LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The elderly stranger who appeared at Leroy Gaines' door offering to return his wallet, missing more than 40 years.

There was one stipulation: Gaines had to sign a paper promising not to prosecute. "I signed but couldn't believe what was happening," Gaines said. "He wouldn't permit any questions and offered no explanation. The man, who must have been in his 80s, just took the paper and left."

Oil prices plummet

West Texas crude drops below $26

Staff and wire reports
In New York, crude oil and refined petroleum prices tumbled to five-year lows in futures trading today, but Ed Thompson of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association said local oil producers "are going to keep fighting and keep hoping" despite the unstable market.
West Texas intermediate crude oil, the major U.S. grade of oil, closed at $25.92 a barrel Wednesday, its lowest level since 1979.
Thompson said, "We've said all along that our people can make it with $25 (a barrel) oil," but he added that loans for oil drilling and production were made at "$29 and $30 a barrel. That (price) will hurt things. The money in the ground is reduced."

Thompson, who said he was besieged with calls today after the announcement of falling prices, said, "demand needs to go up before prices go up" again. "Demand increased a little in 1984, and it will possibly increase in 1985."
American oil traders doubt that OPEC can keep cartel members from cheating on production and pricing, analysts said after crude oil and refined petroleum prices tumbled.
Thompson said, "The Wall Street boys say they (OPEC) can't police" the markets. But he believes, "They are underestimating the Arabs."

He said, "They held a meeting, then talked to their bosses. They've set up a deal and they have a debt to pay to each nation. I'm looking forward to (OPEC) coming forward with a strong position on prices and stabilizing the (market.)"
The drop came in the first day of trading since the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided at its divisive year-end meeting to keep its benchmark grade of oil at $29 a barrel.
"The market doesn't believe that what OPEC did in Geneva will have any effect and I agree with the market," said William Randol, an oil industry analyst at the New York securities firm First Boston Corp.

"All the dominoes in the pricing system have already fallen," Randol said. "The benchmark at $29 looks kind of silly."
At one point Wednesday on the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas intermediate slid as low as $25.86 a barrel in contracts for February delivery. The close of $25.92 was down 49 cents from Friday, the last session before the New Year's break, and was the lowest level for crude oil since late 1979, said exchange spokeswoman Mary Ann Matlock.
Falling oil prices improve the prospect of controlling inflation.

Farmers vs. labor

Seasonal workers want unemployment pay

Staff and wire reports
A proposed plan to allow seasonal farm workers to draw unemployment pay will cost employers time and money, according to some farmers.
A court battle over unemployment benefits for farm workers is scheduled to resume Friday in Austin, officials say.
At stake is the state Unemployment Compensation Act, which farm workers have challenged as unconstitutional. They claim the act discriminates against most farm workers by not allowing them to draw unemployment pay.
"It's another one of those paperwork deals," said Knott farmer Paul Hopper, former Howard County Farm Bureau president. "It's going to cost us some money."
Hopper said he believes temporary workers should not be eligible for unemployment compensation. "Those people are hired knowing it is temporary. It's a different scenario than what we see if someone is fired from a job. That's a different situation — temporary labor."

John Rogers, public relations director for the Texas AFL-CIO, said cost is determined by experience. If a farmer hires people year-round and doesn't lay them off, then he would pay the lowest rate — 2.7 percent of his payroll — in taxes, Rogers said.
"It really doesn't affect that many people in the Big Spring area, because it is not labor-intensive," Rogers said. The areas affected more by the outcome of the suit are in South Texas and the Rio Grande Valley.
"Otherwise, the end result is that it will be more convenient to be unemployed. An examination of it will reveal just that. Look at Florida and California," Hopper said. "There have been precedents set in other industries. They haven't necessarily been good. You can't include agriculture to even the score."

United Farmworkers of the Texas AFL-CIO, which has brought the suit against the state, say that the state has done little for farmworkers without being prodded by lawsuits.
"Like you and me, if for some reason we were out of work, this would allow them some kind of benefit," Rogers said.
According to Hopper, the lawsuit is aimed at having farmers hire farmworkers year-round because of the cheaper cost. "The ultimate goal is exactly that," he said. "It's a Catch 22 multiplied."
But Rogers said that is not the Workers page 2-A Farmer PAUL HOPPER of Knott opposes unemployment compensation for temporary workers.

There was a time when Khe Sanh, nearly half a world away, was a name familiar to most Americans. In this report, George Esper, who was the AP's last bureau chief in Saigon, looks at Khe Sanh today.

By the Associated Press

KHE SANH, Vietnam — This is where U.S. Marines made one of their last big stands during Tet 1968. Khe Sanh was a name that was heard around America for every one of the 77 days that the Marines withstood a North Vietnamese siege from January to April.

This is where you could hear the cries of "Corpsman, corpsman, we've got wounded here!" during the non-stop North Vietnamese bombardment.

This is where U.S. warplanes dropped nearly 100,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese positions in the surrounding mountain ranges of Vietnam and Laos, one-sixth the total tonnage dropped by American bombers during the entire three years of the Korean War.

This is where, out of a garrison of 5,500 Marines, more than 200 died and another 1,600 were wounded.

Today, communist authorities say that except for security guards, the base has been abandoned. They will not allow reporters within a mile of it, saying it is too dangerous because of the mines, booby traps, shells and bombs that are still there.
But it is visible from a hilltop position which South

Khe Sanh

10 years after the Vietnam War

A U.S. Marine patrol makes its way up Highway 9 in 1969 to the besieged American garrison at Khe Sanh.

Vietnamese forces held on the other side of the valley in which the town of Khe Sanh lies.
There are still remnants of war strewn about the hilltop — rotting sandbags, torn up bunkers, shell casings.
A few miles west on Highway 9 is the former U.S. Special Forces camp at Lang Vei. It is now a quarry whose rocks are used for widening the highway and building new homes.

Schoolchildren with books in hand, peasant women and soldiers on bicycles are seen along Highway 9, over which a relief column of 12,000 American and South Vietnamese soldiers broke through from the east 16 years ago to lift the siege of Khe Sanh.

It is a narrow, bumpy highway with twisting curves through mountain ranges. And the elephant grass and high ground on both sides made it perfect for ambushes during the war.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, once characterized Khe Sanh as an important cork that bottled up North Vietnamese troops from moving eastward to South Vietnam's populated coastal regions.

Today, nearly 10 years after the fall of the South Vietnamese government and the takeover by North Vietnam, Khe Sanh is mostly a cooperative of farmers and handicraft makers.

Communist authorities say about 3,000 people, many of them Montagnard tribesmen, returned to Khe Sanh after the war ended on April 30, 1975.

One of them was La Van Vien, 79, who had lived in Khe Sanh for 50 years.

Walking with a tall stick along the edges of the former South Vietnamese hilltop base, Vien was dressed in a blue poncho and black hat to protect him from the rain.

"I moved to Da Nang in 1971 because of the heavy U.S. bombardment," he said through a government guide and interpreter. His two grandchildren were not evacuated. He has not seen them since.

Sixteen years ago, Sgt. Edward Pelletier of the 26th Marines, 5th Marine Division, spoke for many of the men who survived Khe Sanh.
"I was glad to leave, and I never want to go back."

Woman of the cloth

Designing religious vestments is lady's call to glory

DALLAS (AP) — Finally, the aim of her work is "ad maiorem Dei gloriam," for the greater glory of God.

Meanwhile, there are certain mundane matters that require Elaine Aniol Wilson's attention:

- What kinds of fabrics should be used in making the vestments in which priests celebrate the Eucharist, now that parish altar guilds — whose members used to keep vestments of linen, silk and long-fibered cotton in spotless readiness — are dying out? Ditto for altar cloths and banners.
- Now that more and more women are being ordained as ministers of the Gospel, how can the designs of chasubles (outer vestments,) preaching robes and stoles be re-engineered so that women wearing them aren't made to look like linebackers or decorated refrigerators?
- How can Designs for Worship Inc., Elaine Wilson's liturgical arts designing and manufacturing company, survive and prosper as a small business, continue to do work Wilson is proud of, and, "Deo volente," God willing repay her investment and — eventually but please, in a future not too distant — start clearing profits?

So far, Wilson says she has found workable answers for the first two problems:

- Make vestments of wash-and-wear fabrics like polyester-cotton blends.
- Design vestments for the real proportions of real women and tailor each vestment to the height and reach of the actual woman who will wear it.

The third problem is trickier. For one thing Designs for Worship Inc., isn't like the two sorts of organizations against which it must compete for a niche in the market.

"We're not a big church supply company" or a religious order that has taken vows of poverty, Ms. Wilson said as she walked through the workshops of Designs for Worship and into her office.

VESTED INTEREST — Elaine Wilson looks at a vestment, manufactured by her Designs for Worship, Inc. in Dallas. "We are not a big church supply company" or a religious order that has taken a vow of poverty, Ms. Wilson said.

Ms. Wilson's company is housed in a commercial and professional office development in Northeast Dallas. In the middle of a weekday afternoon, the only employees of Designs for Worship on the premises were Ms. Wilson and Marie Moore. Ms. Moore was sewing bright-colored fabric on an industrial-strength sewing machine.

The bookshelves in Ms. Wilson's office are filled with well-thumbed reference works on theology and art history, as well as with Bibles, prayer books and some volumes on accounting and marketing. Prices for vestments made by Designs for Worship range from $125 for a simple, straight stole to $375 for a full-cut chasuble to $875 for a large banner.

"I began in my house, as a sole proprietorship," Ms. Wilson said. "Before beginning this business I was a volunteer in every kind of unpaid church and civic work you can think of."

Ms. Wilson, 50, holds a master's degree in theology from the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University and a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Texas at Austin.

"Every job we get and sale we make seems one small miracle after another," she said. "I don't know how people hear about us. We've made banners for First United Methodist Church in Tulsa and for my own parish, St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church here in Dallas. We did a complete set of vestments and altar cloths for a church in Virginia and sets of church hangings for two chapels at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station."

She brings her theological training into her business, she said. "I work very carefully and prayerfully to research and understand the biblical and traditional backgrounds of the church seasons and the sacramental occasions when our work will be worn or displayed," Ms. Wilson said. "Prayer goes into the design and execution of the work, too. We want everything we make to be first-rate, and we don't want the priest and other ministers to be disappointed and have to bring anything back. That's why we don't use fabrics like rayon, that look flashy at first but then don't endure in use."

An encouraging and useful thing happened recently, just after her company finished and delivered a big job.

"The priest phoned me and said, 'What else do I owe you?' I said, 'Nothing, you paid in full.'"

Sheriff's Log

Woman transferred to TDC

Howard County sheriff's deputy Bennie Green transported a Lubbock woman to Texas Department of Corrections (TDC) early this morning after she pleaded guilty to charges of theft.

Beverly Lois Cox (Henson), 29, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Wednesday and was given three years in TDC by District Judge James Gregg. She was given credit for 12 days in county jail after being arrested on Dec. 22 for committing theft in Safeway College Park.

• Big Spring police transferred Bobby Drodgy, 48, of Seth W.V., and John Henry Carter, 36, of Marion, Ark., to county jail Wednesday on charges of aggravated robbery. Justice of the Peace Willie Grant set bonds at $20,000 apiece.

• Henry West of Sterling City Route reported that his mail box had been torn down at Hickory and Wasson roads. Other boxes in the area had been torn down also according to sheriff's reports.

• Big Spring police transferred Terry Payne, 22, 409 E. Second, to county jail on a charge of driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond set by the city.

• Benny Ray Bennett, 22, co-Marjan Bonding Service of San Angelo, was arrested by Tom Green County sheriff deputies on a Howard County charge of failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was released on $1,000 bond.

• Mack Preston Newton, 40, of Route One was transferred by Big Spring police to county jail on charges of no motor vehicle insurance and failure to appear. He was released on $200 bonds for each charge.

• Big Spring police transferred Robert Metz, 25, of Sand Motel, to county jail on a charge of issuing a bad check. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Lewis Hefflin.

Police search continues for Illinois rape suspect

Big Spring police and sheriff's deputies are continuing to search the area for an 18-year-old Illinois man, suspected of participating in the Dec. 26 rape and murder of a 15-year-old girl in Wateksa, Ill.

However, officials believe he has already "come and gone" from the city, Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said today.

The Howard County Sheriff's Office was notified late Tuesday evening by Wateksa, Ill., law enforcement officials that the suspect, James Treece, 18, of Wateksa might be traveling to Big Spring to visit relatives.

Treece was supposed to have arrived in Big Spring about 4 p.m. Monday on a bus, according to Illinois authorities.

"He was supposed to have come in town by bus. As far as we can determine, he's already left," Edwards said. "He had already left town when we got the information."

Police have no "reliable information that we can release" about where Treece was headed, Edwards said.

According to Associated Press reports, Treece's alleged accomplice, William Braid, 25, of Wateksa was charged with rape and murder of Jessica Hosick and was denied bail Wednesday.

Treece is suspected of shooting the victim four times in the head after she was raped by the two men at Treece's apartment and again at a rural Onarga, Ill., spot, said Sheriff Joe Mathy of Iriquois County in Illinois.

Workers

Continued from page 1-A law's purpose. "It would encourage farmers to use fewer migratory workers," he said. "But the types of agriculture that use migratory workers usually don't hire them direct. They contract with intermediary employers."

"That may well be what the suit ends up providing for — the intermediary contractor would end up paying the unemployment taxes," Rogers said.

"There is a strong argument for unemployment compensation in the agricultural sector other than just the human element. Economic declines — crop losses, etc. — force them to lay off workers," Rogers said.

Hopper said he sees the inclusion of farmworkers in the unemployment act as inevitable. State District Judge Harley Clark, who is presiding over the trial, is predisposed toward the farmworkers, Hopper said.

In the end, the attorney general will go to the Legislature and tell them to pass a bill because the Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice, John Hill, also favors the farmworkers, Hopper said. And because of other political hot potatoes — education, water and budget concerns — the bill will pass, he said.

"If the organizations had the time and were of a mindset, we could probably lobby for specific monetary limitations," Hopper said. "But in a real sense, we probably would be better off putting our energies on another topic until we see the exact form of the bill."

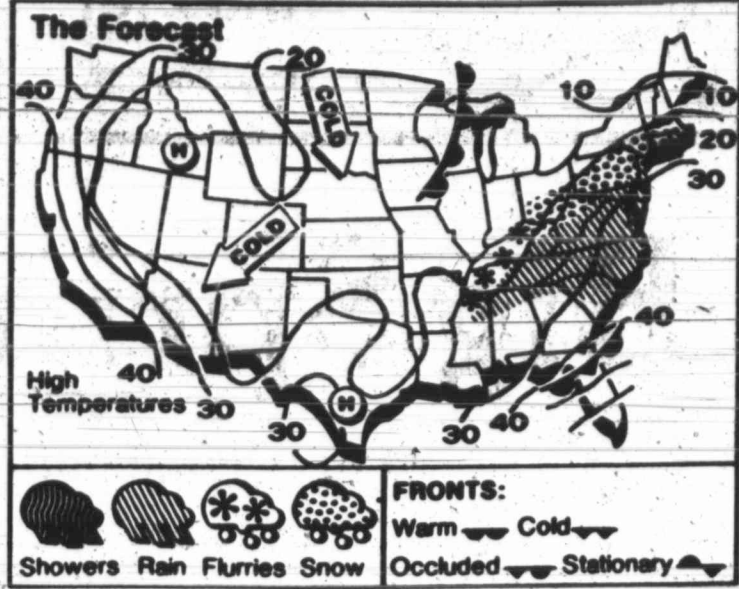

Clark started the trial over the objections of Assistant Attorney General Bill Barbisch.

Mrs. Jimmie Lois Miller

Services for Mrs. Jimmie Lois Miller of Schertz, Texas will be Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at Ellis Funeral Home Chapel in Midland. Rev. Ray Bell, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Coahoma will officiate. Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Miller died in Big Spring at her daughter's home last Tuesday. She was born Nov. 6, 1921 and reared in Cook County, Texas. She arrived in Midland in 1940 and attended school here. She met and married Alton Miller in 1943 in Midland. They later lived in Farmland, Ind., Nigeria, Saudi Arabia, Iran and Singapore while Mr. Miller was employed with Dowell Schlumberger Inc. In 1981 while on vacation, Mr. Miller passed away in Liberty, Texas.

Mrs. Miller later moved to Schertz, Texas near San Antonio. Survivors include: two daughters — Mrs. M. (Candy) Purcell of Big Spring and Mrs. Melissa Siniss of Schertz, Texas; three sisters — Mrs. Alyne Reynolds and Mrs. Alma Porter, both of Midland and Mrs. Lea Slay of Liberty, Texas; one grandson — James Hill of Schertz.

Family members request memorials be directed to Hospice of Midland, P.O. Box 2621, Midland, Texas 79701.

Katherine McDaniel

Katherine Elaine McDaniel, 65, died Tuesday morning in a local hospital. She had been in failing health for three years.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickle and Welch Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Terry Fox, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be at Mount Olive Memorial Park. She was born Dec. 6, 1919, in Abilene. She was a member of Hillcrest Baptist Church, the Desk and Derrick Club, and the Laura B. Hart Chapter 1019, Order of the Eastern Star.

She had owned the Howard County Abstract Co. since 1975.

She grew up in Big Spring and graduated from Big Spring High School and Howard College.

Survivors include her father, Ollie McDaniel of Coffeyville, Kansas; a brother, Ollie C. McDaniel of Coffeyville, Kansas; two aunts, Nella Tompkins and Opal McDaniel, both of Big Spring; an uncle, Boyd McDaniel of Menard.

She was preceded in death by her mother on Dec. 26, 1976, and a brother, MacWade McDaniel in 1939.

Pallbearers will be R.H. Weaver, John Ferguson, Tim Yeats, R.B. Thomason, Walton Morrison, and Maxwell Green.

The family suggests memorials to Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Minnie Woody

DWI deaths get renamed

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — A coroner's plan to call the deaths of drunken drivers "willful self-negligence" instead of "accidental" shouldn't affect insurance awards because that option isn't available, an official says.

Lycoming County Coroner George W. Gedon said he decided on the change to encourage insurance companies to deny death benefits in such cases.

Monica O'Reilly of the state Insurance Department said on Wednesday that payoffs are set by the contract of a policy, "and we're not aware of any contract in use in Pennsylvania that includes the exclusion for willful self-negligence."

FBI: G-scout cookies OK

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — After getting into the baking business to check out reports of contaminated Girl Scout cookies, the FBI says there is no evidence of tampering at the factory level or in distribution.

The FBI used computers and baked its own cookies to determine whether the foreign objects could have been baked into them, James Yelvington, head of the Kentucky FBI office, said Wednesday.

The announcement closes the case, which began after more than 800 consumers reported finding glass, needles and other objects in the cookies during March and April in two dozen states, Yelvington said.

Schools run low on funds

NEW YORK — Lack of financial support heads the list of school board members' concerns this year for the third time, with declining enrollment their second concern, according to a survey in The American School Board Journal.

Of 1,027 school board members in 49 states who responded to the survey last March, 62.6 percent put money as the top concern, while 39.8 percent listed declining enrollment, the magazine reported in its January issue.

Among other top concerns, 32.9 percent cited parents' lack of interest, 21.7 percent mentioned problems in finding good teachers, 18.7 percent cited poor curriculum, and 16.3 percent indicated teachers' lack of interest.

Workers scale peak to reach crashed U.S. jet

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Rescue workers assembled today at the base of an Andes peak to attempt to reach the wreckage of an Eastern Airlines jet embedded on a steep, snow-covered slope. Officials said the 29 passengers and crew, including eight Americans, were presumed dead.

"It appears the plane crashed head on and the shape of a plane is clearly visible," said Col. Grover Rojas of the Bolivian air force. "The remains of the plane are scattered over a large area. We rule out any possibility of survivors."

Americans and Bolivian air force officers, who led a search involving air force planes and a U.S. aircraft, said the wreckage was sighted Wednesday at about 19,000 feet.

Among the Americans aboard the Boeing 727 were Marian Davis, wife of U.S. Ambassador to Paraguay Arthur H. Davis, and William Kelly, director of the Peace Corps in Paraguay, according to U.S. and airport officials.

Using four-wheel-drive vehicles, an 11-man Red Cross team drove to Urana Mine, near the base of Illimani Mountain, which rises nearly 21,000 feet above sea level. The mine is about 35 miles southeast of La Paz.

A photograph of the crash clearly showed the outline of a large plane in the snow, with wreckage of the fuselage scattered about.

Bolivian air force officials said they were seeking assistance from American experts in aerial rescues because the crash site was virtually inaccessible from air or land.

Richard McGraw, an Eastern Airlines senior vice president, said in Miami that the airline was trying to find a high-altitude helicopter that could reach the crash site, which is on a 45-degree incline.

Otherwise, "It's likely to take 2 1/2 days to climb 21,000 feet" overland, McGraw said. "We're reasonably convinced that it's our airplane. It is scattered up the side of the mountain."

School bombing kills 15

BANGKOK, Thailand — Fifteen school children were killed and 21 injured when a hand grenade exploded in a school in northern Thailand, provincial police said today.

Lt. Col. Boonrat Kuamkarn, chief police inspector of Pochairat district of Pichit province, said an 11-year-old child found the hand grenade in a school field Wednesday and played with it with friends.

The officer said the child dropped the grenade and it exploded as pupils were about to enter their classroom at the Ban Rung Laem school, about 175 miles north of Bangkok.

Gang killed in shootout

NEW DELHI, India — A gang leader accused of kidnapping at least 90 people was shot and killed, along with 10 gang members, in a gun battle with another kidnap gang in northern India, the United News of India reported today.

The news agency said the clash occurred Wednesday at a village in Bihar state near the Nepal border.

Quoting police superintendent Sunit Kumar, the news agency said Vyas Dubey and 10 of his men were killed in a battle provoked the kidnapping of five people by another gang led by a man identified as Nema Ahir.

Entertainers snub boycott

UNITED NATIONS — The number of entertainers performing in the white-ruled South Africa grew in the latest 12-month period from 211 to 388 despite a U.N. cultural boycott, according to a new report.

The U.N. report, issued Wednesday, said 14 names were deleted from the previous list published in October 1983 because those entertainers pledged they would no longer perform in South Africa because of its racial segregation policies.

Britain had the highest number of names on the 1984 list with 127, including singers Shirley Bassey, Elton John and Rod Stewart.

There were 103 names from the United States including those of Paul Anka, the Beach Boys, Glen Campbell, Ray Charles, Chicago, Goldie Hawn, Liza Minnelli, Kenny Rogers, Sha Na Na and Frank Sinatra.

Reagan prepares for budget battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, after getting support from Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone for upcoming U.S.-Soviet arms talks, is back in the White House preparing to battle Congress over taxes and the budget.

After a six-day California vacation, Reagan met with Nakasone in Los Angeles for three hours Wednesday. They agreed to try to cut America's $34 billion trade deficit with Japan and make "serious efforts" to open that nation's markets to U.S. goods.

Few concrete results were announced after the session, but a senior administration official termed it "very satisfactory." He spoke on condition that he not be identified.

Although Congress formally convenes today, lawmakers are not expected to gear up fully until after the Jan. 21 inauguration.

Even so, Democrats and Republicans are warning that major battles loom for Reagan's foreign and domestic proposals. In particular, he faces pressure to cut his defense spending request to pare the projected $200 billion deficit.

Major votes also are expected on the controversial MX missile and the administration's push for aid to contra rebels fighting Nicaragua's

Sandinista government. Besides that, congressional efforts are expected to block Reagan's proposed cuts in domestic welfare programs, and the president, who has long argued for streamlining the tax code, what kind of plan to push. He already is studying a so-called "flat tax" offered by Treasury Secretary Donald Regan.

Reagan pronounced his fifth meeting with Nakasone an "immense personal pleasure" and said it strengthened ties between the two nations.

The president said the trade issue — America's massive foreign exchange deficit with Japan and its lack of access to that nation's markets — was on the "top of the agenda."

"We discussed very candidly those areas where we have problems," Reagan said. "We agreed to work strenuously in the months ahead to open our markets fully and to resist protectionist pressures in both countries."

"I believe that we both agree that there is an urgent need to work together to resolve the problems in our trade relationship," he added.

Nakasone said his nation is determined to make a serious effort to ease tension over trade. He pledged that Japan "will promote economic policies that will enhance growth led by domestic private demand and will make further market-opening efforts."

The two leaders said Secretary of State George P. Shultz, and Japanese Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe would oversee cooperative action on the economic front.

The president noted that he and Nakasone gave special attention to the Geneva talks between Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, scheduled for next Monday and Tuesday.

"I informed the prime minister of my intention to pursue effective arms reduction agreements with the Soviets seriously and zealously."

Man charged with subway shootings

Goetz: 'It had to be done'; he at no time felt threatened

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A man accused of shooting four young men on a New York City subway has indicated "he at no time felt threatened" by them, and that he is sorry but "it had to be done," officials said.

Bernhard Goetz, 37, of New York City, who surrendered to Concord police on New Year's Eve, told Concord District Court Judge Michael Sullivan on Wednesday that he was "willing to go back" and would not fight extradition.

New York police planned to return Goetz to Manhattan today by car, said Concord police Officer Joseph McConville. An arrest warrant issued Tuesday charged Goetz with four counts of attempted murder and one of illegally possessing a gun.

Assistant Attorney General Andrew Isaac said during Wednesday's hearing that Goetz has indicated he was not acting in self-defense when he allegedly opened fire on the youths, who reportedly had asked for $5.

"I believe he indicated... that he at no time felt threatened by the individuals," Isaac said. "There are indications of premeditation, but that word was not used by Mr. Goetz."

As Goetz, wearing a bullet-proof vest under a leather jacket, was led from the courthouse to the Merrimack County Jail, a reporter asked if he had anything to say.

"Vultures," Goetz replied. Asked who he meant, he said, "You." Thomas Barton, a guard at the jail, said Goetz appeared emotionally drained and apologetic after turning himself in. "His direct statement was, 'What happened had to be done, but I'm sorry it happened," Barton said.

Witnesses to the Dec. 22 shootings and police said the youths, three of them carrying screwdrivers, asked a subway passenger for $5, and that the passenger then drew a .38-caliber revolver and fired four times.

Members of Boston's Guardian

Angels group stationed themselves around the courthouse. Damon Solari, 17, of Brockton, Mass., said the group was on a "fact-finding" mission.

All four of the youths in the subway shooting had arrest records, police said. Two of the four remain hospitalized.

Why the Chinese dropped Marxism

The Chinese have decided that Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels and Vladimir Lenin do not have the answers to all their questions. This would be heresy in Moscow but seems to have caused no stir in Peking.

The People's Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Communist Party, said it in a commentary published recently.

"There are many things of today that Marx and Lenin had never experienced and had no contact with," the commentary said. "We should not take a doctrinaire approach toward Marxism."

That kind of talk would be dangerous in the Kremlin. Pragmatism is a bad word among orthodox members of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Russian rigidity is an expression of Russian culture. The inferiority complex that has marked the development of the Russian character has resulted in an equal and opposite superiority complex. There is a driving compulsion to prove to the world that their prophet, Karl Marx, is a messiah, just to show the legitimacy of the Soviet regime.

The Chinese, by contrast, are so imperturbably convinced of the unique worth of their ancient culture that they feel no need to convert the world. Their country called itself the Middle Kingdom because it was considered by the Chinese people to be central to human history. And their philosophers taught the advantages of personal virtue, simplicity and flexibility.

It is cultural history that is now determining the Chinese course, more than Communist dogma. And that, from our standpoint, is an improvement.

Capitalism best for Africa

The famine that stalks Africa has already claimed 300,000 lives in Ethiopia. Imagine the entire population of Birmingham or Sacramento starving to death. Ghastly though that picture is, it is probably only the beginning. Africa is on the brink of the worst famine in modern history.

In Ethiopia alone, 7 million lives are in danger. No fewer than 22 countries are threatened virtually all of them in Africa. The West, particularly the United States, has awakened to the danger with huge shipments of food, both privately and publicly financed. But for many Africans, there is not much hope.

How could such a catastrophe strike? Elsewhere in the world, mass starvation is almost unknown. But in Africa, natural handicaps have combined with human mistakes to keep it alive.

The environmental obstacles to Africa's feeding itself are imposing. Droughts have been increasingly commonplace in recent years, and few areas have the means for irrigation. Deforestation has ruined soil and depleted the supply of fuel for cooking. Most countries lack the extensive transport systems required to ensure continuing food supplies. Half of Ethiopia's people live two days' walk from the nearest road.

Wars and internal upheaval have wrecked the agricultural capacity of nation after nation. Ethiopia is not the only country to purchase hunger with blood. The experience is familiar to Zaire, Uganda, Zimbabwe, Nigeria and others.

Equally harmful are government policies that inexorably stifle food production. Farmers have been coping with drought, pestilence and war for millennia, but modern state control of the economy is a new foe, and one they have not been able to outwit.

"Once there are investment opportunities and efficient incentives," economist and Nobel Laureate Theodore Schultz has written, "farmers will turn sand into gold." Most African governments have deprived farmers of those motivations. Their people are now reaping the whirlwind.

The central problem is that most countries don't allow farmers to sell their produce at the price set by supply and demand. Instead, prices are held down to appease urban consumers, who in most countries have the numbers and power to topple governments.

Low prices are achieved in two ways, according to Cal Tech social scientist Robert H. Bates, author of a book on African agricultural policies. First, farmers are generally required to sell to state marketing boards, with prices set by law. If they want a higher price, they have to sell on the black market, risking punishment. Despite the danger, most domestic food is sold illegally.

But governments have another, more effective way to keep prices down — by overvaluing their currency, thus encouraging the import of food. Even on the black market, farmers are hamstrung by competition from subsidized imports. Exports are also strictly regulated, forcing farmers to sell at home even when they could get more on the world market.

Farmers are victimized in other ways, too. When governments make capital investments, often out of taxes on farmers, they generally concentrate on urban, industrial projects instead of less glamorous rural ones. In addition, some regimes, like the ruling one in Ethiopia, have replaced private farms with state-run collectives.

The consequences are destructive. Farmers stop making investments in land and capital, or else quit growing and head for the cities. Per-capita food production in tropical Africa, according to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, has been falling by 1 percent a year for several years. In the Congo, it has dropped by 10 percent since 1969; in Zaire, by 13 percent. And few African countries have developed other industries to pay for adequate food supplies on the world market.

Those in America who think Africa is hungry because the West is well-fed are deceiving themselves. Starvation will disappear not when wealth is redistributed to the Third World, but when the nations of Africa make the choices essential to self-reliance. The West can help to ward off the worst results of disastrous errors, but in the end only Africans can save Africa.

FBI in a 'family' way

WASHINGTON — While millions of American families celebrated their hopes for a brighter new year, the champagne was a little flat for the "families" that make up the Cosa Nostra underworld.

If they're at all realistic, mobsters from boss to button man will be toasting each other, not with "Auld Lang Syne," but with a mournful rendition of "Those Prison Walls Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine."

The numbers alone are enough to chill any underworld festivities: In 1981 there were 515 convictions of organized crime figures; in 1983, there were 1,331. And many of those convicted were high-level mob bosses, like Carlos Marcello of New Orleans, Frank Balestrieri of Milwaukee, Russell Bufalino of Pennsylvania, James T. Licavoli of Detroit and Eugene Smaldone of Denver. ("There goes Frank, there goes Jim...")

But even the impressive figures don't tell the whole story. As FBI Assistant Director Oliver "Buck" Revell told my associate Tony Capaccio, mob bosses can often run their family crime businesses from their prison cells. So the Justice Department has been indicting the entire leadership on grounds that the "family" itself constitutes criminal enterprise.

This not only cripples the organizations' tight administration, but allows the government to seize bank accounts and other assets that keep the criminal cartels functioning. This tactic has been used in Los Angeles, Denver, Cleveland and Milwaukee.

The latest chapter in the government's war on organized crime is due to unfold on Wednesday (Jan. 2) when a federal judge in New York will set a trial date for nine indicted members of the Joseph Colombo family. Even though the 100-member crime group declined in influence after the 1971 gunshot wounding of Colombo and his death in 1978, the family is still regarded by law enforcement experts as perhaps the third strongest of New York City's five crime families.

Two of the Colombo bosses, Carmine Persico and John "Sonny" Franzese, are already in prison, and the latest indictment names Persico on bribery counts stemming from his current tour in the federal pen.

Here are some other developments in the new year that should mute any merrymaking by the Colombo crime family:

- On Jan. 28, Martin Hodas, a family associate known as Times Square's "King of the Peep Show," will be sentenced for his role in an attempt to flood Canada with hardcore pornographic video tapes.

- Gerry Langella, whom the G-men have identified as the boss of day-to-day Colombo operations, faces charges that he conspired with a concrete workers' union official to extort 10 New York area firms of amounts ranging from $700 to $29,000 since 1981.

- The crime family's legal adviser, or "consigliere," 79-year-old Thomas "The Old Man" DiBella, is charged with extorting $800 per home from the MJR Construction Co. at the Driftwood Landing development in Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

- A Colombo "capo," John J. DeRoss, is accused of using his position as an official of two restaurant workers' union locals to extort money from such Big Apple restaurants as Cafe Ziegfeld on West 4th Street and Ciro's at One Lincoln Plaza.

- Frank "Beansie" Melli, a family "soldier," has been charged for his role in the alleged fencing of $2.2 million in stolen Arnet watches and $700,000 worth of Oriental art objects stolen from the Robert Ellsworth Gallery in Manhattan.

- Another family capo, Benny Alois, has been charged with loan-sharking — charging the owners of Syvieve's clothing store in New York City 2 percent weekly interest on a $50,000 loan. This shlock activity is said to have occurred in 1982, while Alois was being given $30,595.99 in gambling credits and freebies by Atlantic City casinos.

ROACH UPDATE: Sex is a touchy subject among members of Congress, but it may be the solution to the cockroach problem on Capitol Hill that I wrote about recently.

Gary Short of Rancho Mirage, Calif., runs an outfit called Biological Controls, and he sells a "roachbuster" machine that he claims is sure death for the ubiquitous little insects. As I understand it, the gizmo emits a scent that attracts female cockroaches onto a grill. The female in turn puts out a scent that lures the nearest male roach. The electrically charged grill then zaps the lovebugs into a pan of glue underneath.

Short would like to interest some member of Congress in his machine. Who knows? It might become part of the guided tours.

Strategic power shifting to Soviets

Two years ago the Committee on the Present Danger, a largely Democratic, pro-defense organization, issued a statement deploring the shift of strategic military power toward the Soviet Union. Last month it issued a follow-up report, excerpts from which appear below.

Since the Committee's 1982 assessment of the military balance, Soviet strategic nuclear capabilities have continued to expand. Soviet production rates for strategic nuclear forces have remained high and the quality and reliability of those weapons systems continues to improve.

The Department of Defense estimates the Soviets produced 2,035 ICBMs between 1974 and 1982. The United States produced only 346 ICBMs with much less capability in the same period. No new U.S. ICBM has been deployed since Minuteman III deployment was completed in 1975.

Each year for several years, the Soviets have produced approximately 150-300 ICBMs and the accuracy of their missiles continues to increase, in many cases exceeding U.S. missile accuracy. The reliability of these missiles has also improved as the result of an aggressive missile testing program.

For several years prior to completing in 1983 the most recent phase in their ICBM modernization program, the Soviets deployed more highly accurate, hard-target warheads annually than the United States plans to deploy in the entire MX program.

In addition, intelligence estimates show the number of deployed Soviet strategic nuclear warheads targeted against the United States has nearly doubled since SALT II was signed in 1979 — rising from approximately 5,000 to more than 9,000.

The current number of SALT-accountable, deployed Soviet ICBM launchers is 1,398. The Soviet production rates for strategic nuclear forces have remained high and the quality and reliability of those weapons systems continues to improve.

U.S. total of 1,030 continues to decline as older TITAN II launchers are destroyed. This is the lowest level since 1966. Destruction of the TITAN launchers will reduce U.S. ICBM megatonnage by approximately one-third.

In deployed ICBM throwweight — the best single measure of force capability — the Soviet Union has at least a 4-to-1 advantage over the United States. The Soviets have been unwilling to consider any reduction of their superiority in ICBM throwweight in either SALT or START.

The large Soviet advantage in ICBM throwweight creates strategic instability. It gives the Soviets the ability to increase significantly their ICBM capability by deploying more warheads, decoys or penetration aids on each missile, increasing the yield of the warheads, increasing the missile's range, or improving the missile's guidance and accuracy.

The Soviet Union has between 5,000 and 6,000 hard-target (counterforce) deployed ICBM warheads with which to target 1,030 U.S. ICBM silos. The Minuteman III is the only ICBM credited with some hard-target capability (although this capability is rapidly declining). There are 1,650 Minuteman III warheads which can be targeted against Soviet ICBM silos.

It is generally assumed it is necessary to allocate two hard-target warheads against an opposing silo for a high probability of destroying the silo. However, Soviet warheads have a higher yield than Minuteman III warheads and Soviet silos are substantially harder. Thus, the Soviet Union enjoys a large advantage in prompt hard-target capability.

This gap in counterforce capabilities is important since it means the Soviets could destroy most of the U.S.'s ICBM force using only a small fraction of their ICBM warheads, and still have a significant ICBM force in reserve to deter U.S. retaliation. In fact, the Soviets could strike and largely destroy the U.S.'s ICBM force and still have more ICBM warheads left in reserve than the United States has to begin with. This Soviet reserve force undermines the credibility of the U.S. second-strike deterrent and contributes to a situation of growing instability.

In the event of a Soviet attack, the United States would face a truly appalling choice: short of surrender — either accept the destruction of U.S. ICBMs and retaliate against Soviet cities with less powerful, less accurate and less flexible surviving sea-based forces, or launch U.S. ICBMs immediately after receipt of an attack warning. The first option invites similar destruction upon the United States. The second option ("launch-on-warning") is a risky policy which makes no allowance for the possibility of false alarms and, hence, contributes to instability by pushing the United States toward rapid, irreversible escalation.

No picnic

CHICAGO — Waiting 125 hours and 33 minutes camped on a plastic lawn chair in front of a portable black-and-white television set is no picnic — but for James "Moose" Murphy, who spent longer last year, it will lead to one.

Murphy, who camped inside the building to be first in line for Cook County forest preserve picnic permits issued Wednesday, said he was inspired in his efforts by Elmer Tucker of Chicago, who was first in line from 1972-82.

Last year when Tucker arrived to get in line for a 1983 license, he found Murphy there waiting for the start of what was 132 hours in line.

Ostensibly, Murphy waits to get a choice picnic spot for his club, the Antler Dancers Sportsman Club of Mt. Greenwood, but he admitted on Tuesday that he really does it "for the publicity."

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — When William T. Brotherton Jr. won a seat on the state Supreme Court, little did he know that there wouldn't be much else awaiting him on his first day of work.

The $5,000 worth of furniture that had been used by former Justice Sam Harshbarger had been hauled away to the Capitol basement before Brotherton and his secretary, Pam Skidmore, arrived on Wednesday.

All that was there was a small desk and chair and a floral-print sofa.

"I will talk to the chief justice and see what I'm allowed," Brotherton said. "If I'm not allowed to buy furniture, we'll do the best we can with what we have."

In the traditions of politics, the new junior justice actually didn't even have an office until Wednesday morning, when justices Tom McHugh and Darrell McGraw conferred and decided they didn't want the office.

Justice Thomas Miller and Chief Justice Richard Neely already had passed up Harshbarger's former chambers.

By way of making amends, McGraw greeted Brotherton with a coffemaker — old, but well-scrubbed.

"Thanks," the new justice said. "Now, did you have an extra key made so I can get in?"

Sandra G. Smith to compete in pageant

Dear Abby

Widow longs for romance

SANDRA G. SMITH
...pageant participant

Sandra G. Smith of Big Spring will compete in the 1985 Miss Permian Basin Teen USA Pageant, Jan. 5, at the Yucca Theatre in Midland. The winner will represent the Permian Basin in the Fourth Annual Miss Texas Teen USA Pageant.

Miss Smith will be judged on the basis of face and figure, poise, personality, grooming, intelligence and speaking ability. She will compete for a $1,500 scholarship and a trip to El Paso in June for the state competition.

Miss Smith attends Big Spring High School. She is active in theatre, Civil Air Patrol, French Club, Youth Choir at Hillcrest Baptist Church, and dancing.

DEAR ABBY: I was a happy, respectable wife for 46 years, and now I'm a lonely, respectable widow. I work, join women's clubs, do good works and spend a lot of quiet evenings watching television.

Do you know what I would like better than anything on earth? I'd like for my phone to ring right now, and hear a male voice say, "I'll be by in 15 minutes to take you to dinner and a movie — then we'll go to my place and spend the night."

In other words, at this late date, I'm plain boy crazy — more boy crazy than I ever was at 15.

Please: tell me, Dear Abby, do other widows have this problem?

Very often when I see a nice-looking older man on the street, I wonder what it would be like to go out with him. And more.

My imagination just goes wild. I'm really ashamed of myself. Please tell me, am I normal? What's wrong with me? Do other widows have this problem?

YOUNG AT HEART
DEAR YOUNG: Nothing is "wrong" with you. You're normal, and you need not be ashamed of yourself. You're longing for some romance in your life, and you're fantasizing.

Other widows have the same problem, and so do some divorcees and married women.

And lest you think this problem is for women only, I assure you that men also hunger for romance.

DEAR ABBY: What I am about to ask you may sound dumb, but I have to ask it regardless.

Recently I went to a chiropractor because of some back trouble. The first thing the doctor did was take a lot of X-rays. I never liked X-rays; I'm afraid of the radiation.

Anyhow, he X-rayed right through my blue jeans, shirt and underclothes.

My question: Are these clothes safe to wear? I'm afraid they may be contaminated or radioactive because they were X-rayed through.

If these clothes are contaminated, I won't hesitate to throw them away. I haven't worn them since I was X-rayed.

The clothes you wore while you were X-rayed are safe to wear. The rays from an X-ray do not remain in the clothing.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a large shower for a young bride-to-be.

After the bride opened all the gifts, she passed around some note-sized envelopes and asked every guest to address an envelope to herself! I had never seen this done before.

Some girls thought it was practical. Others called it tacky. What do you think?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: I think it's a clever time-saver. I would not call it tacky.

Dr. Donohue

Sprains differ from strains

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had what my doctor labeled a second-degree sprain of my right knee. I had to be off my feet and off work for a week and a half. It raised a question in my mind about sprains and strains. When is an injury called a sprain and when a strain? What did second-degree strain mean? — W.F.

A sprain is a different kind of injury than a strain. Sprains involve the ligaments, the tough fibrous cables that hold joints in place, stabilizing them within normal motion ranges. Without them, the knee, for example, would wobble uncontrollably when you tried to stand.

A strain involves the muscles and tendons that connect muscles to bone surfaces. They permit you to use joints, as when walking.

The degree describes the severity of the injury. Distinctions tend inevitably toward the subjective side, but there are reliable generalizations.

A first-degree injury is one in which a few fibers are torn. There may be some inflammation, but by and large the joint retains its range of motion, with pain occurring at the extremes.

In second-degree injury, a large number of fibers are torn. Loss of motion is pronounced and pain and swelling are greater.

In third-degree injury (the worst) there is a complete tear across the ligament. It is severed and there is considerable bleeding within. There is great pain, although in a very severe injury there may actually be absence of pain.

Time needed to heal increases with the degree, as much as three months for a third-degree injury. Casting may be needed and surgery is usually done for a third-degree sprain.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is a spiking temperature? — F.M.

It's temperature that suddenly shoots up, stays high briefly, then drops back down, then shoots up again, and so on. If you charted the patient's temperature over a day or so you'd be a graph line that looked saw-toothed, with sharp hills and valleys. The peaks are the "spikes." Such patterns may indicate certain kinds of infections.

Rape Crisis Services accepts applications for counselors

The Rape Crisis Services of Big Spring is accepting applications for volunteer counselors.

The volunteers are trained to assist sexual assault victims through all aspects of emotional, medical and legal processes. Previous counselor training is not required.

To obtain an application, call 263-3312. The deadline for submitting applications is Jan. 10. Interviews will be Jan. 12, and training sessions will be Jan. 19 and 26. Volunteers must attend both sessions.

RSVP plans 4-day tour to Texas Hill Country

The Retired Senior Volunteers Program is planning a tour to the Texas Hill Country for persons age 55 and older, March 19-22. Cities visited will include Austin, San Antonio, Kerville, Brady, Fredericksburg and San Marcos. The four-day tour should be during the Bluebonnet season and will include tickets to Aquarena Springs in San Marcos. Transportation will be provided by Basin Tours Deluxe Motorcoach.

The tour's total cost of $115 includes three nights accommodations at double occupancy rates, breakfasts, and tickets to Aquarena Springs. Participants will be responsible for their lunch and dinner meals.

Registration deadline is Jan. 11. Non-refundable registration of $20 must be submitted to the Retired Senior Volunteer Office at Building 487 Industrial Park, or mailed to R.S.V.P., Box 391, Big Spring, Texas 79721. Checks should be made payable to R.S.V.P. Scenic Tour.

The balance of $95 is due before February 19. In the event that registration for the tour is low, the registration fees will be refunded. For information and registration forms, contact Joy Decker or Clarie Conger at 267-2589 or 267-2580.

Finns track errant Soviet missile

Suspected cruise missile crosses Norway, plops into Lapland

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Border guards fanned out through the mountainous heart of Finnish Lapland today, searching for a low-flying projectile that Norwegian officials say may have been an errant Soviet cruise missile.

Finnish authorities said their radars noted an "unidentified object" last Friday in the area of Lake Inari in Finland's extreme north and had not been able to determine whether it was a missile.

The Norwegian Defense Ministry said Wednesday that the object appeared to have been a cruise missile of a type fired from Soviet submarines and that it rocketed across far northeastern Norway before disappearing over Finland.

A spokesman for the Norway's Defense Command, Ole R. Bollmann, said the object may have been a training missile that went off its planned course after it was fired from a Soviet vessel in the Barents Sea.

Published reports in Helsinki said the Finnish air force sent two jet interceptors from its base in Rovaniemi in Lapland to investigate the radar blips on Friday, but the pilots saw nothing.

At that time, border guards began, then called off, a search for the object.

But the hunt through the 24-hour darkness of Lapland's winter resumed after the Norwegian announcement Wednesday that a projectile appearing to be a misfired missile had passed into Finnish territory.

The announcement came a day after Finnish President Mauno Koivisto said in his New Year's message that cruise missiles were causing "insecurity" in Scandinavia. He called on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact to ban such missiles from northern Europe.

Asked whether Koivisto was aware of the incident when he made his speech, the source said: "It is a fair assumption that he did. After all, the Finnish border guards had made their observation last Friday."

Neither Norwegian nor Finnish authorities explained the delay in reporting the incident.

Torbjoern Froeynes, state secretary in the Foreign Ministry of Norway, which is a NATO member, described the incident as "of course a clear violation of Norwegian territory." There was no immediate further comment, but officials said privately that a "strong" protest to Moscow could be expected.

Norwegian Defense Ministry spokesman Erik Senstad said in Oslo on Wednesday that the missile probably crossed over Norway by accident. He said it "had a speed similar to an ordinary fighter plane, and that is slightly faster than the speed of sound. That's why it was over Norwegian territory for such a very short time."

Sources said the missile probably passed through about 15 miles of Norwegian airspace before entering Finland.

The object was tracked by Norwegian radar stations as it flew across Røstvatn Lake and the Pasvik River, which forms the border between Norway and Finland at the top of the Scandinavian peninsula.

Embassy refugees go home

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Twelve East Germans boarded a homeward train today, ending months of asylum in the West German Embassy here.

It was the second group in two days to leave without sought-after guarantees of free passage to the West.

The young men and women, some holding children by the hand, entered a second-class passenger car of the Pannonia Express, which arrived from Budapest en route to East Berlin, via Dresden, East Germany.

Seventeen other would-be refugees had taken the same train home Wednesday. A reliable source who would not be further identified confirmed reports that 28 East German asylum-seekers remained holed up in the West German mission.

A stream of East Germans that started arriving in mid-September grew to become the largest group ever known to have sought asylum in a Western diplomatic mission within the Soviet bloc.

At one point, 160 of them were crowding the building, vowing to remain until their Communist government pledged to allow them passage to the West.

That number has shrunk in recent weeks. More and more East Germans returned home as the standoff wore on with no signs that their demands would be met.

East Germany has not changed its terms — promises that those returning would not be persecuted and would be allowed to apply for exit visas, but no guarantees they would be able to emigrate.

Several East Germans approached by a reporter today while boarding refused comment. As on Wednesday, they appeared unescorted either by Czechoslovak police or West German Embassy personnel.

East Germany allowed about 40,000 citizens to leave for West Germany last year — a record. Bonn is worried that East Berlin — embarrassed over such embassy standoffs — might restrict legal exits this year in reaction.

Seven East Germans and two Poles of German extraction are refusing to leave Bonn's embassy in Warsaw. West German legations in Bucharest, Romania, and Budapest, Hungary, also are believed harboring small groups of East Germans.

West Germany says those attempting to force guarantees of emigration have no chance of succeeding. On Dec. 20, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher visited the embassy in Prague and expressed Bonn's view personally to the asylum-seekers.

About 40 East Germans who began a hunger strike here Dec. 14 in support of their demands broke their fast shortly afterward.

Thursday Notes

By Steve Belvin

I'd like to start of this edition of Thursday Notes with praise for a group of football players that really didn't get the accolades they deserved.

I'm referring to the Crossroads Country Football Honor Roll Honorable Mention selections. Due to space limitations, there was not very much said about these 28 performers.

I assure you, these players were a multi-talented group. Some will go on and play college football and some have the heart but not the size to continue playing.

Let's review the honorable mention stars one more time.

The offensive linemen are Colorado City center Johnny Rivera and Forsan guard Marvin Kendrick. Kendrick's attitude is indicative of the entire squad. Not very many defensive linemen overpowered this 5-4, 145-pound giant.

The tight ends were a pair of Dereks. Derek Logback of Big Spring and Stanton's Derek Sorley. Logback was the best blocker of the duo while Sorley had the speed and grace of a wide receiver.

The wide receivers were dandys led by Bobby Headricks of Forsan. C-City, with its vaunted passing attack, placed two HM picks, Armando Rivera and Perry Conner. Mark McMullen of Sands was also a deadly weapon.

The backfield was composed of Forsan's Todd East and Grady's Luis Gonzales at quarterback. Both were run or pass threats. The running backs were paced by 1,000 yard rusher Tim Cope of Klondike. Garden City's Doug Hoelscher and Grady's Dennis Sawyer both gained over 900 yards.

The defensive line didn't have much size but Branton Wooten of Forsan, Mickey Franco of Sands and Scott Waranke of Coahoma were top-notch performers. Borden County sophomore Robin Hood and 5-11, 260-pounder Bobby Alamager of Stanton were also good players.

The linebackers were just a shade behind the first team. They are small and quick. C-City middle linebacker Jay Piland (5-10, 145-pounds) is a perfect example. Mitch Mitchell of Klondike, Wayne Wright of Forsan, Bobby Henry of Coahoma and David Ybarra of Sands were first-class performers.

The secondary was headed by C-City's Gary Marsh, an All-West Texas pick. Klondike's Scott Runge, Garden City's David Montgomery Sands' Johnny Willis and Ronnie Hernandez of C-City were all round out a top-notch Honorable Mention squad.

Congratulations gentlemen on a job well done.

In last week's column recapping the sport year a couple of highlights were overlooked by this reporter.

In March the Steers High School swim team qualified four people for the Regional Swim Meet. The 200 meter medley relay foursome of Terry Bordofski, Robert Chase, Cade Loftin and Brigham Martin all made the trip to Lubbock.

In August the Big Spring Kings captured the State LULAC Tournament championship in Abilene. Third basemen Lupe Lara was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

BYU is Numero Uno

By the Associated Press
Washington will have to wait until Sept. 14 before they can do something about Brigham Young, which pulled the Huskies for the national football championship in the closest race since postbowl voting started in 1968.

On the second Saturday of the 1985 season, the two teams that finished a controversial 1-2 Wednesday in The Associated Press college football poll met in Provo, Utah.

"It makes a good buildup," BYU Coach LaVell Edwards said after learning that his No. 1-ranked Cougars had overcome more than a month of almost constant criticism about the difficulty of his team's schedule and captured the first national championship in the history of the country's largest privately owned university.

"I'm sure both teams will be fired up," said Washington's Don James, who will have absolutely no trouble getting his players ready for that one. "I'll assume there'll be some sparks flying."

In the meantime, words of criticism continued to fly after BYU, the only unbeaten major-college team, received 38 of 60 first-place votes and 1,160 of a possible 1,200 points from The AP's nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The Cougars were ranked No. 1 for the final three weeks of the regular season. "The relative merits and strengths of the leagues (Pac-10 and Western Athletic Conference) had been discussed for six straight weeks — that was the only hope we had," James said. "Week in and week out our players had to go against better athletes than BYU, not necessarily better teams. And Oklahoma played a tougher schedule than we did. We'll put up two fingers (instead of one) if we have to. In my opinion, we went through the season with the most difficult schedule with the best

Even with their 28-10 Sugar Bowl victory over LSU, Nebraska coach TOM OSBOURNE and his Cornhuskers finished Number 4.

University of Washington coach DON JAMES signals that his team is Number 1 after defeating Oklahoma 28-17 in the Orange Bowl. The AP pollsters didn't think so.

USFL draft underway

Generals draft Heisman winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Doug Flutie and four of his Boston College teammates were made territorial choices by the New Jersey Generals today as the United States Football League conducted its third annual draft.

Birmingham, in a trade with Orlando, had the first pick in the open draft and took wide receiver Jerry Rice of Mississippi Valley State. Among the other early open picks were defensive back Tory Nixon of San Diego State, chosen by Arizona, which acquired the pick in a trade with Jacksonville, and defensive back Issiac Holt of Alcorn State, by San Antonio.

Each of the league's 14 teams were assigned schools from which they could pick a total of 25 players each.

In addition to Flutie, who set a career NCAA total offense record with more than 10,000 yards, other Boston College choices by the Generals were tight end Scott Gieselman, wide receiver Gerard Phelan, and defensive backs Todd Russell and Tony Thurman.

The rival National Football League holds its draft April 30, with the Buffalo Bills holding the No. 1 pick by virtue of its 2-14 record, the worst in the league for 1984.

Terry Bledsoe, Bills' general manager, said Flutie is among the leading candidates, but no decision will be made until late January.

Bob Woolf, the Boston-based sports attorney and one of the leading candidates to become Flutie's agent, said he felt Flutie had "a completely open mind" about playing in the USFL.

In other territorial picks, Orlando chose wide receiver Eddie Brown of Miami (Fla.) and William Perry, a 6-foot-1, 325-pound defensive tackle from Clemson; Jacksonville, in need of running backs, chose Robert Lavette of Georgia Tech and Joe McIntosh of North Carolina State, along with wide receiver Al Toon of Wisconsin.

Also, San Antonio took Lombardi Trophy winner Tony Degrate of Texas and wide receiver Buster Rhymes of Oklahoma.

Houston's picks included defensive tackle Ray Childress of Texas A&M and guard Andrew Campbell of Southern Methodist.

Chicago Bears head coach MIKE DITKA, shown left when he played tight end in 1964 for the Bears, and in 1985 as the team's head coach, agreed to a new three-year contract Wednesday.

AT&T Challenge

McEnroe wins opening match

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Winning Wimbledon and the U.S. Open last year figured to have its rewards, and John McEnroe is treating this week's AT&T Challenge of Champions as one of them.

McEnroe, who needed a strong late surge to top Johan Kriek 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 Wednesday night in an opening-round match, said he viewed the event as payment for the kind of year he had.

"It's a reward for the players — they don't pay this kind of money for Wimbledon," said McEnroe.

McEnroe and seven other top players are competing in the unique round-robin event that offers $200,000 in first prize money. But what really lured the players were huge guarantees just to appear in the event, which promoters claim totals $775,000.

"That's something I don't talk about," McEnroe said when asked how much he was guaranteed in appearance money, adding the amount was "a lot."

Mark Myden, head of the company promoting the event, also refused to break down the guarantees, saying it was "confidential information we cannot disclose."

Whatever he is getting paid, McEnroe was forced to earn at least part of it against Kriek, who won the first set and had the event's top seed down 4-2 in the second set before McEnroe won four straight games to pull it out.

In another first round match

Wednesday, Jimmy Connors had little trouble defeating Jimmy Arias 6-0, 7-5, while Vitas Gerulaitis topped Argentine Guillermo Vilas in a second round match, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

"I was lucky I got into the match that way," McEnroe said of his second set against Kriek. "Anything can happen at that point and it could have been over just like that."

McEnroe broke Kriek's service twice in the final set to win the match before a small but enthusiastic crowd.

"There were a few points here and there and that's what made the difference," said Kriek. "Every game he broke me I don't think I played badly."

 Washington, which ended the regular season ranked No. 4, defeated No. 2 Oklahoma 28-17 in the Orange Bowl for an 11-1 record — the most victories in its history — and finished behind BYU with 16 first-place votes and 1,140 points. On Dec. 21, Brigham Young defeated Michigan 24-17 and became only the second major-college team in the last 80 years — Nebraska's 1971 national champs was the other — to go 13-0.

The Top Twenty teams in the Associated Press final 1984 college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records, total points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 and rankings in the previous poll:

BYU's margin of victory was the smallest since The AP went to a postbowl poll in 1968. Alabama won the 1979 national championship by 28 points over Southern California. The closest finish since The AP poll began in 1936 was Alabama's 16-point triumph over Ohio State in 1961 when the national championship was decided on the basis of regular-season play.

Towers topple Nuggets

By The Associated Press
 When Ralph Sampson has a good game, the Houston Rockets are hard to beat. It goes double when Akeem Olajuwon is playing well.

That was the case Wednesday night when the Rockets' so-called "Twin Towers" combined for 56 points and 26 rebounds in a 113-111 National Basketball Association victory over the Denver Nuggets.

In other NBA action, it was Boston 110, New Jersey 95; Atlanta 121, Chicago 107; Detroit 108, Cleveland 100; Phoenix 115, Kansas City 107, and Philadelphia 118, Seattle 109.

The Rockets won the game on Olajuwon's 10-foot jump shot with three seconds left, his 27th point of the game. Sampson had 29, and each collected 13 rebounds.

The victory boosted the Rockets into a first-place tie with Denver in the Midwest Division. Both teams are 19-13 after Houston broke an eight-game losing streak to the Nuggets in McNichols Arena. It also was the Rockets' second victory in three games with Denver this season.

Celtics 110, Nets 95
 Larry Bird scored 23 points, passed off for 10 assists and grabbed seven rebounds to lead the Celtics over the Nets.

It was the fourth victory in five games for the Celtics, who have the best record in the NBA with 27-6. The loss snapped a four-game winning streak for the Nets.

Leading 32-28, the Celtics took charge of the game with eight straight points, including four by Cedric Maxwell, in the second period. The Nets never got closer than eight points the rest of the way and trailed by as many as 20 midway through the fourth quarter.

Mike Gminski led the Nets with 23 points and 18 rebounds. Hawks 121, Bulls 107
 Dominique Wilkins scored 35 points to lead the Hawks past the Bulls. Wilkins scored five of his game-high total in a nine-point Atlanta burst that buried the Bulls after Chicago had pulled to within 85-83.

Atlanta never trailed, grabbing an early 15-6 lead and leading 63-52 at halftime. Wilkins hit a jumper with 6:08 left in the third quarter to give the Hawks a 22-point lead, 84-62.

Michael Jordan and Orlando Woolridge each scored 25 points for the Bulls, but Jordan did not score in the fourth quarter and Woolridge managed only two points.

Pistons 108, Cavaliers 100

Bill Laimbeer scored 16 of his career-high 35 points in the third quarter to lead the Pistons over the Cavaliers. Laimbeer, who surpassed his previous high of 33 set last season, paced Detroit in scoring and rebounding in each of the first three quarters.

Cleveland, led by Johnny Davis with 20 points, trailed 84-71 at the end of the third quarter but rallied to tie the score at 88 with 6:58 remaining in the game on a jump shot by Ben Poquette. But Kelly Tripucka hit two free throws as the Pistons converted 11 of 15 from the line in the final 6:10 to put the game away.

Suns 115, Kings 107

Rod Foster came off the bench to score 11 fourth-quarter points and Jay Humphries added nine to lead the Suns over the Kings.

With the Kings leading 88-82 early in the fourth period, the Suns reeled off 13 straight points in a 2 1/2-minute span to take a 95-88 lead with 8:10 remaining and Kansas City never was able to catch up.

Foster had four points in that spree and Alvan Adams capped the run with a pair of foul shots after Kings forward Mark Olberding was tagged for a double technical for arguing with the referee. Olberding, who at the time was Kansas City's high scorer with 17, was ejected from the game.

spurt in the final four minutes as Philadelphia beat Seattle. Malone led the 76ers with 27 points and 13 rebounds.

It was Philadelphia's sixth straight National Basketball Association victory, and the 76ers remained unbeaten in six games with Pacific Division opponents this season.

With the league's best record at 14-3, Philadelphia remained half a game behind Boston in the Atlantic Division.

SMU drops Rice, 65-57

By The Associated Press
 Southern Methodist Jon Konkak scored 19 points Wednesday to lead the seventh-ranked Mustangs to a 66-57 victory over Southwest Conference foe Rice, while Texas-San Antonio's Derrick Gervin scored 51 points as the Roadrunners pounded Baylor 101-91.

SMU, 10-1, was up by only one at halftime, 25-24, but Coach Dave Bliss told his team to pass the ball more than once and get it to 7-foot center Konkak, a member of the 1984 U.S. Olympic team.

In other SWC games Wednesday night, Arkansas dumped host Texas A&M 70-67 and Texas Tech sneaked past Texas 67-60. The game between Texas Christian and Houston in Fort Worth was postponed because of weather problems and will be played tonight.

In San Antonio, Gervin was 22-32 from the field and 7-8 from the free-throw line. He paced the Roadrunners to a 53-48 lead before Texas-San Antonio exploded in the second half to take a 21-point lead with about nine minutes to play.

Carlos Briggs led Baylor with 30 points. Arkansas, 10-3, was down at halftime 36-32, but came back in the second half.

Texas A&M dropped to 7-4. The Red Raiders, 7-3, were led by senior guard Bubba Jennings' 24 points, 20 of those scored in the second half. Texas, 7-4, got 17 points from forward Mike Walker.

"I think our experience helped when we fell behind by 7," said Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers. "The fact that we were playing at home helped a lot too."

Longhorn coach Bob Weltlich said, "We played really hard and really well especially in the second half. When we got that seven-point lead, our inexperience showed. Our young kids tried to make that seven-point lead a 15-point lead, instead of slowing it down and forcing Tech to play our game."

Konkak, who had eight rebounds against the Owls, said Rice was hesitant in its shooting.

Cancer victim calls illness 'blessing'

Woman draws inspiration from work at home from troubled youngsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Lorraine Johnson, who used her life savings to open the Black Madonna home for troubled youngsters, says the cancer that's stricken her has made her "more determined than ever to keep doing what I've been doing."

"There are alternatives to any problem," said Mrs. Johnson, 52, who founded the home on Chicago's poverty-stricken South Side four years ago. "If you have hope and the will to succeed, you can triumph over despair."

The mother of two and grandmother of five has instilled hope in hundreds of pregnant teen-agers and young mothers. She said Thursday that the cancer that was diagnosed last summer is "a blessing in disguise."

"I'm more determined than ever to keep doing what I've been doing," she said in a telephone interview. "I think if I didn't have these girls and their babies, though, it might get the better of me."

The eight girls living in the Black Madonna home are aware of Mrs. Johnson's struggle against the disease and are drawing strength and inspiration from her valiant fight.

One teen-age resident said Mrs. Johnson "taught me that even if I have problems I have to keep going. I admire her because even though she's sick, she never complains and never stops working."

Mrs. Johnson said her primary concern was the future of the home, which was named for and dedicated to the Virgin Mary. The home lacks money to hire full-time workers, pay off a $1,300 natural gas bill and meet other expenses, despite some funding from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, she said.

Mrs. Johnson and 12 volunteers with expertise in such fields as job counseling, psychology and child care work with eight young women, ranging from 12 to 18 years old, who are either pregnant or have had babies.

While living at the Black Madonna, the girls must attend school or work and handle household chores. The young women with infants are responsible for hiring a baby sitter while they're away from the home. "If there's one thing we must teach the girls, it is that it is not the end of the world because they've had a baby," Mrs. Johnson said. "Like anything else in life, all you need is a little backbone and you can conquer any problem in the world."

LORRAINE JOHNSON continues fight.

Synthetic chemical acts as growth drug

BOSTON (AP) — A synthetic brain chemical released by an implanted pump can trigger the body to produce missing hormones and dramatically spur growth in children otherwise destined to be midgets, a study shows.

The research, conducted on two young boys, is the first to demonstrate that the newly isolated chemical can accelerate growth. One of the youngsters grew at 6 1/2 times his usual rate while receiving the substance.

The chemical — known as human growth hormone-releasing factor, or GRF — represents a new approach to inducing growth in people who otherwise would be extremely short because of a hormonal deficiency.

A substance called human growth hormone is necessary for people to reach typical adult height. Midgets — extremely short but normally proportioned — often lack sufficient quantities of this key chemical.

Until now, scientists have focused their efforts on replacing the growth hormone directly to stimulate growth in these people. They've learned to program microbes to produce the hormone in limitless quantities, and this form of the hormone is expected to be approved soon for routine use.

GRF works instead by prompting the body to produce its own growth hormone. Whether it will prove to be superior to direct injections of growth hormone is still unclear, and more human testing will be necessary.

"We want to find out whether we can give this material in a manner that will make it more attractive than growth hormone as well as maybe more effective," said Dr. Robert M. Blizzard, one of the researchers.

A report on the latest experiment, directed by Dr. Michael O. Thorne at the University of Virginia, was published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

Ordinarily, GRF is produced in the brain by the hypothalamus, and it stimulates the pituitary gland to make growth hormone. In 1982, researchers at the Salk Institute isolated GRF and made synthetic copies of it in the laboratory.

The Virginia doctors tested synthetic GRF on two boys — aged 8 and 10 — both of whom were 3 1/2 feet tall.

They inserted pumps loaded with the chemical under the boys' skin for six months. The pumps released bursts of GRF once every three hours, just as the hypothalamus does.

Before the treatment, the 10-year-old boy had been growing at a rate of less than an inch a year. But while receiving the chemical, his growth spurted to the equivalent of about 5 1/2 inches a year.

The treatment of the other youngster was less successful. His growth increased from an annual rate of 2 inches to 3 inches. However, that child had to take cortisone during his therapy, and the doctors speculated that drug might have interfered with his growth.

Both of the boys had hypopituitarism, which is a frequent cause of extremely short stature. A month ago, they began taking shots of human growth hormone so the doctors can check its effects against those of GRF.

Schroeder's condition upgraded

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William Schroeder's condition has been upgraded to satisfactory for the first time since the artificial heart recipient suffered three strokes Dec. 13, a hospital spokeswoman said today.

His improving condition, which prompted doctors to change his listing from serious but stable, was marked by an unassisted walk through the halls of Humana Hospital Audubon, said spokeswoman Linda Broadus.

"Due to a general improvement in his condition, his medical classification has been upgraded to satisfactory," said Ms. Broadus. "All vital signs are normal. The heart rate is set at 80 beats per minute."

Schroeder, still somewhat depressed from the strokes, is showing signs of regaining his light-hearted demeanor. In recent days, he kidded with family members, and his chief doctor reported Wednesday that Schroeder was joking around, Ms. Broadus said.

Also on Wednesday, Schroeder "walked unassisted through the halls of the hospital, the first time since the stroke on Dec. 13," she said. Schroeder's condition was downgraded from satisfactory to serious when he suffered the strokes.

Schroeder, whose positive outlook was exemplified by his request for a beer shortly after the implant, is keeping a "determined" attitude about his recovery from the strokes, she said.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 4, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when startling and dramatic events can occur, particularly where communications is concerned. So be prepared to make whatever changes may be necessary to take advantage of these surprise opportunities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to get some new plan working that fits your finest talents and allow for varying results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your ideas for advancement may be good, but don't close yourself to suggestions from others, since these could be helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your partners may have a different stance which is puzzling to you, but study it well since it may have merit.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A personal affair which may seem insoluble is not helped by worry, so think it out calmly and objectively.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Being with clever friends and showing you will go along with their ideas can bring fine results. Add to your wardrobe.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Bigwigs and those in public office may have different standpoints now, so be prepared to go along with them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some new angle where your present philosophy is concerned can bring you far greater success in the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may feel restless in your dealings with others, but don't let this disturb your mate or you could later regret it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If sudden changes occur in associations, you had better go along with it, since it will be for the best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be clever in adding extra touches to any work you may be doing and gain more benefits from them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try new methods that will increase creativity, and make revisions to old plans if needed.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get conditions at home handled well and as quickly as you can. Then get your business affairs in fine order.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will always do things quite differently from the norm, but don't try to change this since the greatest success can come from this particular trait. This should be a most interesting and varied life that will stamp your progeny as a unique person.

Ex-Big Spring family hospitalized after two-vehicle collision

AUSTIN — A former Big Spring family, Gordon (Gogi) and Mary Grinnan, and two of their three children are hospitalized in Austin following a two-vehicle collision on Texas 71 in West Travis County.
 The family moved from Big Spring to Austin last July.
 Mrs. Grinnan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ament of Sterling City Route.
 The Grinnan Family Hospital Fund, to help the family offset expenses, has been established at State National Bank. The account number for that fund is 3297535.
 The family was returning to Austin Dec. 26 following a visit to Big Spring when the accident occurred. They were hit head-on by a pickup traveling on the wrong side of the highway.
 The driver of the pickup, Lloyd Allen Huggins, 28, of Round Mountain in Burnet County, was pulling an empty trailer westbound when his truck crossed the center stripe into the eastbound lane in front of the Grinnans' car.
 The driver of the pickup was later charged with driving while intoxicated.
 Grinnan, 30, has been in a coma since the accident. He suffered a head injury and underwent surgery at Brackenridge Hospital. He also sustained a leg fracture. He is listed in critical condition.
 Mrs. Grinnan, 28, suffered various internal injuries and has undergone four surgeries since the accident. She is listed in serious condition. She is in room 732 at Brackenridge Hospital.
 Brian Grinnan, 5, suffered two broken legs and a broken arm. Doctors at Brackenridge Hospital say he may be placed in a body cast soon. Brian had to be freed from the wreckage of the car by workers from the Pedernales Volunteer Fire Department, Hudson Bend Volunteer Fire Department and Austin Emergency Medical Services.
 Michael Grinnan, 2, had to undergo surgery to repair serious internal injuries, according to family members.
 The youngest child, Andy, who was in a child restraint seat, suffered only minor injuries.
 Huggins was treated at Brackenridge Hospital for possible internal injuries.
