Schools lose money under plan

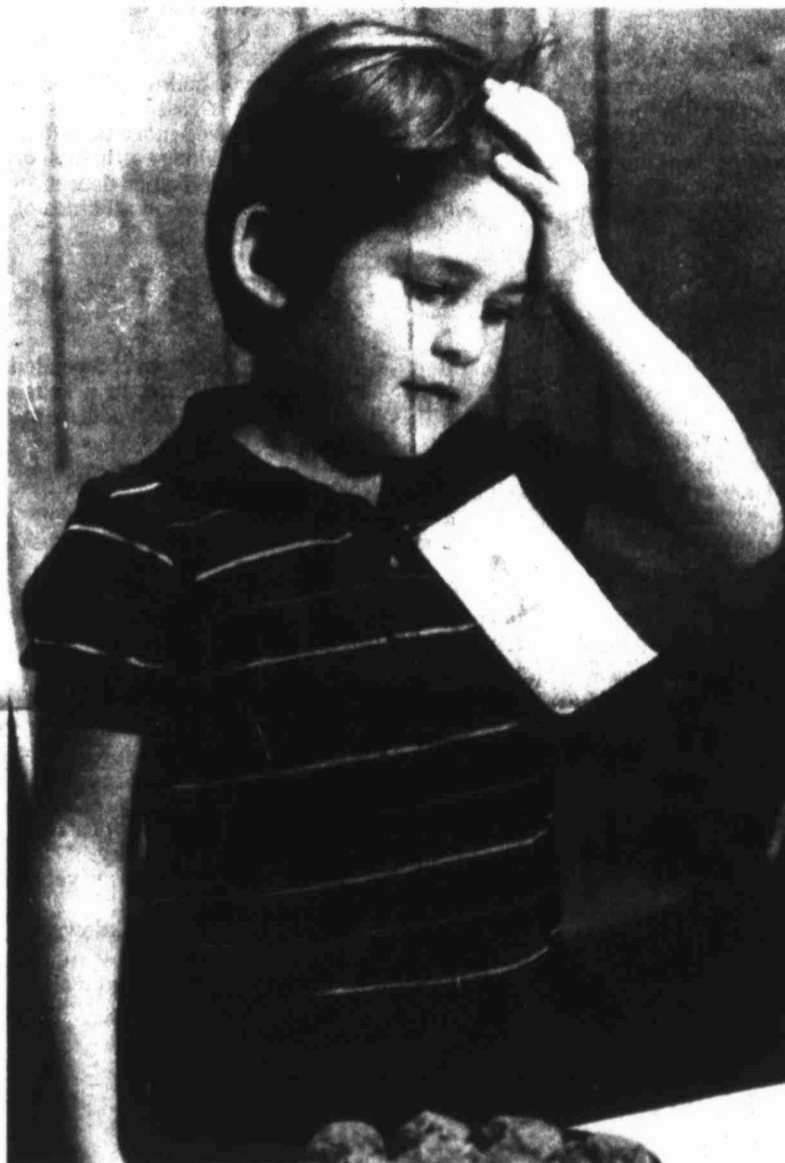

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A school funding plan providing extra money for districts with higher-than-average costs won quick and unanimous support from the State Board of Education. Under the plan approved Saturday, the Big Spring Independent School District will lose money. The current funding of $1,548.61 for each of the district's 5,214.79 weighted pupils will go to $1,511.63 under the new formula. Under the nine alternatives studied by the board's Finance Committee, the maximum proposed was $1,545.01, while the minimum was $1,494.02. Other Howard County districts with their current and new funding levels, as well as number of weighted pupils, include:

• Coahoma ISD — $1,460.96 to $1,443.33 for 1,094.11 weighted pupils.
• Forsan ISD — $1,451.57 to $1,420.36 for 542.60 weighted pupils. Proponents of the plan say it is designed to equalize the purchasing power among the state's 1,100 school districts by increasing state aid to offset higher costs for salaries and supplies. The new so-called "price differential index" for allocating school funds was ordered as part of the massive school reform law the Legislature passed this summer. A temporary index, however, was established for the current school year to give the new 15-member appointed State Board of Education time to develop a permanent funding plan. The index uses a system of counting students called the "weighted pupil." This means the average daily attendance is adjusted by pupil "weights" representing the higher cost needs of certain schools. See page 2-A

Tree buying tips may save holiday

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
Christmas trees can ruin a family's holiday if they are not properly chosen and cared for, according to Big Spring fire department spokesmen.

Because Christmas trees are so combustible and can send flames shooting upwards for several feet, people should take special care when selecting trees, Fire Marshal Jim Ryals and Arson Investigator Burr Lea Settles said. Locally, "Two people lost complete Christmas trees because of Christmas tree fires. And they were not people who could afford to go out and buy it again," Ryals said. "They lost more than what was just under the tree."

When buying a live tree, make sure all the needles are firm and not dry, Ryals said. "To test whether a tree is too dry, give it a shake. If any needles fall out when you're shaking it, then it's too dry to be used," Ryals said.

Settles said buyers of live trees also should make sure the tree has a strong evergreen scent. "After the tree is home, you should make several notches in the trunk, without removing the bark, about an inch to 1 1/2 inches from the base of the tree. Then the tree should be placed in water to make sure it absorbs water," Settles said.

When buying lights for Christmas trees, buy only those approved by Underwriters Laboratories, Ryals said. Outside lights should be rated for outdoors use, he said.

When stringing lights on a tree or on the outside of your house, check for abrasions or cuts in the wiring. And make sure lights are firmly screwed in or snapped in and replace all burned-out lights, Ryals said.

Lights for any Christmas tree should be turned off whenever the family has gone to sleep for the night or leaves the house. Unplug the lights if there is no off switch, Ryals said. In addition, animals should not be left in the house by the trees or candles, they said.

And strings of lights should not be used on metal or aluminum Christmas trees, Settles said. Instead, families should use a rain-bow light to shine on the tree.

If at all possible, the tree should be placed away from candles, fireplaces, space heaters or any other source or heat, Ryals and Settles said.

"Obviously, these things could catch it on fire," Ryals said. Circuits also should not be overloaded because that could cause a short, Settles said. Instead, families should purchase "power outlets" that have a built-in breaker system.

Also, people should never run an extension cord under a throw rug or carpet, because someone could trip on it, Ryals said.

Challenging O'Neill Stenholm tells why he backed out of plan

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles Stenholm, a Texan who is leader of conservative House Democrats, last week called off his challenge against House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill after the liberal leader promised his group a greater voice in the party.

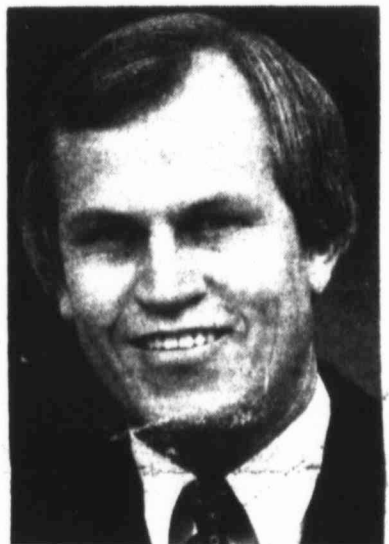

Stenholm, a party outsider since he helped pass President Reagan's economic policies in 1981 and 1982, expressed hope that liberal and conservative Democrats will work together to bring down the soaring federal deficit.

Will this marriage of opposites be a happy one? Or will an ideological clash cause the Boll Weevils to run back into the arms of President Reagan and the Republican Party?

In a recent interview with the Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau, Stenholm, a 46-year-old West Texas Democrat, discusses the future of the conservative movement, his challenge against O'Neill and the "stigma" of being a Boll Weevil.

HARTE-HANKS: What did you gain from the challenge against O'Neill?

STENHOLM: I think we had an opportunity to make our case to the speaker. And I think the speaker has demonstrated his sincerity for a fairer, more balanced House.

CHARLES STENHOLM

Of course, nothing has changed about our (O'Neill and Stenholm's) feelings (on issues) but there comes that time when you've got to compromise if you're going to get something done.

I think our (the Boll Weevils') relationship within the House has been improved, it's been strengthened considerably.

HARTE-HANKS: What would have happened if you had not made the challenge?

STENHOLM: I think there was and, of course, still is the possibility of stalemate. But with the severity of our deficit problem, both fiscal and trade, if we had not started the conciliation, there wouldn't have been the votes there to do anything. You would have had the liberals way out to the left and the conservatives way out to the right.

Now we're going to have an opportunity to get 218 votes (a majority of the House) to do something about the deficit.

HARTE-HANKS: Do you think the challenge might attract more Democrats to your cause?

STENHOLM: Not might, it has. Our CDF (Conservative Democratic Forum) group has grown already this week. We've added six new members and we have the possibility of two leaving so that would be a net gain of four to six members.

HARTE-HANKS: Would you consider forming a new group for both moderate and conservatives?

STENHOLM: No. We feel like that one of the things we've gained this week is the kind of credibility for the CDF that we've been seeking. We've set aside or at least pushed to the back the stigma that's been attached to the Boll

A FIREMAN and a wrecking crew member estimate how far a vehicle was thrown in an accident Saturday at 17th and Gregg.

Wreck sends 1 to hospital

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer
Two vehicles collided in the intersection of 17th and Gregg shortly after 1 p.m. Saturday and one woman was sent to the hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident.

Ora Ontiveros was "resting comfortably" at Hall-Bennett Hospital Saturday night after treatment of injuries, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

According to Officer Tony Chavez, one of the police officers called to the scene, a 1970 Blue Pontiac driven by Victor Martinez Jr. of 427 Hillside and a 1977 Monza Spyder driven by Ms. Ontiveros collided in the intersection. The Monza spun approximately 43 feet down 17th Street before coming to rest on the curb at the side of Gregg Street Cleaners.

The Pontiac came to a halt at the curb next to Morrison's Supersave. Traffic in the area had to be re-routed for a short period of time while crews cleared away glass and moved the vehicles from the street.

Lt. Ronnie Gaskins of the Big Spring Fire Department said two fire department units were called to the scene, including one carrying the Jaws of Life. Police feared the gas tank on one of the vehicles might catch on fire. However, neither the Jaws of Life or the fire trucks were needed.

Ms. Ontiveros was transported from the scene by Shaffer Ambulance. She was the only one injured in the accident.

Also called to the scene were additional police officers for traffic control and a wrecking company to pull the vehicles from the intersection.

The miracle man

70-year-old man recovering from near fatal accident

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 70-year-old man who was nearly cut in half by a circular saw and lost part of his intestine has been moved out of intensive care and is eating just six days after the accident, to the amazement of his doctors.

"It really is a miracle," said Dr. Everett Lerwick, chief of surgery at Missouri Baptist Hospital in St. Louis County. "This man shouldn't have lived to even get to the hospital. I've never heard of anyone surviving such a wound."

Lerwick said the blade had cut Arthur "Ben" Gross from the left rib cage through the underside of his liver, through many loops of bowel and the artery that supplies his right colon with blood, into his pelvis, through his scrotum and into his rectum. In addition, he suffered bone, nerve and muscle damage to his right arm.

The accident occurred a week ago Saturday as Gross, of Sullivan, was cutting firewood at his son's farm, using a 30-inch circular saw powered by a belt attached to a tractor's power take-off drive shaft.

"All of a sudden, the belt ran off, and I made a grab for it," Gross recounted Friday from his hospital bed. "It was running real fast, and my son said, 'Leave it alone. I'll shut it down.' Then for some reason or other, the belt started wrapping up on the tractor pulley."

"I had a hold on it, and it pulled me into the saw."
The next thing he knew was pain.

ARTHUR BENJAMIN GROSS, 70, and his wife, June, talk about the future after Gross was found in satisfactory condition following a near fatal accident.

"I looked down and saw my whole side lying wide open," Gross said. "Then I saw my arm wide open and I thought to myself, 'Oh no.' The pain was so bad that I'd have just as soon have been a goner."

Gross' son called Sullivan Memorial Hospital for an ambulance. As he waited 20 minutes for its arrival, Gross leaned against the tractor, fully conscious. His condition was stabilized at Sullivan, and he was then flown to Missouri Baptist.

"When he got here, blood was still pouring out of him," Lerwick said. "He was bleeding everywhere and screaming with pain, even though he'd been given Demerol. I don't understand why he hadn't passed out."

During seven hours of surgery, Lerwick gave Gross 14 pints of blood and removed more than four feet of bowel, along with bits of clothing, wood and other debris. "He should have had all kinds of infection by now," Lerwick said. I really can't believe his recovery. This guy is remarkable."

On Friday, Gross ate his first food since the accident and said he would not be afraid to use the saw again, with additional safety precautions.

His wife, June, seated nearby, had other ideas about the saw.

"It will be taken care of by the time you come home," she told him. "It will be at the bottom of the deepest lake I can find."

Firemen respond to couch fire

Big Spring firemen responded early Friday morning to a couch fire in an abandoned wood frame house at 205 Algerita.

No one was injured in the fire, which fire fighters extinguished after 45 minutes. Three units — six men — arrived at the scene at 12:48 a.m. Friday and returned to the station at 1:30 a.m., according to fire department reports.

The house was vacant, although it showed signs of use by transients, according to the report. Firemen had to use force to enter the house because the front door was nailed shut, the report stated.

The cause of the fire appears "suspicious" and remains under investigation, the report states. About $50 of damage was done to the house.

Stenholm

Weevils by many members of Congress. I think it's important for the CDF to come forward with its proposals.

On the issue of the speaker, in many ways it's very unfair that Tip has to take the rap for everything. But it's also unfair to paint the Boll Weevils as being something bad.

HARTE-HANKS: Did the speaker controversy help or hurt you in the party and back home?

STENHOLM: I rather have someone else answer that question. The proof of the pudding is going to be in the eating. Whether we've been helped or hurt will play out over the next two years. We have asked for a place at the table. And we've gotten it and we've strengthened the CDF. Whether it has helped me, I don't know. This is not a personal thing.

HARTE-HANKS: Were you hurt by the lack of support among many of your Boll Weevil colleagues? Many observers speculated that you would have stayed in the race if you could count on at least 10 votes.

STENHOLM: Well, I knew I had 11 votes.

Today, I know I had somewhere between 20 and 30 and then who knows. The upside potential was 40 and the realistic potential was 80. I think, really, on a showdown with a secret ballot, that we would have had 40 or 50 votes. (Stenholm would have needed 127 votes to unseat O'Neill).

The disappointment was in our inability to change the coach. So yes, there was some disappointment, but not anything we worried about 15 minutes past the time we made the decision not to run.

Southfork is site of auction

DALLAS (AP) — Stephanie, "The Super Cow," sold for more than $1 million in less than two minutes at a true "Dallas"-style gala auction at the famed Southfork Ranch Saturday night.

The world-champion milk-producing Holstein was quickly found on the auction block by three colleagues who sold for more than $2 million total.

The multimillion-dollar auction, sponsored by Price's Dairies Inc., an El Paso-based firm that raises cattle for their embryos, was a heavy mixture of Holstein hoopla and high-tech.

The high-tech embryo transfer process can increase the offspring of the best cows 20 times or more.

Price owner Robert Price III, a fourth-generation dairyman, said bidders — who come from as far away as Italy, Germany and Japan — had to guarantee a minimum line of credit of $250,000 to take part in the auction.

Prior to the sale, organizers said the total lines of credit represented $100 million.

Stephanie, owned by Long Haven Farms of Clayton, Mich., was bought by Price Partners Syndicate, which included the promoters of the sale, for $1.1 million. Dr. G.W. Snider of El Paso did the bidding for Stephanie.

Price said Stephanie produced a whopping 51,000 pounds of milk last year, enough to fill 104,000 glasses.

He said cows like Stephanie can help reduce world hunger because, through embryonic transfer, she can produce 24 to 30 new calves each year.

"With cattle like that it won't be difficult to feed the world," Price said.

Duarte questions peace talks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — El Salvador President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Saturday that despite two rounds of peace talks, he questions whether leftist guerillas really want to halt the five-year civil war in his country.

Duarte, in San Antonio for a speech at Trinity University, said at a news conference he is committed to securing peace for his Central American nation.

"Do they really want peace talks or is this a tactical maneuver," he said of the guerillas when asked if peace talks would resume. "I have to find this out."

"I am not ready to be an instrument of a tactical dialogue," he said.

Lennon fans remember

NEW YORK (AP) — A scattering of fans lit candles and sang songs Saturday outside the luxury apartment building where former Beatle John Lennon was slain four years ago. A banner was unfurled that said, "We love you John," as mourners gathered across the street at the entrance to Central Park near the spot designated by the city as "Strawberry Fields," after one of Lennon's tunes. Inside, his widow, Yoko Ono, and the couple's 9-year-old son, Sean, marked the day "just staying home, remembering," said George Meola, who works for Miss Ono. Those who came and went "just paying respect" were given coffee by a nearby delicatessen in an arrangement with Miss Ono, Meola said. Many of the fans sent "lots of flowers" to her apartment, he said.

Gun-battle erupts

COUPEVILLE, Wash. — A SWAT team on Saturday stormed a house where a heavily armed neo-Nazi sought in the wounding of an FBI agent was holed up, but the team was repulsed in a gun battle with the man, the FBI said. "We drew fire, we returned fire," said FBI agent Joseph Smith. "However, there was no apprehension and, to our knowledge, no injuries."

The Special Weapons and Tactics Team, whose members had blackened faces and wore fatigues, made the assault shortly before nightfall to try to force the surrender of fugitive Robert T. Mathews, who authorities believe has been in the house since Friday, Smith said.

Prior to the assault, authorities fired canister after canister of tear gas into the house on 50-mile-long Whidbey Island for three hours, he said.

Crash victims ID'ed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Medical authorities identified the 13 victims of a Provincetown-Boston Airlines plane crash Saturday, as federal officials investigated why a large section of the aircraft's tail fell off.

The airline on Saturday grounded its planes of the same model as the crashed aircraft.

The crash of Flight 1039, shortly after takeoff Thursday, from Jacksonville International Airport en route to Tampa, became "inevitable" after the horizontal stabilizer, a 21-foot-wide section of the tail, came off, said Patricia Goldman, vice chairwoman of the National Transportation Safety Board.

'Innocents' released

American passenger pleads for demands

TEHRAN (AP) — Hijackers who have killed four hostages on a Kuwaiti airliner in Tehran threatened Saturday to kill others, and an American passenger pleaded with officials to "prevent further killing" by meeting the sky pirates' demands, Iran's news agency said.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency also said the hijackers released 39 more passengers. The news agency quoted the hijackers as saying those released were "innocent," but it gave no further information.

Eighteen people, including the four hijackers, remained on the plane, IRNA said.

Before they released the passengers, the hijackers told the airport control tower in Tehran that they intended to start killing more hostages if Kuwait did not meet their demands, the news agency said. They did not indicate when they would carry out the threat.

The hijackers, who have said they killed two Americans and two Kuwaitis, on Friday named another American and three Kuwaitis as their next victims if Kuwait did not release 17 prisoners convicted of bombing French and U.S. embassies last December.

Kuwait has refused the demand.

The hijackers said they planned to put all of the Americans on board on trial, but did not elaborate. The hijackers seized the airliner Tuesday on a flight from Kuwait to Pakistan and forced it to land in Tehran with 161 people aboard. Most have been released.

The news agency said the American, speaking over the jet's radio, introduced himself as Charles Kipper and said: "Please meet their demands because they are serious. Please prevent further killing."

An earlier statement by hijackers had named a Charles Kipper, "an American CIA member of the Agency for International Development (AID)," as among the four passengers who would be killed next, IRNA said. The U.S. State Department had no comment on the name "Charles Kipper."

IRNA quoted one of the passengers released Saturday as saying that just before the release a group of hostages "made a futile attempt" to overpower one of the hijackers.

Mohammed Iqbal, a 21-year-old Pakistani, was quoted as saying the hijackers beat a Kuwaiti passenger who planned the attempt. IRNA earlier reported that the hijackers took a hostage to the steps of the aircraft and beat him. It said they then took the man inside the plane and radioed for an ambulance.

Iqbal was quoted as saying two Americans were kept separately in the first class section of the plane and that one of them had facial injuries. IRNA also quoted an Iranian doctor who was allowed to enter the plane as saying one Kuwaiti passenger was "on the verge of dying."

The unidentified doctor quoted the hijackers as saying that unless Kuwait met their demands, "they would kill themselves and others inside," IRNA said.

7.7 million starving

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — The number of famine victims in this East African nation is now officially estimated at 7.7 million — one out of every six Ethiopians, the head of United Nations relief efforts said Saturday.

Kurt Jansson, assistant U.N. secretary-general for emergency operations in Ethiopia, said the new figure replaces the previous government estimate of 6.5 million to 8 million, which was considered too vague.

The 7.7 million figure, released to Jansson by Ethiopia's central statistics office, will be used during a round of talks next Tuesday with representatives of donor nations in Addis Ababa and in debates on Africa's food crisis at the United Nations later this month.

Marcos defends health

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos declared Saturday that he was in good health, and beared his chest and abdomen at a Cabinet meeting to show he had no surgical scars.

He said government officials who doubt he is healthy should resign immediately. Marcos' opponents were not convinced by the president's open shirt act, which was later shown on the government's television station. They criticized the display, saying it was misleading, childish and unbecoming of a president.

It was the first time that Marcos, 67, called his Cabinet together since he dropped from public view more than three weeks ago, triggering rumors that he was seriously ill, had undergone major surgery or was dead.

Peres leaves for home

PARIS — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres on Saturday ended a four-day official visit to France with a denial that he had met recently with Jordan's King Hussein.

The Le Monde newspaper, quoting unidentified "good sources," said in its Sunday edition that Hussein visited Israel "about a month ago." The article was under the headline: "A Secret Hussein-Peres Encounter?"

Peres was asked about the story at Orly airport as he prepared to board a regular El Al Airlines flight to return to Tel Aviv.

"I met him (Hussein) neither recently nor earlier," Peres told reporters. "We never went to school together."

Program cuts lean on defense decision.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision that President Reagan makes this week on whether to trim his massive defense buildup will also go a long way toward determining the fate in Congress of his highly publicized package of $34 billion in domestic program cuts.

Give in a little on defense spending, and the president picks up support for the rest of his program, especially from Republican leaders who will ultimately have to count votes for the Reagan spending policies in the new House and Senate.

Ignore the pressure and plow ahead with earlier defense spending projections and the president loses support, to judge by the comments of the senior Republicans themselves. Reagan himself seemed to signal his intentions last Friday at a brief question and answer session with reporters.

Only Social Security and interest on the national debt are off-limits to this year's budget-cutting efforts, he said.

What about defense? When Defense Secretary Caspar

Weinberger returns from an overseas trip, Reagan said, "we'll discuss his defense budget to see what he can contribute" to the effort to reduce the federal deficit.

Budget Director David Stockman has proposed trimming about $8 billion from the Pentagon's buildup for the 1986 fiscal year.

More bodies discovered in Taipei mine disaster

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Search teams recovered 13 more bodies Saturday from the shattered Haisan Yikeng coal mine near Taipei, raising the known death toll from an explosion last week to 46. Still missing are 48 miners and officials said there is little hope they will be found alive.

In another development, three officials and an employee of the Maishan coal mine were indicted by a Taipei district court Saturday. They were charged with negligence and violating safety laws in connection with the worst mining disaster in Taiwan's history that occurred last July when fire swept through the Maishan pit killing 108 miners.

Police identified the indicted officials as Maishan chairman Chien Shih-cheng, 52; Kuo Teh-sheng, 54, the security chief, and Lee Kei-lin, 48, the electrical safety inspector. Also named in the indictments was Kuo Shin-fa, an electrical worker. If all 94 miners trapped by Wednesday's explosion in the Haisan Yikeng pit were killed, it will rank as the nation's second worst mining tragedy.

Search crews said the first seven bodies recovered Saturday were about 3,900 feet from the mine's entrance and the six others were found at the 4,900-foot level.

The government has announced that it will pay compensation of 1.15 million Taiwan dollars — $28,750 — for each miner killed in the explosion.

A campaign for public donations was opened Saturday to aid the miners' families and organizers said the equivalent of $37,500 was raised on the first day.

On Friday, the government ordered a new round of safety checks of all mines.

Premier Yu Kuo-hwa said any mine found unsafe would be closed immediately and the government would set up a $50 million fund to help miners find jobs in other industries.

THE CHEMICAL PEOPLE | Update

From Larry Don Shaw's 68th Session Report: One of the most important accomplishments of the 68th Legislature is the crackdown on drunk drivers — particularly repeat offenders. It will now be much easier to convict people arrested for DWI and far more expensive for them once they have been convicted.

One of the major changes in our present DWI laws sets mandatory fines between $100 and $2000, depending on the driver's record of previous DWI incidents and requires a driving course or rehabilitation center attendance for a probation first offender. Drunk drivers can also count on license suspension for 90 days to one year on the first offense and up to two years for subsequent offenses. Mandatory jail terms will also be much stricter under the new laws.

Previous convictions will not be removed from the offender's record — as was past practice. Another provision of the bill declares a defendant legally intoxicated if his blood-alcohol concentration is recorded at .10 or more under the new "intoxication per se" standards, and a refusal to take a blood-alcohol test upon arrest will be admissible evidence in a court trial.

Half the cases that "go through" the county judge's court room each month are alcohol-related-DWIs. Since the new law became effective on January 1st the number of repeat incidences has decreased significantly. Not only are the fines greater — up to $2,000, but there is an automatic suspension of the driver's license, up to two years, possible jail sentence and usually two years probation. The offender is also required to attend eight hours of DWI school and an alcohol offender's course. He or she is also required to attend counseling sessions to see if further treatment is necessary. In addition to court costs, a DWI offender has to pay a fee to the probation officer each time they meet of $15 and they could meet as frequently as once a week.

Texas' future is wedded to Stacy

The future of water for Texas is tied up in the future of Stacy Dam. Without the latter, there is little hope for dealing with the former. In a twisted way, that may be good for the Stacy Dam and Reservoir project. Texas is being forced to come to grips with how it will handle its water future and in so doing must address Stacy first. The only progressive response in addressing Stacy Dam is to allow its construction.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce last week passed a resolution warning the 69th Texas Legislature, which convenes next month, that no state water plan will work until the question of Stacy Dam has been settled. The key consideration facing this state in its water future is the one that involves allocating water which already has been claimed. Someone, somewhere already has a lock on virtually all the water that runs through this state.

In Stacy's case, permit holders downstream — and the Lower Colorado River Authority of Austin in particular — have the "right" to all the water on the Colorado from north to central Texas. That means upstream needs go begging, under current Texas water law.

The Texas Supreme Court, in overturning the permit for construction of Stacy Dam, found itself bound by law which makes it illegal to "double permit;" that is, give permission to more than one entity for rights to the same supply of water. What the law ignores is that while almost all of Texas' water is permitted, not all of Texas' water is being used. That fact is evidenced at its simplest level by the water that flows into the Gulf of Mexico every day.

In rainy times, existing reservoirs routinely open their floodgates to let water flow downstream, sometimes with damaging results to riverbanks below. Also ignored in this water equation is the question of how full existing reservoirs must be to strike a balance: a hedge against drought but not a horde of the precious liquid.

For us in West Texas, the answer is obvious. The Legislature must take a fresh look at water allocation, and state law must be altered to allow that new approach. The rest of the state, fresh from mandatory water conservation programs in what have traditionally been wet regions, must be brought around to that line of thinking. Otherwise, there will be no new dams in Texas, and thus a barrier to growth will be erected. That's a scenario this state cannot afford to allow.

It isn't too late to shed anger

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It seems like all my life I have resented my father and had lots of anger toward him. He never paid much attention to any of us and finally left my mother. Now I realize all this bitterness has poisoned my life and probably made me a hard person to get along with, but I don't know how to get rid of these feelings. Is it too late to do anything about them? — Mrs. R.E.

DEAR MRS. R.E.: No, it is not too late, and you have taken the first step by beginning to understand the reasons you have these feelings of bitterness. But you are right — bitterness can be very destructive. The Bible says, "Make every effort to live in peace with all men... See to it... that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many" (Hebrews 12:14-15). Although it may seem impossible for you to do right now, the key to getting rid of your bitterness and anger toward your father is to forgive him for what he has done (and what he has failed to do that he should have done). This kind of forgiveness is only possible through God's help. And we can only do it when we understand and accept God's forgiveness of us. The Bible tells us, "Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you" (Ephesians 4:32).

Notice that: We are to forgive others as God has forgiven us in Christ. You see, we do not deserve God's forgiveness. We are not worthy of His love. And yet God still loves us and sent His Son to die for us, and He offers us forgiveness as a free gift, if we will but turn to Christ and accept Him.

Accept Christ's forgiveness of you, and then ask Him to help you forgive your father in your heart. Ask Him to take away your bitterness, and to help you pray for your father and love him as you should. Christ can make the difference as you realize the depths of His forgiveness.

Three weeks, two days

If war is hell, tobacco addiction must be at least within spitting distance of purgatory. After 18 years of puffing, and the last five years huffing and puffing, I decided to put the odorous habit behind me. I'd like to say the decision to stop smoking was one of calculated logic, prompted by nothing more than an intellectual assessment of the relative merits and demerits. And I'd like to boast that the achievement of cessation, now in its fourth week, was pure force of will.

But if I said either of those things, I'd be lying. I smoked my first cigarette at 12, obviously on the sly. I partook only on occasions designed to impress my contemporaries. That lasted about six months, during which I consumed maybe four or five butts. Then one day during a rendezvous with my buddies down on the banks of a Houston bayou, an older, wiser teenager took a look at me and my friends' comical pseudo-sophistication and laughed at us. "If you're gonna smoke," he said, "do it right. You have to inhale."

"Oh, sure," we said, in unison. "Of course." So I inhaled. And that should have been warning enough. Halfway through my first Kool I thought death was imminent. My eyes watered, my head swirled. That nicotine is strong stuff. But pride forbade doing the smart thing. I kept right on.

At 14, an inopportune entrance by my mother into our smokers' den in a clump of bushes in the backyard meant a stern lecture and a promise made from the heart — no more smoking.

That ban lasted two years, and I've been at it ever since. It's been 16 years now, up until three weeks ago Friday. Two or three cigarettes a week turned to half a pack to a pack a day in college to 1½ to two packs a day in the eight years since I finished college and began fighting newspaper deadlines as a way of life. I thought I would beat the odds. No one beats the odds.

Doc Patel says my chest X-ray taxes his diagnostic abilities. There are little, well, problems. Some enlargement, a spot or two that appear on the film. He wants further tests, but first I have to recuperate from bronchitis that was so bad it didn't respond to two rounds of antibiotics and eventually sent me to the hospital for three days.

Patel tactfully refrained from blaming cigarette smoking for my hacking cough. He did write on his little sheet "heavy smoker," however.

A month of hack-hack coughing was the incentive to take a run at giving up the habit. And a new product on the market was the tool that has helped me refrain from ingesting the smoke. It's a nicotine gum that has gotten a lot of publicity, and rightfully so. Available by prescription, the gum contains nicotine — the real thing.

Chewing the gum releases the nicotine. The rate of chewing regulates the amount released, so each smoker can modify the medicine to fit his need. Since the smoker is still getting his nicotine, the addictive ingredient in tobacco smoke, he sidesteps the nasty withdrawal symptoms that have caused many a strong will to crumble.

That leaves me free to deal only with the habit of smoking — fumbling in the shirt pocket, sticking the tobacco tube between the lips, playing with a match, taking comfort in the swirl of smoke from the lips and nostrils as I contemplate weighty decisions in life.

The physical side of withdrawal is accomplished by the gum; that just leaves the emotional and romantic ends to be tended to. And putting those behind me is tough enough. Three weeks, two days and counting.

Christmas eve: to work or not to work

By JIM CRAIG
WASHINGTON — Another controversy shook Washington last week. Its tremors likely will last until year's end.
It had nothing to do with a possible thawing of U.S.-Soviet relations. Nor was it about policy in Central America.
It was not concerning a new Congress about to convene nor was it about the starving Ethiopians.
This controversy — in a city that thrives on conflict and tense moments — was about Christmas Eve.
Federal workers will have to work Christmas Eve.
And the town is beside itself.

What will the bureaucrats do? In year's past when Christmas fell in the middle of the week, federal workers got off Christmas Eve. Workers got bonus holidays, either before or after Christmas, from President Nixon, President Ford and President Carter.
But President Reagan told them to stay at their jobs this Dec. 24, which is on Monday. Or, if they don't go to work, they must count their absence as part of their annual vacation.
The decision was made while keeping in mind the criticism across the country and on Capitol Hill about the bulging federal budget.

Never mind that Capitol Hill offices likely will be bare on that day, with congressional staffers home for the holidays.
Policy on taking off Christmas Eve varies from office to office on Capitol Hill. Sen.-elect Phil Gramm's office will be dark that day, for example, while Sen. Lloyd Bentsen will have staffers at their desks.
The decision by the White House, announced last week, set tongues wagging on buses and subways and on street corners — wherever bureaucrats gather — as federal workers began to deal with the dilemma.
"Nothing will get done, anyway," reasoned one worker in the Office of Management and Budget. "So why not just shut it (the government) down?"

"It'll be a matter of long lunches on Christmas Eve," a supervisor in the Department of Transportation quipped. "But the lunches can't be too long. We have to come back to the office in time to leave early."
With a daily payroll of $223 million, giving an extra day off from work is no small matter for the federal government.
Donald J. Devine, director of the Office of Personnel Management, said the refusal to grant the day off was in keeping with significant cuts planned in the federal budget.
Federal workers will be encouraged to take a day of annual leave (vacation time) if they want to take off the day before Christmas.
For those who decide to sacrifice and go to work, the government is allowing supervisors to let employees go home two to three hours early without being charged annual leave.
Huh?
Shaving off a few hours of the work day Christmas Eve is still going to cost the government millions in lost productivity. Some argue nothing gets done on Christmas Eve, anyway. Others, even federal workers themselves, joke that when talking about the government, the theory that little work will be accomplished on Christmas Eve could be applied to almost any day of the year.
Although they all won't get the whole day off this Christmas Eve, most federal workers — at least those in Washington — will spend only an abbreviated day at the office.
'Tis the season to be charitable. Even to federal workers.

"The tax hikes we'll be making have required us to create a new cabinet position: Secretary of Euphemisms."

Around The Rim

The gospel and Marx

By KEITH BRISCOE

I offer a compromise in the great debate swirling before the Supreme Court over prayer in school.

An agnostic has challenged an Alabama statute providing for a "moment of silence" at the beginning of public school days.

According to the First Amendment and 200 years of court rulings, government institutions, such as public schools, may not promote religion. No prayers, no services, no proselytizing. It's very clear.

Alabama tried to outflank this democratic principle by reserving part of the school day for silent meditation; that is to say, prayer without words. Any rabbi or priest will confess that organized silence in itself constitutes a religious act.

I cannot understand why such a large segment of the citizenry is so adamant in its efforts to disobey the Constitution's explicit separation of church and state, nor why the government is so lenient towards this delinquency.

In a diplomatic gesture, however, I have formulated a compromise.

Give the pietists 15 minutes of every public school day. They can preach, pray, chant, baptize or whatever. In return, the government shall be granted 15 minutes of every church or synagogue service.

I can foresee state-sponsored lectures on Constitutional history, Marxist thought, Bertrand Russell's atheism and property tax exemptions for religious institutions — learned orations delivered with rhetorical flourish to captive congregations.

Doesn't that sound fair? The government has as much business in the church as the church has in government.

After a few months of this trade-off, I should think the principle of church-state separation would be clearly etched on the minds of those who now question the wisdom of our basic law.
Then our students can get back to studying the Three Rs instead of the Ten Commandments.

Writers recount panic, despair of survivors following poison gas leak

EDITOR'S NOTE — A city was poisoned in India last week, in a chemical holocaust unprecedented in peacetime history. In the following report, based on interviews with doctors, government officials and survivors, two AP correspondents reconstruct the tragedy.

By HARBAKSH SINGH NANDA and TINA CHOU

BHOPAL, India (AP) — The white death visited the squatter shack of Bimla Devi an hour after midnight. She woke up, startled by the cough of her father-in-law and a strange burning sensation on her eyes and lips. Quickly, her husband ordered her to flee with their only child into the cold night.

Outside, the surrounding slum was already alive with thousands of pounding feet and choking, panicked voices. Neighbors vomited uncontrollably or clutched at their eyes in pain. People grabbed for their belongings and children.

Bimla Devi, pursued by an eerie, whitish cloud, won the race with death, but when she reached safety the child lay lifeless in her arms. Her husband and the asthma-ridden father he refused to abandon died sometime before sunrise in their simple hut.

The cloud, a lethal gas described as methyl isocyanate, had billowed from a sprawling pesticide manufacturing complex just 50 yards from Bimla Devi's shanty and those of several thousand other impoverished squatters in Jayprakash Nagar colony.

"Safety is everybody's business," read a sign above the factory entrance. But that night — between 11 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, and 1 a.m. Monday, Dec. 3 — something went terribly wrong at the plant, whose majority owner is the U.S. chemical corporation Union Carbide.

Those two hours spawned what was probably history's worst industrial accident. By week's end, the official death toll stood at more than 1,600, with thousands of seriously injured among an estimated 150,000 who sought treatment. The unofficial death count was above 2,500.

A criminal investigation to affix blame has been launched.

Indian officials said Union Carbide's chairman, Warren M. Anderson, who flew to India Thursday from the United States and was briefly detained by authorities Friday, has been accused of "negligence and criminal corporate responsibility," along with local Indian executives of Union Carbide. Anderson was freed in bail.

The Indian minister of chemicals and fertilizer, Vasant Sathé, alleged that the safety standards at the Bhopal plant were inferior to those of Union Carbide facilities in the United States, a contention disputed by company spokesmen. Since the Bhopal tragedy, methyl isocyanate operations have been halted at a similar Union Carbide plant in Institute, W. Va.

Indian officials have said that the victims should be paid the same restitutions as victims in the United States would receive.

Different versions have emerged of just what happened here. But some government officials, company authorities, newspapers and survivors agree on the following:

The gas, used in the manufacture of Sevin pesticide, was stored at the factory in a concrete-covered, stainless-steel tank. Conditions were maintained to keep the gas in a liquid state.

That night, the gas came under massive pressure. Safety valves atop one of the 45-ton tanks were forced open and the gas rushed into a "scrubber" filled with a caustic soda solution that normally would have de-toxified it. But this time the gas surged through unfiltered and spewed out of a vent into the night air.

What sparked the actual buildup of pressure — an unusual chemical reaction, perhaps, or structural defects — is not yet known, or at least not publicly disclosed.

On Friday, Dec. 7, another version of the accident surfaced. A factory union leader, Madanlal Ramji, claimed that the scrubber was under repair at the time, and the leak resulted from a violent chemical reaction possibly set off by water entering the tank.

Government minister Sathé said that shortly before midnight, Dec. 2, workers at the plant noted on a meter that the pressure inside the tank had passed the "permissible limit" and then saw the gas leaking out. A 3-mile-an-hour breeze carried it off.

The workers alerted company officials and sounded the factory alarm at 12:20 a.m. But Bhopal's deputy police commissioner, Maj. Girish Kumar Tiwari, told reporters that two low-level workmen at the scene failed to take standard counter-measures, such as hosing the tank with cold water. Instead, they panicked and fled.

Y.P. Ghokale, managing director of Union Carbide India, said a supervisor later hosed down the tank and managed to halt the leak after 45 minutes. Some reports said only a small quantity leaked — leading to speculation that most of Bhopal's 900,000 people would have died if tons of gas escaped.

What followed the apparently complex interaction of technical malfunctions and human error quickly became gruesomely simple. Survivors and rescue workers recounted tales of horror.

Initially the gas rose above the factory, then veered briefly to the north over the Chhola Manbir slum district, before beginning a windborne, south-southeasterly movement along the sleeping city. Like a deadly dew, the gas cloud was forced downward by the night cold.

At the railway station, two miles southeast of the factory, Harish Druve, a popular, conscientious stationmaster, was preparing to receive an important visitor early in the morning. He died at his station, along with some 25 porters and beggars.

Nearby, at the bus depot, a knot of homeless poor were bedded down on public benches. They never awoke.

The first poisonings came in the Chhola Manbir and Jayprakash Nagar shantytowns, largely peopled by Moslems and members of India's lowest "untouchable" caste. Although they lived in the shadow of the factory, which was built in 1969 and had been making Sevin pesticide for the past four years, few of these largely illiterate people had any idea what was produced there. Some thought it was medicine.

"People die from floods, from sickness. I have never heard of dangerous vapors," said Ashok Kumar Jain, who lost his mother, father and younger sister.

Survivors from these slums said some heard the factory alarm and, seeing a rising plume of smoke, rushed toward it to help fight what they thought was a fire. Instead they met their deaths.

Other terrified residents bolted their doors, but the gas crept through crevices and windows, turning hovels into gas chambers. Others, beginning to inhale the acrid gas, ran off wildly. Many others died in their beds.

Over the next few hours, between 1 a.m. and 4 a.m. Monday, Dec. 3, the killer gas blanketed an estimated 15-square-mile area of Bhopal, stretching from the factory on the northern periphery over 11 enclaves populated by 200,000 people.

The gas scorched radish and cabbage fields. Water buffalo died by the herd, along with goats, cattle, horses and birds.

The poor suffered more than the rich:

They lived on cheap, squalid land hugging the plant in this otherwise lovely city of hills and terraced-ridged lakes. Doctors said many of their children were weak from malnutrition and thus less able to withstand the assault of the gas. The poor tried to run from the gas; the more moneyed fled by automobile and truck.

Entire families perished:

Nine-year-old Shanz Bee and his younger brother, Abram Khan, joggled behind their father and mother until the family was able to hitch a ride to the city's largest hospital, Hamidia. But the father died on the way, the mother in the hospital, and the two brothers later at their uncle's home.

Along with Bimla Devi's husband, there were many heroes:

Sunil Kumar, a 21-year-old motorized tri-shaw driver, was at work when he sensed what he thought might be a dangerous gas. He returned home quickly, bundled his father, mother and sister into the vehicle, which he then insulated with quilts.

The panic had begun. Kumar ordered his family to keep their eyes tightly closed while he drove nearly 12 miles out of the city. All but Kumar are now in excellent condition. He is blind.

And there were villains:

Some taxi drivers charged exorbitant rates to take the injured to hospitals. Eyewitnesses claimed some policemen and city officials ignored the stricken and joined the flight.

None of the survivors interviewed from Manbir and Jayprakash were aware of any attempts by the factory staff, except for the alarm, to warn the communities after the gas started to leak.

The first victims started staggering into Hamidia Hospital at about 3 a.m., although operations there initially were hampered by the poison. As the influx grew, patients were put in tents on the hospital grounds. Office tables were converted to beds. Loudspeakers began a grim litany of announcing the dead and missing.

A mother wailed over the bodies of her four dead children, a scene that was to be repeated with infinite shades of pathos over the next few days as the dying continued.

At one site, as many as two dozen bodies of Hindus were stacked atop each pyre to speed up disposal.

Soon after Monday's macabre panic ended, 304 were officially listed as dead and 10,000 injured. But the unofficial toll, later confirmed, was far greater and rising fast. Bhopal people called it "the devil's day."

Tax & financial planning

IRS SCRUTINY INCREASES

Unreported income accounts for billions of dollars of lost tax revenue each year. Stiffer reporting requirements have been written into tax legislation of recent years, and each year the IRS looks for unreported income by matching these reports to individual tax returns.

You can expect to receive a Form 1099 (an information slip much like a W-2 wage statement) by January 31, 1985, if you had income from the following sources: (1) $10 or more of interest, dividends, unemployment compensation, state or local income tax refunds, original issue discount, patronage dividends, or retirement plan or deferred compensation plan distributions; (2) $600 or more in a liquidating distribution from a corporation, rents, royalties, prizes, or awards paid by a business, or payments for services performed for a business where employee status did not exist; (3) any amount paid crew members of fishing boats on the sale of fish, sales of securities, futures transactions or commodities, and bartering exchange transactions; (4) $5,000 or more for consumer products sold to someone else for resale.

The payor who sends the Form 1099 to you will also be submitting the same report to the IRS by February 28, 1985.

In 1985 even more reporting will be required. Those who receive $600 or more of mortgage interest or $10,000 or more in cash in connection with a business transaction must file an information return both with the IRS and with the payor of the money.

Lenders who foreclose in a transaction connected with a trade or business must file a report with the IRS. Trustees of IRA accounts will be required to report the amount of contributions and the year for which they are made. Those who pay alimony will be required to report the social security number of the recipient.

Sports banquet awards presented

by LISA SWINNEY
To top off the football and cross-country seasons at BSHS, a sports banquet was held last Monday night in their honor. The outstanding defensive player award was presented to Jerry Anderson. Tommy Gartman and Jay Pirkle received the outstanding back awards. Jerry Meyer and Billy Russell were awarded the Coaches award. The outstanding student-athlete ward was presented to Blair Richardson. Doug Walker was awarded outstanding lineman. The choirs at BSHS are getting ready for Christmas by making plans for a special Christmas concert to be presented for the student body and faculty next week. For the first time ever, the Big Spring high school-meistersingers will sing in the sixth annual "Living Christmas Tree". The program will be put on for the public on December 15, 16 and 17. Since the theme is "the joy of Christmas", the songs will consist of many of the original Christmas carols. Also in the spirit of Christmas, decorative doors are going up in the halls of BSHS. The contest is being sponsored by the Student Council. Besides having only a week left in school before the holidays, there are also final exams to prepare for. The exams will be taken on Thursday and Friday of next week. Because of exams, school will not be let out early; it will last until the usual 3:25 bell.

Coahoma

All-district football team chosen

The following young men have been placed on the All District football team: offense first team — Shawn Justiss, offensive tackle; Offense second team — Barry Stafford, offensive center; Jimmy Yanez, offensive back. Chosen for first team defense were: Shawn Justiss, defensive tackle; Bobby Henry, linebacker; and John Swinney, defensive secondary. The second team defense was: David Hutton, outside linebacker and Brian Calaway, defensive secondary. The young men chosen for honorable mention were: Brian Calaway, Quarterback; David SHaw, outside linebacker; Dale Hodnette, defensive secondary; and Scott Warneke, defensive secondary.

Chicago strike is week old

CHICAGO (AP) — Negotiators for striking school employees and the city Board of Education returned to the bargaining table Saturday in efforts to end a week-old strike against the nation's third-largest school system. The Chicago Teachers Union demand for a 10 percent pay raise and the school board's insistence that no money was in the budget for such an increase remained the major issue in the strike by 28,000 teachers and 12,000 non-teaching employees. The district's 430,000 students have been out of classes since the walkout began last Monday.

The teachers' union submitted a proposal Friday but walked out of negotiations after six hours when they grew impatient waiting for a response from the board, said union president Jacqueline Vaughn. But, when she arrived for talks Saturday, Ms. Vaughn said she was "confident and optimistic" the board would make the teachers an offer. "The board has the expertise to make the necessary adjustments in the budget to find sufficient funds for a pay raise," she said.

Seminar to help cotton farmers make a profit

MIDLAND — To assist cotton growers with the hard decision-making they will face in the months ahead, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring a "Planning for Profit 1985" cotton conference Jan. 10, led by extension agronomist Charles Stichler.

The conference will be at the Holidome, 4300 W. Highway 80 in Midland. Registration starts at 8 a.m. and the conference will open at 8:45 a.m. Jan. 10. It will end at 3:15 p.m.

Topics of discussion include the 1985 Farm Bill cotton outlook, production economics, agricultural financing, cotton marketing (option markets and alternatives), irrigation management, insect pest management and crop production.

Speakers will include representatives of Cotton Inc. from North Carolina and personnel with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A question-and-answer period will follow each presentation for grower participation.

For more information call Dennis Poole at the Howard County extension office at 267-6671.

Food intake to rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Not only are food prices expected to go up again next year, but Americans are expected to eat a little more. That will mean food spending will put on a little added weight.

The Agriculture Department said at an outlook conference here this week that 1985 food prices, on the average, will go up an additional 2 percent to 5 percent, compared with a 4 percent gain this year.

Food consumption, according to USDA economists, is expected to average 1,425 pounds per capita next year, up from 1,409 pounds in 1984.

Thus, spending for "personal food consumption" is expected to increase next year to about $408 billion from $388.5 billion this year. That would include $114.2 billion on food eaten away from home, up from $110.7 billion this year. Food eaten at home is expected to cost $293.8 billion in 1985, compared with $277.7 billion this year.

Machine sales down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's farm machinery market, which has been declining since 1980, is still in trouble, according to an Agriculture Department analysis.

Michael Hanthorn of the department's Economic Research Service told an annual outlook conference here this week that demand for farm equipment "is expected to remain depressed in 1985" because of the generally poor financial condition of farmers.

"Farm machinery inventories throughout the market system reached record levels in 1984," Hanthorn said. "Domestic manufacturers have lowered production to bring retail supplies in line with demand."

A heart warming effort

A very successful football season came to an end last Friday night when the Wink Wildcats defeated the Forsan Buffaloes in class A regional playoff action.

The contest wasn't supposed to be near as close as its 26-18 ending. Wink — a powerhouse in West Texas football for a number of years was supposed to romp over coach Jan East's Buffaloes who had made a 100 percent turnaround from last season.

Most sports experts gave the Buffaloes little chance of staying within three touchdowns of the mighty Wildcats, why should they? How could a team with only two games playoff experience with offensive and defensive lines that averaged 170 pounds hold out against a veteran crew that has spent the last four years in the playoffs. Not to mention the fact that the Wink line outweighed Forsan by 30 pounds per man.

Add to the fact that Wink has one of the most sought-after quarterbacks in the state and it's easy to see why it was heavily favored by the sports experts.

Sports experts can measure the talent on a team, but they can't measure how much heart that team has, the Buffaloes proved that point last Friday night.

They displayed enough heart and determination that night to make the average fan stand and take note. It was no way that seniors Todd East, Mitch Hays, Bobby Headrick, Lane Salvato, Tony Miranda, Jason Donaghe, Marvin Kendrick, Tom Thompson and Gary Little; was going to let themselves and their teammates be in awe of the Wildcats.

These players and their other 15 teammates had come too far to worry about this West Texas powerhouse. After a 3-6-1 season last year, the Buffs had nothing to lose everything to gain.

At the start of the game it looked like Forsan might be shellshocked as they fumbled on their first play from scrimmage. The Winks fans sat back for another rout as their team scored five plays later.

In the press box I heard one very vocal Wink fan say to his partner "This is going to be easy, I told you these guys haven't played anybody."

The Buffs quickly showed they came to play as they marched 73 yards to tie the score. As Mitch Hays crossed the goaline I overheard another Wink fan say "they never would have scored if the dumb officials wouldn't have called those two penalties."

The Wink congregation rested easier as their team scored again and led 13-6 at the half. The general consensus of Wink's "Pressbox Fans"—it would be a Wildcat blowout in the second half.

Wink did start out the half with a bang by quickly marching in for another score. There was dancing and screaming in the pressbox, which was starting to get on all others nerves.

But again Forsan proved that "Buffaloes Pride" runs deeper than a two touchdown deficit; by driving 55 yards for the score. Senior quarterback East started it off with a 35 yard run and freshmen signal-caller Brant Nichols ended it with a 15-yard scoring pass to Headrick.

Again the pressbox was its good ole quiet self again as Wink fans stared blankly through the glass windows at Andrews stadium.

Wink's final score came with 4:54 left in the game. That was it as far as Wildcat fans were concerned as they started their victory celebrations and begin to put their coats on. But then Forsan did what few teams have been able to do all season long — score fast on the stout Wildcats defense.

Through my field glasses in the press box, I look at the faces of the Forsan players as they lined up for the kickoff. Determination was written in everyone's face. They had come to far to give up the ship.

It took Forsan only 44 seconds to score. It started with a 45-yard kickoff return by Rodney McMillian and ended with Hays making Wink defenders look silly on a 18-yard scoring run.

With just over four minutes remaining and the score 26-18, it didn't look like a cinch win for the 'Cats just yet — their pressbox fans took off their wraps and sat back in their chairs.

Wink did manage to hold on for the win, a hard-earned win at that. The climax came when the drained Wink supporters lumbered out of the press box and the once very vocal fan turned to his partner and said "These ole boys from Forsan play some pretty good football." Which is another way of saying Wink was glad to escape with the victory.

Like I said, you can measure talent, but you can't measure heart.

Mojo nips Lee, 15-14 Highland Park next

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Odessa Permian's Dal Watson rushed for 113 yards and the winning touchdown Saturday as the Panthers nipped District 5-5A rival Midland Lee 15-14 in a Class 5A quarterfinal game at Jones Stadium.

Watson's 3-yard scoring run with 9:05 left in the game put the Panthers, 14-0, in the lead for the first time since the first quarter.

In the first quarter, Woody Bryant spotted Permian a 3-0 advantage with 4:17 left with a 29-yard field goal.

The Rebels, who finished their season 12-2, ran up a 14-3 lead in the second period on touchdown runs of 3 yards by Walter Jones and 22 yards by Tyrone Thurman.

But Permian narrowed the gap before halftime on an 18-yard scoring pass from quarterback Alton Holloway to split end Greg Anderson. The try for two points failed and Midland led 14-9 at intermission.

Watson, who had 51 yards rushing in the first half, capped Permian's final scoring drive with a 3-yard dive with 9:05 left in the game. The try for two points failed again, but the Rebels never threatened.

The Mojo defense held the Rebels to only one first down in the second half.

No. 1 Hoyas dominate, 82-46

Georgetown overwhelms UNLV

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Bill Martin scored 17 points and Patrick Ewing contributed 16 points and 13 rebounds as top-ranked and undefeated Georgetown buried Nevada-Las Vegas 82-46 Saturday.

The victory, before a Capital Centre crowd of 11,287 and a national television audience, raised the Hoyas' record to 5-0 and extended their two-year unbeaten streak to 16, the longest in the nation.

UNLV, ranked No. 20 in the nation, saw its record drop to 1-2.

The Hoyas took command early, building a 21-11 lead after outscoring UNLV 10-1 over a four-minute stretch midway through the first half.

Ewing, the Hoyas' 7-foot center, keyed the Hoyas' explosion at both ends of the court. During one exchange, Ewing stuffed the ball over the head of UNLV's Armon Gilliam, raced down court to steal a pass and then came back to grab an offensive rebound and score again.

The Running Rebels, meanwhile, were unable to get their patented fast-break offense in gear against the nation's top defensive team. Nevada-Las Vegas committed 21 first-half turnovers and shot 33 percent (10 of 30) in falling behind 35-24 at the intermission.

Guard Anthony Jones, who played for Georgetown before transferring to UNLV last year, provided the only spark for the visitors, scoring nine points and grabbing nine rebounds in the first half. Jones failed to score in the second half.

The Running Rebels' frontcourt of Ed Catchings, Frank James and Richie Adams, proved ineffective against the 7-foot Ewing as they shot a collective 0-for-6 in the opening stanza.

Any chance of a comeback was quickly dispelled in the second half as the Hoyas widened their advantage to 51-30 six minutes into the period.

Michael Jackson, whose passes keyed the Georgetown fast break in the first half, took it to the basket to pick up six points as the Hoyas outscored UNLV 16-6. Jackson finished with 11 points and 12 assists.

Georgetown, which beat UNLV twice last year, the second meeting in the NCAA's Western Regionals on their way to the NCAA Division I Championship, never eased up as the lead ballooned to 74-40 with 4:33 to play.

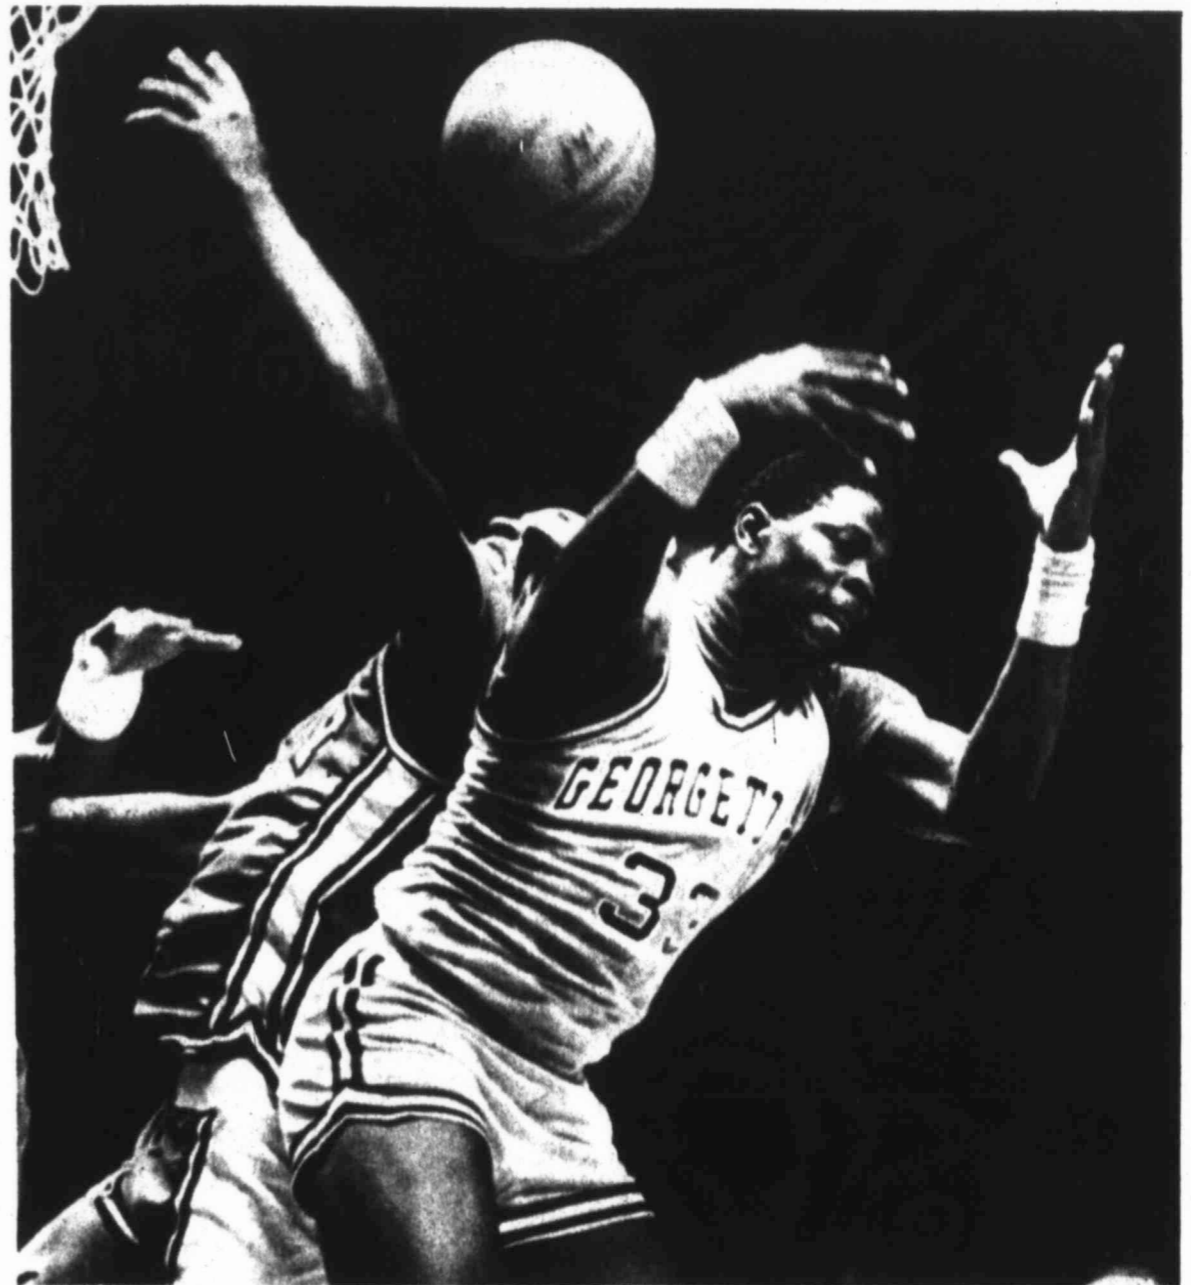

(No. 11) Indiana 81

Kentucky 68

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Guard Steve Alford broke from a scoring slump with a season-high 24 points Saturday as 11th-ranked Indiana, giving Coach Bob Knight his 400th career victory, beat Kentucky 81-68 in a college basketball game.

The victory evened the Hoosiers' record at 2-2 for the season, while Kentucky, with three starters held scoreless, dropped to 1-3.

Alford, a 6-foot-2 sophomore and a member of Knight's gold medal U.S. Olympic team last summer, was held to four points in Tuesday's loss at Notre Dame and had just eight points in the first half against Kentucky.

But he hit his first four shots of the second half, helping the Hoosiers build a 43-37 lead to 59-49 with 12 minutes to go.

Kentucky pulled within five points midway through the final half, but consecutive baskets by forward Mike Gioni, center Uwe Blab and Alford restored the Hoosiers' cushion. Indiana then widened its lead to 77-60 with three minutes to go and coasted the rest of the way.

(No. 5) Memphis St. 86

UCLA 70

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Keith Lee scored in 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as fifth-ranked Memphis State defeated UCLA 86-70 in college basketball Saturday.

The victory was the Tigers' first over the Bruins in a four-game series dating back to 1973.

The Tigers, now 4-0, never were seriously threatened as they jumped to a 6-0 lead in the first two minutes and built a 41-33 halftime edge.

After intermission, the Tigers scored 11 straight points in the first five minutes, opening a 52-33 lead before the Bruins broke the ice with a free throw.

(No. 17) Okla. 115

Chicago-Loyola 85

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Wayman Tisdale scored 35 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead 17th-ranked Oklahoma past Loyola of Chicago, 115-82, in a college basketball game Saturday.

Four other Oklahoma players finished in double figures. Tim McCalister and Darryl Kennedy each scored 22 points, and Anthony Bowie and Tommy Tubbs scored 11 apiece.

The 35 points by Tisdale, a junior All-American, marked the 26th time in his career he has gone over the 30-point mark. It also gave him 1,883 points in his career, putting him in fourth place in the Big Eight Conference scoring charts.

(No. 2) DePaul 95

Notre Dame 83

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) — Dallas Comegys and Tyrone Corbin led undefeated and second-ranked DePaul to a 95-83 basketball victory over previously undefeated Notre Dame Saturday.

Except for the first basket, the Blue Demons led all the way and had leads of as high as 18 points late in the second half.

Comegys scored 20 points and Corbin added 18 as the Blue Demons won their fifth straight while Notre Dame fell to 4-1.

DePaul held an 11-point lead at the half and midway in the second half was in front by 15 despite some outstanding shooting by Scott Hicks and Ken Barlow. Hicks finished with 25 points and Barlow 21.

Notre Dame freshman sensation David Rivers had 16 points, 12 of them coming in the first half.

(No. 8) SMU 97

Centenary 79

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist Coach Dave Bliss was worried about a letdown but the eighth-ranked Mustangs had no problems Saturday night with outmanned Centenary.

SMU rolled to a 97-79 Non-conference basketball victory over the Gents behind center Jon Koncak, who scored 14 of his 16 points in the first half.

SMU is now 4-0 while the Gents dropped to a 2-6 record.

49ers have field day in romp over Vikings

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Montana's 44-yard scoring bomb to Dwight Clark got the San Francisco 49ers rolling toward their 14th victory, which tied a National Football League regular-season record, and he threw for two more touchdowns Saturday in a 51-7 wipeout of the Minnesota Vikings.

The 49ers, 14-1, raced to a 31-7 lead by halftime and gave Montana and several other starters the rest of the day off while running up the team's highest point total since 1965. The Vikings, 3-12, went down to a fifth consecutive defeat.

The 49ers, with an eight-game winning streak, will go after a record-breaking 15th regular-season triumph when they face the Los Angeles Rams next Friday night. After a two-week break, San Francisco will open the playoffs as a heavy favorite to reach the Super Bowl as National Conference champion.

Montana completed 15 of 21 passes in his half of action Saturday. He hit Clark, who broke free down the middle of the field, at the goal line eight minutes into the game to open the scoring.

Later in the first period, Montana flipped a three-yard touchdown pass to Freddie Solomon. In the second quarter, Renaldo Nehemiah scored on a 59-yard pass play and Wendell Tyler ran five yards for a touchdown.

Tyler's 36 yards rushing on 13 carries gave him a club-record 1,230 for the season, breaking the mark of 1,203 set by Delvin Williams in 1976.

Archie Manning, the Vikings' starting quarterback, left the game in the first period after being shaken up on a sack, the first of six registered by the 49ers.

Wade Wilson, who took over for Manning, directed an 84-yard scoring drive in the second period. Darrin Nelson ran five yards for the Minnesota touchdown. The Vikings reached the San Francisco 1 in the final minute of the game but failed to score.

The 49ers failed to get a first down on their first offensive possession of the game but scored nine of the next 10 times they had the ball.

Ray Wersching kicked field goals from 41, 25 and 38 yards. His six extra points gave him a string of 104 without a miss.

Reserves Derrick Harmon and Bill Ring ran for touchdowns in the last quarter.

We would like to express our gratitude to all the wonderful people who brought food, sent cards, flowers and plants, money, and visited Enola Myrlene Ballard and her family during her illness and subsequent death. The sincere outpouring of concern and love has made this difficult time easier to bear.

We owe a special debt of gratitude to those who were always there when we needed them, such as the good people of Central Baptist, First Baptist Sand Springs, Hillcrest Baptist, Midway Baptist, First Baptist Coahoma, and Baptist Temple churches. We thank Bro. Eldon Cook and Bro. Leslie Kelley for all the time they spent with Myrlene and the family and for making the funeral service such a lovely tribute to her life. We also express our gratitude to Judy McKinney of Head Hunters and the staff of Nailey Pickle-River Welch. Las Vegas wants National Finals Rodeo

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The sport that pits man against beast is now pitting Oklahoma City against Las Vegas, Nev.

Las Vegas has promised to raise the purse at the National Finals Rodeo, and that, say some young cowboys, is an offer not to be refused. But some of the old timers, former rodeo greats among them, say they're not buying.

"Oklahoma City has done a lot for the National Finals Rodeo, but money's money and you've got to go where the great prize money is," said reigning world champion bull rider Cody Snyder of Medicine Hat, Alberta.

Snyder said talk among this year's participants in the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City this week seems to him to be in favor of moving the finals to Las Vegas next year.

The board of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association meets in Colorado Springs, Colo., on Wednesday to consider moving the NFR to Las Vegas.

According to Stanley Draper Jr., director of metropolitan activities for the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, Las Vegas is offering $1.5 million dollars in prize money. This year's purse is $901,550, Draper said, and if the NFR stays in Oklahoma City next year, the projected purse would be $1 million.

"It's got to be very tempting for the contestants," Draper said. Tempting it is.

"Would you turn down a job raise? I can see turning down a job raise, but not one of this size," Snyder said. He said the cowboys have heard Las Vegas is promising a purse of "$2 million plus."

"Tradition is good, but when we're talking about this money — it's giving cowboys a shot at being rich," said Snyder, who has gossed $110,000 this year in overall earnings.

Most cowboys average about $40,000 a year and much of that is put back into the sport, Snyder said.

Snyder said rodeo is a sport on the rise and moving the NFR to Las Vegas would also mean more spectators, drawing them from both East and West coasts.

Additionally, Snyder said the size of the Las Vegas arena would hold 16,000 spectators next year and 25,000 spectators in 1986.

The Myriad seats 11,707, Draper said, and Oklahoma City has delivered 117 consecutive sellouts since Dec. 5, 1973. The NFR came to Oklahoma City in 1965 and Draper said city officials know keeping it here isn't going to come easy.

He said the city is still studying the feasibility of a domed stadium that would be "tailormade for rodeo" and would seat about 25,000.

"We're going to build it," Draper said. "The feasibility study is under way at this present time — it's helping determine location, size, financing and all that."

New stadium or not, Freckles Brown says he'd like to see the NFR stay in Oklahoma City.

"It's really solid here, it keeps growing," said the 63-year-old Brown of Soper, the world champion bull rider in 1962 and NFR champion bull rider in 1967.

"Las Vegas is an over-entertained town," Brown said. "I don't think the people appreciate rodeo."

Brown said he sees the rodeo making money during the first two years in Las Vegas, but losing money and spectators in ensuing years.

"If you don't have crowds, pretty quick you don't have rodeo," Brown said.

Brown said he thinks Oklahoma City should come up with more purse money, but should also be given the time to do so.

"I think they should give it a real close look," said Brown, who spent 37 years on the rodeo circuit. "I don't think it will last a long time out there."

"We've had strong support from Oklahoma City and it's grown to be a sellout rodeo," said two-time world champion steer wrestler Jack Roddy of San Jose, Calif. "We're in real true cowboy country."

"Is the risk worth it to go to Las Vegas? I have mixed emotions. I want to see the cowboys get what they deserve, but I hope wherever they go it's as successful as Oklahoma City."

"I feel the cowboy is the most underpaid athlete in the world and deserves financial recognition and a million and a half is a tremendous amount to compete at," Roddy said.

"Rodeo is a family event — it's family entertainment," said former saddle bronc and bareback world champion Casey Tibbs of Ramona, Calif.

Although he said he would like to see cowboys competing for more money, he fears that may mean higher priced tickets and a sport that has outpriced itself for many fans.

"I'd hate to see money be the sole reason for a change," Tibbs said.

Bulls nip Mavs, 99-97

CHICAGO (AP) — Quintin Dailey hit a basket and a pair of free throws in the final 90 seconds and Orlando Wooldrige connected on a game-high 30 points Saturday night to lead Chicago to a 99-97 National Basketball Association triumph over Dallas.

The Bulls, 13-9, have now won five games in a row for the first time since last February. The Mavericks are 10-11.

The Bulls, trailing 65-57 midway in the third quarter, stormed back behind the torrid shooting of Wooldrige to grab a 79-75 advantage with one quarter remaining.

Wooldrige scored 12 points in the third quarter, all in the span of three minutes, while Dallas' Mark Aguirre was scoring nine straight points in the same time frame.

The Bulls moved into a 91-82 fourth quarter lead with 6:20 left after Steve Johnson connected on a pair of driving layups. But Dallas cut the lead to three.

Then Dailey, who wound up with 16 points, hit a short jumper with 1:12 remaining to put the Bulls up by five.

After Dallas' Brad Davis and Chicago's Michael Jordan traded baskets, Aguirre hit one of two free throws and Davis added two free throws to cut the Bulls lead to 97-95 with 37 seconds left.

The Bulls then controlled the ball for nearly 28 seconds, and with seven seconds remaining Dailey hit two free throws to put the Bulls up by four.

Jets rally past Buffalo, 21-17

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ken O'Brien ignited New York with a 39-yard touchdown pass to Wesley Walker in the third period and the Jets got the winner on Tony Paige's 3-yard run in the fourth to snap a six-game losing streak with a 21-17 victory Saturday over the Buffalo Bills.

The Jets improved their record to 7-8 with one game remaining while the Bills dropped to 2-13, the worst record in the National Football League.

Until the Jets got moving late in the game, they generally played lackuster football despite rookie safety Russell Carter's two sacks of Buffalo quarterback Joe Dufek and an interception.

The Jets, trailing 17-7 at the half, cut the Bills' lead to three points on O'Brien's toss to Walker with 39 seconds left in the third period. It was Walker's first scoring catch since Nov. 4 against Miami.

The Jets then held, forced a punt and staged their winning drive as O'Brien moved them 40 yards in five plays, Paige bursting up the middle for the TD. New York had scored on a 10-yard pass from O'Brien to tight end Mickey Shuler two plays earlier, but that was nullified by an illegal-formation penalty on the Jets.

The Bills opened the scoring in the first quarter when linebacker Stan David blocked a punt by Chuck Ramsey, picked the ball up on one bounce and ran it 36 yards for a TD.

After the Jets tied on Cedric Minter's 6-yard run later in the first quarter, the Bills opened a 10-point halftime lead on a 3-yard run by Greg Bell and a 47-yard field goal by Chuck Nelson in the second period.

Mark Gastineau, the NFL sack leader, recorded one sack to boost his total to 20 and tie a personal career high.

Lodge toasts century of brotherhood

A centennial is something to celebrate, and the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge #598 A.F. & A.M. is doing just that. The members are celebrating the lodge's 100th anniversary Wednesday.

From 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, the Lodge will have an open house in observance of its anniversary. The public is invited. Historical items will be displayed, including some Caylor paintings. The open house will give the public the chance to see the Lodge, said Harold Canning, Lee Porter and Worshipful Master Marvin Watson, committee members planning the event.

In addition, the Lodge will receive the grand master of the Grand Lodge of Texas, George R. (Bob) Scott, and other dignitaries at 5 p.m. Thursday during a reception at the Lodge. The reception is open only to all Master Masons.

Watson — as worshipful master, the Lodge's highest office — has dedicated his term to honoring the long-time members of the Lodge. He believes it was these members that made the Lodge survive during 100 years to become what it is today.

The Staked Plains Lodge #598 A.F. & A.M. was chartered Dec. 12, 1884. The Masonic Lodge was the first fraternal organization in Big Spring and had 14 charter members.

The Lodge originally met on the second floor of the public school building, a frame structure located where the Howard County Library is today.

In 1885, the Lodge saw the need for a cemetery to be established in the County. George Bauer gave some land about two miles northeast of the city to the Lodge to be used as a cemetery. It served as a burial place for Howard County residents until 1890 and was known as Masonic cemetery. In 1890, Bauer conveyed a tract of land north of the Masonic cemetery to Howard County to be known as Mt. Olive cemetery. It was to be used for all residents of Howard County and the Masonic cemetery was changed to a cemetery for Masons and their families.

MASONIC CEMETERY — In 1885, the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge decided that Howard County needed a cemetery. The Lodge received property northeast of town and established the Masonic Cemetery to serve the county's residents. Later Mount Olive Cemetery was established for Howard County residents. From that time on, Masonic Cemetery was for Masons and their families.

Other tracts of land were added later for Catholics and International Order of Odd Fellows cemeteries. Many years later, the Masonic cemetery became a permanent care cemetery.

By 1900, the Lodge realized that a new meeting place was needed. A committee purchased Lots 7 and 8, Block 13, original town of Big Spring in January, 1902. The property is at the corner of Third and Main Streets where Gentleman's Corner and Edward D. Jones businesses are located today.

While a building was being built, the Lodge met in the original Howard County Courthouse. A two-story Masonic Temple was built with plans for the ground floor to be rented to the Western Windmill and Hardware Company. In 1904, a one-half interest in the north wall was sold for $600. This move gave the neighbor to the north some obligation to the Lodge and furnished money on the Lodge's indebtedness.

Between Sept. 1, 1902 and Jan. 13, 1903, the Masonic Temple Association was organized by the Lodge. The Temple Association was charged with maintaining the building, renting the ground floor spaces, and discharging indebtedness.

By 1905, membership grew to 131 members and the Lodge was taking its place in community affairs. It helped needy Masons, their families and Master Masons' widows.

In 1915, the Lodge furnished and repaired the Temple. In 1922, the Temple Association built a filling station on a vacant piece of land it owned on the East end of Lots 7 and 8, Block 13. It was rented until J.H. Homan, current renter at the time, built his own station on the corner of Third and Scurry Streets. After he moved, the station served as a Taxi stand and later was occupied by the Federal Land Bank for several years.

1920 to 1924 was a critical time for the Lodge. Membership increased, and many of the Lodge's railroad-employed members also belonged to their union. A strike was called and most of the men moved because no settlement was reached. Afterwards, Dr. E.H. Happel became worshipful master in 1924 to help establish harmony. The Lodge prospered until the depression hit in 1929.

During the depression, many members were about to be suspended for non-payment of dues. Having knowledge of the Temple Association's financial condition, secretary Lee Porter asked if the Masonic Temple Association could pay the Grand Lodge dues so no suspensions would have to be made. The Temple Association paid the dues and no suspensions were made for two or three years. Economic conditions improved and most of the members who became able financially paid their back dues.

From 1940 forward membership increased steadily with the best two years for membership being 1945-1946 and 1946-1947. The Air-base was at full capacity and many Air Force members received their degrees in the Lodge.

During the 1950s, the Lodge made several renovations and physical changes to its Temple. A new lodge room was built at the old filling station's location. The basement floor was concreted, the brick wall removed, and a concrete walk was installed around the building. Furniture for the new hall was purchased, and theater seats were donated to the Lodge by theater owner J.Y. Robb.

The Lodge grew in membership until Webb Air Force Base closed. In 1972, the Lodge realized that the stairway leading up to the Lodge room was too strenuous for elderly and handicapped members. The Temple Association bought the Williams building adjacent to the Lodge to remodel and install an elevator.

The Temple Association has been successful in keeping the building rented for 82 years. The Masonic Temple is in about the same condition as when it was built except air conditioning was been installed and all windows closed. The platform in the East has been extended from wall to wall. In the west end over the senior warden station, the plaster was removed and all the emblems that were painted on the wall were destroyed. Lights for the Easter Star were installed on the ceiling and also in the floor.

Today, the Lodge has 488 active members whose memberships range from one week to more than 60 years of service. One of the longest standing members is W.S. Satterwhite of Lamesa. He is believed to be the oldest living past master of the Lodge and member with the longest membership. He has been a Mason more than 60 years. Satterwhite was worshipful master during the Lodge year 1926-1927.

BUCKLED UP — Crime fighter McGruff always puts on his seatbelt when riding in a car. Sgt. Fred Pace plans to get McGruff a car seat that meets the new safety standards. Together, they plan to give programs on crime prevention at elementary schools after the first of the year.

McGruff and Pace 'take a bite out of crime'

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

"Well, hi there kids, it's your 'ol pal McGruff again. I have something pretty serious to talk about with you today. So I want you all to pay real close attention and listen to me."

McGruff, wearing a trenchcoat and plaid trousers, is the newest addition to the crime prevention unit at Big Spring Police Department. The crime fighting puppet dog tells children about the dangers of things — such as vandalism, strangers, child molestation, bike protection, hitchhiking and drug abuse. "You know, I care about each one of you, and I don't want ya to do drugs," McGruff tells them.

"(McGruff) wants to say hello to all of the boys and girls, and he'll be around to talk to them about crime prevention," says Sgt. Fred Pace of the crime prevention unit. Pace and McGruff, who wears a 'McGruff is our most popular police officer. All the kids love him. He's kind of like Columbo — he's a good crime fighter.'

Big Spring Police Department badge, plan to make appearances in area elementary schools after the first of the year.

McGruff, who made the police department his new dog house two months ago, has 12 to 14 tapes on crime prevention and personal safety that he uses in his presentations. Pace, the man behind McGruff, says it takes practice to coordinate McGruff's mouth with the tapes.

While riding in the car with Pace, McGruff wears a seatbelt. "We're gonna get him a car seat that meets the requirements," said Pace. He said he also may get McGruff boots and a hat.

"Everyone likes him down here (police department). We think he's gonna be very good," said Pace.

"We're always trying to improve the Police image," he said. "And that's where it all starts — with the kids." Pace hopes that McGruff will "improve our image with kids by showing them that we're there to help if we can."

"McGruff is our most popular police officer," said Chief of Police Rick Turner. "All the kids love him. He's kind of like Columbo — he's a good crime fighter."

"Do yourselves a favor kids and stay away from abusing drugs. That way, you can help me, rr-rruff, take a bite out of crime. See ya around."

Wheelers make 7th trip to Vegas

By TINA STEFFEN

MR. AND MRS. JOE WHEELER and sons RONNIE AND DONNIE WHEELER went to Las Vegas during the Thanksgiving holidays. They saw DEBBIE REYNOLDS in a performance and visited the Howard Hughes estate outside Las Vegas. This is their seventh trip to the city.

Quite a few people get up early or go after work to walk Scenic Mountain for exercise. The path will give quite a workout. CLAIRE RICHIE has asked if there is a walking club in this area. I have not heard of one. If there is one, call Claire. If there isn't one and if anyone is interested in forming one, call Claire. She may be reached at Pink carnations, wine rosebuds and lilac arranged in an antique pewter and china tea pot decorated the serving table.

Dear Abby

Charming suitor sees widow

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I met a charming gentleman through mutual friends. He's 49 and recently divorced for the second time. He's semiretired and quite well-off. I'm a 47-year-old widow in comfortable circumstances. He calls me every day, comes over in the evening to watch TV, play cards, have coffee and talk, but he has never taken me out. I stopped inviting him to dinner because he never reciprocated. We see each other only during the week — never on the weekend. He says he doesn't like to "make plans" — meaning for dinner or a movie; he prefers to do things on the spur of the moment.

He loves to garden and is very handy at fixing things. He sprayed my front and backyard for weeds and worked on my Kimball organ.

I do not chase after him. I never call him and never ask him what he does when he's not with me. He acts like he's very fond of me, and I think I'm falling in love with him. I love being with him, but I want to go somewhere! He told me his second wife wants him back, so he's probably seeing her on the weekends. (I never ask.) Abby, do you see any future in our relationship? Why do you think he's never taken me anywhere? And how can I find out where I stand with him?

PUZZLED IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR PUZZLED: If there's a future in your relationship, it's not in the immediate future. He doesn't take you anywhere because he's either too cheap to spend the money, or he has a commitment with someone else, which is probably why you never see him on the weekends.

Don't be available for coffee, conversation and cards every evening. Be "busy," and if he keeps calling, pin him down for a dinner date or a movie, and see what happens.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Anniversary

The Bryan Averitts

MR. AND MRS. BRYAN AVERITT ...celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Averitt, 3301 11th Place, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary during a reception, Dec. 2. The reception was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward and was hosted by the couple's children and families.

Averitt, originally of San Angelo, met the former Jerline Ayers at a party given by a friend in Hyman, April 1944. The couple was married Dec. 4, 1944 in Campbell, Calif. The Rev. Joseph H. Bennett officiated at the rite.

The couple has two daughters: Jeanie Ward and Betty Hoffman, both of Big Spring. They also have two grandchildren.

The Averitts have lived in Campbell, Calif., Big Spring and Forsan throughout their marriage. Averitt is the Howard County Shop foreman. Previously, he was employed by Felmont Oil Company in Forsan.

The Averitts are Baptists and have had an enjoyable 40 years together, they said. Averitt enjoys rebuilding cars in his spare time. Mrs. Averitt enjoys cake decorating.

Foil provides no-muss-no-fuss fireplace

Who says there's no such thing as a no-muss-no-fuss fireplace? Before you build a fire, remove the grate, line the bottom of the fireplace with a double layer of heavy-duty aluminum foil, then replace the grate.

As the fire burns, it not only reflects more heat from the foil but gives a much brighter, cheerier glow. When the ashes are cold, merely remove the grate again, roll up the foil and dispose of it. This is a timesaver, especially during the hectic holiday season.

Pecans: nutrition in a nutshell

Pecans are a nutritious, year-round treat and a favorite among Texas, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Pecans may be bought different ways: unshelled, cracked, shelled whole kernels, halves and pieces. To select pecans, buy according to recipe needs, food budget and available time for cracking, shelling or chopping. Unshelled nuts are the most economical choice, but time is needed for shelling and chopping.

Pecans are an excellent source of protein, fat and carbohydrates — energy-producing nutrients. However, their reputation as fattening is misleading because 10 large halves contain 65 calories. The calories are mainly from the fat, but the fat is mostly polyunsaturated and contains no cholesterol. Pecans also contain iron, calcium, phosphorus, potassium and vitamins A, B and C.

To preserve freshness at home, store pecans in clean, dry, air-tight containers in a cool place, free from odors. Because of their high fat content, pecans readily absorb odors and can become rancid.

Stored at room temperature, shelled pecans will last about two or three months. Refrigerated, they'll keep six to 12 months. If frozen, they'll keep two years, often longer. Under the same conditions, unshelled pecans will generally keep twice as long as shelled ones.

Frozen pecans need not be thawed to use in cooking.

Wedding

West-Green

The Prestoncrest Church of Christ in Dallas was the site of the wedding ceremony of Teresa Vonne West and Michael Clark Green, both of Dallas, Saturday evening, Dr. Harold Duncan, associate minister, officiated at the rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. West, Sterling City Rt. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olen V. Green of Booneville, Miss.

The couple exchanged vows before an archway of winter greenery frosted in snow and ice. A garland of pine cones from the bridegroom's home adorned the archway, which was flanked by two nine-branch candelabra. Frosted bells were used throughout the area. The Prestoncrest Church of Christ Chorus with Catherine Tanner, Jeff Russell and Sharon Russell, soloists, provided music for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned with a fitted bodice of Schiffl embroidery. The bodice featured a V-shaped yoke of English net and high collar of Schiffl embroidery. A wide ruffle of Chantilly lace and Maribow edged the yoke and fell over the shoulders of the taffeta long sleeves. The full taffeta skirt, scalloped with Maribow, fell into tiers of Chantilly and Maribow ruffles along the lower part and formed a chapel-length train. The bride also wore a fingertip-length veil held by a cap of Maribow, frosted greenery, sweetheart roses and tear drop pearls.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of burgundy and white roses, stephanotis, tear drop pearls and frosted greenery.

Catherine Tanner of Menominee, Mich. was matron of honor. Julie Bailey, Beverly Riley of Lubbock, and Leigh Anne DeJarnatt, Memphis, Tenn., were bridesmaids.

Tim Wright of Jackson, Miss. was best man. Groomsmen were Ron West of Dallas, brother of the bride, Tony Presley of Jackson, Miss., and Bill White, Memphis, Tenn. Candlelighters were Robert Fortune of Midland, cousin of the bride, and James McCullough of Dallas.

Following the ceremony, a reception honored the couple at the church's Fellowship Hall. A three-tiered wedding cake adorned with burgundy flowers and wedding bells was featured on the bride's table. The bridegroom's table held a German chocolate cake and was centered with the bride's bouquet. The hors d'oeuvres table was centered with white birch reindeer.

MRS. MICHAEL GREEN
...formerly Teresa West

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School in Forsan and Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock. She is a marketing representative with Management Reports, Inc. of Dallas.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Booneville High School in Booneville, Miss., Northeast Junior College in Booneville, Miss., Mississippi State University and the University of Tennessee. He has a master's degree in computer engineering and is employed by E-Systems in Dallas as a senior software engineer.

The couple will live in Dallas following a wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif.

As part of tradition, the bride chose her great-grandmother's pearls as something old, her wedding dress was new, her mother's diamond earrings were borrowed and her garter was blue.

Members of the houseparty were June Stone of Big Spring, aunt of the bride, Rhonda Simmons, Judy Broom and Shirley Rorie, all of Dallas, and Lisa Syler of Lewisville. Robyn Leigh, North Richland Hills, registered guests.

Q: I have always been rather apprehensive concerning the changes made in a contract being carried out. At closing, if I ask for a change to be made, and all parties are agreeable, how can I insure the change will be made?
A.: If all parties—buyer, seller, lender and broker—are in agreement with the change, the change will be made by either the attorney of the party requesting the change, or the broker, in writing on the original contract. This is done near the item which needs to be changed. Then, all parties to the agreed change, in order to avoid any future controversy, should place their initials or signature next to or near that alteration. The contract may be retyped to reflect the change accurately, but the initialled change is binding.

EXTENDED Big Cottonseed Discount For Early Payment!
Low As $15.25!

Thanks to you, We're happily extending our Big Cottonseed Discount!

Due to the late harvest and demand, we have extended our popular "Big Cottonseed Discount" program until December 31st. While the supply lasts, you can buy the number one certified cottonseed for as little as $15.25 a bag (F.O.B. Lubbock).

Read what your neighbors say about GSA Certified Cottonseed.

"GSA 75 was about the only cotton in the area with premium micronaire."

"I had some GSA 75 that was pre-watered and some dryland. GSA 75 stayed in burr well and had good storm proofness."

Staple was 32-33, micronaire 3.4, strength 26+.

"GSA 75 is very consistent in yield and micronaire."

"I've grown GSA 75 for four years. It's the only one we have this year with a premium micronaire."

Yield was one bale to the acre, staple 32-33, micronaire 3.6, strength 27.

GSA 71 is number one again! It's now being called the banker's cotton, as well as the grower's choice, because its big yields and quality fiber are paying the bills.

Consider safety when choosing toys

Safety is a consideration when buying children's toys this holiday season. A child's age should be used to determine which toy to buy, since manufacturers are required to place age recommendations and precautionary labels on toys.

Cordless phones impair hearing

Most cordless telephones have loud ringers located in the earpiece that continue to ring until the user switches the phone to the talk mode. Some people forget to do this before placing the phone against the ear and it is impairing their hearing, says Family Circle. The magazine cites a report by Dr. George Singleton of the University of Florida at Gainesville, who saw 28 such patients in the last year and a half. Testing several cordless telephones, Dr. Singleton and his colleagues found all ringing at volumes in the 40-decibel range, comparable to the noise level of a pistol being fired only an inch or so away from the ear.

Cut your own taxes and save

How to increase deductions in 1984

By ROBERT METZ
Part 2 of 4-part series

We are entering the age of indexing. Congress provided indexing to disarm that agent of automatic tax increases, inflation.

In the past, our tax brackets were keyed to set levels of dollar income. As inflation reduces the value of the dollar, taxpayers get catch-up raises — they are paid more dollars for their services. So they land in higher brackets — and pay more tax even though they haven't really earned more.

So tax rates will remain the same in 1985 but the dollar amounts on the tax brackets are being raised by a factor representing the increase in the cost of living between 1983 and 1984.

The government has announced that the Consumer Price Index for the past 12 months has risen 4.1 percent. Thus under the indexing formula, income tax brackets, the zero bracket limit, the standard deduction and personal exemptions will all be raised 4.1 percent. This will mean substantial savings for individual taxpayers.

Also, exemptions for each taxpayer and dependent will increase to $1,040 from $1,000. Finally, the standard deduction will rise to $2,390 from $2,300. On a joint return it rises to $3,540

Tax Tip: In scheduling payments such as medical and charitable contributions, remember that if you charge them to a credit card in December, you can take the deduction in 1984 even though you won't have to pay the credit card charges until you are billed in the next year.

from $3,400.

So if you are going to itemize your deductions this year, the key strategy guiding your financial decisions until the end of 1984 should be to take every deduction you can while putting off income to 1985.

Herein: ways to speed deductions.

Tax Trap: It will not be worth the effort to rearrange your expenses if your itemized deductions don't exceed your zero-bracket amount.

Tax Tip: If deductions do exceed zero-bracket amount, consider "bunching" in 1984 — prepaying deductible 1985 expenses — and claiming the zero bracket amount in 1985. But whether or not you claim the zero bracket, claim every deduction you can on this year's tax return.

Here are your best shots: If you know you are facing major medical or dental expenses, get the work started and pay some bills by December.

If you're planning a big purchase like a car, boat, or truck, you may want to buy in 1984 to nail down the sales tax deduction.

One of the easiest items to schedule is the charitable deduction. Be sure to make the payments before Dec. 31.

State income taxes that will be due in 1985 can be paid this year. In some areas you can prepay your real-estate taxes as well.

Tax Trap: High-bracket taxpayers should not repay state taxes if subject to the alternative minimum tax. Consult a tax adviser.

Remember, your January mortgage payment probably includes interest for December. If you make the January payment at the end of December, you may deduct from 1984 income the interest that applies to December.

If you have an office in your home that qualifies as a deductible expense, you may want to have it painted to establish a 1984 deduction.

Write off bad debts in 1984.

If you incur some business expenses that are not reimbursed by your employer, pay those expenses before the end of 1984. (Most employee business expenses are subtracted from your raw income to determine adjusted gross income).

Tax Tip: You are allowed to deduct employment-related unreimbursed travel and lodging expenses even if you don't itemize your expenses.

Quad tendon cause of jumper's knee

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last year I had jumper's knee. It hurt something awful, and I had to sit out lots of basketball games. What is the exact cause and what can I do to avoid it as much as possible?

L.W.
Jumper's knee is inflammation of the quadriceps tendon. That's the tendon that attaches the quadriceps muscle (in the front of the thigh) to the lower leg bone. When you jump you put more than a ton of force on that tendon, so it's easy to see why inflammation of it becomes such a major problem for basketball and volleyball players. It's their version of tennis elbow.

Once the player has had the knee treated and is ready to return to action he should begin a program of preventive conditioning. The tendon can be made flexible again with slow warm-ups before practices, preferably with application of warm soaks first. Then, after practice or play, ice should be applied to the knee to discourage any inflammation.

Stretching exercises are important. When possible the person should avoid playing on hard surfaces, like concrete playground courts. There may be setbacks in total recovery, and if the player feels soreness he should stop and rest the knee all over again. The sooner he gets attention, the sooner will be the return.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've been put on Inderal for high blood pressure. My doctor says its OK for me to keep up my running. But I am having trouble getting my pulse up to former exercise levels. Does Inderal affect people this way? — B.F.

Propranolol (the generic name of the drug) is a beta blocker, meaning it blocks certain nerve messages, one of which is the one that tells the heart to beat faster.

What about your pulse? You probably won't be able to get it up to your pre-treatment levels and you shouldn't try. But that does not mean you can't achieve significant training results.

In fact the continued training will permit weight control, so important in control of high blood pressure. Even a modest pulse rise gives the heart modified training effect. Some authorities have suggested that all you need for training results is a rate only 20 beats over the resting rate.

You should be able to manage that even with your medicine.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My slim-down diet specifies so many pieces of bread daily. Would whole-wheat or rye be better than white?

R.N.
Whole-grain bread is best because of the greater fiber content. The bulking helps by increasing the feeling of satiety. Bulk distends the gastrointestinal tract, shutting off the brain's "hunger" center.

Holiday turkey costs more this year

COLLEGE STATION — After two years of bargain prices for holiday turkeys, shoppers may be surprised to find that they cost more this year.

"Consumers can expect to find 20 to 25 percent higher prices for turkeys this year," says Dr. David Mellor, Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service poultry specialist. This year's wholesale price for standard 8 to 16 pound hens is 81 cents, compared to 63 cents last year, he says.

To cut costs on a Christmas bird, Extension food and nutrition specialist Dr. Alice Hunt suggests that consumers buy an un-basted, store brand turkey. Pre-basted store brand turkeys will cost more per pound than un-basted birds, and national brand pre-basted turkeys will cost even more, she says.

But turkey is still a good value, Hunt says, especially if you plan ahead to make good use of leftovers. Smaller families or those who don't care for leftovers may want to consider purchasing a turkey breast or a boneless roast turkey for their holiday meal, even though these cost more per pound.

Whatever the cost of your holiday turkey, you'll be getting high quality protein for your money and relatively few calories, says the specialist. An average 3 1/2 ounce serving of turkey has 190 calories. It's all the gravy and "trimmings" that make holiday meals high in calories, she said.

6-pack carton can protect ornaments

To safely repackage Christmas tree ornaments that outlast their original containers, cut off the handle portions of a six-pack soda bottle or beer carton, and place an ornament in each cardboard receptacle.

Now you can stack and store the ornaments without worries.

CARE FOR YOUR WAVED HAIR
Once hair has been waved, it is more vulnerable to damage than ever before. As a result, there are a few special precautions that should be taken to preserve its health and sheen. For instance, instead of brushing 50 strokes a day, cut it down to 20. Use scalp massage or an electric vibrator to give scalp circulation the stimulation it needs. Also, use only acid-balanced shampoos when hair is washed and always apply a conditioning rinse. Protein conditioners are particularly good for permanent-waved and colored hair as they keep the crack in the cuticle closed. They also will make hair smoother and shinier.

All beauty services are provided to you here at LA CONTESA.perms, coloring, tinting and frosting are serviced here. We give you the quality results you want. We are knowledgeable about the latest hair care techniques required to keep your hair looking and feeling soft and manageable. You will find us located at 1508 Marcy. We are open to serve you Tues.-Sat. Tel. 267-2187.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scarry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7311 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Alcos-Bowen

Alma Theodora G. Alcos and James N. Bowen Jr. exchange wedding vows in a ceremony at East Fourth Street Baptist Church, Dec. 2. The Rev. Guy White, pastor, officiated at the 2:30 p.m. rite.

MRS. JAMES BOWEN JR.
...formerly Alma Alcos

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Celestino Alcos of Manila, Philippines. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Bowen of Big Spring and the late James N. Bowen.

The couple was wed before an altar flanked by two seven-branch candelabra with ivory and burgundy bows. A memory candle trimmed in burgundy and ivory completed the setting.

Jerry Oliphant, organist, Diane Oliphant, pianist, and vocalist Linda Bowen, sister-in-law of the groom, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by Claude Collins, wore a gown of ivory satin with a Sabrina neckline and bell sleeves of English net overlaid with Alencon lace, forming the bodice. The dress was fashioned with an A-line skirt falling from an empire waistline to a chapel-length train. A chapel-length veil of ivory illusion held by a pointed pillbox headpiece completed the bride's attire. The bride carried a cascade of ivory rosebuds, wild roses and baby's breath tied with satin ribbons and lace.

Gloria Bacani of Big Spring served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nerie Osorio and Medly Caspe, both of Pecos. Flower girl was Loree Tan, and ring bearer was John Rogers. Jack Bowen served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Rick Hendricks and Armando Osorio. Cesar Gellido and Joe Keiser were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. A satin cloth edged with lace covered the bride's table. The table featured a three-tiered cake with swan pillars separating the tiers. The cake was trimmed with pink and burgundy roses and topped with a bride and bridegroom.

The bridegroom's table was covered by a brown cloth with ivory lace trim. The registry table was covered with a burgundy cloth.

The bride is a graduate of St. Augustine Academy, Pampanga, Philippines, and the University of Santo Tomas, Manila, Philippines. She is a medical technologist at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

A graduate of Big Spring High School and Howard College, the bridegroom attended Texas Tech University. He is a clerk and assistant auditor at the Mid-Continent Inn.

Add seafood to Christmas meals

The holiday season is a good time to include nutritious seafood in the family diet. A seafood dish with a colorful fruit sauce, "Christmas Cranberry Catch," can be a tasty holiday tradition.

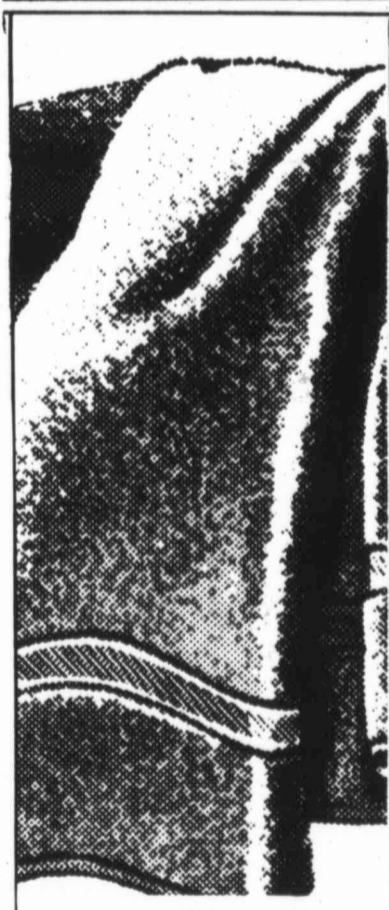

The dish features fresh Texas fish filets baked over a savory bread stuffing and topped with cranberry-orange sauce, says Annette R. Hegen, consumer education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. To obtain this recipe and others featuring seafood, write: Seafood Recipes, P.O. Box 158, Port Aransas, Texas 78373.
