Stacy Dam settlement OK'd

Staff and bureau reports
AUSTIN — Sponsors of the proposed Stacy Dam reservoir in West Texas cleared another construction barrier Thursday when directors of the Lower Colorado River Authority approved a final settlement.

The contents of that document ultimately will control how much Colorado River water flows between West Texas and the Highland Lakes chain in Central Texas. Directors of the Austin-based river authority, which had waged a legal campaign to block construction of the reservoir since 1978, approved the plan unanimously following a 90-minute closed-door briefing on its contents.

LCRA officials refused to divulge the terms of the agreement, saying it must first go to directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. They meet at their Big Spring headquarters Tuesday to consider approving the document.

The Big Spring water district said in a press release today it assumed "no substantive changes" had been made to the draft agreement. The release said directors assume they will endorse the agreement Tuesday.

For the past three weeks representatives of both authorities have met in person or by phone almost daily to hammer out a detailed document outlining a plan for shared use of Colorado River water.

Water district plans for the reservoir — to be built near Ballinger for the municipal water needs of a wide area of West Texas, including Big Spring, San Angelo and possibly Abilene — were stymied by a Texas Supreme Court ruling last November that invalidated a Texas Water Commission permit for the project.

That court order, since refined and sent back to the commission for further review, followed LCRA's claims that Colorado River water needed for the reservoir already is obligated downstream, chiefly to the LCRA.

The river authority, however, Stacy Dam page 2-A

Jobless rate up, but below state average

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Layoffs after the Christmas holidays brought the Howard County unemployment rate to 5.4 percent in January, up from a low of 3.8 percent in December, according to John Eckley of the local Texas Employment Commission office.

However, the January increase still remained below the state figure for the first month of the year. The statewide average for unemployment in January was 6.9 percent, compared with 5.6 in December.

And the local jump in unemployed workers for January mirrored the national statistics, which show unemployment hovering around the 7 percent mark.

A number of temporary jobs were available in the county during the holidays, Joe Wallis, director of the TEC, said when reviewing December figures last month. Wallis said then that December was an above average month for hirings.

One reason for the increase in temporary jobs may have been the increase in Christmas sales in December. According to some local merchants, sales for this Christmas season bettered the 1983 seasonal figures.

The local labor force dropped slightly in January from the month before, Eckley said. Figures show the January labor force at 16,124, compared to a December labor force of 17,276.

During January, 15,249 people were employed. In contrast, 16,586 people were employed in December, TEC figures show.

Total unemployed in January was 875, compared to 660 in December, Eckley said.

Although unemployment figures for January are higher than those logged in December, Eckley said the county's economic condition is better this year than it was a year ago. In January 1984, the unemployment figure stood at 7.2 percent.

"There's been a steady improvement," Eckley said.

Being in the bee

Spring spells anxiety for student word wizards

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

More than 100 elementary students held their breath and slowly spelled words in their minds as they watched their classmates compete in the College Heights Spelling Bee Thursday afternoon.

The students were supportive of their competing peers. An exhausted "when" escaped from their lips in relief that a word was spelled correctly, or a disappointed "ahh" was loudly expressed after a friend mispronounced a word and followed with enthusiastic applause. They were proud of their friend. He was a winner for just being in the bee.

Tension evolved into a thick and heavy blanket that enveloped the crowded cafeteria as one by one the spellers left the action. Then there were two, a boy and a girl. Around and around the words they went until a misspelled one slipped from the girl's lips. She knew how to spell it, and realized her error immediately after uttering it. Soon

This scene will be played again March 5 at the Howard College Auditorium as Benjamin Chau competes with other school spelling representatives in the county at the Howard County Spelling Bee. Should he not be able to compete, his runner up Ginger Lara will take his place.

Students in grades 4-8 will represent their schools in the county bee, which begins at 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend. Ribbons will be awarded to all participants and

Farm credit measures override filibustering

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today ordered his agriculture secretary to unilaterally implement measures to ease the farm credit crisis despite their rejection by filibustering Democratic senators, a White House spokesman said today.

The plan would liberalize somewhat the requirements for farmers to obtain credit under the administration's previously announced $650 million farm-credit relief package.

The new measures include a slight easing of qualifications for farm banks seeking federal guarantees of shaky loans and increased guarantee levels, as well as assurances that adequate credit will be made available to financially pinched farmers for spring planting.

President Reagan recognizes a questioner during a White House conference Thursday night. Reagan told the nationally-broadcast session with reporters that he would not "pull the rug out... instantly" from under the nation's farmers.

Reagan's replies

President says Sandanistas must say 'uncle'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, asked if he seeks the overthrow of the Nicaragua government, said Thursday night that Sandinista leaders don't have "a decent leg to stand on," but their ouster would not be necessary "if they say uncle" and return to the goals of their revolution.

"What they have done is total. It is brutal, it is cruel and they have no argument against what the rest of the people in Nicaragua want," Reagan told a news conference in his harshest denunciation to date of the leftist government.

The president said that while his administration will support $650 million in short-term relief for strapped farmers, his overall goal is to return the "farm economy into the free marketplace."

Reagan's denunciation of the Sandinista government was his second within a week. On Saturday, he called the U.S.-backed "contras" seeking to overthrow the regime "our brothers."

"It is not a government chosen by the people... we believe we have an obligation to be of help where we can... and we're going to try to persuade the Cubans that we can legitimately go forward," he said.

The administration has been waging a covert war against the government, and Reagan said his aim is to overturn a congressional ban on further aid to the "contras."

Reagan said America's goal in the Central American nation is to help "those who fought a revolution to escape a dictatorship to have a democracy and then had it taken away from them by some of their fellow revolutionaries."

Reagan also renewed his call for Congress to pass tax overhaul legislation this year, and summoned the "political courage" needed to enact his program of spending cuts.

And Reagan said he will decide in a couple of months whether the United States will join the Soviet Union "in violating" the unratified SALT II arms control treaty.

The administration previously had alleged that Moscow had violated the treaty, which was negotiated in 1979, by, among other things, testing two new kinds of missiles when only one was allowed. The Soviets have denied it.

With the Senate embroiled in a dispute over emergency aid to cash-strapped farmers, the president told the nationally televised news conference he supports a "short-term" program including $850 million in loans and loan guarantees.

In addition, he said his administration would be presenting legislation on Friday "hopefully getting the farm economy back into the free marketplace."

"We won't pull the rug out from under anyone instantly... who relies on government programs, he said. But, the president added quickly, "the government programs did not succeed. Many of the problems they (farmers) face today are the result of government involvement."

Attack against the CIA

ATHENS, Greece — November 17, a leftist terror group which has boasted of killing two U.S. diplomats in Athens, claimed it shot to death a conservative Greek newspaper publisher in what it said was a campaign to "strike down CIA agents."

Nicholas Momefratos, 60, chairman of the board at Apogevmatini (Afternoon) newspaper, died Thursday evening, moments after two gunmen fired a dozen bullets through a side window of his blue Mercedes limousine, striking his back and chest, Athens police said. The attack occurred in the city's fashionable Kolonaki district.

U.S. begins Cuban deportations

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The deportation of 23 Cubans, 12 of them admitted criminals, was the first of a planned two-year series of flights to return 2,700 refugees who fled the communist island in 1980, federal officials said.

Some of the 23 flown to their homeland Thursday under an agreement with Cuban leader Fidel Castro had never had a minute of freedom since arriving in this country in the 1980 "Freedom Flotilla" of 125,000 people from the port of Mariel.

Twelve of the 23 admitted committing crimes in Cuba, while four others were charged with crimes in this country, court documents indicate. Backgrounds of the other refugees on Thursday's flight were not made available, although an immigration spokesman said all 23 "were guilty of serious crimes either here or in Cuba."

About 2,700 Cubans remain in United States prisons or mental hospitals as federal officials begin proceedings to deport about 100 of them each month under an agreement reached Dec. 14.

The remainder of the 125,000 Mariel refugees are eligible to seek status as resident aliens and then become naturalized citizens, said Duke Austin, an Immigration and Naturalization Service press officer.

In return, the United States will resume normal processing of immigrant visas for Cubans, which could bring about 25,000 Cubans to this country annually, Attorney General William French Smith said Thursday.

"We say 'yes' to legal immigration and 'no' to illegal entry as a matter of policy of this government," Smith said at a news conference in Washington.

Smith said the departure of the ineligible Cubans over the next two years will save the American taxpayers about $41 million a year in prison costs.

A federal judge Tuesday blocked the deportation of 16 of the 23 Cubans, saying they had not been given a fair hearing on their request for political asylum. The other seven had not requested asylum.

But the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Thursday the 16 are ineligible for asylum because of their criminal records.

An attorney for the Cubans said he would not appeal further. "I think that would be futile," said Dale Schwartz. "The Supreme Court two weeks ago told us that it would not intervene from the decision that it made."

Even if the 16 had been kept off the Atlanta-to-Havana flight, the government had intended to send the other seven back Thursday, said Maj. Roland Reed, an Air Force spokesman.

"They (Justice Department officials) did say that whether it's one person or 50, the plane will go," Reed said. "It's kind of like the first flight cross-country. The plane may not be full, but you go anyway and hope it will balance out in the long run."

Austin said 1,400 of the remaining 2,700 have been given "final orders of exclusion" and are next in line for deportation, but their departure could be delayed by a complicated 4-year-old class action lawsuit on behalf of all 2,700 Cubans.

Sen. Majority Leader Robert Dole

guaranteed farm operating loans, money to be used for spring planting. It also would have softened conditions banks must meet to receive federal loan guarantees, specifically in the cash flow their borrowers must show after payment of loan obligations and living and operating expenses.

Yet another provision called for an increase in levels of loan guarantees to farm banks, many of them suffering from the worsening financial condition of their borrowers.

The provisions offered no new federal money. After Democrats rejected them, Dole said, "I do believe they discovered there wasn't much" in the package.

Symphony's concert to feature solo guitarist

The Big Spring Symphony Orchestra will feature acclaimed international guitarist Javier Calderon as its soloist in the March 9th concert at Howard College Auditorium.

Calderon will perform the Rodrigo "Concierto De Aranjuez" for guitar with the symphony under the direction of Marianna Gabbi at 8 p.m.

Tickets will be available at the Howard College Auditorium box office or at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Adult tickets are $7.50. Student and senior citizen tickets are $4.

Nominated in 1975 as one of the "Outstanding Young Artists of the Year" by High Fidelity-Musical America magazine, Calderon is one of the world's leading guitarists. He performs extensively in the United States, Europe, South America and Asia.

He has performed as soloist with orchestras such as the Minnesota Orchestra, the Cincinnati Symphony, the St. Louis Symphony and the Atlanta Symphony. Calderon has given solo recitals on such stages as New York's Carnegie Hall, the Teatro Colon of Buenos Aires, and the Sun-Yat-Sen Hall of the Republic of China.

Making recordings with Lyra Records in South America, Calderon also has given concerts broadcasted by National Public Radio and televised by the Public Broadcasting System.

The only musician in Calderon's family was an uncle, who was a violinist. "He did not want me to play guitar; he wanted me to learn something like violin or cello. He succeeded in making me learn some cello at one point, and it was good because it rounded out my musical education," says

JAVIER CALDERON, ...international guitarist

Calderon. Playing cello in the National Symphony Orchestra of Bolivia as a youth gave him experience and a clear understanding of ensemble music.

He enjoys performing chamber music for guitar with other instruments and has played in chamber recitals with such renowned musicians as violinists Alexander Schneider and Rugiero Ricci, violist Emanuel Vardi, and cellist Yo Yo Ma.

Like Andres Segovia, Calderon is interested in expanding the repertoire of the guitar. He performs his own arrangements of Bach suites, the Spanish Dances of Albeniz and Granados, and many Latin American folk dances.

Many composers have dedicated compositions to him. It was for Calderon that American composer Alan Hovhaness wrote his Guitar Concerto in 1979, which was premiered by Calderon at Orchestra Hall in Minneapolis with Leonard Slatkin conducting.

Dear Abby

Church wedding possible dream

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you stated: "If there is a rabbi or Roman Catholic priest who will officiate at interfaith marriages. There are presently 180 rabbis on that list, including more than 50 who will invite their clergy to join them in the ceremony."

There are many rabbis and many priests who will officiate. We have had many mixed marriages in our synagogue in the past several years, including many in which clergy of other faiths have participated in the wedding ceremony.

Furthermore, the Rabbinic Center for Research and Counseling in Westfield, N.J., periodically compiles a list of rabbis who will officiate at interfaith marriages. There are presently 180 rabbis on that list, including more than 50 who will invite their clergy to join them in the ceremony.

RABBI JOHN M. SHERWOOD, WOODLAND HILLS, CALIF.

DER RABBI SHERWOOD: I appreciate the helpful information to pass on to my readers. However, interested parties should not assume that they can just ring up any rabbi on the list and be assured of an instant marriage ceremony. For example, most rabbis require a premarital conference and encourage a program of Jewish study after the marriage. Some rabbis (not all) require a commitment that the couple will establish a Jewish home and/or raise their children as Jews.

There are other conditions too numerous to mention here required by some rabbis, but a national list of rabbis who will perform mixed marriages, plus the prerequisites of each, is available free of charge by writing to: Rabbi Irwin H. Fishbein, Rabbinical Center for Research and Counseling, 128 E. Dudley Ave., Westfield, N.J. 07090.

Dr. Donohue

Gas gangrene threat less today

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My uncle is a veteran of World War II, in which he was a medic. He mentioned to me a couple of times the problem with gas gangrene in the war. He said the infection caused a peculiar odor. I am a Vietnam veteran and I didn't hear of it there. What was gas gangrene and is it still a threat? — J.L.F.

Gas gangrene was a very serious problem in previous wars, but much less so in Vietnam because of our greater knowledge of it and better ways to treat it. There were only 22 cases reported in Vietnam.

But gas gangrene is not exclusive to the battlefield. It is a real threat wherever there is the kind of blunt injury caused by gunshot or automobile crashes, where skin is punctured or deeply bruised. So doctors handling emergency victims are most conscious of gas gangrene.

The germ involved is clostridium perfringens, one of those germs so widely distributed in nature, even present in our intestines, where it normally causes no harm. But permit that germ to find its way to a part of the body that is dirty and deprived of oxygen and trouble begins.

In such an environment the germ multiplies, producing poisons that digest muscle tissue. It is in that process where little bubbles of gas form, giving the infection its name, gas gangrene. And in this process, the tissue may give off a mousey odor. But that is not really a reliable sign of the infection.

Thank goodness we don't hear much about gas gangrene these days, only about 1,000 cases a year in peacetime. It is still a serious threat and a most serious infection, that can lead to rapid death. We are fortunate now in having effective antibiotics to treat it. More recently hyperbaric oxygen chambers have been effective.

Music club honors American composers

The National Federation of Music Clubs designated February "American Music Month". To celebrate the occasion, Big Spring Music Study Club honored American composers at its meeting Feb. 13.

Carol Boyd spoke on the development of the American Musical Comedy. "It developed from a blend of American popular entertainment and the more classical European stage," she said. Most scholars believe that the 'Black Crook' written in 1866 was the first American musical. George M. Cohan followed with 'Little Johnnie Jones' in 1904 and 'Forty Five Minutes from Broadway' in 1908.

"The modern era of Musical Comedy began in 1943 with the premier of 'Oklahoma' by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein," said Ms. Boyd.

Songs from these musicals were interpreted by Ms. Boyd accompanied at the piano by Joe Hazel Dawson, Jeanine Fishback, Gaye Cowan and her son Jimmy Cowan, accompanied at the piano by Joan Bell. Suzanne Hainey was accompanied at the piano by Linda Lindell.

Guests at the meeting were Kit Moody, Cheryl Harris, Cowan and Betty Birdwell.

State and local police escort a crippled Bandido to Lubbock County jail Thursday.

22 Texas Bandidos snared in dragnet

LUBBOCK (AP) — Authorities are at a loss to say what has attracted so many members of the Bandidos motorcycle gang to this area, but they say a day-long series of arrests should help put an end to unlawful activities by the bikers.

A 150-member task force, part of an eight-state crackdown on the self-proclaimed outlaw gang, rounded up 22 Texas Bandidos and their associates Thursday in an operation that included running an armored personnel carrier through a gate.

"We've hurt them bad," Lubbock Police Chief Tom Nichols told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. "I don't know what attracted them to Lubbock, but I hope we're seeing the last of them."

Officials estimate that of 300 members nationwide, as many as 50 Bandidos live in the Lubbock area in West Texas.

Lubbock County Sheriff Sonny Keesee described the gang as a "bad organization the county doesn't need" and said authorities would "do what we can to rid Lubbock County of them."

Of the 22 arrested in Texas Thursday, two were in Fort Worth and another in Dallas County, officials said. More than 90 arrest warrants were issued nationally for Bandidos members alleging narcotics, weapons and racketeering offenses.

FBI Director William Webster in Washington described the roundup as the largest combined effort ever against a motorcycle gang.

A 22-ton armored personnel carrier was used in the Lubbock-area arrests "to gain entry into one of the compounds" where a suspect lived, said Lubbock police spokesman Bill Morgan.

"They used the tank to go right through the gate," Morgan said.

The raids began before dawn in Arkansas, Colorado, South Carolina, Missouri, North Dakota, Texas, Washington state, Illinois and Louisiana, Webster said. Agents from the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and local and state police took part in the raids.

Science fair opens Saturday

More than 210 students from around the Permian Basin will be in Big Spring this weekend to participate in the annual Permian Basin Regional Science Fair.

Exhibits will be set up and displayed Saturday. The fair will be opened to the public Sunday following an awards assembly at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The two-day event will be held at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the north foyer of the coliseum. Exhibits will be set up Saturday morning, according to Helen Gladden, one of the coordinators of the annual fair. Joe Reed is director of this year's science fair.

Judges will gather at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard College for lunch and an orientation session at 11:30 a.m.

Judging begins at 1 p.m. Students in grades 3-5 will set up their displays in the coliseum's East Room. Students in grades six through 12 will set up their displays on the coliseum floor.

In the elementary division, students may enter a group project or an individual project. Winners will be announced in life science and physical science divisions.

Students in grades 8-12 grade may enter only individual exhibits, Mrs. Gladden said.

Elementary students will be dismissed immediately after their grade levels have been judged, Mrs. Gladden said. Parents may wait for their children in the coliseum floor seating area.

Project will be dismantled about 3:30 p.m. Sunday. Projects not retrieved by students or their parents will be destroyed, Mrs. Gladden said.

Janice Rosson, another coordinator for the event, said this year's science fair drew about one-half the usual number of entries. New regulations enforcing the amount of time children may miss school forced the fair to be moved to the weekend, and this may have hurt participation, Mrs. Rosson said.

Downtown project cited by state

Big Spring has been named a "self-initiated city" in the Texas Main Street downtown redevelopment project, City Administrative Assistant Pat Hardy said.

The designation as a "self-initiated city" will allow the Heart of the City project to take advantage of educational programs, guidance and other non-financial resources offered by the state program, Hardy said.

Five cities are selected each year to be "Texas Main Street" cities, according to Hardy. Cities not selected as Main Street cities but that are doing downtown revitalization projects on their own are named self-initiated cities, he said.

Hardy this month attended a two-week training program on redevelopment projects free through the Texas Main Street because Big Spring was named a self-initiated city.

"It gives us statewide recognition. And gives us the opportunity to use most of their resources on education, marketing and architecture. It's a pretty big deal," Hardy said.

Big Spring's Heart of the City downtown merchants association program for downtown revitalization is "basically patterned after the Texas Main Street program," Hardy said. "It's been proven successful in other towns with problems similar to ours."

"The only solid, long-term way to effect lasting change in the downtown area is through using the Main Street program," he said.

The program has been successful in Sweetwater, Waxahachie, Hillsboro, Plainview, McKinney and Georgetown, he said.

"The biggest problem is that it's an incremental system. It's the epitome of an incremental program; it takes a long, long time. Five years down the road we'll begin to see results," he said.

Incremental programs, however, create problems because "people get frustrated after six months because they think it hasn't worked," Hardy said.

"It took the downtown area 30 years to deteriorate. We're not going to turn it around overnight. It will take between five and six years."

"When business is not good anywhere in town, it compounds the problem," Hardy said. "We're dealing with an economic problem. Rejuvenation should help business in the city."

At the end of one year, the Main Street program states that the city should have developed an organization and have one promotion, he said.

Water district director is top conservationist

The Texas Water Conservation Association named Big Spring resident Owen H. Ivey, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, as conservationist of the year in its annual meeting Thursday in San Antonio.

Ivey was praised for his water conservation efforts in West Texas and his involvement with the Stacy Reservoir project.

Ivey, a Corsicana native, graduated from Arlington High School. He majored in mathematics and physics at Southwestern University and served with the Navy during World War II.

He joined the Colorado water district in 1953 and was given charge of maintenance and operation.

He became assistant manager in 1959 and moved up to general manager in 1965.

Ivey became a licensed professional engineer in 1958.

Odessa powers by Hawks, 80-66

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

ODESSA — The Odessa College Wranglers maintained their share of the WJAC conference lead with a 80-66 win over the Howard College Hawks Tuesday night at the Odessa College Sports Center.

In a crucially important game for both teams, Odessa used its superior depth to stave off the upset-minded Hawks. Howard had beaten Odessa 90-89 in overtime the last time the two teams met at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The Wranglers had a perfect home record going into the game, which was the last regular season game they were to play at the Sports Center.

The Hawks could not duplicate the incredible outside shooting that had been the catalyst in their first upset win over the Wranglers. Howard was a chilly 11 of 36 from the field in the first half, with most of those field goals coming from Bruce Kimble, who had 14 in the period.

Wrangler forward Patrick Fairs scored 8 first half points, all from the outside. But inside the paint is where the Wranglers did the most damage. Power forward Mark Benoit had nine points in the first half and post Dewayne Chism scored six to lead the Wranglers to a 32-27 lead at halftime.

Hawk posts Martin Jenkins and Walt Reynolds did a fine job of rebounding in the first half but neither could find the range with their inside shots. Kimble kept the Hawks close with outstanding outside shooting, while the Howard man-to-man defense prevented Odessa from reeling off too many first half points.

The Hawks opened up the second half with 5 unanswered points to cut the Odessa lead to one, 33-32, at the 18:15 mark. That would be as close as the Hawks would get however, as Odessa went on a streak of their own, and held a 39-32 lead with 16:13 remaining. The key to the Wranglers rally was a stiff full court press which resulted in a couple of quick breakaway layups off Hawk turnovers.

Fairs continued his hot outside shooting and Odessa's leading scorer, Tommie Bolden, who was benched the first half for his poor showing against NMMI, came on in the second half to spark the Wrangler attack. Jenkins and Kimble kept Howard in the running with three buckets apiece in the early going, but the constant pressure by the Odessa press finally began to take its toll.

The Hawks were forced to play catch-up ball after Odessa opened up a 63-50 lead with 5:31 left in the game, but could not put the points up quick enough due to the fine defensive pressure that was sustained throughout by Odessa. Howard shot 66 percent from the field in the second period, but Odessa countered with a deadly inside game that collected many high percentage baskets.

After amassing a 73-54 lead with 3:00 minutes remaining, Odessa brought in its subs for what turned out to be an extraordinary slam dunk show. Odessa starter Bruce Neod crushed a reverse left-handed slam and then substitute guard Dwayne Scott crammed a two-handed alley-oop pas that sent the home town fans into delirium. Bruce Kimble got into the act for Howard with a towering baseline slam, but it was too little, too late for the Hawks as Odessa cruised to the 80-66 victory.

"We really did not do one thing well tonight," remarked a dejected Howard head coach Ed Sparling. "Odessa played good defense and got the ball in the paint. That is the key to winning any ball game."

Odessa's balanced scoring attack was led by Fairs with 21 points. Chism finished with 17, while Benoit had 14 for the night. Odessa ran its conference record to 13-3 with the win to stay in first place tie with Midland Junior College.

Kimble led all scorers with 22 points. Michael Porter was the only other Hawk in double figures with 10 points for the evening. Howard dropped to 6-10 in conference play, and 12-14 to the year.

HOWARD (88) Kimble 10-2-22; Bell 2-3-7; Reynolds 2-3-7; Burney 4-0-4; Porter 5-0-10; Jenkins 4-0-8; Varnado 1-0-3; Willis 1-0-2; Totals 29-8-66.

Lady Wranglers dominate Queens, 85-55

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

ODESSA — The number one ranked Odessa College Lady Wranglers certainly showed why they deserve their high rating, as they crushed the Howard County Hawk-Queens, 85-55 last night. The win clinched the Western Junior College Athletic Conference championship for the Lady Wranglers.

The Queens were hoping to upset the nation's top-ranked junior college women's team after playing them tough at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in a 53-47 loss earlier in the season. But it was not to be, as the Lady Wranglers opened a quick ten point lead after only seven minutes had elapsed in the first half.

Led by the awesome post combination of Dee Conwell and the WJAC's leading scorer and rebounder Sharon Blair, the Lady Wranglers seemed to score almost at will against the outmanned Queens. Three starting Queens got into early foul trouble trying to contain the high scoring Odessans. Lorri French picked her third foul midway through the first half, and starting posts Allison and Diane Dickson each were hit with their third fouls with five minutes remaining in the first period.

Led by Blair's 14 first half points, the Lady Wranglers took a comfortable 40-22 lead with them into the locker room at half. The Queens leading scorer for the year, Molly Early was held to just six points for the game, all of those coming in the first half. The Lady Wranglers pressure man-to-man defense kept the Queens from getting open shots from the outside while Blair and Conwell were dominating the action inside.

The Queens opened up the second half by shooting the ball much better, but only managed to stay apace of the offensive minded Lady Wranglers. Alex Provincio found her touch for 12 second period points to keep the Queens relatively close through half of the final period. But Odessa began to pull away after Allison Dickson fouled out with 9:15 left in the game. At the 8:35 mark Odessa had pulled out to an insurmountable 60-41 lead.

The scrappy group from Howard never gave up, battling the Lady Wranglers to a 15-15 draw through the final eight minutes of the contest. Wrangler guard Carmen Alvarez had a hot hand for Odessa in the second half, scoring 14 points in the period. But it was the prospective All-American Blair who really lit up the scoreboard with 15 second-half points, for a total of 29 for the evening. Both teams substituted freely in the late going as the Lady Wranglers put the game out of reach.

Conwell added 18 points for the Lady Wranglers and point guard Alvarez ended up with 20 points for the game. Odessa cruised to their 30th straight win of the season with the 85-55 victory.

Provincio led the Queen scorers with 16 points on the night, while Lorri French was the only other Queen in double figures with 12. The Queens dropped to 5-7 in the WJCA conference race.

HOWARD (55) Provincio 8-0-16; French 4-4-12; Early 1-4-6; Winsmann 3-5-11; Eitner 2-0-4; Bolen 0-0-0; A. Dickson 3-0-6; D. Dickson 0-0-0; Totals 21-13-55.

ODESSA (85) Alvarez 9-2-20; Brown 3-2-8; Bartlett 0-0-0; Mitchell 0-0-0; Jackson 3-0-4; Fairs 2-0-2; Conwell 7-4-18; Blair 12-5-29; Ware 0-0-0; Totals 35-15-85.

Trevino tied in Doral golf action

MIAMI (AP) — Lee Trevino admits to practicing a little gamesmanship from time to time.

"I'm a good player," the Hall-of-Famer said in a matter-of-fact tone Thursday after a wind-blown 69 had put him one shot off the pace in the first round of the $400,000 Doral-Eastern Open.

"I know I'm a good player," Trevino said. "I have confidence in myself and what I can do. I can play. If I shoot 80 tomorrow, I'll still say I'm a good player. "I'm still capable of winning. I'm still capable of winning in the majors."

"The only time you'll hear me say, 'Oh, I can't play, I can't putt, I'm too old' is when I'm trying to turn people off a little," he said. Moment earlier, he had completed his 3-under-par round despite an erratic driver and winds that gusted to 35 miles per hour.

"I hit the driver awful. I can't remember when I hit so many off line," Trevino said.

But only one man in the field, rookie Greg Twigg, had a better score. Twigg, 24, who has played in only three other Tour events and did not qualify for the final round in any of them, birdied the last hole for a 68.

He's only seen his name on the leaderboard once in his Tour career. He has yet to make a cut.

"The first few weeks, nothing seemed to go right," said Twigg, who last year competed on the minors before gaining his playing rights in golf's big leagues, the arena in which Trevino has starred for many years.

But Trevino insists that he, not the rookie, is now the underdog.

"I'm always the underdog," Trevino said. "Every time I tee it up now, I'm the underdog. Look, I'm gonna be 46 years old this year. I've got to be the underdog."

Tied with Trevino, a single stroke off the pace, was Fred Couples, who had a share of the top spot until he bogeyed the final hole from a bunker.

In a group at 70, were Mark McCumber, Andy Bean, Peter Oosterhuis, Barry Jaekel, Bill Kratzert, Gibby Gilbert and Bob Wrenn.

Defending champion Tom Kite had a position among the leaders until he bogeyed two of his last four holes and finished with a 71.

Fuzzy Zoeller, the U.S. Open champion on a comeback from major back surgery, had a respectable 74 in his first competitive round in 5½ months.

That's two shots better than Jack Nicklaus managed. Spain's Seve Ballesteros, the British Open champion, slashed his way to a fat 78 in his first round.

Cowboys sign new quarterback

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have signed former Tampa Bay quarterback Bob Hewko, team officials say.

"Supposedly a lot of teams tried to sign him," said Cowboys Vice President Gil Brandt said. "I think this guy has some ability."

The 6-foot-4 lefthander from the University of Florida was on the Tampa Bay roster during part of the 1983 and 1984 seasons. He was a second-string quarterback for most of his college career, but threw three touchdown passes against Arkansas in the 1982 Bluebonnet Bowl.

In other contract matters, defensive lineman Randy White officially signed a new four-year contract that will pay him an average of about $625,000 a year plus a $600,000 signing bonus.

Brandt said the Cowboys are still trying to reach an agreement with starting defensive tackle John Dutton, who is beginning the option year of a three-year deal, and with linebackers Anthony Dickerson and Jeff Rohrer.

Erxleben booted out of court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Louisiana judge has thrown out part of a $255,000 defamation of character suit filed last year by former New Orleans Saints punter Russell Erxleben against a sportscaster and a radio station.

Civil District Court Judge Richard J. Garvey dismissed Erxleben's claims that Buddy Diliberto's broadcast after the Saints played the Los Angeles Rams in a National Football League Game on Dec. 18, 1983 made Erxleben lose face with his teammates and embarrassed his family.

But Garvey kept alive that part of the suit in which Erxleben contended his reputation with the public was damaged by Diliberto in the broadcast over WEZB-FM of New Orleans.

Hoopsters garner All-District awards

Coahoma post players headline 7-AAA squad

A trio of post players from the Crossroads Country area have been named to the girls 7-3A All-District squad.

District runner-up Coahoma was led by Leslie Kirkpatrick and Shanna Fowler, both unanimous choices. Colorado City was represented by Denise Jackson.

Kirkpatrick and Fowler were instrumental in leading the Bulldogettes to a 17-13 overall slate. Coahoma finished second in district play behind Crane with a 7-4 slate.

Kirkpatrick, a 5-11 junior, was Coahoma's leading scorer averaging 16 points per contest. She also grabbed 10 rebounds per game. Fowler, a 5-9 sophomore, was also a force on the boards averaging 12 rebounds per contest. She also averaged 12 points per game. Jackson, a 5-10 junior led the Lady Wolves in scoring and rebounding with 21 and 7 respectively.

Coahoma junior forward Brandi Kloss was the lone area player named to the Honorable Mention squad.

Brown says he's innocent

JIM BROWN
...says charges are false

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Pro Football Hall of Famer Jim Brown said today that laboratory tests will prove he did not rape a 33-year-old woman.

Brown, free on bail while officials decide whether to file charges, has been booked for investigation of rape and sexual battery.

"I'm waiting to see the report from the hospital on the technical aspect of rape," Brown said in an interview on The CBS Morning News. "I think if the police would reveal those findings, I'm sure it will exonerate me."

Brown, 49, was arrested at his home Wednesday in the Hollywood Hills after an alleged incident late Tuesday night, Los Angeles Police Sgt. Richard Beardslee said in reading a prepared police statement.

Arrested along with Brown was a woman identified as Carol Moses, 22, who was booked for sexual battery, according to Sgt. Charles McTeagart.

"It was the fastest arrest in history," said Brown, who also is an actor. "The alleged incident occurred one night. The next morning when I walked to get my paper, there were 10 policemen there. They handcuffed me without telling me anything.

"They had a search warrant. They said there was marijuana in my house. They said my companion was involved. At no time until they sat me down at a table with my hands behind my back did they tell me what it was all about."

Brown was released on $17,500 bail and Ms. Moses on $1,000 bail, police said.

Brown said the alleged incident was front page news "across the country," and added that many news stories were far more important.

"I'm the last revolutionary of the Sixties," Brown said. "Whenever my back is broken the vendetta is over."

"I am out front. I am forward I speak my piece. I am innocent."

District attorney spokesman Al Albergate said Thursday that no charges had been filed.
"When they get the paperwork to us, we will review it," he said. "Basically, we are working with the Los Angeles police department to develop the investigation."

Lefty finally gets win number 500

COLLEGE PARK, M. (AP) - After failing four times to reach the 500-victory mark, Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell was sandbagged by his own players after he finally reached the pinnacle.

Invited into the locker room for comments instead of heading for his usual postgame spot in the training room, Driesell was greeted by a champagne dousing.

Driesell fought off his son Chuck, a senior guard, and freshman center Derrick Lewis before the contents of the bottle was poured on his bald pate.

"They messed up my cigar," Driesell said, puffing to get the tobacco burning after drying it off as well as he could. Then he vowed to order extra running in practice for the ringleaders.

The champagne had been touted around the Atlantic Coast Conference for two weeks while the Terps tried to nail down the elusive victory.

"I'm glad it's over," Driesell said of the quest. "I got tired of hearing '499' every time we played on the road."

Driesell was already in fast company on the all-time list, even before the mismatch against Towson State, an undermanned intrastate rival which was down to eight players because of injuries, illness and academic difficulties.

In his 25th season of collegiate coaching, Driesell becomes the 17th to reach the 500-victory level in Division I competition, and ranks sixth among those still active.

"His record speaks for itself," said senior Adrian Branch, who paced Maryland with 20 points. "We're being coached by a legend. It was a big win at home. Coach deserved a chance to go down in the history books."

Driesell, hounded by the media and enemy crowds as the Terps lost to Duke, North Carolina, Clemson and Georgia Tech, was able to joke for the first time in two weeks.

"This was a good way to win a big game," he said after Maryland extended its record to 20-10. "We need to schedule more games like that next year."

With Towson State, 7-18, missing 14 of its first 15 shots and having four entries blocked, Maryland jumped ahead 16-2 and led 38-20 by halftime.

Leading 48-28 after Steffan Bunsavage scored for Towson State with 16:03 left, the Terps outscored the Tigers by an incredible 38-1 margin - a streak snapped by a foul shot after 20 consecutive points.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 23, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The earliest part of the day is by far the best time to consider what new interests and activities you want to be engaged in the future, so look into whatever information is available.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early be off to those activities that appeal to you very much even though they are new to you. Drive and walk with care.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You had better plan early just which activities you want to get into before you actually do so. Utilize good judgment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day for much gregariousness and seeing friends you like and having a delightful time with them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A god day to get into some kind of public activity that you like, so spring out of bed early and go-go-go.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get an early start on some trip so that you can garner the data you need that is important to your way of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take enough time to find out what a business person expects of you. Then your association can be handled very satisfactorily.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A dynamic person will try to convince you to team up and have a worthwhile relationship in the future. Perk up your health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put more pizzazz into your regular work and gain more benefits in the future. Teach a co-worker to be more enthused.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get your talents modernized and then you can have greater prosperity. You can take that small risk now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Everyone at home has a different idea how to better conditions there, so try to balance them successfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you get an early start, this can be a day of real accomplishment for you. Let partners know you're willing to go with their ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact that most successful bigwig you know and get ideas that will help you to become more prosperous in the days ahead.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a sort of dual nature, conventional on one hand and pioneering on the other. Give a combined course of education so that your progeny can profit by both. Teach to complete whatever has been started, otherwise your progeny could become merely a dabbler.
