VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Two Syrians being deported home from West Germany today commandeered a Boeing 727 carrying 43 people aboard and forced it to land at the Schwechat Airport, where 21 passengers were released, officials said.

Hans Birkenbeul, spokesman for the Berlin Interior Ministry, declined to identify the two by name or say why they were being deported.

"They don't have spotless records to their credit," he told the Associated Press in Berlin. The plane was en route from Frankfurt, West Germany, to Damascus Syria when it was hijacked, officials said.

Helmut Maier, a Lufthansa spokesman, said the plane was carrying 35 passengers and eight crew members. The hijackers were believed armed with knives and a broken bottle, and were threatening two flight attendants, Schwechat Airport authorities said. They declined to give their names.

West German spokesmen here and in Bonn declined to give details of the negotiations. Airport spokeswoman Hildegard Ehmsen said they demanded political asylum in Austria.

Dollar in dive

LONDON (AP) — The dollar went into a nosedive early today in what was described as "panic" European trading triggered by large-scale central bank intervention against the U.S. currency.

The intervention involved the sales of hundreds of millions of dollars on world foreign exchange markets by the central banks of West Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Belgium.

The central banks entered currency markets a day after Paul Volcker, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve, told a House banking subcommittee that he questioned whether intervention had been practiced "forcefully enough" to have an impact.

By the end of the European trading day the dollar had stabilized, traders said.

Gold prices, meanwhile, rose.

The dollar, after setting records on 16 out of 18 business days this month, went into free-fall today. By mid-morning, it had lost more than 13 pfennigs against the West German mark, 35 centimes against the French franc and 28 Italian lire. Against the British pound, the U.S. currency dropped more than 5 cents from Tuesday's midafternoon all-time high.

Israelis attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese troops and Israel's occupation forces exchanged tank and machine-gun fire for 85 minutes today in their first clash at the new Israeli front line in south Lebanon, the Lebanese army command announced.

A statement by the command said an Israeli foot patrol crossed the defense line north of the village of Kawthariet as-Sayyad and "tried to advance toward the liberated areas. The army fired warning shots in the air and the patrol retreated."

A few minutes later, according to the statement, "an armored Israeli unit advanced toward the army post and one tank began firing.

"The Lebanese army returned fire with rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns," according to the statement. The Lebanese said they had no reports of casualties on either side.

Kawthariet as-Sayyad is on the new Israeli defense line in south Lebanon, about 25 miles north of the Israeli border.

It was the first clash between the two armies since Lebanese regulars deployed in the port city of Sidon and the surrounding area on Feb. 16.

Q. Why has the city landfill been closed the past two Sundays?

A. According to City Public Works Director Tom Decell, the City wanted to see if money could be saved by closing the landfill on Sunday. Decell said there had not been much usage of the landfill on Sunday.

However, city officials decided to reopen the landfill when they received several complaints. The landfill will be opened this Sunday.

M Bank claims lien on Settles

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Attorneys for M Bank of Dallas claim the bank still holds a $800,000 lien against the Hotel Settles, according to their response to a lawsuit filed against the bank in 118th District Court in Howard County.

Bank attorneys were responding to claims by San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra, who purchased the historic 55-year-old hotel in October, that bank officials had denied they had any financial interest in the hotel.

Cuadra filed suit Jan. 28 against M Bank, formerly known as Mercantile National Bank of Dallas, asking the court to rule the bank had no financial interest in the hotel.

In the lawsuit, Cuadra claims the bank issued a release of lien on the hotel on Aug. 6, 1980, little more than four months after the lien was signed April 1, 1980, by former owner William Wortley of Big Spring Associates.

The bank's reply, written by

Hubert Johnson of the Dallas law firm of Johnson and Cravens and filed Friday by the clerk's office, states: "...from this presumably inaccurate record reference it is clear that the Aug. 6, 1980, document was merely designed to eliminate an error that had been made in prior documentation."

"Defendant specially denies it has ever released either the deed of trust lien or the vendor's lien assigned to it by an assignment of lien dated Aug. 12, 1980," the bank's response states.

The bank's statement also claims Cuadra's attorney came to an "erroneous conclusion of law" on the impact of a letter written by

Stacy Dam agreement goes to state

Staff and Bureau reports

The atmosphere at the Colorado River Municipal Water District office in Big Spring today is "relaxed" after the district and the Lower Colorado River Authority filed final documents Tuesday ending their dispute over the Stacy reservoir and proposing a shared use of Colorado River water between West and Central Texas.

Owen Ivie, manager of the Big Spring-based water district; John Taylor, board president; and Joe Pickle, board secretary, flew to Austin Tuesday to file the 14-page settlement document between the local district and the Lower Colorado River Authority with the Texas Water Commission.

Officials from both districts outlined the settlement's details at an Austin news conference. Pickle said everything went smoothly between the longtime water rights rivals. "Everyone was very friendly," Pickle said. With a laugh, he said the feeling Tuesday "was peace, love, and all that sort of thing."

John Jones, president of the Austin-based authority, told members of the local water district, "he was glad this thing had been brought to a conclusion." Pickle said. During the news conference, Pickle said the question was raised several times asking members of the Austin water district if they had felt pressured to agree to the compromise. They answered no, Pickle said.

Another reporter asked, "Who won?" Pickle said Bill West, water resource manager for the Austin district, said, "We all did."

The document was filed with the Texas Water Commission hours after winning final approval from the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring. The district wants to build the reservoir near Ballinger to quench the water needs of a wide area of West Texas, including Big Spring, San Angelo and possibly Abilene.

Central to the compromise is an agreement by the Austin-based Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) to relinquish 113,000 acre-feet of water rights at its Buchanan reservoir.

The Texas Supreme Court dealt the Stacy project a setback last November when it blocked the project following

Arsenic test results due

State checks new water wells in Knott for poison

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

KNOTT — A Department of Agriculture official last night said the state's one-year investigation of mysterious high arsenic levels in well water here may produce results soon.

District supervisor David Davis from the agriculture department's Odessa office said the investigation is awaiting test results from new water wells dug on a farm here.

The agriculture department took water samples from new wells dug by area farmer Bud Hughes.

"We'll know something pretty soon," Davis said. "Right now, we're taken up with special projects."

Davis and district state agriculture official Bill Rogers met with Knott farmers Tuesday night at the Farmers Co-op Gin.

"We're working with the Legislature to broaden the scope of investigation, but money is tight," Davis said.

The state Department of Public Health has found high levels of arsenic in several Knott water wells over the past year.

Arsenic in Knott was first reported in Dec. 1983 when cattle belonging to Hughes died from arsenic poisoning contained in a water tank. The agriculture department, working with the Texas Department of Water Resources, found that Knott's gin trash, soil and several water wells contained arsenic. Further studies revealed that the source of the arsenic was likely to be a byproduct of a cotton defoliant used in the area approximately 30 to 50 years ago.

Davis said his department has asked for federal and other state agency aid.

Davis said further help from the state would depend on how much revenue the Legislature can generate in its current session.

"We're trying to get other chemical companies to help finance studies on the water-situation here," Davis said.

Davis said the department is currently occupied with other projects that include researching DDT and making presentations throughout the district on new state requirements for aerial pesticide applications.

House wants curbs on ag department

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Demanding more accountability, a House committee proposed Tuesday some heavy restrictions on spending at the Texas Department of Agriculture.

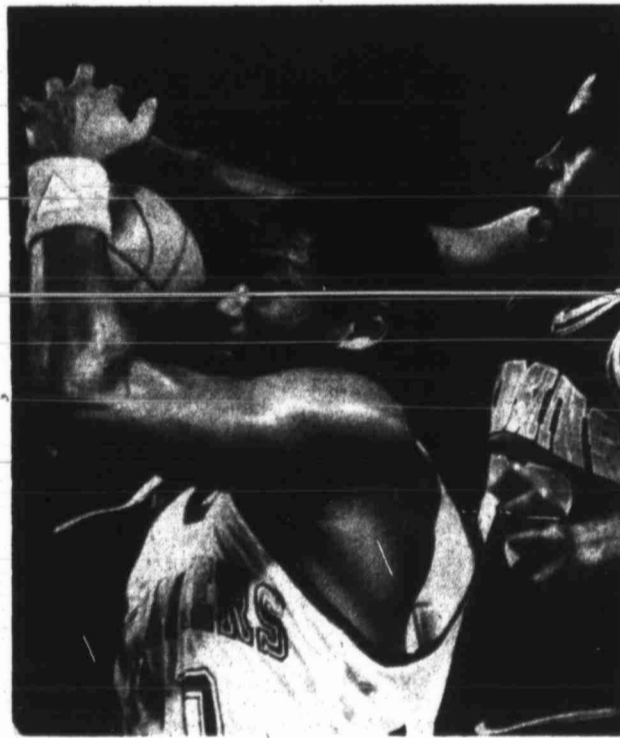

The Agriculture and Livestock Committee recommendation, which includes funding the agency at about 89 percent of its current $22-million-a-year state level, will be sent to the House Appropriations Committee for further consideration.

A department spokesman predicted that as many as 100 agency positions would be lost with the proposed funding cuts. Some of it could be done by not replacing people as they leave or retire, but some people would have to be let go, he said.

His biggest worry is a proposed limit on transfer of funds from one activity to another, with the committee adopting its budget panel's recommendation to limit transfers to 5 percent of line items.

"I need to go back to my district and sell accountability," said Rep. Robert Earley, D-Portland. "It's been a problem. Five percent establishes this."

Farm credit aid stalled in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, frustrated last week by filibustering Democrats, are using some delaying tactics of their own to head off farm credit legislation opposed by President Reagan.

After Democrats said Tuesday they believed they had the votes to pass increases in government credit help, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole abruptly postponed votes until today.

Meanwhile, the House headed for likely passage of its own credit rescue proposal after caucusing House Democrats said they had the votes to pass it later in the day. It would advance farmers immediately half the crop loans they normally do not get until harvest time.

"Everybody feels in their guts that we've got hold of an issue at the right time," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., emerging from the caucus. "The administration has turned their backs" on farmers' need for spring planting money, he said.

Dole postponed the Senate vote saying he had to leave for a speech to a civic group in Peoria, Ill., and added, "If we can't dispose of (the amendments), we'll probably talk at length," an expression often used to indicate a filibuster.

Waste of space

Congressman proposes to dispose nuclear waste in space

TULIA (AP) — Saying the idea merits at least a study, U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Texas, says he will introduce legislation that would look into the feasibility of disposing nuclear waste in space.

Boulter, a Republican freshman congressman from Amarillo, said he would push for such legislation in Congress this year, suggesting that one out of every four dollars put into the Nuclear Waste Fund be apportioned to NASA to study the idea.

Boulter made his comments at a Department of Energy hearing held in Tulia Tuesday to receive public comment on its environmental assessments of the Texas Panhandle as a potential site for the nation's first high-level radioactive waste repository.

If Texas is chosen as home for the controversial dump, it would be put on a nine-square-mile area of farmland about 16 miles north of Hereford in Deaf Smith County.

A similar site in Swisher County, for which Tulia is the county seat, was among nine "potentially acceptable sites" the DOE selected before whittling its list to three last December. The Deaf Smith County site, along with locations in Washington and Nevada, have been labeled as the three "preferred sites" by the Energy Department.

Boulter said he has studied the possibility of space disposal for nuclear waste for about three months and has concluded the proposal is the "obvious solution."

"The energy cost of sending several latched payloads or permanent orbit around Earth and Venus would be relatively small and would get rid of the high-level radiation nuclear waste here on Earth," the congressman said.

The proposal has been studied by Mary Ontiveros reads a letter from Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower asking the Department of Energy to provide Spanish translations of their studies for a nuclear dump site in the Texas Panhandle. About 42 percent of Swisher County's permanent residents are Mexican-Americans, many unable to speak English.

Energy Department officials, Boulter said. But, he said, they "decided to discredit this alternative by merely claiming that it will not work."

DOE-commissioned scientists, however, "believe they came up with a workable solution to this problem," Boulter said.

After testifying at the hearing, Boulter told reporters the cost of a space disposal program would be less than what the government plans to spend on its land-disposal program.

But, Boulter said, he could not give specifics on the costs or operation of such a program.

"I am not here to detail specifics," he said. "I am here to develop policy. The only thing I'm saying is that the evidence seems to say it's safer to put it (waste) in space."

Boulter added that National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials have told him the plan is "do-able."

Boulter also said he would seek legislation that would remove all privately held land from consideration as a site for the repository.

The Deaf Smith County site is on privately owned land, while the Washington and Nevada locations are federally owned.

About 30 other people testified at Tuesday's hearing, the first of three to be held in the state this week.

A public comment period on the preferred sites is to end March 20, after which exploratory construction work is to begin if President Reagan approves the locations.

A final decision is not expected for at least five years on where to locate the repository, which is to be operational by 1998.

The main concerns cited by area residents Tuesday about the Panhandle being chosen as a possible dump location were the effect the repository would have on the water supply and on agriculture production.

"We all know what happens to products that are thought to be harmful to people," said Brian Borchardt. "Consumers today demand high-quality food that is not tainted by chemicals, especially radiation."

Borchardt said that even the possibility that accidents could harm products would have a "devastating effect on the market of High Plains products."

One Swisher County landowner, Marjorie Dawson, said she was fearful of accidents occurring in the transportation of the waste.

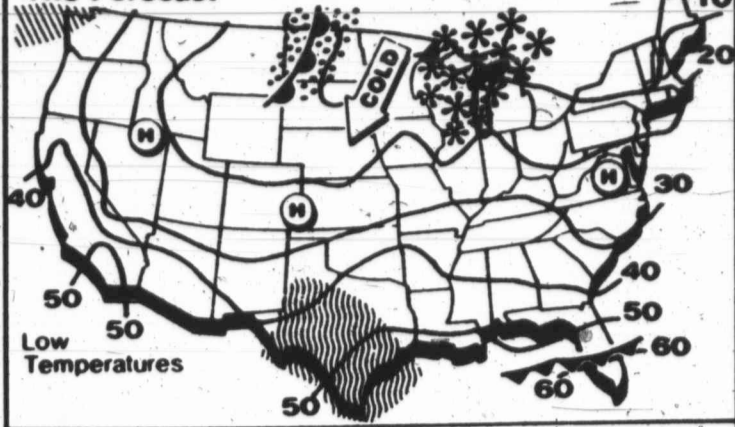

The DOE has estimated that 28 truckloads of radioactive material would be transported to the dump daily six days each week once the repository is operating.

"With over 8,000 truckloads of nuclear waste in a year's time coming in, doesn't it seem like there would be some accidents?" Mrs. Dawson said.

Lulu Marjorie Miller said the DOE's environmental assessment underestimated the effects the dump would have on the area and charged that the massive environmental documents were filled with "technical language and page after page of statistics meant to confuse and intimidate the poor, dumb farmers."

Sheriff's Log

County transfers 4 to prison

Howard County Sheriff's Department released four inmates from county jail who were transported to the Texas Department of Corrections early this morning.

Kenneth Wayne Robinson, 22, of 1511 Avion was sentenced to four years in prison after he pleaded guilty last Wednesday for revocating his probation on a delivery of marijuana conviction.

Doyle Wayne Perdue, 33, of 1318 Wood pleaded guilty last Wednesday in 118th District Court for revocating his probation on a burglary conviction. District Judge James Gregg sentenced him to three years in prison.

James Ezra Norris, 47, of Andrews waived his right to a parole hearing and pleaded guilty to not reporting to his parole officer. He was on parole for an unauthorized use of a motor vehicle conviction. District Parole Officer David C. Harman said that Norris was sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Gary Lynn Homfeld, 37, of 611 Steakly pleaded guilty yesterday in district court to a forgery by passing charge. Gregg sentenced him to four years in prison.

Big Spring police transferred Oscar Garza, 27, of 507 Douglas to county jail after he was arrested for driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility.

He was released on bonds totaling $2,000 set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Coahoma High School requested an animal warden pick up a stray dog that was wandering about on school grounds Tuesday afternoon. The white female dog had a collar but no tag. She was taken to the city pound.

Police transferred Ralph DeWayne Hilton, no age given, of 1404 Tucson to county jail after he was arrested for burglary. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Sheriff's deputies recovered a 1981 Suzuki motorcycle that was reported stolen on Feb. 16 from the Suburban Trailer Park No. 20.

Sheriff's deputies issued peace bonds to Ricky Lin Wallace, 19, of 1001 E. 13th and Charles Richard Chrisman, 32, of Best Western Motel No. 159. Wallace was released on $2,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. Chrisman was released on $1,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Willie Grant.

Police transferred Bobby L. Edmondson, 24, of 608 Goliad to county jail after he was arrested for DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Shuttle flight delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA technicians are grappling with a hydrogen leak and a balky satellite battery that may postpone Monday's scheduled launch of space shuttle Challenger by up to two weeks, officials say. Technicians are analyzing the small leak in a valve between the orbiter and its external fuel tank, National Aeronautics and Space Administration Administrator James M. Beggs said Tuesday in Washington. The mission may be possible even with the leak, he said.

Beggs also said a battery on one of two satellites to be launched from Challenger may require replacement, making it necessary to stand down.

The shuttle crew includes Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah and chairman of an appropriations subcommittee that oversees NASA funding.

Agency criticizes casino

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP, N.J. — A state commission criticized business practices by Resorts International Inc., but renewed the gaming license for its Atlantic City casino with minor conditions.

The Casino Control Commission voted 3-1 for the permit Tuesday despite a recommendation from the state Division of Gaming that it be revoked.

The 12-day hearing focused on $421,000 in payments that indirectly reached the Bahamas' prime minister when Resorts was negotiating to open a Freeport casino hotel.

The commission required the company to increase the number of outside officers on its six-member board of directors from one to three and have only outsiders on Resorts' audit committee.

Six charged in slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio — Six high school students were charged in the shooting death of a schoolmate who showed up for a "rumble" three days before he was to audition for "West Side Story," the musical tragedy about gang violence.

Auditions at Lakota High School set for Tuesday were canceled after senior Joel Earl, 17, was shot to death from a pickup truck Saturday night. The slaying was "a pre-arranged rumble that went astray," said Butler County Sheriff Robert Walton.

Five boys and a girl from Lakota High School surrendered to deputy sheriffs Monday. A 16-year-old was charged with delinquency by reason of murder. The others, four 16-year-olds and one 15-year-old, were booked on delinquency charges for failing to report a crime.

Pope John Paul II and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko during their meeting at the Vatican City Wednesday. The meeting marks the first time in six years that the two leaders have met.

Pontiff's audience

Pope interrupts Lenten retreat to meet Gromyko

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II met today with the Soviet foreign minister for the first time in nearly six years — a period that saw an upheaval in the pope's native Poland and the attempted assassination of the pontiff.

Although some reports have linked the assassination plot to the Soviet KGB, the Vatican rolled out a red carpet welcome for Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union, posting additional Swiss guards at entrances to the papal apartments in the Apostolic Palace. Gromyko was greeted by Archbishop Jacques Martin, head of the papal household, when he arrived at the San Damasco courtyard inside the Vatican.

Gromyko was expected to try to enlist papal support in Moscow's campaign against the U.S. "Star Wars" space-based defense proposal, while the pontiff was expected to raise the issue of religious liberty in the Soviet Union.

The pope interrupted his Lenten spiritual retreat for the audience, which the Vatican said the Soviet diplomat requested.

John Paul has called on both superpowers to reach agreements on nuclear disarmament, but has not taken a public stand on the Reagan administration's plan to pursue research on space-based defenses against nuclear missiles.

The pope is reviewing the findings of the Pontifical Academy of Science, which last month met to consider the "weaponization of space." Carlos Chagas, the Brazilian biophysicist who heads the academy, has said the U.S. plan on space weapons, officially called the Strategic Defense Initiative, is of "dubious value."

Vatican Radio said the discussions between the pope and Gromyko would range from issues of peace and disarmament to human rights and Vatican concern over the state of the Catholic church in the Soviet Union.

The two men will meet in the pope's library with only interpreters present.

"The Holy See doesn't usually invite visitors to come and see the pope," said Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro.

In meetings with Italian officials Tuesday, Gromyko called on his hosts to oppose President Reagan's "Star Wars" proposals, and said U.S. abandonment of the plans is "absolutely indispensable" if arms control talks scheduled to begin in Geneva on March 12 are to succeed.

The Vatican and the Soviet Union do not have formal diplomatic relations, but Gromyko met five times with Pope Paul VI and held an exceptionally long, one hour and 45 minute meeting at the Vatican with John Paul on Jan. 24, 1979. The pope has not received any other Soviet official since Gromyko's last visit.

Since that time, the pontiff gave his support to the now-banned Solidarity, the first independent labor movement in Poland and the Soviet bloc, and was the target of an assassination attempt in St. Peter's Square.

An Italian judge last October indicted three Bulgarians for complicity in the May 13, 1981 assassination attempt after a prosecutor said that Bulgaria, possibly with Soviet support, masterminded the shooting attack carried out by Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agca.

Men kill industrialist

PALERMO, Sicily — Two suspected Mafia gunmen today shot and killed a 47-year-old industrialist and wounded his 8-year-old daughter as he dropped her off at school, police reported.

The man's three other children, aged 16, 14 and 6, were in the car when the shooting occurred, police said.

Pietro Patti, shot in the head and chest, was pronounced dead upon arrival at nearby Villa Sofia Hospital. His daughter, Gaia, was reported in critical condition with a gunshot wound in the upper chest.

American wins release

LAGOS, Nigeria — American businesswoman Marie Lee McBroom was acquitted today of six charges of illegally exporting oil from Nigeria — offenses that can carry the death penalty on conviction.

Mrs. McBroom, 59, of Jersey City, N.J., was set free after the acquittal in the Lagos Special Military Tribunal where her trial began last Dec. 10 before Judge Adebayo Desalu.

Mrs. McBroom could have faced the firing squad if she had been convicted. The military government of Nigeria, black Africa's largest oil producer, warned last year that it would execute anyone convicted of illegally trafficking in oil because it was losing $1 million a day in unauthorized oil deals.

Men named in slaying

TAIPEI, Taiwan — Prosecutors filed murder charges today against three reputed gangsters in the slaying in California of a Chinese-American author whose writings had been critical of the Taiwan government.

Taipei's District Court Prosecutor's Office announced that in addition to murder, it has indicted Chen Chi-li, 41, his lieutenant Wu Tun, 35, and another reputed gangster, Tung Kuei-sen, 33, on charges of participating in "organized crimes."

Chen was charged with a third count, possession of firearms.

Egypt strives for peace

JERUSALEM — A key adviser to Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak met with Prime Minister Shimon Peres and other top officials into the early hours today in a bid to revive Middle East peace talks, officials said.

In Cairo, Mubarak met with Israeli Energy Minister Moshe Shahal in a session an Israeli Embassy source said was "complementary" to the discussions taking place in Jerusalem.

Nicaragua seeking peace proposal

President calling for renewed talks with United States

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega, head of the leftist Sandinista government, says he is sending U.S. congressional leaders proposals for peace in Central America and renewed talks with the United States.

After meeting Tuesday night with five U.S. Catholic bishops led by New York Archbishop John J. O'Connor, Ortega also said he was inviting a bipartisan congressional delegation to come to Nicaragua "without restrictions" to show that Nicaragua's military is "strictly defensive."

The Reagan administration wants Congress to renew aid for rebels fighting to overthrow the Sandinistas, who came to power in a 1979 coup that toppled the pro-U.S. regime of Anastasio Somoza.

The president of the Sandinista regime said he shared with the bishops a wide range of proposals during their two-hour meeting, their second in two days.

Ortega said the details of his proposals would be revealed today, but sources indicated that they included the resumption of bilateral talks with the U.S. government in Manzanillo, Mexico, which began last June but were broken off in January by the Reagan administration, which accuses the Sandinistas of trying to export revolution. One of the charges that the United States has leveled against the Nicaraguan government is that its armed forces — estimated at 75,000 in the regular army plus 75,000 in the militia for a population of nearly 3 million — constitute a threat to its neighbors in Central America.

Ortega said he would send letters today to leaders of both houses of Congress asking them to name a committee to come to Nicaragua and "know the reality of our military situation, a situation that is strictly defensive and, under no circumstances, can be considered offensive."

Ortega said Nicaragua also will announce later this week moves to "strengthen the peace efforts of the Contadora group" — Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama — in seeking a resolution of conflicts in Central America.

The Nicaraguan leader stood next to O'Connor at a news conference following his meeting with the churchmen.

"We hope President Reagan considers and accepts this initiative and contributes both to the peaceful solution of the problems that we face and to diminishing the alternative of war and bringing us closer to peace," Ortega said.

O'Connor said Ortega did not ask the bishops to act as mediators or bearers of a message to Washington but wanted only to "share with them" his proposals before he released them.

The Nicaraguan president also said he had submitted specific suggestions to ease tensions between his government and the Catholic Church in Nicaragua, a situation which prompted the U.S. churchmen to schedule their four-day visit to Managua.

O'Connor said the U.S. bishops were visiting Nicaragua to show "our moral support for the bishops of Nicaragua and to update our thinking on the situation here."

Stacy Dam pact is right for W. Texas

"Tough negotiators" is how John L. Taylor, president of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, described his counterparts at the Lower Colorado River Authority based in Austin. It seems to us that the Big Spring-based water district went tougher than the river authority in forging the agreement reached Tuesday on Stacy Dam.

With six nightmarish weeks of haggling behind him, Taylor now can say, "Finally, we have all come to realize that the needs and wants of all people in the basin can be protected and yet expanded by a cooperative effort. ... History gives many examples in which the bitterest of adversaries form the strongest alliances."

For the river authority's part, the alliance with West Texas on the Stacy Dam means three important things: First, Stacy will serve as a backup supply in times of low water in the Austin area. Second, Stacy will serve as a holding facility in times of flood. Third, the water district here will drop its intervention as the river authority goes about the task of providing its need for water elsewhere along the Colorado River.

For the Colorado River Municipal Water District, the agreement breathes new life into the Stacy project, which has been on the drawing boards and in the permitting process for nearly a decade. The deal is not quite as good as having the outright permit for Stacy, but it requires no major concessions. Consider:

- During drought, when Stacy itself is low, Stacy doesn't have to share water with the river authority.
- During normal times, only half the water Stacy gains must be shared — and then only if the downstream lakes are low.
- Over time, the obligation to release water phases out, until at some point the water in Stacy will be for West Texas' use only.

Water district officials have secured a document in which they can take pride. The willingness to compromise is always a productive attribute. It has reaped rich dividend in the Stacy Dam case.

U.S. dollar flexes its muscles abroad

WASHINGTON — The new summary of the Wall Street Journal included this item: "The dollar is expected to move a little lower this week on profit-taking from the U.S. currency's rise last week, foreign-exchange traders said. Instead the dollar climbed to new highs against the Japanese yen, the British pound, the German mark, the French franc and the Italian lira."

The point is not that the traders, till less the Journal, were wrong. It is that the recent surge of the dollar is fraught with unknowns. The mystery of the dollar shows, in turn, how much the world economy is now adrift on uncharted seas.

In retrospect, to be sure, several points about the strength of the dollar emerge clearly. It has been rising steadily since 1980. During that period the appreciation has averaged 80 percent against a basket of 10 major currencies.

Two different components figure in the rise. Since 1981 foreigners have been sinking an estimated $100 billion annually into American financial investments, and, to a much lesser degree, plant and real estate. Over the past four years, American firms and banks have reduced dollar exports by some $100 billion.

In one way or another those funds eventually flow into the American banking system. They have provided much of the wherewithal for financing the budget deficit. So a main consequence is that the U.S. has been able to run a deficit of close to $200 billion without squeezing funds available for the private sector. There has been no crowding out with the accompanying rise in interest rates. The rare combination of rapid growth and low inflation, in other words, finds its explanation in the great influx of savings from abroad.

A second consequence affects international trade. Foreigners, with their currencies very low against the dollar, enjoy a huge competitive advantage against American firms in selling goods here and in third countries. The influx of less expensive foreign products has helped hold U.S. prices down. By the same token, American goods are priced out of markets abroad. The strength of the dollar has limited exports of farm products, steel, autos, computers, and other high-technology items. A wave of protectionist sentiment has, accordingly, been building up in those industries.

Just why the dollar has spurred, or what can be done to maintain more stability, is not so clear. A widespread theory was that the U.S. attracted foreign capital because interest rates were so much higher here than abroad. But in the last few months, U.S. interest rates have declined by nearly three points. Still the dollar keeps on rising.

A second theory, pushed by the Reagan administration, is that foreigners, especially Europeans, have not made their economies as attractive to investors as this country. In the vein President Reagan said last week: "The main problem is not the strength of the American dollar; it is the weakness of foreign currency." R.T. McNamar, the outgoing deputy secretary of the treasury, told a seminar in Switzerland that "the dollar will continue strong," until "other countries promote growth, liberalize capital markets and reduce structural rigidities in industry."

But it is hard to see what the Europeans can do to spur growth. The governments of West Germany and Britain are courting business all they can. So, despite their rhetoric, are the socialist regimes in France and Italy. More austerity comes hard since unemployment is running over 13 percent on average. Moves to stimulate their economies would promote consumption, but not raise currency values.

A common European argument is that the dollar could be checked by joint intervention of government financial authorities against hot money moves by speculative interests.

DEA does snow job on agent

WASHINGTON — Long-suppressed evidence sheds new light on the mysterious death of a decorated Drug Enforcement Administration agent six years ago — and on the dubious techniques the drug agency used to go after him.

The agent, Sante Bario, suffered a seizure in a San Antonio jail cell in 1979, lapsed into a coma and died several months later without regaining consciousness.

He had been arrested and was awaiting trial after a DEA informant charged that he had paid Bario $9,000 to be allowed to keep 5 kilos of cocaine involved in an undercover operation.

According to the official account of his death, Bario choked on a peanut butter sandwich. But initial tests reportedly showed traces of poison in his system.

Bario's widow, Joanne, told my associate Donald Goldberg that her husband was merely holding the money as a favor for the informant, who was afraid his girlfriend would get it. The widow will tell her story in a book, "Fatal Dreams," that is to be published this month.

The case against Bario depended entirely on the informant's word. A tape recording he claimed to have made of the bribe transaction turned out to be blank. The marked bills remained intact in Bario's safe, according to the widow.

A federal judge ordered Bario's posthumous reinstatement, thus securing the widow her survivor benefits, but she wants to clear her husband's name once and for all. New documents, uncovered by her attorney, former Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste, point to self-serving motivation on the informant's part to set Bario up for a fall: He was not only paid generously by DEA, but was promised help in gaining American citizenship.

"The informant was paid a reward of $50,000 for the Bario investigation," states an internal DEA memo dated March 1, 1979. "The Office of Internal Security had also agreed ... to obtain necessary Immigration documents in order that he could reside in the United States. However, it is apparent that (the informant) has committed serious violations of the law, and because of this, Internal Security is not under obligation to obtain these Immigration documents..."

Another report, dated May 23, 1979, noted that the informant "is under investigation ... and it is antipicated that an indictment against him will be forthcoming."

What did the DEA know about the informant? He had talked a buddy of his, Alain Chaillou, into running a smuggling errand for him, claiming it was a DEA operation.

The informant had left a 1.9-kilo stash of cocaine in Mexico, and couldn't retrieve it himself for fear of his underworld enemies there. So he got Chaillou to pick it up and take it to Bogota, Colombia, promising that Chaillou would have DEA protection.

Instead, Chaillou was arrested at the Bogota airport. The informant called DEA with a cock-and-bull story, then left Chaillou twisting in the wind. The U.S. and Colombian authorities wouldn't swallow his story that he was smuggling drugs for the DEA.

Eventually, one DEA investigator became convinced that Chaillou was telling the truth and concluded in a written report that the arrest "was the direct result of Chaillou's entrapment."

Despite the evidence of the informant's illicit behavior, the U.S. attorney in Puerto Rico, where the informant lived, told the DEA he "did not feel there was sufficient evidence to indict." The prosecutor said he could have gotten an indictment against the informant, but that "the evidence simply wasn't enough to convict."

As to why the DEA was out to get one of its top agents, the speculation is that Bario knew too much about certain questionable DEA practices that were under investigation at the time.

Footnote: A DEA spokesman refused to discuss the Bario case.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: If the Soviets are disappointed in the Greek Socialist government's failure to force American military bases to close, they're not admitting it.

A recent cable from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow reports on a lecture on Greece by a leading Soviet expert. Asked why the Socialists hadn't sent the U.S. military packing — as they promised they would — the Soviet analyst explained: "Greece has discovered that its ties to the United States are so great that it could not move as decisively in this area as would, say, a more independent country."

Arms talks rely on MX funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz and the U.S. negotiating team in the Geneva nuclear arms talks said Tuesday that the American bargaining position will be seriously weakened if Congress refuses to finance the MX missile.

"This is no time to cast doubt on our national resolve," Shultz told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Shultz testified before the panel at the same time that President Reagan's chief arms control advisers and negotiators for the U.S.-Soviet talks were appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Congress will decide whether to continue funding for the highly accurate 10 nuclear warhead intercontinental missile this spring, and an extremely close vote is forecast in the House and Senate.

Ambassador Max Kampelman, who will lead the three negotiators when the negotiations begin March 12, said, "It would be damaging to our negotiating position were the Congress not to fund the MX."

"As a negotiator, I would like to have as much on my side of the table as is practicable, responsible and reasonable to have," Kampelman said.

Similarly, Paul Nitze, the president's senior arms control adviser, said he believes Soviet awareness that the United States is going ahead with construction and installation of the MX in hardened silos was one of the principal reasons why Moscow agreed to resume arms control negotiations after breaking them off more than a year ago.

'It would be damaging to our negotiating position were the Congress not to fund the MX.'

Ambassador Max Kampelman,

Along with Reagan's "Star Wars" space defense plan and the unity among the United States and European nations on nuclear policy, Nitze said the MX "was another factor that brought them back."

And at the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said, "The president strongly believes the pace and quality of negotiations in Geneva are related to the outcome of the vote (on the MX) in Congress."

Following a meeting with Reagan and Republican congressional leaders, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., noted that a congressional delegation will accompany the negotiators for the opening of the Geneva talks.

"I would hope we'd come back then and let the negotiators decide what to offer on the table and not take it off in the Congress," said Dole, predicting eventual approval for the MX.

Critics have said the MX is vulnerable to attack because no installation system has been found which would avoid destruction in a Soviet nuclear attack. But in his testimony, Shultz said there is "promising" work going ahead which will protect the MX weapons inside the Minuteman missile silos where they will be stored.

Generally, Nitze, Kampelman, and the two other negotiators, former Texas Sen. John Tower and career diplomat Maynard Glitman, expressed guarded optimism that the arms talks will be successful, but said they will likely take a long time.

"We dare not and we cannot blow the Soviet Union away," Kampelman said. "We cannot wish it away. We must try to find a formula under which we can live together in dignity."

"The American people must be prepared to stay a day longer than the Soviets," he said. "We must have patience."

All of the negotiators said no matter what the outcome of the talks, the United States will continue research into "Star Wars," the president's proposal for a space-based missile defense system.

"As a research program," Nitze said, "it is not negotiable."

Nitze said if "Star Wars" research is successful and not too expensive, it could result in the elimination of offensive nuclear weapons in both the Soviet Union and the United States.

Asked if the ultimate deployment of Star Wars — as opposed to the research — is negotiable in Geneva, Nitze said, "It would not be excluded."

Around The Rim Dressing for '80s success

Vogue, take note: the year of the fashion grab bag is here. Cyndi Lauper, sporting her garage-sale clothes and her trademark red and yellow hair, has made the cover of Newsweek.

The cover of Rolling Stone, I can see. But Newsweek? The woman who made the question "Does she use Clairol or doesn't she?" obsolete has gone mainstream with a vengeance.

Oh, yeah, Cyndi, money changes everything.

I remember when news magazine covers were the domain of presidents, popes and premiers, and "fluff" like the Fab Four was left to Life. Welcome to the '80s, where the best-selling cover subjects are pop singers and movie stars.

Not that I have anything against seeing Bruce Springsteen or some other rock-'n'-roll musician leaping out of the newsstands at me, but I have limits. I'm not sure I can handle Billy Idol flashing his studded-leather machismo from the front of U.S. News and World Report.

The issue I'm really holding out for, though, is a group montage of the Dead Kennedys and the Gang of Four on the cover of Conservative Digest, reviews by William F. Buckley and supply-side economist Milton Friedman.

We can blame it all on MTV, the channel of the perpetual twilight zone. It's a living room war: once you've let Lauper, Boy George and Twisted Sister singer Dee Snider into the same living room where the Beaver used to play, it's hard to chase them out of the magazines.

The burning issue is: what is this doing to our children's sense of clothing values? My friend's 5-year-old daughter, Traci, doesn't just mime Cyndi's singing and dancing. She's started to dress like her, too.

Her mother even models part-time. She's accepted it with grace so far, but I'm waiting until the girl chooses to mix and match coordinates in pink and red and orange and purple for the mother to stand up and say, "Enough is enough!"

Aw, mom, she's just dressing for success, MTV-style.

You're the editor

Sunday's editorial page recreated a true-life situation for a Tennessee editor. He was faced with the choice between publishing information that could not be confirmed, and withholding that information at risk of being accused of a cover-up. If you had been the editor, what would you have done?

Responses to the "You're the Editor" news publishing dilemma will be printed in Sunday's paper. The responses must be in the Herald offices by Friday noon to be produced for the Sunday edition.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Wednesday, February 27, the 58th day of 1985. There are 307 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On February 27, 1933, Germany's parliament building in Berlin, the Reichstag, burned down. The Nazis, charging a Communist plot, used the fire as a pretext for suspending civil liberties.

On this date: In 1801, the District of Columbia was placed under the jurisdiction of Congress.

In 1807, poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in Portland, Maine.

In 1861, in Warsaw, Russian troops fired on a crowd protesting Russian rule over Poland. Five of the marchers were killed.

In 1883, the first practical cigar-rolling machine was patented by impresario Oscar Hammerstein, the grandfather of Broadway librettist Oscar Hammerstein II.

M Bank Assistant Vice President Randolph Garcia to 118th District Court in response to a delinquent tax lawsuit.

A letter from Garcia, included as an exhibit in the current lawsuit by Cuadra's attorney, Gerald Drought of San Antonio, denies that the bank has any financial interest in the hotel. The bank, as a lienholder on the hotel, was being sued for back taxes.

The bank's response in the suit states: "...such allegation consists of an erroneous conclusion of law regarding the effect of an informal letter filed in a tax suit which did not rise to the level of a judicial admission."

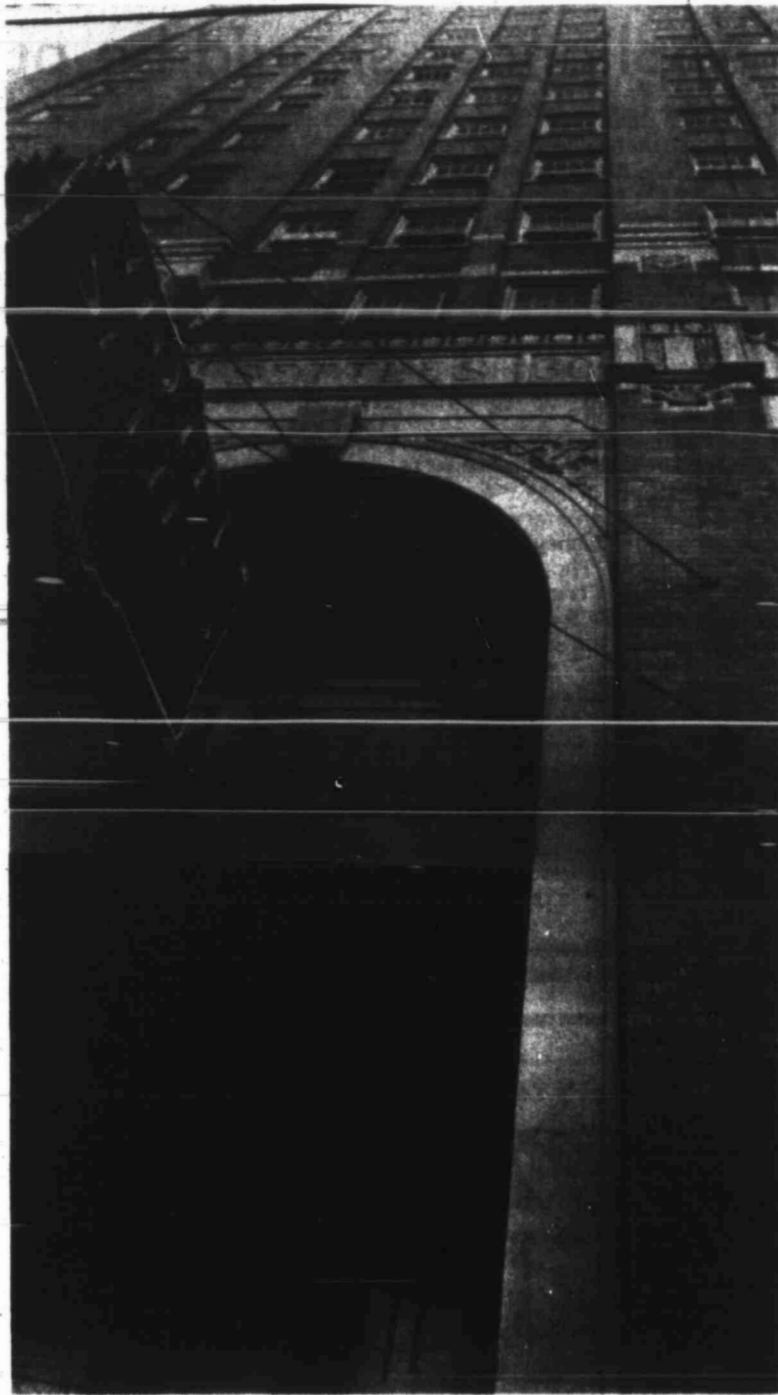

Later in the bank's response, Johnson states that the bank "denies any admission in any lawsuit or court proceeding to the effect that it has no lien interest in the property described..."

Furthermore, the bank's reply states that "any purported release of any kind of lien executed under date of Aug. 6, 1980, or any other alleged admission of absence of lien" would not have any legal effect on ownership of the lien because the bank did not receive any payment or consideration for the release of the lien.

In addition, Johnson also states that allegations in Cuadra's lawsuit do not state any legal basis for recovery of damages caused by slander of title, exemplary damages or damage to Cuadra's "reputation in the community as a responsible developer."

Johnson also asks the court to require Cuadra's attorney to restate his claims, labeling them "inflammatory," "prejudicial" and "insufficient in law."

The bank has asked for a jury trial in its response. According to District Court Clerk Peggy Crittenden, the issue would not come to trial for at least a year unless the case received a special setting by the district judge.

Stacy Dam

complaints from the LCRA that water rights for the project already were obligated downstream, chiefly to the Austin-based authority. The LCRA approved the settlement document last week.

In exchange for the water rights, the LCRA won limited storage rights in the Stacy reservoir that diminish as demand for the water increases in West Texas.

"The Stacy reservoir will fill up about half as fast as it otherwise would," Ivie said in explaining the effect of the settlement.

Filing of the document brings one of Texas' longest and bitterest water feuds closer to an end. The Texas Water Commission must issue a new permit for the project, and has tentatively scheduled hearings beginning March 11.

The Lower Colorado River Authority — traditionally opponents of Stacy — approved the compromise last week.

The three-member water commission gave indications it will move quickly on the permit application, opting to hear the case directly and not channel it through a hearing examiner for review.

"History gives us many examples in which the bitterest of adversaries form the strongest alliances. I trust it will be true in this case," said Taylor.

The Lower Colorado River Authority has opposed Stacy through various Texas courts since 1978, when the Big Spring-based district first filed for the reservoir hoping to win the right to impound 554,000 acre-feet.

LCRA officials moved to compromise following pressure from Texas political leaders who were concerned that West Texas displeasure over the loss of Stacy would imperil a proposed statewide water plan now in the Texas Legislature.

"We are extremely pleased and proud that the Stacy Dam reservoir situation has been settled and the final document has been signed," said John Jones, LCRA's board president.

CRMWD will not be required to release any water to the LCRA if water in Stacy falls below 243,000 acre-feet.

House

Committee members have complained that, among other things, department officials tapped plant disease and pest control funds to fund a natural resources office to study a state water plan and a high-level nuclear waste dump search.

Rep. Pete Patterson, D-Brookston, unsuccessfully pushed to set transfer freedom at 10 percent. "I feel like we're tying this down a little too much," Patterson said of the 5 percent plan. "They're going to have problems taking care of their business."

Rep. Steve Carriker, D-Roby, failed in his call to set the transfer limit at one-half of a percent, saying the committee should adopt that amount if it were really serious about accountability.

Utility may have to buy power

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Utilities Electric Co. may sign a $12 million contract for the right to buy standby power this summer because of delays at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant.

Subject to approval from the Texas Public Utility Commission, the company expects to pass those costs to ratepayers in its service areas, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

As majority owner of the power plant, Texas Utilities has come under fire from citizens and regulators over alleged safety and construction faults at the plant near Glen Rose.

The cost of the plant has jumped from $670 million to almost $4.5 billion, and the opening date has been pushed back until early 1986.

The price tag does not include the power purchase agreements discussed by the company Tuesday.

Negotiations are nearly complete with the Texas Municipal Power Pool and the Lower Colorado River Authority to buy 400 megawatts of standby power this summer, Texas Utilities spokesman Dick Ramsey said.

Ramsey said the company will pay 7 percent to 33 percent more for the power than it would cost for electricity generated from its own system.

The Texas Municipal Power Pool, which is Texas Municipal Power Agency and Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, is expected to provide 200 megawatts of standby capacity for about $7 million, Ramsey said.

The Lower Colorado River Authority, a wholesale electricity supplier in Central Texas, is expected to provide another 200 megawatts of standby capacity for about $5 million, he said.

Herald recipe exchange

Breakfast recipes are eye openers

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

If your breakfasts are boring, it's time to try some new recipes for morning "eye openers". After all, breakfast is the most important meal of the day.

I've included in this week's Herald Recipe Exchange several recipes using brown and serve sausages and bacon, favorites at many breakfast tables.

"Because of all the negative publicity about eggs and cholesterol, 'Heart Healthy Vegetable Omelet', has been included. The recipe contains almost no cholesterol.

Across the country an ever-increasing number of Americans are living their glasses in appreciation of flaky, buttery croissant. The "toast" of France is great for breakfast and several recipes are listed.

SAUSAGE OVEN PANCAKE

- 8 oz. package brown and serve sausage links
- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup chopped apple

Brown sausages according to package directions. In mixing bowl, combine pancake mix, spices, milk and egg. Mix until batter is smooth. Add apple. Pour into well-greased 10 x 6 x 1 1/2-inch baking dish. Arrange sausages on top. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 20 minutes. Serve hot with maple syrup.

SAUSAGE FRITTATA

- 8 oz. package brown and serve sausage links
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 5 eggs
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 tomato, peeled and chopped
- 1 1/2 Tbsps. butter or margarine

Brown sausage in heavy 8-inch ovenproof skillet according to package directions. Remove sausages and keep warm. Sauté onion and green pepper. In a medium bowl, combine eggs and milk. Add onions green pepper and tomato. Melt butter in skillet. Add egg mixture and cook over low heat until eggs are almost set. Arrange sausage links on top of eggs. To finish cooking top, broil 4 inches from heat source until center is firm and top lightly browned. Cut into five wedges and serve warm.

HAM ROLL-UPS WITH MORNAV SAUCE

- 8 slices baked ham
- 8 slices Swiss cheese
- 8 asparagus spears, cooked
- 4 frozen croissants
- Mornay Sauce

Place 2 ham slices overlapping slightly on flat surface. Place 2 cheese slices over ham. Top with 2 asparagus spears; roll up. Repeat process. Arrange roll-ups in lightly buttered baking dish. Heat in preheated 325 degree oven 12 minutes. Cut frozen croissants in half lengthwise; leave together. Heat frozen croissants on ungreased baking sheet in preheated 325 degree oven for 9 to 11 minutes. Place one ham roll-up on each croissant bottom half. Spoon on Mornay Sauce, top with remaining croissant half. Makes four servings.

MORNAV SAUCE

- 2 Tbsps. butter
  - 2 Tbsps. flour
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese
  - 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- Heat butter in small saucepan. Add flour; cook until bubbly. Gradually stir in milk. Cook until thickened. Stir in cheese until smooth. Stir in nutmeg. Makes four servings.

BAKED OMELET WITH CELERY SAUCE

- 8 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 tsp. oregano leaves, crushed
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 Tbsps. vegetable oil, divided
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed tomato soup (undiluted)
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 tsp. ground black pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a medium bowl combine eggs, milk, oregano, garlic powder and salt. Grease a 1 1/2 quart baking pan. Add egg mixture. Bake until a knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 25 minutes. Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan heat oil until hot. Add celery and onion. Sauté until crisp-tender, about 10 minutes. Add tomato soup, water and black pepper; heat until hot. Cut omelet into portions. Serve topped with Celery Sauce. Makes six servings.

HEART HEALTHY VEGETABLE OMELET

- 2 Tbsp. safflower oil, divided

HEALTHY VEGETABLE OMELET — In this omelet, cholesterol, the undesirable fat, is removed from the egg and replaced with safflower oil, a polyunsaturated fat that helps lower cholesterol.

- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 cup diced red or green pepper
- 1/2 cup onion rings
- 1/4 tsp. salt, divided (optional)
- 4 egg whites
- 1 Tbsp. non-fat dry milk
- 1/16 tsp. ground black pepper
- 1/16 tsp. turmeric

In a 6-inch skillet (preferably non-stick variety) heat 1 1/2 teaspoon of the safflower oil until hot. Add mushrooms, red pepper and onion. Sauté until onion is transparent, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt; remove from pan and cover to keep warm. In a small bowl, with a wire whisk or fork beat egg whites, dry milk, black pepper, turmeric, 1 tablespoon of the safflower oil and remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt until foamy. In the skillet in which the vegetables were sautéed heat remaining 1 1/2 teaspoons of safflower oil until hot. Add egg mixture. Cook over medium heat until the bottom of the omelet is set. With a wooden spoon or small spatula lift the edge of the omelet and tip the pan to allow the uncooked egg mixture to run underneath. Cook until omelet is done as desired. Remove from heat. Loosen omelet with a spatula. Fold omelet in half and place on a serving plate. Fill omelet with sautéed vegetables. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes one serving. There is .77 mg. (trace) of cholesterol per serving.

EGGS SARDOU

- 4 frozen croissants
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen creamed spinach
- 4 poached eggs
- Hollandaise Sauce

Cut frozen croissants in half lengthwise; leave together. Heat frozen croissants on ungreased baking sheet in preheated 325 degree oven 9 to 11 minutes. Cook spinach according to package directions. For each serving, spoon 1/4 of creamed spinach over each croissant bottom half. Top with 1 poached egg. Spoon Hollandaise Sauce over egg. Top with remaining croissant half. Makes four servings.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

- 2 egg yolks
- 1 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, cut into 3 chunks

Mix egg yolks and lemon juice in small saucepan until smooth. Over low heat, add butter, one piece at a time, stirring constantly until butter has melted. Continue stirring until mixture thickens. Makes four servings.

CITY FARMERS' BREAKFAST

- 8 oz. package brown and serve sausage links
- 3 to 4 Tbsps. butter or margarine
- 3 cups frozen hash brown potatoes
- 1 1/4 cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 5 eggs
- Chopped parsley

Brown sausages in 9-inch skillet; remove and set aside. Melt butter and cook potatoes until barely tender and lightly browned. Pat down flat in pan. Arrange sausages in pairs spoke-fashion in pan, leaving 5 spaces for cheese and eggs. Sprinkle cheese on potatoes. Carefully crack eggs on top of cheese. Cover and cook over medium low heat until eggs are set or done to individual's liking. Garnish with parsley.

BREAKFAST STACKS

- 8 strips bacon
- 8 eggs, beaten

Appliances should be put to full use

Rather than buy more electrical kitchen appliances, many consumers would be better off making full use of the ones they currently own, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

"Too many of us have electric fry pans, griddles or blenders gathering dust in cupboards while we shop for food processors and electric woks," says Bonnie L. Piernot, a consumer economics specialist.

Manufacturers try to develop appliances that are as versatile as possible to improve sales, she says, but consumers tend to habitually use them for one primary function.

Expanding the use of appliances you already own requires deliberate action, says Piernot. But it can be worth it.

For example, greater use of a blender or food processor can save money by reducing your purchase of prepared foods. The extra processing done by the commercial food company makes food more expensive. You can use the appliance to perform some of the same tasks and save those dollars, the specialist says.

Piernot suggests that you can make new uses for appliances you already have:

- Periodically read the "use and care" book that came with the appliance, magazine and newspaper articles for new ideas on how to cook with it.
- Analyze recipes. What processes are required to complete the product and what appliances will simplify these processes? You may not do things in the same order or in the same manner as when you do them by hand.
- Combine processes whenever possible. For example, in making a meat loaf, you could crumble the crackers or bread in a blender first, followed by the addition of the eggs, milk and seasoning. This mixture could then be combined with the meat or the entire meat loaf could be mixed in a food processor.

Consider alternative uses for the appliance. An electric fry pan will do more than fry foods. It can be used for stir-frying; baking pizza, cake or muffins; popping corn or slow cooking. That means you can eliminate a wok, toaster-oven and popcorn popper. Or if you have a wok, try using it for searing, braising, poaching, deep frying, stewing and popping corn.

"Let your imagination and determination expand the use of those small appliances already taking up space in your kitchen," said Piernot.

Fruits, vegetables may protect against stroke

Can fruits and vegetables protect against death from stroke? According to Family Circle, British investigators suggest the possibility, after noting a steady drop in stroke death rates in Britain during a period of increased consumption of fresh fruit and vegetables.

And now research in Norway suggests the same connection, says the magazine. The doctors who conducted the study say the results indicate there may be increased susceptibility to stroke in individuals marginally deficient in dietary vitamin C, common in many fruits and vegetables.

Commission recommends one jail for city, county

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

City councilmen Tuesday night agreed to meet next week with Howard County Commissioners to discuss hiring an architect for preliminary jail studies.

Councilmen approved the 10 a.m. Tuesday meeting in the city's Airpark office at the request of councilman Harold Hall, one of the city's representatives on the city-county jail commission.

Councilmen and commissioners would need to approve funding of a preliminary architect's feasibility study, Hall said.

Hall said he and the other five members of the special commission met Tuesday with a representative of the state Jail Standards Commission to discuss the expanding and remodeling of the city's jail for use as a county jail.

Under Hall's proposal, the county would take over operations of the jail. A two-story annex would be built near the current police station-city jail. The bottom floor would house the sheriff's office, and the top floor would contain offices for other state law enforcement agencies, such as the Department of Public Safety, the Texas Rangers and the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Cells would be added for women prisoners in the annex and the kitchen area would be remodeled, Hall said.

Commission members had been concerned that the city's current jail cells, which house four inmates each, would not be large enough to meet state standards, Hall said.

The city-county venture "makes so much sense...We can cut out lots of duplications, like jailers and dispatchers."

City OKs new water contract

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

City Council members Tuesday night approved a 10-year contract selling water to the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1.

The contract replaces a 35-year agreement between the city and the water district, which sells its water to the City of Coahoma.

Changes in the contract include an increase from 200,000 gallons of water to 300,000 gallons a day that the city provides the water district, and a new 180-day emergency termination clause if the city is unable to fulfill its own water needs, according to Big Spring City Manager Don Davis.

"We (the water district's board) have talked about it," said Oscar Cagle, chairman of the water district board. "I'm sure we will approve it. (We were) all in favor of it."

Council members also approved a $111,869.60 bid for five police cars from Bob Brock Ford, the apparent low bidder. The low bid was $24,000 under budget.

In a related purchase, the city accepted low bids from Motorola of Midland for seven two-way radios and Sa-So of Grand Prairie for lights and sirens for the police cars. Council members tentatively accepted the bids, but said they wanted to check prices from a Houston-area municipal cooperative that had lower prices last year.

Total cost for the two bids is $17,416.10, according to staff reports.

In addition, council members approved a wrecker ordinance tabled at the last council session because of opposition from Councilman Larry Miller.

The ordinance approved Tuesday had several changes from the original presented two weeks ago, including an increase in the amount of liability insurance for property destruction to $100,000 from $25,000.

4 city streets to get facelift

Four streets in Big Spring will get a facelift this year.

According to Tom Decell, director of the Public Works Department, the city will reconstruct N.E. Second between Gregg and Benton Streets; Sixth Street between Main and Circle Streets; Washington Boulevard between 11th Place and Birdwell; and 10th Street between Runnels and Goliad. Sixth Street was reconstructed between Circle and Birdwell last year, he said.

The city also will pave Seminole Street and 1 1/4 blocks of Dixie Street under the voluntary paving assessment program, in which the city and the property owners share costs of the paving.

If a street is accepted for paving in the program, property owners who did not sign the petition may be involuntarily assessed costs of paving at a higher rate than those in the program.

Also, the city has tentatively planned to seal-coat these streets: Goliad, from F.M. 700 to the south end of the street, and Morrison, Alabama, Barnes and Graf streets.

Alcohol agent is transferred

Sam Smelser, an agent for the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission who has been stationed in Big Spring for the last five years, worked his last day Tuesday in office here.

Smelser is being transferred to New Braunfels, where he will serve as the senior agent for New Braunfels and Seguin, he said.

Smelser will be replaced, but the post could remain vacant for a few months, according to his secretary.

Color guard wins top contest honor

Members of the Big Spring color guard Mariah won first place in a color guard open class contest last weekend in Austin, according to Linda Woodley of Howard College.

Mariah is based at Howard College. The band is composed of both Howard College students and Big Spring High School students.

Ms. Woodley said the group will attend a regional competition this weekend in Dallas.

Women demonstrate travel tips

Rozelle Dahoney and Dolores Norred taught members of City Extension Homemakers Club how to pack for travel at the club's meeting, Friday.

Whether packing for bus, car or plane trip, the women showed how to minimize space for all essential items needed for the trip. To avoid wrinkling, blouses, pants and dresses can be folded neatly in ziplock bags, they said. Underwear and hose can be laundered nightly in hotel or motel rooms, so only a few changes are required. The proper coat, jacket or sweater is important. Medication and cosmetics can be put in small containers to conserve space.

The club will meet again in the home of Irene Priebe, March 8.

Dr. Donohue

Old NFL'er has questions

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 64 years old. I was in football for 13 years, five of them in the NFL. I feel fine physically. No pains, bruises, or bleeding. My concern is over results of a recent blood test. My alkaline phosphatase level was 272 and my blood sediment rate was 24. Both of these are higher than normal. The doctor ordered chest X-rays, which were negative. He wants to repeat the blood test in three months. I should mention that I lost 35 pounds weight in a year after my retirement. My playing weight was 205 pounds. I am still very active. I would appreciate anything you might contribute with regard to these blood test readings. What do they tell you? — J.G.

Let's start with the alkaline phosphatase.
That's an enzyme found mostly in liver and bone. The enzyme level rises if something happens in either, for example when new bone forms after a break. I'm not doing any diagnosing here, only suggesting that the first step is to determine where the enzyme level has its source — liver or bone. I'm going to make one of my rare long distance guesses about this later on.
Next, the sedimentation rate. That is a very common blood test. A slightly high rate doesn't have to mean anything terrible is going on. It sort of says that in general all is not quite the way it should be. For it to really be significant it would have to be much higher than what you say yours is.

Now for my guess. Why do you have higher than normal alkaline phosphatase and sed rate readings? Because of your age and the fact that you are active and seemingly healthy, I'd have to suggest Paget's disease of the bone. I'm sure that will alarm you. It shouldn't.
In Paget's disease, there is localized loss of bone substance, which is replaced by an excess of coarser and more fibrous material. This shows in contrast to surrounding bone in X-rays.

Dear Abby

More than bridgework is broken

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in reference to "On Fire in Arkansas," the woman who punched her neighbor (41) in the mouth after learning that she had seduced her 15-year-old son. Then the tramp said, "He's my boy, he's a man; and with a little practice he'll be as good as his father."
That's when the boy's mother hauled off, hit the tramp in the mouth and broke her bridgework. The tramp threatened to sue the woman for assaulting her. Meanwhile, the assaulter went to her priest, who advised her to apologize to the tramp and offer to pay for repairing her bridgework. And you agreed with that idiot priest!

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 14-year-old son who's a star basketball player. He stands 6 feet tall, weighs 165 pounds, has blond curly hair, and the most gorgeous brown eyes you could ever want to see. If any 41-year-old woman ever laid a hand on him, I'd break more than her bridgework.

ON FIRE IN GEORGIA

You both totally ignored the fact that this trollop was guilty of statutory rape when she seduced a minor. The boy's father was at least a legal catch.
I hope you get a hundred letters calling you on this.

DISGUSTED IN DOYLESTOWN, PA.
DEAR DISGUSTED: I wish it were only 100; a thousand would be closer to it. Mea culpa, mea maxima culpa. The priest will have to make his own apologies. Read on:
DEAR ABBY: I would like to put in my 2 cents about that 41-year-old woman who took a 15-year-old neighbor boy to bed. What's all the commotion about? All right, so a 15-year-old boy is a minor in the eyes of the law, but there are a lot of boys that age who are man enough to seek a sexual relationship.
In my day, it wasn't unusual for a boy's father to pay a high-class prostitute to educate his son. It may not be the ideal solution, but it's preferable to having the kid talk some inexperienced 14-year-old girl into taking care of his normal sex urges.

MICHIGAN GRANDPA.
DEAR GRANDPA: As a father, would you feel the same way about having your 15-year-old daughter "educated" by an older man?
Grandpa, children should be taught early that they can't have everything they want as soon as they feel the urge for it.
Believe minors should be taught everything they want to know about sex before they become sexually active in order to protect themselves and others. We don't need any more venereal disease, abortions or babies born out of wedlock to teen-age girls. But whatever happened to self-control? That should also be a part of sex education.

Home, church and community needs addressed

Three members of 1905 Hyperion Club spoke on home, church and community and related the role of each in today's world during the Feb. 21 meeting. The meeting was at the home of Virginia Whitten.
"Family relationships are the most stable of all relationships," said Barbara Anderson. "If churches would take care of the needs around them, there'd be no need for welfare," said Annie Matt Angel. Posters, drawn by the students of Sara Beth Reid, were displayed to show the meaning of the community and its service to them.
Members will take homemade cakes to the State Hospital this month to be used for the monthly birthday parties. Later the club will send a large decorated cake.
The next meeting will be March 21.

City worker suspended; funds missing

An employee of the city's Public Works Department was suspended without pay Tuesday pending the conclusion of a criminal investigation into missing city funds, according to city officials.

Suspended is Inez Gonzales Jr., 19, of 306 N.W. Sixth, who works as the gatekeeper at the city landfill, according to Public Works Director Tom Decell and City Personnel Director Emma Lee Bogard.

Gonzales was arrested by police at 10:32 a.m. Tuesday at the police station on suspicion of theft of less than $20, according to police reports.

He was arrested after he reported to police and underwent questioning about the missing funds, according to Police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

"It's my understanding he made a statement (to police)," Edwards said.

Money has been reported missing from the landfill during the last month, Edwards said. He said he was unsure how much money is missing, but estimated it to be between $20 and $200, a Class B misdemeanor.

"If he (Gonzales) is cleared in the incident, he can have his job back," Decell said.

2 renamed to board

Big Spring Mayor Pro Tem Jack Y. Smith has been reappointed the chairman of the Permian Basin Regional Community Development Block Grant Review Committee.

Another Big Spring member, Howard County Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown, also was renamed to the committee.

Smith's term will expire Jan. 1, 1987, while Brown's will expire Jan. 1, 1986.

Other members named to terms expiring in 1986 are Andrews County Judge Les Brown of Andrews, Winkler County Judge Frances Clark of Kermit, Seminole City Alderman Dave Fisher, Ector County Judge Jan Fisher of Odessa and Stanton Mayor Danny Fryar.

Cowboys, Skins shootout ends in a draw

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

Only in a basketball game where the participants are professional football players could you have a game that ended in a tie. And that is what happened to the Redskin D.C. Warriors and the Dallas Cowboy Hoopster Tuesday night in Midland's Chaparral Center.

The two groups of off-season gridiron stars tied 91-91 after playing through one overtime and a total of 3 hours, all to the great pleasure of a packed house who had come to catch a glimpse of America's Team and the arch-rivals Redskins without all the armor.

All proceeds went to the Midland Special Olympics and was a spectacular success. Each player pledged 5 dollars for every point they scored and assorted Cowboy souvenirs were auctioned off at halftime and at the end of the game.

Two Cowboy jersey's owned by Bill Bates and Tony Dorsett received the highest bids at the auction, both going for $1300 dollars. A total of $6645 was raised through the auctioning of Cowboy paraphernalia.

The Hoopster opened up a commanding 14-4 lead in the first quarter in a game that saw lots of offense and very little defense. After a mid-quarter timeout, the D.C. Warriors came out in an aggressive man-to-man defense which lasted about five minutes, but was effective enough to bring the Skins back 28-24 at the end of the first period.

The second quarter was highlighted by a single man scoring show by Washington receiver/guard Charlie "Downtown" Brown, who scored 23 points in the second half and had a game high 44 for the game. The Redskin big men, defensive tackles Mike Williams and Anthony Jones, gave new meaning to the phrase "physical" with their aggressive play under the basket. Williams was handed a world record nine fouls but continued to play because neither of the referees had the courage to tell him to sit down.

The Cowboys ballhandling became very sloppy in the second quarter, due mainly to the fact they had muscle bound brutes like Eugene "the Hitting Machine" Lockhart and Bill "Wildman" Bates trying to dribble instead of strip the ball. Behind a constant barrage of easy layups by Brown, the Warriors took a substantial 56-36 lead into the lockerroom at half.

Following the halftime auction, the Hoopsters came out with a modified game plan that let their best ballhandlers, Micheal Downs and Everson Walls, control the offensive tempo. The plan worked well as Downs scored 20 points in the second half, leading a Dallas comeback that had them down by just 8 at the end of the third quarter. 71-63.

The Redskins hit an unfortunate cold streak in the middle of the fourth quarter and Dallas tied the score, 81-81 on a pair of free throws by offensive tacklepost Brian Baldinger. That is how the score remained at the end of the game as Charlie Brown missed a long jumper at the buzzer to send ballers played to a 91-91 tie in the charity basketball game benefitting the Midland Special Olympics.

the game into overtime. The two teams traded five baskets apiece in the five minute overtime, but the score remained tied 91-91 at the end of the period. Neither team was particularly mad that the game didn't go on any longer, especially Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who was barely managing to get his 6'9" frame up the floor in the latter part of the game. Big Spring's own Ken Coffey made several cameo appearances in the game for the Warriors, but had his best efforts as comic relief man for the oft times somber "Fun Bunch". Micheal Downs was the high man for the Cowboys with 24 points. Eugene Lockart ended with 13,

Brian Baldinger had 12, and Everson Walls rounded out the Hoopsters in double figures with 11 points. Big Mike Williams was the only other Warrior in double figures with 10 points. COWBOYS (91) Brian Baldinger 4-4-12; Bill Bates 2-4-8; Tony Dorsett 4-0-8;

Micheal Downs 12-0-24; Mike Hegman 0-0-0; Tony Hill 2-0-4; Ed Jones 2-0-4; Eugene Lockhart 4-5-13; Ron Springs 0-4-4; Everson Walls 5-1-11; Totals 35-18-91. ## Klondike runs by Highland, 82-64

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

CALL — The Klondike Cougars used their tenacious trapping press and a controlled running game to down the Highland Hornets 82-64 in Class A area playoff action last night at Borden County High School gym.

The win propelled coach Jimmy Thomas' Cougars, now 28-3 for the season, to the regional tournament in Levelland this weekend. The Cougs will play the at 8:30 p.m. Friday against the winner of the Ft. Davis-Grand Falls game.

It was a typical Klondike Cougar game, keeping pressure on the ball and fast-breaking on the offensive end. But it was their trapping press that finally broke the Hornets' back.

The Cougars press, engineered by the starting five of Tim Cope, Brent Airhart, Ricky Webb, Lane Turner and Mitch Mitchell, harassed Hornets ball-handlers all night. Highland committed 20 turnovers in the contest.

Not only did the Cougars play good defense, they were pretty good on the offensive end also. Led by Cope's game-high 23 points, all Klondike starters scored in double figures.

Cope, a 5-11 senior guard, had a superb game, hitting 8 of 17 shots from the field, collecting four steals and dishing off 12 assists.

He was at his best late in the game after Highland came out of its zone and switched to a man-to-man defense. Time after time Cope would zip by his man to dish the ball off to a teammate for an easy basket.

Turner, a 6-4 post player, was on the receiving end of many of the passes. He finished up with 18 points and a game-high 11 rebounds.

Trailing 19-13 after the first quarter, Klondike ran off a 15-8 run in the first four minutes of the second quarter to take a 28-27 lead. They would never trail after that, leading by as much as 13 points late in the third period.

But the Hornets proved why they sported a 22-6 record going into the game as they rallied back behind the shooting of guard Gary Light, who pumped in 12 second-half points.

After narrowing the lead to 57-48 going into the final quarter, Highland made a run and cut the margin to 59-54 with 5:30 left in the game.

After a timeout, the Cougars came out smoking.

Klondike forced four consecutive turnovers, turning them all into baskets. With 3:40 left in the game Klondike held a 69-54 lead and had the game under control.

"I called the timeout to settle us down and deflate their momentum," explained Thomas. We pulled it out and forced them to go to a man-to-man defense. We let Tim (Cope) have the ball. When they double-team him he can either pass it off or get fouled."

The Cougars struggled in the first quarter, trailing 19-13, as Highland controlled behind the hot outside shooting of guard Duane Hyde who scored 14 of his 22 points in the first half.

Turner kept the Cougs close as he turned lob passes from Cope into easy baskets. "We were a little snakebit in the first quarter," said Thomas. "We were kicking balls, knocking passes into their hands and everything else. I just told them to keep playing good defense and everything else will come around."

The Cougs got their running game down in the second quarter as Cope started things off with two baskets and Airhart and Webb added baskets. This tied the contest at 21-21 with 6:14 left in the half.

From that point on, the Klondike barrage continued as Turner put the icing on the cake when he scored on an offensive rebound just before the buzzer. The basket gave Klondike a 39-33 halftime lead.

Thomas said the key to the win was his team's running game. "We could not slow the game down because it would have worked to their advantage. We knew we had to run them."

KLONDIKE (82) — Tim Cope 8 7 23; Mitch Mitchell 5 1 11; Lane Turner 8 2 18; Ricky Webb 6 2 14; Brent Airhart 7 2 16; totals 34 14 82. ## Dr. J reaches another milestone

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Julius Erving didn't have much to say after reaching another milestone in his storied career. Erving, better known as "Dr. J" to the millions of basketball fans, became the first leading scorer in pro basketball history when he scored seven points Tuesday night in the Philadelphia 76ers' 116-97 loss to the Milwaukee Bucks. "It's not so bad when you're playing happy," Erving said of his sub-par performance. "I'm thankful for it. That's all I've got to say." Erving, one of the more cerebral athletes in all of sports, then uncharacteristically walked away from reporters and returned to his hotel room across the street from the Mecca Arena. "The Doc is a great player," said teammate Moses Malone, "but he is more concerned with the game than records. He wants to win the game first." The 6-foot-6 forward has scored 27,314 points, trailing only center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers, who has 32,049 points, and Bill Chamberlain with 31,419. Erving Hayes, who retired after last season, had 27,313 points. Erving needed only seven points to move into third place past Hayes, and he got that on a tip-in with 6:05 remaining in the game.

Erving, who is averaging 20.8 points a game this season, struggled throughout the game. He hit only three of 10 shots from the field and one of four free throws, turned the ball over four times and grabbed only four rebounds in 28 minutes. Erving, who turned 35 last week, played five seasons in the American Basketball Association, where he averaged 28.7 points a game with the Virginia Squires and New York Nets.

A LEGALLY OWNED OUTPATIENT FACILITY
 318 N. Alleghany • Suite 100 • Odessa, TX 79761

The Odessa Diagnostic Imaging Center wishes to announce that one of the latest methods in diagnostic testing —

MAGNETIC RESONANCE IMAGING

will soon be available to the people of West Texas and New Mexico.

- Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) is a new device which allows physicians to examine the human body without radiation.
- MRI can detail body functions and structures and detect abnormalities at early stages. It adds new dimensions to medical diagnoses in conditions such as multiple sclerosis, brain and spinal cord problems and abnormalities of various parts of the body not detectable by any other method currently used.

Odessa Diagnostic Imaging Center — first in West Texas and New Mexico to offer the MRI — provides the latest in diagnostic equipment:

- C.T. Scan
- Nuclear Medicine
- Ultrasonography
- Radiology
- Cardiac Stress Testing
- Clinical Lab
- Mammography
- EKG/EEG

All diagnostic tests performed on an outpatient basis.

Hoyas, Redmen set rematch for No. 1

BY The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — St. John's basketball coach Lou Carnesecca is sitting on top of the world going into tonight's game against Georgetown at Madison Square Garden.

Top-ranked St. John's, winners of 19 in a row, takes on the second-ranked Hoyas, the defending NCAA champion which lost to the Redmen 66-65 in their Jan. 26 meeting at Landover, Md., ending Georgetown's 29-game winning streak.

The Redmen, 14-0 in the Big East, can clinch the conference crown outright by beating the Hoyas, who have a 12-2 conference mark. Next week the Big East postseason tournament gets under way with the two teams possibly meeting then and, perhaps, in the NCAA tourney.

Georgetown relies on a pressing defense and intimidating presence of 7-foot All-American senior center Patrick Ewing, who has blocked more than 100 shots in each of his four seasons. St. John's held Ewing to nine points last month with 7-0 Bill Wennington playing behind him and others collapsing on the Olympian. The Hoyas will need some better outside shooting from Billy Martin, David Wingate, Reggie Williams, Michael Jackson and Horace Broadnax.

The Redmen's big gun is Olympian Chris Mullin, a 6-6

CHRIS MULLIN
...St. John's top scorer

guard with a deadly outside touch and court savvy. He is the all-time top scorer at St. John's and is averaging 19.4 points. He has been a savior for the Redmen in many games this season.

In addition to Wennington up front, St. John's relies on Walter Berry, a 6-8 junior college transfer from San Jacinto (Texas).

Berry, who says he is not intimidated by Ewing, is the Redmen's second leading scorer with a 16.5 average and tops them in rebounds, 8.6. His specialty is short, spinaround jump shots.

A sellout crowd of 19,500 will be on hand and ESPN, the cable network, will telecast the game starting at 8 p.m. CST.

Sports Briefs

Church softball meeting

An organizational meeting for the Church League slow pitch softball will be March 2 at 11 a.m. in the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce meeting room.

All coaches and team members are encouraged to attend.

Monahans drops BHS baseballers

MONAHANS — The Big Spring Steers baseballers lost their first scrimmage game of the season as they fell to the Monahans Lobos by a score of 10-7.

Steers pitchers Jay Pirkle, Eli Torres and Mike Dodd suffered control problems in the contest as they walked 10 batters. Big Spring also passed up a golden opportunity to score when they left the bases loaded in the first inning without getting a run.

The Steers collected seven hits in the game led by Torres who went 2-for-3 at the plate. Dodd blasted a home run in the fifth while Randy Hayworth followed suit in the sixth inning.

Big Spring will start the regular season Friday when they participate in the season-opening district tournament in Abilene.

Tech fighting for SWC title

DALLAS (AP) — Can Texas Tech overcome Southern Methodist's Moody Coliseum mastery?

The Mustangs are 15-0 in Moody Coliseum this year but the Red Raiders can earn the top seed in the Southwest Conference Post-Season Basketball Classic with a victory tonight over the Mustangs.

"It's the biggest game of my career," said Texas Tech guard Bubba Jennings. "This is the game we've been working for."

Tech can clinch a title tie with a victory. The last time the Red Raiders won an SWC championship was 1973.

If the 13th ranked Mustangs defeat the Red Raiders, they will clinch a co-championship.

However, should the Mustangs win the No. 1 seed will still be up for grabs between SMU and Tech.

Tech is at Texas Christian on Saturday in a regionally televised 1:08 p.m. game while SMU is at Houston on Sunday in a 1 p.m. regionally televised contest, the last regular season game of the SWC.

The Red Raiders and Mustangs have 10-4 SWC records.

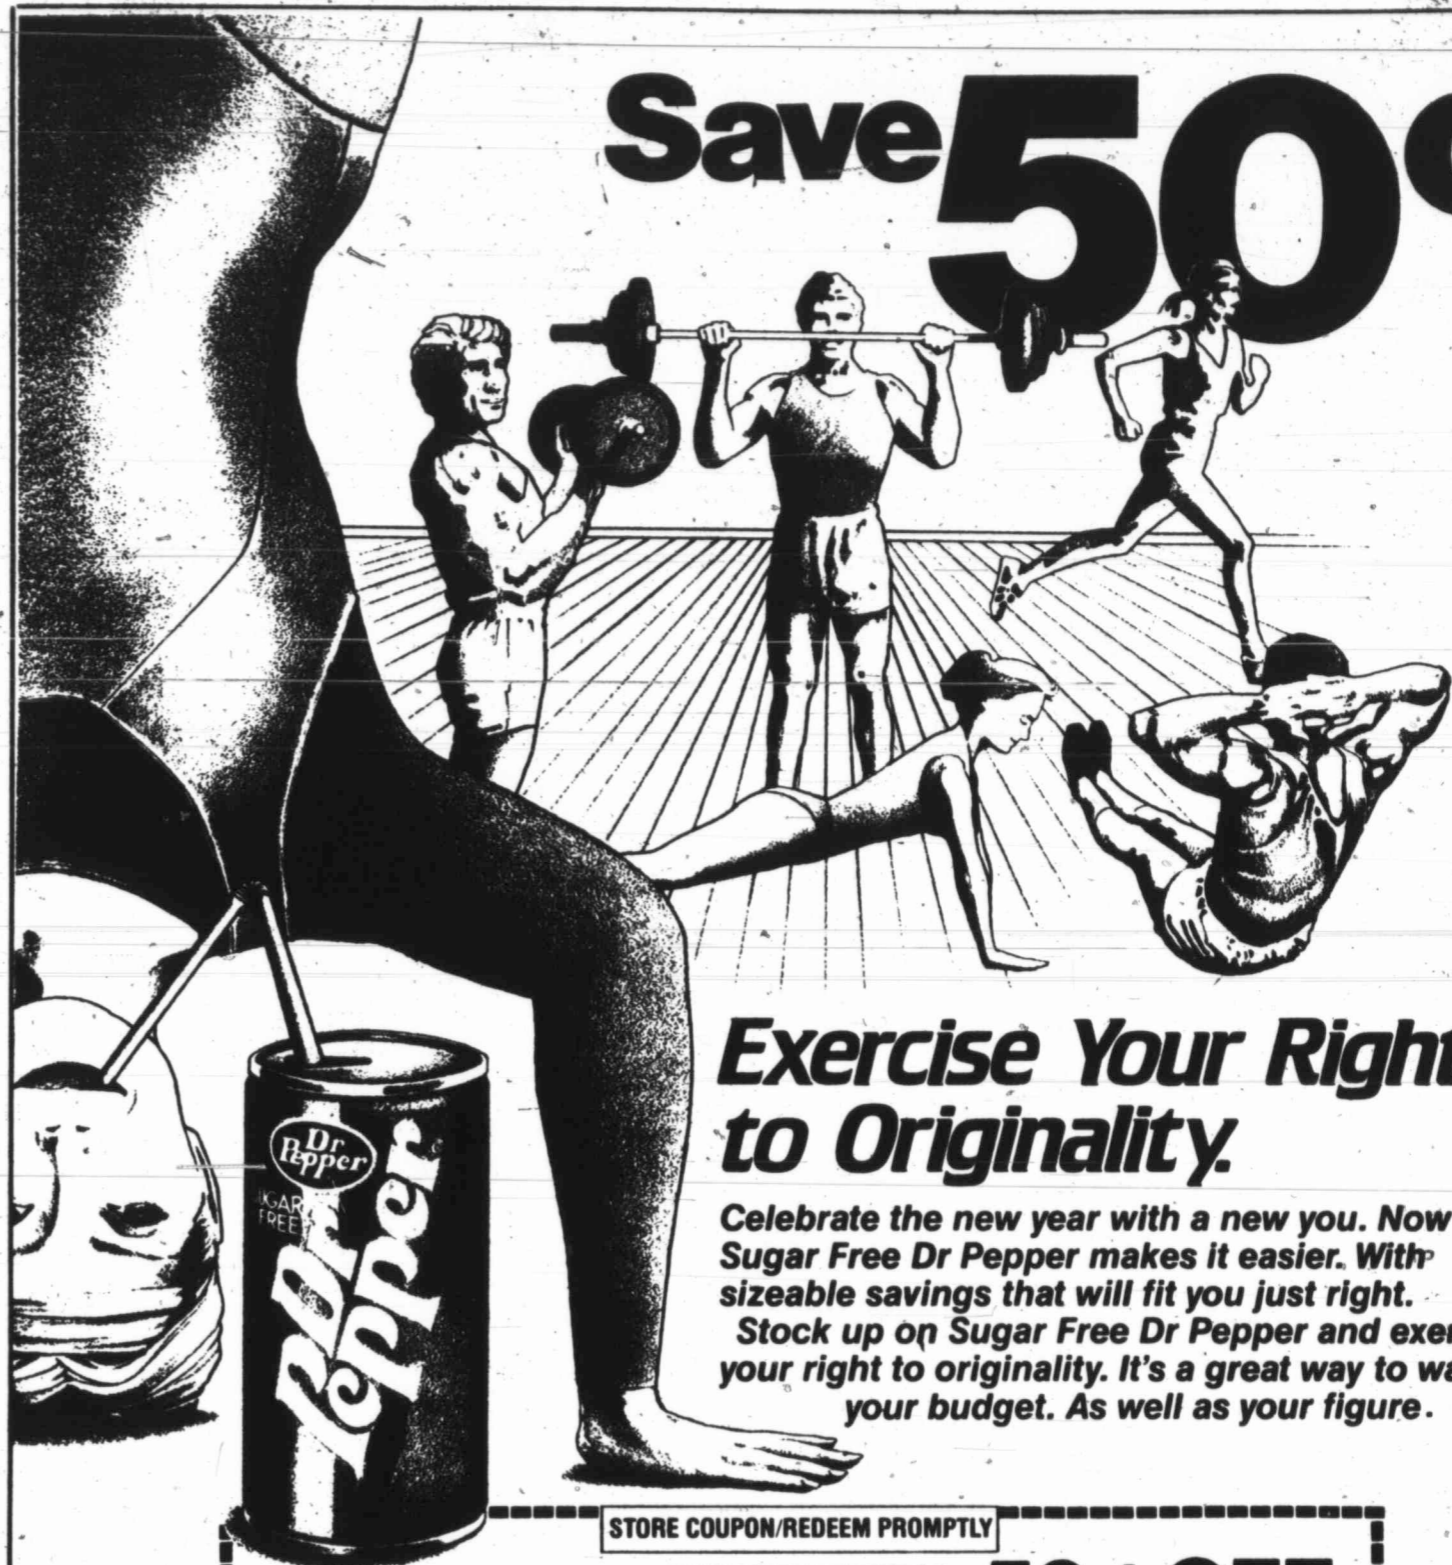

Tech gave SMU its second loss of the season Jan. 26 in Lubbock 64-63 on a 15-foot jump shot by Tony Benford with three seconds left to play. SMU went into the game with a chance to be No. 1 in the nation.

The Mustangs have slipped to 13th in The Associated Press poll and are now 21-6 overall.

Tech has won six games in a row, most for the Red Raiders in eight years.

"I know it will be a tough game," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "But the pressure is off now that we know we'll finish ahead of Arkansas. We'll be either 1 or 2. But we would like to win our last two games so we can get some attention from the NCAA Playoff Committee."

In other games tonight, Rice is at Baylor in a battle for the eighth and final SWC playoff berth, Texas A&M is at Houston, and TCU is at Texas.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 23, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning will have all kinds of tests of your ability to rightly understand what is going on about you and to use good judgment in sidestepping the urge to make some unwise changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you do not disturb others in the morning and then you can go after your personal goals and gain them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are concerned with financial affairs but wait until the afternoon before you commit yourself to any new investments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't make any radical changes in the morning in order to gain your personal wishes but later you can get right results quietly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Much care must be exercised in worldly affairs in the morning, but later you can do much that will be gainful.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You feel discontent in the morning and want to upset present set-up, but soon you realize the folly in this and then you get ahead faster.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The afternoon is best for having that talk with one in business and you get better results then.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The morning is not good for indulging in expensive amusement, but the evening is fine for fun you can really afford.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to placate an upset fellow worker in the morning, and then you get much cooperation and can accomplish a great deal at work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Steer clear of associates in the morning who may have a chip on their shoulders, but later can be easy to deal with.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you do your work without irritation in the morning, then everything will go very smoothly, and you are complimented.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure to handle important duties in the morning, and then you can go out for the entertainment you desire.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may feel upset as you arise but this changes quickly and you can make your home more charming.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be restless and discontent early in life and should have a delightful environment to combat this feeling. Give as fine an education as you can. Upon reaching maturity your progeny will be a well-balanced individual with much charm and would do well in public relations work.

An unidentified guard stands near a sign intended for students leaving the campus of Principia College in Elsay, Ill. Two students at the college have died following an outbreak of measles at the Christian Science School.

Measles outbreak claims two; college officials close campus

ELSAH, Ill. (AP) - Two students have died during a measles outbreak at Principia College, but officials at the Christian Science school say those who want medical treatment will have to leave campus to get it.
 "We believe in healing through prayer," Coordinating Dean David E. Pfeifer said Tuesday. "But if they choose to seek medical help, they are free to go to an outside hospital. It's a matter between them and their conscience. If someone chooses medicine, we will still love and support them."
 Since the measles outbreak hit Principia several weeks ago, 79 of its 712 students have caught the disease, prompting school officials to declare a voluntary quarantine.
 Jersey County Coroner Paul Schroeder said he was awaiting the results of an autopsy on the second student to determine if measles caused the deaths.
 "I did it to either prove or disprove the connection between the measles outbreak and the death," Schroeder said. "Right now, I have no proof either way."
 Scott A. Shedrick, 19, a freshman from Holliston, Mass., died at Principia on Friday night and Charlotte Bertleson, 23, of Tucson, Ariz., died Feb. 5 at Alton Memorial Hospital, authorities said.
 The school, perched on bluffs over the Mississippi River about 30 miles north of St. Louis, is operated by the Christian Science Church, which holds that illness is caused by negative thoughts and can be cured only through prayer.
 When Shedrick and Miss Bertleson fell ill, they were put in a "special care unit" at the school where they were made comfortable but not given any medication, Pfeifer said.
 School officials on Tuesday refused to permit reporters or photographers to visit the unit.

Pfeifer said Miss Bertleson's mother, Astrida Bertleson, decided to get medical attention for her daughter and the student was moved to Alton Memorial. She died 2 1/2 days after falling into a coma.
 Shedrick and his father, who came to Principia after his son became sick, "decided to try to seek healing through prayer," said college President John Boyman. "Good progress was made, but he suddenly took a turn for the worse."
 The youth died at the school's care unit without ever having been seen by a doctor, Boyman said.
 "In a telephone interview, Mrs. Bertleson said her daughter apparently had two major heart attacks while ill. She said that after Miss Bertleson went into a coma, she asked doctors to disconnect all life-support systems because she knew her child "was not able to recuperate, no matter what they did."
 "I, as a mother, had to make that choice for her," she said. "No parent should have to do this."
 Shedrick's father, Dick, refused to discuss his son's illness in detail Tuesday.
 "It's a personal tragedy," he said in a telephone interview from the school's guest house. "Everything possible was done for him. I am very comfortable with that."
 Measles is a highly contagious disease which tends to recur in epidemics every few years. Once the disease is full blown the primary treatment is to combat the symptoms, which include fever that can reach 105 degrees.
 Antibiotics are useful in treatment of secondary infections, such as pneumonia, which is the most frequent cause of death in measles, according to Van Nostrand's Scientific Encyclopedia.

College classes canceled following power outage

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A power outage that lasted more than 5 1/2 hours stranded people in elevators and forced officials to cancel university classes when power was cut to 105,000 customers on the city's west side, authorities said.
 There were no reports of accidents or injuries stemming from the blackout, which affected the entire University of California campus. The cause of the failure was not known.
 The failure occurred at one of the Department of Water and Power's 19 receiving stations, said Ed Freudenburg, a department spokesman.
 The station takes in electricity from generating stations in the Southwest and relays it to smaller distribution stations, spokeswoman Darlene Battle said.
 The outage Tuesday afternoon lasted more than 5 1/2 hours, said another spokeswoman, Valerie Roberts Gray.
 Firefighters helped people out of about a dozen elevators in West Los Angeles and Century City, and two window washers on an electrically operated hoist were rescued from the sixth floor of a building in Marina del Rey, said Fire Department spokesman Larry Ford.
 Night classes were canceled at UCLA, where about 14 students were stuck in an elevator for about 10 minutes until rescued by the fire department, UCLA police Sgt. Alan Christopher said.
 UCLA Medical Center was briefly without electricity before emergency generators switched on, but patient care was not interrupted, a hospital spokesman said.
 General Telephone Co. said callers trying to find out what was going on jammed phone lines, prompting a public appeal from police that telephones be used for emergencies only.
 At the Pizzeria Santo Pietro near the UCLA campus, the staff cooked pizzas in gas-fired ovens by candlelight.
 "If you want to make a disaster out of it, you can close your doors and go home," owner George Santo Pietro said. "We decided to light candles and have some romance."

Tina Turner, Prince win 3 Grammys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — High-voltage soul singer Tina Turner won three Grammys to cap a smash comeback, gyrating rocker Prince danced off with three awards and a surprised Lionel Richie took album-of-the-year honors at the 27th Annual Grammy Awards.

Cyndi Lauper, the unruly rocker with carrot-colored hair and thrift shop clothes, was named best new artist of the year Tuesday by members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences.

Miss Turner, who first gained fame more than two decades ago as the shimmy-shaking partner of ex-husband Ike, won record of the year for her gutsy "What's Love Got To Do With It." The song also captured best female pop vocal, while best female rock vocal went to "Better Be Good to Me," all from her smash "Private Dancer" album.

"This is the biggest single moment of my career — right now," Miss Turner, 43, said backstage after winning record of the year. Her last Grammy was with Ike in 1971 for their version of "Proud Mary," and her first hit record was in 1960.

"What's Love Got To Do With It" also won song of the year for writers Graham Lyle and Terry Britten, who Miss Turner said had to make changes before she agreed to record it.

"It wasn't my type of song," she said. "I didn't like it. It was a bit odd ... but that's what hit records are about."

Veteran songwriter and singer Richie's "Can't Slow Down," a slick melange of pop ballads and easy dance tunes, was named album of the year at the more than three-hour show televised live from the Shrine Auditorium to an estimated audience of 140 million worldwide.

As a member of the Commodores and an individual performer, Richie had been nominated for a Grammy 28 times since 1977, but has only won three.

"Every year it's always been 'I wonder why, I wonder why,'" a delighted Richie said. "And in this case, I don't want to wonder why anymore. I just want to enjoy it."

Richie, 34, and collaborator James Anthony Carmichael also shared the producer of the year award with David Foster, who had snared the most nominations with six. Foster also won the instrumental arrangement Grammy for his "Hard Habit to Break" by Chicago.

Prince, star of the hit movie "Purple Rain," won or shared three awards. He and his band, the Revolution, won best rock performance by a group with vocal for the "Purple Rain" soundtrack, and best album of original score written for a motion picture or TV special. The album sold 9 million copies.

Blue-collar rocker Bruce Springsteen, 35, who had never won a Grammy despite his decade-long leadership in American rock music, won his first award as best rock male vocalist for his sensuous "Dancing in the Dark."

Miss Lauper was riding the popularity of her "She's So Unusual" album, which sold 4 million copies. The LP has generated five hit singles, including the rollicking "Girls Just Want to Have Fun" and the romantic "Time After Time."

Phil Collins, who took a leave of absence from the British rock group Genesis, was named best male pop vocalist for "Against All Odds (Take a Look at Me Now)."

The Pointer Sisters won Grammys for vocal arrangement for two for "Automatic" and pop performance by a duo or group for the three-woman group's "Jump" single.

Michael Jackson didn't make this year's show, but his "Making Michael Jackson's Thriller" won best video album, bringing his Grammy career total to 10, including a record eight trophies last year.

Best female country vocal performance was by Emmylou Harris for "In My Dreams." Merle Haggard won for best country male vocal.

Billy Ocean won the rhythm and blues male vocal Grammy for his "Caribbean Queen" single.

Best opera recording went to the soundtrack for the movie "Carmen," conducted by Lorin Maazel.

The academy's 6,000 members, including musicians, technicians and producers, voted on this year's 67 categories.
