OPEC OKs pact

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries wrapped up a fragile package of measures to help the cartel regain control of sagging oil prices during the weekend, but two of its 13 members immediately registered dissent.

Algerian oil minister Belkacem Nabi told a press conference Sunday that his country will not apply the new provisional price structure which the conference agreed to put into effect pending review next month.

Nigeria, which also refused to join the consensus on the changed differentials system, had rejected the new adjustments in advance as "too cosmetic."

Oil minister Tam David-West told reporters after the end of the conference late Saturday that Nigeria, which broke ranks already last October with a unilateral price cut, would disregard the cartel's new price line if non-members Norway and Britain again lower rates for their North Sea oil.

Algeria also announced its withdrawal from a ministerial differentials committee that had been expanded to include it and Nigeria in an apparent attempt to pacify the two countries.

The provisional adjustment of the differentials fixes new discounts for the various qualities of oils in relation to OPEC's benchmark price of $29 a barrel for light Arabian Crude, which was reaffirmed by the conference.

But Kuwait's Sheik Ali Khalifa Al Sabah told reporters that support was gathering for a change in the benchmark price. He echoed comments by Indonesian oil minister Subroto, chairman of the meeting, who told a press conference late Saturday that OPEC "will continue to adjust prices to reflect market realities." Western analysts have said that in recent months, the cartel has widely ignored these realities by maintaining official prices well above the rates on the

Ice, snow threaten Big Spring

Compiled from staff and wire reports

Cold winds and sheets of rain whipped into the Big Spring-Permian Basin area late Sunday, sending thermometers plunging and bringing the threat of snow and ice on New Year's Eve.

High temperatures had been in the mid-60s with lows in the 40s, but the storm system that came out of Mexico sent residents scurrying for jackets and umbrellas. Area forecasts predict highs in the low 50s; lows tonight and tomorrow should be in the 20s, below the freezing mark.

The rain is expected to continue through tonight, and with the drop in temperatures, is expected to turn to snow and sleet that could coat the roads with a deadly sheet of ice on a traditionally hazardous driving holiday.

At 10 a.m. today, rain covered much of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico, from about 15 miles east of Lubbock to about 35 miles southeast of Midland-Odessa.

Much of the area remains under traveler's advisories, issued because of the possibility of flash-flooding in low-lying areas and the chance of heavy rainfall accumulations freezing into ice.

The U.S.-Big Spring Field Station reported .85 of an inch between Sunday and 10 a.m. today, while Larry Shaw of Knott reported an inch of rainfall at his farm.

Some roads already had extensive amounts of runoff in the gutters and low-lying intersections were filling up fast.

Elsewhere in the state, heavy rains drenched Texas' hill country early today, sending rivers out of their banks, closing highways and forcing the evacuation of some residents whose homes were

DPS readies for busy holiday

Compiled from staff and wire reports

Big Spring Police, the Howard Sheriff's office and the local Department of Public Safety will patrol roads likely to be slick from freezing rain tonight, but only the DPS will be out in full force, according to officers.

"If the weather turns bad and it freezes up, we'll probably have to bring someone else in because of the alcohol and the slick roads," Howard County sheriff's deputy George Quintero said today. "Otherwise, we won't have any more officers patrolling the county than usual."

The police department also will be watching the city streets for possible intoxicated drivers tonight, but is not planning any special programs for drivers, according to spokesmen.

Representatives from all three law enforcement agencies are urging persons who drink not to drive, and say they hope the stiffer driving-while-intoxicated laws and penalties will cut the number of DWI arrests and accidents substantially.

The condition of Big Spring streets — expected to become icy if the rain predicted to continue through tonight freezes — also could contribute to hazardous driving conditions, and law enforcement officials are asking drivers to be particularly careful.

Although no groups in Big Spring are sponsoring free rides home for drivers who have consumed too many drinks on this traditionally festive night, the city's two taxicab companies will remain open later than usual.

According to David Mitchem, owner of Big Spring Taxi and Mitchem Transportation, his company will be open until 1:30 or 2 a.m.

Troops patrol Piedras Negras after rioting leaves 1 dead, 80 injured

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (AP) — Army troops controlled this border city early today and patrolled in three other cities after violent political protests here that killed at least one person, injured about 80 and destroyed the municipal building.

Both the new mayor, Carlos Juaristi Septien of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), and the opposition candidate who claimed he was robbed of victory said they want calm restored to this city of 100,000, across the border from Eagle Pass, Texas.

Juaristi Septien, who begins work Tuesday, pledged Sunday that "the PRI will try not to provoke a confrontation" with the opposition National Action Party.

The new mayor was sworn in Saturday in a ceremony that sparked nightlong rioting. The municipal building and the jail complex were burned.

At least one death was confirmed in the violence, that of a taxi driver who died after inhaling tear gas fired on the demonstrators. Nearly 80 persons were injured, many of them by gunshot wounds.

A communique from the National Action Party (PAN), which also claimed victory in Ciudad Acuna, 56 miles to the north, and Monclova, 150 miles to the south, in Dec. 2 mayoral elections, said two people were killed, but the report could not be independently confirmed.

Fire Chief Juan Jose Briones said the burned-out municipal building appeared to be a total loss.

"We will run the administration from somewhere," Juaristi Septien said.

New PRI mayors were sworn in with no reported incidents Sunday in Ciudad Acuna, where National Action supporters had blocked the bridge to Del Rio, Texas, on Friday, and in Saltillo, where the small Authentic Party of the Mexican Revolution had protested the results.

Soldiers patrolled in both those cities and in Monclova, a city of 200,000 where a PRI mayoral candidate was to be sworn in today by state officials. The incumbent National Action mayor, Cesar Garcia Valdez, said he would swear in his party's candidate.

VIOLENCE AFTERMATH — Mexican Army troops surround the Piedras Negras city hall and jail as onlookers gather Sunday afternoon. The violence began during the swearing in of Carlos Juaristi Septien, the Institutional Revolutionary Party mayor.

Blind artist molds wood, stone into sculptures

ROYSE CITY (AP) — To Ray Williams, art and beauty are in the mind's eye as well as the eye of the beholder.

For 25 years, Williams has used his hands and a touch that comes from within to transform ordinary pieces of wood and stone into sculpture, even though he is legally blind.

"It's just feel," he said. "I get a picture in my mind, feel it and make it come out that way. I like to design and create. It gives me the ability to use my mind."

Williams was a draftsman for 10 years before gradually losing his sight to a degenerative disease.

In 1956, he was told he was legally blind after failing a driving test.

Shortly before the diagnosis, Williams said he could see only directly in front of him.

"I hated it," Williams said. "I didn't believe I had a problem. I was on the drawing board every day, pushing it. It shocked me, all right."

Williams says it took awhile to get used to the idea.

"You have to learn to accept it. It took me a long time. I kept finding myself saying, 'I can do it, I can do it.' One day you learn you can't do it."

Williams, who has to wear hearing aids, began sculpting at a state school for the blind in Austin shortly after being declared blind. His training as a draftsman helped his sculpting, he says.

"They asked me what I wanted to do, and I told them I wanted to do some carving," he said. "They said, 'Fine, here's a piece of rock. Make it into a shape. They were very surprised at what I did."

He carved two seals on a rock. It is a piece he still has.

He has sold only one piece of sculpture, a small head of a man.

Despite a number of offers, the rest of his 24 originals adorn his home — his wife staunchly refusing to part with them.

"I have a whole house full of originals," Mrs. Williams said. "That's not anything most people can boast of. I'm selfish. I don't want him to sell any of them."

Williams says he won't put a price on his works, even though potential buyers have asked.

"I don't think I could get the type of money I want for the time I put in."

Williams, who recently left Dallas for the small community outside Royse City, hasn't done much sculpting lately, but is working to improve his art.

"I think I've gotten better, and I've got some other designs I'd like to do," he said.

Arrested were Salvador Hernandez, 25, of Route 1 on suspicion of making alcoholic beverages available to minors; Carolyn Hale, 17, of W. Highway 80 Apartments on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages; and Barbara S. Rogers, 18, of W. Highway 80 Apartments on suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Ex-con faces charges

CHICAGO — A ex-convict faces a hearing Thursday on charges he threatened to blow up the White House, "because it was too dangerous to be on the streets," and he wanted to go back to prison, authorities said. Curtis Burnside, 28, of Gary, Ind., was ordered held without bond Sunday. He was arrested Saturday at a downtown bus station after police traced a phone call to the FBI, said Richard Ward of the U.S. Secret Service.

Drunk driver kills woman

NEW YORK — A New Jersey man who was dragged from his car and beaten faces charges of drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident in which a woman was killed, authorities say.

Juan Soto, 46, of Newark, N.J., was in stable condition at Harlem Hospital after being beaten Sunday by the crowd that included the boyfriend of Cynthia Atkins, 32, killed while crossing the street, said officer Tina Mohrmann.

Officer kills 1, himself

LEXINGTON PARK, Md. — An Army sergeant killed himself and a former girlfriend's husband after holding the man for eight hours in an incident that police said "probably stemmed from some type of love affair."

Willie Jackson, 29, stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, killed Nathan Craig, 25, who was on leave from West Germany and visiting the house where Vanessa Craig lived with relatives, said St. Mary's County Sheriff Wayne Pettit.

Two die in gas poisoning

HOBBS, N.M. — Poisonous hydrogen sulfide gas that killed two workers at a storage facility and injured five other people may have been released from "crud" in a tank where they were working or from a pipe, authorities say.

The gas, used in oil exploration and production, was released Sunday when Danny W. Burgi, 32, went into a waste pit to unclog a pipe, said Bob Gallagher, Hobbs director of public safety. Bobby Simpkins, 23, was also felled by the gas after rushing to Burgi's aid, Gallagher said.

WARM WELCOME — The Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, gets a hug from Mrs. Rajendra Kumari Bajpayee of the Congress Party, as he arrived at the Parliament building in Delhi today.

India's dynasty

Rajiv Gandhi succeeds mother as prime minister

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Rajiv Gandhi was sworn in as prime minister today after achieving the biggest election landslide in India's history, and pledged to lead a fight against poverty and corruption.

The 40-year-old former airline pilot was sworn in by President Zail Singh in the chandelier-lit hall of the Presidential Palace.

Prior to the ceremony, Delhi, Gandhi told Parliament members of his victorious Congress Party that he considered poverty the nation's No. 1 problem. He vowed to promote "clean and honest" government and to seek national unity in the face of religious and ethnic strife.

Gandhi also was preparing to appoint his Council of Ministers, or Cabinet. Political observers predicted he would drop many ministers who advised his assassinated mother Indira Gandhi and to inject considerable new talent, including woman and young professionals, in a new Cabinet of 30 to 35 members.

Gandhi was unanimously elected earlier in the day as leader of the Congress Party, a formality which automatically made him the prime minister because of the party's majority in the lower house of Parliament. The outgoing Parliament was dissolved, clearing the way for immediate formation of a new chamber.

The three-day national election last week gave the Congress Party a record number of seats, 398, in the 544-seat lower house — more than a three-fourths majority, with two races not decided as of today. The party previously held a two-thirds majority.

Only 508 of the lower house seats were being filled in the election, including one in which the Congress candidate ran unopposed. Elections were postponed in politically troubled Punjab and Assam states, with a total of 27 seats, and in other constituencies because of the Bhopal gas leak, bad weather and the deaths of candidates.

The Congress Party, which has governed India for all but three years since independence in 1947, swept the vote in 18 of India's 22 states, except for Kashmir, West Bengal, southern Andhra Pradesh and the remote northeastern state of Tripura — all opposition-run.

Guerrillas kill 11 men

AYACUCHO, Peru — Police say Maoist guerrillas of the Shining Path movement killed 11 members of government-organized peasant patrols in the Andes in southeast Peru during weekend ambushes.

A woman identified as Victoria Gonzalez was shot and killed by rebels Sunday and two other villagers were wounded in an attack near the hamlet of Trigo Pampa, 15 miles west of Ayacucho, police said.

U.S. posts attacked

DUESSELDORF, West Germany — Two attacks against U.S. military installations in West Germany caused damage but no injuries, police said.

There were no immediate claims of responsibility for Sunday's attacks in which a U.S. Army liaison office caught fire at a British Army of the Rhine compound in northern Duesseldorf and a military communications tower was damaged by an explosion near Mannheim.

In a third weekend incident, police dismantled an explosive device found at a U.S. Air Force facility Saturday.

China stages fashion gala

PEKING — More than 100 fashion models staged what the government called China's largest fashion show Sunday, a six-hour spectacle of Western styles.

The official news agency Xinhua said the show, held before a selected Chinese audience at a Peking theater, was organized by the Textile Industry Ministry.

Xinhua said models ranging from a boy of six to a duo of elderly textile engineers "walked and danced to the rhythm of disco and other types of Western and Chinese light music."

Officer withdraws threat

LA PAZ, Bolivia — The general who refused to obey a presidential order to surrender his command of the army has backed down from his threat to mobilize troops against the government, the man who replaced him says.

The general, Jose Olvís Arias, on Saturday declared himself in rebellion against President Hernán Siles Zuazo's order that he yield the position he assumed last October.

Vietnamese army holds firm

Troops, guerrillas enter seventh day of fighting

NONG SAMET, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese occupation troops and Cambodian guerrillas fought at close range in the border resistance camp of Rithisen today, the seventh straight day of combat, Thai military sources said.

Vietnamese troops were holding firm inside Rithisen and fighting also was reported around at least five other guerrilla bases along the Thai-Cambodian border, Thai and guerrilla sources said.

The Thai officials, who were monitoring developments from the Thai-Cambodian border, said fighting resumed this morning after bloody weekend clashes that pitted the artillery-backed Vietnamese against anti-communist guerrillas who are trying to retake their largest camp.

Rithisen guerrilla commander Lia Ne told reporters in Nong Samet, a Thai border village near the scene of the battle, that the Vietnamese still controlled the center of the sprawling encampment as well as other sectors.

The fighting tapered off later in the day as the Khmer People's National Liberation Front rotated its exhausted forces after a bloody day Sunday. The anti-communist Liberation Front has found it difficult to advance under accurate fire from Vietnamese long-range howitzers.

Casualties in today's fighting were not immediately known, but the International Red Cross said more than 100 wounded guerrillas were carried into Thailand from the battlefield Sunday.

Rithisen was overrun by a tank-supported Vietnamese force on Christmas Day and fighting has raged in and around the camp since. The camp's 62,000 civilian inhabitants fled last week.

Liberation Front officers said three guerrillas were killed and nine wounded Rithisen today.

Thai military officers, who asked not to be identified, said they also had reports of fighting in the districts of Khao Din, Koke Sabang, Klong Haat and Ban Kruat, all controlled by communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas, as well as at Obok, which is held by the Khmer People's National Liberation Front.

The Liberation Front, which controlled Rithisen before the Vietnamese assault, is allied with the Khmer Rouge and with a non-communist resistance organization loyal to former Cambodian head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The guerrilla war in Cambodia began in 1979 soon after Soviet-allied Vietnam invaded its neighbor and toppled the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge regime, setting up a pro-Hanoi government led by President Heng Samrin.

Reporters today were able to enter the Liberation Front headquarters camp near the Thai border. Ampil, which defenders fear will be the target of the next Vietnamese attack. Ampil was quiet today, with most of about 5,000 guerrilla defenders dug in along its perimeter.

About 100 families, mostly related to the soldiers, were still in the camp, cooking meals to be sent to the front lines. A few guerrillas, armed with AK-47 assault rifles, were also seen.

Ampil's civilian population, fearing a Hanoi assault, evacuated the camp several days ago, fleeing to the eastern side of a Thai-dug anti-tank ditch inside Thailand. Some returned to Ampil today to pick up possessions left behind and even dismantle their homes and haul construction material with them to Thailand.

The Vietnamese began this year's dry season push by overrunning the Liberation Front camp at Nong Chan in mid-November.

Earthquake rocks India, killing 20

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A major earthquake rocked northeastern India today, killing at least 20 people, injuring more than 100 others as hundreds of mud thatched huts collapsed and bridges and highways were damaged, official reports said.

Reports from the area said the quake knocked down electric poles, snapped communication lines and razed thatched huts.

The earthquake, measuring 6.0 on the Richter scale, shook Cachar district in remote Assam state early today, said P.K. Das, director general of the National Meteorological Department. Its epicenter was placed at near the border between India and Bangladesh.

The exact number of injured people who were taken to a hospital was not immediately available, the United News of India news agency reported.

Senior police and state officials rushed to the area to assess the damage.

Cacher is a densely populated area 310 miles northeast of Calcutta.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph. A quake of magnitude 6.0 can cause severe damage in populated areas.

Party-goers face danger tonight

The weather forecast could hardly be worse for New Year's eve night. Party-goers face the prospects of leaving the revelry to face icy roads. The inherent danger of ice on roadways is deadly in combination with the traditional imbibing at New Year's parties.

Precautions against excessive drinking combined with late-night driving take on a sharper focus today. Tonight's weather promises to tax the best drivers under optimal personal conditions.

Tonight is not the night to whoop it up and then drive merrily home. Tonight is a night for caution, for considering the advantages of sleeping over at a friend's house, for doubling up with a non-drinking or temperate driver, for hiring a ride home. Or, if need be, for staying home.

Mainly, it is a night not to let bull-headedness stand in the way of safety. If party-goers are to err tonight, let it be on the side of caution.

Cap Weinberger takes the plunge

WASHINGTON — After the 1936 landslide, the Roosevelt administration rushed headlong into the disastrous plan to pack the Supreme Court. After the 1964 landslide, Lyndon Johnson went over the cliff in Vietnam. After the 1972 landslide, Nixon plunged beyond the point of no return in Watergate.

Now the landslide hubris of 1984 emerges. With backing from the president, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger is grossly overplaying the claims of his defense program. In the process, he has alienated the rest of the Cabinet, lost support in Congress and entered a battle with the press that he is bound to lose.

The puffing up of Weinberger first made itself apparent in the Cabinet deliberations on the budget. At a meeting on Dec. 7, individual Cabinet members were swept into a collegial spirit of accepting cuts proposed by Budget Director David Stockman for the sake of President Reagan and the rest of the team.

For example, Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole protested against a reduction in the amount of money available to arrange the sale of Conrail to private industry. The president muttered that it should have been done a long time ago. Mrs. Dole shut up, as did all the other cabinet members with important grievances.

Weinberger, at the time, was off on one of his countless trips abroad. He indicated that in budgetary affairs the Pentagon budget should enjoy a privilege denied to all other departments. "Defense spending," he said, wrapping himself in a sacrosanct mantle, "is the only part of the United States budget that has to be determined by factors external to the United States."

On his return, the secretary of defense negotiated with the president a Pentagon budget virtually free of the cuts suggested by Stockman. Where Stockman had called for reductions of $8 billion in fiscal '86, $20 billion in fiscal '87 and $30 billion in 1988, Reagan required that Weinberger take only the 1986 cut.

Instead of letting the White House announce the outcome while standing modestly in the background, Weinberger himself came front and center at a press conference to give the details. He said the outcome was "extremely satisfactory," and that he had successfully resisted proposals for "savagely" cutting military spending. One reporter there wrote that Weinberger "appeared in high spirits" and seemed to "gloat." A Pentagon official said, "Cap is a hero in the building."

Not in the Congress, though. Traditionally, credit for maintaining high defense spending goes to leading members of the armed service committees. The secretary of defense effaces himself and lets the praise flow to doctory legislators. That, after all, is how Carl Vinson and George Mahon in the House and Richard Russell and Henry Jackson and John Tower in the Senate made their names.

With Weinberger hogging the credit, the Congress immediately turned sour. Comments by many leading Republicans, including Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, all indicated the Congress would make heavy cuts in defense. Sen. John Chafee, a member of the Republican leadership, said, "It's not a credible performance." Sam Nunn, the Georgia Democrat, called it "playing games."

Many in the press and television were at least prepared to assign Weinberger the credit the media always give to success. But then there arose a security issue connected with the flight of the next space shuttle, which is due for launching on Jan. 23. The shuttle is to have a military intelligence satellite, and the Defense Department has been trying to keep everything about the mission classified.

Since the space program symbolizes ballyhoo and has been the focus of unrestrained publicity since its earliest days, suddenly applying a classification is intrinsically hard. Especially since officials and technical publications had already passed on the word.

The gossip was that all three networks and the wire services and various papers were working up stories. With so many news institutions on the trail, killing the stories was practically impossible. Still, Weinberger tried, in calls to ABC, NBC, CBS and the Associated Press.

Then, on Wednesday, the Washington Post, which had never been approached by Weinberger, published a heavily censored account of the shuttle flight. Weinberger let fly. He called the Post story "the height of journalistic irresponsibility." He said that it might have given "aid and comfort to the enemy."

That rash outburst, that indiscriminating invocation of national security, has become the Weinberger trademark. He acts and speaks as though he were the embodiment of national interest. Some of the stimulus comes, no doubt, from the losing battle he is waging against Secretary of State George Shultz. Still, about 90 percent of what he says is plain hot air. It is bound to be blown back at him by the press and television in ways that will do to the Reagan administration far more damage than any disclosure of supposed secrets in the military shuttle.

Failing firm was CIA cover

WASHINGTON — Despite the CIA's attempts to wriggle out of the blame, I am now convinced that the spy agency was in fact responsible for a Honolulu-based investment firm that cost investors $11 million when it collapsed last year.

CIA spokesmen insist that the agency's involvement in the defunct firm of Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham & Wong was only "slight" and "low-level."

Pickle wash! From the evidence I've gathered over months of investigation, the CIA either was up to its cloak-and-dagger in the scandal or is guilty of chronic, incredible stupidity.

My associates Dale Van Atta and Indy Badhwar have had access to the secret CIA personnel file of Ronald Ray Rewald, the CIA contract employee who headed BBRD&W. He claims the agency ran the operation that defrauded investors.

The file makes clear that three successive CIA station chiefs in Honolulu worked closely with Rewald, even though they knew that the company he previously headed had been forced into involuntary bankruptcy, that he himself had declared bankruptcy — and that, when he arrived in Hawaii in 1979, he was on probation from a Wisconsin conviction for petty theft and non-registration of a franchise. Despite his dubious financial background (or maybe because of it), Rewald's first CIA boss in Honolulu, Eugene Welsch, used a Rewald firm as a cover for CIA agents. According to a Rewald affidavit, Welsch even helped set up BBRD&W, though three of the firm's names were spurious, taken from distinguished Hawaiian colonial families. Sunlin Wong is an actual Rewald partner.

The government has charged Rewald with perjury for claiming Welsch was involved in setting up the firm, but at the very least Welsch was unbelievably stupid not to have questioned the use of Bishop, Baldwin and Dillingham in the firm's name.

Welsch's successor as CIA station chief, John (Jack) Kindschi, not only gave Rewald and the firm a wide variety of CIA assignments but went to work for BBRD&W when he retired from the CIA in 1980. According to Rewald's affidavit, he also invested $185,000 in the company, and his mother put in $112,000.

Further evidence of Kindschi's lack of discretion is that as station chief he ordered Rewald's son, James (also a CIA contract agent), to build a laser gun. Rewald explains in a confidential interview with his lawyer.

"(My son) was interested in building a laser gun. Not a toy, a laser gun. And Jack Kindschi got so enthused because he evidently had seen a lot of requirements on laser weapons and he went to the agency and got all sorts of information on what was happening in laser weapons and gave it all to my son and told him to build one."

Farming, oil are targets of tax reform

By WILLIAM GARLAND
WASHINGTON — President Reagan may bite the hand of two large economic sectors in Texas that helped feed him votes and money for a November statewide landslide: the oil and gas and farming industries.

The administration is threatening to strip oil and gas operations of long-beloved tax breaks that industry officials say are necessary for the survival especially of smaller independent companies.

And struggling farmers might be denied up to half the federal price supports also considered essential for survival of many farms in the tight agricultural economy.

Reagan has not yet given his formal endorsement to doing away with tax breaks or farm price supports, but he has acknowledged the need for such budget cutbacks and the general reforms as outlined in Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan's "tax simplification" plan.

One of the effects has been the gloating of some liberals and Democrats.

A liberal-tending magazine was so pleased this month by the Treasury Department's plan that it headlined an article on the proposal, "Taxation Sensation."

"Something truly wonderful happened in Washington on November 27 (when the plan was released)," the article in The New

Republic began. To the Texas oil and gas industry, Regan's modified flat-tax plan was anything but sensational. The industry might have headlined its reaction, "Tax Madness."

By doing away with two major tax deductions for drilling oil and gas wells, the industry said already-reluctant investors (who underwrite much of the drilling) would become scarce to non-existent. The tax plan admitted almost as much and said the investment money could be better spent in other industries.

"Regan doesn't understand it (the effect of the tax plan) and Reagan hasn't seen it," said a spokesman for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, briefing reporters on the industry's reaction and trying to explain away the administration's intent.

"What else is more productive (than the petroleum industry)?" asked IPAA Executive Vice President Lloyd Unsell.

Farmers also had jumped eagerly onto the steamrolling Reagan bandwagon that tore through Texas' conservative landscape in November, loading up votes and depositing Republicans in widespread local, state and national offices.

Like oil and gas operators, farmers in many parts of the state have survived a downturn in

Personal idea of Creator

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I respect your right to hold your convictions, but I don't agree with your ideas about God. I have my own ideas about God that I think are right and I have some beliefs about how we ought to live, and that is good enough for me. — H.F.

DEAR H.F.: Yes, you are free to hold your own beliefs — but how do you know they are right? How do you know the ideas of God and life that you have are true and are going to be a sound foundation for your life?

You see, we all agree that certain things are true about our world. For example, if we let go of a rock we are holding, it will always fall to the ground. But we fail to realize that just as there is truth in the physical world, there also is truth — and falsehood — about spiritual matters. Some people believe that there are many, many gods in the universe, none of which are in complete control of things. Other people (including Christians) are convinced there is only one God, and that He is all-powerful. Now both of those ideas can't be right at the same time — one of them must be false. As a Christian I am convinced the evidence is clear that "The Lord our God, the Lord is one" (Deuteronomy 6:4).

How can you not only know what God is like, but come to know Him personally? The Bible says God has made it easy for us to know Him, because He has come down on this planet in the person of His only Son, Jesus Christ. Do you want to know the truth? Look at Christ, who declared "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6). He backed up that claim by rising from the dead.

Don't make up your own ideas about God — that would be making God into any image your imagination could devise, and that would be idolatry. But give your life to Christ and then you will know God personally.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Dec. 31, the 366th and final day of 1984.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 31, 1946, President Harry S. Truman officially proclaimed the end of World War II.

On this date: In 1775, the British repulsed an attack by Continental Army Gens. Richard Montgomery and Benedict Arnold at Quebec. Montgomery was killed.

In 1880, military leader and statesman George C. Marshall was born in Uniontown, Pa.

In 1857, Britain's Queen Victoria decided to make Ottawa the capital of Canada.

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed an act admitting West Virginia to the Union.

In 1879, inventor Thomas Edison first publicly demonstrated his electric incandescent light in Menlo Park, N.J.

the agricultural economy and are not eager to see a large share of financial underpinning kicked away.

Texas farmers last year received about $1.4 billion for crop price supports and farm loans. A significant part of the Reagan Administration's budget cuts, as recommended by Office of Management and Budget Director David Stockman, would be a reduction of as much as half of those direct government payments nationally.

Carl Schwensen, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers in Washington, said the farm budget cuts would be "devastating" to farmers.

Both the budget cuts and the tax plan are bound to meet stiff resistance in Congress, which they would have to pass if Reagan gives the go-ahead with an endorsement.

Harold Scoggins, IPAA's general counsel, said independent producers are less afraid of the tax simplification proposal than of separate legislation, spinning off from the tax proposal, that would attack the industry.

"The rhetoric that is in this thing (the Reagan tax proposal) will beat us over the head every time we turn around," he said.

William Garland is a staff member of the Haris-Hanks Washington Bureau.

Feagins wears many hats to work

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

"I'm just the SOB," says Tim Feagins, 26. "I'm just the son of the boss." Feagins is the son of Gibson and Eveleta Feagins, owners of Feagins' Implement Co. on Lamesa Highway.

Feagins wears many hats at the family-owned business. Sometimes he works in the parts department or business office. Other times he delivers tractors, and he recently filled in as service manager in the shop. "I do whatever I'm needed to do." Next month he will begin working as a salesman.

"The only job I can't do is the job my Dad does and that's pay the bills," said Feagins. "Everything else I can pretty well handle." His mother manages the business office.

The difficult part of Feagins' job is "scheduling the work, and organizing it in a form where everybody can work together and get it done in as little amount of time," he said.

Freedom is the best part of his job, he says. "I'm not stuck in any one position. I don't have to stay in an office all day, and I don't have to stay outside all day."

IN THE SHOP — Tim Feagins works on a cylinder in the shop of his parents' business, Feagins' Implement.

Feagins learned the business because "I was raised in the environment." His father has been in agricultural business for 30 years. "I've just been around it all of my life."

He began working at the Case dealership after he graduated from college 3½ years ago. "I can't say I dislike it. It's suited for me."

In his spare time, Feagins enjoys snow skiing and backpacking, "if I ever get a chance to do it. I work all the time. By the time I get home, I'm tuckered."

Dear Abby

Battle is fought one day at a time

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published some New Year's resolutions. I cut that column out and taped it on my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning. I want you to know that it has helped me to become a better person. I am not saying that I kept every one of those resolutions every day, but I kept most of them, and they have now become habits that have made a remarkable improvement in my personality and character.

I hope you will run it every New Year's Eve. I'm sure it will benefit many others as it has me.

NEVER TOO OLD
DEAR NEVER: The "resolutions" column has become an established annual tradition:

DEAR READERS: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own:

Just for today I will live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality.

I will change those things that I can change and accept those things I cannot change.

Just for today I will improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to cut down. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I will force myself to exercise — even if it's only walking around the block or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I will be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not bluff; I'll simply say, "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true? Is it kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as good as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. Just for today I'll not improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will get a better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

LOVE, ABBY

Reader finds way to quit smoking

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have read many articles written by people who have tried and tried to quit smoking but can't seem to be able to accomplish it. I have witnessed the best way in the world to quit. I have found it to be a sure-fire method.

I am 62 years old, and started my smoking career in high school. I finally got up to around three packs a day, which is not only a lot of puffs, but a lot of bucks. Well, about retirement time I had other problems that were beginning to give me trouble and during the examination for these other ailments they found the solution to my smoking problem. Have you guessed? Lung cancer. When you hear that word, you lose your urge to smoke, and I guarantee it. — J.S.

I hope your letter will make many readers realize the danger they're putting themselves in. I especially hope it will be read by younger readers who may think smoking is cool. I hope they don't have to adopt your "cure."

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Bears take Hogs to butcher block

WASHINGTON (AP) — They call Chicago the Hog Butcher to the world... and today the nickname is entirely appropriate.

The Chicago Bears defense chopped up the Washington Redskins' famed "Hogs" offensive line on Sunday in route to downing the Redskins 23-19, setting up next Sunday's National Conference Championship showdown with the 49ers in San Francisco.

The Bears defense, which set a National Football League record for sacks with 72 during the regular season, made life miserable for quarterback Joe Theismann, sacking the Washington signal caller seven times while forcing him to run on five other occasions.

"This is one heck of a football team we shut down today," Chicago Coach Mike Ditka said. "We played relentless football and when you play that relentless some good things have to happen to you."

On offense, the Central Division champs were giving the ball to their Mr. Everything, Walter Payton. The National Football League's career rushing leader, Payton ran for 104 yards and threw a 19-yard touchdown pass as the Bears handed the Redskins their first playoff loss ever at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium and ended their bid for a third straight trip to the Super Bowl.

As well as Payton played, however, he needed help in bringing the Bears their first playoff victory in 21 years.

As they have all season, the Bears top-ranked defense rose to the occasion, beating back the opposition to preserve the victory.

With the game on the line in the fourth quarter and the Bears nursing a six-point lead, the Chicago defense held the Redskins to just three yards total offense. In the process, they intercepted a pass and sacked Theismann four times.

With their own offense suddenly ineffective, the Chicago defenders were called on three times in the final period to turn back Washington after the Redskins had taken over in Chicago territory.

The Redskins, who completed their season at 11-6, were unable to take advantage of the favorable field position.

Twice, the Redskins were forced to punt after being pushed back by the Chicago defense. A third drive, which netted just 21 yards, ended when Mark Moseley's 41-yard field goal was wide to the left.

"We just couldn't get a play (in the fourth quarter)," said Redskin Coach Joe Gibbs. "I felt we would at least get a field goal out of those. We had the opportunity but just couldn't get it."

The next Bear date is with San Francisco's champion 49ers, who are 16-1.

"We match up well with them. We will be ready to play them," vowed Ditka.

San Francisco 49ers receivers RUSSE FRANCIS and DWIGHT CLARK celebrate after the 49ers defeated the Giants 21-10 Saturday.

Steelers down Denver for 24-17 AFC victory

DENVER (AP) — Pete Rostovsky, Craig Wolfley, Mike Webster, Terry Long, Tunch Ilkin.

Add to those unsung Pittsburgh Steelers offensive linemen the names of unheralded running back Frank Pollard and safety Eric Williams.

The Steelers, employing a punishing ground game in the second half, rallied from a 17-10 deficit to defeat the Denver Broncos 24-17 Sunday in National Football League playoff action.

Pittsburgh, which had the worst regular-season record of any NFL division champion this season at 9-7, advances to the American Conference championship game next week against the Dolphins in Miami.

Williams picked off a John Elway pass to set up Pollard's clinching 2-yard scoring run with 1:59 left, bringing an abrupt end to the Broncos season, which had included a 13-3 record, 10-game winning streak and AFC West title.

Pollard, who finished with 99 yards on 16 carries and scored twice on short-yardage bursts, said, "That was the best run blocking we've had all year."

Elway, although hobbled by a groin pull suffered early in the third quarter, directed Denver to 10 third-quarter points, including a 20-yard touchdown pass to Steve Watson that put the Broncos ahead 17-10.

The Steelers drew into a 17-17 tie moments later, however, as Mark Malone passed 10 yards to rookie Louis Lipps for a TD with 3:19 left in the third quarter.

Prior to Pollard's winning score, the Steelers blew a chance to go ahead when Gary Anderson hooked a 26-yard field goal attempt to the left. Two plays later, Williams stepped in front of Broncos receiver Ray Alexander, plucked away the pass and returned it 28 yards to the Denver 2-yard line. Pollard, with a strong second effort, scored three plays later.

The Steelers led 10-7 at halftime following a first half characterized by missed scoring opportunities on the part of both teams.

Denver's first-half score came on Elway's 9-yard pass to tight end James Wright following a Steelers fumble. Anderson kicked a 28-yard field goal and Pollard capped a 78-yard drive with a 1-yard run to account for Pittsburgh's first-half scoring.

The Broncos were able to capitalize the second time as Elway beat the blitz and hit Wright for a TD. It was the first touchdown allowed by the Steelers in the first quarter in their last 14 games.

Malone hit Pollard on a 17-yard pass and Walter Abercrombie ran for a 15-yard gain to set up Anderson's 28-yard field goal early in the second period.

Denver threatened moments later. Gerald Willhite lofted a halfback pass to Watson that covered 52 yards, and Denver reached the Steeler 6. But Elway, under pressure, threw an apparent screen pass that was intercepted by Steeler nose tackle Gary Dunn.

TCU runner key in Bluebonnet

Mountaineers must stop Davis

HOUSTON (AP) — West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen knows all about Kenneth Davis, the Texas Christian All-America tailback who raced through defenses to the tune of 1,611 yards this season.

Nehlen has watched Davis enough on film to sing the praises of the speedy running back. Tonight, the Mountaineer coach and his team will try to do something most teams haven't this season — stop Davis — when the schools meet in the 26th annual Bluebonnet Bowl.

"Anytime a guy can run that fast it scares us," said Nehlen. "But if he breaks one, I'm not going to call the team together and say let's go in. If he does pop one, so what? We'll just have to get it back somewhere along the line."

Davis, who had three 200-yard rushing games and seven runs of over 50 yards, helped TCU, 8-3, to its first winning season since 1971 and its first bowl appearance since 1965.

"This game is very important to us," said the 5-11, 205-pound junior from Temple, Texas. "It can help coach (Jim) Wacker in his recruiting. If the program can keep it going we can say 'Hey, we started it.' It's a bowl game and it'll bring us a lot of prestige to TCU if we win."

Both West Virginia and TCU started their seasons with a bang. The Mountaineers beat Boston College and were 7-1 before injuries to the defensive line contributed to a season-ending swoon.

West Virginia lost to Virginia, Rutgers and Temple to finish 7-4. TCU was 8-1 before season-ending losses to Texas and Texas A&M. The Horned Frogs, like the Mountaineers, are just glad to be in a bowl game.

"This is a new experience for us. You know I didn't know that much about Texas history before I came down here and someone asked me what a Bluebonnet bowl was. I said I thought it was one of those caps babies wear on their heads," said TCU guard Joe Young.

Even though West Virginia is in its fourth straight bowl, the Mountaineers aren't too well known, either, in some circles. A caller to a Houston talk show thought that TCU was playing Virginia State.

"I hope we're better than that team that guy mentioned," said Nehlen. "I've never been embarrassed by our football team in five years. Our kids will play like the devil. We've been able to keep the distractions to a minimum so to speak. And we've had fun."

Ponies give SWC respect with 27-20 win over Irish

HONOLULU (AP) — All season long, Notre Dame has overcome adversity. This time, in their final game of the year, the Fighting Irish fell short.

Quarterback Steve Buerlein overthrew an open Milt Jackson in the Southern Methodist end zone on fourth down with 30 seconds left in the game Saturday, as the 10th-ranked Mustangs held on to beat No. 17 Notre Dame 27-20 in the third annual Aloha Bowl Saturday.

John Carney had kicked a 31-yard field goal for Notre Dame with 3:15 remaining, and Buerlein then guided the Irish from their 23 to the SMU 16. But the rally stopped on the fourth-down incomplete pass.

"Buerlein is pretty down in the dumps," Notre Dame Coach Gerry Faust said. "The receiver was pretty wide open and he missed him."

"If we'd scored, we would have gone for a two-point conversion and the win. We've been fighters all year and we've been coming back all year."

The loss snapped Notre Dame's four-game winning streak and left the Irish 7-5 for the season. Jeff Atkins ran for 112 yards and one touchdown while Reggie Dupard rushed for 103 yards and another score to lead SMU's effort.

"We thought we had one of the best bowl matchups," SMU Coach Bobby Collins said after his Southwestern Conference team won its sixth straight game to wind up 10-2.

"That's four years in a row for 10 wins. Maybe now people will say SMU is for real."

Dupard, who missed most of the first half with an ankle injury, scored on a 2-yard run to give SMU a 27-17 lead with 6:13 left in the game before Carney's field goal pulled the Fighting Irish within 27-20.

Allan Pinkett gained 136 yards on 24 carries for Notre Dame. He also caught a 17-yard touchdown pass from Buerlein in the second quarter that drew the Irish within 14-7.

Atkins ran 7 yards to give the Mustangs a 7-0 lead in the first quarter and SMU made it 14-0 in the second period when Cobby Morrison caught a 12-yard TD pass from Don King.

Carney kicked a 51-yard field goal in the second quarter while SMU's Brandy Brownlee hit a 47-yarder in the same period.

Mark Brooks ran 11 yards in the third quarter for Notre Dame to make it 17-17, but Brownlee's 30-yarder made it 20-17 early in the fourth period.
