Task force studies water needs

By JAY ROSSER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Resurrected attempts to develop a statewide water plan acceptable to legislative and voter scrutiny didn't win much praise from environmentalists or one state lawmaker Friday.

"If this bill were a horse, any Texan would recommend that it be immediately put out of its misery with a merciful round of ammunition," state Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, told an interim legislative task force studying state water needs.

That panel, the Joint Interim Committee on Water Resources, fielded public comment on the proposed statewide water plan released last month by Gov. Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Critics assailed the proposal — slated for consideration during the 1985 legislative session that convenes Jan. 8 — for not giving enough attention to municipal or agriculture conservation efforts, or to the need for freshwater river flows into coastal bays and estuaries.

Proponents, however, called it a working document that can be refined during legislative negotiations.

"There is a need for improvements in the agriculture portion of this bill...and several others as well," Jim Turner, White's executive assistant, acknowledged.

The Sierra Club of Texas, which helped lead voter defeat of a 1981 state water proposal, said it will oppose the latest water venture unless it pays more attention to environmental concerns.

"We cannot in good conscience support the proposed water plan as currently written," said Sierra Club lobbyist Ken Kramer. He said loose controls over a proposed state bonding system for water quality improvement and enhancement projects could bring "pork barrel" politics to Texas.

The multi-faceted proposal, as written, would:

- Seek voter approval of a constitutional amendment doubling the state's water development bond program by providing $200 million in state bonds for local water supply projects; $200 million for water quality enhancement efforts; and $200 million for reservoir development projects.

• Give the state authority to require local governments that borrow state bond money to adopt local conservation programs.

• Establish a research fund to help develop agriculture conservation programs.

• Allow the creation of up to 24 regional groundwater districts to help control the use of local groundwater supplies.

• Require that the Texas Water Commission, in considering water permits for reservoir projects, find that enough freshwater would continue to flow into coastal bays and

THE STANDOFF at the Tehran airport continued Friday as hijackers threatened to kill more American passengers.

Situation critical Hijackers threaten American hostages

By The Associated Press
Several shots were heard from inside a hijacked Kuwaiti airliner at Tehran airport Friday shortly after the hijackers threatened to resume killing American and Kuwaiti hostages, Iran's official news agency said.

The hijackers revealed for the first time, in a statement read to the control tower at Mehrabad Airport, that they have killed four people — two Americans and two Kuwaitis — since commandeering the plane Tuesday, the Islamic Republic News Agency said.

Western sources had only been able to identify three deaths previously.

"According to latest reports, several shots were heard from inside the hijacked plane at (4:30 p.m.) local time," IRNA reported. "The situation inside the plane seems to be critical."

The hijackers had set an early morning deadline to kill more hostages, but delayed it, saying they would free more captives if

"mass media" published a statement drafted by them.

They told the control tower they would resume killing American and Kuwaiti passengers if their statement was not broadcast and identified their next three intended Kuwaiti victims by name. The hijackers' statement was carried by IRNA and Tehran radio and was monitored in Cyprus and in London.

In Washington, President Reagan said the Iranian government "has not been as helpful as they could be" in ending the hijacking. But he said he had "no evidence of actual collaboration" between the hijackers and the Iranian government.

In a question-and-answer session with reporters at the White House, Reagan said the United States has been in touch with the heads of state of the countries involved.

IRNA said the hijackers identified the two dead Americans as William Stanford and Charles Freud, although the translation of the second name was uncertain. U.S. officials had previously said the two Americans were officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development and tentatively identified them as William L. Stanford and Charles Floyd Hegna.

The hijackers cut off communication with the tower for 3½ hours Friday, IRNA said. When contact was restored, the hijackers said more of the roughly 60 hostages still on board would be released if "mass media" published their statement. Later they identified by name three Kuwaitis they said they would kill if their latest demand was not met.

The plane was hijacked Tuesday while on a flight from Kuwait to Pakistan, via the United Arab Emirates. There were 161 passengers and crew on board, but 99 have been reported released. The remaining hostages were tied in their seats, according to a cleanup crew and a photographer who were allowed on the plane.

City construction costs down

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Construction costs for current projects in Big Spring last month were down slightly more than $4 million from costs in November 1983, according to city building permits records.

The city issued 15 permits in November this year for projects whose construction costs were estimated at $668,832. Last November, the city issued 24 permits for projects with an estimated total cost of $4.681 million, records show.

As a result of lower estimated construction costs, the amount of permit fees collected also decreased this year from last year. In November this year, the city collected $711.50 in fees compared to $6,489.50 in November 1983. November's figures for the number of permits issued and the amount of fees collected were down from October, when the city issued 27 permits and collected $745.50 in fees.

However, the estimated construction costs are up this month from the $228,146 in October this year.

Figures for fiscal 1985 year-to-date are behind those at this time in fiscal 1984, records show. At the end of November this year, the city has issued 42 permits for the year, compared to 51 in 1983.

In addition, the city has collected only $1,456 in fees so far in fiscal year 1985, compared to $7,273.50 in fiscal 1984. Construction costs for permitted projects are $916,978 in fiscal 1985 compared to $4,948,471 in fiscal 1984.

The fiscal year for the city begins Oct. 1.

The largest project given a permit by the city last November was for work at the Western Container Co. building at the Big Spring Airport, where construction costs estimated at $433,132.

The city also granted permits for the construction of one new house, with construction costs estimated at $61,500; a non-residential building, at $10,500; four additions and alterations on housing units, at $34,000; work on two garages or carports at $3,000; and additions and alterations on other buildings, at $90,500.

Weather

By The Associated Press

Dry high pressure centered over the coastal bend again provided sunny skies across much of Texas Friday, as high thin clouds steaked across the mid portion of the state from the South Plains to the coastal bend area.

A trough of low pressure across the Panhandle caused no significant pattern other than a wind shift, the National Weather Service said.

Local

Big Spring and vicinity will see fair skies turn cloudy by mid-afternoon. Look for highs in the low 70s and south to southwesterly winds, 10 to 20 miles per hour. By tonight, look for partly cloudy skies and lows in the low 40s.

Forecast

West Texas: Partly cloudy and relatively mild Saturday. Widely scattered showers spreading to southwest portion Saturday. Lows tonight mid 30s to low 40s. Highs Sunday low 70s to mid 70s except near 60 far west.

Seamstress keeps art of sewing alive

LAREDO (AP) — With all the convenience of off-the-rack clothes, it is small wonder that fewer people are having their clothes custom-made. One might expect that seamstresses and tailors, and their art, have become extinct. But Laredo tailor Venancio Ruiz and seamstress Lita Santos are proof the art is still alive here.

Both have spent much of their lives making clothes for others. Mrs. Santos is the owner and operator of her own seamstress shop. She calls it "Lita's Sewing Shop," and there, with the help of three other seamstresses, she produces five to 10 dresses a day.

Although she has owned Lita's Sewing Shop for only three years, she has been in the sewing business many years. She said that she used to sew part-time out of her home but then decided to become more professional and open her own shop.

"I have always done sewing and have always enjoyed it," she said, "so, I finally decided that, since I like it so much, why not? There was no other shop in town like mine — and there still isn't — so I had no competition."

"It was scary at first — giving up a good job and security like that (she was previously an accountant.) But it was what I wanted, and I knew that if I didn't do it then, I never would. It's paid off, and my husband and children are very proud of me."

Mrs. Santos said that they make just about any item or type of women's or children's clothing: pants, blouses, blazers, dresses, bathing suits, wedding gowns, ball gowns and even Halloween costumes. In addition to clothing, Mrs. Santos and her staff make quilts, tablecloths and soft hand-sewn toys such as stuffed animals and dolls.

Mrs. Santos also has experience in repairing and renovating antique apparel. Many customers come in with heirloom wedding dresses, Victorian blouses or flapper dresses that they wish to wear themselves but that are too delicate or damaged by age. She can repair them and make them wearable again.

"Like this blouse here," Mrs. Santos said, pointing to an ivory-colored, fine-net blouse with leg o'mutton sleeves. "It's about 100 years old and the owner wants it recycled so that she can wear it in a portrait. She wants to be the fourth generation in her family to pose wearing this blouse. So, I put in a new lining and mended the frays using materials that won't detract from the authenticity of the garment. It was like working with cobweb."

Mrs. Santos said that she also does many gowns and costumes that are used for Laredo's social functions and celebrations. For instance, this year she is sewing 15 dresses for the girls in Pocahontas' entourage, as well as costumes for their escorts. She has also made gowns for Martha Washington debutantes, for the Black and White Ball debs, and for the Women's City Club Charity Ball.

CUSTOM-MADE CLOTHES are still an art for Lita Santos of Laredo, who has been in the sewing business for many years.

"Many people walk in wanting certain things done," she said. "Some bring their own patterns, but others will come in with only an idea or a vague sketch of what they want. Then, I have to translate their ideas into reality."

"Often, I will design their dresses myself. I love to do this for the customers. I can tell just by the way that they look and by their personality, what they want and what they look good in. It's really a challenge."

She has even designed the wedding gowns for her two daughters. In fact, she intends to make designing a more important part of her career with her own line of clothing.

"I hope to someday have my own line. Right now I'm on the verge of starting my own line for children. I'm calling it 'Little Angels.' I have a contract with a local store to produce children's clothing for them, including some of my own designs. If it goes well, I will branch out into ladies' wear, which is my pet. I love to work with beautiful materials and elegant designs. My biggest thrill is working on ball gowns and evening gowns. It's pretty hard work, but when you see the finished result, it's great."

Ruiz, a tailor at Gateway Cleaners on San Bernardo, has also had a great deal of experience in the clothes-making business. He has been a tailor for more than 43 years, nine of which he has spent in Laredo. While in Laredo, he has worked as a tailor at Norton's (six years,) and at Brothers (one year,) and at Sande's (two years.) He has also worked as a tailor in San Antonio and Houston.

Ruiz has been a tailor at Gateway Cleaners for the past six months, and he said his job there entails all facets of the tailoring profession, from sewing a complete suit to performing minor alterations on store-bought clothes, and everything in between, including ironing, taking measurements and restyling out-of-date clothes.

"Since big, wide ties are no longer in fashion, people bring in their old ties and narrow them so that they can wear them and still be in fashion," Ruiz offered as an example. "I also update a lot of sport coats that are out of style by narrowing the lapels."

Ruiz, who is originally from Saltillo, Mexico, said that he became interested in his profession at an early age.

"When I was in just the third or fourth grade, I would go to the tailor shops and watch the tailors work, and I developed a liking for it," he said. "They would give me small sewing tasks to keep me busy. They didn't pay me anything, but I liked it. That is how I learned to sew."

"Then, when I became better, they started paying me 25 cents per week, and I would give half of it to my family. It wasn't much but in those days you could support an entire family on only $3.50 a week," Ruiz said.

After training at several different tailor shops, Ruiz said that he became a professional tailor when he was 18. He worked in Mexico for several years and then came to the U.S. in 1967.

He has also trained as a bookkeeper and as a mechanic. At one time he worked as a mechanic part-time for International Harvester, while working as a tailor in a factory.

Ruiz said he has always remained a tailor because he prefers the work to any other profession and knows that he can always find a job as a tailor.

"Tailoring is an art," he said, "and I always try my best to please the customer. Nowadays, there are less people who have their clothes made. It's true that a custom-made suit is more expensive, but it is made to your precise measurements and can be made exactly the way you want it, so it looks better. It'll cost a little more, but you'll be pleased with the results."

Reagan

But the tax plan, which would replace the current income tax system with one that lowers tax rates for many Americans while doing away with many present deductions and exclusions, "does simplify; it does reduce (tax rates) for most people; it does broaden the base," he said.

Reagan opened his news conference by declaring that by re-electing him last month, "the people voted against tax increases and they were right. And they voted against wasteful spending and they were right."

As for Social Security, some GOP senators have been urging the president to consider including the retirement system in the list of budget-cutting targets.

Sheriff's Log

Man sentenced to 5 years

A Yantis, Texas, man pleaded guilty Friday afternoon to a charge of revocation of probation on a burglary of habitation charge.

District Court Judge James Gregg sentenced Vincent Otto Peters, 20, to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections. • Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Ruben Bruce Powers, 25, 2201 Main on a charge of revocation of probation on his driving while intoxicated charge. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Milton Kirby.

• Douglas Wayne Paul, 20, and Jimmy Lee Paul, 18, both of Route One were each arrested on charges of simple assault. They were both released on $1,000 bond charges set by Justice of the Peace Willie Grant of Coahoma.

Blast victims' conditions listed

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Both burn victims of a gasoline-fume explosion Thursday afternoon at a service station on the north side of the city today remain in West Texas hospitals for treatment of their injuries.

L.D. Cunningham, 67, of 203 Young remains in "serious but stable" condition at Lubbock General Hospital, a hospital nursing supervisor said Friday evening.

"He's really not doing badly at all," the Lubbock General spokeswoman said. Cunningham received second- and third-degree burns on his face, arms and legs — about 40 percent of his body, according to hospital reports.

The other victim of the Thursday blast, Paul Allen Barber, 21, of 1506 E. 17th has been moved out of the intensive care unit at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Barber's condition has been upgraded from stable to satisfactory, and he was moved out onto one of the hospital floors, she said.

Barber received first- and second-degree burns on his right arm and his legs, according to hospital reports.

Big Spring firemen are still investigating the exact cause of the blast, although they believe gasoline fumes from an underground tank at the Fina station at 1100 Lamesa Highway were ignited by a spark from a motored air compressor.

At the time of the explosion, Cunningham and Barber were checking the pressure on the underground gasoline tanks at the Thurman Oil Co. Fina Station No. 2. Cunningham is the owner of D&W Pump Co. of Big Spring, and Barber was his employee.

Telephone and electric service, disconnected when the lines caught on fire from the blast, have been restored. Electric service was restored within an hour of the incident Thursday afternoon, and telephone service was restored today.

No service station employees were injured in the explosion, nor was the service station itself damaged.

Damaged were the power lines above the gasoline tank, the company truck being used by Cunningham and Barber and their air compressor, according to police and fire reports. An exact damage estimate has not been determined yet by the fire department.

Water

The most recent effort at developing a statewide water plan — during the 1983 legislative session — was defeated amid squabbles between conservationists and river authorities during the waning days of the session.

That proposal would have required that the freshwater flow into bays and estuaries from surface reservoirs be sufficient to maintain "historic levels of productivity."

Environmentalists, led by Truan and Kramer, contended Friday that the latest proposal moves away from a protectionist attitude towards coastal bays and estuaries favored in the document two years ago.

"I am ready to fight," Truan said, complaining the "ecological health" standard for bays and estuaries was chosen "because it is not capable of objective measurement."

In addition, he complained, the new water proposal doesn't stress agricultural conservation of water enough.

"Without such a program of equipment into the hands of farmers," he said, "we don't have a water plan at all. We've merely got subsidies that amount to Aid for Dependent Dam Builders."

He said the plan "proposes a massive scheme of water development projects, that is dams and reservoirs, before any semblance of a self-respecting water conservation program is in place and given half a chance."

Among those sounding the call for increased efforts at agricultural conservation was Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who suggested that up to $10 million be set aside for farmers each year.

"Obviously," Hightower said, "if we are going to meet the state's water needs we are going to have to deal with agriculture since it consumes 72 percent of the state's water...the best way to do that is through conservation techniques."

The water proposal, and particularly the proposed increase in the state water bond program, drew praise from Texas Municipal League president Alan Henry.

Weerasooria said. One person was missing, he said. The government spokesman told The Associated Press on Friday that Sri Lanka had received military equipment from abroad to cope with the violence that has claimed about 300 lives in the past week.

He said more arms were on the way, but would not disclose the type or source. In the past, China has supplied Sri Lanka with gun boats and rifles.

Union Carbide suit filed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — A $15 billion class-action lawsuit was filed Friday against Union Carbide Corp. on behalf of the estates of those killed in the chemical leak at a company plant in Bhopal, India.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Charleston, alleges that Union Carbide was negligent in its design of the methyl isocyanate production unit at the Indian plant. It also contends that Carbide failed to warn the citizens and government of India about the dangers of the chemical, which killed at least 1,600 people when it leaked from an underground storage tank Monday.

The production unit involved in the Indian disaster was designed at the company's technical center in South Charleston, the suit alleges. Carbide officials have said the Indian plant was identical to the company's plant in Institute, about 10 miles west of Charleston.

A security barricade of a half dozen tractor-trailers was set up Friday outside the Institute plant, the only U.S. producer of methyl isocyanate, the chemical involved in the Indian accident. Officials said the barricade was put in place because of bomb threats at a North Carolina Carbide plant.

Cold snap lingering

Easterners shivered Friday under a cold snap that sent the mercury plunging as far south as Florida's citrus country as snowfall dropped off in the Northeast following a storm that left more than a foot of snow on the ground in some areas.

Across the nation, this week's storms were blamed for 28 deaths in 10 states.

Travelers' advisories were posted for Vermont and New York state as the region's first major snowfall of the season tapered off. Snowshowers remained over much of the Appalachians and the eastern Great Lakes early Friday although accumulations were generally less than an inch, the National Weather Service reported.

Vermont's Jay Peak received at least 4 inches of snow overnight, adding to the 16 that fell Thursday. Much of upstate New York received 7 to 9 inches of snow, with the heaviest amounts falling in a band running from Binghamton northeast to Burlington, Vt. At Griffiss Air Force Base near Rome, N.Y., 2 inches of snow added to the 14 inches already on the ground, and Syracuse had 3 inches of new snow.

Crash cause not known

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A commuter plane belonging to an airline that was shut down for two weeks last month for alleged safety violations crashed and burst into flames, killing all 13 people aboard, authorities said. It was the airline's third crash in six months.

Eleven passengers and two crew members were aboard Provincetown-Boston Airlines Flight 1039, which crashed just after take-off from Jacksonville International Airport, said police spokesman Sgt. Charley Hill. Air safety officials said the cause of the crash was not known and that they could see no immediate connection to the airline's safety problems.

Eleven National Transportation Safety Board investigators arrived in Jacksonville from Washington today to inspect the wreckage, which was strewn over a mile-wide swath of swamp.

U.S. RELIEF AID DIVERTED — An Ethiopian merchant in a rebel held area of Eritrea province holds a sack of powdered milk sent by the U.S. to famine victims. Although the bag says "not to be sold or exchanged", local merchants say they buy the supplies from Ethiopian army officers and then re-sell them.

Drought relief

Richland Hills man heading for Ethiopia

RICHLAND HILLS (AP) — An employee of a church that raised $200,000 for Ethiopian victims of drought and famine says he will travel to the country next week to oversee distribution of food.

Jerry McGaghren is director of Bread for a Hungry World, a project begun by the congregation of Richland Hills Church of Christ just before Thanksgiving.

"In America, we have so much, while they've got 150 million facing the famine," said McGaghren. "It's just in the nature of Americans to help out."

McGaghren took phone calls on Thursday morning from representatives of a Tulsa church that raised $7,000, a Jacksonville church that raised $7,000 and a Plano congregation that had collected $12,000.

The Richland Hills congregation had sent out a nationwide call from the Fort Worth suburb to aid Ethiopian victims.

McGaghren said the organization sent 13,000 letters to Churches of Christ across the country asking for contributions to help the Ethiopians.

"We've been flooded with donations," he said. McGaghren, a former missionary, said the response has come primarily from Church of Christ members, but not exclusively.

"A woman in South Fort Worth came in with $700," he said. "She said she had saved it up for a coat, but she wanted us to have it."

He said a group of students at Oklahoma Christian College gave up two meals each, and donated the money they would have spent.

McGaghren predicted that the organization will raise about $500,000 by the end of the year. The goal is $1 million, he said.

Policeman dead after 'terrorist' attack

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Terrorist attacks on a police station and a subway station left one person dead and six wounded, and idled a key part of the capital's subway system, authorities said Friday.

The government said the attacks were part "of a carefully planned terrorist assault."

The first assault was late Thursday when "numerous extremists" riding in three vehicles hurled hand grenades and fired automatic weapons at a police station in Santa Adriana, a working class Santiago suburb, a police spokesman said. One police corporal was killed and another policeman seriously wounded.

Police later arrested a wounded woman near the station who was believed to be one of the assailants, said the spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified. One vehicle used in the assault, a white pickup truck, was found abandoned in another Santiago neighborhood with blood stains on the seat.

Friday morning, a second group of assailants threw a bomb on the tracks at a subway station near downtown Santiago, causing heavy damage and halting service to the entire eastern part of the capital for five hours, said a government spokesman, who also spoke on condition of anonymity.

The attackers also tried to rob the ticket booth at the station, but were repelled by two armed guards, the government spokesman said. One of the guards and three employees of the transit authority were wounded in the shootout.

No one claimed responsibility for the attacks. In the past, the Leftist Revolutionary Movement, a guerrilla organization trained largely in Cuba, has taken responsibility for attacks against government targets.

Francisco Cuadra, the government's secretary-general, blamed the attacks on "subversive terrorists" seeking "to demonstrate that the security measures taken by the government under the state of siege are not enough to neutralize their terrorist campaign."

Actor sentenced to jail

READING, England — American actor Stacey Keach was sentenced Friday to nine months in prison after pleading guilty to smuggling 1.3 ounces of cocaine into Britain.

His secretary, Deborah Steele, was given a three-month jail sentence. Both had pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal possession of drugs.

They began serving their terms immediately.

Keach, 43, who stars as the tough-talking detective in the U.S. television series "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer," told the Reading Crown Court he was "terribly sorry" and felt "deep humiliation."

The actor and Miss Steele, 41, were arrested April 4 at London's Heathrow Airport when Keach arrived to work on soundtracks for the television series.

Prosecutors said customs officers found 36.7 grams of cocaine, worth an estimated $5,400, hidden in a can of aerosol shaving cream and elsewhere in Keach's luggage and in a pocket of Miss Steele's jeans.

Attorneys for Keach and Miss Steele appealed to the High Court in London for bail pending appeals of their sentences. Judge Sir Kenneth Jupp refused the plea, but ordered that the case go before the Appeal Court in the week starting Dec. 16, meaning the actor and his secretary will be in jail for at least 10 days.

In Burbank, Calif., Keach's manager and producer of the "Mike Hammer" series, said Keach had filmed 14 episodes, and production of the eight remaining shows might be shut down if the actor was not released.

France plays key role

PARIS — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres said Friday that France's links with Syria and Lebanon could play an important role in solving the problem of Israel's two-year occupation of southern Lebanon.

He said that while there cannot be a formal agreement between Israel and Damascus, there could be an informal arrangement under which Syria would refrain from moving into areas evacuated by Israel.

Israel is not demanding a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon as a precondition for an Israeli pullout," he said.

"I think that French diplomacy can play a large role in resolving the Lebanese problem in a pragmatic, informal, but immediate way," Peres told reporters, referring to President Francois Mitterrand's recent visit to Damascus.

He said Mitterrand's impression of Syrian President Hafez Assad after the visit was "that he is not Israel's greatest friend. I agree with that."

'Gremlins' is off-limits

LONDON — Joe Dante's "Gremlins," which was made a box office smash in the United States by its youthful audiences, is off-limits in Britain to children.

Produced by Steven Spielberg, the film opened here Friday with a 15 rating, restricting its attendance to those over age 15.

The decision means that "Gremlins" has the same rating as "The Killing Fields," Roland Joffe's violent and serious film set during the fall of Cambodia in 1975.

The board found further fault with the ads for the movie which call its ferocious and furry creatures.

Heart patient moved into private room Friday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Artificial heart patient William J. Schroeder was moved out of intensive care and into a private room Friday and was so cheered by his progress that he talked about attending his son's wedding in March.

According to a statement from Humana Hospital Audubon, home of the institute.

Schroeder had shown "a marked improvement in all functions in the past 24 hours," said Dr. Allan M. Lansing, chairman of Humana Heart Institute International. "The main thing is he looks very well."

The 52-year-old patient was so cheerful he was "talking about going home, ... even talking about attending his son's wedding in March," said Lansing, who assisted when Dr. William C. DeVries performed the implant Nov. 25.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may not be thinking straight in the morning, so handle that important concern later when your judgment is fine.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may be confused where financial affairs are concerned in the morning, but talk to experts to clarify your thinking.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Changing your attitude and plans can bring about better results now. Await the evening before going out with friends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A problem may require a few hours of deep thought if you are to solve it best. Participate in group activities.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) An outside situation could be confusing during the day, but should clarify itself by evening for fine results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study whatever is expected of you by a prominent person and then conscientiously try to please. Avoid a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Steer clear of any new interests in the morning and delve only into the tried and true all day long.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't rely on your lunches today, but rely on mature judgment and get good results. Plan for the week ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't have arguments with loved ones in the morning. Discuss differences later in a sensible fashion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't get bogged down with extra work in the morning since after lunch you can please partners more.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may find that friends may contact you for recreational purposes so don't go seeking any new forms of amusement.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Any situation that arises at home in the morning should not bother you. Later, enjoy amusements that fascinate you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will be quite rarely teased during early life, but will become the strongest for it and learn a good deal and be able to help others with their problems. Teach to be more objective and not take things so much to heart, and then the life becomes happy and of great service to others.

 "The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, DEC. 10, 1984
GENERAL TENDENCIES: During the daytime think in terms of what you can do to put into effect whatever talents you are possessed of. The evening finds you eager to have a good time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure to do whatever your family desires of you and start the week on the right note. The evening is best for creative work.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study different ways of handling communications so that you use the right words at the right time and get excellent results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have an opportunity to get into practical affairs in the morning and handle them well so that you get a fine feeling of security.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You need to decide about many personal situations today, so get busy on such and tonight don't be extravagant.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Begin the week properly by riding yourself of whatever is stopping you from advancing in your career. Enjoy pals tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on some special wish you have and take action in such direction, and the evening can be yours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Begin the new work week by enthusiastically handling routines, but tonight don't be pushy about gaining some personal wish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You had better think carefully before you expand your interests so that you do not overstep. It is best not to appear in public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get those accounting problems straightened out before you lock into new interests that fascinate you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Partners may actually demand assistance in the morning, so give it, and later keep any promises you have made.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get at all that work ahead of you early and it is soon behind you. Don't take on any more responsibilities in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get your special talent to the attention of bigwigs during the day and forget dull tasks in the evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will early understand the needs of the public in general and want to be connected with merchandizing and selling and do very well at it. Slant the education along such lines, and the greatest success can be achieved. Teach to be more objective and to steer clear of emotionalism.

4-H Center site of new program

The Texas 4-H Center is the site of a new Extension program for adults.

LaMesa, as the program is called, will be a week-long session designed to help adults learn and practice methods to help them take charge and make changes in their lifestyles for improved health and fitness. The emphasis is on education. Specialists in foods and nutrition, health, clothing, exercise techniques, a licensed dietitian, nurse, psychologist certified fitness instructor, and motivational speakers are all included in the program to help with the 'whole person' concept of better living.

Daily programs will feature approximately four hours of exercise class combined with four hours of educational programs, enjoyable, healthful, lower calories meals and time for recreation and relaxation. Special relaxation classes and refreshing hot tubs will aid in easing sore muscles and reviving spirits.

At the end of the week, participants' families will join them for the final morning of exercise and motivation. The families will be encouraged to understand and support the participants as they work toward their goals at home.

The program will be held in two one-week sessions — January 21-26 and January 28-February 2 — at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood. The total cost will be $325.00 per person. A typical day's schedule Tuesday through Friday will include:

Breakfast at 7:30 a.m. followed by a warm up session at 8:30 a.m. The morning walk/jog at 9:30 a.m. is followed by four activities from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Participants may do these activities: aerobics workout (active), all-around toning and flexibility (moderate), spot exercise (emphasize legs, tummy, hips), and mechanical workout (stationary bicycle, free weights).

From 11:45-12:15, mini-educational programs will be presented. Topics are: "Health Risk Appraisal," "Time Management," "Oh, My Aching Back," and "Choosing the Best Shoe For You." Lunch will be at 12:30 p.m. Rest period (or view "Uplink to Food and Fitness" — shown in three parts) will be from 1:30-2:30 p.m.

Educational Programs will be from 2:30 to 4 p.m. They are: "Life in a Pressure Cooker," "Nutrition and Dieting," "Food and Drug Interactions," "Food Additives," and "Results of the Week-Fit Stops, Measurements."

From 4:00-5:00, choose from relaxation techniques or a walk. Happy hour is at 6 p.m. Dinner is at 6:30 p.m.

More educational programs will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Topics are: "Create the Look You Like With Color," "Make-up and Hair styles," Trends and Techniques, "Wellness" — psychologist and "Motivational Speaker." Recreation-movie, cards, social activities and folk dances will end the days' events. They begin at 9 p.m.

For additional information and registration form, contact the County Extension office.

Forsan 4-H Club

Many of our County 4-Hers have been busy preparing for the Country Food and Nutrition Show to be held today. The Food Show is at First Baptist Church, Ackerly. Our theme is: "Building Blocks for Good Nutrition."

Our schedule for the Food Show is as follows:

1:30 — Registration and set up food exhibits

1:50 — Orientation of contestants and judges

2:00 — Judging begins

5:00 — Awards Program and Tasting Tea

At 2 p.m., a program for parents will be presented by the Kopper Kettle and a movie will be shown for the contestants.

Contestants must be enrolled and actively participating as 4-H members in a 4-H Food and Nutrition Project. To be consistent with the total 4-H program, senior 4-H members must have passed their 14th birthday and not their 19th birthday before Jan. 1, 1985. As of this fall 1984 school semester Junior members must be enrolled in at least the third grade. They should not have reached their 14th birthday before Jan. 1, 1985. Little Chefs — youth who have not reached their 9th birthday or are not yet in 3rd grade.

The entry categories shall be: Main Dishes — Foods classified as main dishes usually contain a meat or meat alternate such as cheese, eggs, dry beans or peas, or peanut butter). They may contain other foods in addition to this.

Fruit and Vegetables — Foods classified as side dishes are usually served along with a main dish or as accompaniments to the main course. These are usually fruits or vegetable dishes.

Bread and Cereal — Suggested dishes to enter in this category are: quick breads, yeast breads, rice and pastas.

Nutritious Snacks and Desserts — Snacks are defined as foods eaten in addition to or in lieu of a full meal (entree and beverages). Any dish may qualify as a snack if it is designated as a snack on the contestant's menu for a day. A beverage is defined as a drink. Soups are not considered beverages.

Members must choose recipes that can be prepared within a continuous period of no more than four hours in order to be eligible to compete in the State 4-H Food Show.

The contestant will present a serving dish containing the entire recipe to the judge. The contestant will serve the judge a taste when instructed. Contestants may only display the food in an appropriate serving dish and the utensil which will be used by the contestant to serve judges a taste of the food.

No registration fee will be charged for this contest. Copies of the Cut your own taxes and save

Still time to set up an IRA

By ROBERT METZ
Part I of 4-part series

There's no stepping back into yesterday. Once the year ends, the tax books are closed. The only thing most can do to reduce the past year's taxes is pay into tax-deferred retirement plans, Keoghs and IRAs.

Here are some facts on Individual Retirement Accounts.

You can add to an IRA until April 15, 1985. Also, you can set up an IRA from scratch at any time before that deadline.

IRAs are an efficient way to cut taxes. You're not only deferring taxes on that much income, but, because your contributions to a retirement account are subtracted from your gross income, you may also drop yourself into a lower tax bracket.

Income placed in an IRA is not taxed until you withdraw it — usually upon retirement when you are likely to be in a lower tax bracket. The interest and dividends you earn in an IRA also accumulate on a tax-deferred basis until the funds are withdrawn.

Tax Tip: In this high-cost era, we need all the tax deferral help we can get in preparing for retirement. The IRA should be viewed as a welcome supplement to Social Security and pension benefits.

IRA sums are not paltry. You may contribute up to $2,000 of your earnings to an IRA. If your spouse works, each of you may set up a separate IRA and contribute up to $2,000 for a family total of $4,000.

The way the law is written, one can contribute $2,000 to a 1984 IRA even if that sum represents the worker's entire earnings for the year. That's a godsend to part-timers, particularly working mothers.

If the taxpayer has a non-earner spouse, the IRA family contribution maximum is $2,250. This form of IRA is called a Spousal IRA. You and your spouse may apportion this money between you any way you like so long as no more than $2,000 is apportioned to one spouse.

Tax Tip: The sooner you act, the sooner your tax-sheltered income will begin earning tax-sheltered money. Actually, you should set aside your IRA money as early as you can. It is not generally realized that IRA funds can be put to work for 1985 as early as next Jan. 1, 1985. That puts the money to work for you on a tax-sheltered basis for 15½ months before the deadline for filing your 1985 tax return.

Tax Trap: If you add to your retirement account after the close of the calendar year, be sure to specify to your financial institution which year the contribution is for.

Tax Tip: For 1984, a non-working divorced spouse gets a tax break by putting up to $1,125 a year from alimony and other payments into an IRA. Spousal IRAs must have been set up at least five years before the divorce. In 1985, it will be possible to contribute up to $2,000 if receiving alimony up to that amount.

Tax Trap: If you must withdraw some or all of your IRA contributions before you are 59½ years old you pay a penalty. Look for two charges. You are immediately charged 10 percent of the amount withdrawn as a penalty tax. And, the full amount withdrawn is subject to income tax. Remember, you didn't pay income taxes on it when you put it in the IRA.

Tax Trap: If you set aside more than the maximum of $2,000, you face a 6 percent penalty tax on the extra amount. The tax is assessed year after year, so long as the excess remains in the IRA. No penalty tax is imposed if the excessive sum is withdrawn before income tax deadline.

County Pecan Show a success

Howard County went true to form with other West Texas Counties hosting pecan shows this year in that entries were down as compared to years' past. The reason for this obviously was the fact that the county pecan crop was another casualty of the disastrous drought of 1984.

Nonetheless, from a standpoint of enthusiasm of our county Extension Horticultural Committee, who coordinates our county show each year, and quality of entrants our 1984 show was the best ever.

Special thanks goes to Mrs. Suncha Christiansen, who worked diligently in assisting with the foods division of our show. Incidentally, our entries in this division were way up from last year and there were many tasty and attractive dishes. Mrs. Venora Williams, Mrs. Lois Rhoton always do a great job in the preparation of the pecan entries for the show.

Roy Smith was our official checker this year and Jay Freeze shuffled all the entries back and forth between the weighing, classifying and calculating stations. Mrs. Zula Rhodes and Mrs. Jowilli Etchison were back this year handling the scales for weighing and the calculation portion of the entries.

Determining percent kernal is a critical factor in a pecan show. Gail Earls helped us keep the paper work in order, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hirt of Garden City and Dr. Austin Stockton of Fort Stockton, Extension Horticulturist, served as judges. Judges in the Foods division were Mrs. Marion Farr and Ms. Denese Albracht, County Extension Agent-Home Economics from Midland County.

The pecans were classified into three divisions, Inshell (those varieties that require less than 50 pecans to make up a pound, which are generally marketed in the shell); Shelling (those varieties that over 50 pecans to make a pound and generally are marketed as shelled pecans); and Native pecans.

The pecans are entered as a 40-nut entry, 10 pecans are selected from the entry and weighed, then cracked, shelled, and re-weighed again. The percentage of kernal there is calculated and this then becomes a big factor in judging procedures.

All blue ribbon entries are then forwarded to the Western Regional Pecan Show, this year to be conducted in Odessa, December 11-14, and the winners there forwarded on to the State Pecan Show.

The winners of our Howard County Show included the following: Champion In-Shell Variety — was a Choctaw entry from Mr. Willard Neel, Garden City Rt., Big Spring. Ten nuts weighed 122 grams, 71.4 grams in kernal weight, calculated 37.2 pecans per pound, with a 58.5 percent kernal. Lee Freeze of Big Spring had the Champion Shelling Variety, a Western entry and its statistics were as follows — 90.1 grams for 10 nuts; 54.0 grams kernal weight; 50.3 pecans per pound, 59.9 percent kernal.

The Champion Native was exhibited by Glenn Pless of Big Spring. His entry's weight of 10 nuts was 78.5 grams; kernals weighed 26.0 grams, required 57.8 nuts per pound and had a 33.1 percent kernal.

Other blue ribbon entries went to Lee Freeze, Roy Smith, Jack Buchanan. Red ribbon entries included those from Chuck Searfoss, Debra Lancaster, and V.W. Kemper.

Clayton Fryar, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Fryar took top honors in the youth category of the Pecan Food Show with Easy Fruit Cake. Mrs. Vernora Williams' Orange Pecan Pie was champion of the adult category.

Other winners in the youth division included:

Cakes: 1st place, Denette Dick, Turtle Cake; 2nd place, Carrie Bruton, Pecan Glazed Cake; 3rd place, Brandi Nelson, Dump Cake.

Pies: 1st place, Dellamy Dick, Pecan Tartlets.

Cookies: 1st place, Raemi Fryar, Pecan Puffs.

Candy: 1st place, Shauna Richardson, Chocolate Pecan Clusters; 2nd place, Libby Wallace, Spicy Pecans.

Other Foods: 1st place Leigh Anne Wallace, Cranberry Pecan Relish.

Congratulations to all our winners and exhibitors.

China Long spends last day on job as KBST newscaster

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

China Long is completing her last day on the job today after four years as news director for KBST radio. Mrs. Long will become justice of the peace, Precinct 1, Place 1, on Jan. 1.

Denise Crenweige, a former Big Spring newscaster, will be on the air for KBST beginning Monday. Plans are to add another newscaster to the staff later in the month.

"I'm going to miss doing the news," Mrs. Long said. "I decided I'd like to try a new job. I'm looking forward to being J.P."

Mrs. Long won the justice of the peace race during a runoff in June against retired businessman Doyle Lamb. She appeared as the sole candidate for the position on the ballot in November.

Entering a new career is something she approaches with a bit of apprehension. "I hope I don't regret it. I'll miss the news business," she said.

Mrs. Long, 46, began as an intern in radio news for KBST in the summer of 1978 while still enrolled at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. At that time she had never worked in news before.

She returned to UTPB to finish a degree in broadcasting then took a job as news director for KHEM. She rejoined KBST a year later, in July 1980, as news director.

In an interview with the Herald during 1983, Mrs. Long said she tries to do her best at whatever work she is doing.

She is a longtime Big Spring resident and a graduate of Big Spring High School. She worked for 17 years at Webb Air Force Base in civil service.

She is married to Frank Long, a longtime Energas employee who is now self-employed remodeling homes. The couple has two daughters, Leslie Greer, who worked for Xerox in Midland, and Lisa Long, an Austin resident.

2 Newsom's employees promoted

C.G. Evans and Robert Garcia have new positions within the framework of Newsom Food Center, Inc.

Evans was recently named vice president of Newsom Food Center. He has been a Newsom's employee for 35 years. He began his career there at the age of 12.

Evans attended Big Spring schools and Texas A&M University. He is married and is the father of five children. He has two grandchildren.

He is also chairman of the deacons at East Fourth St. Baptist Church and is teacher of the Adult I men's class there.

Don Newsom, owner of the store, said Evans "has advanced through all phases of store operations to the position of store director. He has been in charge of all operations including merchandising and buying for the last 10 years."

In his new position, Evans will be in charge of all phases of management, including ownership decisions. He will also be in charge of data processing, total store coordination and store planning.

"During the last 52 years (Newsom's) has employed over five thousand young people who have gone on to achieve in all fields. It would be very difficult to find many young people who have not worked for C.G. during the past 35 years," Newsom said.

Robert Garcia has been a Newsom's employee for 10 years. He began as a carryout employee, then advanced as checker, stocker, merchandise, buyer, supervisor, assistant manager, department manager and now store director in charge of all grocery operations, personnel and checkstand and office operations.

ROBERT GARCIA and C.G. EVANS have new positions at Newsom's Food Center, Inc.

Garcia is a graduate of Big Spring schools and attended Howard College. He began working while a D.E. student at Big Spring High School. Newsom Food Center Inc. has been in Big Spring for 52 years, and at its present location, 1910 Gregg, for 41 years.

Newsom said the store has gone through 27 remodeling and enlargement programs. The store has 54 employees and an annual payroll of a half million dollars.

Crazy Days winners listed here

Daniel Norrell won a 12-inch black and white television from K-Mart as part of the Crazy Days promotion last week. Terry Heidelberg of Stanton won a G.E. toaster from K-Mart during the event.

Other prizes were won by Frances Smith of the Gail Route. Frances won a bicycle from A-1 Furniture. Nancy Tinsman of the Sterling City Route won a jacket from Anthony's.

All of the winners matched winning numbers from their newspapers with numbers posted in the stores.

Business highlights

ABILENE — Randy Burchell, who joined Abilene's Conley and Co. accounting firm in November of 1981, has been named a partner in the firm's tax department.

His primary interest is in the area of tax planning and compliance with special emphasis in oil and gas taxation and evaluation of tax-advantaged investments.

A native of Big Spring, Burchell graduated from Big Spring High School in 1971 and received his BBA degree in 1975 from the University of Texas at Arlington.

He was associated with the international firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell Co. in Fort Worth and Dallas before going to Abilene.

He serves on the board of directors and is treasurer for the March of Dimes. He is a past officer of the Petroleum Accountants Society of West Central Texas. He is also a member of the American Society of CPA's and the Abilene Chapter of the Texas Society of CPA's.

Burchell is active in a number of professional and civic groups and currently is participating in the Abilene Chamber of Commerce's 1984 Leadership Abilene program. He is the son of Lavell Murphy and W.A. Burchell of Big Spring.

late Thursday, said the company holds $62 million in assets and $95 million in liabilities. It attributed its financial reversals to "adverse publicity" and changes in foreign exchange and interest rates.

A number of subsidiaries were also included in the bankruptcy filing, including Deak-Perera Wall Street Inc. and Deak-Perera International Banking Corp.

The filing did not affect Deak-Perera National Bank, a federally regulated institution based in Fleischmann's, N.Y., which sells certificates of deposit denominated in foreign currencies to American investors.

The company also said Deak-Perera U.S. Inc., parent of more than 60 U.S. and Canadian Deak-Perera retail and wholesale offices is not involved in the filing.
R. Leslie Deak, president of Deak-Perera U.S., said in a statement the filing would have no impact on the company's precious metals storage program.

Legislative power is important

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Do you realize that a whopping 80 percent of all Texas residents live in the East Texas arch from Houston-Galveston to San Antonio-Austin, to Dallas-Fort Worth? That metropolitan-interest voting block can control any votes in the State Legislature unless our West Texas legislators hang together and serve on influential committees with tenure for leadership. This makes it imperative that we not only support our legislators, but that we select strong ones to stay in office to build seniority.

Twelve Big Springers attended the pre-legislative conference in Odessa this week. The State Comptroller and 22 West Texas Legislators were there to discuss candidly state government outlook in the next two years.

Important points:
• Projected state revenues are $36 billion which is $462 million short even to maintain present budget. Complicating factors, besides inflation, are dropping oil prices which starkly changes tax revenues, and growing population as more people move into state and require services. With these factors, the projected deficit will be more like $900 million.

• From 1960 to 1971, tax bills were passed each session. It's a distinct possibility this session, too, despite politicians' vows. The other alternatives being considered: sell some state-owned land; re-examine management of state personnel and delivery of services; examine public/private cooperative service projects.

• The only way the Legislature can have any affect on the court action regarding the Stacy Dam project is to pass a law to "undo" the decision.

• A state water plan is going to be given priority consideration by this Legislature.

Kathy Terrazas, local high school teacher, has had another article published. This one is in the Texas English Teachers "Journal" about teaching folklore. She has another article being considered for publication by the National Council of English Teachers "Journal."

Barry Canning, son of Harold and Doris Canning, is an architect in Dallas. Last year he designed and supervised the building of an elementary school in Coppell, a suburb of Dallas. In the November issue of the professional journal, "Architectural Portfolio," the finished product, Lee Elementary School was spotlighted along with Barry and his firm, Burleson

Money supply rise is good news

NEW YORK (AP) — The higher-than-expected $2.2 billion latest rise in the nation's basic money supply is welcome news and a signal that the economy can avoid a recession, economists say.

"Without a pickup in money growth, chances for a recession were on the rise," Maury Harris, chief economist for the investment firm PaineWebber Group Inc., said Thursday after the Federal Reserve Board released its report. "Now chances for a recession are declining."

The Fed said M1 rose to a seasonally adjusted $554.2 billion in the week ended Nov. 26 from a revised $552 billion the previous week. M1 is cash in circulation, checking account deposits and non-bank travelers checks.

It was the second consecutive weekly rise after a month of stagnation.

With the latest gain, the money supply has risen at an annual rate of 5.8 percent. The rise is well within the growth range of between 4 percent and 8 percent that the fed has targeted for this year.

For the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged $547.8 billion.

At the annual State Volunteers meeting, held in Abilene, three Big Spring State Hospital volunteers were recognized as among the top 20 in the state. Honored were Dona Reed, Minnie Howell and Tup Ferguson.

A.K. Smith, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital, is to be commended on his leadership of that institution. Major accomplishments at the Hospital this year include:

1. Expansion of the community-based residential services to provide alternative living settings for patients no longer in need of in-patient service.
2. Implementation of a program to place chronic patients in other settings.
3. Training for operators of alternate living facilities.
4. Development of a program called "Admission Prevention Lodge" to provide short-term intensive 24-hour service on the hospital grounds without requiring admission to in-patient status.
5. Reorganization of programs of several units of the hospital and within the rehab services.

Texas travel industry facts:
The travel industry is the second largest industry in Texas.

Texas ranks third nationally in travel receipts generated — $13.7 billion.

Texas' travel industry generated more than $316.7 million on state taxes in 1982.

Over 284,000 Texans are employed in the travel industry.

Almost 35 million visitors came to Texas last year.

Texas ranks 13th nationally in tourism promotion expenditures.

For every tax dollar spent on tourism promotion, the estimated return in state taxes would be plus 165 percent or $2.65 returned for each tax dollar spent.

Each two jobs in the travel and tourism industry generates one job in business supplying goods and services to the travel industry.

Travel dollars are earned elsewhere, but spent in Texas' communities. It is a new source of income — the best kind for the local economy.

Baseball's winter meeting comes to an end

HOUSTON (AP) — A flurry of million-dollar signings and multi-player trades wrapped up baseball's 1984 winter meetings Friday with free-agent relief pitcher

DON SUTTON
...Headed west

Don Sutton, who signed with the Atlanta Braves and the Chicago Cubs re-signing one of their pitching aces, Steve Trout.

Sutton agreed to a six-year, $10 million contract with the Braves in Atlanta.

Braves owner Ted Turner, who met with Sutton for six hours before the announcement, said he was "tickled pink."

"It was a tough decision," the 31-year-old Sutton said of his move from St. Louis, where he tied the major league record with 45 saves last season.

Trout is the second of four free-agent pitchers re-signed by the Cubs, who are intent on keeping their division-winning team intact.

In other action: —The White Sox engineered two trades with the Montreal Expos, acquiring pitcher Bob James and dealing away infielder Vance Law in one of the exchanges.

—The New York Mets traded pitcher Walt Terrell to Detroit for infielder Howard Johnson.

—Oakland and Milwaukee exchanged veteran pitchers, Don Sutton going to the A's for Ray Burris and a minor leaguer.

—Free-agent Lee Lacy signed a four-year contract with the Baltimore Orioles, who are trying to rebuild their offense.

—And the New York Yankees still were negotiating with Oakland A's outfielder Rickey Henderson and his agent, Richie Bry, on a contract that could consummate a seven-player deal between the two clubs.

Since the meetings began on Monday, there have been nine transactions involving 22 major league players. Sutton, Trout and Lacy brought to five the number of free agents signed during the meetings.

Henderson, who set a major league record with 130 stolen bases in 1982, arrived in Houston Thursday night but did not intend to take part in contract talks. "I'm nervous, I don't know what's in my future, what will happen to me," Henderson said. "I just want to get it over with. I want to know who I'm with and just go out and play the game."

The Yankees and Oakland made the trade on Wednesday, but it would not become final unless the Yankees reached agreement on a contract with Henderson. Henderson wants five years, and the reported asking price is in excess of $8 million.

The A's granted New York a 24-hour extension Friday on its permission to speak with Henderson's agent, setting a deadline of 6 p.m. EST Saturday.

"I don't have a comment on what I want," Henderson said. "Just look at what the guys who are the best at their jobs are being paid."

Trout, 27, a left-hander who was 13-7 with the Cubs last season, signed a five-year deal believed to be worth $4.5 million.

The Cubs, who finished atop the National League East, now have signed two of their four free-agent pitchers. They signed Dennis Eckersley last month. Still at large are Rick Sutcliffe and Tim Lincecum.

Sutcliffe, the 1984 Cy Young winner, has narrowed his decision to the Cubs, San Diego, Kansas City and Atlanta. St. Louis had only an outside chance, and Baltimore and California apparently have pulled out. Sutcliffe is not expected to sign for another week or so.

"We made a commitment to the city of Chicago and to our ballclub to get our people back," Cubs Manager Dallas Green said. "In my opinion, Steve has not reached his fullest potential yet."

Trout joined the Cubs from the White Sox in 1983 and enjoyed his best season last year. He led the club in starts with 31, and his 13 victories and 3.41 earned run average were the best of his career.

"We just decided to get it done," said one of his agents, Randy Hendricks. "We wanted a five-year contract and the other teams wanted to give him three years. That was a deciding factor."

The first deal between the White Sox and Expos brought Chicago the relief pitcher they had sought in James, who had 10 saves and a 3.66 ERA in 1984. Law had his best major league season in 1984 with 17 homers and 59 runs batted in, batting .252.

The other deal between the two clubs sent infielder Bryan Little to Chicago for pitcher Bert Roberge, who spent most of last season with the White Sox's Denver Class AAA affiliate. Little, a renowned bunter, batted .244.

The acquisition of the right-handed Terrell ended Detroit Manger Sparky Anderson's hunt for another starting pitcher, while the Mets wanted Johnson as a backup for third baseman Ray Knight, who underwent arm surgery in the offseason. The Tigers originally had wanted a left-hander, but Anderson said he was pleased with the deal.

"First, we had to get a pitcher, and then we could worry whether he was right-handed or left-handed," Anderson said. "We worked all week on this deal, and we're extremely pleased."

The Oakland-Milwaukee deal seemed an even exchange of pitchers past their prime. Burris, 34, was 13-10 with a 3.14 ERA last year for the A's; Sutton, 39, was 14-12 and 3.77. Burris had demanded a trade.

A's General Manager Sandy Alderson said Sutton could contribute off the field as well as on the mound.

"We have a very young pitching staff that may get even younger," Alderson said. "We feel we'll have a stabilizer with some veteran talent."

Dickerson making record run

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Eric Dickerson has been dreaming of the record, but the dreams have been troubled.

"The record means a lot, but I'm so tired of hearing about it," said Dickerson, the Los Angeles Rams' running back who is on the verge of erasing O.J. Simpson's National Football League single-season rushing mark.

"I can hardly even sleep. I've dreamed that I had 2,001 yards, and that I was going to get the record. I've talked about it so much, I'm thinking about it even when I try to take a nap — 2,000 yards, 2,000 yards.

"It's getting ridiculous." Heading into the final two games of the regular season, Dickerson has rushed for 1,792 yards — 211 yards shy of the record 2,003 Simpson gained for the Buffalo Bills 11 years ago. The NFL season was extended from 14 to 16 games in 1978.

An All-America at Southern Methodist University who established an NFL rookie rushing mark with 1,808 yards last year, Dickerson has been the center of athletic attention since growing up in Sealy, Texas (population 4,418).

He gained nearly 8,000 yards rushing for Sealy High School, including 2,653 his senior year, and lettered in basketball and track. In college, he tied the SMU career scoring record of 288 points, set by Doak Walker, and scored 17 touchdowns as a senior.

In his rookie year in the NFL, he scored 18 TDs rushing, had nine 100-yard games, and was a consensus choice for All-Pro.

But the attention focused on him now is unlike anything that he has undergone before, he said. "This is becoming a big distraction," Dickerson said. "I hope I can get it behind me, because it's bothering me; it's worrying me too much. Everybody's asking about it, people asking for interviews all the time.

"It's great to have a good year, but people have been bothering me too much. It's like a bunch of bees and honey."

Nevertheless, Dickerson has remained cordial and responsive during interviews.

He said he talked recently with Simpson, who predicted last year that the young Rams' runner eventually would better the record. "We talked mostly what everyone else is talking about," Dickerson said, adding with a laugh: "He was crying a little bit that he was going to be an ex-record holder."

Dickerson runs with a gliding, straight-up style that makes his rushing appear almost effortless. "Every blue moon, a back like that will come along," Simpson said. "(Gale) Sayers was one and so was I... He can be the best."

"I wouldn't trade Eric for anyone I've seen," Rams Coach John Robinson said. "I can't imagine having a better player than Eric Dickerson. He goes by people so fast they don't have time to get in position to tackle him."

"He's the prettiest runner in the game," said Jim Brown, whose NFL career rushing record was broken by Walter Payton this season.

"He's a great back," New Orleans Coach Bum Phillips said. The 6-foot-3, 218-pound Dickerson said he sees "some similarities" between himself and Simpson, including the belief of many scouts that both were "too tall" to be good running backs.

"I saw him play quite a bit, anytime he was on television, I tried to watch," Dickerson said. "But every player does his own thing; you don't go out and say, 'I'm going to be like O.J. in '73.'" It doesn't bother him that Simpson set the record during a 14-game season while he has 16 games to try and break it, Dickerson added.

"No, O.J. did it in 14 games, maybe I can do it in 14 games someday, maybe not," he said. "Nobody's done it in 16, so I'll be the first."

Robinson, who coached Heisman Trophy winning tailbacks Charles White and Marcus Allen at the University of Southern California, has said that Dickerson, like the other great backs he's been around, seems to have an aura of invincibility.

"Some days, when everything's going right, I do feel invincible," Dickerson said. "There are times when I feel like there's no way they can stop me. Other days are rough and tough and I'm trying to get two or three yards."

"On those good days, it's almost like me against them, everything's working, going perfect. I know the offensive line is there, but I really don't see them. I'm on such a natural high, I'm not aware of them."

Running the football is what Dickerson does best, and does frequently. Last season, he set an NFL record of 380 carries, and this Dickerson page 2-B

Steers down Abernathy in Canyon Reef tourney

SNYDER — The Big Spring Steers gained their second win of the season with a 70-68 come-from-behind win over the Abernathy Antelopes in the second round of the Canyon Reef Tournament.

The win gives coach Mike Randle's crew a 2-6 record, tying the number of games they won all last season. It rebounded them after losing to host Snyder, 81-66 in the opening round of the tourney.

It took a 31-point fourth quarter for the Steers to rally back for the win. The Antelopes led Big Spring 51-39 going into the final stanza, but timely free throw shooting and pressure defense prevailed in the win.

The Steers went to the line 19 times in the final quarter alone.

Sophomore guard Bernard Williams led the Steers scoring with 19 points. Mike Leuschner added 16 points while Brian Mayfield added 12.

Thomas sparks Pistons past Denver

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Isiah Thomas scored 19 of his 27 points in the second half to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 122-115 National Basketball Association victory over the Denver Nuggets Friday night.

It was the third straight defeat for the Nuggets, who saw their record in the Midwest Division slip to 13-6. The Pistons moved a game over .500 at 11-10 in the Central Division.

Denver's high-scoring Alex English scored 21 of his 32 points in the first half as the Nuggets took a 65-62 lead at intermission.

A turnaround 10-foot jumper by Terry Tyler pulled the Pistons to within 78-77 with 7:57 remaining in the third quarter.

Thomas hit a 10-footer from the left wing 37 seconds later to put the Pistons ahead 79-78 and Detroit never trailed again.

76ers 122
Lakers 116

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Moses Malone scored 35 points, 16 in a third-period rally that broke open the game, as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Los Angeles Lakers 122-116 Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Lakers closed within 78-77 with 6:35 left in the third quarter, but the Sixers then erupted on a 20-11 surge to lead 98-88 at the end of three periods.

The Lakers reduced their deficit to 101-94 with 10:12 remaining but came no closer until the end.

Julius Erving scored 24 as the 76ers won their sixth straight game and eighth of the last nine. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 24 points, while Earvin Johnson had 21 points and 16 assists. Rookie Charles Barkley led the 76ers with 15 rebounds, while Malone had 12.

Hawks 101
Clippers 89

ATLANTA (AP) — Dominique Wilkins scored 31 points, including 14 in the fourth quarter, to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 101-89 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

The Hawks led most of the game, but Los Angeles closed to within 81-79 on a Norm Nixon jump shot with 7:30 left.

The Clippers could come no closer.

The Hawks gradually pulled away and led 101-87 with 30 seconds left, as Wilkins scored nine of Atlanta's final 13 points. The Hawks, ahead 51-40 after the first half, went ahead by 62-46 on Cliff Levingston's layup and free throw with just over nine minutes remaining in the third quarter.

But the Clippers outscored the Hawks 17-4 over the next 6:30 and came within 66-63 on Michael Cage's two free throws with just under three minutes left in the period. Atlanta took the lead for good at 17-16 on Glenn Rivers' jumper with 3:11 left in the first quarter. The Hawks led 21-20 at end of the first period.

Dickerson

season is averaging 23 carries a game. Despite the pounding and the attention focused upon him by opposing defenses, Dickerson said he feels strong.

"I don't feel like I'm being run too hard," he said, remarking that he's usually never sore after games. "I've never really felt tired on the field, never come out of a game exhausted."

"You can hit him all day long," New York Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor said, "and he'll still break one later if someone lets down."

The Rams thrive on their ground game, and Robinson, with his Southern Cal roots, coaches a run-oriented offense. Dickerson said he feels fortunate to have hooked up with both, noting that Robinson recruited him for Southern Cal out of high school.

At SMU, Dickerson was sort of half-a-back, sharing playing time with Craig James in the Mustangs' "Pony Express" backfield. Still, Dickerson was impressive enough to finish third in the 1982 Heisman balloting and be taken by the Rams as the second player overall in the NFL draft, behind quarterback John Elway.

For a while, Dickerson feared he would be picked by the Houston Oilers, who had the No. 2 choice. After spending his college career in Texas, Dickerson said, he told the Oilers he wanted to play pro ball somewhere else and, if they drafted him, they'd be wasting a pick because he'd go to the United States Football League.

Robinson called and asked if Dickerson was interested in playing for Los Angeles. Dickerson said he was, and the Rams made a trade with the Oilers for the right to pick second.

If Dickerson does shatter Simpson's record, it may end his "2,000 yards, 2,000 yards," dreams, but it won't exactly be the realization of a life-long dream.

"When I was a kid," he said, "I wanted to be a fireman."

Pokes defensive strategy simple, stop John Riggins

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' game plan against the Washington Redskins on Sunday is simple but difficult: Stop John Riggins.

Riggins gained 165 yards against the Cowboys in October and Washington waltzed to a 34-14 victory.

"Few teams stop Riggins but we'll have to try," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "He's a tremendous asset to Washington down on the goalline and on third down and short. He's the reason Washington moves with such consistency."

Although Riggins has a bad back and missed last week's game, the Cowboys expect the Redskin running back to be hale and hearty for Sunday's 3 p.m. National Conference Eastern Division shootout in Texas Stadium. He's been practicing this week.

"He'll play," said the Cowboys' Randy White. "He'll be there."

Riggins spent last weekend in traction at a Washington hospital. Rest is the only prescribed treatment for his ailment once it flares up.

The Cowboys said there is only one way to stop Riggins: Hit him before he hits you.

"Helmet to helmet," said middle linebacker Eugene Lockhart, "that's the only way you can play against Riggins."

"Hit, hit, hit," said special team's captain Bill Bates. "We've got to out-hit Riggins."

Riggins has 1,052 yards and 12 touchdowns and at the age of 35 is the oldest player in National Football League history to reach the 1,000-yard plateau.

He has missed two full games and carried just three times in a third in the last month.

Last year Riggins and many members of the team dressed in combat fatigues and called themselves "Riggo's Rangers" on the trip to Dallas and an eventual victory over the Cowboys.

"Heaven knows what they'll do this trip," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "They never tell me how they're going to dress."

The odds makers rate Washington a one-point favorite. Dallas, Washington and the New York Giants all have 9-5 records and are being hotly pursued by the St. Louis Cardinals at 8-6.

Coahoma takes hoop wins from Stanton

COAHOMA — Both the Coahoma boys and girls basketball teams took wins over Stanton here last night in non-district action.

The Coahoma girls put a stingy defense on Stanton while taking a 39-17 win in a very physical game.

Coahoma was paced by Leslie Kirkpatrick with 12 points. Brandi Kloss and Shana Fowler added 8 and 6 points respectively. Stanton's leading scorer Sabrenia Finch was held to six points.

Coahoma is 5-3 while Stanton falls to 4-3.

In the boys contest, the Bulldogs rallied in the final quarter to nip the Buffaloes 55-51. Stanton had jumped out to a 21-7 lead after one quarter of play and led 42-40 going into the final stanza.

Brian Calaway led the winners with 15 points.

TI to lay off 2,000

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Instruments Inc. announced Friday that a weakening of the commercial semiconductor market was forcing it to layoff 2,000 of its workers, primarily in Texas.

The company said the workforce reductions would begin in January 1985. TI, which has semiconductor operations in Dallas, Houston, Sherman, Midland, Lubbock and overseas, said it had no details on exactly where the reductions would be made.

"This reflects a very significant weakening of market demand at this time which has been going on for several months," said company spokesman Norman Neureiter.

TI and other chip makers have watched 1984 develop from a boom year to one of oversupply, declining orders and falling prices, although sales still are expected to be up sharply for the year overall.

In its third quarter report, the company had said, "TI's semiconductor order rates declined from the high levels of the first half, reflecting customers' inventory adjustments, improvements in product availability and the moderating growth of U.S. industrial production."

Neureiter said that slow down has continued in the fourth quarter.

TI, which employs 85,000 worldwide, said affected employees will receive severance pay or will be placed on furlough. In addition to the layoffs, the company said reduced work schedules are being implemented in some plants.

Environmental probe wanted in strip-mining

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — Two environmental groups have asked Interior Secretary William Clark to formally investigate the Texas Railroad Commission's regulation of strip-mining operations for lignite coal in east and central Texas.

The Washington-based Environmental Policy Institute and the Texas Committee on Natural Resources of Dallas charged that the railroad commission has issued surface mining permits to companies that violate state and federal guidelines for replacement of top soil in strip-mining projects.

Although the two groups filed the same petition in 1982 and were turned down by the Interior Department, new evidence has provided a stronger case against the coal companies, according to Jim Lyon, assistant director of the citizens mining project with EPI.

In response to similar petitions in the past, the states of Oklahoma and Tennessee have lost part of their regulatory authority over strip-mining to the Office of Surface Mining with the Department of Interior.

Since the 1982 request, the surface mining office has prepared a report about Texas regulation of the strip-mining industry and the industry's compliance with topsoil provisions of state and federal law. That 63-page report was critical of the restoration of strip-mining areas in Texas and supported the claim by EPI that acid-forming materials were being replaced in the top soil.

In part because of the report, an official with the surface mining office confirmed Lyon's claim that EPI's petition would get a serious review.

"We are certainly not going to categorically deny the petition," said Brent Wahlquist, OSM's assistant director for technical services and research.

He said OSM already had agreed already to one request in the petition, releasing the OSM report on Texas strip-mining practices. He said the agency would issue notice of the public availability of the report in the Federal Register.

Wahlquist said the final report from OSM on Texas strip-mining practices probably would be finished by March or April, although he would not verify whether the final report would be as critical of topsoil practices at Texas coal mines. The report is separate from the formal investigation requested by the environmental group.

If the investigation is initiated, a formal team from the surface mining office would be sent into the state to review records of the coal companies and the Railroad Commission and a public hearing would be held on the issue.

"There is a wide range of views (about) how serious the problem is (in Texas)," said Wahlquist. "I do feel Texas has taken some significant steps to address the problem to the extent there is a problem," he said.

An attorney for the Texas Railroad Commission said that coal companies operating in Texas are within legal limits.

State Capitol views protected

AUSTIN — Another 18 views of the Texas Capitol have been proposed for protection by the Austin City Council, which is expected to vote on the ordinance Dec. 20.

Many Austin residents have voiced concern that development threatens to choke off views of the Capitol, which sits on a low hill between the downtown business district and the University of Texas campus.

Nine views of the Capitol already are protected under an ordinance enacted earlier this year, but development of numerous high-rise buildings is being considered in the area surrounding the Capitol grounds.

Most people speaking at a public hearing Thursday supported the council's view protection proposal, but several property owners said it would affect projects they have planned.

The Capitol view ordinances prohibit issuing building permits or site plans in the corridors for structures that exceed a height determined by a mathematical formula.

City to pay for sewer death

SAN ANTONIO — The city council has agreed to pay the maximum settlement allowed by state law to the parents of a boy who fell through a manhole and drowned in the sewage system.

The council voted Thursday after an executive session to pay a $100,000 settlement to the family of Raul Perez, a middle school student.

"We were going to lose that much anyway" if the case had gone to trial, City Manager Lou Fox said.

Under state law, $100,000 is the maximum the city can be forced to pay in a personal injury case.

The settlement will be paid by Gallagher-Bassett Insurance Service, the city's insurance company.

The boy's parents, Genero and Beatrice Perez, sued the city for $7 million in district court last December.

In the suit, the parents contended the city was negligent in leaving the manhole open and failing to cut high grass around it.

Siamese twins separated

GALVESTON — An 11-day-old girl surgically separated from her twin sister was in serious but stable condition Friday after surgeons repaired a pinhole-size leak in her intestines, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Cathy Leonard, a spokeswoman for John Sealy Hospital, said Alma Petry has had no problems since Thursday night's surgery and "is continuing to improve."

Doctors still hope Alma and her sister, Ashleigh, will be able to go home by Christmas, Ms. Leonard said.

During an examination Thursday, doctors discovered the leak in an area where two parts of Alma's intestines are joined.

"Of all the problems she could have had this was the most minor," said Dr. Thom Lobe, the chief of pediatric surgery, who performed the operation.

Alma and Ashleigh were separated during an 18-hour operation Nov. 27, the day after they were born.

Spokeswoman Linda Westerlage said Ashleigh remained "very stable" and is taking formula.

The girls were born to Wanda Petry, 33, of Beaumont.

Jury finds sheriff guilty in beating

DALLAS (AP) — A federal court jury Friday found Kaufman County Sheriff Roy Brockway guilty of violating the civil rights of a theft suspect who claimed he was beaten by the lawman.

But the jury couldn't reach a verdict on a second count against Brockway. U.S. District Judge Joe Fish declared a mistrial and gave prosecutors seven days to decide whether to retry the second charge.

Brockway has defended himself as "a soldier in the war on crime," but prosecutors described him as a "bully with a badge."

Brockway was convicted of misdemeanor civil rights violation in the case of Timothy Barry, 24, who was a theft suspect in October 1983.

The panel deadlocked on the case of Jeffrey Lee McDougal, 24, who visited the Kaufman County jail in March 1981 to inquire about recovering some stolen property.

The jury began deliberating Wednesday afternoon, and reached its verdict after resuming its deliberations this morning.

On Wednesday, Brockway, who took the stand in his own defense, said he struck the men because they provoked him with snide comments and "got right up in my face."

A Communist Is A Communist...

IN THE EARLY 1930s, U.S. recognition of the U.S.S.R. literally saved the Red regime from collapse. It also enabled these suddenly good Communists to embark on a series of bloody purges which left millions dead. Then, in 1939, Stalin formally teamed up with Hitler to divide Poland. Overnight, Washington's attitude changed and the Kremlin became bad.

After Hitler turned on Russia in 1941, things looked bleak for Stalin and his henchmen. America's image-makers quickly re-designated the Soviets as good Communists and started a $12 billion Lend-Lease program. We not only saved the Soviets once again, but we made them a world power. After World War II, Stalin and company showed their thanks by swallowing up Eastern Europe and menacing the entire Free World. From good to bad, and back to good, it was now official policy to consider them bad again.

In the late 1940s, meanwhile, official U.S. policy toward post-war China held that the Chinese Communists were good — that they were not really Communists, in fact, but only "agrarian reformers." With assistance from Washington, Mao Tse-tung's "reformers" eventually seized China, putting scores of millions to death. In the early 1950s, the Chinese Reds killed tens of thousands of American G.I.s in Korea and swore to destroy the United States. So, Washington rhythmically shifted its posture, and the Chinese Communists went from good to bad.

In fact, the Chinese Reds became very bad. So bad that the American people were easily convinced that the Soviet Union was mellowing. Virtually overnight, a new U.S. policy called for aid to the freshly re-designated good U.S.S.R. as a strategy against Red China. America promptly began "building bridges," a program that has sent an enormous flood of our nation's credit, technology and hardware to Russia. This aid increased even during the time that Americans were dying from Russian-made bullets in Vietnam.

Of more current interest, our generosity helped the Soviets to construct the world's largest truck factory and to build a paved road from central Russia to the Afghanistan border. But trucks from that U.S.-built plant rolled down that U.S.-built road in the 1979 Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

At this moment, the line from Washington has it that the Soviets are now the bad Communists. Not surprisingly, the Red Chinese are now good and have even won the title "ally" from numerous official spokesmen. In the wake of this latest metamorphosis, the Carter Administration began a military and industrial buildup of Communist China. The Reagan Administration vastly increased it — with generous credit terms to boot. And so, having massively contributed to the present Soviet might for almost three decades, we are now supposed to accept a repeat of the process in China — to counter Soviet aggressiveness of course!

Maybe you agree with us that there has never been any such thing as a good Communist. Perhaps you wonder why our leaders have never adopted a policy that refuses aid of any kind to any Communist tyrant. If you want to know who has arranged this dizzying parade of good-bad transformations that always benefits Communism and weakens America, we urge you to obtain and read a small book entitled The Insiders. This concise study carefully examines American policy and the men and organizations who have shaped it. To order The Insiders, simply use the convenient coupon below.

Salvation Army's Christmas mail appeal to aid the needy

Money for the Salvation Army's Christmas mail appeal fund has begun coming in, according to Capt. Carroll Braun of the local Salvation Army headquarters.

Total to date is close to $9,000. The Salvation Army would like to see the fund reach $40,000.

Money from the fund is used to aid the needy in the county during the holidays. Each Christmas the Salvation Army prepares food baskets and sets up a toy store to make sure no one is forgotten during the holidays.

Artist of the month

ON DISPLAY — Joyce Choate is the artist of the month for December and her work is on display at the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Choate has been painting for five years and studied under Patsy

Odom, J.D. Keele and Clara Tolle. She said, "I find painting to be a very good way to relax and enjoy it as a hobby. My husband, Carroll, and the rest of the family is very supportive."

Jackson sways to beat during courthouse testimony about song

CHICAGO (AP) — When superstar Michael Jackson testified in a $5 million copyright-infringement case, the courtroom became his stage, the witness stand his drums, the microphone his sound system and the jury his audience.

A smiling, singing, clapping, even swaying and rocking Jackson testified Thursday in the trial of Fred Sanford's lawsuit alleging the pop star stole his song, "Please Love Me Now," and made it into the hit "The Girl Is Mine."

But Jackson, 26, assured U.S. District Court jurors he had composed "The Girl Is Mine." He said he hadn't even heard "Please Love Me Now" until after the lawsuit was filed.

"I woke up from my sleep and wrote the song," he said. "And I went over to the tape recorder and sang it into the tape recorder and wrote what was in my head."

The lawsuit, filed against CBS Inc., does not name Jackson as a defendant.

But Sanford, of Schaumburg, says he gave a tape of his song to a CBS employee in March 1982 and that Jackson — under pressure to produce an album by April 1982 — cut a tape of Sanford's song 19 days later.

"The Girl Is Mine" appears on Jackson's album, "Thriller." With more than 20 million copies sold, it is the largest-selling album in history and has earned $100 million.

During cross-examination, Jackson conceded he had once told Rolling Stone magazine that when he thinks of a song in his sleep, "I feel that somewhere, someplace, it's been done."

But he said Thursday, "It's very spiritual. It's self-created. It's not as if you take it from someone else."

He said his songs "just come. They come out of nowhere."

Scores of fans waited to get a glimpse of their hero, but only a few, including the judge's two daughters and son, got in.

"I'll never wash this hand again," said one of the daughters, Jennifer Aspen, who got a front-row seat and a handshake from the singer.

Fans — one with binoculars — were disappointed if they thought Jackson would wear his signature white glove, parachute pants and dark sunglasses. He wore black slacks and a yellow knit vest over a maroon and white shirt.

But his voice was traditional Jackson — so soft that defense attorney James Klenk repeatedly had to ask him to speak up.

To show how Jackson, who doesn't read music, gradually composes his songs on tape recorders, the defense played work-in-progress tapes of "The Girl Is Mine" and other Jackson songs. As they were played, he mouthed the words, sometimes hummed, occasionally clapped and swayed back and forth.

Explaining how he composed a tune, Jackson hummed, beat on the podium.

'Hustler' parody is subject of suit

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — A Hustler magazine ad parody portraying the Rev. Jerry Falwell as an inebriated drunkard is "a little offensive," but less so than the real lequer ad it mimicks, a professor testified today in Larry Flynt's defense against Falwell's $45 million libel suit.

Edward Condren, a professor of English and medieval literature at the University of California-Los Angeles, said anyone reading the text of the ad could see it was a parody.

Falwell contends the bogus ad hurt his reputation, but Flynt contends it was a parody not intended to harm the Moral Majority founder.

Condren, testifying in the fifth day of the federal court trial, said the ad on which the parody is modeled has drinkers talking about their first taste of the lequer as if referring to their first sexual experience.

He said the original is indicative of "a creeping rot in our society" in its apparent condoning of a "jet-set" lifestyle of free sex.

Flynt's attorney, Alan Isaacman, said Condren was one of four witnesses he intended to call today before resting his defense.

On Thursday, Flynt's psychiatrist said the publisher is suffering from a manic-depressive mental condition that sometimes makes him want to destroy himself.

Dr. Saul Niedorf said Flynt's manic side surfaced when he gave a June 15 deposition in which he cursed, picked his nose and said he had proof Falwell had sex with his mother.

"They (people who are manic) tend to involve themselves in activities and statements that have painful consequences," Niedorf said.

Flynt has said he didn't mean what he said in the deposition. He testified Thursday that the parody was designed "to give people a chuckle," not to hurt Falwell.

"If you really want to hurt someone, you put down things that are believable," he said. "(Readers) know it was not intended to defame Rev. Falwell or any member of his family because no one could take it seriously."

The publisher testified that he was not himself when he gave Falwell's attorney, Norman R. Grutman, the deposition from a federal prison in Butner, N.C., where he was confined for shouting obscenities at a federal judge.

"I did not realize I was in a manic phase," Flynt testified. "I just don't know what I said. All I remember was my fears."

As Grutman hammered at the publisher during cross examination, Flynt responded, "You may have been the very person who triggered much of my behavior."

In 1980, Grutman won a $39.3 million judgment against Flynt and Hustler for Penthouse publisher Robert Guccione, who had sued Flynt for libel. The award was thrown out, and the case is still in court.

In a news conference during a recess, Falwell discounted questions about Flynt's mental competency.

"I think he's dumb like a fox," Falwell said. "He's a master actor."

In addition to himself, Falwell said he was defending President and Mrs. Reagan, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., Chief Justice Warren Burger and Pope John Paul II. All have been the subject of Hustler humor, he said.

Report says annual test saves lives

CHICAGO (AP) — About 7,500 lives could be saved annually if women over 40 underwent annual mammography — the most effective way to detect early forms of breast cancer, a report published today says.

Many cases of early breast cancer — such as those that cannot be felt — can be detected only by mammography, a low-dose X-ray of the breast, the American Medical Association Council on Scientific Affairs said in the report, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Mammography is the most effective diagnostic technique to detect non-palpable or minimal breast cancers," but doctors also should continue to stress monthly breast self-examinations, says the report.

Breast cancer — the leading cause of cancer deaths in women — will kill about 37,300 women this year, said Susan Hernandez, spokeswoman for the American Cancer Society in New York.

But the report said many doctors "are convinced that if every woman older than 40 underwent annual mammography, 7,500 cancer deaths could be prevented each year." About 80 percent of breast cancers occur in women in that age group.

In a related study of 300 post-menopausal women, about a third of whom had breast cancer, researchers said results show the efficacy of mammography.

Doctors say that there are about 115,000 new cases of breast cancer each year in the United States and that one in 11 females will eventually develop the disease.

Ms. Hernandez said the Cancer Society "highly recommends" annual mammographic exams for women 50 years and older and once every year or two for women 40 to 49. An exam, she said, costs between $50 and $200.

The AMA report also said technical improvements in the quality of the exam have decreased the risk of radiation exposure.
