Residents cope with slaying

WATSEKA, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois County Sheriff's Department was arranging Friday to return a local man from Big Spring "early next week" to face murder charges in the brutal slaying of a 15-year-old girl, officials said.

Uneasy calm reigned in this eastern Illinois town of about 5,000 as residents tried to cope with the abduction, rape and slaying of Jessica Hosick, whose funeral Thursday drew about 300 people.

"There's probably more locked doors in Watseka today than ever before," department communications specialist Nita Dubble said Friday. "The emotions range from sorrow to fear and anger. It depends on where you go and who you talk to."

James Treece, 18, one of two men charged with murder and other charges in the Dec. 26 abduction, rape and slaying of Jessica Hosick, was arraigned Friday said Lt. Jerry Edwards of the Big Spring Police Department.

Officials study shooting death

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Investigations are progressing into the shooting death of a San Angelo youth in Howard County last November, according to law officials.

Joe Guadalupe Garza, 16, of San Angelo was fatally shot on Nov. 26 when he reportedly tried to flee from Big Spring police officers in a car chase that began on Gregg Street.

The police department asked the sheriff's department for assistance when suspects Garza and Richard Edwin Flores, 17, also of San Angelo, were approaching the southern city limits.

According to reports, Deputy O.D. Majors shot and killed Garza when the youth attempted to run a roadblock the deputy had set up on South Highway 87 near Forsan.

FBI agent U.H. Specht said results of the agency's civil-rights investigation requested by the Big Spring chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) has been submitted to the Department of Justice.

Specht said the agency does not give status reports about its investigations, but added, "all cases must meet certain in-house deadlines which are usually no more than 21 days after we begin the investigation."

Texas Ranger David Byrnes of Snyder, who has been assigned lead officer for the Rangers' probe into the shooting, said the investigation had not been completed because the agency is awaiting results from scientific and technical evidence from the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Austin.

The Ranger investigation was requested by Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard.

"Our part is complete except for results from the DPS lab in Austin," Byrnes said.

The ranger said the lab is conducting tests on the suspect's vehicle and the weapon used in the shooting. He said the tests included measurements of gunfire trajectory, distance and angle.

Byrnes said results from toxicology autopsy tests requested by Dr. Robert Rember of Big Spring

White proposes state water plan

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Mark White on Friday proposed a system of credits that would help finance a water plan designed to alleviate "very serious shortages" — at a cost of up to $42 billion over the next two decades.

White, speaking to the Houston Chamber of Commerce, said he would propose a program to the Texas Legislature that would include an addition of $600 million to the state water development fund and would authorize $250 million in state credits to guarantee city and water district supply and sewer improvement systems.

Using state credits to back local water bonds would require a constitutional amendment and the vote of the public.

The proposed program, White said, also would include conservation, research and a guarantee that the bays and estuaries along the Texas coast would not be seriously degraded.

White called the program a "starting point for our deliberations" and indicated that the final effort would be hammered out in the Legislature.

Among the voluntary conservation measures that would be addressed in the proposed legislation, White said, would be high-efficiency irrigation in West Texas, recommended changes in watering of lawns, building code revisions, mandatory meterings and revised water rate schedules.

At a news conference later Friday, White said the program would not include a tax increase and would be financed almost entirely by bond credits.

He acknowledged that the program would include a slight change in water quality in bays and estuaries but the change would not effect the balance of nature in those wetlands.

In his speech, White noted: "We propose legislation that would require careful evaluation of all water permits within 150 river miles of the Gulf coast... We must ensure that the water resources of our coast, fisheries and tourist industries are securely protected."

White said a major element in his program is that the cost of water projects would be borne by the water users.

He told reporters he believes his program has a better change of passage than one that was rejected in the past by voters.

GOV. MARK WHITE
...water plan

"There are refinements in this program" that were lacking in earlier proposals, he said.

"It is not a blank check," he said. "Many saw the old program as a blank check."

In his speech, White said that 1985 is "our critical moment of decision for the enactment of comprehensive water legislation."

He said the legislation must be a program that calls for "some change in our daily habits but that will not fundamentally alter our way of life or destroy the freedoms we now have."

He cautioned, however, that "we must leave behind the costly pipe dreams of massive water importation — the grandiose schemes to transport all the water we will ever need from the Mississippi River."

He termed the $42 billion cost of the program "enormous" and warned that federal commitment to water projects is rapidly decreasing.

"Over the next 20 years we can expect the federal share to meet only 3 percent of the total cost," he said.

An estimated 200 new municipal sewage treatment plants will need to be constructed before 1990, he said.

Additionally, he said, there is the need for new reservoirs and systems of pumps and pipes to move water to where it is needed.

A FLAG flies over the citadel in the city of Hue, Vietnam. Associated Press photo

Beautiful city reflects many memories of Vietnam's past

EDITOR'S NOTE — The ancient Citadel of Hue still is marked by the bullet holes of the 1968 Tet offensive, when 142 U.S. Marines died in house-to-house combat. This report on Hue today is by George Esper, who was the last bureau chief for The Associated Press in Saigon. It is one in a series of periodic reports from Esper's first return visit to Vietnam in 10 years.

By GEORGE ESPER
AP Special Correspondent
HUE, Vietnam (AP) — Emperors sat in the old imperial capital of Hue in ancient times. The U.S. Marines fought there in modern times.

Hue, with its tree-lined streets and Perfume River, is one of Vietnam's most beautiful cities. It is also one of the largest with a population of more than 300,000.

The ancient imperial capital was established more than 200 years before Christ and was the seat of the Old Annam empire for 21 centuries.

The Vietnamese flag, red with a yellow star, flies from the flag tower of the king atop the Citadel. The Citadel's walls and the old imperial palace within the fortress bear the scars of years of wear and war. North Vietnamese troops held out in the Citadel for nearly a month during their 1968 Tet Lunar New Year offensive.

The walls and ceiling of the Pavilion of Five Dragons, where kings' festivals were held, are pockmarked with bullet and shell holes.

Across a bridge over a man-made lake is the imperial palace itself. The pillars of Peace Hall, where ceremonies were held and the kings received representatives from other countries, are dotted with shell holes.

Near the king's throne are pools of water from a leaky roof that has been shored up temporarily with timber and aluminum while Communist officials await funds from the United Nations for restoration.

The Vietnamese have already repaired gaping holes in the outer walls of the Citadel caused by the fighting which destroyed an estimated 70 percent of Hue's homes and many historical treasures.

U.S. Marines suffered 142 men killed as they fought house-to-house with South Vietnamese allies in 1968 to recapture the city. But Hue, with the rest of South Vietnam, fell to the north in 1975, two years after American forces had left for good.

Communist officials say thousands of Vietnamese gathered in the Citadel on April 30, 1975, to celebrate the fall of the Saigon government.

Over the years, the city has been rebuilt. Except for the Citadel, little damage is visible.

Hue is the home of four universities, a performing arts theater for dance and music, and more than 70 light industries, communist officials say.

It is also the city where one of the most gruesome political purges of the war occurred during the 1968 Tet offensive.

The communists executed more than 2,800 residents, including civil servants, teachers, priests and military personnel. Some were shot. Many were buried alive. Their bodies were dug up after the siege ended.

Lunchroom segregation sparks feud

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP) — In the lunchroom of the Saylesville Elementary School, all children are divided into two classes: the "hot lunchers" and the "brown baggers."

The separation of children has caused a feud between the suburban school system and a local family. The Rhode Island chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union has entered the fray, claiming that the school is breaking federal regulations.

At issue is Principal Samuel Williams' policy of segregating children in the school's lunchroom on the basis of whether they bring their lunch from home or buy a hot lunch at the school.

Williams says his policy helps maintain order and gets the children out of the lunchroom faster, giving them more time to play.

But the DeQuattro family and the ACLU say the year-old policy arbitrarily keeps students from mingling freely during lunchtime. Further, they claim, it violates federal law by discriminating against students in the federally subsidized school lunch program.

The town School Committee has refused to change the policy, and the state Education Department has sent the ACLU complaint to the federal Department of Education. A decision from Washington is pending.

The policy requires students who buy lunch, the "hot lunchers," to sit at the six tables closest to the food-servers. The students who bring their lunch, the "brown baggers" or "carriers," are required to eat at the far six tables.

The ACLU complaint, filed last September, said the federal law states: "The children (participating in the subsidized-lunch program) shall not be required to use a separate dining area."

"There's much less movement, therefore it's much safer for the children," Williams said. "The children can now eat in a calmer, more relaxed environment because the lunchroom runs more effectively."

That is not the way 12-year-old Sherry DeQuattro, who bought her lunch in the sixth grade at Saylesville last year, saw it. Sherry, who now attends a junior high school, spoke out against the policy and got in touch with the Rhode Island chapter of the ACLU.

"I think it's important for any citizen of the United States to stand up for their rights," said Anthony DeQuattro, Sherry's father. "I teach my kids that they should go out and fight for what they believe in... They live in the United States, not Russia."

The DeQuattros have two younger children in the Saylesville school, which has 320 students.

Sherry said she and her friends did not like the policy because it prevented them from sitting with some of their schoolmates. Neither the family nor the school would reveal whether or not Sherry was in the federally subsidized lunch program.

Steven Brown, executive director of the Rhode Island ACLU, agreed with her.

"The rule is simply another example of school officials coming up with arbitrary and petty rules to promote order and discipline in the schools without any sensitivity to the interests of the students. If students want to stick with their friends during lunch hour, they ought to, and concerns about order should not take precedence," he said.

Brown said he believes the policy also breaks federal regulations that prohibit schools from discriminating against children enrolled in the government-subsidized school lunch program.

"This policy has the effect of spotlighting children who participate in the school lunch program," he said. Although not all children who buy lunch at school are part of the federal program, "students and teachers are able to see or at least guess who is participating in the program," Brown said.

Dr. John Ambrogio, superintendent of the Lincoln school system, took issue with Brown. "There's no way of knowing which youngsters are getting free or reduced lunches," he said.

Williams said the policy has the widespread support of parents. "Individual parents say to me, 'keep it up, we think it's good.'"

And teachers serving as lunchroom monitors said they believed the students were unaware of any problem in the lunchroom. "I think it's more of a grown-ups' problem," said one monitor.

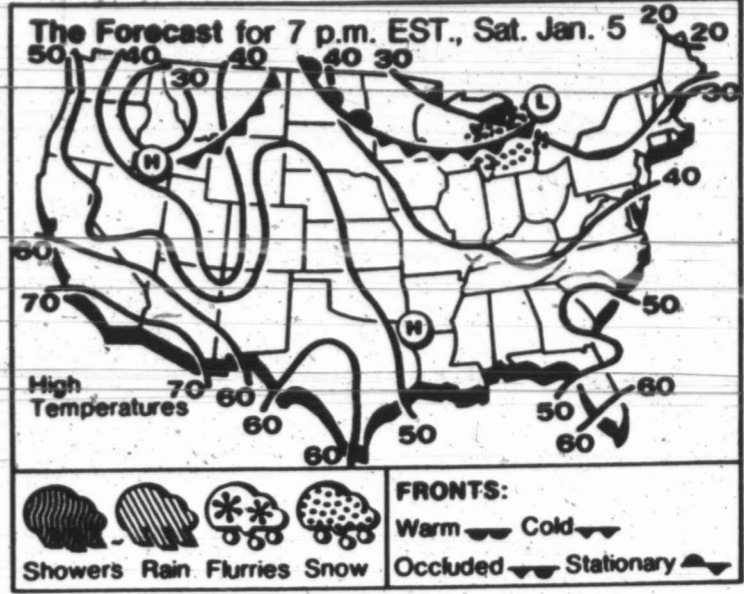

In interviews during a recent lunch period, more than a dozen students questioned were split evenly about whether they liked the policy.

Andrew Duffell, a second-grader, said he likes the new policy. "When you have to bring up your trays... you don't have to walk that far," he said.

But third-grader Chris Hunter said he told his mother he does not like the separation. "Before you could sit with anyone we wanted," he said.

"Now we have to sit here," chimed in his classmate, Seth Blais.

Weather

Local

The local forecast is calling for highs this afternoon in the low 60s. Winds will be light and variable.

State

Fair skies were over most of Texas Friday afternoon as high pressure that centered over the Central Rockies continued to dominate the weather.

Temperatures warmed into the low to mid 50s across most of the state. Extremes ranged from 52 degrees at El Paso to 65 at McAllen and Brownsville.

Strong north winds around 20 mph with gusts to over 30 mph were observed over the High Plains. Northwesterly winds at five to 15 mph were common elsewhere, except far West Texas where light and variable winds were reported, the National Weather service said.

The forecast called for fair skies with slowly moderating temperatures through Saturday, with highs ranging from near 50 in the Panhandle to mid 60s over South Texas and the Concho Valley.

North Texas should have lows Saturday night from 28 degrees to 35 degrees, followed by highs Sunday of 58 to 63.

The forecast for West Texas called for lows from the lower 20s in the Big Bend to lower 30s in the Permian Basin and Concho Valley. Highs Sunday should be in the mid 50s in the southwest mountains and Panhandle to mid 60s in the Concho and Big Bend valleys.

South Texas should have lows Saturday night from the mid 30s to mid 40s and highs Sunday from the low 60s to low 70s.

Forecast

Sheriff's Log

Sheriff seeks information

The Howard County Sheriff's department has received no feedback in reference to a $2,500 reward for information that would help identify persons involved with a burglary that occurred Christmas day at W.H. Ward Jr.'s residence on Knott Road, one mile north of Star Route.

Sheriff A.N. Standard says the reward still stands and the names of informants who provide confidential information regarding this burglary will be kept anonymous.

According to sheriff's reports, several persons gained entry in the residence on Dec. 25th through a north bedroom window.

Total estimate of the stolen items is listed at $3,211. Some those items included: A semi-automatic .22 six inch barrel revolver, a pair of blue lizard Justin brand boots, a pair of black custom made boots, a 25-inch Zenith television with remote control and a coin collection made up of Susan B. Anthony Dollars and Kennedy Half Dollars that were contained in a 10 by 14-inch red lined box.

Other reports from the Sheriff's office include:

• A Big Spring man appeared in 118th District Court Friday afternoon and District Court Judge Jim Gregg revoked his probation for a burglary charge.

John Rowland Danko, 24, 1012 W. Third was sentenced to two years in the Texas Department of Corrections and given credit for eight days served in county jail.

6 arrested in marijuana raid

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Federal, state and local narcotics agents on Friday arrested six people and seized 1,268 pounds of bagged marijuana worth an estimated $2 million that reportedly was grown in nearby Knox County.

Three people were arrested at a Seymour cafe, where the marijuana was seized in a van parked outside at 9:45 a.m., and three more people were arrested at Wichita Falls about 30 minutes later, FBI Special Agent U.H. Specht of Dallas said Friday night. A two-month investigation preceded the raid and arrests, he added.

"All the arrests were without incident," Specht said. All six were arraigned late Friday afternoon before U.S. Magistrate Robert K. Roach of Wichita Falls, who set bond at $10,000 each, Specht said. The suspects then were taken to the Wichita County Jail.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 14.

The Texas Department of Public Safety, Wichita Falls narcotics officers and the federal Drug Enforcement Agency participated in the arrests at Seymour, Specht said. The Wichita Falls arrests were made by FBI and DEA agents, he said.

The three arrested at Seymour were charged with possession with intention to distribute marijuana in violation of federal law, Specht said, while the three arrested in Wichita Falls were charged with aiding and abetting.

Specht identified those arrested at Seymour as Larry Wayne Conner, 35, of Truscott, Texas; Katherine Hammonds Carroll, 32, of Truscott; and Samuel Powell

Brown, 26, of Ringgold, Ga. Those arrested at Wichita Falls were identified as Lewis Bean Bates, 41, of Little Rock, Ark.; Ervin Eugene Baker, 53, of Alvin, Texas; and Kenneth Wayne Carroll, 39, of Truscott. Seymour is 50 miles southwest of Wichita Falls and about 150 miles northwest of Dallas. Truscott is a community in northern Knox County about 40 miles northwest of Seymour.

All results from the Rangers' investigation will be submitted as evidence to the grand jury, Byrnes said.

District Attorney Rick Hamby, who requested a special prosecutor from the Prosecutor's Council in Austin, said last week the council

"was acting expeditiously and looking favorably at my request. A few things need to come together before we call a grand jury together."

Sheriff Standard said Majors returned to limited duties in the sheriff's office on Dec. 17. His status is pending the outcome of the grand jury investigation, Standard said.

Slaying

Treece waived extradition, Edwards said.

Ms. Dubble said Iroquois County officers will be sent to accompany Treece back to Wateka.

Treece was arrested Thursday in Big Spring on a fugitive warrant after Illinois authorities notified their Texas counterparts of his arrival there Monday.

Iroquois County Sheriff Joe Mathy said Treece was a neighbor of Ms. Hosick's and that the .38-caliber handgun used in the shooting was recovered from the Treece apartment.

Mathy said physical evidence as well as statements given to police indicate Treece fired the four shots that killed Ms. Hosick.

The second man charged in the murder, William Braid, 25, of Wateka, has been held in the county jail without bond since his arrest Tuesday.

Police believe the Miss Hosick, who had been staying with relatives while her mother was out of town, was abducted from her apartment when she returned to feed the cat, said Mathy. They believe she was raped in Treece's apartment, then driven to a rural Onarga spot, raped again, and shot.

Hunters found her body early Monday, Mathy said.

At funeral services held Thursday for Miss Hosick, the Rev. Wayne Meyer called her death "a community sorrow."

"I hate these people that did that, I honestly do," said Meyer, pastor of the First Christian Church of Wateka. "I say this as a person of God who has struggled a great deal with this ..."

"They violated a human being and caused damage that was not repairable long before the bullets were fired."

Referring to Miss Hosick as Jessi, as her friends and relatives do, Meyer described her as an unsophisticated, sprightly youngster who "smiled easily."

She was active in Wateka's First Baptist Church, participating in the youth group and summer camp programs.

"The truth is no matter how good you are, no matter how deep her Christian faith may have been, this is not a just world; things are not fair; to be alive in this world is always a risk," Meyer said.

Police Beat

Hydraulic jack missing

A 2½-ton hydraulic jack was taken Thursday night in a burglary of the Save More Shop at 1511 Gregg, owner Ida Mae Biddle told police Friday.

The burglary occurred between 6 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday, according to police reports. The hydraulic jack was valued at $200.

Police say shooting accidental

A Big Spring man wounded Friday morning by a small-caliber gun was accidentally shot, police said Friday afternoon.

Officers at the scene Friday had said the shooting, which occurred at 9:25 a.m. at 308 W. 20th, appeared to be self-inflicted.

The man, whose name was not released, was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital. His condition is unknown.

He was wounded in the upper-left chest by a .22 caliber revolver, police said.

Montemayor resigns post

AUSTIN (AP) — State prison board member Ruben Montemayor, whose re-appointment attracted sharp criticism in October, resigned for "personal reasons" Friday, according to Gov. Mark White.

The resignation came four days before the Legislature convenes. White's appointment of Montemayor was subject to Senate confirmation. The Senate allows an appointee's hometown senator to block a nomination.

Newly elected Sen. Cynthia Krier, R-San Antonio, would not say Friday if she had planned to oppose the nomination.

Police nab woman

CLEVELAND — An armed woman who held seven hostages aboard a Pan American World Airways jet was captured after being wounded late Friday in a gunbattle with SWAT teams who stormed the plane after a six-hour standoff, authorities said.

The woman, whose identity was not released, took control of the plane around 3 p.m. after she pulled a gun at an airport boarding gate, shot a gate attendant and forced her way aboard the waiting plane.

She was hit by gunfire and was taken to a hospital after she was apprehended around 9:25 p.m., said Joseph Griffin, agent in charge of the FBI office in Cleveland.

"The SWAT teams engaged in a gunfight with the subject," Griffin said. "The subject was hit."

Ten officers, including FBI agents and city police, entered the Boeing 727 after 9 p.m., when four of the seven hostages, including an 8-month-old baby, were still aboard. Three hostages had escaped from the rear of the plane hours earlier.

Griffin said the woman fired one shot as the SWAT teams entered the plane. Griffin said two shots were returned by law enforcement officers, and the suspect was hit.

Child's death probed

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Four boys ages 4 to 12 probably didn't mean to kill a deaf and retarded 6-year-old boy during a playground scuffle, but they certainly intended to "rough him up a little," police said Friday.

The boys punched and kicked Torrence Davis in a fight outside the Pleasant City Community Center Nov. 25. One day later, the boy died as a result of his injuries, according to a police report.

"I don't think that they really meant to do what they were doing," said Florence Ellison, 20, Torrence's mother. "But I think it's best they be punished because they might do somebody else's child like they did my baby."

Police Lt. Jerry Winebrenner agreed that the children probably didn't mean to kill the boy, who was left at the playground while his mother visited relatives nearby in the poor neighborhood.

"I don't think there was a premeditated, first-degree murder situation," he said. "But they no doubt intended to rough him up a little."

Wanted man captured

PITTSBURGH — A former policeman and Marine officer whose name was on the FBI's most-wanted list in connection with the 1978 shooting of a liquor store clerk was captured in southwestern Pennsylvania Friday, the bureau said.

Vincent James Russo, 30, was arrested at his home in nearby Beaver Falls "without incident," said Jeff Kimball, an FBI spokesman in Pittsburgh. Russo was not armed, he said.

NADINE ROTH, wife of jailed pastor D. Douglas Roth, is arrested at Trinity Lutheran Church in Clairton, Pa., after being ordered to vacate the church.

Church arrests

Minister's supporters taken from church

CLAIRTON, Pa. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies splintered a door, rushed into a Lutheran church Friday and arrested seven of a jailed minister's supporters who had vowed not to be removed peacefully from the building they held in defiance of a county judge.

"There was no resistance whatsoever," Allegheny County Sheriff Eugene Coon said after the seven were rousted from Trinity Lutheran Church to face the judge who had declared them in contempt four days earlier.

Claiming to be obeying God's instruction to preach against "corporate evil" on behalf of the unemployed, the group previously had displayed baseball bats and gas masks and threatened to use "defensive violence" to hold the church — and the access to media attention it afforded them.

"There wasn't going to be any violence. That was all psychology," said Ron Weisen, United Steelworkers Local 1397 president and a tough-talking supporter of the Rev. D. Douglas Roth, as he watched the police action with other spectators from across a street.

Coon had said he would arrest anyone who interfered with the raid.

The seven arrested included Nadine L. Roth, 33, the minister's wife.

The 33-year-old pastor is serving 90 days in jail for civil contempt. Roth defied Judge Emil E. Narick's order to obey his bishop and step down as pastor of the congregation he polarized with anti-corporate, pro-labor rhetoric. Long-time members of the blue-collar congregation also contested his use of church funds to support labor activism.

Others arrested inside the church included Shipbuilders Local 61 President Darrell Becker, 34, who is feuding with Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh over a protracted strike; Harry Dinkel, 65, vice president of Trinity Lutheran's council; Pamela J. Ramsey, 25, of Zelienople; and Rebecca L. Fosbrink, 36, of Clairton.

Two others — Paul M. Brandt, 34, of Pittsburgh, a member of Shipbuilders Local 61, and the Rev. William Rex, 36, a Lutheran minister from Monroeville — had been named as fugitives from criminal charges filed in connection with a disturbance at a Presbyterian church attended by officials of major Pittsburgh corporations, Coon said.

Brandt and Rex were accused of being the masked figures who lobbed balloons filled with skunk-scented water and dye at families sharing a Christmas dinner at Shady Side Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh.

Narick scheduled a hearing for the Trinity Lutheran group later Friday.

As sheriff's deputies pried open a wooden side door and shouldered their way past a piano and other barricades, the seven huddled in a ground floor vestibule. Through a set of glass doors, chained shut from inside, the protesters could see a phalanx of blue-uniformed deputies, night sticks in their hands, some with sidearms strapped to their waists.

"A show of force had to be made so that there wouldn't be any resistance or any violence or any bloodshed in the church," Coon said. "We didn't want to force our way into the church, but there was no alternative. They can't harbor fugitives in there and expect we're not going to come in and get them. I didn't relish it at all."

Deputies removed five baseball bats, a metal pipe and about 10 gas masks along with church records to be turned over to officials of the Lutheran Church in America.

The church lawn was staked with "No Trespassing" signs, and Coon said deputies would be posted there until Narick and Lutheran officials determine what to do with the property.

Refugees await aid

ASHKELON, Israel — Families of Jewish refugees from famine-stricken Ethiopia sat on the lobby floor of the three-star King's Hotel on Friday and stood in groups around the entrance.

Many of the 100 refugees, brought to Israel by secret airlift, were fresh from showers, with hotel towels draped over their heads. Wide-eyed children clung to their mothers' legs, clearly wary of their new surroundings.

The hotel has been the first stopping point for thousands of Ethiopian immigrants, members of a Jewish community from northern Ethiopia that has been isolated from the rest of the Jewish world for 3,000 years. Many of the trappings of the 20th century are alien to them.

"They've never seen telephones, they don't know what money is," said one immigration official at the hotel who spoke on condition he was not identified.

Officials have said many of the new immigrants have arrived barefoot and dusty and may speak only their native language of Amharic.

Weather delays search

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Heavy rain mixed with snow fell on Illimani Mountain Friday, forcing mountaineers, journalists and a U.S. diplomat to suspend their search for an Eastern Airlines plane that crashed with 29 people aboard.

However, three experienced Bolivian climbers continued up the mountain.

A group of rescuers who returned to La Paz said it may take a week or longer to reach the wreckage of Eastern flight 980, but the Bolivian climbers said they hoped to reach the plane on Saturday.

The Eastern Boeing 727 slammed into the snow-covered peak on Tuesday, minutes before it was to land in La Paz. Officials say there is no hope that any of the passengers and crew, eight of them Americans, are still alive.

Jackson calls for pact

LONDON — The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Friday that the apparent straying of a Soviet missile over Finland and Norway demonstrates the need for an agreement in next week's U.S.-Soviet nuclear weapons talks.

"A missile can be launched by accident, computer malfunction or a margin of error," Jackson told reporters at London's Heathrow Airport. "We must have a bottom-line commitment to the freezing of these weapons."

Jackson said the Soviet missile incident was "in a divine way a providential prelude to the Gromyko-Shultz talks."

U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are to hold preliminary arms control talks Monday and Tuesday in Geneva, Switzerland. "The human race is at stake and Europe is the first in the line of fire," Jackson said.

Soviets admit missile strayed from course

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Soviet Union said Friday an old, unarmed Soviet cruise missile strayed during a firing exercise a week ago and may have flown over Finland and Norway, the Oslo government said. The Soviets expressed their regrets.

Moscow's statement and apology, made by its ambassadors to Norway and Finland, came two days after Norway said a low-flying projectile passed over Norwegian territory and disappeared in Finland on Dec. 28. No trace of the missile has been found.

The Soviet envoy to Oslo, the Norwegian capital, was quoted as saying an unarmed target drone launched from a Soviet ship during firing exercises in the Barents Sea had malfunctioned and might have violated Finnish and Norwegian airspace.

Norwegian Foreign Minister Svann Stray said Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Polyanski expressed his government's regrets over the incident, and told him the intruding missile was "an old Soviet cruise missile" used as a target drone.

Stray said Norway now considers the case closed. "This apology on the Soviet ambassador's part improved relations between Norway and the Soviet Union and also between East and West," he said in Oslo.

In its announcement, the Finnish Foreign Ministry did not specify the type of projectile discussed by V.M. Sobolev, the Soviet ambassador to Finland.

"While having firing exercises, a firing target had because of a technical fault strayed from its given course," the ministry statement quoted Sobolev as reporting.

"He said it might have been possible that the target might at that point have violated Finnish airspace. Sobolev expressed his government's regrets because of what happened."

The ministry's chief political officer, Klaus Toernudd, said: "The type of the flying target is not important, because we have obtained a diplomatic solution to the case."

A Finnish government source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Sobolev used "flying target" several times in his report to Finnish Foreign Minister Paavo Vayrynen.

The source said the Finns considered the issue so touchy that the decision was made not to call the object a "drone" because that might imply it was a rocket.

Finland shares Northern Europe's longest land frontier with the Soviet Union. Its policy of maintaining Western social, political and economic systems concurrently with strong trade and official friendship with Moscow has come to be known abroad as "Finlandization."

The Finnish government source said the Foreign Ministry will issue a final statement on the case after receiving a full report from the border guard, which has been searching for traces of the projectile in Finnish Lapland. The search had been centered near Lake Inari, some 10 miles from the Soviet border. Finnish Radio said before the Soviet apology was announced that the search area had been moved toward the Norwegian border.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Make arrangements with friends so that you can have a good time. Some special thought for your mate brings excellent response.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she is apt to be very sensitive and should early be taught to be objective, otherwise others could easily hurt his or her feelings. One who will have a great love for anything of the past, art, antiques, etc. Much success is possible. Be sure that the diet is good.

MONDAY, JAN. 7, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: As the new weeks opens, think more in terms of the long-range plans that you have in mind but put forth some extra effort to make them more a part of your daily activities.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Know what the desires of those who dwell with you are and cooperate more with them; give them backing. Much can be accomplished.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Important that you give partners information they need if you are to gain their cooperation more willingly.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to be persistent if you are to gain the benefits that are rightfully yours. Listen to the ideas of a co-worker.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Utilize spare time for any pleasures you like so that they are not beyond your ken.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you feel frustrated at home, discuss this with family members and make better arrangements. Get your abode in fine order.
VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Discuss a better way to handle daily routines with partners and employees. Let there be a spirit of comradeship.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Bigwigs are watching how you handle your job and finances, so be sure to do your best. Show that you are thinking clearly.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to contact individuals who have the information you need to get your plans working better.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do the research work quietly that will provide the facts and figures you need to make progress.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Outline your plans to good friends and allies as they will cooperate with you, and this will be mutually helpful.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your business duties and perform them well so that a bigwig will be impressed and you gain extra benefits.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be clever and you can gain your fondest ambitions, but don't daily for best results. You can later relieve tensions.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can easily get at the core of any matter with which he, or she is concerned, so be sure to give as fine an education as possible. The child should be stubborn and should early be taught to listen to the ideas of others and profit thereby, as well as have more regard for others.

Consumers should beware of fad diet phrases

How can you tell a legitimate weight-loss plan from a fad diet? Here are several phrases commonly used to promote fad diets. When you see them on books, diet foods or other weight-loss products, beware!

• "Fast and Easy Weight Loss." It may be fast and easy, but it won't be permanent. This usually means that water and muscle mass are the initial losses instead of fat. These sudden losses can harm your health and the pounds will eventually return.

• "Magic Diet Food." There is no magic diet food. Going on a one or two-food diet simply starves your body of the nutrients it needs. After your body uses up stored nutrients, your health begins to decline. If you lose weight it's because you cut calories, not because of a special food.

• "Secret Formula Revealed." The secret is that it's unresearched and untested by nutritionists and medical experts.

• "You Don't Have to Move a Muscle." Exercise is absolutely necessary for sustained weight loss. It helps you preserve your lean body mass, lose fat, and keep your metabolic rate up so you'll burn more calories.

• "Melt Fat Without Hunger." If you eat because you're hungry, this is just avoiding the problem. Dieters need to understand hunger and cravings and make some changes in lifestyle habits to deal with them.

• "Eat All You Want." Follow this advice and you'll gain weight. Eating all you wanted was what led to the original weight gain. A legitimate weight loss program will help you learn to eat in moderation.

• "Lose Without Effort." You have probably worked hard to accomplish many things in life. Why should losing weight be any different?

A fad diet makes promises like these, but it won't deliver. You may lose a few pounds and feel like you've gotten something out of it, but in the long run, a fad diet will only disappoint. A legitimate weight-loss plan includes a nutritious, balanced diet, regular exercise, and help in making lifestyle and behavior changes.

DIETERS DON'T FAIL, FADS DO

Fad diets are not only costly, but they create morale patterns too. The repeated failure to lose pounds or maintain weight loss can decrease dieters' motivation, lower their self-esteem and lead to strong feelings of depression.

Each year over ten million Americans spend more than $10 billion on weight loss schemes. In addition to diet books promising immediate and substantial weight loss, other common treatments marketed today include powdered diet formulas, pre-measured packaged food, appetite suppressants and various drug injections. Other weight loss products include body wraps, spot reducing creams, rubber exercise suits, cellulite scrubbers and electrical stimulation. Losing weight rapidly is like a public "show-and-tell." People can't help but notice a rapid twenty-, thirty-, or forty-pound drop in a friend's weight. But the sad fact is that 95% of the people who lose pounds this way gain them back within a year. And those same friends also notice when the dieter's weight goes back up.

People who have rapidly lost and regained weight many times can lose hope. After several failures on various fad diets, they may have little energy for programs that are well established, require more effort and are more supportive of long-term weight management.

Maintaining weight loss for life involves eating nutritionally balanced meals, exercise, behavioral change, stress management and psychological support. But fad diets don't confront the problem on weight maintenance. And when the fad diet fails, the dieter feels like a failure too.

Arbor Day set aside to commemorate trees

Did you know that Arbor Day, a time set aside to commemorate trees, has been designated by the Texas State Legislature as the third Friday in January? Governor White has proclaimed Friday, January 18 as the 1985 Texas Arbor Day.

The Legislature resolved in 1949 that Arbor Day be devoted to the planting and cultivation of Forest, shade and ornamental trees throughout the state and that it should be observed for that purpose in a manner deemed best by the people of each community. Legislators recognized that "Arbor Day gives us an opportunity to express a deep interest in trees and learn about forest conservation. People who love trees for their beauty also have an active interest in conservation of Texas' forests."

Actually, Arbor Day, as we know it, was first observed in Nebraska

(a state with very few trees) as early as 1872. The idea spread to Kansas and Tennessee in 1875 and Minnesota in 1876. The first Texas observed continuously in Texas.

Arbor Day provides an opportunity for schools, youth groups, service and garden clubs, and other groups to focus attention on trees. Suggested program materials are available from county Extension offices throughout the state.

Trees help supply oxygen we need to breathe. Yearly each acre of young trees can produce enough oxygen to keep 18 people alive.

Trees help keep our air supply fresh by using up carbon dioxide that we exhale and that factories and engines emit, while producing the oxygen we breathe.

Trees use their hairy leaf surfaces to trap and filter out ash, dust and pollen particles carried in the air. Trees dilute gaseous pollutants in the air as they breathe.

Trees can be used to indicate air pollution levels of sulfur dioxide, just as canaries were once used to detect dangerous methane gas in coal mines.

Trees provide food, shelter and rest areas for birds and other animals.

Trees lower air temperatures by enlisting the sun's energy to evaporate water from the surface of leaves.

Trees increase humidity by releasing moisture from their stems, branches, and leaves.

Trees provide us a source of food and materials for many products, including lumber for buildings and tools; cellulose for paper and fiber; as well as plastics, nuts, medicines, mulches, oils, gums, syrups, and fruits.

Trees slow down forceful winds. Trees cut noise pollution by acting as barriers to sound.

Trees shade us from direct sunlight better than any sombrero. They are welcome in parking lots on hot sunny days.

Trees camouflage harsh scenery and unsightly city dumps, auto graveyards, and mine sites.

Trees offer a challenge to youthful-climbers.

Tree branches support swings, ropes, and hide-outs.

Tree leaves break the onslaught of pelting raindrops on the soil surface and give the soil a chance to soak up as much water as possible.

Tree leaves, when fallen, cover the ground to keep the soil from drying out.

If you have any questions or need more information please call the County Extension office 267-6671.

By DON BISHOFF
The Register-Guard
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Grace Small is grounded these days, which is a shame. But she still can travel a long way on her memories. Her tiny Danebo-area trailer home is crammed with 80 scrapbooks of newspaper clippings, photos and postcards, chronicling her days as Eugene's "Hitchhiking Grandmother." Whenever the travel yen struck her — which was often — Mrs. Small stuck out her thumb and went.

To every continental state, including Alaska, to Puerto Rico, to Europe. But don't ask how many miles she traveled on her thumb. "Honey, I've been across the United States at least 10 times," she said. "You figure it out if you want to."

Mrs. Small kept hitchhiking until a few years ago — when she already was well into her 80s. She is 89 now.

But a series of small strokes that began last year put her in and out of hospitals and nursing homes for a time, and sapped her travel strength.

Mrs. Small first stuck out her horns — and her thumb — in the 1950s, when she was in her 50s and already a grandmother several times over. (The current count: "Four children, eight grandchildren, and I don't know how many great-greats.")

What turned her into a senior citizen version of Jack Kerouac? "Well, I wanted to go someplace, and it cost money." She wanted to visit her grown children and other relatives and friends scattered around the country.

Mrs. Small was born in a small town in Illinois and moved to Oregon — first Salem, then Eugene — after her divorce. She worked a variety of jobs, but never earned enough to finance her wanderlust by conventional travel means.

So she'd pack her tin suitcase, don her little veiled hat, gloves, sensible shoes and jersey coat, and start cadging rides. "I tried to look just like a lady going to church."

She stayed in YWCAs and hostels, and at the homes of people she'd met on previous trips. "You see, my address book is set up according to states," she said, holding up a worn little black book stuffed with pages. "Then, two or three times, the police have taken care of me — and I let 'em." But they always put her up in a hotel, never in jail, she added — and never gave her a ticket for illegal hitchhiking.

Mrs. Small said she never worried about troubles from the people who picked her up along the way.

"You have to know where to stand, who to ride with," she said. "I turned down as many rides as I took. The car told me what kind of people they were, and I was able to tell who was going to be interesting. If I didn't like their looks, I didn't get in. Only one or two times did I make a mistake."

One name, she said, as she was hitchhiking across a desolate stretch of New Mexico and was picked up by two men and a boy. When they stopped their car at a roadside tavern, one of the men took Mrs. Small aside and told her, "When we get back, you be gone. I don't like what Dad's planning."

What he was planning, Mrs. Small surmised, was to rob her and dump her in the desert. So she quickly took the hint. "I flagged me down a truck," she said. "That's one time in life when the Lord delivered me."

In 1966, when Mrs. Small was in her late 60s, she took a plane to Europe — after hitchhiking to New York to catch it. She had cashed in her life insurance policy to pay for the plane ticket and a Eurorail pass that took her through 12 countries.

"But when I got back to London, I was out of money," she said. "All I had was my return trip ticket." And the plane ticket was from Glasgow, Scotland. "I had to hitchhike across England to Glasgow to catch the plane. I had a wonderful time. Some boys from Iowa picked me up, and we walked on Hadrian's Wall and washed our hands in Loch Lomond. We had a ball."

Mrs. Small lives alone, as she has for the past 30-plus years, refusing to move in with her children. Her travels now are limited to trips to church, senior citizen club and historical society meetings.

Occidental, Diamond Shamrock considering corporate merger

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corp. and Diamond Shamrock Corp. announced Friday that they are considering a merger, a corporate marriage that would form the nation's seventh largest oil company.

One source close to the parties, who spoke only on condition that he not be identified, said it was "an accomplished fact that Occidental would either acquire or merge with Diamond Shamrock."

In a joint statement, the companies said only that they "are engaged in discussions looking toward a possible business combination."

The companies said directors would meet Monday to consider the proposal and that "a further announcement is expected to be made shortly thereafter."

The terse announcement confirmed Wall Street speculation that erupted earlier Friday after Occidental Petroleum and Diamond Shamrock both asked the New York Stock Exchange to suspend trading in their stock pending news announcements. On Thursday, Occidental Petroleum closed at $26.75 a share and Diamond Shamrock finished at $17.75.

Blue Blazers, Ambassadors plan 1985 membership drive

The 1985 Chamber of Commerce Membership Drive will take place Jan. 14 through 18, according to Ray Alexander of the Big Spring Ambassadors and Sue Balios of the Blue Blazers.

Training sessions designed to help prepare individuals for the drive will be conducted by Pat Porter. The sessions, which will be held at the Chamber of Commerce conference room, are scheduled at the following times:

Wednesday, Jan. 9 — 7 a.m., Continental breakfast included
Thursday, Jan. 10 — 5 p.m.
Friday, Jan. 11 — noon

The drive will begin officially with a kick-off breakfast meeting at 7 a.m. Jan. 14 at the Holiday Inn Patio Room. Reservations for any of the training sessions as well as for the kick-off breakfast should be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 263-7641.

Ambassadors and Blue Blazers are planning to organize into 10 teams, each consisting of three Ambassadors and three Blue Blazers. The teams will compete for prizes as individuals and as teams, with credit being earned for any new Chamber membership signed up during January.

Prizes will be awarded at the February meetings of the Ambassadors and Blue Blazers.

All Chamber members are invited to participate in the drive and may obtain more information by calling the Chamber at 263-7641.

In other Chamber news, tickets are on sale for the annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, which will be held Feb. 9 at 7 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

This year's theme is "Forward with vision." Tickets are $12.50 per person and may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce or from any member of the Ambassadors or Blue Blazers.

Sale may ease unemployment

HOUSTON (AP) — Tenneco's purchase of International Harvester facilities in Illinois could help alleviate unemployment in the state's Quad Cities area, Illinois Gov. James Thompson said.

Thompson met Thursday with Tenneco chairman James L. Ketelsen and Rock Island, Ill., Mayor James Davis to discuss the fate of tractor and farm implement factories in west central Illinois.

In November, Tenneco announced the purchase of part of the manufacturing capacity of International Harvester. The $430 million deal included a plant in East Moline, Ill., and the machine tools at a plant in Rock Island. Both plants, which are in neighboring cities, were shut down earlier by IH. Also shut down was a plant in nearby Bettendorf, Iowa, operated by J.I. Case, a division of Tenneco.

Thompson said the meeting produced a "good news, bad news" situation, but he forecast that Tenneco has plans that eventually may increase employment in the Quad Cities area.

"The good news is that there is a potential for higher employment in that area than there would have been if Tenneco had not purchased" the International Harvester facilities, said Thompson.

Ketelsen said Tenneco had no plans to re-open the Rock Island plant, and the East Moline and Bettendorf plants will remain closed through this year, but may reopen in 1986.

Eventually, he said, Case and some of the International Harvester plants will be combined to develop a manufacturing capacity in line with the demand. This could put people back to work in the Quad Cities area, he said.

Thompson said he and Davis "leave Houston with a great deal of hope for the total employment in the quad cities area."

The governor said he now felt Tenneco's International Harvester acquisitions "will benefit Illinois and benefit the Rock Island area."

Davis agreed. "We all know it was just a matter of time before we'd not have a plant at all," the mayor said. "We are convinced that the Tenneco buyout is a our saving grace."

Club celebrates anniversary

Kiwanis International, founded in Detroit in 1915, is celebrating its 70th year. Locally, the Kiwanis Club was chartered April 16, 1929. Current officers for the 67-member club are George Walker, president; Carl Powers, first vice president; Keith Gibbons, second vice president; and Billy T. Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The largest fundraiser is the annual pancake supper to fund its work with the handicapped, disabled, elderly, poor, homeless and wayward.

The high school Key Club and the college Circle K are sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

There's no place for selfish, cynical, or static people in the ranks of the Kiwanis. Thanks, Kiwanis.

Dr. Emmitt Conrad, state board of education, will be keynote speaker for the Alpha Phi Alpha banquet at the Holiday Inn Jan. 26. Open to the public by reservation, this is a good opportunity to hear more about upcoming education policies and changes. Call Dock Voorhies, 263-8265.

Czechoslovakian pianist Boris Krajny will be in concert here next Friday night at the First Baptist Church auditorium. Sponsored by the Piano Teachers Forum and the Chamber Cultural Affairs Committee, tickets are available at the Chamber, Dunlaps, Accent Shoppe and Kopper Kettle.

The Rape Crisis Center of Big Spring is accepting applications for volunteer counselors to assist sexual assault victims through all aspects of emotional, medical and legal processes. To obtain an application, call 263-3312 before Thursday. Interviews will be Jan. 12 and training sessions will be held Jan. 19 and 26.

The new year has begun optimistically. Pulling information from several sources of experts and agencies' forecasts, the following is the economic outlook for 1985 in a nutshell.

- In general...a period of healthy growth with low to moderate inflation.
- High tech...year of consolidation as smaller companies merge with bigger companies; more robotics usage in industry; growing integration of computers and telephone systems.
- Finance...from banking to inurance, there will be increasing alertness to customer needs; electronic home banking will explode; streamlined to customer services, new deposit instruments and joint ventures between banks and insurers.

• Energy...conservation and moderating prices will be the marks of the energy industry this year as it continues to adjust to the market stock waves set off in the '70s by oil shortages and price escalations.

• Communications...a year of rapid change and uncertainty as "equal access" telephone service becomes a reality; long-distance calls will reach $50 billion; sharp increase in cellular phone service; shopping and banking from home will gain acceptance.

• Money...investment houses and brokerage firms could enjoy financially fulfilling year as inflation, interest rates and federal spending are under control; more mergers and acquisitions; greater focus on municipals; dollar will be viewed as a haven both here and abroad; innovation will continue.

• Basic industries...auto boom will flatten to a slow steady rate with quality and productivity improving; a good year for chemicals both here and in export market; slow growth for metals of steel, aluminum and copper industries.

• Marketing...advertising expected to reach $100 billion as markets are segmented further to reach ethnic and other diversity of this nation.

• Agribusiness...this could be the year American agriculture — the nation's largest economic sector — finally returns to the free market system with less government domination of price and production. Farm and food industry income will improve; other changes: shift continues toward fresh fruit and vegetables; increased competition between bargain warehouse stores and retail supermarkets; convenience stores, restaurants and takeouts will grow even more; people will eat less.

• Health care...costs will moderate as lower-cost alternatives to health care (ambulatory care, one-day surgery, home care), emphasis on wellness and preventive medicine increases. More of all these: cooperation between hospitals; between hospitals and insurance companies; investor-owned hospitals; doctors entering institutional practice; governmental regulation of the entire health care industry.

• Construction...a record year with less residential and more investment/commercial construction. Mortgage rates hovering between 13 and 14 percent; more emphasis on less expensive condominiums, factory fabricated components, smaller homes on smaller lots, better built and more individualized homes. Explosion in do-it-yourself market; few starts in new office building space.

• Freight...Air freight expected to be strong; barge industry weak; railroads improved. Truckers will have a strong year as union negotiations on Teamsters contract expiring in March is smooth.

• Retail...gains of about 10 percent overall; top sales expected in home furnishings, flooring, home entertainment field; retailing will grow more intense in competition to capture diverse markets; mushrooming of "outlet stores."

• Leisure...running has peaked but other sports and fitness activities will keep the leisure equipment industry growing modestly in 1985. New sales impetus will come from a shift, not an increase, in disposable income, and a shift to more vigorous activities.

• Travel...more business and personal travel which means good year for hotels, airlines, lodging and food service, travel agencies, theme parks. Rail, bus and auto travel will also increase. Competition will help the travel industry and create changes. Airline safety is a major concern.

• Government impact...Government can help or hurt as battles wage over spending cuts, tax increases, and regulatory concerns. It is the largest imponderable in business planning for the new year.

Loans, deposits logged

Area banks have posted their loans and deposits for the fourth quarter of 1985.

Loans at Security State Bank were listed at $14,557,456. Deposits for the fourth quarter were $33,924,178.

At First National Bank, loans were listed at $61,027,821. Deposits for the final quarter were $155,932,236.

State National Bank reported loans of $55,122,417. Deposits were listed at $97,574,224.

Coahoma State Bank has loans amounting to $9,569,968. Deposits were $14,871,922.

Retail sales fall slightly

Retail sales in Howard County fell slightly last spring, but business was booming in Glasscock County and Sterling County during April, May and June of 1984.

According to statistics released Friday by the State Comptroller's Office in Austin, gross retail sales from 902 stores in Howard County during the second quarter of 1984 were $197.8 million, a 2.3 percent drop from the $202.4 million recorded for the same period in 1983.

In GLASSCOCK COUNTY, sales soared to $933,846 during last year's second quarter, a 52 percent jump from the $651,508 posted in 1983 for the same three months.

Sales also picked up pace in STERLING COUNTY, which logged $2.1 million in second quarter receipts, a 29 percent improvement over the previous year's performance.

MITCHELL COUNTY sales of $14.5 million in 1984 dropped 15.8 percent from the $17.3 million recorded in the spring of 1983.

Expense cutting saves millions

If you're like me, you've probably been hearing a lot lately about expense and budget cutting on the national and state levels.

Southwestern Bell Telephone is also cutting expenses. These cuts saved the company millions in 1984.

Just like on the national and state levels, we know financial health begins by holding down expenses. We're doing that by ensuring every dollar we do spend provides maximum benefit.

The buck stops here

- reducing our work force — by not hiring behind retirements and other losses. On an annual basis this is saving us more than $50 million.
- mechanizing jobs and procedures — where there are potential savings and efficiencies.
- holding the line on overtime — we've cut these expenses by 33 percent since 1983 for a savings in Texas of $25 million.
- renegotiating contracts — with outside office equipment suppliers. Compared to previous contracts, we're spending $5 million a year less on office supplies and machinery.
- reducing customer telephone-line reports — our statewide effort is paying off. Total trouble reports are down 88,000 a month compared to last year. Savings in report processing costs exceed $45 million a year.

On top of all these measures and others, we'll take up the spending belt a few more notches in the coming months. Our major operating departments in Texas have already committed to doing their jobs in 1985 with a zero budget increase.

That means they'll have to absorb the traditional expenses — inflation and growth.

Additional mileage from the network

Beyond expense measures, we recognize there's also an important revenue side of running a well-managed, self-sufficient business.

We're continuing to look for new sources of revenue outside of the "rate arena." And we're also constantly seeking opportunities to get additional mileage from the telephone network investment already in place.

It takes months, and sometimes years, to bring a new service on line, successfully market it, and then realize a revenue stream. But we're working on developing these new services. In fact, we have a number of them in the works which should produce new revenue in Texas in the near future.

Providing you with quality service

So, as you can see, there's plenty going on in Texas to improve our business from within. These internal efforts have helped us provide you with more efficient and responsive telephone service than ever before.

Southwestern Bell Telephone — meeting your telecommunications needs today and tomorrow. We're at your service.

Do you know a Southwestern Bell Telephone employee who should be honored for performance above and beyond the call of duty?

If so, Southwestern Bell Telephone is accepting nominations for the Rider Service Award. If you'd like to nominate someone, please write us for a nomination form (deadline for all forms is February 15): Rider Award Nomination Forms; Southwestern Bell Telephone; 308 S. EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Micheal Ray Richardson scored 26 points and Buck Williams added 23 and sparked a fourth-quarter surge Friday night, carrying the New Jersey Nets to a 105-98 victory over the Phoenix Suns in a National Basketball Association game.

Trailing 92-90, the Nets scored six straight points to take the lead for good en route to their fifth victory in six games. Mike Gminski tied the score with a jump shot from the top of the key with 5:07 left and Williams put the Nets ahead 37 seconds later when his layup was goaltended by the Suns' Charles Jones.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Isiah Thomas scored 25 points and Kelly Tripucka added 20 Friday night as the Detroit Pistons raced to an easy 134-111 National Basketball Association victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

The Pistons, 18-15, broke the game open with a 23-6 first-quarter surge that helped them build a 38-14 lead at the end of the period. Thomas scored eight points and handed out four assists to spark the rally.

Bulls 106 Bucks 101

CHICAGO (AP) — Quintin Dailey came off the bench to score 26 points and rookie sensation Michael Jordan chipped in 22 to spark the Chicago Bulls to a 106-101 victory over Milwaukee, ending the Bucks' winning streak at nine National Basketball Association games.

Dailey scored 10 points and Jordan added nine in the fourth quarter to help the Bulls halt a two-game losing skid. During the third quarter, the Bucks, who had lost only once in their last 17 tries, overcame a 10-point Bulls' halftime lead. But Chicago was ahead 73-70 at the start of the final period.

AT&T Challenge Noah mows down Vitas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Yannick Noah of France beat Vitas Gerulaitis 6-3, 2-6, 6-4 Friday to move into position for a shot at the $200,000 first prize in the AT&T Challenge of Champions tennis event.

Gerulaitis. Under the format of the eight-player event, the top point winner in each of two groups meet in the finals. A victory by Lendl would tie him with Noah in his group, but because Noah beat Lendl on Thursday he would advance to the finals.

The French player, who now lives in New York, came back to break Gerulaitis' service twice in the third set and eke out the win. "I still feel like a beginner out there," Noah said. "I'm nervous during the break points and I lost concentration here and there. I didn't panic, but I didn't concentrate early in the match — it was a very slow start."

Noah had to await the outcome of a late night match between Ivan Lendl and Guillermo Vilas to learn whether he would gain a spot in Saturday's finals.

"Yesterday (against Lendl) I had nothing to lose," Noah said. "Today was a bit different because I had a lot to lose if I didn't win."

Gerulaitis, a late replacement for the injured Andres Gomez in the event, said he was pleased with his play although he didn't qualify for any of the top four positions that pay prize money. The eight players were all guaranteed a total of $775,000 in prize money between them.

Noah, who won two of his three matches in the round-robin event, needed a victory by Lendl to advance to the finals. A loss by Lendl would give Vilas the opportunity to face the winner of Friday night's John McEnroe-Jimmy Connors match in the finals.

Noah started off slowly against Gerulaitis, double-faulting on his first service and making several unforced errors.

Gerulaitis, a late replacement for the injured Andres Gomez in the event, said he was pleased with his play although he didn't qualify for any of the top four positions that pay prize money. The eight players were all guaranteed a total of $775,000 in prize money between them.

"Usually Ivan beats Guillermo but we'll have to wait and see," Noah said after beating

Noah, who is still working his into shape following a layoff caused by an injury last year, managed to win the first set but dropped the second to some good net play by Gerulaitis.

"I'll play anytime for this kind of money," Gerulaitis said. "I didn't play poorly for the first time of the year and considering I didn't practice for the event."

Cotton surveys requested

Cotton growers are being asked to fill out and return acreage surveys to the National Cotton Council by Tuesday. The forms will report how many acres producers plan to plant in cotton in 1985. The planting intentions survey, sent to 13,500 of the 40,000 cotton producers in the United States, also asks whether growers plan to participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's 1985-86 cotton program, according to DeWitt Caillavet, an economist with the Cotton Council. The data will be furnished to growers and delegates to the Council's annual meeting Jan. 25-Jan. 30 in San Antonio to help form its policies. The council began its January survey four years ago after the USDA consolidated their January and March surveys into one February survey.

Profits focus of seminar

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service will sponsor a "Planning for Profit - 1985" agricultural management conference at 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Holiday Inn at 4300 W. Highway 80 in Midland. The conference will be split into two concurrent sessions, one on livestock and the other on cotton. The livestock conference will be directed by Gary Sides of Fort Stockton, an extension livestock specialist. Topics will include marketing strategies for sheep, goats and cattle; reproduction and nutritional management; rangeland improvements; wildlife management; financing livestock operations; and economic analysis of the total ranching operation. The session will emphasize efficiency and returns on money and labor rather than maximizing production. The cotton conference will be headed by extension agronomist Charles Stichter of Fort Stockton. Its topics will be agricultural policy, the outlook for cotton in 1985, irrigation management and crop production management.

Lubbock conference slated

"Building Markets for You" is the theme for the seventh Annual Cotton Inc. Producer Meeting. The first meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Jan. 16 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Daniel Hirt will represent the St. Lawrence

Cotton Growers Association. Cotton producers who wish to attend should send their reservations to: Cotton Inc., 4505 Creedmoor, Raleigh N.C., 27612. Or call (919) 782-6330. No admission fee is required for the meeting.

AUSTIN (AP) - Special unemployment assistance for South Texans left jobless by the December 1983 freeze ends Sunday, the Texas Employment Commission announced Friday. About $14.2 million in federal money was passed out through Dec. 28 to help residents of Cameron, Willacy, Hidalgo, Starr, Dimmit and Zavala counties. A total of 15,677 people were approved for benefits under the special program. The average weekly check was $55. The benefits were paid on the basis of 4 percent of a worker's average wage in the weeks before the freeze. The program was extended by the Federal Emergency Management agency through Sept. 30. A second extension continued the benefits until Sunday.

New Jersey mayor wants homeless out

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) - Mayor Thomas Dunn said Friday he wants to count the city's homeless people and identify those "dumped" here from nearby communities in order to ship them back to their last known address. But an advocate for the homeless vowed to fight the plan, saying it was a throwback to an 18th century practice of running vagrants out of town. City officials said the head count will allow them to ensure that Elizabeth natives who lack shelter receive the social services to which they are entitled. It also will make sure that other communities are forced to carry their shares of the burden.

county sheriff's department, while those from farther away will be turned over to New Jersey authorities, city officials said. Surmay, who estimated that only about 25 percent of the homeless would be shipped out, planned to meet next Thursday with police, fire and local officials to work out details. "It's clearly immoral and illegal, and we'll fight it," said Michael Fabricant, president of the Elizabeth Coalition to House the Homeless. The coalition estimated three years ago the number of homeless people in Elizabeth at about 300, said Fabricant, a professor of social work at Hunter College in New York City. The city's 24-bed shelter for the homeless, operated by the Salvation Army, turns away "scores of people every night," Fabricant said. "Mayor Dunn wants to go back 300 years," when American communities used what was known as a "residency doctrine" to force the "poor, vagrant or mentally unbalanced" to move on, he said. "The laws didn't work," he said. "You had large numbers of poor people roaming from town to town without any recourse. That's why many states, including New Jersey, put a clause in their constitutions that municipalities could not deny emergency assistance to the poor and needy."

Some big towns have gone to pot completely because (homeless people have) been dumped there," Dunn said. "We just don't want that to happen to Elizabeth." An estimated 100 people are without homes in this blue collar, northern New Jersey city of about 106,000 residents, said John Surmay, Elizabeth's health, welfare and housing officer. "People have actually seen police department cars from other towns come and drop off people on the streets of Elizabeth so they'll be taken care of," said Surmay, without identifying the departments. Surmay said that as the Union County seat, Elizabeth is the center for most of the area's social service organizations. It is for that reason that people "gravitate" to Elizabeth, said John Malloy, administrator for the nearby and affluent Union County town of Westfield. "If they end up there, they get there on their own," Malloy said. "It's not because of any overt action on our part."

David Sciarra, a deputy state public advocate, said a Superior Court judge ruled Nov. 30 that Atlantic City was violating state law in denying emergency assistance to people who were not residents of that city. Judge Michael Connor also ruled in the suit brought by the public advocate's office that "you cannot take people out of a town if they want to stay there, and no matter how they got there, you have to provide the assistance in the place they are found," Sciarra said. Ann Dingman, 57, was one of 24 people staying in the Salvation Army Emergency Shelter in Elizabeth on Friday. She expressed fear that the mayor's plan would force her to leave the shelter, where she has been for two months, because she is from Paramus.

Under the plan proposed by Dunn in his State of the City speech Tuesday, homeless people would be registered when they come in contact with local officials such as the police, the city's three hospitals and other service organizations. A questionnaire will be used to determine a person's place of birth, length of residency and last known address. A homeless person found to be from a nearby community will be transported there by police or the

Stuntman sues Enquirer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - A stuntman has filed a $10 million federal lawsuit against the National Enquirer, claiming he risked his life to perform two stunts for a photo spread the tabloid never published. "I almost died trying to satisfy the Enquirer," said Johnny Sands, who bills himself as the Nashville Flame. Sands said he reluctantly agreed to perform the stunts after being assured that he would be given "centerfold" treatment. He was told the spread would boost his career, earning him more bookings and higher fees.

Blind winemaker making reputation for himself

PHILO, Calif. (AP) — Larry Parson is a winemaker whose small vineyard is making a reputation for itself with Pinot Noirs and Chardonnays that are turning up in some of the best restaurants in the San Francisco Bay area.
 He is also blind.
 "If beauty is in the eye of the beholder, as they say it is, it's in your eye, not mine," Parson said overlooking his vineyard. "But I can share your appreciation of this scene, your perception. I take it with me when I walk around."

Parson, 37, has no formal training in enology, the science of wine and winemaking, and not too long ago he was receiving welfare and running snack bar concessions in government buildings in the Bay area.
 Four years ago, he sold his concessions and bought a five-acre vineyard in Mendocino County. He converted a barn into a house for himself, his wife and two children, all of whom have normal vision.
 "We didn't really intend to become winemakers. My wife and I just wanted country living, to be 100 percent independent. It was a reaction to the years on welfare, I guess," Parson said.

 When he arrived in Anderson Valley, wines from the fertile area were starting to make a name for themselves and his neighbors were all too happy to share their knowledge of grapes and fermentation.
 So in 1981, he built a wine cellar, bought 47 oak barrels, and started Pepperwood Springs Vineyard and Winery.

His wines are winning him acclaim from some impressive places.
 "We bought it at the first sip. It's the single best wine we've ever had on our list. We've never had a wine sell this well," said Ed Moose of the Washington Square and Grill, a popular San Francisco watering hole.
 His wine is also served at Chez Patisse in Berkeley, one of the most fashionable French restaurants in the Bay area.
 The Parsons also do a brisk mail order business, with labels that include Braille inscriptions for blind buyers.

 The 1,200 cases Parson produces annually makes him small potatoes compared with the giant winemakers of nearby Sonoma and Napa counties. Sometimes his lack of notoriety makes it difficult to convince people to give his wine a try.
 "We have trouble getting people to try it, but once they try it they like it," he said.

London sale draws steady stream of Americans

LONDON (AP) — The annual frenzy of the Harrods January sale started Friday, with the weak British pound drawing a stream of foreigners.
 The 10 sets of doors opened at 9 a.m. for several thousand people who had been held back by security guards until the clock struck the hour. Those at the front of the lines sprinted up the escalators, perhaps trying to beat the record of 27 seconds for the first customer to reach the china and glass sale on the third floor.
 The sale, which lasts until Jan. 26, had been advertised in New York after Christmas. Americans were urged to fly to London and let Harrods sale prices and the dollar's strength against the pound save them enough money to pay for their air tickets.

 "The impact of the exchange rate on the sale is tremendous because it's such a marvelous bargain for Americans to come over here and shop," Harrods Chairman Aleck Craddock said.
 "Harrods prices are very little different from what they were a year ago ... so with the pound-dollar ratio, the Americans have got a marvelous deal."
 American accents were heard throughout the massive Victorian building in fashionable Knightsbridge. But there were other tongues, too — Japanese, French, German, Spanish, Romanian, Hebrew, Arabic — heard among the throngs shouldering their way from one bargain counter to the next.

 Harrods New York publicist, Robert W. Bloch, said news stories about the New York ad campaign had given the sale worldwide publicity, and people had told him they had heard about the sale in Japan.
 Among the bargains were mink coats marked down from $5,175 to $2,587.50, $34.50 sunglasses sold for $23, men's suits marked down from $172.50 to $120.75, and women's $1,288 designer dresses on sale for $653.20.

 "I love the January sale, I wouldn't miss it for the world," said second-time customer Ann Awdey, who "resides in Flagler Beach, Fla., and Sterling Heights, Mich. She said she would return for the third year in 1986 for "the pure joy" and the bargains.
 "Yesterday I bought a cashmere sweater here and I paid 80.25 pounds ($92.40). This morning I bought a comparable cashmere sweater for 47 pounds ($54). Now, that's a bargain for me."

Mrs. Awdey said she would pay $100 or more for a similar sweater in the United States.
 Mrs. Awdey, in Britain on a six-week holiday, said her husband hadn't accompanied her to Harrods. "He isn't insane enough to come along to something like this," she said with a laugh.
 Jack Locascio and his wife Ann, a U.S. Army couple visiting from a NATO base in Belgium, were shopping for china to fill out a dinner service they bought at Harrods.
 Dorothy Wallace, who has worked at Harrods for 25 years, said the flow of Americans depends on the strength of the pound.

JOE KELLEY stands beside a sign advertising for a wife. The 58-year-old man says he is fun and wants a wife to share the rest of his life with.

Car dealer searches for wife through ad

LUFKIN (AP) — William Joe Kelley, a grandfather who is determined to get remarried during 1985, advertised for a wife on a billboard in front of his business and now has the problem of selecting from 40 candidates who have called in just five days.
 "I've gotten 40 nibbles already," said Kelley, 58. "I'm having a ball. I'm talking to a lot of interesting people I would not have talked to otherwise."
 Kelley started his wife search on Dec. 31 by posting outside his used car lot a sign that read: "Wife wanted for 1985. Age 40 plus."
 The phone has hardly stopped ringing since, he said. Women have called from Houston, Dallas and from cities all over East Texas. Most, said Kelley, have approved of his search and his method.
 "Several of the women have said 'I think more people ought to do this,'" he said. "They think it's a good idea."
 Though there have been lots of calls, the Lufkin man said he hopes to get more, and "some letters too."
 Kelley said he has been surprised at how much the women callers already know about him.
 "A female has a grapevine, I think," he said. "They all know much more about me than I do about them." As a result, most of the conversations, he said, are spent "just getting acquainted."
 Kelley decided to start his wife search after a woman he has been dating for two years declined to marry him.

"I asked her a year and a half ago to marry me," he said. "She said when the frost was on the pumpkin we would get married. Well, there's been frost on the pumpkin, but we still aren't married."
 Kelley posted the sign without telling his girl friend and said she was "unhappy, but she is taking it with real class."
 In a paraphrase of a popular country song, Kelley said his philosophy now is "if I can't get the one I want I'll take one I can get."
 Kelley said the only qualification in his wife search is age — he wants a spouse who is 40 or older.
 "I'm looking for a helpmate. I'm just interested in enjoying the years I have left," he said.
 "Perhaps I can give someone some comfort and companionship."
 Kelley has been married three times, with one marriage lasting for more than 25 years. He has two grown sons and three grandchildren.
 The car dealer admits he is not a fancy, three-piece suit type. He usually wears overalls, a sweat shirt, a blue corduroy hat and a big smile.
 Kelley likes to dance and his style in the waltz, two-step and disco recently won first prize at a local dance contest.
 "I'm a fun guy," he says. "At least, I want to be. I'm not rich and don't want to be. But what I have, I want to share with somebody."
 The phone keeps ringing, he said, and now he has to figure out how to select one from a growing list of candidates.

'Dallas' is back on top of ratings war

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paced by the ever-popular "Dallas," the debut of "Crazy Like a Fox" and five other Top 10 shows, CBS led the Christmas week ratings by more than two points over second-place NBC.
 CBS' average prime-time A.C. Nielsen Co. rating for the week ending Dec. 30 was 16.5, while NBC had 14.4 and ABC — with No. 20 "The Fall Guy" — its highest-ranked show — was a distant third at 11.9.
 In the absence of "Dynasty" — ABC's usual ratings leader — "Dallas" was back on top with a 24.5 rating, "Dynasty" and "Hotel" were both pre-empted for a rerun of Part I of "Malibu" — which tied for 34th place. Part II, at 58th place, was among the week's five lowest-rated shows.
 The 20-minute prime-time runner Sunday of the American Football Conference playoff between Pittsburgh and Denver grabbed second place for NBC. Pittsburgh won, 24-17.

"Crazy Like a Fox," a new CBS detective comedy-drama starring Jack Warden and John Rubenstein, tied with NBC's "The Cosby Show" for third place at 23.4. Its impressive first-time showing also landed "Crazy Like a Fox" in third place on the season-to-date list which chronicles average ratings for series. Tied for first are "Dallas" and "Dynasty."
 CBS still leads in season-to-date ratings, with NBC trailing by less than a rating point. CBS had 16.9, NBC 16.1 and ABC 15.0.

 The networks say that ratings represent the percentage of the nation's television homes tuned in to a given show or network in an average prime time minute.
 Here are the Top 10 for Christmas week: CBS' "Dallas," first; NBC National Football League playoffs, second; CBS' "Crazy Like a Fox" and NBC's

"The Cosby Show," tied for third; NBC's "Family Ties," fifth; CBS' "Murder She Wrote," sixth; CBS' "60 Minutes," seventh; CBS' "Falcon Crest," eighth; CBS' "Simon & Simon," ninth; and "CBS' "Knots Landing," tenth.
 In the next 10, NBC had six shows, CBS three and ABC one.
 CBS was first again among the evening news shows with 12.6. ABC was second with 10.6 and NBC third with 10.1.

Yearbook outlines life statistics

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A Frenchman is more likely to die from an accidental fall than a car crash. Japan has the lowest cancer death rate of all industrialized countries. Homicide is 15 times more frequent in the United States than in Great Britain.
 In Hong Kong, a 65-year-old woman has a good chance of living 20 more years. But in Romania, home of a much-publicized geriatrics clinic, a newborn boy has a life expectancy of only 67.1 years. On the African island of Mauritius, the infant could expect to live only 63.2 years.
 These facts are among the thousands in the 385-page Statistical Year Book published by the World Health Organization. There is no apparent explanation for some of the figures, but in other cases, patterns emerge.
 Wine-growing countries have the highest number of fatal liver ailments, including cirrhosis. The rate per 100,000 people was 34.3 in Italy, 29.5 in Chile and 27.6 in France. On the other hand, the rate was 8.4 in Scotland and 4.6 in Norway.

 Suicide statistics are often considered unreliable because Christian churches view it as a grave sin, and as a result the official cause of death is sometimes listed as something else. However, the figures indicate a "suicide belt," researched inconclusively for years, does extend from Scandinavia through Central Europe. The rate is by far the highest in Hungary, at the lower end of the "belt," where the rate was reported at 43.5 per 100,000 people.
 In many other European countries and Japan, suicides also outnumber fatal automobile accidents, but in the United States the suicide rate is only half that of road deaths.
 Among Western industrialized nations, the United States has by far the highest death rate for what the U.N. organization terms "Homicide and Injury Purposely Inflicted by Other Persons." The U.S. rate of 10.5 violent deaths per 100,000 people in 1980 was 15 times higher than the rate of 0.7 that year in Britain. However, in El Salvador, where the U.S.-backed government and leftist rebels are fighting a civil war, the rate was 37.6.

 Some of the data seems puzzling. For example, why is East Germany's rate of death by accidental poisoning, 8.3 per 100,000 people, substantially higher than all other countries listed? Why are more people killed by accidental falls than traffic accidents in France?
 Japan continued to lead all countries in life expectancy, with an average of 74.5 years for a newborn. Greece was second with an average of 73.6 years.
 Statistics for Western countries showed a wide differences in death rates due to heart ailments and other diseases of the circulatory system, and for cancer. The rate of deaths from heart ailments and circulatory problems ranged from 248.7 per 100,000 people in Japan to 643.4 in Austria.
 There were 143.3 cancer deaths per 100,000 people in Japan, but in Denmark the rate was 274.2 per 100,000.
