Budget in deep freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, freezing some programs while deep freezing others, is tentatively calling for elimination of federal revenue sharing for the states and phasing out subsidies for mass transportation as part of a plan to slash domestic spending by nearly $34 billion next year.

Reagan's decisions, reviewed with his Cabinet on Wednesday and later shared with Republican members of Congress, would freeze spending for the 1986 fiscal year at current levels for hundreds of federal programs.

Federal employees would be forced to take a 5 percent pay cut under the plan tentatively approved by the president, said sources who spoke on condition they not be

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Reagan administration proposals to sharply scale back agricultural price supports and loan levels would have a broad and possibly "devastating" effect on many Texas farmers, according to farm representatives and analysts.

However, they doubted that the full-scale cut-backs, aimed at lowering the federal deficit, could clear Congress.

The proposals, which would cut government payments to farmers in half from the $14.4 billion level for 1985, would have the heaviest impact on wheat and rice farmers, according to Claiborn Crain, agricultural specialist with the Texas Office of State Federal Relations in Washington.

The reductions also would cut into already hard-hit cotton farmers, but would have a less damaging effect in Texas in the area of feed grains, the fourth basic commodity group represented in government farm programs, he said.

"Right now, we are in the worst shape on wheat and rice," said Crain. He said the large oversupply of those crops would cause the biggest drop in price if the federal price supports were removed.

"In feed grains, it's more of a two-way street," said Crain. "The livestock producers would like to see the lower price (for feed grains)."

veterans' retirement benefits, railroad retirement and black lung payments, the sources said.

Firemen make push for civil service plan

By KEELY COGHLAN

Big Spring fire fighters have started the groundwork to petition for a city referendum to institute civil service policies and procedures in the city's fire and police departments.

Union members of the Association of Professional Fire Fighters Local No. 2292 have investigated the civil service program and will ask for a petition from the city secretary sometime in January, Local president John Branham said.

If the petition is successful, the city would be required to include the issue on the ballot for the April municipal elections, Branham said.

Before civil service reforms can be instituted, Big Spring residents would have to approve a referendum calling for the fire department to comply with civil service laws.

Although Branham said the union is "100 percent" behind the move to civil service, Fire Chief Carl Dorton said Tuesday afternoon he would not endorse the drive for civil service but would not block it, either.

"I won't support it in any way, shape or form," Dorton said. "As long as (the campaign and petition drive) does not interfere with the way the department is run, I'm going to stay out of it."

Civil service would provide department members with job security, Branham said.

"It would provide job security by having rules and regulations and

Cops quiet on reforms

Although members of the Big Spring firefighters' union are beginning a campaign to institute civil service reforms in both the city's fire and police departments, no clear spokesman for the reforms has emerged among police officers.

"I don't want to get involved in fire department business," Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner said Tuesday. He said he would not comment on the drive for civil service by the Big Spring Professional Firefighters Local No. 2292.

None of his men in the police department had talked to him about instituting civil service, Turner said.

"I don't feel civil service would benefit the police department," Turner said. "I'm not getting involved in what the fire department is doing."

According to Local No. 2292 President John Branham, members of the fire fighters' union have spoken to most members of the police department.

"Most of them have said they support it."

job descriptions in black-and-white," Branham said. "It would take the politics out of the department and enable them to progress on their own merits. It ties out hands as well.

"We're trying to take the 'politics' out of promotional exams and preferential duty," he said. "A lot of promotions are not going to the most qualified persons."

Dorton said he has mixed emotions about civil service after he studied civil service reforms seven years when department members were considering asking for the program. "It helps and it hurts," he said. "It limits us (the administration) and the men."

"I don't know how you can take the politics out of anything. There are politics in passing the first grade," Dorton said. "By 'taking the politics out of it,' you'll hurt the department. You'll destroy the system."

"There are a lot of men who could run the department but could not write a decent memo. There are a lot who write a decent memo but couldn't run the department," Dorton said.

Specific complaints about the department's promotions system include the way exams are weighted. Written exams count 60 percent and an oral interview 40 percent in promotions, Branham said.

"You could make 100 percent on the written and they could fail you on the oral," he said.

Problems also include inconsistent grading and scoring of tests and changes in testing procedures and rules "at administrators' See Firemen page 2-A

Although a high-powered lobby effort is aiming for revisions in the Texas Blue Law, Police Chief Rick Turner says locally that the law is still in effect and violators will be asked to shut down their stores on Sunday.

Big-name Texas stores that want to open on Sunday could succeed in erasing the Blue Law, says a prime backer of the controversial law.

In Houston, almost 280 stores opened Sunday in open defiance of the law. Big Spring city officials in past years have asked several stores to close their doors on Sunday. Turner did not cite any of the stores violating the law.

The Blue Law forbids the sale of 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, including home, business and office furniture, clothing, home appliances, cameras, tools, jewelry, watches, luggage,

Osborne said he isn't expecting any trouble. "We just want to make sure people are aware of the law."

"With all the controversy in the state we just want to let the local people know that the Blue Law is still valid," he said.

LeRoy Tillery, executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "I haven't talked to any merchants about their plans of being opened or not" on Sundays.

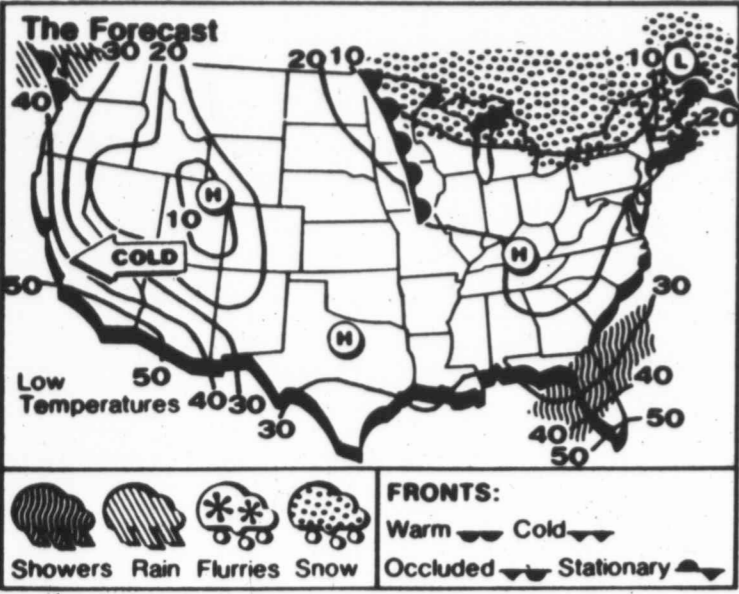

Tillery said a number of local merchants "are opposed to being opened seven days a week. It increases their cost of doing business. It complicates their lives by trying to get people to work seven days a week."

The "high-powered lobbyists" have been hired by Texans for Blue Law Repeal Inc., a non-profit corporation formed by Joske's, Target, K-Mart, Kroger, Eckerd Drugs, Revco Discount Drug Centers and Zales Jewelers.

"I'd say we have a problem this time," said Tom Blanton, Texas Automobile Dealers Association vice president for legislative affairs. "They've never had this battery of high-powered lobbyists surrounding the Capitol before."

Chuckles Gang laughs it up

Crane catering service serves food, fun for everyone

CRANE (AP) — A meal for a large meeting or charity benefit was nearly always a problem in this town of about 4,600 people about 32 miles south of Odessa.

Scheduling out-of-town catering services proved difficult, and the cost was high.

But recently, an informal organization has helped overcome the problem. It isn't a club, just a gang — the Chuckles Gang.

"Every member is a president. We have it on our shirts," County Judge Charles Blue, a charter member of the group, said recently.

"We are very loosely organized, if at all," he said.

The Chuckles Gang served its 17th event in two years recently when the Crane County Chamber of Commerce Banquet was held, Blue said. During that feed, Blue added, the number of people who have stood in Chuckles Gang serving lines topped the 5,000 mark.

Blue explained that off-beat practices are normal for this group, which functioned for several months before it even had a name.

In the spring of 1982, a Crane charity was planning its second annual dinner theater and wanted to make sure food costs didn't eat into profits.

So a group of men — no one remembers exactly how many — got together and planned steak, potatoes and salad for 320 people, Blue recalled. The benefit resulted in about 75 percent profit, and 100 percent fun, the county judge recalled.

About five months later, the same group of men — more or less — got together to prepare barbecue for Fiesta '85, Crane's birthday celebration, he said.

"What is this group — the Chuckles Gang?" said someone waiting in the serving line. Blue said the name, a take-off on

ALL IN GOOD TASTE — Charley Hycbe (left) and Garland Hensley (center) try to talk Billy de Butler to do his "bull" impression. The three men belong to the Chuckles Gang, an informal catering organization and service in Crane.

Odessa's Chuck Wagon Gang, has been with the group ever since.

The county judge said the Chuckles Gang owes what little organization it has to one factor — the need for a name.

There are no membership requirements and no formal roll call — just a list that varies depending on dropouts and new enrollees, Blue said.

"We didn't want to be a regular club, with officers, dues and all that."

The group keeps no guidelines for what events it will serve. Each function is considered as it comes up, said Crane County Commissioners Billy Irl Butler. Blue said Butler is the group's "ramrod."

Butler noted that guidelines previously drawn up were discarded when they became too restrictive. "Sometimes the majority would want to serve an activity, but (the event) didn't fit within the guidelines. So we just threw the guidelines in the can," he said.

Now, if an organization wants an event catered, they can bring it to the attention of one of the members. That member usually calls Blue's office. The county judge said he and his secretary then set up a meeting to consider the project.

And the Chuckles Gang is not overloaded with members who would rather plan than work.

In fact, Blue said planning sessions usually have a low attendance. "Many more show up when it's time to work." Time for work equates with time for fun, he added.

Gang members build the barbecue fires the night before an event. That's also the time for preparing salads.

Tending the fires can result in some all-night domino playing and a little sampling of the food, Blue admitted.

When the group chooses a project, "someone" from the gang orders the food from a Crane grocery, charging it to the organization to be served, Blue said.

"We seldom give a per plate cost," said Blue. "We want to stay non-profit."

whims," Branham said. Advancement in civil service would be based on a written test, with 10 percent based on quarterly marks from the firefighter's immediate supervisor. Employees also would be given one point for every year they have worked with the department, up to 10 years, Branham said.

Dorton said the department had "advanced in leaps and bounds in the last four years" by implementing testing for promotions. Before, promotions were awarded on the basis of seniority only, he said.

The union "is jumping the gun" in campaigning for civil service before Dorton has finished preparing written policy guidelines for the department, he said.

"I understand their concerns for job security. I felt it, too. One of the biggest problems of the department has is that there is no one set rule for everybody," Dorton said.

Branham said the union has waited two months for the policy statements. "As long as it's not down in 'black-and-white,' there will continue to be a double standard," he said.

"The No. 1 thing — they've said this and I'm no fool — they want job security. I'm not opposed to that. I want that myself," Dorton said. "They want stricter guidelines for hiring and firing. It's kind of funny but when my guidelines come out, they'll be close to the civil service guidelines."

"I think they feel they will be fired unjustly. That's a crock. Anybody that knows me knows that's not going to happen," Dorton said. "I don't feel like I've had a chance to show my stuff. What they would see from me would be good if they would give me a chance."

Blue law

lawmakers told them it would take a coordinated effort to win repeal of the law. Lobbyists Dick Brown and Galt Graydon will lead the Capitol fight.

"Their other earlier efforts were futile. They spent a lot of individual corporate time for no purpose," Brown said of previous repeal efforts.

Representatives of the seven companies were either at a Tuesday private meeting here or participated by conference call, according to Brown.

Peter Larkin, spokesman for Kroger, said: "The law is very difficult and confusing. Our problem is it's very difficult to determine what we can sell and what we cannot sell."

Larkin was on hand later Tuesday at a closed-door meeting where the Texas Retailers Association affirmed its support for the Blue Law. Mickey Moore, the association's executive vice president, said about 75 percent of the 1,500 members like the law.

The retailers association and the Texas Automobile Dealers Association have led fights in the past against repeal efforts.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, who has heretofore supported the state's Sunday closing law, now says he thinks a proposal for repeal stands a better than even chance in 1985.

"He thinks it either ought to be enforced or repealed," said Dick Merkel, Lewis' press secretary.

But neither Lewis, Gov. Mark White or Lieutenant Gov. Bill Hobby has taken a firm public stand on the issue.

In Houston, the Retail Merchants Association filed lawsuits Monday against three businesses — including one of its members — that it claims defied the Blue Law last Sunday.

The suits name as defendants the Eckerdt drugstore chain and the Siegel's and Toys-N-More stores in Deauville Mall in Spring, Texas.

Tom Conner, merchants' group attorney, said the suit against Eckerdt's, an RMA member, was filed in response to merchants who have claimed the group selectively enforces the law.

"Eckerdt's was such a rallying cry for those (anti-Blue Law) merchants, we wanted to make it crystal clear that the Retail Merchants Association does not play favorites," Conner said Monday.

Budget

The Community Development Block Grant Program, would be cut back dramatically, and one source said the federal program of farm price supports would be cut by half over three years.

Still other programs, such as revenue sharing, the Legal Services Corp., Amtrak and other transportation subsidies and the Jobs Corps would be eliminated or phased out over several years. The Urban Development Action Grant program would be phased out, for example, as would the federal subsidy for the Postal Service.

One congressman briefed by Budget Director David Stockman said Social Security wasn't affected by the president's plan. But sources said the Department of Housing and Urban Development was targeted.

Drug aids stroke victims

NEW YORK — The lives of many of the 164,000 people who die annually of strokes might be saved with injections of a drug that apparently lets the brain reorganize itself and recover after stroke damage occurs, according to a study published today.

The drug, a synthetic version of one of three kinds of opiumlike chemicals that occur naturally in the brain, reduces the severity of strokes without reducing the size of the damaged area in the brain, said the authors of the study.

"If that's the case, the next line of thinking would be that it allows the brain to reorganize itself and survive," said one of the authors, Nancy Lee, a pharmacologist at the University of California in San Francisco.

El Nino gets libeled

SAN FRANCISCO — El Nino, a disruptive weather pattern that struck the Pacific Ocean in 1982-83, was blamed for about $6 billion in damage it didn't do, including worldwide droughts, floods and fires, according to a disputed federal study.

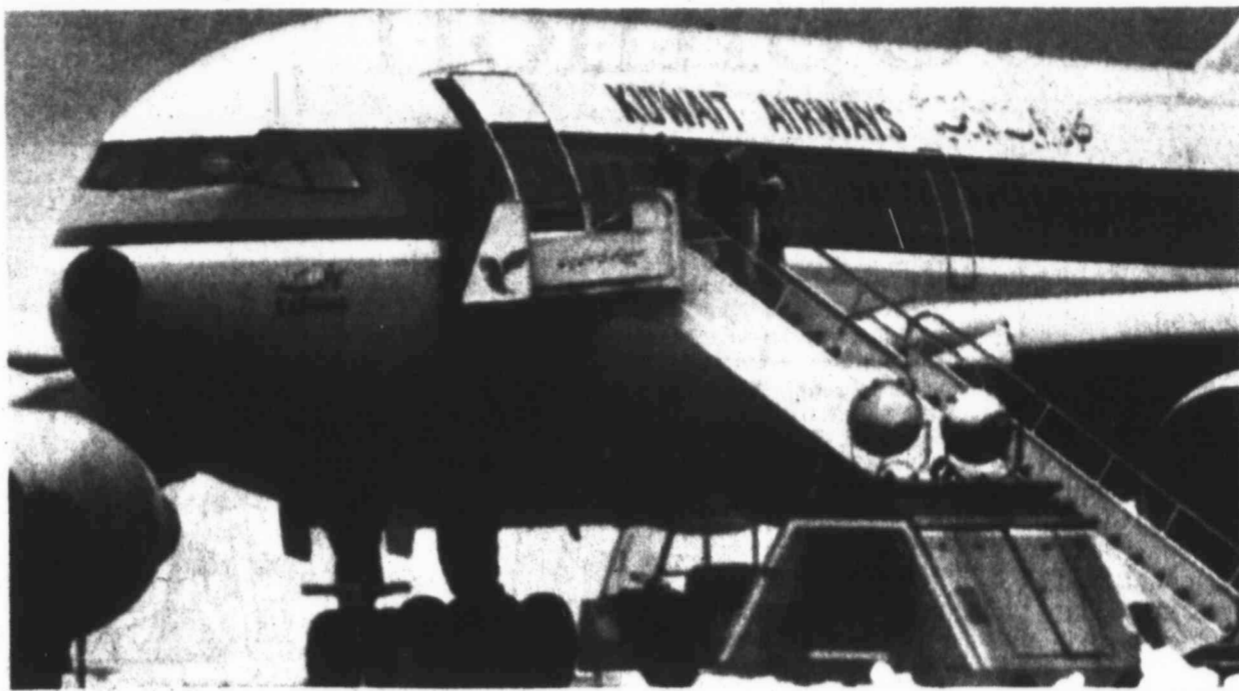

The National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration last year used reports from storm- or drought-ravaged nations to estimate that El Nino killed about 1,500 people and inflicted more than $8 billion in global destruction. That included an estimated $2.2 billion in damage from California storms and flooding in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Area publisher promoted

NEW YORK — Two Hearst newspaper publishers have been promoted as a result of the company's acquisition of several publications of The Jefferson-Pilot Co., Hearst Corp. president and chief executive officer Frank A. Bennack Jr. said Wednesday.

George B. Irish, currently publisher of the Midland (Texas) Reporter-Telegram, has been named publisher of the Beaumont (Texas) Enterprise, one of the newspapers Hearst purchased from Jefferson-Pilot, Bennack said.

Charles A. Spence, currently publisher of the Midland (Mich.) Daily News, has been named to succeed Irish as publisher of the Midland, Texas, paper.

CLASH — A clash erupted inside the hijacked Kuwaiti airliner here today. Following the clash hijackers admitted a photographer to get inside the plane to take photos of the incident.

Terror in Tehran

Hijackers reportedly kill two more hostages

By The Associated Press

Hijackers holding a jetliner at Tehran airport today killed at least two more passengers and renewed their threats to kill Americans on the plane, Iran's official media reported.

The officials Iranian news agency said the hijackers, who had killed one passenger and wounded an on-board security guard shortly after they commandeered the Kuwait Airways plane Tuesday, today killed two more passengers.

Tehran radio also said two passengers were killed today, but it was not clear if both agencies were referring to the same two killings or if there had been a third.

There was no information on the identity of the latest victims other than an Islamic Republic News Agency report that the first victim killed today was a Kuwaiti.

The five Arabic-speaking hijackers earlier said the passenger killed Tuesday was an American diplomat, but the U.S. State Department said there was no confirmation of that report.

Today's killings reportedly followed demands by the hijackers that the pilot and co-pilot, apparently suffering from exhaustion, be replaced.

The hijackers today allowed food to be delivered to the plane for the first time since landing in Tehran. They also allowed a medical team and a cleaning crew on board after the first reported killing today but before the most recent.

Members of a cleaning crew were quoted by IRNA as saying the roughly 90 hostages still on board — the hijackers earlier released 67, mostly women and children — were tied to their seats with ropes.

The U.S. State Department said at least five Americans were among the passengers when the jetliner was hijacked en route from Kuwait to Pakistan, including two women who were released and three officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

The hijackers have demanded the release of prisoners in Kuwait.

According to IRNA, the cleaners saw two men on the floor behind the cockpit but could not tell whether they were dead or alive. A photographer the hijackers asked to take photos of the two men on the floor said he saw the men but was not allowed near them.

Tehran radio quoted the photographer as saying he saw only two hijackers and both "had their faces covered."

Man kills political figure

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A gunman firing from a speeding car today assassinated the top rival to the mayor of Soweto, South Africa's largest black township, as the victim's caravan motored through Soweto's streets, police said.

Councilman Edward Manyosi, chairman of the Soweto Management Committee, was shot in the head and body by one of four men in a car that sped past the convoy about 1 a.m., said the police spokesman, Brig. J.J. Viktor.

The killing took place hours before the Soweto Township Council was to hold a meeting at which Manyosi was expected to challenge the leadership of Mayor Ephraim Tshabalala.

GB passes China accord

LONDON — The House of Commons has unanimously approved the accord turning over Hong Kong, the world's third largest financial center, to Communist China in 1997, when Britain's lease on the crown colony expires.

But despite a chorus of "ayes" Wednesday night following a six-hour debate, several British legislators questioned whether the agreement adequately guaranteed that those among Hong Kong's 5.5 million people who wanted to leave would be able to do so.

The minister of the Foreign Office of State, Richard Luce, rejected calls for Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government to approach Commonwealth and NATO countries to help resettle those who want to leave.

9 militants killed in clash

NOUMEA, New Caledonia — The French administration of this Pacific territory said nine militant natives were killed and several wounded today in a clash with white settlers. Police said settlers ambushed the militants and hurled dynamite at them.

Among those reported killed were two brothers of Jean-Marie Tjibaou, leader of the Kanak Socialist National Liberation Front which has declared a provisional government and is seeking independence from France. The natives of the island group east of Australia are known as Kanaks.

31 bodies found in mine blast

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Rescue workers today uncovered 31 bodies of miners crushed in a coal mine shaft near Taipei that collapsed after an explosion, the third major mine disaster in Taiwan in six months.

The discovery of the bodies, piled in crumpled rail cars that had been transporting them into the mine, brought the death toll to 33 from the explosion Wednesday.

Police said 61 miners remained trapped in the mine, probably about a mile under the surface, and said the chances of finding them alive were slim because of carbon monoxide accumulations in the mine shaft.

Radio stations, quoting unidentified rescuers, said radio communications with the trapped miners had suddenly ceased. The radio broadcasts could not immediately be confirmed.

Families of the trapped miners, many weeping and praying, gathered in a light rain at a temporary shelter set up by the mine company.

The 8,200-foot-deep Haishan Yikeng Mine, in Shansha about 16 miles southwest of Taipei, is among Taiwan's deepest.

Two bodies were recovered and one worker was rescued about 600 feet into the shaft Wednesday after the explosion.

Carbide Corp. head refused plant entry

BHOPAL, India (AP) — The head of Union Carbide Corp. arrived today to inspect the area where a leak of poisonous gas from a company pesticide plant killed at least 1,267 people. Indian officials reportedly refused to let him enter the sealed and guarded plant.

Union Carbide chairman Warren Anderson flew to Bhopal from Bombay, where he discussed compensation for victims of Monday's leak of methyl isocyanate gas.

But the government of Madhya Pradesh state barred Anderson and a team of U.S. technical experts from entering the Union Carbide plant in Bhopal, United News of India reported. The news agency quoted an unidentified government official as saying the Americans were denied entry because the plant was sealed to prevent any tampering with evidence.

Press Trust of India reported that detectives from the Central Bureau of Investigation seized all log books and documents pertaining to storage and release of gas at the plant.

Return speed limits to states

A new federal report confirms what most Americans have known for years: The nationwide 55-mile-per-hour speed limit saves lives as well as gasoline.

Imposed during the Arab oil embargo of 1974, the 55-mph limit is credited with saving more than 30,000 lives during the decade — between 2,000 and 4,000 lives have been spared annually and between 2,500 and 4,500 serious injuries avoided each year. Lower gasoline consumption resulting from the 55-mph limit also saves the equivalent of 167,000 barrels of oil a day, a $2 billion annual saving.

Nevertheless, with oil supplies plentiful once again and more fuel-efficient cars now on the road, isn't this a good time to consider whether the 55-mph speed limit is still appropriate on all highways? A special committee of the National Research Council, which prepared the latest report, believes it is. We agree.

The council report suggests that Congress permit the states to increase speed limits to 60 or 65 mph on interstate highways in rural areas. Urban interstates and all other highways would retain the 55-mph limit.

This practical compromise would enable Congress and the states to weigh the virtues of traffic safety and fuel-saving against the time lost to the 55-mph limit. And that time is considerable, as anyone knows who has driven across some of the vast stretches of the Midwest and Western United States.

The additional time required by traveling 55 mph on these open-spaced interstates is staggering. It is 425 billion hours a year, according to the report. But increasing the speed limit to 65 mph could cause an additional 500 traffic deaths a year, the study says. We're not convinced that is an accurate prediction. If it is, the limit should stay at 55 mph.

We believe the 55-mph speed limit has well served its original purpose. But conditions in 1984 are so different from the situation in 1974 that the time has come to return speed-limit control to the states, and let each of them determine individually where 55 mph or 65 mph is more appropriate.

Real men don't cry

Whether we want to admit it or not there are serious emotional problems in the new man-woman relationships. "Peter" Gaston enough, a young friend, asked me a very strange question the other day. "Do you think I'm a wimp?" "I don't believe so. Why do you ask?" "My girlfriend thinks I am." "Why does she think that?" "Because she says I'm indecisive and I don't know what she wants." "Did you ask her what she wanted?" "Yes, and she said if I didn't know what she wanted then I must be a wimp." "You have a problem. Do you have any idea of the way she wants you to behave?" "I think she wants me to be strong and assertive and masculine." "Have you tried it?" "Every time I do, she says I don't treat her as an equal. She maintains the days of pushing women around are over. She wants me to respect her feelings." "Have you told her you do?" "Yes, and then she calls me a wimp." "Are you sure this is the girl for you?" "We're very much in love, but there is a lot more going on than I bargained for. It's not easy being a man today," he said. "We're all aware of that. Perhaps you should tell her your feelings and the problems you have satisfying her." "If I told her my feelings, she would think I was a weak person." "Well, she already thinks you're a wimp, so you really don't have too much to lose." "I could lose her respect." "How did you get in this mess in the first place?" "I think it had something to do with consciousness raising. When we first met she said I was nothing but a macho jock, and if I didn't change my attitude she'd never see me again. So I made an effort to change. When she wanted to do something, we did it. When I wanted to do something, I left the decision to her. At first she liked the role I was playing, but pretty soon she got ticked off and asked why she had to make all the decisions for both of us." "That could have been a signal. Women may pretend they like it, but they're much happier when someone makes a decision for them." "There has to be something between macho and wimp," I said. "What happened to the new liberated man?" "We cry a lot." Art Buchwald's humor and satire is distributed nationally by Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

The Saigon connection

WASHINGTON — To be the victim of a Mike Wallace inquisition can be a disconcerting experience, as I had the misfortune to discover earlier this year.

CBS's lord high inquisitor pronounced one of my reports a dud. Now evidence has come to light that shows it was Wallace who produced the real dud. While I wait for him to acknowledge parentage, here are the details:

A year ago, I broke the story that Vietnamese

Nobody's perfect

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My problem, I guess, is that I am a perfectionist. I always want to do everything right — like my housework, for example — and end up feeling completely worn out and guilty because I try to do too much and don't do it as well as I would like. But aren't we supposed to do our best? — Mrs. B.R.

DEAR MRS. B.R.: It is, of course, important to do our best when we attempt some kind of task; I'm afraid far too many people today are satisfied to "just get by" rather than doing their best. But on the other hand, when we become so preoccupied with doing "everything exactly right" we often end up just like you have — or worse. (I'm not talking at this point about our spiritual and moral duties, but with the common, ordinary tasks we face every day.) How do you keep a practical balance?

First, get your priorities straight. I don't know about your situation, of course, but I have known some people who were so concerned about keeping their houses so immaculate that they put a clean house ahead of their families. They not only had less time than they should have had for their children, but they gave their children the impression that the house was more important than they were. And that is wrong. Are you concerned about your children's spiritual and emotional growth as much as you should be, so that you "bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord"? (Ephesians 6:4).

4 presidents write on peace with USSR

By MIKE FEINSILBER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Writing on the search for peace, Ronald Reagan and his three predecessors say the United States and the Soviet Union can find a means to avoid war, but they emphasized different means for reaching that common goal. In Christmas essays on "Peace on Earth" in American Legion magazine, Reagan and former presidents Jimmy Carter, Gerald R. Ford and Richard M. Nixon agree that the United States must negotiate from strength and agree that accommodation between the superpowers won't be easy. "If any president of the United States could surely and fully answer the question of how to permanently achieve peace on earth," Ford wrote, "I am afraid we would junk the 22nd Amendment and re-elect him, or her, for life." President Reagan, in his article, underscored the need for other powerful nations to settle their differences; Carter, in his, criticized the Reagan administration for missing opportunities to settle regional differences; and Nixon urged the West to offer underdeveloped nations something more than just anti-communism. He said the Soviets have been waging "Third World war" — and winning.

"In Third-World war the Soviet Union has been the aggressor," Nixon said. "In the pursuit of real peace, the West must now go on the offensive in the Third World. "The 3.5 billion people who live in the Third World have an average per capita income of $600 and terrible problems," Nixon added. "The communists at least talk about the problems. Too often we just talk about the communists."

Nixon also argued for a policy of "live and let live." "Call it detente, peaceful competition, or a cold peace — it is infinitely preferable to continued hostile confrontations and possible nuclear annihilation," he said.

Reagan took an optimistic view of prospects for arms agreements in his second term.

"The goal of achieving realistic, durable peace seems closer at hand — if we can keep ourselves strong enough to protect our freedom," the president said.

"Whenever the Soviets are willing to resume talks with us on nuclear arms reductions, I am confident we can reach new agreements to reduce the nuclear arsenals of both sides."

The president also said other powers must get involved in the peace effort. "Peace is not the challenge of a single nation," he said. "All

La gran fiesta de una madre

Por LUIS RIOS
Escritor del Herald

Se paso el día de gracias, el 22 de noviembre, y en poco de tres semanas se llegara la Nochebuena y luego la Navidad.

Pero un día que tambien tiene importancia y muchas veces nosotros de cristianos y catolicos no nos fijamos es la fiesta de la Virgen de Guadalupe el 12 de diciembre.

La virgen es considerada la "madre de los mexicanos y de las americanas" en mexico y tambien aqui por muchas personas.

Una senora con que trabajo me pregunto que si seria posible escribir un articulo sobre la fiesta de la virgen y tambien incluir programas que la iglesia catolica de Santo Tomas tendra para celebrar la fiesta.

En el año 1531 se le aparecio la virgen aun indio campesino. Ella le dijo que le preguntara al obispo de la ciudad que le edificara una iglesia en su honor.

Juan Diego, un indio Azteca en todo su humildad, sabia muy bien que el obispo y los sacerdotes no muy bien le iban a creer.

Y asi fue. Luego se le aparecio la virgen otra vez y le dijo lo mismo a Juan Diego. Juan Diego regreso a la iglesia y le dijo al obispo lo que habia ocurrido. El obispo le dijo que queria pruebas de que se le habia aparecido la virgen.

Pues, Juan Diego desesperado, penso que si tomaba otro camino para su casa, no se le aparecia la virgen. Pero la virgen se le aparecio por la ultima vez.

Juan Diego le dijo a la virgen que el obispo queria pruebas de que ella se le habia aparecido. Ha oido esto la virgen le dijo que escogeria unas rosas que estaban floreciendo. La rosas estaban floreciendo en el medio del invierno.

El Puso varias rosas en su manto y salio para el pueblo. Al llegar a la iglesia, se encontro al obispo and otros sacerdotes y les dijo que habia visto y hablado con la virgen. Y cuando abrio su manto, las rosas se le cayeron y en el manto estaba pintada la imagen de la virgen como les habia dicho Juan Diego a los sacerdotes.

Y por fin le creyeron. Ya pasaron mas de 450 años y el manto siempre esta en la Basílica de la Virgen de Guadalupe en la capital.

La iglesia de Santo Tomas tendra la mananitas a las 5:15 de la manana el doce. La misa sigue a las 6:15 and luego tendran un desayuno de las 6:30 hasta las 7:30.

Miembros de la iglesia cantaran las mananitas otra vez a las 7 de la noche. Se presentara un drama sobre la aparicion a las 7:40 y la organizacion Catholic Youth Organization tendra un programa a las 8:15. La fiesta terminara con una sena desde las 8 hasta las 9:30.

A touching case of care

To the editor: During a recent visit to the Northside Community Center, I was very touched by the help given to a needy senior citizen. I was able to overhear that the senior citizen needed help with her water bill because she couldn't pay her bill and the water had been cut off.

The Northside Community Center could not help with all of the funds needed to pay the bill, so Marianne Brown, director of the center, called the Salvation Army. By the time I left the center, I was able to overhear the conversation that the center and the Salvation Army were going to work together and have the water turned back on for the woman.

I think that this is the most wonderful thing to have both of the organizations get together to help the needy people of the community. I feel better knowing we have someone in this town who cares about others. Thanks to both of these organizations for helping this woman.

AFL-CIO officials want to stamp Legislature with labor issues

By KEITH BRISCOE
City Editor

MIDLAND — State and local labor officials said they will lobby hard during the next Legislature for a state water plan to ease the West Texas drought and provide union construction jobs for the Permian Basin.

"A water plan would mean growth, and growth means jobs," said Willie Chapman of Austin, legislative director for the Texas AFL-CIO.

"A water plan for this area could provide a lot of construction work," Chapman said at a reception here Wednesday night.

Chapman said when the Legislature meets in January, the AFL-CIO also will promote unemployment compensation for farm workers and a "right-to-know" law to protect workers from hazardous materials.

John Rogers of Austin, public relations director for the Texas AFL-CIO, said the union federation, which represents about 13 percent of the state's workforce, has become an influential power in the Texas political scene.

Two major pieces of legislation passed last spring by the special session of the Legislature — school reform and workmen's compensation for farm laborers — were heavily supported by the AFL-CIO leadership. Dally Willis of Midland, president of the Communications Workers of America local and an AFL-CIO official, said that although only 6 percent of labor in the Permian Basin is organized, the union movement historically has been a fixture of the West Texas economy.

"This is not the most liberal, not the most labor-oriented area," Willis said. But organized labor traditionally has been established in the area's refinery, communications, railroad and building trades, he said.

And labor here has been well-represented in the Legislature, Willis said.

"We're not going to get big labor support," Willis said of area politicians. "We want somebody who's fair, somebody who's going to give us a shake."

According to Clovis Phinney, vice president of AFL-CIO District 12 and general manager of Big Spring's local of the International Union of Operating Engineers, the biggest challenge facing organized labor today is reconciling the needs of union members with the goals of union leadership.

"We must assess the priorities," Phinney said. "We have to know what their priorities are if we expect them (rank and file) to follow us."

He said a breakdown in union solidarity and communication caused over 50 percent of union members to vote against labor-endorsed candidates in November. "It's tragic that they voted for Reagan," Phinney said. "You can lose more in an election than you can in five years of negotiations."

He said younger union members are more likely to defect from labor politics because they don't appreciate the history and struggles of the union movement in America.

"They don't know where it came from, what it took to get them here," Phinney said. "It's time for some changes."

Workers burned in chemical blast

HOUSTON (AP) — Workers at a southeast Houston chemical plant were mixing the first commercial batch of a compound when it exploded, burning four men and damaging the plant and a nearby building, the company president said.

The blast at the Archem Co. occurred shortly before 5:30 p.m. Wednesday in a 500-gallon tank, fire department spokesman Luke Mauro said.

Four people were taken to area hospitals with first- and second-degree burns, Mauro said. The injured men, all employees at the plant, were identified as Larry Keefer, 23; Clarence E. Fulford, 56; Samuel Smith, age undetermined, and Kyle Affeldt, 25.

Affeldt and Fulford were treated at Clear Lake Hospital, and Affeldt was transferred to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. He had burns over 40 to 50 percent of his body.

Keefer and Smith were treated at Memorial Hospital Southeast and transferred to the burn unit at Southmore Hospital in Pasadena. All four were listed in stable condition.

"I live about five miles from the plant and I thought something blew up in my back yard," Mauro said. "I was really surprised that everything wasn't leveled around it. I even went out front to see if someone's house had blown apart."

Dr. Donohue

Husband has toe problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband, 65, had a painful toe in his right foot. It came on suddenly in the middle of the night. It has subsided. Is there an explanation? — E.K.

Gout is often marked by sudden onset of great pain in a joint. The large toe is a prominent site for this. I cannot say with any certainty that this is what's wrong with your husband, but it certainly would bear checking out. If it were gout he could expect another similar episode in time. Testing to measure his uric acid status would help settle matters. Gout can be successfully treated.

Do you have problem hair? Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," shows how proper treatment can result in healthier, more attractive hair. Dear Abby

Couple speaks in foreign tongue

DEAR ABBY: Without knowing the facts, you sided with "Fed Up in Frankfort, Ky.," saying, "People who speak a foreign language in the presence of those who can't understand it are rude, insensitive and offensive."

Abby, if Schatzi and Joe normally speak to each other in English when they are alone, I might have agreed with you, but if they usually communicate in German, and are speaking only to each other in a group situation, why shouldn't they speak in German? Perhaps they were making a few side remarks such as, "This party is boring. It's time to go home." Or, "Your zipper is down."

Anyone who would consider this to be insensitive is entirely too sensitive for his own good.

OFF MY CHEST

DEAR OFF: According to "Fed Up," the German-speaking couple did not limit their conversation to a few "side remarks."

I maintain it's all right for Schatzi and Joe to speak German to each other in a group situation in Frankfurt, Germany — but in Frankfort, Ky., they should speak English.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you were asked if a tomato was a fruit or a vegetable, and you said it was a fruit. Wrong!

Originally the tomato was considered a fruit, but now it is classified as a vegetable. Please set the record straight.

OKLAHOMAN

DEAR OKLAHOMAN: Read on for more on the anatomy of a tomato:

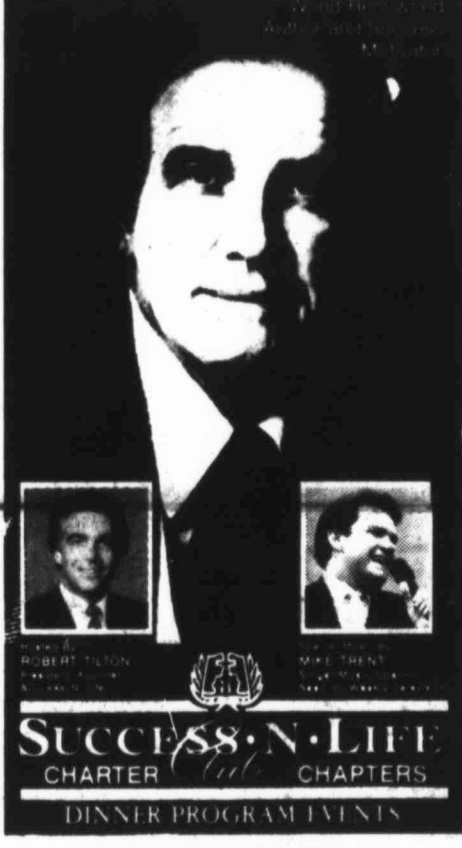

DEAR ABBY: In the book titled "The Story of Our Fruits and Vegetables," by Dorothy Crispo, I learned that it took the Supreme Court to establish the tomato as a vegetable. In 1893, an importer argued that the tomato was a fruit, and therefore not subject to duty. Then the Supreme Court later reclassified the tomato as a vegetable because it was served in soup, with soup, or with the main meal.

JIM ARNOLD, FORT WAYNE, IND.

DEAR JIM: Although the Supreme Court may be legally empowered to reclassify a fruit to a vegetable, my common sense tells me that horticulturally speaking, a fruit is forever a fruit and a vegetable remains a vegetable regardless of how it is served or with what.

Mexican peso devaluates at higher rate

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Finance Ministry announced that it has decided to devalue the Mexican peso at a slightly higher daily rate in an attempt to bolster sales of Mexican goods abroad, increase tourism and fight inflation.

The official rate of exchange Wednesday was 204.80 pesos to the U.S. dollar. Under the new devaluation schedule, the peso will be reduced in value at a rate of 17 centavos per day — about 8½ U.S. cents, at the current exchange rate — instead of 13 cents per day.

"The measures ... are being introduced at a propitious time, with prudence and not as a consequence of an untenable situation," the ministry said in its announcement Wednesday. It noted that Mexico has a surplus in its balance of payments and foreign reserves of more than $8 billion.

It was the first change in the peso devaluation since the government instituted the sliding rate of 13 centavos per day in September, 1983.

As Mexico sank into an economic crisis in 1982, the central bank sharply devalued the peso three times. The rate of exchange went from 27 pesos to 149 pesos to the dollar within the year, forcing sharp cutbacks in imports and sending a wave of U.S. tourists south of the border. In 1983, the Bank of Mexico set the sliding rate and said there would be no more abrupt devaluations, even if the daily rate were to change.

Group plans a takeover of Phillips

By the Associated Press

A group led by oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr., attempting a more than $9 billion takeover of Phillips Petroleum Co., said today it intends to seek to remove the entire 16-member Phillips board of directors and to replace it with four of its own nominees.

The Mesa Partners group, in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington, said it intended to ask Phillips shareholders to approve a series of bylaw changes that would lead to the ouster of the board of the nation's eighth-largest oil company.

One key change would require a simple majority vote, rather than the current two-thirds margin, for the removal of directors.

At Phillips' headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla., spokesman Dan Harrison said Phillips hasn't seen yet any formal proposals from the Pickens' group, which first announced its takeover plans on Tuesday.

Aside from a statement Wednesday promising to advise shareholders of its response and asking Phillips shareholders to sit tight in the meantime and hold on to their stock, Phillips has "nothing further to say at this time," Harrison said.

As shareholders waited for guidance from Phillips, speculators were placing their bets on Wall Street.

William Randol, an analyst who follows the oil industry for the investment firm First Boston Corp., said one rumor spread in financial markets that Phillips would try to buy Kerr-McGee Corp. to try to become too big for Pickens' investor group to swallow.

That speculation pushed Kerr-McGee stock up $2.87½ to $30 a share in active trading Wednesday.

Kerr-McGee declined comment, saying it had a long-standing policy of not responding to rumors in the marketplace.

On the other hand, giant Mobil Corp., which previously had been mentioned as a possible Pickens' target, dropped $1 to $27.50.

Meanwhile, analysts were split on whether any "white knight" suitors would emerge to outbid Pickens' group, which is made up of Mesa Petroleum Co. and the independent oil firm Wagner & Brown.

Among the possible suitors mentioned were Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), Atlantic Richfield Co. and Standard Oil Co. (Ohio). Those are "the biggies who have not yet done a deal," said Rosario Ilacqua, an analyst who follows the oil industry for the New York investment firm of L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin.

Randol, however, said he was skeptical about a rescue bid for Phillips, saying, "Pickens had better be prepared to go the whole way." With oil prices falling and natural gas markets sluggish, "why would anybody want to pay big bucks for an oil company?" he asked.

Phillips' stock, which gained $3.37½ on Tuesday even before the Mesa Partners bid was announced, shot up $5.50 more to $53.50 a share as the most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange. Nearly 7.6 million shares changed hands.

Thursday Notes

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

This edition of Thursday Notes kicks off with some rodeo news for all you cowboys and cowgirls out there.

The box office in the Will Rogers Coliseum in Ft. Worth opened this week for ticket sales to the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show Rodeo, scheduled January 23 through February 3.

Rodeo tickets will be available from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Cattle, sheep, swine and horse exhibitors are reminded that entry deadline is Dec. 10, while exhibitors of poultry, rabbits and pigeons have until Jan. 15 to enter.

There are always people behind the scenes, making functions run smoothly, that the public doesn't always know about.

Such is the case in various sporting events in Big Spring. Big Spring High School trainer Everett Blackburn brought this to my attention, and a big thanks goes out to:

Dick Helms for filming the varsity football games this season. Hal Boyd, the manager of Big Spring Industrial Park, for permitting Big Spring schools to use the old Webb Air Force Base Park for two cross country meets.

A thanks goes out to Tom Kroger who took the football game films for processing to Midland each Friday night. He would get into Big Spring around 4 a.m. Saturday so that coaches could view the film first thing in the morning.

Bob Fuller, an avid running fan, who served as meet official for the cross country meets. Marvin Woolridge, head supervisor for the grounds crew at BSIS for doing such a swell job in taking care of practice and game fields.

Wayne Carroll, who sponsored a sports medicine clinic through Malone-Hogan Hospital on Saturday mornings. He also coordinates the annual athletes' physicals at Malone-Hogan Hospital Clinic.

Last but not least is John Guevara, custodian at BSIS in charge of keeping Steer Gym, basketball and all locker rooms in tip-top shape.

Thanks to all you unstung heroes.

Five Big Spring runners were in competition last weekend. Kenneth Randle, John Bingham, Bruce Henshaw and Dub Moore competed in the White Rock Marathon in Dallas. Vic Keys competed in a marathon in Phoenix.

It was the first marathon for Randle (three hours, 56 minutes), Bingham (4:06) and Henshaw (4:20). Moore was timed at 3:40. Almost 4,000 runners competed in the 26.2 mile race.

Keys, a veteran marathoner; ran a 3:18 in Phoenix.

After a two-week wait, the KBST Let's Play Golf Scramble was finally held last weekend at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The foursome of Jim Roger, Tommy Young, Joe Sharpnack and Jerry Barron won the championship flight with a score of 117. The team of Ben Garcia Jr., Felix Martinez, Juan Ortega and Gilbert Rodriguez finished second with a score of 121.

First flight honors went to Jimmy Marin, Joe Montez, Manuel Ramirez and Gilbert Reyna with a score of 127. Bob Bell, Mike Murphy, R.H. Smith and R.C. Reed tied for second with a team from Midland with a score of 130.

Second flight winners were the foursome of Mat Nunez, Domingo Guerra, Ruben Rodriguez and Robert Rodriguez with a score of 133.

In the Western Junior College Athletic Association stats this week, Hawks guard Michael Porter is the fifth leading scorer, averaging 20.5 points per game. Bruce Kimble and Will Rogers rank 8th and 10th with 17 and 16 point averages.

Hawks post player Walt Reynolds is third in rebounding, averaging eight per game.

Queens post player Joyce Boudreaux is the WJCAA's fifth leading scorer (19.3) and fourth leading rebounder (10.1).

Forwards Alex Provencio and Vickie Waid rank eight and ninth in rebounding respectively. Both average seven per contest.

The Hawks and Queens both have big conference games tonight versus South Plains at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Big Spring Boys Club won first place last Saturday at the West Texas and New Mexico Games Room Tournament in Snyder.

Jesus Perras won first place in chess while Raymond Ontiveros placed second. Anthony Chavarria got second place in foosball singles competition while Augustine Hernandez and Roy Gomez won the foosball doubles competition.

Jose Jimenez won second place in billiards and Randy Hernandez won ping pong singles play. Hernandez teamed with Mike Gamboa to win the ping pong doubles title.

'Big Four' seeking Lombardi Award

HOUSTON (AP) — One of four collegiate players, Pittsburgh's Bill Fralic, Clemson's William Perry, Texas' Tony Degrade or Southern Cal's Jack Del Rio, will be named winner this week of the 15th annual Lombardi Award, symbolic of the nation's outstanding lineman.

The finalists were selected by a 217-member national selection committee of coaches and sports writers. The winner will be announced at a benefit dinner Thursday night at the Shamrock Hilton hotel.

The award is named in honor of former Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi, who died of cancer. Proceeds from the $125-per plate dinner go to the American Cancer Society.

Fralic was a finalist for the award last year when the honor went to Nebraska's Dean Steinkuhler, who became a first-round choice of the National Football League Houston Oilers.

Fralic, a 6-5, 285 offensive tackle is called by Pitt Coach Foge Fazio "one of the best players at his position in college football history."

Fralic, a senior from Penn Hills, Pa., finished eighth in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1983 in addition to his runnerup role in the Lombardi balloting.

Degrade, a senior defensive tackle from Snyder, Texas, has been a steady force for the Longhorns this season.

Ballinger, C-City head all-district

Ballinger and Colorado City dominated first team selections for the 7-3A All-District squad.

Ballinger, the district champ with a 11-1 record, placed 11 players on the first offensive and defensive teams. Colorado City, district runner-up with a 11-2 record; had seven first-teamers including quarterback Doug Chitsey who was named the district's Most Valuable Player.

Chitsey led the Wolves to regional play while passing for over 2,000 yards.

Coahoma tackle Shawn Justus was one of only two players to "double" on this year's squad. The 6-2, 220-pound senior made both offensive and defensive first teams.

Other Colorado City players named to the first offensive squad were offensive guard Freddie Pineda, tight end Don Randle, and running back Sammy Rivera.

Defensively the Wolves placed middle linebacker Jay Piland, and defensive backs Gary Marsh and Ronnie Hernandez. Coahoma safety John Swinney was also selected to the first defensive squad.

"Last year going against him was like trying to block an oak tree." Texas Coach Fred Akers said. "In 1984, the tree was year older and stronger."

Degrade leads the Longhorns in unassisted tackles, tackles for losses, sacks and forced fumbles. Perry is nicknamed "The Refrigerator" because of his 6-3, 315-pound frame and is the Tigers' strongest player with a bench press of 465 pounds.

Despite his size, Clemson Coach Danny Ford says "Perry is one of the most mobile players at his position in the nation."

Perry, a nose guard from Aiken, S.C., is Clemson's all-time leader in sacks and tackles behind the line of scrimmage.

Del Rio is a 6-4, 235 outside linebacker from Hayward, Calif. "He is the most dominant defensive player in the Pac Ten and the most aggressive, intense one I've ever been around," USC Coach Ted Tollner said.

Ohio State's Jim Stillwagon won the first Lombardi Award in 1970 followed by Walt Patulski, Notre Dame; Rich Glover, Nebraska; John Hicks, Ohio State; Randy White, Maryland; Lee Roy Selmon, Oklahoma; Wilson Whitley, Houston; Ross Browner, Notre Dame; Bruce Clark, Penn State; Brad Budde, Southern Cal; Hugh Green, Pittsburgh; Kenneth Sims, Texas; Dave Rimington, Nebraska and Steinkuhler.

NUMBER ONE DEFEATED — The world's number-one ranked tennis player Martina Navratilova sits off the court after her upset loss to Czechoslovak Helena Sukova during Thursday's semifinals of the Australian Open Tennis Championship at Kooyong. The loss was Martina's second of the year, and broke a 74-match winning streak. Sukova, 19-years-old, will met Chris Evert-Lloyd in Saturday's final.

ATTENTION TAXPAYERS AND PARENTS:
The Education Reform Bill #72 is being implemented in our school systems across the state.
Concerned citizens are meeting to learn more about the new law and its effect on our children.
The Reform and Finance Bill has taken away the authority of your local school board and parents for deciding what is best for children.
Amendments to this bill may be made in January. Our legislators have told us we must inform them of desired changes by December 15. Be at the next meeting.
