Gas prices falling in oil slide

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer
The price most consumers must pay at local gasoline pumps has dropped a little in recent weeks, thanks to the falling price of oil. But some distributors are still paying higher prices for their gasoline, Ray McCutcheon of McCutcheon Oil said today.
McCutcheon, who distributes for Texaco, said that although the price per barrel of oil has fallen in recent weeks, distributors must pay higher refining and distributing costs. McCutcheon thinks the falling prices of oil will filter down to distributors in several weeks.

"It takes a while for that to get to us," McCutcheon said. Price increases hit distributors immediately, he added, but decreases usually filter down to distributors "two to three months" later.
McCutcheon said most distributors in this area receive their gasoline by the truckload. McCutcheon said he receives gasoline by the truckload. Normally a truck will bring 7,980 gallons during one delivery. That figures out to about 200 barrels, he said.
Dramatic drops in price per barrel of oil mean little off the price per gallon at the gas pump, McCutcheon said.

"If it drops a dollar per barrel, that means very little off the price per gallon at the tank," he said.
Bill Rigney of the Permian Corp. in Midland, which buys barrels of oil, said West Texas Intermediate crude is selling for $25.45. The $26.50 per barrel less $1.05 for transportation and marketing costs, Rigney said.
A local 7-11 store manager said today that gasoline prices have been falling during the last few weeks. Unleaded gasoline is now $1.06 per gallon, down from about $1.09 about two weeks ago.

Stacy deal on tap

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Lower Colorado River Authority directors scheduled a special meeting for Tuesday afternoon amid speculation that a compromise has been reached over the controversial Stacy Dam reservoir project in West Texas.
"They are, between you and me and whoever is listening on this phone line, going to cut the deal," said a source close to the Texas Legislature who requested anonymity.
Notice of the meeting listed the Stacy Dam project as the only item for consideration.
A compromise, if reached, would come five days after the river authority's board directed its general manager to "negotiate a prompt settlement" on the reservoir impasse with the Big Spring-based Colorado River Municipal Water District.
Owen Ivie, general manager of the West Texas district, was in Austin on Monday to participate in the compromise negotiations with his LCRA counterpart, Eloy Soderberg.
Ivie, who returned to Big Spring late Monday, declined comment on a possible settlement Tuesday, but indicated he had no more Austin trips scheduled this week.
Expected to form much of the compromise is an agreement by the Lower Colorado River Authority to release some of its unused water rights to the West Texas water district. In exchange, the LCRA is expected to receive assurances that the Colorado River Municipal Water District would release water if drought conditions strike Central Texas.

Developers file suit on Settles lien

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra, who purchased the Hotel Settles late last year, filed suit Monday in Howard County claiming a Dallas bank is blocking restoration of the historic hotel with an invalid lien.
According to Cuadra, the $800,000 lien — which the lawsuit claims is invalid — has held up his renovation and development efforts on the 55-year-old hotel. He is asking the 118th District Court to rule that the lien holder — M Bank, formerly known as Mercantile National Bank of Dallas — has no financial interest in the property.
According to the lawsuit, officials with M Bank claim the bank's lien is still in effect against the property and that the bank has offered to sell the lien to Cuadra for $40,000.
Repeated attempts to reach M Bank Assistant Vice President Randolph Garcia, who handles the Settles account, have been unsuccessful. Garcia has been called at least nine times by a reporter with the Herald. Today, his secretary said he would be out of town until Wednesday morning.
In the past, his secretary has said Garcia was in a meeting or out of the office.
In the lawsuit, Cuadra claims the bank issued a release of lien on the hotel on Aug. 6, 1980, little more than four months after the lien was signed April 1, 1980, by former owner William Wortley of Big Spring Associates.
Records in Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray's office show a release on the lien against the Settles signed by Mercantile Vice President Robbie L. Cook on Aug. 6, 1980, and recorded in the office files on Aug. 11, 1980.
Cuadra's suit also alleges that a letter from Garcia, written to the 118th District Court in response to a delinquent tax lawsuit, denies the bank has any financial interest in the hotel.
M Bank had been named as a defendant in two lawsuits in 118th District Court filed by Howard

Proposed bill to affect area school districts

Staff and wire reports
The president of a statewide group opposing forced consolidation of small school districts across the state Tuesday challenged a bill introduced Monday by Sen. Hector Uribe calling for such a move.
Uribe, D-Brownsville, said Monday his bill to consolidate smaller school districts, which would affect three districts in the Crossroads Country, will save money for the state by eliminating the duplication of services.
Uribe said State Comptroller Bob Bullock has estimated that the bill could save Texas over $50 million a year.
Dr. Eli Douglas, superintendent of the Garland Independent School District and president of Texans for Local Control of Public Education, in a press release said, "we certainly like to find out how Senator Uribe figures how this will save the state $50 million. We challenge him to prove any savings to the state."
Borden County School superintendent John McLeroy is a member of the coalition opposing consolidation. However, he was unavailable for comment Tuesday morning.
The bill, which was filed Monday, would require school districts in Texas with fewer than 500 students to consolidate with adjacent districts.
The Crossroads Country area has three school districts with total enrollment of under 500, according to local officials. The school districts include Borden County, Glasscock County, and the Sands school district in Ackerly. The Forsan Independent School District has a total enrollment of 512 students.
"In many cases, particularly in West Texas, this bill would consolidate whole counties that have fewer than 500 students," Douglas said. "I doubt that any cost savings from consolidation could overcome the cost of transporting students from one county to another."
Uribe said figures compiled by the Texas Education Agency for 1983-84 indicate that 432 smaller school districts would be targeted for consolidation under his bill.

Extinct volcano proves hot spot for skiers, astronomers

HONOLULU (AP) — From a sometimes snow-capped, extinct volcano nearly 14,000 feet high on the Island of Hawaii, astronomers peer into the universe with a vision nearly unequalled anywhere on the globe.

However, sightseers, skiers and others are also using the mountain in growing numbers, and their activities sometimes interfere with the scientists' work.

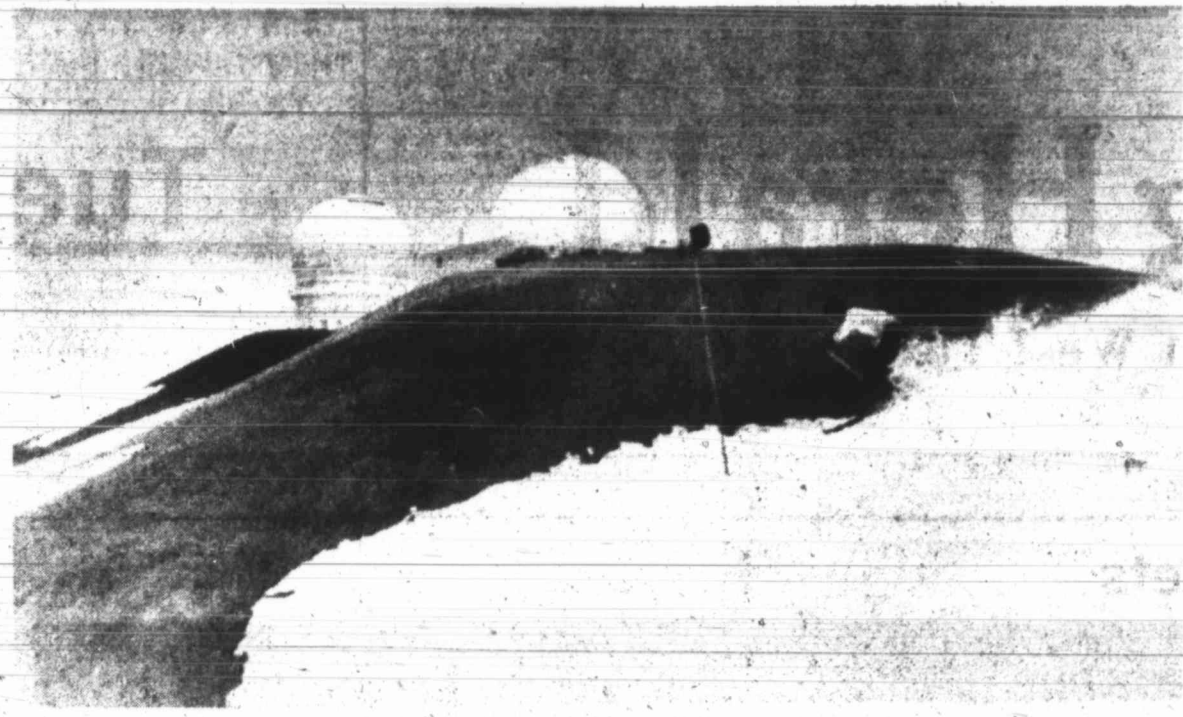

"The message I like to give is that there are conflicts, but we are working well to resolve them," said Harold Masumoto, spokesman for the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

Six telescopes are now arrayed below the summit of Mauna Kea, a 13,796-foot-high extinct volcano. Earlier this month a record $70 million private grant was announced to build a seventh and what may be the world's largest optical telescope. Surveyors have identified six additional suitable sites for telescopes.

The 13,600-foot ridge is considered an ideal site for telescopes because it is unpolluted, unaffected by city lights, virtually free from cloud cover and high enough to minimize atmospheric turbulence and water vapor.

Mauna Kea's periodic snowcap attracts skiers and others seeking recreation, and their cars often fill the dirt access road.

Tom Krieger, head of the Mauna Kea support services office in Hilo, has estimated that as many as 300 vehicles travel to the summit on

A skier enjoys a run atop Mauna Kea Volcano on the Island of Hawaii. Potential conflicts are seen as growing numbers of astronomers, sightseers and other recreationists are drawn to the volcano's summit snow weekends. A recent consultant's study prepared for the state estimated that by the year 2000 as many as 500 vehicles could be making the trip.

Scientists have expressed their concern about the dust generated by vehicles, vehicular lights at night and other problems associated with visitors unprepared for the summit's high altitude and often-increment weather. Dust can clog the telescopes' delicate machinery and reduce the reflectivity of optical surfaces, scientists say. In addition, auto headlights can interfere with the near absolute blackness at the high peak at night, hazarding the clarity of astronomical observations.

"With all the observatories, and the tremendous investment they have up there, naturally they want to protect it," said Dick Tillson, owner of Ski Shop Hawaii, which runs ski tours to the summit when conditions are suitable. "It's meant a lot of communication with a lot of people, but we are working it out."

To get to the summit, a paved road leads from either Hilo or Kona, the island's two major towns, to mid-level facilities on the mountain. The 8.3-mile road from there to the summit is unpaved.

2 report windshields broken

The windshields of two cars were broken Monday, according to police reports.

Bruce Smith of 1001 Birdwell told police the front and rear windows of his 1981 Ford pickup truck were broken between 8:45 p.m. and 9:45 p.m., when the truck was parked at the Dora Roberts Coliseum. Damage was estimated at $400.

Audrey Crosby of 508 N. San Antonio told police someone broke the front windshield and the right and left side windows on his 1977 Chevrolet Monte Carlo at midnight Tuesday. Crosby also received a bruise on the left side of the head from the incident. Also, a grey purse worth $5 was taken from the car. Damage is estimated at $500.

A four-blade, three-speed brass fan with lights was stolen from the bedroom of an apartment at Bent Tree Apartments at No. 1 Courtney, owner Karen Sheppard told police. The burglary occurred at 12:30 p.m. Friday. The fan was valued at $150.

Marianne Brown of 2702 Central told police someone she knows telephoned her between 4 p.m. Thursday and 5 p.m. Monday and threatened to cause serious bodily injury.

Hannah Brumley of 800 W. Fourth told police someone passed a forged check at her business, The Other Place, a bar. The check was returned marked "forgery."

Big Spring police arrested Earl Dwight Ware, 49, of the I-20 Trailer Park, at about 10 p.m. Monday at 300 S. Gregg on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and failure to carry liability insurance.

Area man sues rehab center

An Ector County man who stepped in a hole on an obstacle course at Summerfest activities now is suing the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Alex Szabo claims in the 118th District Court suit that the rehabilitation center was guilty of negligence because the July 4 festival was held on the center's property.

Szabo says he suffered "serious bodily injuries" because of a hole on the obstacle course, where he was participating in activities as a member of the Fiberflex team. Szabo is seeking unspecified damages for unspecified injuries received as well as medical and legal costs.

Larry Bristo, executive director at Dora Roberts, said after conferring with the center's board of directors, that they had no comment about the suit except that "the accident stems from an event at Summerfest and does not relate to quality of treatment provided by the rehab center."

Fuller honored

Big Spring City Councilman Bob Fuller, who tendered his resignation from the council earlier this month, was honored at a special session late Monday morning.

Other council members, Mayor Clyde Angel, City Manager Don Davis and city staff praised Fuller and presented him with two plaques at the meeting.

Fuller, who served two terms on the council, withdrew his announcement that he would run for re-election this April and resigned from the council because he is being transferred out-of-town.

Commissioners study courthouse expansion

Howard County commissioners O.L. Brown and William Crooker, were appointed Monday afternoon by Howard County Judge Milton Kirby to serve on a committee to study the county's courthouse expansion needs.

Kirby suggested last week in an informal meeting held at Alberto's Restaurant between city councilmen and commissioners, that the county and city establish a joint-committee to study plans and ideas for a possible new jail facility.

Both Kirby and Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel agreed to city councilman Russ McEwen's suggestion that the city and county appoint two respective members from their governing bodies as well as one person each from the local business community. During yesterday's regularly scheduled commissioner's court meeting, commissioners unanimously approved a motion made by Crooker to appoint Troy Fraser, vice-president of Fraser Industries, to serve on the committee as the county's choice for a local business consultant.

Fraser told Kirby this morning he accepted the commissioners' offer to serve on the committee. Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel said this morning that he was going to appoint city councilman Harold Hall and McEwen to serve on the committee.

Angel said he had not made up his mind who he would pick from the local business committee to serve on the committee.

State drug charges pending

Charges are still pending against five persons arrested Saturday on suspicion of felony possession of a controlled substance and misdemeanor possession of less than 2 ounces of marijuana, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby.

According to Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner, charges on the five will be filed in state district court instead of in federal court in Lubbock.

The five were arrested Saturday afternoon at 706 Johnson by law enforcement officials participating in an undercover operation involving the Midland Department of Public Safety narcotics division, the Midland office of the Drug Enforcement Agency, a DEA task force from Lubbock and the Big Spring Police Department, according to Turner.

All five were released on $7,500 bail each — $5,000 for the felony possession of a controlled substance, believed to be cocaine, and $2,500 for the misdemeanor marijuana possession. Bond was set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Dual charges — in both federal and state court — are expected to be filed against Ynez Yanez III, 31, of 509 N.W. 11th. The same two possession charges filed against the other five are expected to be filed in state court against Yanez, who is currently serving an eight-year probation sentence for possession of more than 4 ounces of marijuana, according to the 118th District Adult Probation Office.

Yanez has been charged with felony delivery of cocaine in federal court.

The first lawsuit, which has been dismissed, was filed in 1981 and names the bank and Big Spring Associates, who took out the lien on the property, as defendants. In that lawsuit, the bank maintains it has a financial interest in the property and asks for the court's help in recovering the amount of the lien.

In the second lawsuit, filed in late 1982 against the bank and former owners Julius and Georgia Rich, Garcia responded to a court citation with a letter dated Sept. 23, 1983.

The letter reads, in part: "a record search was completed. Mercantile National Bank Dallas does not show to be record lienholder of said subject property in Big Spring, Howard County, Texas."

That suit is still pending, records in the district clerk's office show. Cuadra claims the title to the hotel is "clouded" by the bank's contentions the lien is still in effect and says he has been unable to apply for renovation grants with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In the lawsuit, Cuadra claims he has sustained substantial damage because his "development plans have had to be postponed," his "reputation in the community as a responsible developer has been severely damaged," and because he "is losing income on the property that would be earned if the property could be developed."

Cuadra is seeking an unspecified amount of monetary damages, $150,000 in exemplary damages and $10,000 in attorney's fees.

Tire Co. said "prices are going down a little." Prices for regular at the Gregg Street service center are $1.25 for regular and $1.30 for unleaded. Both are down "about a nickel" from a week ago, he said.

Bordofsky said the gasoline at Big Spring Tire Co. is provided by Fina, a subsidiary of American Petrofina.

Group blasts Cubans

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Granting permanent residency to Cubans who fled to this country in the Mariel boatlift would increase community tension and "ethnic animosity" in southern Florida, says a group which is suing to stop the process.

In the suit filed in U.S. District Court on Monday, the Federation for American Immigration Reform asks for a halt in the residency process begun last month by the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service.

YMCA fire claims 6 lives

READING, Pa. — A pre-dawn fire at the downtown YMCA that forced out more than 100 residents and killed four people was the result of arson, says the city fire marshal.

Several separate fires were set Monday, said Fire Marshal Ralph B. Pennypacker. The blaze severely damaged the first three floors of the six-story building and injured 12 people, none seriously, he said.

Among the dead was 28-year-old firefighter Donald Jacobs, whose body was found with that of a YMCA resident he had been carrying, said Fire Chief Charles W. Schaeffer. No identities were given for the other dead.

Drug counselor reinstated

BISMARCK, N.D. — A woman who lost her state job as a drug counselor because she used peyote in religious ceremonies says the state Personnel Board's order that she be reinstated is "a good beginning."

In its 4-1 decision Monday, the board also directed the state Department of Human Services to give Frances Warner pay retroactive to July 16, when she was suspended.

Mrs. Warner said she did not know when she would return to her job in rural Devil's Lake.

Court: Sex was not rape

SAN FRANCISCO — A state appeals court ruled that a man who had sex with a woman after telling her it would cure her of a fatal disease cannot be prosecuted for rape because the woman "understood the nature of the act."

Citing state law, the 1st District Court of Appeal said in its 2-1 decision Monday that Daniel Boro's "scheme" did not constitute rape despite its "heartless cruelty."

Boro still faces attempted grand theft charges for allegedly asking the woman for $4,500 for the "cure" last March.

With the Andes Mountains in the background, more than 100,000 people gathered at La Hechicera near Merida, Venezuela, Monday, to attend a Mass celebration celebrated by Pope John Paul II.

Papal message

Pope John Paul II blasts drugs, alien ideologies

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Pope John Paul II urged 45,000 cheering Venezuelan high school and college students to resist the temptation to seek refuge from reality in drugs, sex and "alien ideologies."

The pope — making his 25th trip abroad and sixth to Latin America — winds up the Venezuelan portion of his four-nation tour today with a brief trip to the southern industrial town of Ciudad Guayana. He then returns briefly to Caracas before flying to Quito, Ecuador.

Late Monday, the pope addressed about 45,000 youths in a packed stadium in Caracas.

Speaking in Spanish, the pope told the audience not to "succumb to the easy temptation of escape, of evasion, closing oneself in an attitude of egoistic isolation, seeking refuge in alcohol, drugs, sex, in alien ideologies or those who preach hate and violence."

The youths sang, cheered and waved flags in the lighted stadium, decorated with banners and flowers. But not all were sure the papal visit would have a lasting effect in Venezuela, where church officials say 80 of the population is baptized but only 10 percent attend church regularly.

"This could be just another boom, another show," said Tony Fadel, 20, a law student at the Metropolitan University in Caracas. "It's going to take more than a visit by the pope to renew our faith."

In Ciudad Guayana, founded in 1961 and home to an industrial development zone and gold and diamond mining, the pope will celebrate Mass for an expected 500,000 people. He will tour a steel mill and join workers for lunch at the state-owned factory.

The pontiff arrives in Ecuador this evening and stays until Friday, then moves on to Peru and Trinidad-Tobago. Ecuador, an Andean nation of 8.5 million people along the Pacific Coast of South America, recently has been hit by strike violence.

In Venezuela, the pontiff traveled to the oil center of Maracaibo and the Andean southwestern city of Merida on Monday, and he was greeted warmly by hundreds of thousands of people.

The pope's homily themes centered on the traditional Roman Catholic doctrines: Catholic education, strengthened families and condemnation of abortion, sterilization and divorce.

John Paul II also spoke to the clergy on defending the poor within the Church's teachings and told followers not to be swayed from established doctrines.

E. Germans blast church

BERLIN — The East Germans dynamited a church tower 10 yards from the Berlin Wall, a week after demolishing the main church building to give communist-border guards a clearer field of fire.

Witnesses said some stones flew into the Western sector of the city Monday when the red brick tower crumbled. A small group of East Berliners looked on, but no incidents were reported.

The tower, attached to the Church of Reconciliation blown down last week, was built in 1894. The landmark Lutheran church had been sealed since the concrete barrier was built 24 years ago.

The church had suffered heavy damage during World War II, but was restored in the postwar years.

Flooding claims 122 lives

BRASILIA, Brazil — The Civil Defense Bureau says the death toll has risen to 122 in three southeastern states ravaged by rain and floods for a month, and more than 45,000 people have been left homeless.

Torrential downpours and overflowing rivers have buried vast areas of farmland and inundated 193 towns and villages in an area of about 35,000 square miles, roughly the size of the state of Maine, bureau official Alfredo Oliveira said Monday.

In Minas Gerais, where it has not stopped raining since the end of December, 60 people died and 24,261 are homeless, according to the report.

In the neighboring state of Espirito Santo, 49 people died and 8,389 are homeless in 58 municipalities hit by the floods, Oliveira said, and in Rio de Janeiro, 13 people were reported dead and 12,410 homeless in 32 municipalities.

India to ask for arms ban

NEW DELHI, India — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says she will ask the United States to remove its nuclear weapons from his country if other Balkan nations do not agree soon on banning such weapons from the region.

Papandreou, in India to attend a disarmament summit, said Monday he already had informed the U.S. government of his decision.

The Greek government "is fully determined to eliminate nuclear weapons from its territory," Papandreou told a news conference at the end of the one-day meeting. Also attending the summit were the leaders of Argentina, India, Mexico, Sweden and Tanzania.

Meter reader waltzed into inauguration

DENVER (AP) — A man who followed the Marine Band into the White House on Jan. 20 because he wanted to see President Reagan's inauguration was arrested after he was found sitting in the First Family's private dining room, published reports said today.

Robert Latta told aides to Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., on Monday that he had just been released on $1,000 bond after spending eight days in jail, the Rocky Mountain News and The Denver Post reported.

Latta, 45, wandered freely through the White House until he was discovered sitting at the dining room table in the Reagans' second-floor family quarters.

The New York Times identified

Latta as a water meter reader, and a dispatcher for the Denver Water Board, who would not give his name, said today that Latta is employed by the board.

In Washington, D.C., Secret Service spokesman Mike Tarr confirmed today that Latta is facing misdemeanor proceedings on a charge of unlawful entry, but refused to elaborate on the incident. A call to Latta's house early this morning was not answered.

Neither the White House nor the Secret Service announced Latta's intrusion when it occurred.

Latta, who is from Denver, reportedly told Schroeder's aides that he was unable to obtain a ticket to tour the White House where the private swearing in ceremony took place, so despite the heavy security in place for the inauguration he walked in the company of the Marine honor band. He was not wearing a band uniform and carried no musical instrument.

Anthony Tansimore, a staff member in Mrs. Schroeder's Washington office, described Latta as a soft-spoken, middle-aged man who visited the office the Thursday before the inaugural weekend, drank coffee and chatted with staffers for at least two hours until told the office was closing.

"He said he was here on vacation," Tansimore told the News. Latta told office staffers "that he came out here to go to the inauguration. We gave him a list of things to do, including how to visit the White House. However, we failed to tell him you need a ticket."

Tansimore said Monday that Latta's attorney confirmed what happened, the newspaper said.

Tarr said that Latta was arrested after entering the White House grounds through the eastern entrance.

"I am not going to get into how it happened and any more of the particulars," Tarr said today. "This case is pending further judicial action, and these details are more for courtroom testimony than for my comment."

Latta told Tansimore he had been seen twice by a psychiatrist, who had recommended unsuccessfully that Latta be put under observation for 45 days.

Lawyers seek execution stay

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Attorneys for police killer James Raulerson and convicted murderer Larry Johnson pressed efforts to halt their double execution set for Wednesday.

The men won 24-hour stays of execution on Monday, less than 15 hours before they were to die in Florida's electric chair in executions that had been set for today.

There has not been a double execution in Florida since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed states to resume the death penalty in 1976.

The Atlanta-based 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, meeting in Jacksonville, denied Raulerson's appeal but granted a reprieve until 7 a.m. Wednesday because his attorneys asked for extra time to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

New laws will add to cost of business

When a person shows up for work and finds his place of employment closed, it can be tragic. One day he's employed, the family breadwinner, and the next day he's on the street, out of work, afraid of what the future might hold. If unemployment is widespread, the community also loses — in its tax base and reduced purchasing power.

Plants usually close because there are changes in economic conditions. There are winners and losers — that's part of the capitalistic system. If a business can't compete with others, it fails. Management faces a constant battle for survival.

Even though there is sometimes no remedy to plant closures, there are those who seek to legislate against them. Laws requiring employers to notify workers six months in advance of shutdowns and to pay severance for up to a year are sought in several states. Proponents argue social justice requires that firms must be held accountable for the damage they may do to the lives of workers and communities. We don't think so.

Such laws are not the answer. They would do little more than add to the overall cost of doing business, discourage investment and reduce the demand for labor. Plant-closing laws are the very ones that would restrict plant openings.

There are ways, of course, to cushion the blow of unemployment, such as retraining programs for workers. But business firms must maintain the flexibility to compete. Closure laws would just add another costly restriction to this flexibility.

Stars and stripes are up for sale

Now that the selling of the presidential inauguration has proved so successful, can the selling of the presidency be far behind?

The inauguration committee copyrighted the inaugural logo and licensed all rights to souvenir companies as well as corporations who could then advertise they were the "official company" of the presidential inauguration.

Obviously the committee got the idea from the Los Angeles Olympics. Inaugurations cost money, but my fear is that the people who organized the presidential festivities won't stop there. They may soon start selling the rights to the presidency.

"White House Licensing Committee."

"This is the Fruitcake Cereal Company. We'd like to become the official cereal company to the president."

"We're sorry, those rights have already been spoken for. Do you make any other products?"

"We're the largest cupcake manufacturer in America."

"Well, cupcakes haven't been spoken for yet. We can let you have the presidential seal of approval for a million dollars."

"Will the president do our commercials?"

"He can't do that. But we'll give you permission to hang a tasteful cupcake banner behind him in the East Room when he's holding his press conferences."

"We'll take it. Send the contracts to us right away."

"Thank you ... White House Licensing Committee."

"This is the president of the Real Instant Coffee Company. We wish to sign on as the official coffee supplier to the White House."

"What did you have in mind?"

"We want to produce one TV commercial showing Margaret Thatcher drinking our coffee at a state dinner, and expressing her surprise that it was an instant brand and did not come out of a coffee pot."

"I don't see any problem with that, but let me check it out with the White House chef and get back to you."

"White House Licensing Committee."

"This is the Cartilage Sneaker Company. Has anyone put in a bid yet for the official president's running shoes?"

"No, it's still up for grabs."

"Good. All we ask in exchange is that the president and his wife wear our sneakers when they're running for the helicopter to take them to Camp David."

"I don't think we could promise you that. The First Lady has never publicly worn sneakers in her life. But we could get Vice President George Bush to wear them as he's flying off to attend a state funeral."

"We don't want Bush, we want the president and his wife. If you can't deliver, then forget it."

"Sorry about that. White House Licensing Committee."

"This is the Yakamura Film Company. We want to become the official film company to the White House."

"It will cost you."

"We don't care what it costs. But we'd have to be assured that those photographers will only use Yakamura film when they take pictures of the president."

"We can't do that because we have no control over the White House photographers. But what we can do for you is make sure that those photographers using Yakamura film will get the best places up front to shoot from while they're snapping away at the president."

"Put us down for the license."

"Will do ... White House Licensing Committee."

"I'm a lawyer representing the Fourth of July Souvenir Company. The Secret Service visited my client yesterday and informed him he couldn't put the American Flag on his beer mugs any more."

"That's correct. We now hold the copyright on the Stars and Stripes. But for a small royalty your client can have exclusive beer mug rights to the American Flag for the next four years."

Jack Anderson

We're a nation of lawyers

WASHINGTON — This is a nation of laws — a multiplicity of laws, a bewildering confusion of laws, an entangling snarl of laws — which have spawned hordes of lawyers.

The lawyers lie around every bend, subpoenas at the ready, waiting to pounce on harried citizens, who can no longer hope to lead their own lives and mind their own business without legal conflicts.

No case is too distant, no client too remote to daunt America's tenacious lawyers — if the fee is right. They flocked to Bhopal, India, before the last victims of the Union Carbide gas leak had been laid to rest. One of the lawyers, quoted in The Washington Post, said their slogan was "Get Union Carbide!"

Few would disagree that the victims of corporate negligence deserve compensation. Certainly wrongs should be righted, wrongdoers held accountable, grievances aired.

So thank God for our laws — and for the citizens who respect them, the courts that uphold them, the lawyers who sustain them. Without laws, there would be no safety, no standards. Without laws, we would have complete chaos.

Kept within its proper dimensions, therefore, our legal system is our salvation. But lawyers have imposed a maze of legal obstacles, barricades and entanglements upon our society. This has resulted in stagnation — we might call it stagflation — which could end in putrefaction.

U.S. corporations are burdened with many times the legal overhead that their overseas competitors carry. The cost of the massive litigation that the lawyers generate, of course, must be added to the price the consumers pay for products.

America has the world's best doctors, yet they are harassed by malpractice suits beyond what courts anywhere else would countenance. Lawyers have driven some doctors out of medicine and discouraged others from administering to emergency victims for fear of later lawsuits. The rest of the doctors have simply added the high cost of malpractice insurance to their bills.

America is also blessed with the world's most responsible, most objective, least censored press. But mobsters, political extremists and government officials now file libel suits to deter the press from writing about them. Investigative reporters and small newspapers can't afford the frightening cost of fighting these lawsuits.

Across the country, people are suing one another with abandon; the courts are clogged with litigation; lawyers are burdening the populace with legal bills. No one is safe from subpoenas. For example:

• In Maine, according to the New Yorker magazine, neighbors complained to the local police chief that a police officer had intimidated their children and kicked some pets. The officer and his wife sued and won a $52,300 libel verdict.

• A food critic wrote that a Chinese restaurant in New York served too-thick pancakes with its Peking duck. The restaurant owner sued and collected $20,000 in damages.

• I watched a tenant complain bitterly on television that his toilet was broken. His forebears probably cleared the wilderness, but he wasn't willing to fix his own toilet. Instead, he sued the landlord.

• A San Lorenzo Valley, Calif., housewife wrote a letter to the local newspaper complaining about a proposed land development. The developer sued her for $3 million.

This massive, mushrooming litigation has caused horrendous ruptures and dislocations at a flabbergasting cost to the nation. Taken altogether, our legal system is at once the hope, the burden and, perhaps when all is done, the nemesis of our free society.

WHY THE RESCUE? Members of the House Banking Committee, many of whose constituents have suffered from the failures of community banks, have criticized the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for rushing to the rescue of Continental Illinois, the badly managed bank that was once the nation's sixth largest.

The lawmakers wanted to know why the big boys get saved by the government and the little guys are allowed to go under.

I've seen internal memos prepared by federal bank regulators during the Continental Illinois crisis last spring and summer. Here's why they decided this particular bank had to be rescued:

• Domestic and international money markets would have been disrupted by Continental's failure, as investors steered clear of all bank certificates of deposit.

• Other big banks had lent Continental huge sums, and would have suffered severe "withdrawal pains" if Continental had been allowed to go under.

• Hundreds of smaller "downstream" correspondent banks that relied on Continental for check-clearing and other vital services would have been thrown into chaos if the bank had folded.

THREATENING TAXPAYERS: The Internal Revenue Service is about to conduct a comprehensive study of the threats and assaults against its employees, which have increased sharply in recent years.

Between fiscal 1981 and 1983, the average annual number of threats and assaults was 485, of which 55 were serious physical attacks. In the first 11 months of 1984, the number totaled 728, of which 65 were actual serious attacks.

The agency will try to develop a psychological profile of taxpayers who are considered most likely to commit such offenses.

Christ says take him back

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I have been separated three different times, always because he became involved with another woman. Each time in the past, he has vowed he would be faithful to me if I let him return, but each time he broke his vow. Now it has happened again, and he is pleading for me to take him back. Am I a fool to keep forgiving him and letting him return? — Mrs. T.L.K.

DEAR MRS. T.L.K.: Forgiving someone who has hurt us deeply is very hard for most of us — but it is right in God's eyes. Jesus declared that we are to forgive "not seven times, but seventy-seven times" (Matthew 18:22) — that is, without end.

This, after all, is how Christ forgives us — freely and without end. When we refuse to forgive, we reap a sad harvest of bitterness that will only make things worse for us.

You not only need to forgive your husband, however, but you also need to take some other practical steps to strengthen your marriage and guard against this type of thing happening again. Let your husband know you love him and appreciate him — and express your love, both by your words and your actions. Make a determined effort to make your home a happy, joyful place and not one marred by suspicion and bitter words.

Most of all, you and your husband need to rebuild your marriage on a solid foundation — the foundation of Jesus Christ. Commit your lives to Him, and ask Him to help each of you learn to love each other in a new and fuller way. Pray with each other about your problems, and get in a church where Christ is preached. Whatever the failures and sins of the past have been, bring them all to Christ and seek His forgiveness and strength.

God wants to help you — not only to forgive your husband, but to rebuild your marriage. Turn to Him and make Christ first in your life every day.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Richie stars at American Music Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mellow crossover sounds of Lionel Richie outpolled Prince's ragged rock edge at the 12th annual American Music Awards, with a surprised Richie winning six awards and Prince, accompanied by a tattooed bodyguard, taking three.

Kenny Rogers won three trophies on the nationally broadcast show, making him the all-time American Music Awards champion with a total of 16. The awards Monday night honored winners of a nationwide public opinion poll.

Tina Turner, Anne Murray, Cyndi Lauper and the Pointer Sisters picked up two awards apiece during the three-hour ABC telecast at the Shrine Auditorium.

Offstage, Richie and producer Quincy Jones announced that several top recording artists including Richie, Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen were joining together Monday night to record a song, with the proceeds donated to relieve starving Ethiopians.

Prince and Richie were nominated in eight of the same categories, and Prince had 10 nominations overall, giving him a shot at breaking the record set last year by Michael Jackson, who won seven regular awards and also was the year's Award of Merit recipient for career achievement.

Richie, who was host of the show, was honored as favorite male vocalist and favorite male video artist in both black and pop-rock categories. His video clip, "Hello," was named favorite pop-rock video single and black video single.

"I cannot believe it. I was concentrating so much on making sure the show was going properly that when they kept calling my name I said 'Wait a minute — this is not in the program, this is not in the script,'" said Richie, who had previously won seven of the awards.

Prince, the 26-year-old sensation from Minneapolis, won for favorite black single with "When Doves Cry," as well as top black album and pop-rock for the soundtrack album to his hit film, "Purple with a hulking, tattooed bodyguard accompanying him even to the stage to accept his trophies.

Rogers' awards included one he shared with Dolly Parton for favorite country single for their duet, "Island in the Stream." Rogers' LP, "Eyes That See in the Dark" was voted favorite country album, and he also was named favorite male country vocalist for the fifth time.

Miss Lauper was named favorite female vocalist and video artist in pop-rock, while Miss Turner picked up the same awards in the black artist category. Miss Murray won favorite female country video artist, and her hit, "A Little Good News," was voted favorite country video single.

Miss Turner, whose first hit was 1960's rhythm and blues smash "A Fool in Love" with former husband Ike, said her latest album, "Private Dancer," was the result of a desire "to see what I could do on my own. It just really shows I can do it."

The favorite pop video group award went to Huey Lewis and the News, who hit it big last year with an album called "Sports."

Fire damages Gibson's building

A fire Monday afternoon caused about $6,000 damage to the vacant Gibson's building at 2303 Scurry, Arson investigator Burr Lea Setles said.

According to the department's fire report, firemen arrived at the scene 12:27 p.m. to find smoke coming from the central heating-cooling unit on the building's roof. Heat from the fire had caused the gas lines to melt; in addition, the fire burned all the electrical wiring.

Firemen used 20 gallons of water to extinguish the fire, according to the report. The cause of the fire is unknown, Setles said. The report states the fire might have been caused by a hole in the gas line, causing a leak and igniting the electrical wiring, which then burnt.

Firemen turned off the gas and electricity to the building, which is still owned by Herb Gibson of Segoville.

All fire units called to the scene had been cleaned and ready for service by 1:27 p.m.

A 1972 Monte Carlo owned by Guillermo Medel of Snyder suffered $300 damage in a fire at 5:10 p.m. Saturday while it was near the intersection of S. Sixth and Abrams, according to department reports.

The occupant, Elva Carraeco of 106 E. Sixth was not injured in the fire, according to the report.

Woman begins a scouting career

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

With Laraine Teel as their new field executive, Girl Scouts in Area IV plan to have a good year.

The local office has been without a leader since August, and Miss Teel, 22, began work following her college graduation in December. She also is the director of the Cadettes and Senior Girl Scout events.

A graduate of Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches, Miss Teel majored in sociology and minored in business. Her hobbies include ceramics, horseback riding and getting to know people.

Beginning as a Brownie Scout, Miss Teel has participated in Girl Scouts for 15 years. Those years included her work at Girl Scout camps for four summers.

"We have five worlds of interest for the girls — world of people, world of today and tomorrow, world of well being, world of outdoors and world of arts," says Miss Teel. "Through those five worlds the girls get to know themselves, others and the community better. They also develop leadership skills."

"I'm going to work on programming for the whole area, not just the older girls," she said. "I'd like to get the word out that we are here and there's plenty of room for as many girls as we can get."

"I do want to get more girls and adults involved in Girl Scouting," said Miss Teel. There are 342 girls

Dear Abby

Cowboy and hat are inseparable

DEAR ABBY: I was taught that a gentleman always removes his hat when he is indoors. (The exception is the kind of hat worn for religious reasons.) However, I see the 10-gallon cowboy hat worn in restaurants and even in private homes here in Mesa, Ariz.

Have the rules of etiquette changed? Or is it still considered ill-mannered for a gentleman to wear his hat indoors? And are wearers of the cowboy hat exempt from that rule?

ROADRUNNER
DEAR ROADRUNNER: The rules haven't changed; gentlemen still remove their hats when they are indoors.

When I so stated some years ago,

I heard from all of Texas, most of Arizona, and parts of New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado advising me that the 10-gallon cowboy hat was not just an ordinary hat, it was part of the western man's uniform — to be worn with pride and honor, remaining on his head as long as he had his boots on.

Dr. Donohue

B6 supplement used for PMS

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Have you ever heard of B6 supplements being used for premenstrual syndrome? — Mrs. O.T.S.

This has been tried, with some reports of success in easing the symptoms of premenstrual syndrome. It's based on the theory that part of the syndrome may be from a decrease in the ability of the small intestine to absorb the vitamin from food. Providing B6 in supplement form makes up for the deficit. It may be worth a try.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "You Can Control Angina." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.25.

Syracuse 6'2" DWAYNE WASHINGTON has his hands full as he takes on seven-foot center PATRICK EWING of Georgetown in the first half of Syracuse's 65-63 upset of the top-ranked Hoyas Monday night in the Carrier Dome.

Hoyas drop second in loss to Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — While Rafael Addison played the entire game on a roll against second-ranked Georgetown, Syracuse teammate Dwayne Washington had as many stops and starts as a carnival ride.

But few were surprised when Washington kept the ball after a timeout with 16 seconds to play. Eight seconds later he took an off-balance, 15-foot jump shot to put Orangemen ahead. Washington followed with a free throw as ninth-ranked Syracuse dealt the Hoyas a 65-63 loss, their second straight after 29 consecutive victories over two seasons.

"I knew it was going to be something special," said Addison, whose 26-point, 12-rebound performance ranks as one of the finest in his career. "He (Washington) just looks to get the ball in those situations."

Washington, an all-conference point guard last year as a freshman, had hit only four of 10 from the field prior to his winning shot. He also had missed all three free-throw attempts, turned over the ball seven times and had only four assists. But he still got the ball for Syracuse's final shot.

"Pearl's got to be tough to make that shot in the end," Georgetown Coach John Thompson said of Washington.

Queens rip T-birds, 73-55

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Just call the Howard Hawk-Queens' 73-55 Western Junior College Athletic Conference triumph over the New Mexico Junior College Thunderbirds a blue collar win: Coach Don Stevens' crew worked hard for this one.

The win was not a pretty one, the Queens shot 42 percent from the field, 64 percent from the line and committed 22 turnovers. But it came by virtue of a hard-working Queens defense and some tough offensive rebounding. The two hardest-working Queens of all were post player Diane Dickson and guard Molly Early.

Dickson, a 6-4 sophomore from Portland, was a terror on the boards as she racked up a career-high 17 rebounds while adding 12 points. She was the key to Howard's success on the offensive boards, contributing seven offensive caroms. She also added three steals and two blocked shots. Howard had 15 offensive rebounds to their opponent's six and outrebounded NMJC 48-38.

Early, who finished with a game-

high 22 points, caught fire in the second half by hitting 7-9 from the floor in the period. Defensively, she gave the Thunderbird guards fits by picking their pockets six times for steals. The tight Howard defense forced 25 NMJC turnovers.

Howard, who led most of the game, finally put the game out of reach midway through the second half. The Queens saw a comfortable eight-point lead melt to 47-43 after a basket by NMJC forward Robbie Robinson at the nine-minute mark. Robinson put on a steady performance for NMJC, which is in its second season of women's basketball. Robinson sank 6-11 shots, 6-7 free throws, pulled down 10 rebounds while leading her team with 18 points.

After Robinson's basket cut the margin to four, Howard made a run that iced the game. First, Diane Dickson hit a 15-foot jumper, Early scored a three-point play via steal and Allison Dickson and Alex Provencio added baskets. Early capped off the run with a shot from the corner and suddenly the Howard lead was 58-43 at the seven-minute mark. For all practical purposes the contest was over as Howard gained their third win in seven conference outings. The Queens are 17-7 overall. The Thunderbirds fell to 3-4 in conference play and 14-7 overall.

Diane Dickson got plenty help on the boards from twin sister Allison and Provencio who grabbed 7 and 9 rebounds respectively. Provencio showed signs of coming out of her recent slump by scoring 11 points.

Hawks fall to NMJC

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Bruce Kimble, Joe Burney and Bernard Bell kept the Howard College Hawks in the game as long as they could with their hot shooting. But in the end, the trio was not enough as the New Mexico Junior College Thunderbirds took a 77-71 Western Junior College Athletic Conference win last night.

Guards Kimble and Burney along with forward Bell were the Hawks offensive weapons as they combined for 54 of Howard's points. To put it bluntly, they were the only Howard players that shot with any consistency at all.

Howard suffered through a rough night shooting wise as they connected on 30 of 72 field goals for 42 percent. It was the first time in the last four games it has shot under 50 percent from the floor.

While other Howard scorers Michael Porter, Walt Reynolds and Martin Jenkins were suffering miserable nights, little known NMJC forward Derrick Hill was having his best performance of the season. The 6-8, 245-pounder carried a three point scoring average into the game: He didn't play like a low-scoring forward against the Hawks.

Utilizing his muscle underneath, Hill hit 10-15 shots, pulled down seven rebounds while scoring 22 points. He saved the best for last by hitting 7-9 shots in the second half.

Meanwhile Porter, Howard's leading scorer averaging 21 points per game, was having his problems from the floor. The All-America candidate scored just six points, going 3-16 from the field.

Bell was Howard's only inside scoring threat the entire night. He came off the bench to score 13 points while hauling down five rebounds. When Bell wasn't scoring points, Burney and Kimble were keeping the Hawks in the game with their long range bombs. The duo scored 22 and 19 points respectively.

After the game, a digusted

Howard coach Ed Sparling simply stated that his team didn't play well. "We played terrible," he said. "There's no excuse for playing terrible. We weren't ready to play a good game and I guess that's my fault. We weren't looking inside and didn't get back on defense."

Howard never led in the contest and the score was tied twice the entire game, that being 2-2 at the outset and 71-71 with 3:23 remaining in the contest. A couple of times the visitors from New Mexico held 10-point leads but Burney, Kimble or Bell would always bring Howard back.

The Hawks started the game out on the wrong foot by missing their first seven shots. Porter's steal which turned into a basket was the Hawks' first field goal at the 16:28 mark. At which time NMJC led 10-4.

Howard made their move to overtake NMJC at the six-minute mark and trailing 47-60. This time it was Bell and Kimble who led the run with two baskets each. Bell made one free throw to knot the contest at 71-71 with just over three minutes left.

It would be the last time Howard would score as it suffered two turnovers and missed its last four shots. The Thunderbirds iced the contest on a basket by Hill along with a basket and two free throws by Frank Bagley.

When asked if anything positive came from the loss, Sparling replied "You don't learn anything from losing, it just makes it easier to lose next time."

HOWARD (71) — Michael Porter 3 0 6; Bruce Kimble 9 1 19; Martin Jenkins 1 0 2; Walt Reynolds 2 0 4; Joe Burney 10 2 22; Bernard Bell 4 5 13; Isaac Varando 1 1 3; totals 30 11 71

Lady Steers tough in Permian defeat

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

"All we needed was two more minutes of consistent play and we could have won this ball game," Coach Carol Neimeyer could not have been more accurate as the otherwise splendid Lady Steers suffered a momentary lapse at the end of the third quarter which proved to be deadly in a 49-41 loss to the Odessa Permian Panther's.

The Panther's came into town tied for first place in district 4-5A action and were looking for a breather against the inconsistent Lady Steers. The Panther's got more than they bargained for, but managed to hold off a determined Big Spring squad in Monday night's game at Steer gymnasium.

Coach Neimeyer's girls came charging out with an explosive first quarter offensive show, highlighted by Trell Clemons 4-5 shooting from the field. This fast paced action resulted in almost as many turnovers as points as neither team able to settle into an offense. After the first quarter, the score was tied 14-14 as Teresa Pruitt hit a fall away jumper at the buzzer to knot the score.

The second quarter revealed an aggressive Big Spring press which resulted in five quick Permian turnovers. The Lady Steers were able to keep up with the Panther's despite hitting an icy 1 for 9 from the field with a patient, ball control offense. Permian got into early foul trouble in the quarter, allowing the Lady Steers to remain tied at halftime 21-21. Clemons' hit on five key free throws in the period to keep Big Spring close.

In the second half, Big Spring continued its cold shooting from the floor and Permian's larger front line began to dominate the offensive boards, putting up several shots every time they came down the offensive side.

Big Spring's effective passing slowed down the Permian attack enough to stay close through much of the third period, but with only 1:30 left in the quarter, Big Spring turned the ball over three straight times. The Panther's capitalized for six unanswered points and took a 37-31 lead into the last period.

Permian continued its scoring streak at the beginning of the last quarter, building their lead to 47-33 before the Lady Steers could find the range. Despite the large cushion Permian enjoyed, they did not sit on the ball. Big Spring put on a late fourth quarter rally behind the scoring of Monique Jones and Pruitt, but was not enough to turn the tide.

Big Spring JV
The Big Spring Junior Varsity took a big win over the visiting Panther's in a 56-19 rout. Leading scorer for the Lady Steers were Sheila Chatman with 18 points, Katrina Thompson with 12, and Amanda Solis with 10 points.

The Big Spring JV went to 6-5 in district action and 9-10 overall with the win.

RUNNELS ROMPS OVER SWEETWATER

The Runnels Yearlings swept the Sweetwater Mustangs last night in junior high basketball action.

The A team won 60-47 behind Carlton Clark's 18 points and 12 rebounds. Kiley Jones and Abner Shellman added 16 and 13 points respectively. Jones also added 11 rebounds as the A team's record goes to 2-5.

The Runnels B team improved their record to 7-2 with a 29-21 win over the Mustangs.

Chris Crownover led the way with 10 points. Ed Urias and Dennis Hartfield added 6 points each.

Mavs Aguirre guns down Philadelphia

The Philadelphia 76ers were gunned down by a sharpshooter out to make his point.

Dallas' Mark Aguirre, snubbed by the All-Star selectors, drilled 17 of 25 shots from the floor and scored a career-high 49 points Monday night, leading the Mavericks to a 111-109 National Basketball Association victory over the 76ers.

"It was kind of upset," said Aguirre, who made last year's All-Star team. "I came out to win."

And he helped nail down the triumph with eight points in the final three minutes after the Mavs saw a 13-point lead disappear to a 98-98 deadlock with 4:36 to play as Julius Erving and Moses Malone rallied the Sixers.

Eisewhere, the Denver Nuggets outlasted the Utah Jazz 104-100, the Houston Rockets downed the New Jersey Nets 97-93 and the New York Knicks trounced the Los Angeles Clippers 117-91.

NBA roundup

Besides Aguirre's heroics, which eclipsed his previous high of 46 points, Brad Davis made three free throws and Derek Harper hit a pair in the last 50 seconds. Philadelphia's Maurice Cheeks missed a 25-foot jump shot with one second to play.

Malone and Erving scored 26 points apiece for the 76ers, who had won eight of nine prior meetings with Dallas and fell one game behind first-place Boston in the Atlantic Division.

"This was a great victory," Aguirre said. "When you play the 76ers, it's not just another game. They have six players who could be on the All-Star team. We needed a win like this."

Dallas Coach Dick Motta said: "Aguirre had that look in his eye tonight. He just wasn't going to be stopped."

Rolando Blackman scored 19 points for the Mavericks, including 13 of Dallas' first 15 in the second half.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Jason Campbell is surrounded by gifts in his unique store, Stagecoach Gifts. The shop places special emphasis on seasonal gifts, and the selection is now arriving for Valentine's Day.

Silly or serious gifts On tap at Stagecoach

"We are a 'medium price' gift shop," says Jason Campbell, co-owner of Stagecoach Gifts. "We don't try to compete with the luxury gift store...we carry a carefully selected stock of popular priced items." Stagecoach Gifts offers "a little bit of everything" — most items can be bought for $5.00 to $20.00. It's no accident that the stock is so unique or such fine quality: Jason was formerly associated with Coach House Gifts, a nationwide gift house, as a district manager. His expertise at selecting and locating desirable gift items is apparent. "We put special emphasis on seasonal gift occasions," Jason says, such as Valentine's Day, the next big gift time coming up. Very popular for Valentine's Day will be Dakin plush animals holding satin hearts with Valentine messages. Stagecoach Gifts has recently been approved to sell exclusive "Precious Moments" figurines by Jonathan & David, collectors porcelain figurines, signed and dated. The full line is expected to be in for Valentine giving.

Also popular with collectors are Don James animals, a line of finely detailed figurines so realistic you can almost see the fur. All year long the shop carries a wide selection of greeting cards, humorous and inspirational plaques, Garfield items, a variety of theme calendars, posters, stuffed animals, toys, Christian gift items and Texas/Western souvenirs. "There's a big gag gift selection, and a new shipment is due to arrive soon. Jason feels he has the largest selection of gag gifts in the area." Stagecoach Gifts also offers bridal novelties: a pair of embossed champagne glasses, a bridal garter, an ostrich feather registry pen, ring bearer's pillow. And, of course, printing service on wedding invitations. Stagecoach Gifts is definitely worth a visit. They're open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday (they are NOT closed during lunch hours). Take I-20 East, exit at Moss Lake exit. Shop is located at corner of south service road and Moss Lake Road. Jason and his father W.R. (Rick) Campbell are the owners.

Sundance offers a variety of floor plans, including two- and three-bedroom duplexes, and single family three-bedroom home, beautifully redecorated. Pictured are Steven Cimino, Dana Clawson and Rip Lewis, Sundance's staff.

For convenience, charm Plan to live at Sundance

At Sundance you can enjoy the ambience of a fine old neighborhood, with established lawns and trees, winding streets and plenty of space. Sundance is comprised of 72 free-standing homes and duplexes for lease. These are units from the former officers quarters of Webb Air Base...units built in a special way for special people. There are many extra features seldom found in today's construction: real parquet floors, large rooms, ample closet space, large patios, private entrances and individual carports with extra storage, many fenced courtyards. Sundance management has completely renovated every unit... new paint, new draperies, refinished floors, new appliances including dishwashers. Each has central heat and air. The lovely grounds are tended daily by Sundance, and a maintenance worker is always on duty. Dana Clawson, manager of Sundance, points out that tenants have the "feeling and privacy of a home with the convenience of an apartment." Located at 2625 Ent Drive, off Randolph Blvd., Sundance is located in a quiet area, away from heavy traffic, yet is only a short distance away from Highland Mall, major grocery stores and restaurants. Sundance features a variety of living spaces. You can choose among three distinct floor plans, including two bedroom and three bedroom duplexes, and single family three-bedroom home with 1 and 1/2 baths. The 3-bedroom residences are extra large, with 1200 and 1400 sq. ft. Leases start at $275 per month, with a 6-months minimum lease. A model apartment is open daily at 2625 Ent Drive. Sundance is owned and managed by Performance Property. In addition to Ms. Clawson, the staff includes Steve Cimino and Rip Lewis, maintenance superintendents.
