A flame burns brightly at Cosden Oil and Chemical Friday as workers at the plant prepared to resume production. The flame was absent for several days following a spectacular fire in March.

Cosden to resume production

Production at the Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. refinery in Big Spring should resume, at least in a limited capacity, this weekend, an American Petrofina Co. spokesman in Dallas said Friday.

"We are planning on going ahead with production this weekend," said Mark Palmer, a public relations assistant with American Petrofina in Dallas.

Cosden is a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina. The maximum capacity the plant will resume this weekend is 20,000 barrels a day, one-third of the refinery's normal daily capacity before a spectacular fire March 26 destroyed part of the crude inlet system, Palmer said.

"We want to at least get back in limited production," Palmer said.

Production at the crude processing unit, however, will not resume this weekend, Palmer said. That unit, damaged heavily by the fire, will not resume operations until full-scale production occurs, probably in six to eight weeks, he said.

The company still has not obtained dollar figures on the damage estimate from its insurance ad-justors, he said. "We probably won't get those until they take apart the crude processing unit and find out what we can salvage," Palmer said.

The blaze, which sent fireballs bursting more than 80 feet into the air, destroyed the electrical wiring and instrumentation, including the computer, of the crude oil inlet system, Cosden public relations director Ross Westbrook said after the fire.

Although the Big Spring refinery is expected to resume partial production this weekend, delivery of refinery products to suppliers will remain on an allocation basis, Palmer said.

Until the refinery resumes production, Cosden will be drawing on pipelines from north of the Big Spring area for its suppliers, he said.

Workers have continued to report to work for their usual shifts, where they have worked to clean up and prepare the plant to start production, according to plant officials.

No employees were laid off temporarily during the time production has been stopped, according to plant manager Wally Whittington.

Phase I repairs unveiled

Architects with the Lubbock firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper will present plans for the first phase of renovation of the Municipal Auditorium at the next city council meeting.

According to firm architect Dennis Clayton, the firm will present plans and bid specifications to the council at their April 23 meeting.

The first phase will include repairs to the roofing of the historic Spanish Gothic auditorium and installation of a heating and air conditioning system, Clayton said.

After the council approves the bid specifications, it will take a few months to go through the contractual process with the contractors before actual construction will start, he said.

Project manager for restoration of the auditorium is the firm's principal architect, Bennett Reeves, according to Clayton. Clayton said he will be assisting Reeves on the project.

"The city has given us a long list of priorities," Clayton said. "Initially, we will prepare the roof, fix the broken tile and try to get it back to a water-tight condition."

The firm's next priority will be upgrading the building's mechanical heating system and installing air conditioning, which also may involve electrical work in the auditorium, he said.

In addition, the firm also may do an energy study of the building, Clayton said.

Initial funding for the project, a $150,000 grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation, should cover costs for the roofing repairs and the upgrading of the heating and air conditioning system, he said.

Funds from the foundation will pay for repair costs, while the city will pay engineers' and architects' fees, city officials said when announcing the grant.

Once repairs to the roofing and the heating and cooling system are complete, plans page 2-A

National Library Week

Getting ready for National Library Week are Mary Crawford, representing the Howard College library, Kay Hepner, public schools, Paul Licht, Cosden library, Beth Perry, volunteer and church libraries, and Judith Gray, Howard County librarian.

Libraries honor U.S. readers

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

America's readers will be honored in a week-long tribute beginning Sunday. Howard County libraries will join libraries across the nation in the special event.

The National Library Association's theme this year for its week long tribute to all libraries is "A Nation of Readers."

Big Spring City Councilmen and Howard County Commissioners have presented county librarian Judith Gray with signed proclamations listing and honoring local libraries.

Gray said the association's purpose in sponsoring a national library week every year "is to promote and encourage the use and support of libraries."

Gray said this includes: public, school, academic, and special libraries. Honoring libraries this week Gray said, "will make the public aware of the many services available at their local library."

The Friends of the Library will host a silver tea and open house from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. next Friday, Gray said. The annual event was moved from its traditional St. Patrick's date to next Friday in order to be a part of national library week, Gray said.

The annual tea event began in the early 1900s, Gray said, by Big Spring's Women's Federation Club. The purpose was to donate coins for additional library materials.

About this year's tea, Gray said "if anyone wants to donate, they can make a suggestion to me."

The Friends of the Library will also hold a book sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on next Friday and Saturday in the county library's basement, Gray said. Proceeds from the sale go into the Friends of the Library's building and equipment funds, she said.

Mary Crawford, head librarian of The Anthony Hunt Library at Howard College, said their library "would have some display materials. We're not really going to do anything."

Crawford said the users of her library were mainly "persons involved in academic research."

She said that Howard College's library was open to the public and all that was needed for a library card was the name and address of the card holder's employer and a friend outside of the home.

"This library is a community college library that meets the needs of students, faculty and needs of the community. The biggest problem we have is that people don't realize they can use the library," Crawford said.

"We have so many materials," Crawford said about the library's 28,000 volume collection.

She said the library's particular strong assets were in the periodical and reference sections.

"We have a good index area. If we don't have what you need, we'll try and get it through our inter-loan program that we have with Lubbock's public library," Crawford said.

One vote reveals winner

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Thanks to a recount held Friday morning at the Borden County School District office in Gail, Kent Holmes has won a board seat with that county's local school district by one vote.

Borden County school superintendent James McLeroy said that Holmes' request for a recount of the Vealmoor election box came as a result of hearing about a "discrepancy with the people who were in charge of running the Vealmoor election box."

Holmes requested a recount of the Vealmoor election box after last Saturday's election returns revealed that he and incumbent Bob Dyess had each received 145 votes.

The school board had declared Bill Phinizy the winner of one seat last Tuesday after it had canvassed the election returns. Saturday, Phinizy received 186 votes. The three candidates were running on an at-large basis for two board seats.

"The votes were recounted and the results revealed a one vote difference for Kent Holmes," said McLeroy.

McLeroy said a breakdown of Friday's recount for the Vealmoor election was: Dyess - 19; Holmes - 16; Phinizy - 21 and three write in votes.

The recount was conducted by a commission of four persons that had been appointed by the school board, McLeroy said.

The school superintendent said voters had a choice of voting for two persons on their election ballot. Borden County had 278 ballots cast in its school board election.

McLeroy said that Holmes will assume the duties of his new position at 8 p.m. Monday night when the school board holds a regular meeting at the Borden County Independent School District in Gail.

Veteran of a long ago war

Spanish-American War Rough Rider recalls 1898 conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph W. Taylor says he often thinks about his old war buddies, but few are left who can reminisce with him. At 103, he's one of a dwindling number of veterans of the Spanish-American War.

Just 16 men are surviving veterans of that 1898 conflict. And Taylor is the last one alive who fought in the battle at San Juan Hill, where Teddy Roosevelt led the Rough Riders, according to the organization of veterans from that war.

"I could write a book about that; I remember all of it," said Taylor, of Pompano Beach, Fla.

"I can see them all now, lined up now in regimental formation, all those fellows in uniform, black and white, the generals, 25,000 of them. All gone," he recalled in a telephone interview.

"It does make you feel a little queer to think you're the only one left."

The United Spanish War Veterans will mark the 87th anniversary of the start of that war April 21 by laying a wreath at the Hiker Monument, an overlooked memorial in Washington honoring the soldiers who hiked in the tropics during that war.

It's not likely any of the veterans will show up, however. The youngest is 99, and most are in nursing homes.

Keeping track of these oldest war veterans is 84-year-old Beulah Cope, "adjutant general" and sole staffer of the United Spanish War Veterans, the niece of a Spanish-American veteran.

Operating from an office in the basement of the Veterans Administration building, cluttered with old files and memorabilia, she helps remaining veterans and their families with pension and benefit problems and plans their annual convention.

An estimated 392,000 Americans fought in the Spanish-American War. Begun in the fury over the sinking of the battleship Maine, the war ended Aug. 12, 1898, with Spain relinquishing Cuba, Puerto Rico and what became Guam. The VA, however, designates the Spanish-American War era as running until July 4, 1902 — encompassing the Cuban and Puerto Rican campaigns, the Philippine Insurrection and also the Boxer Rebellion expedition into China.

Ralph Taylor, 103, displays memorabilia Thursday in his Pompano Beach, Fla. home of his participation in the Spanish-American War in 1898. Of the 16 surviving veterans of the conflict, Taylor is the only one who fought on the Battle of San Juan Hill.

There were 7,829 documented deaths during the war, but only 1,239 were from battle wounds, according to the veterans' group. The rest were lost to disease. The servicemen were all volunteers. The pay was $15 a month.

"The youngest were mostly Navy men," Mrs. Cope said of those who survive. "The Navy would take them younger. And they went in just at the end."

Taylor served as a private in the 71st regiment infantry from New York, entering at age 16 with his father's consent. He told the Army he was 18.

"Were you ever 16? Did you want to do something?" he said. "I wanted to get out and do something. I thought it was going to be a great thing to go out and do something."

He saw Roosevelt and the Rough

Riders cavalry regiment, but was not a part of them. His group dodged snipers on a 10-mile march to the front, he said, and by the time he reached San Juan Hill most of the fighting was over.

"We were hungry, tired and sick," recalled Taylor. "I caught malaria and dysentery for lack of decent food."

"The order came from the captain, all those able to answer roll call in the morning can go home. I said to my friend, get to the village if you can and get some booze so we can brace ourselves up. The next morning I drank a big can of rum. I answered roll call."

Sick with a fever, he ate rice and prunes and lay on the ship's deck as it headed home. "The ship took two weeks ... I didn't know a thing," he said.

According to the VA's count, there were 22 surviving veterans of that war last fall. The death of two veterans earlier this month reduced their number to 16.

Their average age is 103, and the oldest is 108. By law they are entitled to a pension of $101 a month regardless of need, and $34 more if they are incapacitated or in a nursing home. A widow gets $70 a month, Mrs. Cope said.

About 100 members of the war's association showed up last year in Dubuque, Iowa, for their "national encampment." Two were veterans, the rest family and descendants, members of the affiliated groups, Daughters of 98, Sons of the Spanish-American War, and the auxiliary. They're meeting in Cleveland this September.

"When the last member of the organization dies, we'll have to turn our charter in," Mrs. Cope said. "I don't think we'll be around much longer."

Police Beat

Motel mirror stolen

A mirror valued at $65 was stolen Friday from a room in the Mayo Ranch Motel at 1202 E. Third. Deloras Rivera told police.

The theft occurred between 8:30 p.m. Thursday and 10:30 a.m. Friday.

A 12-inch diameter posthole auger attachment was reported stolen Friday from 802 E. Second, William Talbot of Talbot and Talbot told police.

The value of the four foot tall auger attachment — the bit is three foot tall — is unknown. Time of the theft also is unknown, according to the police reports.

Sheriff's Log

Accident investigated

Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Glenn Redman reported over the Howard County sheriff's dispatch unit yesterday afternoon that a woman involved in a car accident was "not seriously injured."

Chief sheriff's deputy William Shankles received a call at 4:20 p.m. from a person who reported that a major car accident had taken place on Highway 89, less than a mile east of the Luther Store on Hollis Road.

Deputy Bernice Nail reported that the woman injured in the accident was being brought in for treatment by a private vehicle.

No other accident details were available.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Joe Arthur Juarez, 37, of 1513 Wood No. A for not paying his fines to the county for a prior driving while intoxicated judgment. He was released after paying $306.

Carmen Moreno Gonzales, 37, of 602 N. San Antonio was released from county jail to Stanton County sheriff's deputies for their warrant charging her with violation of probation.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Val Islas, 22, of Route One on a warrant charging her with revocation of probation for a prior DWI judgment. She was released on $1,000 bond set by Judge Milton Kirby.

Heavy rains pollute Texas coast

AUSTIN (AP) — More Texas coastline will be closed to shellfish harvesting because of heavy rains and flooding that are polluting the area, a health department official said Friday.

But Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Department of Health Commissioner, said San Antonio Bay, north of the Intracoastal Waterway, will be closed Saturday.

He added, however, that the closure is only temporary and that health department officials will monitor the area to determine when it is safe for harvesting.

The number of closings of shellfish-producing areas this oyster season has been due primarily to unusual weather conditions, Bernstein said.

"Rains washed large amounts of contaminants off of surrounding areas into creeks and rivers which ultimately flow into the bays," he said.

Thursday, Bernstein re-opened West Matagorda Bay, Tres Palacios Bay and Carancahua Bay for shellfish producing and harvesting after a temporary closure.

completed, architects will call in an acoustics consultant to discuss interior renovations, Clayton said.

Repairs to the roof and the heating-cooling system "will not affect the building's acoustics," Clayton said. The heating and air conditioning systems, to be housed in the basement, will be required to be "quiet and not interfere with the acoustics," he said.

Although Parkhill, Smith and Cooper is known in Big Spring more for its engineering work on the city's sewer systems, Clayton said the firm's architecture division had an extensive background in structural restorations.

Heavy rains visit area

An impressive lightning display preceded a brief but heavy rainfall in Big Spring Friday night and residents around the city were reporting rain about 9:20 p.m.

The storm approached from the northwest and one resident on the city's southeast side said the lightning was "the brightest display I've ever seen." Residents reported seeing lightning around 7:30 p.m. as the thunderstorm approached the Big Spring area.

The storm moved quickly through the Big Spring area, dropping about .2 of an inch of rain on the city within 30 minutes. By 10 p.m., the rain was still falling but it was very light. Lightning continued to dominate the sky to the south of the city long after the heavy rain had subsided.

The storm knocked out cable service to Big Spring residents.

The Big Spring area is already several inches ahead in rainfall this year compared to this time last year.

Deaths

Huey Birdwell

LAKEPORT, Calif. — Former Big Spring resident Huey Long Birdwell, 50, of Lakeport died here Friday after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Fremont, Calif. Graveside services will be Wednesday in Big Spring under the direction of Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

Birdwell was born April 8, 1935, in Big Spring. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1955 and also attended Howard College.

He married Laura Tabor Dec. 24, 1957, in Oark, Ark. For many years he was the owner of Birdwell Fruit and Vegetable Market. He moved to California in 1970. He was a Baptist.

He is survived by his wife, Laura Birdwell, of Lakeport; two sons, Huey Birdwell Jr. of Newark, Calif. and Darrin Birdwell of Lakeport; two daughters, Martha

"A big portion of our work is renovations of educational facilities, churches and other structures," Clayton said. "We have long experience — 40 years' experience — in architecture and restorations."

"People down there are familiar with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper as a civil engineering firm. The people there might conjure up a big question mark on our qualifications," he said.

"The engineers called upon the architectural division to come in for this. They are not stepping out of their (area of knowledge)," Clayton said.

Man pleads guilty to pesticide sale

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Raymond Hensgens, owner of G&H Seed Co. in Crowley, pleaded guilty Thursday to selling a restricted pesticide to at least five farmers in Southwest Louisiana and Texas.

As part of a plea-bargain agreement, Hensgens has agreed to tell federal officials where the pesticide was distributed.

The seed dealer said he sold more than 3,000 gallons of the long-lasting, highly-poisonous pesticide Aldrin to rice farmers, who used the chemical to kill marauding birds that can devour seed from a 100-acre rice field in a day.

Federal prosecutors, in turn, have agreed not to charge him or his two sons, Wayne and Michael, with perjury before federal grand juries in 1981 and 1982 during an investigation of the use of another banned pesticide, Azodrin, on rice seed.

Hensgens will be arraigned Friday in Beaumont, Texas, on three more counts of illegal sale of Aldrin.

U.S. District Judge John Dube is to sentence Hensgens May 31 for his guilty plea on the five counts in Louisiana. The maximum penalty on each charge is $25,000 and one year in prison.

'Proper' investigation

CHICAGO — Illinois' new chief health official said Friday the 2-week-old salmonella investigation has been conducted properly despite the sudden firing of his predecessor and the mounting number of milk-borne cases in the Midwest.

Standing outside the suburban Hillfarm dairy that processed the suspect milk, Inspector General Jeremy Margolis, acting director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said all agencies involved "have been conducting a proper ... capable investigation."

Dotson back in jail

CHICAGO — A woman who could not convince a judge that she lied about being raped six years ago challenged prosecutors to try her for perjury, while a distraught Gary Dotson, the man she once accused, was sent back to prison Friday.

"I'd like to see a jury of my peers hear the truth," said Cathleen Crowell Webb, who offered to submit to a lie detector test and said the court "did a great injustice" by refusing to believe her now.

Dotson, 28, told reporters in a barely audible voice that he was "very upset" as he was returned to the Joliet Correctional Center, but vowed to continue his quest for release.

"We're working on it. That's all we can do," said Dotson, of suburban Country Club Hills. Gov. James R. Thompson said he had received calls from Dotson's relatives and others seeking his release, but ruled out any immediate action.

Border crossing open

HARLINGEN — Three remote Texas-Mexico border crossings, which were closed in March after threats to U.S. Customs agents, will reopen Saturday, immigration officials said Friday.

The three crossings are Falcon Dam, near Zapata; Amistad Dam, near Del Rio; and a hand-operated ferry in Los Ebanos, south of Rio Grande City. They were closed March 3 after threats that a group of Mexican nationalists planned to kidnap a customs agent and take the agent back to Mexico.

Nine crossing points were closed across the southern U.S. border and intense searches at checkpoints were started after the disappearance Feb. 7 of U.S. narcotics agent Enrique Camarena Salazar. The six other checkpoints have been reopened, Conroy said.

The intense searches, intended to pressure Mexican authorities to speed up the investigation into the kidnapping, lasted about a month, but merchants on both sides of the border, from Brownsville, Texas, to San Ysidro, Calif., said it hurt their business.

Boy dies in house fire

NASSAU, N.Y. — An 8-year-old boy who apparently was playing with a kerosene heater tipped it over early Friday, triggering an explosion and fire that killed him and four relatives, authorities said.

Three other family members were injured as the fire gutted the family's ramshackle 1 1/2 story wooden house that was part of a former summer camp on Nassau Lake, about 10 miles southeast of Albany.

"I've been in the company for 19 years and I've never seen anything like it," said Nassau Fire Chief Tom Colligan.

The fire apparently was caused by the heater, which caught a quilt on fire, said County Fire Inspector Leo Fissett.

John Bosler was playing with the space heater when it tipped, said Jacob Moak, 32, a cousin who was injured in the fire. Moak said he tried to put out the fire by getting the heater out of the house, but it grew too fast.

Technicians prepare Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter Friday. The two are co-hosts for an international arms control conference.

Presidential hosts

Carter, Ford discuss arms control

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Presidents Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, beginning two days of public arms control talks with leaders from 10 nations, said Friday they would support a comprehensive test ban treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Consultation on International Security and Arms Control, sponsored by Carter's Emory University policy center and hosted by Carter and Ford, includes officials of five U.S. administrations, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and representatives of eight other nations.

On Friday, the first day of public discussions following three days of closed-door meetings, Carter and Ford both said the United States should continue to adhere to the provisions of the unratified SALT II treaty.

Carter said he would "hesitate to see our country be the one in direct violation of the SALT II treaty." The United States will go beyond SALT II's limits on multi-warhead missile launchers with September's launching of the next Trident submarine unless some older missiles are taken off line, he said.

Ford said he, too, believes in the precepts of SALT II. But he said the Soviets already have violated a treaty that was ratified and put into effect — an anti-ballistic missile — and that "puts us in a very difficult position for us to continue to abide..."

"It would be far, far better for the Soviet Union to admit they may have overstepped the bounds and take remedial action. I want reciprocity as to the upholding of our treaty obligations," he said.

Both of the former presidents said they would be willing to use their influence to work toward a new comprehensive test ban treaty.

Dobrynin spoke only briefly at Friday morning's session, saying off-handedly that his nation welcomes the United Nations' efforts to resolve the crisis in Afghanistan. He said he would hold most of his comments until later in the conference.

In addition to the United States and the Soviet Union, the nations represented are the People's Republic of China, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, South Korea, West Germany and Spain.

The two superpowers came in for some harsh criticism from the Chinese representative, disarmament ambassador Qian Jia-dong.

"Unless the two major powers take the lead in cutting back their armaments, talk of disarmament is not of much significance. If not totally meaningless," Qian said.

"Look around the world — there's not a single hot spot where you don't see the fingers of the two powers put in. Because of meddling by the two superpowers, the nature of (regional) conflicts changes... and solutions become much more difficult," he said.

The conference's ad-hoc panel on alliance, proliferation and regional conflict issued several recommendations Friday, including an admonition that the leaders of the world pay greater attention to the increasing complexity of international problems. It said the United States, as leader of the West, should not only maintain its strength but should pay more attention to the needs of its allies.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger objected to talk that the NATO alliance has decided against any first use of nuclear weapons.

"That creates the dangerous impression that we're willing to be defeated with conventional weapons, rather than use nuclear weapons," he said.

The conference continues Saturday with panels including President Reagan's assistant for national security affairs, Robert McFarlane, former Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.

Discovery blasts off despite delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery blasted through sodden skies Friday, avoiding a sixth launch postponement by 55 seconds, on a voyage that gives Sen. Jake Garn of Utah a demonstration ride like no other.

After waiting out a rainstorm, Discovery lifted off 55 minutes behind schedule. The same murky weather, however, ruined a Kennedy Space Center doubleheader, delaying the arrival of the new shuttle Atlantis.

Nearly 300 miles above the clouds and no longer bothered by them, the Discovery crew sent a Canadian communications satellite spinning out of its cargo bay toward an eventual orbit high above Earth.

"It was a good deploy," said astronaut Jeffrey Hoffman.

"It looks good from down here," said Mission Control.

"I guess it was easier to launch a PAM than it was to launch the shuttle — no weather problems," Hoffman said. PAM refers to the rocket attached to the satellite.

The deployment of the satellite, for Telesat of Canada, followed a familiar scenario. After releasing the satellite, Discovery moved away to be out of blast range 45 minutes later when the PAM engine fires to send it to a 22,300-mile-high orbit.

'Error in judgement'

TOKYO — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone said Friday that Japan's decision to sharply increase auto exports to the United States was an "error in judgment" about American attitudes.

"With the benefit of hindsight," he told foreign reporters, "maybe we should have studied the situation more in advance."

"But we hope," he said, "it is understood that we acted in sincerity and good faith." Japan announced on March 28 that auto shipments to the United States would jump 24.3 percent to 2.3 million in the fiscal year that began April 1. Since fiscal 1981, automakers had been following "voluntary restraints."

Peace talks delayed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Friday his government cannot hold a third round of peace talks with rebels on the date they suggested because of the campaign to vaccinate children set for that day.

A statement broadcast earlier this week by the rebels' clandestine Radio Venceremos asked that the next round of talks, interrupted after October and November sessions produced few concrete results, be held April 21 in the northeastern province of Morazan.

Morazan, some 100 miles northeast of the capital, has been stronghold of the left-wing guerrillas in their 5 1/2-year-old war against the U.S.-backed government.

Duarte spoke to reporters during a visit to his residence by Jeanne J. Kirkpatrick, who has just retired as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Dignitaries snubbed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Albania said Friday it does not want foreign dignitaries at the funeral of Enver Hoxha, the dictator who ran the isolated outpost of Stalinism for 42 years.

The announcement was made by Albania's Radio Tirana in a broadcast monitored here by the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug.

Hoxha died Thursday at age 76 after a long illness. The funeral is scheduled for Monday in Tirana, capital of the tiny, mountainous Balkan country that is Europe's poorest.

"A large number of states have expressed the desire to send official delegations to pay respect and attend the funeral of Enver Hoxha, the glorious leader of the party and people of Albania," the Albanian-language broadcast said.

The funeral committee, however, "expressed to all the deepest gratitude for sincere feelings and respect, and wishes to let them know that it is not the practice in our country that such events should be attended by foreign state delegations," the radio said.

Car bomb explodes

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A car bomb exploded Friday near a south Lebanon military post manned jointly by Israeli troops and Israeli-backed militiamen, inflicting a number of casualties, Beirut radio stations reported.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli military sources said there was no car bomb explosion or any other fatal attack on Israeli forces Friday in southern Lebanon. The sources spoke on condition they not be identified.

State-run Beirut Radio said that it was a suicide attack, and the vehicle was driven by a member of the Lebanese "National Resistance Movement." The group has claimed responsibility for most of the anti-Israeli attacks in southern Lebanon.

The Christian "Voice of Lebanon" radio station initially reported that a suicide attack had occurred, then later said only that a car bomb had exploded.

Explosion rips through Madrid restaurant near U.S. base

MADRID, Spain (AP) — An explosion ripped through a suburban Madrid restaurant near a U.S. Air Force base Friday night, killing at least 15 people and injuring 71, including some Americans, officials said.

Police speculated the blast at the El Descanso barbecue restaurant might have been caused by a bomb.

The restaurant, located on the main Madrid-Barcelona highway, is nine miles northeast of Madrid and near the U.S. Air Force base at Torrejon de Ardoz.

The restaurant was known to be frequented by Americans, particularly those who work at the air base. There was no immediate identification of the victims.

Police said the explosion occurred at about 10:45 p.m. (3:45 p.m. EST), when the restaurant was crowded with patrons.

The U.S. Air Force public affairs office at Torrejon said 10 American personnel from the base had reported to the base hospital with minor injuries. It said in a statement that other Americans could have been taken to hospitals in Madrid.

Firemen told the Antenna 3 radio station that they had found the butane gas tanks in the restaurant kitchen intact — another indication the explosion had been caused by a bomb.

Police said the three-story building was nearly flattened by the blast. The restaurant was on the ground floor, and its owner and employees lived in the upper two floors.

At midnight, firemen using bulldozers began removing debris in a search for other victims. They said there were piles of bricks and mortar six feet deep.

As the firemen worked national police explosives experts also began sifting through the rubble to determine the cause of the blast.

Block says he will work on new farm policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block, obviously breathing easier under loosened proposed budget restraints on his department, said Friday he would work to come up with farm policies providing a softer landing for financially stressed farmers.

Block told reporters that previous Reagan administration proposals sought to change agriculture policies more quickly than the farm situation could stand.

"Given the way the situation's deteriorated in rural America, it was looking more austere every day, and it looked like some adjustment was appropriate," Block said. "The adjustment's been made."

Block said that while a compromise budget worked out between the administration and Senate Republican leaders provides more money to ease agriculture's transition to a more "market-oriented" system, it means "no change in philosophy, policy or objective."

Block has been struggling for months under a spartan Reagan administration farm bill written more by the president's budget office than by Block's department. He has been unable to find any significant support for the proposal in Congress.

Control the weeds in your lawn

One of the best means for controlling weeds in a home lawn is to maintain a dense, vigorous growing stand of turfgrass through proper fertilization, irrigation and mowing.

Thin, weak turf encourages the invasion of weeds. However, even the best kept lawns will have some weeds. To effectively control "problem" weeds in a lawn, herbicides can be used.

Effective use of chemicals (herbicides or weed killers) to control weeds in a lawn depends upon: proper weed identification, selecting the right herbicide, treating weeds when they are immature and actively growing, applying herbicides at proper rates, and observing labels for proper precautions. It is very important that only specific herbicides labeled for use on home lawns be used to control weeds in lawns. Some herbicides come in many trade names, and not all trade names carry a label for home lawn use. Indiscriminate use of industrial strength weed killers often results in tree and shrub damage or death.

Herbicides used to control weeds in lawns can be grouped into three categories: nonselective contact sprays, selected postemergent sprays or granules and selective preemergent sprays and granules.

Glyphosate herbicides are an example of nonselective contact spray vegetation killers. Round Up, Doomsday and Kleenup contain varying amounts of the active ingredient glyphosate. These herbicides are slow acting and require patience on the applicators part. Two to three weeks may be required to root kill some glyphosate will negate the effectiveness of the product. Ironically as it may seem, the healthier the target weed the better the kill from glyphosate. Complete rootkill also depends on the material being applied to healthy leaves for translocation to the rootzone.

Postemergent selective materials are applied shortly after the weeds are visible and when used according to the label will not damage turf. Weeds such as henbit, chickweed, dandelion, wild onion and garlic, and plaintain can be controlled by postemergent treatment with 2,4-D, MCPP, dicamba, or combination of these herbicides.

Remember, for best results treat only when weeds are immature and/or actively growing. Do not use 2,4-D, MCPP, or dicamba on St. Augustine in hot weather (above 85 degrees F). Dicamba should not be sprayed next to shrubs or under the drip line of trees. Some caution should also be used when using these chemicals on hybrid bermudagrass such as Tifgreen and Tifdwarf.

Rescuegrass (incorrectly called wild rye), goosegrass, dallisgrass and sandbur can be controlled in lawns with postemergent treatment of MSMA or DSMA. Spray when weeds are young and actively growing. Repeat applications may be needed at 7-10 day intervals if regrowth occurs. Do not use MSMA or DSMA on St. Augustine or Centipedegrass.

The annual grassy weeds can also be effectively controlled by preemergent treatment with Balan, Dacthal or Betasan. Check labels for specific weeds controlled by the herbicide. It is very important that these chemicals be applied prior to germination of the weed seed. October and February applications may be necessary. If you plan to do any reseeding of the lawn, do not use preemergent herbicides 90-120 days prior to seeding.

Most broadleaf weeds and annual grassy weeds in St. Augustine lawns can be controlled with Simazine or Atrazine. However, only certain weed and feed formulations containing these chemicals have a label for use in home lawns. In general, weed and feed formulations with Simazine or Atrazine have caused more damage to desirable vegetation in West Texas than other herbicides combined. Our low soil organic matter makes the successful use of Simazine and Atrazine difficult. Never use weed and feed combinations to fertilize trees, shrubs or vegetable gardens.

Weed control herbicides can be helpful when used properly. Wouldn't it be nice if herbicides were intelligent, extremely discriminating and functional at any rate and method of application? The properly attached hoe still comes closest to meeting these requirements and even it has a disagreeable application rate.

Nutrition for sports and fitness buffs

Fitness buffs are interested in achieving good health and longevity. They want to feel good and look good and prevent premature development of disease.

Athletes main goal is to achieve top performance in their chosen sport. Good health is usually a secondary aim that helps them achieve their main goal. Some athletes are willing to temporarily compromise their health in order to try to achieve a better sports performance.

Their interest in food and nutrition makes sports enthusiasts targets of a barge of conflicting nutritional advice and advertisements for diets, foods, and food supplements. Trying to sort out fact from fiction is a difficult job.

As a result, nutrition misinformation is common among athletes and fitness buffs.

Food and nutrition play key roles in helping athletes and fitness buffs achieve their goals. Good nutritional status can make the difference in the performance of two equally matched athletes. However, there is no diet, food or food supplement that can make up for deficiencies in genetic ability, physical or mental training.

Research has demonstrated that the best eating plans for athletes or fitness buffs are ones that help them maintain a desirable body weight and composition, prevent dehydration, include a variety of wholesome foods and are nutritionally balanced. A nutritionally balanced diet contains adequate energy (calories) from a high percentage of carbohydrate and a low percentage of fat, an adequate amount of protein, vitamins, minerals and water. Present evidence indicates that nutritional requirements of athletes and fitness buffs follow the Recommended Dietary Allowances.

Exercise usually increases fluid requirements. Some athletes in intense training also have an increased requirement for protein, some B-vitamins, vitamin C (ascorbic acid), electrolytes and iron. These individuals also have an increased energy requirement and if they increase their intake of water and wholesome food they will probably meet their increased nutrient needs.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day of varying influences for the early morning is fine for health treatments, while the afternoon brings some delight in putting vital tasks into effect.
Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you want support for a new interest, see your friends early if you can and allow for any possible delays.
Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) A worldly affair can be handled well in the morning, but later a disgruntled partner can pose a problem, if you permit.
Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Take time for meditation in the morning, then forget dull chores about the house and tonight you make fine new contacts.
Leo (Jul. 23 to Aug. 23) Being with individuals who awaken your mentality is wise in the morning, but later avoid a tense condition at home.
Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) You find better ways of getting chores done early, then off to visit older individuals you like.
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Early plan the evening's fun and then don't involve yourself in monetary matters so that the afternoon can be enjoyable.
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your best bet is to stay at home with your family. Show that you are clever and devoted as well. Avoid driving, if possible.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget worries and concentrate on whatever is of a constructive nature and make fine plans for the days ahead.
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you steer clear of a bigwig who has prejudices, you can easily see how to become more successful in the future.
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can have fine ideas coming through your mind so make the most of them, and forget that outsider who is busy.
Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Meditate and be more in tune with the truth. Be content at home in the evening and have a delightful time with your loved one.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will easily go along with highly advanced ideas and can understand them thoroughly, but if the education is more or less antiquated, the fine promise here could be greatly curtailed. Give cultural advantages.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, APRIL 15, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of those interesting days when you would be wise to plan for your future in the most comprehensive terms and ambitious plans that are possible for you.
Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Begin the new week properly by getting in touch with any persons of big ideas who can be helpful to you in business.
Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Any group that can help you gain your aims should be contacted this morning and their alliance gained.
Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You can be very creative at work and this is a good day to do your best at such. State your finest ambitions.
Leo (Jul. 23 to Aug. 23) You can be very creative at work and this is a good day to do your best at such. State your finest ambitions.
Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) You talk with regular partners and make better plans for the future. Improve operations considerably at work.
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Study the profit you are getting for any work done and see if it is satisfactory. Try to be more generous with your kin.
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are inspired to gain your ambitions, so don't waste any time but get busy on them and get good results.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Have a quiet, thoughtful conversation with your family and plan what is best to do in the days ahead.
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are more direct with your friends, all of your lives can be made better, more inspiring.
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can begin the new week properly by getting support you need from a bigwig where a monetary interest is concerned.
Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have a new plan in mind that can bring you closer to your personal aims, so carry through with it.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY......he or she will readily understand the wishes of others and how best to obtain them, so give a fine comprehensive education as you can so that the greatest benefits can be gained from this unique talent.

Rockhouse Tea Room offers lunch, look at local culture

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Nestled away from the bustling traffic along Scurry street is a historic little house made of rocks.

For years most folks drove past the building without giving it a second look. Today people on the lookout for a place to eat lunch can stop here and get not only lunch but a little Big Spring culture.

Owner Grace Peters, who says the restaurant is "my middle-age therapy," spent months renovating the house into the Rockhouse Tea Room. The restaurant is located at 1308 Scurry.

"We turned the water on and it wouldn't run," Peters remembers. That was her first hint that renovating the historic rock house would take months of work and dedication.

Peters and her husband, dentist Clarence Peters, acquired the Rock House in January of 1984. She opened the tea room on May 7 and she recently became a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Rockhouse is an appropriate name for the restaurant because it is housed in a small building which is actually built of rocks.

"There are beautiful rocks here," Peters said. She can point to areas made from petrified wood brought from Colorado City, and other rocks, called the Texas Candy Stripe rock, brought here from the Big Bend area.

The large home adjacent to the Rockhouse was built in 1911 by Clifton Talbot, Peters said. In the late 1930s, Talbot sold the home to Marie Weeg, who operated a chiropractic clinic at the location.

Weeg built what is now used as the kitchen in 1939 and used the area for apartments, Peters said. The rock house which now houses the dining room area was built in 1941. Weeg originally built the area to use as a reception office.

When Peters and her husband began renovating the restaurant, they decided to leave as much of the rock house reception area intact as possible. The front door to the restaurant is the same one that was installed in 1941.

The rock formations inside the restaurant are the work of a craftsman named Looney. Peters said Looney's trademark is the use of extended mortar work cementing the formations together.

"You can pick out his rock work anywhere you see it," Peters said, because of his trademark designs.

The Rockhouse dining area features a massive rock fireplace which is enhanced by "a tremendous amount of quartz" and several designs. When a light is placed in the fireplace, the outline of the state of Texas comes alive, Peters said.

Although the home is both beautiful and historic, it took a lot of work to make it into an attractive restaurant. Hidden away in closets and storage areas are unfinished walls and floors, reminders of the task Peters faced more than a year ago.

Between January and May of last year, Peters dealt with electrical and water problems and she had to meet with fire inspectors and other agencies. She tried to keep her enthusiasm up although she admits now it would have been easy to become discouraged about the restaurant.

The Peters discovered that someone had painted over the original rock floor in the small restaurant. Clarence Peters spent three weeks with a welder's drill, scrapping all the paint off the rock flooring.

The couple also scrubbed the rocks on the walls of the Rock House and had a contractor seal them.

Peters says she felt "a need for this type of restaurant in Big Spring." She says she "pulled on ideas I'd had before and from ideas I got by looking at other places."

The restaurant features soups, salads, sandwiches and a daily special, such as quiches and crepes.

Peters also makes a number of desserts. She makes everything from scratch, including "hand-made" bread.

Peters has lived in Big Spring since 1969. She also owns the C&G Quick Stop which features deli items. She and her employees, Tina Cunningham and Sabrina Young, cater parties and prepare party trays from the Rockhouse, as well as serve lunch.

City is not fading

An article in the April 7 Dallas Morning News, entitled "West Texas Communities Fading," stated: "Between the last two census years, 1970 and 1980, a number of towns declined in population. They included Alpine, Big Spring, Eden, Junction, Maria, Mason, McCamey, Melvin and Menard."

Phil Neighbors, development director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is quoted: "A community cannot stay as it is. If it's not growing, it's declining."

Bob Weaver, executive director of the Concho Valley Council of Governments, said: "Growth of one or two percent a year is healthy for most small towns."

Well, Big Spring is not ready to fade. We've got too much going for us and too much at stake. Therefore, beginning April 24, a series of all-day strategic planning meetings will be held with elected and appointed leaders in Howard County to pinpoint short and long range problems and determine solutions, options, priorities. The focus will be on unity!

As our innovative Chamber president, Granville Hahn, who is spearheading this, said, "At one point Detroit was the worst possible city to live in, until they voted in a renaissance period to revitalize their city. Today it is a viable city and one of America's choice locations." Is Big Spring capable of having a renaissance period? Yes!

their special project the care and cleanup of the "big spring."

A special congratulations to W.C. Ernst for receiving the important award of "Social Worker of the Year for Howard County." This is the top award given locally by the social workers themselves. Ernst is coordinator of outreach services for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Would you like to see your painting on nine million telephone books? Now's your chance. Southwestern Bell Telephone is holding a contest to select a painting to be used on its directory covers for 1986.

A purchase award of $5,000 will be paid to the winning artist. In addition, the artist will be identified in every phone book which carries the cover. Deadline for entries is July 1. An entry form and contest rules may be obtained by writing to Art Contest, One Bell Plaza, P.O. Box 225521, Dallas, TX, 75265.

Advanced Telephone Systems (ATS), our home grown telephone company, now has spread satellite offices in three other cities: Abilene, Snyder and Midland. Good!

I read this somewhere: What if election day and income tax day were one and the same? If Americans stayed up late finishing income tax returns on election eve, they would be in no mood to vote for big tax-and-spend politicians in Washington. Our taxes might look radically different and some of our present politicians would probably be pounding the pavement looking for work.

Upcoming events:
Sunday at 2 p.m.: Dedication of the new animal shelter at 11th Place and FM 700. Refreshments and tours.

April 16: "Your New Image Workshop" at Big Spring Country Club with speaker Ronda Urlich, national sales director for Mary Kay Cosmetics. Workshop sponsored by Dene Sheppard.

April 19: Community luncheon at coliseum. Call Chamber for reservations. Small Business Person of the Year will be announced.

Bakery runs in silence in cookie race

By PAMELA BROWNSTEIN
AP Business Writer
WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) —

As competitors in the national gourmet cookie race, the bakers at Gimmee Jimmy's Cookies mix their chunky batter and slide trays in and out of ovens with precision. But the bakery runs in silence, cues coming from flashing lights on a wall.

Most of the bakers can't hear. "We call it high-tech deaf," said Ellen Libman, whose brother, Jimmy, founded the bakery about two years ago.

Deaf since birth, 28-year-old Libman also designed the strobe light system to aid his 12 employees, nine of whom are deaf.

A blue master light under a counter flashes briefly, catching the attention of the workers as the light reflects off equipment in the room.

The workers know then to look up at a row of lights: Green means a customer is at the door, orange means the cookies need to be removed from the oven, white means Libman's special telephone for the hearing-impaired is ringing, and red means something is on fire.

The system has worked well so far and certainly is an improvement over the company's humble beginnings in the Libman family's kitchen.

"My dining room table was the assembly line," recalled Libman's mother, Dody, who provided the recipes for the chocolate chip, walnut chocolate chip, peanut chocolate chip, coconut pecan and oatmeal raisin cookies.

It was Libman's mother who suggested that her son open the business. Friends urged her for years to sell her cookies but she never took the idea seriously until her son, who was working as an optical technician, said he wanted to try a new field.

As soon as the plan was hatched, Mrs. Libman went to a nearby produce outlet and got a commitment to buy 30 boxes of cookies.

Libman and his sister soon were working from 7 a.m. to 1 a.m., and the Libmans decided to make the operation more professional, ordering a confectioner's oven for their family room. When it would not fit through the door, Libman and his 33-year-old sister set up shop in the living room for six months.

Then, with a $70,000 Small Business Administration loan at 3 percent interest and $18,000 of his own money, Libman opened the small but spotless bakery here.

Jimmy Libman, 28, the founder of Gimmee Jimmy's Cookies in West Orange, N.J., poses in his bakery. The bakery has a unique system of lights to help him and other deaf employees compete in the gourmet cookie market.

He interviewed potential workers recommended by the New Jersey Department of Vocational Rehabilitation which, along with Goodwill Industries, trains and helps place hearing-impaired people.

"Everything here is my responsibility," Libman said through Lou Ann Walker, a sign language interpreter.

Libman, who bought a computer to handle the paperwork, does the inventory, ordering and other day-to-day duties while his sister is in charge of marketing and promoting.

Gimmee Jimmy's now has 50 accounts in New York and New Jersey, mostly in upscale supermarkets and gourmet shops. A pound of cookies sells for $6.90 to $7.50.

Jimmy's sister, who is the vice president, said the operation grossed $100,000 for the 12 months that ended in February and had a profit which she declined to disclose: This year, Gimmee Jimmy's hopes to double its sales.

Libman said he is much happier having taken the plunge into a new business. "I used to think I would set up an optical business. But that's too easy a life."

Tom Peters on Excellence

Experts at success

By TOM PETERS

If talk among managers turns to budgets, long discussions are sure to ensue. The subtlest nuances are debated intelligently for hours. What's a direct cost? What's an indirect cost? What's appropriate overhead loading from corporate? What's inappropriate? In other words, the average manager is a true expert.

Now talk to him or her about measuring customer satisfaction, about celebrating successes. The eyes invariably glaze over. Suddenly she or he is not expert. Yet celebrating and rewarding can be just as meticulously thought out, planned and executed as can budget development.

I talked in an earlier column about Milliken & Company's "fabulous bragging sessions." Milliken people are "experts" on bragging — nearly as expert as they are about budgets. That's my idea: managers as expert at celebration, bragging and satisfaction measurement as they are at the ins and outs of constructing a budget.

My friend Pat Townsend, a former Marine corps major, has long been a norm violator. During his service years he wrote about love and leadership in the "Marine Corps Gazette." Pat is now an insurance executive working for the Paul Revere Life Insurance Company. He heads Paul Revere's "Quality Has Value" process, which I will describe by referring to information contained in "Quality News," a bi-weekly newsletter which Pat and his colleagues put out. This rather detailed description of a single situation is meant to give you an in-depth flavor of the thoughtfulness that can go into program design.

The rewards part of the Paul Revere "Quality Has Value" process was modeled on the Olympics. Participants' awards are "Bronze," "Silver" and "Gold" lapel pins: a Bronze rewards 10 implemented ideas or $10,000 in savings, a Silver rewards 25 implemented ideas or $25,000 in savings and a Gold rewards 50 implemented ideas or $50,000 in savings. Like many ex-Marines Pat Townsend is a sports fanatic. In addition, then, to the awards signifying implemented ideas (or savings hurdles), there is an "MVP" — Most Valuable Player — award.

Pat formally describes the MVP award: "At the end of the fiscal year, all Gold teams choose their team's MVP. The team may choose to nominate more than one MVP if a team feels that more members are deserving of this recognition. The criteria for selecting MVPs: Elect team members who have been outstanding both for the quality and the number of their own ideas submitted; select team members who consistently participate in their Quality Meetings; select team members who have had many of their ideas implemented."

The nominated MVPs have their names submitted to the "Quality MVP Review Board." All are winners. Those not chosen as finalists receive certificates. Those chosen receive a check for $100. Among the chosen, the top five MVPs are nominated to the "President's staff." The four runners-up among the final five receive checks for $500. The MVP receives a check for $1,000 and an MVP award. (Each member of the MVP's Quality Team receives a miniature version of the MVP award). The checks and awards are presented by the president of Paul Revere at a recognition ceremony. (The MVP selection process is repeated exactly for the Most Valuable Team, chosen from all the Gold teams.)

It is significant that the dollar amounts of the checks are not very great. I believe that the simplest way to kill one of these programs is to limit awards at the $10,000 level for just one or two hotshots. That invariably causes resentment. Numerous people legitimately feel they deserve a piece of the action because they've contributed in some way to the winner's ideas. It's just human nature. Therefore, the rewards should be made big but not huge, and most participants will be delighted for the several recipients.

These wonderful rules and categories simply mean that large numbers of people win something. The point is that everybody wins. "Quality News" reports that 126 of the 127 teams formed at Paul Revere made it to the Bronze level. Seventy-two went on to achieve Gold. In fact, enthusiasm was so high that awards such as Double Bronze, Double Silver and Double Gold were created along the way. One team even became a Triple Gold winner. "Quality News" notes: "The average quality circle in America implements six ideas a year. Al Stazinski's Mission Control team (the Triple Gold winner), in the 10 and a half months between Jan. 13 and Nov. 20, 1984, implemented 150! Paul Revere's only Triple Gold team had 50 ideas certified on Nov. 21 in one marathon session with the Quality Control Circle Analyst, Ray Perkins.

Team competition is both productive for the company and fun. The playful names of some of the teams that were cited as "new bronze teams" in one newsletter are Faffanoose, Pat's Pourri (including Pat Townsend), Just Us Lucky 13, Liberty Bell, George's Candi Kanes, Rosemary's Babies, B's Guys and Dolls, the Local 440s, The Rat Patrol, Ice Team Fred & Helpers, Odds & Ends, Petti's Pussycats and 007.

Article titles in the newsletter include the following: "The Quality Tradition Grows," "Pride Plus Teamwork Equals Gold," "Cake and Quality in the Field" and "Error-Free Fridays." Each issue focuses on people who have achieved new levels of performance and new teams that have been formed.

Perhaps my favorite part of Pat's program is called "PEET" — "Program for Ensuring that Everyone is Thanked. Once a week, each Paul Revere executive gets a list of top winners from the prior week. This "PEET sheet" requires the executive to stop by the team's leader's space to congratulate him or her on the victory.

Imagination and celebration. At Paul Revere, they are not frivolous, but rather are based upon the hard-nosed measure of quality of results. Turning people into winners is the name of the game. Yet when we talk about celebrations — especially when we go beyond the sales area to MIS or accounting or even manufacturing, our imaginations grow infertile. What Pat Townsend has proved to me again is that one can be as thoughtful and inventive with celebrating and rewarding as with the construction of budgets, strategic plans or performance appraisal systems.

High school math teacher opens Big Spring business

Don Swinney, owner of Tex-Pure Drinking Water at 1719 Gregg, says he opened the store because of "the deplorable condition of water" in Big Spring. Swinney said Tex-Pure Drinking Water offers water that has had salt and other pollutants reduced by up to 90 percent.

Among pollutants removed are hydrocarbons, arsenic and cyanide, he said. Swinney and his wife, Elouise, and his mother-in-law, Ella Carroll, will be operating the store from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Swinney is also a high school math teacher and his wife works as a legal secretary. Mrs. Carroll will manage Tex-Pure.

Swinney said the store will offer "purified water by the bottle. You may bring your own bottle or we have bottles for sale."

A Tex-Pure employee will fill the bottle for 30 cents. Water is purified by reverse osmosis, Swinney said. The technique "takes out 98 percent of all pollutants in the water." As a result, "The water tastes better."

Swinney said he believes the water tastes "as good or better than the best quality bottled waters."

Although Tex-Pure opened Friday, Swinney said he is familiar with reverse osmosis because he has been selling home water purifiers for three years. Purifiers are devices to improve the quality and taste of drinking water, Swinney said. He plans to continue that service from the Tex-Pure location.

Swinney is also a distributor for Kineticco water softeners. A water softener, unlike a purifier, "softens water but adds to the sodium content." Softeners are used for dishwater, washing cars and clothes and for bathing.

The store will also offer ice made from purified water. Swinney also has cold or hot and cold water dispensers for sale or lease.

Unocal files antitrust suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An antitrust suit has been filed by Unocal Corp. against a group led by Oilman T. Boone Pickens that is attempting to takeover Unocal.

The suit alleges that their attempts to restructure the oil industry are decreasing competition in oil and gas exploration.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Lafayette, La., and was announced by Los Angeles-based Unocal, the nation's 13th largest oil company and the parent of Union Oil Co. of California.

The suit was the third stemming from the takeover battle. Two of those have been filed by Unocal, and one by Mesa Petroleum Co. of Amarillo, Texas, of which Pickens is chairman.

The latest suit names Mesa Petroleum and others in addition to Pickens.

Mesa Petroleum spokesman Warren Vieth in Amarillo, Texas said the company had not seen the suit and had no immediate comment.

By the Associated Press
Strong last-minute shopping for Easter outfits helped most of the nation's major retailers post solid sales gains in March, with the early holiday salvaging what otherwise would have been a ho-hum month.

"The last week before Easter was very strong, with sales exceeding many retailers' expectations," said Walter Loeb, an analyst with the investment firm Morgan Stanley & Co.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the largest retailer, reported on Thursday a 2.7 percent gain over a year ago, while No. 2 K mart Corp. was up 19.8 percent and No. 3 J.C. Penney Co. was up 7.2 percent.

Separately, the Commerce Department reported that retail sales fell 1.9 percent in March, for the biggest decline in more than seven years.

Although the companies and the government seem to be contradicting each other, their reports aren't comparable. The government report included non-chain store sales such as auto sales, while the retailers' reports included part of April not counted in the government figures.

NEW YORK — Expectations are running high in the credit markets that the Federal Reserve, worried about the economy's expansion, will avoid tightening credit and lifting interest rates.

Bond prices soared and money-market rates tumbled Thursday after the Commerce Department reported a 1.9 percent drop in retail sales last month, the steepest decline in seven years.

Late Thursday, the Fed said the nation's basic money supply, called M1, rose $1.9 billion in the week ended April 1 to a seasonally adjusted $574.7 billion from $572.8 billion the previous week.

M1 represents funds readily available for spending and includes cash in circulation, checking deposits and non-bank travelers checks.

The growth fell in line with credit analysts' forecasts, and as a result had little impact on the bond market's rally.

NEW YORK — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has asked for permission to raise rates by up to 26.7 percent for long-distance interstate calls between parties less than 55 miles apart.

The company said Thursday the increases would generate $74 million annually in revenue and would affect about 13 percent of its long-distance traffic.

In a filing with the Federal Communications Commission, AT&T said it wanted to make the following rate changes effective April 26:

- For a call of one to 10 miles, the day rate for the initial minute would increase 26.7 percent to 38 cents from 30 cents. The rate for each additional minute would be increased to 19 cents from 15 cents.

- For a call from 11 to 22 miles, the day rate for the initial minute would be raised 21.1 percent to 46 cents from 38 cents.

Hawk third baseman ROLAND GONZALES prepares to throw out a Northwood College batter in the first game of a three game series Friday afternoon. The Hawks raised their conference record to 10-3 with the 10-0 victory.

Hawks romp over Northwood, 10-0

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Behind the masterful pitching of Chuck Ashcraft and long-ball hitting of catcher Eddie Citronelli, the Howard College Hawks routed the Northwood Knights 10-0 in Region 5 baseball action.

Ashcraft went the distance in the eight inning game, scattering four hits, striking out nine and walking one. He was nearly untouchable the first seven innings, never allowing a Knight base runner to reach third. The contest was called in the bottom of the eighth because Howard held a 10-run lead.

Citronelli was the main cog in the Hawk hitting machine, that banged out 10 hits for the game. The New York native collected a triple and a home run, driving in four runs.

His triple led to the first Howard run in the third inning. The shot in the left-center gap scored Mike Byrd, who had singled. Pinch runner Kenny Merritt, who was inserted for Citronelli, scored when Mark Howell reached base on a throwing error.

Citronelli then led a four-run Howard surge in the next inning. After Roland Gonzalez and Dan Lanfear singled, the Howard catcher chased Northwood starter Tony McFadin from the game. Against a strong wind, Citronelli sent McFadin's second pitch deep over the left field fence, giving Howard a 6-0 bulge.

That's the way the contest stayed until the bottom of the eighth inning when Howard ended the game early.

Pinch-hitter Bruce Smith led off the Howard inning with a single to right. Joey Ortiz got a bunt single and Steve Carrasco walked, loading up the bases for Gonzales.

Gonzales walked, scoring Smith and giving Howard a 7-0 lead. Northwood inserted their fourth pitcher of contest to face Mike Byrd. Byrd bounced back to the mound, forcing Ortiz out at home. But the catcher's throw to first was wild, allowing Carrasco to score run number 8.

Lanfear ended the game with his second single of the game, scoring Gonzales and Byrd.

Ashcraft got in trouble only once during the contest, that coming in the top of the eighth when Northwood's Kevin Reeves reached on an error and Pat Kochanski singled. This put runner on first and second with no outs.

Ashcraft then fanned Steve Crone and Dennis Mendoza but walked Andy Stewart loading up the bases. But he got out of the inning by getting Erich Shelton to fly out.

HC coach Bill Griffin was happy to get the win. "I'm pleased with the way we played today," said Griffin. "Chuck (Ashcraft) was great the first seven innings. He tired a little at the end but he pitched a good game."

The win moved Howard's Region 5 record to 10-3 and 24-7 overall. Northwood fell to 7-9 in conference.

The two teams square off in a doubleheader today starting at 1 p.m. at Jack Barber Field.

Stanley Cup playoffs starting to heat up

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota North Stars entered the Stanley Cup playoffs with the worst record of the 16 qualifiers, including a 1-6-1 mark against the Norris Division champion St. Louis Blues. But being healthy has made a world of difference for the National Hockey League team.

"We've got an awful lot of players we didn't have then," Coach Glen Sonmor said Thursday night after Minnesota jumped off to a 2-0 series lead with a 4-3 triumph over the Blues. Now the North Stars, 25-43-12 during the season, are at home for the next two games, starting Saturday night, in the best-of-five series. "It makes a difference."

Keith Acton and Willi Plett scored two goals apiece and and Gilles Meloche turned back 41 shots to lead Minnesota Thursday night.

"If we do well in the playoffs, nobody's going to remember you played that bad all season," Acton said. "We've got a chance to redeem ourselves for a terribly embarrassing season."

Washington, Philadelphia, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Quebec and Chicago hold 2-0 leads as the teams switch sites for the next two games of the divisional playoffs starting Saturday night. In the other series, Montreal and Boston are deadlocked at 1-1 going into Saturday night's play in Boston.

In Thursday night's action, Washington defeated New York Islanders 2-1 in double overtime; Philadelphia beat the New York Rangers 3-1; Edmonton topped Los Angeles 4-2; Winnipeg downed Calgary 5-2; Quebec edged Buffalo 3-2; Chicago ripped Detroit 6-1, and Montreal stopped Boston 5-3.

The Islanders hope a switch to their home ice will help after losing two straight overtime games to the Capitals. New York used to excel in extra session, winning six in a row and 21 of 26 such postseason games entering the 1985 playoffs. Mike Gartner's disputed goal 83 second

Three tied in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Watson, two shots clear of the field with three holes to play, fell victim to a bad break and a bunker and had to settle for a three-way tie for the lead Friday in the second round of the 49th Masters tournament.

Watson, the man who has dominated world golf in recent years, struggled home on a bogey-bogey-par finish for a 71 and reached the halfway point of this, the first of the year's four major tournaments, at 140, four shots under par.

He shared the lead with Craig Stadler, the man called "The Walrus" by his fellow tourists, and Payne Stewart, a casual sort who was wearing lavender plus-fours and a matching cap.

Stadler, three times a runner-up but not yet a winner this season, started play more than an hour in front of the other contenders, scattered eight birdies across his card and shouldered his way past 25 players with a 5-under-par 67. Stewart shot 71.

Gary Hallberg, the first-round leader, could do no better than a 73 and was another shot back at 141, three under par for two trips over the Augusta National Golf Club course.

Gary Koch managed a 70 despite a bogey-bogey finish and was at 142, two under par.

Sandy Lyle rallied from an opening 78 with a 65, one shot off the tournament record, vaulted over 61 players and joined a group at 143, one under par.

"Yesterday was disappointing. Today, it was amazing," said Lyle, a native of Scotland.

He was tied with PGA champion Lee Trevino, veteran Ray Floyd and Bruce Lietzke, golf's most successful cross-handed putter, who shot 71 in the mild, cloudy weather. Trevino, 45, had a 73. Floyd, twice a PGA champion and a former winner here, had the same total despite a ball in the water and a double bogey on the 12th.

Curtis Strange, like Lyle an early starter, also shot 65, improving 15 strokes from his opening 80.

"I won my own little war," said Strange, the season's leading money-winner whose awful opening had put him in danger of missing the cut for the final two rounds.

"Missing the cut doesn't set well with me. I hate it," said Strange, who pitched in for an eagle-2 on the third hole and chipped in for birdie on the 14th.

Jack Nicklaus, however, couldn't make the magic happen as the five-time Masters champion, holder of a record 17 major professional titles, fell from a contending position with a bogey-bogey finish to a 74 and a 145 that left him five strokes off the pace.

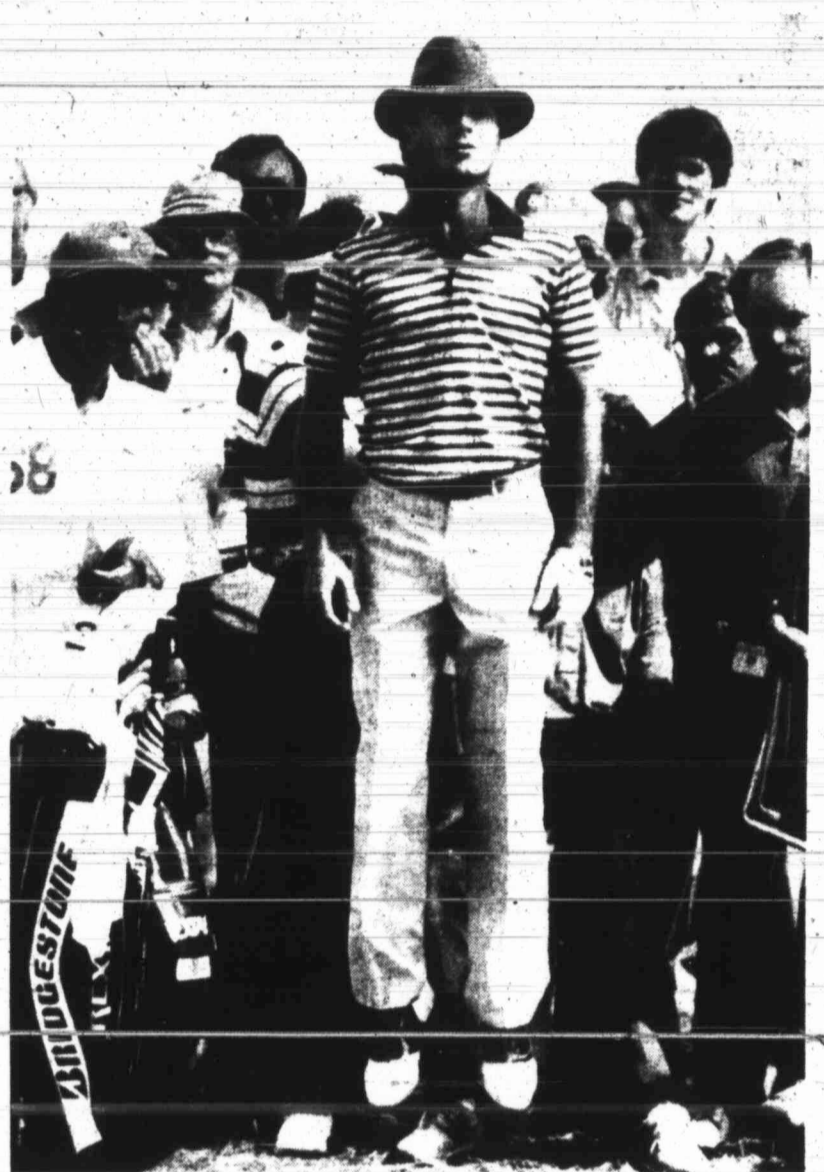

Defending title-holder Ben Crenshaw was another stroke back at 146 after a 76 that included a double bogey on the 11th.

Arnold Palmer, the legendary 55-year-old who scored the last of his four Masters victories in 1964, was the first man off the tee and rewarded his still-faithful gallery with a par round of 72.

"It was fun," Palmer said. "The conditions were perfect. I was hitting the ball well. I was playing at Augusta National. Everything was as it should be."

Except that he had opened with an 83 and had a 36-hole total of 155, five strokes too high to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Tom Kite and U.S. Open champion Fuzzy Zoeller also were casualties.

GARY HALLBERG jumps in the air to locate the pin as he prepares to hit from the fairway on number three at the Masters. HALLBERG, who started the round of play as leader ended up one stroke behind second day leaders, TOM WATSON, PAYNE STEWART and CRAIG STADLER.

Connors advances to WCT semifinals

DALLAS (AP) — Jimmy Connors, playing despite a back injury, fought off young Aaron Krickstein, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, Friday night to advance to the semi-finals of the Buick WCT Finals.

Stefan Edberg and Ivan Lendl played in a later match for the right to meet Connors on Saturday.

Saturday's other semifinal will be between Joakim Nystrom and Tim Mayotte, who advance via upsets Thursday over top-seeded John McEnroe and Mats Wilander.

Krickstein, just 17 but already ranked No. 10 in the world, broke Connors' serve twice en route to a 4-2 lead in the first set, but the 34-year-old Connors kept firing low smashes near the baseline to keep the Grosse Pointe, Mich., teen-ager off balance and put him away with superior volley play.

Connors had to go 69 minutes to win the first set, then breezed through the final two sets.

Krickstein apparently had won the eighth game of the first set for a 5-3 lead when Connors hit a backhand that was wide. However, Connors complained that the ball broke when he hit it, and officials concurred, ordering a replay of the point.

Connors won the replay to put the game at deuce for the second time, then won the next two points on his serve to pull into a 4-4.

Krickstein then won his serve for what would have been a first-serve victory had there been no replay. But Connors, appearing to get stronger, won the next three games and the set.

The final game of the first set went 22 points, with Krickstein at break point eight times, but Connors fought back each time. Connors finally hit a strong serve and put away Krickstein's weak return for the winner.

Connors suffered a pulled back muscle last week in Chicago and had to default in the championship match against McEnroe. But he came to Dallas worked out the problem.

Second seeded JIMMY CONNORS congratulates the service lineman on a call after he disagreed with two other judges on a service. CONNORS advanced to the semifinal round after defeating AARON KRICKSTEIN.

Giants spoil Dodgers home opener, 4-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jeff Leonard ripped a two-run homer as the San Francisco Giants erupted for four runs in the third inning Friday and spoiled Los Angeles' home opener with a 4-1 victory over the Dodgers.

Mike Krukow, making his 1985 debut, checked the Dodgers on eight hits, including a solo home run by Sid Bream in the third inning, the first major league homer for the rookie first baseman. Krukow walked one and struck out five. Rick Honeycutt, the Los Angeles starter, allowed five hits and four runs in 3 2-3 innings in his first appearance of the year.

Mets 1, Reds 0

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Carter hit his second game-winning home run in three games and Bruce Berenyi allowed one hit in seven innings as the New York Mets defeated the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 Friday night.

Berenyi, limited by a sore shoulder to 13 innings of work in spring training, worked seven innings and allowed only Pete Rose's first-inning one-out single. He struck out six, walked one and got a fine defensive play by center fielder Mookie Wilson to protect the lead.

Quebec won at home when Normand Rochefort's goal went by Buffalo goalie Tom Barrasso with 4:51 remaining. The Sabres had tied the game only 41 seconds earlier when Phil Housley scored.

Chris Nilan broke a 3-3 tie with a third-period tip-in and added an insurance tally to pull Montreal even its series with Boston. Keith Crowder, Steve Kasper and Rick Middleton collected second-period goals for Boston before Chris Chelios tied it for the Canadiens.

Chicago grabbed a 3-0 first-period lead over Detroit on goals by Darryl Sutter, Ken Yaremchuk and Al Secord. Curt Fraser, Keith Brown and Doug Wilson completed the scoring for the host Black Hawks.

Pirates 6, Cards 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jason Thompson drilled a two-run homer to key a four-run first inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates celebrated their home opener Friday night with a 6-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Pirates, held to two runs and nine hits in a pair of season-opening losses to the Chicago Cubs.

Padres 7, Braves 3

ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Garvey drilled a pair of solo homers and Kevin McReynolds and Al Bumbry rapped two-run doubles to power the San Diego Padres to 7-3 victory over Atlanta Friday night, spoiling the Braves' home opener before a crowd of 45,389.

Big Spring to host Girls National Tournament

The Big Spring United Girls Softball Association will be hosting the National Tournament this summer on the weekend of July 24-27. This is quite an honor for a town the size of Big Spring, who successfully bid for the tournament over a number of other larger cities around the country.

Thirty-nine teams will be competing in this year's tournament, with a total of 560 girls and managers in town from as far away as Virginia.

As host of the 1985 tournament, Big Spring's USGA girl's four division winners will automatically be seeded in the tournament. Each team who qualifies to play in the tournament will be guaranteed to play at least four games.

Sign-ups for this year's teams are being held today at both Big Spring malls from 1-5 p.m. for girls ages 7-19. Opening ceremonies are scheduled for May 6 at the Roy Anderson Complex fields.
