That sinking feeling

Paul Hanson, 22, and Linda Ryan, 25, both of Houston, slowly sink into the wet beach sand in Galveston along the water's edge while riding on a rented three-wheel vehicle. The two were on a spring vacation. A number of Big Spring residents will be vacationing this week as local schools dismissed Friday for the spring break. School resumes Monday, March 18.

Symphony performance set tonight at Howard College

By CAROL BALDWIN

Local musicians will join musicians from Midland, Odessa and Las Cruces, N.M., tonight in a performance by the Big Spring Symphony directed by Marianna Gabbi, conductor of the Las Cruces Symphony Orchestra.

The symphony includes about 35 artists, said Sam Woodward, president of the Big Spring Symphony. Local artists include Todd Felty, James Russell and Woodward. Curtain time is 8 p.m. at the Howard College auditorium. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Tickets for the show are $7.50 for adults and $4 for students, Woodward said.

Woodward said, "Arts is a four letter word for entertainment. I think we have a neat, entertaining, fun evening planned."

Tonight's performance will feature Javier Calderon as guest soloist. Calderon will perform the Rodrigo "Concierto De Aranjuez" for guitar.

The internationally acclaimed artist was nominated in 1975 as one of the "Outstanding Young Artists of the Year" by High Fidelity-Musical America magazine. He performs throughout the United States, Europe, South America and Asia.

He has performed with the Minnesota Orchestra, the St. Louis Symphony and the Atlanta

Symphony, and has given solo recitals at New York's Carnegie Hall, the Teatro Colon of Buenos Aires, and the Sun-Yat-Sen Hall of the Republic of China.

Tonight's performance will also feature a Bach Brandenburg concerto, the "Overture to the Italians in Algiers," and Mozart's "G Minor Symphony." Ms. Gabbi is conducting the Big Spring Symphony for the second time. She conducted the orchestra at its inaugural performance last April.

Although she lives and works in Las Cruces, N.M., Ms. Gabbi has traveled and studied around the world. The Philadelphia native studied at the Settlement School of Music and the Philadelphia Musical Academy as a child.

She studied the violin at the Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris, and obtained her graduate degrees at Southern Methodist University and North Texas State University.

Although she had a desire to conduct an orchestra as a young student, Ms. Gabbi was discouraged by professors and classmates. In 1970, she was asked to work with school orchestras in Dallas, and she began studying conducting at Southern Methodist University.

She found herself the only woman in a class of 41 in a conducting class. She told her professor she was dropping out but was encouraged to remain.

Assault victim dies in Lubbock

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

An 81-year-old Big Spring woman who suffered a skull fracture in an assault at her house Tuesday night died Friday evening in a Lubbock hospital.

Maurine Terrell, 81, of 1400 Scurry was pronounced dead at 5 p.m. by Dr. Bill Coleman, an orthopedic surgeon with Lubbock General Hospital, according to Sharon Hathaway, a spokeswoman for the hospital.

Her death was caused by the head injury she received in the assault Tuesday, Ms. Hathaway said.

Mrs. Terrell had a severe indented skull fracture, according to Dr. Don Crockett of Big Spring. Crockett treated Mrs. Terrell at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring Tuesday night before her transfer to Lubbock early Wednesday morning.

Although police found her beaten but conscious at her house Tuesday night, she "never gained consciousness throughout her stay here," Ms. Hathaway said.

Mrs. Terrell's family was enroute to Big Spring Friday night. Funeral services are pending with Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

Her next of kin is listed as her daughter, Margaret Edens of San Angelo.

Mrs. Terrell was a poet whose book of poems, "My Offering," was published in spring 1982 by the Doris Letter Shop in Big Spring.

Her style as a poet was simple and direct; she termed it "simple expression" in an interview with the Big Spring Herald shortly after the book was published.

She began writing in the late 1970s after attending a Writer's Guild workshop in Abilene, when she was a newcomer to Big Spring, she said in the interview.

Mrs. Terrell also was known as a cat lover; one of her poems was called, "Discourse on Cats."

She also enjoyed yardwork and gardening, according to the interview. Police are continuing to investigate the assault on Mrs. Terrell, Lt. Jerry Edwards said shortly before 5 p.m. Friday.

According to police, Mrs. Terrell knew her assailant.

"We've interviewed three or four people but we have not made any arrests and we don't have any suspects," Edwards said.

Police briefly arrested a Big Spring man Tuesday night, but released him after determining the man's arrest was a case of mistaken identity, Police Chief Rick Turner said Wednesday.

Edwards said police had a suspect earlier in the week, but that the man turned out to have an "ironclad alibi."

Mrs. Terrell was found in her house at 9:17 p.m. Tuesday when Construction starts on new restaurant

The City of Big Spring Friday approved a building permit application for a new seafood restaurant, Seawings, according to Dewey Byers, the chief inspector for the city's building permits and inspection department.

The permit application listed estimated construction costs for the restaurant at $218,000, Byers said. The restaurant will be located in the 400 block of E. FM 700, behind Dunlaps department store in the Highland Park Shopping Center, he said.

Construction on the restaurant started Friday, Byers said. The restaurant is being built by a company out of Abilene, he said.

He said he did not know the name of the company that would be building the restaurant. However, the architect for the project is Peter Jennings of Abilene, he said.

Big Spring Savings and Loan is financing the restaurant project, and sold the Abilene company the lot on which it is being built, according to a spokesman for the savings and loan.

"The people of Big Spring have been saying they want a seafood restaurant," Byers said. "We're going to get one."

Mechanic dies after heart fails

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A 33-year-old auto mechanic who was kept alive for 11 hours with an unapproved manmade heart died Friday after his second transplanted human heart failed, officials at the University of Arizona Medical Center announced.

"I regret to inform you that Mr. (Thomas) Creighton passed away at approximately 2:20 p.m. (MST)," said University Vice President Allan Beigel.

Creighton's mother and sister, as well as Dr. Jack Copeland and other members of the surgical team — which implanted two human hearts and the artificial temporary Phoenix Heart in Creighton's chest earlier this week — were with him when he died, Beigel said. Creighton was a divorced father of two.

His mother, using only her first name Dorothy, said her son's suffering was not prolonged.

"He had an opportunity and it's just regrettable that it didn't work," she said, adding that her son "was not fully conscious and able to talk at any time."

She praised Copeland for deciding to use the Phoenix Heart to keep her son alive despite the fact it was not approved for human use by the federal government.

"He (Copeland) put his neck on the line and we appreciate what he did," she said.

Beigel had told reporters at an afternoon briefing earlier that Creighton's condition had "deteriorated rapidly" in the previous three hours.

He said the main problem was pulmonary edema — fluid in the lungs — which placed more pressure on the human heart which was transplanted early Thursday after the Phoenix Heart was removed.

"Essentially, the patient was given a normal heart, but a normal heart sometimes — and that is obviously the case here — is not able to understand the severe increase in pulmonary artery pressure that results from severe pulmonary edema," Beigel said.

He said then that doctors were not considering use of another mechanical device to keep Creighton alive should the transplanted heart fail.

Doctors had said all along that Creighton's chances of surviving were less than 25 percent.

On Friday morning, Beigel had said Creighton was trying to breathe on his own, but remained on a respirator. He said there had been no change in Creighton's "reduced state of consciousness."

Beigel said there were no signs of brain damage, which doctors feared could have resulted from the 10 hours Creighton spent on a heart-lung bypass machine before the decision was made to use the Phoenix Heart in a human for the first time.

Officials of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration expressed concern that regulations on artificial heart implants were not followed in using the Phoenix Heart to temporarily sustain Creighton after his first human heart transplant was unsuccessful.

Chemical train derails

EVERGREEN, Ala. — A 115-car train carrying flammable chemicals derailed, caught fire and exploded Friday, forcing at least 600 people to flee their homes, authorities said.

"It shook the house," said Will Hawthorne, 77, who lives in the rural area about one-quarter mile from where the Seaboard train derailed. "I was fixing to eat and the law was there at the door and told us we had to get out."

Evacuees were taken to a National Guard armory and schools in the sparsely settled area of south Alabama to wait out the fire and the threat of wafting toxic fumes.

"At the present time, they are allowing it to burn," said Owen Pride, a spokesman for Seaboard railroad, operator of the train.

Conecuh County School Superintendent Ronnie Brogden said children were kept at schools until their parents were found.

"We were trying to determine how many of the kids were unable to get home because their parents were evacuated," he said.

Requirements eased

WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve Board announced Friday it is easing requirements for farm banks to borrow money from the central bank.

The board it was trying to help farmers obtain loans during the spring planting season in action intended to complement Reagan administration efforts to assist farmers caught in a credit squeeze.

"The changes are designed to provide further assurance that small- and medium-sized agricultural banks can meet temporary liquidity requirements that might arise in accommodating the needs of their farm borrowers over the forthcoming planting and production cycle," the Fed said in a statement.

The Fed eased requirements for an existing program operated by the central bank to help local banks meet credit demands occurring on a seasonal basis.

About 600 banks participated in the program last year. The amount borrowed at any given time ranged from $100 million to $300 million.

Offices will not close

WASHINGTON (AP) — Older Americans and some Social Security workers are being frightened by erroneous reports that there are plans to close many Social Security offices, agency spokesman Jim Brown said Friday.

"Our offices are being inundated with phone calls from the public and senior citizens," Brown said. Reports of planned closings "are scaring the death out of the old people... (and) terrifying employees," he added.

Reports that there are plans to close offices "are erroneous," Brown said.

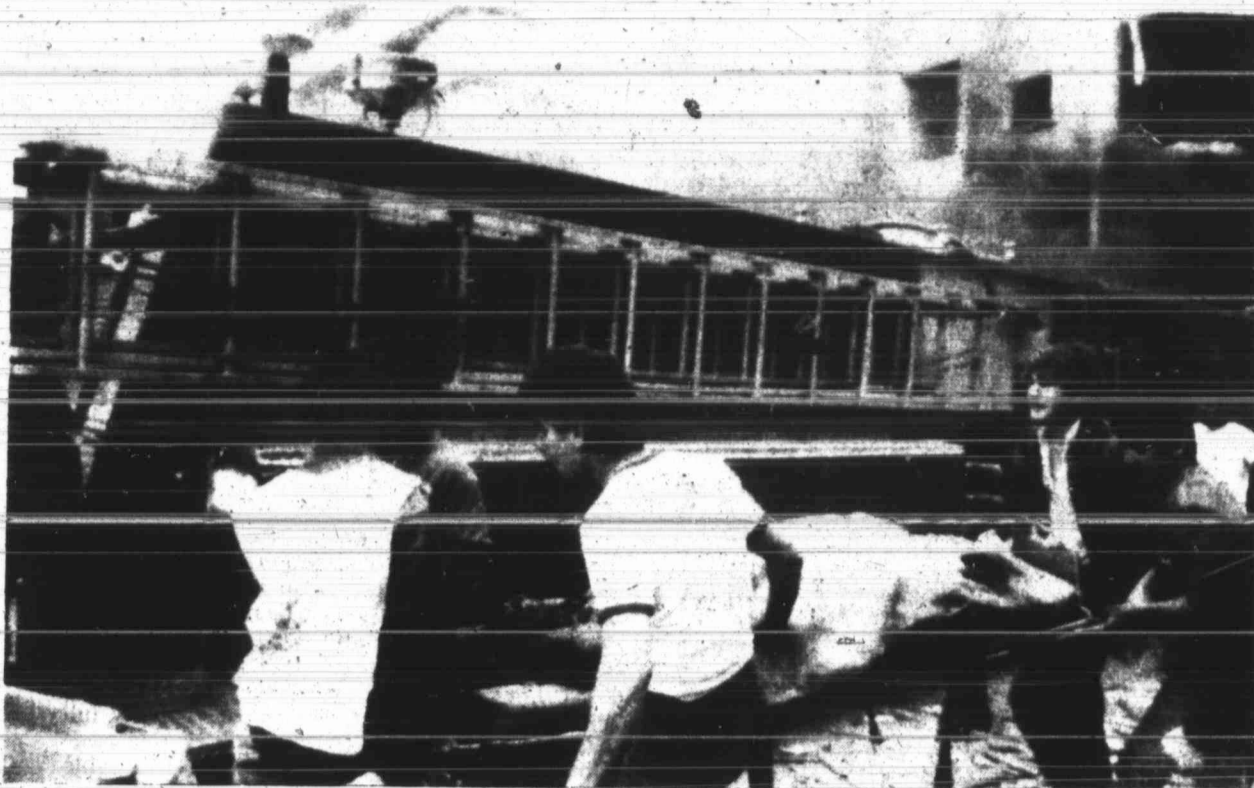

Shuttle delayed again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A 2,500 pound metal bucket used to transport workers smashed into the top of the space shuttle Discovery on Friday, leaving gashes that forced a fifth delay of Sen. Jake Garn's trip into space, NASA officials said.

A workman's leg was broken when the bucket hit him as it fell.

The space agency said it was too early to assess the extent of damage to one of two cargo bay doors on the ship, which had been scheduled for launch March 28 or 29. NASA spokesman Charles Redmond in Washington said he expected the flight would be delayed until at least early April.

Officials said they did not know what caused the fall of the 2,500-pound bucket.

Rescue workers carry a body following a massive explosion at Ghoheiri, near Beirut, Lebanon, Friday. Dozens were killed in the explosion.

'Ugly crime'

Bomb destroys apartment building in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A car packed with explosives blew up in a Shiite Moslem neighborhood Friday, destroying an eight-story apartment building and damaging a mosque filled with worshippers gathering for Sabbath prayers.

Police said 62 people were killed and 200 were wounded.

Police estimated the bomb contained more than 200 pounds of explosives, and it spread fire and destruction in the densely populated area. Butane gas canisters stored in a nearby apartment blew up in series of explosions after the initial blast, police said.

It was the most destructive bombing in Beirut since the truck bombings of American and French peacekeeping headquarters on Oct. 23, 1983, which killed 241 U.S. servicemen and 58 French soldiers.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the bomb. Several Moslem politicians blamed Israel for the blast.

Salim Hoss, a moderate Sunni Moslem politician who serves in the Lebanese Cabinet as labor and education minister, said he had "no doubt that Israel was behind this ugly crime." The Amal movement, the largest Shiite Moslem militia group, also blamed Israel and vowed to "retaliate adequately soon."

The bomb went off as worshippers gathered for dusk prayers. A pall of smoke spread over the area. Four apartment buildings caught fire and dozens of cars were set ablaze.

Lebanon's government radio appealed for urgent blood donations and said that hospitals in mostly Moslem west Beirut were unable to cope with "this catastrophe."

The radio said the blast in the Ghoheiri neighborhood knocked down an eight-story apartment building and severely damaged the mosque. A nearby movie theater was also damaged.

Militiamen from the radical Shiite Moslem Hezbollah, or Party of God, and the Shiite Amal militia took control of the streets, firing in the air to clear the way for ambulances rushing victims to five different hospitals.

'Grizzly Adams' convicted of selling cocaine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Dan Haggerty, known for his role as television's "Grizzly Adams," was convicted Friday of selling cocaine to undercover police officers but was acquitted of a second cocaine sales charge.

He had admitted selling the drug but testified he did so only after undercover officers Barbara Eggar and Raymond Martin befriended him, then badgered him to obtain cocaine.

He was found guilty of selling an eighth of an ounce of cocaine on March 7, 1984, but was found innocent of selling nearly a half-ounce of cocaine on June 6, 1984, to the same two officers.

Haggerty's lawyer, Michael Mayock, who contended the actor was entrapped on both occasions, said he was "at a total loss" to explain how the jury could find Haggerty guilty in one transaction and innocent in the other.

Accompanied by his wife and son, Haggerty said he felt "like a trapped eagle" while waiting for the verdict to come in.

Twelve people were killed and more than 50 were wounded in that blast.

Shaaban's organization is a Sunni Moslem group, while the Hezbollah is made up of Shites. The two main branches of Islam split shortly after the death of Mohammed, founder of the Moslem religion, in a dispute over who would succeed him as leader of the faith.

On Feb. 1, a car bomb exploded in the northern port city of Tripoli outside a mosque that was built by Sheikh Saeed Shaaban, leader of the Tawhid Isalmi, or Islamic Unification Movement.

The state radio quoted a spokesman at Fadlallah's home as saying he and his family were not hurt.

U.S. intelligence sources in Washington have been quoted as saying Fadlallah blessed the suicide drivers who blew up the headquarters of American and French peacekeepers in 1983. He denied the reports.

Police quoted one witness as saying the car had been parked in front of a tire shop by a man who said he would return for it shortly.

A car bombing in the same neighborhood killed five people and injured 44 on Feb. 18.

Warplanes injure 400

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran said Iraqi warplanes raided five Iranian cities and towns Friday, killing or wounding 400 people in the city of Pirranahr alone.

Both Iraq and Iran reported that Iranian forces shelled Basra, the southern Iraqi port and provincial capital.

It was the worst day of a five-day-old border flareup between the Persian Gulf neighbors, who have been at war since September 1980.

An Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad Radio reported 242 bombing raids Friday against Iranian "forces, positions and equipment" across the 700-mile front, "scoring direct and effective hits." It said all planes returned safely.

Iraq said Iran shelled Basra during the day, but gave no account of casualties or damage.

The communique said Iraqi guns hit Iran's border units, killing seven soldiers and destroying infantry bunkers, ammunition dumps and other military targets.

Neither side's claims could be confirmed independently.

Child burns to death

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Rioters set fire to a house in a rural black township of eastern Cape Province and a 7-year-old girl was burned to death, a police spokesman reported Friday.

Lt. Henry Beck said police were stoned during the rioting Thursday night in the Fort Beaumont township, and one officer was injured. The police responded with birdshot.

According to private monitoring groups, about 200 people, all but one of them black, have been killed in eight months of rioting against aspects of apartheid, the white-minority government's race segregation policies.

Police said Friday they arrested 12 people, most of them white university students, on charges of organizing an illegal demonstration in November.

'Star Wars' attacked

MOSCOW — The Communist Party daily Pravda said Friday that America's allies they are "seriously mistaken" if they think a space-based missile defense system would give them more security.

In an article on the forthcoming Geneva arms talks that stressed the difference of views on each side, Pravda said "political will" is needed to reach agreement.

And Pravda warned America's allies against joining in the American plans for research on space-based weapons.

Agent's body returned

GUADALAJARA, Mexico — The body of Enrique Camarena Salazar, who came to Mexico to fight the international drug trade as a U.S. government agent, was sent home Friday to California for burial in his hometown.

Abducted a month before by suspected drug traffickers, Camarena was found dead Tuesday night. His body was in a plastic bag dumped near a country road and was identified Thursday by forensic experts. Found at the same site was the body of Alfredo Zavala Avelar, a Mexican pilot who worked with the anti-drug program and was kidnapped the same day.

U.S. Ambassador John Gavin, speaking in a brief ceremony on the airport runway in Guadalajara, thanked the Mexican government for its assistance "at this sad moment for both of our nations."

Elderly man advertises for 'old woman' to help with store

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "NEED OLD WOMAN," says Foster Porter's want ad. "At least 60 years old," the retired railroad engineer added Friday.

The ad is for someone "to operate Little Rabbit Flea Market, Martin, Ky. Live at flea market, house-keep for me."

"If they're younger than that they're going to be looking for greener pastures. They wouldn't stay around. A young woman would work a couple of weeks and quit. An older woman's more apt to stay," Porter explained.

And a man won't do. "A man keep house? You ain't going to find a man to keep house are you? They're going to have to keep house for me, maybe cook a little bit. I think you can see the reason a man wouldn't do it."

After 50 years on the railroad, "I get enough pension to live on. I can make it," Porter said, but he retired in 1973, his wife died in 1981, and "Buddy, things are in bad shape around here."

He's starting the outdoor market for some extra income, but "I'm 78 years old, I won't work, I'm lazy. I'd like to have somebody to work up there and run that cotton-picking flea market."

The operator could put a trailer at the market to live in, and would collect space rent from whoever comes to peddle collectibles, cast-off household goods and the like. "They ought to make pretty good money. They wouldn't have nothing (invested) in it. I'd give them half," Porter said.

He said four or five women have called since the advertisement appeared in this week's Floyd County Times and two have come to Martin, 26 miles west of Pikeville in this southeast Kentucky coal-mining area, to check on the job.

"They didn't stay long," but the ad will run two more weeks.

The want ad concludes "Don't care if people talk about you."

"People want to talk about somebody else," said Porter, reached at home by telephone.

Pregnant woman paralyzed by injection of cancer drug

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A pregnant woman was irreversibly paralyzed from the neck down when a physician mistakenly injected a cancer drug into her spinal column instead of a vein, hospital officials said Friday.

"I think we have to understand here that this is a rare occurrence," Dr. Michael Vanko, president and director of Albany Medical Center Hospital, said at a news conference. "It has never occurred here before. It was not a judgmental error. It was an unfortunate error."

The 21-year-old woman, who is 6 months pregnant, was undergoing chemotherapy treatment for a malignant tumor in her sinuses Feb. 27 when a staff resident misread the label on a syringe, said Dr. Gregory Harper, the woman's attending physician.

The drug, called vincristine, is intended for intravenous use only, but the resident injected it along with other medications into the woman's spinal column, said Harper. Another resident was observing the procedure, and Harper was not in the hospital at the time.

The mistake was discovered about an hour later when nurses came in to inject the vincristine and could not find the syringe, said Harper. Doctors then attempted to flush out the woman's spinal column with a saline solution and used intravenous drugs to try to stop the effects of the vincristine, he said.

Both residents came back to the hospital in tears "after learning of the error," Harper said. "They're shattered. We were all in tears."

The Albany-area woman, who Vanko said will not be identified, must use a respirator to breathe. Because the vincristine bound itself to her nervous system tissues, the paralysis is irreversible, Harper said.

The woman is not comatose, and she was told of her condition, said Harper. The unborn child was not affected and is maintaining a stable heart rate, said Dr. John Goldkrand, head of the hospital's division of maternal fetal medicine.

ble, Harper said.

DOLPHIN GAS EXTRACTION INC.

James Findley is manager of Dolphin Gas Extraction Inc., a new Big Spring firm which sells shares in a machine which extracts the liquid from wellhead gas.

JAMES FINDLEY

Dolphin Gas Extraction Inc. is located at the Permian Building, Room 208. Findley said investments are "guaranteed." Shareholders who don't receive total investment back in two years may get their money back if they are not satisfied," he said.

The guarantee is "backed by Lloyds of London," an insurance firm.

The machine, built by Sapp Sucker out of Houston, is attached to gas wells. 300,000 cubic feet a day of gas runs through the machine and 1,200 cubic feet of liquid, used to make butane, propane and isopropane, is extracted and sold.

Lawrence Smith, one of the firm's partners, said the gas is often sold to a gas company or sent back into the rock formation and recirculated through the well.

Findley said the machine uses a refrigeration unit to extract the liquid out of the gas. The unit is portable and can be moved from well to well.

Smith lives in Waggoner, Okla. He was in town this week during the ribbon cutting ceremonies for Dolphin Gas Extraction Inc. The Big Spring office is only one of three. The other two are located in Fort Worth and Tulsa.

Gina Allen is the firm's secretary. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The phone number is 267-9486.

CATTLE SALE
Ranchers collected more than $30,000 for their cattle auctioned Monday at the National Anxiety 4th Hereford Breeders 36th Annual Sale Offering and Leland Wallace Production Sale in Snyder.

Sales for the 45 head sold at the auction totaled $30,920, said Howard County cattleman Leland Wallace, one of the sale's sponsors.

Eidson Ranch Inc. of Lovington, N.M., paid the sale high price, $1,750, for Axtell Domino W 355 18505124, a bull consigned by Wallace. E.L. Sanderson of Canton, Okla., paid the second highest sale price, $1,500, for Donna Anna 208 18099610, a cow consigned by the Dean Cattle Co. of Groveton.

A bull consigned by Buchanan Herefords of Big Spring, Anxiety Axtell B19 18454105, brought $1,000, the high price of the eight head sold by the ranch.

Kevin Shoemaker of Stanton bought three cows consigned by W.F. Whittenburg of Graham for $1,025.

Other buyers included the Patterson Ranch and the Patterson Bros., both of Benjamin, Owen Dickey of Snyder, Billy Huddleston of Snyder, D.C. Cox of Abilene, Burl Belew of Snyder, the Ralph Wolfe estate of Jacksboro, Hubert Kennedy of Rotan, Percy Witt of Sweetwater and Ford Spikes of Snyder.

One of our most loved citizens, Agnes Currie, is recovering in Hall-Bennett Hospital after breaking her hip several days ago. I know she would appreciate your thoughts, prayers and cards.

Quick business notes:

A new company, Dolphin Gas Extraction Inc., has opened offices at 208 Permian Building. Managed by James Findley, this business sells shares in a machine which extracts the liquid from wellhead gas, enabling the resulting liquid product to also be sold and used. They tell me that an investment with Dolphin pays 50 percent annual interest with the original investment amount covered in a written guarantee insured by Lloyd's of London.

Another new company, Timbers at Work, has been opened by Tommy Porter. Porter recently resigned from Cosden to open his own specialty carpentry shop. He's located at 207 Circle, 263-6945.

Smith and Coleman and Pat Boatler Distributorship have been bought by four men from Odessa and Abilene. They changed the names into one business: Southwest Energy Distributors, Inc., located at 201 N. Benton. It is owned by Billy Bassett, Bob Nidard and Lyn Homsey of Odessa and Bob Bassett of Abilene. Manager is Ruby Bruns.

The January 1985 edition of SCENES magazine has two articles written by locals Marilyn Read and Helen Wilkerson: "New Life for Old Fort Concho" and "Tombstone Tales: Vigilant Victims." The director of Fort Concho wrote a letter to Scenes Magazine requesting a large number of copies, saying, "The article about Fort Concho written by Marilyn Read and Helen Wilkerson was great. The photographs showed up well and the text read true and easy."

Local United Way Executive Sherry Bordofsky was surprised this week with a unique presentation from some of the inmates and staff at the Big Spring Federal Camp. Sherry recently coordinated a series of volleyball tournaments to benefit the United Way. It was held at the Prison gym with inmates and staff doing much of the work to put on this successful effort. Because of their appreciation at being involved and the good job done by Sherry in coordinating this event, they had a specially designed trophy made for her and every prison worker signed a volleyball. Both were presented to her Thursday.

I had an interesting letter from a long-time Big Springer who asked that I include it in my column. Because of its content I am sharing it exactly the way he sent it to me:

"To the people of Big Spring: I am writing this letter to the people of Big Spring to share a very special story. Big Spring has been my home since 1929. I have watched the community in good times and bad, have loved and supported the people and the town in every way I can, and have known many of the great people we've had here: politicians, builders, writers, entertainers, athletes, ministers, doctors, educators — many who have gone on to greatness beyond our borders and who have reflected well on their Big Spring background."

"Now we have another great person in our midst ready to branch out nationally. Joe Whitten has resigned his position as minister of music at a local church to pursue a full-time prison ministry throughout America. He and his wife, Virginia, have been taking his singing group, His Children, on summer tours for the past 10 years. They have already gathered a large following of prison wardens and changed the lives of many inmates. The positive response to the group has been tremendous. Enough bookings have been received to make up several tours."

"But for this ministry to meet its vision to travel and work year-round with prisoners, it will need financial support. Business highlights

NEW YORK (AP) — The bond market took in stride a $3.6 billion jump in the nation's basic money supply, which was more than twice as large as forecasters had expected.

"Overall, the market didn't take it too hard. Already they were expecting an increase," said Maury Harris, chief economist at PaineWebber Inc.

The Fed said Thursday that the basic supply, called M1, rose to a seasonally adjusted $57.7 billion in the week ended Feb. 25 from $56.9 billion the previous week.

M1 represents funds readily available for spending, and hence is considered by many credit analysts to be an important economic and interest-rate determinant.

The money supply has been growing rapidly of late, prompting some analysts to predict that the Fed will soon tighten credit, a move that would lift interest rates.

But others have suggested that the money supply and the economy will slow in the coming months, precluding the need for the Fed to take such action.

The central bank's next policy meeting is scheduled for March 26.

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) — Apple Computer Inc. says it plans to shut down production for a week because of excess inventories caused by the sluggish personal-computer market.

The news sent Apple's stock tumbling $2.50 a share, to $22.12 1/2, in heavy trading of more than 3 million shares on the over-the-counter market Thursday.

"The general softness of the computer industry is continuing," Delbert Yocum, Apple executive vice president and division manager for the Apple II computer division, said in a statement.

"It's affecting not only personal-computer manufacturers like Apple but manufacturers of larger computers and industry suppliers as well," he said.

Apple's Dallas manufacturing facility, where Apple IIs are made, and its Singapore plant, where Apple II circuit boards are produced, will close March 18-22, said spokeswoman Barbara Krause.

The company's Fremont, Calif., plant, which makes Apple's Macintosh personal computer, will close April 8-12, she said.

In January, Apple President John Sculley had warned that despite a robust Christmas selling season, the current quarter would prove "extremely challenging" because of bulging dealer inventories of personal computers.

New Sheldon novel a hit

IF TOMORROW COMES. By Sidney Sheldon. Morrow. 416 Pages. $17.95.

In Sidney Sheldon's new novel, "If Tomorrow Comes," a young woman is framed on phony charges, is tricked by her lawyer, abandoned by her fiancé, and thrown into prison.

But Tracy Whitney doesn't let all this ruin her life. Instead, she turns adversity to her advantage, and when she gets out of jail she goes after all those who have done her wrong.

Tracy feels no remorse when she puts into action events that bring to an end the careers of several unscrupulous New Orleans characters. After all, they were the ones responsible for her family's ruined business, her mother's suicide, and Tracy's 15-year prison sentence.

Next, Tracy goes to Philadelphia, where she has lived and worked, to take care of her former husband-to-be, Charles Stanhope III has married someone else, and after seeing the unhappy couple together, Tracy decides that Charles' boring, lifeless marriage, will be punishment enough for him.

Kristi Butts to compete in West Texas T.E.E.N. pageant

Kristi Butts, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Butts of 1721 Purdue, will compete in the West Texas Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant April 13 at Midland College's Fine Arts Auditorium.

The pageant is a preliminary for the Texas Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant in Dallas to be held in September. Miss Butts will compete with girls from throughout West Texas. She must complete 12 hours of service for the pageant's volunteer program. She plans to work at area hospitals on weekends for this program.

Contestants are judged on scholastic achievement, volunteer service, appearance, poise, personality, speech, talent and formal presentation. The winner will receive a scholarship and an expense paid trip to the state pageant.

Kristi is active with her paper route, theater and church. She enjoys Jazzercise and other outdoor activities. Her sponsors are La Contsa Beauty Salon, Highland

For your garden Dwarf plants offer giant effects

by Don Richardson
County Extension Agent

After many years of pruning the arborvitae, ligustrum and spreading juniper from the front door, some homeowners have come to realize and appreciate the advantages of dwarf plants. In search of replacements for the overly large door-way plants, plant breeders have introduced many new, exciting, and very useful dwarfs... and dwarfs they are... compared to our larger, more common shrub plantings which commonly reach 6 to 8 feet high and wide.

In the nursery trade, a dwarf plant is one that is 3 feet or less in ultimate height. The homeowner, or grower, must plan with the ultimate height or size in mind to allow ample and ultimate growing room and to eliminate the constant chore of pruning to keep the plant in its proper place.

Dwarf plants are best used in small, detailed areas where they will be observed at close range, such as patio and entrance areas. The small sizes are not significant in back borders or distant plantings, or without close observation. The popular dwarfs are in demand along walk areas beneath low windows, and in close conjunction with detailed gardens, such as rock gardens, pool gardens, and planter box plantings.

The wide versatility and adaptability of dwarf plants add to their popularity. There are dwarfs adaptable to fully shaded areas, open sun, pot and tub plantings, clipped borders, groundcovers, and for formal and informal plantings. Because of their size, they mix well in group or mass plantings or in combination with other plants. The dwarf plant, too, can be used as a single specimen or accent plant.

Many of the larger old standards now come in "dwarf models." One can now grow dwarf junipers, dwarf pyracantha, dwarf nandina, quince, bamboo, barberry, sasanqua, crape myrtle, pomegranate, yucca, pittosporum, a number of dwarf hollies, and a large selection of miniature roses.

There are dwarfs which prefer dense shade, such as vinca; while others prefer a sunny exposure, such as junipers, hollies, barberry, pomegranate, crape myrtle, pyracantha, lantana and roses. Still, there are some dwarfs which are not particular at all and will grow in sun or partial shade. These include the popular dwarf yaupon, many hollies, nandina, Japanese black pine, Japanese purple honeysuckle, Indian Hawthorne, or raphiolepis, boxwood, and dwarf sasanqua.

For the special accent or specimen planting, there are dwarfs which make excellent tub or pot plants for entrance, poolside, and patio areas. Those which are most adaptable include: holly fern, fatsia, dwarf yaupon, dwarf nandina, dwarf pittosporum, Japanese black pine, dwarf yucca, dwarf bamboo and miniature roses. The advantages of the hardy dwarfs in pots or tubs is that they will tolerate winter conditions out of doors and do not require shifting or lifting to protected areas come winter.

Some dwarfs which reward the grower with seasonal bloom include: dwarf azalea, dwarf sasanqua, dwarf crape myrtle, pomegranate, lantana, Japanese purple honeysuckle, Indian Hawthorne, quince and miniature roses. Others produce attractive fruit or berries, such as some of the dwarf hollies, mahonia, and pyracantha. Many of those which do not flower or fruit display rich, colorful foliage, as does variegated aucuba, senecio, dwarf nandina, and some of the dwarf junipers.

Now, during the planting season is an ideal time to take a look at some of the dwarfs. Even though dwarf, these plant selections offer giant effects in the landscape.

Focus on the family Vitamins: use and misuse

By NAOMI HUNT
Howard County Extension Agent

Current emphasis on diet and weight loss tempts many people to take vitamins instead of eating properly. Vitamins are chemical catalysts which help the body use food. Vitamins alone with no food are useless to the body.

Before you reach for that bottle of vitamin pills again, don't you think you should know more about what you're taking?

The easiest way to describe vitamins is to say that they are chemical compounds of an organic nature. This means they come from living things — like the plants and animal products that make up our diet.

Shortages of vitamins are not a concern for most of us, if we eat a reasonably sound diet, because we require them in only tiny amounts. We need only a fraction of an ounce of all the vitamins combined from the entire amount of food we eat in a day to maintain good health.

Vitamins promote good health by assisting the major nutrients — proteins, carbohydrates and fats — to do their jobs. The fat-soluble vitamins, A, D, E, and K, must be accompanied by fats in order to be absorbed into your body. Once there, they move about slowly and tend to settle into fatty tissue waiting to be used.

The water soluble vitamins, C and the B-complex, enter the body freely, move easily and are expelled if not used immediately.

What do these points mean for you? First, that the water-soluble vitamins must be replenished regularly since the body does not store them. If you take megadoses of water-soluble vitamins — like vitamin C — you just waste your money. And if you take megadoses of fat soluble vitamins — especially A and D — they will be stored in your body and can produce poisonous build-ups.

Second, taking vitamins will not give you more pep. Vitamins contain no energy. What they do is to allow those major nutrients to do their jobs, one of which is to provide you with energy. And whether you have vitamins in minimum amounts or in megadoses, the energy outcome is the same.

So don't attempt to rely on vitamin pills as a substitute for a well-balanced diet. If you eat properly, there is no nutritional advantage in taking vitamins.

A balanced diet including a variety of foods from the four major food groups will provide all the vitamins needed each day. Be sure to choose two servings from the milk group, two servings of meat, four servings of breads and cereals and four servings of fruits and vegetables.

Select the lower calorie dishes from each food group while trying to lose weight but remember to include a variety. Eating the same foods every day gets dull and monotonous. A variety of foods will assure an adequate amount of all needed nutrients.

Steers baseballers to host Snyder

The Big Spring Steers baseball team will officially open up their home season at 1 p.m. at Steers Field when they host the Snyder Tigers.

Coach Roland Atkins' Steers go into the game with a 1-3 record, losing games to Abilene Cooper and Midland High in the season-opening district tournament. The Steers lone win game against Odessa High in the tournament.

Big Spring's last game resulted in a 6-4 loss to the Tigers in Snyder Monday.

Second baseman Jerry Anderson and outfielders-pitchers Mike Dodd and Jay Pirkle have been the Steers top hitters so far. Senior right hander Tommy Gartman recorded Big Spring's only win with a 1-0 whitewashing of OHS.

The Steers junior varisty (1-0) will take on the Tigers in a doubleheader in Snyder starting at 1 p.m.

World champions lose

Baseball exhibition gets underway

By The Associated Press The Boston Red Sox scored two unearned runs off Detroit's Jack Morris in the first inning and got major league baseball's 1984 exhibition season under way with a 3-2 victory over the defending World Series champion Tigers.

The game was one of three on the first day of the spring training season as baseball aimed toward an April 8 opening date.

In the other two games, the Houston Astros defeated the New York Yankees 9-6 and the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Royals 4-2.

Boston's Kevin Romine broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning with a double that gave Boston the victory at the Tigers' training site in Lakeland, Fla.

Morris, who pitched a no-hitter against the White Sox in his second start of the 1984 season, got behind quickly in the first inning after an error by second baseman Lou Whitaker and a passed ball by catcher Lance Parrish helped the Red Sox score two runs.

Parrish got one run back with a homer in the fourth, and the Tigers tied the score in the seventh on Chris Pittaro's RBI grounder.

Bob Ojeda started for the Red Sox.

The Astros, playing for the first time at their new training site in Kissimmee, Fla., broke a 6-6 tie in the seventh inning on Kevin Bass' two-run single. Reliever Joe Sambrino, who came back from arm surgery last season, worked three innings for the victory.

Astros shortstop Dickie Thon, who missed all but five games of the 1984 season after he was hit in the face with a pitch, doubled and singled. Omar Moreno had three hits for the Yankees and drove in a run.

Ed Whitson started for the Yankees, and Joe Niekro started for Houston.

In Sarasota, Fla., Ron Kittle drove in two runs with an infield roller in the eighth inning to boost the White Sox over Kansas City. Chicago had tied the score 2-2 in the second as Nelson Barrera and Scott Fletcher had RBI singles.

Floyd Bannister started for the White Sox, giving up a two-run triple to Onix Concepcion in the second. Mark Gubicza started for Kansas City.

White Sox rookie Ozzie Guillen, who is expected to earn the starting shortstop position, committed two errors.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., where the St. Louis Cardinals train, second baseman Tom Herr put his name on a four-year contract that will pay him an estimated $3 million. Agreement on the contract was reached over the winter.

The Cleveland Indians played a 5 1/2-inning intrasquad game at their training site in Tucson, Ariz. Carmen Castillo hit a two-run triple and an RBI single as a squad managed by firstbase coach Eddie Napoleon beat a team managed by bullpen coach Dennis Sommers 7-0. The Indians also signed outfielder Carmen Castillo to a one-year contract.

Texas Rangers pitcher DAVE ROZEMA signs autographs for fans at the Rangers training camp in Pompano, Florida. Rozema played for the World Champions Detroit Tigers last season.

Dwight Gooden, who led the major leagues with 276 strikeouts last season, unveiled his new pitch, a changeup, during an intrasquad game at the New York Mets camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. Gooden pitched two scoreless innings as the team managed by coach Bill Robinson beat the squad of coach Bobby Valentine, 3-0.

Third-year pro takes Bay Hill lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Paul Azinger converted a solid putting effort into a bogey-free, 6-under-par 65 Friday and the first lead of his PGA Tour career, a one-stroke margin after 36 holes of the Hertz Bay Hill Classic.

"As good a putting round as I've had in a long time," Azinger said after completing the best round of the tournament.

"I one-putted the first four holes and that just kind of freed up the rest of my game," he said.

Azinger, 25, now in his third season of tour activity, finished two trips over Arnold Palmer's Bay Hill Club course in 137, five shots under par. It was, he said, the first time he's ever led a tour event.

"It's the first time I've been in this situation," he said. "I don't know how I'll handle it."

Bill Kratzert, who had a birdie-eagle-birdie burst on his way to a 66 in the hot weather, was a single stroke off the pace at 138. Corey Pavin was another stroke back at 139 after a 67 in the second round.

Tom Watson and the man who beat him for the British Open title last year, Seve Ballesteros of Spain, led a starry group at 140, only three shots back. Watson, holder of a record six Player of the Year titles, closed up with a 67 and Ballesteros shot 69.

They were tied, at 2-under par, with veteran Ray Floyd, Larry Nelson, Tim Simpson and Curtis Strange, a playoff winner last week in the Honda Classic. Strange had a second-round 67, Nelson 68, Floyd 69 and Simpson 70.

First-round leader Morris

Hatalsky struggled to a 75 on a 141 total.

Fuzzy Zoeller, the U.S. Open champ who is on the mend from major back surgery, was at par 142 after a 72 that included a triple bogey-7.

Masters champion Ben Crenshaw and the host Palmer both failed to qualify for the final two rounds. Crenshaw was 80-156 and Palmer 73-151.

Azinger, who missed the cut in six of nine starts this season, made a 12-foot par-saving putt on the first hole, dropped a 20-footer for birdie on the second and saved par from about 5-6 feet on the next two.

"I could see the line, the feel was good, everything was right today," he said. "That kind of start with the putting just freed me up."

He birdied the sixth from 15 feet, touched off a string of three consecutive birdies with a 30-footer from the fringe on the ninth and scored from about 20 feet on the 17th.

Kratzert built his effort around the 3, 3, 2, 3 string that began with a 6-foot birdie putt on the fifth. He hit a 3-wood second shot on the green and made a 25-footer for eagle on the next, dropped a 20-foot putt for birdie on the next and lofted a 7-iron to within two feet for a tap-in birdie on the eighth.

"HALT!"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, MARCH 10, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Some poor judgment or adverse condition in effect early this morning requires much thought and attention to handle wisely. Don't take an arbitrary position but delve into all factors involved.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Your hunches are not good in the morning, so be sure to use mature judgment and double-check everything you do.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A partner may not understand your ideas in the morning, but if you are patient will later agree with you and all goes well.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): In the morning, your partners may disagree violently with a new contact, so do not mix in. Later be with a wise pal.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Be loyal to the one you love and come to a better understanding. Then study ways to handle your obligations wisely.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Don't enter into any argument with anger because a close tie and a newcomer and it will soon right itself.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't permit some task to keep you from gaining the data you need at a new site and then tonight you can handle some home duty.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Some new investment should not require spending too much money in the morning. Do something fun with an associate.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't argue with a family tie in the morning, and then you can get into interesting activities with your family.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Don't permit a private worry to keep you from handling outside interests in the morning.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A friend may try to trick you out of something valuable, so don't get taken in. Teach to be more self-reliant later.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Show that you live the philosophy that you profess and be an A-1 citizen, thus gaining good will of others easily.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): You may find it hard to acquire the information needed in the morning, but later you stumble upon it quite easily.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will love to investigate, and can get good results because of the natural magnetism in this nature and others will respond quickly to questions asked. Give as much education as you can and permit to participate in sports and keep the figure trim. There can be disappointments in early years.

MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning opens with your being able to make a very interesting campaign to gain your deep-seated objectives with the assistance of influential persons, so go forward dynamically.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Business matters proceed nicely in the morning, but later you may need advice from experts. Do something thoughtful for loved ones.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A benefit early from a partner is fine in the morning, but later get into the work that will guarantee steady benefits.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Although you begin work enthusiastically in the morning, later you can slow down and get fine results just the same.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Plan for amusement that you like early and then handle the work that needs to be done.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Get your home well organized early in the day so that you can get other affairs handled well later. Make wise plans for the future.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Early contact those who can be of assistance to you and you to them and come to a fine understanding. Be clever.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You understand how to take care of monetary matters in a more intelligent fashion, so get into them early.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You are able to gain those wishes that mean a great deal to you in the morning, so up and at 'em early.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Plan your strategy early and then go after your aims in a positive way and gain them. Get personal affairs in order.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Study how to follow through on advice given you by a dynamic friend who is an expert and make progress later.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): If you show good citizenship, you can improve your position in the world considerably. Handle work efficiently.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Seek new ideas that can help you to get whatever it is that you desire the most to have. A new comer is of assistance.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to get at the truth of any situation, so plan the education along investigative lines which can bring great success during the lifetime. Be sure to teach only the finest ideas and precepts. Let surroundings be ideal.
