Students see work pay off

Four Big Spring High School students had just the right stuff to make it as members of the All-State band and choir in try-outs last weekend.

Named recently to the All-State choir are Jim Cowan, Don Moore, and Jaime Sotelo. Named to the All-State band is Mike Ramey.

Dedication and hard work are only two of the requirements needed to be included in either of the prestigious groups.

Both the All-State choir and the All-State band will convene at the Texas Music Educator's Convention in San Antonio February 7-9.

Cowan, Moore and Sotelo, all members of the Meistersingers, all competed at Odessa Permian on Jan. 12 for the All-State honors. To make it to the All-State competition, the trio had to first pass through all-region trials, pre-area and area trials.

Cowan, a 17-year-old senior baritone, said he takes most of

Reform bill still far from finished

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Texas lawmakers spent a month last summer piecing together one of the most comprehensive educational reform bills in the history of the state.

But legislators are far from finished with the subject of education reform. Some are calling for a massive overhaul of the bill. Others are pushing to fine-tune several areas of the reform bill known as House Bill 72, or simply HB 72, during the 1985 legislative session.

The areas of prime concern are student discipline, competency testing for teachers, student participation in extracurricular activities and state funding for schools.

Gov. Mark White, House Speaker Gib Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have all pledged to fight any retreat from the educational reform measure, but many legislators believe there will be some adjustments in the area of student discipline — specifically, the return of more control to local administrators and school officials in disciplining incorrigible students.

The reform measure passed last summer gave students and their parents more areas of appeal before a student can be expelled from school. The aim was to encourage students to remain in class rather than become dropouts who later cause social problems.

Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, who as speaker pro tem of the house, worked hard for passage of HB 72, predicted some changes may be approved regarding discipline problems in schools even though House officials are opposed to any wholesale altering of the basic thrust for reform.

"We may have some fine tuning in the area of discipline. We are going to be strengthening the responsibilities of the school district. But we don't want the situation where the school puts all their discipline problems out on the streets. That is why you have alternative learning centers," Berlanga said. House Public Education Committee Chairman Bill Haley, D-Center, is drafting a bill to give local districts more leeway in administering discipline.

Two Senate Education Committee members, Sens. Ken Caperton, D-Bryan, and Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, also expect some changes in the discipline section of the education reform act.

"I think there will be little debate about adjusting the discipline section. Many of my constituents say it is much more difficult for them to administer discipline," Caperton said.

Edwards also said legislators need "to make sure administrators have the necessary tools to remove problem students."

Teacher competency testing is another area of school reform that will be getting a second look this session.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, said he felt revisions would be made to education reform despite any opposition from the state's leaders, especially in the fields of competency testing, extracur-

Shaw, Montford list contributions

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Rep. Larry Don Shaw did not have a political opponent during 1984, but he raised more than $63,000 in campaign funds throughout the year.

The Big Spring Democrat, in a year-ending campaign statement filed with the secretary of state, also reported spending $47,747.

Shaw, under state law, can use the unspent $15,421 to offset his legislative expenses or as a financial springboard for any future election bids.

Meanwhile, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, listed contributions for the year totaling $257,847. His expenses for the year were $188,375. Montford, unlike Shaw, had a Republican opponent last November, Sol O. Thomas of Lubbock.

Shaw, in his latest financial statement — covering the period between December 1 and December 30 — listed contributions of $11,741 and expenditures of $4,028.

The legislator returned a $1,000 contribution from a political action committee (PAC), the Texas Horse Racing Association.

Shaw, in his last report on 1984 campaign finances, listed the following contributions:

• $500 — From TAC-PAC, Marketers PAC, the Pro-Arts Fund, the Texas Beverage Alliance and Boldac and Henderson, all of Austin.

• $400 — From Texas Express PAC of Austin.

• $300 — From the Spirits and Wine Action Committee, Texas Food PAC and Texas realtors, all of Austin.

LARRY DON SHAW

• $250 — From COMPAC of Dallas and PACs representing dentists, truckers and retailers, all of Austin; Bettie Naylor of Austin and J.W. Thrasher Jr. of Monahans.

• $200 — From life underwriters and podiatrists PACs and Action TransPAC, all of Austin.

• $100 — From Choate Co. of Big Spring.

Shaw's largest expense in December was $1,358 for the services of an Austin political consultant. He also paid $945 to lease a computer, $520 for long-distance bills, and $200 to Boldac and Henderson of Austin for professional fees.

Montford, meanwhile, collected $7,823 and spent $14,187 during December, according to his final 1984 report.

Lambs are opening act for annual county livestock show

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Bleats of protest filled the Dora Roberts Fairbarn Friday night as contest lambs were pushed this way and that, turned and prodded to show off their muscles and their meat.

More than 160 lambs paraded through the show ring before judge Frank Craddock of Texas Tech University. Parts is parts, as the Wendy's commercial says, but not to Craddock.

"We've got an excellent class here. The first-place lamb's got a real nice leg, a nice hind saddle...on some of these others, we'd like to see some more meat, more finish, and more firmness," Craddock said of the Lightweight Finewool class at the start of the show.

Sweating under the show arena lights, Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members struggled with their entries, spreading their lambs' legs and lifting their necks.

Parents hung around the arena, snapping shots with their Instamatics and Polaroids and dispensing advice.

"Don't wrap your arms around his head. Hold him under the head. You're holding him like a suitcase," Archie Archibald told his son, Chad.

Cory Anderson's mother slipped him ice while the judge was looking at lambs further down the line. "He's tired. He's shown in three straight classes," she said.

Cory's third year of showing lambs paid off, as he won Show Grand Champion with his crossbred champion. He also placed with a reserve champion in another breed; last year, he had a breed champion, but failed to place in the show championship.

"Yes, ma'am, I'm excited," he said. "I want to show lambs again. I like going to stock shows. They're a lot of fun."

By the end of the show, strands of hair were beginning to escape from an exhausted Kelly Newton's braid. Kelly, whose crossbred lamb was runner-up to Cory's in both the breed and the show, was in and out of the ring with her four entries.

Of the other three, her Lightweight Southdown lamb was named breed champion. "But my favorite is the Suffolk," which received a first in its Mediumwool class, she said.

Children sound call to cut out junk food at school

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — French fries and chocolate milk remain the best sellers at the Hilltonia Middle School cafeteria, but plain milk and vegetables are gaining ground two months after students sounded a call to cut junk food from the menu.

Despite an unenthusiastic response from school officials, Vicki Krupa and the 90 sixth graders in her health classes figure time is on their side.

"The guy in charge of food services said he's not going to change anything, but we figure that later on, he'll say it's his idea and change it," said Bobby Hull, 12, as he ate lunch in the cafeteria Thursday.

In November, Bobby and other students in Miss Krupa's health classes devised an amended school menu, eliminating foods high in cholesterol and sugar, salt and fat content. They sent copies to two district administrators, the city school board, the state Board of Education and the news media.

Students objected to such offerings as presweetened cereals, french fries, doughnuts and chocolate milk. Instead, they recommended wheat bread, baked potatoes and baked chicken while retaining such popular items as pizza and macaroni and cheese.

The classes received one letter in reply, from district Food Service

TWO CHILDREN discuss their lunch meal at Hilltonia Middle School in Columbus, Ohio. The children studied nutrition, then criticized the substance of the school's meals.

Director Paul C. James who assured them that the school diet meets federal regulations for balanced meals. In his letter, James maintained that the availability of snack foods in the lunchroom gives students the opportunity to learn how to make proper choices about what they eat.

"We are not going to satisfy everyone's likes and dislikes, so we try to provide choices and make sure the food is nutritious..." James said.

Finances

 The "Friends of John T. Montford" Committee, collecting on Montford's behalf, reported $4,500 in contributions and $13,076 in expenditures for the year, with a carryover of $13,458 in unexpended contributions from 1983.
 Some $1,000 was transferred from Montford's account to the committee account and $4,227 was transferred from the committee to Montford's account in 1984.
 In December 1984, contributions to Montford included: $750 from the Texas Bell Employees Political Action Committee (PAC); $500 from Carter Preston Jr. of Dallas; $200 from J. Conrad Dunagan of Monahans; $300 from independent automobile dealers; $350 from Fort Worth nightclub owner Billy Bob Barnett; $350 from Nick Kralj of Austin; $250 from a nurseryman's PAC; $350 from R.E. Merritt and Herb Graham of Odessa; $500 from B.F. Phillips of Frisco; and $1,023 in the use of a vehicle from Larry Corbell of Lubbock.
 During the last month of 1984, Montford's expenditures included $4,332 for salaries, $2,937 for printing, $1,662 for assorted campaign expenses, $911 for household furniture, $582 for postage, $517 for telephone and $265 for supplies.

Reform

 ricular education and funding.
 "I would like to see some kind of grandfather clause added for experienced teachers," Montford said.
 The four major teacher groups in the state are concerned with the provision that requires all teachers to be tested for literacy as well as competency in their subject area.
 Annette Coots of the Texas State Teachers Association said many teachers are considering leaving the profession rather than taking a competency test. "And these aren't the teachers we want to lose," she said.
 The Association of Texas Professional Educators is supporting a bill introduced by Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, which would require competency testing only for teachers who receive a poor evaluation. Under that bill, teachers who have already passed a Graduate Record Exam or the National Teachers Exam will be exempted from the competency testing.
 Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, who originally supported competency testing for all teachers, is one of several senators who are having second thoughts about the requirement.
 "I would consider testing on general literacy but probably abandon or postpone the subject matter testing for two reasons. One is the difficulty of devising and developing 150 tests and the other is the cost," Farabee said.
 The price tag for developing and administering competency tests is estimated at between $18 million to $25 million.
 Another section which may receive legislative attention is the section interpreted by the State Board of Education which requires that students pass all courses to participate in extracurricular activities.

 Moore, another 17-year-old senior, added a lot of the preparation is done "on our own." Moore sings bass.
 Sotelo, 17, sings first tenor.
 The trio also credited the Meistersingers' director Marjorie Dodson with preparing them for All-State honors.
 Moore had no formal musical training until he entered the choir program in junior high school. Sotelo and Cowan were both participants in church choirs during their youth and Cowan studied the piano.
 When the group arrives in San Antonio, they will rehearse with 280 choir members from across the state who have gone through similar trials to get where they are. On Feb. 9, the choir will perform before the Texas Music Educators Association.
 All three were members of last year's All-State choir, and are looking forward to the "quality of music" and the chance of sharing with singers from across the state.
 Mike Ramey, 16, is a sophomore and a member of the Big Spring Steer Band. Although Ramey is young to have obtained All-State honors, his director, Ricky Mitchell, said the All-State tryouts often uncover "outstanding kids."

Weather

Local

Mild afternoon temperatures should give way to lows tonight in the low 20s. By Sunday, the high should rise into the lower 40s.

State

Spring-like weather with sunny skies and warm temperatures covered Texas Friday, but the forecast called for a chilly return to winter today.
 Skies were mostly clear as temperatures ranged from the upper 50s in the northwest to the 60s across the state's midsection. In far South Texas, the thermometer climbed to the 70s.
 A weak high-pressure ridge across the state was responsible for the pleasant weather, the National Weather service said. Winds were light and variable.
 An Arctic air mass poised across the Plains states will push into northern Texas Saturday and end the moderate weather.
 Northern sections of Texas will see Saturday begin partly cloudy and mild but turning windy and much colder during the day. South Texas will be sunny and mild until the frigid air mass moves in Saturday night, the weather service said.

Forecast

West Texas — Turning much colder. Fair and mild southwest Monday, otherwise cloudy and much colder. A chance of snow east of mountains Monday, all sections Tuesday except mainly rain southwest and Big Bend through Concho Valley Wednesday. Panhandle highs lower to mid 20s. Lows 5 to 10 above zero. South Plains highs upper 20s to lower 30s. Lows 10 to 15. Concho Valley and Permian Basin highs upper 30s Monday cooling to near 30 by Wednesday. Lows lower 20s Monday cooling to mid-teens by Wednesday.

Toddler improving

OLATHE, Kan. — A 3-year-old girl who was not breathing and had no heartbeat when found in a snowbank made "a remarkable recovery" and was alert and oriented with an improving appetite Friday, her doctor said.

Megan Birmingham spent at least four hours in temperatures in the 20s before being found early Thursday, without shoes and wearing only a dress, pullover shirt and tights. She apparently had been put out of her mother's car.

"They teach us that they're not dead until they're warm and dead," said Dr. Robert C. Mathews, director of Olathe Community Hospital's emergency department. "I think the odds were stacked against Megan, certainly."

Emergency room workers were able to restore her heartbeat and slowly warmed her body with fluids in her veins and abdominal cavity and a heating pad and blankets against her skin.

A Johnson County sheriff's deputy discovered the girl about 6 a.m. on the southern edge of Olathe, a Kansas City suburb, about two hours after police found her mother, Jane Birmingham, 31, sitting in her car.

Clinics plan vigil

Abortion rights activists planned vigils at clinics this weekend to show their determination not to be intimidated by violence, while right-to-life groups organized their own demonstrations to mark the 12th anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling legalizing abortion.

The demonstrations come against a backdrop of increasing violence against family planning centers and abortion clinics, and operators of many facilities said they had increased security to deter any attacks. At least 24 clinics have been burned or bombed since January 1984, according to federal authorities.

The National Organization for Women said it was sponsoring overnight vigils beginning Friday at 25 clinics in 18 states to "signal our determination to stand up to the terrorists and bullies."

Man sought in shooting

CHICAGO — Police appealed Friday for the surrender of a man who fatally wounded one of two youths trying to steal his groceries at a knife-point, and cautioned the public against "calling this a rerun of 'Death Wish.'"

Earl Johnson, commander of Area 4 Violent Crimes, compared the Thursday night shooting to the well-publicized shooting of four youths on a New York City subway. Area 4 is on the city's West Side.

Jackson leads rally

DUQUESNE, Pa. — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, urging unions and workers to unite to stop "industrial mugging," told steelworkers Friday that they deserve a chance to save their jobs by taking over a blast furnace slated for demolition.

"If U.S. Steel cannot run this plant, let the workers run the plant," Jackson told about 300 people at a noon rally across the street from U.S. Steel Corp.'s Duquesne Works.

"We must give the American worker the first option of ownership."

Round two

Sharon wins second victory against 'Time'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon won a second round in his $50 million libel suit against Time Inc. Friday when jurors found Time's report that he discussed revenge against Palestinians with Lebanese Christian leaders was false.

The jurors, who earlier determined that Time defamed Sharon, then began considering the third issue to determine if Sharon was libeled: whether Time acted with malice. The federal jury deliberated about two hours before retiring about 5:30 p.m. without a further verdict. It was to resume deliberations this morning.

Marshals kept the packed courtroom locked while the jury's verdict on the second issue — whether the report was false — was announced and the judge polled the panel.

The jurors had deliberated two days since deciding the first major issue, that Time defamed Sharon in reporting that he had "discussed" revenge with Lebanese Phalangists at a meeting the day after President-elect Bashir Gemayel, a Phalangist leader, was assassinated in September 1982. The massacre of hundreds of Palestinians by Lebanese Christian militiamen at two refugee camps in Israeli-controlled west Beirut began the following day.

To award Sharon a libel verdict, the jury still must find Time guilty of malice — that it published the report either knowing it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it true or false. Sharon also must show damage to his reputation.

Time had conceded during the trial that a secret report did not in fact contain the material that its report, part of a Feb. 21, 1983, cover story, had alleged. The magazine printed a correction in this week's issue but continued to assert the story was true in substance.

Milton Gould, Sharon's attorney, described the jury as "six ordinary human beings" who proved "this is an outrageous lie."

"The verdict on this issue really represents all of the moral and historical issues of this case. We have proved not only that it (the article) was defamatory but that it was false," said Gould.

"I'm glad that after that long struggle, we learned that it's a long way to arrive at the truth, but a rewarding one," Sharon said on the courthouse steps shortly after the jury's decision was read.

"Of course, the trial is still going on and there are other issues to be discussed and decided upon. But the most important thing has been proved: that Time magazine lied," said Sharon, now his nation's minister of industry and commerce.

Ray Cave, Time's managing editor, said in the hallway that he thought the jury mistaken.

"Time magazine is convinced that this story is correct," said Cave. "This finding says that General Sharon presented clear and convincing evidence that the (disputed) paragraph in Time is incorrect."

"I remain confident in the end that this jury will decide that Gen. Sharon was not libeled by Time. I see no reason to settle," Cave said.

If the jury decides Sharon has not proved malice, the trial is over and the Time story is not judged libelous. If the jury rules for Sharon again, the trial still isn't over.

29 injured in blast

WESSELING, West Germany — Leaking gas exploded at a West German refinery Friday, injuring 29 workmen and igniting a fire that sent flames shooting 1,600 into the air, police said.

Three of the workmen remained hospitalized Friday evening as the blaze at the Rheinischen Olefin installation continued to burn, company spokesman Wolfgang Goerlich said.

He said the cloud of gas that escaped posed no danger to the local population, although the force of the blast shattered windows several kilometers (miles) away.

Police earlier estimated damage to the sprawling plant between Cologne and Bonn at $33 million but Goerlich later said it was "still too early to tell."

Kohl, Thatcher meet

BONN, West Germany — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher discussed new U.S.-Soviet arms control talks with Chancellor Helmut Kohl on Friday, and predicted the West is "on the verge of a great step forward" in relations with the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Thatcher, in Bonn for a meeting with Kohl, said the recent U.S.-Soviet agreement to resume arms talks in Geneva offers a "new basis of confidence" in the future.

Troops ready for rebels

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand — After battering non-communist Cambodian rebels, Vietnam has moved tanks, artillery and soldiers to prepare for an assault on Communist Khmer Rouge rebels farther south, Thai military officers said Friday.

Officers at Aranyaprathet, a town on the Thai-Cambodia border near the Rithisen and Nong Chan camps of the non-Communist Khmer People's National Liberation Front, also reported fighting as rebels tried to retake the camps from the Vietnamese.

The Vietnamese used tanks and artillery in fighting at the Rithisen camp, but Thai officers described the fighting at Nong Chan as sporadic. The sources said they could provide no reports of casualties.

In Bangkok, Pramong Soonsiri, the Thai national security council chief, said the Vietnamese have moved to the border area two divisions normally held in reserve. They also have increased patrols to protect supply convoys headed to the border area, and brought in patrol boats to guard water routes, he told a regional affairs conference.

Cover-up suggested

TORUN, Poland — Two secret policemen testified Friday that one of four officers on trial in the slaying of a pro-Solidarity priest had evidence destroyed in an apparent attempt to cover up his involvement.

Maj. Janusz Drozdz and Zbigniew Stromecki, whose rank was not disclosed, cast doubt on previous testimony by Col. Adam Pietruszka. Pietruszka has denied knowing about the plot against the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko or attempting to impede the investigation into the priest's death.

New Caledonian marchers show support for French rule

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (AP) — Thousands of people who want New Caledonia to remain a French territory defied a government ban and marched through downtown Noumea Saturday as French President Francois Mitterrand arrived for a 12-hour visit.

Mitterrand was flown from the airport by helicopter to the building of the High Commission, the headquarters of the French government on this South Pacific island that has been torn by clashes between groups for and against independence.

More than 3,000 French soldiers and riot police surrounded the High Commission and blocked off all streets leading to the building as columns of anti-independence marchers paraded through the city.

They had begun gathering in the city center at dawn to demonstrate their strength to Mitterrand.

The marchers, including women and children, carried French flags as they marched along the streets beside buildings that had the French tricolor flying from virtually every window.

When Mitterrand's helicopter landed at the High Commission compound, throngs surged against the police lines, shouting "Francais! Francais!" and calling on Mitterrand to meet them.

"Mitterrand in the street! Mitterrand in the street!" the people chanted before singing a chorus of the French national anthem.

There was heavy security for Mitterrand's visit. Squads of soldiers and police armed with rifles, tear gas, shields and clubs were stationed in side streets while armored cars and French marines and paratroopers were posted around the High Commission building.

The demonstrators were defying a state of emergency decree that bans any political gatherings of more than five people, but police made no attempt to disperse the marchers.

Many demonstrators carried banners accusing Mitterrand of treason. One huge poster read "Do not abandon us!"

Mitterrand began a series of talks with members of the territorial assembly and political, religious and labor leaders before an afternoon tour of some of the areas that have been shaken by violence.

The president, who had announced

Wednesday that he would fly to New Caledonia in an effort to resolve the independence conflict, left Paris Thursday night for the 12,500-mile trip.

The Kanak Socialist National Liberation Front, which claims to represent most of the native Melanesians, or Kanaks, is demanding independence. Most of the Europeans, Polynesians and Asians who make up 57 percent of the island's 150,000 population, oppose independence.

Nineteen people have been killed in fighting since mid-November. Scores of homes and farms owned by people of European descent have been burned, and hundreds of Europeans have fled the interior of the 250-mile-long island.

Liberation Front leader Jean-Marie Tjibaou told a news conference he was willing to meet with Mitterrand, although no invitation had yet been extended and French officials refused to say whether Mitterrand would meet with independence leaders. However, Tjibaou was not optimistic Mitterrand would be able to solve the island's problems.

Mitterrand said he was flying to New Caledonia to show support for High Commissioner Edgar Pisani, who has been trying to find a political solution to the island's problems.

Pisani has proposed giving independence to New Caledonia under a plan in which France would continue to control defense and internal security.

Mitterrand announced his plan to visit New Caledonia after two days of rioting by people opposed to independence, and the deaths of two independence leaders in a clash with French security forces.

A 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew has been in effect.

"We will take no chances," said a French military official who spoke on condition he not be named.

France has sent about 6,300 soldiers, paramilitary police, riot police, paratroopers and marines to New Caledonia. The soldiers and police are backed up by two visiting French warships, including the helicopter carrier Jeanne d'Arc.

Two shots were fired Friday at the home of an Asian businessman in Noumea who supports the independence front, but no one was hurt, police said.

'Bobby Ewing' leaving 'Dallas' when actor leaves

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Actor Patrick Duffy says Bobby Ewing won't be seen again on the CBS television show "Dallas" after he gives up the role he has portrayed for seven years.

"There won't be another Bobby Ewing on the show," Duffy said this week while in Nashville to act as co-host of an awards show.

The actor said he had asked the show's executive producer Philip Capice and producer Leonard Katzman not to replace him when he leaves at the end of this season to pursue other projects.

"I spent too much time and effort constructing that character," Duffy said.

He would not say what will happen to Bobby, although he said the concept for the character's departure has been decided. He said the matter will be resolved by season's end.

"It will be part of the climax of the season, a little cliffhanger," before the season-ending show, he said. "But we won't carry it over."

Ann says, most women prefer tenderness to sex

By SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Tenderness and touching go a long way — in fact, they're better than going all the way, according to a sampling of American women conducted by advice columnist Ann Landers.

Three weeks ago, Miss Landers asked her readers if they would be content to forget "the act" if they were cuddled and treated tenderly.

More than 100,000 people, nearly all of them American women, have answered, said Miss Landers in a telephone interview. Seventy-two percent declared themselves willing to forgo intercourse for affection, she said.

The column published Tuesday was written in advance and is based on responses by more than 90,000 people.

Miss Landers said she was surprised at the overwhelming response to her unscientific survey, but less so by the results.

"The importance of sex is overrated," Miss Landers told The Associated Press on Monday. "Women want affection. They want to feel valued. Apparently, having sex alone doesn't give them the feeling they're valued."

As for men, she added, too many "are using sex as a physical release and it has no more emotional significance than a sneeze."

"There's a tremendous lack of communication," Miss Landers said. "It's troublesome."

What was most "astonishing," Miss Landers said, was that 40 percent of the women who said they didn't need the sex act were under 40 years of age.

Those who said they needed more than tenderness said they felt about intercourse, 98 would prefer tenderness.

Miss Landers then posed the question to her readers. "Would you be content to be held close and treated tenderly and forget about 'the act'?" Reply YES or NO and please add one line: "I am over (or under) 40 years of age." No signature is necessary.

In Monday's column, Miss Landers described the response without revealing the results. She said it was second only to the time she asked her 70 million readers worldwide to clip a column about nuclear war, sign it and send it to President Reagan.

"This sex survey," Miss Landers said in that column, "beats the meatloaf recipe, the lemon pie and the poll asking parents, 'If you had it to do over again, would you have children?' (Seventy percent said no)."

Among those writing in was a Columbus, Ohio, woman quoted in Tuesday's column as saying, "I am under 40 and would be delighted to settle for tender words and warm caresses. The rest of it is a bore and can be exhausting. I am sure the sex act was designed strictly for the pleasure of males."

But a woman from Helena, Mont., disagreed. "To say that touching and tender words are sufficient is like settling for the smell of freshly baked bread and ignoring the nourishment it provides. Such people must be crazy," she wrote Miss Landers.

The findings, Miss Landers said, show "a lot of women are not telling men what they want, what they need. They're faking it."

"I knew it would go in that direction," Miss Landers said in the interview. "I've been reading my mail for 30 years and I've been hearing this. This used to be called duty sex."

Miss Landers cited a recent letter from a female bank vice president who had a master's degree from Harvard and said, "I still remember my mother said, 'You have to satisfy your husband or he'll go someplace else.'"

The results will "open up a lot of dialogue. People will talk about this all over," Miss Landers said.

But she was mum on how she would respond to her question. As she said, "I'm the one who's giving the survey."

Sex experts disagree with findings of Landers' sampling

By SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Ann Landers' sampling of American women that showed most would forgo sex for a tender touch is misleading and threatens to take us "back into the Victorian age," some sex experts say.

"Indeed, women are interested in sex and they have sexual desires," said Jim Petersen, who writes the Playboy Advisor for Chicago-based Playboy magazine.

Petersen's remarks came in response to Miss Landers' Tuesday column that said 72 percent of more than 90,000 women said they would be content to be held and cuddled and skip sexual intercourse. Of those, 40 percent were under 40 years of age.

These results, Petersen said, "don't say anything. What is going to be dangerous is that's going to give (people) permission to be boring, and just roll over in bed and go to sleep."

"That's unfortunate. Lust is an honorable condition. Sex is a wonderful pastime."

Dr. Ruth Westheimer, a New York sex therapist, said Tuesday that the implications of this sampling could "get us back into the Victorian age."

"It's dangerous to say a high percentage of women do not expect sexual activity but expect only caressing," she said in a telephone interview from New York. "Caressing has to be a part of the sexual experience."

Miss Landers' syndicated column came several weeks after she asked her 70 million readers worldwide to respond to one question: "Would you be content to be held close and treated tenderly, and forget about 'the act'?" Answer YES or NO and please add one sentence: "I am over (or under) 40 years of age."

More than 90,000 responded — the second-highest volume of response Miss Landers said she has received to a column. While the majority said yes, of those who responded no, many "said they needed the sexual climax to relieve physical tension," Miss Landers said in her column. "Almost as many said they wanted the ultimate in gratification — that anything less would make them feel exploited and used."

Although some sex experts said they weren't surprised by the findings, they were critical of the question, saying it presents an either-or situation and does not establish any time context.

"I think the question is phrased badly," Ms. Westheimer said. "What does it mean? Sometimes? Ever?"

Toni Grant, a nationally syndicated radio psychologist based in Los Angeles, also said the problem with Miss Landers' findings is one of "specificity."

"I seriously doubt that 72 percent of all women would be happy without sex, which is somehow what this concludes," she said in an interview from Los Angeles.

However, Ms. Grant added that it is not surprising that most women feel tenderness and touching is important.

The results indicate "the need for closeness, tenderness, and touching is far greater" than the need for "explicit sexuality," she said.

Women rediscover sewing as a hobby

A hobby is a relaxing pursuit or activity outside one's occupation. The days when home sewing was considered part of the occupation of being a homemaker are long gone. But many of today's employed women and full-time homemakers are rediscovering home sewing — as a hobby.

Sewing meets the main requirement of a hobby because it's relaxing and challenging. Getting caught up in working on a sewing project can provide needed diversion from everyday activities, and allow you to return to them refreshed.

Sewing also is a hobby where you can start with easy items and work up to more challenging projects. If you haven't sewn in years, you'll be pleasantly surprised at the improvements in patterns, fabrics and notions that make sewing easier than ever. If you're a beginner, you can choose easy-to-make designs for yourself, your children or home decorating. As your skills develop you can move on to more challenging and difficult patterns and fabrics.

In a world where so much seems standardized, home sewing allows the hobbyist to be unique. You can create fashionable clothing suited to your special style. Sewing also allows you to create a unique home environment through choice of fabrics, colors, designs and accessories. Even when using standard patterns, you will begin to see new ways to personalize your creations with embroidery, applique, smocking or other needlework.

Many home sewers achieve satisfaction from making things for others. Home sewn gifts can show how much you care.

Just as the person who paints, does photography or plays a musical instrument, some home sewers think of their hobby as a form of artistic expression. Some design a special trademark, such as a small flower embroidered on the inside or on an inconspicuous corner to "sign" each masterpiece of home sewing.

While you may never "need" to sew your own clothes, you may need a hobby. Consider the fun, challenge, relaxation and artistry you can find in sewing.

Choosing good fabric when shopping for piece goods or ready-to-wear, requires an eye for spotting quality. To avoid disappointment with your fabric choice, follow these selection guidelines:

- Read the pattern envelope for specific fabric recommendations and restrictions, such as "crisp fabrics recommended," or "not suitable for photos." The envelope sketches or photos and the back views also give clues for fabric selection.

- Crush a small amount of fabric in your hand to test for wrinkle resistance and recovery. Hold for a few seconds and release. Do the wrinkles fall out quickly?

- Stretch the fabric between thumb and forefingers and hold for a few seconds. If the yarns shift or slip apart, the fabric will probably eventually tear at stitched seams or areas of hard wear such as elbows or knees.

- Gently run the right sides together on an inconspicuous corner of fabric. If this produces slight balls or "pills," it will likely do the same thing on abrasion areas like the underarm or pant crotch.

- Hold the fabric up to the light to check the grainline. Make sure that the print on a fabric follows the woven threads and the lengthwise and crosswise threads lie at right angles. If the threads curve or slant, the fabric will probably not hang properly.

- Examine large pieces of fabric for snags, spots, defects or faded colors that cannot be corrected. Small places in piece goods can often be cut around when making a garment.

- Check the fiber content and recommended care. Generally, fabrics that are high in natural fiber content are more absorbent and comfortable to wear. Consider the projected garment upkeep and cost for the life of the garment.

Garden checklist for January

Plant a tree on Texas Arbor Day, the third Friday in January. This year it is Jan. 18, and an excellent time to transplant mature or established trees and shrubs while they are dormant.

Prune back the top of established trees and shrubs before moving. Remove about 1/2 to 2/3 of the top to compensate for roots lost in digging.

Prune fruit trees this month. Apples should be thinned of all weak, non-productive growth. Peaches should be pruned to an open center to allow sunlight to reach ripening fruit. Refer to Extension pamphlet B-1347 "Pruning and Training Landscape Plants."

Make flower and vegetable garden plans now before the rush of spring planting. Time spent in armchair gardening will pay off in improved plant selection. Besides, it is fun to page through garden catalogs.

Sow seeds in flats or containers to get a jump on plant growth before hot weather arrives. Petunias, begonias, and the slow growing transplants should be sown in early January. Warm temperature plants such as tomatoes, peppers, marigolds, and periwinkles should be sown later this month.

Apply a light application of fertilizer to established pansy plantings. Use 1/2 pound of ammonium sulfate per 100 square feet of bed area. Repeat the application every four to six weeks depending on rainfall. Dried blood meal also is an excellent source of fertilizer for pansies.

In other announcements, the Volunteer Council needs sponsors to provide 13 full-year subscriptions of the Big Spring Herald for the patients. Each subscription costs $54. The Volunteer office has received a request for volunteers to do mending in the laundry. The annual orientation for volunteers was conducted prior to the luncheon and a tour of the hospital campus followed.

cycle again by emerging in the spring and begin feeding on the foliage. Hand removal and burning the pouches is an excellent means of reducing the potential damage next spring.

The life of the flowering pot plant received as a Christmas gift can be prolonged with proper care. Keep the soil moist but provide drainage so excess moisture can flow from the pot. Keep the plant out of range of heating ducts and away from heating units. Keep in a cool room at night, preferably at 60-65 degrees.

Pruning Woody Ornamentals
Now is the time to determine if woody ornamentals need pruning, but don't just prune automatically or because you need the exercise. If you can't justify the removal of each limb or branch, put up your clippers and go spade the garden instead.

Some of the right reasons for pruning include removing dead or winter-killed growth or balancing the top with the root system when setting out new plants. Diseased or insect-injured wood, as well as storm or accident-damaged limbs, should be removed as soon as possible. Older shrubs can be rejuvenated by removing the older branches at the base. Pruning can also help develop a desired shape or size as well as aid in producing better flowers and fruit.

Severe pruning should be avoided if possible. It is better to prune lightly and more often to prevent unsightly to the sensitive inner branches. Never leave stubs that invite the entry of insects and disease.

Hazel Duggan honored as outstanding volunteer

A surprise for Hazel Duggan came about during the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteers Council's quarterly luncheon, Thursday. She was presented the Jack Y. Smith Award, one of the top honors awarded to outstanding hospital volunteers.

Mrs. Duggan began her volunteer service at Big Spring State Hospital in 1978 and has clocked 1,450 hours of service since that time. She serves as secretary for the Public Responsibility Committee and works in the hospital's Multiple Disabilities Unit. At the hospital, she also has shared her artistic talents with many projects, worked in the patient library, helped serve coffee to patients regularly, assisted in the patients' fashion shop and several patient social events, and helped with rummage and arts and crafts sales.

In addition to the Jack Y. Smith

Award, pins and bars were awarded to 23 volunteers for their hours of service. Tup Ferguson had 16,053 hours of service, the highest amount, and was awarded a 16,000 hour bar.

In other business during the luncheon, new officers for the Volunteer Council were inducted. Those inducted were: Jim Weaver, chairman; Dorothy Hall, secretary; and Sandy Wright, treasurer. Not present were: Lex-eeen Weaver, first vice chairman; and A.J. Prager, second vice chairman.

The outgoing officers, Jack Y. Smith and Delores Norred, were presented certificates for their work by hospital superintendent A.K. Smith.

Jack Y. Smith helped organize the first volunteer services council at Big Spring State Hospital in 1957 and served as the first chairman and in many capacities since then. His service includes being a part of the Volunteer Services State Council Executive Committee since 1961 and working as State Council Chairman in 1963-1964. He initiated the Jack Y. Smith award in 1974 to be presented annually to an outstanding volunteer or volunteer group serving the Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. Norred was the first secretary-treasurer of the Volunteer Council in 1958-1959 and has actively volunteered her time and talents since then. She has recorded some 5,253 hours of service since the beginning of the Volunteer Services Department in 1957. She has served as vice chairman and recently completed another term as secretary. She also is serving as Public Responsibility Committee's representative on the South Psychiatric Unit.

Six out-of-town groups of volunteers were recognized during the meeting. They were from Ackerly, Abilene, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa and Colorado City. Entertainment for the luncheon was provided by Marilyn Newsom and Margie Rainwater.

Dollar Days are back

By JOHNIE LOU AVERY
Downtown Dollar Days are back. This highly successful monthly coordinated event proved attractive to both out-of-towners and local shoppers for many years in Big Spring. For several reasons, the merchants abandoned the project but have now resurrected the idea.

The first Saturday after the 15th of each month has been designated as the time the merchants will plan special sales and activities.

This Saturday there will be a remote radio broadcast by two stations, KWKI and KKIK, from downtown. A big push is being made to lure people from surrounding areas because the more shoppers, the more selections and bargains can be offered.

Some business people in the Permian Basin area are working to bring non-commercial Christian radio to West Texas. Recently a group of Midland residents formed the Radio Ministries Corporation representing various evangelical sectors with the objective to bring this area Moody Broadcasting Network Christian radio programming.

Broadcasting will be live both from the Moody Radio Network in Chicago as well as from the local radio station. Plans now call for the radio station to operate as a class C FM station from Midland.

Recently a private screening was held for church and community leaders at the Cinema for "The Prodigal," a Billy Graham film made by World Wide Pictures.

Don't miss it when you have the opportunity to see it. It's about a family who desperately wanted to communicate, to love and to put their lives back together. It's an emotion-charged experience.

Dr. Olga Campbell, a psychologist formerly with the Big Spring State Hospital, has opened a private practice in Midland at 3325 West Wadley. She will be handling psychological testing and evaluation, individual, couple and family psychotherapy.

Rita's Flowers will soon be moving to a new location at 2202 Gregg Street in the building formerly occupied by One-Hour Martinizing. As of Jan. 28, Rita Fort will welcome customers to the new facility, now being remodeled, which features a drive-in window.

Riley Drilling Co. moved operational headquarters into new facilities recently when it purchased Roger Brown's dome office building at 1101 Main Street. The Scurry Street building is being considered by another oil company as a Big Spring office.

Thirty successful business people will be participating in a special program for the Big Spring High School football team. Known as the Super Steer Supporters, they will be holding rap sessions with the football players between now and the beginning of spring training to reinforce positive attitudes, mental toughness, and developing winning behavior.

This is the brainchild of Coach Quinn Eudy who believes that positive people inspire positive action.

Liquor store's owner enjoys challenge of owning business

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Jean Carroll, new owner of Vernon's Liquors at 602 Gregg Street, said that although the liquor store has a new owner, the same service and merchandise will be offered at the store.

The store was owned for 35 years by Vernon Smith, a longtime friend of Mrs. Carroll and her husband, H.D. When Smith decided to retire, Mrs. Carroll decided to purchase the store and manage it herself. She and her husband made the purchase about five months ago.

"We are making no changes," Mrs. Carroll said. "Everything is the same. We bought the name and we're keeping it the same."

Owning a liquor store was not something Mrs. Carroll had planned to do, but for years she has wanted to own her own business.

"I hadn't thought about a liquor store," she said during ribbon-cutting ceremonies Thursday. "But we are good friends with Vernon Smith. We're going to run it just like he's run it for 35 years."

Vernon's Liquor is opened from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The store handles all major credit cards.

Mrs. Carroll is handling most of the duties at the store while her husband maintains his own full-time job. She worked for White's for eight years before acquiring the liquor store.

And so far, she pleased with her new career as a store owner.

"I love it. I really do. I've always been one for setting goals. I like challenges."

Mrs. Carroll has two employees, Brenda Stephens and Glenda Anderson.

Business highlights

NEW YORK (AP) — The $2.1 billion expansion in the nation's basic money supply in early January was slightly smaller than expected and the announcement gave the bond market a lift.

The Federal Reserve said Thursday that M1 rose to a seasonally adjusted $559.4 billion in the week ended Jan. 7 from a revised $557.3 billion the previous week. The previous week's figure originally was estimated as $557.2 billion.

Many credit analysts had expected a rise of about $3 billion.

M1 includes cash in circulation, checking deposits and non-bank travelers checks. Since M1 represents funds readily available for spending, it is closely watched as an important influence on the economy and interest rates.

Since the economy has shown recent signs of renewed strength, credit analysts are now debating how long the central bank will allow such monetary expansion to continue.

The Fed wants to provide enough money to promote moderate yet sustained economic growth, but avoids pumping so much money into the economy that it fuels inflation.

DALLAS (AP) — American Airlines is offering highly restricted fares at levels up to 70 percent below full coach on all its routes, and the other major airlines say they will match those fares.

Analysts said the reductions were a direct shot at discount airlines.

The "Ultimate Super Saver" — ranging from $39 for short trips to $129 for one-way cross-country travel — will be available in all 92 cities American Airlines serves. Five million seats at the lower fares will be available in the first five months of the program, American said.

"It is a fare that is going to stimulate traffic," said American spokesman Lowell Duncan. "There will be more than enough new revenue to offset any revenue that is lost (by the lower fare levels)."

Trans World Airlines, Delta, Pan Am and Northwest said they would match the fares. United Airlines spokesman Joe Hopkins said his company also would match "reluctantly."

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers expects its members to get first shot at the 6,000 jobs to be created by General Motors Corp.'s revolutionary Saturn car complex.

GM's plans for Saturn set off a flood of applications from states, counties and cities offering tax breaks and other concessions in return for the complex and its jobs.

But UAW Vice President Donald Ephlin said Thursday the amount of jobs available locally may depend in large part on how many GM blue-collar employees are out of work when the plant opens and how many will be willing to move.

Airline issues continue tailspin

NEW YORK (AP) — A continued tailspin by airline issues and an extended retreat among blue-chip stocks clashed with widespread gains elsewhere on Wall Street, producing another mixed performance in the stock market Friday.

"Most broad markets are marching forward while the Dow Jones (industrials average) dawdles," said Robert Stovall, an analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.

For example, more than three stocks rose in price for every two that fell on the New York Stock Exchange, and the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 29 to 99.04.

Big Spring gymnastics going to top

Five years ago the word "gymnastics" would have drawn little more than a puzzled look from most Big Springers. Today, gymnastics is a national buzzword and, largely through the efforts of one man, Big Spring residents talk with pride when they speak of gymnastics.

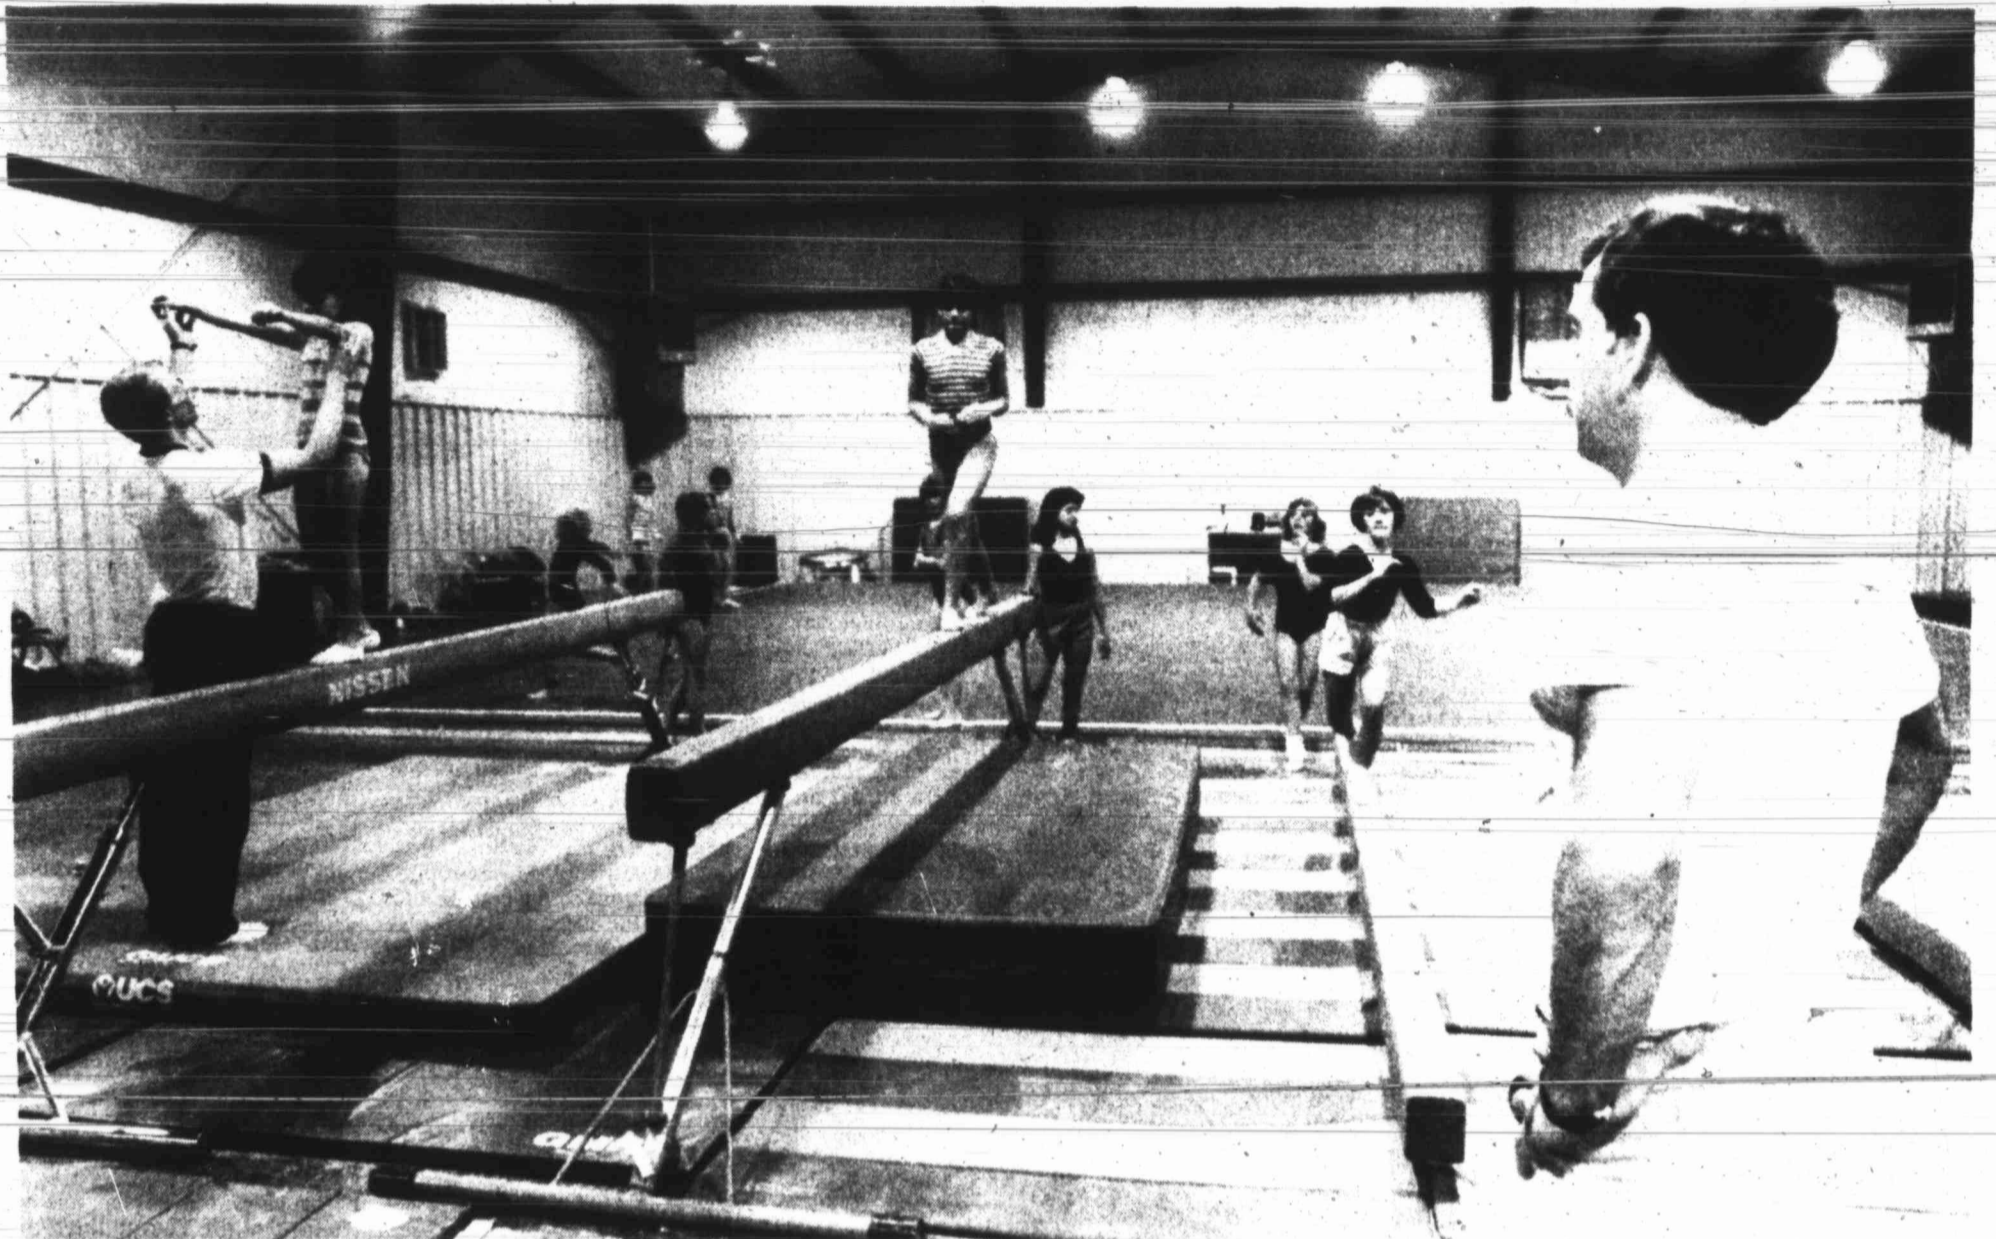

In five years, gymnastics at the YMCA has risen from time-sharing on the floor of the basketball court to a sparkling 60-by-100 foot state-of-the-art facility that rivals any in West Texas.

The lion's share of credit for bringing gymnastics to the fore belongs to Russ McEwen, whose efforts gave Big Spring a spot on the Texas gymnastics map. McEwen, 35, saddles himself with an exhaustive weekly schedule, devoting up to 20 hours a week coaching the local Sidewinder gymnastic team on top of his responsibilities as an independent insurance agent and city councilman.

"I really enjoy working with the girls so I just make time," he said. "And of course the fact that I am an independent businessman makes it possible for me to set my own hours. We feel that our gymnastics program ranks among the best in the state now, and will continue to improve."

McEwen became interested in gymnastics through his daughter Kisa, now 11, who showed promise in the sport at an early age while participating in a private class. He began helping out the local instructor with a group of about 15 girls who were learning basic compulsory moves. "I had no prior experience in the sport whatsoever. I couldn't have done a back somersault for all the money in the world."

This was the fall of 1980. The boom was on, and physical fitness centers were prospering. But when the economy pulled back, the gym programs closed up, leaving McEwen and 15 budding gymnasts without a place to work out. For about a year the group commuted to a Midland YMCA, until McEwen convinced his fellow members of the YMCA board that equipment should be purchased here. He asked for $10,000 worth, and got it.

"We started the girls out very slowly, working out about 3 hours a week at first," he said. As the girls' skills progressed more equipment — such as a vaulting horse and a beat board — were added to the floor mats and parallel bars.

By 1982, McEwen felt that four of the girls were ready for competition. He packed them up and headed for the state meet in Fort Worth. Led by Kisa, who placed second in the 8 and under age group, and Lisa Brooks, who placed second in the 9-11 group, the team posted a fourth overall in Class 4.

"We really had no idea that our girls would do so well at that level of competition. Our success in that first state meet really got the ball rolling for the kids," McEwen said.

The taste of competition was the catalyst the program needed. A few months later McEwen was talking to the gymnastics director at the Midland Y about plans to build a new gymnastics complex. Wheels began to turn in McEwen's mind about the feasibility of such a facility here.

"I researched what it would take to build a first-class gymnastics facility and tried to get some feedback on the idea from people around town," he said. After getting the go-ahead from YMCA executive director Wallace Gill, McEwen went to work raising money for the project. At first it looked like the money would be slow coming, he said, but an anonymous donor contributed $115,000 to the YMCA — with $85,000 of it earmarked for gymnastics. "We were ecstatic," McEwen recalls. "I never imagined in my wildest dreams that it would be such a generous gift. It put us into the building debt-free and has allowed the 'Y' to improve all its other facilities as well."

Construction on the gymnastics building, which is adjacent to the gym where the kids used to work out, was finished in late December. Complete equipment greets the athletes: a spring floor, two sets of competition-quality uneven bars, two competition and two practice beams, a set of even bars, and a pommel horse.

As a community sport, gymnastics has found its place. But as a school sport, it's probably still a long way off. Big Spring High School athletic director Ron Logback says it is possible, but not probable. "If we found that there was sufficient interest in sponsoring a gymnastics team we would consider the proposition. It would all depend on whether or not the taxpayers would be willing to foot the bill and if there was enough participation to justify the program."

Five years of effort have brought their reward for McEwen. At the YMCA's annual banquet last week, he was showered with honors including recognition as Volunteer of the Year by the YMCA and a commendation from the governor and

House of Representatives for his volunteer service. Perhaps the most enduring accolade, however, is the gymnastics building. It bears his name.

Werner hopes to bring state gymnastic title to Big Spring

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Staff Writer

While gymnastics was becoming increasingly popular at the start of the decade, the sport received a tremendous boost from the unprecedented success of the U.S. Olympic gymnastics teams. When the boom hit Big Spring, the city was ready with a gymnastics program in place at the YMCA.

"I heard they started out with about 15 girls. Right now we have 125 and it will probably grow much larger," predicts co-head coach of the Sidewinder gymnastic team, Ken Werner, who was just recently named director of gymnastics at the Big Spring YMCA.

Werner claims that the Olympics have helped his programs tremendously. "Before the Olympics we had about 450 girls in my programs in Decatur, Illinois. After the Olympics we had a waiting list of 450."

While girls still far outnumber boy gymnasts, there is a beginners program available to any future Bart Connors who might be lurking here. "We've seen an increase in interest from boys but their program probably won't ever get too big," says Werner, citing competition from sports like football and basketball.

When the ground was broken for the new facility, the YMCA board decided to hire a full-time gymnastics instructor. On January 7, Ken Werner arrived to fill the new post as gymnastics director.

Werner is the right man, in the right place for Big Spring gymnastics. The 21-year-old has been involved with the sport for nine years, starting out in a Winnemucca, Nevada High School gymnasium as a novice on the high bar. He moved back to his hometown of Decatur where he hooked up with nationally known gymnastics coach Paul Hunt at the Decatur YMCA.

During his high school tenure, Werner helped Hunt coach the local girls teams while he worked to master each of the six men's individual events. After high school, Werner attended the University of Illinois in Champaign where he helped the women's gymnastics head coach Bev Mackes tutor and spot. After a year in Champaign, he returned to his hometown and enrolled at Richland Community College in Decatur, where he worked on an associates degree in physics.

Although Werner never competed for any team, his years of teaching experience helped him attain the position of Class 3 and 4 head coach at the Decatur YMCA. His girls teams enjoyed spectacular success at the Illinois state meets, winning team titles four years in a row.

Werner is very confident that his Big Spring girls can reach the heights that his Decatur Purple Pride did. "My goal is to go to state this year in Class 4 and be very competitive, and by next year I think we can win state."

With the arrival of Werner the future seems bright indeed for aspiring gymnasts of the Crossroads. "We are really happy to have Ken here. He seems to have an excellent rapport with all the kids and he brings the kind of expertise that our kids need now," says Russ McEwen, who started the local gymnastics program and shares

Coahoma comes back, 61-59, in double overtime

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs capped off a miracle comeback with a double overtime, 61-59, victory over the Ballinger Bearcats in the first game of a 7-3A double header Friday night. In the girls contest, Coahoma completed the sweep, with the girls taking a 43-32 victory, in a game marred by four technical fouls against Ballinger.

Throughout most of the boys game, Coahoma trailed and it looked as though Ballinger would cruise to an easy victory. But a fourth quarter rally by the Bulldogs keyed by some aggressive full court defense and clutch shooting from Brian Callaway and John Swinney would not allow the visiting Bearcats to pull away.

Ballinger led by nine at the end of the third quarter, 47-38, and looked poised to blow out the Bulldogs. But a crucial mid-quarter spurt by the Bulldogs rallied them to within two points with 2:55 remaining in the game. From there it was touch and go all the way, as Ballinger stalled the ball waiting to get point guard Kirk Francis open for the last shot. After Francis had hit a jumper to put the Bearcats up by two with 2:00 minutes to play, Bulldog forward John Swinney stole an errant Ballinger pass and took it the length of the court to knot the score at 54-54.

Ballinger came back up court determined to stall for the last shot and were successful when with 40 seconds left Bearcat forward Augie Winsome hit a go-ahead jumper. Coahoma stormed up the court and Brian Callaway hit a beautiful 25 foot jumper to tie it up again at 56-56.

Ballinger again went to Francis for the last shot but he could not connect on a long jumper. But with 1 second remaining in the game, Callaway was called for a foul sending Bearcat post, Tommy Sanceda to the line with an opportunity to win the game. Sanceda missed the front end of the one-in-one, sending the game into the first overtime period.

Coahoma controlled the overtime tip but was unable to convert. Ballinger proceeded to run the clock down to 29 seconds, when Sanceda lost control of a pass and was called for a backcourt violation. Coahoma set up for a last shot but some fine defensive work by Francis forced Swinney to put a desperation 40 footer with 4 seconds on the clock. The shot was no good sending the game into the final overtime period.

Coahoma again controlled the tip and Bulldog forward Billy Brandt hit a short turnaround jumper to put Coahoma up to stay. Ballinger tried to work the ball to an open man but was unsuccessful. Coahoma stalled and the Bearcats immediately fouled Callaway who missed the first free throw, giving Ballinger another chance to tie the score.

Sanceda redeemed himself by canning a jumper off a fine power move to tie things up at 57-57. The two teams traded fast break baskets, with Ballinger's Todd Copeland knotting it up again with a driving layup with 7 seconds to play.

This set the stage for Billy Brandt's winning jumper, a feat he performed against Ballinger last year, with three seconds left. Brandt snagged a long inbound pass, drove to the hoop and lofted up a perfect jumper to seal the 61-59 victory.

Callaway led the Bulldogs with 17 points, while Swinney and Brandt each had 13.

Coahoma head coach Kim Nichols was very pleased with his entire squads heads up play. "The boys really kept their poise in the overtime and each of our 13 players contributed. This gave us a real boost in our district race. Billy Brandt came through for us and our seniors Swinney and Calaway have played well all year."

Coahoma went to 10-11 and 2-1 in district with the victory. Ballinger fell to 7-11 and 1-2 for the season.

In the girls game, Coahoma was never in danger as they pulled out to an early 12-8 first quarter lead. Ballinger did put on a charge late in the second half, taking advantage of Leslie Kirkpatrick's absence, who was sitting on the bench with four fouls.

Kirkpatrick led the Lady Bulldogs first quarter charge with 8 points but Ballinger was able to make it close at halftime, trailing by only two points 18-16.

Coahoma started out the second half by scoring 10 unanswered points to pull out to a comfortable 28-18 lead at the end of the third period. Ballinger was only able to score 2 points due to the Lady Bulldogs' tenacious defense led by post Shanna Fowler, who also had 12 points on the night.

Moses still facing soliciting charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite his claim of having "done nothing wrong," two-time Olympic gold medalist Edwin Moses was charged Friday with soliciting a female police officer for prostitution.

Deputy City Attorney Mike Wilkinson made the announcement, saying that Moses would be arraigned Jan. 29 on the misdemeanor charge, which carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail or a $1,000 fine or both.

"It's fair to say first-time offenders are rarely given jail time," Wilkinson said.

He said it was decided that Moses wouldn't be charged with possessing marijuana because the amount that was recovered in the glove compartment of his car was very small.

"It was slightly less than the amount to make one joint or marijuana cigarette," Wilkinson said.

Moses, 29, was one of 82 people arrested early last Sunday during a weekend prostitution sweep of Hollywood by vice officers. He was released on his own recognizance shortly after being booked.

Moses said that he hadn't known the marijuana was in his car and that several people, including parking lot attendants, had been in the vehicle.

At a news conference Tuesday, the 400-meter intermediate hurdles winner in the 1976 and 1984 Olympics proclaimed his innocence, saying in a prepared statement that he was "mortified by the events of the last few days" and "after an investigation, authorities will see they're mistaken."

"I've worked hard all my life to build a positive image and reputation," Moses said. "I know I've done nothing wrong."

Wilkinson said Monday that Moses had been charged. However, shortly after Moses' news conference Tuesday, Wilkinson said the announcement was in error, that Moses hadn't been charged and an investigation into the incident was continuing.

Neither Gordon Baskin, Moses' agent, nor Harold Lipton, his attorney, immediately returned telephone calls placed to them Friday after Moses was charged.

Police Chief Daryl Gates and the city attorney's office issued a statement Thursday saying there was no unusual delay in determining whether the misdemeanor charges should be filed.

Of the 82 people arrested during the weekend sweep, 34 were considered "customers" and the rest were arrested for investigation of prostitution, Wilkinson said. Of the 34 "customer" cases, 30 were charged Friday and one case was rejected, he said.

Additional investigation has been requested on the three remaining cases, Wilkinson said.

Moses, who lives in Laguna Hills, Calif., 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles, has won his last 109 races, a streak that began in August 1977. He will receive the "Wide World of Sports" athlete of the year award from ABC-TV prior to the network's coverage of Sunday's Super Bowl.

Lipton said earlier in the week that Moses never intended to engage in sex with a prostitute and that police targeted him after they saw the "OLYMPIAN" license plates on his 1985 Mercedes.

Cmdr. William Booth of the Los Angeles Police Department said that officers weren't aware of Moses' identity until after the arrest.

Baskin had said that Moses was in Los Angeles last Saturday for a meeting of a division of the United States Olympic Committee and was driving back to his hotel from a discotheque. Moses was at a stop sign when a woman across the street waved at him and walked to the window on the passenger side of the car, Baskin said.

The vice officer posing as a prostitute asked Moses what he was doing, Baskin said. Moses replied that he was out to have some fun, and when the woman asked if he had money, Moses said yes and jokingly mentioned $100, Baskin said.

Curry readies for WBA title defense

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Donald Curry defends his World Boxing Association welterweight title against Colin Jones of Wales Saturday, despite a late walk-out threat by the challenger.

Curry, 23, of Fort Worth, Texas, is a strong favorite to win his fifth defense of the title at the 11,500 capacity National Exhibition Center.

The fight will be televised live in the United States by ABC. It is scheduled to begin about 5 p.m. EST.

On the eve of the fight, Jones' manager, Eddie Thomas, protested that Curry's camp had moved the weigh-in forward by five hours.

Responding to rumors that the American would have problems under the 147-pound limit, Thomas claimed that a pre-breakfast weigh-in would give the champion an unfair advantage.

If Curry failed to make the welterweight limit at that hour of the day, claimed Thomas, the champion would still have plenty of time to try and shed the extra weight before the fight.

Thomas threatened to pull his man out of the contest and two more contenders, Carlos Trujillo of Panama and Tommy Ayres from Cincinnati, Ohio, were put on standby.

The Welsh camp sought a ruling from WBA officials and backed down when they accepted a compromise weigh-in time of 10.30 a.m. here Saturday.

Dave Gorman, Curry's manager, dismissed the controversy by saying: "I think we've obliged Jones enough by coming over here to defend the title."

"People have to remember this is not a British title fight, this is a WBA title fight and the WBA determines the time of the official weigh-in."

"If Jones wants to go back to Wales, let him. There are a lot of fighters out there who would like the chance to fight for the title."

Curry, winner of all his 20 fights, 15 by knockout, hopes to use the contest as a stepping stone towards a showdown with Milton McCrory, holder of the World Boxing Council version of the welterweight crown.

Gorman told The Associated Press: "We're ready for McCrory anytime. It's up to him. Don is regarded as the leading welterweight in the United States. McCrory has just been sitting back."

"We would like to take on McCrory and settle the undisputed world title. I think something will be sorted out."

If something is not sorted out, Curry says he might move up to junior middleweight.

Jones, from the Welsh mining village of Gorseinon, twice fought McCrory for the WBC title in 1983.

Swimmer TRACY CAULKINS, left, of the University of Florida and CHERYL MILLER, basketball star from the University of Southern California were named co-winners of the Broderick Award this week in Nashville. The Broderick Award is given annually to the outstanding collegiate woman athlete of the year.

Peete increases Phoenix lead

PHOENIX (AP) — Front-running Calvin Peete compiled his second straight six-under-par 65 and stretched his lead to six shots Friday early in the second round of the $450,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The deadly accurate Peete, who has not made a bogey in the tournament, completed two trips over the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course in 130, 12 strokes under par at the halfway point of the 50th anniversary of this event.

Peete, who has led the Tour in driving accuracy the past four seasons and in greens hit in regulation in three of the past four, did not miss a fairway and had only one real opportunity to make bogey. That was on his second hole, where he found a bunker and had to make a 6-8 foot putt to save par.

With about half the field of 144 still out in mild, sunny weather, Isao Aoki of Japan was second at

136. Aoki holed out from the fairway, from about 45 yards, for an eagle-two on the fifth hole and went on to shoot a second-round 70.

Veteran Ray Floyd was next among the early finishers at 138 after a 68.

The late starters included Morris Hatafsky and rookie Phil Blackmar, who had opening 66s, along with PGA champion Lee Trevino and defending titleholder Tom Purtzer. Purtzer and Trevino each had a first-round 67.

Tigers, Hernandez finally agree on contract terms

DETROIT (AP) — Months of sometimes troublesome negotiations came to an end Friday when the Detroit Tigers announced an agreement in principle to a contract extension with left-handed reliever Willie Hernandez, winner of the American League Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards.

The extension, estimated to be worth $4.65 million and accompanied by a hefty signing bonus, will keep the 30-year-old relief ace in a Detroit uniform through the 1989 season.

"It's weird, hard, tough, whatever you want to call it," Hernandez said at a meeting of the Detroit chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, where he was to receive Tiger of the Year award. "I hope I don't have to go through this anymore. I can't handle that much pressure."

Hernandez was under contract through 1985, but he had exercised his right under the Basic Agreement with owners to demand a trade. The Tigers had until March 15 to either trade him or negotiate a new contract. If they had not done either of those two things, he could have become a free agent on that date.

The $4.65 million pact is the richest in team history, but talks hit snags when Hernandez demanded, at different times, a guarantee that no Tiger make more money than him, a no-trade clause and a deferred payment program.

"All of those demands were later dropped," said Brian David, the Chicago agent who helped put the deal together after Hernandez tired of representing himself with Tiger General Manager Bill Lajoie. "I think this is a fair contract," Hernandez said. "I don't know if I deserve more, but I'm happy with it. It took a long time, but I guess it was worth it."

"I'm just mainly happy to be staying with the Tigers," Hernandez said. "I didn't want to leave the Tigers, and they didn't want me to leave — so I knew we were going to make a deal. I looked at all the offers, and I finally said, 'This is fair.'"

Hernandez flew in from his native Puerto Rico on Friday and met with Lajoie at Tigers Stadium. David, in a telephone conversation from Chicago, said he would come to the Motor City on Saturday and expected the contract to be signed at that time.

The Tigers said the contract was being drafted into final form and would be signed before the annual baseball writers banquet in New York City next Tuesday, where Hernandez will pick up his Cy Young and MVP awards.

Hernandez compiled a 9-3 record while helping the Tigers win the AL championship and defeat the San Diego Padres in a five-game World Series. Hernandez had a 1.92 earned run average with 32 saves in 33 save opportunities.

He was acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies with infielder Dave Bergman for catcher John Wockenfuss and outfielder Glenn Wilson on March 24, 1984.

Flutie closer to signing with Generals

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Doug Flutie is "leaning very strongly" to signing with the New Jersey Generals, his agent said Friday as the United States Football League team opened training camp.

Flutie is scheduled to be in New York Monday for a commercial appearance and then the Boston College quarterback and Bob Woolf, his agent, will have lunch with Generals' owner Donald Trump, Woolf said.

"From my talks with Doug he is leaning very strongly to signing with Mr. Trump and the USFL," Woolf said in a telephone interview from his Boston office. "The talks have progressed very nicely."

Woolf said negotiations with the Generals have been held on a daily basis, but no talks have been held with National Football League teams in recent days.

"Mr. Trump has been a gentleman during the talks," Woolf said. "He has not set any deadlines or given us any ultimatums."

Ex-UH All-American dies

HOUSTON (AP) — Paul Theodis Gipson, a former All-America running back at the University of Houston whose brief pro football career was marred by injuries, suffered an apparent heart attack Wednesday and died on a Houston sidewalk, authorities said. He died soon after, and tests may determine later this week what induced the apparent heart attack, the spokesman said.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. # Hot Eagles fly past Steers, 111-77

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

For the second consecutive home game the Big Spring Steers ran into a hot shooting District 4-5A opponent. Last Friday it was Midland Lee who hit 52 percent from the floor. Last night it was the Abilene High Eagles who sunk 50 percent of their shots while cruising to a 111-77 win over Big Spring.

As the score indicates the contest was a run-and-gun affair in which the Eagles really flexed their wings. Not only was their field goal shooting hot, so was their free throw shooting. The Eagles, now 4-2 in district play, went to the line 42 times and sunk 31 of them, which was really the difference in the game.

Meanwhile Big Spring went to the line only 13 times while sinking 7. The field goals were fairly even in the contest. Abilene sunk 40 of 80 attempts while the Steers hit 35 of 83 attempts a not-to-shabby 42 percent.

The contest was close for one quarter. The Steers trailed 26-24 after the first eight minutes of play. Big Spring's shooting was hot as it connected on 12-23 shots. Benard Williams, Mike Lueschner, Brian Mayfield and Sidney Parker scored all but four of the points.

The second quarter told the story of the game as Abilene behind the shooting of Kirk Robinson, Greg Lowry and Cliff Johnson took control. Midway through the period four consecutive Steer turnovers led to 10 unanswered points and the AHS lead grew to 50-35 at the 2:35 mark.

Abilene hit an amazing 15 of 20 shots in the quarter and took a commanding 59-42 halftime lead. Big Spring narrowed the margin to 63-50 early in the third quarter, which was as close as they would get. The remainder of the quarter the Eagles outscored Big Spring 25-10 to take a 85-60 lead going into the final period.

Robinson, a 6-1 forward was the Eagles main weapon. He hit 12-15 from the field, on his way to a game-high 29 points. He also pulled down 11 rebounds. Robinson got plenty of help from guards Lowry and Johnson who gunned in 24 and 22 points respectively.

Big Spring coach Mike Randle was left in awe by Abilene's shooting prowess. "We ran into a buzzsaw," said Randle. "They (Abilene High) shot the ball very well plus we sent them to the line too much."

Williams led the Steers scoring with 18 points, but hit only 8-23 field goals. He also had a game-high eight assists. Perhaps the brightest play for the Steers came from forwards Mayfield, Parker and Billy Cole.

The 6-3 Mayfield scored 12 points and pulled down 10 rebounds. The freshman also blocked three shots. Parker added 10 rebounds and points each before fouling out in the fourth quarter. He along with fellow starters Lueschner and Williams all existed via fouls.

Cole had one of his best outings of the season. The 6-3 junior hauled down a game-high 14 rebounds and hit 7 of 15 shots for 14 points.

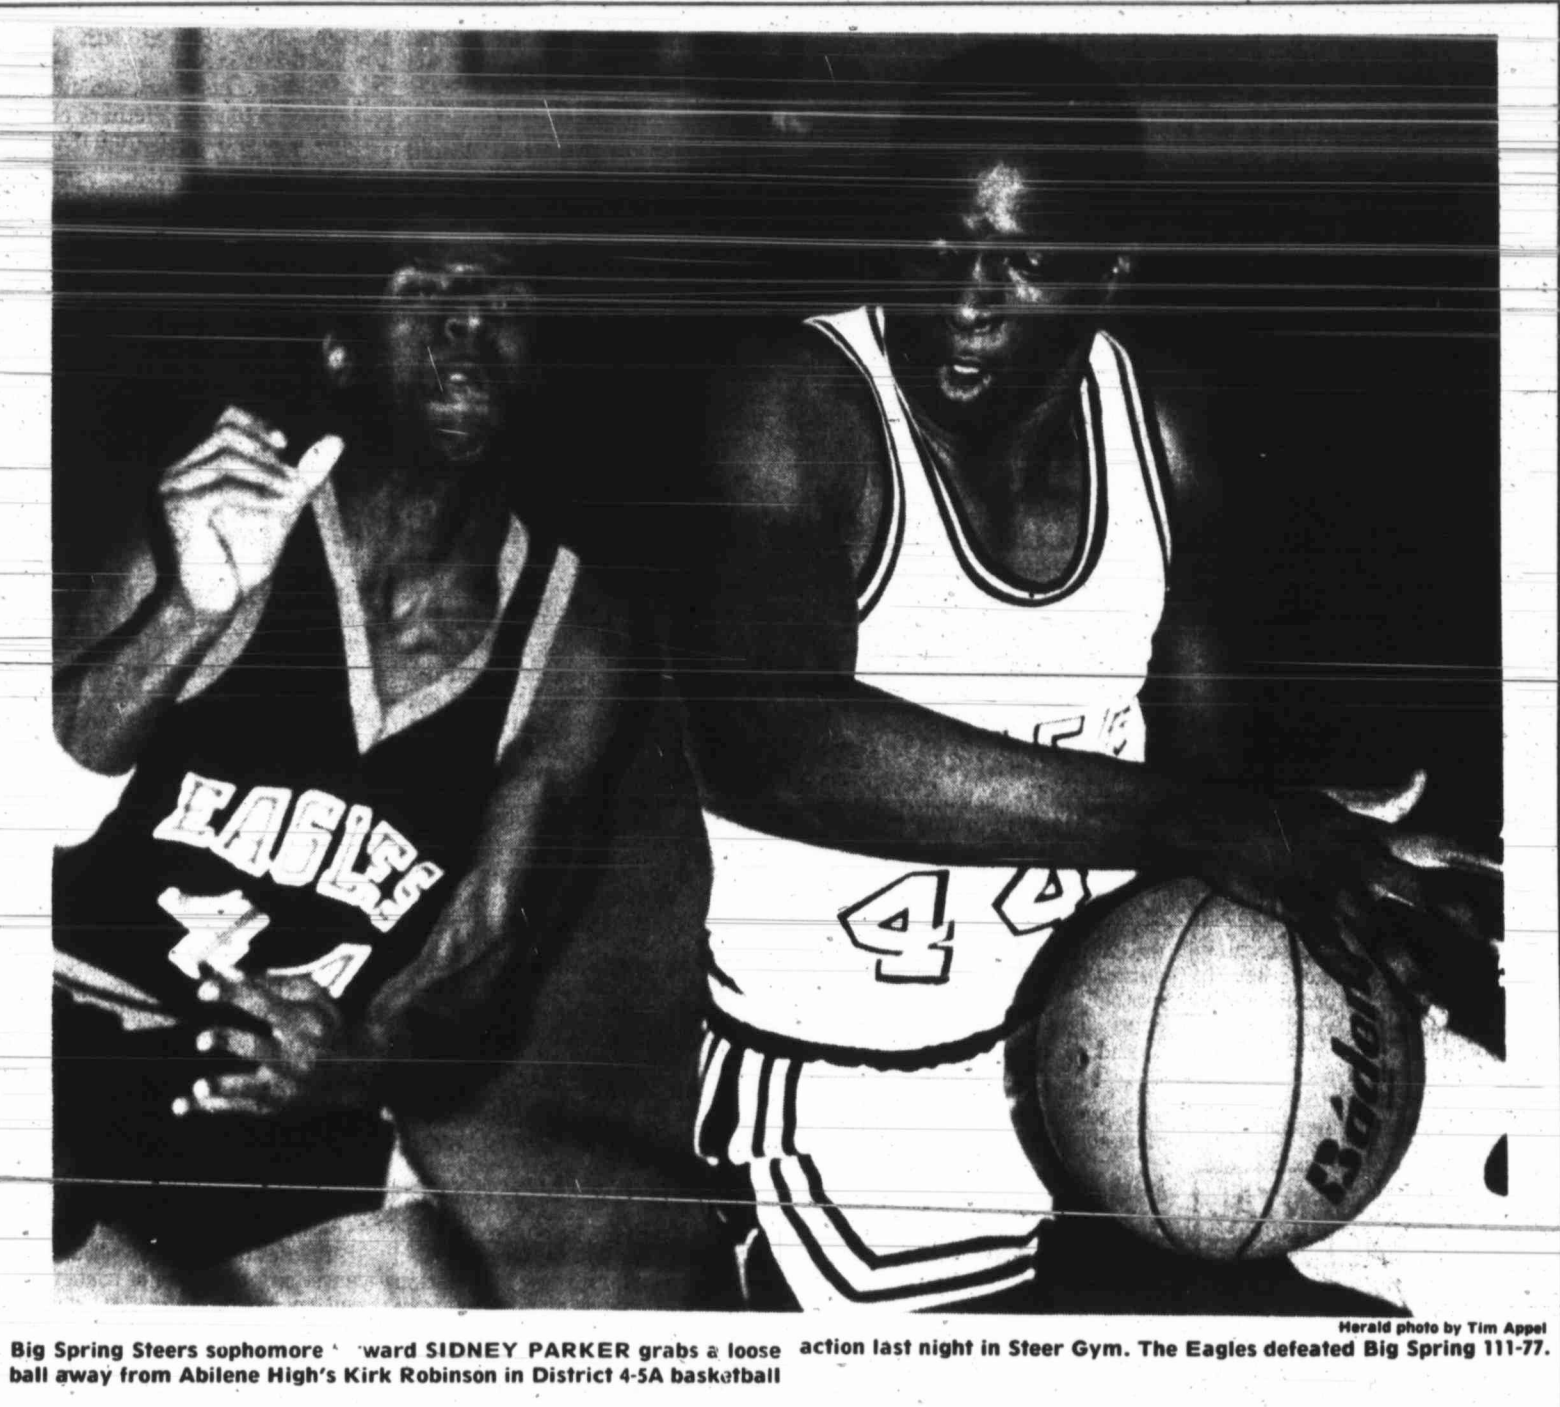

The loss drops Big Spring's record to 0-4 in district play and 7-17 overall. Abilene High goes to 15-7 for the season.

JV'S FALL TO EAGLES
The Abilene Eagles held off a furious fourth quarter rally by Big Spring to hold on to a 74-65 win in junior varsity action.

Charles Young led the Steers with 22 points. John Olson and Cedrick Banks added 16 and 10 points respectively.

Abilene drops Lady Steers

ABILENE — The Abilene High Eagles handed the Lady Steers their fifth District 4-5A loss in eight games by defeating Big Spring 60-43 here last night.

The Lady Steers got off to a slow start as the Eagles jumped out to a 20-4 first quarter lead, a lead they would never lose. Big Spring fought back to get into the contest but the deficit was just too much to make up.

Big Spring coach Carol Niemeyer said her team wasn't mentally ready at the start of the contest. "They (Abilene) were fired up and ready to play, we weren't," said Niemeyer. By the time we started to get after them it was too late.

Junior forward Monique Jones led the Lady Steers with 12 points. She was joined by sophomore forward Teresa Pruitt who also scored 12 points. The Lady Steers are 5-15 for the season.

Crash kills 'Airwolf' stuntman

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — A helicopter being used to film an aerial dogfight scene for an episode of the CBS television series "Airwolf" crashed Friday, killing a stuntman and injuring the pilot, firefighters said.

The crash occurred at a Sun Oil Co. refinery in Pico Canyon, 30 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles, said Los Angeles County Fire Department spokesman Jeff Myers. The stuntman who died was aboard the helicopter.

Two of the eight helicopters on the set were being used in the dogfight-and-chase scene, and one of them crashed into a grassy knoll, Myers said.

"Members of the (film) crew rushed over and pulled out the pilot, then the helicopter burst into flames. The stuntman was still inside," Myers said.

He said it was not known if the stuntman was killed by the impact of the crash or by the fire, which was quickly doused.

The cause of the crash remained under investigation, Myers said.

The stuntman identified by Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital spokeswoman Anita Weld as Reid Rondell, 24, was acting as a stunt double for one of the show's stars, Jan-Michael Vincent.

The crash site, behind a building at the refinery, is about 10 miles south of the location where a helicopter being used in the filming of the "Twilight Zone" movie crashed in July 1982, killing actor Vic Morrow and two small children.

Myers said firefighters put out a small fire triggered by the 11:02 a.m. crash.

The pilot, Scott Meher, 46, of Los Angeles, was flown by rescue helicopter to Newhall Hospital, where he was admitted in stable condition with a concussion and abrasions, said Ms. Weld.

"Airwolf" is an adventure-drama series starring Vincent and Ernest Borgnine as private pilots who also work for a CIA-like organization and use a high tech, jet-powered, gun- and rocket-equipped helicopter called "Airwolf."

The Universal Television series, in its second season, was created by Don Bellisario, who also created "Magnum, P.I." The Saturday night show placed 44th in last week's Nielsen ratings.

Vincent portrays Stringfellow Hawke, a former Vietnam chopper pilot who is the only man trained to fly the billion dollar helicopter.

Borgnine plays Dominic Santini, best friend of Hawke's deceased father, who raised Hawke and employs him at his helicopter service.

Both men report to a character named Michael Archangel, the deputy director of an intelligence agency, portrayed by actor Alex Cord.

Court says gay dad not fit to keep child

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A parent living with a homosexual partner is not fit to have custody of a child because the youngster would be burdened by "social condemnation," the Virginia Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The court denied a man, who was not identified, custody of his daughter and said the girl could not visit his home as long as he resides with a homosexual lover.

"The conditions under which this child must live daily are not only unlawful, but also impose an intolerable burden upon her by reason of the social condemnation attached to them, which will inevitably afflict her relationships with her peers and with the community at large," the state's highest court said in the unanimous ruling.

The child's parents were divorced in 1976, when their daughter was 2 years old. The girl stayed with the mother until the woman learned she had cancer and needed extensive treatment. Custody was then granted to the father in October 1979.

The mother petitioned for permanent custody in July 1983, when she found out the father was living with a gay partner.

Circuit Judge Richard Jamborsky awarded joint custody, ruling the child should live with her father during the school year and with her mother during the summer. The court decision did not discuss the mother's health.

The judge said the girl could stay with her father if he and his lover used separate bedrooms while the child was visiting.

But the Supreme Court said the "father's continuous exposure of his child to his immoral and illicit relationship renders him an unfit and improper custodian as a matter of law."

The father had based his defense on a 1981 Virginia Supreme Court decision that reversed an order allowing a father and second wife to adopt his daughter over the objections of the mother, who was living with a gay partner.

But the court said a case involving adoption, which is irrevocable, is far different than custody, which is subject to change.

"We refused to terminate all parental rights of the lesbian mother ..., but we stopped far short of finding her a fit and proper custodian for her son or even of approving his visitations in her home while her existing living arrangements continued," it said.

The court also considered in its decision on a 1977 case in which it denied custody to a mother who was living with a man while her divorce suit was pending.

"The father's unfitness is manifested by his willingness to impose this burden (of social condemnation) upon her in exchange for his own gratification," the court said.

"The impact of such behavior upon the child, and upon any of her peers who may visit the home, is inevitable. We conclude that the best interests of the child will only be served by protecting her from the burdens of such behavior..."

No-names-to-replace sports figures on Wheaties box

SUNDERLAND, Mass. (AP) — The prominent sports figures who have graced Wheaties cereal boxes for decades are being replaced by relative no-names, such as orienteering champion Peter Gagarin.

Gagarin, a five-time U.S. open national orienteering champion, and five other amateur athletes later this year will replace the likes of Olympic stars Mary Lou Retton and Bob Richards on box covers of the 61-year-old cereal.

The new cover personalities were nominated by cereal eaters and selected from a field of the top 50 vote-getters.

"It deviates from Wheaties' years-long tradition of recognizing well-known athletes. It gives a chance for the little-known amateur athlete to be recognized," said the contest's coordinator, Mary E. Tickle, of General Mills Inc., which manufactures Wheaties.

Gagarin and company will travel to Los Angeles to have their pictures taken and be honored Tuesday at a "Breakfast of Champions" at the University of Southern California.

Ms. Tickle acknowledged that the bearded, 40-year-old Gagarin marks a change in the types of athletes who have appeared on the cereal boxes since 1933.

Chamber luncheon set Thursday in East Room

The quarterly Chamber of Commerce community luncheon is scheduled for Thursday in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The annual Rattlesnake Roundup, scheduled in March, will be discussed, as will the Gem and Mineral Show, also scheduled for March.

Tillery said ticket sales for the upcoming Chamber of Commerce banquet will be discussed and Chamber members will be encouraged to sell their tickets for the Feb. 9 affair. The theme of this year's banquet is "From these Roots," and "Big Spring — Forward with vision."
