By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Don't panic. Give the snake an option of slithering away. He'll usually take it and you can lead a bitten-free life. That's what Wayne Pierce, assisting in Big Spring's annual snake roundup, said this morning from the Howard County Fairgrounds. Pierce was busy helping with last minute details before the American Business Club begins buying snakes this afternoon from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. The snakeshow will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. General admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children. The Pit Masters, a professional group of snake handlers, will be giving demonstrations throughout the show. Pierce said the Pit Masters would perform "The Hand Full of Death," a demonstration where a man holds 15 snakes by the tail in each hand. "He'll keep all the snake heads away from him without getting bitten," Pierce said. Another demonstration features stuffing 10 to 20 snakes in a sleeping bag that will contain one pit master. Pierce said the odds are good that the pit master will escape from the treacherous sleeping bag without being bitten. The demonstrations are a reminder that people can escape deadly snake situations without getting bitten, he said. "If you give that snake the option to go away, he'll usually take it because you're too big a meal for him. He'll sense that you ain't good eating," Pierce said. The show will feature Dr. Perez of Texas A&I who will give milk demonstrations. The American Business Club will donate all snake venom collected to Perez who is currently conducting research on venom. Venom is being looked at as use for possible cures for different cancer forms, Pierce said.

Candidates pressed on civil service issue

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The heat was on Thursday night as city firemen pressed council hopefuls to make a stand on the state civil-service referendum. Incumbents Jack Y. Smith and Russ McEwen came under attack at the election forum, sponsored by the firefighters union. The council members were criticized for opposing the referendum in an emergency resolution. McEwen in particular was criticized by firemen for his opposition to the referendum, despite his attempts to focus on improvements the city has made in streets, sewers, water and parks and recreations. "We wanted all the councilmen to be there," McEwen said when asked why councilmen had not passed the resolution at an earlier date. "Harold Hall was in the hospital and I was out of town. The decision was made to have a resolution; we were not telling people how to vote." "It was a similar situation when the Haitians were brought here (to the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp). We had an emergency meeting and voted 3-2 on a resolution opposing that. We had an

MOPAC: Depot is doomed

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring railroad freight terminal building, known as the Depot, will be torn down despite a letter sent to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce stating that there are "no plans" to dismantle the building.

Although there are no plans "at this time" to tear down the historic building owned by Union Pacific, the building probably will be dismantled sometime later this year, according to Tim Hogan, director of public relations for the Missouri Pacific system of Union Pacific.

Hogan, reached at his office in St. Louis, Mo., Thursday, checked into the matter at the request of the Herald after a letter written by Mark Davis of the railroad's Spring, Texas, office was forwarded to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

The letter stated in part: "At this time, Union Pacific System has no intention of tearing down the Freight Terminal Building in Big Spring."

Hogan said today that the "letter is correct" to a point. He explained that "at this time, there are no plans to tear down the building."

But, "it is on our schedule to do so. We will build another building on the site."

Hogan said, "I don't want to look like the bad guy in a black hat." He explained that Union Pacific conducted a feasibility study at the site and determined "that the building has deteriorated" and should be replaced.

Plans are to replace the building "with a modern structure," he said.

Reading from a letter sent by a Big Spring group expressing interest in the building, Hogan said, "The way they put it, they want us to donate the building to the Big Spring Industrial Foundation as a commercial building and/or railroad museum. We need the site. We are not just getting rid of a building. We are going to make useful utilization of that site."

When asked if the building could be moved to another location and preserved, Hogan said, "As I recall, that is a large brick building. It would be tremendously expensive to move."

Hogan said he had no definite date for the razing of the present structure and the building of a new facility.

"I don't know when it will take place," he said, adding that it could happen, "as early as this year."

Amazing Grace

Commission wants to close rural post offices in West Texas

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

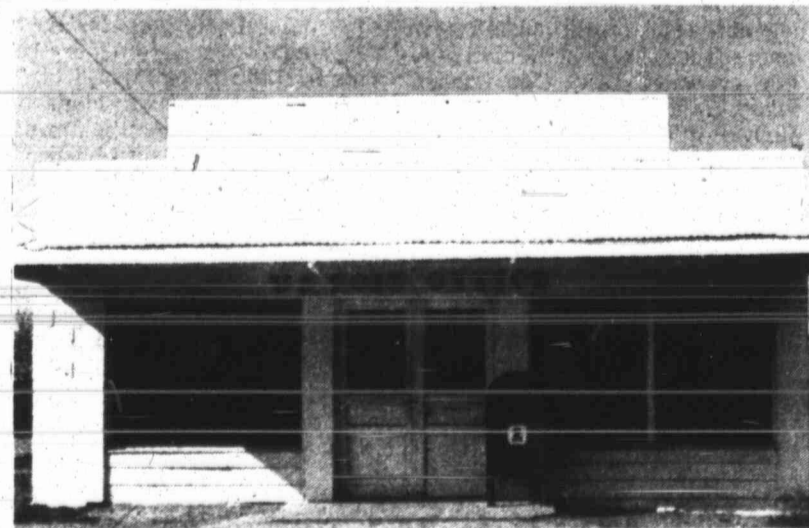

Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds.

But what the postman wasn't prepared for was a whirlwind — the infamous Grace Commission and its stepchild, "Citizens Against Waste."

Both have struck fear in the hearts of postmasters across the nation and particularly Texas, where the cuts could mean the end to 40 percent of the U.S. Post Offices.

The Grace Commission is recommending the closure of 12,500 U.S. Post Offices nationwide, said Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty, who fervently opposes such a move. The recommendation calls for closing 578 of the 1,445 post offices in Texas.

Such a move would mean the closure about 30 post offices in the Howard County-Tom Green County area. Communities surrounding Big Spring affected by the recommendation would include Sterling City, Garden City, Forsan, Ackery, Knott, Gail, Loraine, Westbrook, Lenorah, Leuders, Lowake, Gardendale, Goldsmith, Penwell, Wink, Wickett, Pyote, Big Bend, Ropesville, Paint Rock, Tarzan and Orla.

The original proposal by the Grace Commission called for the closure of all post offices serving fewer than 100 customers, Hardesty said.

But how serious is the threat of these closures?

Not too serious, Hardesty said, although he expects a few will be closed.

"They tried the same thing about eight years ago," he said. "I think it is being taken more seriously now. They (Grace Commission) are looking in the wrong place (to make cuts).

"We feel like the postal system is working now. We are self-sufficient now. The last three years we have shown a surplus," Hardesty said.

Service to the smaller communities will be greatly impaired if such a recommendation is approved, Hardesty said. He said the delivery of the mail will have to be made on a star route or a rural route and the people will get their mail later.

However, the greatest disservice will not be in late mail, but the lack of the other services the U.S. Postal Service provides, Hardesty said. Postmasters will lose their jobs, but the community will tend to lose more, he said.

"I feel confident these post offices will not close down," said Hardesty, who along with 4,000 other postmasters nationwide attended the Legislative Conference Feb. 21 in Washington.

The response from Congress was more than favorable toward the post office dilemma, he said. The group met with Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill (D-Mass.) and Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.).

Reagan favors Middle East talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he would favor a meeting between U.S. negotiators and a delegation of Jordanians and Palestinians to promote Middle East peace, but not if the Palestine Liberation Organization was represented.

Reagan also said he would not permit American diplomats to play a direct role in talks between Arabs and Israelis.

"They've got to understand we are not getting into the direct negotiations," the president said Thursday night during a nationally televised news conference. "That's none of our business."

By contrast, it was then-President Jimmy Carter's personal mediation of the Camp David talks between Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt that led to the signing of the first peace treaty between an Arab state and Israel.

However, Reagan disputed suggestions that he was pursuing a policy of disengagement from Mideast diplomacy, noting that another U.S. envoy would visit the region in several weeks.

Reagan said U.S. diplomats would not deal with the PLO because "they still refuse to agree or admit that Israel has a right to exist as a nation."

"There's a large Palestinian community and I'm sure that there are people that do not consider themselves represented by the PLO," the president said.

Reagan was more upbeat about the possibility of a summit meeting with the Soviet Union's new leader, Mikhail Gorbachev, saying, "I think it's high time that we did this." He said the prospects for a summit should be good.

The president added he wasn't discouraged by the new leader's failure to accept his invitation to attend a summit in the United States.

"The man has only been in office for a few days, and I have some idea of what is confronting him now," Reagan told reporters.

The president defended South African police who shot into a crowd of demonstrators Thursday, killing 17 people, and Israeli forces that fired on and killed a Lebanese camera crew working for CBS News in Lebanon.

Reagan was asked if he was considering changing his policy of using diplomacy to oppose the white

President Reagan calls on a reporter during his press conference Thursday night in the East Room of the White House. The president said during the press conference that next week's House vote on the MX missile is a "testing time" which will determine whether the U.S. is united or divided on fundamental issues of national security.

South African government's segregationist rule in the wake of the shootings.

He said to suggest that all the violence was coming from the police side was to ignore "the fact that there was rioting going on." He said some of the police involved were black and that there is "an element in South Africa that do not want a peaceful settlement of this—who wants a violent settlement, who want trouble in the streets, and that is what's going on."

There are conflicting reports from South Africa as to whether the demonstrators, who were marching to protest earlier deadly clashes with police, were carrying sticks, stones and gasoline bombs — as officials said — or whether the police attacked without provocation.

Reagan also declined to criticize Israeli troops who fired on a CBS News crew in southern Lebanon, saying, "I'm quite sure... this was not a deliberate killing." He called the incident a tragedy but said, "These things can happen" in a war in which one side wears no military uniforms.

In a statement, CBS protested "what eyewitnesses call an unprovoked and deliberate attack by Israeli forces."

Reagan opened his third news conference of the year by warning that U.S.-Soviet arms talks could be doomed if the House fails to follow the Senate's lead in voting to release funds to produce 21 more MX missiles.

"No request by an American president for a major strategic system deemed vital to the national security has ever been denied by an American Congress," Reagan said. "And unless that tradition is maintained next week in the House, there's little prospect of success at Geneva."

On other issues, the president: —Disavowed statements by his spokesman, Larry Speakes, and others, that he might not campaign for Republicans in 1986 if they vote against the MX.

"I've never done that... I'm not going to hold a grudge on anyone," Reagan said.

—Explained his decision not to visit a Nazi concentration camp site when he travels to West Germany in May to mark the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe. Reagan said he didn't want to reawaken the memories and passions of the time.

Forum

However, when asked later if he were comparing firefighters to Haitians, McEwen said he was not. "The resolution was drawn up as an emergency to tell the people what they were going to vote on," he said.

Firemen also asked Smith if he agreed with a city study that claimed implementing civil service for the department would cost $71,000, or $274,000 if the same benefits were extended to other employees. Smith said he was "still working on the figures today to see if those are good figures.... The figures are there. Some of those figures are going to be debated for the next 10 years."

"Nobody is denying that there is some cost. The biggest issue is what is the cost," McEwen said. "I'm not opposing the firefighters. I am in opposition to state civil service."

McEwen said he campaigned five years ago on improvements for the Central Fire Station.

"I understand you guys are disappointed. You have looked at an issue and made a decision, and I have looked at an issue and made a decision," he said. "You should look at the voting record of the person. The council has upgraded recreation, streets and sewers."

Five of the nine candidates present at the election forum said they favored the passage of the civil service proposal: Gary Don Carey, owner of La Contessa beauty salon; Micheal Russell, director of operations at H.W. Wright Oil Co. of Big Spring; D.W. Overman, an employee at Sid Richardson Carbon Co. whose son, Brent Overman, is a fireman; Jim Hicks, a nurse's aide at the Big Spring State Hospital; and Don Mobley, a former employee of Trailways Bus Service.

"I read a copy of the article, and I can see no reason why the council voted against it," Carey said.

Post offices

"We had good luck with them," he said. "Most are opposed to the closing of the post offices in their districts. They thought it would hurt the postal system all around."

The recommendation by the Grace Commission lists a savings of $272 million over the next three years. But despite such a strong recommendation, Hardesty said he Carey already has stated he favored state civil service.

Russell said he had checked with the cities of Midland and San Angelo, which operate under state civil service. "I see the costs to the city will be minimal and the advantages would be at a maximum," Russell said.

Overman, who worked 20 years for the city, said he favored the state laws because the city had no grievance committee when he worked there. "I had grievances, but they had no grievance committee," he said.

He said he quit working for the city's water department after being pressured by his boss. He was unable to go to the city manager or the mayor to have the situation corrected, he said.

Mobley, who said he has been in a union for 23 years, claimed part of the costs listed in a city study of civil service already were in the city budget.

Hicks said civil service would prevent "rule by one man."

Johnny Rutherford, who joined incumbents Smith and McEwen in opposing the issue, said he did not want the council to lose its authority over the fire department.

"We have a home rule charter," Rutherford said. "I don't want decisions about Big Spring made in Austin. I don't want to have to lobby for amendments that would have a positive effect on the department. I don't want to have to lobby against amendments that could hurt the department."

"Civil service laws made in Austin could impact Big Spring, Texas, differently than Abilene. If our community is not in (as) sound economic condition as other cities, we would still have to bear the brunt," Rutherford said.

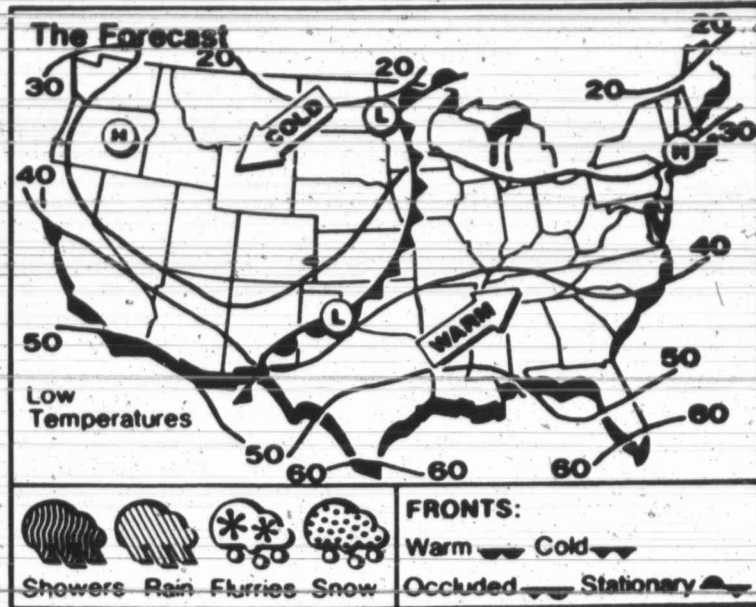

Of the candidates present at the forum, only Manuel Arsiaga remained neutral on the issue. "I don't want to make any promises to any group. There are a lot of questions unanswered and a lot of issues, he said.

does not foresee any "wholesale closures."

"It is the dedication of these people serving their communities that is important," he said. "Most are women working at minimum wage. And they do the town a service."

And the postman's creed may have to add another element to its list — "Neither snow nor rain nor the Grace Commission...."

Council actions tabbed 'legal'

Big Spring City Council members did not take any illegal actions when they commissioned city staff to conduct a study of the pros and cons of the civil service issue, an attorney with the Texas Secretary of State's office in Austin said today.

According to the secretary of state's office spokesman, Charles Evans, the city was allowed to conduct the study, to pass a resolution against the issue and to give the study to others.

What the city is prohibited from doing, under Section 14.09c of the state election code, is spending money to defeat the issue or to pay for an advertisement using the study, Evans said.

"It's a tricky issue," he said.

A councilman could take an ad out as an individual and oppose the issue, but if he spent more than $100 than he would have to file a campaign contribution report, Evans said.

Section 14.07 of the election code, quoted in Thursday's paper, was repealed when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that business corporations could spend money to oppose or support issues, but not candidates, he said.

The section would not have applied to municipal corporations, but only to business corporations, Evans said.

Food prices skyrocket

WASHINGTON — The steepest food price rise in six months drove consumer costs up 0.3 percent last month, the government said today. Analysts blamed the devastating Florida freeze as the main culprit.

Gasoline prices fell 2.5 percent in February and were 4.7 percent below the level of a year ago. Industry watchers say, however, that the three-month trend has turned around and prices at the pump will continue rising in the coming weeks.

Coupled with the 0.2 percent overall gain in January, the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index so far this year has risen a moderate 3.3 percent at an annual rate.

This compares with a 4 percent rise last year. Analysts expect inflation will run at the same pace for all of 1985, giving Americans their fourth straight year of moderate inflation.

Robot kills employee

ATLANTA — Government safety experts are calling for new approaches to work with assembly-line robots following the nation's first death of a worker injured by one of the machines.

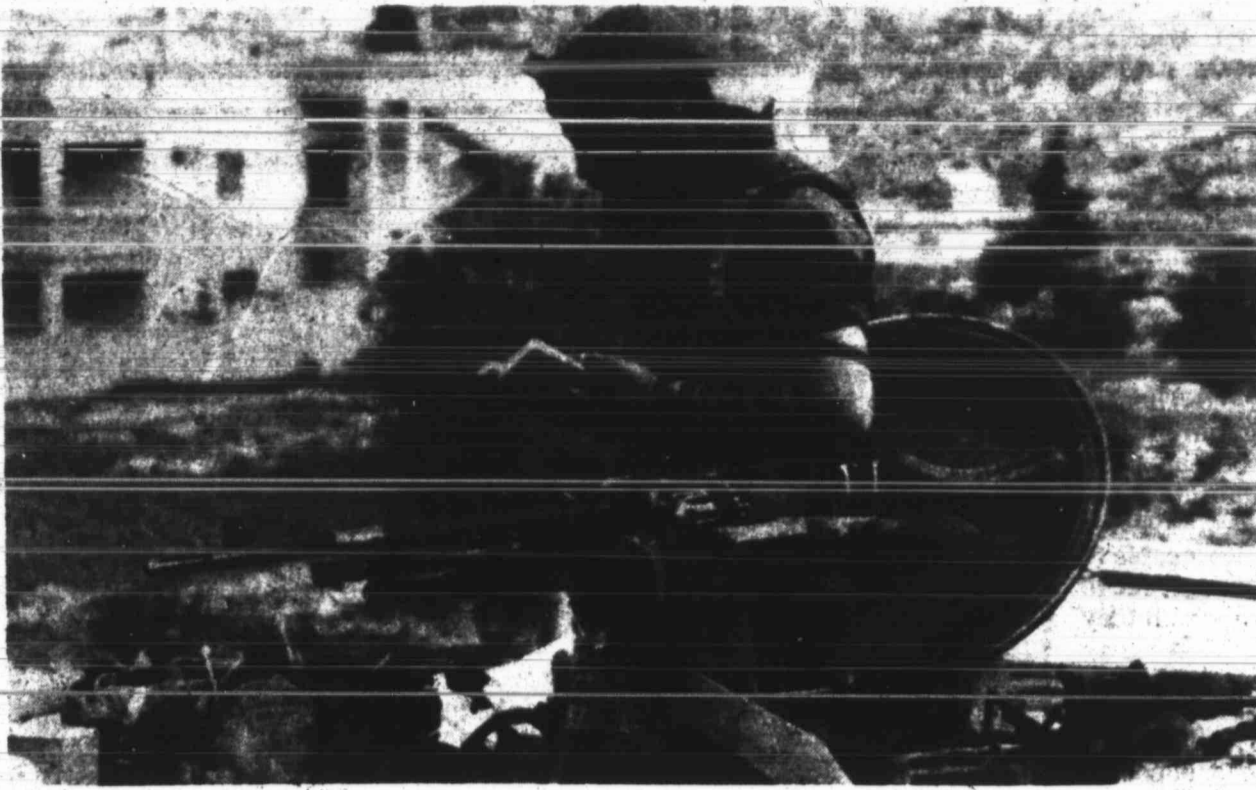

A 34-year-old man, working with automated die-casting machinery last July, was pinned between the back end of a robot and a steel pole, the national Centers for Disease Control reported. The man suffered a heart attack, lapsed into a coma and died five days later.

He has been identified as Harry Allen of Pleasant Lake, Mich., an employee of the Diecast Corp.

Goetz's true confession

NEW YORK — Bernhard Goetz says he was afraid and his "reaction was appropriate" when he shot four youths on a subway train after one demanded $5, but he added in a taped interview with authorities: "I knew in my heart (I) was a murderer."

Segments from the interview, the audio portion of a videotape made when Goetz was questioned by police in New Hampshire, where he surrendered after the Dec. 22 shooting, were broadcast for the first time on ABC's "20/20" program on Thursday night.

Newsman silenced

CBS TV crew members gunned down by Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres said today that two CBS television crew members killed by Israeli tank fire in south Lebanon "took position" among armed men and were killed because Israeli soldiers were trying to protect themselves.

In a letter to CBS News President Edward M. Joyce, Peres rejected Joyce's charges that a soundman and a cameraman working for the network were killed in "what eyewitnesses call an unprovoked and deliberate attack."

A French journalist who witnessed the incident said the troops "knew exactly that they were journalists." The two crew members, Tafik Ghazawi, 47, and soundman Bahije Metni, 37, both Lebanese citizens who worked as free-lancers for CBS, were killed Thursday while they were covering military action at the Shiite Moslem village of Kfar Malke near the coastal city of Sidon, on the Lebanese side of Israel's front line in south Lebanon.

Israel was conducting raids on Shiite Moslem villages as part of a campaign aimed at quelling a growing number of attacks against its soldiers in south Lebanon.

The CBS employees "took position in the midst of a group of armed men who were engaged in active hostility" against Israeli forces, Peres said in his letter to Joyce. The letter was released by the prime minister's office.

The Israeli tank crew "did not deviate from the strict orders concerning the protection of innocent bystanders," the letter said.

"I reiterate Israel's long-standing and unqualified commitment to freedom of the press and totally reject any suggestion that the incident was anything but a derivative of the tragic situation in Lebanon and the circumstances under which we are forced to carry out our duty to protect the lives of our soldiers," he said.

He expressed "deep sorrow" at the deaths and sent condolences to the families and to the network.

Iraq reports air raid

Iraq reported that its jet fighters raided three Iranian cities today. Iran said the attackers were driven off by anti-aircraft fire, and warned Iraq that an Iranian missile was aimed at Iraq's capital of Baghdad and would soon be fired.

Iraq also said its warplanes raided "a very large naval target" about 4 p.m. today in the Persian Gulf near Iran's key oil terminal at Kharg Island.

The Gulf News Agency quoted an Iraqi military spokesman as saying the planes inflicted "a strong and effective hit" on the target and returned home safely.

USSR agrees to detente

MOSCOW — The official news agency Tass, in an unusually lengthy report, says the Soviet Union is ready for a return to detente, the policy of peaceful superpower coexistence that developed during the 1970s.

However, Tass did not report any change in the Kremlin's position on arms control, reiterating the Soviets' strong opposition to U.S. research into a space-based missile defense system.

The Tass report covered the first known meeting of the ruling Politburo since Mikhail S. Gorbachev became Communist Party chief.

British stage actor dies

LONDON — Sir Michael Redgrave's death was a "cruel loss to the theater," says Sir Laurence Olivier, a fellow giant of Britain's stage and screen, who joined co-stars, critics and others in remembering the knighted master.

Redgrave died Thursday, one day after his 77th birthday, in a nursing home in Denham, west of London. His son, Corin, was by his bedside, said Redgrave's agent, Anne Hutton.

Commission to review police killings

White-minority government urges investigation into 18 slayings

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Under fire at home and abroad, the white-minority government appointed a judicial commission today to urgently investigate the police killings of 18 black protesters who were marching to attend a funeral.

Opponents of the white-minority government voiced outrage over the shooting deaths. "I am deeply shocked by this tragedy. It would appear that police fired indiscriminately into an unarmed crowd," said Helen Suzman, veteran member of the white Progressive Federal Party.

Law and Order Minister Louis le Grange said President P.W. Botha had approved the formation of a judicial commission to "investigate all the circumstances" of the police shootings and to report urgently to the government.

Police spokesman Lt. Henry Beck said in the capital Pretoria that one more body was discovered, raising the death toll to 18, and that 23 of 29 wounded were in hospitals. Beck said 12 of those killed were men, three women and three children.

It was the bloodiest single incident in a year of racial unrest in South Africa that has left 244 dead in protests against white-minority rule. The shootings came on the 25th anniversary of a similar police volley of gunfire in Sharpeville that left 69 protesters dead.

Police said the homes of nine black policemen in Uitenhage's townships were damaged by gasoline bombs during the night, but that no one was injured. Black police and township council members, often viewed by blacks as collaborators with the government, have been targets of increasing attacks.

Le Grange said the 3,000 to 4,000 blacks in Uitenhage's Langa township knew they were marching illegally Thursday toward a white area.

The demonstrators were bound for Kwanobuhle, Uitenhage's other black township, to attend a vigil for three people killed in a clash with police 10 days ago, and had to pass through a white area to get there. Le Grange said they were led by a man dressed in black carrying a brick.

"The fact that many people were armed with stones, sticks, bricks and even petrol (gasoline) bombs makes it clear that they were not a peaceful crowd of mourners on their way to a funeral," le Grange said.

Le Grange told Parliament the crowd refused a police order to turn back and then began stoning and throwing gasoline bombs at a contingent of 19 policemen. He said police were surrounded and had no choice but to open fire.

The Rand Daily Mail newspaper in Johannesburg quoted eyewitnesses as saying "they did not see any provocation by the crowd prior to the police opening fire."

One unidentified man said, "A long black column was moving forward. All seemed peaceful. Then there was chaos and shooting and people screaming."

A woman said, "It was a peaceful march. The people were walking down Maduna Street, singing, before they were confronted by police." Uitenhage's mayor, Joseph Kitching, and business leaders in the area near the Indian Ocean city of Port Elizabeth called for urgent consultations with black leaders to defuse tensions.

The Azanian Students Organization, an anti-apartheid group, asked: "What we want to know from the Botha government is whether it has become illegal to protest peacefully against apartheid."

The shootings occurred on the first day of a two-day general strike in Uitenhage called to protest restrictions on funerals for riot victims and other grievances. Companies reported nearly all black workers stayed home Thursday and today.

Hard questions for physicians

When physicians at the University of Arizona implanted an unapproved artificial heart machine in 33-year-old Thomas Creighton, they were breaking the Food and Drug Administration's rules. And the FDA's concern is not mere bureaucratic caviling. Without the extensive testing and the informed consent that the FDA's rules require in medical experiments, it would be all too easy for the most vulnerable of sick people to become human guinea pigs for medical research, subject to procedures that they do not understand and from which they will not benefit.

Even to establish a formal process for waiving the FDA's rules in emergencies — as some have suggested — would be a mistake. The whole point of these regulations is to guard against exploitation, no matter how well-intentioned, of people in desperate situations. By legitimizing shortcuts in the testing of new medical devices, the FDA, in the long run, would only undermine their safety.

All that being said, however, in a situation like the one faced by Thomas Creighton, what else were his doctors to do? The man had no hope of surviving if he were kept any longer on a heart-lung machine, awaiting a second heart transplant after his first transplanted heart failed. A temporary artificial heart implant was the only chance of saving him, and the only artificial heart available in time was the inadequately tested and unapproved Phoenix heart that Creighton's doctor finally used.

The doctors who took this risk to save a young man were as correct as the FDA officials who insisted their rules must be upheld. Indeed, both, after the event, seem to have acknowledged as much.

And that may be all the resolution there can be for this kind of dilemma. It would be as much a mistake for the FDA now to punish the Arizona doctors as for it to sanction their kind of deviation from its rules. When the ethical questions are this difficult, so are the answers.

Therapy for Dr. Strangelove

Does the fact that Washington has the most psychotherapists mean that there are more mentally deranged people here than anywhere else? The answer is probably yes.

Dr. Arnold Frisher, a noted psychiatrist who has been practicing in D.C. for 40 years, and only takes the toughest cases, maintains that something happens to people after they stay in Washington awhile.

He said, "To put it in professional terms, 50 percent are nuttier than fruitcakes."

"How do you account for it?" "Pressure, power and politics. Although most of them are normal people when they come here, it doesn't take long for them to lose all sense of reality. Let me give you an illustration. I have a patient who works for the Office of Management and Budget. He makes $28,000 a year. Every time he comes to see me he says he has just chopped another billion dollars out of a government program. Then he bites his fingernails."

"Would that make him crazy?"

"No. But on each visit he claims he's brought the money with him and wants me to put it in my safe so Congress can't get their mitts on it."

"It sounds like he's suffering from exhaustion."

"That or guilt," Dr. Frisher said. "Six months ago he took a wheelchair away from his 80-year-old mother because he said she wasn't entitled to it on Medicare."

"Why would he feel guilty about that?" I asked.

"She calls him every morning and tells him not to worry about her because her father has offered to carry her to the supermarket on his back."

"What other troubled patients do you see?"

"I have a senator who took $5 million from political action committees in the last election, but still believes he's his own man."

When smoke gets in Council's eyes

To the editor: Read your article in Sunday's paper. I'm pleased that you explained what the editorial page is all about. Opinion only. It seems there's lots of those around and here is mine.

I would like very much to read the unbiased issues on both sides of the fire fighters issue on going Civil Service. So far it seems the fire fighters are way ahead on unbiased reporting.

I think the City Council action on it was deplorable. I thought they were voted in by the people to do the people's bidding and not try to dictate to the people what to do and how to vote. They sure clouded the issue and that was wrong. I didn't understand — when the fire fighters wanted to go Civil Service in the beginning but I understand now. They don't have a voice on the council. If taxes are raised over this issue, it will be because of the council — not the fire fighters.

I for one will vote for them and hope the people of Big Spring are tired of being dictated to and give the people of Big Spring some protection they deserve. It is obvious they don't have it now. After all they are our fire protection. Think about that before you need them because of a bad fire.

We should send a clear message to City Hall that we are tired of our city going down and down. Stores are closing — people leaving town and etc. If you don't believe this drive down any street and count the empty houses and store buildings.

It is time for a change in this town and it has to be for the better.

Not only am I voting for the fire fighters I'm voting for some new council members. I hope I make the right decision and vote for some that will listen to the voters. Thank you.

Greening of the Pentagon

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon will get a few more lumps next week for the extravagant way it throws money around.

The General Accounting Office will release its long-awaited review of the Grace Commission report on waste in government.

I have joined forces with the report's principal author, J. Peter Grace, in a nationwide campaign against mismanagement in the federal government — a grass-roots effort called Citizens Against Waste.

The GAO has spent nine months reviewing the commission's recommendations. Sen. William Roth, R-Del., plans to introduce a comprehensive package of legislation based on the commission's work; Roth requested the GAO review to help him prepare the bills.

The 1,312-page GAO review, which was analyzed by my associate Tony Capaccio, generally supports the Grace Commission's criticism of Pentagon spending, but questions the commission's claim that $115 billion could be saved by changing procedures.

"Although a majority of the issues (raised by the commission) have merit, we agree with only a small percentage of the savings estimates," the GAO says, explaining that it used a "different methodology."

"Much of our disagreement stems from the way the Grace Commission handled inflation in its estimates," the GAO added.

The GAO experts concluded that 101 of the commission's 130 defense-related recommendations, of 78 percent, "had overall merit and should be considered," adding, "We disagreed with 19 issues and had insufficient information on which to develop a position on 10 issues."

In the area of weapons procurement, the GAO found that 31 issues had merit and two did not; in the logistics area, 31 of the 34 issues raised by the commission had merit.

Here are some of the simple, everyday ways the GAO and the Grace Commission agree the Pentagon could save money:

- Military parts should be designed to meet commercial standards whenever possible. "The use of military standards and specifications should be challenged" by contractors where exclusively military parts are not necessary.

- Ammunition purchasing procedures should be tightened. Though the Army buys commonly used ammo for the entire Defense Department, the other armed services have built up great layers of paper-shufflers to pass along requests to the Army, defeating the whole purpose of the combined purchasing arrangement.

- Some $20 million a year could be saved by using fiberboard containers and other cheap packaging for ammunition fired in training, where the rigors of combat storage don't exist. For example, bandoliers, stripper clips and load adaptors would be eliminated from training ammo.

- The GAO agreed with the commission's finding that the military spends too much to feed the troops. Compared with other large-scale feeding operations, the military chow lines cost 30 cents more a day per person — a potential saving of $167.3 million in three years.

- The solution to the spare parts horror stories, the GAO and the Grace Commission agree, is adoption of a "breakout" system — allowing the Pentagon to buy its spare parts directly from the subcontractors that manufacture them, instead of having to go through the prime contractor. Under the existing system, the prime contractor tacks on a handling charge, administrative overhead and profit for every part it buys from the maker and resells to the Pentagon.

The GAO reviewers said they didn't have enough information to judge the Grace Commission's claimed three-year savings of $1.3 billion from the breakout policy, but did find that "almost all aspects of the commission's proposal are practical and can be implemented within existing executive branch authority."

The GAO disagreed with the commission on one recommendation that has already drawn heavy fire: raising the age at which military personnel can retire on full pension. The GAO questioned the commission's claimed saving of $4.5 billion over three years, and warned:

"While the thrust of the Grace Commission proposals may have merit, significant reductions as recommended by the commission would seriously affect retention of military personnel."

MENGELE MILESTONE: Last Saturday was the 74th birthday of Dr. Josef Mengele, the most notorious Nazi war criminal believed to be still at large. Wherever the butcher of Auschwitz may be hiding out, he'll have less to celebrate this year than in the past. The ring is closing around him.

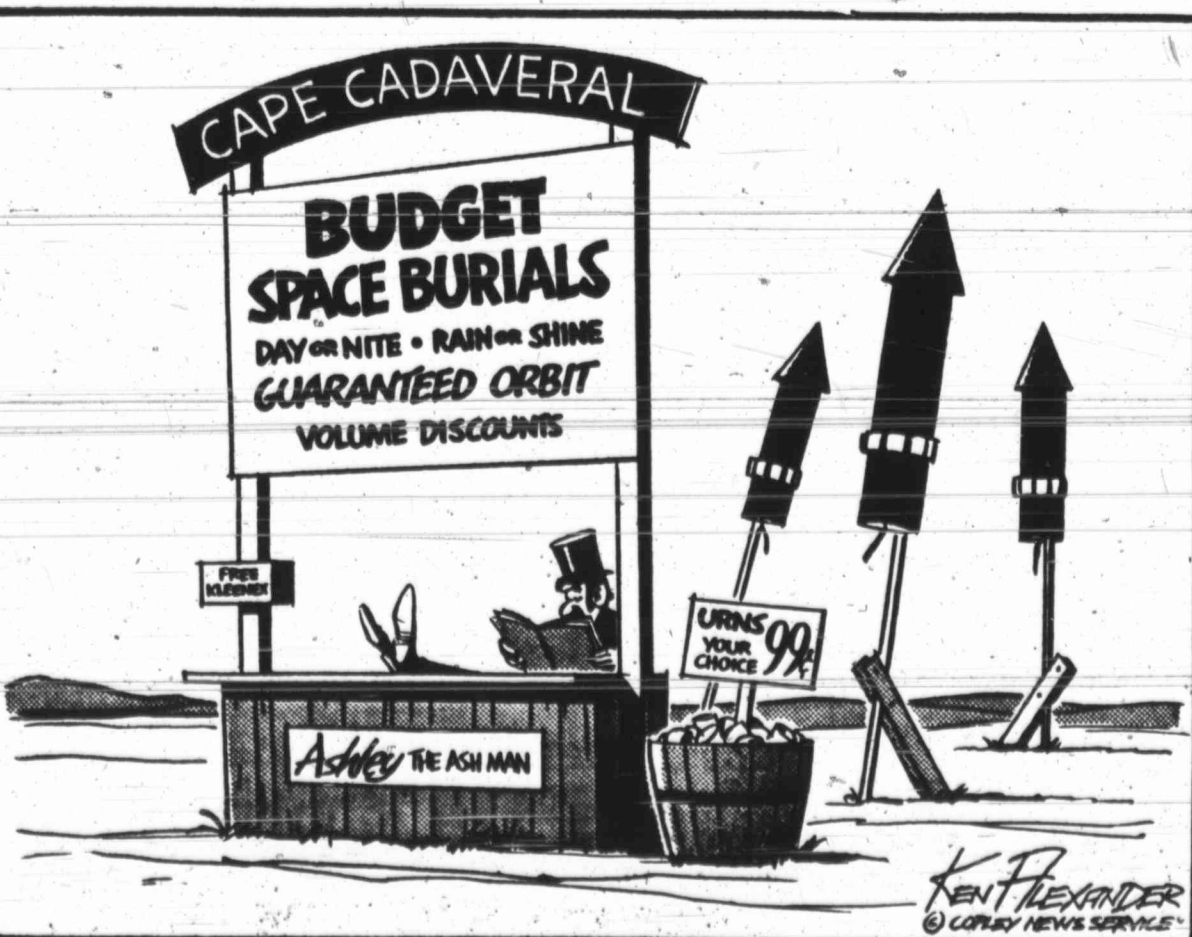

I've learned that the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, which is conducting a thorough search for Mengele, has secretly asked several governments for intelligence information that could lead to the fugitive war criminal.

The consensus is that Mengele is still hiding in the jungles of Paraguay, where he was last reported in 1982, living under the protection of the Paraguayan president, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner.

KURDS SEEK SPACE: Kurdish exiles are trying to find a place to exhibit a display of poems, quotations and pictures of their partitioned homeland to coincide with the visit of Turkish Prime Minister Turgut Ozal. For generations, the Kurds have been an oppressed minority in eastern Turkey, northern Iraq and northwestern Iran.

Vera Saeedpour, director of The Kurdish Program, Cultural Survival, Inc. tried to place the exhibit in the Capitol Rotunda two years ago, but was turned down, apparently because of the political nature of the display.

Around The Rim

Don't take a beating

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
I haven't experienced an emotional ride like that since "The Exorcist."

The sheer horror of those closing scenes in NBC's TV movie "The Burning Bed," starring Farrah Fawcett last Sunday night, kept coming back to mind throughout the week.

The movie was about a battered wife who murders her husband after experiencing 12 years of merciless beatings and mental humiliation.

Ms. Fawcett plays the role of Francine Hughes, a woman who was found not guilty by reason of temporary insanity in the murder trial that ensued.

The movie aired on KTPX-Channel 9 of Midland. The station's news staff saw a good opportunity to drill home a menacing point and aired local stories this week on battered wives in the Permian Basin area.

"We decided to run a series on battered wives because it is an issue that needs to be addressed," said Peri Tyink, one of two reporters who worked on the stories. "It seems so strange that a guy wants to batter his wife."

For Tuesday night's story, Tyink said she interviewed a woman who was willing to go before the camera and tell her story about having been beaten. Most women who suffer from their husbands beating them usually stay in hiding, Tyink said.

"A man who beats his wife suffers from a very in-depth problem of the mind," Tyink said. "Maybe these men have lower intelligences."

Tyink said she wished she and reporter Mary Milz could have covered more in-depth the subject of wife beatings. When you hear statements like that from reporters about their stories, you know they're into their work.

The special series also touched on how kids are affected who witness their mommies getting beaten, legal steps a woman can take, and where they can reach for help.

Tyink said that less than 20 percent of beaten women ask for help, and studies indicate that 80 percent of the men who beat their wives have a little alcohol in their bloodstream.

Women in our area have outlets to reach for help. The Rev. Victor Sedinger of the First Christian Church said the Rape Crisis Services and the Salvation Army provide assistance to battered women.

They don't provide treatment facilities, Sedinger said, but employ a safe house program that entails moving a battered victim to a place of secrecy.

Sounds good to me. Battered wives don't have to hide in the closet anymore.

We know you exist. And you don't have to withstand it anymore.

Opinion expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Today is Friday, March 22, the 81st day of 1985. There are 284 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On March 22, 1765, England enacted the Stamp Act to raise money from the American colonies. The Act set off such a strong protest that it was repealed the following year.

On this date: In 1621, the Pilgrims concluded a treaty with the Wampanoag Indians at Plymouth, Massachusetts. The agreement remained in effect for half a century.

In 1622, some 350 colonists were massacred by Indians at Jamestown, Va.

In 1638, religious dissident Anne Hutchinson was expelled from the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

In 1794, Congress passed a law prohibiting American vessels from supplying slaves to other countries.

In 1820, U.S. naval hero Stephen Decatur was killed in a duel with Commodore James Barron near Washington D.C.

In 1882, Congress outlawed polygamy.

In 1894, hockey's first Stanley Cup game was played.

Dear Abby

Firemen refused to fight fire

DEAR ABBY: What a strange coincidence! On the same day you printed a letter signed "Grateful in Millsboro, Del.," praising the heroism of volunteer firemen, this Associated Press item appeared, datelined Salem, Ark.:

"Volunteer firefighters refused to fight a fire that destroyed Anthony Brazil's $150,000 house and killed the family dog because they said he had not paid $20 in annual fees.

"They just sat there and watched it burn. We have nothing left but the clothes on our backs and our cars," Brazil said.

"The chief of Salem's volunteer fire department, Ronnie Courtney, said, 'We've had a policy for a number of years. If you're not a member, we don't fight the fire. The fire association charges $250 to put out a fire, but the fire victim must be a member whose $20 annual dues are paid.'

"Brazil and his wife were at church when Brazil's brothers discovered the blaze Sunday morning. Courtney said flames were coming out of windows when firefighters arrived in three trucks, staying near the house to make sure the fire didn't spread.

"Neighbors offered to pay the $20 and the additional $250 if the department would fight the fire, but the firefighters refused.

"The firefighters were just standing around. As a matter of fact, they were out hosing their new fire truck down in the street to keep it clean, said Barney Taylor, a member of the church the Brazils attend."

PETER W. MANY JR.,
NEW ORLEANS

DEAR PETER: Thanks for sending the item. I received several from other parts of the country. I cannot understand how any person could justify the actions of the Salem, Ark., volunteer firefighters.

If their chief, Ronnie Courtney, or any of the volunteer firefighters who stood by refusing to fight a fire that destroyed a house and killed a family dog has anything to say in their defense, please write. I will be glad to print it.

DEAR ABBY: Who was the wise soul who wrote, "Any woman who will accept attention from a married man — no matter how lonely, misunderstood, henpecked, mistreated, neglected or unhappy he claims to be — is stupid, cruel, cheap, dishonest and shortsighted?"

BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE: I did.

Sickness threatens voyage

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you help me save a vacation? My husband is giving me a lovely ocean trip and I want to enjoy it and not be a disappointment to him. I am inclined to be seasick. Is there anything new to help prevent it? I have some seasick pills that have been around for several years. I am afraid they will just make me sleepy. Will appreciate any suggestions. — L.B.F.

First let me suggest that you get rid of those pills if they've been hanging round for years. You'll need a fresh supply.

Motion sickness can, in fact, sometimes be overcome without medicines. Being well rested before starting the trip can help. Motion sickness comes on when the body can't cope with the jumble of new types of messages it's getting from its "radar stations" in the inner brain and eyes. A body taxed from fatigue of vacation preparations is less capable of coming to terms with the new sensations.

Nor is one trying to digest large amounts of rich foods disposed to weather new pressures. So don't even eat heavily prior to or during your trip. If you feel sickness coming on, lie down and close your eyes.

Most of the seasickness medicines will, as you say, cause drowsiness, but for some that's a side effect considered part of the price of feeling well. The antihistamine drugs, like cyclizine, demenhydrinate, and meclizine, are helpful, but remember that these are preventive drugs, so they don't help once you are sick. Follow dosage directions for best effect.

Scopolamine is a form of a little disc you stick on the skin behind the ear for continuous transdermal delivery of anti-sickness medicine. But it can cause dry mouth, blurred vision, and drowsiness, as well. Check with your doctor before leaving. He can suggest which medicines he feels will help you most. Bon voyage.

First Christian names its first woman elder

ERMA DUNNE ...named elder

By KIM KIRKHAM
Religion Editor

The honor of elder has been bestowed on Erma Dunne by the congregation of the First Christian Church. She is the first woman to hold this position at the church.

"There was a vacancy and the vacancy had to be filled and so the board chairperson, Janice Rosson, nominated Erma," said the Rev. Victor Sedinger, pastor First Christian Church. "In that situation, it requires approval by the official board, which they gave unanimously."

"When named elder, 'I was wondering if I was really worthy, but very pleased' said Mrs. Dunne. 'It's an honor, and I hope I can do the job.'"

"She's exhibited a great deal of spiritual leadership. I feel that by her appointment as an elder, the congregation is showing an affirmation of the gifts God has given her for the ministry," said Sedinger.

"Anything I'm asked to do, I'll try to do," says Mrs. Dunne. She currently is serving on the membership committee. She was a deaconess from 1981 to 1984 and has been the chairperson of the World Outreach Program for 3 years.

"I love working with youth. They're just all such an active bunch of kids and they make you get enthused," said Mrs. Dunne.

For 3 1/2 years as their sponsor on retreats to Brownwood, she also sponsors the youth department on Sunday nights, which includes junior high and high school students.

"When my youngest son was little, I taught the two and three year old Sunday School," she said. Mrs. Dunne also was in charge of the nursery.

She is employed by the Veterans Administration Medical Center and performs alterations for two local dress-shops. Her hobby is ceramics.

"It seems like I'm always (at the church)," says Mrs. Dunne. But "I'm just lost without my church."

Trustees OK leave policy

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Big Spring school trustees Thursday approved a revised personal leave policy for local teachers and okayed an administration list of recommended teacher hirings for 1985-86.

Under the new personal leave policy, the district will provide two days of personal leave a year with no accumulation. Previously, the district allowed three days of personal leave.

Under the old policy, teachers had to pay the cost of a substitute for all days they were gone on personal leave. Under the new policy, the district will pay for the cost of a substitute for the first day.

Personal leave guidelines were changed after a request by the local Classroom Teachers Association. Guy Griffith, president of that group, said he was pleased with the new proposal.

"I think it is a good, fair proposal," Griffith said.

In other business, trustees approved 87 teachers for contract renewal at Big Spring High School. Also approved were 43 teachers at Goliad Middle School, 26 teachers at Runnels Junior High, 22 at Bauer Magnet School, 15 at Goliad, nine at Kentwood and five at Lakeview.

At Marcy, 28 teachers were approved for renewal, 18 at Moss and 17 at Washington.

Trustees also approved extending the contracts of 15 special service personnel, 10 special education support staff and two teachers in the Head Start Program.

Two teachers were recommended for employment to be reassigned due to reduction in force.

On behalf of the Big Spring Steer band, Steve Waggoner discussed an upcoming spring tour. Because a number of students are on probation for poor grades during this six-week grading period, Waggoner was asked if the band could participate in a marching contest during the tour.

Waggoner said he and Ricky Mitchell, band director, had developed "a tutoring system on our own...to encourage kids on their grades." Should the students get their grades up by April 19, then they would all be eligible for the tour in May.

Trustees approved a request for the band to attend the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo and the Canon City, Colo., Jaycees' Music and Blossom Festival. Students would miss school Friday, May 3, and Monday, May 6.

In other business: Trustees voted on the board of directors for the Region 18 Education Service Center.

Approved a number of non-University Interscholastic League organizations for student absences.

Approved an early dismissal day March 27 so teachers may prepare for an upcoming review by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Approved a low bid of $22,000 for a lighting system upgrade at Memorial Stadium from Bailey Electric, Big Spring; and a low bid of $13,264 for eight water color units from Snook and Aderton of Lubbock.

Approved recommendations by a local textbook committee. Books approved will be used on a six-year cycle beginning in the fall.

Trustees made no announcements following a closed session with their attorney, Guilford Jones, concerning action on a recent discrimination lawsuit the district lost in Lubbock's Federal Court.

CITATION
STATE OF TEXAS
TO: JAMES AUSTIN HARRINGTON, a/k/a TERRY MCKEE Defendant in the cause herein described.

GREETINGS:
"YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear and answer before the Honorable District Court, 118th Judicial District, Howard County, Texas, at the Courthouse of said county in Big Spring, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock a.m. on the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance hereof, being at or before 10:00 A.M. on Monday, the 29th day of Apr., 1985, then and there to answer the petition of PERCY FOREMAN and HARVILL, HARDY & MILUTIN VS. JAMES AUSTIN HARRINGTON a/k/a TERRY MCKEE in which PERCY FOREMAN AND HARVILL, HARDY & MILUTIN are Plaintiffs and JAMES AUSTIN HARRINGTON a/k/a TERRY MCKEE is Defendant. The said Petition filed in said Court on the 21st day of Feb. 1985, discloses that the nature of said suit is as follows:
The Defendant entered into written contract with the Plaintiffs for representation in a cause of action against Long Star Steel Company because of injuries sustained by the Defendant in an accident in April, 1980.
Defendant authorized the Plaintiff to prosecute his claim to final judgment and agreed to pay Plaintiff 50% of any judgment or settlement of such claim. The claim was prosecuted to settlement wherein the Defendant executed a Release Compromise Settlement dated March 22, 1983. The Defendant subsequently refused to endorse the settlement check thus breaching the contract between Defendant and Plaintiff. Plaintiffs were unable to obtain legal compensation for legal services rendered and had requested that Defendant pay the same and Defendant has refused to pay the same or sign the settlement check.
Plaintiffs bring this action to recover the full contract price of $19,430.00 and the costs and expenses incurred by Plaintiffs as a result of prosecution of Defendant's law suit in the sum of $22,816.74.
Plaintiffs further request that the Court order the Defendant to endorse the settlement check so that funds may be disbursed according to the prescribed contract.
If this citation is not served within 90 days after date of its issuance, it shall be returned unsealed and GIVEN UNDER MY HAND THE SEAL OF SAID COURT on this 13th day of Mar., 1985, at Big Spring, Howard County, Texas.

Memphis State forward KEITH LEE drives the ball around ROGER McCREEDY of Boston College Thursday night in the NCAA Midwest Regional in Dallas. Memphis St. won the game 59-57.

Sooners, MSU win thrillers

DALLAS (AP) — Boston College's 59-57 defeat to Memphis State Thursday night was "probably the toughest loss I've ever had," Eagles Coach Gary Williams said.

After battling back from a 12-point deficit to tie the score, Boston College mishandled an inbound pass with 14 seconds left, enabling 5-10 Andre Turner to hit a 17 footer, sending Memphis State into Saturday's Midwest Regional Final against Oklahoma.

"We did a good job of getting the ball in-bounds. We just lost it. It still took a great shot to beat us. We were trying to get the ball into Michael (Adams)," Williams said.

"We wanted to do the same thing we did against Texas Tech at Houston last week in the same situation, and we won that game."

Turner hit a similar game-winning shot last weekend that provided Memphis State a 67-66 overtime win over Alabama-Birmingham.

"I was confident," Turner said. "Vince (Askew) made the steal and penetrated low then dished it out to me. I knew there wasn't much time left on the clock and that we were either going to win it or go into overtime."

Keith Lee, MSU's All-American forward was scoreless at the half, after getting into foul trouble and finished with only eight points.

But 7-foot, sophomore-center Bill Bedford, responded with a career-high 23 points as the Tigers opened up a 53-41 lead with 9:09 to play.

But, Boston College outscored the Tigers 12-0 over the next 3:19 to tie the game with 5:50 left on the clock.

"We were 12 points ahead but started playing like we were behind," MSU Coach Dana Kirk said.

"But Boston College is just that kind of ball club. They always come back when they get behind. They came back with great play," Kirk said.

Adams, BC's 5-11, point guard said, "We played like that all year. ... teams that are supposed to be better than us ... When we get a little (behind), we start scrapping, and that's when we're our best."

Oklā. 86, La. Tech 84

DALLAS (AP) — Wayman Tisdale said that when he turned in heavy traffic and threw up a short jumper with time running out in overtime, his first thought was he had missed it.

"When I saw it hit the rim the last time and fall back in, I almost did a flip," said the 6-9, 250-pound, Oklahoma All American.

Tisdale's basket with three seconds to play lifted Oklahoma to an 86-84 victory over Louisiana Tech Thursday night and put them in Saturday's Midwest Regional finals.

Tisdale's shot bounced on the rim five times before dropping in. It gave him 23 points for the night, including eight of his team's 12 points in overtime.

"I thought — 'in, out, in' — that's exactly what I thought," said a disappointed Louisiana Tech coach, Andy Russo, whose team had fought back from a 68-60 deficit with 4:25 to play.

Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs said he felt his team turned passive after Tisdale and two other players got into foul trouble.

The Bulldogs fought back behind the play of 6-5 junior guard Willie Bland and 6-2 senior guard Alan Davis. Bland scored twice and Davis three times in the Bulldogs' late rally, with Bland coming up with two key steals.

"We were down several points and just never could get ahead," Russo said. "They have a heck of a team. That shot hung on the rim for about 10 minutes. But you have to give him (Tisdale) credit. He wanted the ball, and when he got it, he turned around and knocked it in."

Karl Malone, whose inside play helped Louisiana Tech to an eight-point lead in the first half, said, "We wanted it as bad as they did. We just came up short. We were down by 10 and came back, but we've been doing it all year like that."

Russo said he was confident going into overtime, because his team had the momentum and they'd won the last eight times they'd been in overtime.

Hoyas, Ga. Tech to meet in East finals

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Mark Price took some extra target practice because his marksmanship had been slipping, and it paid off for Georgia Tech Thursday night even against the defensive prowess of Illinois.

Price bombed away from outside, with teammates Yvon Joseph and John Salley scoring from inside, as the sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets rode a second-half explosion to a 61-53 victory over the 12-ranked Illini in the NCAA East Regional semifinals.

"I went to Providence College on Wednesday and practiced shooting for 30 minutes," said Price. "I got my shot back. It sure helped today."

A 49 percent shooter throughout the season, Price had made just 11 of 27 field goal attempts in his first two tournament games. But he sank nine of 12 Thursday night and led Georgia Tech with 20 points.

Illinois' defense was second in the nation in allowing opponents to hit just 41.5 percent of their field goal attempts. Only three teams had shot better than 50 percent against the Illini during the season, but the Yellow Jackets connected on 56.4 percent of their shots.

"It was hard to cover Price," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson. "He was the key to the game. He hurt us early. He hurt us all game."

Consecutive long jumpers by Price capped a 13-2 surge that boosted Georgia Tech to a 52-37 lead with 7:02 remaining. Then, Illinois' Doug Altenberger picked up where Price left off, scoring his team's next 14 points, mostly on deep shots.

"We got cold, they got hot and we hung on for dear life," said Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins. "We had a breakdown. Altenberger put on a show. I always thought Mark Price was the greatest shooter in college basketball, but Altenberger made me consider him."

But Illinois could come no closer than four points and was hurt throughout the game by turnovers. The Illini had 19 to just 14 for Georgia Tech.

"We did not handle the ball that well," Henson said. "Not to take anything away from Tech, but I thought only one player, Doug Altenberger, played up to par. We never really quite got it going."

Hoyas 65, Loyola 53

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — All-American Patrick Ewing's strong second half led top-ranked Georgetown to a hard-fought 65-53 victory over Loyola of Chicago Thursday night that snapped the nation's longest winning streak at 19 games and put the Hoyas in the NCAA East Regional finals.

The Hoyas, 33-2, who rolled to their 14th consecutive triumph, will face sixth-ranked Georgia Tech in Saturday's regional final. The Yellow Jackets defeated Illinois 61-53 in Thursday night's other semifinal.

The 7-foot Ewing scored 14 of his 21 points in the second half and was a dominant force with his rebounding and shot-blocking after limping off the court with 1:25 to play in the first half with an ankle injury.

The defending NCAA champion Hoyas, known for their relentless defense, held Loyola's scoring sensation, Alfredrick Hughes, to eight points. He entered the game with a 26.9 average, second in the nation, and had hit in double figures in 94 consecutive games.

Hughes, a 6-5 senior forward, picked up three personal fouls early in the first half and sat out the last 10:02. Yet, the Ramblers gave the Hoyas trouble and led at halftime 28-26.

Georgetown, the Big East Conference tournament champion, still trailed 38-36 early in the second half as Hughes found the range for two baskets. But Georgetown went on a 8-0 run with Ewing contributing six points to give the Hoyas a 44-38 advantage with 13:17 to play.

But Loyola, 27-6, didn't go down easily as Andre Moore, a 6-9 center operating from the outside, hit a three-point play to reduce the Ramblers' deficit to 46-43. That was the closest Loyola, the Midwestern Cities Conference champion could get as Ewing continued to be a force from the inside and Georgetown spread out its offense, taking just the easy shots.

Still, the Hoyas led only 56-51 with a little more than four minutes remaining but Georgetown outscored the Ramblers 9-2 the rest of the way.

David Wingate added 14 points for Georgetown while Moore had 19 and Andre Battle 10 for Loyola.

Suns down Portland; playoff hopes alive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The race for the remaining Western Conference playoff berths is on and Portland Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay says it was no time for his club to be off.

Kyle Macy scored 24 points and rookie Jay Humphries had 11 of his 19 in the pivotal fourth period as the Phoenix Suns beat Portland 114-104 Thursday night.

The victory moved Phoenix (32-38) to within a game of the second-place Trail Blazers (33-37) in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division standings. Detroit defeated Golden State 122-113 in the only other game Thursday night.

Behind 75-74 after the third quarter, Phoenix tied the score at 77-77 on Macy's three-point play with 11:26 left.

Mike Sanders, playing for only the second time since suffering a knee injury in November, then sank a layin and a free throw sandwiched around a Michael Holton jumper in a 44-second span to give the Suns the lead for good at 82-77 with 10:18 to go.

Ten points from Humphries and seven from Macy made it 108-93 with 2:48 remaining to seal the victory and stop Phoenix's four-game losing skid.

"It was a win we had to have if we're going to stay in this race," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "Macy and Humphries gave us a good solid game."

Maurice Lucas finished with 17 points and rookie Charles Jones had 14 points and 12 rebounds for Phoenix.

Pistons 122, Warriors 113 ..

Isiah Thomas made a 12-foot jump shot and two free throws in the final minute to seal Detroit's victory, the first in five road games for the struggling Pistons. Thomas finished with 19 assists as well as 19 points, behind Kelly Tripucka's 26 points and 20 apiece by Bill Laimbeer and John Long. Purvis Short led the Warriors with 29 points.

Long Beach upsets Women of Troy

By Associated Press
The Long Beach State women's basketball team was nearly perfect, and it had to be to beat Southern Cal.

"We were really ready tonight," said Long Beach Coach John Bonvicini after Thursday night's 75-72 victory over the defending national champions in the NCAA women's tournament. "We started off the game very strong and had good transition play."

The victory keyed regional play Thursday night that saw Georgia swamp UCLA 78-42 in the other West Regional game, and Ohio State defeat Penn State 81-78 and Old Dominion trim North Carolina State 77-57 in the East.

Regional play continues tonight as Tennessee plays Mississippi and Texas faces Western Kentucky in the Mideast Regionals at Bowling Green, Ky., and Auburn takes on Northeast Louisiana and Louisiana Tech plays San Diego State in the Midwest at Monroe, La.

Kirsten Cummings scored 20 points to lead Long Beach State over Southern California. Long Beach State outscored the defending champions 25-2 during an 11-minute span in the first half and then held off Southern Cal's furious rally in the final minutes.

"In the first 20 minutes we couldn't do anything right and Long Beach could do nothing wrong," said Southern Cal Coach Linda Sharp, whose team had won the NCAA title the last two years.

"In the second half, we were much better and played an aggressive style defense. In the first half, we were way off in our execution and rebounding. We only shot 28 percent in the first half compared to 67 percent for Long Beach. That's why we were so far behind."

"I'm really proud how we got back in the game. It showed a lot of character and pride."

In the other West Regional semifinal game at Los Angeles, Teresa Edwards scored a game-high 21 points to pace the eighth-ranked Georgia Lady Bulldogs to

HUTCHINSON, an. (AP) — Averian Parrish powered Dixie College into the National Junior College Athletic Association men's basketball championship semifinal round with a 19-point performance Thursday night as the Rebels mark gave Dixie a 74-72 lead and the Rebels never trailed thereafter.

Dixie, 33-1, also got 16 points apiece from Dan Bell and Brent Stephenson. Erie was led by Blaine Russell's 23 points.

Midland advanced into the semifinal round using an 11-0 spurt late in the second half to stymie an Allegany rally.

Midland, 31-4, held a slim 34-28 lead at the break and then extended that advantage to 44-30 early in the second period before Allegany trimmed the lead to seven, 61-54, with 6:25 to play.

In Thursday's consolation games, Casper, Wyo. defeated DeKalb-South, Ga., 65-63; Shelby State of Tennessee got past Chattanooga Valley of Alabama 96-93 and Westark of Arkansas downed Hinds of Mississippi 76-69.

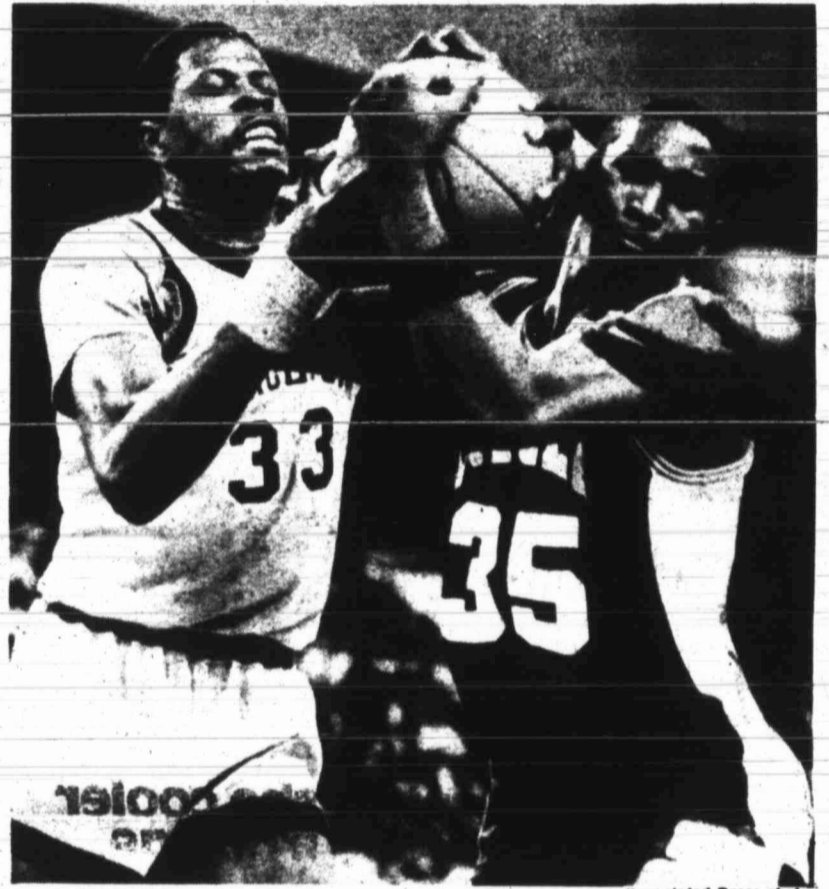

But Midland then scored the next 11 points to put the game out of reach. The Chapparals, who shot 69 percent from the floor for the game, got 27 points from Tevin Binns.

Parrish scored 15 points in the second half as the Rebels, who posted a 45-37 halftime advantage, had to fight off an Erie rally. Erie of New York, 31-5, reeled off 13 unanswered points early in the second period to trim Dixie's lead to 52-49 with 14:43 to play.

Allegany, 32-4, was led by William Stuart's 17 points.

In today's consolation games, Kaskaskia, Ill. plays Shelby, Tenn., while Casper takes on Westark. The winners will meet for seventh place Saturday afternoon.
