How's that?
 Holiday weather

Q. I know Big Spring rarely has snow for Christmas. I was wondering what the average temperature is for Christmas Day locally.

A. The average temperature on Dec. 25 in Big Spring is 57 degrees for a high and 29 degrees for a low. Last year on Christmas Big Spring was caught in the middle of a cold snap that saw a high on Christmas Day of only 21 degrees and a low of four degrees.

According to records kept at the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station, the maximum precipitation received during recent years was .27 of an inch of rain, logged in 1974.

Monday
 • City Hall will be closed Monday and Tuesday and again Dec. 31 and Jan. 1 for the holidays. Sanitation routes will not be conducted on these days. The city landfill will be closed all day Christmas Day.
 • The Howard County Library will close for the holidays until Wednesday.
 • Gospel singing at the Kentwood Center has been cancelled this week.

Tops on TV

Punky Brewster
 Henry takes over the role of Santa when he discovers Punky doesn't believe in Santa Claus at 6 p.m. on channel 13 in "Punky Brewster." At 7 p.m., ABC will air "Superman" with Christopher Reeve, and NBC is showing "The Sound of Music" with Julie Andrews.

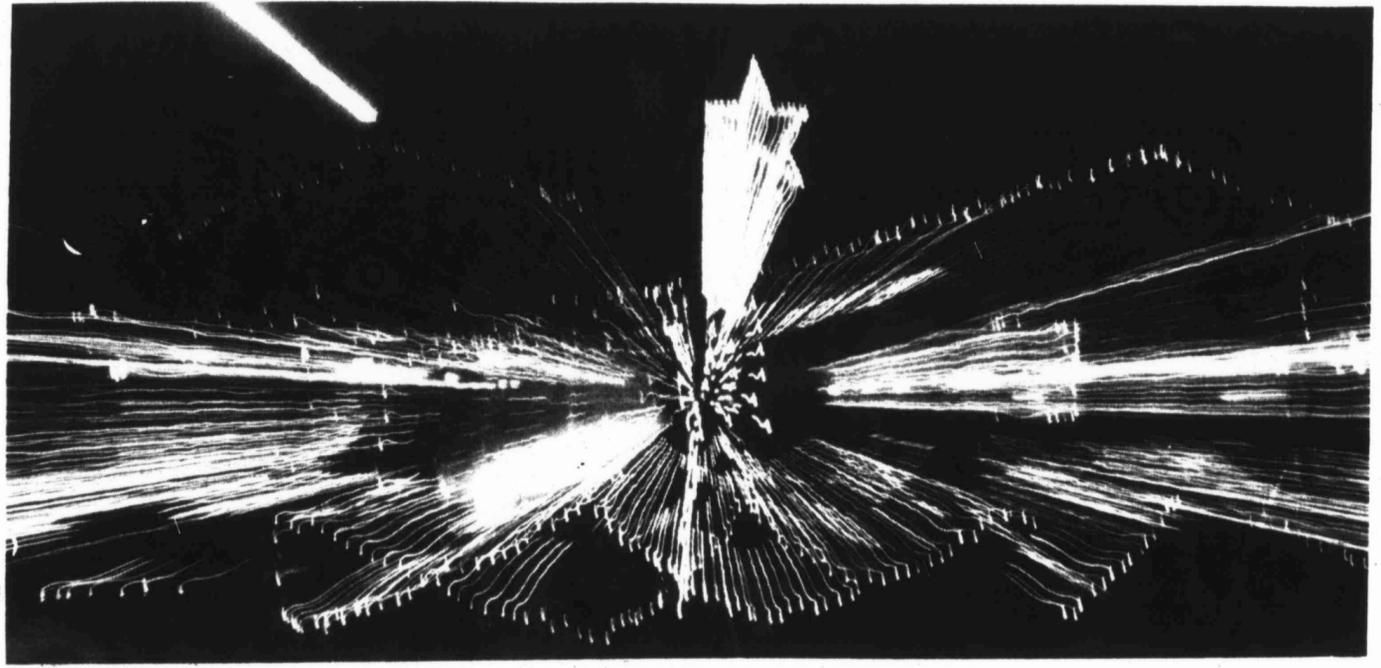

Outside

Mild
 Big Spring and vicinity will see fair skies and highs in the mid 50s this afternoon. Overnight lows are forecast to fall into the mid 30s. By Monday, look for highs near 60 degrees and lows in the mid to lower 30s.

Gas deregulation

Industry says no rise in consumer costs

By KEELY COGHLAN
 Staff Writer
 Although sales of much of the nation's natural gas will be deregulated Jan. 1, industry and utility analysts are predicting no more than a slight increase in price.
 "There's been a lot of discussion and a great deal of rhetoric," said Energas Co. Vice President Judith Kerr of Amarillo. "I do believe with some confidence that we are already in a deregulatory market for all practical purposes in anticipation of Jan. 1."
 Ms. Kerr said the deregulation of 60 percent of the nation's flowing natural gas produced from fields and wells after 1977 could be a "big non-event."

"The consensus among the industry groups is that deregulation is not going to result in any noticeable price increase of gas at the burner tip," said Brian Schaible, director of information services for the Texas Railroad Commission. The commission regulates prices and production of natural gas in the state.
 Although the commission has no official stance on federal deregulation, Schaible said consumers probably won't find a noticeable increase in their gas bills after Jan. 1.
 Natural gas utility spokesmen, including Ms. Kerr, producers and Schaible all point to a tremendous oversupply of natural gas on the

Volunteers aid Salvation Army with food, toys

By CAROL BALDWIN
 Staff Writer

Santa himself couldn't have kept up with the Salvation Army Saturday during the Christmas toy distribution program. Capt. Carroll Braun said more than 600 children representing 250 families will receive toys for Christmas, thanks to support from the community through the annual Christmas mail appeal and Christmas kettle drives.

"By next week we should reach our $45,000 goal," Braun said as he watched scores of families line up outside the door at the old Prager's building on Third Street.
 Kids weren't the only ones benefitting from the annual toy distribution. Hundreds of boxes filled with food lined the walls of the toy store Saturday as each family was given turkeys, hams and a number of other items.
 Capt. and Mrs. Braun and a host of volunteers began preparing for the crowd about 5:30 a.m. At 9 a.m. the doors opened and a representative of each family walked through displays of blocks, dolls, toy cars and games, choosing two new toys for each child in the family and stock stuffers such as yo-yos and miniature puzzles.
 About 20 family representatives walked through the toy store every half-hour throughout the day.
 Braun said A.J. Prager, owner of the building where the distribution was held, "has been super for letting us use this building."
 Braun had kind words for other volunteers, including members of the Oddfellows Lodge and inmates from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

A special addition this year was the distribution of "more than 200 gifts we collected from underneath a tree in the Big Spring Mall," Braun said.
 Mall manager Patty Robinson set up the "angel" tree. Folks in the city chose a paper angel from the tree with information written on it about a child in the city. New clothes were wrapped up and placed back under the tree for distribution Saturday.
 John Stilwell was one of the volunteers who had been at the toy store since 5:30 a.m.
 "This takes quite a bit of organization," Stilwell said during a break from packing food baskets. "The Salvation Army spends three to four months a year getting organized" for the toy distribution.
 Referring to assistance to needy families, Stilwell said, "The Salvation Army does this all year long."
 Jerry McEntire, a volunteer from the federal prison camp, is facing his first Christmas away from his wife and 12 children.
 "This is the first year I've been away from my family," McEntire said. "This helps make up for that."
 "This was a good opportunity to get out and help folks," McEntire said. "I won't get to see my kids get presents this year, so I wanted to see some other kids get presents."
 Jeff Greer, also from the camp, just wanted to be "neighborly." He has four kids of his own and is leaving on a furlough today to be with them during the holidays.
 One young woman, waiting in line to choose toys for her young son, said this was her first year to participate in the toy distribution program.
 "My husband was laid off and he just found a new job," she said. "We're behind on everything. I think the Salvation Army is doing a lot of good for everybody."

A very special delivery

Postal union helps family while moving mountains of mail

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

There's no doubt that the Big Spring Post Office is one of the busiest places in town during the Christmas holidays.

Just ask local Postmaster Frank Hardesty and his band of busy employees. Local postal workers have been maintaining long hours and greeting crowds of people as they rush the holiday mail through the Post Office and on to its destination.

Despite their hectic holiday schedule, members of Letter Carriers Local 1891 at the local Post Office managed to make Christmas a little brighter for a local resident.

A representative of the Local said the union found out a single parent of four young children was working two full-time jobs and helping care for his ailing mother.

"The father was concerned about having Christmas for his children, especially the two younger ones," the union representative said.

At the union meeting Thursday, members voted unanimously to make a $300 donation to the family.

Although aiding the needy family was a little out of the normal routine for postal employees, local employees have been doing their share to get Christmas messages to families before the holiday.

Hardesty said Saturday that thousands of pieces of mail and parcels began pouring in to the post office about eight days ago. "It began to get much heavier than normal," he said.

Hardesty attributed the avalanche to folks mailing Christmas cards and packages at the last minute in the hopes of getting them to friends and relatives before Christmas Day. And the United States Postal Service is doing its best to see that no one is disappointed, Hardesty said.

"People still wait too long," Hardesty said with a laugh. But postal employees will be working overtime to make sure that each piece of mail brought in to Big Spring this weekend makes it to its destination within the city Monday.

"We've had an even flow of mail, but we've been able to stay up with it," Hardesty said. "We've had to put some people on overtime, but we've managed to stay up with the mail."

Today, the post office here is anticipating two truck loads of mail, and several employees will be on hand to sort it and get it ready for local delivery Monday.

"We are bringing several employees in early Monday to handle the big volume," Hardesty said.

While many Big Spring businesses will be closed or are anticipating closing early on Christmas, Hardesty and local postal employees are looking at a full day.

"We will try to get everything delivered Monday," he said.

This year's mountain of mail, "as close as we can determine is about even with last year," Hardesty said. "I won't know for sure until I see a computer print-out" on volume later this month, but, "I would say we've handled about 2 to 3 percent more mail than last year. But there's no way I can tell."

But the time to worry about the exact count is later, Hardesty said. For now, employees are more concerned that each letter waiting at the post office now makes it home by Christmas.

Police Beat

Burglars strike man's home

Police on Saturday were investigating the theft of several items totaling close to $1,500 from the residence of Doyce Mitchell of 1606 State.

Mitchell told police that someone entered his home sometime Friday and took a $20 bill, a color television valued at $1,100, a boy's bike valued at $190, and an oven valued at $25.

The rear window and door to Mitchell's home were damaged during the incident, reports show.

Richard Seals of 1303 Park told police early Saturday morning that a person he knows pushed his vehicle into an intersection against a red light with a tan colored vehicle. The incident occurred in the 1400 block of Gregg, reports show.

Lester Anderson of 1312 Virginia told police Friday night that someone threw a rock through a window at his home while he was sleeping. Damaged in the incident were glass panels and storm windows valued at $40.

Police were called to the scene of an accident in the 1200 block of Sycamore early Saturday morning involving a car and a parked vehicle.

Police arrested Steve Coates of 1105 Johnson in connection with the accident for driving while intoxicated. According to reports, Coates hit a parked 1981 Chevrolet registered to Apache Well Service of San Angelo.

Coates was transferred to county jail, placed under a $1,000 bond and later released.

Clarence Yanez of 806 N. Nolan told police early Saturday that someone had cut the cables to his automobile battery and taken it from his vehicle while it was parked in the 500 block of northwest Fourth. The battery was valued at $47.

Linda Thorp of 100 Cottonwood told police Friday night that someone entered her residence between 4:30 p.m. and 7:55 p.m. and took a black leather jacket valued at $16.50, a "Nerf" pool set, valued at $20, and assorted Christmas ornaments and lights valued at $20.

Joe Jabor of Jabor's Western Wear at 600 Lamesa Highway told police Friday afternoon that someone entered the store and took a small silver and black lined windbreaker valued at $31.95.

Holiday traffic toll claims 14 on 1st day

By The Associated Press
At least 14 people died on Texas roads and highways during the first part of the Christmas holiday weekend, including a 35-year-old Pampa woman whose car was hit by a Department of Public Safety unit pursuing two other cars, authorities said.

DPS spokesman David Wells said officials predicted 53 people would die during the 102-hour count, which began at 6 p.m. CST Friday and ends at midnight Tuesday.

Thirty-four people died during a 78-hour period last Christmas, he said.

"We're starting off with fewer than we usually have on the first night of a holiday weekend," Wells said. "However, we still have quite a number of hours to go. We do have an extended holiday."

Candace Smith died about 5:15 a.m. Saturday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo from injuries sustained when her car collided with a Department of Public Safety patrol unit in Pampa about 6:25 p.m. Friday, Wells said.

He said the woman's husband, Bill Smith, 40, was hospitalized with a broken leg and head injuries and their daughter, Andrea, 13, also was hospitalized, but he did not know what injuries she had.

The DPS unit, which was in pursuit of two other cars, had its emergency lights and siren on at the time of the accident, Wells said. The trooper was treated for lacerations at Coronado Community Hospital and released, Wells said.

Others killed included Cleve Andrew Still, 68, of Liberty, who was pronounced dead at 11:10 a.m. Saturday after his car ran off the road north of Hardin on Texas 146.

Janet L. Dieterich, 32, of Waco died in a hospital as a result of injuries sustained when a car hit her broadside in Waco about 6:30 p.m.

Girl receives liver transplant

DALLAS (AP) — Amie Garrison, a 5-year-old Indiana girl who received a liver transplant, remained in serious, but stable condition Saturday at Baylor University Medical Center, officials said.

First lady Nancy Reagan called after the surgery Friday to wish Amie and her mother good luck.

Amie, who helped the first lady decorate the White House Christmas tree, underwent the 8½-hour surgery at Baylor University Medical Center — the first such operation performed there.

A hospital spokeswoman said Saturday that the Clarksville, Ind., girl was still making good progress.

Mrs. Reagan called Amie's

Friday.

Willie Munday Harwell, 61, of Corpus Christi died after the car she was driving hit a tree on U.S. 21, about 12 miles south of Hamilton in Hamilton County just before 3 p.m. Saturday.

Derek D. Randolph, 6, was killed when he was struck by an auto in Dallas just before 3 p.m. Saturday. Maurice Ranken, 22, of Forestburg, was killed in a head-on collision about 4:30 a.m. Saturday just north of Gordonville on U.S. Highway 377 in Grayson County.

Patrick Kevin Cascio, 27, of Irving, was killed about 2:16 a.m. Saturday when his car rolled over after running into a guard rail on a bridge on U.S. 80 in Grand Prairie.

Fred Lambert Jr., 34, of Austin was killed when a motorcycle he was riding went out of control and crashed on Farm to Market Road 620 in Travis County.

John Willard Pearson, 64, of Bastrop, was killed when his vehicle struck a sign post on Farm to Market Road 672 in Bastrop County about 10:23 p.m. Friday.

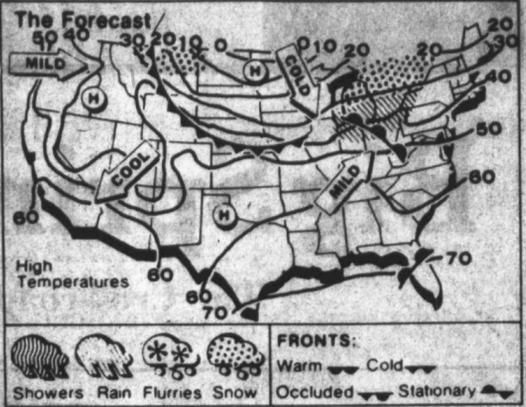

Michelle R. Edwards, 15, of El Paso was riding a bicycle in the city when a car struck her about 7:40 p.m. Friday.

Michael J. Nitzinger, 25, of Thorndale died when his car flipped over on Farm to Market Road 487 in Williamson County about 7:05 p.m. Friday.

Esmeralda Tabasco, 10, and Gregoria Tabasco, 9, both of Harlingen were passengers in a car that hit a parked vehicle on U.S. Highway 77 about 14 miles north of Refugio at 6:15 p.m. Friday. The car rolled off the vehicle, crossed the mid-stripe and was hit by an oncoming car.

Paula Rivas, 46, of San Marcos, was killed at 6:12 p.m. Friday when she was struck by a vehicle as she tried to cross Interstate 35 near San Marcos.

Weather

Local

Mild weather during the daytime hours is forecast for Big Spring and vicinity. Look for highs in the mid 50s today, warming to near 60 degrees by Christmas. Lows will fall into the mid 30s tonight and to near 30 degrees by Monday.

State

Mild and pleasant weather lingered across Texas Saturday as a ridge of high pressure anchored itself over the state from Oklahoma.

Mostly clear skies were common statewide, but a few low clouds blanketed much of the south and some patches of light rain dampened extreme southern regions.

Otherwise, no precipitation was observed across Texas, the National Weather Service said.

Winds flowed in a clockwise motion statewide, hovering across the high pressure center over northern Oklahoma. Northeastly winds of 5 to 10 mph were observed in the south, while southerly winds of 5 to 15 mph blew across West Texas.

Temperatures just before sunset ranged from the 40s and 50s, while warmer readings in the 60s and 70s were common elsewhere. The 4 p.m. extremes ranged from 43 at Dalhart and Amarillo to 78 at Palacios.

The forecasts for Sunday called for partly cloudy skies in northern and western areas, with a slight chance of light rain in the extreme south and southwest.

Lows Sunday will dip to the 20s in northwest portions and to the 30s and 40s elsewhere except the lower coast, where lows will climb to the 50s, the weather service said.

Highs Sunday will generally be in the high 50s to mid 60s.

Nation

A storm that swept from the Plains across the Northeast spread snow across New England, with up to 4 inches at Bangor, Maine. By daybreak the precipitation had changed to freezing rain over much of northern New England with drizzle or light rain over southern New England and eastern New York. Up to a foot of snow was possible in Maine's mountains.

Upper Michigan had snow squalls this morning, with light snow over northern and eastern Lower Michigan, and a winter storm warning was posted for northwestern Upper Michigan, which already had as much as 10 inches of snow.

Gale warnings were posted for the northern New England coast and lower Great Lakes.

Northwest winds sent frigid air into the north-central section of the nation today as temperatures dipped below zero in North Dakota and Minnesota.

Rain was scattered from the upper Ohio Valley across Tennessee to southeastern Texas and showers were scattered over the Pacific Northwest.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS — Generally partly cloudy through Monday. A little warmer Sunday and a little cooler most sections Monday.

Highs Sunday in the 60s. Lows Sunday night mid 20s north to upper 30s south with mid 40s Big Bend Valleys. Highs Monday near 50 north ranging to 60s south.

CRIMESTOPPERS

263-1151

Big Spring police are looking for information to help solve three October burglaries in conjunction with Crimestoppers.

A hotel room at the Mid-Continent Inn at Interstate Highway 20 and N. Highway 87 was broken into between 3 p.m. Oct. 11 and 8:30 a.m. Oct. 12.

Entry to room No. 124 was gained by prying the door open. Taken were four white Bestwestern-brand pillows, two multi-colored bedspreads from Southwest Textile, one tan blanket from Southwest Textile and a 19-inch RCA Color-Trak television. The total value of the items taken is $476.

Terry's Drive Inn and Diner at 1307 E. Fourth was burglarized between 11 p.m. Oct. 13 and 10:30 a.m. Oct. 14.

The building was entered by breaking the glass door. A video machine was broken into and an unknown amount of change was taken. Twenty dollars also was taken from the cash register.

More than $2,800 in goods were taken between 7 p.m. Oct. 28 and noon Oct. 29 in a residential burglary at 405 Westover.

Taken were a 25-inch Zenith color television, an Emerson component stereo system, a pair of Emerson stereo speakers, 10 cassette tapes, $30 in pennies, an antique wash stand with a pitcher and bowl, and an Antique Carnival glass punch bowl set.

Anyone having information or knowledge of the crimes should call Crime Stoppers at 263-1151 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Callers can remain anonymous and are identified only by number.

In addition, callers may be eligible for rewards if the information leads to the arrest or conviction of people in connection with these crimes.

A Special Place.

Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center provides special equipment and special services.

Making lives more active and enjoyable is the goal of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. This is an introduction to the specialists and the equipment that enable DRRC to provide its unique services to the Big Spring area.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

Approximately 70% of the patients seen at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center in Big Spring are directed to the physical therapy department.

The Center has three full time physical therapists on staff. Kaki Morton, LPT, Chief of Physical Therapy, joined the staff in 1971. Anita Morales, LPT, employed in 1976, is the clinical supervisor for physical therapy students who affiliate at the Center. These students are final year students from the University of Texas Health and Science Center in Dallas. Pacita Rosario, LPT, joined the staff in December, 1984.

Physical therapists plan and administer physical therapy treatment programs for medically referred patients to restore function, relieve pain and prevent disability following a disease, injury or loss of body parts. They work at a rehabilitation agency, hospital or in private practice. Physical therapy is the treatment of illness and injury by physical means, such as the use of light, heat, water, exercise, sound, electronic waves, etc.

The importance of P.T. is in making lives more active and enjoyable. Physical therapy can help improve circulation, restore motion, relieve pain, strengthen muscles, correct deformities and speed recovery, thus restoring physical and economic independence.

The goal of physical therapy is to help the patient function normally via rehabilitation, by helping the patient to maintain strength, regain motion and achieve the independence most patients want.

Physical therapy is frequently the treatment of choice of many minor disabilities such as bursitis, tenonitis, strains, sprains, and low back syndromes. People of all ages are helped by physical therapy. The physical therapists work on the "team" with doctors (who have the overall responsibility for the patients' treatment), and nurses, prosthetists, orthotists, occupational therapists, vocational counselors, psychiatrists, social workers and speech therapists. All work toward the patient's fullest recovery in the shortest possible time.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

Occupational therapy is that branch of the medical procession primarily concerned with translating the curative process into restoration of activities that are personally fulfilling. Rather than addressing itself to restoring specific bodily tissue function, O.T. emphasizes the interplay of all body systems to enable a patient to return to or develop the skills to perform self-care—vocational and recreational activities that will increase self-concept and independence.

Occupational therapists work with muscle and bone injuries when they involve the hands and arms, those task-related appendages of the body. Therapists also work with nervous system deficit, when they affect eye-hand coordination, reach or hand strength. Patients benefiting from O.T. services include developmentally delayed children, hand rehabilitation patients; stroke, closed head injury and spinal cord injury patients as well as those having other nervous systems disorders; psychiatric and geriatric patients. Probably the only patient group never requiring occupational therapy are acute care patients whose diseases have not impaired their task-performing activities.

Because of the unique role of occupational therapy regarding interplay of functions, O.T. is best utilized in a team approach where all professions, physicians, physical therapists, speech therapists, social workers and others arrive at mutually directed goals. David Taylor is the Occupational Therapist at DRRC.

SPEECH THERAPY

A Speech Pathologist is a professional trained in the study of human communications, its normal development, and its disorders. By evaluating the speech and language skills of children and adults, the speech pathologist determines if communication problems exist and decides the best way to treat these problems.

The clinical methods used will vary depending upon the nature and severity of the problems, the age of the individual and the individual's awareness of the problem. Pathologists provide many specialized professional services that include helping patients with articulation disorders (difficulties with the way sounds are formed and strung together, usually characterized by substituting one sound for another).

Stuttering, a widely recognized speech problem, is an interruption in the flow or rhythm of speech, characterized by hesitations, repetition or prolongations of sounds, syllables, words or phrases. Aphasia is the common problem resulting generally from a stroke and causes loss of speech and language abilities.

Other causes of speech disorders are related to hearing loss, short memory span; cerebral palsy and other neuromuscular disorders, severe head injuries, viral diseases, certain drugs, physical impairments (such as cleft lip or palate) and inadequate speech and language models in the home environment. Speech disorders may be caused by allergies, smoking, and the consumption of alcoholic beverages which may adversely affect the larynx resulting in varying degrees of laryngitis.

Patients are generally referred by a physician, public school or state and local health department. Kathy Anderson is the speech pathologist at DRRC.

AUDIOLOGY

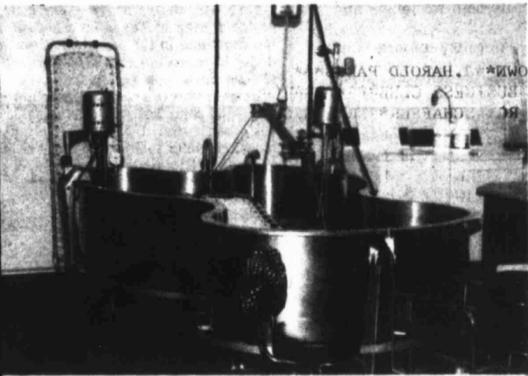

An audiologist is a professional concerned with normal and impaired hearing, and with the identification, evaluation, and rehabilitation of those who have hearing problems. The audiologist determines when a person has a hearing impairment, what type of impairment it is, and how the individual can make the best use of remaining hearing. The audiologist determines if a person will benefit from using a hearing aid, and if so, assist in the selection of an appropriate aid.

A report by Channing L. Bete Co. indicates over 16.2 million Americans have hearing impairments. Two million are school age children. One of the most common undiagnosed reasons for learning problems in school is poor hearing. Speech problems may result from poor hearing.

There are many causes relating to hearing loss. Because of the requirement of a doctor referral, most of the patients seen have already been determined as having a hearing impairment.

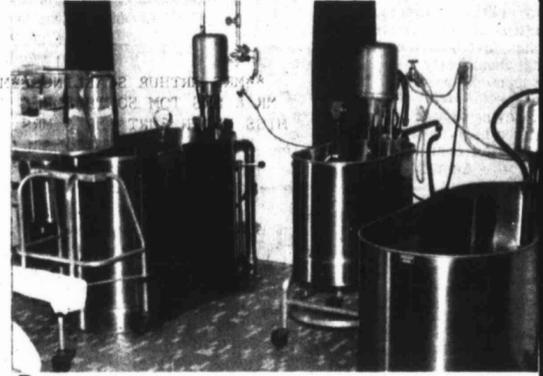

The audiologist screens people for hearing impairment for employers prior to employment. Most of these companies follow up each year with an evaluation to determine any job-related hearing loss. This monitoring is done to protect the company and the employee. If a hearing device is required, care is taken for a proper fit and the patient is asked to return for periodic evaluations.

The Dora Roberts Center has updated equipment to assist the hearing impaired. Dodie Sides is an audiologist at DRRC.

D.

B. (left to right) HYDROCOLLATOR PACKS containing heated silicate gel are used for patients whose conditions respond better to moist heat than dry heat. Used as pre-exercise or pre-mobilization procedure for muscular injuries, contusions, myositis, fibrositis, periarthritis, sprains and strain (such as whiplash.) WRIST ROLLER is used to strengthen weak wrist muscles and to mobilize stiff wrist joints. ELECTRICAL STIMULATOR employs low frequency to stimulate muscles and is useful in testing for degeneration of nerve, restoring muscle function following injury or paralysis, preventing atrophy of muscle, re-educating paralyzed muscles, relieving muscle or pain. SHORT WAVE DIATHERMY produces deep heating for treatment of bursitis, tenonitis, sprains, strains, myositis, fibrositis, pelvic inflammatory disease and sinusitis. SHOULDER WHEEL is used to mobilize stiffened shoulder joints and to strengthen muscles of shoulder joints. Benefits adhesive capsulitis, tenonitis and bursitis. ULTRA SOUND produces deep penetrating heat that produces massaging action within tissue, increases cellular permeability to relieve pain of osteoarthritis, radiculitis, bursitis, tenosynonitis, myositis, etc.

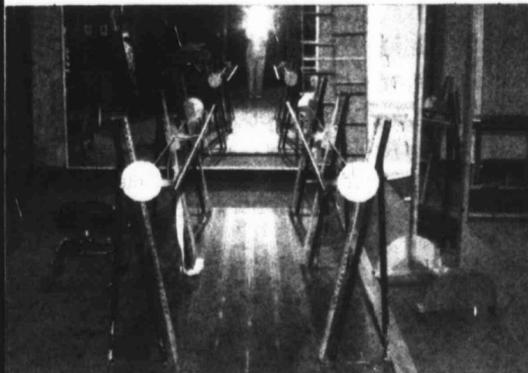

B.

C. PARALLEL BARS are used by patients with or without braces, who have illness or injuries that affect ability to walk naturally, including paraplegia, cerebral palsy, neuromuscular conditions, post fractures and amputations.

E.

D. WHIRLPOOL produces hydromassage action which improves circulation and speeds healing process as it relives pain. Benefits patients with strains, sprains, post fractures, burns and arthritis.

C.

E. CYBEX measures strength, endurance and quickness while providing exercise. Benefits those who have lost muscle strength through illness or injury. Therapists can compare an injured extremity, for example, to uninjured one to determine length of treatment. Can also be used by athletes in training to measure improvement.

F.

F. EXERCISE MAT is used to teach functional activities to paralyzed or partially paralyzed patients to prepare them for standing, walking, sitting and other activities.

No one plans to need us. But if you ever do, you'll know we're here to serve you.

BRENDA FRANKLIN
 POSTER CHILD 1984
 DORA ROBERTS REHAB CENTER

The donors listed on the Christmas Tree are for 1984, only because of limited space, but rest assured we are thankful for all donations in the past. Without the help of those individuals it would be impossible for DRRC to provide any of our service, much less the wide variety of competent, caring therapists who strive to meet the needs of a broad scope of people.

On behalf of the staff of DRRC, and especially those individuals who receive treatment, a special Christmas prayer to hope that God will bless your Christmas and New Year with peace and happiness.

Through a joint endeavor of the good folks of Big Spring and surrounding area, the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, again in 1984 experienced a tremendous growth. People make the difference. The continued support of the people enable the Center to achieve it's goal of offering the very best service available to the handicapped individuals of this area.

The economy usually does not effect the growth or decline in service's offered at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. We treat all patients regardless of race, color, creed, or national origin. No one is turned away because of the inability to pay. The only stipulation is that a patient be referred by a physician. In 1983, an increase of 1967 outpatient visits were provided. The total outpatient visits for 1983 was 9,888. Service's are provided in the area of physical therapy, speech pathology, occupational therapy and audio.

All services are provided by licensed, registered or certified professional staff. We have the best qualified professionals in their field. Not only do they have the skills and qualifications they care for the handicapped and their families. "CARE" is not only what we provide but what we do. We want the public to know what's available, not just adequate equipment and adequately trained personnel, but the best.

To be effective we must have funds to operate the center. Funding comes from private donations, clubs, organizations, fee's from patients and insurance, United Way, and from the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Trust Fund. Because of a pioneer lady, Mrs. Dora Roberts, and the vision, devotion, and generosity of Mrs. Horace Garrett and the late Mr. Garrett, the center will continue to operate and grow, giving a helping hand to all the handicapped and disabled individuals needing assistance. We take this opportunity to thank each and everyone for their generosity. We are grateful and appreciate you.

With the guidance of our Board of Directors and the Staff working diligently, we are proud to report we receive no State or Federal funding.

Opinion

The Soviet lie crashes in court

Not many persons outside the Soviet bloc can have believed the Kremlin's preposterous claim last year that the Korean Airlines 747 shot down by a Soviet fighter was actually flying a U.S. intelligence mission.

Still, this grossly implausible excuse for the coldblooded murder of 269 innocent civilians aboard KAL's flight 007 received a precious bit of credibility last June.

A British military magazine published an article theorizing that the airliner did indeed enter Soviet airspace deliberately to gather intelligence on Soviet air defenses.

The article, written by an anonymous author and published in the obscure journal Defense Attache, received widespread publicity in Europe and the United States. Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger denounced it as falsehood and nothing more than a rehash of the Soviet charges.

The Soviets, of course, must have relished this seeming corroboration of their claims. Indeed, it is not outside the realm of possibility that the KGB's disinformation branch somehow managed to plant Moscow's version of flight 007's destruction with an unsuspecting source. Certainly the KGB would have attempted to do so.

In any case, the article provoked a prompt libel suit filed against Defense Attache by Korean Airlines. The outcome of that suit, announced recently, underscores the absence of any credible evidence that KAL 007 was performing an intelligence function.

Under terms of the out-of-court settlement, Defense Attache agreed to print an apology and pay what were described as "substantial damages" to Korean Airlines.

Conspiracy buffs, anti-Americans and assorted apologists for the Soviet Union may always be tempted to believe that American intelligence agencies would willingly risk a civilian airliner loaded with innocent men, women and children when drone aircraft, satellites and various other forms of routine electronic monitoring could obtain much the same information with no risk to anyone.

But, as the settlement of KAL's suit against Defense Attache demonstrates, their theories will lack even minimal supporting evidence.

Steve Chapman

South Africa a sticky wicket

The need for reform in South Africa can no longer be seriously disputed, though a few right-wing cranks may try to defend the status quo. Apartheid is one of the most offensive forms of totalitarian control in a century that has seen every conceivable form. The question is not whether it should be dismantled, but how and when.

If it is demolished by a Marxist revolution, leaving South Africa a one-party socialist dictatorship, the change will represent no progress. But that doesn't diminish the urgency of elevating the status of blacks. Any realist must admit that reform may not succeed in averting violent upheaval. But a refusal to reform almost guarantees it.

What should the U.S. do? One answer is to slap South Africa with a variety of sanctions: such as requiring American companies to divest themselves of holdings there and forbidding new investments, restricting lending and exports to South Africa, and banning the sale of Kruggerands in the U.S.

Restrictions on investment are bound to harm the very people they are supposed to help. Unemployment is already high among South African blacks, and any measure to force American firms out of South Africa will destroy more jobs.

Worse, the jobs lost will be those in which blacks are best treated. Most U.S. firms of any size abide by the Sullivan code, refusing to accept apartheid restrictions and providing equal treatment for black employees. That provides not only material benefits to blacks but a moral example to whites.

Outlawing the sale of Kruggerands, the gold coins produced in South Africa, unjustly penalizes Americans who buy them. But it's not likely to hurt Pretoria much. South Africa can always sell gold in other forms, or contract with a third party to produce a different gold coin.

In any case, it isn't the U.S. demand for Kruggerands but the global demand for gold that really affects South Africa. If other gold sellers take up the slack from a Kruggerand ban, they likely as not will buy their gold from South Africa. As long as it is the largest producer of gold, accounting for half the world's supply, it will benefit from any sale of gold, in any form.

These sanctions, like the restrictions on lending and exports to South Africa, also enshrine an awful double standard. The U.S., after all, doesn't (and shouldn't) restrict lending by military equipment to Peking. Only the most rigid leftist could pretend that South Africa has a worse human rights record than these nations.

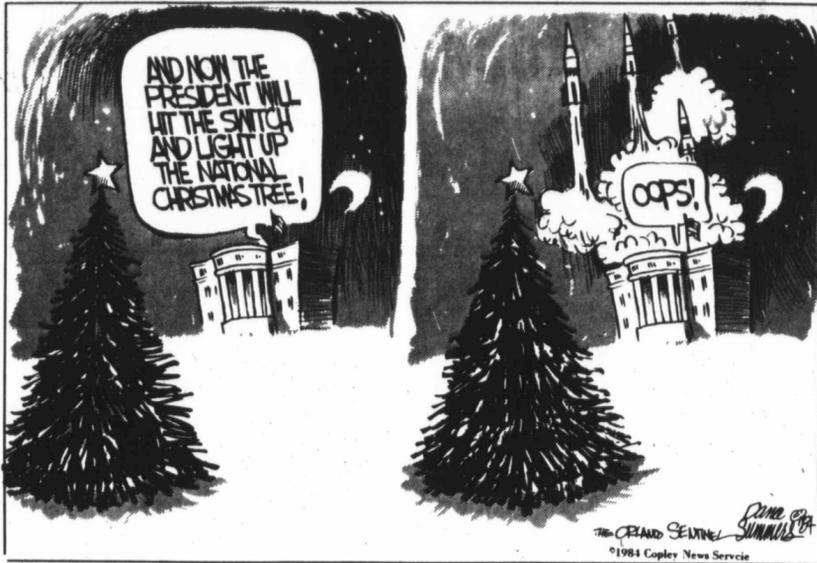

A better approach is for Washington to make its disapproval of apartheid known in plain terms. When South African conservatives hear their racist system condemned by a conservative American president, or by 35 conservatives in Capitol Hill, they have to sobered. In the end, South Africa's ruling whites may not be influenced much by outside criticism. But they shouldn't be allowed to take comfort in American silence.

South Africa also ought to be praised when it takes steps toward racial equality, economic liberty and political democracy. In the last few years, under pressure from critics at home and abroad, it has loosened some onerous restrictions on blacks.

For the first time, they are allowed to effectively buy and sell homes, land and farms. Laws reserving specific jobs for whites have been largely scrapped. Regulations on where blacks may live are being diluted through widespread exemptions. Blacks are now allowed to join trade unions.

These changes don't excuse the remaining burdens placed on black South Africans.

A battle of the bulge

Next year at this time I may be a candidate for a department store Santa, sans padding. Sports writer Steve Belvin wrote recently about his battle with the bulge, or how he blamed the holidays for his excesses at the dinner table. Not my problem, I thought.

I've never had to worry about my weight. I held a rock steady 145 pounds, carried with dignity on a 6-foot-2 frame, for 18 years. Think of the advantages of such consistency. I'm still wearing clothes purchased my freshman year of college. So what if they are tie-dyed T-shirts and Madras button-downs. They fit perfectly.

I sneered at the weak of heart who couldn't resist extra dessert — knowing full well it would gravitate immediately to their midriff.

I walked through the valley of the shadow of milk shakes and feared no calories. In my arrogance, I took to buying tailored shirts to accentuate a 38-inch chest that accompanied a 15-inch neck and a 31-inch waist.

I scoffed at my father's gentle warning: "I was skinny, too. And then when I was 26 or 27 I started putting on weight. It's never left." My dad, God bless him, is my height, but well in excess of 200 pounds. It'll never happen to me, I thought. I'm already 33, and slender as a gazelle.

Oh, Lord, save me. It happened.

The day I quit smoking, now five weeks and two days ago, I began an adventure in eating. I shoveled food like a little piggie, snorting through a three-egg breakfast and rooting up a bologna sandwich before bedtime.

At first I was happy that I had a real appetite, eating three (or four, or five) squares like a normal person. In three weeks I put on 10 pounds and an inch in the waist. I looked healthy; I felt healthy; I put more money in our food budget.

The pounds started multiplying of their own accord. It was like a trip through the Twilight Zone, a new dimension in sight and sound. I looked down and saw ripple around my middle. I felt peculiar — I felt fat.

The nightmare has just begun. If I want to awaken from it my wife tells me I have to work. Lift weights, do situps, run. I, the perpetual thin man, sweat off pounds? It's a cruel irony.

I, like Mr. Belvin, will have to resort to — Gads! — exercise to control weight. I knew there was no such thing as a free lunch. But I thought I could get by with a three-egg breakfast without paying the bill. I was wrong.

Billy Graham

Don't let atheists scare you

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Our daughter is dating a young man in college who is very intellectual. He says he doesn't believe we can know anything about God and that the Bible is just a history book which has no application to us in a scientific age. I never tried to deal with anyone like this before, and I don't know how to answer his questions. — Mrs. P.S.

DEAR MRS. P.S.: Don't feel like you are a failure if you can't answer all his questions right now. If you and your husband are walking with Christ every day and seeking to live for him, your lives will be a witness to this young man — a witness to the reality of God's love and power.

At the same time, realize that any question your daughter's friend may raise has undoubtedly been asked many times before — and many deeply intellectual Christians have examined it and come up with answers. Your Christian bookstore may have some suggestions about books that deal with commonly-asked questions from a Biblical viewpoint. In addition, find out what Christian organizations are active on his college campus (such as Inter-Varsity, Campus Crusade for Christ, or the Navigators) and encourage him to seek out Christian students who have dealt with some of the same questions he is raising.

Especially challenge him to read the Bible openly and honestly for himself — something he probably has never done. Encourage him to look at Jesus Christ as he is presented in the New Testament — who he is, what he has done for us.

Most of all, pray for him that the Holy Spirit will show him his need of Christ.

Pray for your daughter, also, and encourage her to put Christ first in her life — something your letter indicates she is not now doing. She should not let her friend's skepticism shake her own convictions, but should realize that God wants to use her to share the reality of Jesus Christ with this young man.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Around The Rim The story of Christmas

By KEITH BRISCOE
I named her Christmas because I found her the day before Christmas.

I found her at the old power plant that still had one generator churning powering a water lift station across the street, and a furnace inside the plant gave its heat to the metal walls of the building. I found her lying outside next to the old warm metal building the day before a great man's birthday.

I worked near there, across the frozen creek. You could not see the old building well from where I worked, but I saw her skinny shadow drag across the parking lot toward the power plant.

It was about dark and I walked past my car to find where the shadow had gone. She was on her side, her bony ribs pushing big breaths in and out.

I took her home and wrapped her in an old blanket by the small wall heater in my little room. I fed her and rubbed the crusty skin behind her ears and she went to sleep after she kissed me with her dry tongue.

The day after Christmas the doctor gave me lotion for her skin and white tablets for her stomach because she could not hold food. I painted her body with the lotion and gave her the medicine and fed her baby food from a jar.

"I don't know what kind she is," the doctor said. "I don't think she'll live."

A week after Christmas, Christmas had grown new hair, but she was still bald and sick and she shook hard when I took her outside for short walks. But she liked those walks, and she stuck her nose high, sucking the January air as she grew quicker and stronger every next time I took her out.

She grew more red hair, eating more so that you could not see her ribs anymore. She would play, too, and she chewed up her old blanket once when I wouldn't play anymore.

She got fatter, and when her color returned the doctor said I had a Red Bone Hound. "That's an expensive dog. I didn't think she'd live. She's one of those fighters that don't give up."

Some lovely people took Christmas because she got too big for my little room. They took her to a farm and they let her run. They love their Red Bone Hound dog.

I love Christmas, too.

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Dec. 23, the 358th day of 1984. There are eight days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 23, 1783, George Washington resigned as commander-in-chief of the Army and retired to his home at Mount Vernon, Va.

On this date: In 1788, Maryland voted to cede a 10-square-mile area for the seat of the national government. That area was to become the District of Columbia.

In 1805, Joseph Smith Jr., founder of the Mormon Church, was born in Sharon, Vt.

In 1823, "A Visit From St. Nicholas" by Clement C. Moore was published anonymously in the Troy (N.Y.) Sentinel. The poem is more popularly known as "Twas The Night Before Christmas."

In 1913, President Woodrow Wilson signed the Federal Reserve Act into law.

In 1928, the National Broadcasting Company set up a permanent, coast-to-coast radio network.

In 1941, American forces on Wake Island surrendered to the Japanese.

In 1948, former Premier Hideki Tojo and six other Japanese war leaders were executed in Tokyo.

In 1953, the former head of the Soviet secret police, Lavrenti Beria, was executed.

In 1967, President Lyndon B. Johnson, on his way home from a visit to Southeast Asia, held an unprecedented meeting with Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

In 1972, an earthquake struck Nicaragua, claiming several thousand lives.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Air Force hailed the first flight of the B-1 bomber, which was designed to take the place of the B-52.

Natural gas deregulation: Higher costs or better markets?

 about 10 percent of his company's gross income.

"Actually, with the prices going down, it's not going to have much effect one way or the other," said Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland.

"With the surplus of natural gas and the cutting and even breaking of contracts now, it might help stabilize the market," Thompson said.

Thompson said he based his predictions on discussions with about 30 to 40 of the organization's members. "It probably will be like crude oil and decontrol; the price actually went down at the gasoline pump. Maybe we'll get relief at the burner tip," he said.

Energas' supply contracts are at or below market level, partly because it has no high-cost take-or-pay contracts and because it is purchased on the intrastate market, escaping federal regulation, Ms. Kerr said.

Energas has a contract with its principal supplier, Westar Transmission Co., that extends through 1998 at the weighted average West Texas prices, she said.

"We feel that Cabot (Corp. of Boston, Mass., which bought Westar Sept. 29) will honor their contract as a supplier," she said.

Breck Harris of Lone Star Gas Co., which serves Colorado City, said his company also does not expect any significant price increase because of deregulation.

"We renegotiated several hundred of our contracts reducing the price of our gas," said Harris from Fort Worth. "Deregulation will allow us to renegotiate others."

Only 50 percent of Lone Star's supply of gas will be decontrolled, Harris said. Its prices will remain low because it has not been "locked into long-term contracts," he said. Gas fuel costs are passed through to consumers in a "fuel adjustment charge," so price increases do not benefit gas utilities, Harris and Kerr said.

Lone Star paid an average cost of $3.34 per 1,000 cubic-feet (mcf) this October, down significantly from the $3.52 per mcf it paid at the wellhead in October 1983, Harris said.

Prices went down because of the market surplus, increased consumer conservation and the economic downturn, Ms. Kerr said. But what's good for consumers is not necessarily good for producers, who say low prices will discourage further development and production.

Before drilling a gas well now, a producer must find a market and a contract, "no matter how good its geology looks," said Bob Morris, a partner in HMH Operators of Midland. "It used to be you had to worry about finding oil and gas and now you have to worry about finding a market."

Morris' company has one gas well not associated with oil production.

"It's been ready nine months, but we don't have a gas connection and contract," Morris said. "If we'd been able to produce or sell gas, it would be paid for now. I can tell you, we're not going to be looking for any more gas prospects."

According to Morris, HMH was getting about $3 an mcf before purchasers asked them to cut their production by 35 percent or reduce the price to $2.90 indefinitely.

"That ain't good. Obviously, dollarwise there was no contest.

We had to reduce the price," Morris said. Other producers had to reduce their price from $8.50 to $2 or less, he said.

Drilling for gas is spurred by the market — the availability of capital and the supply on the market — and not the federal ceiling, Schaible said.

"Deregulation's not going to spur any drilling in the short haul," Schaible said. "The earliest the surplus will be worked off would be 1985 or 1986."

Crossroads Country Football

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

Colorado City quarterback Doug Chitsey and Big Spring linebacker Jerry Anderson head a star-studded field in the first annual Big Spring Herald Crossroads Country Football Honor Roll.

Chitsey, Colorado City's senior quarterback, captured the Most Valuable Player award on offense. Anderson, a senior linebacker at Big Spring, was the Most Valuable Player on defense.

Coach of the Year honors went to Forsan coach Jan East who guided the Buffaloes to a 11-2 record and a berth in the class A state playoffs. The Buffaloes were defeated by Wink 26-18 in a regional clash in Andrews.

This season was a big turnaround for East and the Buffaloes after going 3-6-1 in 1983.

Chitsey and C-City Wolves head the honor roll by placing four players on the first team offensive squad and three on the defensive team.

They, along with the Forsan Buffaloes, dominated the first team offense. Forsan had three offensive players to make the first team.

Defensively, Colorado City and Coahoma headed the list placing three players each on the team. The Steers, led by Anderson, had two first team defensive choices.

Offensive MVP Chitsey capped off a sparkling three-year career by passing for 2,410 yards while leading Colorado City to a 11-2 record and a berth in the 3A state regional playoffs.

In three seasons Chitsey passed for 4,610 yards and 40 touchdowns. He also rushed for 1,300 yards in his three-year career.

The senior quarterback is called by C-City coach Tom Ramsey,

"the best quarterback I've coached. He is a competitor and a good team leader."

Anderson, although rather small for a linebacker at 5-11, 165-pounds, pounded on District 4-5A opponents all season long.

He led the Steers in tackling, averaging 14 per game and three interceptions. According to Big Spring head coach Quinn Eudy, Anderson had his best game of the season against powerful Midland Lee. He made 18 tackles in the contest.

"Jerry is one of the better linebackers I've coached," said Eudy. "He's real intelligent, mobile and has a great hitting stroke."

Backing Chitsey up in the backfield are three superb running backs headed by Borden County sensation Chris Cooley.

The swift junior averaged 231 yards per game while burning opposing six-man defenses for 2,080 yards. He scored 34 touchdowns while averaging 9.1 yards per carry.

Forsan senior Mitch Hays averaged 9.4 yards per carry from his halfback position. He started the season out slow suffering a broken jaw; but he ended strong by rushing for 1,410 yards and scoring 22 TD's.

Colorado City junior running back Sammy Rivera wasn't the break-away runners that Cooley and Hays were, he was a slasher; a runner that got you the tough yards. He finished the season with 1,280 yards and 15 touchdowns.

Wide receivers Don Randle and Terry Deatherage put fear in opposing secondaries everytime the ball was snapped.

Randle, a 6-4, 185-pound tight end from Colorado City; was the Crossroads Country's top receiver with 49 catches for 879 yards and 10 touchdowns. Over the past two seasons he has snagged 73 passes for 1,270 yards.

Grady wide receiver Terry Deatherage was the area's second leading receiver with 40 catches while averaging 18.3 yards per catch. Time and time again he would be the man quarterback Luis Gonzales looked for in clutch situations.

The offensive line is not big in size, but are a quality group. This year's group are all experienced seniors with the exception Coahoma junior center Barry Stafford. The tackles are the "big men" on the front. C-City's Wylie Stice, a 238-pounder, cleared the way for an awesome Wolves offense. Sands tackle Marc Rogers (6-2, 228) is a returning All-District selection.

The guards are quick and tough led by Forsan's Tony Miranda, who was one of the main reason for Forsan racking up over 3,000 yards rushing. Stanton's Benny Tarango rounds out the offensive wall.

The defensive unit is led by MVP Anderson and a talented trio of linebackers. Ironically, all three first-teamers are from Class A schools.

Forsan's Todd East put quite a burden on opposing offenses from his middle inebacker position. All season long, the 6-4, 185-pounder led the Buffaloes defense. He end-

Mojo, French tie 21-21 | All-District picks even

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Beaumont French linebacker Charles Goodman picked off an Odessa Permian pass with 31 seconds left to preserve a 21-21 tie Saturday afternoon and a co-championship in Class 5A, the first time two schools have shared the title at the top level of Texas high school football in 39 years.

Playing before 13,108 at Texas Stadium, Permian had come back from a 21-7 deficit to tie the game in the second half. The Panthers had driven from their own 35 to the French 35 when quarterback Alton Holloway threw a short pass over the right side into the arms of Goodman, who fell down at his own 29.

French reached midfield in one play, but gained only four more yards.

The Buffaloes, who marched into the state title game after a 4-4 start, finished with an 11-4-1 record, while Permian finished at 15-0-1.

All but one touchdown came in the first half as French, after falling behind 7-0, scored three times to lead 21-7 late in the second quarter. Permian scored on a 1-yard run by fullback Dal Watson, who finished with 124 yards on 25 carries, to make it 21-14 with 33 seconds left in the first half.

Watson scored the game's final touchdown midway through the third quarter on another 1-yard run and Woody Bryant's third PAT tied the game at 21-21 with 4:28 to play in the quarter.

A go-ahead touchdown by Permian was nullified three plays later when Danny Servance picked off a French pass and ran it 38 yards for an apparent touchdown. An illegal block by Permian after the interception brought the ball back to the French 46 and six plays later the Panthers were intercepted.

A Permian penalty in the fourth quarter caused another touchdown. Mojo page 2-B

No one team dominated the 4-5A All-District squad this season as co-state champs Odessa Permian, Midland Lee and San Angelo Central led the balloting.

Big Spring defensive tackle Doug Walker was the lone Steer named to the first team. The 5-11, 225-pound senior was the anchor of the Big Spring defensive front all season. He is also a first-teamer on the Crossroads Country Football Honor Roll.

Linemen Jerry Meyer, defensive back Jay Pirkle and linebacker Jerry Anderson were named the Honorable Mention squad. Pirkle is a member of the Honor Roll as a punter while Anderson is the Most Valuable Player. All three are seniors.

Central headed the list by placing four offensive and defensive first-teamers on the squad. Tight end-punter Brian Ross was a two-way choice.

Lee, runner-up in the district placed; put four offensive and two defensive starters on the team. Running backs Walter Jones and Tyrone Thurman head the crew.

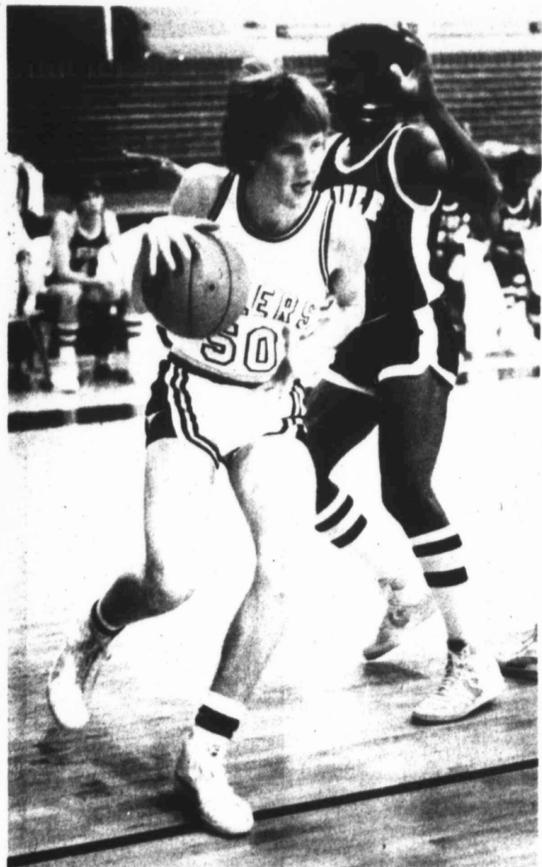

Permian quarterback Alton Holloway and defensive end John Fuller were the offensive and defensive MVP's.

Permian coach John Wilkins was selected as Coach of the Year of for leading the Panthers to a 10-0 regular season mark. The state champion Panthers end the year with a 15-0-1 record. All-District page 2-B

MIKE LEUSCHNER in action against Snyder in a recent game.

Steers player 'Mr. Consistent'

Hard work pays off for Leuschner

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Mike Leuschner is a perfect example that hard work pays off. The senior post player for the Big Spring Steers has improved by leaps and bounds from last season, developing into Big Spring's most consistent player. 'Leush', as he is called by his friends; has been one of the main reasons that coach Mike Randle's Steers have a 6-11 record so far this season. The record might not sound that impressive, but it's a big improvement from last year's team that finished a dismal 2-27.

"Mike is definitely our most improved player," said Randle. He's got more confidence this year. This came from getting experience last year." The 6-4 Leuschner agrees with his coach that experience has been a big key. "Last year I didn't shoot much under the goal because I was afraid it would get slapped," said Leuschner. "This year I don't worry about that, I'm more aggressive in going to the basket." Leuschner has been "going to the basket" pretty good this season. He's the team's second leading scorer averaging 12 points per game. He also leads the squad in rebounds with 10 per contest.

His consistency and team leadership has been a major factor in the maturing of a squad which returns only three lettermen. Leuschner's performance is a big improvement over last year's six rebounds and points per game average. The key is hard work and Leuschner will vouch for that. Right after basketball season he begins his off-season program lifting weights. During the summer he got stronger and added 10 pounds to his 175-pound frame. Then there was basketball, basketball and more basketball.

He played basketball all summer long. It didn't matter where he played, just as long as he played. His three main hang outs were afternoons at the First Baptist Church gym, nights in the Big Spring Summer League or early morning sessions at the YMCA. He also admitted to doing a lot of "fooling around" with the ball at home at his own goal.

"My shooting got better during the summer and coach Randle got me to follow through on my shot. It made a big difference."

Though "Leush" is enjoying his current success, he makes it clear he isn't content with present performance. "I've got to be more consistent with my rebounding and I need to stay out of foul trouble."

As for the future of the Steers, Leuschner says the sky is the limit. "Last year we were intimidated by guys like Darrell Davis from Midland. This year we know we can play with them. We can play with anybody in this conference. It's all a matter of being consistent and working hard."

After all, Leuschner is almost an expert on hard work.

to be called back when a 10-yard run into the end zone by Rich Fletcher was wiped out by an illegal procedure penalty. Robert Kiel intercepted another Holloway pass at the 6-yard line to end the threat and maintain the tie score.

The last time two teams tied for the state championship in Texas' top high school classification was 1945, when Highland Park and Waco High shared the title.

Permian, which spent most of the season atop the 5A rankings, scored two minutes into the game when Greg Anderson returned a French punt 82 yards for a touchdown. The junior end also caught a school record 11 passes for 133 yards.

The Buffaloes made it 7-7 just 21 seconds later when Paul Jones carried the ball over for the 11. French scored again late in the first quarter after taking possession of a partially blocked punt at the Permian 36. On the first play, French quarterback Mark Guilbeaux lofted a deep pass to Willie Williams, who caught it at the 3 and went in for the score.

In the second quarter, Beaumont took over at the Permian 33 on a fumble recovery by Thad Nobles. Guilbeaux hit split end Keith Wycoff for the score and Paul Jones hit his third PAT to make it 21-7 with 3:39 left in the half.

The Panthers took the kickoff and mounted a 13-play drive that covered 80 yards. Watson carried it over for the score to bring Permian within 21-14 at intermission.

All state playoff games other than championship are decided by penetrations inside the 20 yard line. Permian led in penetrations 4-3 but under University Interscholastic League rules a tie in the title game results in state co-champions.

Bowls games close

BYU protects ranking

By The Associated Press

In their first bowl game, the first Cherry Bowl, the Cadets of Army came out first. Brigham Young may have done the same thing one day earlier.

Army quarterback Nate Sassaman threw only twice out of Army's wishbone offense, but he rushed for 136 yards as the Black Knights defeated Michigan State of the Big Ten Conference 10-6 in the inaugural Cherry Bowl at Pontiac, Mich., Saturday.

It was the first bowl appearance in the long and fabled football history of Army, which improved its record this season to 8-3-1. The Spartans, in their first bowl since the 1966 Rose Bowl, finished 6-6.

Brigham Young also got a gutty performance from an injured quarterback, Robbie Bosco, to defeat Michigan 24-17 Friday night in the Holiday Bowl at San Diego. That kept the top-ranked Cougars' record unblemished and perhaps earned them their first national collegiate football title.

In Saturday's two other games, No. 12 Maryland rallied to beat Tennessee 28-27 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, and 15th-ranked Florida State tied Georgia 17-17 in the Florida Citrus Bowl at Orlando.

Army's scores came on a 4-yard run by Clarence Jones with 6:41 left in the first half and Craig Stopa's 38-yard field goal with 8:40 to play. Both scores came after Michigan State turnovers.

Sassaman rushed 28 times, topping the 100-yard mark for the seventh time this season. Army's defense, meanwhile, sacked Michigan State quarterback Dave Yarema four times, intercepted three passes and recovered a fumble. Doug Pavsek had two of the Army interceptions.

Michigan's touchdown came on a 36-yard toss from Yarema to Bob Wasczenski with 4:19 left in the game. A 2-point conversion attempt failed.

Bosco, barely able to walk after sustaining knee and ankle injuries from a late hit in the first quarter, threw two touchdown passes in the fourth period to erase a 17-10 Michigan lead.

Bosco finished with 30 completions in 42 attempts for 343 yards. He was intercepted three times and fumbled the ball away twice, however.

In El Paso, Maryland capped its recovery on a 21-0 halftime deficit on fullback Rick Badanjek's second touchdown run of the game, with 2:28 to play, and the Terrapins continued their penchant for the dramatic in beating Tennessee in the Sun Bowl. Maryland came from a 31-0 deficit on Nov. 10 to beat Miami, Fla., 42-40 and set an NCAA Division I record for comebacks.

ed the season with a team-leading 203 tackles.

Tim Cope is called by Klondike head coach Jimmy Thomas a "superb all-around athlete." Switching from the secondary, the 170-pounder averaged 15 tackles per game; leading the Cougars to a near-playoff berth.

Garden City senior Doug Hoelscher emerged as one of the top linebackers in the area this season. The 5-11, 170-pounder was almost unblockable this season, leading the Bearkats with over 150 tackles this season.

The front four is a mixture of speed, power and strength; led by Big Spring tackle Doug Walker. The 5-11, 225-pound senior was the Steers most consistent performer this season in the tough 4-5A trenches.

Coahoma "strongman" Shawn Justiss is another tower of strength in the front wall. The 225-pound senior led the Bulldogs line in tackles. He is the strongest player on the squad with a 365-pound bench press.

C-City seniors Freddie Pineda and Kevin Norman round out the defensive front. Pineda was perhaps the Wolves most consistent player from his defensive end spot. Standing only 5-8 he imposed a tall order for offensive tackles with his pass rush.

Norman is a mixture of speed and strength. The 175-pound senior created havoc for offenses with his 4.6 speed and 300-pound bench press.

Coahoma ruled the secondary spots, placing junior Brian Calaway senior John Swinney n the first team.

Calaway was perhaps the finest cornerback in District 6-3A as he picked off eight passes for the season. Swinney led the Bulldogs in interceptions with nine from his safety position.

Stanton's Derek Sorley is the lone sophomore to make the first team. He was a vicious hitter and had a nose for the football.

C-City safety Armando Rivera is the smallest of the lot at 5-11, 135-pounds; but packed quite a punch we he hit enemy ball-carriers. He intercepted seven passes, including three in one game versus Ozona.

So there you have the first-ever Cross Country Football Honor Roll. A group of young men that were the cream of the crop in the area and a fine example for other Crossroads Country gridders to follow.

Groveton romps over Panhandle

BROWNWOOD (AP) — Groveton running back Michel Horace scored five times and established a new career rushing record Saturday, firing the Indians to a 38-7 victory over Panhandle and the state Class 2A football championship.

The Indians' decisive victory made up for last year's loss to Boyd in the state finals. It was Panhandle's first appearance in a state championship game.

The Panthers never found a way to stop Horace, who scored on runs of 3, 5, 81, and 12 yards from scrimmage and added a fifth touchdown on a 79-yard interception return.

Horace finished the night with 269 yards of 33 carries for a career total of 7,675 yards — better than the Class 2A record of 7,652 set by the late David Overstreet of Big Sandy in 1973-76.

Groveton wrapped up its season with a 13-3 record while Panhandle finished at 11-3-2.

Groveton built a 17-7 halftime lead, then broke the game by scoring on its first three possessions in the second half.

Horace had a 3-yard scoring run late in the first period and his long interception return early in the second quarter gave the Indians a 14-0 lead.

Then Wes Wood, who rushed for 190 yards, set up Panhandle's only touchdown with a 66-yard run midway through the second quarter. He later scored from the 1 on a fourth-and-inches play.

But Larry Taylor of Groveton kicked a 26-yard field goal to make it 17-7 at halftime before the Indians moved 81, 81 and 77 yards on their first three possessions of the second half to win going away.

Groveton burned almost seven minutes off the clock with a 15-play 81-yard march after the second half kickoff. Horace scored on fourth down from the two.

The 190-pound senior added his 81-yard scoring bolt moments later, then capped a record-breaking night with a 12-yard sprint early in the final quarter.

Seattle stops Raiders, 13-7

Defending champs eliminated

SEATTLE (AP) — Dave Krieg teamed with Daryl Turner for a 26-yard touchdown strike and Norm Johnson had two field goals Saturday to give the Seattle Seahawks a 13-7 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders that knocked the defending Super Bowl champions out of the National Football League playoff derby.

The win in the AFC wild-card game moved the Seahawks on to Miami for a playoff game with the AFC East champion Dolphins next Saturday, a rematch of a game in which the Seahawks upset the Dolphins last year.

While their lone touchdown came through the air, it was virtually an all-running show for the conservative Seahawks, who had passed 88 times in lopsided regular season-ending losses in Kansas City and at home against Denver.

But this time, Krieg attempted just 10 passes as the brunt of the attack fell on Dan Doornink, who carried the ball 27 times for 123 yards.

And the Seahawks' defense, which surrendered 34 and 31 points to Kansas City and Denver, returned to the form that it showed in turning in three shutouts this season.

Jim Plunkett, the Raiders' 14-year NFL veteran quarterback, made his first start since the sixth game of the Los Angeles regular season but couldn't get anything going until he drilled a 46-yard touchdown pass to Marcus Allen with 5:05 to go in the game. The deepest previous Raiders' penetration was to the Seahawks' 41-yard line in the second quarter.

The Raiders got the ball back on their own six-yard-line with 45 seconds left, but Kenny Easley intercepted a desperation heave by Plunkett to clinch the game.

The Seahawks, who finished in second place behind Denver one spot ahead of the Raiders in the AFC West, led 7-0 at halftime on a 93-yard, nine-play touchdown drive. It was climaxed by Krieg's pinpoint second-quarter 26-yard slant-in pass to Turner, who beat the Raiders' Lester Hayes and Odis McKinney.

The march started on the Seattle 7-yard line after the Raiders' Ray Guy strategically booted a 36-yard punt out of bounds. It was kept alive by a 23-yard pass interference penalty against Hayes while defending the Seahawks' Steve Largent.

David Hughes had a 12-yard run and caught a 10-yard pass from Krieg while Doornink had a 10-yard run in the drive.

The touchdown came with 4:19 left in the half and the Seahawks almost scored again after getting the ball back on the Los Angeles 46 two minutes later. But 14-year NFL veteran defensive end Lyle Alzado powered over Doornink's block to sack Krieg, who was back to pass, for an 11-yard loss on a third-and-four situation from the Raiders 40.

The Seahawks, who lived on takeaways in recording a 12-4 regular-season record, finally got a Los Angeles turnover 10:58 into the second half. They converted it into their first field goal.

Plunkett completed a short pass to Frank Hawkins but the Seahawks' Bruce Scholtz stripped the ball from Hawkins and Keith Simpson recovered it on the Raiders' 38.

The Seahawks went 21 yards in seven plays to the Los Angeles 17 and Johnson kicked a 35-yard field goal with 1:29 left in the third quarter. He kicked his second, a 44-yarder, to make it 13-0 with 10:50 remaining in the game when after the Seahawks went 23 yards in five plays.

In addition to his 123-yard rushing performance, Doornink caught four passes for 81 yards.

The Raiders went 78 yards in six plays for their lone score. They scored just one touchdown against AFC Central winner Pittsburgh in Los Angeles last Sunday in losing the home-field playoff advantage to the Seahawks.

LA Raiders quarterback JIM PLUNKETT sets dejectly on the bench after the Raiders loss to the Seattle Seahawks.

4A championship

Denison downs Tomball

WACO (AP) — Denison quarterback Erick Harper passed for a touchdown and a two-point conversion and kicked two field goals to carry the Yellowjackets to their first Class 4A State Football Championship in 68 years with a 27-13 victory over the Tomball Cougars Saturday.

The Yellowjackets, who started playing in 1916 but had never reached the finals, finished with a 16-0 record and the Cougars bowed out with a 14-1 ledger.

Denison built a 16-6 halftime lead before 12,569 fans at Baylor Stadium, but had to beat back a spirited fourth-quarter rally by Tomball.

Tomball quarterback Lance Pavlas completed a 33-yard touchdown pass to Bubba Greely in the second period and flipped a six-yard pass to him in the fourth period to cut the lead to 16-13.

WEATHERFORD (AP) — Dent Offutt threw for on touchdown and ran for another as the Munday Moguls shut out Union Hill 13-0 Saturday for the Class 1A high school football championship.

Union Hill, which couldn't manage a first down in the first half, saw two touchdown opportunities get away in the second half.

On the Bulldogs' first possession of the half Buford Jones fumbled the ball in the end zone. Munday recovered for a touchdown.

Bulldog quarterback John Clemens had his team rolling deep into Munday territory at the start of the fourth quarter, but he lost the ball on the Munday 34-yard line and the Moguls' Tim Collier recovered.

All the scoring came in the first half. The much larger Moguls were overpowering in that half with 5:18 left in the first quarter. Offutt hit Frankie Stinnett with a 39-yard touchdown pass. Ronnie Lowranz kicked the extra point for a 7-0 Mogul lead.

In the second quarter, on Munday's first possession after a Clemens punt, Offutt ran a 3-yard keeper for the second touchdown with 7:56 left in the half. Lowranz' kick was wide to the right.

Munday had 15 first downs to Union Hill's 10. Total offense matched up evenly, as the Bulldogs rolled up 247 yards in the second half for 285 total yards. Munday had 295.

DePaul struggles past Northwestern

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) — Tony Jackson scored 13 points, and Tyrone Corbin and Kenny Patterson added 12 each Saturday as No. 5 DePaul, still groggy after an upset loss earlier this week, posted a 61-56 victory over Northwestern.

The Blue Demons, now 7-2, were upset by Western Michigan on Wednesday. They used fierce defensive pressure in the second half to overcome a game-high 20 points from Northwestern freshman Shon Morris and keep alive a 30-game winning streak at home.

Northwestern, which also got 14 points from John Peterson, slipped to 3-5.

After sleepwalking through much of the first half, the Blue Demons clamped on full-court pressure early in the second and quickly cut into a 30-20 halftime deficit.

DePaul converted nine Wildcat turnovers into eight points and strung together runs of six and 10 points to take their first lead of the contest, 38-36, with 11:44 gone.

DePaul never relinquished that lead, although Northwestern pulled into its final tie at 52-52 on a layup by Peterson.

But Patterson followed with a 15-foot jumper and after Morris missed the front half of a one-and-bonus situation from the free throw line, Corbin came back with a soaring tip-in for a 56-52 DePaul edge.

Jackson and Patterson combined on 5-of-6 shooting from the line in the closing minute to ensure the outcome.

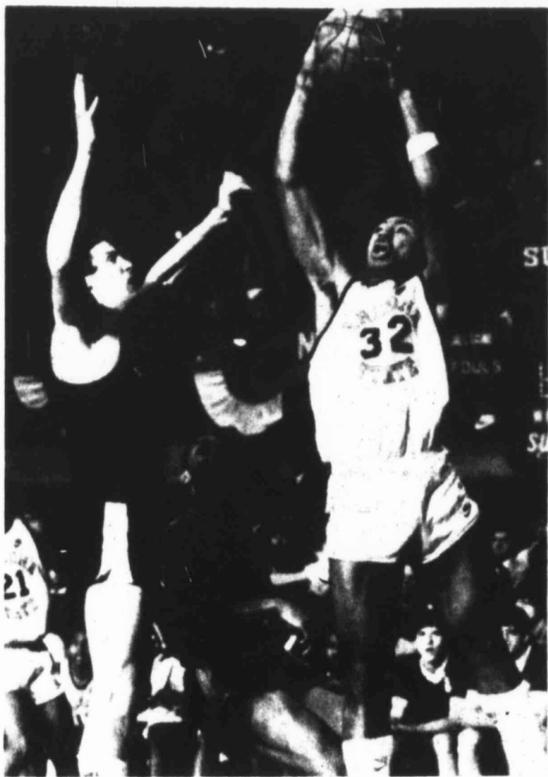

The Wildcats rode three straight baskets from Andre Goode following the tipoff to a quick 6-0 lead, while DePaul sandwiched two turnovers between four missed shots and didn't find the basket until Marty Embry tipped in yet another miss at 15:24.

But with Dallas Comegys beginning to score from inside the lane, the Blue Demons climbed steadily into a 10-10 tie some four minutes later.

But DePaul lapsed into its second offensive cold spell of the half and the Wildcats strung together 10 unanswered points to post a 20-10 advantage with five minutes left.

Patterson banked a 10-footer to cut the margin to 20-12, but DePaul got no closer over the closing minutes as Morris protected the lead by scoring six of his 10 first-half points.

Michigan remains unbeaten

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Roy Tapley scored 20 points and Gary Grant added 15 points to lead No. 18 Michigan to a 93-77 victory over Rutgers in nonconference college basketball action Saturday.

The victory raised the Wolverines' record to 8-0, while the Scarlet Knights fell to 4-2.

Michigan opened a 14-point lead early in the second half and Rutgers never got closer than 11 points.

The Wolverines triumphed despite the absence of starting guard Antoine Joubert, who sprained an ankle in practice Friday. Joubert was replaced in the lineup by Garde Thompson, who scored eight points.

However, the Michigan bench picked up the slack. Robert Henderson and Leslie Rockmore combined for 23 points.

The Scarlet Knights built a 23-16 lead in the first half before a technical foul on Rutgers Coach Tom Young sparked Michigan during an 8-0 run that gave the Wolverines a lead they never relinquished.

Henderson added a career-high 14 points for Michigan, while Richard Rellford had 13.

John Battle scored a game-high 27 points for Rutgers, while Chris Remley added 22 points.

Soviet crowds pay last respects to defense minister

MOSCOW (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Soviet citizens stood in line for hours in frigid weather Saturday to view the body of Defense Minister Marshal Dmitri F. Ustinov, lying in state in a mound of flowers in central Moscow's House of Unions.

Other Soviets, bent on shopping for New Year's presents or simply getting home, complained of the barricades set up by an army of militiamen to keep cars and pedestrians away from the procession of mourners for Ustinov, who died at the age of 76 on Thursday.

A column of dark-clothed mourners, waiting in the 5-degree weather, snaked through nearly a mile of closed streets from Pushkin Square to the pale green House of Unions. Many people had come to the city center in bus caravans.

Once inside the building, they waited another 30 minutes in a queue that wove along the building's columned corridors and up a wide staircase. They passed a portrait of Ustinov that stretched from floor to ceiling.

Some of those in line said they braved the frosty weather because it was their duty to pay tribute to Ustinov for his lifelong work in the nation's defense.

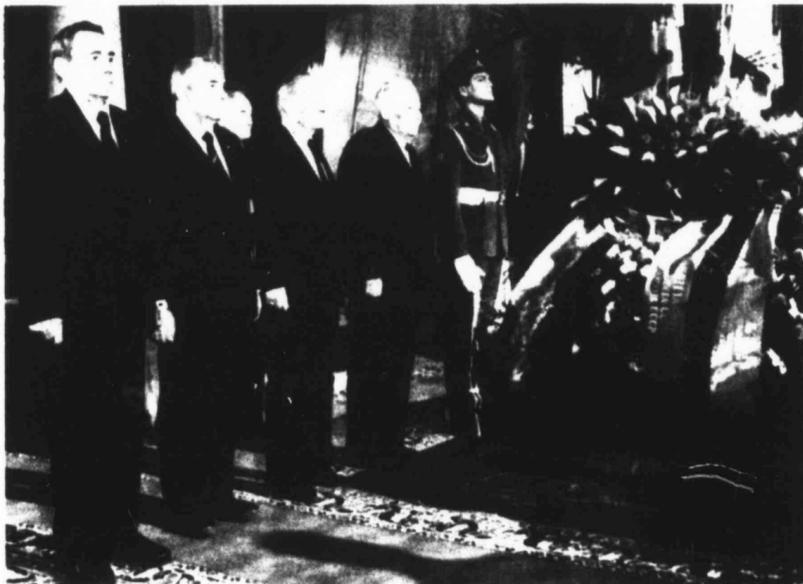

"We should show him respect. He served the motherland through his whole life," said a 58-year-old driver named Alexander, who declined to give his last name.

"He was a wonderful person and contributed much to the defense of our nation," said a 48-year-old economist who would not give her name.

Another citizen, Anatoly Peragov, said he was there because Ustinov "was a good organizer, leader and engineer."

Ustinov is to be buried at the Kremlin wall in a Red Square funeral at 1 p.m. Monday, a Foreign Ministry official said. The date was not announced in news media reports.

Ustinov's open coffin was placed atop a five-foot hillock of red, pink and orange flowers in the ornate Hall of Columns.

The hall was draped with red and black bunting. Gilt candleholders and chandeliers were shrouded in sheer black fabric and recorded funeral dirges played quietly throughout the building.

About a dozen family members sat solemnly near the casket watching the rapid procession of Soviets file by. Nine of the 11 remaining members of the ruling Politburo, led by President Konstantin U. Chernenko, visited the bier at noon before the building was opened to the public.

Politburo members Vitaly I. Vorotnikov, the Russian federation premier, and Ukrainian party boss Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky were absent.

Soviets began lining up at Pushkin Square early in the morning, and the queue began moving toward the House of Unions in early afternoon.

Muscovites trying to negotiate their way between department stores along Gorky Street to homes on the other side of the line of mourners complained about the barricades.

"How am I supposed to get home?" said an elderly woman, berating a stony-faced militiaman who paid no attention. She was told by another policeman to take an underpass to the other side of the square and approach her apartment building a block farther down the street.

Shoppers out in search of presents for the New Year's holiday stopped along the barricades periodically to watch the mourners procession or to ask how they could get around the closed areas to reach entrances to nearby subway stations.

Analysis

No changes expected in Soviet Union military

MOSCOW (AP) — The appointment of Marshal Sergei Sokolov as the new defense minister is not expected to change Moscow's military policy or affect coming arms control talks with the United States.

Western diplomats in Moscow said Saturday that although they know little about Sokolov's views, his 52 years in the Soviet army and 17 years as first deputy defense minister mark him as a traditional Soviet military man.

"It's a conservative, predictable choice," said one Western diplomat, who spoke on condition he not be further identified.

Marshal Dmitri Ustinov, 76, who died Thursday, was the first Soviet civilian to get that job since Leon Trotsky's 1918-25 tenure. Ustinov made his mark in arms development and production.

Before the Soviet news agency Tass announced that the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet had picked Sokolov for the job, speculation had centered on another civilian, Politburo member Grigori V. Romanov.

However, a Western European diplomat, who also spoke on condition he not be identified, said of Sokolov's appointment: "I don't think it's unusual or surprising, the defense minister has often been a soldier or someone high in the Defense Ministry."

Addressing the Revolution Day parade in Moscow in November, after Ustinov fell ill, Sokolov made traditional Soviet attacks on Western arms policies. He said "the strengthening of the defense potential of our motherland is the first civil obligation and patriotic duty of every Soviet person."

Such statements reflect the traditional balance between the powerful military and politics in the Soviet Union, a balance Sokolov is not expected to upset.

Western diplomats said his choice appeared to be a conservative step by an aging Kremlin hierarchy anxious to avoid radical change and emphasize collective leadership.

Unlike Marshal Nikolai V. Ogarkov, who was dismissed as a first deputy defense minister and chief of staff last September after an unusual individual call for revamping conventional forces, Sokolov has not stepped outside the bounds of collective leadership.

One Western diplomat said Sokolov was believed to have fulfilled an administrative rather than command role in his Defense Ministry job, reporting direct to the defense minister rather than through military channels.

He will be familiar with key defense decisions made over the past 17 years, a period of huge buildup by the Soviet military. However, he does not have the political clout to take the military in new directions.

Ustinov and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are believed to have played a major part in formulating the Soviet Union's arms control policies, including the recent decision to talk about arms control with U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz in Geneva next month.

Ustinov was a deputy member of the ruling Politburo beginning in 1965, and he became a full member in 1976, the year he became defense minister.

Sokolov does not have a seat in the Politburo, but he has been a member of the Communist Party Central Committee since 1968.

The dispute between the United States and the Soviet Union over arms control, and the likely escalation of the arms race if new talks fail are the major problems facing Sokolov in his new job.

Defense minister DMITRI USTINOV died Thursday.

Profile

New military boss a career soldier

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Sergei Leonidovich Sokolov, named Saturday as new head of the Soviet military, has been a soldier for more than a half-century, and in contrast to his predecessor made his way to the Kremlin from the front lines.

The 73-year-old Sokolov, who entered the army in 1932, was appointed by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet to replace Dmitri F. Ustinov, who died Thursday.

A brief biography of Sokolov issued by the news agency Tass said Sokolov commanded front-line armored and mechanized forces during World War II. He has been awarded the Order of Lenin and two Red Star medals for "service to the motherland in the armed forces."

Sokolov had been a first deputy defense minister since April 1967, and a full member of the Communist Party Central Committee in 1968. However, he is not a member of the ruling Politburo of the Communist Party. Ustinov had been a deputy Politburo member for 11 years prior to being named defense minister.

The new defense minister took on a high profile late this year when the 76-year-old Ustinov's illness forced him to drop out of sight, and presumably from his official duties.

Ustinov had been last seen in public on Sept. 27. When he missed the Nov. 7 Revolution Day parade at Red Square, it was Sokolov who led the military procession and spoke to the thousands of workers and officials assembled for the nation's biggest holiday.

SERGEI SOLOKOV has been named Soviet defense minister.

His speech contained standard Soviet criticisms of the West, including an attack on NATO foreign policy. Sokolov said the "aggressive actions" of the Western military alliance "preclude a lessening of the threat of war."

Western diplomats in Moscow say they know little about Sokolov's views. But they suggest his long career marks him as a traditional Soviet military man, and a conservative choice made by aging leadership that wants to emphasize collective leadership and avoid radical change.

Unlike Sokolov, Ustinov made his way to the top defense job as a civilian, through his work in arms procurement and development. He had been Josef Stalin's arms commissar during World War II, and he presided over the arms buildup in the following years that turned the Soviet Union into a military superpower.

But Ustinov never had a field command or an army command.

Sokolov was born July 1, 1911 to an office worker's family in Yevpatoria in Crimea. After World War II, he attended the Academy of Armored and Mechanized Forces and the Military College of the General Staff.

He also worked his way through regional military commands, serving as command of a tank regiment, a mechanized division, chief of staff of one army district and commander of another, Tass said.

In 1960 he served as chief of staff of the Moscow military district, and five years later he became commander of the Leningrad district.

Soviets repeat 'star wars' warning

MOSCOW (AP) — A leading Soviet commentator warned Saturday that Moscow will not make any agreements permitting an arms race in space in its talks with the United States in Geneva next month.

The Jan. 7-8 talks between U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and Andrei Gromyko, the Soviet foreign minister, must treat non-militarization of space and limitation of strategic and medium-range nuclear arms "in interconnection," Tass commentator Vladimir Bogachev said.

"The prevention of space weaponry race is of key importance," he said. "Soviet leaders pointed out more than once that if the dangerous race of space weaponry were unleashed by the United States, it would speed up the arms race in other directions and would undermine the foundation of the entire process of arms limitation and reduction."

"Naturally, the Soviet Union's consent to the legalization of space weaponry race, including anti-ballistic missile race, is out of the question," Bogachev said.

The Soviet Union has warned against militarizing space several times since the Geneva talks were announced last month, arguing that an anti-ballistic missile defense would violate the anti-ballistic missile treaty the two countries signed in 1972.

The Kremlin is believed anxious to ban the "Star Wars" defense system advocated by President Reagan, who argues that it would offer defense against nuclear attack. Moscow says the system is designed to launch a first strike on the Soviet Union.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher met Reagan at Camp David on Saturday for talks expected to include space weapons.

Bogachev pointed to British, French and other West European objections to the Star Wars system.

The Tass analyst alleged that Reagan and U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger had made different claims for the system, with Reagan arguing that it would be a complete defense and Weinberger quoted as saying the program would improve U.S. strategic nuclear forces.

Bogachev also dismissed as "absolutely groundless" what he called hopes in Washington that the Soviet Union believes American promises to share the Star Wars technology with the world when and if it is perfected.

Come Home To Sundance

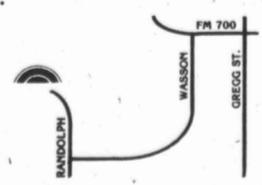

Cookouts with your neighbors... couples out for evening strolls... a feeling of belonging in the community... all these wonderful things go hand-in-hand with a fine old neighborhood. And it's what you can enjoy at Sundance.

Sundance is more than expertly designed apartment homes, and well-kept grounds. It is a community of neighbors... people like yourself - who are making Sundance their home.

A variety of indoor spaces at Sundance insures that one of them will make you feel at home. All apartments boast private, exterior carports and entrances. Your patio opens out into spacious grounds. And your apartment at Sundance features such extras as abundant storage, walk-in closets, fenced-in courtyards, draperies, and all appliances including a dishwasher.

We would appreciate your visiting Sundance. But we hope you'll return as a resident... a neighbor. And stay for a long, long while.

FORD LIFETIME SERVICE GUARANTEE MERCURY LINCOLN

Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers stand behind their work for as long as you own your car. Regardless of how long that may be. And we do it with a commitment in writing called the Lifetime Service Guarantee.

Only Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers offer it. Only Ford, Lincoln and Mercury owners can get it. Now when you pay for a covered repair once, you'll never have to pay for the same repair again. Because the dealer who did the work will fix it free. Free parts. Free labor. Even if you keep your car beyond the year 2001.

And the Lifetime Service Guarantee itself is free. It's a limited warranty on thousands of parts in normal use. It doesn't cover routine maintenance parts, belts, hoses, sheet metal or upholstery, but that's about it.

It doesn't matter whether you bought your car or light truck new or used, or where you bought it. The repair stays covered. Ask a participating dealer for details.

The Lifetime Service Guarantee. Direct from participating Ford and Lincoln-Mercury Dealers. We fix cars for keeps.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says heavy lobbying is expected on repealing the Blue Law.

Blue Law. Many want repeal of old Sunday code

By the Associated Press

AUSTIN — The state law that effectively bans Sunday shopping could fall in 1985 under the pressure of a combination of forces that might overcome past legislative inertia: organization, the state's money needs and the spark of open revolt among merchants.

The Blue Law, an often confusing list of 42 items that can't be sold on both days of a weekend, has survived previous repeal attempts despite occasional court decisions against it and dogged fights by individual retailers.

But the 1985 fight will be different. Major retailers have organized and hired lobbyists to fight the Blue Law. They say their customers want to shop on Sunday.

"Our feeling is that there is a desire from our customers to have longer shopping hours, which would be provided by Sunday openings," Sears spokesman Ralph Russell said of his company's decision to fight the law.

K Mart, Target, Eckerd Drugs, Revco Drugs, Joske's, Zale Jewelers and Sears have joined as Texans For Blue Law Repeal Inc. While previous repeal attempts have featured individual retailers, the 1985 effort will be quarterbacked by veteran lobbyists.

"This really is a legitimate issue and problem for households with a single adult and two wage-earner families," says Galt Graydon, an Austin lawyer hired by major retailers to push Blue Law repeal.

But the Texas Automobile Dealers Association and Texas Retailers Association, chief defenders of the Blue Law, say it's not a major issue for most Texans. People care more about Ethiopian hunger than Sunday shopping, said TADA lobbyist Tom Blanton.

Nevertheless, Blanton knows lobby firepower when he sees it. Graydon and partner Dick Brown, whose office is two floors above the TADA near the Capitol, have it.

"The infidel is not at the gate, he's in the castle," Blanton said, referring both to his enemy's location and influence.

The Sunday shopping advocates will talk money in a year when lawmakers are fearful of stacking another tax hike on top of last year's increase. Estimates show the state could be as much as $900 million short of needed money.

Comptroller Bob Bullock says the state could make about $13.5 million a year in taxes on Sunday sales.

The retailers association doesn't believe there is any money for the state in Sunday shopping.

"You are not going to buy an extra suit just because you can go to the store on Sunday," said Mickey Moore, the association's executive vice president.

Anti-Blue Law lobbyist Brown said the money argument will be offered as well as "all the conventional arguments, of which there are at least 20."

The open revolt that has rekindled interest in Blue Law repeal is occurring in Houston, where more than 200 stores began violating the law just in time for Christmas shoppers. Those store owners say many newer Texans are used to shopping on Sundays in their previous home states.

That "new Texans" argument makes no sense to Moore, whose 1,500-member retailers association recently re-affirmed its affinity for the Blue Law.

"People move to Texas because they like our lifestyle. Now they want to make it like the lifestyle they came from," he said.

"They would like the convenience of shopping on Sunday," Moore said of Texans. "But I don't think there's a great groundswell of public demand for repeal of this law."

He bases that on what he's seen in previous Capitol battles on the Blue Law.

"The public hasn't come down to testify for repeal," he said.

Blanton predicts some backlash from Texans who believe Sunday is a day for rest, prayer and television football.

"The guy at the low end of the economic scale knows who's going to be working Sunday," he said.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls and author of a repeal bill, says the state and its shopping needs have changed.

"Texas is more urban. We, essentially like the rest of the country, have one-parent families of two-parent families, both of whom are working. Time to buy things is more limited," said Farabee.

As reasons for repeal mount and key legislators like Farabee sign on for the fight, Blue Law backers sound worried.

"We're surrounded," said Blanton.

Merchants charged in Blue Law case

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers for the Retail Merchants Association have filed suit against nine Houston-area stores, charging them with violating the state's Blue Law, and raising to more than 30 the number of stores sued so far.

The new suits, which were filed Friday in the court of State District Judge Michael L. O'Brien, probably won't stop merchants from opening their doors both days this weekend, said Robert MacIntyre, an attorney for the merchants group.

The state's Blue Law, which prohibits the sale of some 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, has come under increasing attack in recent weeks by Houston merchants, who have defied the law to keep their doors open.

Most of the other suits filed against area merchants have been delayed for procedural reasons or moved to federal court.

MacIntyre said the Friday filing was not meant as a pre-Christmas statement.

"There's no gesture to it at all," MacIntyre said. "I got to them as soon as I could."

Gov. Mark White's big decision: A smaller budget or higher taxes?

“ Our only hope right now is God, Santa Claus and a good economy or a tax bill. ”

Will Legislature be forced to raise taxes?

By the Associated Press

The big question Texas legislators face when they open their 1985 session Jan. 8 is whether to raise taxes or try to pay for state government out of current revenues.

“There will be no increase in taxes — except as a last resort,” says Gov. Mark White.

Speaker Gib Lewis says he sees no need for a tax bill, adding, “We can make it within our available revenues.”

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he will not be pushing for new taxes, but has not said he would oppose them.

Although the special session in the summer of 1984 passed a $4.8 billion tax hike, the first general tax increase since 1971, Comptroller Bob Bullock estimates the state will be in the red by at least $900 million by the fall of 1987 unless something is done to cut spending or raise revenues.

The faltering oil and gas economy, which provides a substantial portion of Texas' tax dollars, has cast a cloud of what Legislative Budget Board Director Jim Oliver calls “gloom and doom” over state finances.

He said the LBB — which drafts the 1986-87 budget that legislators start their work with — “has the assignment and determination to write a budget within available revenue. That means there will have to be some budgetary cuts to some agencies and institutions far below the current level.”

Not all lawmakers agree the state's financial belt has to be tightened enough to avoid taxes.

“There's going to be a tax bill,” said Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin. “Our only hope right now is God, Santa Claus and a good economy or a tax bill. There's no way we can get out of the Legislature without a tax bill.”

“I bet a nickel to a doughnut there will be a push for a tax bill,” said Rep. Kae Patrick, R-San

Paying the bill

Antonio.

“I think it would be a sad mistake if we just said there is not going to be any money, so we won't do anything,” said Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena. “That would be a great disservice to everyone.”

“Alternatives” is the buzz word in Capitol corridors these days. Everyone wants to find money somewhere other than from new taxes.

Rep. Stan Schueter, D-Killeen, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee that would write any tax bill, says one option is “fine tuning” present tax levies to provide more revenue.

Other legislators have proposed increased state college tuition and other state fees.

Another money-maker that some are proposing would tap proceeds from the $4.3 billion Permanent School Fund, which gets about $40 million a month from oil and gas royalties.

The State Board of Education immediately warned it would wield its considerable influence against any such move to disturb the fund. The proceeds are too important to the future of public schools, the board declared.

Then there are those who see easy money from horse race betting or a state lottery.

A parimutuel betting bill passed the Senate in 1983 but failed by two votes in the House. Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, says he will be back in 1985 with a horse racing bill that would raise $200 million a year.

Bills for a state lottery already have been introduced in the Senate and House, although the governor has said he opposes the idea.

Some of the state's biggest headaches may come from federal court orders directing the state to make improvements in the Texas Department of Corrections and the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardations. Both could cost big money.

The TDC is in the midst of hiring several hundred new guards to appease the court. The MHMR is hiring new staff members and trying to move some patients from state hospitals to community centers.

Both the public school reform bill and the 1984 tax bill will be back in 1985 for “fine tuning.” Both bills were written for a three-year period ending in 1987, but unhappy home folks already are pressing legislators to make changes.

With water a top item on almost everybody's agenda, White, Hobby and Lewis have recommended a plan that calls for $600 million in bonds to improve water storage and quality throughout the state. It also calls for 25 groundwater planning regions that could be the first statewide effort to control underground water supplies.

Dear Abby

Man's mother keeps harping on marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old bachelor. I live alone, have a secure job that I enjoy, have a couple of hobbies that occupy much of my time and I am completely satisfied with my social life. So what's the problem, right?

The problem is my widowed mother, who thinks I need a wife and she needs grandchildren. In every letter, phone call and visit,

Mother nags and harps on the subject. I've heard everything from, "Who will take care of you in your old age?" to "Who will you leave your money to when you die?"

I have told her that I am quite happy with my lifestyle. I've tried ignoring her, changing the subject and trying to reason with her. So far nothing has worked. I've pointed out that I have no desire to have a wife or children. Everytime someone over 25 gets married or one of her friends has another grandchild, she calls to tell me.

I love my mother dearly, but her constant nagging on this subject gets on my nerves so badly I find myself wanting to avoid her. I've even told her that, but it hasn't discouraged her.

Any suggestions, Abby? I've had about all I can take.

MOTHER-RIDDEN

DEAR RIDDEN: You can't change anyone but yourself, so quit trying to change your mother. Give her all the respect due her, but don't argue with her — tune her out. She may mean well, but her concern for your future has become an obsession, which is her problem. Don't make it yours.

Dr. Donohue

Forget ballistic stretch maneuver

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A friend watched me do my stretching exercises before our aerobic dance class. She said I do it wrong. I like to do fingertip touches all the way to the floor with my knees straight (try it sometime). I feel this loosens me up nicely for the class.

But I do the stretches by bouncing down. I mean I get my fingers a little closer to the ground progressively with each bounce rather than trying to go down slowly all at once. She says this is wrong, but I say what's wrong with it? — Mrs. P.D.F.

Don't do this. What you are doing is called ballistic stretching. It's bad because that bouncing gets out of your own control. You can easily bounce down beyond the point of your muscles' elasticity, and that can damage them.

Stretch slowly until you feel a pull. Don't stretch to the point of pain. You do it slowly this way, then hold the stretched position for 15 or 30 seconds, then slowly unstretch. You'll get the same warm-up advantage with none of the bouncing disadvantages.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A.B. wrote you complaining that he got very sore after his first day of exercising. You rightly pointed out that the soreness could be due to minute muscle tears and suggested that temporary rest would take care of the problem. BUT muscle tears repair themselves by formation of scar tissue, which is not as elastic or resilient as is normal muscle tissue. The person is then left with a muscle somewhat less able to withstand subsequent stress.

How about advocating the avoidance of VERY sore muscles in exercising? Exercise programs have to be started gradually to prevent this. As one who spent four years teaching corrective exercise I've met many people who think it is smart, and actually brag, about how sore they got on an initial exercise workout. It is stupid. Patience is a missing virtue. Strength wasn't built in a day any more than was Rome. — S.D.K., Ph. D.

I like what you have to say. I should not have neglected that point.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I want to pack my muscles with carbohydrates. I've had trouble doing it, mainly because I don't have all the time (weeks) needed to follow the instructions before the race. Isn't there some quick way to pack my muscles? — L.K.

Yes, there's a simple way. You just stay on your normal diet, then about three days before your race cut down on your training and increase carbohydrates in your diet to 70 percent of its total calories. You do that, of course, by eating lots of starches, like pasta.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have heard that exercising can help alleviate some of the discomfort that comes to some women at the time of menstruation. Does that mean a woman can or should exercise during menstruation? — T.W.C.

Sure, nothing wrong with that.

The booklet "Dizzy Spells" discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Families gather in Big Spring for Christmas

MARY AND RICK KENNY are expecting her parents, sister and brother-in-law, all of Ohio, and her brother from California today for the Christmas holidays.

BILL AND MARILYN NEHLS and Marilyn's sister's family, the WADE AND SANDY BURGHOUS, are hosting many members of Marilyn and Sandy's family this Christmas. The guests are split up between the two homes; however, with as many family members joining in, it'll just bet they will have a wonderful reunion and Christmas.

STEPHANIE J. FRERICH of Garden City was winner of the Texas 4-H Bread Program. She was awarded a share of Nabisco Brands stock by T.T. LITHGOW JR., president of Fleischmann Division, Nabisco Brands. Fleischmann's Yeast was sponsor of the program.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY PAIGE and their family hosted a Christmas party at Paige Garage in Sand Springs, recently. More than 100 friends attended, including several from Odessa.

Congratulations to JAMES BALIOS for being named by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors' Ambassador of the Month for December. Merry Christmas!

SELECTIVE COLORING
There are some coloring techniques that permanently color only predetermined portions of the hair. "Color weaving", for example, is a technique that enhances drab hair by brightening more than lightening. The hair is examined for natural light accents. Individual hair strands are then separated by a comb and treated by two or three different lightening shades. With brown hair, the tints are usually in the bronze/gold family. Paintbrush application further controls the changes. As only a small percentage of the hair is permanently colored, the regrowth pattern is not jarring. Framing, frosting, streaking and tipping are other examples of selective coloring. All can yield very natural-looking results.

We're right up at the head of the class when it comes to knowing what's best for your good looks. The newest ideas, trends and techniques making the headlines are available to you right here at LA COINTESSA. We offer our customers the finest in hair care services. You will find us conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are open to serve you Tues.-Sat. Call us at 267-2187.

Anniversaries

The A.C. Prestons

Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Preston, 1204 Pennsylvania, will observe their 60th wedding anniversary, Dec. 24. They will celebrate it with their children and grandchildren at home.

The Prestons were married Dec. 24, 1924 at Hale Center. She is the former Docia Terrell. The Prestons lived in Hale Center and Lamesa before moving to Big Spring. They have lived in Big Spring 52 years.

The couple has 4 children: Melba Sykes of Odessa; Carl Preston of Abilene; Margie Preston Weller of Denver, Colo.; and Quepha Preston Lewis of Springfield, Mo. They also have 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Preston was a postman for 27 years. When he retired, the Prestons were in the real estate business for seven to eight years. Preston is an expert checkers player. Mrs. Preston enjoys gardening. They both enjoy reading and watching television.

The Alton Turners

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Turner, Stanton, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary during a reception at Cap Rock Electric in Stanton. The event will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 30 and will be hosted by the couple's daughters and their families.

Turner, a native of Stanton, and the former Imogene Morgan were married in Midland Dec. 29, 1934. She was born in Snyder, lived in Beaumont and came to live in Stanton as a small child.

The Turners have two daughters: Sheila Williams of Littleton, Colo. and Deborah Williams of San Antonio. They also have three grandchildren.

The Turners have lived in Stanton throughout their marriage except for brief periods. Turner is retired from the grocery business, which he was involved in for 33 years in Stanton. The Turners are Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, birth, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7251 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Water is the champion thirst quencher

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — The champion thirst quencher is water, says a Pennsylvania State University consumer market specialist, Dr. Harold E. Neigh.

But, he adds, a myth about thirst-quenching is that a drink must be ice cold for it to be effective. "It is purely a matter of habit and culture to have a drink ice cold," he says. "The temperature of the beverage has nothing to do with its thirst-quenching properties, according to food technologists."

Sneezing may be driving hazard

ATLANTA (AP) — Be careful this winter if you are driving and feel a big sneeze coming on.

Safety experts say that when a driver sneezes hard, he or she could likely be stunned and cover several hundred yards while in that condition.

They advise drivers to try not to sneeze while behind the wheel.

Famous women talk about mothers

By REDBOOK
A Hearst Magazine

Jackie Collins and her mother fought because Collins was a juvenile delinquent; Susan Strasberg and her mother battled over her career, and Lorna Luft hardly fought with Judy Garland at all.

That's how some famous daughters described their relationships with their mothers in Redbook, in answer to questions about the kind of problems they had with their mothers and how they solved them.

"My mother died 20 years ago when I was only 22," novelist Collins said. "We had great conflicts because I was a juvenile delinquent."

She described sneaking out of the house at night and truancy by day.

"I married when I was 19 and had a baby immediately," she said. "Having a baby really makes you appreciate your mother. I'm only sorry she never lived to see my success. She would have loved it — not like my father, who's shocked by my books and the movies my sister ('Dynasty' star Joan Collins) has made."

Judy Garland was the kind of mother who explained the reasons for her rules — and expected them obeyed.

"I was 16 years old when my mother died," Lorna Luft said, "so we hardly had time for any big conflicts. I didn't dare fight with my mother. You did what she said to do. She had her rules, and if you went by her rules, you didn't get in trouble."

Susan Strasberg said her mother, the late Paula Miller, lived in the shadow of her father, Actors Studio founder Lee Strasberg, and tried to live vicariously through her daughter.

"She saw me as an Isadora Duncan, having love affairs, and being a great star, with my career the raison d'être of my life," Strasberg said. "I never was able to come to terms with that. My work is a vital part of my life but not the only part."

She said she wanted approval, but her mother wanted control. "But the older I get, the more I see elements of my mother in me," she said. "I think I have made peace."

For Crystal Gale, the problem

also was a career-minded mother.

"She wanted me to be in the public eye," Gayle said, "so I started performing when I was about 15. I was shy and subdued, but she wanted me to be flashier, and I would usually end up doing what she wanted."

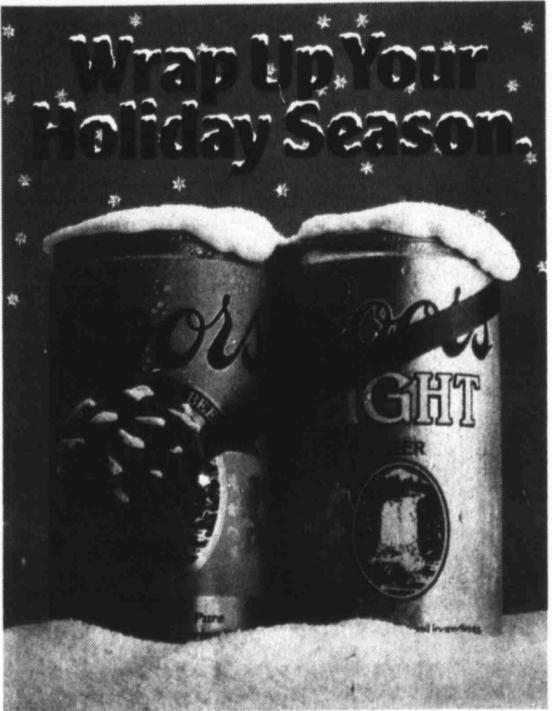

Shari Belafonte-Harper, daughter of Harry Belafonte and model Frances Mazique, said she had gone to boarding school and been making her own decisions since she was 13.

"I think the biggest fight we ever had was over my wedding," she said. "She wanted us to have a religious ceremony and I wanted a civil ceremony."

She and film advertising executive Bob Harper had a civil ceremony.

Shower honors mother-to-be Jane Duncan

Jane Duncan was honored at a baby shower in the home of Pauline Nelson, Nov. 29.

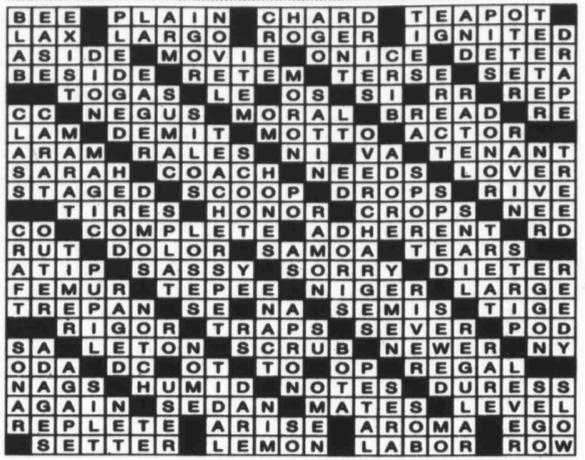

Other hostesses were Marlene Keyes, Mary Lou Taylor, Lela Hansen, Lanette Beal, Pauline Fulesday, Pat Lamar and Elfa Cantrell. The hostesses presented Mrs. Duncan with a corsage of baby socks and ribbon in yellow, blue and white, a baby book and high chair.

Guests were served from a table covered with a yellow cloth edged with lace. The table was centered with a floral arrangement holding silver candlesticks and candles.

Baby Duncan is due in late December.

All-cotton collection kicks off spring fashion preview

By MARJORIE ANDERS
 Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Cool comfort in cotton bermudas, T-shirts and jumpsuits highlight the kooky culture of Willi Smith for spring 1985.

Williwear's ready to wear collection shown recently features five groupings of mix and match separates, including all white, pale plaids and loud prints on black.

A swingy, front-button skirt was pinned open to reveal loose crop pants and topped with a mustard, waist-tied sleeveless shirt in Smith's "Sugar Cane" collection. The skirt, in subtle cocoa and cream pinstripes, also came paired with loose, sleeveless T-shirts, although the armholes were cut so low as to be risqué.

For men, there were cropped pants in neutral plaids with untucked shirts and belted jumpsuits in sand and gray stripes. Bandana and gauze headbands complemented the field-hand look.

White-tasseled bucks with matching anklets and wide, white headbands set off the "Country Club" grouping, Smith's tribute to Long Island.

Gathered skirts in windowpane plaids of slate, daffodil and lime were topped with short, rolled-sleeve shirts, opened to reveal white T-shirts underneath.

A front-button sheath dress with low-cut armholes and patch breast pockets looked coolly proper.

White short-sleeve men's undershirts were rolled up over the sleeves of topping shirts for his version of the preppy look. Wide side-button skirts in apricot windowpane plaid were worn alone or over matching shorts or cropped pants.

In a slightly more formal vein was the "Metropolis" look, featuring sharp suits for men and knee-length skirts and oversized shirts for women.

Smith offered his version of the big shirt in both black and white worn over small button-up shirts in the opposite color. Straight skirts came in checked and striped versions of gray, brown and black or in a silvery, diamond-pattern stripe on a black ground.

Double woven blue and white cotton gave a flecked appearance to a royal blue suit with wide lapels and cuffed, pleated trousers. Worn with a white button-down shirt and a thin plaid tie of brown, red and purple, the suit could fit in any office. The "Los Angeles" look was not so subtle.

Chartreuse, stop-light red and cobalt blue splotches on black or white backgrounds showed up as drawstring pants and shorts.

A purple shirt with low armholes topped a bandeau top in the same wild print.

In one version, the fabric showed up as a white terry-lined beach robe with hood and sash over matching trunks.

Smith's summer whites came under the "Punch and Judy" rubric. Mannequins in high-top sneakers, gloves and floppy punchinello hats sported baggy collarless jumpsuits and bermudas with big tops - all white.

One more flattering version paired a short box-pleated shirt and plain shirt with a billowy duster coat with dolman sleeves and a tie belt.

Unlike many of the collections shown during fashion previews, Williwear is moderately priced from $40 to $130.
