A change in the weather

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Saturday was a perfect day for daring backside aeriels or a little breakin' on the wall.

Backside aeriels, a difficult skateboard move, and breakin', or breakdancing, were the activities of choice for several youths enjoying unseasonably warm weather in the city.

Most folks found the highs in the middle 60s and sunny skies too good to waste by staying inside. The weather brought people out by the hundreds.

It was a good day to ride a bike, take a walk, play golf or ride in the car with the windows rolled down.

But it was a better day to go skateboarding around the perilous curves of the old-skate-board park near Scenic Mountain.

Tony Alva Buyalos, 18, was practicing backside aeriels at the skatepark. Wearing a yellow helmet in case of a spill on the concrete hills, he said the weather was "great, a perfect day."

VA head wants to cut free care for elderly

Staff and wire reports
The director of the veterans hospital here said a proposal in Washington to eliminate free medical care for veterans over age 65 will have little effect on operations at his center.

John Steward, administrator of the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring, said if Congress approves a plan by the national VA director to limit treatment for elderly veterans, few in this service area would be denied admission.

Harry Walters, head of the Veterans Administration, said he plans to ask Congress to repeal a law under which all veterans become eligible for free medical care in VA hospitals upon reaching age 65.

"If they do that," Steward said, "it probably would not hit us that hard."

Walters said that when he examined the law in light of statistics suggesting that the number of veterans over age 65 will triple in the next 15 years, "I thought to myself, 'Good Lord, if I've got to treat them and must deny care to those who are most in need of it, I find it almost immoral.'"

"I think that law has to be re-examined, not just because of austerity but in fairness," Walters said in an interview last week.

Under the law, even veterans who can afford to pay or have insurance, or those who served in uniform for only a few months, become eligible for treatment in VA hospitals — regardless of whether their ailment is the result of something that happened to them when they were in uniform.

Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring

Steward said elderly veterans receiving treatment for non-service related problems in Big Spring are "not really a substantial number." He said most elderly veterans seek private medical care or are looked after by their families.

"If they do cut that group off, that means this group will have to go back to someone else, like Medicare or Medicaid," Steward said. "That would not save much money at all."

Veterans under 65 are treated for non-service-connected ailments only if they sign a certificate saying they are too poor to pay for their own care.

"Most of the people in our non-service care are of the indigent type," Steward said, adding that 65 percent of the patients in Big Spring are treated for non-service related problems.

"The issues are clear," Walters said. "We have a veteran population that is swelling to the point that it will challenge this system significantly."

Steward said the number of veterans over 65 seeking treatment here had risen slightly during the past few years. Veterans over 65 are entitled to free medical care only if they require hospitalization, Steward said.

Three years ago, Congress directed the VA to impose a "means test" to screen out veterans under 65 who were getting free care for non-service connected medical problems even though they had the means to pay for it.

But when a draft of proposed VA regulations leaked out, there was so much protest from veterans' groups that the VA pulled back. Robert Nimmo, who was VA administrator at the time, issued a statement saying "there is no plan to deny medical care to eligible veterans based upon an income test."

Under the revised proposal, those under 65 "able to defray the expenses of necessary care in a non-VA facility" would no longer be treated at VA hospitals for non-service connected problems. Generally, Walters said, that meant veterans with income of $15,000 a year or more.

With 79,000 beds, the 172 VA Medical Centers treat about 1.3 million patients a year and get 1.4 million outpatient visits a month — about half of them for treatment of non-service connected ailments.

Unpredictable Legislature to open session this week

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature, in a 30-day special session last summer, passed the state's largest tax bill ever. It's anybody's guess what it will — or won't — do in its 140-day regular session starting Tuesday.

Gov. Mark White — facing his second regular legislative session since taking office in January 1983 — thinks the state can avoid stacking another tax bill on top of last summer's, which will pump $4.6 billion into state coffers through late 1987.

Not everyone in the Texas Legislature shares that optimism. Operating state government costs money, and the 181 Texas lawmakers soon will hear Comptroller Bob Bullock forecast that state revenues are at least $1 billion short of keeping the two-year budget that starts Sept. 1, 1985, at the current level.

Bullock is warning the picture could grow bleaker still if oil prices continue to plummet. That revenue shortage will dominate legislative discussions as lawmakers contemplate drastic budget cuts to balance income with growth, federal court dictates and other spending needs.

Among those who expect a 1985 tax bill is state Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, who said wrestling with budget cuts will bring tax-shy legislators back for at least one and possibly two or three special sessions. "I just don't see how we can get away without passing a tax bill, and I don't think we've ever passed one in regular session," he said.

The makeup of the Texas Legislature also could prove interesting. Thirty-one members in the 150-member Texas House of Representatives have no previous legislative experience. Republicans, thanks to President Reagan's political coattails, boast 52 members and enough clout to block major legislation.

"I remember when we had zero (Republicans)," says House Chief Clerk Betty Murray, who joined the office in 1961. "Then we got one and we took turns walking by his desk to see what one looked like."

In the 31-member Texas Senate, only two members are new. Republicans hold six Senate chairs.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who has presided over the Senate since

Rep. LARRY DON SHAW

Speaker GIB LEWIS

Gov. MARK WHITE

Lt. Gov. BILL HOBBY

1973, will do so again in 1985. House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, is expected to retain his post for a second term.

In addition to developing a plan to finance state government, some of the more hefty legislative measures to be debated include:

WATER

Oil and water don't mix and, in recent years, neither have politics and water. The 1981 Texas Legislature's efforts to produce a statewide water plan fell victim to cost-sensitive Texas voters, and the 1983 lawmakers failed to agree on a plan.

The statewide water plan now envisioned would combine state-issued bonds, increased regulation of underground water supplies and additional research to bolster state water supplies and water quality.

Environmentalists have attacked the proposal for putting too much emphasis on water development that strips freshwater from the state's lucrative coastal fishing areas and not enough emphasis on water conservation.

PRISONS

The Texas Department of Corrections will be a key issue again thanks to prison population increases that continue in the face of federal court-ordered reforms and tight state finances.

"We're at the crossroads right now. Do we build or not build (more prisons)?" state Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville, lamented recently. One alternative might be contracting with private industry to build new prisons and lease them back to the state or developing new parole guidelines to reduce prison populations.

CRIME

Speaker Lewis has promised a "law and order" session, with bills to extend a 1981 law allowing telephone wiretaps in drug-related investigations, to protect children from abuse, to add mass murder to those crimes punishable by death, to raise the drinking age to 21, to ban open alcoholic beverage containers in cars, to relax restrictions on the use of certain oral confessions and to allow the use of evidence collected by police officers who make "good faith" mistakes in gathering evidence for criminal trials.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Some legislators are having second thoughts about State Board of Education interpretations that curtail student participation in extracurricular activities for six weeks if they fail a course. State Sen. Carl Parker, D-Beaumont, Senate Education Committee chairman, said he feels the board should support a week-to-week qualification to give students an incentive to raise their grades more quickly.

HIGHER EDUCATION

The Legislature last raised tuition in 1971 to $4 a semester hour, but with recommendations for average cuts of 26 percent in state college and university budgets, some lawmakers are looking at raising tuition by $2 each year until it reaches $24 a semester hour in 1994. Other legislators have suggested raising tuition as much as $15 a semester hour immediately.

BLUE LAW

The state's law against selling certain items on consecutive weekend days became the victim of an open rebellion this past Christmas. Several large retailers have initiated a lobbying effort to have the 1985 Legislature declare the law void.

Even if the law remains in force, some effort will be made to eliminate inconsistencies in the types of products that can and cannot be sold on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

AGRICULTURE

With agriculture using 72 percent of the state's water, passage of the new state water package, with amendments to help West Texas farmers convert to water-conserving irrigation equipment, will be a number one priority. More fireworks are expected on regulations to reduce problems with pesticide poisoning.

ENERGY

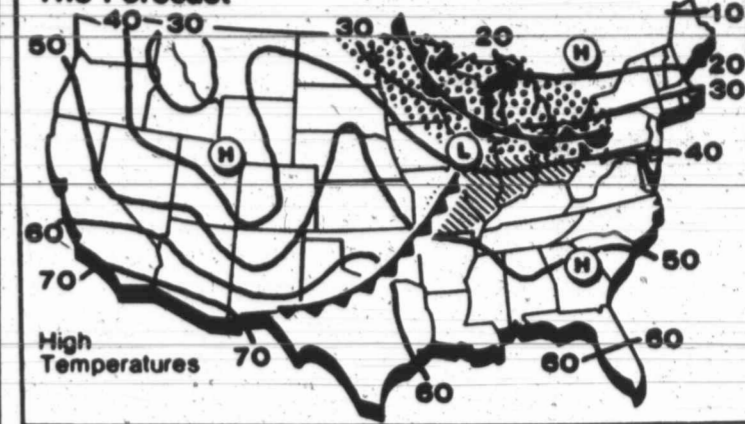

A big fight is expected over funding of the Public Counsel's Office, said state Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan. Any major cut in funding that office, which takes the public-interest position in utility rate cases, would be a "diservice" to utility reforms passed during the 1983 session, he said. "They've got to have a fighting chance against the kind of forces that utilities have in these rate fights."

ENVIRONMENT

Proposals to protect the environment will center on regulating the safe disposal, transportation and cleanup of toxic and low-level nuclear wastes.

Big Spring and vicinity should see sunny skies and warm temperatures today with highs in the mid 60s. Winds will be westerly, 5 to 15 miles per hour, turning to northerly later in the day. Lows tonight will fall to near 30 degrees. On Monday, look for sunny skies and highs in the upper 50s.

State

A sprawling high pressure system brought clear skies and mild temperatures to Texas Saturday.

Light north to northwest winds were the rule across all of the state except the Panhandle where southwesterly winds at 10 to 20 mph prevailed, according to the National Weather Service.

Temperatures warmed into the lower 60s across the High Plains and over South Texas Saturday. Readings were in the upper 40s along the Red River with mid to upper 50s common elsewhere.

Forecast

West Texas — Mostly sunny days and fair at night through Monday. A little cooler Panhandle and south plains late Sunday and east of the mountains Sunday. Highs Sunday mostly 60s. Lows Sunday night mid to upper 20s except to lower 30s Concho Valley. Highs Monday mostly 50s except 60s southwest.

Texaco plant eruption linked to hot oil system

ERATH, La. (AP) — A spectacular fire erupted Saturday at a Texaco gas processing plant and a two-mile area around the plant was evacuated until the flames were brought under control.

A Texaco spokeswoman said no one was hurt. The plant processes gas piped in from wells in the Gulf of Mexico and Vermilion Bay, manufacturing butane and propane.

Connie Le Maire, spokeswoman for the Vermilion Parish sheriff, said a two-mile area around the plant was evacuated for about three hours but the alarm was lifted by late afternoon.

In New Orleans, Brenda Buras, of Texaco, said there was no explosion, as first reported. The fire erupted in the hot oil system of the processing plant. She said six men were in the automated plant at the time, but not near the fire.

The fire in the middle of the 50-acre plant was about the size of a football field. Flames leaped so high they could be seen in this flat country 10 to 12 miles away.

The area is not heavily populated but includes the community of Henry.

Ms. Buras said the processing and the fractionation plant both had to shut down.

Deaths

Sally G. Stoker

FORT WORTH — Sally Gentry Stoker, 102, mother of a Big Spring man, died Friday, Dec. 28, at Huguley Hospital in Fort Worth.

Services were held Dec. 31 at the Moore Funeral Home Chapel in Arlington. Burial was in Bethel Cemetery south of Weatherford.

She was a native of Gunsight, Texas, in Stephens County. She was born Sept. 13, 1882, to J.S. and Annie McCleskey Shepherd, pioneer residents of Stephens County. She was a lifelong resident of Texas.

She is survived by three sons, J.P. Stoker Jr. of Big Spring, Jack Stoker of Weatherford and Joy A. Stoker of Fort Worth; two daughters, Sibyl Stoker McCleskey of Fort Worth and Annie Allen Stoker Lambert of Weatherford; and 13 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, John Pilgrim Stoker.

Roger Kendrex

Services for Roger Clyde Kendrex, Sr., 60, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Nalley-Pickle and Welch Rosewood Chapel. Military graveside rites by U.S. Air Force personnel from Goodfellow Air Base will follow at Trinity Memorial Park. The Rev. Eddie Tingle of the Berea Baptist Church will officiate.

He died Thursday at the Veterans Administration hospital in Durham, N.C. He was born in Dec. 28, 1924, in Kings Mountain, N.C.

He enlisted in the Air Corps in 1941 and served in Italy during World War II. He also was a veteran of the Korean War.

He came to Webb Air Force Base in 1961. He retired in 1964 and worked as a civil service welder at Webb for 12 years. He moved to Rockingham, N.C., in 1983.

Survivors include his wife, Violet; two sons, Roger C. Kendrex Jr. of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Richard E. Kendrex of Garland; one daughter, Elaine Oliver of Midland; two stepsons, Ray Stoakes of Big Spring and William Sigurdson of Everett, Wash.; two stepdaughters, Sherry Sigurdson of Fort Bragg, N.C., and Darlene Holmes of Jacksonville, Fla.; one sister, Eula Snuggs of Rockingham; two brothers, Earl Pankey of Round Rock and Robert Pankey of Hamlet, N.C.; four grandchildren and five step-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by one brother.

Wilma Souther

LLANO — Mrs. Forrest (Wilma Jane Upton) Souther died here Saturday morning.

She was longtime resident of Big Spring and taught physical education at Rannels Junior High for many years. She moved to Llano in 1983.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Marc (Raylene) Wetzel of Big Spring, Mrs. Jim (Cindy) Andrews of Lubbock and Mrs. Edward (Becky) Hotz of Granberry; and four grandchildren.

Martin Binder

GARDENA, Calif. — Martin (Gus) Binder, 70, of Gardena, Calif., and formerly of Big Spring, died Thursday in Gardena. Graveside services will be at 11 a.m. (MST) Wednesday in Fort Bliss National Cemetery in El Paso.

He is survived by his wife Rose; one son, David Binder of El Paso; one step-daughter, Karen Mason of Midland; and two grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Rosewood Chapel. Roger Clyde Kendrex Sr., 60, died Thursday in Durham, North Carolina. Services will be at 2:00 P.M. Monday at the Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel. Military Graveside Rites will be conducted at Trinity Memorial Park. 906 GREGG BIG SPRING

San Antonio symphony members threaten strike

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Negotiations between the San Antonio Symphony and its musicians stalled Saturday after more than three hours of talks failed to produce a new contract.

The musicians went into a 6 p.m. strike vote that threatened an evening performance with flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal. Also in jeopardy were a repeat performance by Rampal on Monday and a Tuesday concert featuring violinist Itzhak Perlman.

"The committee will unanimously recommend a strike," said John Schulman, attorney for the musicians union, which has not gone out on strike since the symphony was founded in 1939.

"We are very sorry that we have to recommend a strike at this point," said musicians' spokeswoman Ellen McGlone. "The city of San Antonio deserves better. We feel we were forced into this position."

The union voted 73-1 Friday in favor of a strike, but decided to take a final vote Saturday after allowing time for any last minute negotiations.

"The money is there in the budget but is not being spent on the correct things," Ms. McGlone said.

The 83-member orchestra, she said, sought financial parity with other symphony musicians in the country.

Symphony attorney Ben Foster Jr. said the symphony made its "last, best and final offer" to the union Thursday. The union came back with a counter proposal Thursday night.

Late Friday, he said, management rejected the counterproposal. At Saturday's discussions, Foster said management was willing to discuss only noneconomic issues.

Some progress was made on those matters, he said, but negotiations snagged when the union asked to do some shifting of the monies on the table.

"We said we would discuss it only if they would continue working. But the union was not willing to continue discussions and indicated they were going to go back to membership and recommend a strike. No further meetings are planned at this time," Foster said.

At issue are salary, fringe benefits and working conditions, said musicians union president Johnny Estrada.

As Tony skidded his board around a turn and became airborne, his friend, Mike Davis, said he, Tony and a group of enthusiasts have been skateboarding for the past three months, come rain or snow.

Billy Simmons, 18, "started practicing with Tony about three months ago," and both are becoming masters of the boards.

"Everybody got each other into it," Billy said. At the Big Spring Boys' Club, Chris Minter, 13, was celebrating his birthday with a group of friends. The boys agreed they could think of nothing better to do on a sunny day than to "break on the wall."

One of the boys demonstrated by going over on his hands and kicking his feet against a red and white brick wall.

Bandits strike nightclub

Kenneth Chambers of the Shuffle Inn at 3509 W. Highway 80 told police Saturday morning that someone had broken into the nightclub sometime Friday or early Saturday and taken a variety of items.

A wall was damaged in the incident. Among items missing are a black and white television, a case of light beer, several packages of cigarettes and an unknown amount of money.

Judy Mann of 614 Holbert told police Saturday afternoon that someone Friday afternoon or Friday night took her billfold, check book, credit cards, driver's license, insurance card and some currency from her home.

Police took Jimmy Lee Paul, 18, of Route 1, Box 377, into custody Saturday morning following his arrest early Saturday morning by members of the Texas Department of Public Safety. Paul was arrested for driving while intoxicated, possession of under 2 ounces of marijuana, and three Department of Public Safety warrants for traffic violations.

Lawrence Roland Lozano, 26, of 1606 Cardinal was arrested at the 7-11 Store at Third and Owens early Saturday morning for being an agent intoxicated on licensed premises. He was transferred to the Sheriff's office Saturday, placed under a $1,000 bond and later released.

Police arrested Gordon E. Robinson, 24, no address given, at Wildwood County, 802 W. Interstate 20, early Saturday morning for disorderly conduct, using abusive language and public intoxication.

Also arrested at the scene was Billy Gene Sipes, 38, of Box 3593. Sipes was arrested for hindering officers while they were discharging official duties.

Kerry Horton of 1909 Rannels told police Saturday that someone had taken a CB radio, valued at $150, from his car sometime Friday night or Saturday morning.

Konita Smith, an employee at the Yamaha Shop at 1602 Marcy Drive, told police Friday afternoon that someone had taken a 1980 yellow and black Yamaha motorcycle from the shop sometime Thursday night or Friday. The motorcycle was valued at $1,000.

Richard Mills of 3710 Connally told police Friday afternoon that a male juvenile had damaged a wood fence at his residence sometime between Dec. 28 and Jan. 1. Mills estimated damage at $250.

Police were called to Wal-Mart Department Store Friday afternoon to investigate a possible theft. Missing in the incident were three bras and girls clothing valued at more than $20.

Police arrested Aurora Varela, 24, of 1002 N. Main at Wal-Mart about 6:07 p.m. for theft over $20 but under $200. She was later transferred to the Howard County Jail and placed under a $1,000 bond. She was later released.

Gordon Robinson of 610 1/2 11th Pl. told police Saturday morning that someone took three $100 bills and a $20 bill from him while he was at 400 E. Fourth Street about 2 a.m. Saturday.

Citgo to cut price for oil

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Citgo Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Dallas-based Southland Corp., has announced it has reduced the posted price it pays for all domestic crude by $1 effective Saturday.

Kent Young, spokesman for the oil company, said Citgo will pay $25.90 per barrel for West Texas Intermediate, the U.S. benchmark for domestic oil.

Climbers find crash site

LA PAZ, Bolivia — A team of Bolivian climbers fighting high winds and snow reached the wreckage of an Eastern Airlines jet nearly 20,000 feet up Illimani Mountain on Saturday and reported finding no survivors of the crash, the airline said.

The Boeing 727 carrying 29 people — eight of them American — crashed on Tuesday, minutes before it was to land at La Paz airport from Asuncion, Paraguay.

Officials had held out no hope that any of those aboard could have survived. In the days since the accident there have been sub-zero temperatures, freezing rain and avalanches on Illimani.

Quake strikes Panama

PANAMA CITY, Panama — A strong earthquake rocked Panama at dawn today, shaking buildings and setting off automobile and storefront burglar alarms around the capital.

There were no immediate reports of injuries or damages after the quake hit at about 6:14 a.m. The quake was reported to have been felt across Panama.

The U.S. Geological Survey Earthquake Information Center at Golden, Colo., said the quake registered 5.9 on the Richter scale of earthquake intensity, and occurred near the northern coast of Panama about 40 miles north of the city of Colon.

Swiss envoy kidnapped

BEIRUT — Police investigators said Saturday they had no clue to the whereabouts of Switzerland's missing charge d'affaires or the identity of his kidnapers.

Maj. Ali Maki, the police officer in charge of investigating the Thursday abduction of the Swiss charge d'affaires, Eric Wehrli, said police had formed two special units to look for Wehrli.

Jewish airlift may end

Israel state television reported the government would try to finish the airlift of thousands of Ethiopian Jews "as soon as possible," after news of the operation leaked out and spurred an angry reaction from the pro-Soviet government in Ethiopia.

The Belgian airline that had secretly ferried thousands of Ethiopians to Israel since November said today, "The operation has ended as far as we're concerned." It was not immediately clear whether any other company would continue.

The Ethiopian Jews, who had crossed into Sudan seeking relief from their nation's famine, were guided along an elaborate rescue route through Western Europe to Israel, which has no diplomatic relations with Ethiopia.

Cambodians battle Vietnamese to standstill

By the Associated Press

BANGKOK, Thailand — Khmer Rouge guerrillas battled Vietnamese troops to a standstill Saturday in the hilly and densely jungled area where the borders of Cambodia, Laos and Thailand meet, a Thai official said.

The battle for Chong Bok camp began early Friday and lasted more than 30 hours, Charoensook Silabundhu, governor of Ubon Ratchathani province said.

The Khmer Rouge took advantage of their superior knowledge of the territory to counter effectively with mortars and small arms, he said. The guerrillas mostly held the high ground and Vietnamese artillery fire was erratic, Charoensook said.

About 17,000 Cambodian civilians from the Chong Bok camp fled to the west but have not yet entered Thailand, the governor said.

Approximately 144,000 civilians of a total 250,000 non-combatant Cambodians attached to three resistance movements are now in Thai refugee camps administered by the U.N. Border Relief Organization. UNBRO coordinates humanitarian relief work in Thailand.

The attack at Chong Bok, 319 miles northeast of Bangkok, was the first major strike in recent weeks against a Khmer Rouge base. Vietnam has aimed most of its firepower at camps of the anti-communist Khmer People's National Liberation Front and, to a much lesser extent, at supporters of former Cambodian head of state Norodom Sihanouk.

The Liberation Front has an estimated 12,000 guerrillas, the Sihanouk fighters about 5,000 and the Khmer Rouge, more than 30,000.

Von Bulow to be retried

NEWPORT, R.I. — The Rhode Island attorney general said Saturday she will retry Danish-born socialite Claus von Bulow on charges he twice tried to kill his heiress wife with insulin injections.

Arlene Violet, a former nun who took office just four days ago, said she has reviewed all the evidence from the original trial as well as new evidence submitted by defense attorneys and has concluded that "there is sufficient probative evidence which, if believed by a jury, would result in conviction."

Ms. Violet, the nation's first woman elected attorney general, declined to discuss prosecution's strategy. "I'm not going to tell you what the script is," she told reporters at a late morning news conference in Providence.

Von Bulow, a New York City financier, was convicted in March 1982 of trying to kill his wife, Martha "Sunny" von Bulow, so he could marry his mistress, former soap opera star Alexandra Isles. The conviction was overturned last year by the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Police jail wrong man

TULSA, Okla. — A man jailed for the holidays when he was nabbed by a bondsman looking for his brother-in-law was released after the brother-in-law's attorney told deputies they had brought the wrong man to a hearing.

"It was a gross misjustice," said attorney Bill Lewis, who represents David Evans, the man a bondsman actually was seeking when he arrived at Evans' house Dec. 19 and arrested Kip Jackson.

Special Judge David Peterson freed Jackson on Wednesday after Lewis and Jackson's attorney, Vernon Smythe, convinced him of the error.

Mauled boy wins suit

WESTMINSTER, Calif. — A 5-year-old boy who was mauled by a tiger at the Lion Country Safari game park will receive up to $20 million in an out-of-court settlement, his attorney said.

The settlement provides Anthony Stopani, whose skull was punctured and head, legs and arms scarred by the 500-pound tiger in October 1982, with increasing monthly payments and periodic lump sum payments, attorney Herbert Hafif said Friday.

Egypt, Jordan leaders meet

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein and President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt held a surprise meeting today at the Red Sea port of Aqaba.

A source at Jordan's royal palace confirmed a report by the Egyptian official news agency that Hussein, who went to Aqaba on Friday, greeted Mubarak today when the Egyptian leader's plane landed in the southern port city.

The previously unannounced meeting followed by two days a session Hussein held with the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Yasser Arafat.

Tax & financial planning

NEW RULES FOR 1985

January 1 is the starting point for the requirement that adequate "contemporaneous records" must be kept to substantiate deductions taken for business use of computers, airplanes, automobiles, trucks, boats, and other such property. Contemporaneous records are those that are kept at the time the equipment usage occurs rather than being summarized or estimated at a later date.

Taxpayers who do not have such logs or diaries giving specific data to support the tax benefits they claim will be denied the credits or deductions and may even be subject to penalties for negligence. Those who are affected by this change should begin their recordkeeping immediately; any delay could mean lost benefits.

The IRS says that individuals must charge a minimum interest rate on contracts, or the IRS will assign ("impute") an even higher interest rate. The government's concern over interest rates used in sales contracts stems from the fact that interest income is fully taxed while the principal portion of a contract is often preferentially taxed as long term capital gains. Sellers, therefore, are inclined to accept a lower interest rate in order to get a higher selling price.

A new law applies temporary "imputed" interest rates to sales effective January 1 through June 30, 1985. A seller must charge at least 9% interest when the borrowed amounts are $2,000,000 or less or a 10% rate will be imputed (except for sales of new personal property). When borrowed amounts exceed $2,000,000, a blended rate is used to determine whether additional interest will be imputed. This blended rate involves a weighted average of 9% on the first $2,000,000 and 110% of the "applicable federal rate" on amounts over $2,000,000. The law states some exceptions to the general rules.

Future fueled on nuke power

It looks more and more like American utility companies will give up their attempts to build more nuclear plants.

This is unfortunate, since nuclear plants can generate electricity both economically and cleanly.

Those well-meaning environmentalists who equate everything nuclear with the bombing of Hiroshima should keep in mind that the alternatives to nuclear power include strip mining for coal and offshore oil drilling. The environmental dangers in both strip mining and offshore oil drilling are too well known. So are the threats to the health of deep-shaft coal miners.

It also should be kept in mind that nuclear power makes the United States less dependent on foreign oil. Also well known are the political and economic dangers that accompany dependence on OPEC.

Despite the country's need for nuclear power, however, no new plants have been ordered since 1978, and some have been canceled.

Richard A. Clarke, executive vice president and general manager of utility operations for the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., recently said that his utility is finished for the time being with building large power plants. Clarke noted that utilities must "run an endless gauntlet of litigation and delays to build nuclear facilities."

Delays and cost overruns have largely been caused by protests from environmentalists, who, Mr. Clarke said, "may have good intentions, but who are not technical experts."

There are problems with nuclear power plants, but the simple truth is that much of the public reacts to them emotionally rather than logically.

On the commonsense side, however, the nuclear power industry will have to find a publicly acceptable way to dispose of nuclear waste if it is to make a comeback in the United States.

The public also will have to be convinced that nuclear plants are being operated safely by competent technicians.

It will be a shame if the utilities simply throw up their hands in frustration and give up on nuclear power.

It will also have a detrimental effect on public health, the environment and America's economic independence.

Make Detroit battle imports

In 1981, President Reagan did Japanese automakers a favor. He forced Tokyo to limit the number of cars they could ship to America. Does that sound like it would hurt Toyota and Nissan? It didn't. In fact, it may be the best thing that ever happened to them. That's one reason it wouldn't be a surprise if Japan's prime minister agrees to extend the limit.

Consider what happened when Japan was slapped with an import quota (billed as "voluntary restraint"). The number of people who wanted to buy Corollas and Stanzas didn't drop. Only the number of cars being sold were restricted. So the price had to rise — by about $1,000 per car, according to economist Robert Crandall of the Brookings Institution.

For the big Japanese carmakers, what could be better? They were making money on their cars to start with. Without lifting a finger, they boosted the profit on each car by a thousand dollars. Japan's automakers and dealers, Crandall figures, make an extra $2 billion a year thanks to the informal quota.

Not all of Japan's car companies benefit from the deal. Since the Japanese government allocates the permissible exports among the firms according to their historical portions of the market, the established ones like Toyota, Nissan and Honda get the lion's share. Other manufacturers that had hoped to expand their U.S. sales, like Mazda, Isuzu and Mitsubishi, are stymied.

The point of the quota, as advertised by the administration, was not to enrich the Japanese but to save Detroit, which was steadily losing sales to better-made, less expensive imports. It cut the imports' share of the market, from 28.2 percent in 1980 to 27.5 last year.

U.S. auto companies and their workers made good use of the respite from competition. Sales and profits rose dramatically once the economy recovered from the 1981-82 recession. Managers were rewarded with a spate of lavish bonuses last winter. Assembly line workers got a new contract with General Motors and Ford that provides for 20 percent in wage raises over three years. Not bad for an industry that just four years ago was a shambles.

If the Japanese industry and the U.S. industry are both doing well, who's to complain? Only American buyers. Besides raising import prices, the quota also has inflated the cost of domestic cars. When you raise the price of new cars, of course, you induce more people to buy used cars, making them more expensive, too. And you force some consumers to keep driving the old wreck a couple of years longer.

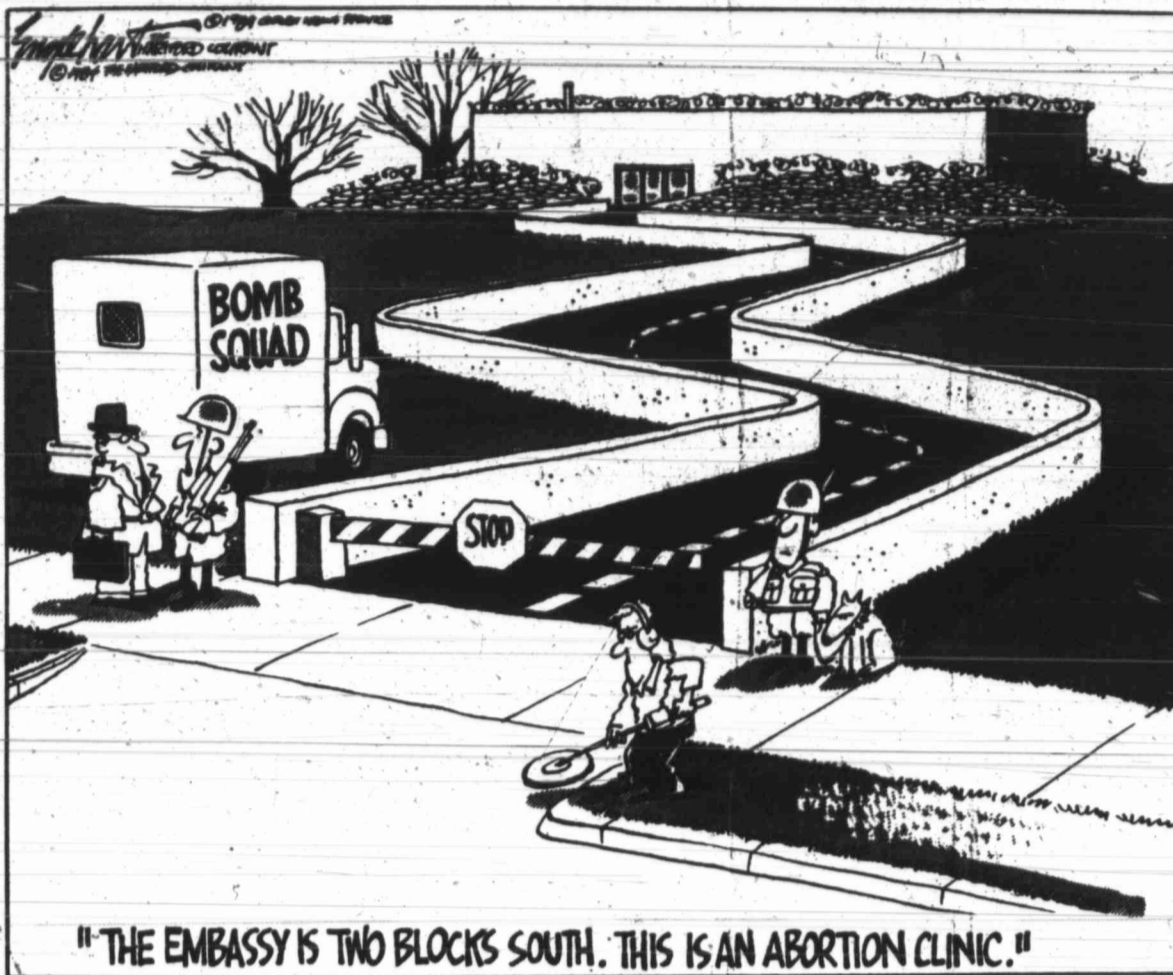

Some people think that's a small price to pay for saving the jobs of long-suffering auto workers. The sympathy is misplaced. Auto workers' jobs have been in danger mainly because they are paid an uncompetitive wage. In 1983, their hourly wages and benefits exceeded $19 an hour, 60 percent higher than the average wage in all manufacturing industries.

It's also well above what the typical car buyer makes. Over a year, that compensation amounts to $39,520. In 1983, the median household income in the U.S. was $20,885.

The quota has obviously failed at its stated purpose — giving Detroit a chance to make the transition to a more competitive environment. If it had succeeded, they wouldn't need the quota any more. But it's already been extended by a year over its original three-year term, and Ford, Chrysler and American Motors will want it extended yet again when it expires next March.

Instead of emerging lean and vigorous, the U.S. auto industry looks increasingly like the steel industry, which demanded protection in the late 1960s and has never been able to compete since.

The state, nation and TV

The 69th session of the Texas Legislature isn't going to be much fun. Texas, the perennially flush state, is short of cash, its money managers say. And money problems can give domestic affairs a nasty turn, as any financially beleaguered household can attest.

How bad is it? It's so bad that state Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring announced last week that he's giving up his toll-free WATs line. (That move will save $4,200 to $5,400 a year, a recognition of what Shaw calls "one of the bleakest financial periods in Texas history.")

Add to the financial woes a considerable grass roots resistance to education reform legislation, and the sum is a downbeat few months in the state's capital.

From the state comptroller's office, food for thought about the size of Texas. If Texas were a nation...

- It would rank 43rd in population. It is slightly less populous than Australia, and has more people than the Netherlands, Chile, Portugal, Greece, and Switzerland, to name just a few.

- It would rank fifth in oil production. The top four oil producing nations are the USSR, Saudi Arabia, the USA and Mexico. The state of Texas is next. It produced more oil in 1984 than Iran or Iraq, the United Kingdom or Venezuela.

And if Texas were a nation, we could feed and clothe our people. According to statistics compiled by Judith Hillstrom and Domice Sandoval of the comptroller's staff, Texas — compared to other nations — ranks fifth in cotton production, 15th in rice production, 17th in corn production and 23rd in wheat.

Reaction to the changes in the Sunday television section has been positive, and for that I am glad. I know from experience that readers are protective of their TV sections, and loyal to them. When newspapers make changes, some readers are slow to accept them.

The only complaint I've gotten about "TV" is the fact that listings for daytime television — the repetitive shows like soap operas and game shows — are published only once in the guide, toward the back.

We decided to put them there because the daily listings, the ones carried under the respective days of the week, were getting to be so long that they were unwieldy. We haven't left the daytime programs out of the guide, we've simply moved them.

Billy Graham

Not worth losing sleep over

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a terrible time sleeping. I start worrying about all the problems and things I have to do at the office the next day, and toss and turn most of the night. Then I am exhausted all the next day. Do you think I should see a doctor about this? — T.T.

DEAR T.T.: It might help to see a doctor to be sure there is no medical reason for your problem. At the same time, I would urge you to be careful about putting your trust in a pill to get you to sleep each night. It would be far better for you to learn to deal with your worries and anxieties, rather than avoiding facing up to them and the harmful effects they are having on your life.

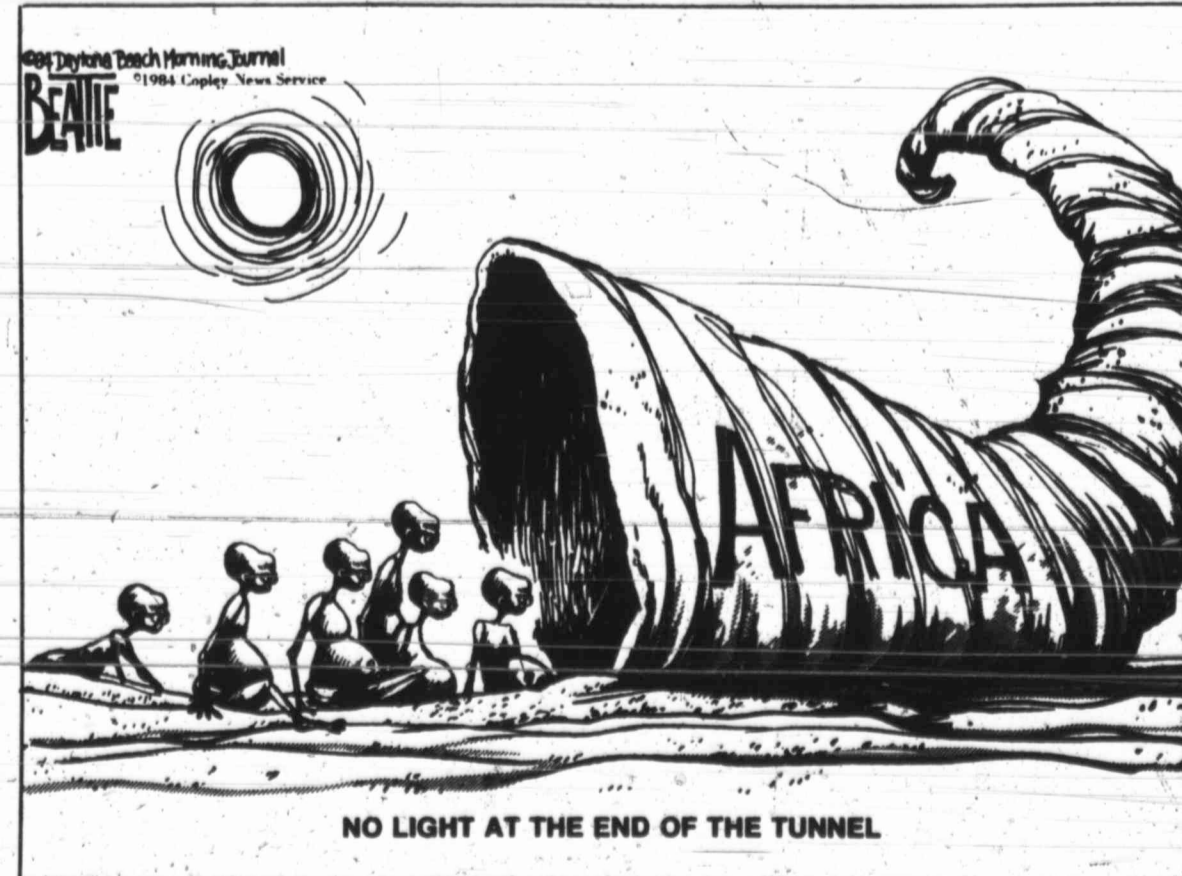

First of all, there may be some practical things you can do. Your doctor may suggest some (such as avoiding caffeine beverages at night, or establishing regular habits to relax before going to bed). Before you leave your office, make a list of the things you need to do the next day — and make it realistic, so you won't be constantly frustrated because you can't get everything done. Get enough exercise. Don't bring work home or take a lot of time talking about your work with your family. Develop some constructive hobbies.

But beyond those things, learn to commit your life each day to God.

If you have never given much thought to God, open your heart to Christ right now and ask him to help you rebuild your life on him. Spend time in his word, the Bible, and learn to commit each problem to him in prayer.

If you let Christ take over your life, you will begin to learn that some of the things that worry you are not really so important after all. You also will learn that God loves you, and because of that you can commit your problems to him. "Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you" (1 Peter 5:7).

Around The Rim

How stupid can you get?

By KEITH BRISCOE

Just when I was about to conclude that radio broadcaster Paul Harvey was the stupidest man speaking the English language, along comes Moral Majority's Cal Something-or-other.

(I was so appalled by his fractured reasoning that I was unable to digest his last name.)

Cal was on TV the other night defending a woman charged in the Christmas Day bombing of an abortion clinic. The woman said she blew up the medical facility "as a birthday gift to Jesus."

Such noble sentiments won support from the Moral Majority, which appears ready to destroy anything in the name of religion and capitalism — except human fetuses, of course.

Cal What's-his-name said bombing abortion clinics was the moral equivalent of the Air Force bombing the concentration camp Auschwitz during World War II.

Never mind that Auschwitz was never bombed. This is America, not Nazi Germany.

It's just not stylish in a democracy to explode things you find reprehensible. We have laws and courts and something called the Constitution.

Citizens have legal, political recourse. Moral Majority, then, must be encouraging terrorism against physicians, pregnant women and private property.

But back to Paul Harvey, the supercilious sage of Amplitude Modulation.

Paul decreed that the Soviet Union — by some macabre magic, I suppose — had caused the terrible drought in East Africa. He further warned against Americans giving money to feed starving people because the puppet Marxist government of Ethiopia last year purchased 40 cases of Scotch whiskey.

His message: Don't give money to drunken Bolsheviks who cause droughts.

At least, I think that's what he said. His commentary on Ethiopia ran right into his advertisement for roach poison.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Jan. 6, the sixth day of 1985. There are 359 days left in the year.

- Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 6, 1838, Samuel Morse publicly demonstrated his telegraph for the first time, in Morristown, N.J.

- On this date: In 1412, according to tradition, Joan of Arc was born.

- In 1540, King Henry VIII of England married his fourth wife, Anne of Cleves. The marriage lasted about six months.

- In 1759, George Washington and Martha Dandridge Custis were married.

- In 1852, Louis Braille died.
- In 1912, New Mexico became the 47th state of the union.

- In 1919, the 26th President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, died at his home in Oyster Bay, N.Y., at the age of 60.

- In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his "Four Freedoms" speech, outlined his goals of freedom of speech and worship, and freedom from want and fear.

- In 1942, Pan American Airways' Pacific Clipper arrived in New York after making the first round-the-world trip by a commercial airplane. The trip, which required more than 200 hours' flying time, began Dec. 2, 1941.

- In 1960, Britain recognized the Communist government of China.

- Ten years ago: Edmund G. Brown Jr. was sworn in as California's 34th governor.

- Five years ago: During debate in the United Nations Security Council, the United States called on the Soviet Union to withdraw its troops from Afghanistan immediately, and asked the council to denounce the Soviet intervention.

- One year ago: Former San Francisco Supervisor Dan White, who had shot and killed Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk in 1978, was paroled after serving five years in prison for voluntary manslaughter.

- Thought for today: "Time is what keeps everything from happening all at once." — Anonymous.

Rainbow Project expands services

The Rainbow Project of Big Spring has expanded its community services for families suffering from domestic violence, according to the board of directors.

The board has contracted with Buckner Baptist Children's Home of Lubbock for technical administration of the Big Spring child abuse center.

"The shelter has always been and always will be a local service to these children," Victor Sedinger, board president, said. "But there were some administrative requirements none of us were qualified to perform, or afford on our limited budget. So we contracted for Buckner's services in those areas."

Buckner's newest staff person, Roxanne Merrill, was added to supervise the operation of the Buckner facility in Odessa and to share time with the Big Spring Rainbow Project.

Ms. Merrill has worked as a social worker in Mankato, Minn., where she helped organize the Blue Earth County Batterer's Treatment Program. Correctional, guidance and crisis counseling for Iowa and Minnesota were also part of her background.

Sedinger said, "With Roxanne's experience in the social welfare and crisis intervention fields, the board hopes to expand the Project's services. Programs to the community on child abuse prevention, foster home development, stress management for parents and prevention of domestic violence can now be addressed."

Civic clubs or service organizations wanting a speaker in any of these fields can contact the Rainbow Project to schedule a date. The Rainbow Project is a non-profit charitable agency supported entirely by contributions.

SWC forgets how to bowl

By Charlie Alcorn

Now that the 1984 College football season has blissfully come to an end, I feel that it is appropriate that the current demise of our Southwest Conference powerhouses be the subject of my first column.

Not that anyone is going to want to listen to any more about the pathetic performances of our SWC teams, but I feel obligated to at least try to formulate some kind of legitimate rebuttal in case anybody inquires as to what in the (expletive) happened to the teams who are supposed to play in the toughest conference in the country.

But before I start on the excuses, let's take a look at the facts.

The Southwest Conference post season bowl record for 1984 was an embarrassing 1-4. And when it is compared to the other major conference bowl records, things start looking down right bleak. The Pac-10 went 3-0, the WAC and ACC were 2-0, and the SEC was 3-2. Only the Big Ten had a worse bowl record, 1-5, but in the only confrontation between SWC and Big Ten teams, Iowa left the vaunted Longhorn secondary in shreds. It's cryin' time again.

As before mentioned, the University of Texas got the conference started out on the right foot by playing dead for Chuck Long and the Iowa Hawkeyes. Iowa registered a convincing 55-17 win at the inaugural Freedom Bowl in Anaheim, California. Second on the menu was the University of Arkansas, who lost 21-15 to Auburn, in the Liberty Bowl. SMU registered the lone conference victory by squeaking out a 27-20 victory over Notre Dame. TCU was next on the SWC whipping post, being thrashed by the Mountaineers of West Virginia, 31-14 in the Bluebonnet Bowl. And rounding out the losing cause was the University of Houston with a 45-28 loss to Boston College in the Cotton Bowl Classic.

That reads; two blowout losses, one semi-blowout, one close loss, and one righteous victory for the Southern Methodists over the Catholics of Notre Dame. So much for the Crusades.

The rest of the Southwest Conference bowl representatives played early Santa Claus for teams from around the nation, bringing joy and good cheer to the corn farmers of Iowa and cotton growers in Alabama. It was a happy New Year for the hillbillies in West Virginia and the fishermen of Boston. One and all, these teams feasted on their Southwest Conference fare as if they were playing so many overstuffed turkeys.

Now as far as the excuses go, we can start with the conference as a whole and say that maybe the talent in the Southwest Conference is being spread too thin. Take a look at rosters from perennial football powerhouses like Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, and LSU. In any given year you will find more than a few starters from Texas high schools on these teams and on many other teams across the nation.

Sour grapes? Yes indeed, but what's a Texan going to brag about when the local boys are up and going to parts unknown. I mean things are getting pretty tough when a bunch of lobster lovers from Boston can whip up on the Houston Cougars, the very soul of Texas college football.

I long for the days of old when real college football programs handed out 90 scholarships a year and UT's junior varsity could have run roughshod over a bunch of Iowa Hawkeyes. OK, I knew those days were over when Darryl Royal decided to quit football and start playing golf with Willie Nelson, but 1969 sure is a long way to go back for the last Southwest Conference national champion.

Panthers blow away Steers

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Steers stayed with the Odessa Permian Panthers for one quarter, after that it was all Permian as the Panthers took a convincing 78-51 win in District 4-5A action.

The two teams battled on even terms in the first quarter with the lead changing hands several times. Both squads came out using fullcourt pressure defense and the tempo speeded up tremendously.

Big Spring went ahead 15-13 late in the quarter when Collin Carroll scored on a pass from Benard Williams and upped the margin to 17-15 on a basket off a pass from Arthur Jackson.

When the quarter ended Permian took an 18-17 on a three point play by post player Orlando Ontiveroz.

Unfortunately for the Steers, it would be the last time they would be within striking distance of Permian.

Big Spring hit a cold streak early in the second quarter which saw them go scoreless for three minutes. The Panthers press, led by Curly Alford and Tony Lewis, took it's toll on Big Spring. Both got four steals in the contest and were a big reason for Big Spring's 28 turnovers.

By the time Big Spring's cold streak was over the Panthers held a 33-22 advantage with 3:22 left in the half. Permian took a 44-30 lead into the dressing room.

Big Spring coach Mike Randle said the fast-paced action hurt his squad. "We got out of our pattern and tried to run. We rushed our passes, threw the ball away and it killed us. We did what we were supposed to do in the first quarter".

Permian really put the game away in the third quarter thanks to more poor shooting by Big Spring. The last five minutes of the period saw the Steers score only 3 points while Permian tacked on 16.

Lewis led paced a balanced Permian scoring attack with 16 points. Ontiveroz followed with 15.

Mike Leuschner led Big Spring with 12 points. His 4 of 15 shooting night typlified the entire squad as Big Spring hit only 30 percent from the floor. Billy Cole added 10 points.

Lueschner and Sidney Parker grabbed seven rebounds each. Freshman Brian Mayfield played a strong defensive game collecting four blocked shots.

Big Spring is 6-15 and 0-2 in district play. Permian is 11-6 and 1-1.

JV FALL TO MOJO

The Big Spring junior varyst dropped their district slate to 1-1 with a 69-57 loss to Permian.

Charles Young, Randy Odom and John Olson all scored 12 points. Big Spring is 7-8 for the season.

The Steers travel to Abilene Tuesday to battle the Cooper Cougars.

Hawk-Queens lose four players

The Howard College Hawks-Queens basketball program suffered a stiff blow as four members will be missing from the second half of semester play.

Starters Vickie Wade, Joyce Boudreaux and Sue Van Hooser along with Kim Barry are no longer with the team, said HC coach Don Stevens in a recent interview.

Wade and Boudreaux were declared academically ineligible for the second semester while Van Hooser and Barry were dismissed for disciplinary reasons.

The loss narrows Stevens' squad down to seven players for the remainder of the season. The Queens are currently 14-4 for the season, in fourth place in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference with a 2-2 slate.

This brings the total to five players Stevens has lost this season. Sophomore starter Debbie Hall left school for personal reasons earlier this season.

The situation left coach Stevens in awe. "I've never had anything in my coaching career to compare to this. The bottom line is that you want the athlete to present an image that the institution and community can be proud of. We had problems in the dorm being brought out on the floor. Winning is nice, but it's not everything."

Boudreaux and Wade were the Queens top two post players.

Boudreaux, a 5-11 freshman from Houston, led the team in scoring and rebounding with 20 and 10 respectively. Wade, a 5-10 freshman from Carthage, averaged 9 points and 7 rebounds per contest.

Van Hooser, a 5-11 forward from Eldorado, Illinois, was considered the Queens most versatile player. She averaged 11 points and 5 rebounds. Barry, a freshman from Houston, saw limited action.

The loss of the players will cause Stevens to rearrange his lineup. Twin sisters Diane and Allison Dickson, both who stand 6-3, will take Boudreaux and Wade's spots. Guard Alex Provencio will be shifted to a forward position and Molly Early and Lorri French will man the guard spots. Stacy Eitner and Tammy Winsmann round out the squad.

Stevens sees the remainder of the season as a big challenge.

"It's going to be an adventure, we'll have to revamp our offense to suit the personnel. The group we have left is very compatible, I'm looking forward to working with them, we lost talent but this group will pull together and give everything they've got."

The Queens will open up the second half of their season January 10th and 11th with games versus the University of Chihuahua in Mexico.

Wacey Cathey: he's bullish on pro rodeo

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

LUTHER — A cotton farmer out this way just bought himself a great big old '59 Cadillac, the kind with fins jutting out the backside and real chrome bumpers. The farmer said the only way he could afford to buy this beauty was with the money he picked up from his second job.

The farmer is Wacey Cathey and he moonlights as a professional bull rider. He's been at it 12 years, the last eight at a pro, and he's pretty good. Placed fourth in the 1984 National Finals. Made $52,000 during the year, enough to buy himself a Caddy.

In Cathey's line of work the way to fame and fortune is to strap yourself to a two-ton hunk of gyrating sinew and stay with the beast for a full eight seconds, all the while maintaining correct form and style. Cathey abuses his body this way in upwards of 100 rodeos a year.

Just back from Oklahoma City and the 1984 finals, he sat on his old black bull of a car on a recent afternoon, trading stories with Darryl Coates, the Coahoma high school buddy he started out rodeoing with, and his wife Lee Anne.

Cathey has had his share of injury. He has a bad knee, wrecked in 1979 when a bull danced on the ligaments, and he is still recuperating from a hernia operation performed in Dallas three weeks ago. "Having the hernia fixed up wasn't really my idea, but Doc Evans (head of the Justin Boots Rodeo Healer program) made me do it. He said if I didn't take care of it right away it might get serious."

Cathey said Evans, who works as a professional football physician as well, told him there is really no comparison between the kind of punishment a bull rider is subjected to and that of a football player. According to Evans, football players are hitting and stepping on one another, "but when a bull stomps on you it is a whole different story." Ironically, Cathey, at 5-foot-7 and 140 pounds, was considered too small to play high school football.

For all the abuse a rodeo cowboy takes, it seems logical that this special breed of athlete is well paid for his trouble. "Naw, compared to other sports, I think rodeo is still lagging behind quite a bit, but it's getting better," Cathey said. "I think now that the Nationals are moving out to Las Vegas there will be a lot more money to be made. 'Course the competition is gonna be stiffer too. People will be rodeoin' a little harder if the money gets as good as they say it is."

Cathey's winnings in 1984 placed him seventh on the NFR's list of total money winners. It was his highest finish ever and his best money year. "The money gets a little better every year, so my winings have increased each year. But the farm and ranch situation in this area also has had some to do with my rodeoing. Past couple of years with the drought and all, there is no way I could have made any where near that kind of money farming and ranching with my father."

Cathey ended the year with an outstanding performance at the National Finals. This particular "go around" — a series of 10 rides required to qualify for prize money — earned him nearly $10,000 and was highlighted on the last night of competition when he placed second on the tenth and final ride.

"That ride was on national TV and I got a big bull that wrecked up Charlie Sampson (1982 World Champion) pretty bad last year. I tried not to think about it before I got on him, but it was definitely in the back of my mind. I felt pretty good after I finished that ride." Cathey scored an 87 out of 100 for the effort.

Rodeos are becoming more popular with spectators, a fact that Cathey feels is good for the sport but not necessarily for the cowboys. A lot of new rodeos are opening in the East such as the one in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

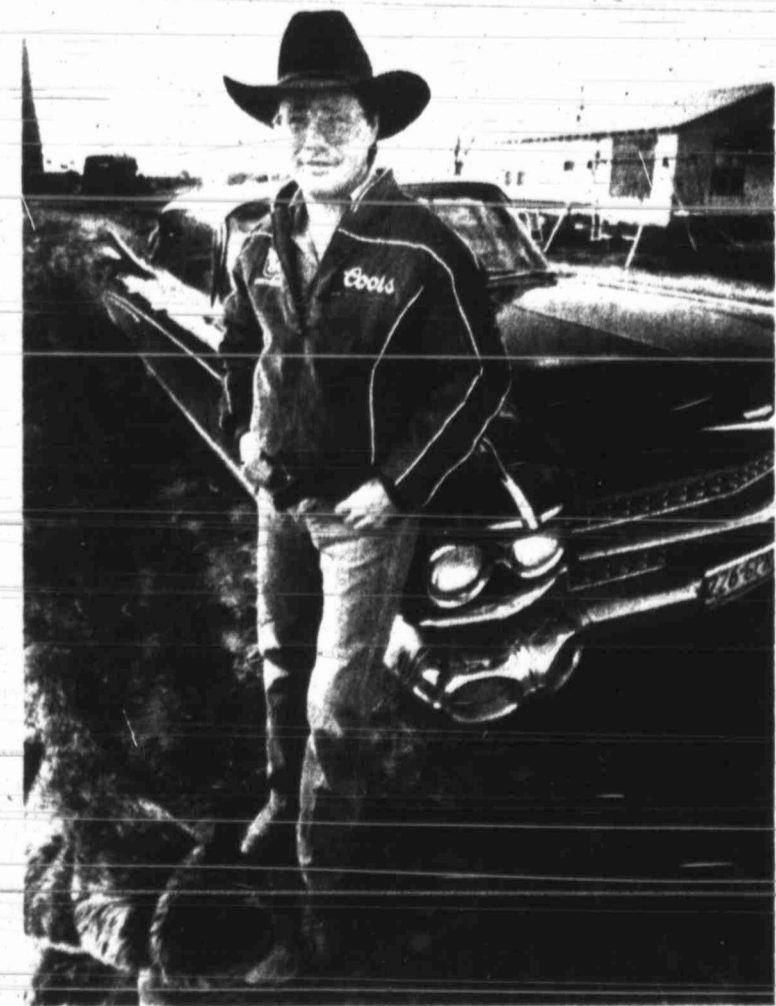

"These new rodeos are all right but it costs a lot to travel on the East Coast," Cathey said. And, because the rodeos are "just starting out up there, the purses aren't that big for the riders even if the crowds are big," he said. "I like the rodeos in the West and the Southwest because the purses are always bigger and the people are more knowledgeable."

A bigger rodeo circuit also has placed a bigger demand on rodeo livestock, which can be both an advantage and disadvantage to the riders. Cathey says there are more good bulls on the circuit now than 10 years ago because of the increase in numbers, but the additional travel tends to fatigue the livestock. "Sometimes you'll draw a bull that's tired, but you're liable to get a stronger bull these days 'cause there's so many more of them."

Rodeoing's higher profile has brought more cowboys to the sport. "When I started out, the only way to learn how to ride was through the National Junior rodeos or getting your own practice stock. Nowadays they've got rodeo schools where a cowboy can learn in three or four days what it took us a year to learn watching and riding in the Junior rodeos."

The bottom line for Wacey Cathey is that he enjoys his work. Despite bigger and stronger animals, increasing travel time and more competition he intends to stay with it as long as he can. "Yeah, I imagine as long as I stay healthy and keep riding good enough to make some money, I'll stick with it. I can't wait to fix this 'ol Caddy up and drive it around the circuit next year."

Underdog Steelers

vs. SF's Montana

to battle Miami

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers went through the final stages of preparations Friday for Sunday's NFC championship game, with the psychological edge continuing to tilt toward underdog Chicago.

The Bears appeared loose and breezy, seemingly assured that their league-leading defense can thwart Coach Bill Walsh's complex offense that led the 49ers to the league's best record this season. That's what they did to Washington last week, knocking the Redskins out of a shot at a third straight Super Bowl appearance with a 23-19 upset.

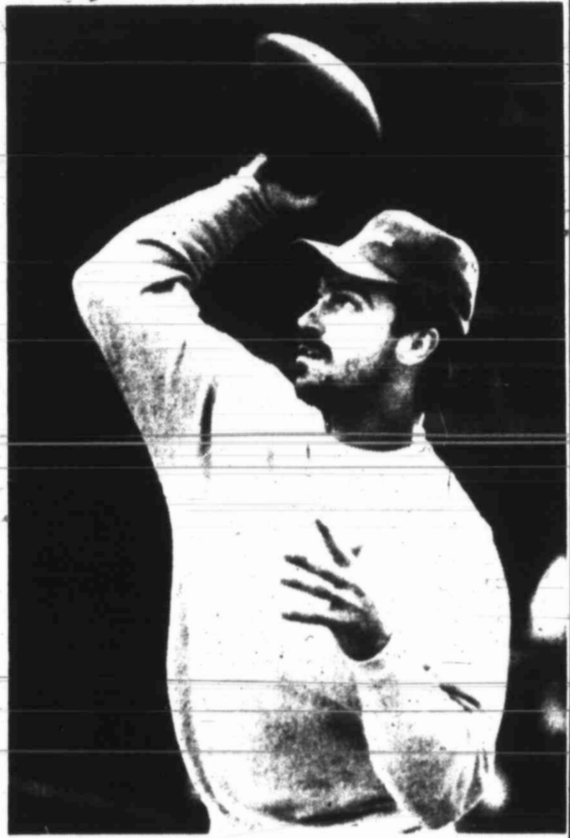

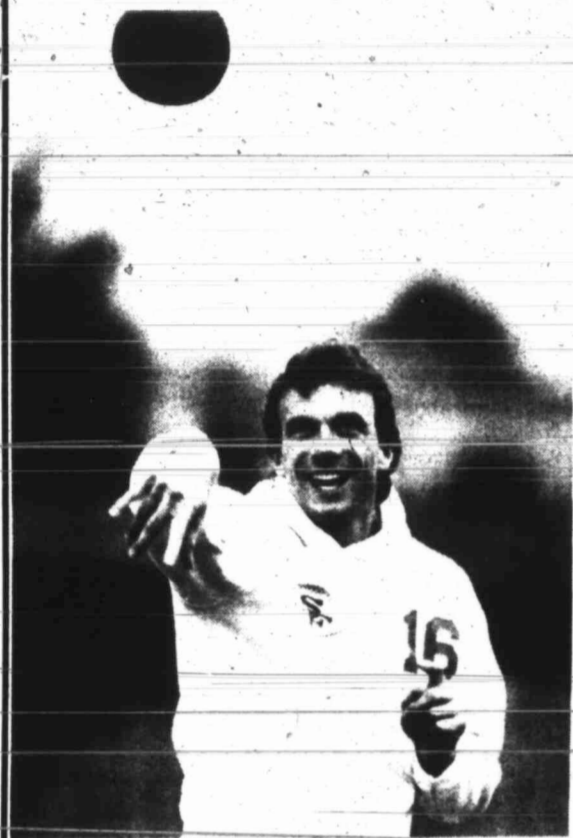

It was Chicago's first playoff win since 1963 and it got a big load off the Bears' back.

"We felt it's been like a jinx, that first playoff game," said Walter Payton, a game away from the first Super Bowl of his 10-year record-breaking MIAMI (AP) — It has been five years since the Pittsburgh Steelers last played in a Super Bowl and just two years since the Miami Dolphins reached the National Football League's championship game.

Yet, with the emergence of second-year quarterback Dan Marino, it is the Dolphins whose character has undergone a major alteration in the years since they were beaten 27-17 by Washington in Super Bowl XVII. They have, in fact, undergone several transformations since Super Bowl VIII when Bob Griese was calling the signals in their three consecutive Super Bowl appearances.

The Steelers, who have won all four Super Bowls they've played — most recently 31-19 over the Los Angeles Rams in Super Bowl XIV — have only four starters remaining from that Steel Curtain defense of the 1970s: nose tackle Gary Dunn, linebacker Robin career. "We felt once we got by that playoff pressure by winning one, things would go in our favor because we can play with anyone in the NFL."

In fact, the Bears were scoffing at the oddsmakers who have made San Francisco a nine-point favorite.

"The German army couldn't beat us by that," said Bears Coach Mike Ditka. Defensive tackle Steve McMichael added: "I wish I could put about $10,000 on it."

The 49ers, on the other hand, continue to exhibit nervousness about a Chicago defense that registered a league-record 72 sacks during a 10-6 regular season, then added another seven in Washington.

"Playing against their defense can be frustrating," said Walsh, "because you'll gain eight yards on one play and then lose five the next. We've stressed poise this week. Patience sounds passive, but we really will have to be patient. It's possible they could make us look very bad at times, but we could still win."

The 49ers, in fact, looked bad at times last week in a 21-10 win over the New York Giants in their first playoff game.

After scoring two quick touchdowns, they were held without a score in the second half by a Giant defense that sacked Joe Montana four times, intercepted him three times. Generally, they did what Walsh hopes the Bears won't be able to do in Sunday's game, which will determine the NFC representative in Super Bowl XIX, to be played 30 miles away at Stanford Stadium.

The forecast for Sunday called for nearly perfect football weather — sunshine with temperatures in the 50s. The 4 p.m. EST game at Candlestick Park will be televised nationally by CBS.

But the teams weren't quite in perfect condition. San Francisco's biggest problem was the sore ankle of cornerback Dwight Hicks. If he can't play, Walsh will shift safety Ronnie Lott back to cornerback — he switched with Hicks earlier in the season — and Tom Holmoe will start at free safety.

Chicago, meanwhile, was worried about the condition of punter Dave Finzer and its banged-up secondary, where Leslie Frazier, back from an injury, will probably start at cornerback for Terry Schmidt, who replaced him, then was injured himself last week.

If Finzer can't punt, the Bears will use either third-string quarterback Rusty Lisch or Payton, the modern equivalent of the old triple-threat. Payton played briefly at quarterback this season — one of six Bears to play the position — and also threw three touchdown passes on option plays, including one last week against Washington.

Cole, cornerback Dwayne Woodruff and safety Donnie Shell. Linebacker Jack Lambert, who missed most of the season with toe and ankle injuries, was reactivated by the Steelers Friday and should action in a reserve role.

Yet they are winning now the way they did then — with defense.

"There's been a big transition in Pittsburgh's personnel. They've got a lot of young players," Miami Coach Don Shula said as Sunday's American Conference championship game approached. "But they're still playing great defense and that's what they played in the '70s. Gone are Joe Greene, L.C. Greenwood, Andy Russell, Jack Ham, Dwight White, Mike Wagner...."

"Offensively, you can see the identity that they're taking on," Shula said. "And with Mark Malone coming on at quarterback, you see them doing a lot of the same things that they did so successfully in the past. The play-actions they ran in the past are still very big in their offense, their drop-back passing, their running game...."

The running game is no longer Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier. The passing game is no longer Terry Bradshaw to Lynn Swann. John Stallworth, who spent so many years playing in Swann's shadow before gaining All-Pro stature on his own, and center Mike Webster are the only starters from the Steelers' Super Bowl offense.

Now it's Frank Pollard and Walter Abercrombie running with the ball and Stallworth and rookie Louis Lipps catching it from Malone who replaced injured starter David Woodley during the season.

There was a time when, despite the brilliance of Griese, the Dolphins' passing game seemed to be little more than an afterthought compared to the ground attack.

"Griese was a very patient guy who understood the importance of the running game," Shula said. "We had people then like Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris, Jim Kiick. We took on that identity. It was successful for us, so we just stayed with it."

"With David Woodley, we had another identity," he said of the quarterback who called the signals for Miami in their Super Bowl loss to the Redskins and who, after the 1983 season, was traded to Pittsburgh. "We developed then to take advantage of Woodley's ability," a mobile quarterback who rolled out, pitched out and relied heavily on the short, safe pass.

"When Don Strock plays quarterback, his own personality comes out in his play-calling," Shula said of Miami's seemingly permanent reserve quarterback.

Cunningham leads West in Shrine win

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Randall Cunningham caught a touchdown pass on a flea-flicker and threw a scoring pass to lead the West to a 21-10 victory Saturday in the 60th East-West Shrine All-Star Game.

Cunningham, of Nevada-Las Vegas, was named the most valuable offensive player of the nationally televised benefit game for Shriners hospitals.

Stanford lineman Garin Veris was named defensive player of the game.

Cunningham drove the West 76 yards in 11 plays in the fourth quarter, capping the drive with a 15-yard TD pass to former Abilene

Cooper star Terry Orr of Texas.

In the first period, after the East's only touchdown, Cunningham began a 43-yard drive that ended with a flea-flicker touchdown play early in the second quarter.

After completing an 8-yard pass to Arizona's Vance Johnson and an 18-yarder to Willis, Cunningham ran twice and threw a short pass to move to the East 3-yard line. Cunningham then threw a lateral pass to Johnson, who faked a run and lofted a pass to a wide-open Cunningham in the end zone, tying the game 7-7.

Rusty Hilger of Oklahoma State also performed well at quarterback for the West, coming in during the second period and marching the team 83 yards in six plays for a 14-7 lead that stood up to halftime.

Hilger fired passes of 29 yards to Colorado State's Keli McGregor, 38 yards to Washington's Danny Greene and 5 yards for a touchdown to Fresno State's Larry Willis.

Ricky Anderson of Vanderbilt, the nation's leading kicker this season, missed his first chance to narrow the lead late in the second period when his 36-yard field goal attempt struck the right goal post and bounced back.

East topples West, 34-14, in Hula victory

HONOLULU (AP) — Maryland's Frank Reich and Doug Flutie of Boston College combined for 341 passing yards and Wisconsin's Al Toon was on the receiving end of two TD passes as the East defeated the West, 34-14, in the 39th annual Hula Bowl Saturday.

Reich, who missed four games during the regular season with a separated right shoulder before coming back late in the year, was the hotter of the two East quarterbacks.

Flutie, the 1984 Heisman Trophy winner who led BC to a 10-2 record including a Cotton Bowl win over Houston completed 10 of 19 attempts for 111 yards.

He engineered the first East scoring drive and capped it with a 1-yard toss to Toon, a 6-foot-4, 200-pound speedster.

Reich had one of the most productive quarters in Hula Bowl history as he threw for two TDs in the second quarter that boosted the East to a 21-0 halftime lead.

In that one quarter, Reich passed for 202 yards on 14 completions in 17 attempts.

Toon, who was named the game's Outstanding Offensive Player, tied a Hula Bowl record with his 10 catches equaling the record set by Donnie Anderson of Texas Tech in 1966.

UT boys was that they were ambushed by a squadron of blonde bombers and left their footballs at the beach. We can all sympathize (except maybe wives and girlfriends) but 55-14 did not set too well with the folks back home. Arkansas had their game won, but their wide receiver said he was just too wide open to catch what would have been the winning touchdown pass. Some things are better left not commented on. And everybody knows that TCU would have whipped West Virginia if their All-American tailback had not come up with a bum wheel in the first quarter. And poor old Houston, they were playing against Doug Flutie. 'Nough said.

So we made it through another season. Sure it was fun when UT thrashed the Penn State boys and Baylor's Baptists scared the God Squad from Brigham Young. I can only hope that the Southwest Conference won't sleep through another bowl season next year or they might end up getting abused like the poor old WAC did this year. But I'd trade Brigham Young's national championship for a little bad mouthing any day.

Lady Steers

ODESSA — The Big Spring Lady Steers lost to the Odessa Permian Panthers, 51-35, in a District 4-5A basketball game in Permian gymnasium Saturday night.

The Lady Steers stayed close throughout the first half with the score 16-13 at the end of one quarter. Sophomore Sherry Mike and junior Monique Jones kept the Steers in the ball game with fine first half shooting.

A cold streak in the third quarter, with the Steers only getting four points, proved to be the turning point in the game. The Panthers opened up a comfortable 43-26 lead and held off a late fourth quarter rally by Big Spring to cruise to their second district win in as many games.

Big Spring coach Carol Neimeyer commented, "I think the girls made great strides tonight, especially with their ball handling. Sherry Mike and Monique Jones had excellent overall games and the whole team showed good hustle. We missed Teresa Pruitt, she definitely would have been a factor, but overall I think that we will remain competitive in the rest of our district games."

The Lady Steers will be back in action Monday night against Abilene Cooper.

In 63-60 overtime win

SMU survives Arkansas

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist guard Butch Moore had the flu but he made the Arkansas Razorbacks sicker on Saturday in a wild Southwest Conference basketball game.

Moore had 20 points, made two key steals in regulation play, and scored four critical points in overtime as the No. 7 ranked Mustangs survived Arkansas 63-60.

SMU is 1-0 in conference play and Arkansas 1-1.

The Mustangs trailed 48-39 in the second half before Moore ignited a sluggish offense.

Moore put SMU ahead 56-54 with 14 seconds to play on a bucket off a steal but Charles Balentine followed a missed shot with one second to go to tie the game 56-all in regulation.

Carl Wright's jumper with 1:19 to go gave SMU a 61-60 lead in overtime.

Jon Koncak rebounded and fed Moore, who was fouled and converted two free throws with two seconds remaining.

The game was billed as a confrontation between Olympians Koncak and Joe Kleine of Arkansas.

Kleine fouled out with 1:40 to play with 10 points. Koncak had 17 points.

Aggies 102

Baylor 78

WACO (AP) — Junior guard Don Marbury scored 41 points to lead Texas A&M to an easy 102-78 win over Baylor in a Southwest Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Aggies outscored Baylor 24-13 in the opening 10 minutes of the second half to blow open the regionally televised game after leading by five points at the half.

Carlos Briggs had 28 points to lead Baylor, while Michael Williams added 17 for the Bears.

Marbury scored 20 the first half, while Briggs hit for 18.

The win boosted the Aggies to 8-4 for the season and 1-1 in SWC play. Baylor fell to 7-5 and 0-1.

Texas 61

Houston 58

AUSTIN (AP) — Carl Willock's last-minute jump shot and free throw sealed Texas 61-58 victory over Houston Saturday night in a Southwest Conference basketball game, marking the first time the Longhorns have beaten the Cougars in three years.

The Longhorns trailed by 10, 56-46, with 8:50 left in the game, but the Cougars were outthumbed and outscored 15-2 from that point until the final buzzer.

Houston guard Alvin Franklin, the team's leading scorer with a 16.9 per game average, was held to just four second-half points and finished with 14.

Rice 63

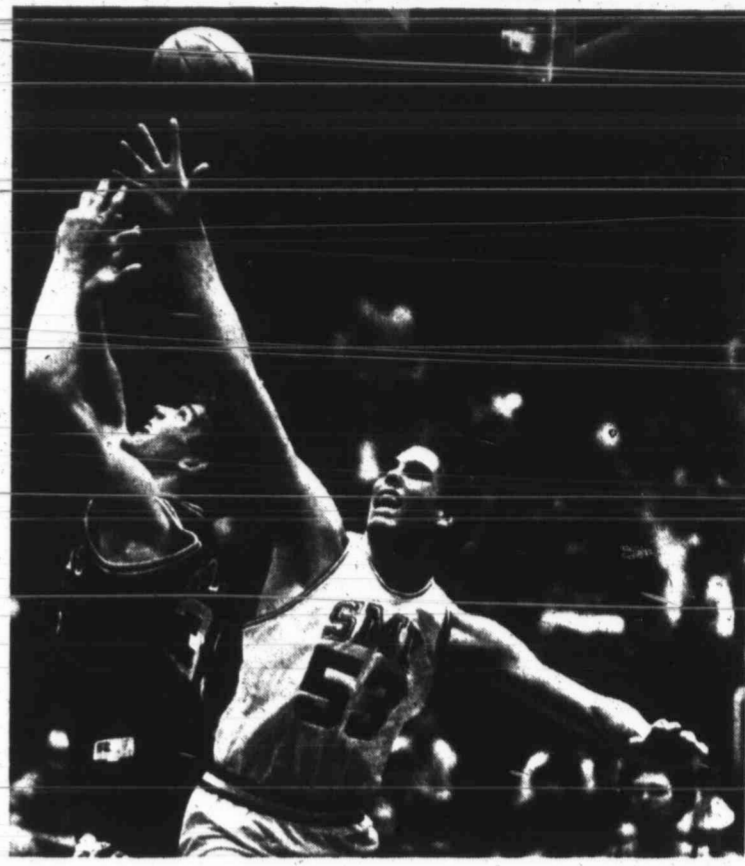

TCU 62

HOUSTON (AP) — Tony Barnett scored 19 points and intercepted a Texas Christian pass with six seconds left in the game to spark the Rice Owls to a 63-62 victory over the Horned Frogs Saturday night in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

Rice, 7-4 overall and 1-1 in the SWC, led the entire game and held a 34-25 halftime advantage.

The Frogs battled back with Dennis Nutt scoring four points with little more than a minute to play to pull TCU to within one point at 63-62.

TCU, 8-5 and 0-2, was led by sophomore Carven Holcombe with 21 points.

Arkansas' JOE KLEINE and SMU's JON KONCAK battle for a rebound in Saturday's SWC action. SMU won 63-60 in overtime.

Come Home To Sundance
 Cookouts with your neighbors... couples out for evening strolls... a feeling of belonging in the community... all these wonderful things go hand-in-hand with a fine old neighborhood. And it's what you can enjoy at Sundance.
 Sundance is more than expertly designed apartment homes, and well-kept grounds. It is a community of neighbors... people like yourself - who are making Sundance their home.
 A variety of indoor spaces at Sundance insures that one of them will make you feel at home. All apartments boast private, exterior carports and entrances. Your patio opens out into spacious grounds. And your apartment at Sundance features such extras as abundant storage, walk-in closets, fenced-in courtyards, draperies, and all appliances including a dishwasher.
 We would appreciate your visiting Sundance. But we hope you'll return as a resident... a neighbor. And stay for a long, long while.

Canadian Hair Research Breakthrough

BALDNESS TREATMENT GROWS NEW HAIR!

NEW GROWTH CLAIM FOR HAIR RESTORER WINS CANADIAN GOVERNMENT APPROVAL!

Amazing Loton Receives Official "Notice of Compliance" as a "TREATMENT FOR ARRESTING EXCESSIVE HAIR LOSS AND FOR INCREASING NEW TERMINAL HAIR GROWTH ON THE SCALPS OF MEN AND WOMEN WITH UNCOMPLICATED MALE PATTERN OR DIFFUSE HAIR LOSS."

R.A. Armstrong, M.D., Assistant Director and Chief Drug Evaluation Division, Bureau of Non-prescription Drugs.

ANGLO-AMERICAN MARKET TESTING NEW FORMULA IN THE U.S.

In Canada today, there is a remarkable treatment for baldness. Formula MJS, named by the Canadian Government in an official NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE after reviewing independent clinical studies in which 77% of all patients tested actually Grew New Hair! These studies were supervised by two eminent dermatologists from a leading Toronto hospital and a major Toronto university medical school. As significant as these results were, the study goes on to further state that MOST PATIENTS EXPERIENCED A SIGNIFICANT REDUCTION OF HAIR LOSS, AND WITHIN 6 MONTHS, MORE THAN 3/4 BEGAN TO RE-GROW HAIR!

THE GALEA THEORY

We are all born with a thin membrane called the Galea. Its purpose at birth is to protect the "soft spot" at the top of the skull as the occipital bones grow together and form a one-piece skull. The Galea covers the crown of the head - the first area of hair loss in typical cases of male pattern baldness. With many people, the Galea thickens with age. Some researchers believe that this thickening chokes off the proper flow of oxygen and blood supply to the hair follicles, causing them to atrophy and die. This formula is said to revitalize dormant hair follicles and, by gradually thinning the Galea membrane, renewing the circulation necessary for a normal pattern of hair growth.

U.S. GOVERNMENT POSITION

It is the unanimous position of the Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Postal Service and the Federal Trade Commission that nothing can halt the process of male pattern baldness and grow new hair. Obviously Canadian Authorities disagree - to a point where they have approved the extraordinary claim of NEW HAIR GROWTH for Formula MJS.

Of course governments are not in the business of endorsing or promoting commercial products but, in Canada, FORMULA MJS MAY BE SOLD AS A TRUE HAIR RESTORER THAT CAN GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS!

ANGLO-AMERICAN CONDUCTING LIMITED U.S. MARKET TEST

During the next few months, Anglo-American will be testing an American version of Formula MJS.

'People's lawyer'
Fighting for the little guy

Philadelphia attorney David Berger has recovered billions of dollars from the government, the nation's biggest oil companies and utilities for tens of thousands of small clients.

He calls himself a "people's lawyer."

Berger, at 72 a dapper dresser who often wears red suspenders under his blue or gray pinstripe suits, is one of the nation's leading advocates of class-action cases that bring together a group of similar plaintiffs and make it easier, and cheaper, for them to sue.

Peter Liacouras, Temple University president and former dean of its law school, said Berger "is one of the premier antitrust lawyers in a city which is renowned for exceptional antitrust lawyers. He is resourceful and effective."

Berger said his antitrust career began when he was the city solicitor of Philadelphia in the 1960s and filed what he said was the first antitrust suit for non-governmental agencies, a case involving burglar alarms.

"It was amazing how many very small businessmen were involved in that, businessmen with claims of $100 and $200 who couldn't possibly bring their own cases," he said.

Since then, Berger has counted among his achievements:

- A $2 billion settlement from the government on behalf of the bankrupt Penn Central railroad and thousands of its shareholders.
- A $25 million settlement for area residents against General Public Utilities, owner of the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant. The award included an unprecedented $5 million public health fund to study the effect of low-level radiation exposure on the plant's neighbors.
- A $25 million settlement from 13 of the biggest U.S. oil companies on behalf of some 30,000 gasoline station operators. The settlement also allowed the station operators to buy gas from competitors that could save consumers money.
- A suit against the nation's asbestos firms on behalf of every public and private elementary and secondary school in the United States, seeking funds for removal of cancer-causing asbestos from walls, ceilings, pipes and heating systems.
- A suit against more than 90 electric utilities in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, New York, Oregon, Washington and other states seeking to recover, on behalf of stockholders and bondholders, hundreds of millions of dollars because of violations of security laws in construction of nuclear power plants.
- Recovery of more than $1 billion in numerous antitrust cases involving such products as rock salt, electrical equipment, copper tubing, water heaters and corrugated paper.
- Recovery of approximately $25 million from a major cereal firm for damages caused by a sewer explosion in Louisville, Ky.

"In all of these cases we are always up against the toughest, best and richest lawyers in the country," he said.

Hill sworn in as chief justice

AUSTIN (AP) - Former attorney general John Hill, who narrowly missed becoming Texas governor in 1978, was sworn in Saturday as chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court.

"I pledge scrupulous adherence to the duties and obligations of this great court," Hill said in taking over the top judicial post in the state.

His wife, Bitsy, helped him into the new black robe and planted a big kiss on his mouth to start him off.

"I acknowledge I owe a great debt to my friends and the people of Texas," Hill said after he took the center seat in the nine-member court. "The best way to repay that debt is to carry on the great traditions of his great court."

The oath was administered by retiring Chief Justice Jack Pope, who has been chief justice since November 1982 left with the parting words "See you later."

Baby won't come with his bill marked 'paid'

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

"If you wait until you can afford it, you will never have one." People say that about many things, including having babies.

Like everything else, hospital-costs for having a baby have risen throughout the country. An advertisement in a 1937 edition of West Texas Baptist said, "Maternity Cases — $50 for 10 days."

Probably the biggest expense in having a baby is having the baby. Expect to pay substantially more for a baby today.

According to Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray's office, more than 770 babies were born in the county during 1984. Many babies were born at local hospitals, while others were born at home with a midwife's help. Cowper Clinic and Hospital and Malone-Hogan Hospital, and Malone-Hogan Hospital and a local midwife provided information on the estimated costs of having a baby. Babies also are born at Hall-Bennett Hospital occasionally, but not often enough to give a fair estimate of the costs, hospital officials say.

MIDWIVES IN THE AREA charge in the range of $200 to $450 for delivery, one midwife said. A midwife's patient must see a doctor for her first prenatal care check, then visit the County Health Clinic for prenatal care throughout the pregnancy before coming to the midwife for delivery. "We tell them to see a doctor," said the midwife, who asked to remain anonymous. "That's the main thing we are making them do now. Used to they didn't see a doctor and just came in (for delivery)."

The average cost for a normal delivery with a four-day stay at Cowper Hospital for mother and baby, including prenatal and postnatal checkups at Cowper Clinic, is $1176. For a caesarean section birth, the cost increases by about $1096 to an average total of $2272.

On a study based on 25 patient cases, the average bill for a three-day stay at Malone-Hogan Hospital totals $1400 for the mother and infant in a normal delivery, says Nursing Supervisor Carmen Phillips. "That is $1003 for the mother and $395 for the infant."

MALONE-HOGAN HOSPITAL has observed that many families do not receive prenatal care, medical care for childbirth and/or postnatal care due to poverty or lack of insurance to cover the medical expenses. To meet the needs of low income families, young couples beginning a family and others, the hospital plans to start a maternity option in 1985 in addition to the present maternity package. With this option, the family chooses a shorter hospital stay and follow-up care by a Home Health Care nurse as prescribed by the physician.

The new option can reduce the cost of maternity care. According to Ms. Phillips, if the families are aware of the option, they can work with the hospital and plan ahead of time for their expense, know what prenatal and postnatal care they need, and be better prepared physically and financially for childbirth.

Since the emergence of the Lamaze method of child birth, many mothers are able to go home quicker than those who have children under anesthesia, says Ms. Phillips. The Lamaze and natural childbirth methods also can lower the cost of childbirth since anesthesia is not used.

Malone-Hogan Hospital presently offers free Lamaze classes to any expectant parents who want it, but is considering a plan to offer the class free to its patients and for a fee to other expectant parents. At Cowper Hospital, the Lamaze method of childbirth is not practiced. Anesthesia is the rule.

BIRTHING ROOMS will soon be available for childbirth in addition to the labor and delivery rooms at Malone-Hogan Hospital. These rooms are designed to provide a more home-like atmosphere in a hospital setting.

With the new optional maternity packages in Malone-Hogan's plans, the hospital believes maternity costs will be reduced substantially making childbirth, prenatal and postnatal care more affordable to many families. At the same time, the administrators believe it will cut the hospital's expense from unpaid bills.

"We feel we can offer them this less expensive option and be able to have them in acute hospital service if necessary, and complications do occur," Ms. Phillips said. "We plan to have this in place in 1985."

In a report by the Public Relations Division of the Health Insurance Association of America, more than 3.6 million births were recorded in the United States in 1981, a birth rate of 15.9 per 1,000 population. "The medical costs associated with having a baby have risen consistently and steeply," the report said. "According to the Consumer Price Index between 1967 and 1982, the cost of all medical care items increased by 194 percent, physician's fees rose by 199 percent and prescription drugs by 72 percent."

The cost of having a child doesn't stop when the parents leave the hospital with their little bundle. Next on the list of expenses comes clothing, food, toys, trips to the doctor for checkups and illnesses...and more.

Invitation is 11 years, 3 kids late

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Butch and Vicki Greer were married on July 13, 1973.

Four days ago, their good friends Ray and Carla Freeman, who live in a suburb of Birmingham, received the wedding invitation.

"My wife went to the mailbox Tuesday and said, 'Guess what we got in the mail?'" Freeman recalled.

"I said, 'My God, they've been married 11 years and have three kids.'"

The invitation was postmarked July 2, 1973, and had an 8-cent stamp on it.

A U.S. Postal Service official, who insisted on anonymity, offered two theories for the delay. "It could have been a bad ZIP code," he said, "or the letter could have gotten hung up in a sack of mail."

Freeman, a 34-year-old Burlington Railroad inspector, said he and his wife had attended the wedding anyway.

"Carla and Vicki used to run around together all the time, and we're all good friends. I didn't even think about the missing invitation at the time," said Freeman.

Woman's heart is animals' home

IN SAFE HANDS — Patricia Hogg gives 5-month-old Tippy a hug. She found Tippy under a house where the owner had moved away, taking the mother dog, but leaving the three puppies. Although Mrs. Hogg had found him a home, Tippy was recently returned to her when the owner could no longer care for him. In finding homes for abandoned and abused animals, Mrs. Hogg is choosy, allowing only responsible people with fenced yards to have her pets.

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

By accident, Patricia Hogg began a quest to find homes for orphaned, neglected and abused animals. The full-time job that demands time, money and much love began a year ago and continues today because of her compassion for animals.

"It all started with a little puppy getting run over on Fourth Street, and we had to find it a home," she said. She found there were many good, loving homes for the helpless, stray and abused animals.

Mrs. Hogg began purchasing animals from the pound that she knew she could find homes for. She gave them away for free. "I've had only one lady pay me the $18," she said. Her bill for 1984 at the pound was approximately $458. She usually gives the pets away within three to four days.

In April, she stopped buying animals from the pound because so many were being brought to her. "I was picking up cats and dogs more than the pound. I had to quit because my heart was too big," she said.

Mrs. Hogg began receiving anonymous calls about abused or neglected animals. "I was called early one morning and there was a family that moved. They took the mother dog and left three puppies under the house." The puppies were about 3 weeks old. She saved a 4-day-old puppy from its owner, who tried to drown it in the bathtub. Miocca, raised on a heating pad and Platex nurser, is now a permanent member of the Hogg family.

Three puppies and a mother dog were dumped in Mrs. Hogg's backyard. One Sunday morning, four baby kittens were thrown out of a vehicle on Snyder highway in front of her house.

Recently, a dog was abandoned on the highway across from Mrs. Hogg's house by a man in a blue pickup. The dog still waits in the VICTIMS OF NEGLECT — These two dogs were saved from being destroyed at the pound by Mrs. Hogg's daughter, Kristi Hamilton. The dog on the left was abused and has an ear missing. Kristi helps her mother in finding homes for neglected and stray animals. The duo began full-time work one year ago when they found out about the many animals that needed good, loving homes.

bushes for his owner to return. Mrs. Hogg takes food to the dog, but she is unable to catch it. The dog just stays there, waiting.

The saddest experience for Mrs. Hogg was when she opened a garage where a mother dog and eight puppies had been left for eight days without food or water. "It just breaks your heart when you see things like that," she said.

Her vet bill was more than $1,200 for the year, and she paid more than $700 to board the male animals. "I've never had anybody help me," she said. The money she makes from selling her handsewn items helps pay for expenses. Her husband, Raymond, also gives her money. "(Raymond) loves animals. Miocca is his favorite."

Mrs. Hogg's daughter, Kristi Hamilton, also helps her care for the animals. Last May, 47 cats and 27 dogs were placed in homes. In August, 22 cats and 46 dogs were placed. This was because of pet shows held in the Big Spring Mall by the recently organized Big Spring Humane Society. "If we could have one (pet show) once every month, then more animals would get homes."

Keeping a record of the homes where she places her animals, Mrs. Hogg tries to match pets with owners. She makes a list of people who want a pet and what kind of pet they want, and a list of pets that she has.

Choosing owners for her pets carefully, Mrs. Hogg gives her animals only to "good people that need them. I've made some people mad because I tell them they can't have my dog."

To receive one of her animals, the prospective owner must have a fenced yard and know the responsibilities of being a pet owner. If the new owner is unable to properly care for the pet she has given them, they can return it to her, and she will find it another home.

"The most important thing is if people get a pet, be responsible for that animal. The people are at fault, not the animals," she said. Mrs. Hogg advises pet owners to have their animal spayed or neutered. "That is the best thing they can do."

Although there is much trouble and heartache, "it's worth it," said Mrs. Hogg. "In fact, it's double worth it."

Dr. Donohue

Smoking and exercise don't mix

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I know a woman in her late 20s who jogs, probably 10-12 miles a week. She also smokes a pack of cigarettes a day. Is the jogging benefitting her while she continues to smoke? Is her physical activity in vain? — Mrs. D.L.

There is a small misguided group of fitness buffs who do think they can continue to smoke so long as they exercise. Put another way, I guess the question comes down to this: Does exercise in some way cancel out the deleterious effects of smoking? The answer is no.

First of all, the smoking is preventing her from getting any real benefits from the exercise. As a matter of fact, she may be harming herself more by smoking and exercising than if she smoked and remained idle. You cannot undo the toxicity of the cigarettes by jogging. Nicotine makes the heart rate go up by 10-15 percent, and that isn't the healthy kind of heart rate increase we speak of as so valuable in aerobic exercise. The smoking also increases her blood pressure and causes constriction of arteries. It also causes abnormal heartbeats. And you know what it does to the lungs.

Put all these factors together and you have a lot of extra demand on the body before you take the first stride of a daily run. And now you want to ask the heart, lungs and circulation to support a lot of physical exercise on top of this stress. It's asking too much.

And really, does it make sense to take up exercise for health while you are destroying your health by puffing on cigarettes?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it best to wear a loose bra and underpants when jogging or does a tight girdle help for weight loss? — Mrs. K.C.

Clothing doesn't affect weight loss. A good support bra is fine. A tight girdle can slow down return of blood to the heart. Don't use one.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I believe that a person can be very fit and yet not very strong. Am I correct? — A.J.N.

It's a good question and you are absolutely correct. Strength and fitness are not the same at all. You can be very strong and not fit, even though that combination isn't found often.

Basically, fitness means health, the absence of illness. Primary determinants of health (fitness) are our arteries, the heart, the lungs, and internal organs. Muscle strength has little to do with that.

Fitness, then, is arteries free of fatty build-up, blood pressure in normal range, a heart pumping enough blood with each beat, lungs uncluttered and free of cigarette smoke, and a liver free of the abuses of alcohol and other drugs.

Muscle strength and size have little to do with all the above. You can be strong without being fit. But you can be both strong and fit. You gain strength as well as fitness through exercise, aerobic exercise for fitness and things like weight training for strength.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I nursed my baby I noticed my thighs getting smaller. This amazed and delighted me. I ate normally and wasn't exercising more than just normal activity. Did nursing have something to do with getting slimmer hips? I can't believe it, but my slacks got too loose for me. How delightful! — W.P.L.

You're the first to mention this to me, but what you say does have foundation in science. In women, the thigh-hip areas are fat storage places. In fact, the thigh-hip fat's purpose supposedly is to supply energy during nursing. During that time, the fat in those areas is easy to mobilize for the energy needed for milk production.

Dear Abby

Jogger runs when invited to home

DEAR ABBY: It all started one day while I was walking to work. I saw this nice-looking man jogging, and we said hi to each other. Every morning we'd exchange friendly hi's, and after about three months he started asking me questions, such as what was my name and where was I going. I answered him because I saw no harm in the questions he asked. I also asked him a few. He laughed and called himself a "health nut." Then his questions started to get a little more personal. I always answered truthfully — like telling him I was married and had a 6-year-old son, but that didn't seem to bother him.

Finally I invited him to come to my apartment anytime because my husband wasn't the jealous type. He said he'd think about it — but he'd come only if my husband was home.

Well, I never saw him again, and I can't figure it out. Will you please set me straight on what's happening here?

MIXED UP IN MESA, ARIZ.

DEAR MIXED UP: Nothing's happening. And nothing will. The friendly jogger, ever mindful of his health, probably doesn't want to get involved with a married woman. Wise man, he.

DEAR ABBY: My son hasn't had a decent meal since he married a girl I'll call Alice four years ago.

Alice works from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. She's home in plenty of time to fix a dinner. My son gets off work at 6, comes right home and then the two of them go to some bar that serves snacks and nibbles. My son deserves better, but the fool never complains and says he's happy. How can a man be happy with a wife who's too lazy to heat up a can of soup or put a frozen TV dinner in the oven? Should I tell her mother?

BURNED UP IN SARASOTA, FLA.

DEAR BURNED UP: No. Don't tell anybody. If your son never complains and "thinks" he's happy, he probably is.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance and I are planning to get married. I'm 25 and he's 26. The problem is his parents. They are divorced and hate the sight of each other. Each refuses to attend the wedding and reception if the other is present.

Please don't tell me to have two weddings. My fiance and I are paying for it and one is all we can afford. Hurry your answer. I have to make a choice.

PROBLEM PARENTS

DEAR PROBLEM: You don't have to make a choice, his parents do. Invite them both, and if they aren't sufficiently mature to put aside their hostilities for this one very important occasion, it will be their loss.

Terry Arcand makes Austin home

TERRY ARCAND is moving to Austin this weekend. She is taking a position as charge nurse at Seton Hospital in Austin. At Malone-Hogan Hospital, Terry was the fourth floor charge nurse for 2½ years. She is the daughter of ANDY AND PAT ARCAND.

Viruses cause winter colds, not weather

It's true. According to the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS), colds, flus and other health problems are more likely to hit in the winter.

But don't blame winter winds, wet weather and/or frigid temperatures for making you sick. Colds are caused by specific viruses that, for some reason, appear principally in the winter.

While there is no magic cure for the common cold, you can curtail its spread with some simple measures. Wash hands thoroughly after contact with a cold-sufferer. Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you sneeze, not with your hand. Flush used tissues down the toilet.

Another word of advise, keep your hands to yourself. If someone sneezes or coughs in your direction, you may catch a cold, but the chances are greater that you will pick it up virus through finger contact with the sufferer or something he's touched.

Weddings

Draper-Ball

Barbara Lou McAlister Draper and Ronald Ball were united in marriage during a ceremony at First Baptist Church Chapel, Dec. 28. Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, and the Rev. Gene Ball, brother of the bridegroom and pastor of Midland Bible Church, officiated at the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Goll, Marble Falls, and the late Harold McAlister.

The couple was wed before an arch decorated with pink candles and flanked by baskets of pink gladiolas and lilies. Two candle trees completed the setting. Jane Ball, pianist and vocalist, Betty Downey, pianist, and Dr. Patrick, vocalist, provided music for the wedding. The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, James Goll.

The bride wore a pink and grey chapel-length gown fashioned with a wide pleated lace collar. A pink lace ribbon veil completed her ensemble. She carried a cascading bouquet of lilies, roses, stephanotis and baby's breath trimmed with pink and grey velvet ribbons.

Carol Wolf was matron of honor. Eddie Wolf was best man. Martynne Wolf was flower girl. Jason Draper and Justin Draper, sons of the bride, were ring bearers. Ushers and candlelighters were Greg Ball and Sheldon Ball, nephew of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted at a reception at the church's parlor. The bride's table was draped with a cream-colored cloth and decorated with a silver candelabrum and pink candles entwined with pink flowers. The bridegroom's table was draped with a cream cloth and pink overlay. It was decorated with grey, cream and pink flowers. A German chocolate cake decorated with strawberries was served.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School, Howard College and University of Texas at Austin. She holds a degree in elementary education. The bridegroom is a college graduate employed by Exxon Company USA.

Following a two-week skin diving and snorkeling trip to the Carribeans, the couple will live in Big Spring.

Williams-Hoskins

Darrian L. Williams and Richard Michael Hoskins were united in marriage during a ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Dec. 14. The Rev. David Bristow, chaplain at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, officiated at the 6 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Buerk Williams, 707 Scott Dr. The bridegroom is the son of Nona Toy Hoskins, Lawton, Okla.

The couple was wed before a six-foot trellis (sp?) interlaced with blue, yellow, pink, orange and purple carnations, white daisies and greenery. Two spiral candelabra completed the setting. A recording by Pachelbel Kanon provided music for the ceremony.

The bride wore a formal-length Southern lace gown fashioned with puffed sleeves and interlaced with pink ribbon throughout. She carried a dozen yellow roses and fern.

Christa Williams served her sister as maid of honor. Keli Hoskins of Lawton, Okla., niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Mathew Trippy of Las Vegas, Nev. was best man. Michael Hoskins of Ronan, Mont., the bridegroom's son, was ring bearer. Ushers were Aron Buerk Williams and Kevan Alexander Williams, both of Big Spring and brothers of the bride.

The couple was feted at a reception at the same location following the ceremony. The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a custom blown glass figurine of two unicorns underneath an arch. The cake's bottom tier was surrounded by three separate heart-shaped cakes. The table was draped to the floor with white linen and lace. The bridegroom's table was covered with a lavender cloth and featured a German chocolate cake.

The bride attended Big Spring High School, Howard College and Odessa College and graduated from Amarillo College. She holds an associate's degree in nursing and is a registered nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

MRS. RICHARD HOSKINS
...formerly Darrian Williams

The bridegroom is a graduate of Lawton High School and Camebon University, both in Lawton, Okla. He is a respiratory therapist at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Following the couple's honeymoon to New Mexico and Vermont, the couple will live in Big Spring.

Johnson-Kirby

Cathy L. Johnson became the bride of Troy L. Kerby Dec. 29 at Lakeview Baptist Church near Belton. The Rev. Frank Dearing, pastor, officiated at the 3 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Lucky Jr., Belton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Kerby, Rt. 3.

The bride wore a beige crepe gown with a bodice that featured a shawl collar trimmed in soft beige lace and tied with a double ribbon sash. The long sleeves ended in lace cuffs with button and loop closures. The bride carried a long-stemmed red rose and baby's breath tied with maroon streamers.

Hilary Kirby and Dana Kirby, both daughters of the bridegroom, were junior bridesmaids. Brett Johnson and Joshua Johnson, both sons of the bride, were junior groomsmen.

A reception followed the ceremony at the church. The bride and bridegroom's table was laid with a beige linen lace-trimmed cloth and centered with maroon flowers and baby's breath. The table featured a cream and beige cake topped with wedding bells, small gold wedding rings, white doves, maroon rosebuds and soft maroon and gold leaves. Servers were the junior bridesmaids and Sunday School teachers from the church: Mrs. Dean Garvin, Mrs. Barbara Perrive, Mrs. Joyce Baker and Mrs. Suzie Miller.

Out-of-town guests were from Houston, Killeen, Big Spring, Crane, and Oklahoma City, Okla.

The bride is a graduate of Belton High School, a Sunday School teacher at Lakeview Baptist Church, and a medical secretary for Dr. S.P. Nair at Belton Children's Clinic. The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School. He attended Ranger Junior College in Ranger, Howard College and University of Texas at the Permian Basin in Odessa. He is a deacon and Sunday School director at Lakeview Baptist Church and is the circulation district manager for the Temple Daily Telegram Newspaper at Temple.

Following a wedding trip to Austin, the couple and their children will live near Belton at Morgans Point.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and a telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1451, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7311 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
 Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement, is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
 If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
 Local hospitals supply information for the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storckclub information.

Information needed for Storckclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Sandi Freeman has come long way from being a TV ornament

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Sandi Freeman wasn't all that eager to confront Cable News Network chief Ted Turner on her interview show. Let it be somebody else's fantasy to embarrass the boss on national television.

"I said on the air that I felt like I was between a rock and a hard place," said Ms. Freeman, anchor of CNN's live interview show, "The Freeman Report." "I said a little part of me wants to work here tomorrow."

Ms. Freeman did the interview with Turner, and he still signs her paycheck. "Ted's very forthcoming. He speaks his mind," she said. "He was great about it — he said, 'I don't expect you to be soft on me.'"

Throughout her career, the subject of toughness has shadowed Ms. Freeman, as it has almost every female TV broadcaster, in part because of the limited roles women have been permitted to play in the medium and because of the rigid mind-set of many male executives.

There are corporate types at CBS, for example, who say that Diane Sawyer was too tough on the "CBS Morning News" and didn't appeal to female viewers. So when she left for "60 Minutes," CBS replaced her with Phyllis George, who is supposed to attract women with her wholesomeness and family snapshots.

There was a time when a smiling presence was all TV executives wanted from Ms. Freeman. In the early 1970s, she worked as a "co-host" on the morning show at WLS-TV in Chicago. Her job was to look cheerful and pleasant.

But not so beautiful as to make the women at home uncomfortable, the almighty researchers said. That's when she was handed a wig to cover her long blond hair. The wig looked like a hard hat with curls and felt worse; its elastic cut into her scalp.

"After a while, my head couldn't breathe," she said.

In her stint at WLS, a half dozen male hosts came and went, but she says she was never considered for anything more than window dressing.

"Their research said that the typical audience was a 33-year-old housewife, and all they wanted to see was a macho man, an authority figure," said Ms. Freeman. "So they would hire somebody with no experience. What the station didn't see was that women were ready to identify with another woman."

Today, Ms. Freeman has more time on national TV in prime time than any other TV journalist, male or female. Five nights a week, at 9 p.m. EST, her New York-based "Freeman Report" on CNN explores an issue, newsmaker or personality in detail. CNN is in 31 million TV homes, and "The Freeman Report" averaged 314,000 households a night last November.

Last summer, she traveled to the Middle East, where, within 11 days, she interviewed Jordan's King Hussein, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, President Amin Gemayal of Lebanon, Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and the PLO's Yassir Arafat.

"It took four years to put together that Middle East series," said Ms. Freeman.

She's just returned from a trip to the Soviet Union, and she'll use some of the interviews on a Jan. 15 "Freeman Report" about arms control, which will run in conjunction with the broadcast of the nuclear-aftermath film "Threads" on Turner's SuperStation WTBS.

She expects to devote tonight's show to the preliminary U.S.-Soviet arms control talks in Geneva, Switzerland.

Ms. Freeman considers her program a combination of "Donahue" and "The MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour."

Although she lacks Phil Donahue's electricity and MacNeil-Lehrer's intellectual curiosity, she has found a comfortable niche as a probing protietarian, striking up conversations and asking the questions people want to have answered.

"I feel I have the same kind of thoughts that a lot of people in the audience do," she said.

Ms. Freeman was hired by CNN's former president, Reese Schonfeld, in 1980, but they soon had a falling out over the show's toughness. He wanted a hard-news program and told TV Guide in 1983 that "she was incapable of delivering that kind of show."

Ms. Freeman says the relationship soured because "I stood up to him. I feel bad about what happened. He's a very difficult man. He doesn't let people grow."

About the rap that her interviews aren't highbrow enough, Ms. Freeman said, "That doesn't bother me. My responsibility is to get information out and create awareness. ... If people turn the channel because the program is so intellectual, so boring, you haven't helped anyone."

Rates dampen demand for big-ticket items

CHANGING TIMES
Forecasters told Changing Times magazine that consumers should expect to spend more on goods such as vacations, VCRs, and designer dresses, because high interest rates may dampen demand for big-ticket items, such as houses and cars, and because price hikes for certain kinds of personal and household goods have been historically modest and probably will continue to move up slowly.

Prices for furniture and appliances will increase by only about 0.5 percent this year, predicts DRI, and prices for consumer electronics should continue their downward trend.

Sandra Shaber, director of consumer economics at Chase Econometrics, predicts that, barring an unexpected collapse of the dollar, 1985 will still be a good year to plan a trip to Europe.

Economists predict sales in autos and homes will slip this year. Creative financing or leasing arrangements that let you apply rental money to the eventual purchase price of the house should still be available.

Adjustable-rate mortgages could be less attractive if the spread between them and conventional fixed-rate loans reaches a one- to one-and-a-half-point difference, the likely range in '85.

Mark Riedy, executive vice-president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, says mortgage rates

Elbow Extension Homemakers Club installs officers

Officers of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club were installed at a meeting Thursday in the home of Tonya Arnold.

New officers are: Wanda Lee, president; Ruth Morton, vice president; Zula Rhodes, secretary; Sybil Duffer, treasurer; and Myrl Soles, council delegate. Mrs. Ross Hill, who installed the officers, was the first president of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club when it was organized in 1929. She has been a member for 56 years.

Deannie Burt was enrolled as a new member, and programs and meeting places for the year were planned. The club will work with other Howard County Extension Clubs in operating the concession stand at the stock show, Jan. 17-19.

A one-parent, two-children family was helped by the group at Christmas. The next meeting will be Jan. 17 in the home of Margaret Allen, 1515 Hilltop Rd.

in '85 may drift down to 13 percent on fixed-rate loans and 12 percent on ARMs, whatever the federal deficit.

If you're in the market for your first home, figure that total homeownership costs — mortgage, taxes, maintenance and operating expenses — will consume 38 to 39 percent of your take-home pay if you're a typical new homeowner buying a median-priced home.

If that's too much, you might be better off postponing the purchase.

With modest price increases of 5 percent or less expected over the next year or so and interest rates seeming to be near their peak, there's no reason to rush.

TURNING GRAY OVERNIGHT

Hair that turns gray overnight has been mentioned in medical publications as well as in folklore. However, a fully documented, completely convincing report has never appeared in scientific literature. Scientific knowledge about hair color and growth indicates that such a phenomenon would be impossible unless some material could be formed that penetrated the hair shaft and bleached or carried away the pigment. Hair color results from the depositing of color pigments along the inside of the hair shaft. These pigments are produced by cells near the root and deposited in the hair as it forms. When the hair turns gray, pigment cells become inactive and future hairs will be unpigmented or gray. However, the pigmented hairs already present are not affected.

The Woody Smiths

MR. AND MRS. WOODY SMITH
...celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Woody Smith, 2504 Rebecca, were honored for their 50th wedding anniversary during a dinner at the 50 Yard Line Restaurant in Lubbock, Dec. 29. Hosting the event were the couple's children.

Smith, originally of Gunter, Ala., met the former Irene Pugh at a dance at the home of mutual friends. She was born in Denton. The couple was married Dec. 30, 1934 at the home of a Baptist minister, the Rev. L. Fincher, at Munger.

The couple has three children: Harold Smith of Fort Worth, Betty Lyda of Lubbock, and Kenneth Smith of Seagraves. They also have six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The Smiths lived in Tarzan and Seagraves before moving to Big Spring in 1977. Smith is a retired farmer and rancher. The couple are members of First Baptist Church.

Smith is a member of the Domino Club at Kentwood Center and enjoys playing dominoes. Although retired, he continues to attend the Cattle Auction Sales that he has attended for many years. He also is an avid fisherman.

Mrs. Smith is an affiliate past patron of the Laura B. Hart Chapter No. 1019 Order of Eastern Star and is serving as the Star Point Electah presently. She also is past noble grand of Rebekah Lodge No. 284, vice president of Modern Women's Forum, and a member of Rook Club. She enjoys crocheting, sewing, reading and writing speeches. In 1984, she earned a bachelor of arts degree from University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Holiday Hangover

Do you suffer from holiday hangover? Most of us do — it's that extra inch around your waist that hangs over your belt that wasn't there before the holidays. But never fear — you can rid yourself of it with regular aerobic exercise. Performing an activity at 60-80% of your maximum heart rate for at least 12-15 minutes three to five times a week will have you back in shape. Aerobic activity will burn anywhere from 250 to 600 calories an hour, depending on how vigorous your work. Aerobic exercise increases your cardiovascular efficiency so that your resting heart rate decreases and your exercise endurance increases allowing you to do more with less strain. In addition, aerobics will help shed pounds & tone muscles and generally increase your level of personal well-being, physically as well as mentally. The Dance Gallery and Fitness Center offers Aerobic Dance and Aqua-Aerobics for those who want to rid themselves of "holiday hangover." Call or come by to sign up for a class to start the year off right.

Home sewing is popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Financial savings and the pleasure of an enjoyable and creative pastime are realized by about 40 million Americans who sew, according to the American Home Sewing Association.

While many give new life to treasured garments and home furnishings by making simple repairs, an estimated 23 million make clothes by sewing from patterns. They use nearly 90 million patterns annually, an average of 3.7 per sewer.
