Late news Stacy muddled

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Directors of the chief opponent to the proposed Stacy Dam reservoir in West Texas locked themselves behind closed doors Thursday morning in a meeting that could help decide the fate of the project.
The Lower Colorado River Authority's directors, in a closed session, were meeting with their attorneys to discuss a possible compromise on water rights with the project's sponsor, the Colorado River Municipal Water District of Big Spring.
Discussions on the Stacy project before the river authority cap several days of meetings between officials of both sides to see whether an agreement can be reached whereby the Lower Colorado River Authority's board of directors would withdraw their opposition to the project.

Oilmen fighting $900 fee

Staff and wire reports

Wade Choate of the Choate Co., an oil and gas leasing company in Big Spring, said he and a number of independent oil producers in this area are confused by the proposal of an 800 percent increase in the fee for oil and gas drilling permits.

Under Gov. Mark White's proposal, a drilling fee would go from $100 to $900. The money would be forwarded to the Railroad Commission of Texas, Choate said.

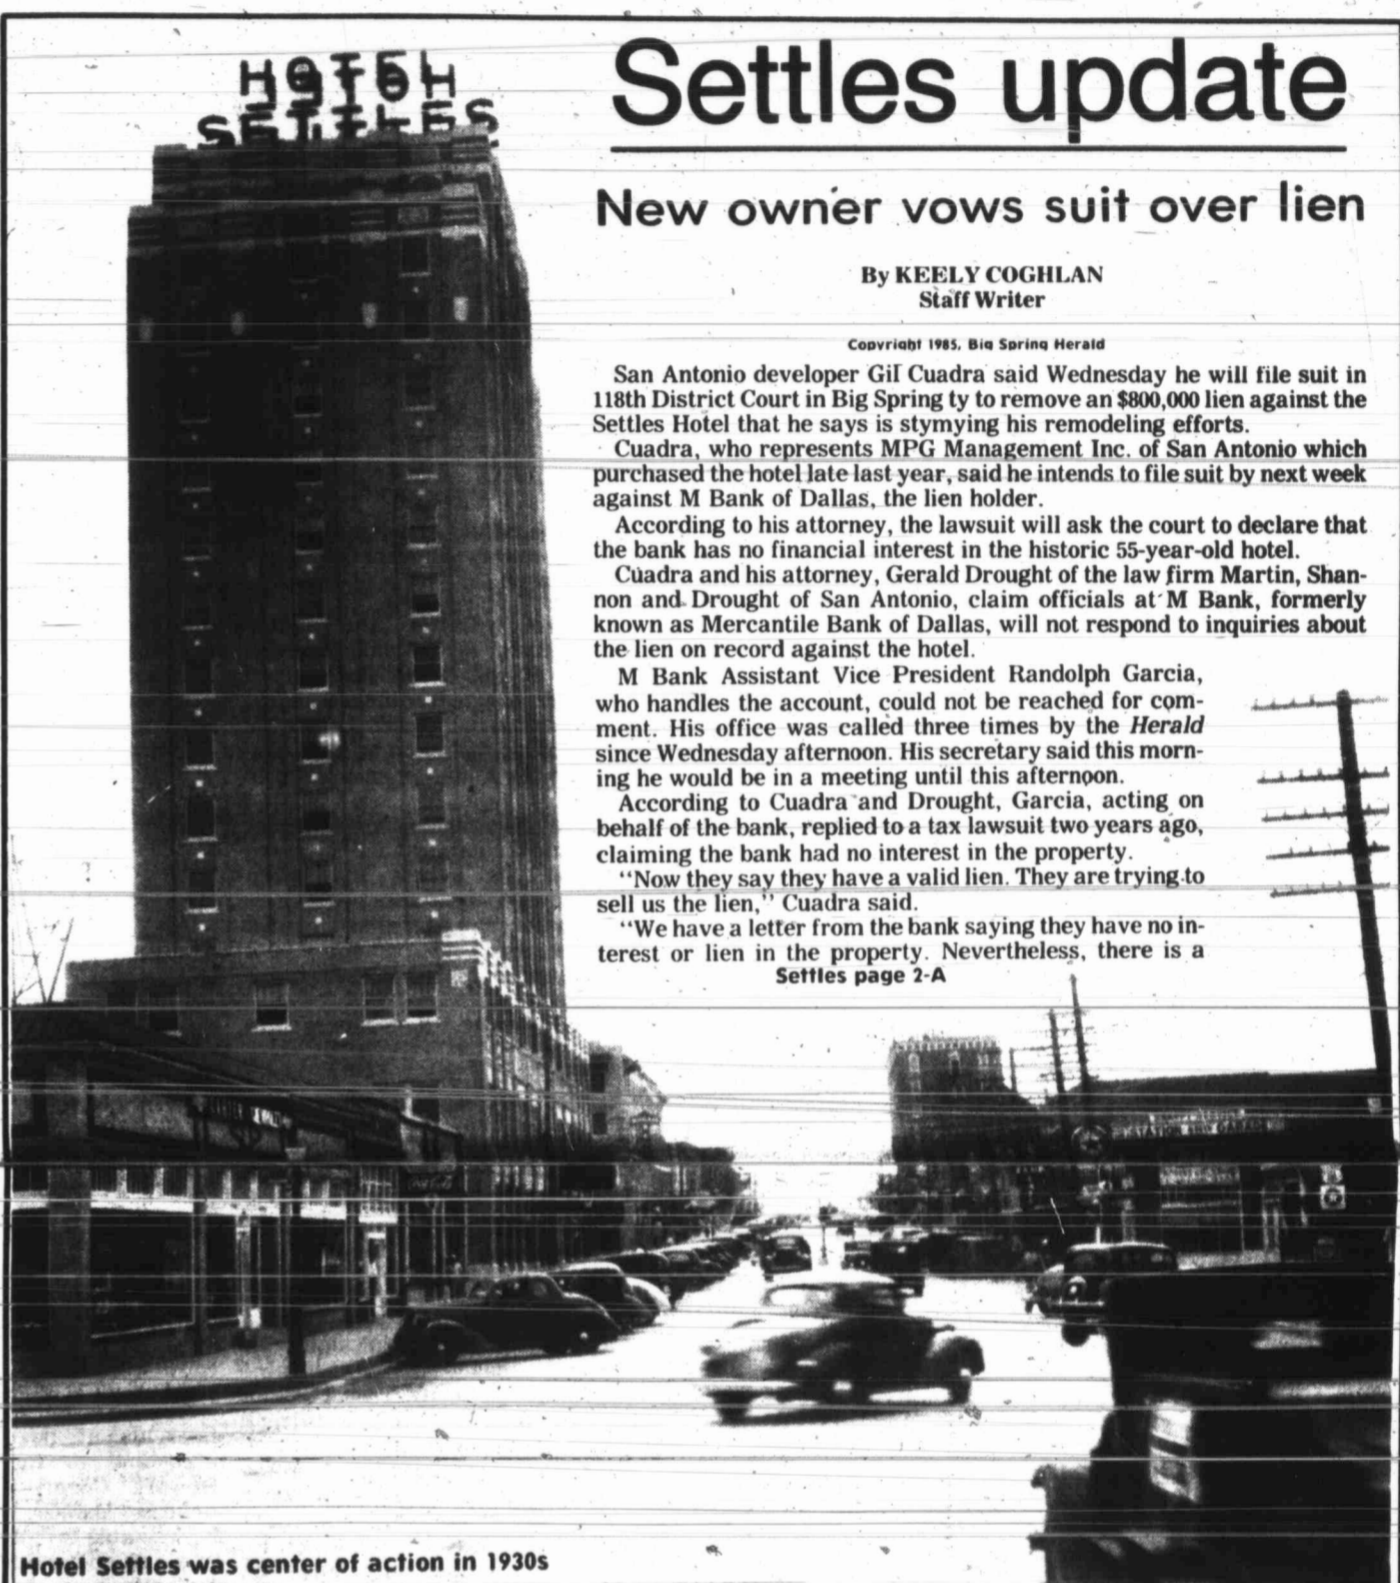

"That's exorbitant," Choate said. "Producers are taking the brunt again." Choate has talked to several independent producers who are upset with the proposal. "It's going to hurt," he said.

Choate said he is puzzled because, "The Railroad Commission didn't ask for the fee. Why is the governor asking for it? Where is the money going?"

Charles Wash of the Forsan Oil Co. agrees, saying, "The governor seized on a fee that had a definite purpose to help balance his budget. The first $100 permit was merely a fund for the state to go in and plug abandoned wells."

Wash said he was upset that the proposed permit fee hike comes "at the very time the oil industry is in a decline anyway. It's not very realistic."

According to state officials, the permit boost to Drillers page 2-A

Settles update

New owner vows suit over lien

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra said Wednesday he will file suit in 118th District Court in Big Spring to remove an $800,000 lien against the Settles Hotel that he says is stymying his remodeling efforts.

Cuadra, who represents MPG Management Inc. of San Antonio which purchased the hotel late last year, said he intends to file suit by next week against M Bank of Dallas, the lien holder.

According to his attorney, the lawsuit will ask the court to declare that the bank has no financial interest in the historic 55-year-old hotel.

Cuadra and his attorney, Gerald Drought of the law firm Martin, Shannon and Drought of San Antonio, claim officials at M Bank, formerly known as Mercantile Bank of Dallas, will not respond to inquiries about the lien on record against the hotel.

M Bank Assistant Vice President Randolph Garcia, who handles the account, could not be reached for comment. His office was called three times by the Herald since Wednesday afternoon. His secretary said this morning he would be in a meeting until this afternoon.

According to Cuadra and Drought, Garcia, acting on behalf of the bank, replied to a tax lawsuit two years ago, claiming the bank had no interest in the property.

"Now they say they have a valid lien. They are trying to sell us the lien," Cuadra said.

"We have a letter from the bank saying they have no interest or lien in the property. Nevertheless, there is a Settles page 2-A

Comanche Peak N-plant delayed again

Staff and wire reports

The problem-riddled Comanche Peak nuclear power plant near Glen Rose will cost an additional half-billion dollars and will begin operating at least six months later than expected following an inspection by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Texas Utilities Co. officials announced that the nuclear power plant will cost an additional $670 million — $4.56 billion instead of $3.89 billion.

The $670 million jump was attributed to unanticipated engineering, construction and licensing costs as well as expense incurred by the delay, the company said.

Revisions to the plant were ordered in the Jan. 9 report from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission which outlined construction defects, lack of quality control and harassment of inspectors at the Glen Rose-area plant.

Critics of the nuclear facility doubt the facility will be able to open at all.

"It's akin to jumping out of the Empire State Building and asking 'How am I doing' at the 40th floor. Inevitably, you're going to hit the pavement," said Tony Roisman, executive director of Trial Lawyers for Public Justice, a Washington, D.C., counsel for a citizen group that opposes the plant.

Comanche Peak nuclear plant under construction in Glen Rose

Wednesday's announcement was not a response to the NRC report, but an update on the plant as part of the company's 10-year resource plan, Texas Utilities spokesman Dick Ramsey said.

"The effort to satisfy the (NRC) concerns is going to take some time," Ramsey said.

Because of "uncertainties in the time required to complete licensing efforts" with NRC, the scheduled mid-1985 operating date will probably be pushed back until at least 1986, the statement said.

RAMSEY SAID THE COMPANY IS UNCERTAIN ABOUT HOW THE NRC REPORT RELEASED THIS MONTH WILL AFFECT LICENSING OF THE PLANT. "WE DON'T KNOW THE SCOPE" OF OUR response to the report, he said.

Roisman, meanwhile, criticized the company for blaming delays and cost hikes on the uncertainties of licensing.

"The fair statement is that the reason the plant is costing as much as it is and is taking so long to build is because they haven't learned how to build it right," he said.

"The cost of doing it right after doing it wrong is substantially greater than the return," he said.

Nuclear power plants in Ohio and Michigan were canceled last year, after construction was essentially complete, because of quality assurance breakdowns that required massive reinspection and rework.

Hooper Sanders, manager of the local Texas Electric Service Co., said "Comanche Peak is essential to meeting our customers' needs for reliable electric service in the future."

Sanders said, "The area we serve is growing rapidly. Despite this cost increase, Comanche Peak is still an economical long-term resource for providing the electricity our customers need."

Sanders said the cost per kilowatt continues to compare favorably to that of other nuclear plants scheduled for completion in the same time period.

Texans don't want Blue Law, poll says

By the Associated Press AUSTIN — Pari-mutuel betting on horse races, a state lottery and Sunday shopping all are favored by the majority of Texans questioned in a new survey, the pollster says. Pollster George Shipley on Wednesday said his survey shows 66 percent support for killing the Blue Law that effectively closes most stores on Sundays. Twenty-six percent of the about 700 people surveyed said they like the law. The rest had no opinion.

A similar survey conducted by the Texas Poll at Texas A&M University in 1984 showed 70 percent of all Texans want the law repealed. The Shipley survey showed that 55 percent of the people questioned favor legalized pari-mutuel betting. Thirty-five percent oppose it, and 10 percent had no opinion. Such polls have a margin of error of about 5 percent, the pollster said.

A state lottery was favored by 57 percent of those surveyed. Twenty-seven percent were against it and 16 percent had no opinion.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has introduced a bill calling for the repeal of the Blue Law. Several major retailers have organized to push for repeal. The poll was paid for by Texans for Blue Law Repeal Inc., a coalition that includes Joske's, Zale Jewelers and Target, Shipley said. Blue Law page 2-A

A cotton picking protest

Volunteer brigade helps out Nicaraguans with crops

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — In the hills above this Central American capital, Shirley Burlingame, 65, is scrubbing clothes by hand in a rough concrete basin outside the barn that is her temporary home.

Several young pigs, some chickens and a duck roam through the dusty barnyard as she paused to explain why she left her home in California to come here as a member of a volunteer brigade of senior citizen coffee pickers.

"Well, I'm from Berkeley," she said, as though naming a city once almost synonymous with social protest somehow explained everything.

"Actually, it's a privilege, an invigorating, rewarding experience," she said. "It's a joy to be doing something worthwhile."

She is one of about 80 senior citizens who have come here from Northern California for three weeks to pick coffee and cotton, two vital export crops which Nicaragua does not have the manpower to harvest.

They have joined more than 600 North Americans and hundreds of other people from Europe and elsewhere who have volunteered to work in the fields without pay.

Most are young activists, liberal if not leftist in outlook. Young or old, they share a common dislike of the Reagan administration's policies in Central America.

Twelve members of the senior citizen brigade have been put to work along with 30 younger Americans on a state-owned coffee plantation about 10 miles south of Managua.

"I came out of a need to do what was most effective," said Mrs. Burlingame. "To do what one person could do to intervene between the Reagan administration and its dastardly deeds."

"It may be only a drop in the bucket," she conceded. "We certainly can't pick as much as real workers, but it's worth doing, if only for the symbolic effect."

Indeed, the harvests are not going well despite the volunteer effort, which includes dozens upon dozens of brigades of Nicaraguan schoolchildren, housewives, small merchants and others.

Dorothy Headley of San Francisco empties a basket of coffee beans she has picked on a farm just south of Managua Wednesday. She is one of about 80 elderly volunteers who has come to Nicaragua for three weeks to pick coffee and cotton during the harvest season.

Private economists predict that, because of a lack of manpower, only about half of the coffee and perhaps 60 percent of the cotton will be harvested this year.

Last year, those two crops brought Nicaragua $263 million in desperately needed hard currency, more than half of the $431 million it earned on the sale of exports.

Several factors account for the manpower shortage.

Seasonal workers from El Salvador no longer come to Nicaragua for the harvests because inflation and undervaluation of the national currency make it not worth their time. Workers are paid at the official exchange rate of 10 cordobas to the U.S. dollar, but inflation has pushed the black market rate to 500 to one.

Many Nicaraguans are reluctant to work the harvests for the same reason, and others have been discouraged by attacks by counter-revolutionary guerrillas against government farms and cooperatives in the northern part of the country.

Additionally, the Nicaraguan military draft has taken thousands of young men out of the fields.

Mrs. Burlingame and the other American volunteers blame their own government for those problems.

Devorah Doris Lester, 68, of Sebastopol, Calif., pointed to a pair of young girls, one about 7 and the other 3, the daughters of Nicaraguan workers.

"It just tears my heart out to think that their big brothers have to go into the army to defend this country against U.S. aggression," she said.

Tax deadline scheduled for Jan. 31

Property owners will face a 7 percent penalty if they fail to pay their 1984 taxes by Jan. 31, according to Dorothy Moore, Howard County tax assessor-collector.

Notices on amount of taxes due were sent out in late 1984, she said.

Sheriff's Log

Deputy transfers 3 to prison

Howard County sheriff's deputy Barney Edens transferred three county inmates Wednesday evening to Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville.

Timothy Taylor, 26, 1706 Young, will serve three years on a revocation of probation charge for burglary.

Kelton Hill, 23, of Arlington, will serve five years on a revocation of probation charge for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Steven Olivias, 59, of Stanton, will serve four years on a revocation of probation charge for sexual abuse of a child.

Big Spring police transferred Neal Duncan Humphrey, 24, 2400 S. Monticello, to county jail for a charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI). He was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Melvin Daratt.

James Henry Bartlett, 44, of San Angelo, was transferred to county jail by Big Spring police for a charge of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Daratt.

Big Spring police transferred Richard Lee Marcon Jr., 19, 206 Austin, to county jail for a charge of burglary. He was released on $15,000 bond set by Judge Lewis Heflin.

Agency gives jail more room

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — The 30-bed Howard County Jail will have room for six more inmates, thanks to Texas Jail Standards Commission action Thursday.

The jail has two large, single cells no officials sought to add three additional beds in each of those cells, said commission planner Jack Crump.

"Each cell has 92.6 square feet. The requirement is for 94 square feet for four individuals," Crump said. "They were 1.4 feet off. We saw no problem with that based on the fact that the day rooms serving those areas are very large."

Settles

The bank will not respond to our inquiry about the lien that shows up on the title to the hotel. Drought said. "Apparently the only way to get their attention is to have the court declare that there is no lien."

Trying to contact bank officials has been "real frustrating," Cuadra said. "It's slowed us down in terms of restoring the building."

About $75,000 in back property taxes also are due on the building, according to Cuadra. He told Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore that after he was able to settle the lien, "we would sit down with the county and the city and the schools and whomever and then we would make a settlement with the taxes," he said.

"We've got blueprints and architects' plans," Cuadra said. "The next step is to apply to HUD (the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development) for a grant. But we can't apply until after the lien is cleared."

Cuadra said he has had the electricity turned on and meters installed in the hotel. According to a municipal clerk, the city has records of meters being installed in the building.

MPG, which is owned by the Cuadra family, also has acquired parking adjacent to the building, Cuadra said. He also is trying to acquire the Greyhound building for additional parking, he said.

"There is a possibility we will buy the building. If we buy the building, that's great; if we don't, that's great," Cuadra said. "We have the necessary parking. We have accomplished our goals."

"It's just getting the lien resolved — it's been real frustrating. You send letters and get no answer," he said.

cloud on the title. The building can't be restored until the title is cleared; it's (the restoration project) in limbo," Drought said.

According to Drought, a letter on file in the tax lawsuit in 118th District Court dated Sept. 23, 1983, and signed by Garcia, states the bank has no interest in the hotel.

However, Deputy District Clerk Glenda Brasel said this morning the court's file on the lawsuit contained no such letter. She said the file contained no correspondence dated later than 1981. Two letters from the Mercantile Bank are included in the file, one asking that the suit be transferred to a Dallas court, she said.

Drought claimed the letter was in response to a citation serving the bank, along with others, with notice that they were being sued for back taxes on the hotel by Howard County taxing entities.

The bank was served because records in the Howard County Clerk's office show the bank had a lien against the property.

"He (Garcia) wrote back, 'In reference to the citation... a search of our records doesn't show us to be the subject lien holder,'" Drought said.

"They (the bank) released the lien. They did have a release on their records, but not on the state's," Drought said.

Asked about the possibility of the lien being transferred to another person or bank, Drought replied, "There is no transfer of a lien on record. If there is a transfer, it had better be on record."

According to Drought, attorneys — some with a firm that was handling the case prior to Drought's involvement — wrote to bank officials twice about the lien and called them several times, but received no response.

Local girl injured in accident

A 16-year-old Big Spring High School student was injured Wednesday morning when her car failed to stop as she was parking in the school parking lot.

According to the report, Miss Phillips told police she stepped on the brake several times but the car didn't stop. The police officer investigating the accident stated he tested the brakes after the accident and they seemed to be working.

The report also stated that police found no skid marks at the scene.

Reagan: Rebel aid a must

WASHINGTON — President Reagan says the United States must continue supporting anti-government rebels in Nicaragua, but that it would be very difficult to provide money openly because that could be "considered acts of war."

Reagan expressed his views Wednesday amid new warnings that Congress will turn down any request for additional secret aid for the rebels battling Nicaragua's Sandinista government.

"The covert aid situation, I suspect, is not a viable proposition," Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at the National Press Club.

Reagan, who gave the first interview of his second term Wednesday to The Associated Press, also revealed that he has proposed Geneva as the setting for a new round of nuclear arms control talks with the Soviet Union, beginning early in March. He said there has been no reply yet from the Kremlin.

"Obviously, if there is some reason that's not satisfactory to them, we'll continue trying to find a date," the president said.

Cutting back on X-rays

BOSTON — Doctors should eliminate routine chest X-rays for newly admitted hospital patients because they cost $1.5 billion a year and rarely reveal undetected disease, according to a study published today.

Doctors reviewed 294 chest X-rays of patients admitted through a Veterans Administration hospital emergency room, and found only 12 patients, or 4 percent, got different treatment because of X-ray results.

Judge opts for jail time

PITTSBURGH — A magistrate who sentenced five men to six months in jail for disrupting church services said he didn't fine them because he knew they were unemployed and couldn't pay.

Among those sentenced Wednesday by Magistrate Ralph Freedman for defiant trespass Oct. 28 at St. John's Lutheran Church in suburban Pittsburgh was Ron Weisen, 42, president of United Steelworkers Local 1397, a leader of the Network To Save the Mon-Ohio Valley.

Pizza ad was in bad taste

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — A Pizza Hut commercial portraying a condemned man eating pizza as a last meal was a "classic case of somebody sending the wrong commercial at the wrong time to the wrong market," an official said.

At least four people have complained about the ad since Joseph Carl Shaw chose a last meal of pizza before dying in the state's electric chair on Jan. 11, Pizza Hut spokesman Mike Jenkins said Wednesday.

An eight-story commercial building on West 43rd Street in New York burns out of control Wednesday night. The spectacular fire went to the equivalent of 10 alarms.

New York ablaze

Faulty oil burner touches off 10-alarm fire

NEW YORK (AP) — A malfunctioning oil burner apparently touched off a 10-alarm fire that turned an eight-story warehouse into a roaring inferno, forcing the evacuation of more than 100 people from a nearby motel, authorities said.

More than 700 firefighters battled the flames to submersion around 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, about three hours after the first trucks arrived at the Hell's Kitchen building housing office furniture and brass bed companies and a silk-screening business, said fire department spokesman John Mulligan.

Officials called it the city's worst single-building blaze in 17 years. No serious injuries were reported.

The gutted warehouse looked like "the coliseum in Rome," Mulligan said. "You can see the sky through the building from the street. The easterly portion of the building is gone. At one point we were afraid the entire building might fall into the street."

Fire Chief John J. O'Rourke said the tentative cause of the fire was an oil-burner malfunction in the building's basement.

More than 100 guests and employees of a nearby motel and residents of a condominium were evacuated, authorities said. None were injured.

Mulligan said firefighters who worked the flames in the deadly combination of "ice and wind," would probably be at the fire scene through the morning cleaning up thick sheets of ice and debris.

Next door to the burning building, an 1894-vintage firehouse "was heavily damaged. It can no longer be occupied," he said.

Another spokesman, Lt. Cornelius Beekman, said the fire was so fierce that firemen could not enter the huge 125-by-150-foot structure and it was not known whether anyone was inside when the fire broke out.

Charged dissident freed

BEIGRADE, Yugoslavia — In a surprise move, the prosecution has withdrawn charges against one of six dissidents on trial here and reduced the charges against three others.

Prosecutor Danilo Nanovic said Wednesday he was abandoning proceedings against Pavlusko Imsirovic "for lack of evidence."

He said he was reducing charges against three other defendants from hostile activity, including counterrevolutionary conspiracy, to "the criminal deed of hostile propaganda." Two other men remain accused of hostile activity and would be tried separately, Nanovic said.

Conviction of hostile activity carries a prison term of 5-15 years. Those guilty of disseminating hostile propaganda face up to 10 years in jail.

Proceedings against the six dissidents began Nov. 5. They were indicted after holding private gatherings that the prosecution said were illegal and subversive.

Soviet order U.S. firm out

MOSCOW — The government has ordered California International Trade, an American medical equipment firm, to close its offices here.

The Soviet press alleged that the company was an unreliable trade partner and may have been aiding U.S. intelligence agencies.

Company vice president Diane Brown, who flew here from the company's Palo Alto, Calif., headquarters to oversee the closure, said Wednesday that Soviet officials had given no explanation for the order.

U.S. diplomats say the company is the first American business asked to leave the Soviet Union.

California International has been doing business with the Soviet Union for 13 years, Ms. Brown said, and was accredited by the Trade Ministry in December 1982.

She said the company had about $10 million annually in sales here, primarily kidney dialysis and heart-lung machines.

The government newspaper reported Nov. 17 that the company's president, Russian-born Rafael Gregorian, was "hostile" to the Soviet Union and tried to make contact with Soviet specialists who are "traditionally of interest to American intelligence organs."

Parliament tabs speaker

TOKYO — Lawmakers of the lower house of Parliament today elected former Justice Minister Michita Sakata as the chamber's 64th speaker.

Sakata, 68, a veteran lawmaker from the ruling Liberal Democratic Party, succeeds Kenji Fukunaga, 74, who resigned his post last week due to poor health.

Sakata has represented a district in southwestern Japan for 16 terms. He has served in three Cabinet posts and also was director general of the Defense Agency.

Shuttle Discovery ready for countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

After a 24-hour cold-weather delay, a mystery countdown advanced toward today's launch of "Battestar Discovery," carrying a satellite to spy on the Soviet Union and a wide area of the globe. The exact launch time remained secret to hamper Soviet efforts to monitor the $300 million satellite sources say is capable of tracking Russian missile tests and eavesdropping on military and diplomatic communications in much of Europe, Asia and Africa. The Defense Department and

National Aeronautics and Space Administration will say only that space shuttle Discovery will lift off on the first military man-in-space mission between 1:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. EST. On Tuesday, the Pentagon relented a bit and said an announcement would be made when the countdown reached nine minutes before the intended liftoff.

PUBLIC NOTICE

In accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. (AT&T Communications) gives notice to all of its Texas customers that a new procedure for long distance billing was made effective on an interim basis on August 6, 1984 in Docket No. 5800.

The procedure referred to is "Rate Period Specific Billing" and it applies to all message telephone service (AT&T Long Distance calls) including non-REACH OUT Texas calls within the State of Texas. This new procedure effects all AT&T Long Distance customers. All intra-LATA long distance calls and all interstate long distance calls are currently billed using this procedure.

Under this procedure, customers are billed a specific charge for long distance calls according to the rate or rates in effect throughout the time of each call. If a call begins in one rate period and extends into a different rate period, the customer will be charged whatever rate is in effect for each portion of the call.

For example, if a customer places a call at 4:58 p.m. on a weekday and talks for ten minutes, the first two minutes of the call would be charged at the full weekday rate which extends from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The remaining eight minutes of the call would be billed at the evening rate which extends from 5:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. and includes a 25% discount. If Rate Period Specific Billing were not in effect, the entire call would have been billed at the higher day rate. Calls which extend from the evening rate period (25% discount) to the night and weekend rate period (40% discount) or from the night and weekend rate period (40% discount) to the day rate period (no discount) would also be billed according to the actual minutes of use during each rate period.

AT&T Communications anticipates a minimal increase of approximately .02% in its revenues or approximately $250,000 annually.

A complete copy of the "Rate Period Specific Billing" tariff is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Stacy project has state's attention

Stacy Dam has become a huge bargaining chip in the negotiations to forge a state water plan. Certainly it isn't the only factor in lining up support among cross-interests, but it was important enough to bring Gov. Mark White in as personal mediator among factions.

West Texas lawmakers have threatened to withhold support of the plan unless the issue of Stacy Dam, planned for construction south of Ballinger, is resolved. The Lower Colorado River Authority, which uses the Colorado River to supply consumers in Central Texas, has strong objection to plans of the Colorado River Municipal Water District here in Big Spring to build Stacy upstream on the Colorado. The river authority says the water district's dam will impair the supply of water to Central Texas.

The governor met with river authority officers to convince them the "big picture" requires compromise on the Stacy issue. The river authority remains unconvinced, but continues to listen to arguments.

Without a reasonable assurance of agreement between different regions of the state — which have traditionally disagreed on water needs — even the modest water plan being proposed is doomed. It will be hard enough to convince voters to adopt it even if leaders are in accord.

Stacy legitimately has every reason to be built. In time, through channels, at great expense, the necessary permission probably will come. But with Stacy a pivotal point in a larger picture, it may come a lot sooner.

U.S., Soviets lack will to negotiate

The meeting at Geneva between George Shultz and Andrei Gromyko ought to be reason for hope. An agreement to negotiate is better than nothing. Coming more than a year after the Soviets broke off discussions, it was by no means a certain outcome.

Likewise, a mutually profitable compromise on the issues that preoccupy the two sides isn't hard to envision. But no one looking at the recent record of arms control can be optimistic.

One reason is that Americans instinctively distrust arms control. There is an atavistic but understandable resistance to the idea that a free society should have any truck with a totalitarian, imperialist one. To negotiate with tyrants is to compromise; to compromise is to surrender. Britain and France tried to compromise with Hitler, and look where it got them.

The difference is that Hitler didn't have the bomb. The nuclear age permanently changed the constraints of war and diplomacy. Until 1945, it was possible for the great powers to fight and for one to emerge, in some meaningful sense, the victor. No more. Were the U.S. and the Soviet Union to go to war, even the "winner" would be utterly destroyed.

In this mutually unsatisfactory reality lies the interest of both sides in arms control — restraints on competition in nuclear arms. An arms control treaty is not a favor one side does for the other. It is something each side does for its own interests. A nation does not make concessions as gestures of good will or fear, but as an exchange for concessions from the enemy. But concessions are easily depicted by opponents of arms control as appeasement.

What concessions will have to be made by either side at Geneva? What the U.S. fears most is a disarming first strike. The Soviets' land-based missiles have worried conservatives for years, since their theoretical accuracy might enable them to destroy all of our land-based missiles on the ground. (The only hitch in this scenario: three-quarters of our warheads are on bombers and submarines.) The way to remove the danger is to reduce the size of the huge Soviet ICBM force.

What the Soviets fear most is also a disarming first strike. Americans may scoff, but the fears are not groundless. In recent years, the U.S. has deployed or planned to deploy an array of new weapons — the Pershing II, the Trident D-5, the MX — that greatly increase the accuracy of our missile force, and thus our ability to destroy the enemy's ICBMs on the ground.

More alarming still, from the Soviet vantage, is President Reagan's plan for ballistic missile defenses, hardly anyone believes they would ever be adequate to protect cities (a 99 percent success rate would let 100 warheads through, each dwarfing the one that incinerated Hiroshima.)

But they might work to defend missile silos — particularly against the remnant of Soviet ICBMs that would be left after an American first strike. That is what makes "Star Wars" so threatening to the Soviets, and to nuclear stability. What looks to Americans like a harmless way of defending ourselves would invite attack.

Secretaries Shultz and Weinberger may quibble about whether the three different topics of the negotiations (strategic offensive weapons, intermediate-range weapons and defensive and space-based weapons) are independent or connected. But they are impossible to separate. Without a ban on defenses, the Soviets won't accept reductions in offensive missiles. Without those reductions, no defense can succeed.

There are plenty of exchanges by which both sides can bolster their security simultaneously. What is needed is the resolve and imagination to do so, which neither side has yet demonstrated. Where there's a way, there's not always a will.

Playing politics in Ethiopia

WASHINGTON — Why did it take two years for the Reagan administration to discover that the famine in Ethiopia was a disaster that transcended its political hostility toward the Marxist regime in Addis Ababa?

Likewise, many bad decisions made in Washington, this one was produced by committee. Here's what happened:

In 1982, officials of the Agency for International Development became convinced, through reports from the field, that a dangerous situation was developing in Ethiopia and the Sudan. An inter-agency task force was set up to deal with the problem — with representatives from the State, Defense and Agriculture departments, together with AID, the CIA and the National Security Council.

By 1983, the committee was meeting at least once a month, and two things had become clear: (1) The situation in Ethiopia was deteriorating, and (2) the NSC man on the committee, Fred Wattering, was one of the main obstacles to swift and massive aid by the United States.

Sources who were present at task force meetings told my associate Lucette Lagnado that Wattering never seemed interested in appeals that the United States should send food to Ethiopia strictly on a humanitarian basis, with no thought of immediate political profit. The NSC man, the sources said, took the line that the Marxist regime in Addis Ababa should either take care of its own mess, get help from its Soviet backers or make strategic concessions before it got U.S. aid. Only a few courageous officials expressed opposition.

The NSC representative repeatedly quoted from intelligence reports that chronicled the Ethiopian government's indifference to the suffering of its starving people. Wattering pointed out that the Marxist regime hadn't even given its own hunger commission the money and vehicles it needed to carry out its assigned mission.

As one task force member recalled, "The NSC pointed to the failures of the Ethiopian government to support the relief effort... and to the fact that the Ethiopians were providing facilities to the Soviets."

None of the sources argued with the NSC man's facts, or with his presentation of the views of an agency whose middle name, after all, is "Security." They simply thought Wattering was being callous in a situation that cried out for humane action.

As it happened, the NSC's coldblooded calculations were wrong about driving a bargain with the Marxist regime. Addis Ababa was even more coldblooded, and refused to make concessions to obtain U.S. aid.

Meanwhile, thousands — perhaps millions — are suffering because of this macho poker game between the NSC and the Ethiopian government. For almost two years the NSC argument carried the day, and the massive U.S. relief effort that could have saved countless lives never occurred.

The NSC finally folded its hand. "They backed down rather reluctantly when it became clear that our efforts to pressure Ethiopia were failing and that millions of people would die," a source said.

By then it was too late for many Ethiopians. Footnote: Wattering, who now works at the CIA, declined to comment.

BANK BLUES: Three out of five bank failures are due to either incompetence or criminal misconduct by the banks' managers or employees. In the case of Penn Square's collapse in 1982, it was a case of mismanagement on an almost incredible scale.

A peek behind the scenes of this financial tragedy, which almost dragged down some of the most prestigious banks in the country, was offered recently in a court document filed against Penn Square's former executives by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. The FDIC had to make the biggest payoff in its history to the bank's insured depositors.

Your bank may offer toasters to depositors — and automatic overdrafts on checking accounts at usurious interest rates. But Penn Square's friendly officers OK'd several overdrafts of more than $1 million, including one of $20 million. Many of these overdrafts were — if you can believe it — to borrowers whose earlier loans were delinquent.

This bank-approved check kiting might have had a happy ending if the loans had been reasonably sound in the first place. They weren't. According to the FDIC court document, an "excessive portion" of the bank's total loans went to a handful of energy customers — at a time when the world oil glut had sent oil prices plummeting.

In 1980, Penn Square's overdrafts totaled $12.5 million. In 1981, they had gone up 450 percent to $56.4 million. By the end of May 1982, the bank's overdrafts totaled $65.9 million. In July, Penn Square collapsed.

Passing the tax burden to the poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The share of all taxes paid by lower-income Americans has risen over the past two decades, due mainly to increasing Social Security taxes and a decline in corporate levies, a study concluded Wednesday.

Research by economist Joseph A. Pechman of the private Brookings Institution here found that the share paid by the wealthiest 10 percent of taxpayers has declined since 1965.

And while taxes have done little to shift income among various levels of society, Pechman wrote in a book entitled, "Who Paid the Taxes, 1966-85," such government payments as Social Security and food stamps have "a major equalizing effect on the distribution of income."

Those payments have offset some of the redistribution of wealth that otherwise would have occurred under the tax system, he said.

Pechman also found that a dollar of wages is likely to be taxed at a higher rate this year than a dollar of investment income because of long-term reductions in corporate income taxes and a reduced role for local property taxes.

But his key finding was that the American tax system — federal, state and local — has become less progressive since 1966. The federal income tax is generally known as progressive — meaning that it is based on ability to pay and that taxes claim a larger share of each dollar as income increases.

The Social Security tax, by con-

'If these taxes are assumed to be shifted to consumers to a considerable degree, the very rich pay lower effective rates than the average family.'

Joseph A. Pechman

trast, is regressive — the flat rate of 7.05 percent this year applies to the first $39,600 earned by every covered worker.

Using what he called the most progressive set of assumptions, Pechman found that over the last two decades, the total tax burden increased on the lowest one-fifth of taxpayers, remained steady on the next-lowest group and rose slightly for everyone else except the top 10 percent, whose tax share declined.

At the bottom income level, a family paid 16.8 percent in taxes in 1966 and will pay 21.9 percent this year, Pechman said. At the top, the average rate was 30.1 percent in 1966 and 25.3 percent this year.

Under the least progressive of eight sets of assumptions, Pechman concluded, the average effective rate for the lowest earners rose from 27.5 percent in 1966 to 28.2 percent in 1985. At the highest income level, the effective rate fell from 25.9 percent to 23.3 percent.

The main reason for the growing low-income burden has been the steady increase in taxes to finance

Social Security and unemployment compensation, Pechman said.

Individual federal income taxes at lower earning levels also went up because adjustments in the personal exemption and standard deduction failed to keep pace with inflation, he said. Those increases outweighed reductions in property and corporate income taxes, which are assumed to be passed on at least partially to consumers.

At high-income levels, the overall tax burden has declined because of the reduction in federal income-tax rates enacted in 1981 and the continuing drop in the share of taxes contributed by corporations, the economist said.

A key factor in Pechman's study is assumptions made about who ultimately pays taxes that are levied on corporations — principally taxes on income and property.

Pechman's personal view is that those taxes are paid entirely by investors. Another view, perhaps more widely accepted, is that in the end, corporate taxes are shared by consumers, in the form of higher prices; by employees, as smaller wage increases; and by investors, as lower dividends.

Assuming Pechman's view is correct, rich people — who get most of the corporate dividends — pay an effective tax rate that is considerably larger than paid by the average family. On the other hand, he said, "If these taxes are assumed to be shifted to consumers to a considerable degree, the very rich pay lower effective rates than the average family."

Las creencias del machismo

Por LUIS RIOS
Escritor del Herald

Si Estudiamos Don Juan Tenorio y la cancion de Juan Charasquiado miramos dos formas del machismo o del hombre muy macho.

Los mexicanos siempre han sido encantados con ser macho. Los americanos en reciente anos tambien han comenzado a usar la palabra frecuentemente.

Pero en realidad, que es en hombre encantado con ser macho. Macho es mucho mas que una palabra que se oye en la television. Al mismo es algo feo y algo bonito. Pero es algo todo mexicano.

Don Juan Tenorio era un hombre bueno; un hombre perdido en el amor y la vida. Pero era caballero y un hombre que se miraba ser respetable y decente. Sobre todo el hombre era valiente y creia en su Dios.

Pero en Juan Charasquiado miramos un hombre totalmente diferente. La cancion por Victor Cordero describe un rancho que era valiente, parandero y jugador.

Asi de mexicanos pensamos que nosotros somos. De valiente no nos dejamos de nadie; somos paranderos porque estamos encantados de la vida; y de jugadores pensamos que somos reyes de la suerte con las barajas y con mas ganas — las mujeres.

Los corridos y novelas mexicanas que utilizan el machismo han clasificado al mexicano en in manera inexacta.

Si, los dos hombres eran arriesgados en el amor. Y por que? Nomás porque eran hombres? Yo creo que eran asi porque para ellos de las mujeres les faltaban.

Pero hace mucho tiempo desde que esos corridos fueron escritos. Sobre todo, ha cambiado el pensamiento de la mujer. La mujer no muy facil entiende lo que es el machismo.

Ya pasaron los dias cuando la mujer entendia porque el hombre era lo que era. Pero entre los anos la mujer se ha hecho mas rebelde.

En muchas maneras ya le gano al hombre. En vez del hombre hacer lo que quiere, ya es la mujer.

Hay si quiera como han cambiado los tiempos!

Mothball abuse causes problems

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please discuss excessive use of mothballs, especially by the elderly? We had a case in the family. The person had lost the sense of smell earlier and was using mothballs to the extent that all food not sealed in jars or cans took on the odor and taste, even food stored in the freezer. She became disoriented and confused, finally to the extent that she had to be moved to a home. I felt sure that most of her problem was directly attributable to the abuse of mothballs.

The most common ingredient in moth balls is paradichlorobenzene, which can be toxic if ingested. Naphthalene and camphor are other moth repellents. All should be treated with proper respect and kept out of the reach of children. As to inhaling fumes, I am sure that inhalation of large concentrations would be harmful, but you would almost have to make a deliberate attempt to do so in order to obtain a sufficient toxic concentration in the body. Nevertheless, I can envision a scenario in which this elderly relative might have really overdone things, as in the bedroom, where constant inhalation might have resulted in disorientation, even heart trouble (another part of your letter). Usually, lung symptoms would appear, as coughing from respiratory tract irritation. Thank you for your letter. I hope it is a warning to all not to go overboard with products that have their rightful place within reasonable use, but which might be potentially harmful. Your elderly relative's loss of smell, of course, compounded the danger for her.

Cat in tree starts trouble below

DEAR ABBY: I am a 60-year-old grandmother who lives alone and suffers from high blood pressure. Last week I noticed a strange woman in my backyard, so I went out to see what she was doing there. Well, it seems she lives directly behind me. She said her cat ran out of the house, into my backyard, and climbed to the top of my tallest pine tree. We both tried to coax her down, but the poor thing was too frightened to move. I won't bore you with the details, but that poor cat was up in my tree crying piteously for three days! It turned bitter cold, so I finally telephoned this neighbor and said,

"You must get your cat out of my tree before she freezes or starves to death. Please call a tree man or somebody!"

She said, "You call one; I can't afford it!"

Abby, she lives in a nice house and drives an expensive car, and this is a very affluent neighborhood. So I said, "If you can't afford a pet, you shouldn't have one," whereupon she hung up in my face.

The next morning, the cat somehow managed to scamper down and run home. I later learned that this neighbor telephoned my son's ex-wife and said, "How in the world did you ever stand that dreadful mother-in-law of yours?" (My little grandchild let the cat out of the bag — no pun intended.)

This woman invaded my property, shattered my nerves, then badmouthed me to my ex-daughter-in-law. What do you think of her behavior?

OUTRAGED IN GEORGIA

DEAR OUTRAGED: She was rude, inconsiderate and catty (no pun intended). It's said, "Tall fences make good neighbors." Get one.

Shaw wins top subcommittee spot

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Speaker Gib Lewis on Wednesday revealed his frontline defense against another tax increase, the members of the Texas House's 27 budget and oversight subcommittees.

Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, won a spot on the subcommittee of the House Science and Technology Committee.

"This represents one of the most important assignments we have in the House this session," Lewis told members when announcing the appointments. He added that "these are the people who will be working to assure that we don't have to pass a tax bill this session."

The subcommittee chairmen were named last week. Lewis said

Wednesday that the vice chairmen and members were selected in cooperation with those earlier-named subcommittee chairmen and the chairmen of the full committees that they work under.

The subcommittees are the first step in the budget-writing process in the House. They hear testimony on budget requests from state agencies in their particular areas of interest and prepare recommendations for the House Appropriations Committee. That committee writes a proposed budget bill, which the House adopts late in the session after debate and amendments.

The Senate adopts its own budget bill and the differences in the two bills are worked out in a conference committee.

Budget matters are considered crucial this session because Comptroller Bob Bullock is predicting that revenues for the next two years will not cover even current levels of agency spending.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw

College roundup

Syracuse nips St. John's

By The Associated Press
So much for Syracuse, it's on to Georgetown for the St. John's basketball team.

"I think people who saw this game got their money's worth five times," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca after his third-ranked team beat No. 11 Syracuse 82-80 in overtime Wednesday night and set the stage for Saturday's long-awaited summit meeting with top-ranked Georgetown.

A sold-out crowd of 19,591 at Madison Square Garden in New York saw Chris Mullin and Walter Berry carry the Redmen in a second-half rally and offset the shooting of Dwayne "Pearl" Washington.

They also saw Mullin, already the leading scorer in St. John's history, surpass the 2,000-point mark with 29 points as the Redmen improved their record to 14-1, 6-0 in the Big East.

Georgetown, meanwhile, rolled to its 29th straight victory over two seasons with a 79-66 win over Connecticut. The Hoyas improved their overall record to 18-0 this year, 7-0 in the Big East.

In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 2 SMU defeated Texas 54-46; No. 4 Memphis State tripped Florida State 74-69; No. 5 Duke was beaten by North Carolina State 89-71; No. 6 Illinois stopped Ohio State 84-66; No. 9 Oklahoma whipped Iowa State 81-74; No. 14 Villanova turned back Providence 65-57 and No. 16 Georgia Tech defeated Clemson 64-59.

Aggies surprise Tech

Ponies roll past Longhorns

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas basketball coach Bob Weltlich watched Olympian Jon Koncak of No. 2-ranked Southern Methodist score 18 points and grab 10 rebounds in a 54-46 SMU victory, and said if Koncak is "7-feet, I'm 6-11."

Koncak appeared four inches taller than Texas center John Brownlee, who is listed at 6-10, and used whatever height advantage he had to block three Brownlee shots Wednesday night in a Southwest Conference contest.

The game was the first for SMU since it moved into second place in college basketball behind Georgetown this week, the highest basketball ranking the Mustangs have ever enjoyed.

In other SWC action, Arkansas defeated Rice 67-56 and Texas A&M surprised Texas Tech, 50-47.

SMU overcame a different zone defense, Texas' slowdown offense and a partisan Texas crowd of 11,499 — the largest here since Weltlich became coach three years ago — to extend its record to 16-1.

"This is the first time this year that we've faced the 1-3-1 defense," said SMU Coach Dave Bliss. "They did a great job of playing inside on Koncak, but he hung in there and got some stallion rebounds."

Bliss also said Texas, which would let the 45-second clock run down before shooting, "did a great job of dictating the tempo. Defensive impatience and those turnovers caused us problems and kept the game close."

SMU had 13 turnovers to 10 for Texas, which led only once at 22-20 with 3:04 left in the first half. Koncak sat out a total of over eight minutes because of fouls but returned with 6:05 remaining in the game and scored three straight field goals to pad SMU's margin to 48-38.

After Wednesday night, SMU leads the SWC with a 6-0 record. Texas, rebuilding after winning only 13 games in two previous seasons, is 10-7 for the season and 3-4 in the conference.

In Fayetteville, Ark., center Joe Kleine scored 27 points and freshman Andrew Lang rejected five shots to lead Arkansas over Rice.

Arkansas never trailed in the game and was tied only once early at 2-2.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for the Razorbacks and raised their SWC record to 4-3. Arkansas is 13-6 overall.

Rice fell to 8-8 overall and 1-5 in conference play.

Gary Lewis made two crucial free throws with 10 seconds left to seal Texas A&M's victory over Tech.

The victory lifted A&M's record to 12-5 for the season, while Tech fell to 11-5. Both teams now have 4-2 records in the SWC.

It was a rough defensive struggle from start to finish, and the final five minutes were a virtual battle of free throws.

Center Jimmie Gilbert put the Aggies to stay when he hit two charity tosses for a 46-44 lead with 1:13 left. Moments later, he hit two more to widen the margin to 48-44 with 50 seconds remaining.

"Jimmie Gilbert's free throws at the end were just tremendous," Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said. "We hit the bottom of the bucket. You just couldn't be in a more crucial situation. It shows an awful lot of what that young man's made of."

Bennett new Tampa Bay coach

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Leeman Bennett, though he tried his hand in business and collected a hefty paycheck from the Atlanta Falcons the past two years, didn't feel very productive away from the National Football League.

He missed coaching. "Every phase of it," Bennett said Wednesday as he stepped back into the game — accepting the challenge of trying to rebuild the Tampa Bay Buccaneers into a championship contender.

Bennett, 46, is no stranger to reconstruction projects. He took an Atlanta team that had won 11 games in three years and produced a 7-7 record in his first season (1977) with the Falcons. Atlanta earned its first playoff berth ever the following year and by 1980 was 12-4 and NFC Western Division champions.

Tampa Bay was 8-24 under John McKay the past two seasons, but Bennett said the Bucs have a fine nucleus of talent that he looks forward to working with.

"This team is so much better than the football team I had when I took over in Atlanta in 1977," Bennett said, adding that the Bucs were one of the league's most improved offensive clubs during a 6-10 finish in 1984.

Bennett, fired after Atlanta compiled a 5-4 record and lost in the first round of the playoffs during the strike-shortened 1982 campaign, replaces McKay who complied a 44-88-1 record in nine years as Bucs' coach.

Tampa Bay owner Hugh Culverhouse, who announced the appointment, said of his new coach: "I'm impressed with him. He's a competitor and will not accept failure," said Culverhouse.

who passed over Wayne Fontes, a long-time McKay assistant who was believed to have the inside track for the job.

In seven seasons with Atlanta, Bennett compiled a 46-41 regular-season record. The Falcons earned playoff berths in 1978, 1980 and 1982 and were 1-3 in post-season play. While Bennett had not yet signed a contract, Culverhouse said the two had a "five-year understanding" that would afford the new coach time to put together the best available staff and install a new system.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early contact advisors and plan the future more intelligently, but tonight be concerned with the cultural side of life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can come to a fine understanding with friends and allies and achieve much today. Make plans for the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Smile more in the outside world and you will gain your aims more readily and the backing you need from bigwigs.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You can make a fine impression on newcomers today so make yourself available to them.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be willing to do what the one you love most desires and make this person happy. Spend some money on a new outfit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you show your appreciation for the alliance of your partners, they will cooperate with you more readily.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to add art pieces, music, etc. to your environment and be happier in it in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) During spare time see those persons you truly like, but be sure to handle business matters well first.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A day when you can have much fun at your home and be happy. Keep active and cheerful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your property and other possessions beautified and made more valuable now. Be active and happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You arise feeling aces and can get much accomplished today and be happy at duties. Later see as many good friends as you can.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability at whatever is connected with beauty, color, music, embellishments, and the like and will also be good at business. A very artistic person here who will constantly be perusing books, going to museums, art classes and be quite popular.
