Police nab 14 in drug raids here

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Big Spring Police arrested 14 people Friday night and Saturday morning on drug-related charges and seized approximately $50,000 of illicit drugs and paraphernalia, according to Sgt. Jerry Edwards.

Edwards said the arrests were based on tips received from confidential informants. Based on this information, warrants were obtained by officers from the police department's narcotics, criminal investigations and patrol divisions.

The 14 were arrested at four different locations from 10:30 a.m. Friday to 3:20 a.m. Saturday, Edwards said.

Police entered a residence at 105 E. 17th about 10:30 a.m. Friday with a search warrant issued by City Judge Melvin Daratt. The raid resulted in the arrest of seven people and a seizure of what is believed to be methamphetamine (speed) and marijuana. Several items of drug paraphernalia were also seized, Edwards said.

Arrested at the scene were James Michael Thurman, 30, of 601 McEwen, charged with possession of a controlled substance; Austin George Sherrill Jr., 30, of 1500 E. Cherokee, charged with possession of marijuana under 2 ounces; John Steven Renfro, 18, of 1107 Pennsylvania, charged with possession of marijuana under 2 ounces; and Bonnie Jean Covert, 24, of 105 E. 17th, charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Also arrested were Barbara Joyce Henry, 28, of 1305 E. Sixth, charged with possession of a controlled substance; Tonya D. Starr, 22, of Irving, charged with possession of a controlled substance; and Daphne Michele Crane, 22, of 2102 Main, charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Those charged with possession of a controlled substance were each placed under bonds of $5,000 each. Sherrill and Renfro were placed under $1,000 bonds for possession of marijuana. Bonds were set by Justice of the Peace China Long.

At approximately 7:30 p.m. Friday, police arrested Clifton Ernest Henry, 29, of the Mayo Ranch Motel at his room at the motel. They found a substance believed to be methamphetamine and assorted drug paraphernalia in the room.

Henry was charged with possession of a controlled substance and driving while his license was suspended. He was placed under bonds totalling $2,000 by Judge Lewis Heflin.

At 10 p.m., officers entered a residence at 2622 Hunter and again found a substance believed to be methamphetamine and assorted paraphernalia. Taken into custody and charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia were Michael L. McDaniels, 29, of 1612 State St.; Kelley Lynn Bishop, 21, of 2622 Hunter; Leroy John Kentz, 35, of 2622 Hunter; and Glenn E. Meek, 28, of 1612 State.

All four were placed under $1,500 bonds by Judge Lewis Heflin on the possession of a controlled substance charge.

At about 3:20 a.m. Saturday police entered a residence at 2206 S. Monticello and found a quantity of a controlled substance and marijuana, according to Edwards. Two people were arrested at the scene.

They were Rebecca Ann Lunsford, 24, and Jimmy Weldon Lunsford, 28, both of 2206 S. Monticello. They were both placed under bonds of $1,000 for the possession of marijuana charge and $1,500 for possession of a controlled substance. Bonds were set by Judge Lewis Heflin.

Dr. Clyde Thomas Jr. and Myra Robinson were named man and Woman of the year during the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Saturday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

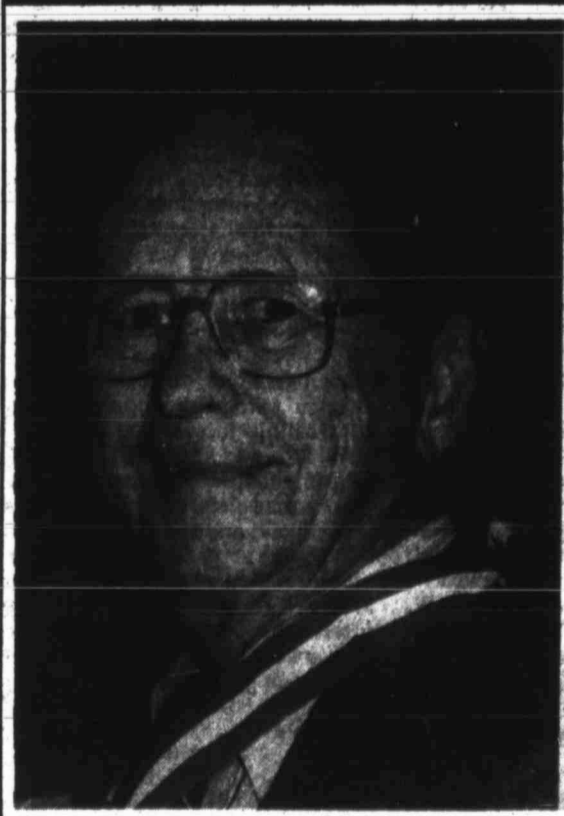

Thomas is chief of staff at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. He is a longtime Big Spring resident who graduated from Big Spring High School and went on to attend the University of Texas and John Sealy Medical School.

Thomas was also surprised with another honor — a national recognition from the Boy Scouts of America.

Thomas received the Distinguished Eagle Award, an award given only a few times a year to various Eagle Scouts around the nation.

Steve Odum, executive director for the Buffalo Trail Council, said the award "is very rare. It is given to an adult who has distinguished himself in the community by outstanding contributions in his profession and to his community."

Mrs. Robinson is president of Robinson Drilling. She took the job when her husband died in 1972. Despite a busy schedule as president of an oil company, Mrs. Robinson has managed to serve on boards for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the Salvation Army, the YMCA, the Heritage Museum, and several other organizations. She is also active in the First Presbyterian Church and the Republican Women's Club.

In announcing the award, emcee R.H. Weaver said, "Myra has a quiet, dignified way of doing good for others." Steve Fraser, one of the owners of Fraser Industries, was named Ambassador of the Year. Fraser is active in a number of Big Spring activities and was instrumental in helping the Chamber reach its membership goal for 1985.

The Blue Blazer "Pat on the Back" award went to Mary Kenny. Mrs. Kenny was instrumental in establishing the Rape Crisis Center and served as its director. She was also recognized for her work for the Chemical People, the foster parent program and the Symphony Association.

Eddie Herm, an Ackerly farmer, was named the Agriculturalist of the Year. Conservationist of the Year was D.C. Lee. Lee received the award from the Soil Conservation Service.

Johnnie Rutherford was given the Dorothy Garrett President's Award, a new award that will be given each year by the outgoing president of the Chamber. Rutherford was recognized for his efforts in the CLEAN program and the Leadership Big Spring class.

Granville Hahn, new Chamber president, recognized Paul Shaffer, immediate past president, by saying, "He's done us a great job. We owe him a debt of gratitude."

Hahn introduced Chamber directors and highlighted some of the city's 1984 achievements.

Dr. Joe Mize and George H. O'Brien Jr., two of eight honorees who have excelled in their fields, were at the banquet and were introduced. Other honorees who grew up in Big Spring and are making names for themselves in their professions were Weldon Bigony, "Peppy" Blount, B.B. Lees, Rose Magers, Gordon Morris and Steve Pyles.

Jack Bowen, a former Big Spring resident who is anchor for the KOCO-TV news in Oklahoma City, was the keynote speaker. Bowen said that for people who have a vision, that vision "has to be more than Chamber page 2-A

UK unarms WWII bomb

SHEFFIELD, England — Soldiers defused a 2,200-pound World War II bomb Saturday that had been unearthed by construction workers in this north England steel city.

But officers said the bomb, one of the heaviest dropped by the Germans in the 1939-45 conflict, was still unstable and 300 evacuated families were ordered to remain in community hall shelters where they had spent the night on makeshift beds.

Iran lowers oil prices

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran has lowered its oil prices in line with those recently approved by the majority of members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the Middle East Economic Survey reported Saturday.

Iran had initially dissociated itself from the new OPEC pricing structure adopted last month.

7 killed at soccer match

PEKING — A rush by 20,000 Chinese soccer spectators to leave a stadium because of rain turned into a stampede in which seven people were trampled to death and more than 130 were injured, 34 seriously, the Workers Daily reported Saturday.

The newspaper said the incident occurred Thursday at the East Wind Athletic Stadium in the southwest city of Kunming after a match between the Yunnan provincial team and a visiting Hungarian squad. The match ended in a 3-3 tie.

Channel traffic resumes

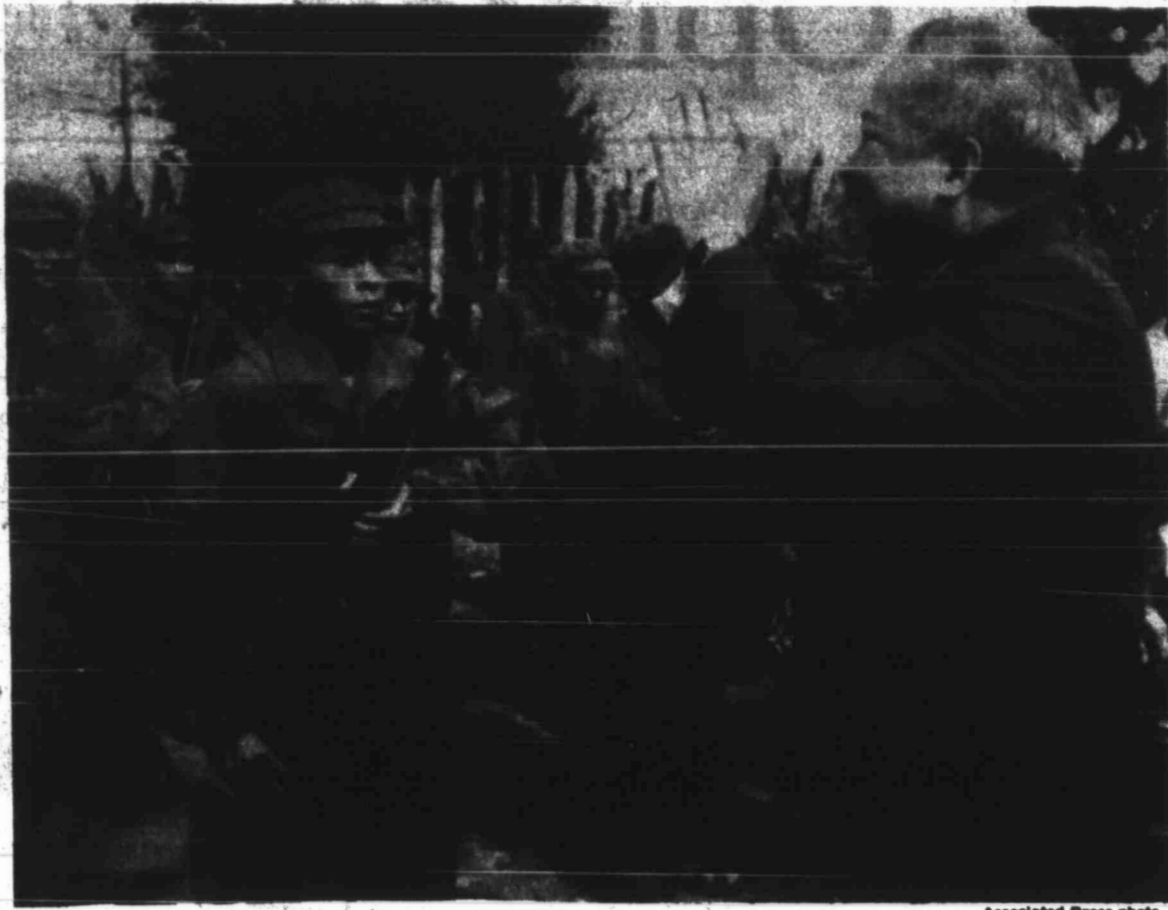

CALAIS, France — Ferry traffic across the English Channel returned to normal Saturday after unionized seamen on French-flag ferries of the Sealink company resumed work.

The strike began Thursday when sailors belonging to the Communist-led CGT union protested a plan to change work schedules. They agreed to return to work after Guy Lengagne, France's secretary of state for the sea, intervened.

Cops seek 'candy men'

TOKYO — Police said Saturday they are stepping up efforts to catch candy-poisoning extortionists who have threatened to hit again on Valentine's Day.

More than 50,000 officers will patrol candy outlets nationwide this week, when Japanese girls traditionally buy sweets for their boyfriends.

Counterattack!

Cambodian rebels strike Vietnamese from rear

PHNUM THMEI, Cambodia (AP) — Communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas have retaliated against Vietnam's attempt to pin them against the Thai border by driving deeper into Cambodia and attacking Hanoi's troops from the rear, Thai military officers and guerrilla leaders said Saturday.

Unlike fighters of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front, who are seeking sanctuary from Hanoi's dry season offensive along the Thai-Cambodian border, the Khmer Rouge have sliced past Vietnamese vanguards, staged ambushes and are trying to stall the Vietnamese until monsoon rains bog down their heavy weapons, said a senior Thai military officer who asked not to be identified.

Soldiers from communist Vietnam invaded Cambodia in late 1978 and ousted the pro-Peking Khmer Rouge regime, which killed hundreds of thousands of Cambodians during its four-year rule. Hanoi launched an offensive against Cambodian rebels last December.

Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Samphan, speaking at the Phnum Thmei enclave about 12 miles southeast of the key Thai border town of Aranyaprathet, said, "The Vietnamese are trying to prevent us from going inside, but they have failed. We still remain and are moving forward."

Samphan claimed the Khmer Rouge in recent days had raided the provincial capitals of Siem Reap and Battambang in northwestern Cambodia. He said the guerrillas, undaunted by the Vietnamese offensive, had staged their deepest penetrations of the Cambodian interior since the guerrilla war broke out six years ago.

An Associated Press reporter, who traveled to Khao Noi about nine miles south of Aranyaprathet, heard sporadic mortar shelling over a three-hour period Saturday as the Khmer Rouge struck Vietnamese positions in the Phnom Yai Som area a few miles away.

Thai officers said Khmer Rouge guerrillas repulsed a Vietnamese attack on Khmer strongholds in Phnom Malai on Friday, killing or wounding an estimated 100 Vietnamese. No independent confirmation of the reported attacks on Siem Reap and Battambang was available.

Samphan was in Phnum Thmei to welcome Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who crossed the Thai-Cambodian frontier into the war zone to the cheers of "Hail the Prince!" and applause from about 1,000 Cambodian villagers.

Sihanouk, who heads a three-party resistance coalition which includes the Khmer Rouge and the Khmer Front, vowed to fight until Cambodia was liberated from the Vietnamese.

Gas blocks fatal mine

PRICE, Utah — Emery Mining Corp. officials huddled Saturday to discuss ways to reduce stubbornly high levels of poisonous gas inside the sealed Wilberg Mine, a smouldering tomb for 27 miners.

Emery Mining spokesman Bob Henrie said it appeared crews planning to re-enter the mine on Saturday would have to wait until Monday.

AF jet crash kills pilot

SEDONA, Ariz. — An Air Force A-10 jet fighter on a low-level training mission crashed in a canyon Saturday, killing its pilot, authorities said.

The single-seat, twin-engine plane crashed at 10:10 a.m. in Oak Creek Canyon, about five miles north of this central Arizona community. A second A10 accompanying the downed jet landed at Luke.

KKK death plot told

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A Ku Klux Klan organizer is being held without bond after testifying that a fellow white supremacist tried to involve him in what he thought was a plot to kill a civil rights attorney.

William Riccio, 28, of Birmingham, said he thought Robert Mathews, who was killed in a standoff with FBI agents in the Northwest, wanted to have attorney Morris Dees killed although he never made any direct threats.

Missile officer jailed

KNOB NOSTER, Mo. — The former commander of a Minuteman missile silo crew has been ordered jailed for 10 months, fined $3,000 and dismissed from the Air Force after his conviction by a court-martial on marijuana charges.

Capt. Rayford L. Williams, 27, of Columbia, S.C., was sentenced Friday.

New U.N. envoy named

WASHINGTON — After traveling one million miles on sensitive diplomatic missions for President Reagan, former spymaster Vernon Walters is taking over from Jeanne Kirkpatrick as ambassador to the United Nations.

Reagan announced Friday that Walters, 68, will be a member of the Cabinet as well as envoy to the U.N. — holding the dual rank that Mrs. Kirkpatrick also enjoyed.

A master of eight languages and translator for four presidents, Walters is a retired three-star Army general and deputy director of the CIA during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

Polish freighter sinks

24 missing in North Sea

BREMEN (AP) — A Polish freighter rolled over and sank in the icy North Sea during a winter storm, and only one sailor is known to have survived from the crew of 25, a West German maritime agency said Saturday.

Cele-force winds and a blinding snowstorm forced rescuers to call off their hunt for 15 missing crew of the Busko Zdroj, which sank quickly Friday night.

Only one crew member was rescued, from a drifting lifeboat, and the bodies of nine others were found before searchers had to abandon their efforts after 14 hours because of poor visibility and stormy seas, according to the West

German Society for Ships in Distress.

The rescued sailor, identified as Ryszard Ziennicki, the ship's radio officer, was taken to a hospital on the West German island of Sylt, authorities said. There was no immediate word on his condition.

In Warsaw, the state-run Polish news agency PAP said 10 bodies were recovered and 14 sailors were still missing.

But officials at the Bremen agency which coordinated the search said 15 sailors were still unaccounted for and believed drowned.

He said rescuers believed they had spotted two other bodies early Saturday but were unable to recover them because of rough seas.

"The storm conditions make it very difficult," he said.

Tax & financial planning

PREPARING YOUR TAX RETURN
(You Or An Accountant?)

The income tax that you pay is probably one of your biggest annual expenditures. Deciding whether to prepare your own tax return or have it prepared by an accountant is, therefore, an important decision.

In view of the frequent changes in tax law over the past several years, the taxpayer who tries to learn enough to do his own return might feel like he's trying to take a drink from a fire hose.

If your circumstances involved any of the following events in 1984, seeking an accountant's assistance with your tax return makes good sense in both time and money you are likely to save: marriage, divorce, a move to a new state, starting a new job, going into business for yourself, starting retirement, selling your home, or selling a business or an investment asset.

The 1984 Tax Act changed the rules in a number of areas and if any of them pertain to you, a professional tax preparer will be worth his fee. Areas of change include income averaging, tax shelters, depreciation allowances, medical expenses, interest free loans, requirements for estimated taxes, capital gains, property transfers in divorce, dependency exemptions in divorce, alimony, and recordkeeping requirements on business equipment.

Tax filing time is an excellent time to analyze your general financial situation and make adjustments where needed. An accountant can assist in this analysis with sound, objective advice. Though it's too late to change 1984, it's a good time to establish a relationship with an accountant to begin your 1985 tax planning. Select your accountant as you would any professional advisor. Find one with whom you are comfortable and who provides the services you want.

Political breezes blow Republican

Time was, if you weren't a Conservative Democrat in the State of Texas you were as rare as a whooping crane. There were a few Republican officeholders, but two hands would hold the count. November elections were foregone conclusions; the political battles were waged and won in the May primaries — the Democratic primary elections.

But times have changed. A Republican governor gave some impetus to change. A two-term Republican president who swept 49 states in November gave it a whole lot more. A Democratic Congressman who bolted the party and won election as a Republican U.S. senator etched the change indelibly in Texans' minds.

Phil Gramm switched parties after the Democrats stripped him of his power, in effect labeling him a traitor. Gramm took his Republican leanings to the people and they kept him in Washington under the GOP banner. Friday, Gramm was celebrating the move of three Dallas judges into the Republican fold.

Like Gramm, all three said they switched because Democrats have become too liberal. And at a more practical level, they admitted that the Republican Party is a force in Texas. In light of November's strong Republican showing statewide and in Dallas County, the judges said they felt their political futures were in jeopardy if they remained Democrats.

Howard County long has held a Democratic tradition. Although President Reagan took a victory in balloting here in November, that's not typical of county voters. Only one officeholder in the county is Republican, county commissioner Bill Crooker.

Just to give an idea of the switch, in conservative Dallas County, there are 69 judges. Of those, 58 were Republicans. With Friday's defections, 61 now claim allegiance to the GOP. The times are a'changing.

Wall Street cookie jar

There isn't much doubt that R. Foster Winans, the former Wall Street reporter now on trial for alleged criminal violations of securities laws, disgraced his profession. If he did half of what the Securities and Exchange Commission claims, he deserved to be fired, as he was. He may also deserve to be sued by the Journal. What he doesn't deserve, even if the facts are just as the government portrays them, is to be prosecuted for securities fraud.

Winans is accused of leaking information about the contents of his column, "Heard on the Street," in advance of publication. These alleged leaks gave four associates the chance to make trades in anticipation of the impact his columns would have, yielding them several hundred thousand dollars in profits. For his trouble, the SEC claims, Winans was promised and got a share of the loot.

This sort of thing certainly ought to be discouraged. But in the government's eagerness to punish Winans, it has stretched the law beyond recognition. Both the civil and criminal actions rely on far-fetched and dangerous interpretations of securities regulations.

The actions against Winans are based on the "insider trading" rules established by the agency to enforce the anti-fraud provisions of the 1934 Securities Exchange Act. The SEC claims that Winans violated the rules by, in the words of its enforcement director, his "misappropriation of material non-public information and subsequent trading on that information."

This is a long way from what the insider trading rules were meant to stop. They are aimed at corporate insiders who, using secret information about their own firm, trade in its stocks. The underlying theory is that they owe shareholders a fiduciary obligation not to exploit their inside position.

But Winans was not an employee of the companies whose stock was traded by his friends. Nor did he have any "inside" information about them. What he reported were publicly known rumors, related by Wall Street professionals. He plainly had no fiduciary relationship with the companies' shareholders.

It is that relationship that forms the basis for action against insider trading. In 1980, the Supreme Court said a typesetter who gleaned information from secret takeover documents was not guilty of defrauding those who sold him securities. Why? Because "he was not their agent, he was not a fiduciary, he was not a person in whom the sellers had placed their trust and confidence."

Nor did Winans have a fiduciary duty to his readers, notwithstanding his ethical obligations as a journalist. After all, he was not offering investment advice — merely reporting rumors, the value of which readers could judge for themselves. The government, by the way, doesn't claim that he wrote anything false.

The government argues that reporters who trade in securities they write about should be legally obliged to disclose that fact to their readers. But this approach collides with the First Amendment. Newspapers have a duty to police themselves, and readers have a right to spurn those which fail to do so. To intrude the government into the editorial process is to invite trouble.

If Winans had a fiduciary obligation, it was to his employer.

Advertising on a binge

There wouldn't be such a backlash against alcohol advertising if the advertising hadn't bulled its way beyond the bounds of sensitivity. No longer do we listen and watch competing brewers and wineries tout their hops and grapes. What television and radio advertising now subjects us to is the premise that drinking is the lifestyle of the smart, the successful and the chic.

Alcohol advertising set itself up for the fall. It evolved from promoting product to promoting product and consumption. And to gauge just how successful the advertising is, one need only listen to the outrage of those who are fed up with carnage on the highways. If alcohol advertising can limp away from the brink of disaster, it should do so with a new appreciation of good taste.

A ban on alcohol advertising is a giant step beyond what is required; a trip to the woodshed for Madison Avenue hype is more in line with the crime.

How many times have we given the advice to a friend to "go for it." That catch phrase didn't originate with the Olympic games; it came from a Budweiser commercial.

When did Michelob decide that weekends were seven days a week? And whatever happened to the admonition that "if you've got the time, we've got the beer." That commercial now generalizes almost any time as Miller time.

At one time, there were unspoken rules. The appeal was restricted to those who were going to drink a beer or sip a glass of wine anyway. The advertising message was designed only to put those people in the client's tent.

Drinking was an adult pastime — and usually it was the macho man who was favored in advertising. Excessive consumption wasn't the focus of attention. It was taste, and ingredients and sipping. Today we find young fishermen bartering with bears over cases of beer.

Now we go on a Lite Beer Camping Trip. Not a camping trip at which one might enjoy a beer while drinking in the wonders of nature, but a trip into the woods for the purpose of drinking. The trees are only there to give consumption a relaxing setting.

Young people who couldn't squeak past the bouncer in many states are jiggling all over the disco or all over the beach soaking in the relaxation that only a Coors light can provide. You can't see the Mountain Dew commercials, but you can see the alcohol promotion.

Yes, the electronic media has generously devoted airtime to showing the tragedy that can come from improper use of alcohol. No, those people inclined to drink to excess won't miraculously abandon their habits if alcohol advertising is banned. Yes, alcohol is a social drug, and social settings in advertisements are natural. No, alcohol advertising should not be banned. Yes, the advertisers should show some restraint.

Once upon a time, Jax Beer advertised its product with animated slapstick. One TV commercial in particular featured a man and his horse belying up to a bar. The man asks for a beer and one for his buddy. "I'm sorry," says the bartender. "We don't serve horses."

"That's okay," says the man. "He's driving anyway."

Today we have Alex, the dog who's trained to uncork his master's brew, drinking the beer down in a lapse of discipline. There's a difference in today's advertising message. Madison Avenue is its own worst enemy.

Governor in danger over school reform

By JIM DAVIS
AUSTIN — Just in case you missed the story in The New York Times last week, let me at least reprint the opening paragraphs:
"In the last two years, many governors have staked their political reputations on their support of school reforms. But unless those reforms bear fruit rapidly, the governors may become highly vulnerable targets of a political and public backlash."

"This would pose a twofold threat: The governors could suffer a heavy loss of credibility and power, and the schools would be left without their only recently gained source of support."

The story cites a number of governors who have taken the lead in school reform movements of their states, including those of Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and New Jersey.

And it added, "Gov. Mark White of Texas helped push through the Legislature the biggest educational reform package in the state's history."

The Times story is based on an advisory paper commissioned by the Council of State Planning Agencies, an organization of gubernatorial staff officers. The paper is supposed to help the governors avoid pitfalls as they plan school reforms or try to survive the political fallout from them.

The Times article is interesting in that it adds some national perspective to something that many people who watch Texas politics believe: Gov. White is in political danger because of the 1984 school reform and accompanying tax and fee increases.

That doesn't mean that White won't survive, or even prosper, politically. Many of us have underestimated him in the past, and we may be doing so again. He seems to have an uncanny ability to go against the odds and come out on top.

But the school reform legislation and tax and fee increase are a threat to his political ambitions.

The Texas Poll reported last fall that only 6 percent of the Texans interviewed in late September and early October gave White an excellent rating, with another 37 percent rating his performance as governor as good. Other ratings were 31 percent fair and 16 percent poor.

That same poll showed 53 percent agreeing with school reform and 29 percent against, with 19 percent with no opinion. White's problem is that those who are against the reforms are strongly against them and many are committed to overturning them and punishing those responsible for them.

Compounding the governor's problems is the negative attitude of many educators. They like the higher teacher salaries and even some of the reforms, but added paperwork and competency testing have teachers bent out of shape to the point that negative feelings seem to be overriding positive ones.

Teachers were extremely important in White's 1982 victory, and his drive to pay off that political debt led to the other reform proposals. Ironically, legislative leaders were the ones who insisted that reforms be tied to teacher pay increases, but White adopted the proposals and has become the symbol for them.

Budget is lost in space

By KEITH BRISCOE
Here are some of those fascinating facts of history that are never taught in school but always seem to leap into view during times of crucial decision making.

Between 1920 and 1940, France spent 26 percent of its GNP on the military, and England laid out about 18 percent. By contrast, Germany devoted only 12 to 14 percent of its wealth on the weapons of war.

So what? In May 1940, Germany jumped the Rhine, pushing the British into the sea and reducing the French legions to humiliated hordes.

When the German jackboots clomped triumphantly down the Champs Elysee after the six-week triumph, London and Paris ruefully realized that money doesn't win wars.

Now comes Ronald Reagan 45 years later demanding that America forsake its poor and working class in order to outspend the Soviet Union with a trillion-dollar military budget. Billions of this mega-zero amount would fund the Strategic Defense Initiative, more realistically called "Star Wars."

Reagan's cronies say that billion-dollar toys floating around in space will make America's defense impregnable. That sounds a lot like the French in the '30s, who claimed their Maginot Line would be invulnerable to German attack.

While the French were spending millions on their wonderful wall, the Germans were improving the organization, equipment and training of conventional forces. The Maginot Line didn't stand a chance. Techniques always defeat tactics.

After gaining nuclear parity in the mid-'60s, the Soviets began to build first-class divisions operating conventional weapons. They're spending less and getting more for their ruble. The Soviets know a nuclear war is unwinnable, but that a conventional war is very winnable.

So while Reagan is spending our hard-earned dollars on space toys, useless MX missiles and outdated B-1 bombers, the Soviets will continue to produce well-equipped soldiers led by well-trained officers.

There is tragedy here if the Russians are really our enemies. I don't believe they are. I fear we shall just get stuck with an expensive Maginot Line in space.

Reagan's just shootin' the bull

To the editor:
Here is a letter I wrote before election (mailbag, "Reagan salesman but not statesman.")
Well the people bought what Mr. Reagan was selling. Now you see a little bit of what he was selling. Like some men from Texas gave V.P. Bush a bull.
Mr. Reagan got up in front of the whole country and shot it, and shot it, and shot it, and is still shooting it.
The poor, farmers and young people who want to go to college are getting the most of it.

Culture award

SWCID instructor honored by W. Texas group

Steve Baldwin, an instructor at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, has been notified that he will receive the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Achievement Award.

The awards ceremony will take place during the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in San Angelo April 22. A slide presentation of Baldwin's work will be presented during the banquet.

Baldwin is the second Big Spring winner. Bob Lewis (Tumbleweed Smith) won the award in the late 1970s.

Baldwin, 40, is a division director at SWCID and teaches courses in drama and government. He is also a playwright and has written, directed and produced 20 plays.

He also played the role of Orin in the Dallas Theater Center's production of "Children of a Lesser God" by Mark Medoff.

Baldwin wrote and is producing "Deaf Smith," a historical play about a Texas war hero who served in the army of Gen. Sam Houston. Smith, who lost his hearing due to a series of illnesses, was one of the most trusted spys for the Texas army in the war with Mexico. The play, which will premiere May 25 at the Texas Convention for the Deaf in Austin, is directed by Tim Haynes, director of drama at Howard College. Baldwin received a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts to produce the play in conjunction with the state's bicentennial.

STEVE BALDWIN

Baldwin is also scheduled to make a presentation during the interpreter/theatre workshop at the Texas Junior College Teachers Association Conference at Hotel Antone in Dallas Feb. 23.

Baldwin joins four other recipients selected from more than 100 nominees, according to Terri Young of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Abilene. Other honorees are Lewis Fulks, Abilene, noted for his dinner theater productions; Covell Jones, Granbury, an artist and sculptor; the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum, Canyon, for preserving social history and material culture; and Watt Matthews, Albany, for his preservation of West Texas heritage.

The Cultural Awards were established in 1966. Past recipients have included artists, musicians, authors, craftsmen, cartoonists, corporations, organizations and dramatists.

Pickle blasts Social Security freeze

AUSTIN (AP) — A one-year freeze on Social Security cost of living adjustments proposed by Republican senators is too much of a sacrifice, U.S. Rep. Jake Pickle said Saturday.

Pickle, D-Texas, said Social Security freezes are uncalled for since the system "is paying its own way."

Pickle, the former chairman of the House Ways and Means Social Security Subcommittee, said giving the program half of its usual cost-of-living adjustments would be an acceptable compromise to the one-year freeze.

"The deficit is simply too large to grant any area of the budget immunity from spending reductions.

If we're serious about reducing the deficit, we have to bite the bullet and look everywhere for spending reductions. I'm mindful that Social Security recipients have made sacrifices in the past," Pickle said.

Q: Our family has grown since we bought our present home. At this point, we don't know which course to take. Any suggestions?
 A: Yes. First determine exactly what you need in the way of a home. Make a complete list of the changes or additions you need. If you need a larger family room or den and have the room to build on and enlarge the present one, that's one thing. However, if you need an additional bedroom and bath plus three or four more closets, a new home is probably going to be the best solution. If remodeling appears to be the solution, be sure and check with your real estate broker before committing to the project. Your broker can advise you if the proposed remodeling will overbuild your home for the neighborhood area. If overbuilt, a home will usually not return its value to the owner when it becomes time to sell.

Area hoops teams shine

By Charlie Alcorn

The Crossroads Country high school basketball season has finally come to its regular season close and several area teams are in the playoffs for the first time in recent history. Some of the credit for this new found success can go to the UIL which sanctioned playoffs for the second place finishers in each district in 1984. But most of the accolades should be directed toward the teams themselves, who have proved that basketball really is something more than a break between the football season and spring training.

On the local girls front, Class A teams from Garden City, Sands Consolidated and Borden County garnered outright playoff berths, while district 7-3A member Coahoma will battle Sonora later this week to determine the runner-up spot in their league.

The Garden City girls made a major turnaround this year by winning the 16-A title with a perfect 8-0 league record. The Lady Kats managed only three wins for the entire season a year ago, but coach John Blair's squad has made great strides with a young team led by junior Jana Hunter, who is one of the league's top scorers with a 17 point average, and sophomore Danette Holdampf, who is grabbing 10 rebounds a game.

The girls 10-A runner up is Sands Consolidated, who will be making their first playoff appearance in seven years. The Lady Mustangs are led by senior post Lisa Iden, whose offensive game has been all but unstoppable this year, and Michelle Bays, a force on the boards the entire year.

The Borden County Lady Coyotes have been ranked as high as 6th in Class A, and they beat currently 10th ranked O'Donnell Friday night to tie for the district 16-A championship. Sporting a 23-2 overall record, going into this week's playoff with O'Donnell to determine the outright champion, Borden County has to be considered among the elite of state Class A teams.

Providing leadership for the Lady Coyotes are senior post Shawna Vaughn and guard Becky Massingill, while the bulk of the scoring has been done by underclassmen Teri Billington and Kelli Williams. I look for Borden County to advance to the state tournament if they get by arch nemesis O'Donnell.

Coach Bill Dennis' Coahoma squad has a chance to advance to a playoff spot after surviving the tough district 7-3A regular season.

The Lady Bulldogs have one of the Crossroads finer all-around players in the senior post Leslie Kirkpatrick. Sophomore Shanna Fowler has been dominating force on the boards for Coahoma, as well as being the hands down winner for most productive free throw shooter. The 5'8 post has hit on 39 of 43 foul shots in her last three games, including a perfect 14 of 14 performance against Ozona Thursday night.

Heading up the Crossroad's boys playoff contingent are the 6th ranked Class A Klondike Cougars, who went undefeated while taking the undisputed 10-A title. Coach Jimmy Thomas' squad is headed by point guard Tim Cope, who has maintained a 23 point average on the season, and post Lane Turner, who is averaging 16 points and 10 rebounds a game.

The Garden City boy's slipped in the back door to win second place in District 10-A despite losing their final game to eventual winner Sterling City. Up until Friday night, Sands, Forsan and Garden City all had a shot at the second place slot, but Sands was defeated by Sterling City 55-54 in overtime and was eliminated along with Forsan, who lost Friday night to Grady.

The Bearkats, coached by Doug Thompson, have benefited from excellent play from point guard Brian Thompson, and the fine inside work of forward Dean Munn and center Brian Dalton. Garden City will take on District 16-A winner Iraan in playoff game this week.

(4) SMU 78

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Terry Gannon scored 19 points, including two free throws that sent North Carolina State into overtime, as the Wolfpack upset fourth-ranked Southern Methodist 82-78 Saturday in college basketball.

Gannon collected 10 points in the final 13 minutes of regulation to help bring the Wolfpack, 14-7, from a 63-51 deficit to a 71-71 tie.

The Wolfpack held the Mustangs, 18-4, scoreless for the final 8:14 of regulation, and 7-foot center Jon Koncak, who averages 18 points a game, didn't score in the second half. He finished with five points.

Trailing 69-61 with 8:14 left, the Wolfpack hit 10 straight points on a combination of Gannon's outside shooting and the team's success at the free throw line.

Anthony "Spud" Webb and Gannon then hit the first two baskets of the extra period — both on long jumpers.

Carl Wright, who helped spark SMU to the 12-point lead with 10 second-half points, broke the 10-minute scoring drought with two free throws to bring the Mustangs to within 75-63 with 2:38 left.

The Wolfpack scored the rest of their points at the foul line, hitting the next seven of 10 attempts.

Webb added 17 points for the Wolfpack, while Lorenzo Charles had 15 and Nate McMillan 13.

Wright finished with a game-high 23 points for the Mustangs, while Larry Davis added 17 and Kevin Lewis 12.

(13) Kansas 75

(3) MSU 71

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Ron Kellogg dazzled No. 3 Memphis State with an array of offensive maneuvers while scoring 34 points Saturday and leading 13th-ranked Kansas to a 75-71 college basketball victory over the Tigers.

Kellogg, who scored 39 points against Nebraska a week ago and was named Big Eight Conference player of the week, was unstoppable in Saturday's nationally televised game.

The 6-foot-5 junior forward connected for 12 points in the first half to help the Jayhawks take a 34-28 lead at the intermission, then made eight of his first nine shots in the second half as Kansas appeared to be cruising to victory.

However, Keith Lee and Willie Becton led a Memphis State rally which saw the Tigers erase a 16-point deficit to pull within two points at 71-69 with 53 seconds to go.

Tad Boyle of Kansas then went to the free throw line with 33 seconds remaining when he was fouled by Baskerville Holmes and made both of his shots to open a four-point lead at 73-69.

Benson Askew hit a pair of free throws with 27 seconds to go that pulled Memphis State within two at 73-71. Seven seconds later, Boyle was fouled again and calmly sank two more free throws to open a four point spread once again.

Becton led Memphis State, 17-2, with 26 points. Lee, a 6-foot-10 senior forward, had 22 points. The Tigers were without point guard Andre Turner, who was absent because of the death of his father.

Calvin Thompson had 15 points for the Jayhawks in the first half and finished with 17.

Kellogg virtually was a one-man offense through much of the second half, at one point getting five straight buckets for the Jayhawks on an array of long jumpers, driving layups and, on two occasions, off-balance, one-handed hooks.

(2) Georgetown 78

Boston Coll. 68

BOSTON (AP) — David Wingate and Bill Martin combined for nine consecutive points in the final 3:07 to break open a tight game and lift second-ranked Georgetown to a 78-68 college basketball victory over Boston College Saturday night.

Boston College had closed a 59-49 deficit midway through the second half to 67-66 on a jumper from the left corner by Michael Adams with 3:55 remaining.

Martin was fouled by Trevor Gordon and hit two foul shots to start the rally. He connected on another pair after being fouled by Roger McCready to make the score 71-66 with 1:51 left.

Wingate, who led the Hoyas with 18 points, then drove the lane for a basket and was fouled by Gordon. He hit the free throw to open the lead to 74-66 with 52 seconds to go.

Wingate ended the run with two more free throws with 36 seconds remaining.

Georgetown, which led 44-38 at halftime, improved its record to 21-2 overall and 8-2 in the Big East.

Boston College, which led just once by one point early in the game, had its five-game winning streak stopped and fell to 16-6, including 5-6 in the conference.

Adams had 14 of his team-high 21 points in the first half, while McCready and Skip Barry added 12 each for the Eagles. Reggie Williams had 17 and Martin added 14 for the Hoyas. Patrick Ewing, Georgetown's leading scorer with a 14.7-point average, scored just nine.

Williams scored the first two baskets of the game to lead Georgetown to a 7-0 advantage, but Boston College got the next six points.

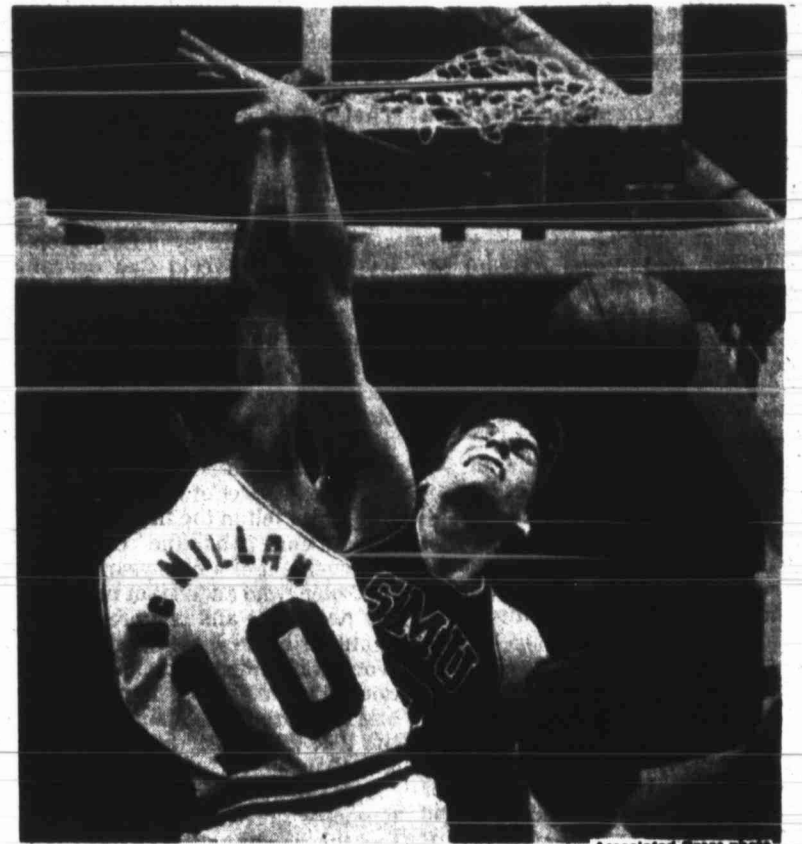

(9) Illinois 45

(8) Michigan 57

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Antoine Joubert and Richard Rellford led a second-half comeback that lifted No. 8 Michigan to a 57-45 Big Ten basketball victory over ninth-ranked Illinois Saturday.

The victory left Michigan a half-game ahead of idle Iowa with a 9-2 Big Ten record, 18-3 overall. Illinois, the preseason favorite to win the conference title, slipped to 6-5 and 18-7 after losing both games on their road swing into the Great Lakes State.

The injury-riddled Fighting Illini, who dressed only eight players, took advantage of Michigan's sloppy play and forged a 26-24 lead at the half.

N.C. State's NATE MCMILLAN dunks the ball over SMU center JON KONCAK during first half action. The Wolfpack won the game 82-78 in OT.

The two teams traded baskets in the second half until a pair of free throws by Bruce Douglas put Illinois ahead 31-30.

Then the Wolverines rattled off eight unanswered points on baskets by Gary Grant, Butch Wade, Roy Tarpley and Joubert to go ahead 38-31 and the Wolverines never looked back.

Joubert and Rellford each finished with 10 points but Joubert had eight in the second half — including a run of six in a row — and Rellford had seven in the final 20 minutes.

Tarpley led all scorers with 17 points — 11 in the first half — and pulled down a game-high 8 rebounds while Grant finished with 14 points for Michigan.

The Wolverines also got a stellar defensive effort from Butch Wade, who held Illinois forward Efreem Winters to just three points.

Winters, who came into the game averaging 11.5 points a game, didn't get his first basket until there was only 4:18 remaining.

(5) Duke 70

(20) Maryland 62

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Mark Alarie scored 21 points and Johnny Dawkins added 20 to lead No. 5 Duke to a 70-62 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over 20th-ranked Maryland, denying Terrapin Coach Lefty Driesell his 500th coaching victory.

Maryland, trailing 34-30 at the half, took the lead only once, at 43-42 on a Jeff Adkins jumper with 10:34 to go. The Blue Devils regained the lead on a Kevin Strickland jumper and gradually pulled away when Alarie scored nine points and Dawkins hit four in a 2½-minute span.

Adkins brought Maryland to within 61-57 with 1:12 left, but Len Bias was called for a technical foul and Driesell got another after a time out. Dawkins hit all four free throws to give Duke a 65-57 lead and Maryland never threatened again.

Hawks, Queens on road for crucial doubleheader

The Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens will try to get back into the win column Monday night when they visit the South Plains Plainsmen in Levelland.

Both teams are coming off of disappointing road losses to Western Texas JC and desperately need a victory to stay in the running for playoff spots. The Hawks are fighting for the home court advantage in the upcoming WJAC tournament, while the Queens are trying to stay in the leagues top four so as to advance to the women's playoffs.

Coach Ed Sparling said he would start guard Al Willis of Detroit, Michigan at the point and move leading scorer Micheal Porter to the strong side in move that will hopefully enable the Hawks to regain their high scoring form. Bruce Kimble will join Willis in the starting backcourt for the Hawks.

The Hawks will have to stop South Plains leading scorer, Steve Alford, who is currently maintaining a 19 point average.

Game time will be 8:00 p.m. for the Hawk Queens and 8:00 for the Hawks game.

Stan Blagrove: Ackerly's tractor pulling claim to fame

STAN BLAGROVE stands in front of the tractor that recently pulled him to a third place finish in the National Tractor Pulling Association's national competition in Indianapolis.

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

ACKERLY — Way back in ancient history when John Deere and Cyrus McCormick were tinkering with their first motor driven grain threshers, there is no way they could have ever envisioned the sight of Stan Blagrove's 1200 horsepower International Harvester tractor pulling monster. And what would old Cyrus say if he were beamed down for one of Blagrove's ear splitting pulls? "Where's the wheat?"

One of America's most unusual spectator sports has nothing to do with harvesting grain. Tractor pulling is self explanatory, the farmer who pulls the most weight the farthest is the winner. But that still probably wouldn't help out Mr. McCormick.

Stan Blagrove is one of only a handful of Texas tractor pullers. A breed of athlete who train by plowing the West Texas cotton patches and tinkering with turbo chargers. Stan is a native of the tiny farming community of Ackerly, Texas, 25 miles northwest of Big Spring. He's been sitting on a tractor since he was knee high to a Allis-Chambers.

Stan recently qualified for the National Tractor Puller Association's Indy Super Pull by virtue of being the top point man in Region 5. The event was held inside the Indianapolis State Fair Coliseum in what is considered the tractor puller's equivalent of the Super Bowl.

Blagrove won national honors by placing third in the Super Stock 1220 lb. class in a pull off against a turbocharged crop of super tractors. "I was pretty pleased with the way I finished up at Indy because I was pulling against tractor's that had four turbochargers, where I only have three in mine," commented Blagrove on a blustery February afternoon in his Ackerly garage.

The Blagrove family became involved in the sport around 1972, when Stan's father Derwood Blagrove, went to a Fort Worth pull with a neighbor who was competing in an open stock class. Although the elder Blagrove competed only briefly he became fascinated with tractor pulling. He followed the sports progress for a few more year until Stan and brother Steve were old enough to compete. "I made the boys drive in the fields for a couple of years before they got into pulling competition. So by the time Stan was 12 he had been driving for six years," explained Mr. Blagrove.

During the first two years that Stan competed he used the same tractor he drove while plowing his family's cotton crop. "We'd bring it in out of the fields and clean it up and take it to regular stock class pulls, then bring it back and put it in the fields again. Worked out good while I was learning the ropes," remembers Stan.

Ironically, it was accident on the way home from a regular stock pull that led to Stan's initial step into the national competition. "We were coming back from a stock pull one evening and this fella pulled out in front of me and when I swerved, my tractor flew off the trailer. About all we could salvage was the frame, so we decided to retire it from the fields and rebuild it into a legitimate super stock puller," said Blagrove of the '73 model International Harvester 1066 that he has been pulling with ever since.

The Blagrove Tractor Pulling Team has grown considerably since those early days. In addition to Stan's super stock, which he uses in both 9500 lb. and 1220 lb. class events, brother Steve has his own all aluminum IH 1066 which the Blagrove men have rebuilt to run in the lightest, 7000 lb. super stock class, as well as the 9500 lb. and 1220 lb. events. "We get our parts from a company in Chicago but we do all our own engine and body work," explained Stan. "I have been around diesel engines all my life, but I doubt I would have worked on our tractor engines if we had not gotten into tractor pulling. Farming and pulling really do go hand in hand."

In 1979, the Blagroves bought a semi truck and drop deck trailer to haul their tractors and the 8000 lbs. of weight the boys have to add to

Pellen races to slalom gold

BORMIO, Italy (AP) - Olympic silver medalist Perrine Pellen led France to a 1-2 finish in the women's slalom and gave her country the first gold medal at the World Alpine Ski Championships Saturday.

Christelle Guignard raced a blistering second run to jump from ninth to second overall and win the silver medal.

Olympic champion Paoletta Magoni of Italy took the bronze after a risky second run on the Order course to give the host country its first medal of the championships.

Italian and Austrian team official joined in filing a protest with the race jury, alleging that Guignard missed a gate in the second run and that she should be disqualified. The race jury rejected the protest after reviewing a tape of the race.

However, the president of the Italian Ski Federation, Arrigo Gattai, persisted with the protest, taking it to the International Ski Federation (FIS). FIS officials reviewed the tape again, rejected the protest and declared the results official.

"I am surprised at the protest because I would have abandoned the race if I'd missed a gate," Guignard said.

Pellen, 24, took over when first-run leader Erika Hess of Switzerland, the defending World Cup overall champion, fell just nine seconds into the second run.

Pellen clocked a second-run time of 44.10 for a winning aggregate of 1 minute, 29.58 seconds.

Guignard, 22, clocked a slow

46.10 in the first heat but was fastest on the second leg in 43.88 for a combined time of 1:29.93.

Magoni, eighth after a first run of 46.04, had the second-fastest final heat time of 43.94 for a final clocking of 1:29.98.

The United States was unable to duplicate its stunning gold-bronze giant slalom finish, with Eva Twardokens' 10th place the best finish. The 19-year-old from Squaw Valley, Calif., was clocked in 1:31.35.

Heidi Bowes of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was 17th in 1:34.00.

Tamara McKinney of Lexington, Ky., the 1983 World Cup overall champion and the tour's defending slalom champion, had another disappointing race. Just as in the giant slalom, she posted the second-fastest intermediate time of the first run only to fall before the finish.

The fourth American in the field, Karen Lancaster of Incline Village, Nev., also fell in the first run.

The gold was the crowning achievement of a nine-year career for Pellen, who added that medal to the two silver and two bronze she captured in previous Olympic and World Championship competition. She captured a silver in the slalom and a bronze in the giant slalom at the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

The 24-year-old graduate of Grenoble University, who has said that this will be her final World Cup season, is the tour's career leader in slalom victories with 15.

"I really didn't think I could do it," she said. "There were so many girls who could have skied faster here. I am so happy. "I must say that Erika had very bad luck in the second run," she said.

The 1-2 finish was the best for the French women in a world championship since 1966, when Annie Famose and Marielle Goitschel took the top two spots in the slalom at Portillo, Chile. It was also the first gold for France, a one-time powerhouse in Alpine racing, since Fabienne Serrat won the giant slalom title in the 1974 World Championships at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

"I am not disappointed with missing the gold, because it also went to France," said Guignard.

"I had such a bad first run, but I looked at the other times and I told myself I could still make the podium.

"I told myself, 'you can do it, go there and fight,' and I did it," Guignard said.

Magoni, 20, was slapped in the face by a gate during the second run and had to throw off her cap and goggles, but she managed to reach the finish line as the Italian fans cheered wildly.

"Of course, the gold medal from Sarajevo was much better but the bronze here suits me just fine," she said as she applied ice to a bump on her forehead.

It was another disappointing day for Hess, 22, who lost the second of the three titles she captured three years ago in Schladming, Austria.

The Swiss ace retained the combined title on Monday but finished 11th in the giant slalom on Wednesday before dropping out of the slalom.

Top seed Lendl advances in Lipton

DELRAY BEACH - "I've been trying to concentrate harder," admitted Ivan Lendl, after he had disposed of Victor Pecci, and advanced to the semi-finals. The top seed said he is "definitely improving each day. I wasn't missing much. It's the best I've played in a long time."

Lendl broke Pecci in the first and fifth games as he jumped out to a 5-1 lead in the opening set. In the second, they traded service breaks in the third and fourth games.

Pecci fought off two match points in the ninth game to hold his own service, but Lendl then closed out the match at love.

For the woman who has lost just four matches in the last two years, Saturday's victory was a normal day at the office for Navratilova.

"My matches are being uneventful, like I like all my (airplane) flights - uneventful, not boring," she joked.

"I'm able to work on my game, tinkering on my service, little things, working on it during my matches," she said.

Suire was never in her match against Navratilova. The left-handed native of Czechoslovakia ripped off the last five games of the opening set and allowed her French opponent to hold serve in the second set in only the first and seventh games.

The biggest surprise of the day was Flur's victory over Nystrom, one of the host of Swedish players ranked in the world's top-10. Flur was ranked 162nd on the Hewlett-Packard-ATP computer at the end of 1984 and has only won only two tournament titles in his professional career - a $25,000 tournament in 1984 and a Portuguese satellite event in 1983.

"I'm not a power player," said Flur, who was an All-American at Duke in 1981. "I use the other guy's pace.

"When I got out of college I thought I'd give tennis a year. Then

I decided I couldn't stop."

Flur said that in the second set, "I played as well as I could and got to 5-1. I played well (going) into the wind and broke him that way."

Smid also finally solved the wind in his match with Van Patten, a match that saw 15 service breaks.

"I had trouble with my first serve," Smid said. "It was windy. The only time I held my serve in the match while serving into the sun and wind was the last game.

Fernandez said she was "getting tired and hoping it wouldn't be three sets. It's the farthest I've gone in a tournament.

"I would rather not play tiebreakers. The key is to get a good start," said the eighth-grade student who plays on her school's tennis team.

Asked if she had plans to turn professional, she said no.

"Three wins doesn't change my plans," she said. "School is more important.

Tractor

"We do have a lot of money tied up in this equipment, but we use the semi to haul maize and hay, so it really serve a dual purpose," explained Stan.

The tractor pulling season runs from June through October for Team Blagrave, who are on the road nearly every weekend during this time. Region 5 encompasses Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, and Wyoming, and is one of six regions that stretch coast to coast. Despite Texas' large farming concerns, Blagrave admits that the sport has not caught on here like it has in the Midwest. "We went to a pull in Hildreath, Nebraska (pop. 5,000) and their were about 15,000 spectators. Tractor pulling is really popular in Nebraska and Kansas, the people just go crazy for it out there. I've never been to the Bowling Green (Ohio) pull, but I hear that it is the biggest. Louisville is supposed to be pretty big too."

What does the future hold for the tractor pulling superstar? "Oh you know tractor pulling is a lot like farming, you don't know what is going to happen in a years time. At the last NTPA meeting (Blagrave is the Texas NTPA delegate) they were talking about eliminating the 1220 lb. class and cutting some other stock classes too. Nobody knows for sure if the circuit will survive. Personally, I plan to keep on pulling as long as the competition is available."

Wouldn't Cyrus be amazed.

Come Home To SUNDANCE

Cookouts with your neighbors... couples out for evening strolls... a feeling of belonging in the community... all these wonderful things go hand-in-hand with a fine old neighborhood. And it's what you can enjoy at Sundance.

Sundance is more than expertly designed apartment homes, and well-kept grounds. It is a community of neighbors... people like yourself - who are making Sundance their home.

A variety of indoor spaces at Sundance insures that one of them will make you feel at home. All apartments boast private, exterior carports and entrances. Your patio opens out into spacious grounds. And your apartment at Sundance features such extras as abundant storage, walk-in closets, fenced-in courtyards, draperies, and all appliances including a dishwasher.

We would appreciate your visiting Sundance. But we hope you'll return as a resident... a neighbor. And stay for a long, long while.

NOTICE OF OFFICE RELOCATION APPLICATION AND HEARING

Notice is hereby given to all savings and loan associations operating in Texas that an application to relocate an office has been filed with the Savings and Loan Commissioner of Texas, as follows:

Docket No. and Application No. 85-607, City Savings Association from: 2600 Gregg Street, Big Spring, Howard County to: 1800 E. Farm Road 700 Big Spring, Howard County	Applicant's Agent/Attorney Mr. Ed Aiken, Jr. Executive Vice President City Savings Association P.O. Box 2340 San Angelo, Texas 76901

This application is filed pursuant to the Texas Savings and Loan Act, Article 632a, TEX. REV. CIV. STAT. ANN. The particular sections of Art. 632a involved are 2.13 and 11.11. The particular rules involved are 61.3 through 61.13, 63.3, 63.4, 67.1 and 67.2. Such rules are on file with the Secretary of State, Texas Register's Division, or may be seen at the Department's office.

Notice is further given that hearing on this application is scheduled for 10:00 a.m., March 4, 1985, in the hearing room of the Savings and Loan Department, 1004 Lavaca, Austin, Texas.

Each applicant association asserts: that operation of its proposed relocated office will not unduly harm any other association operating in the vicinity; that there is a public need for the proposed relocated office; that the volume of business in the community in which its proposed relocated office will operate is such as to yield a profit to the association in a reasonable time, and certain other assertions in accordance with rules 63.3 and 63.4.

Anyone desiring to protest this application may do so by writing the Commissioner at P.O. Box 1009, Austin, Texas 78768, and by appearing at the scheduled hearing and voicing protest when the application is called. A protest should include the docket number of the application, and a copy should be sent to the agent or attorney listed above. If you intend to protest the application, please file the written protest at least ten (10) days before the scheduled hearing.

If no protest is registered prior to or at the time the application is called, hearing may be dispensed with and the application may be approved and relocated when called, hearing on the application will be postponed to a later date, at the same location, for the purpose of receiving testimony and evidence from the protestant and to accomplish a record of pertinent information and data in support of the application and to issue an order in Austin, Texas, this 26th day of January, 1985.

Watts my line?

Bayes is trouble shooter for Bell

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

A hurricane had to come along before Paula Bayes discovered she was the first female cable repair technician in the five state region that Southwestern Bell Telephone covers.

Ms. Bayes began her work with Bell almost eight years ago in 1977. Following Hurricane Alicia's whip through the South Texas coast in August of 1963, Ms. Bayes was among the many technicians sent for three months to restore telephone service to the Houston area. There she learned she was the first woman ever to do repair work for Southwestern Bell. Today, seven women are working in the position.

Ms. Bayes joined Bell in 1977 when the company was hiring minorities. Like others, she had to prove she was in good physical condition by taking physical exams and tests before the company would hire her for the active work. In her youth, Ms. Bayes was a tomboy who worked on tractors and her daddy's farm. Climbing ladders and manual labor was nothing new for her, and she found her niche with Bell.

"This (position) happened to be open and an installer's job. I knew I didn't want to go into peoples' houses so I took this one," she said.

When Ms. Bayes is on a service call, she works along the telephone lines from the where the trouble was reported to the central office. She looks for anything that causes trouble with telephone service including birds' nests, bullet or lightning holes, deterioration or water in the cable. She also repairs or replaces damaged pedestals, poles and cables. "We are trouble shooters. We repair it or replace it if needed," she says.

Excitement animates Ms. Bayes as she describes her work. "Wanna see my truck," she asked this reporter. "I love my truck." In the middle of describing what her tools and equipment are used for, she interrupts herself and exclaims, "I love my job! I love my company!" She doesn't know exactly why. She just does.

"The men I work with trained me, and the company sent me to several schools the first three or four years," she said. "I work with the greatest bunch of guys. These guys were open minded and taught me a lot."

'A tiny little lightning hole can short out three or four telephones. It's self-satisfaction after you can clear it all up.'

"She is able to do everything a man is able to do, and is doing a very good job," says her supervisor Buford Dirst. "We treat her like one of the guys."

"Physical strength has never been a problem for her," he said. Ms. Bayes lifts weights and exercises to keep in shape for her active work. Some crews Durst knows about give women workers the lighter chores to do, but Ms. Bayes holds her own, he said. "We really don't see her as any different than the rest of the crew. And that speaks well of her."

Ms. Bayes has heard stories about other women in her position who were harassed on the job. She says she's lucky, she's never experienced harassment.

"The guys in Big Spring always treated me real good. They were open and patient. They treat me like I'm their kid brother or sister," she said.

The people, a good company, working out in the open and being able to move around in her work are her rewards.

"The people, after I repair their phone, are so great... One time a friend and I were working at night and had to use flashlights to work by. It was sleeting and cold. Some people came out and brought us some coffee. That was nice," she said.

"Someone called the repair service office the next day and made the remark that they thought it was so neat we stayed out in the cold to repair the lines."

Every case of trouble is different, and that is her daily challenge. "And to get people back into service as quickly as possible... Sometimes I get called out in the middle of the night," she says. "A tiny little lightning hole can short out three or four telephones; it's self-satisfaction after you can clear it all up."

Although she enjoys her work, like any job it has some frustrations: wind... sand storms... not having the right equipment with her causing her to climb down to get it. Another frustration occurs when she is splicing a cut cable and either she is sitting in a wet hole or its raining. "Someone makes a phone call that will send a little bit of current through the cable and it shocks you."

When she isn't climbing poles for Ma Bell, this single parent attends her 18-year-old daughter's basketball games at Sands High School; keeps house and also mothers her youngest daughter Alissandra, 8½. She also is involved in Blue Blazes and Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association.

As for her future, "I hope to get into management someday," she says. "In a few years, I think I'll be too old for this work. I think I'd benefit from working with people. And I would like to train others in cable repair."

"I love my company. I know that sounds corny, but I do."

Changes seen in role grandparents now play

WASHINGTON (AP) — Longer life expectancies, higher marriage ages, varying birthrates and more women in the work force have changed the roles grandparents play, says Christopher Hayes, director of The Catholic University of America's Center for the Study of Pre-Retirement and Aging.

"Today's family patterns reflect decades of social and economic change," he says. "Consider a classic image from American folklore: several generations of a middle-class family gather at the dinner table as a white-haired grandmother, her husband beside her proudly presents the Thanksgiving turkey."

Such Norman Rockwell portraits of harmonious, multigenerational family life may have been the norm 40 or 50 years ago, Hayes says. Then, many Americans spent their lives in the towns where they had been born and raised. But the picture has changed, he says.

'Immigrants who worked at skilled trades can pass on the lore of dying crafts...to grandchildren raised with microcomputers and mass-produced furniture.'

"Today's grandparents include full-time Wall Street investment bankers, retired Detroit steelworkers and Sunbelt nursing home residents." All of them can make significant contributions to society, Hayes says.

"We've developed means of prolonging life. The challenge facing us is to improve the quality of that life by examining the role of the grandparent in the family and the role of the elderly in society."

"Baby boomers" will have to find ways to meet that challenge, he adds, because they will be elderly in the next 20 to 50 years.

"Families should discuss what part grandparents can, should and want to play in their grandchildren's lives," Hayes advises. "Parents are often too tired from earning a living to respond to all their children's needs. Grandparents, who may have more free time and patience than do parents, can fill the gap. Because parents are the disciplinarians, children may find it easier to talk to their grandparents than to their mothers and fathers."

Hayes doesn't deny that grandparents have earned the right to their own time and space. The different generations of a family should candidly discuss what involvement each generation wants and needs from the others, he suggests. The family should discuss how the grandparents' role would change after a disruption, such as divorce, illness, death or relocation.

Divorce can create serious problems for grandparents who have played a significant role in their grandchildren's lives, says Hayes. The grandparents related to the parent who does not gain custody may lose all contact with their grandchildren, particularly if the divorce is bitter and the spouse with custody remarries or moves.

Several states recognize the legal rights of grandparents to maintain ties with their grandchildren, he says.

"Families should foster the positive aspects of the grandparent-grandchild relationship. By associating with their grandparents, young children can see the potential of older adulthood. Through stories and photographs, grandparents can enrich their grandchildren's awareness of events such as the Depression, daily life in another country and immigration."

"Immigrants who worked at skilled trades can pass on the lore of dying crafts such as stonemasonry and cabinet making to grandchildren raised with microcomputers and mass-produced furniture."

"Frequently, the children of immigrants are caught up in the race to become 'Americanized.' If ethnic and minority groups pass on their heritage to their grandchildren through oral histories, recipes and reminiscences, they perform a useful service."

For the grandparent isolated from family or the elderly who are childless, homebound or institutionalized, foster grandparent and adopt-a-grandparent programs offer valuable opportunities for communication, Hayes says.

"The elderly adults in such programs develop vital links to the community, and the young people, many of whom have no other contact with the aged, often begin to question their parents about older adulthood and their parents' plans for it," Hayes says.

Wanted: Foster homes needed for area youths

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A jail is not an ideal environment to aid a child's development.

With this in mind, Margy Thompson, chief juvenile probation officer for the 118th District's probation office, is looking for six homes in Big Spring eligible for foster care services.

"We're looking for the average Big Spring person who is law-abiding and a clean individual," Ms. Thompson said, "and a foster care person can be a single parent or working parents. There's no discrimination if they meet the criteria."

The state's juvenile probation commission has allocated $3,300 to the 118th District Probation Office to start foster care programs for kids up to and including age 17 in Howard and other surrounding counties. Last December, the Juvenile Board approved a foster care program submitted by Ms. Thompson.

"I think the commission initiated foster care programs as an alternative to detention," said Ms. Thompson.

Adults who qualify to participate in the program would become foster parents and provide a home to children in need of supervision. Ms. Thompson said foster care programs might reduce the problems of children running away from home or not attending school.

The advantage of foster homes is that they provide family settings. "I'm looking to put a child in a setting similar to a family," Ms. Thompson said. "They need to see how to control sibling emotions through example."

"We want to put the child in a real family situation — not a children's home or a facility. I really want them exposed to the norm as a whole.

"Foster homes are not for delinquent children," Ms. Thompson said. She described delinquent children as kids who are a danger or can present a danger to people around them.

After a child has been removed from a traumatic or potentially dangerous home and placed under foster care supervision, probation officers would provide counseling and other therapeutic services to correct the troubled home.

A child could then return home, Ms. Thompson said.

"What we do has to be in the best interest of the child," she said.

Ms. Thompson said the probation office would provide medical, dental and clothing expenses besides paying a foster parent $20 a day. The probation office would have daily contact with foster homes.

Steve Baldwin wins cultural award

STEVE BALDWIN was selected as the winner of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Award. This is a major state award that carries a lot of prestige.

Steve was nominated by JOHNIE LOU AVERY because of his work in both the hearing and deaf communities in encouraging the fine arts and cultural activities. He is an author, dramatist and teacher.

Steve is an instructor at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. His wife, CAROL BALDWIN is the daughter of MR. AND MRS. TOMMY HART and a reporter at the Big Spring Herald. Tommy is the former Herald editor.

The banquet will be at the Sheridan Inn Ballroom in San Angelo, April 22. A 15-minute slide presentation of Steve's life and works will be shown. A delegation of Big Springers will no doubt want to attend.

This is the second time this honor has come to Big Spring. In the late 1970s, BOB LEWIS, a.k.a. Tumbleweed Smith, was the recipient of this special and important award.

DENE SHEPPARD was installed as president of the local Toastmasters Club recently. Other local new officers include SONNY CHOATE, DIANE MOSES, LEE HENRY and GAIL EARLS. ANN AND ANGELO LOMBAR-

DI of Ohio are visiting their daughter and son-in-law MARY AND RICK KENNY. Rick is with Union Carbide.

The REV. CARROLL KOHL left early last week to lead a tour of the Holy Lands. As president of the Rotary Club, he took care of all his duties before leaving.

The Rotary Club Sweetheart banquet will be a special tribute to the ladies. JOY CULWELL, radio personality and speaker from Colorado City, will speak at the event. Joy works out of the West Texas Program Bureau here. The banquet will be at Howard College Cafeteria, Feb. 12, with SONNY CHOATE presiding as emcee.

Dear Abby

A.W.O.L. soldier too tired to run

DEAR ABBY: I need help. My son joined the Army, then after he finished basic training, he took off without leave. So far, he's still running, calling me whenever he can. He called last night saying he was tired of running and couldn't take it anymore, and he wants to give himself up.

I need to know what the Army will do to him for running away. Will he have to go to prison? Will they beat him? He's only 20.

Please answer soon because he is waiting for your answer, and so am I.

CAN'T SIGN THIS

DEAR CAN'T: All recruits are given written Army regulations, which include the consequences of going AWOL, so your son should know the consequences of "running away."

His punishment will be less severe if he turns himself in. He may be confined to the base for a certain period of time. He could be court-martialed and discharged from the Army with a dishonorable discharge. He might have to serve time in a military prison. He could be docked in pay or assigned extra duties. None of this can be determined until the circumstances of his running away are examined.

Tell your son to contact the nearest military police, or call his last command station and turn himself in immediately.

The longer he is gone, the more severe the punishment.

Weddings

Smith-Graves

Stephanie Smith became Mrs. Darin Graves in a ceremony held Dec. 22, 1984, at the Civic Center in Scottsdale, Ariz. The Honorable Nancy R. Conner officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith of Odessa and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyce Elliott of Odessa and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Graves of Houston. He also is the grandson of Jo Reynolds, 1300 Nolan, and the late Curtis Reynolds.

Jennifer Smith served her sister as maid-of-honor, and David Allan Cooklin was best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception at their home in Scottsdale and later at a dinner at the Radisson Scottsdale Resort.

The bride and bridegroom graduated from Permian High School and attended Scottsdale Community College. She is an employee of the Scottsdale Pet Center, and he is employed by Turf Irrigation.

Escanuela-Palomino

St. Thomas Church was the setting for the Saturday morning wedding of Elizabeth A. Escanuela and Arthur Palomino, Feb. 9. The Rev. Robert Vreteau, pastor, officiated at the rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alejandro Escanuela, 305 N.E. 8th. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Palomino, 314 N.E. 8th.

Eva Mendoza, pianist, Lorie Guzman and Norma Rameriz, vocalists, provided music for the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a formal gown of satin and silk Venice lace. The basque bodice was covered with lace and pearls and fashioned with a sheer yoke, high neck and mutton sleeves. The full skirt fell into a semi-cathedral train. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and blue ribbons.

Sonya Rodriguez was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Belinda Puga, Concha DeLeon, aunt of the bride, Leticia Escanuela and Pricilla Escanuela, sisters of the bride, Tera Noyola, cousin of the bride, and Renea Cruz, niece of the bridegroom. Amy Rodriguez, niece of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Best man was Lorenzo Martinez, cousin of the bride. Eddie DeLeon, uncle of the bride, Jimmy Paredes and Eddie DeLeon Jr., cousin of the bride, were ushers. Ismael Palomino, brother of the bridegroom, and Tony Saldivar were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted at a reception at St. Thomas Hall. The bride's table was draped with lace and featured a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with blue roses. The bridegroom's cake was German chocolate.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School. He is employed by D.L. Dorland Oil Producer. The couple will live in Big Spring.

MRS. ARTHUR PALOMINO ...formerly Elizabeth Escanuela

Fields-Foster

Loretta Kathleen Fields became the bride of Michael C. Foster during a wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Dec. 31, 1984. The Rev. Jose Mendiola officiated at the 4 p.m. rite before an ivy covered mantel decorated with lighted white candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey M. Fields of Alamogordo, N.M., and formerly of Big Spring. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Larry H. Falin, Alamogordo. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Fields, 2212 Cecilia.

The bride wore an ivory street-length gown fashioned with a crisscross bodice and long full sleeves ending with pearl buttons at the wrist. She carried a bouquet of purple and lavender flowers.

Adrienne Fields served her sister as maid of honor. Larry H. Falin was best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted at a reception at the same location. The bride's table featured a white three-tiered wedding cake decorated with a nosegay of purple flowers. The table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and centered with a purple and lavender arrangement.

The bride graduated from Eastwood High School in El Paso and attended University of Texas at El Paso and New Mexico State University. The bridegroom graduated from Del Norte High School in Albuquerque, N.M. and served in the United States Navy.

The couple will make their home in Alamogordo, N.M.

Not all heaters are appropriate

Portable heaters can generally help save energy when you use them strategically in one room or a small area, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist Dr. Peggy Owens. But not all types of portable heaters are appropriate for every room.

Radiant quartz heaters provide fast spot heating within their arc of radiation, but are not intended to warm a whole room. Convection heaters are best for distributing heat evenly through a room, but they are not good spot heaters, and the process of heating all the air in a cold room can take some time.

Dr. Donohue

Muscle's acid triggers fatigue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My problem is fatigue. I run with a friend of my age and general physical condition. I cannot keep up with him, but have to give up and slow down. Am I psyching myself into this situation? What's the answer?

Fatigue has physical and psychological aspects, but let me deal with one of the important physical causes having to do with muscle fibers. You have heard of the fast- and slow-twitch fibers. The fast-twitch fibers are used primarily in the first stage of any exercise. When these fibers use energy they produce lactic acid. This acid makes the muscles sense fatigue.

But this lasts only a few minutes. When you get past that phase your muscles switch to the slow-twitch fibers, which use stored sugar and oxygen. You lose the fatigue sensation and, in a sense, "get your second wind." You're now "doing aerobic" exercise. Oxygen is involved in energy production.

Most people can go a long way in this phase. But if you suddenly slip back into the fast-twitch muscle phase, the old lactic acid problem re-emerges. You become fatigued again. If you slow down at this point, you again let the lactic acid dissipate from the muscles and once more begin using the slow-twitch muscle fiber fuel.

Runners are able to go very long distances by training themselves to avoid lactic acid buildup, developing the ability to make and use body fuels in the optimum way. A sudden spurt to a faster pace, they know, will produce fatigue problems. This may be your difficulty. I don't know.

There are, as I said, some psychological aspects to fatigue. And I've only scratched the surface of the physical ones. Some become fatigued easily because not enough blood is getting back to the heart from the muscles to support its increased pumping pace.

But I think that you ought to see a lessening of your problem by concentrating on proper training. There are many books and numerous technical articles in libraries on the subject. Maybe you need a new running partner until you learn your own pace and distance capabilities.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send $1.00 and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 112210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Radiothon to air Thursday

KBST Radio Station will sponsor the American Heart Association's "Operation Heartbeat" Radiothon Thursday for Valentine's Day.

Throughout the day there will be discussions and interviews with authorities in the areas of cardiovascular fitness and health. "We're hoping residents will take this opportunity to learn about how they can lessen their risk of heart disease and that of their children," said Carmen Salazar, president of the Howard County division of the American Heart Association.

The station will play love songs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. dedicated to anyone's favorite valentine if they call and pledge a donation to the Howard County Heart Association. The dedications will be read on the air and special songs may be requested.

Together the Howard County area community and the American Heart Association can help to further the fight against cardiovascular disease," Salazar said.

Share a sweet heart with your sweetheart.

This Valentine's Day give the unexpected... an all ice cream cake Valentine of vanilla or strawberry. We'll decorate this special size of cake with rosebuds and your personal message for $10.95. Your love deserves the best.

Place your order early.

Dental hygiene class passes national exams

The first class of the Howard College Dental Hygiene Department received a 100 percent pass rate on national board exams taken in December 1984.

The National Board for Dental Hygiene is administered through the American Dental Association. In Texas, passing this board exam is required prior to taking the State Board in May/June. Students must complete both board exams to be licensed in Texas.

Students passing the board include: Jeanne Burnside, James Kinney, Denise Love, Mickle McGregor and Autumn Spencer.

TREATING ENLARGED PORES

An enlarged pore is the opening for a hair follicle that usually has a tiny, almost invisible hair and a large, active sebaceous (oil) gland. Enlarged pores are most obvious on the nose and the inner aspect of the cheeks and chin where oil glands are concentrated. Nothing can change the size of enlarged pores or prevent them from occurring. However, astringent preparations, which usually contain alcohol as their chief ingredient, help remove excess oil and make the pores less obvious for a short time. Face masks or facials do the same thing. Carefully selected and applied make-up can help conceal enlarged pores. A liquid base is generally preferred to a cream base.

What's new in hair fashion for '85 is available to you at I.A. CONTESSA. Our staff is up to date on all the fashion trends and techniques necessary to achieve the finest in hair care. A hairstyle designed for you personally will compliment your appearance. Come in and see us soon. We are conveniently located at 1508 Marcy. We are open Tues.-Sat. Call us at 267-2187 for an appointment.

HINT — Astringents can make enlarged pores temporarily less obvious by irritating the surrounding skin so that it swells slightly around the pore.

MARCH RITE — Wanda Jones, 1415 Tucson, and Glen Jones of Houston announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judy, to Stein Lewis, 1 Courtney Place. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis of Hamlin. The couple will wed March 16 at First Baptist Church Chapel with Dr. Leroy Fenton, uncle of the bridegroom and pastor of the First Baptist Church in Waxahatchie, officiating.

Paul Lazarus receives the Eagle Scout honor

The honor of Eagle Scout was awarded to Paul Lazarus at an Eagle Scout ceremony Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church of Belton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Lazarus of Belton and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Echols of Coahoma.

PAUL LAZARUS ...awarded Eagle Scout

Lazarus has been active in the Boy Scouts of America for three years. He is a member of Troop 150, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dennis Kelly. A member of the Order of the Arrow, Lazarus has earned the merit badges and completed the service project required for the award. His service project consisted of building and installing book racks in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church of Belton.

Supreme worthy president to visit Beauceant Assembly

MRS. PAUL MIHAL ...to visit Beauceants

The Big Spring Assembly No. 211 of the Social Order of the Beauceant will have a special meeting Wednesday at the Masonic Hall. All members and officers are urged to attend.

An official visit and inspection will be by Mrs. Paul Mihal and her staff. She is from Glendale, Calif., and the supreme worthy president of the Supreme Assembly of the Social Order of the Beauceant.

A dinner at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 p.m. will precede the meeting which is slated for 7:30 p.m. The Big Spring Commandry No. 31 will prepare and serve the meal.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available in the Lifestyle department. It is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1451, Big Spring, Texas 77720. Call us at (817) 263-7251 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information on engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. This announcement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Starclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Starclub information.

Information needed for Starclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their names and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Anniversary

The Preston Daniels

Mr. and Mrs. Preston L. Daniels, Sterling City Route, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary during a reception at their home Saturday evening. The event was hosted by their children and their spouses.

A Big Spring native, Preston met the former Marva Murphy in Big Spring at a neighbor's home when they were teenagers. She was born in Midland and raised in Big Spring. The couple was married Feb. 12, 1960. The late Rev. Cecil Rhodes officiated.

The couple has three children: Kimberly A. Savell, Preston L. Daniels, Jr., and Rick D. Daniels, all of Sterling City Route. They also have two grandchildren. The Daniels' have lived in Big Spring throughout their marriage. Daniels has been employed by the Big Spring Fire Department for 23 years and is a lieutenant. He also is self-employed as a plumber. Mrs. Daniels has been employed by Malone and Hogan Clinic for 14 years. The Daniels are Baptist.

"It has been a good 25 years," the couple said. "Even though we married very young, we would do it again. A very exciting time in our marriage was when we purchased acreage and built our home ourselves. We are looking forward to retirement so we can travel."

Daniels' pastimes are gardening and fishing. Mrs. Daniels enjoys sewing and canning food grown from the family's garden. The family also enjoys camping.

Agent advises homemakers to ask questions

Naomi Hunt, Howard County extension agent, presented a program, "The Art of Being an Informed Patient," to the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club Thursday. County extension agent Lisa Hoff also attended.

When choosing a doctor, you should "shop around" for one that suits your needs, said Ms. Hunt. Call the doctor's office, visit the doctor, and tell him that you are looking for a doctor best suited to your needs.

Ms. Hunt also advised to ask questions when choosing a doctor.

A new member is Gloria Kapes. The next meeting will be Feb. 21, in the home of Bea Dolan, Wasson Road. The program will be "Improving Your Memory".
