1:55 a.m. Sunday.

Charlie Gentry, 35, died of internal injuries suffered about 9:15 p.m. Saturday when his car hit a drainage ditch and rolled over in southwest Travis County, about one-half mile west of U.S. 183.

Steve's stuff

The joys of December

There are three things I like most about the month of December: Christmas, basketball season and high school playoffs; not necessarily in that order mind you.

Christmas is 28 days away, basketball season is just beginning and if you're talented like the Colorado City Wolves; you're in the state high school playoffs.

Colorado City earned the right to a match versus Littlefield for a regional championship title by virtue of last week's 20-12 win over Abilene Wylie. Believe me: it wasn't easy.

There were times when all seemed lost for the Wolves, but the team rallied behind the leadership of a young lad named Doug Chitsey.

Colorado City fulfilled the belief that experience will guide you through the rough times.

Colorado City faced some rough times in the rain Saturday afternoon. But the 22 seniors on a 27-man squad banded together to overcome the weather and the Wylie Bulldogs.

They say that all successful teams are strong on character. That Saturday afternoon Chitsey and the Wolves proved that are loaded with it.

Chitsey was the man of the hour. Not very many high school quarterbacks would have confidence in their passing if they had been intercepted three times in the first half.

But Chitsey is no ordinary high school quarterback. The heavily recruited signal-caller proved his worth by directing his team on a 93-yard scoring drive in two minutes' time right before the half, pulling his squad to within a touchdown.

At the start of the second half the Wolves character was really tested as Chitsey was intercepted twice more during their first two possessions, and the Wylie offense started to drive. Things started to look bad for C-City as the rains came down.

But that didn't stop C-City. The Wolves D, which displayed it's best effort in 13 years — according to defensive coach Rick Robinson — promptly squelched a possible Wylie scoring drive, giving the ball back to its offense.

This time Chitsey and crew made good on the effort and reeled off a 51-yard scoring drive. Chitsey completed two passes for 30 yards in the drive. The last toss was a bullet to a well-covered Armando Rivera from 11-yards out.

Then it was time for Don Randle, Wylie Stice and the rest of a swarming Wolves to take over. From then on a once-potent Wylie offense went into hibernation, as in this case until next season. The Bulldogs gained 50 yards the remainder of the contest.

It seemed only fitting that Chitsey get the final touchdown on rain-soaked Bobcat Stadium. His 39-yard TD run in the final quarter typified the entire Wolves team. At least half of the Wylie defensive team had a shot at him, but the mob seen after he crossed the goal line told the whole story. No wonder I like December so much.

HC conference opener a disaster

Lady Badgers surprise Queens

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

Howard Hawk-Queens coach Don Stevens would like to forget about last night's Western Junior College Athletic Conference opener against the Amarillo College Lady Badgers.

Why? Well for openers, the 12-3 Queens were blown away by the 8-5 visitors from the Panhandle 68-48. Second it was definitely Howard's worst overall game of the season; shooting and rebounding wise. Third the Queens committed a horrendous 20 turnovers.

The Queens hardly resembled a squad that had been beaten only twice going into the game, but a lot of the credit goes to a talented Lady Badgers squad led by post players Donna Condor and Debby Jones along with guard Georgia Walton.

The trio gave the Queens more than they bargained for as they combined for all but nine of their team's total points. The 6-6 Condor and the 6-2 Jones dominated the inside area for Amarillo while Walton ran the offense smoothly and surprisingly had a game-high 11 rebounds.

Jones ended the contest with a game-high 24 points, including 14 in the first half. Condor added 16 points and nine rebounds while Walton finished the night with 19 points. Time and time again she and her fellow guards would lob the ball to Jones and Condor for easy baskets over the flustered Queens defense.

It was not a typical Queens shooting night, it fact it was terrible. Normally a 50 percent shooting squad, Howard sunk just 18 of 62 attempts for 29 percent. It wasn't much better from the line: 12 of 23 attempts for 52 percent.

On the other hand Amarillo shot 49 percent from the floor and 67 percent from the line.

Howard leading scorer Joyce Boudreaux was held to a season-low 10 points, hitting 3 of 13 from the floor. Other top Howard scorers didn't fare much better: Sue Van Hooser was 2 of 7 while Alex Provenzio connected on 3 of 12 shots.

Amarillo dominated the boards, outrebounding Howard 46-33, including a commanding 29-12 advantage at the half. The Queens were fortunate to trail only 30-21 at the end of the first 20 minutes of play.

Amarillo's lead could be attributed to them getting eight offensive rebounds, five by the 5-7 Walton.

Howard never led in the contest and went without scoring the first 4:30 minutes of the game. Molly Early's jumper from the corner narrowed the AC lead to 8-2. Walton hit her third shot in-a-row and the AC lead was 13-4 with 13:25 left in the half. Howard made just two of their first 10 shots in the period.

The Queens pulled to within 25-19 at the two-minute mark when Boudreaux sunk a free throw, Van Hooser hit a basket and Lorri French got and steal and scored.

Then AC rallied for six unanswered points before French hit a jumper to cut the margin to 30-21 at intermission.

The second half started off like the first for the Queens, only this time it took them only three minutes to score. By the time Provenzio scored on a drive to the basket, AC led 36-23.

From that point the lead grew as Jones scored three baskets underneath and the margin bulged to 44-29 with 12:30 remaining in the contest. For all practical purposes the contest was over.

Boudreaux led the Queens in scoring and rebounding with 10 and nine respectively. Vickie Waid and French added eight points each.

The Queens next game will be Thursday versus Frank Phillips in Borger at 6 p.m.

EQUALS SEASON TOUCHDOWN PASS MARK — Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino (13) is congratulated by teammate Nat Moore (89) after he tied the season touchdown pass NFL record with 36 Monday night. Marino equalled Y.A. Tittle's record with three regular-season games remaining.

Marino passes Dolphins past Jets

MIAMI (AP) — Dan Marino passed for four touchdowns and tied the all-time National Football League record for scoring passes in a season as the Miami Dolphins rebounded from their only loss this year and beat the New York Jets 28-17 Monday night.

The four TD passes by the second-year man from Pittsburgh gave him 36 in 13 games, tying him with Y.A. Tittle of the 1963 New York Giants and George Blanda, who accomplished the feat with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League in 1961. Both Tittle and Blanda did it in 14 game. AFL records are recognized as official NFL marks.

All of Marino's touchdown passes were short ones. The longest was a 12-yarder to tight end Bruce Hardy that tied the record with 4:11 left in the third period and gave Miami a 28-17 lead.

He also threw a 5-yarder to Mark Clayton, a 7-yarder to Dan Johnson and a 1-yarder to Hardy with 15 seconds left in the half that gave Miami a 14-10 lead it never lost. A fifth TD pass, a 47-yard bomb to Clayton in the second period, was nullified by an illegal procedure penalty.

The win by the Dolphins, who trailed for most of the first half, gave them an 12-1 record and dropped the Jets, who lost their fifth straight, to 6-7. Miami had lost its first game a week ago, 34-28 in overtime to San Diego, but clinched the AFC East title last Thursday when second-place New England lost to Dallas.

The performance by Marino, who finished the night with 19 completions in 31 attempts for 192 yards, overshadowed a record-breaking night by New York's Freeman McNeil, the AFC's leading rusher. McNeil carried 24 times for 116 yards, giving him a season total of 1,028 yards to break John Riggins' single-season Jet mark of 1,005 set in 1975.

It was the first time in four NFL seasons that McNeil, who also caught a 28-yard touchdown pass from Ken O'Brien, has rushed for 1,000 yards.

Ironically, Marino's yardage total was his lowest since he threw for only 141 yards on Nov. 13, 1983 against New England.

Lady Steers come up short against Estacado

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

So close and yet so far away — it seems to be the chorus for the Big Spring Lady Steers as they look for their first win of the young basketball season.

The Lady Steers could not come up with the magic number as they dropped their fourth straight game of the season 43-41 to Lubbock Estacado in a dramatic finish at the Steer Gynasium Monday night.

The Lady Steers had the hometown crowd in the palm of their hands during the waning seconds of their matchup with the Class 4A rival Lady Mats.

The Lady Steers, who traded baskets and the lead with the taller Lubbock team much of the contest, missed on a last minute shot by senior Trell Clemons to end all hopes of tying up the game and sending it into overtime.

After the game, a disappointed and drained Big Spring head coach Carol Niemeyer said inexperience and youth were two of the key factors in the waning seconds.

The Lady Steers, trailing 40-37 with 2:18 left in the game, rallied back on two crucial free throws by junior Monique Jones to close the gap to 40-39. Seconds later Jones stole a Lady Mats pass and passed to Clemons, who put the Lady Steers ahead 41-40 with a driving shot.

The Lady Mats answered on a bucket by Glenda Taylor to retake the lead 42-41 after a Estacado timeout.

It was then that Coach Niemeyer called a time out and the Lady Steers regrouped. Following the timeout, the Big Spring team worked the ball downcourt passing the ball back and forth in a semi-stall. However, a missed pass by Alice Lopez ended in a backcourt violation and the Lady Steers hopes for a victory almost vanished.

Clemons fouled Glenda Taylor seconds after the inbound pass and the Lady Mats player hit the first one-on-one free throw. Taylor missed the second shot and Clemons snared the rebound and Niemeyer promptly called time out to ready the Lady Steers for a last minute shot and a possible overtime game.

But such was not the case as Clemons missed on a last-second shot to end the game. Estacado's Clarence Taylor was foul as time ran out; but missed on the free throw. But it was a shot the Lady Mats did not need as they upped their record to 2-1 for the year.

"This is the second close game we played we should have won," Niemeyer said after the game. "Getting back on defense was a problem we had tonight. That's something we will have to work on."

Postman Glenda Taylor gave the Lady Steers fits in the first half by posting low and taking passes from the Lubbock guards. Taylor had 10 points at halftime and 16 for the game to lead all scorers. Taylor also led all rebounders with 11.

The taller Taylor's inside game was shut down in the second half when the Lady Steers went from their 2-3 defense to a box-and-one zone defense, Niemeyer said. The game was tied 26-26 at halftime.

Jones, whose inside offensive play kept the Lady Steers in the game, led Big Spring with 14 points and six rebounds. Clemons, who had a cold shooting-hand, finished the night with 12 points and eight rebounds.

Sheri Myrick also scored in double figures hitting four field goals and two free throws for 10 points. Sherri Conwright was the only other Lady Mats player to hit in double figures with 10 points.

The Lady Steers will travel to San Angelo Friday for the San Angelo Lake View Maidens

Hawks run out of gas versus Amarillo

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

The bottom line in the Howard Hawks 78-65 loss to the Amarillo College Badgers came from a lack of energy.

The Hawks, playing with only seven men on their roster, found the going tough in the latter

...24 points

minutes of their Western Junior College Athletic Conference opener last night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Coach Ed Sparling's troops played on even terms with the undefeated Badgers for 23 minutes of the game, then fatigue took over as AC rolled to its ninth win of the season.

At the time of their downfall, the contest was tied 45-45 with 17 minutes remaining in the half. But the dam that the determined Hawks held tight to busted and the Badgers took advantage of the weary Hawks play.

In the next four minutes the Badgers would run off a 12-4 spree to take a 57-49 lead. A lead Howard would never overcome.

"We just ran out of gas," said a disappointed Sparling. "You just can't play with six or seven players. First your shooting touch goes, then you lose a step and you can't react on defense. We gave them some easy baskets and had to play catch up which is brutal when you're tired."

Howard played like champs in the first half as they took a quick 9-2 lead and never trailed in the period. Howard led 41-39 at intermission.

Michael Porter and Joe Burney got Howard on the right track as Burney connected on two jumpers, Porter completed a three-point play and Bruce Kimble collected a steal which he promptly slammed home.

The Hawks sunk 9 of 17 shots in the first 10 minutes of play and led 21-9 after Walt Reynolds got a steal, passed to Kimble; who went the length of the court for the score.

Howard pushed its lead to 23-13 a few minutes later on a Porter basket.

Much of Howard's opening success goes to the defense, which held

AC leading scorer Andrew Kennedy scoreless the first 11 minutes of the game.

But the 6-7 sophomore forward from Jamaica would heat up in due time as he scored four baskets the remainder of the half. In the second half he would do even better; sinking six of 10 shots and ending the night with 22 points and 10 rebounds.

...7 of 15 from floor

He along with fellow forward Steve Dailey gave the Hawks fits. Dailey scored 11 of his 19 points in the first half.

The Badgers blew the game open after Howard narrowed the lead to 51-49 at the 14:40 mark when Porter hit his second jumper in-a-row. Porter played his usual consistent game, leading all scorers with 24 points and hauling down seven rebounds from his point guard position.

But after his second basket the Badgers went on a tear that saw them outscore the Hawks 15-6 in a five-minute span.

That turned out to be the final stake that would kill Howard.

Howard ended the night shooting 40 percent from the field, including a dismal 30 percent in the second half. Meanwhile the Badgers connected on 35 of 57 attempts for a hot 61 percent.

Sparling says his team will just have to handle the adversities that get in their way. "Being tired is a mental thing, we'll just have to face reality with seven players, get over the hump until we get some more players. One thing about it, these guys don't quit, quitting is not in their vocabulary."

Howard, now 4-5 for the season; will face Frank Phillips in Borger Thursday at 8 p.m. tourney. Big Spring, who will spend the weekend in San Angelo, will face Lake View in the opener at 4 p.m. Friday. The next game for Big Spring will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. The Lady Steers will face either Lamesa or San Angelo Central in that contest.

JUNIOR VARSITY ACTION

The Lady Steers junior varsity evened its record to 1-1 for the season after posting a 63-26 victory over an overmatched Lubbock Estacado team.

Leading the way for the Big Spring team were sophomores Monica Lockridge with 21 points, Sheila Chatman with 16, and junior Amanda Solis with 11.

The Lady Steers JV squad will battle Borden County in the opening game of the Sands varsity tournament Thursday. The Lady Steers will play at 3:30 p.m. The only Big Spring loss has been to Sweetwater this year, said JV Coach Elaine Stone.

The Lady Steers had the hot hand during the first half shooting a remarkable 88 percent from the field, Stone said. They took a commanding 36-7 lead in at halftime. Big Spring cooled off in the second half shooting 56 percent from the floor. The Lady Steers finished the night shooting 44 percent from three free throw line.

Other scorers for Big Spring were freshman Yolonda Green with 6 points, Melinda Berkley with 4, Priscilla Banks with 4, and Lori Gonzales with 1.

The top Lady Mats scorers were Tonya Thompson with 14 points and Sheila Turman with 5.

BIG SPRING — Monique Jones 5-4-14; Trell Clemons 6-0-12; Sheri Myrick 4-2-10; Lisa Hale 1-0-2; Alice Lopez 1-0-2; Teresa Pruitt 0-1-1. TOTALS — 17-41.

KICK BALL — N.C. State University's (10) Nate McMillan kicks a loose ball away from University of California-Santa Barbara's Bruce Hanna (44) during first half action Monday night in Reynolds Coliseum. North Carolina State won 93-70.

Tisdale paces Sooners in win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — All-American Wayman Tisdale scored 29 points and grabbed a career-high 22 rebounds as fifth-ranked Oklahoma drilled Arkansas-Little Rock, 90-63, Monday night.

The win gave the Sooners a school-record 18 straight home victories extending over the last two seasons. The previous record was set during the 1927-28-29 seasons.

College

The game, which took nearly two hours to complete, was slowed by 54 personal fouls.

Oklahoma had three other players in double figures: Tim McCalister with 13, David Johnson with 13 and Anthony Bowie with 12.

Arkansas-Little Rock, coached by former Oklahoma assistant Mike Newell, got 18 points from Michael Clark, 13 from Pete Myers and 11 from Ken Worthing.

Oklahoma improved to 2-1 while Arkansas-Little Rock fell to 0-2.

Georgetown 74

HONOLULU (AP) — Bill Martin scored 14 points to lead top-ranked Georgetown to a 74-45 college basketball victory Monday night over Hawaii Loa College.

Hawaii Loa's Derrick Dell hit a jump shot to tie the score, 4-4, with 16:41 remaining in the first half, and then the defending NCAA champion Hoyas went to work.

Using a full-court press which surprised the young NAIA team, Georgetown built a 21-10 lead with about eight minutes left in the half.

Georgetown, 2-0, allowed the Mongoose, 2-1, only two shots, both misses, for more than seven minutes until Hawaii Loa's Scott Boves ended the drought with a basket.

Arizona St. 70

Angelo St. 57

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Freshman Chris Sandle and sophomore guard Bobby Thompson led a balanced Arizona State scoring attack as the Sun Devils opened their basketball season with a 70-57 non-conference win over Angelo State Monday night.

Sandle led the Devils with 13 points and Thompson added nine, eight of which came in the final seven minutes of the game.

Kenny Smith led Angelo State, a Division II school, with 19 points. The Sun Devils owned a 50-49 lead with 7:23 left in the game.

Thompson then led an ASU rally which saw the Sun Devils outscore the Rams 8-2 over the next three minutes.

ASU led at halftime 30-25.

New Mexico 64

Texas Southern 63

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Guard Kelvin Scarborough's two free throws with 12 seconds left enabled New Mexico to hold off Texas Southern, 64-63, in college basketball Monday night.

Texas Southern led throughout the first half — by as many as nine points — but New Mexico rallied in the second half behind the scoring of Scarborough, forward Hunter Greene and freshman center Shawn Brooks.

Brooks led the Lobos with 13 points while Scarborough and Greene each scored 12. Guard Lester Brooks paced Texas Southern with 14 points, but 12 of them came in the first half when the Tigers controlled the boards and forced New Mexico into a running game.

Lamar 85

Southwest Texas 75

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Lamar University forward Karl McCauley poured in 20 points and guard Punit Wilson added 16 as the Cardinals defeated Southwest Texas State 85-75 Monday night in non-conference basketball play.

The Cardinals never trailed and led by 24 with 7:57 left after Greg Anderson's two free throws made the score 72-48.

Southwest Texas, making its debut in Division I basketball, got 16 points from junior guard Tim Ford and 14 points from forward Ray Danielak.

Lamar, now 1-1, got 14 rebounds from 6-foot-8-inch, 284-pound freshman James Guley.

Colts Dickey charged with assault on wife

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Curtis Dickey, running back for the Indianapolis Colts, has been charged with battery in the beating of his estranged wife, according to a Marion County deputy prosecutor.

A complaint was signed Monday by Dickey's wife, Sheila, following an incident at the woman's northeast apartment, said deputy prosecutor Cynthia J. Ayres.

Mrs. Dickey was treated at St. Vincent Hospital for a broken ear drum. If convicted, Dickey could be sentenced to one year in jail and fined $5,000.

However, Ayres said in cases like this, where the alleged attacker has no previous criminal record, the prosecutor's office normally recommends that charges be dropped if he completes a counseling program.

Dickey, who was not at the Colts' practice Monday, was not available for comment. Coach Frank Kush had no comment on the incident.

Schoolboy playoffs

Lee, Permian headed for another showdown

By The Associated Press
Midland Lee and Ossa Permian keep rolling toward an expected showdown in Region 1 of the Class 5A schoolboy football playoffs — while Houston Madison keeps dodging lightning.

Undefeated Madison had to hold off a furious rally by Houston Yates to take a 21-19 Class 5A schoolboy football playoff victory over Yates Friday night.

In other Class 5A action, Midland Lee walloped El Paso Andress, 41-6; Euless Trinity beat Denton, 24-14; Richland whipped Irving Nimitz, 28-7; Highland Park upset previously unbeaten Plano, 17-7; Bryan defeated Conroe McCullough, 21-7; Houston Sterling edged Houston Spring Woods, 26-21; Converse Judson slipped past Austin Reagan, 7-6; Edinburg managed to clip San Antonio Sam Houston, 15-7; and San Antonio Highland took a 33-24 victory over Corpus Christi Miller.

Ossa Permian downed El Paso Austin 56-0 in Class 5A playoffs

Saturday. Other 5A matchups Saturday featured Wilmer Hutchins losing 7-6 to Plano East, Temple losing to Conroe 7-6, Beaumont French defeating LaPorte 48-19.

Madison grabbed a 21-0 lead midway through the third period, but backup quarterback Charles Price came off the bench to pass for 118 yards and set up three short scoring runs by Clarence King to move Yates to within two points at 21-19 with 6:10 remaining on the Houston Astrodome clock.

Jarrod Delaney finally ended the Yates rally with a pass interception with 1:31 remaining. He managed to return to ball to the Lions 13-yard line.

Madison quarterback Ronald Jiles passed for 101 yards to push his season passing yardage to 1,734 yards. He also had one scoring pass.

Halfback Charles Perry rushed for 115 yards and scored three touchdowns.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV., 28, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to get busy with the various interesting vocational and personal outlets which now fascinate you, but it is necessary that you be prepared for some delays and obstacles in your path.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Some business affair may deter you from carrying through with a personal plan you had in mind during the day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You have fine ideas about credit affairs but a demanding partner keeps you from handling them until the early evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You have to get work completed before you can get into new interests, so do just that. Try to make new contacts.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): You may have to postpone doing something you had planned because a charmer comes into the scene.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): Even though you have to attend to home affairs, try to come to an agreement with one in the outside world.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You may find that an emergency may arise that will keep you from handling your work conscientiously, so handle it quickly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Handle those affairs that give you good ideas for getting ahead faster in the future. Be happy at home in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A good day to have that postponed discussion with kin and plan the future much better. Don't neglect to get your utility bills paid.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Get at the motives behind the actions of associates and then you know exactly how to handle them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): An inspired idea comes to you by which you can gain more success, but later you meet with a delay.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You could be stopped temporarily in some new course of activity because of the jealousy on the part of another.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't give in to that temptation to go after something you know nothing about, and spend time getting rid of irritations.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have much ability at getting an early start on the career and do very well, but upon reaching maturity could meet with some limitations which will have to be overcome before the big success denoted in this chart can take place. One who will learn lessons very well.

Parks board declines new site

Public works head urges restraint in expanding program

By KEELY COGHLAN
 Staff Writer

Parks and Recreation Board members put further acquisition of new city parks on hold Monday night until they are able to develop a long-range plan for the city's park system.

Members of the advisory board were considering accepting the donation of a small area in the Capehart Addition as a park, but tabled the decision after a discussion with City Public Works Director Tom Decell.

Decell urged parks board members to study the allocation of resources in the parks system before committing any more dollars in maintenance to new parks.

Decell reminded members that the city recently had declined to accept a donated fitness course for the Birdwell street area, although the city would have to provide only the cost of installation and maintenance.

"We need to concentrate our efforts on improving what we have, making the best of what we have," Decell told board members. "You need to take a jaundiced look at the outlying areas and see if they meet the needs of the city."

Decell said the city had handball, tennis and basketball courts in the area. Members, he said, need to decide "where best to spend their limited dollar. At budget time, the last dollar to be allocated will be in this area" because the city is required to provide other services like water, sewer and garbage pickup.

Board member Tina Arguello agreed with the rest of the board to place a moratorium on acquiring new parkland, but cautioned members to take a look at the locations of most city parks.

"Our best parks are located in the best parts of town. We need to make sure we don't neglect the poorer parts of town. In many ways, these people need parks more," Mrs. Arguello said.

Board members also agreed to advertise for a caretaker couple to take care of the tennis and community center because they were unable to attract a tennis pro. The couple would be provided free rent and utilities in a house on the park grounds.

• Park board members voted, with one abstention, to support plans for drag boat races on Moss Creek Lake.

Representatives of the Southern Drag Boat Racing Association of Houston have requested the construction of another boat ramp at the opposite end of the lake and permission to sell beer during the three-day race, Decell told the board.

Mrs. Arguello voted against the motion, which said the races had "100 percent" of the board's support, because the item was not on the agenda. Any vote on the issue, she said, would be a violation of the Texas Open Meetings Act.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Noel Hull shows the large and varied collection of holiday greeting cards available at Hester's. Your cards can be personalized for $2.00 per box. Hester's does the work on the premises and offers two-day service.

Hester's Makes Your Gift Shopping Easier

Communicate your Christmas sentiments this year with greeting cards and gifts from the wide selection at Hester's, 209 Runnels.

Christmas card designs by Drawing Board include frolicing Santas, religious themes, snow scenes, kittens and humorous. Have them personalized for just $2.00 a box; Hester's does the work themselves and offers two-day service.

Quality Rubber Stamp Manufacturing Co., is now located on the premises. This service provides custom rubber stamps for all occasions - any design, word, address - in any size. (Think of the gift possibilities). Choose from 14 different sizes of letters. Hester's offers one-or two-day service - and has stocked the new Rainbow Stamp Pad (4 colors!) for Christmas.

Bibles are always a cherished gift. Hester's selection includes King James, Living Bible, new American Standard, reference and study bibles, and versions in large print. Bibles can be personalized free of charge.

One of the most unusual gifts is a series of desk accessories by Lasercraft - made of fine woods with intricate scenes from nature sculptured with a laser. The items include everything from desk pads to paper clip holder, to digital clock, and even a ruler. Each is a work of art.

Teenagers would love photo albums or large newspaper-page sized scrapbooks to hold school memorabilia. Name can be imprinted at no charge.

Other gift suggestions are a calligraphy set (pen, practice book and instructions); a set of dominoes and markers with the book "Texas Style: How to Play & Win"; Texas Cookbook, filled with regional recipes and bits of history, even the World's Smallest Stapler, 1-inch long with refills.

For your shopping convenience, Hester's will be open from 9 to 5:30, including Saturday. But they will be closed all day December 24, so don't forget to pick up your gifts left for personalization or free gift wrap.
