Water fight

Governor seeks Stacy compromise

Staff and wire reports

Scrambling to save legislation proposed to solve the state's water problems, Gov. Mark White has met in private with the Lower Colorado River Authority board and key West Texas lawmakers.

The Monday meeting followed news reports that some West Texas legislators see little reason to support the $600 million plan in light of the river authority's success so far in blocking construction of the Stacy Dam and reservoir in West Texas.

Representatives of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which has been trying to build Stacy Dam to provide water to its West Texas customers, were not present at the meeting, district spokesman Rob Lewis said.

Negotiations between the Big Spring-based water district and the river authority are continuing, Lewis said. "We have been talking," Lewis said.

The Monday meeting lasted about 45 minutes, according to an assistant press secretary with the governor's office.

Present at the meeting, she said, were White; his aide, Jim Turner; the entire river authority board; its general manager and secretary; House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth; an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, D-Houston; Rep. Tom Craddock, R-Midland; and three West Texas senators, including Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock.

"According to an attorney general's opinion, a board can meet in private if it is for informational purposes only and they don't discuss their opinions, and they don't deliberate," she said.

According to Turner, the meeting "was an appeal to them (the river authority board) to understand the interest of the state as a whole in adopting water

Ginnetti tops state wanted list

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Anthony "Tony" Ginnetti, an ex-car dealer from Big Spring who is accused of taking $250,000 from the Coahoma State Bank in a car title fraud scheme, is No. 1 on the state's most wanted criminals list.

Ginnetti, who has been at large since last April, has been indicted in federal and state district courts on several counts of felony theft of more than $20,000. He is also wanted on an FBI fugitive flight warrant.

According to Texas Ranger Charles Brune of Big Spring, who has headed the Ginnetti investigation, listing Ginnetti's name on the most wanted list does not allocate more personnel to the search.

"It's a mass media blitz," Brune said. "It's a chance to get more people thinking about him and looking for him."

Texas Crimestoppers will send out more information on Ginnetti by Jan. 25, when the "media blitz" is planned, Brune said.

By staff and wire reports
Although temperatures over the weekend set near-record lows, predictions for mid-week in Big Spring are calling for milder weather and sunny to partly cloudy skies.

Last weekend's cold front claimed the lives of at least eight people, according to reports from around the state. Lows Saturday dropped to 6 degrees and Sunday's highs reached only to the lower 20s.

Cities throughout the Midwest and South Monday reported record-setting lows, including many below-zero temperatures in Georgia and the Carolinas. The freeze also covered most of tropical Florida.

Predictions for this weekend are calling for another cold front to move in by Saturday.

Winter's wrath

Today's highs were expected to top the mid 40s with southeasterly winds, 5 to 15 miles per hour. By tonight, look for partly cloudy skies and lows in the mid 20s. Winds will be light and variable.

On Wednesday, the forecast is calling for "not so cold" temperatures in the middle 50s. Winds will be southwesterly, 10 to 15 miles per hour.

The long range forecast is calling for partly cloudy skies and highs in the low 50s through Saturday. Lows will fall into the mid 20s throughout the week.

Only some low cloudiness in the lower Rio Grande Valley marred the otherwise fair skies across the state today.

Low temperatures ranged from the low to mid 20s to mid to upper 30s over southern portions of the Lone Star State. Extremes were Lubbock with 18 degrees and Brownsville with 40 degrees.

There goes the neighborhood

Fort Worth's Sticktown died slow death after illustrious life

FORT WORTH (AP) — On Windmill Street was the spring where water was pumped for many of the homes. There was a racetrack and a pavilion with a beer garden.

The men worked at the cotton compress or the packing plants, or on the garbage wagons that ran to the nearby city dump, or for the railroads whose tracks walled in their neighborhood and whose trains ordered their lives.

Weekdays there were classes at the one-room school Mrs. Yerwood ran. Saturday nights there were parties — fish fries and barbecues and music — illuminated by kerosene lanterns in the shotgun houses on the unpaved streets. On Sunday, there was the North Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Welcome to Sticktown, a small black neighborhood that thrived for more than 50 years, and hung on for another 30, in the same northward bend of the Trinity River where so much of Fort Worth's history was made. Turn north past the courthouse, along Samuels Avenue and the river bluff, and on to Cold Springs Road. "When you crossed under the Rock Island tracks," says a longtime Northsider, "you were in Sticktown." But the single-walled houses of Sticktown didn't make it onto any historic preservation lists. The last house was demolished in 1983 to make way for an asphalt plant and a United Parcel Service facility. The sign for Windmill Street now directs passers-by only to the gate of the asphalt plant.

legislation for the long-term water needs of the state, that that interest should be clearly understood by them as they deliberate on this particular legislation."

The assistant press secretary said she could not comment about the effect of White's message on the river authority board, which meets today in Austin "to discuss potentially this matter."

"I have no way of knowing what the board thinks on this matter," she said.

According to Sen. Montford, White "was the mediator trying to get some communication going" at the session. Montford described the session as "a very friendly encounter."

White underlined his own commitment to water legislation Monday by officially designating as emergency bills two proposed constitutional amendments embracing the major water changes being proposed.

The Lower Colorado River Authority has been negotiating with the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring, which wants to build the Stacy Dam on the Colorado about 50 miles east of San Angelo.

The authority board has fought the dam, arguing that the dam would leave the authority unable to meet downstream water needs in the future.

Authority Board Chairman John Jones of Brady said the message from Monday's meeting was compromise.

"The governor and speaker (Gib Lewis) and senators and representatives reiterated the importance of the statewide water plan and expressed their feeling that the LCRA and Colorado River Municipal District should negotiate a settlement," Jones said.

According to accident reports, the woman, Betty Thurman, was hanging onto the passenger side of the car. Her husband, a passenger in the vehicle, James Thurman, 30, of 601 McEwan, hit her with his fist, causing her to fall off the vehicle.

The vehicle then ran over her leg.

Thurman was arrested later on suspicion of assault.

In about the same time period, someone had also shot out a window on Castillo's maroon 1981 Ford pickup truck. Damage was estimated at $288.

Firemen answer oil pit fire

Billowing clouds of thick black smoke on the city's southwestern horizon caught the eye of several local residents who called the Big Spring Fire Department about 8 a.m. today.

The smoke was the result of a gun barrel fire on a lease belonging to the McFadden Oil Company. The lease was located between Rockhouse Road and FM 818.

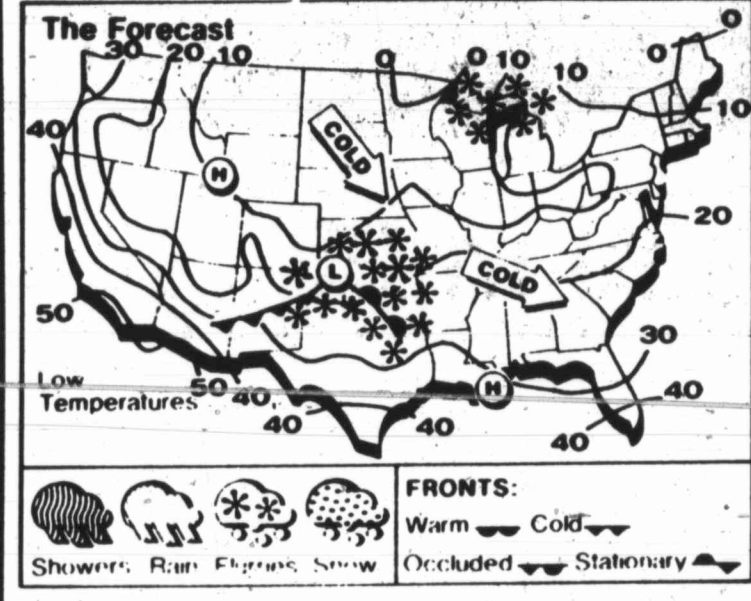

Lt. Larry Williams of the Big Spring Fire Department said a unit was dispatched from the Wasson Road Fire station but returned to the station when employees at the lease told the crew that "they had it under control."

B.B. Gilstrap of Duncan Drilling went out to the scene this morning and said the gun barrel separates oil from water. The well pumps into the gun barrel.

Gilstrap reasoned that an oil pit may have been burning and the fire spread to the gun barrel and started the blaze.

"It looks like a big deal, but it's not," Gilstrap explained. Although the gun barrel has oil in it, it holds "mostly water," Gilstrap said.

Weather

With 16 as the low temperature for yesterday, today's highs are in the mid 40s. Winds are blowing southeasterly 5 to 15 miles per hour. The mercury should rise 10 degrees tomorrow with highs in the mid 50s.

City, county officials review jail proposal

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Big Spring city councilmen and Howard County commissioners agreed Monday to study the possibility of a joint operation for a new jail facility.

The proposed facility would serve both Howard County and the city of Big Spring.

City councilmen and commissioners met for lunch at Alberto's after the commissioner's conducted a workshop to study courthouse space and a new juvenile detention facility for Howard County.

City councilman, Harold Hall, asked the commissioners and Howard County Judge Milton Kirby if the county would be opposed to a city-county joint operation.

"We could save some money," Hall said.

Commissioner O.L. Brown expressed disapproval of working with the city, but commissioners Paul Allen, William Crooker and Judge Kirby agreed they would be open to review opinions and proposals submitted by the city council.

Judge Kirby told persons who attended the lunch that two different groups of architects would address the next Monday's regularly scheduled commissioners' court meeting.

Kirby said the architectural firms who will make suggestions to the court have prior experience in constructing jail facilities.

"Why don't we talk to these two sets of people next Monday and then appoint committee members from both councils to review the matter," Kirby proposed.

Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel agreed with Kirby's proposal and said the city council could appoint two committee members to represent them.

Commissioners Brown and Crooker said the county would have to wait until Monday to appoint members from the commissioners court to the committee because the item would have to be posted in the meeting's agenda.

Kirby said the commissioners would possibly appoint one commissioner and one businessman from the local community to the committee.

City councilman Russ McEwen suggested the committee be comprised of two commissioners, two city councilmen, and two individuals from the local community.

Police Chief Rick Turner later gave commissioners and Judge Kirby a tour of the city jail facility.

3 cleared of homicide

OSSIPEE, N.H. — Prosecutors failed to prove negligent homicide against three people who allegedly provoked an argument with their landlord that ended with his fatal heart attack, said the judge who freed them.

After hearing from 20 prosecution witnesses, Superior Court Chief Justice Richard Dunfee threw out the charges Monday against Lynda Ryder, 28, her husband, Perley, 32, and Daniel Moody, 19.

The landlord, Donald Dodier, 56, died after he used a backhoe to block the defendants from taking away a shed until they paid back rent.

2 survive train-car crash

WASHINGTON, Iowa — An 11-month-old boy and his 3-week-old sister were hospitalized today after surviving the car-train collision that killed their mother, aunt and grandmother.

Rescuers had to extricate Jeremiah Ray from wreckage dragged more than a mile by the Milwaukee Road fast freight Monday. His sister, Amanda, was thrown clear and found by rescuers.

The boy was in serious condition, the girl in good condition, hospital officials said.

The accident killed the car's driver, Nancy Jo Boock, 41, the children's grandmother; Pamela Sue Ray, 21, their mother; and Kathy Ann Boock, 19, their aunt.

2 tabbed in fraud scheme

LOS ANGELES — A Dutch businessman got credit for time served, and a California attorney got six months in a community treatment center for pleading guilty to what prosecutors call the largest land fraud in U.S. history.

Rienk Hendricus Kamer, 41, was bound over Monday to authorities in his native Netherlands for further prosecution, according to U.S. District Judge Richard Gadbois' order.

The judge added five years' probation to the six months treatment he imposed on Kamer's ailing co-defendant, 66-year-old attorney Bernard Whitney.

Kamer and Whitney pleaded guilty to three counts of a 57-count, July 1983 indictment alleging a fraud involving up to 6,000 investors and $2 billion in undeveloped land in Utah, Texas, New York and California.

TRAIN CRASH — A railroad worker inspects damage at the site where two South Shore Line commuter trains collided in Gary, Ind. Officials said 129 people were injured in the mishap which was attributed to the cold weather.

Train tragedy

Commuter trains crash head-on, 129 injured

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Two commuter trains involved in a head-on crash that injured 129 people were on the same track during evening rush hour because sub-zero temperatures had damaged overhead electrical lines, a spokesman for the commuter line said.

Rescue crews had to use crowbars to free some of the people from the wreckage Monday evening, said Gary Fire Chief Bobby Joiner. But only 12 of the injuries were serious enough to require hospitalization.

The trains, part of the last electric inter-urban railroad in the United States, were on the same track during evening rush hour because sub-zero weather had damaged overhead electrical lines, said Richard Bunton, a spokesman for the South Shore Line.

The eastbound train "full of passengers" from Chicago struck the westbound train between stops in Gary, said Bunton.

Patricia Shadwick, 30, an insurance broker riding from Chicago to her hometown of Gary, said, "I was fortunate that my injuries were not serious. There were four people on my car who were taken out on splinter stretchers."

"Everyone on the train pitched in, in fact, I went around to help people before I thought, I better sit down."

Two investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board's Chicago office headed to Gary immediately after news of the crash, and two more investigators will be sent from Washington, said board spokesman Ira Furman in a telephone interview from Washington.

Ninety-eight people were taken to Gary's Methodist Hospital, said spokesman Chuck Green.

"To be honest, we're inundated," said hospital spokeswoman Pam Roth.

At St. Mary Medical Center in Gary, 28 people were being treated, said spokesman Mike Adler.

Three people were taken to St. Catherine Hospital in East Chicago, said spokeswoman Rosemary Moore.

Hospital officials at all three facilities said none of the injured was critically hurt. Only a dozen injuries were serious enough to warrant the patients being admitted to the hospitals.

The eastbound train with four cars left Chicago at 5:58 p.m. and was scheduled to terminate in Michigan City, Bunton said.

The westbound train, with two cars, from Gary was heading to Chicago, Bunton said.

"One car derailed, and the leading cars of each train were severely damaged," Bunton said, but he could not confirm a report that both trains were moving at the time of the crash.

A diesel will pull the trains over the westbound tracks today where the overhead lines are still down, said Bunton.

Iraqis attack Dutch boat

MANAMA, Bahrain — Marine shipping sources said Iraqi warplanes attacked a Dutch-owned salvage tugboat early today off the Saudi Arabian coast, destroying its sleeping quarters but injuring none of its 10-man crew.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the 347-ton Ribut was hit shortly after midnight about 60 miles northeast of Ras Tanura.

"The Ribut often helped victims of air raids in the gulf waters, and today it became a victim itself," said one shipping agent. "The vessel was attacked at a point midway between Saudi Arabian and Iranian waters."

He said it was the same area where the Greek-registered oil tanker Ninemia was crippled by an Iraqi rocket Dec. 15.

Israel, Lebanon set talks

NAQOURA, Lebanon — Israeli and Lebanese negotiators today reopened talks on security measures to prevent sectarian violence once Israel's troops leave south Lebanon.

As the session began in this town near the Israeli-Lebanese border, a general strike spread through Moslem areas across Lebanon to protest a car bomb attack Monday night at the home of a prominent Sunni Moslem leader in Sidon, south Lebanon's largest city.

Two people were killed in the bombing and at least 30 injured, including the Moslem leader, Mustafa Saad, who heads the powerful Nasserite militia in Sidon and is known for his anti-Israeli views.

Army generals retired

LA PAZ, Bolivia — The military high command says Gen. Jose Olvis Arias, the army commander, and four generals who backed him in a dispute with President Hernan Siles Zuazo have been retired from active duty.

Olvis Arias, appointed army commander in July, had refused to accept a Dec. 30 order that he step down, saying that under military procedures he should serve for two years.

He claimed he had the support of regiments in the interior and threatened to take "drastic measures" if he was placed on inactive status as part of a plan of restructuring the armed forces.

The feared revolt did not materialize because no regimental commanders backed him, and the military command announced the five retirements Monday.

Economy makes sharp increase

Nation witnesses fastest growth in three decades

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy, as a proud President Reagan proclaimed prematurely, grew at the fastest rate in more than three decades last year, the Commerce Department confirmed today.

The department said the gross national product — the broadest measure of economic health — grew 6.8 percent for all of 1984. That was the best showing since an 8.3 percent rise in 1951.

Despite the rapid growth, inflation remained low. A price index tied to the GNP showed an inflation rate of 3.7 percent last year, the best performance since a 3 percent rise in 1967.

The president, who got an advance look at the statistics, tantalized Republican supporters at several inaugural balls Monday night by hinting that the 1984 growth was the best in three decades while inflation had remained under control.

"I'm not at liberty to tell you what they'll say," Reagan said of the statistics, "but one will be the best since 1951 and the other will be the best since 1967."

The double-barreled good news further fueled economists' optimistic predictions that 1985 will turn in a better performance than many had expected just a short time ago.

That optimism was fueled by evidence that the economy has rebounded from a sharp slowdown in the late summer and early fall.

Today's report put GNP growth in the final three months of 1984 at an annual rate of 3.9 percent. This was a strong upward revision from last month's preliminary estimate of a 2.8 percent growth rate.

The 3.9 percent growth more than doubled the weak 1.6 percent rate turned in from July through September.

But both quarters turned in lower rates than the breakneck pace the economy maintained through the first half of 1984. In the first quarter, the GNP grew at a rate of 10.1 percent; second quarter growth was 7.1 percent.

When growth slowed so dramatically in the third quarter, some economists worried that the two-year-old recovery was in danger of toppling into a recession.

But today's GNP report, coupled with earlier economic statistics showing a pronounced rebound in November and December, quieted those fears.

"There is a strong process of renewed growth going on in the economy," said Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman-American Express. "What is emerging is a pattern of stronger-than-expected real economic growth and less-than-expected inflation, reminiscent of the performance during much of last year."

The report, which showed growth climbing in the final three months of the year, indicated no signs of a re-emergence of inflation. Prices rose at an annual rate of 2.4 percent in the final three months of the year, down from a rate of 3.9 percent in the third quarter. This inflation index measures not only changes in prices but in the composition of goods being purchased.

The rebound in growth during the fourth quarter was attributed to a large increase in final sales that more than offset a sharp decline in the growth of business inventories.

The decline in inventory investment of $16.4 billion at an annual rate was the largest drop since the final three months of 1982.

Personal consumer spending was also up sharply, rising at an annual rate of 3.9 percent in the final three months of the year, compared to a small 0.7 percent increase turned in during the third quarter. A slump in consumer spending has been blamed in large part for the slowdown last year.

With a report last week that Americans' personal income rose sharply in December, economists expect consumer spending will provide further momentum for the economy.

All the GNP figures are adjusted to remove the effects of inflation from the calculations.

Total GNP, before that adjustment, rose $57.9 billion to a record rate of $3.752 trillion in the fourth quarter of 1984. After adjustment for inflation, the fourth quarter increase would be $15.9 billion, to a rate of $1.661 trillion.

Food prices are no longer news

Inflation as a public enemy finally has been laid to rest. Not by the government statisticians; not by the prognosticators; not by academicians. By a very down-to-earth source: the Associated Press wire service.

There simply is no inflation to track anymore. Inflation, once a mainstay of newspaper front pages, is dead.

The AP is a cooperative of newspapers across the country which supplies news of the world. For 10 years its reporters tracked the hungry monster of rising food prices with the Marketbasket report on grocery costs in selected cities across the nation.

With it, readers could compare the price of eggs in Dallas and Boston, gauging regional cost of living along with the general spiral of food prices. They could determine which among the food choices were the best bargains. As inflation zipped along in the double digits at the turn of the decade, consumers were kept informed of its progress in an area basic to every American household: the breadbasket.

AP's Marketbasket spawned similar reporting in localities, as editors sent newspaper reporters into the grocery stores each month or each quarter to document the rise of prices for their cities. Most of those local surveys have been stopped. AP now says enough is enough, too.

As Reaganomics put a noose around the monster inflation, and squeezed it into submission, the Marketbasket became less and less useful. In the past two years, prices have stabilized, and Americans now think little of inflation and its affects. Month-to-month fluctuations in prices aren't meaningful anymore.

The axiom comes into play: normalcy isn't news. It would be redundant to report each month that prices haven't changed a bit, or maybe declined just a tad. The Marketbasket is one feature we don't mind seeing fall off. Inflation as "non-news" is good news indeed.

Billy Graham

Reader frets over ailment

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have recently had to go into a nursing home because I broke my hip and can no longer take care of myself in my apartment. I find myself wanting more and more to die and go to Heaven, because I feel so useless now. Is it right for me to feel this way? — Mrs. G.T.L.

DEAR MRS. G.T.L.: It certainly is not wrong for us to long for Heaven; Paul declared, "I desire to depart and be with Christ, which is better by far" (Philippians 1:23).

At the same time, it is wrong for us to refuse whatever responsibilities and opportunities God has for us to serve Him here. No, you may not be able to do all the things you once did. But as long as God chooses to keep you on this earth, you are not useless in His sight. The important thing is to be faithful to Him each day. That is why Paul went on to declare, "but it is more necessary for you that I remain in the body. Convinced of this, I know that I will remain" (Philippians 1:24-25).

Ask God to show you ways He can use you right where you are. Some of the most faithful men and women of prayer I know are people who are older or handicapped, and yet God has given them the ministry of prayer. Only eternity will reveal the full results of their faithfulness. Recently, I received a letter from a 97-year-old woman in a nursing home. Her joy in Christ inspired me, and she mentioned that each week she wrote many letters to relatives, missionaries, pastors, and others to encourage them in Christ.

Pray also for those around you. Many of those in nursing homes are lonely and searching for friendship. In addition, many of them will be facing death soon, and yet have never given their lives to Christ.

Poles pull up welcome mat

WASHINGTON — An investigative reporter must expect (though of course he does not) to be widely reviled, especially by authorities with a low tolerance for dissent.

My writings have become so intolerable to some rulers that they cannot bear my presence.

Last year, the Mexican authorities took offense at some columns I wrote about their corrupt ways and introduced legislation barring me from Mexico for life. Now I seem to be even more loathsome to the Polish authorities who have barred me from their unhappy land.

For a while they teetered on the awful brink of admitting me to Poland despite my shortcomings. They first rejected my application for a visa; then a Polish diplomat turned up in my office to assure me that no inhospitality was intended and that I would be welcomed if only I would apply again.

I did so and was rejected again. When I sought an explanation from the Polish Embassy, a less agreeable diplomat made it quite clear that I am as popular in Poland as a polecat at a lawn party.

The best conclusion that I can draw from the conflicting comments of the Polish emissaries is that they don't want me to get together with Solidarity leader Lech Walesa. I have news for the Polish authorities: Through underground contacts, I have concluded the arrangements I wanted to make in person.

I have helped arrange for Hollywood producers Ralph Andrews and Tom Voiss to bring to the screen the gallant story of Lech Walesa. The script will be written by veteran screenwriter Lionel Chetwynd, who can also expect to be barred from Poland hereafter. Incidentally, the Polish patriot won't get a dime for the rights; all royalties will be paid to the Solidarity movement.

Had I been allowed to visit Poland, I would also have sought an interview with the Polish general who rules the country, Wojciech Jaruzelski. Now I must rely instead on intelligence reports.

There is no question that Jaruzelski runs a military dictatorship, maintains concentration camps for political foes and employs all the ugly arts of the police state. As defense minister in the late 1960s he reportedly had a hand in the anti-Semitic purges that drove many of the few remaining Jews out of Poland.

Certainly a free press has no place in his domestic schemes; he has helped liquidate free expression in Poland. Only last month, his riot police assailed demonstrators in Gdansk and Wroclaw; they also blocked Walesa from laying a wreath at a workers' monument.

Yet Jaruzelski is hobbled by vulnerabilities inherited from a bleak history. He is the son of Polish aristocrats who are executed by the Soviets during World War II. Spared, he retreated from Poland with the Red Army and was virtually raised by the Russians.

He marched back into his homeland as the Nazis cleared out. Despite his noble lineage, he rose through the ranks in the Soviet-sponsored Polish regimes. Apparently, he is trusted by the Soviet military but distrusted by the Soviet secret police.

Our own intelligence analysts tend to see Jaruzelski as a man in a tight corner who played along with the Russians rather than risk the fate of his parents — as a leader who now threads his way between the demands of the Kremlin and the needs of the Polish people.

Still, the general — who wears dark glasses because of weak eyes and a back brace because of back problems — remains an enigma to U.S. analysts. They aren't sure whether he's a clever Soviet stooge or a cautious Polish patriot.

He presides, meanwhile, over a society on the edge of ruin, bolstered by the multiplication of debts. He has been obliged to borrow heavily from the West, whose news sleuths he holds at bay.

You should only be killed 5 times

It's time both the Soviet Union and the United States take a new approach to the question of disarmament.

Instead of negotiating the reduction of offensive and defensive nuclear weapons, we should negotiate limits on how many times each superpower may kill a person in the event of an all-out war.

At the moment it is believed that the U.S. and the Soviets have stockpiled enough weapons to destroy each other's citizens 10 times over.

The first step then is to produce an agreement that would reduce the nuclear arsenals in both countries to the point where they could only kill every American and Soviet citizen five times.

Cutting the KR (Kill Ratio) in half won't be easy, but it is possible to persuade the superpowers to agree to it, particularly when it can be argued that you only have to kill a person twice to make your point in an all-out holocaust. With a Kill Ratio of five, both sides would still have a margin of safety in case their missiles malfunction or fail to hit their targets.

The U.S. military will argue that the Soviets may sign a treaty agreeing to kill every American only five times, and then cheat, by stashing away enough weapons to kill them seven times.

The Soviet military could balk at cutting the KR in half on the grounds that while the U.S. might reduce its weapons, they are still at a disadvantage because if we refuse to include West European warheads in the count, each U.S.S.R. citizen could still be killed eight times.

At this point the negotiators in Geneva would have to resort to compromise.

The Americans could address the U.S. military fears by insisting on on-site inspection of both nuclear stockpiles. If it were found that the Soviet weapons on hand had enough power to kill the Americans more than the agreed-upon KR of five, the U.S. could abrogate the treaty and proceed to build new weapons that would kill every Soviet citizen 15 times.

In exchange for on-site inspection, we would include the West European nukes in our KR, and reduce American stockpiles until both the U.S. and West European KR came out to five.

If the Kill Ratio formula is unacceptable there is no reason for the superpowers to leave the bargaining table.

Another solution might be to work out a fair agreement on how many people each side may be permitted to wipe out in the event of a war. Neither country would have to reduce its arsenal, but would be limited to firing only enough missiles to waste 100 million people on the other's territory.

The obvious question is, who would monitor the pact to see that the superpowers did not bag more than their limit? This could be done by the International Red Cross, which would have access to all the stricken areas. If either side went over the 100 million ballpark figure, the other would then be permitted to match them body for body.

With the limits set by the treaty, it would not only be a waste of money for the superpowers to continue the arms race, but there would be an incentive to reduce their nuclear arsenals accordingly.

I have no illusions that either the Kill Ratio reduction proposals or the 100 million limit on casualties can be successfully negotiated overnight.

I'm throwing them on the table as a starting point in the new negotiations. When it comes to serious disarmament talks you have to start somewhere.

Money is the hottest topic in Austin

By REP. LARRY DON SHAW

Although the 69th Legislative Session began Jan. 8 amid the usual festivities, the underlying mood around the Capitol these days is far from festive.

With a serious fiscal crisis as the overriding issue of this session, many lawmakers have already labeled it the session of "doom and gloom."

It has dampened our spirits and made us all aware of tough times ahead in the next few months.

I am sure many of you are aware of the state's dilemma. Comptroller Bullock has predicted a revenue shortfall of over $1 billion just to maintain state services at the current level.

In addition, at the same time that we are faced with a severe budget shortfall for the first time in recent history, we must also deal with the pressing needs and demands of a growing state, demands that are focused on the need for more state expenditures.

This budget crunch, as you may know, is largely due to falling world oil prices, a major source of state income. Every time the two-year price of oil drops by $1 per barrel, the state loses about $40 million in revenue.

Given the continuing decline in oil prices along with recent economic indicators, it is my prediction that Bullock's revenue estimate will fall another $500 million before the end of the session, leaving us $1.5 billion in the red!

Therefore, in order to balance our budget, we will be forced to make cuts that go beyond the fat and into the muscle of state government.

This process is going to be a painful experience for all of us. We may see serious cutbacks across the board in state programs and services that all of us have come to expect as Texans.

Despite this fiscal crunch, rest assured that I am deeply committed to resolving our financial problems with no new taxes.

Furthermore, the Governor and the House leadership have made it quite clear that they do not want to solve our fiscal problems

'Every time the two-year price of oil drops $1 per barrel, the state loses about $40 million.'

through increased taxes either.

In his opening remarks to the 69th Session, Speaker Lewis told lawmakers that "we will do with what we have, or we will do without."

In his state-of-the-state address, Gov. White echoed these sentiments and proposed a lean budget calling for severe belt-tightening without raising taxes.

Although the governor presented a balanced budget to us during his address, I have some serious concerns about his proposals, particularly since his budget plan was prepared before Bullock revised his estimate down another $235 million!

I know that I have not painted a very pretty picture, but I am just giving you the straight facts with no political exaggerations.

The State of Texas is in a serious financial bind and our problems are not going to go away. We have been living with financial surpluses for so long, that it is difficult for us to realize that this is no longer the case.

We are simply going to have to find a way to reduce our spending levels to meet our income levels without jeopardizing essential state programs and services.

The most urgent demands on our budget are from federal court judges. They have ordered us to relieve the overcrowding in our prisons and improve the conditions in our state mental hospitals.

To comply with these orders is going to be very costly, yet we cannot turn our backs on these problems.

While I have no qualms about challenging the federal courts on these issues, I think it would be very risky to do so. As an example, most of us did not want to deal with the controversial equalization issue last summer, but if we had not, it is highly likely that the federal courts would have centralized all the money in Austin and then redistributed it equally to school districts. I don't think any of us want our schools or our prisons or our mental hospitals run by the federal courts.

Gov. White has issued directives to all state boards and commissions to immediately restrict hiring of new employees, restrict equipment purchases and institute cost-saving measures wherever possible.

The House of Representatives is also taking steps to help cut state spending. All Representatives' budgets have been reduced below what we had for the last biennium.

In addition, we have placed a freeze on our budgets for the next two years and new hirings are being restricted.

On a personal level, I have also taken steps to help reduce state expenditures that will affect you. You may have noticed that you can no longer call me toll-free at my district office. I have disconnected this service, which will save the state and taxpayers roughly $5,400 a year.

You have probably also noticed that you have not received a newsletter from me lately. The reason is it costs $5,000 to send one districtwide mailout! I usually send at least two newsletters each session, however, this year I am going to restrict my mailouts to one at the end of the session.

I will be asking you for your cooperation as well as the cooperation of the local media in my district to help keep you informed. I will continue to write Capitol updates throughout the session and send radio programs to local radio stations.

Dear Abby

Some figures aren't what they seem

DEAR ABBY: You told "Flat-Chested," who felt inadequate, to wear a padded bra.

Well, here is one man who would consider it unfortunate were she to take your advice. Why?

Because the flatter the chest, the more passionate the woman.

I'm in my 50s now, and it's not just my opinion. I've talked to a lot of men, and they all said flat-chested women make better lovers.

Please tell flat-chested women not to envy their big-bosomed sisters. Nature has a way of compensating.

LIKES 'EM SMALL

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised you didn't recommend silicone implants to "Flat-Chested."

I spent 39 years hating my body, then I decided to have breast-augmentation surgery. I'm only sorry I waited so long.

LOOKING GREAT

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Flat-Chested in Moline, Ill.": In the days before they had padded bras, I was flat-chested, so I wore "falsies." Then one day my bra came undone and one of my "breasts" fell off!

I hated being flat-chested and longed for larger breasts, then lo and behold, I discovered I had added several inches to my chest. The only trouble was, I had doubled my inches everywhere else! I was no longer flat — I was fat! At last I had the bust I had always wanted, but I wasn't nearly as attractive as I was before I doubled my 110 pounds.

I thought about how I used to hate my flat chest, then I noticed how fashionable and smart-looking the fashion models were. They were all flat-chested — every one of them!

So, dearie, don't waste any more time longing for what you don't have. You may get it some day, and wish you didn't.

If you have two, healthy, cancer-free breasts, thank God, no matter what size. FORMER FLATTIE

Nutri/System's multi-disciplined approach accomplishes what other diet programs fail to do.

Melissa A. Kelly
Special Writer

Bob McBee is the same, but different. That is, the difference is 85 pounds. And he lost those pounds in an amazingly short period of time—90 days. Bob's story, however, is not uncommon. Not since the first Nutri/System Weight Loss Center opened its doors 13 years ago in Jenkintown, PA.

Today Nutri/System is an international network of professionally supervised centers with over 700 centers in North America alone. This growth can be explained by the fact that Nutri/System promises and delivers up to a pound a day weight loss or more without using drugs, injections or strenuous exercise. Dr. Jay Satz, Director of Research and Development at Nutri/System, further explains the program's success: "Our weight loss program is individualized and easy to follow; involves no decision-making; and, very importantly, the exclusive Nu System Cuisine™ is delicious!"

Dr. Satz was absolutely right about Nu System Cuisine™. I sampled an entree, and it was superb! Later, I tried Veal Ragout, Turkey Tetrazzini and Chicken a la King, all delicious. In fact, all the entrees taste as if they were made by the magic hands of a gourmet chef! Talking with some Nutri/System clients, I learned that Nu System Cuisine™ does more than taste delicious. These exclusive foods actually make Nutri/System hunger-free and free from counting calories! Nu System Cuisine™ really takes the work out of dieting. And they're convenient—you can take these entrees anywhere. Preparation is simple and quick. Because the same revolutionary process that captures all the flavor and nutrition of freshly made foods also allows you to enjoy that goodness in just minutes.

Nutri/System also provides professional support from the highly trained Weight Loss Counselors. Clients attend Behavior Education more are not uncommon. As people vary, so do their weight losses. Bob McBee was delighted to talk about his weight loss: "It was great. I lost weight at about a pound a day which kept me going. I wasn't hungry. I wasn't tired. I had the desire to do things I could never do before! I could for the first time in my life, be a thin person and I loved it."

"It was simple. I didn't have to make decisions about what to eat. I didn't have to count calories or weigh food. There's no reason anyone can't follow this program, lose weight and keep it off."

Asked how he keeps his weight level, Bob told me he now knows how to make his body work for him. He eats and drinks like a thin person and two days a week he eats Nu System Cuisine™ meals.

"It's not difficult if you know what to do."

United Parcel Service wins Texas carrier fight

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A 19-year-old battle within the state's trucking industry climaxed Monday with the Texas Railroad Commission voting 2-1 to allow United Parcel Service to pick up and deliver packages inside Texas.

However, an attorney representing UPS said later that he expects the carrier will be taken to court, which could prevent full service in Texas for some time to come.

"I really can't forecast how long it will be" before full service is available, said Austin attorney Joe Kilgore, noting that "anything this significant is likely to be litigated."

Kilgore said if the company is "lucky," UPS may be able to expand service in Texas by Christmas.

Tim Herman, an Austin attorney representing a number of shippers who oppose the UPS application, could not be reached for comment. However, during final arguments earlier this month, he complained that UPS has no mechanism for those receiving shipments to make claims for lost or damaged shipments.

He also predicted that paperwork problems would delay process of claims for up to 10 days, and that UPS plans to open service centers in only 49 cities, leaving many counties without a nearby claim office.

Currently, UPS is restricted to package deliveries in Texas that are shipped from out-of-state. For years, the Railroad Commission argued it lacked jurisdiction over carriers unless they followed regular prescribed delivery routes.

Typically, UPS doesn't go to a city or area unless they have a package to deliver or pick up. Other shippers in Texas have been forced by the commission to offer regular routes.

But recent court decisions forced commissioners to hear the case and finally convinced Commission Chairman Buddy Temple and Commissioner Mack Wallace that they could approve full UPS service.

Both agreed with a hearing examiner's report saying a public need exists for the UPS service, a commission spokesman said.

Voting against the change was Commissioner Jim Nugent, who noted in written dissent that he believes "the Legislature has not granted the Railroad Commission the power to grant authority for a common carrier to operate over irregular routes, without schedules."

Nugent added the court decisions do not imply that the commission has the authority to circumvent those regulations, only that they should hold public hearings on the UPS request.

However, the other two commissioners argued that by ordering the hearings, the court implied that the commission has the authority to grant UPS' request, the commission spokesman noted.

"This is easily the brightest moment in UPS' history in Texas," UPS Southwest Region Manager Joe Dobransky of Dallas said in a statement. "It will only be topped on the day we pick up the first Texas intrastate package."

Dobransky said the company is ready to begin expanded service immediately but must still win commission approval of rates and other minor operating procedures.

Howard breaks even with Wranglers

Hawks knock OC out of league lead

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Odessa Wranglers rode into Big Spring the No. 4 team in the nation, sporting a perfect conference slate and 15-2 overall record. They rode out of Big Spring a fallen team, thanks to a last-second shot by Howard College guard Joe Burney.

Burney's last-shot heroics paced the Hawks to a thrilling 90-89 Western Junior College Athletic Conference overtime win.

Burney's shot came with no time on the clock, just after Odessa had taken a lead on a jumper by DeWayne Scott with 10 seconds remaining in the five-minute overtime period. Ironically, it was the first time heavily-favored Wranglers led all night.

After Scott's jumper from the corner Howard inbounded the ball and called timeout after reaching halfcourt.

With seven seconds left Howard guard Michael Porter inbounded the ball to Isaac Varando who passed the ball back to Porter who was immediately trapped by two Odessa players. Porter somehow got the ball to Burney who put up a double-pump 15-footer while being closely guarded by Scott.

The shot was true to its course, as the ball swished through the nets, the Wranglers dropped out of a first-place tie with Midland College.

Howard coach Ed Sparling called the game one of the great wins in his coaching career. "Hopefully this game will get us over the hump, we showed a lot of patience and read the defense well," said Sparling.

With three minutes remaining in regulation play, it looked like the Hawks were well on their way to victory as they held a 73-64 lead. But Odessa came back with a tight defense and some good offensive rebounding. At the 1:21 mark they cut the lead to 79-75 on a three-point play by Patrick Fairs. They cut the margin to two on a basket by Luther Burkes and sent the game into overtime on a jumper by Tommy Bolden with 17 seconds remaining.

Howard got one last shot by Varando, but his attempt rolled off the rim, setting the stage for the exciting finish.

The Hawks built up a three-point lead several times in the overtime period. Their lead again seemed comfortable at 88-85 with 40 seconds remaining, but the Wranglers had other things on their minds.

Scott, who didn't enter the game until late in the game, got a tip-in to pull Odessa within one with 28 seconds remaining. Odessa got the ball back for Scott's go-ahead jumper when DeWayne Chism blocked Varando's shot at the other end.

The action on the court was fast and aggressive throughout the contest. In fact, in the first half the things got so heated that Howard guard Bruce Kimble and Odessa's Eric Chin were ejected for fighting.

Kimble's departure was a big loss since he was having a hot night, having canned five of five shots from the floor. Chin exited the game scoreless.

In fact, it was fine shooting night for the Hawks as a team. They hit 32 of 54 field goals for 58 percent and sank 26-31 free throws for 84 percent. Odessa sank 55 percent of their shots from the floor.

Howard had a grim welcome for the Wranglers at from the outset of the contest as it dazzled both the vocal crowd and the Odessa defense. Howard hit an unbelievable 13 consecutive shots from the start while bolting to a 26-14 lead with nine minutes left in the half.

Kimble, Porter and post player Martin Jenkins scored most of the early baskets. The Howard lead might have been ever larger if they had not turned the ball over nine times in the opening 11 minutes.

Jenkins had his second impressive outing in as many games, as he led a hot-shooting group of HC post players. Jenkins ended the night with 24 points and six rebounds. He, along with fellow posts Bernard Bell and Walt Reynolds made 15-22 shots.

Porter had his usual steady game by gunning in 7 of 14 from the floor for 19 points. Burney added 19 points while sinking 11-12 free throws.

The Hawks defense did a good job of shutting down OC forwards and leading scorers Mark Benoit and DeWayne Chism who combined for 46 points in an earlier meeting between the two teams. This time they were held to seven points each.

It was the Odessa guards that hurt the Hawks this time. Bolden and 5-10 LaVelle Wilson scored 21 and 23 points respectively.

"This game proved that we can win the close games," said Sparling. "We stayed with our game plan and ran our offense well. This Hawks page 2-B

Hawk Queens come up short

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Odessa College Lady Wranglers won't be looking forward to coming back to Dorothy Garrett Coliseum for a long time. The home of the Howard College Hawk-Queens proved to be a near-fatal stopping spot for the nation's top ranked team.

The Lady Wranglers managed to escape with a narrow 53-47 Western Junior College Athletic Conference win over the upset-minded Queens.

For 40 minutes of the game the Queens, led by the superb play of guard Molly Early, almost put an end to the Lady Wranglers hopes for a perfect season. Odessa College entered the contest with a 21-0 slate. Their closest previous contest was a 20-point victory and no doubt the Lady Wrangler's had the same thing planned for Howard.

The Queens had other ideas however. Using a patient offense and sticky zone, Howard gave Odessa all it wanted. The contest was close all the way with the largest Howard lead being four points. Odessa led by as much as eight in the second half late in the game when the Queens had only four players. The contest was tied 10 times. Early was the catalyst for the Queens as she gunned in a game-high 25 points while collecting five steals. She was one of the big reasons Odessa committed 25 turnovers. Everytime OC tried to pull away she would kill the rally with a set shot from the corner, free throws, or a steal.

The Howard defense can be credited with doing a fine job on Odessa forwards Sharon Blair and Dee Comwell, who were averaging almost 60 points between them. Comwell did the most damage with 18 points before fouling out late in the game. Blair scored a season-low 9 points.

The start was a terrible one for the Lady Wranglers as they went the first two-and-a-half minutes with getting off a shot. Thanks mainly to turnovers and steals by Early and Lorri French. It took OC Queens page 2-B

San Francisco pays tribute to World Champion 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Taxicabs topped with giant San Francisco 49er helmets pulled the triumphant Super Bowl XIX champions in a victory parade that drew over 500,000 admiring fans.

"This is wonderful," shouted running back Wendell Tyler, who starred in Sunday's 38-16 rout of the Miami Dolphins. "It makes you feel loved."

The 49er faithful crowded the sidewalks and some perched from window sills and balconies Monday to catch a glimpse of the Super Bowl victors and the game's most valuable player, quarterback Joe Montana.

But Montana and nine other players skipped the parade to fly to Hawaii for next week's Pro Bowl.

"I wish we could stay," Montana said before departing. "There wasn't a whole lot left up to us." But Tyler, wide receivers Dwight Clark and Freddie Solomon and tight end Russ Francis were among the 30 players who did show up to wave to the fans, along with head coach Bill Walsh and team owner Edward J. DeBartolo Jr.

The procession wound slowly along the city's main thoroughfare, Market Street, from the financial district to within a few blocks of City Hall.

There were 13 arrests, including a man booked for investigation of attempted murder in the stabbing of four people in front of City Hall.

Joseph Armstrong, 46, was arrested after he allegedly stabbed a man whom he thought was wearing his stolen 49ers hat. He then stabbed three other men who intervened, said Sgt. Larry Littlejohn.

David Montez, 34; Richard Padilla, 21; Manuel Zamora, 19; and Albert Rualcoba, 20, were each taken to San Francisco General Hospital and treated for stab wounds. Hospital officials said the injuries were not serious.

Lady Steers stall futile in 4-5A loss to Bobcats

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

The San Angelo Central Bobcats fought off a pesky Lady Steers' spread offense to claim a 37-23 District 4-5A basketball victory in the Steer Gymnasium Monday night.

The Lady Steers, now 3-6 in district play, never led in the game; but kept the Bobcats, 6-3, from taking a substantial lead until late in the 4th quarter.

Central's star player, Shawn Sweeten, scored only 10 points, hitting three field goals and four free throws. Sweeten also hauled down 10 rebounds to lead all players. But it was San Angelo guard Annie Stobaugh's eight points in the final period that helped pull the 'Cats away.

Leading the way for the Lady Steers were senior Trel Clemons and junior Monique Jones, who had eight and nine points, respectively. Jones hit five crucial free throws in the first half to keep Big Spring in the game. The 'Cats led by five points at halftime 16-11 in the unusually low-scoring contest.

The key factor in the game was Big Spring's slow down offense which threw off the fast-breaking style of San Angelo. Big Spring Coach Carol Niemeyer said she was more than pleased with her team's performance last night and use of the spread offense.

"Our mental attitude toward the slow down offense is very good," Coach Niemeyer said. "The players feel more secure with it and we have been successful with it."

"I think it (slow down offense) is for anyone that out matches you shot for shot. We were not able to put ourselves at the free throw line in the third and fourth quarters. San Angelo got into the bonus situation in the third quarter and that hurt us."

The Bobcats, who trounced the Lady Steers by over 40 points in their last encounter in San Angelo, found the going tough in the early going. The 'Cats could only manage a slim 7-6 first-quarter lead, thanks to five points by Sweeten.

The Lady Steers hit on four free throws by Clemons and Jones and one field goal by Teresa Pruitt in the first period.

Not surprisingly, Big Spring connected on more free throws than field goals in the contest, hitting 11 free throws and six field goals.

The Lady Steers tied up the game 9-9 on two free throws by Jones with 4:25 left in the second period. However, San Angelo came back strong to take a 16-11 halftime lead.

Coach Niemeyer opted to go a stall offense with 2 minutes left in the half hoping the Bobcats would foul.

"I wanted a low-scoring game," she said. "They (Bobcats) are naturally a fast break team."

Big Spring continued its slow down tactics into the second half and the tempo of the game remained the same. The Bobcats held on to their lead by scoring six points in the third period to lead 23-17.

The Lady Steers remained close until the final period when Stobaugh hit on four field goals which ultimately sank Big Spring.

BIG SPRING (23) — Trel Clemons 4-2-8; Sheri Myrick 0-1-2; Monique Jones 7-9-9; Teresa Pruitt 0-3-4. TOTALS — 11-4-23. Halftime score — 17-23.
SAN ANGELO (27) — Annie Stobaugh 6-4-4; Anita Allgood 4-1-6; Susan Rowland 0-1-2; Nancy Strasser 5-1-8; Shawn Sweeten 4-3-10; Jody Filippot 1-1-3. TOTALS — 15-11-37. Halftime score — 23-17.

Nicole Hamilton and Lisa Davis combined for 35 points as the Central Junior varsity ran by the Lady Steers JV squad 49-41.

Pacing the Lady Steers was Sheila Chatman with 16 points and Yolanda Green with 11. The JV dropped to 5-4 in District 4-5A competition with the loss.

JV Coach Elaine Stone said the team played good defense throughout the game.

"Amanda (Solis) played a good game defensively for us," Stone said. "The whole team executed well on defense. The kids did well but they were so tired. We played the same ones the whole game and they were low on intensity."

Big Spring trailed 29-21 at halftime but closed the gap to 35-31 in the third quarter before running out of steam in the final period.

BIG SPRING JV (41) — Sheila Chatman 2-7-16; Melinda Berkley 2-3-4; Amanda Solis 3-2-7; Yolanda Green 3-4-11; Katrina Thompson 1-1-3. TOTALS — 11-15-41. Halftime score — 21-29.

seven minutes to score their first basket but Howard's lead was only 5-2.

The remainder of the half was nip-and-tuck as the lead changed hands several times. Howard took a 25-23 halftime lead when Allison Dickson scored two consecutive baskets. She had a good outing with 11 points and 11 rebounds.

Howard started out cold in the second half as they went scoreless the first two-and-a-half minutes of the stanza. Early's three point play narrowed the Odessa lead to 29-28. From then on, the contest was a constant struggle with Odessa never being able to make a run to ice the game. The Lady Wranglers took a 44-39 lead with 5:10 remaining on Blair's first field goal of the game. HC came right back on a baskets by Early and Allison Dickson and tied the contest at 45-45 on a jumper by Stacy Eitner with 2:30 left.

Allison Dickson then fouled out making her the second Queen behind French. With 50 second left, twin sister Diane, fouled out leaving only four players and trailing 49-45. Odessa then sank six consecutive free throws to ice the contest.

The loss drops Howard's conference slate to 2-3 and 16-6 overall.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Russ McEwen

YMCA Volunteer of the Year

Russ McEwen was recently honored by the YMCA as its Volunteer of the Year. In 1980, when the Y's girls' gym team was without a coach, Russ volunteered to fill in. That was 4 1/2 years ago and he's still coaching, spending an average of 20 hours a week in the evenings and on weekends. Our Y gym team regularly participates in meets all over Texas, recently winning first place in competition for Age 8 & Under, and has placed as high as 3rd in state meets. Since he took over the gym team, the enrollment has grown from 15 girls to 150 girls, and he's now developing a boys' team. He has served on the Y's board for six years. Russ has been a City Councilman for four years. "I decided to run because there were some things I wanted to do for Big Spring. Of course, I haven't done everything I'd hoped to, but I think if you reach your goals too easily, perhaps you have not set them high enough." Russ thinks Big Spring is the best place in West Texas to live. He believes that "more and more people are speaking out about the positive things we have in Big Spring." Russ and wife Laura have three children, Torbin, 14; Kisa, 11, and Drew, 9, both involved in Y gymnastics. The family attends First Methodist Church. In the past Russ, an agent for Parks Agency, Inc., has been active in various civic activities, but for now the city council and gymnastics coaching have top priority.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JAN. 23, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning brings you the greatest amount of opportunities to forge ahead toward the aims which most intrigue you, but then the afternoon and evening find changes necessary.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look to good pals in the morning for ideas that will help you to advance in your career, then later complete dull routines.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get outside ventures built up even if it means investing a little more money. Not a good day to try to gain personal goals.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is best time to extend your enterprises and later avoid anything that can spoil your good name.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Seek for a clever way to improve your interests and tonight steer clear of one who is unpredictable.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A partner may comprehend some point you come up with and will help you to put it across to a bigwig.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put those new ideas to work and you can handle a co-worker much better, then later be charming.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Morning is fine for working on your finest talent, and be certain to handle any work ahead of you conscientiously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get your abode running smoothly in the morning, but later don't take on any more expense than you can easily afford.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It is wise to get important matters attended to in the morning, and then give more attention to home and family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) In the morning, you know how to make better use of assets and thereby gain more, but later use tact with everyone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be on the alert to gain some cherished wish but don't make changes where money affairs are concerned or you get into trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find a better method of gaining your personal aims and later don't use forceful methods with others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of expressing self very well, and should be encouraged in this since this will be the secret to the success in life. Send to good schools and upon reaching adulthood your progeny will deal very effectively with others and be very popular though not quite so loquacious and will accomplish a great deal.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
