How's that?
 Halley's comet

Q. How far is Halley's Comet from Earth, how fast is it traveling, and when will we be able to see it?
A. Halley's Comet, named after the 18th Century English astronomer Edmund Halley, is currently 400 million miles from Earth, coursing its ellipse toward the sun at 10 1/2 miles per second. The brilliant celestial body, first recorded in 467 B.C., completes its solar revolution every 74-79 years. It will be visible from Earth in December 1985.

Calendar Taxes

MONDAY
 • The Coahoma ISD tax office will be open Dec. 28-31 for anyone wanting to pay their taxes before the end of the year, said a spokesman from the tax assessor-collector's office.
 • The Howard County Library will be closed through Tuesday for the New Year's holiday. The library will open Wednesday at their regular hour.
 • Gospel singing will be held at the Kentwood Center at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

TUESDAY
 • The American Association of Retired Persons meeting for January has been cancelled.

Tops on TV Bowl game

Notre Dame and SMU square off against one another on the Aloha Bowl at 7 p.m. on channel 2. Kurt Russell and Season Hubley star in "Elvis" at 8 p.m. on channel 5.

Outside Nice

The forecast calls for highs in the lower 60s and lows tonight in the low 40s. Temperatures will gradually cool through the week. Winds will shift to the northeast.

Off the wall New Year kazoo

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "Za-zaaa-ta-taa-ta" will thunder in downtown Rochester instead of "may old acquaintance be forgot" on New Year's Eve, when 150,000 people are expected to ring out 1984 on kazoo.
 The "Kolossal Community Kazoo Concert," wrapping up Rochester's 150th birthday year, will be conducted by Isaiah Jackson, associate conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.
 "John Philip Sousa would be green with envy," said Jackson, who will wave his baton from the Main Street Bridge.
 "I can't wait. Who could say no?" he added.

The country store in Luther

By LUIS RIOS
 Staff Writer
LUTHER — Come on in, take off your hat and sit a spell. That's what hundreds of people have done through the past 50 years at H&M's Country Store.

You can always find Red Man chewing tobacco, Rough-N-Ready beef jerky, good company, hot coffee and lively conversation every day of the week. The store's initials were chosen from the names of owner Hollis Puckett and his wife, Mildred.

People discover their first visit to this quaint, out-of-the-way store usually isn't their last one.

Others can't explain why they drive for miles to this grocery store 12 miles north of Big Spring. But they do come.

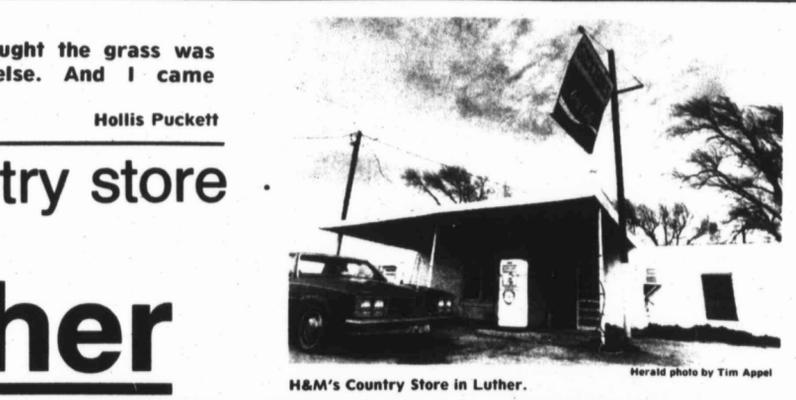

Maybe it's the store's special attraction, a makeshift kitchen table and the chairs that set around it. And the storekeeper is a retired farmer and rancher whose warmth and good humor make a complete stranger feel at home.

Probably it's the combination of both that makes H&M's Country Store a daily stopping place for area oilfield workers, farmers, ranchers and just plain loafers, as storekeeper Puckett, 68, would say.

That's what keeps the strangers coming back.
 Puckett, better known as Hoss by his closest friends, is a long-time rancher and farmer in this tiny Howard County farming community.

The country store was not always known by its current name. The store, a landmark to the residents

Back roads Coahoma OKs Foster plans

By CAROL BALDWIN
 Staff Writer

COAHOMA — About a dozen residents from Coahoma's Foster Addition met with the City Council during an emergency meeting Saturday to discuss upgrading roads in the area.

Stanley Blackwell, who lives on Foster Street, told councilmen and Mayor Pat Harrison, "We've got to have some roads fixed. (Foster) is supposed to be one of the nicer housing additions."

Blackwell said, "We've got to have some hopes of some vastly improved roads."

Residents described the roads in the area, saying that water was standing in parts of the street and that ditches had formed and sections were almost impossible to navigate.

Mrs. Harrison said, "It's not because we don't care" about the area. Work was delayed "because the city's road grader was down and we had no one to work on it."

Mrs. Blackwell told the council that grading the road and laying caliche would improve the situation.

Blackwell added, "We're willing to help. We have some equipment available...But ya'll have got to show some sincere interest" in improving the area.

Lynn Walling, another area resident, said, "You'll be surprised at the help you'll get. We're the ones that have to drive those things everyday."

Plans were made to work as soon as possible on bar ditches in the Foster Addition and to crown the road so that water would run off instead of forming a pool in the middle of the road.

Councilmen voted to make the Foster Addition the No. 1 priority of the road department. Other roads to be worked on as funds allow are Adams and Pace.

In other business, Mrs. Harrison told councilmen that insurance on city-owned vehicles will run out Dec. 31 with Home Insurance Co. Councilmen agreed to an extension of the vehicle insurance with Home Insurance until

Changing of the guard: new county officials

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
 Staff Writer

China Long Justice of the peace

She moves from one end of the spectrum to the other beginning Jan. 1. Former radio news reporter China Long will become Howard County's new justice of the peace for Precinct 1.

"The main thing that my journalism career has taught me is objectivity. You have to see both sides of the issue," Mrs. Long said. "And I think this works well for a justice of the peace who also has to see both sides of the issue."

Another asset Mrs. Long credits her radio broadcasting career, which began with a summer internship at KBST in 1978, is experience in reporting on public officials.

"You (news reporters) are a pipeline to the people," Mrs. Long said. "And I hope to have an open line of communication with the media."

However, one local public official humorously forewarned Mrs. Long that her trust in news coverage would change after her picture begins appearing on the front page of the newspaper. Becoming a public official had

Tim Yeats County attorney

He was blessed with the fortunate opportunity of being at the right place at the right time. In last May's Democratic primary race for the Howard County attorney position, Big Spring native Tim Yeats ran uncontested.

He will take over county attorney duties on Tuesday.

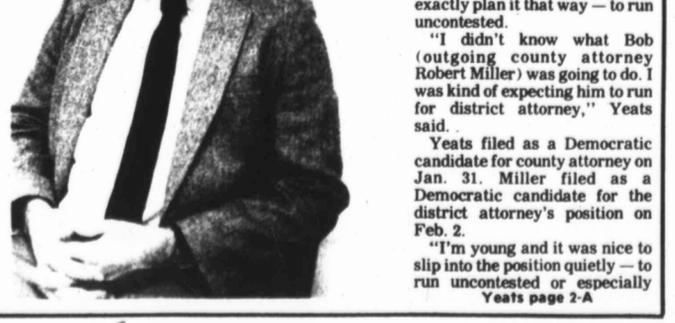

"I was at the right place at the right time. The right point in my career," Yeats said. "I think it's a good opportunity for me."

The 27-year-old lawyer didn't exactly plan it that way — to run uncontested.

"I didn't know what Bob (outgoing county attorney Robert Miller) was going to do. I was kind of expecting him to run for district attorney," Yeats said.

Yeats filed as a Democratic candidate for county attorney on Jan. 31. Miller filed as a Democratic candidate for the district attorney's position on Feb. 2.

"I'm young and it was nice to slip into the position quietly — to run uncontested or especially in Luther, has had five owners in its rocky existence, Puckett said.

 The first proprietor was John Haney, who built the store in the early 1930s, Puckett said. The store then was known conveniently as Haney's Store. Mrs. John Kilpatrick later purchased it from Haney.
 It was in the late '30s and early '40s that Puckett wandered into the store. Puckett said he moved to Luther in 1935 from Winters in Runnels County and spent many hours in the store sitting around with other farmers and ranchers trading stories about the weather, the crops and families.
 Eleven years ago Puckett, who has suffered four heart attacks and is stricken with Parkinson's disease, purchased the store from his son-in-law Mike Moore, who had tried to make a go of the store himself. What the store needed was the touch and care of Puckett.
 "He (Moore) wanted me to run the store for two weeks," Puckett said. "I told him if I was going to run it for two weeks, I would want to buy it. And I bought the store that day."

HOLLIS PUCKETT, the proprietor of Luther's only grocery store.

Puckett said he was under orders from his doctor not to do any more farm work. And since he's been working in the store, his health has miraculously improved, he said.
 The oldtimer was no greenhorn to the grocery business. Puckett's two brothers and father had operated a country store in Runnels County. The young Puckett's chores during those early days were to can eggs and test cream butter fat.
 Until six years ago, H&M's was one of two country stores in Luther. The first store in the community was built by Luther Laurence, who also founded and operated the community's post office in the 1910s.

The community itself is named after that first pioneer.
 Puckett's store is now publicized by caps and T-shirts bearing the store's logo. H&M's is open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. six days a week, and the store also opens from 6 a.m. until noon on Sundays.
 "I'll have oilfield people come in the morning at 6 a.m.," Puckett said. "By 7, I'll start having loafers and coffee drinkers. They'll stay with me until 9 o'clock."
 Puckett has only one employee, Libby Radford. Puckett said his wife, who was raised in a store, refuses to work in H&M's.
 Puckett said his customers come mostly from Big Spring and surrounding communities such as Vincent, Ackerly, Gail and Vealmoor.

 And as one would expect, H&M's Country Store has a charge account for its better-paying customers. Many pick up what they want and fill out the charge slip themselves.
 Puckett never wanders too far from the store; his home is next door.
 "I feel better now, talking to people in the store," he said. "I like to putter around the store. You got to keep going. You can't sit around with Parkinson's disease."

It is evident by the customers that come into the store that Puckett is well-liked in this community that cherishes high ideals and good friends.
 At one time, Puckett left Luther, a mistake he said he won't make again.
 "I left 'cause I thought the grass was greener somewhere else," he said. "And I came back."
 A plaque sitting behind the store's counter spells out in Voltaire's words the philosophy of Puckett — "Every man is guilty of all the good he didn't do."

Police Beat

Woman arrested for theft

Police on Saturday recovered a stolen vehicle with the aid of the Howard County Sheriff's Department.
 Reports show that a 1971 Ford pickup, valued at $2,500, was reported missing from the residence of J.T. Williams, 710 Nolan, early Saturday morning. Also reported missing in the incident were radial tires, valued at $298; Ford wheels, valued at $90; a trailer hitch; and a circular saw, valued at $85.
 Sheriff's deputies were alerted to an abandoned truck on the old Gail Route Saturday morning that turned out to be the stolen vehicle. Sheriff's deputies reported the vehicle to police. Only the pickup was recovered in the incident, reports show. Other items remained missing.
 • George Pibuladhanapata told police early Saturday morning that someone had broken into Terry's Drive-In at 1307 E. Fourth sometime during the night and taken about $15 in coins. A window and door to the drive-in were damaged in the incident, reports show.
 • Danny Heckler of 4202 Parkway told police Saturday morning that someone damaged the front windshield on one of his vehicles while it was parked outside his home between 12:30 a.m. and 3 a.m. Saturday. Reports listed about $250 in damages.
 • Joyce Chelette of the Kentwood Apartments told police someone jumped on the hood of her car, causing about $250 in damages early Saturday morning.
 • Police arrested John E. York, 23, of the Western Villa Trailer Park about 1:19 a.m. at Highway 350 near the Mount Olive Cemetery. York was arrested for driving while license was suspended ed and for failure to show proof of insurance. He was later transferred to the Howard County Sheriff's Department, placed under a bond of $500 for the no license charge and $1,000 for the insurance charge, and released.

 • Police arrested Robert Metz, 25, of the Sand Motel early Saturday morning in the block of E. 6th with capias warrants and a sheriff's office warrant for issuance of had checks.
 • Police arrested Loy Long, 27, of Route 3, Box 382, at 538 Westover, Apt. 108 Friday afternoon after they were called to the scene of a disturbance. Long was arrested for criminal trespassing and resisting arrest. He was transferred to the Howard County Sheriff's office, where he was placed under bonds of $200 for the trespassing charge and $500 for the resisting arrest charge. He was later released.
 • Roy Marquez of 409 N.E. 10th told police Friday afternoon that someone he knows broke into his car sometime Friday and took an AM/FM cassette player, valued at $200; an equalizer, valued at $100; and car speakers, valued at $60.
 • Police were called to the scene of an accident about 7:37 p.m. Friday night. Cars driven by Neil Harris of Route 1, Box 321, and Lynda Battle, Route 1, Box 379, collided in the intersection of Third and Main. Mrs. Battle was taken to Hall-Bennett Hospital by private vehicle for treatment of cuts and bruises. Mrs. Harris refused treatment at the scene.
 • Jeannie Hoard, 22, of 610 11th Place told police that while she was in another location early Saturday morning someone she knows struck her in the face and the ribs with his hands and fists.

Long

never been Mrs. Long's burning desire. But she got interested in the peace justice job while making rounds at the county courthouse to gather news for KBST.
 "Golly, I didn't want to be involved at all," Mrs. Long said. "But then I personally felt change was needed in the justice of the peace position."
 "If you are going to hold a public office, you should be available to serve," Mrs. Long said about her decision to challenge Democratic incumbent Bobby West.
 Six candidates entered the primary race for the JP job. Mrs. Long and Doyle Lamb came out the top vote getters, and the two faced each other in a runoff election June 2.
 Mrs. Long won the runoff by a count of 1,437 to Lamb's 927, giving her about 61 percent of the ballot.
 Election night, though, was a tumultuous experience for the winner.
 "It was horrible. I felt like backing out — a feeling women usually experience when having a baby. You go through with it and suddenly you get a great sense of relief," Mrs. Long said.
 Election night in Howard County added another burden for candidates to fret about. Because of a breakdown with the county computer, the votes were not counted until 3:05 a.m. the next morning.

 "It was quite an experience and I remember (District Attorney Rick) Hamby saying that this was 'cruel and unusual punishment for anyone,' and it was," Mrs. Long said.
 What is generally regarded as quite an ordeal among JPs is acting as coroners. This duty calls for pronouncing someone dead due to unnatural causes and also gives justices of the peace authority to issue orders for autopsies to determine the cause of death.
 "I don't think anyone would enjoy seeing someone with their head blown off," Mrs. Long said.
 "I don't think it's written anywhere that a man can withstand this rather than a woman. You don't relish these things, but we're not talking about everyday experiences," she said.
 "I don't consider it gory. None of us like facing death but it is as much a part of human nature as being born," she said.
 Mrs. Long said she looks at her election victory to see what people want from her as a Justice of the Peace.
 "I think the majority of people want to elect people who do a good job. That entails things like how available I am. Honesty. Am I performing duties of the job?"

Yeats

not having a Republican opponent," Yeats said.
 "That's for sure — the way the Democrats took it on the nose," Yeats said about last November's general election.
 Yeats, who attended Texas Tech University School of Law, has been a partner in the firm of Weaver, Ferguson & Yeats in Big Spring the past two years.
 "There's quite an age gap in Big Spring among attorneys. You have quite a few middle-aged and older attorneys, for which the the county attorney job is not attractive," Yeats said.
 And he said the county attorney's position, which is more or less a part-time job, usually means a loss in income from private practice. The new county attorney will earn an annual salary of $27,000, according to the Howard County treasurer's office.
 "I've been licensed to practice law for two years, and it's not such a cut for me to take the job as it is for other older or more experienced attorneys," Yeats said.
 "In this kind of job, you get your name out to the public and get a chance to get into the prosecutor's function. I think I'm going to enjoy it," he said.
 Yeats said reducing the county case docket will be his biggest challenge.
 Even though the population of Howard County has dropped recently, Yeats said the volume of cases has increased due to changes in the law.

 "The biggest challenge is to move the docket. I'd like to work out a system with the judge (Howard County Judge Milton Kirby) to move defendants through, not to the point of abusing their rights, but to move them through where they have to make an appearance and declare guilty or not guilty. We have to take care of cases one way or the other," Yeats said.
 "What I'm going to worry about first is getting the cases that we presently have — moving them through, hold our ground and then move slowly to reduce the backlog," Yeats said.
 He said he had met with Judge Kirby, and he believes they will be able to work well together.
 Another factor that may help get things moving is having an experienced staff. Yeats said he is retaining Miller's staff of assistants — Jane Overman, Melba Soles and Mike Barton.
 "You can know the law, but to run the office on a day-to-day basis, it's a different thing," Yeats said. "And having those people will be a certain benefit."
 Yeats said he is familiar with the criminal functions of his job. He's a little apprehensive about the civil functions of the job — namely, advising the Howard County Commissioner's Court.
 "The main thing is advising them on county matters or helping them with any questions they have," he said.

Weather

Local
 Spring-like weather settled over the Crossroads Country Saturday, bringing 70-degree temperatures and sunny skies.
 The balmy breezes were expected to cool off by Monday, when the high temperature should drop again below the 60-degree mark.

State
 The eastern half of Texas basked in springlike weather Saturday while the rest of the state was treated to a mixture of rain and wind.
 Two arctic air masses converged over the western portion of the state, bringing parched westerly winds and cool temperatures, while in the northern sections, winds and thunderstorms prevailed, the National Weather Service said.
 Temperatures were mostly in the 70s and 80s in the eastern and southern sections of the state as moist tropical air moved up from the coast.

Nation
 Summery air warmed the eastern third of the nation on Saturday, breaking at least 70 high-temperature records, but an arctic chill whistled in behind, dropping the mercury from balmy to sub-freezing within hours in the Midwest.
 Half a dozen Eastern Seaboard cities had their warmest December day on record, and in some areas the resulting snowmelt caused flooding, the National Weather Service said.

Forecast
WEST TEXAS — Mostly fair but turning cooler during the first of the week. Highs in the 40s and 50s, except in the 60s in the Concho Valley. Lows in the 20s and 30s.

Gunmen rob store; make off with $3,000

Two masked men took more than $3,000 from the Pronto Store in the 2100 block of West Third in an armed robbery early Saturday morning.
 According to police reports, owner Maudine Cole was opening up the store about 7 a.m. when two young male subjects wearing blue clothing and blue ski masks came into the store carrying hand guns.
 Reports show that Mrs. Cole was forced behind the counter in the store. The gunmen demanded that Mrs. Cole hand over rolled coins valued at $80, currency amounting to $2,920 and personal checks valued at $1,000.
 The items were contained in two bank bags, which the suspects carried out of the store. They fled the area on foot, reports show.
 Big Spring Crimestoppers is offering a reward for information regarding the crime. Anyone with information may call 263-1151. A reward of up to $1,000 may be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction or indictment of the suspects. The identity of informants will remain anonymous.

Art group to view slides

The Concho Contemporary Fine Art Association will preview a slide show when it meets at 7 p.m. Jan. 11 in San Angelo, according to association members.
 Sandra McGregor, director of the group, and Mike Alley, president, will be speakers. A slide show of "The Texas Only Show," will be shown. A discussion will follow.
 For more information, write the publicity chairman, 3618 Fieldwood, San Angelo, 76905, or call 915-944-1208.

Black-eyed peas delivered

The youth from Christ Fellowship Church have been delivering cans of black-eyed peas to help Big Spring residents celebrate New Year's.
 The peas were donated by Big Spring Savings, which gives away the peas each year and is making a donation to the youth for delivering the peas.
 Many cans of peas have been left by the doors of families throughout the city.

Deaths

Sheriff's Log

Stolen pickup recovered

Beverly Cox (Henson), 29, of Lubbock was transferred to the Howard County Jail Saturday morning following her arrest for theft and possession of a controlled substance.
 Ms. Cox was placed under bonds of $5,000 for the theft charge and $2,500 for the possession charge. Bonds were set by Willie Grant.

Ms. Cox remained in the Howard County Jail Saturday.
 • Jerry Mack Clark, 35, of Midland was arrested by Texas Highway Department troopers for driving while intoxicated Friday night and brought to the Howard County Jail. He was placed under a $1,000 bond set by Judge Lewis Hefflin. Clark was released Saturday after posting bond.

Airline asked for debt plan

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court has asked Continental Airlines to file by Jan. 15 an outline of a reorganization plan to pay its debts.
 Meanwhile, attorneys for some of Continental's creditors have filed a brief saying the airline's $600 million plan to buy new aircraft shows "utter contempt for creditors."

PLO leader shot dead

AMMAN, Jordan — Two men with silencer-equipped pistols assassinated a member of the PLO's top executive body in front of his home in Amman on Saturday and then escaped.

Killed was Fouad Kawasmeh, 48, a former mayor of Hebron on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River. He was elected to the Executive Committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization in November.

Iraq downs Iranian jets

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iraq said its jet fighters downed two Iranian Phantom F-4 warplanes in a dogfight Saturday when the Iranians tried to break up an air strike against their positions.

It also claimed other attacks caused 40 Iranian casualties.

The dogfight, said to have taken place in the southern part of the Iran-Iraq battlefield, was the first reported by Iraq in about six months.

Gandhi wins landslide

NEW DELHI, India — Elated by the biggest election landslide in India's history, Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi pledged on Saturday to work to end the sectarian violence that led to the assassination of his mother, Indira Gandhi.

With results announced in 478 of the 507 constituencies at stake in the three-day general elections, Gandhi's Congress Party had won 384 seats, exceeding the two-thirds majority in the Lok Sabha, the lower house of parliament, it held under Mrs. Gandhi.

The party also won close to 50 percent of the popular vote. Final official results were not expected before Monday.

Quake shakes France

STRASBOURG, France — A moderate earthquake shook the Vosges region of eastern France on Saturday, the Global Physics Institute in Strasbourg said. There were no reports of injuries or damage.

The tremor measured between 4.5 and 5 on the Richter scale of earthquake intensity, the institute said.

Saturday's quakes were the strongest of a series that began a week ago, and centered around the town of Remiremont, about 62 miles southwest of Strasbourg.

S.A. Moslems arrested

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Fifty-seven Moslem worshippers have been arrested for trying to attend an outdoor prayer meeting without a permit.

Police charged the worshippers with attending an illegal gathering after they refused to heed warnings to disperse, Police Capt. Jan Calitz said.

Calitz said the Moslem organizers had not applied for the necessary permit to hold the meeting at a Cape Town sports stadium.

Cambodian guerrillas suffer more setbacks

NONG SAMET, Thailand (AP) — Cambodian anti-communist guerrillas suffered further setbacks in a fifth day of fighting at their Rithisen camp Saturday, but two allied groups helped to ease pressure against them with small unit strikes against Vietnamese lines, guerrilla and Thai military officers said.

Chau Eng, a guerrilla commander, told reporters in the Thai village of Nong Samet near the battlefield that the Vietnamese had been reinforced. The guerrillas had to give up ground they had won back inside the camp, which was overrun by Hanoi's forces after heavy artillery shelling on Tuesday.

Interviews with the wounded carried off the battlefield into Thailand confirmed Chau Eng's assessment.

The International Red Cross said about 30 guerrillas were wounded in Rithisen Saturday, from seven to 10 of them seriously. The number of dead was not known. The figures brought to nearly 100 the number of Cambodians wounded in Rithisen who have been evacuated to a Red Cross hospital near the frontier.

Guerrilla sources have said hundreds of guerrillas and Vietnamese have been killed and wounded since the offensive began, but there has been no independent confirmation of the reports.

Chau Eng said he was helping to battle the Vietnamese on the eastern approaches to Rithisen, which was controlled by the Khmer People's National Liberation Front. Chau Eng belongs to a smaller anti-communist group loyal to one-time Cambodian head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Thai military sources, who spoke on condition they were not to be identified, said about 200 communist Khmer Rouge soldiers were operating northeast of Rithisen. The Khmer Rouge and the two anti-communist groups are united in an anti-Vietnamese coalition headed by Sihanouk.

Each group maintains separate military commands. There is deep suspicion between the Khmer Rouge and the two non-communist organizations but some informal battlefield cooperation has taken place.

A spokesman for the normally secretive Khmer Rouge in Bangkok said he had no information about Khmer Rouge activity in the Rithisen area.

Chau Eng said resistance forces had captured four Vietnamese soldiers and handed them over to the Thai military for questioning. Thailand says it is neutral in the conflict, but has helped the resistance in several ways, including giving China permission to funnel weapons through its territory to the guerrillas.

Neither the Vietnamese news media nor that of the pro-Hanoi Heng Samrin government in Cambodia, monitored in Bangkok, has referred to the current offensive. Virtually all information which journalists have obtained about the fighting comes from the guerrillas, civilians loyal to them, the Thai military and international aid officials operating on the Thai side of the frontier.

Only scattered shelling was reported Saturday at Ampil camp, the headquarters of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front. But Lt. Gen. Pichit Kullavanijaya, commander of Thailand's 1st Army, predicted that the Vietnamese would attack that key base soon.

Khmer People's Liberation Front officers in Nong Samet said Son Sann, the front's leader, visited Ampil on Saturday, meeting with his top commanders apparently to plan how to contain a Vietnamese assault. The 73-year-old former Cambodian prime minister toured the Nong Samet area Friday, including Red Hill, the U.N.-supported evacuation site where 62,000 of Rithisen's former inhabitants have sought shelter.

About 5,000 of the Khmer People's Liberation Front's 12,000 fighters are based at Ampil, which is protected by a lake and thick forests — unlike the Rithisen camp which lies exposed on flat, sparsely forested terrain. Ampil, whose 23,000 civilians have already evacuated their homes, includes a guerrilla training center, a political education school and administration offices.

Deadly chemical arrives

NORFOLK, Va. — A 15-ton shipment of methyl isocyanate, the chemical that killed more than 2,000 people in India, arrived in this port city Saturday after being refused by Brazil and was loaded onto Georgia-bound trucks amid tight safety precautions.

Company hazardous chemical experts, federal safety inspectors, the U.S. Coast Guard and various state authorities inspected the shipment before it left for the Union Carbide processing plant in Woodbine, Ga., where it was to be turned into pesticide.

Oil cases settled

WASHINGTON — The Energy Department has settled four more cases involving alleged overcharges by crude oil producers and resellers during the years there were government price controls on the fuel, officials said Saturday.

The proposed consent orders require the four companies, two in California and one each in Kansas and Oklahoma, to pay the government a total of $5.69 million plus interest over the next three years.

Economy shows upturn

WASHINGTON — The government's main gauge of future economic activity shot up 1.3 percent in November, the biggest gain in nine months, the Commerce Department said.

The rise in the Index of Leading Economic Indicators followed a decline of 0.5 percent in October — the third month out of five in which the index had registered a decrease. That had not happened since the recession year of 1981.

Fatal Utah mine sealed

ORANGEVILLE, Utah — Crews that were stalled when flames flared inside a coal mine portal returned to snow-covered East Mountain on Saturday to seal the shaft and attempt to snuff a blaze that killed 27 miners last week.

Bob Henrie, spokesman for Emery Mining Co., operator of the Wilberg Mine, said 25 workers hoped to cap the last five of 15 mine portals by Sunday.

Twenty-six men and one woman were trapped Dec. 19 when fire broke out near the mine's entrance. Rescue crews located 25 bodies and two other miners were presumed dead.

Cops shoot robbed man

NEW YORK — A jewelry store employee who was killed during a robbery attempt was shot at least once by police, who fired 13 shots at robbers who apparently never fired their weapons, authorities said.

Fernando Rodriguez, 52, of New York City, was hit by two bullets and died at the scene, Officer Edward Kulesa said Friday. At least one of the bullets came from a police weapon, and both probably were fired by police, he said.

Giant sewer trap installed

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A 9,000-foot emergency sewer line designed to catch Mexican sewage leaking across the border onto California beaches should be in place within 30 days, a congressman says.

The pipe will cost the U.S. government about $250,000, Rep. Duncan Hunter said last week.

Construction of the pipe is in response to the latest break in Tijuana sewer mains, which sent millions of gallons of effluent across the border and fouled beaches in Imperial Beach.

Tax & financial planning

NEW SOCIAL SECURITY FIGURES

In 1985 income tax rates will be "indexed" for inflation; however, the reduction in income tax will probably be more than offset by the increase in social security taxes.

Both the social security tax rate and the wage base on which it is calculated will be increased in 1985. The tax rate goes up from 6.7% for employees and 7.0% for employers to 7.05% for both. The wage base increases from $37,800 to $39,600. Therefore, the maximum pay-in for 1985 will be $2,791.80 each for employee and employer. That's a hefty combined increase of $406 over 1984.

Self-employed will see a rate increase from 11.3% to 11.8% on a wage base of $39,600. Their maximum pay-in will be $4,672.80.

On the benefits side, those receiving social security will get a 3.5% increase beginning in 1985. Retirees will also be permitted to earn more in 1985 without losing social security benefits. Those under age 65 can earn $5,400 and those 65 to 69 can earn $7,320 without losing benefits. As in the past, individuals aged 70 and older can earn any amount without losing benefits.

In 1985 an individual must earn a minimum of $1,640 to be credited with four quarters of coverage; one quarter of coverage requires earnings of $410.

For the first time, taxpayers may find themselves paying income tax on some of their 1984 social security benefits. A special computation must be done to determine the taxable portion, if any. To one's adjusted gross income, add (1) tax exempt interest income and (2) one-half of the social security benefits received. If this figure exceeds $25,000 for singles, $32,000 married, filing jointly, or $0 married, filing separately, the lesser of half the benefits or half the adjusted income figure that exceeds these limits will be taxed.

The Department of Redundancy

An indication of the rough waters ahead for federal cost cutting is the storm being raised over reports that President Reagan is considering scrapping his Council of Economic Advisers. The average citizen can be forgiven if he wonders what all the fuss is about.

The council is noted primarily for producing the president's annual Economic Report to Congress. Otherwise, unless the chairman is an outspoken critic of the administration, the council is rarely heard from.

Martin Feldstein, former chairman, was just such a critic and his knocks at Reagan policy were reported with relish and at length. Naturally any suggestion that the council is expendable is being interpreted as an effort to silence the opposition.

That's nonsense. The council has only three members, all economists, who are appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate. It does maintain the usual oversize staff even though the chairmanship is at present vacant.

The council was an innovation when created in 1946, but today it is a bureaucratic redundancy. There are thousands of economists currently on the federal payroll, and economic advice aplenty from the Commerce Department, the Treasury Department and the Office of Management and Budget.

The rub, however, is that the president needs Congress's approval to eliminate the council and if early reaction to its possible demise is any barometer, the little-known, mostly ignored council is about to be hailed as the most indispensable outfit in Washington.

Supreme Court shifts to the right

Last summer, the consensus was that the Supreme Court's 1983-84 term revealed a distinct tilt away from protection of individuals and toward greater latitude for government. Like any consensus, this one deserved skepticism — so many people can't be right.

It sounded like a neat summary for headline-writers, not like a reasoned, disinterested analysis. The claim that the court had veered sharply to the right, though hot entirely groundless, rang of hysteria. The greenest court-watcher knows that when the court moves, it always does so at a glacial pace.

Well, almost always. It turns out that the alarm was justified by the court's decision. This time, the justices abandoned their usual caution for a distinct change of direction.

The evidence comes from Geoffrey Stone, a constitutional law professor at the University of Chicago, in an article to be published in the Winter 1985 issue of the Georgia Law Review. Going back to 1933, he tallied the court's record at five-year intervals on traditional civil liberties issues to see how it resolved constitutional disputes between citizens and their government. He also looked at the record for each of the last six terms.

What Stone found in the current court was an almost unprecedented hostility toward individual rights and a new deference to government power. "The Court," he writes, "sided with the government in a higher percentage of First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and 14th Amendment cases than in any term in the past half-century, with the sole exception of the 1938 term."

Even for the Burger court, this represents a departure. In its previous five terms, the court had sided with the individual in anywhere from 30 percent to 46 percent of these cases. Last year, it upheld the claims of individuals only 19 percent of the time.

The decline itself proves nothing, least of all whether the court acted wisely. It's possible that this was one of the terms in which most of the constitutional claims made by citizens just happened to be flimsy. Not all civil libertarians will accept the inclusion of all 14th Amendment cases, some of which go beyond protecting individuals from government. And any statistical analysis like this is bound to be fairly crude.

But several cases suggest that something significant is indeed occurring. They illustrate the justices' increasing willingness to give the state the benefit of every doubt.

One was a suit against the city of Pawtucket, R.I., for erecting a nativity scene to commemorate Christmas. The creche clearly defied the Supreme Court's 1947 ruling that no governmental body "can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another." Yet the court turned a blind eye to this implicit city endorsement of one religious faith.

Another example is the court's decision on the right of prisoners to be protected from unreasonable searches. No one disputes that the government has broad latitude to search jail cells. But that doesn't mean prisoners have no rights. The court, however, took the position that the Fourth Amendment "has no applicability to a prison cell." Even harassment of prisoners is constitutionally permissible.

Justice John Paul Stevens, in an eloquent dissent, said the ruling means that "prisoners are entitled to no measure of human dignity or individuality — not a photo, a letter, nor anything except standard-issue prison clothing would be free from arbitrary seizure and destruction... It declares prisoners to be little more than chattels."

The court also erred in cases involving the exclusionary rule, providing two exceptions that invite police and judicial abuses. These are more likely the prelude to a complete emasculatation of the rule, which is now the only real barrier to unconstitutional searches.

Any of these rulings by itself would be no basis for real worry. But taken together, they suggest a court determined, in Stone's words, "to restore to the 'majority' its right to assert its will, even in those areas in which minority interests are most seriously threatened."

Preventing majority tyranny is one of the central purposes of the American Constitution. That its appointed guardians have shirked their responsibility makes the court's shift ominous as well as historic.

To have (a puff) and have not

Smoking is a hot issue. Since I revealed the inside story of how (and why) I gave up tobacco (Subtitle: The smoke also rises), I've been amazed at the reaction.

Joe Wallis, who runs the Texas Employment Commission here, is a dedicated lifetime smoker. A few days ago, I caught him chewing nicotine gum. He said he was down to five or six butts a day and if he could ever figure out what to do with his hands, he'd be ready to go for broke.

My mother carried my column down to the post office and spent her whole Social Security check financing photocopies. She's sent copies to all relatives, close and remote, smokers and nonsmokers alike. I guess she's having trouble believing that her youngest child actually gave the habit up.

My brother smokes more than I did, which puts him pretty close to the three-pack-a-day mark. He was unimpressed by nicotine gum, quitting smoking and my miracle of abstinence. "That gum stuff pulls out your fillings," he grouched.

Saturday, I got a letter from Mrs. Paul D. Warren who lives on Gail Route. Her brother-in-law, Eugene Anderson of Lamesa, quit smoking the same day I did and, she said, he could relate to my worries about weight gain. "We have sent your editorials to him," Mrs. Warren said, "on the theory that misery loves company."

Anderson's daughter Shirley got in the act and sent dad a singing telegram to reinforce his commitment.

Actually, I can report now — in week seven — that abstinence isn't misery after all. My ravenous appetite has abated, settling into a more-or-less normal range. My craving is minimal. I feel better physically and emotionally. I'm using my hands in new and creative ways, like rough-housing with the kids.

Hang in there Joe, Eugene, and anyone else who has taken the plunge, it gets better.

My New Year's resolution? That's obvious.

When it rains...

Weather made news in 1984, and I take all the credit for making it rain as much as it did.

A dismal dry spring worried me into writing calamity columns about how we were headed for a record-breaking year of drought. Just for spite, the heavens sent consistent rains in July, August and the fall. Now, as the year ends, we've racked up nearly 13 inches of rainfall.

That's only two-thirds of normal (about the same count as in 1983), but a far cry from a record-breaking dry year.

OK, I admit I got egg-faced on those columns. But shucks, I made it rain. And we're not out of the woods yet. Unless there are spring rains in preparation for planting, we're likely to see a run on farm foreclosures. It's that critical.

TV in modern times

Today marks the debut of "TV," the definitive guide to television in Big Spring.

We spent months creating this new section, and I hope our readers like it. If not, I'm sure I'll hear from them, and I'll do my best to explain why we did what we did.

We've taken nothing away from what our readers were used to having. And from that basic offering, we've expanded.

The "rolling log," the chronological guide to each day's TV, is still in the TV section. But in addition to listings for channels 2 through 13, we've added Nickelodeon, Lifetime, Nashville Network and USA Network.

Instead of wasting space on repeating daytime listings for each day of the week, we've moved all the daytime programming to one page at the back of the section. Programs that are special to each day, however, we've retained in the daily listings.

Readers will find an at-a-glance description of program titles for prime time viewing. This is an extra service the old Leisure section didn't have.

And for subscribers to premium offerings — Disney, Showtime or Movie Channel — we've included programs for these stations, too.

The new guide is made possible by an agreement between Big Spring Cable TV and the Herald, and the cost of producing the expanded TV listings is shared.

Instead of having to look to several places for TV programming, it's all in one place — TV, in the Sunday Big Spring Herald.

New years are old stuff in state capital

By JIM DAVIS

AUSTIN — I am one of those people who take calendar events seriously. Birthdays, anniversaries and new years are big deals for us, and we tend to see ourselves and our society in terms of them.

Take my 40th birthday, for example. The day before, I felt young, vigorous and trendy. I listened to rock music and drank Shiner beer. On my birthday, my hair suddenly turned gray, and I found myself listening to Perry Como on AM radio while driving to the store for prune juice.

Anniversaries are to be observed religiously. Once I sent flowers to my wife's office to remind her of our first kiss exactly 15 years earlier. She couldn't figure out why I would send flowers, unless I had a guilty conscience. It took a while to straighten that one out.

New Year's is not just an excuse for parties to people like me. It marks time and change at all levels of experience.

Events, trends, memories — everything — are grouped within particular years, each categorized by that artificial designation for the time between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31.

Texas Capitol reporting fits my peculiar time-frame perfectly. State government practically shuts down several days before Christmas and stays that way until after Jan. 1. This gap in events makes it easy to look back and see where we've been, and look forward to see where we're going.

The state capitol in Austin

Principal events are even categorized by whether the last number of the year is odd or even.

On odd-numbered years, such as 1985, we know that the Texas Legislature will come to town on the second Tuesday in January. We know the legislators will be here for 140 days before going home again, and we know that, most likely, they will have to come back for a 30-day special session to clear up something they failed to do during their regular time.

They will make it home for good late in the year so they can rest up for the coming even-numbered year, when many of them will have to seek re-election.

If they win re-election, they start the cycle all over again. If they lose, they become high-priced lobbyists who fund legislators' elections during even-numbered years and wine-and-dine the lawmakers in Austin on odd-numbered years. It is a simple and predictable formula.

The pattern had a nonconforming bump in 1984 as legislators met

Around The Rim

Luther's 96th Thesis

By KEITH BRISCOE

What would Martin Luther think?

The Rev. Douglas Roth, a Lutheran minister in Clairton, Pa., is languishing in jail because he defied church authorities and county officials who told him he couldn't preach anymore.

His supporters, burley steel workers wielding baseball bats, last week barricaded themselves inside Roth's Trinity Lutheran Church, demanding the young minister be released and allowed to preach his conscience again.

Roth, minister to a congregation suffering from Pennsylvania's depressed steel industry, got into hot water with ecclesiastical superiors through his pro-union activities.

Together with other Lutheran pastors, Roth founded the Denominational Ministry Strategy, an organization designed to help unemployed steel workers and dying Allegheny Mountain towns by holding corporations accountable to labor and the local economy.

Roth took his politics to the pulpit, preaching against greedy capitalists. He rallied against the steel companies that had forsaken the American worker by diverting profits to foreign investments.

His sermons were a refreshing and courageous application of the Christian Gospel to critical and immediate social issues. But they were too much for the Lutheran Church in America, one of the three main divisions of the denomination. Roth must go, the LCA said. But Roth said no.

On Nov. 14 he was jailed for disobeying a court order prohibiting him from preaching. Thursday, church members and representatives of the United Steelworkers Union Local 1397 took over the church and began their vigil for the martyr Roth.

What would Martin Luther think of Roth and his supporters? He would think well of them, I should believe. They're his kind of people. The German reformer bravely and successfully challenged the entrenched papal autocracy and stodgy political system of the late Middle Ages.

Some might wish that Brother Martin could be there Monday in Allegheny County Court when the Trinity Lutheran Church council members appear before the judge to explain why they refused to relinquish control of the church.

Luther could provide an honorable defense: "Here they stand; they can do no other."

in special session to pass a tax bill to fund school reform and highway improvements. They then watched as Texas voters rejected Walter Mondale for even mentioning higher taxes and sent a few Democratic legislators and congressmen into involuntary retirement to boot.

In 1985, they return facing the choice of passing another tax hike or cutting sacred-cow programs of powerful special interests. The year will be remembered for what they do on this major problem.

For Gov. Mark White, 1984 was marked by the promised pay hike for teachers, by more money for highways in order to get the highway interest's support for teacher pay and by a new $3.1 million state airplane for himself. In 1985, he will explain to other state employees why they have to tighten their belts and help him and the legislators avoid another tax increase.

This all should make the coming year very interesting, and then 1985 will fade and suddenly it will be 1986. Then it will be time for all the politicians to go before the voters and explain how all the things they did to them in 1985 were really for the best.

As I said, everything in state government happens in annual time slots marked by the changing of years. In a way, it's sort of comforting. In other ways, it's sort of not.

Top 10 stories

The massive research, drafting and lobbying effort that culminated in Legislative approval of sweeping public education reforms was voted as Texas' top news story of 1984 by Associated Press editors and broadcasters.

Education reform garnered 21 first-place votes and 16 second-place rankings from the 43 editors and broadcasters voting in the AP survey of the top 10 news stories of the year.

The November election, when a wave of Republican voters delivered winning margins for President Reagan, U.S. Senate candidate Phil Gramm and candidates all the way down to county sheriff, was rated the No. 2 story of the year.

The lengthy drought that gripped much of Central Texas and parts of West Texas was in third place, followed by last winter's devastating Rio Grande Valley freeze and turmoil — primarily in the form of the record number of stabbings — in the state's prison system.

The continuing saga of serial killer Henry Lee Lucas, who in 1984 was sentenced to die by lethal injection, placed sixth in the AP balloting, followed by the dropping of armed robbery charges against black engineer Lenell Geter, the murder conviction of nurse Gene Jones, the execution of three Death Row inmates and the death of David, Houston's "bubble boy."

The education reform effort actually began in 1983 when Gov. Mark White appointed a blue ribbon panel to draft recommended reforms and tapped Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot to lead the effort.

With his usual fervor, the outspoken Perot began to attack one of Texas' most treasured institutions, high school athletics, and set his sights on replacing the elected state education board with appointees.

Perot's Select Committee on Public Education conducted hearings in most corners of the state, commissioned its own studies and then drafted its controversial blueprint for reform of the state's public schools, whose students have ranked below national averages on many standardized tests.

The state's top elected leaders lined up in support of the plan and began steering it through a special session of the Legislature last summer. After bitter arguments in committee hearings, lawmakers passed what White called the most dramatic school reform bills in 35 years on June 30.

Then, with just hours to go before an adjournment deadline July 3, the Legislature approved a $4.8 billion tax bill to fund the reforms and pay for highway improvements.

Editors and broadcasters said the dramatic showing by Texas Republicans made the 1984 election the second biggest story of the year. In November, a traditionally Democratic state came through for the GOP, which retained retiring Sen. John Tower's seat and gained four seats in the U.S. House.

The state's sometimes destructive weather, rated the top story of 1983 after tornadoes and a deadly hurricane, continued its newsmaking ways in 1984.

The Rio Grande Valley is still recovering from the freeze nearly a year after temperatures plummeted to record-setting levels, and experts say it will take years for citrus groves to return to their pre-freeze production levels.

Drought conditions forced dozens of cities and towns last summer to take water conservation steps or invoke water-use restrictions. Corpus Christi appeared hardest hit, although areas from near the Oklahoma border south to the Mexico border were affected.

Violence in the Texas Department of Corrections system continually crept into the news of the state. More than 350 stabbings were recorded, and at least 25 inmates were killed. Meanwhile, the leadership of the prison system changed hands as Raymond Procnier was hired as state prison director.

Just edged out of the top 10 stories were the mass killing at a Dallas nightclub, the space shuttle, a Dallas dispatcher's delay of an ambulance to a dying woman and the Republican National Convention, held in Dallas.

The drought: vision of 1984

The Legislature

Texas lawmakers, many of them running for re-election, spent much of 1984 trying to solve the public school and state spending problems in a way that would keep voters happy.

As a result, in between the May primaries and the November general election, the Senate and House finally agreed on a historic school reform bill financed by the first general tax increase since 1971.

The tax bill, which included a boost in the state sales tax, will provide $4.8 billion in new revenue for three years. It contains $2.7 billion for schools and $1.36 for highway improvements the next three years.

As momentous as the special summer meeting was proclaimed, legislators at the end of the year were preparing to return to Austin in January 1985 for another lengthy headknocking session over schools, taxes and a host of other pressing needs.

The faltering oil and gas economy, with steadily declining production, will give the 1985 legislators headaches, Comptroller Bob Bullock has warned.

There will be a $900 million difference between the state's spending and its revenues, Bullock said early in December. That was $260 million less in revenue than his last estimate.

The 1983 Legislature was able to escape new taxes, mostly by a series of tax "speed-up" bills that moved forward the tax payment dates for a one-time revenue gain to the state.

However, little was done in 1983 to ease the financial problems of small school districts with low property tax collections and nothing was done about overdue teachers pay raises. Money for state highway maintenance was another crisis untouched.

At the end of the 1983 session, Gov. Mark White promised to call a special session on schools and highways as soon as a Select Committee on Public Education, headed by outspoken Dallas multi-millionaire H. Ross Perot, held hearings and drafted recommendations.

The special session met June 4, 1984, passed what White called the most dramatic school reform bills in 35 years on June 30, and then finally approved the $4.8 billion tax bill on July 3, just hours before an adjournment deadline.

The school bill, which adopted many of the recommendations made by Perot's committee, called for seven hours of basic education daily with few interruptions by athletics and other out-of-school activities, classes of no more than 22 students, no social promotions, graduation tests and no more than five absences a semester.

Starting salaries for teachers went from $11,100 to $15,200. Experienced teachers got at least a $1,700 raise plus provisions over the next three years for a career ladder to reward excellence. Competency tests for teachers and administrators were authorized, with the details to be worked out by the 1985 Legislature.

The bill provided $48 million in new state aid with the actual attendance of students governing the grants. The aid was adjusted to local property wealth in a move to help the poor districts.

And the most controversial measure of all, the bill did away with the 27-member elected State Board of Education and allowed the governor to appoint a new 15-member board. The board will revert back to an elected body in four years. An oversight committee, made up of Senate and House leaders was named to keep an eye on the new board.

Texas Farm Bureau President S.M. True doesn't spread much holiday cheer when he talks about the status of farmers in this state.

"Economists tell us — as if anyone needs to — that agriculture is in its worst economic squeeze since the Great Depression," he said.

"This at a time when much of the rest of the country is bouncing back from the effects of double-digit inflation and recession," the Plainview cotton and grain farmer said.

That's not all. True, who is in his third term as leader of the Texas Farm Bureau, can detail a long list of ailments facing farmers.

The only good thing he has to say is that Texas agriculture is "still financially sound."

Agriculture

"Debt, as a percent of assets, is averaging less than 20 percent and agricultural loan losses have increased only slightly since 1980," he said at the farm bureau convention here in November.

Those facts are little comfort to farmers and ranchers who have been suffering through years of low prices, high interest rates and bad weather, he said.

Weather conditions were especially bad this year in Texas, which was hit hard by a lengthy drought. The drought was part of a longer one that has lingered over the state for several years.

The drought, which halted the planting of many crops, drew even more attention to the issue of water supplies.

Gov. Mark White has indicated water will be a key issue in the 1985 session of the legislature.

Currently, farmers use nearly three-fourths of all water consumed in the state.

But True predicted growing cities will be reaching out into agricultural areas for water.

"Laws are going to be proposed to take away the rights of farmers and ranchers in Texas," True said. "We think there should be fair and equitable water legislation."

Farmers have been faced with federal regulations for years. Now, the state is producing some rules of its own.

True describes 1984 as the year of the "triple-whammy on Texas agriculture."

The first blow came when the Legislature removed agriculture's exemption for workers' compensation.

Nation

America in 1984 seemed caught up in a never-ending wave cheer. "USA, USA" was the all-purpose chant for an Olympic team setting a gold medal record or a president reaping a bumper electoral harvest.

Inflation was low. Employment was up. The country was at peace. And what about those Cubs?

"Every day is the Fourth of July," said Ronald Reagan, standing among the balloons and banners of his campaign stage sets. Even Walter Mondale had to agree that most of us felt better. He didn't make much headway talking about future decisions on taxes and star wars.

There was too much to enjoy in the present.

In the Olympics at Los Angeles, a muscular pixie named Mary Lou Retton flew to astonishing heights, Greg Louganis turned one perfect dive after another, "we" won a record 83 gold medals and who missed the Russians anyway? With capitalist flair, these games even turned a $150 million profit.

Graying heroes returned to Normandy's beaches, at D-day plus 40 years.

Space shuttle crewman Bruce McCandless took the first free flight in space, dancing above the rim of the earth in his jet-powered backpack.

Michael Jackson won dozens of awards, sold millions of records and stormed the country on the "victory" tour.

Although 1984 was far from the nightmare imagined by George Orwell, there were innumerable antidotes for euphoria.

Who could feel good seeing the infant faces of starvation in Ethiopia? Or the 21 bodies at a McDonald's restaurant in California?

30 movies shot in state

AUSTIN (AP) — Thirty major movie and television projects were shot in Texas in 1984, matching the record set last year, the Texas Film Commission reported Friday.

The projects included 15 feature films, four television movies, 10 television series and one special. The total production budget was $99.9 million.

"This year's pictures tended to be less expensive than last year's. But in a way, that's a good sign," said Joel Smith, director of the film commission. "It reflects the fact that 12 of them were made by independent producers right here in Texas. Without the overhead of the big Hollywood studios, they can make movies more economically."

Feature films shot in Texas in 1984 included "Alamo Bay," "Sylvester" and "Fair is Fair." Those three movies are scheduled for 1985 release.

The television projects included "The Jesse Owens Story," James Michener's "Space" and "Dallas."

Protesters block Rio Grande bridge

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (AP) — Police cleared about 200 protesters from a bridge between Eagle Pass, Texas, and this Mexican border city early Saturday and opened it to traffic for the first time in three days, a police spokesman said.

Ismael Martinez, duty officer at the Federal Highway Police post in this city, said that 29 municipal policemen cleared the political demonstrators from the bridge at about 1 a.m.

"No one was injured. Two persons — two leaders — were arrested," Martinez said.

But Gonzalo Altamirano Dimas, spokesman for the opposition National Action Party (PAN), said in Mexico City that the police were backed up by two truckloads of thugs in the pay of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party.

Inflation debated

MEXICO CITY — A private economic study says business leaders are skeptical about the government's prediction that inflation will fall to 35 percent in 1985.

"In the face of the optimism of public officials, the private sector remains skeptical that an inflation rate of 35 percent can be achieved," says a report by the Private Sector Center for Economic Studies. "As a result, the goals of economic growth and controlling inflation for 1985 seem to us contradictory, as they were in 1984."

Tourism to dip

MEXICO CITY — The National Trust for Tourism says the number of foreign tourists visiting Mexico in 1984 is expected to dip by 1.2 percent from last year when final figures are tallied.

Fonatur, as the national tourism organization is known, estimated that 4,690,000 foreigners visited Mexico this year — about 307,000 fewer than originally projected.

Fume pact OK'd

GUADALAJARA — The Urban Development and Ecology Department and two local chemical firms have reached an agreement aimed at halting emission of fumes blamed for intoxicating some 2,000 people a year ago.

The agreement is with Fertilizantes Mexicanos and Industrias Quimicas de Mexico.

The companies agreed to install pollution control equipment valued at $500,000 and submit to strict supervision by government technicians, the official government news agency Notimex reported.

Border economy rebounds

AUSTIN (AP) — The devastated Texas-Mexico border area is showing signs of economic recovery, according to state Comptroller Bob Bullock, who says retail sales, tax collections and employment are on the upswing.

If the Mexican peso continues to increase in value compared with the dollar, Bullock says the border economy could perk up even more as Mexican shoppers start buying again from Texas stores again.

The border has suffered from the economic slowdown more than any other part of Texas. The devaluations of the peso in 1982 and 1983, last winter's hard freeze and this summer's long drought have kept unemployment in the double digits.

But the latest report from Bullocks shows signs of a rebound.

Bullock said that border department store sales for the first half of 1984 were 25 percent better than the same period the year before.

Sales tax collections also improved, jumping an average of 17.3 percent for the first six months of 1984. Receipts rose 18.8 percent in El Paso, 21.8 percent in Laredo and 18.2 percent in McAllen, he said.

Motor vehicle sales also rebounded in the first half of 1984.

Coahoma

bids can be collected after the first of the year.

Ben Sparks of the Wilson Insurance Agency told councilmen that he didn't think that Gerald King's contract with the city for trash collection was valid.

Sparks, who was at the meeting to discuss insurance policies, said King's contract "is null and void" because the trash collector had no proof of insurance.

Sparks said the City of Coahoma would be liable for any injuries caused to King and his employees if the trash hauler had no insurance.

A lengthy discussion followed as councilmen Laurence Aberegg and Gary Roberts argued over whether to place the matter on an upcoming agenda or whether to take action immediately.

Sparks told councilmen, "All this should be in (King's) contract. He should provide proof of insurance."

Mrs. Harrison said, "They tell me they have had it renewed, but we don't have it on file."

Aberegg submitted a recommendation for a vote before the council that would change King's contract agreement with the city and included a clause about the lapsed insurance.

Roberts said, "You can't change policy" without first posting it on an agenda.

Aberegg said, "His contract is already violated. His contract is void."

Roberts answered him with, "Get it on the agenda. Let him be here. You're talking about changing the way (his contract) is done."

Councilman Jerry Brockman made a motion to put the item on the next agenda.

Councilmen then debated whether or not to pay King for work he's done in the last week in view of the insurance question.

Aberegg said, "You can't hold his check. You've done let him work."

Mrs. Harrison asked, "What should I do? Tell him not to work?"

Councilmen agreed to a motion to pay King for work already completed and to tell him not to haul anymore trash until he has filed proof of insurance.

The issue lead councilmen into a related matter, that of high insurance premiums paid by the City of Coahoma for workman's compensation and liability.

Mrs. Harrison said that, "Our insurance is eating us up alive."

Insurance for the city "has not been put up for bids for years," Mrs. Harrison said. But while studying the situation, Mrs. Harrison said she discovered, "the reason that workman's compensation is so high is that we've got a $37,400 open claim filed against the city."

Councilmen were baffled by the lawsuit and did not know who had filed it.

"We don't have anything on it," Aberegg said. Roberts added, "It had to be a city employee."

Roberts said he wanted to know who filed the suit and why so that any problems within the city could be settled.

Mrs. Harrison said, "I'll try to find out what the claim is for. I'll give you the information at the next meeting."

Councilmen agreed to let the city road department begin work on about $38,000 worth of repairs on a water line on South Avenue.

Councilmen also agreed to place Aberegg in charge of outside employees for the street and water departments. Aberegg will represent the council when meeting with these employees.

Councilmen agreed to set a price on the police department car.

Mrs. Harrison said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard had expressed an interest in the car, which is no longer needed because Coahoma has no police department.

Should the Sheriff's office not want the car, it will be put up for bids, councilmen said.

The sports year in review

With 1985 two days away it's time review the sports year in the Crossroads Country area.

It was a year filled with lots of drama and excitement. It is 12 months worth looking back at.

We'll review the first six months in this issue and take a look at the final six months in Tuesday's column. Now on with the show.

In January the Big Spring High School football department got a shot in the arm when defensive lineman Danny Arista was named to the 5A All-State team.

Big Spring's Kenneth Coffey, a member of the Washington Redskins; was denied his second Super Bowl ring when the LA Raiders defeated Washington 38-9 in Super Bowl XVII.

On January 23 the Howard Hawks, coached by Mike Mitchell; ran their record to 17-1 with a 78-62 upset win over defending national champion Midland College. Dwight Harris and Jerry Stroman scored 21 points each in the win.

Coahoma defensive tackle John Dever stole the spotlight in February when he inked a scholarship agreement on National Signing Day. Dever rendered his services to the University of Texas-Arlington, an NCAA Division I school.

In boxing action, Howard County Boxing Club members Gene Dukes and Jamie Baldwin advanced to the State Golden Gloves Tournament in Ft. Worth. Both boxers earned the trip via regional wins in Odessa.

In basketball action four girls and four boys Crossroads Country teams advanced to post-season play.

Coahoma, Greenwood, and Borden County girls teams all made it to the regional tournament. Forsan also made the playoffs.

Boys teams advancing to post-season play were Colorado City, Greenwood, Lamesa and Klondike.

The Steers and Lady Steers finished their basketball seasons with 2-27 and 12-15 respective records. Monette Wise, Debra Rubio and Paula Spears were named to the All-District squad while Jimmy Brown was the lone Steer to make the team.

The Howard Hawks and Hawk-Queens both advanced to the Region V Tournament. The Hawks won conference and ended the regular season with a 25-3 slate. The Queens finished third in conference with an overall record of 23-8.

MARCH ended on a sad note for Howard College basketball as the Queens were eliminated in the Region V semifinal game by Odessa, 84-75. They ended the season at 24-9.

The Hawks missed a trip to the National Tournament when they lost a heart-breaking 56-55 contest to Western Texas in the finals on the Region tourney. They ended the season with a 28-4 record.

All-Conference honors went to Queen players Teri Moore and Molly Early. Moore was also named to the All-Region team. Hawks forward Jerry Stroman was named the conference's Most Valuable Player and a member of the All-Region team. James Johnson was also a member of the All-Conference and All-Region teams.

March also brought around the track season and the Big Spring ABC Relays. Sweetwater took the girls crown while San Angelo Central and Lubbock Estacado tied for the boys title.

Pam Palmer was Big Spring's top performer winning gold medals in the 200 meters and 400 meter relay.

The BSHS girls golf team missed a trip to regionals by placing third at the district meet. Margie Garcia made the All-District squad.

Lady Steers basketball player Monette Wise started off the headlines in April when she was selected to the 5A All-Region Team.

Sul Ross State won the Howard College Rodeo and Howard basketball players Anthony Snooks and Janene Berry inked scholarship agreements.

Snook took his talents to Southern Illinois while Berry went down the road to Texas Tech.

Hawk roundballers Stroman and Johnson reaped more honors when they were selected for the Junior College All-Star game in Waco.

The Lady Steers track team saw their season come to an end at the Region-I 5A meet.

The 800 meter relay foursome of Aretha Cork, Latresa Cork, Tina Smith and Pam Palmer just missed a trip to state by finishing third in a school-record time of 1:41.33. The same team placed fifth in the 400 meters relay in 48.55; also a school-record. Palmer finished fifth in the 200 with a clocking of 25.85.

On April 28 the Howard Hawks baseball team made school-history when it defeated Ranger 3-0. The Hawks became Howard's first modern-day baseball team to advance to the playoffs.

May was a good month as rewards poured in for area athletes.

HCBC welterweight Gene Dukes proved that his 42-5 record was no fluke when he was selected to participate in the U.S. Olympic Boxing Trails in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

In girls track Coahoma's Tobie Henry and Forsan's Lorri Roman stole the show at the state track meet in Austin. Henry raced to a second place finish in the 400 meters in a career-best 57.4. Roman finished second in the 800 meters in 2:20.24, just ahead of Garden City's Gina Schaefer (2:23.40).

The Borden County doubles duo of Kelli Williams and Tammy Miller finished second at state in Class A tennis.

Two athletes signed agreements with colleges. Hawks homerun hitter Bobby Behnsch signed with Lubbock Christian College and Steers footballer Ted Gillis signed with Emporia State, Kansas.

The Big Spring High School Spring Sports banquet capped off the sports year at BSHS. Monette Wise, a letterwomen in

Miami rolls past Seattle, 31-10

MIAMI (AP) — Dan Marino, continuing his record-breaking regular season pace, threw three touchdown passes and Miami's resurrected "Killer B" defense stymied all but one Seattle foray as the Dolphins beat the Seahawks 31-10 Saturday and moved to within a game of their fifth Super Bowl.

Marino, who threw 48 touchdown passes in 16 regular-season games, maintained his three-a-game average as he completed 21 of 34 for 262 yards in Miami's first playoff game this season.

He threw a 34-yard TD pass to Jimmy Cefalo in the first quarter to give Miami a 7-0 lead. But he really took over in the third quarter, going 8 for 9 for 92 yards and hitting a 3-yarder to Bruce Hardy and a 33-yarder to Mark Clayton two minutes apart late in the period. Those scores increased Miami's lead from a tense four points to a comfortable 28-10.

The win moved the Dolphins into the American Conference title game next Sunday against the winner of Sunday's Pittsburgh-Denver game. The game will be played on Miami's home turf at the Orange Bowl.

In large measure, Saturday's game belonged to Miami's maligned defense, which had allowed an average of almost 25 points in the last seven games of its 14-2 regular season.

Led by ends Kim Bokamper and Doug Betters and linebacker Mark Brown, it held Seattle without a first down on four of its first five possessions and shut down both the "Ground Chuck" and the "Air Knox" phases of Coach Chuck Knox's Seattle attack.

They held the Seahawks without a first down on eight series and stopped them twice on third-and-1 and once on fourth-and-1.

That's where Marino took over.

First, he moved the Dolphins 76 yards in 13 plays, capping it off with the short touchdown toss to Hardy. Then, after Seattle's Jeff West squibbed a 7-yard punt, Marino's 33-yard pass was tipped in the air by Seattle's Keith Simpson and deflected right to Moore, standing alone in the end zone.

Uwe van Schamann's 37-yard fourth-quarter field goal, his first successful kick since Nov. 11, capped Miami's scoring.

The Dolphins started strong, driving 35 yards to the Seattle 26 off the opening kickoff. But von Schamann's 43-yard field goal attempt, his first try in five games, was wide right.

Starting at their own 32, they drove 68 yards in eight plays to take a 7-0 lead with 4:09 left in the first quarter. Tony Nathan ran 14 yards for the score, sweeping right then cutting inside against a six-back Seattle alignment on a second down and 10 play.

Seattle, held to only 4 yards and no first downs in its first four possessions made it 7-3 on Norm Johnson's 27-yard field goal 1:24 into the second period. The score was set up by Harris' first interception, which he returned 32 yards to the Miami 39 and a 25-yard pass from Dave Krieg to Steve Largent that put the ball at the 19.

But Miami came right back to make it 14-3 on Marino's 34-yard TD pass to Cefalo, who beat Paul Moyer after the Dolphins picked up a Seahawk blitz. The score came one play after Kenny Easley's interception of a Marino pass was nullified by an offside call against Mike Fanning.

Seattle Seahawks fullback DAVID HUGHES fires to gain yardage without full gasp of the ball as he is hit by an unidentified Miami Dolphin.

49ers cut down N.Y. Giants, 21-10

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Montana threw for three touchdowns in the first half, and the San Francisco 49ers later got big defensive plays from Riki Ellison and Dwaine Board to escape with a 21-10 National Football League playoff victory over the New York Giants Saturday.

The 49ers, whose 15-1 regular season record was the best in the league, won their 10th straight game and earned the right to host the National Football Conference title game on Jan. 6. They will play either the Chicago Bears or Washington Redskins, who meet on Sunday in Washington.

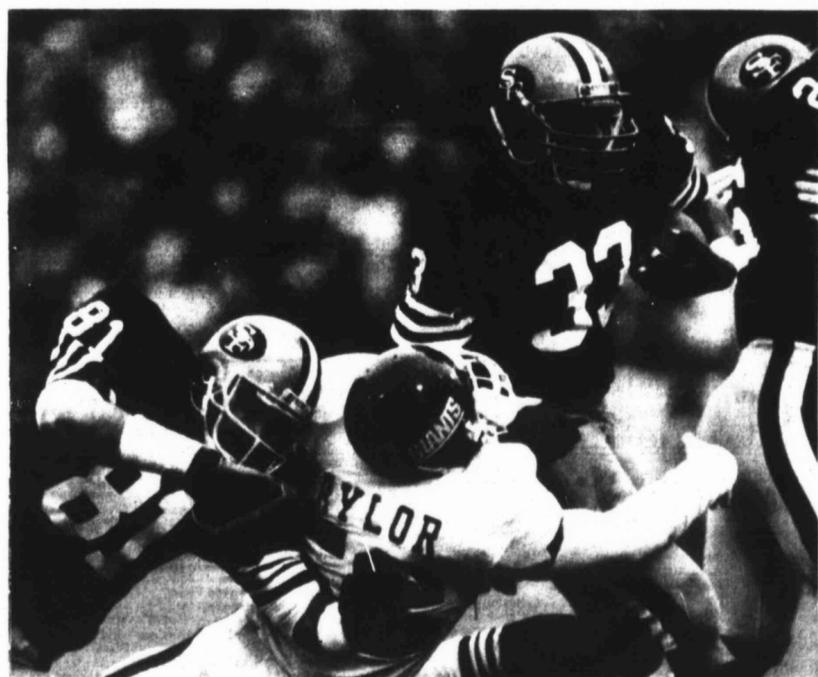

Montana hit on TD passes of 21 yards to Dwight Clark and nine to Russ Francis the first two times the 49ers had the ball. Late in the second quarter, he tossed a 29-yard scoring strike to wide receiver Freddie Solomon, who scored a touchdown for the ninth game in a row.

But Montana was victimized for interceptions in a spotty performance, and another of his passes was dropped by Giants defensive back Bill Currier early in the game. Linebacker Harry Carson scored on a 14-yard interception return in the second period.

The final interception against the 49ers quarterback was made by linebacker Gary Reasons near the New York goal line in the third period. Montana had run 53 yards, to the Giants' 14-yard line, giving the 49ers an opportunity to build on their 21-10 lead.

Reasons returned the ball 33 yards, and the Giants moved to the San Francisco 19 before linebacker Ellison killed the scoring threat by intercepting a pass by Phil Simms.

A New York scoring threat early in the fourth quarter was snuffed out with the help of a quarterback sack by Board. The defensive end dropped Simms on a play from the 11, and three plays later the Giants'

San Francisco 49ers fullback ROGER CRAIG picks up yardage as New York Giants linebacker LAWRENCE TAYLOR gets hit by 49er tight end RUSS FRANCIS.

Ali Haji-Sheikh missed a 33-yard field goal attempt.

The Giants, who were 9-7 in regular season play and beat the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC wild-card game last weekend, trailed 14-0 Saturday before getting their first points on Haji-Sheikh's 46-yard field goal in the second period.

Orange Bowl may decide who's No. 1

As far as Oklahoma and Washington is concerned

By The Associated Press

If anyone still has any questions about who should be ranked No. 1 in college football, Washington Coach Don James is sure they'll be watching television on New Year's Day.

"I'm sure that everyone that is interested watched the Brigham Young-Michigan game," the Huskies coach said of the recent Holiday Bowl. "Those same people will watch our game. The writers will vote and declare a national champion."

In this low-key manner, James indicted his agreement with Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer that one of the two Orange Bowl teams still could overtake undefeated and top-ranked BYU in The Associated Press' final writers poll. The 13-0 Cougars beat Michigan 24-17 on Dec. 21 in the Holiday Bowl.

"I guess if you're talking about records, then it's over with," Switzer says. "But I don't believe it's over with."

The meeting of second-ranked Oklahoma, 9-1-1, and No. 4 Washington, 10-1, in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1 at Miami (8 p.m. EST-NBC), is one of five bowl games that will be on network television New Year's Day.

The other big matchups have No. 6 Ohio State, 9-2, against No. 18 Southern Cal, 8-3, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. (5 p.m.-NBC); unranked Houston, 7-4, against No. 8 Boston College, 9-2, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas (1:30 p.m.-CBS); No. 11 Louisiana State, 8-2-1, against No. 5 Nebraska, 9-2, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans (8:10 p.m.-ABC), and No. 14 UCLA, 8-3, against No. 13 Miami, Fla., 8-4, in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz. (1:30 p.m.-NBC).

Saturday's games had No. 10 Southern Methodist, 9-2, against

No. 17 Notre Dame, 7-4, in the Aloha Bowl at Honolulu and No. 20 Wisconsin, 7-3-1, against Kentucky, 8-3, in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Birmingham, Ala.

Monday's New Year's Eve lineup has Purdue, 7-4, against Virginia, 7-2-2, in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta (3 p.m.-CBS), and Texas Christian, 8-3, against West Virginia, 7-4, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston (8 p.m.-ESPN).

The Huskies built their 10-1 record on defense. They were third in scoring defense (11.6), ninth in total defense (277.3) and 16th against both the run and the pass. They led the nation in turnover margin, taking the ball away 51 times, 24 by fumble recoveries and 27 via interceptions.

Like the Huskies, the Sooners were strong on defense and a little disappointing offensively, although they passed for more yardage per

Hoyas roll in Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (A) — Reggie Williams scored 15 of his 21 points in the second half to lead top-ranked Georgetown 61-56 over North Carolina A&T in a Christmas Cup basketball game Saturday night.

The win, however, could prove costly to the Hoyas — junior guard Michael Jackson injured his right hand with 8:35 left in the first half and did not return.

Williams, a 6-foot-7 swingman, got the Hoyas moving after the Aggies drew within two points twice in the second half, at 36-34 and 46-44.

Eric Boyd and Jimmy Brown led the Aggies' scoring attack with 18 points, with Brown driving repeatedly to the basket to keep the Aggies alive in the second half.

But it was Georgetown's defense that made the difference in the latter stages of the game.

Williams, aided by Horace Broadnax, who took up the slack for the injured Jackson, made two key baskets in the final drive that gave the Hoyas the victory.

The Georgetown scoring during the first half was spread out between Bill Martin with eight points, Williams and David Wingate with six each and Patrick Ewing with five. Ewing, who scored 21 points Friday night, ended the game with 11.

night and rode guard Steve Alford's 24 points to a 77-72 victory over Miami, Ohio, in the first round of the Hoosier Classic basketball tournament.

Indiana, raising its record to 7-2 for the season, led by 11 points midway through the second half but hit only two of its next 12 shots from the field. The Redskins, who beat the Hoosiers by six points last year, ran off seven straight points before Alford broke the streak.

Five minutes later, a free throw by Ron Hunter and a basket by Ron Harper brought Miami within three points, 64-61, before baskets by Alford and Mike Giomi pushed the Hoosiers back to a seven-point edge.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — Brad Daugherty scored 22 points to lead the seventh-ranked University of North Carolina to an 88-69 victory over Hawaii Pacific College on Saturday in the opening round of the two-day Hawaii Pacific Invitational Basketball Tournament here.

The Tar Heels, leading by only 50-47 at the half, outscored the Sea Warriors 13-2 in the first three minutes of the second half.

Daugherty started the second half Tar Heel explosion with a jump shot. Buzz Peterson and Joe Wolf then sank a pair of jump shots and Steve Hale finished off the rout with a layup and three-point play to give North Carolina a 61-49 margin with only 2:25 elapsed in the second half.

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Mullin scored 18 points in leading No. 5 St. John's to a 66-56 victory over No. 14 North Carolina State Saturday and their seventh Holiday Festival college basketball tournament championship.

N.C. State led for the last time at 13-11 before the Redmen went on a 21-6 tear in building a 32-19 bulge. The Redmen led 39-29 at the half and went on to build their biggest lead, 49-33, early in the second half on Walter Berry's layup.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Senior Michael Brooks scored 20 points and Anthony Richardson added 15 as Tennessee, outsized in all five positions, made up a nine-point first-half deficit to defeat 13th-ranked Michigan 81-77 in a non-conference basketball game Saturday.

Antoine Joubert, a 6-foot-5 sophomore guard, led the Wolverines with 19 points and six assists. Roy Tarpley and Gary Grant each added 16 points.

Cowboys come away with Gator Bowl win over S.C.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — There wasn't much to choose — just seven points — between seventh-ranked South Carolina and No. 9 Oklahoma State in Friday night's Gator Bowl.

Although they both had identical record-breaking 10-2 seasons, neither one has been a regular tenant in the Top Twenty.

But there was one big difference — and it may have made THE difference.

"We didn't come out of the woodwork as much as a lot of people think we did," Oklahoma State Coach Pat Jones said Saturday. "That's the difference between us and South Carolina. We won eight games a year ago and had an impressive bowl win (24-14 over Baylor in the Bluebonnet Bowl)."

The Cowboys, who won 10 games for the first time in their history, also own a 7-2 bowl record after their 21-14 triumph on tight end Barry Hanna's dramatic 25-yard touchdown play with 1:04 remaining after catching a short pass from Rusty Hilger. South Carolina, which had never won more than eight games in a season, remained winless in six postseason games.

"Outside of maybe four or five individuals who had been in a bowl game before, the rest hadn't," South Carolina Coach Joe Morrison said. "It's kind of like the 16th hole of a golf match when you've got a bet going. You can tell them to relax, but that's hard to do."

Although Oklahoma State, which blew a 13-0 halftime lead, rallied with an 88-yard, 11-play game-winning drive, Morrison said the opening kickoff may have set the tone for the Gamecocks.

Kevin White fielded it in the end zone, started out, stopped, then started up again. But the delay was costly and he was nailed at the 7-yard line. South Carolina seemed to be in a deep hole throughout the first half as Oklahoma State scored on drives of 69 — capped by Thurman Thomas' one-yard run — and 74 yards — Thomas flipped a six-yard pass back to Hilger after taking a pitchout.

Connors, McEnroe head AT&T Challenge tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors, lured by huge guarantees as well as a $200,000 first prize, head a field of eight top tennis players competing in the inaugural AT&T Challenge of Champions event beginning New Year's Day.

The unique event, which features a McEnroe-Connors matchup the day before the finals, offers a total payout of $1.3 million that has attracted almost all the big-name stars in men's professional tennis.

"Hopefully this will be the best week of tennis anyone has ever seen," said tournament director Leo Fenn.

In addition to McEnroe and Connors, the event also features Ivan

Lendl of Czechoslovakia, Yannick Noah of France, Johan Kriek, Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, Jimmy Arias and Vitas Gerulaitis, who replaces an injured Andres Gomez of Ecuador.

Under the tournament format, the players will play three best-of-three set singles matches over a four-day period with the top winners in each four-man division advancing to the finals. A player gets one point for each set he wins plus one point for winning the match.

"We tried to create a tournament that will provide as much excitement for the viewer as it will for the player," Fenn said. "A player must try hard in every set as well as every match if he wants to make it to the finals."

Broncos-Steelers clash will be war

DENVER (AP) — Don't expect any surprises Sunday when the Denver Broncos play host to the Pittsburgh Steelers in National Football League playoff action.

This will be football at its most basic. No tricks, no frills. Just down-in-the-trenches warfare. It probably won't be very artistic, and it could get ugly.

At least, that's what Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll and Denver's Dan Reeves would have you believe. And most veteran observers of playoff action — where teams traditionally play it conservative and hope to prey on the mistake — would concur.

"We're not going to try to fool many folks," said Noll. "We'll play basic football — hopefully, sound basic football, which is what wins playoff games."

Although Denver is favored and had a 13-3 regular-season record compared to the Steelers' 9-7 mark, these are two very similar teams with comparable talent, teams which thrive on rugged defenses that force turnovers and which prefer to beat you with their ground game.

"This game matches two active defensive teams that have caused a lot of turnovers," said Reeves. "On offense, Pittsburgh mixes the run and pass very well, and we try to do the same thing."

"The key to the game will be our ability to run the ball and to handle their blitzing."

"Denver runs the ball very well," says Noll. "We have to stop the run and force them to throw. That's a basic tenet in our defensive game plan."

Both offenses are directed by young quarterbacks. Mark Malone is a five-year veteran, but he played hardly at all until this season, when he took over for the injured David Woodley and started the last eight games.

"For a young quarterback feeling his way, he has done very well," said Noll.

Denver will counter with second-year player John Elway, whose NFL regular-season debut was against the Steelers. It's a game he'd rather forget. Elway was harassed into mistakes by Steeler blitzes, and he sat out the second half while backup Steve DeBerg engineered a 14-10 victory.

"John Elway will be much more of a factor this time," said Noll. "He seems a lot more comfortable in what he's doing, and he can hurt you with his arm and his scrambling ability."

Malone's main targets will be Pro Bowl receivers John Stallworth and Louis Lipps, who have combined for 125 receptions good for more than 2,200 yards and 20 touchdowns. Frank Pollard and Walter Abercrombie, who rushed for 851 and 610 yards, respectively, are the top Steeler running backs.

Elway will be looking for Steve Watson, who had 69 matches for 1,170 yards, and Butch Johnson when he isn't handing off to 1,153-yard rusher Sammy Winder.

Denver's defense has given up more yards than the Steelers' 307 — but the Broncos have been the second-stringest team in the league, allowing just 241 points to Pittsburgh's 310.

NO. 30,389

IN THE INTEREST OF JEONG JOO KIM A CHILD IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF HOWARD COUNTY, TEXAS

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION

STATE OF TEXAS

To all whom it may concern:

GREETINGS:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear and answer before the Honorable District Court, Howard County, Texas, at the courthouse of said county in Big Spring, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock a.m. of the Monday next after the expiration of 20 days from the date of service of this citation, then and there to answer the petition of KEITH GIBBONS and SHARNA GIBBONS, Petitioner, filed in said Court on the 12th day of December, 1984, against the unknown mother and father of JEONG JOO KIM Respondents, and said suit being Number 30,389 on the docket of said Court, and entitled "In the Interest of Jeong Joo Kim, a Child," the nature of which suit is a request to terminate the parent-child relationship and adopt the child. Said child was born the 24th day of November, 1983 in Korea.

The Court has authority in this suit to enter any judgment or decree in the child's interest which will be binding upon you, including, but not necessarily limited to, the termination of the parent-child relationship, the determination of paternity, and the appointment of a conservator with authority to consent to the child's adoption.

Issued and given under my hand and seal of said Court at Big Spring, Texas, this 12th day of December, 1984.

game (108.9) than any year since 1972.

Big Ten teams have beaten the Pac 10 champions only twice in the Rose Bowl since 1970, but Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce says, "I don't think past records have anything to do with this game."

The Buckeyes averaged 34 points and 436 yards offense a game, and Southern Cal Coach Ted Tollner says his Trojans must stop Ohio State's big-play offense.

"They force you to defend the whole football field," Tollner says.

The Buckeyes are led by running back Keith Byars, who finished second to Boston College's Doug Flutie in the Heisman Trophy balloting.

Flutie, meanwhile, will lead the Eagles against Southwest Conference champion Houston.

Capping off the month was the Signal Peak Shriners Program and Russell Erxleben Benefit for Steve Little Golf Tournament. The benefit brought a few New Orleans Saints and Houston Oilers to town and netted $25,000.

The month of June saw Howard College cowboy Greg Stovall qualify for the National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Montana. It also saw Lady Steers basketball player Paula Spears and footballer Danny Stephens sign with Tarleton State University.

Big Springer Kelly Rogers missed a berth on the Olympic Shooting Team by finishing third at the Trials. Only the first two finishers got a berth in the LA Games.

Baseball action rounded out the month.

The Little League Red Sox of the Texas League defeated the National League Lions 5-1. The win was sparked by the two-hit pitching of Sambo Rodriguez and gave the Red Sox the city title.

SUNDANCE

Come Home To

Cookouts with your neighbors... couples out for evening strolls... a feeling of belonging in the community... all these wonderful things go hand-in-hand with a fine old neighborhood. And it's what you can enjoy at Sundance.

Sundance is more than expertly designed apartment homes, and well-kept grounds. It is a community of neighbors... people like yourself - who are making Sundance their home.

A variety of indoor spaces at Sundance insures that one of them will make you feel at home. All apartments boast private, exterior carports and entrances. Your patio opens out into spacious grounds. And your apartment at Sundance features such extras as abundant storage, walk-in closets, fenced-in courtyards, draperies, and all appliances including a dishwasher.

We would appreciate your visiting Sundance. But we hope you'll return as a resident... a neighbor. And stay for a long, long while.

1985 brings hope, plans for citizens

By KIM KIRKHAM

As people look to the new year, many wish for improvement in Big Spring's economy and plan to become better persons. Several were polled on their 1985 New Year's resolutions last week.

In 1985, 18-year-old Tanya Hollis of Gail Route wants to "make straight As, be a better person, be more friendly, and more outgoing." She plans to finish college, get a Certified Public Accountant's certification and marry her boyfriend. "I wish the town would clean up," she said. "I wish there were more things to do besides go to a movie." She is employed by the Accent Shoppe.

"My goal in life is to be a better person, and that everything I go out to do, I do my best and have a good attitude," said Tris Clemons, 18, a senior at Big Spring High School. She hopes to be an Olympic gold medal winner in volleyball and a model. She wishes "good luck for next year — football, basketball, and volleyball at Big Spring High School." She lives at 900 N.W. 3rd.

Butch Roh of Ontario, Calif. believes that New Year Resolutions are bad. "If you did them they would be good, but (people) never follow through." He was visiting relatives in Big Spring.

Don Zuch, 29, manager trainee at Aladdins Castle at the Big Spring Mall plans to make more money next year. "They'll give me a nice big pay raise when I take over the store in January," he said. Zuch has achieved all goals he has set for himself in the past. "I just set my goal and go for it." Persistence is the key to obtaining goals, he said. "Don't set a goal you can't reach." For Big Spring, "I'd like to help create a more desirable atmosphere for more industries and families to move here, because without industry, the town's gonna dry up and blow away." He resides at 1211 Runnels.

TANYA HOLLIS

"nicer and sweeter and loose weight" in the coming year. She is from Snyder and also wants to do better in school. She believes in New Year resolutions because "it makes you set a goal for yourself and really stick to it. By telling myself that I promised myself I would do this, I stick to it. I think it takes will power."

Cleta Britton of 2300 Marshall, 59, hopes her business improves. She recently opened "Outlaw Haven" at 308 Benton. Resolutions are useful "if you intend to really keep them," she said. She tries to keep promises she makes to herself, and hopes Big Spring improves in every way, especially businesses. "Big Spring could go a lot further than what it is right now. I've lived here all my life so I should know," she said.

In 1985, Julie Prince, 9, hopes to do better in math. "The first time report cards came out I got an A. This time I got a B." She also hopes her family becomes a closer family by "being nicer." She thinks Big Spring needs a new park "so we'll have more fun." A perfect place, she says, would be an empty lot, "if there is one." She lives a 2106 Merrily Dr.

Julie White, 25, is a bartender in Boston. She is in Big Spring for the holidays visiting her mother. Next year, she plans to "start exercising, take aerobics, to make it better than last year was, finish college (and) make it easier to live." She believes resolutions are good because "they give people a reason to do what they're doing — an excuse. People do things better when they feel like they have to, when they've made a promise to do it."

In the coming year, Becky Stephens plans to "pull my GPA (grade point average) up and to make this the best year ever, live everyday to its fullest." The 19-year-old sophomore at Angelo State University in San Angelo also plans to "be successful at whatever I attempt." She wants Big Spring to "keep growing and striving. Everything needs to keep growing or it's soon or a later going to waste away." She lives at 2608 Carleton.

"I plan on improving my financial situation and become more involved in social activities around the community," said Chas Briscoe, a 24-year-old football and track coach at Big Spring High School. "In life, I plan on trying to go play professional football again, and re-establish all my past friendships from my college days. I plan to not exactly set the record but improve all the athletes as students and bring a more competitive attitude to the school system," he said. He lives at 1106 E. 12th.

Although Dr. M.A. Porter, 62, of Malone-Hogan Hospital said he hasn't set any particular goals yet, he would like to take some time off and travel. "I want to go skiing a couple of times this winter." For Big Spring, "I'd like to get some more industry and a little more stable economy," he said. "They (Big Spring) made a good step toward it when they started cleaning up the city. They need to do that with their park areas, too." He lives at 1506 Dayton.

Shirley McMahon is a computer operator at JCPenney. A 35-year-old, Mrs. McMahon doesn't have any New Year resolutions. "Then I'd have to change my ways," she said. She believes resolutions are useful "because a person decides to take a New Year's resolution and some of them follow through on them." She does plan to be "happy — I do try that, real hard." Her wish for Big Spring is "a prosperous year. More business, that's the main thing," she said. She lives at 1302 Dixie.

Milton Perkins, 39, is an audio visuals librarian at the Howard County Library. His 1985 wish is "more peace in the world." He plans to be a better person, and "more devoted to God by helping my fellow man more than I have done in the past." He hopes Big Spring will do something about the downtown area and have "something more for the young people to do, because there's just nothing for them here at all."

In 1985, Phyllis Martin, 32, pastor's secretary at Hillcrest Baptist Church, plans to "try to give more to other people — more time, more compassion — and be closer to God." One year, her goal was to stop worrying, and she did. "I just take it like it comes," she said. She hopes Big Spring will have a better economy next year. "Our church is praying for the economy of the city right now," she said. Her wish for her friends is "that the Lord will bless them like he has me in the past year. I just want to be able to be the friend to them that they were for me."

In 1985 Margaret Ray, Howard County clerk, plans to "do a better job than I did this last year," she said. She also plans to have an efficient office staff to serve the public better. "I think we need to always do better each day," she said. "If we don't try to set some type of goals we might get in a rut." More industry is Mrs. Ray's wish for Big Spring in 1985. "Anytime we have a drought it hurts everybody. Farmers are one of our biggest industry in Big Spring." She wishes her family happiness and health. "That's all I could hope for."

Tim Feagins, 26, an employee at Feagins Implement Co., believes resolutions are "all right" because they "give people time to reflect on what they're doing." He would like to see area farmers "get a good rain for a change at planting time, and have a good year where they can make a living." He said he has reached all the short-term goals he has set.

In 1985, Shirley Beauchamp, 44, plans to "keep better records because I'm working on income tax right now." She is a comptroller at Star-Com Distributing and lives at 1801 Alabama. She also wants to have more fun time, "because I work a lot. I better go on a diet, too." One year, Mrs. Beauchamp accomplished one of her goals. "We were gonna build on to our house, and we did that year." She hopes Big Spring prospers and grows in the coming year.

Goal setting puts you in charge of the future

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

As New Year's Day approaches, the idea of setting resolutions is either being thought about or forgotten. Resolutions are goals, and through goal setting people take charge of their lives.

Once made, goals often are taken for granted. However, acting on your ideas is a good way to build self-confidence while developing skills. Setting a goal is the first basic step to accomplishing anything in life, says Johnnie Lou Avery, an avid goal setter. When you plan and go on a trip, you have set a goal, planned for it by fueling the car, packing, making arrangements and charting the course. You accomplish the goal upon your arrival at your destination.

Many people are ambivalent about accomplishing goals. They may know what they want to do someday, but somehow other actions get in the way of those ideas — including procrastination. "If you are not making the progress that you would like and are capable of, it is simply because your goals are not clearly defined," says Paul Meyers in his tape "The Power of Goal Setting." Meyers is president of Success Motivation Institute International, Inc. in Waco.

Goal setting brings about success conditioning, he says. "Do not take your eye off the goal. Be thankful for obstacles and adversity. If you are success motivated and goal directed, they only intensify your desire and multiply your energy and make you 10 times the person you would be if you didn't have the adversity."

"A low goal is only a low self-concept expressing itself," Meyer says. Only you can change yourself.

MAKE A LIST

How do you set goals? By listening to yourself. Write down all things you would like to do or have in your lifetime. Keep this list and add to it when an idea comes to mind.

By writing your ideas (goals) down, they become crystalized. No matter how ridiculous they may sound to others, write them down. It's your desire, not someone else's.

This personal brainstorming may last a lifetime. "There is nothing you can conjure up or think about that you don't have the capability to achieve," Meyer says.

Next, divide the ideas into categories: physical, mental, social and spiritual. Set up your priority of values...what is the most important thing you want to achieve in each category. What is the next thing you want to achieve? Prioritize your list. Sometimes you can accomplish more than one goal at a time if they are interrelated. One person developed self-confidence, became less shy and better able to relate to others as a result of his work to become a better public speaker.

TYPES OF GOALS

Four types of goals exist, says Meyers. Short-

'The greatest obstacle

to habit change is habit itself.

Attitude is habit of thought.'

range or immediate goals are those that last a day, week, month, six months — a short period of time. He advises not to dwell only on long-range goals, but bring the goals on in by establishing short-range goals that build up and help you accomplish the long-range goals.

To lose 45 pounds sounds like a big thing, but to set smaller goals of losing five pounds by a certain time makes losing 45 pounds easier to accomplish. Little success victories that come from accomplishing short-range goals will internalize within you and can automatically motivate you to strive further.

Long range goals or ultimate goals: These can last five or 10 years, whatever time period it takes to accomplish them. It may even last a lifetime.

Tangible goals are material things you want. They may be a necessity like income or saving for a car.

Intangible goals are used to change personal characteristics. Examples include learning a new language, quitting smoking or developing skills.

THE FIVE-POINT PLAN

By following the five-point plan of goal setting daily, you can achieve your goals. Ask yourself these questions:

- Can I crystalize my thinking on this goal?
- Do I have a plan and deadline for its attainment?
- Do I have a burning desire within me to achieve this?

- Do I have a genuine confidence in myself and my ability that comes from know how?
- Do I have an iron-will determination to get it done despite whatever price has to be paid to get it done, obstacles, circumstances, criticism or situation?

Take control of yourself. Think thoughts that are parallel to what it takes to get where you want to go. Is it worth it to you? If you said yes, then according to Meyers you have what it takes to accomplish your goals no matter what happens.

Five points must be considered when setting goals.

- The goal must be your personal goal, not someone else's goal you have adopted.
- The goal must be stated positively, not negatively.
- The goal must be written and specific.
- The goal must be realistic, compatible and obtainable. It is something you know a person could achieve.
- The goal must include basic personality characteristics. "The greatest obstacle to habit change is habit itself. Attitude is habit of thought," Meyers says.

Write each of your top priority goals on a piece of paper. To crystalize the goal, write it specifically saying exactly what is wanted, in the way it is to be accomplished, and by what time. The biggest hangup is judging whether you have the capacity or capability to accomplish the goal. Don't judge the goal in terms of your capabilities. You can accomplish it if you are determined.

Next, make your plan of action. How are you going to accomplish the goal? You may need to make short-range goals to reach the long-range goal. Write down a specific realistic deadline for each goal's attainment.

Include all the obstacles you can think of that will hinder the achievement of the goal. Next, list several ways of getting around each obstacle so you can achieve your goal. Since the obstacles are planned for, you can overcome them easier and get on with accomplishing the goal.

List the benefits you will receive by achieving the goal. The benefits are the most important things. They are the rewards for your efforts.

Reinforce your target by keeping it visible: a reminder taped to the bathroom mirror or refrigerator might be enough. If your goal is to write a letter a day, put the pen and paper on the kitchen table each night before you go to bed. It's ready for you the next morning.

Motivation comes from knowing and seeing the results and benefits even before you have achieved the goal. People with goals are motivated not by doing something new, but by seeing results.

Now that your track for goal achievement is made, be a friend to yourself and get started. As Meyers says, "Opportunities never come to those who wait...They are captured by those who dare to attack."

Children need discipline, approval for healthy development

Discipline is the flip side of the coin of parental caring, and children need both discipline and approval for healthy development.

Parents must learn when to say "no," according to Dr. T. Berry Brazelton, one of the nation's best known baby doctors, in Redbook. And babies need the information parental discipline gives them.

"I am convinced firm discipline is critical to a child's optimal development, because it gives her a clear sense of who she is and what her limits are," says

Brazelton, who is associate professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School and chief of the Child Development Unit at the Boston Children's Hospital Medical Center.

Setting proper limits a child can understand is as important as encouraging the child's inquisitiveness.

"Your child will understand that your approval and your discipline are two sides of the very same coin, the coin of caring," he says.

In their first few months, babies don't need much discipline. "Their behavior is tied to their needs," he says, "so if the baby cries, there's usually a logical reason, such as hunger or a wet diaper."

But as the child becomes capable of independent behavior, she also can deliberately provoke her parents — perhaps by looking back over her shoulder for their reaction as she crawls at top speed toward a hot stove.

"It's up to you to set the limits — and believe me, she wants you to,"

Brazelton says. Brazelton knows a simple "no!" doesn't always do the job.

"Sometimes your reprimand will have to be accompanied by a reinforcing punishment," he advises. "Removing the child from danger, isolating her, even lightly spanking her hand or bottom can be necessary and, at times, critically important."

"Should parents ever go further? I can only answer that physical punishment should always be a last resort and should never be cruel."

Discipline also can be counter-productive, he warns.

"When a child is very young, your discipline should be saved for important issues, usually those involving health or safety. Otherwise the excitement of teasing you into a 'no!' might motivate your child to spend the entire day provoking you."

If a cycle of nonstop teasing develops, it is time to evaluate your discipline.

"Are you being too rigid?" Brazelton asks. "Expecting too much?" If your baby continues to tease, even though you are neither too demanding nor inconsistent, then you may be coming across as unsure of yourself.

"If you think your child is too young to be disciplined," he says, "or you aren't sure the behavior in question is truly objectionable, you'll inevitably convey your uncertainty to the baby, and the cycle of teasing will repeat itself again and again."

Dr. Donohue

Russian splits not for everybody

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a female, 21, and 5 feet, 8 inches, and 145 pounds. I'm athletic, run two miles almost every day, lift weights about seven hours a week, and do karate. For the past half year I've been stretching my legs for almost a half an hour a day. For the past month it's been daily. I stretch hamstrings and inner thigh muscles to the threshold of pain and hold it there for a long time. Nevertheless, my legs remain unflexible and I'm a long way from doing the Russian splits. The tightness is inhibiting my karate. I don't think the lack of progress is muscle related. Does rubber-band flexibility take years to develop or what? — L.C.T.

It does take a long time to achieve ballet dancer flexibility, and for some of us that degree of flexibility is just not ever in the cards. We're born with tighter ligaments than others. For this reason exercise programs cannot be made universal.

Having said this, I want to make clear that we all can increase flexibility to some degree. But you don't want to make stretching actually painful. It should be relaxing; that is what it's for, in fact.

A stretch position should be assumed slowly and gently and held for from 30 to 60 seconds. If you stretch to the point of pain you invoke a protective reflex in the muscles, one that makes them tighten. They resist the stretch.

What can you do? There is another method for increasing the stretch potential. When in your maximum stretch position, consciously contract the muscles. Then relax them and see if you cannot then stretch a bit farther without pain. Again, let me caution not to do the initial stretch to the point of pain when trying this.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Maybe you're getting tired of us women asking you about menstruation and exercise, but it does seem important. I am one of the females who stop menstruating. But I'm fine now. Just out of curiosity I wonder if anything happened to my bones when I wasn't menstruating (during my exercise time). I mean did my bones get thinner, as they do in women who have stopped menstruating altogether at menopause? — L.T.

Your question is not entirely settled in the minds of the experts. But there is some disturbing evidence that osteoporosis (bone thinning) may occur in young women who stop having normal periods. Absence of periods implies absence of ovulation and that in turn implies absence of hormone production. A woman does need normal female hormone production to maintain bone mass. Thus goes the thinking.

Of course, this situation doesn't continue when the monthly menstrual cycles are resumed. This is just another reason why the women athlete should not accept the cessation of monthly periods without asking her doctor about the matter.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have hiatal hernia. My doctor says I should do sit-ups. Will that hurt my stomach? I am 65 and am averaging about 70 sit-ups a day. — A.M.

You can settle this for yourself. Do your sit-ups give you heartburn? If they do, you shouldn't be doing them.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia, Heartburn and Acid Reflux." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mother's March donates books to Library

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor
The spirit of Christmas remains as ANNIE MATT ANGEL presented four books about birth defects to the Howard County Library. The books are written on a level where children can understand and be made aware of birth defects. Mrs. Angel is the honorary chairman of the Mother's March for the March of Dimes. Howard County Library's children's librarian DONNA JACKSON accepted the donation.

Speaking of the March of Dimes, the annual Mother's March will be Jan. 29.

Several went out-of-town this Christmas. Christmas travelers include: VI AND STAN BALLOU, who spent the holiday in Houston with son WESLEY and his family; SHIRLEY AND SONNY SHROYER went to Hawaii for Christmas; and the LEE HENRYs were in Ralls.

NATHAN POSS and DEL POSS were in town last week. Nathan is now living in Pompano Beach, Fla. and working as a sales representative with Fina. Del is living in Austin. Both were in town to spend Christmas with their parents, DELNOR AND MARTHA POSS. Nathan formerly was the sports editor of the Big Spring Herald.

MICHAEL AND PATTI HUTTE returned home to visit with their family. Mike was transferred to a new position at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Kerrville a few months ago. Patti formerly worked at Howard College when they were in Big Spring.

Happy Birthday greeting go out to SHIRLEY SHROYER, GAYLE CAVNAR, ADALINE MADISON, TWILA LOMAX and MICHAEL DUNNE. I also want to welcome CHARLIE ALCORN to Big Spring. He is the new sports writer at the Herald, and he started Thursday. Until next week...

Wedding

Boeker-Spence

The First United Methodist Church in Big Spring was the setting for the Dec. 23 wedding of Mary Elizabeth Boeker and Paul Eugene Spence. The Rev. Jack Clinkscales, pastor of Forsan Baptist Church, and the Rev. Lee Butler, retired chaplain of Big Spring State Hospital, officiated at the 3 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Oscar T. Boeker, Forsan, and the late Oscar T. Boeker. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Spence, 3703 Dixon.

The couple was wed before an altar flanked by two 15-branch candelabrum embellished with wreaths of Christmas greenery centered with red and white bows. Two spiral 9-branch candelabra entwined with Christmas greenery and red and white bows flanked the wedding party. Two baskets of fresh red carnations, white gladiolus and Christmas greenery centered with large red poinsettias were placed on either side of the altar. Many red poinsettia plants completed the altar setting.

Music was provided by Charles Parham of Abilene, organist, Carol Fly of Lubbock, vocalist, Diana Sanchez of Lubbock, violinist, and Lewis Boeker, brother of the bride and coronetist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jackie Williams of Evant. She wore a formal gown of white organza lined with white satin and fashioned in an empire design. The bodice was adorned with lace motifs and featured a Queen Anne neckline and Bishop sleeves that gathered to fitted lace cuffs. An A-line skirt fell from the waistline into a double-ruffled flounce of organza at the hemline, which extended into a chapel-length train. The bride's headpiece was a crown covered with lace and tulle. The three-tiered veil, edged with scalloped lace, fell to a chapel-length train. Her gown and veil were borrowed. She also wore her grandmother's pearls and the traditional blue garter. The couple wore six pence in their shoes, the same six pences worn by the bride's parents on their wedding day.

Mrs. Craig Dunnam served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Craig Bailey, Jamie Sink of Lubbock, and Tracy Armstead of Dallas. The candles were lit by Miss Armstead and Miss Sink. Karla Grace registered guests.

David Spence of Fort Worth served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Craig Bailey, Lewis Boeker of Forsan, brother of the bride, and Craig Dunnam.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception at Garrett Hall. The bride's table was covered with a lace and linen cut-work cloth used by her parents at their wedding reception 26 years ago. The table was centered with an arrangement of flowers from the altar setting. The table featured a white four-tiered wedding cake topped with a red and white floral arrangement.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a red linen cloth and centered with a red and white poinsettia candle arrangement. A German chocolate cake in a horseshoe shape was served.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School, Howard College and Texas Tech University in Lubbock. She is a computer teacher in the elementary and junior high schools

MRS. PAULE E. SPENCE
...formerly Mary Elizabeth Boeker

at Sands Independent School District.

The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College and Texas Tech University. He is employed by Bailey Electric Company.

The couple is on a skiing honeymoon at Crested Butte, Colo. They will live in Big Spring.

Homemakers are burglar's favorite target, says thief

Take a thief's word for it, elderly homemakers are favorite targets for burglars because they tend to keep their money and other valuables at home. That's what "Robert", a New Jersey burglar and con man said in Family Circle. Robert said that burglars look for "modest but well-maintained homes in middle-class neighborhoods with nice lace curtains on the windows and no toys in the lawn...good indication that an older person lives there."

Robert advises "old people to throw some toys in the yard. That way even if burglars know they live there, they might think they live with their grown kids and grandchildren and that the kids made sure their money was in the bank."

BLOW DRYING FOR MEN

Men: Blow drying your hair will give it more body, more shape and more managability. If your hair is longer than two inches, you will get better results if you dry it in two stages. The first stage gets out most of the moisture. Run the dryer over your hair in a sweeping motion, leaving it barely damp. The second stage is for styling. Go over your head a section at a time, twirling the styling brush or holding the attachment around the hank of hair being dried. When all your hair has been dried, brush it straight back, then gently comb it into place. Your hair should then be soft, sleek and natural.

From all of us here at LA CONTESA, we would like to wish all of you a very happy, healthy and prosperous New Year. As in the past, you can rely upon us for high quality professional hair care. You will find us conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. Call us at 267-2187 for an appointment.

— HINT —
Use a round styling brush for blow-dry styling.

Electrocution deaths occur even when appliance is off

Many deaths by electric shock have occurred because a consumer didn't know that electric power was still running into an appliance even though the switch was turned off.

U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission chairman Nancy Harvey Steorts says consumers should always unplug small appliances — especially ones used in bathrooms, kitchens or anywhere else near water. For example, if a plugged-in but turned off hair dryer were to fall into a filled bathtub, the person would probably be electrocuted.

C.P.S.C. recommends:
• Never use any electrical appliance (shavers, hair dryers) while bathing.

• Keep all electrical appliances, including radios, away from tubs, sinks or shower stalls.

• If a plugged-in appliance does accidentally fall into the water, don't reach into the water for it. Unplug it immediately at the wall outlet. Never leave an electrical appliance within the reach of children in any room in the house.

Fashion can camouflage imperfect bodies

By HARPER'S BAZAAR
Nobility's perfect, but fashion camouflage can go a long way toward disguising the fact.
From wide hips to short neck, the right clothes can hide a multitude of flaws, according to Harper's Bazaar.
What fashion can't hide, it can distract attention from.
Fashions this year are particularly suited to cover figure faults — below-the-hip and oversized sweaters and big man-style shirts are great to hide inside of. Long slim skirts worn with matching hose and shoes are another way to minimize problems.

Wide hips. The solution to wide hips is easy fit in pants and skirts. But beware pants that are too baggy or skirts that are too full at the top.
Tummy trouble: Keep the fit as far from tight as possible. Look for pants with soft, deep pleats or a substantial waistband gathered with elastic. Stitched down pleats are out, but below-the-hip jackets and oversized chemises with low-slung belts are in.
Upper-arm jiggle: Many women have trouble baring arms. Strapless and sleeveless styles are out for women with arm trouble. Skinny knit sleeves can be a mistake. This season's oversize shirts are perfect camouflage.

Big bottom: Minimize what's below the waist by maximizing what's above. That means shoulder pads for proportion, bright colors above the waist for distraction. Shoulder- and neck-baring styles provide balance. Pants should be roomy around the fanny and tapered below. Skirts should fit smoothly and easily.
Necks: The long and the short of it can be a pain in the neck. For those who feel their necks are too long, turtle-necks, high-necked lace blouses and neck-wrapping scarves. For short necks, wear bare sexy necklines at night and small-collared, round-neck sweaters by day. Avoid frills around the face.

Legs: Pants solve leg problems, whether the legs are too skinny or too heavy, badly shaped or short or pouched around the thighs with saddlebags. Pants with deep pleats are best. Wide waistbands elongate short legs. The new jodphurs hide saddlebags. Long skirts with matching tights are another idea.
Heavy all over: Long over long is the best fashion tactic — below the hip jackets, sweaters and overblouses over simply mid-calf or longer skirts. Avoid deep gathers. Dresses should blouse above the waist to balance hips. One-color dressing creates a tall, trim illusion. Skip plaids and horizontals.

Bad posture: Hide stooped shoulders and rounded back by wearing clothes that stand off the collarbone. Avoid a silhouette that clings to the body.
Sagging bosom: The best cure is a good bra. Man-style shirts and tailored jackets in crisp fabrics are flattering. Disguise the problem in oversize sweaters and dresses, or distract from it with a neon skirt or floral pumps.

Proportion is the key to dressing well. Once you learn which proportion is right for you, you are on your way to learning the art of clothing camouflage.

Pearls popular in men's jewelry

Even in the most conservative of times, men never completely disdained the use of pearls in their jewelry, according to the Cultured Pearl Association, which reports that demand for cultured pearls in men's jewelry is rapidly increasing.

Sleeping bag can help restless sleeper

If your children are restless sleepers who kick off their covers and wake up chilled, take a tip from Family Circle.
Using sleeping bags instead of blankets might solve the problem. Kids can just crawl into their bags, get zipped in and stay warm and snug, no matter how much they toss and turn.

Dear Abby

Free booklet can help widow

DEAR ABBY: I have so many problems I don't know where to begin. After 42 years of an almost perfect marriage (we had our problems, but what married couple hasn't?), I suddenly found myself widowed. Thank God he went fast and didn't have to suffer like some of our friends. Our two children live far away and they couldn't have been more supportive, but Abby, the bottom line is this: I am alone, and I don't want to be a burden on my family or friends. I have decisions to make about my house, my belongings, my finances, my social life, and whether I should go back to college or get a part-time job. (I was an executive secretary, and a good one, for nine years.) I still cry when I'm alone, and the thought of dating again frightens me, although I still feel "young." I'm healthy, gregarious and not unattractive. (Smile.) Where do I start?

DEAR WIDOWED: You pushed the right button. The American Association of Retired Persons offers a wonderfully helpful booklet for widows and widowers entitled "On Being Alone." It deals with all kinds of subjects — how to get over grief, how to handle financial problems, loneliness, legal affairs, how to start over socially and meet people, how to stay healthy, even how to prepare a nutritious meal for one.

Single copies of this valuable booklet are available free by sending requests to: WPS-AVB, AARP Box 199, Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

The postage will be paid. A letter or postcard with your request is all that is needed, with your name and address clearly printed.

And please allow 30 days for delivery, because after this hit print, if they don't get 100,000 requests, my name isn't Abigail Van Buren.

DEAR ABBY: Five months ago I gave birth to a beautiful little girl. My husband and I couldn't be happier.

Unfortunately, she has a rather conspicuous strawberry birthmark on her forehead. The doctor said it will gradually fade and should disappear entirely by the time she is 3 years old. Although I'd rather she didn't have it, the birthmark doesn't bother me; I'm just thankful she's healthy.

What does bother me is that every time I take her out, at least three strangers ask me what is "wrong" with her. It's obviously a birthmark, and I think it's very rude of people to ask.

I came up with what I think is a pretty good answer:

Stranger: "What's wrong with your baby?"
Me: "Nothing. What's wrong with you?"

Please let me know if you think this is all right, or do you have a better answer?

NEW MOM

DEAR MOM: Those who would ask a stranger, "What's wrong with your baby?" are curious and insensitive and don't realize they're being rude. Simply say, "It's a birthmark, and the doctor says it will disappear by the time she's 3."

Ideal chair has relaxing comfort

NEW YORK (AP) — For relaxing comfort, the ideal chair should have a back that is slightly convex, advise furniture experts at Home magazine. It should yield, but not give way, and the front of the seat should not press against the back of the seated person's legs. Covering material should be soft, but not slippery, material that "breathes."

Engagements

FEBRUARY RITE — Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Ham, Delhart, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Catherine of Lubbock, to Ray Don Box of Tahoka. Box is the son of Ruth Ann Box, 2802 Ann, and the late Don E. Box. The couple will wed at the Broadway Church of Christ Chapel in Lubbock, Feb. 9.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Z.B. Rinehart, 2717 Central, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Melissa Hannah, to Gary Ray Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.O. Cain of Snyder. The couple will wed at First Baptist Church in Snyder, Feb. 16. The Rev. Ken Branam, pastor, will officiate.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, birth, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 719 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not live in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If any grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Starclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Starclub information.
Information needed for Starclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.
