

Railway: Depot won't be torn down

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Officials from the Union Pacific Railroad have no plans of tearing down the local freight terminal building, according to Granville Hahn, president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

During a Chamber directors' meeting Wednesday, Hahn read a letter he received from Mark Davis, a Union Pacific representative from Spring, Texas. In part, the letter stated, "The Union Pacific System has no intention of tearing down the freight terminal building in Big Spring."

City officials began a letter-writing campaign several months ago after learning of plans to dismantle the decades-old freight terminal, known as the Depot.
"I guess we had some wrong information," Hahn said. "They're not going to tear it down, at least this week."

● In other business, Johnny Rutherford discussed a city-wide cleanup campaign set for April 18. Rutherford said a local women's organization is sponsoring a slogan contest through Big Spring schools. The winning slogan will be used in conjunction with the city-wide cleanup program.

Rutherford said, "I would like to see 300 or 400 people" turn out for the cleanup day.

● Representatives from city and county organizations will meet Friday to choose a time and date for a community assessment program. The meeting will bring "community leaders together" to establish a five-year plan for city and county growth, Hahn said.

● Chamber directors held a lengthy discussion on the possibility of building a new softball park in Big Spring. Such a facility would replace the aging Johnny Stone Park which is outdated, directors said. The facility would be a drawing card to the city for softball teams from around the area, directors said.

● Directors also discussed ways to sponsor drag boat races at Moss Creek Lake. Moss Creek Lake is located in Precinct Two. No alcohol sales are allowed in that precinct.

Directors discussed preparing a presentation to county commissioners to have the lake moved into Precinct 1 so that beer may be sold during events such as drag boat races.

'More people are working'

Although unemployment edged up slightly for Big Spring and Howard County, figures show that more people were working in the area during February than in January.

An increase in temporary job layoffs and a significant increase in people re-entering the job market have driven unemployment up slightly in the state, according to John Kruse, a labor market analyst with the Texas Employment Commission, Austin.

Kruse said statewide, unemployment rose by two-tenths of a percent in February. In Big Spring, unemployment rose from 6.3 percent in January to 6.6 percent in February.

Figures for Big Spring show a February labor force of 12,301. The labor force is the total of employed and unemployed people in the city who are physically able, willing to work and who are seeking jobs outside of their homes, Kruse said.

Total employed in Big Spring during February was 11,485. Total unemployed was 816.

The February labor force increased by 144 from the January figure of 12,157, Kruse said. In January, the total employed was 11,394, and the total unemployed was 763.

In a month to month survey taken by the U.S. Census Bureau, those questioned in a sampling of households are questioned whether someone in the home has re-entered the workforce after a period of not actively seeking work outside the home.

Joe Wallis, manager of the Big Spring Texas Employment Commission office, said figures for the county show a February labor force of 16,314, total employed at 15,382, total unemployed at 932, and an unemployment rate of 5.7 percent.

Union official blasts city on civil service

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Representatives of the International Professional Fire Fighters Association Wednesday blasted actions of Big Spring city councilman and city staff taken in opposition to an attempt by city firefighters to obtain state civil service.

"There's never been a city that's had to have a tax increase or inflate their budget because of civil service," said Louis Hebert of Beaumont.

Hebert and Mike Hines, a firefighter in the Amarillo department, were in town to meet with members of the Big Spring Professional Fire Fighters Association, who are campaigning for state civil service laws for their department.

Beaumont's fire department has had civil service for about 20 years. The Amarillo fire department has been under state civil service since 1948, they said.

"The only cost is the payment of unused sick time up to 90 days whenever someone quits or retires," Hebert said. "To get 90 days now, you have to work seven years and eight months without taking a sick day. (Under state civil service it will be six years.) It's not an overnight cost, it's a gradual increase.

A study by city administrative assistant Pat Hardy set the cost of civil service for the department at $71,000 and $274,000 annually if the same benefits were given to all city employees.

"The figures they're giving (for sick leave pay on termination) would only be true if everyone in the department quit at the same time," Hebert said. "They aren't going to do that."

"Having elected officials distort the facts and who have the audacity to say they speak for the people is absurd," he said.

"They're taking their tax dollars and fighting the people. It's highly improper and maybe illegal," Hines said.

"It would be like the city council taking the taxpayers' money and spending it on their elections or the city council to pass a resolution to endorse all of themselves," said Hebert.

According to section 14.07 of the Texas Election Code, corporations are prohibited from "aiding or assisting the success or defeat of any question to be voted upon by the qualified voters of this state or any subdivision thereof."

The article also prohibits corporations from the use of or permitting the use of "any stock, money, assets or other property as contributions to further the cause of any political party, or to aid in the election or defeat of any candidate for office, to pay part of the expense of any political campaign, or political question to be voted upon by qualified voters of the state or any subdivision thereof."

Lights, camera, district attorney

Legal eagle hawks TV spots

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Who's that familiar looking fellow appearing on television commercials advertising a Big Spring savings and loan?

Why, none other than District Attorney Rick Hamby.

He kneels low to the ground, picks up a rock from the vacant lot on FM 700 and looks sternly into the camera.

"Stop paying your bank to handle your money. Start making money. It's what we do best at Big Spring Savings," he says. Hamby, donned in a three-piece suit, startles the viewer with his appearance and grim determination. The commercial was shot on a cool and cloudy day last February.

Susan Lewis of Multi Media Advertising, which produced the commercial, said Hamby is one of the most free and easy natural talents she has ever worked with.

"He's so eloquent while being funny," Ms. Lewis said.

Hamby said his recent role in constructing, writing and acting in commercials is a pleasant diversion.

"It's a hobby with me. I guess it's something that keeps me from going insane or uptight with daily matters dealt with from this office," he said.

The 1970 Texas Tech graduate said he writes fiction and also "dabbles with writing plays."

"I don't delude myself," Hamby said about his writing style.

He attempts to stab a listener's or viewer's sense of humor when he writes commercials.

"You strive for a combination that appeals to a listener's sense of humor and to the sense that interests him in what you're trying to sell," Hamby said.

Hamby became involved with commercials after Bob Lewis, owner of Multi Media, noticed him in Big Spring's 1981 Railroad Centennial celebration.

"There was a big outdoor pageant and he was a narrator," Lewis said. "I noticed his sense of humor."

Lewis began working with Hamby after that and said the two "became buddies."

Lewis said he'll give Hamby a premise for a possible commercial and then Hamby will create the project.

"He's an awfully good writer," Lewis said. "It's an absolute blast when Rick and I put together a commercial."

Hamby said that Lewis comes to him with a project whenever he finds something that he thinks will fit into Hamby's line of interests.

Lewis said he and Hamby

Grand jury called for murder case

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

District Attorney Rick Hamby this morning agreed to call a special session of the grand jury to hear evidence against two men charged in the beating death of an elderly Big Spring woman.

Hamby said he told Odessa attorney Robert V. Garcia Jr. that he will convene the grand jury Wednesday morning to hear the cases of Jorge Loy Chavana, 21, of 817 W. Eighth and Angel Martinez, 22, of 808 Magnolia.

Both men, who are being held in Big Spring's city jail, have been charged with the murder of Maurine Terrell, 81, of 1400 Scurry. She died in Lubbock General Hospital on March 8 from head injuries suffered in an attack in her home on March 5.

"It was his (Garcia's) decision. If I would present this soon before a grand jury, he didn't want to have a hearing," Hamby said.

Garcia filed a petition yesterday in 118th District Court for a writ of habeas corpus civil suit for Chavana. Judge James Gregg said the suit claimed the defendants were being detained unlawfully. Garcia asked for a hearing this morning.

Justice of the Peace China Long had set bonds at $75,000 each for the murder charges and $10,000 each for burglary of a habitation.

Hamby said the grand jury currently is in recess, but that he would ask jurors to convene at 9:30 a.m. next Wednesday to hear only the cases of Martinez and Chavana.

Deal from the Hill

Farmers, ranchers voice complaints to Gov. White

Staff and wire reports
LUBBOCK — The politicians lined up to tell the farmers and ranchers what they wanted to hear — Texas agriculture is not getting a fair deal.

"I know what it's like to milk a cow and have the cow step in the milk bucket," Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw said at the Wednesday rally. "Someone is still stepping in our bucket."

About 600 people were at the Lubbock Civic Center for what many said was an unprecedented gathering of producers of a variety of crops.

Local farmers who went to the rally said the rhetoric by Gov. Mark White and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower sounded good, but said they were uncertain whether the politicians would act on their promises.

"The governor and the commissioner of agriculture said they were willing to go to Washington and help out on (the farm bill), too," said Howard County Farm Bureau President Mike Moates of Luther.

"Both White and Hightower made good speeches. Whether it was political or they will try to do something, I don't know," Moates said.

Moates, Larry Shaw and Robert Nichols, both of Knott, went to the Lubbock rally to hear Hightower and Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Jim Nichols talk of a proposed farm bill that would offer higher loan rates. The proposal also would ensure farmers earned the price of production on each commodity, Moates said.

"Hightower was pretty critical of President Reagan," Moates said. "He and White said it was not the inefficiency of farmers but government programs that had caused farmers' financial problems."

"The Minnesota commissioner said 33 percent of their farmers are bankrupt, 33 percent are in trouble, and he didn't know where the good farmers were," Moates said. "That's two-thirds of their farmers."

The Agriculture Day rally also brought together officials from two long-feuding groups — the Texas Farmers Union and Texas Farm

Texas Governor Mark White, left, listens to what farmers have to say, after he spoke to a rally in the Lubbock Civic Center Wednesday. The farmer's rally was held in connection with National Agriculture Day.

Bureau. Gov. Mark White likened it to a meeting of officials from the rival cities of Midland and Odessa. White surveyed the head table and joked that he was surprised that the different groups were "in the same room at the same time and nobody's gotten hurt."

Rice growers, cotton producers, wheat farmers and corn producers lined up to offer echoing messages. Farm life is difficult in 1985. You can't survive by raising crops that sell for less than the price of production.

"This is not a farm problem," White said. "This is an American problem."

"In times of crisis organizations can put aside petty differences and unite for the big fight we cannot afford to lose," said Mike Moeller of the farmers union.

White and Hightower blamed the farm woes on the Reagan administration. They said the president's farm policies have done nothing to bring farmers the one thing that can help — a fair price. "America's countryside is in a death struggle with Washington," said Hightower. "You can still make a small fortune in farming. The problem is you have to start with a large fortune."

The Reagan plan, he said, will replace family farms with corporate agriculture.

"Purely and simply what we are in is a power struggle to determine who is going to deliver our dinner," he said.

Carl King of Dimmitt, representing corn producers, said all farmers have been hurt by "cheap food policies." He said Texas farmers are looking to White for help in pushing a favorable farm bill through Congress.

"I'm aware he's not everybody's cup of tea. But right now we're with you 100 percent," King told White. The story was much the same last Saturday, as farmers testified on the Reagan Administration's farm bill.

Knott cotton farmer Larry Shaw was one of three area farmers and ranchers who went to Abilene to testify. "(U.S. Rep. Charles) Stenholm (D-Stamford) told us the Reagan bill was dead," Shaw said.

"It's getting harder to make a living. We just aren't being paid the cost of production," Shaw said.

"It doesn't look too good after the president vetoed the farm credit bill," he said. "But there's still a problem in farm credit that needs to be looked at. I hate to see so many people go broke."

J.B. Cooper of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Association told the crowd, "The agriculture industry is not dead. It's badly crippled. It's worth saving."

Fire damages

Ford van

Fire caused $2,000 damage early today to the interior of a Ford Econoline van, according to fire department reports.

Firemen found the van at 5:59 a.m. parked on the side of the road in the 300 block of Settles, with smoke streaming from the van, the report stated.

The two firefighters pried the back doors to the one-ton van open and extinguished the fire. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

The City of Big Spring is defined as a corporation.

An attorney with the Texas secretary of state's office said he is unsure whether the city's use of its figures in an editorial column and as the basis of a resolution opposing the issue was legal.

Hebert also said that city officials' fears that they would have no authority on amendments in the law were groundless.

"The Texas Municipal League (of which the city is a member) has as much or more to do with amendments to 1269M (the state civil service laws) as the firefighter's union," Hebert said. "All the amendments have to be made jointly by the TML and the fire and police associations to pass the Legislature."

Civil service, they said, would not take away local control of the department. "It does take away total absolute authority."

"Right now you're appealing to the same people that suspended you. It's a begging system," Hines said.

The city's appeals process goes first to the department head, then to the city manager and then to the city council.

Hebert cited a case in Orange, where a battalion chief (a position not present in Big Spring) was demoted to lieutenant by the fire chief. "He was a screw-up. He deserved to be demoted. And the appeals board agreed after listening to both sides and demoted him."

"There are demotions and firings every day under civil service. It doesn't work any better for one side than the other," Hebert said. "It requires the city administration to keep records to justify their action."

Texas Senate approves open container measure

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Senate Wednesday quietly voted to lay to rest the Texas tradition of drinking and driving, approving by voice vote a bill that would outlaw open containers in motor vehicles.

"It still is legal in the state of Texas to drink and drive," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. Bill Sarpalus, D-Amarillo. But his bill would change that, he added.

"Studies show that this will reduce fatalities," he said.

Sens. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and John Montford, D-Lubbock, joined the majority in voting 22-4 to bring the legislation up for a floor vote.

Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, voted against the motion.

Several Texas cities, including Corpus Christi and Arlington, already have passed municipal open container ordinances.

Under the bill's provisions, drivers stopped with an open container of alcohol in their possession would be guilty of a Class C misdemeanor and fined $200. A violation would be handled in the same way as a speeding offense.

The bill must now go to the House for consideration.

Lending firms to reopen

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Most of the 69 Ohio savings and loans closed nearly a week ago could reopen for limited business by Friday, with the Federal Reserve offering supplies of currency to protect against runs by fearful depositors, officials said.

Sixty people lined up outside the Mansfield office of Savings One on Wednesday as the savings and loan reopened for limited service. Bank president Bob Masters said the institution had ordered truckloads of cash to avert a liquidity crisis, but there were no problems.

Gov. Richard Celeste closed 69 S&Ls on Friday to prevent a run by depositors in the wake of March 8 closing of Home State Savings Bank of Cincinnati, which said it had lost millions because of loans to a Florida government securities firm.

Officials pull the plug

LAKE CITY, Pa. — House trailers topped or filled with mud and a highway was shut down after officials pulled the plug on an 85-acre lake created by the collapse of two 125-year-old railway culverts.

No injuries were reported Wednesday after construction crews and Conrail engineers cut through the 100-foot Elk Creek railroad embankment to free the water.

"I don't think they really knew what was going to occur," said state trooper William Nies. The lake began forming last Friday when about 60 feet of two culverts collapsed beneath Conrail's main line between Albany, N.Y., and Chicago.

Fire guts warehouse

PLAINFIELD, N.J. — Hundreds of evacuated residents were kept away from their homes today by caustic smoke from burning plastic pipes in the heart of a stubborn warehouse fire, authorities said.

More than 85 people were stricken by fumes after the smoky fire broke out in the block-long, one-story building at 12:16 p.m. Wednesday. About 100 firefighters continued to battle the blaze today.

City schools were ordered closed today, said Police Officer Joseph Brennan.

"It's really deep-seated," said fire department Lt. William Darby, explaining that the warehouse's roof had collapsed, making it difficult for water to reach the fire.

Sluggish economy

GNP drops, inflation heating up in 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy is growing at a surprisingly sluggish rate of 2.1 percent so far this year, down sharply from the pace set in 1984, the government estimated today.

The Commerce Department put growth in the gross national product — the broadest measure of economic health — at its slowest rate since a weak 1.6 percent pace turned in from July through September last year.

In other bad news, the report said inflation is heating up.

A measure of prices tied to the GNP — the implicit price deflator — is rising at an annual rate of 5.4 percent in the still-unfinished first quarter, the fastest clip since a 5.6 percent pace in the second quarter of 1982.

The new report caught analysts by surprise.

Most had been predicting the economy was growing at an annualized rate of around 4 percent this year, about the rate they expect for the entire year.

While that pace would be below the 6.8 percent growth turned in during 1984, it would still be a healthy rate for the third year of an economic recovery.

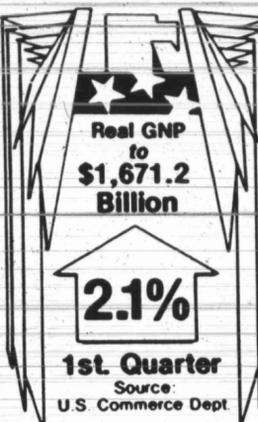

Most economists believe the economy must expand at a pace of at least 3 percent to create enough new jobs to keep unemployment from falling.

The third quarter slump in activity last year had brought on worries of an impending recession. Those fears were eased when growth rebounded in the final three months of last year.

Today's report, however, revised the extent of that rebound from an earlier reported 4.9 percent rate to a slightly smaller 4.3 percent pace.

The Commerce Department's "flash" estimate of growth is made before a quarter is over. Today's report contains complete data only for January with estimates for February and March. The quarterly estimate is subject to several rounds of revisions later in the year.

Police kill 16 blacks in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police opened fire on a crowd of more than 3,000 blacks trying to march from their black township to a white suburb near Port Elizabeth today, killing 16 blacks and wounding at least 22, police said.

The shooting occurred as blacks throughout South Africa gathered in memory of the 69 people shot and killed in the black community of Sharpeville 25 years ago — the bloodiest clash in years of protests against white minority rule.

Maj. Steve van Rooyena, police spokesman, said the situation in Uitenhage was "tense but under control" by midday. Uitenhage is an automobile manufacturing center near Port Elizabeth on the Indian Ocean.

Van Rooyena said the shooting began when the crowd started marching the mile from Uitenhage's black township of Langa to a nearby white suburb.

A spokesman at police headquarters in Pretoria, Lt. Henry Beck, said 16 blacks had been killed and 22 wounded. Police initially said 14 were killed and at least 25 wounded.

Van Rooyena said the marching blacks "were confronted by the police (but) they did not disperse. They stoned the police, who acted partly in self-defense and partly to stop them from reaching the white area."

He said he did not know why the crowd gathered or began the march, but said it was possibly related to the Sharpeville anniversary.

Mono Badela, a black journalist for Citipress, a Johannesburg Sunday newspaper, visited the scene soon after the shooting. He said a fire truck washed the victims' blood off the street.

Badela said eyewitnesses told him the crowd was trying to march through town to another black township, Kwanobuhle, to the funeral of three blacks killed in rioting 10 days ago. The crowd didn't know the funeral had been banned by a magistrate several hours earlier, he said.

Badela said the owner of a shop 50 yards from the shootings told him that police in armored vehicles ordered the marchers to turn back, and that stoning and shooting broke out.

Laos releases American

BANGKOK, Thailand — The government of Laos today released an American tourist who was arrested after he unsuspectingly swam across the Mekong river from Thailand to Laos, a Thai immigration official said.

Jon Robert Phillips, 29, of Rumson, N.J., crossed the Mekong River back into Thailand's Nong Khai provincial town on a passenger ferry, the official said in a telephone interview.

He quoted Phillips as saying he swam in the Mekong River on March 15 and reached an island in the middle, not knowing the island belonged to Laos. He was later arrested by a group of people, Phillips told the Thai immigration official.

A U.S. official in Vientiane accompanied Phillips to the ferry, the Thai said.

Phillips has been working as an English teacher at Indonesia's Galang Island processing center for Indochinese refugees, according to a friend of Phillips', who spoke only on condition he not be identified.

Airlines offices bombed

Assailants lobbed explosives in the offices of the Royal Jordanian Airlines in Rome, Athens and the Cypriot capital of Nicosia within a 90-minute period this morning, setting off blasts that injured a total of five airline employees.

There was no claim of responsibility for any of the blasts. Witnesses and police said all the explosions were caused by young dark-skinned men and all the bombers escaped.

Radical Palestinian groups and Arab states have been bitterly critical of the joint peace initiative recently announced by King Hussein of Jordan and Yasser Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In Athens, a young man wearing a yellow windbreaker tossed two explosive devices, apparently hand grenades, in the airline offices in the city center, witnesses said. One of the bombs did not explode.

Iraqi resumes attacks

Iran reported today new Iraqi air and missile attacks on civilian targets and Iraq claimed it "occupied enemy positions" along the war front, a day after Tehran was blacked out during a speech by Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Brock nominated for labor post

WASHINGTON (AP) — William E. Brock, President Reagan's choice as new labor secretary, is being welcomed by organized labor to a post that has drawn the wrath of most union leaders over the past four years.

Brock was nominated Wednesday to succeed Raymond Donovan, whose relations with AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland were non-existent after Donovan angered the labor federation's chief early in the Reagan administration.

Donovan resigned last week after being ordered to stand trial on 137 counts of grand larceny and fraud.

Tipped off to the appointment by

Brock himself just before Reagan's announcement, Kirkland issued a statement saying, "We look forward to a new and constructive relationship with the Labor Department."

Opinion

It's okay, I work for the president

White House Deputy Chief of Staff Michael Deaver may not have broken any laws when he used his diplomatic passport to buy a luxury car at a 25 percent discount.

But his conduct in Europe displayed an insensitivity and arrogance unbecoming to a top presidential aide.

Part of President Reagan's appeal is his populist image. Surely his landslide re-election victory last year could not be interpreted as a mandate for an imperial presidency.

Yet Deaver and others in a presidential advance team went to Germany, ostensibly to prepare for the president's four-country European visit in May, and wasted the time of American diplomats by asking them to help purchase luxury cars for their personal use.

In all, Deaver and the others bought nine BMWs. By using their diplomatic passports, they were able to get 25 percent discounts on an automobile normally priced from $18,000 to $42,000.

Now, it turns out that BMW planned to drop its diplomatic discounts and may have made one last exception for Deaver and his colleagues.

Government regulations don't forbid U.S. officials from accepting promotional deals and discounts from private companies.

However legal Deaver's actions might be, he clearly used his appointment to gain a privilege not available to the average person. In doing so, he thumbed his nose at the public and selfishly cast a shadow over the White House, forcing his cohorts to explain his behavior.

Despite the brouhaha, we don't see Deaver rushing to cancel his automobile order.

Perhaps he has fallen prey to the syndrome that officials must live on a grand scale when they go to Washington.

As former White House aide Lyn Nofziger put it: "I'm always a little bit amused by the guy who makes $60,000-$70,000 and can't hack it. Yeah, money doesn't go as far here as it does in California. But I don't think it's necessary that you have to keep up with the Joneses or go in debt."

Deaver is leaving the White House in May, but other White House officials undoubtedly will face the same temptations.

We hope they learn there's no disgrace in driving a VW instead of a BMW or in paying the going price for one.

Cheating in sports is 'in' American

"Pressure for profits fuels cheating in college sports" — headline in USA Today.

Football coach Bobby Tawdry was livid. He had just been informed by the president of the "University of Champions" that his 1985 budget had been frozen.

"How do they expect me to get to a bowl game if they don't give me the tools to do it?" Tawdry asked his wife Delta.

"Why would he freeze your budget?" she asked him.

"He says he needs more money for his professors. They want to be paid the same rates as the football players."

"That's ridiculous. There isn't a top 20 school in America that could afford to pay professors what you pay your players. Did you point out that the team makes a profit while professors are just a drain on school finances?"

"Sure I did. And he said there's a new rule. I have to spend as much money on education as I do on athletics, or the school will lose its accreditation. I said I'd like to see him tell that to an all-state lineman who won't take less than $100,000 to play on the team."

"I hope that shook him up," Delta said.

"It should have. But then he went into a song and dance about how much money the athletic department was spending on steroids. He said it doesn't look good for a major university to be dispensing drugs to the football team. The next thing I expected him to do was tell me I have to play the kids without painkillers."

Delta was furious. "They all live in their ivory towers and have no idea what it takes to win a conference title. How do they expect you to fill the stadium every Saturday afternoon without pills? Did you tell him if you didn't give your players steroids they would never be big enough to get a contract in pro football?"

"Yes, and he mumbled something about it wasn't the university's job to develop talent for professional sports. I told him, 'We're the little leagues for pro football. The only reason the kids put out 100 percent is so they can get the attention of the NFL scouts in the stands.'"

"Did that shut him up?"
"It did about the steroids, but then he brought up students grades. He said he was still getting heat from the conference about players not attending any classes last year. He told me the faculty has its back up, and recently voted not to pass anybody unless he came to school. Furthermore, he said I could no longer suit up a member of the team unless he could read and write. That really sent me through the roof. I told him, 'You're tying both my hands behind my back. Why don't you cut off my legs and be done with it?'"

"I'm amazed you kept your temper as long as you did," Delta said.

"Then I told him, 'I was hired to coach football to bring glory and recognition to the school. But I have to do it my way. If you freeze the money so I can't recruit the high school players, and if you put impossible drug and educational restrictions in my way, then I have no choice but to take my case to alumni. Let them decide whether they want a winning team, or one that plays by the NCAA rules and becomes the laughingstock of Saturday's TV game of the week.'"

"And he folded?" Delta said.

"He should have but he didn't. He said he was going to take it up with the board of trustees and ask for a vote of confidence. I warned him it was a mistake.

What Fourth Amendment?

WASHINGTON — Two hundred years ago, still smarting from King George III's royal trampling on private property, the Founding Fathers passed the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

Now a federal judge has felt it necessary to order the Drug Enforcement Administration to observe the amendment's protections in its free-wheeling assault on marijuana growers in northern California.

The drug-busters, it seems, have been behaving in a manner as high-handed as King George's redcoats.

The decision by U.S. District Judge Robert P. Aguilar cites case after case where DEA's Campaign Against Marijuana Planting violated the Fourth Amendment rights of citizens whose only crime was to live in an area where marijuana was being grown.

Consider these examples from Aguilar's decision and wonder how Sam Adams or Thomas Jefferson would have reacted:

• A (DEA) team of about 25 armed officers surrounded (one woman's) home, ordered her family out of the house with their hands up, and held the entire family at gunpoint for two-and-one-half hours while conducting an identification check," the judge wrote. "One of the family dogs, which ... was standing still and barking, was shot and killed by a team member." The nearest marijuana field was 600 yards away — on a neighbor's property.

• One innocent householder testified that a DEA pilot "put the nose of the helicopter about 100 feet away from my eye level (I live on a hillside) and hovered, watching me (seated in) my outhouse." He added: "I didn't move, so he moved right above me (and) blew the toilet paper away."

• A woman said she as "continually buzzed" while taking outdoor showers in what had once been the privacy of her isolated home.

Insight

Arrows of outrageous notions

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's all this tough talk coming out of official Washington? How come the rhetorical darts whizzing around the capital are so tipped with poison nowadays?

—Is "Go ahead, make my day," what it's come to? Is politics is compromise, civility is the catalyst.

Is civility dead? When President Reagan promised during his re-election campaign that "you ain't seen nothing yet," was he declaring all-out war against his opponents? Does he mean: Do it my way or no way?

—Item: The White House, in an unmistakable warning to congressional Republicans who don't vote with the administration, says it will "help our friends first" when the next election comes around. "Strong arm tactics," retorts Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa, a member of the president's party.

—Item: Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., arguing with budget director David Stockman over Stockman's plan to kill the Small Business Administration, acidly tells him: "You've had a month to peddle your misinformation."

—Item: Secretary of State George Shultz is accused at a House subcommittee hearing of "red-baiting" as he seeks support for more aid to Nicaraguan rebels. He tells the congressmen: "When you compare me to Sen. (Joseph) McCarthy, I resent it deeply."

—Item: Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says he doesn't question the patriotism of senators who seek deeper cuts in Pentagon spending, merely their judgment. This, in response to an accusation by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, that Weinberger has impugned the senators' patriotism.

—Item: Clarence M. Pendleton Jr., the black chairman of the civil rights commission, calls some black supporters of civil rights "new racists."

—Item: Lt. Gen. John T. Chain Jr., director of the State Department's bureau of politico-military affairs, orders his staff not to speak to a reporter for writing something Chain thinks breached security. A picture of the journalist — who once held Chain's job — is replaced with a note saying the newsman "did willingly, willfully and knowingly publish, in 1985, classified information the release of which is harmful and damaging to the country."

Why all this venom?
"It's hard to tell how much of it is plan and how much is accident," said political scientist James David Barber of Duke University. "I'd be kind of skeptical about the effectiveness of it."

A former Republican congressman from New York, Barber Conable, has no such reservations.

• Two 12-year-old girls were chased by DEA helicopters flying about 50 feet above the ground. "The helicopters chased them up Perry Meadow Road for about 20 minutes," the mother of one girl testified. "When my daughter and her friend would hide under the bushes, the helicopter would lift up; when the girls would try to run to the nearest house, the 'copters would come again and frighten them."

A DEA spokesman told my associate Donald Goldberg only that the judge's order is "under review." But the agency admitted in court that these airborne Peeping Toms and Georgie Porgies were "private contractors with no law enforcement expertise," who had been given only two days' "orientation" before setting out in search of marijuana growers.

• "In order to land their helicopters ... on my land, the (DEA) officers cut down ... four fir trees and three madrone trees," a homeowner testified. "One of these trees was my prized Christmas tree, which I had cared for and trimmed for this Christmas season. My planted lawn was scarred and my flower gardens were completely destroyed."

• A former Army helicopter pilot testified: "In my opinion, the helicopters ... were being operated in an extremely unsafe manner. They appeared to be using tactics similar to those I observed used in Vietnam to terrorize the populace."

Aguilar wrote: "There can be only two conclusions: These technically proficient pilots were acting pursuant to instructions or the tacit consent of (DEA), or due to inadequate training and supervision they were habitually engaging in some sort of their own."

Conociendo al mexicano

Por LUIS RIOS

Hay unos pocos de blancos que piensan que nos estan haciendo tontos. Asi es por que nos creen imbeciles.

Pues no saben que uno de mexicano se burla de la estupidez de ellos a espaldas de ellos. Pero ellos son los patrones, los jefes y los duenos de los negocios; y uno para que no lo corran del trabajo o empleo se queda con la boca cerrada. Verdad?

Pero diga, cuantas veces oye uno que nomas por que un restaurante americano anuncia que le va a poner mas queso a su comida piensan que ya tiene comida mexicana? Y luego hacen un chile mas feo...

Y fíjese que tienen una memoria de una vaca estas personas. Cuantas veces han oido Uds. que el pobre jefe se le olvida su nombre y le llama por "Hey Juan o Pancho!", y uno se llama Carlos o Miguel?

Pero lo hacen porque saben que uno muchas de las veces no va a responderle con mal voz. Y les cae chiste decirle aun mexicano asi. Pero si nomas sabian el coraje que nos da.

Me acuerdo cuando entre al grado siete y mi maestra de artes y oficios le dijo a la clase que ella no esperaba que los mexicanos hicieran muy bien un su clase. Y por que? Nomas, porque eramos mexicanos. Me acuerdo que nos dijo que los mexicanos nunca hacian bien en su clase.

Pero que le va a decir uno de doce or trece anos a su maestra de cuarenta o cincuenta anos?

Y por que sera que se enojan los blancos cuando un mexicano habla en espanol? Yo no se; pero me enojo cuando uno de ellos atenta hablar en espanol y le hace burla a la idioma y los mexicanos cuando no puede.

Aunque sea uno de mexicano sabe hablar dos idiomas. La importancia de saber dos idiomas es que uno tiene la capacidad de aprender mas. Y eso a veces asusta a nuestros amigos blancos.

El miedo — eso es lo que sienten los blancos contra los mexicanos. Saben que uno de estos dias los mexicanos van hacer un poder muy fuerte aqui y en el resto del estado.

Ellos no quieren eso. Ellos piensan que los tiempos nunca cambian. Y piensan que si nos ridiculan y nos oprimen nosotros vamos a cansarnos y hacer lo que quieren ellos.

Pero no conocen al mexicano. Fíjese, todavia piensan que somos un bonton de imbeciles.

Woman reviews Bombeck's book Motherhood

Erma Bombeck's book Motherhood. The Second Oldest Profession was reviewed by Mrs. Dwayne Clawson during the Mary Jane Club meeting, March 14. The meeting was in the home of Mrs. Ronnie Wood. The book was a humorous

Mrs. Don Evans became a new member. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Jerri Lee, May 9.

Dear Abby

Girl fears the past will hurt her future

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 (nearly 18) and am going with a very special guy whom I like very much. I know he feels the same way about me. We seem to be getting closer and closer and may be heading for a serious relationship.

The problem goes back to when I was 15. I lost my virginity to my first boyfriend. At the time, I thought I was going to marry him, but it didn't work out that way, and we drifted apart.

The guy I'm going with now knows nothing about my not being a virgin. I am a Catholic, and all Catholic girls are supposed to keep their virginity until the day they marry. Since I am no longer a virgin, how can I explain it to him? How can I explain it to any guy who asks me to marry him?

I feel so ashamed. Many times I burst into tears because I don't know how I will ever be able to tell the man I marry. Please help me.

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: When you marry, are you going to ask your husband if he's a virgin? And if he is not, do you think you have the right to question him concerning his past sexual experiences? Of course not. It's none of your business.

The same is true concerning you. Your past is none of his business. What's done is done. Don't dwell on it.

DEAR ABBY: My parents have been divorced since I was 14. I'm 20 now and have a good relationship with both my parents, but my mother resents my father for several things he has done to her as well as to me and my sister. I've learned to put things in the past and leave them there. I love my father as much as I love my mother, but Mother doesn't understand that. She doesn't expect me to hate my father, but she doesn't like it when I talk about the trips he takes with his new wife or anything he does, so I don't mention it.

I am engaged to be married and I want both parents to give me away. My mother wants to give me away and says if I insist that my father share in that honor, she will not attend my wedding. We had a long talk about it and I cried for two days. I then decided to let my mother give me away, but she knows I'm not happy about it. Have you any suggestions?

WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: In such situations I urge parents to give their marrying child the gift of happiness on his or her wedding day, and put their own feelings aside. Your mother is wrong to punish you in her determination to punish your father. Since you love them equally, make it both or none — and ask a favorite relative or dear friend to "give you away."

Dr. Donohue

Women prone to bladder problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was recently in the hospital for cystoscopy and bladder hydrodistension. The diagnosis was interstitial cystitis. I have been told this is fairly common, especially among women, but I'm not sure I understand exactly what it is. Can you discuss it? How common is it? — Mrs. C.G.

It is a common enough ailment that hardly a week passes without a reader inquiry about it. Interstitial cystitis is, as you say a problem of middle aged and older women. We don't know why it happens, but the interstices in the lining and muscle wall of the urinary bladder become riddled with scar tissue. The bladder shrinks, lowering its capacity where once it could hold a pint of fluid, now it holds only a few ounces.

The resulting feeling of urinary urgency and the frequency of urination are the chief signs, probably quite familiar to you. Usually the patient has pain with urination.

The bladder condition can be detected by viewing with a cystoscope. The doctor can see the interior of the bladder with the characteristic small bleeding areas.

The treatment you got, attempting to stretch the bladder by distending it with water (hydrodistension) is an often used one. At times, dimedthly sulfoxide solution is instilled into the bladder as part of treatment. Please let me know how your treatments are working for you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 37-year-old male who had a vasectomy seven years ago. I am seriously looking into having the vasectomy reversed. What are the chances nowadays of successful reversal? Would it require hospitalization? — G.F.

The chances of successful reversal keep getting better. The most recent figures I've seen are from a study that claimed successful reversal of vasectomy in 77 of 78 men on which it was performed. Of these 65 percent fathered children within a year of the reversal surgery. It requires brief hospitalization.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Donohue's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Big Spring Industrial Softball League will have a meeting for both Men's and Women's teams Tuesday March 26 at 7 p.m. at Big Spring Athletics on Main Street.

Southwest Crop Insurance and KBST Radio are sponsoring a clay pigeon shoot to be held at McMahon-Wrinkle Industrial Park on Saturday March 30. The competition will begin at 10 a.m. and the entry fee is $20 per shooter. The shoot is open to the public.

There will be two competitions; a "Protective Partnership"—where if one man misses a target the partner gets a chance to break the target. Also, a "Miss and Out" competition with a $500 winner-take-all prize. Big Spring's Sonny Anderson, who is the 14th ranked trap shooter in the world, will be in charge of the Miss and Out competition.

Booths can be set up at the pigeon shoot free of charge. For more information call Lonnie Nichols at 263-1263.

And speaking of trapshooters, Big Spring's Kelly Rodgers recently made a splash at the 1985 Zone B trapshooting championships held at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

The 19 year old sophomore at Texas Tech brought home three gold and two silver medals in the individual events as well as a gold in the team event. Kelly was the High Point Civilian at the Central Regional meet and teamed with Ackerly's Mike Coleman to take the two-man team title.

Kelly will join the U.S. Olympic Shooting Team in April for the World Trapshooting Championships in Montecatini, Italy where teams from 18 countries will compete.

The Big Spring Women's Bowling Association recently elected officers and delegates to the State and National meetings. Big spring Teen-Age League is holding sign-ups Saturday March 30 at the American League Little League Field. Registration fee is $10 per child. Tryouts will be held April 15, 16 and 18 at the Roy Anderson Complex Field.

American Teen-Age League Treasurer Shelane Roberts is also looking for sponsors for this year's teams. Sponsoring a team would cost around $300 a year, reported Roberts. Only one of the four 13 year old division teams had a sponsor last year and sponsorships are badly needed due to rising participation and equipment costs.

Anyone interested in managing or coaching a Teen-Age League team should contact Terry Brumley at 7-9890 or Shelane Roberts at 7-2798 for more information.

Also, the Teen-age League has scheduled a meeting for Monday April 1 at 7 p.m. at the Wesley Methodist Church. All semi-pro teams who wish to renew their leases should attend or contact the League Field Superintendent. Schedules will be needed for the upcoming season.

Tennessee pulls off miracle comeback

By The Associated Press
With Tennessee down by five points with 19 seconds to go, no one would have given a deflated basketball for the Volunteers' chances against Southwestern Louisiana.

Tony White was pumped up, though.

"Tony White was absolutely magnificent," Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe enthused after watching his 6-foot-2 sophomore guard lead a thrilling comeback that gave the Volunteers a 73-72 victory Wednesday night in a second-round game of the National Invitation Tournament.

"Tony wanted the ball and he was hot," DeVoe said of White, who had a field goal and two free throws in the last 19 seconds as the Volunteers pulled off what DeVoe called "one of the best comebacks I've ever had a team make" and advanced to Saturday's quarterfinals.

Louisville and Tennessee-Chattanooga also won second-round tests Wednesday night to complete the quarterfinal field for this weekend. Louisville defeated South Florida 68-61 and Tennessee-Chattanooga tripped Lamar 85-84 in overtime.

The Volunteers were losing 72-67 with 19 seconds remaining when White scored to pull them within three points. Tennessee called a timeout and came back with White deliberately fouling 6-4 Cajun guard George Almones.

Almones missed his free throw, and Vol guard Fred Jenkins raced down the court to score on a 15-footer, pulling Tennessee to within 72-71 with 10 seconds to go. Tennessee got the ball back immediately when the Cajuns couldn't get it inbounds, and Cajun forward Randal Smith fouled, setting up White's free throws.

Manuel Forrest scored 21 points, including three baskets as Louisville erupted for the first 14 points of the second half, to lead the Cardinals past South Florida.

Louisville led by just 34-31 when Forrest started the game-breaking run with a jumper from the baseline. Louisville held a commanding 48-31 advantage by the time Mike Abram scored the last basket of the streak with 15:10 remaining.

James Hunter scored on a baseline drive with nine seconds left in overtime to lead Tennessee-Chattanooga to a heart-stopping road victory over Lamar.

The Moccasins, who trailed by seven points with 1:19 left in regulation, forced the overtime when guard Gerald Wilkins scored at the buzzer to tie the game at 77.

San Antonio Spurs guard GEROQE GERVIN (44) goes for a basket against Chicago Bulls center CALDWELL JONES in NBA action Wednesday night. The Spurs won the game 106-98.

NCAA tourney action starts up again

DALLAS (AP) — Underdog Louisiana Tech figures it owes the Oklahoma Sooners something in tonight's NCAA Midwest Regional semifinal game at Reunion Arena.

"It was pretty humiliating the way they beat us (84-72) earlier in the year," said Louisiana Tech Coach Andy Russo. "(All-America) Wayman Tisdale had a bad game and they still beat us by 12. There's a lot of talent in those other kids on his team."

He said the Bulldogs hoped they would get a second shot at the Sooners.

Oklahoma, fourth ranked in the final Associated Press Poll, and the No. 8 Bulldogs play at 5:35 p.m. CST.

Fifth-rated Memphis State and Cinderella Boston College clash at 8:08 p.m. in the second game at Reunion Arena.

The winners play at 1 p.m. CST on Saturday. The Midwest regional champion takes on the Southwest Regional winner in the Final Four in Lexington, Ky.

Boston College, 20-10, advanced by beating Texas Tech and Duke. Memphis State, 29-3, took out Pennsylvania and Alabama-Birmingham. Oklahoma, 30-5, bounced North Carolina A&T and Illinois State, and Louisiana Tech, 29-2, knocked off Pittsburgh and Ohio State in the sub-regionals.

"I think the Midwest region is the toughest region in the nation," said Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs. "I know we're the only region with three teams from The AP Top Ten. And us and Louisiana Tech are the only two teams that have to face another Top Ten team in the first round of the regionals.

Russo said his Bulldogs, led by Karl "The Mailman" Malone, are still struggling for a strong national image. "We'll be fighting until we either win it all or lose," he said.

Oklahoma is the highest scoring team in the nation at 90 points per game, but that's not all Russo says he's worried about.

Dana Kirk, the Memphis State coach, foresees a "Guard War" between his Andre Turner and Michael Adams of Boston College as a highlight of the second half of the double-header.

"It will be like watching Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran going at it," said Kirk. "They're the quickest guards in basketball and it should be quite a battle."

Adams beat Texas Tech with a 30-foot shot in the final seconds and Turner whipped Alabama-Birmingham with a last-second basket.

All-America Keith Lee of Memphis State has had problems in both tournament games, missing some 20 minutes against Penn and fouling out early in the overtime against UAB.

"Keith needs to stay out of foul trouble," said Kirk. "We know Boston College likes to get physical with you in that full-court press."

Midland wins NJCAA tournament opener

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Leroy Parnell and Alan Eaton combined for 16 points each as Kankakee, Ill., dominated Ferrum, Va., for an 87-70 victory Wednesday night in the second round of the National Junior College Athletic Association men's basketball tournament.

Also posting a second-round win was Moberly, Mo., which beat Highland Park, Mich., 83-78, to move into quarterfinal play.

In first round games Wednesday, Allegany, Md., rolled over Hinds, Miss., 85-60 and Midland, Texas, upended Westark, Ark., 70-61. Kaskaskia, Ill., routed Westchester, N.Y., 106-73 in a loser's bracket game.

Tevin Binns scored 15 points to lead five Midland players who scored in double figures as the Chapparrals tripped Westark.

The Chapparrals, 30-4, trailed throughout the game until they went ahead 42-41 on a free throw by Chuckie Grades with 8:45 left in the game. Midland led by as much as 12 points late in the game.

Carl Lott scored 20 points and Louis Cook had 17 points for Westark, 33-4.

Kankakee led from start to finish, holding a 41-30 advantage at the half. Both teams scored 29 field goals, but Kankakee won at the free throw line, shooting 29 of 42.

In the nightcap, Bernard Day poured in 21 points to lead the Moberly Greyhounds over Highland Park.

It was the first loss of the season for Highland Park, which dropped to 39-1 for the season. Mike Milling rounded out the scoring for Moberly, 34-4, with 18 points.

Darrin Mosley scored 21 points, including 15 in the second half, and J.P. Warner added 20 as Allegany defeated Hinds.

Allegany led by only three at halftime, 36-33, but pulled away from the Eagles in the second half. Ernie Glover snared 14 rebounds for the Trojans, who moved into a quarterfinal game with a 32-3 record.

Robert Bendolph tossed in 28 points for Hinds, 25-7.

Danny Johnson poured in 20 points and snared eight rebounds as Kaskaskia trounced Westchester. The loss eliminated

Westchester, which finished 32-5. Kaskaskia, which made 35 of 50 field goal attempts, bolted to a 34-25 lead at halftime. Johnson scored six of Kaskaskia's first 10 points of the second half.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Startling and dramatic new ideas and plans of action can be the means by which you best utilize this day to fullest possible advantage, so make a point to be up and out early.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can put those new ideas to work that will help you to make real progress in personal avenues. Avoid a jealous person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to prepare a different campaign than usual if you are to gain your present ambitions. Share thoughts with mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Jot your ideas down and you know better how to proceed for the future. Later, join good friends for amusements.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Almost any kind of work you tackle today can bring you excellent results. Explain new system to fellow workers.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Contact clever and successful persons who can give you fine ideas for your own advancement in life. Intuition good.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your own business acumen plus the advice of experts can make this profitable day for you. Socialize this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what a dynamic associate has to suggest and then follow such advice for good results to follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have good ideas how to improve daily routines and should put them in motion right away. Be enthusiastic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more concerned with enjoying amusements that could relieve tensions you are under right now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get the conditions at home improved quietly and don't disturb family ties. Have associates in for dinner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Confer with partners and get your business working on a more solid and secure basis for a more productive life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have an opportunity to find some new interest that could bring in a far greater income in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be interested in whatever is new and up-to-date, so be encouraging in this and your progeny will find the right outlet for best expressing self in the future and be very successful. Teach to complete tasks.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Murdoch acquires 50 percent of Fox films

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ailing 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., whose last several films have been box office disasters, will get an $80 million cash infusion when publisher Rupert Murdoch buys half of the filmmaker's parent company.

Murdoch's 50 percent acquisition of TCF Holdings Inc., announced Wednesday, gives him a long-sought entry into the movie business, analysts say. Last year he tried to gain control of the parent of Warner Bros. studios.

Murdoch will pay $162 million for half of TCF. Fox and Murdoch's The News Corp. Ltd. said in an announcement. Another $88 million from The News Corp. will be invested directly in Fox.

Fox has lost $97.4 million in the past five quarters and is seeking financing for this year's movie and television production.

"It's a matter of capital for 20th Century. They need the capital to get back on track with production," said Harold Vogel, an analyst at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. in New York.

Earlier this month, Fox announced it had arranged for $120 million in new capital from its CBS-Fox Home Video partnership and $60 million in cash from its sole owner, Denver oilman Marvin Davis.

It also said its bankers had agreed to restructure Fox's $400 million line of revolving credit to do away with a provision that would have required repayment of $96 million in 1987.

Analysts said Murdoch, with vast newspaper holdings in the United States and abroad, had long sought to enter the film industry.

"He likes the idea of having a film library and a production arm," said Lee S. Isgur, an analyst at Paine Webber Inc. in New York. "He's also got an ego, and he wants to get into the business."

No management shakeup is planned at Fox, the filmmaker and Murdoch said. Murdoch apparently would assume no management role at Fox, said the film company's chief spokesman, Jerry Greenberg.

Barry Diller took over as Fox's chairman and chief executive in September.

Isgur predicted Murdoch might obtain control of Fox within 12 months.

He cited Murdoch's brief advance to Warner and noted that Murdoch has said he was thinking about buying Fox. Isgur said he doubted the publisher will be content as a passive investor.

Fox hasn't had a box office hit since "Romancing the Stone" more than a year ago. Among its recent disappointments are "Rhinestone," "Blame it on Rio," "Unfaithfully Yours" and the current "Turk 182."

Murdoch on Wednesday said the deal is a "significant investment. 20th Century-Fox is one of the world's few great film and television companies, and... is positioning itself for significant growth."

TCF Holdings has been wholly owned by Davis since last October, when he bought out the 50 percent stake of fugitive financier Marc Rich for a reported $116 million.

TCF said that of the $250 million it receives from Murdoch, about $88 million will be invested in Fox.

Whodunit?, ask policemen

FORT WORTH (AP) — An Everman man was in the Tarrant County jail awaiting trial for the May 1984 armed robbery of a Safeway store when a clerk at the same store identified him as the man who robbed the store last month.

The second identification raised serious doubts about the first identification and Monty Hooper, 28, was released from jail after the charges were dismissed.

"I'm feeling fine now," Hooper told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Wednesday after he was released Tuesday.

"It took a lot out of me," Hooper said of the 10 months he spent in jail following his arrest soon after the robbery last May. "Time seemed to drag so slowly."

"It makes me feel that if they've got enough evidence to convict a person, the concern whether he's innocent or not doesn't matter," he added.

Teresa Wishenhunt was the store employee who identified Hooper as the man who robbed the store Feb. 15, saying it was the same man as the one who had pulled the earlier robbery.

Wishenhunt identified Hooper from a photograph following the robbery last May and later picked him out of a lineup.

The woman and another clerk, Alice Brown, again identified Hooper as the man who robbed the store Feb. 15. But Hooper was in jail at the time.

Police then found a second man who closely resembles Hooper.

"They could be brothers," a Fort Worth police officer said.

Ironically, the new suspect was in a Texas prison on the day of first robbery. So neither man could be responsible for both robberies, said Fort Worth Police Detective Pat Fritz.

"That's why they dismissed the charge. It is just too confusing of a deal," Fritz added.

Pete Gilfeather, Hooper's court appointed lawyer, objected to the lineup in which Hooper was identified following the May robbery. He said the lineup did not include anyone near Hooper's age or anyone who resembled him. But because the case had not come to trial, no judge had ruled on the objections by Gilfeather.

In addition to the lineup, Fritz said, informants had told police that Hooper was involved in the robbery.

"We just didn't pick his name out of a hat," Fritz said.

At the time of his arrest, Hooper was on parole after serving six months in prison on marijuana and bad check charges.

An arrest warrant has been issued for the man wanted in the Feb. 15 robbery, but the man, who is on parole, has not been arrested.

Hooper praised both his father, Horace Hooper, and Tarrant County Sheriff Don Carpenter following his release.

He said Carpenter became concerned about his welfare in jail after it became apparent there might be a mistake.

Church gunning for the Pope in ads, posters

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A Roman Catholic bishop says an Arkansas-based church that's threatening to flood Chattanooga with anti-Vatican gospel tracts and posters is "sick and malicious."

Tony Alamo, head of the Alamo Christian Church of Alma, Ark., told The Chattanooga Times earlier this week that the tracts and posters were retaliation for the arrest of two men here for putting up similar posters.

"You're No. 1 on the hit parade," said Tony Alamo. "That means that everyone in that town is going to read the truth about the pope ... everybody."

John E. Kolbeck, 25, of Alma, Ark., and William Howard Wattles, 31, of Van Buren, Ark., were charged Saturday with disorderly conduct and defacing a building. Police said the men put up dozens of anti-Catholic posters.

The posters contend that the Vatican controls the news media, the public schools, federal and state agencies, the judiciary, the United Nations, the U.S. Postal Service, the telephone company, organized crime and numerous political ideologies, such as communism, socialism, the Nazi Party, fascism and others.

Similar posters have reportedly appeared in New Orleans, Houston, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, New York, Toronto, Springfield, Ill., and Nashville.

Bishop James Niedergeses of Nashville described the Alamo Christian Church as "sick and malicious."

"It's really unbelievable," he said.

Alamo, who said his real name is Bernie Lazar Hoffman, said he was glad "other Christians" were putting up the posters but would not say whether he told the men to put the posters here.
