Spring Police launch manhunt after Wal-Mart theft

Suspect, 'hostage' arrested By CAROL BALDWIN

Staff Writer A man taken "hostage" Saturday afternoon reportedly confessed was part of a theft at Wal-Mart that FM 700.

By 6 p.m., both men involved in the incident were in police custody. Arrested were Juan Mata, 29, of Lubbock, charged with making a false statement to police and with theft over $50, and Glenn L. Boyd, 35, also of Lubbock, charged with theft over $750.

Police originally believed that Mata was an unwilling hostage taken in the incident. According to early reports, a man drove up to Officer Freddie Brown around 11 a.m. and said a fight was taking place near Wal-Mart.

Brown ran to the scene and met the Wal-Mart assistant manager, who said he chased a man out of the store after the suspect was observed trying to leave the store with a videotape recorder.

The suspect was described as a Cuban male, 5'10" tall, weighing then run toward a gulley area," Lt. 165 pounds and wearing a light blue to give his name for publication. Police were later told that the suspect "commandeered the car and forced Mata to drive" him from the scene at knifepoint, Edwards said.

Brown radioed for assistance and gave a description of the vehicle. Officer Phillip Buys spotted the vehicle along FM 700 near Baylor.

As Buys turned toward the vehicle, the vehicle made a sharp turn onto Baylor. According to report filed Saturday night, "while out of the officer's vision, one subject exited the vehicle and hid behind a parked vehicle. ### Rain, hail pelt area

People along the city's east side and downtown area reported almost a half-inch of rain Saturday during a heavy, hail-ridden thunderstorm.

But farmers in Knott and residents on the city's southwest sides said the rain didn't reach them.

Heavy clouds rolled into Howard County around 2 p.m. and sizzling summer-like temperatures gave way to darkened skies and cooler temperatures.

By 3 p.m., residents in the Kentwood area were reporting light sprinkles and thunder.

As the rainfall moved through downtown Big Spring, raindrops began falling hard and pea size hail was reported.

Tommy Hart, a resident on the city's east side, received .41 of an inch of rain and a sprinkling of sized hail. Hail was reported from the Kentwood area, out toward Coahoma along FM 700 and in downtown Big Spring.

Larry Shaw, a Knott farmer, said he received no rain during the

Jack Y: Former councilman reflects on City Hall, looks to future

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer ack Y. Smith may have lost the election, but he hasn't lost his spark of enthusiasm for Big Spring and its people.

At an age when most men have relaxed into retirement, Smith, 73, continues to be active in community affairs.

"If I get to where I can't do things, I'd be miserable. If I can't help people, I'm through,' he said last week. The former mayor pro-tem lost his bid this month for reelection to his fourth consecutive term to the city council. He also served three twoyear terms in the 1950s. "I am going to continue to work for the betterment of the city," Smith said. "I've been here too long to move my roots. I've seen Big Spring grow to where it is, and I have ambitions to see it bigger.'

He and his wife, Edna Faye, came to Big Spring in 1934 after his graduation from Simmons College in Abilene to work for the Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. refinery. An industrial

Texas cities, Smith bristles. "I don't think they've grown as much as we have."

"The best thing we've got here is the people; we've got people who really get out and work hard for Big Spring," he said. "We've got churches, schools, parks, roads and water. We've got more than they've got. They've just gotten the breaks.

Smith said he was disappointed at his sixth-place finish in the council election but was thankful for the phone calls, cards and comments of support after the election.

He advertised and campaigned little because the issues focused on the firefighters' civil service referendum and City Manager Don Davis' personality, he said.

'I didn't want to get into a big old argument. I felt like after 51 years if they didn't know me they never would." He paused and laughed a little. "And they knew me." Smith wouldn't comment on whether he might run for public office again, but said he wants to remain on two governor-appointed regional planning commission and grant review boards, if he is not required to hold public office.

Sitting in a yellow patio chair in his "thinking room," an enclosed patio with glass windows that looks out on dozens of doves hopping around his backyard tennis court, Smith outlined his plans.

Weekend in Big Spring

Radio contest winners discover free jaunt to city is no joke

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

"Hello, this is radio station KVIL, and you've just won a trip to Big Spring."

Big Spring? Karen Mayfield, 44, of San Angelo thought the offer was

In fact, the whole thing started out as a joke. San Angelo radio station KVIL was offering a trip to Hot Springs, Ark., for the first person who could guess when a spring under one of the city's main streets would stop flowing.

Mayfield said the city has had trouble with the spring for years and has tried to plug it on several occasions. She gave the second best guess as to when the leak would be plugged.

Promoters decided to offer a second prize, something in keeping with the theme of "spring." Big Spring came to mind.

"They thought it was funny," Mayfield said of the radio promoters, "It has turned out to be a lot of fun."

Cathy Fowler of KVIL is a Big Spring native. She joined in the fun and told the Mayfields a tour of Big Spring would take "all of 20 minutes." But KVIL and Big Spring radio station KWKI decided to turn the joke into a real vacation.

Mayfield said she was going to tell friends back in San Angelo that, "Big Spring is the biggest place I've ever been. I bought me a new wash dress." But after she and her husband Tom, 46, arrived Fri-"Everyone has been so nice that I haven't got the heart to do that

Big Spring looks a lot different in the daylight, Mayfield said. "I was surprised, but there is a lot here. (Big Spring) has a really nice museum. We like old things, museums and things like that. It is well run and well maintained."

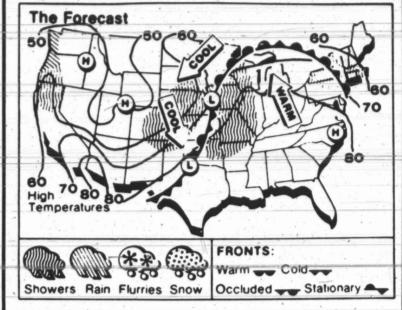

On Saturday afternoon the city was hit by a "nice rainstorm. I think that was ordered especially for us," Mayfield said with a laugh.

When they're not off enjoying vacations in Big Spring, Karen keeps busy by working as a church secretary. Tom works for GTE. He was out of town when his wife won the free weekend.

"I've always entered contests." Karen said. She said she was glad she won a trip to Big Spring. "I recently turned down a chance to take a trip to New Orleans. I don't like big cities.'

He became active with the department in the 1960s, when he agitated for visitation rights for parents and relatives of mental health patients. At that time, "you took somebody in (to a state facility) and you'd never see them again," Smith said. "That just wasn't right."

He points to one of several plaques hanging on a hall wall, signed by former Texas Gov. John Connally, for his work on a committee that wrote the rule book on state hospitals and homes that outlined patients and relatives' rights. Others commend him for his work on the construction of an All-Faiths Chapel at the Big Spring State

He will continue to serve on the state executive board for the volunteer council, the Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation Commissioner's advisory board and a regional Small Business Administration loan review board, he said.

In addition, he has headed the boards of directors for various community and volunteer organizations, including the Salvation Army, the YMCA, the Red Cross, the United Fund and the Lions Club.

During his last term in office, Smith served as council liaison with the Humane Society on the construction of the new animal shelter. "I see the animal shelter as an asset to the community. I know some people don't, but I do.

'So many people told me, 'Jack, why are you worrying about that place? The dogs only live 72 hours before they're kill-" he said. "If I had only 72 hours to live, I'd like to live in a nice, clean place, not a dungeon. And anyway, they are often adopted or the owners reclaim councilmen on more than one occasion. During the heated civil service campaign, he publicly called city staff figures on cost increases in the program "wrong" and "misleading." At the same time, he continued to oppose civil service.

"I've probably made some (councilmen) unhappy," Smith said, referring to his habit of questioning details and motives for city actions during formal council meetings.

"We would thrash the issues out during work sessions, but the public wasn't there then. We know what we're doing, but I don't think the public knows,' Smith said. "I would make sure and ask questions so the public would understand."

"I raised cane because l thought we had too many closed sessions. They were legal, don't get me wrong, but I think they could have been discussed in public," he said. "Doggone it, we represent the public and they ought to see what the story is.

Smith also protested tax increases. "I don't know why we're so high on taxes compared to other cities. There's always gravy in the budget. For every $37,000 we can save, we can save a cent on everybody's taxes," he said. "Every little bit adds up."

Despite his vocal stands on issues, Smith said city government should not be run on political decisions. "Politics shouldn't be involved. You should be there to serve the people," he said.

Among the projects he has been involved with, he counts as most important his work on capital improvement bond issues for repairs and paving of streets, water and sewer lines; the proposed installation of the new baler at the city landfill; and improvements to city parks, especially the municipal golf course.

Rangers' probe of Lucas stories unethical, DA says

WACO (AP) - McLennan County District Attorney Vic Feazell said Saturday that much of the Texas Rangers' investigation into Henry Lee Lucas' murder confessions may have been "unethical or improper.

Feazell said the local grand jury investigation that he and Attorney General Jim Mattox initiated has uncovered instances in which the task force let Lucas have information about unsolved slayings.

That information, he told the Waco Tribune-Herald, led Lucas to confess to murders he could not have committed. But Department of Public Safety chief Col. Jim Adams told The Associated Press Saturday night that Feazell "has not advised me of any specific unethical or improper acts on the part of the Rangers task force.' Adams labeled as "ridiculous"

Feazell's assertion that federal agents may have tried to take custody of Lucas Friday because Rangers fear that the local investigation may prove embarrassing for them.
"Apply what I call the smell test," Feazell said. "Something stinks. These are the kind of things we are trying to get to the bottom of and we are being hampered at every turn."

But "this is ridiculous," Adams countered. "The facts clearly show that the task force has not denied access to Lucas to any law enforcement agency or district attorney's office desiring to interview him. The only time access has been restricted has been while he's been in custody in McLennan County."

On Friday, U.S. District Judge Edward Prado in San Antonio signed a warrant ordering Lucas to be transferred from McLennan County Jail to San Antonio to appear before a U.S. grand jury at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

But when federal marshals showed up with the court order, McLennan County Sheriff Jack Harwell refused to hand over Lucas. Feazell said Saturday he is standing by the sheriff.

Feazell said federal agents may try to jail him and Harwell for refusing the court order. But he said he is standing firm because he believes federal authorities may try to cover up the task force investigation of Lucas.

"(The U.S. marshals) weren't interested in this case back when Henry Lee Lucas was confessing to all these crimes he didn't commit. They weren't interested in this case back when cases were being cleared and the real murderers were out walking the streets," Feazell said.

"And now all of a sudden when something is being done about this situation, here comes the feds. I'm just curious as to what their involvement is. And I'm concerned that if Lucas leaves our jurisdiction, we will never get to the bottom of this," he said.

Mattox's office has said it will file a motion in federal court Monday to keep Lucas in Waco until the county grand jury has finished its investigation.

Law enforcement officials in 26 states have cleared almost 200 murder cases based on Lucas' confessions. But Lucas has now recanted all but three, and recently aired evidence suggests it would have been nearly impossible for him to have committed many of the Lucas, 48, was moved to Waco on April 12 from Williamson County, where he has been in the custody of the Ranger task force, to answer questions about two Waco area murders he admitted committing but later recanted.

The McLennan County grand jury is scheduled to resume its investigation May 3.

Christian camp taken

THREE BROTHERS, Ark. - Police with camouflage clothing and blackened faces tightened their noose around the remote encampment of a band of self-styled Christian survivalists Saturday, searching some buildings and hoping to flush out their leader.

The officers moved cautiously to avoid a confrontation and out of fear the compound belonging to the white-supremacist group called the Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord had been mined, an FBI agent said.

Less than 50 miles away Saturday, police arrested David Tate, ending an intense manhunt that began five days earlier with the slaying of a Missouri state trooper at a random traffic stop.

David Tate, 22, linked to the neo-Nazi group called The Order and charged with firstdegree murder in the trooper's death, was arrested unarmed and without incident in a city park, said Capt. Lee Thompson of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Reagan to visit death camp, but anger rages

BONN, West Germay (AP) - A Jewish leader said Saturday President Reagan could have spared himself "a lot of embarrassment" by originally including a visit to a former Nazi death camp along with a stop at a German military cemetery.

Werner Nachman, chairman of the Central Council of German Jews, made the comment a day after Reagan announced he would add a visit to a concentration camp in his itinerary. A week ago, Reagan said he would visit a German military cemetery but not a camp during his May 1-6 tour of West Germany.

In an interview with the newspaper Bild am Sonntag, Nachmann said White House aides responsible for Reagan's initial schedule "made serious psychological

"One can only form the future from knowledge of the past," he said. "Without consciousness of this history (Nazi atrocities), the younger generation cannot guarantee that such tyranny will never recur.

"Therefore, we insist that the president, who is planning a gesture of reconciliation with his visit to the soldiers' cemetery, also remember the past there. Not to reopen wounds, but simply to remember the Chancellor Helmut Kohl said he understood Jewish concern over Reagan's plans to visit the military cemetery in Bitburg, where the bodies of some Nazi SS troopers are buried.

'I can fully understand that the victims of the Nazi barbarians cannot forget (what took place)," Kohl

Most of the 2,000 German soldiers buried at Bitburg died fighting U.S. troops and those of its allies in the December 1944 Battle of the Bulge. Thousands of Americans also perished in the battle

Kohl welcomed Reagan's decision to add a concentration camp site to his agenda without cancelling the

He said Reagan's visit to Bitburg would be a "symbol of reconciliation" between the United States and Germany 40 years after the end of World War II.

"It was a difficult decision for the president (to visit the Bitburg cemetery) and I thanked him for it," the conservative chancellor said in an interview with West German television Friday.

Objections about Reagan's cemetery visit have been raised daily.

An alliance between Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., and the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf here would give SWCID a much-deserved boost in recognition. Gallaudet officials were here Thursday visiting the SWCID campus as they prepare to pick a regional center for Gallaudet services. They could not go wrong in selecting SWCID.

The greatest benefit for SWCID would be in building the deaf students' college reputation in the nation. When people think of colleges for the deaf, they recognize the Gallaudet name. An affiliation between SWCID and the established Gallaudet would help SWCID's name identification in the United States.

But one important consideration in keeping SWCID viable in its vital role of educating the deaf and hearing impaired is its tuition costs. The onerous tuition increase levied on out-ofstate students can be alleviated by the Texas Legislature this session. We hope the legislation is approved which will put SWCID in the same category — for tuition purposes — as other state-supported institutions in Texas. That's an important must in assuring SWCID's long-term viability, and it looks like that effort is on track in Austin with the support of Sen. John Montford of Lubbock.

A plum would be establishment by Gallaudet of a regional

We hope SWCID gets both so that its important work moves forward, in pace with its progressive educational program.

Trade imbalance good for business

Japanese trade policies have a germ of truth in thiem. Japan is a tough market for foreign manufacturers, and the blame lies partly with its government. But the demands for U.S. retaliation don't have much to do with any of this. Japan's restrictions are just a handy excuse for American ones.

Judging from the intemperate talk emanating from Washingtoin, Congress is sorely vexed at Japan. The Senate Finance Committee approved a bill requiring the president to take steps to cut the trade deficit with Japan. The House likewise called for action against Japanese goods unless Tokyo accepts more imports.

The administration says Japan has pledged to do just that. If the and possibly even if they do, they may face punitive measures.

What's behind all this? Japan hasn't gotten more protectionist. In terms of tariffs and other formal barriers, it is more open than almost any other advanced economy. The more subtle obstacles are its insular society and alien culture, which foreign sellers often find just as frustrating as legal restrictions. But those factors aren't new either.

What has changed is the imbalance of trade in manufactured goods. The U.S. has run a deficit with Japan for years, but it's grown substantially in the last four years. And 1984 brought the biggest gap yet - $37 billion, nearly a third of our entire merchandise trade deficit.

Contrary to myth, this isn't the result of a Japanese refusal to buy American goods. American exports to Japan actually rose by 9 percent last year. But U.S. imports from Japan rose even faster.

How come? One reason is the strong dollar. Foreigners, including Japanese, are eager to buy a share of our booming economy. As long as foreigners invest more here than Americans invest

The latest jeremiads against abroad, Americans will have to import more goods than they export. That's not a bad trade.

Another reason is that the U.S. has recovered much faster from the last recession than our trading partners have. Last year, the American economy grew by 6.8 percent, compared to 4 percent in Canada, 2.6 percent in West Germany and 1.6 percent in Great Britain. Japan, with 6.2 percent growth, also lagged behind the U.S.

Consequently, American businesses and consumers have more money to spend than their foreign counterparts. So the U.S. imports more than they do. Our trade balance normally deteriorates in an expansion, but the comparative vitality of the U.S. recovery has exaggerated the Amid all the calls for "retaliation," it's easy to forget that the industries most hurt by Japanese competition aren't affected much by Japan's policies on imports. Chryşler isn't going to sell many cars there no matter what - it has enough trouble competing with Toyota here.

What Lee Iacocca wants is not to gain access to Japan, but to deny the Japanese access to America. No amount of U.S. exports to Japan will make American cars more attractive or Japanese cars less attractive to American buyers Threatening retaliation may be useful in bargaining with Tokyo. But carrying it out would harm Americans more than it would help — as did the "voluntary" quota on Japanese auto shipments. They added hundreds of dollars to the price of every car, exacting a cost of about $240,000 for every job saved in the U.S. auto industry.

The important point to keep in mind is that Americans benefit from letting in imports even if the exporting nations shut out our exports. Thanks to imports, we get cheaper and better goods, a lower inflation rate and more efficient production from our own industries. Those benefits far outweigh the costs inflicted on American firms that compete with imports.

The real losers in world trade are the countries that keep out imports, thus condemning themselves to a lower standard of living. Japan may be addicted to that error. There's no reason the U.S. should

What's not on the agenda

By JOHN RICE Managing Editor

Maybe among the training short courses available to public officials there should be one titled: "How to Write an Agenda." Why not? New justices of the peace go the class to learn their duties. County clerks and auditors and tax assessors have schools available on clerking and auditing and assessing. Why shouldn't county judges have a short course on agenda-writing?

It's one of their most important duties. Think of it: The agenda is the ship's wheel of county government. The decision-makers - the holders and

Billy Graham

Making the difference

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Frankly, I don't see anything different about the people around me who claim to be Christians. What is the difference, in your view? Why should I consider religion or God if it isn't going to make any difference in my life? - J.H.

DEAR J.H.: I agree with you — if Christ is real, he should make a difference in the lives of those who truly follow Him.

But notice that I say those who truly follow Him The problem is that many people go through life without ever giving any serious thought to their relationship with God. They may even become involved in a church - but in their hearts they are not committed to Jesus Christ and do not seek to follow him. If that is the case, there is probably very little difference in their lives, for they are not allowing Chrst to make any impact on them.

But Christ will make a difference when we truly commit our lives to him and seek to follow him every day. That doesn't mean a follower of Christ suddenly becomes perfect; he will fail at times, for only in heaven will he be free of sin. But what difference would Christ make in a person's life who truly was seeking to follow him? For one thing, his motives v'ould be different — he would desire to serve Christ, rather than just please himself. He also would have a new love and concern for others, because he knows hat Christ loves them. He also would be uncomfortable with habits and practices that he knows are not pleasing to God, and would seek to conquer them with God's help.

And Christ will make a difference in your life if you will let him. Don't keep your eyes on those who claim to be Christians but show no evidence of it. Put your eyes on Christ, who loves you and dies for your sins on the cross. Then open your heart to Him and discover the joy of following him every day.

spenders of your tax money and mine — use it to guide their actions. The future of county government lies in its ability to make reasoned, calculated judgments. Commissioners hardly can be expected to make sensible decisions without a clear agenda.

And what of the public? No, most people don't anxiously await the next meeting of commissioners court, ready to run down to the second floor of the courthouse to have a say in county government. By and large, people figure that's what they hire county commissioners to do. But there might be occasion to take an interest in an item up for action by the county. Without a clear agenda, they have no chance to know beforehand what the meeting is to be about.

If we at the newspaper based our advance story about an upcoming meeting solely on the agenda, we'd merely be perpetuating the mystery. Instead, we spend considerable time asking for explanation on the agenda items so we can print a story with detail in advance of the meeting. But oftentimes our attempts to find out what is to transpire are stymied because, quite frankly, it's unclear just what the meeting will be about.

Sometimes, even the commissioners are

County Commissioner Bill Crooker, a 16-year veteran of the court, says the commissioners get 'very little information" about upcoming meetings. More often than he likes, he ends up "flying by the seat of my pants and the grace of God," he says.

"From the public's standpoint, it's only fair that there's enough information that if they (people) are interested they can appear and voice an opinion," he says. Agendas drawn by County Judge Milton Kirby don't give that kind of detail, he says. In fact, "We've had him (Kirby) post emergency agendas" because a matter up for a vote hadn't been properly posted. "It's ridiculous," says Crooker.

Consider the agenda for Monday's meeting. Under "new business," we have "discussion with Margy Thompson, Juvenile Probation Department." What is Margy going to discuss? Moving it? Abolishing it? I don't know

There will be "discussion with Charles Ginn" on "Emergency Service for Big Spring." What could that be? A contract to fix the photocopiers? A new I'm trying not to be flip, and there's really not much humor in all this. When agendas are limited to giving people in the know the inside information, they fail to perform their intended function: advise the public of the business of government.

If the people in the know are in the dark, too, then we've got some real problems.

Don't the Jews and Germans deserve a break from all this?

That was the plea of a Dallas Morning News writer two weeks ago as he reviewed the televisior series "Wallenberg," the celluloid saga of a Swedish envoy who savec thousands of Hungarian Jews dur-ing World War II.

News reviewer Ed Bark asked why the TV audience needec another "heavy dose of slobbering Nazis torturing innocent Jews. Even if next month marks the 40th anniversary of the war's end ir Europe, no one will benefit from seeing the Holocaust replayed again and again, Bark said.

And he's right. Recounting the grisly details of Nazi persecution makes of the Holocaust a bloody Roman spectacle.

The Germans have been forgiven, and the Jews have gracefully memorialized their 6 million dead. Let's leave them alone.

Enter Ronald Reagan.

No one should have been upset when Reagan first announced that he had no plans to visit a concentration camp during his trip to West Germany next month. He said a camp visit would open old wounds, "reawakening the memories...and the passion of the time."

Sounds reasonable. But then the White House announced the president (who last year declined to preside at the dedication of the Vietnam War Memorial) instead would visit a German military cemetery containing over 30 graves of Waffen SS troops. Talk about reawakening basic World War II passions.

Folly followed error after veteran and Jewish groups ex-pressed more than mild moral

The president answered that he hadn't been invited to a concentration camp. Then he said he had misunderstood the Germans and that, yes, he had been so invited and he would visit a camp. But he refused to drop the cemetery from his itinerary, saying the German soldiers also were victims of the Holocaust.

Old wounds became new injuries. Through ignorance and in-sensitivity, the White House in two short weeks managed to offend Jews, Germans and American veterans. A West German parliament leader accurately called the affair a "disgraceful spectacle."

We don't need more blood and gore Holocaust stories. But we could use a heavy dose of education and perspective.

Many in the world - especially President Reagan - don't seem to understand why 6 million Jews and one-half million American GIs died 40 years ago.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Making cents of farmworker insurance

By LARRY DON SHAW One of the least publicized, yet toughest issues for rural legislation in 1985 is that of unemployment compensation for farmworkers. A recent district court decision would require all agricultural employers to provide unemployment coverage for their employees for all of calendar year 1985.

In all likelihood, this decision will be upheld by the state Supreme Court, and virtually all farmers and ranchers will be required to pay unemployment taxes equal to 2.7 percent of the first $7,000 salary for each employee. In addition, projections from the Texas Employment Commission indicate that the imemdiate influx of farmworkers benefits could cause an increase in unemployment taxes by as much as $1 billion for nonagricultural employers

Unfortunately, there are only two ways to delay or avoid this potentially disastrous situation. The first would be for the state Supreme Court to over-rule the lower court's decision, which is an extremely unlikely occurrence. The second is a bill by Rep. Lloyd Criss, House Bill, 32, which would supercede the court decision

House Bill 32 would phase-in farmworker coverage over a twoyear period beginning on Jan. 1, 1986, with full implementation by the end of 1987. Under this proposal, farmers and ranchers would be spared having to pay unemployment taxes for all of 1985. The vast majority would not be required to participate until 1987.

new expenses, even relatively small ones like the unemployment tax, must be considered as a plus. House Bill 32 will not only protect farmers and farmworkers, it is also designed to avoid forcing a tax increase on small businesses and other non-agricultural employers who would be devastated by the enactment of the court decision.

While no employer, agricultural or otherwise, relishes paying ing from you.

unemployment taxes, the alter natives for this issue are clear: W can allow the courts to force al farmers and ranchers to providunemployment coverage im mediately, thus causing an in crease in unemployment taxes fo all other employers. Or, on the other hand, we can adopt House Bill 32, and by doing so, provide: two-year reprieve for most of ou farmers and ranchers and avoid tax increses for other employers. Although neither alternative is pleasant, I support House Bill 3 because it makes the most sense for my district. Recognizing the potential problems surrounding this issue, this bill has also won the support of the Texas Farm Bureau the Farmer's Union, United Farm workers, the Texas AFL-CIO, the Texas Association of Business and the Texas Conference of Churches

We passed this bill in the House by a vote of 86 to 54, and it now awaits action in the Senate where i is expected to pass with little difficulty.

A .: The reason fee-splitting is respectable and above board in real estate is quite a few people may be involved in one transaction. It is, for example, unusual for one real estate agent to represent both buyer and seller. Services performed by many different people may include: putting the property on the market, showing the property, finding a buyer, negotiating the final selling price and completing the legal paperwork for both buyer and seller. Each six weeks the students in room 101 (Mrs. Slate/Mrs. Allen) challenge the students in room 102 (Mrs. Strahl/Mr. Allen) to either spelling baseball or spelling basketball.

But what does it mean?

Who Has 20/20 Vision? You know the phrase "He has 20/20 vision.

The term "20/20" is shorthand. The first 20 refers to the distance at which the test is being given, (20 feet). The second 20 refers to the distance at which you should be able to clearly see the letters of that size. Therefore if you have 20/20 vision, you see the letters at 20 feet which you should see at 20 feet. If you have 20/40 vision, you must be as near as 20 feet to see what eone with normal vision could see at 40 feet. In some instances, people have 20/10 vision. This is better than average. It means you can see at 20 feet what a person with normal vision needs to be as near as 10 feet to see.

Celtics nip Cavaliers Blazers dump Dallas

By The Associated Press

Larry Bird capped a 30-point performance with a layup with two minutes remaining to give Boston the lead for good and the Celtics pulled out a 108-106 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Saturday to take a 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff series

In other playoff games Saturday afternoon, all during first-round best-of-five series, the Los Angeles Lakers took a 2-0 lead over Phoenix with a 147-130 romp over the Suns, and Portland evened its series with Dallas at one game each with a 124-121 overtime decision over the Mavericks.

In night action, San Antonio visited Denver for the second game of that series, with Denver leading 1-0.

Boston's victory was its second straight hardfought decision over Cleveland. Boston can wrap up the series Tuesday night in Cleveland. In the first game Thursday night, the Celtics trailed 123-122 with 1:28 remaining before rallying for a 126-123 victory.

"I don't think being down 2-0 is a problem," said Cleveland Coach George Karl. "The problem is confidence. Where is the confidence to get over the hump? ... The thing that bothered me is we came up with two big efforts and still came up

Cleveland, which trailed by 11 points late in the third quarter, took a 102-101 lead over Boston on two free throws by World B. Free with 2:21

Bird then got the ball underneath Boston's basket and, while being tightly guarded by several Cavaliers, made the go-ahead basket. Robert Parish, who had 18 points, then hit a short jumper with 1:22 to go to make the score 105-102.

Cleveland twice got within a point, but a basket and a free throw by Danny Ainge kept the Celtics on top. Cleveland had a final chance to tie but Free, who led the Cavs with 25 points, missed a 22-footer at the buzzer.

"My concern always goes to the next game, to try to win that," said Boston Coach K.C. Jones. "We won two games. That's all I'm concerned

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 24 points, 20 in the first half, as the Lakers, 28-point winners in the first game, again romped over Phoenix. Los Angeles could end the best-of-five series with a victory in Phoenix on Tuesday night

Bob McAdoo added 22 points for Los Angeles, Byron Scott had 21 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 19 points and 12 assists.

Alvan Adams led the Suns with 23 points and Jay Humphries had 21.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 27 points, including eight in overtime, to spark Portland. The third game of the series will be in Portland on Tuesday

Vandeweghe hit his last five shots and nailed two free throws with seven seconds to play to ice the game. Dallas' Rolando Blackman, the hero of Thurs day night's 139-131 double overtime victory with 43 points, scored 41 points on Saturday. In Sunday playoff action, Chicago is at

Milwaukee, Washington is at Philadelphia, New Jersey is at Detroit and Utah is at Houston. Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham is set on his starting lineup, but Washington Coach Gene

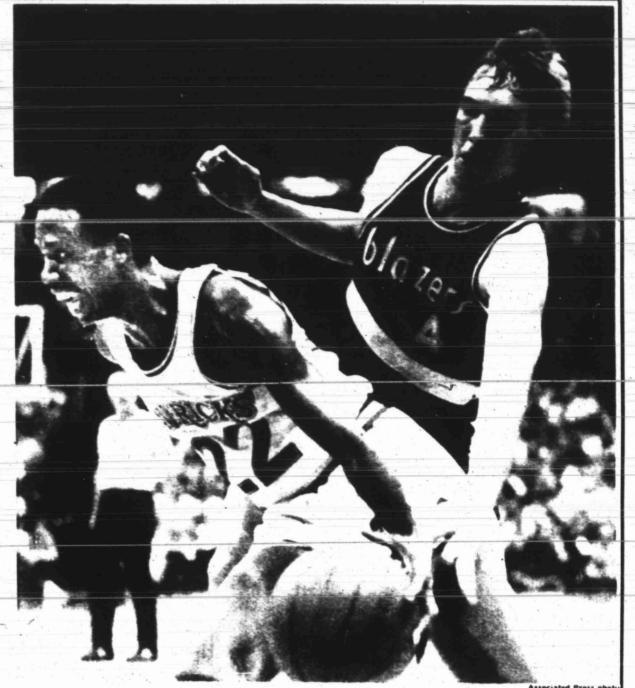

Shue is still tinkering with combinations. Cunningham will go with Julius Erving and Bobby Jones at forward, Moses Malone at center and Maurice Cheeks and Andrew Toney in the backcourt. That combination led the Sixers to a 104-97 victory in Game 1 of the series Wednesday. Shue has to decide whether 6-foot-11 center Jeff Ruland, who has a strained right shoulder, is ready to start: Guard Jeff Malone, an average 18.9 scorer, is nursing a wrenched back.

If Malone doesn't play, Dudley Bradley, who had 10 points in game one, will be his likely replacement. Ruland, who missed 43 of the Bullets' last 44 games, played 31 minutes off the bench Wednesday and scored 20 points and collected 10 rebounds.

To take advantage of the 76ers' lack of height, Shue is toying with the idea of using a front line of 6-9 Cliff Robinson, 6-9 Charley Jones, and Ruland.

Highland girls take 6-A crown

By STEVEN BELVIN Staff Writer

FORSAN - Led by the allaround performance of Brande Owens, the Highland Hornets girls won the 6-A district track and field championships here yesterday.

Owens, who is headed to Howard College on a basketball scholarship, won the meet's High Point Award by scoring 38 points.

Friday she took three gold medals by winning the igh jump, long jump and triple jump. She also anchored the winning 400 meter relay team and the third-place 800 relay team.

With her fast start Friday whe led the Hornets to points in the field events. That many points was too much for second place Garden City to overcome. Garden City scored on 13 points in-the field events.

But the fiesty Garden City track team made a gallant run at the winners. Highland outpointed Garden City 132-113 i the final Garden City was led by their gold medal winning 800 and 1600 relays. The team of Jacque Jost, Gena Schaefer, Lara Hilger and Carol Hoelscher ran away from the field in the 1600 relay.

Hilger, Carol Hoelscher and Dan Hoelscher had a little tougher time in the 800 relay. Anchorwoman Schaefer came from behind to nip Loraine runner Beverly Griffin at the tape. "I was a little behind when I got the stick, " said Schaefer. At the 100 meter mark I though she (Griffin) had me. I finally passed her with about 10-15

The foursome of Schaefer,

Garden City also ot first places from Dana Hoelscher n the 100 hurdles and Jacque Jost who ran away from the field in the 400.

It ws a good day for Forsan freshman Robin Soles as she won the 200 and finished second n the 100. Miler kristy Fuqua and the Forsan 400 relay team finished Grady's Shanna Hale was the class of the meet in the distance races. Friday the junior runner lapped the entire field while crusing to a victory in the 3200. Yesterday she opened up with a blistering first lap of 70 and went on to win the 1600 in 5:41.20.

It ws the first competiton for Hale in three weeks, since she suffered a rib injury. "I'm getting back into shape," she said. My legs are fine but I must work on my wind. She admits that winning by such large margins has its disavantages. "It's hard for me to pace myself when I'm running by myself. I just try to go out and run as hard as I can.

Sands weight person Michelle Bays won the only other double individual winner. The senior copped gold medals in the shot put and district. Her throws of 29-10 and 86-4 were well under her seaon bests.

Garden City made the only sweep of the meet when its 800 runners finished 1-2-3. Schafer won the event in 2:26.17.

Boston 'slams' Chicago, 12-8

By The Associated Press Marty Barrett hit his first grand slam home run, and only the fourth homer of his career, to cap a Boston power surge that carried the Red Sox to a 12-8 victory over the White Sox Saturday in Chicago.

The grand slam came in the ninth inning with Boston nursing an 8-7 lead, and Greg Walker homered for the White Sox to lead off the bottom half of the inning.

Tony Armas drove in three runs for the Red Sox, one with a home run. Mike Easler and Rich Ged-

The Red Sox scored two more runs in the eighth inning, Gedman driving in one with a grounder, but Chicago scored twice in the bottom of the inning to make it 8-7. Carlton Fisk also homered for Chicago.

In the rest of the American League, Lou Whitaker hit a oneout, bases-loaded single to cap a ninth-inning rally that lifted the Detroit Tigers over Kansas City 4-3. Royals ace reliever Dan Quisenberry was protecting a 3-2 lead going into the ninth but yielded four singles and a walk to produce the two Detroit runs. Darrell Evans homered for the Tigers in the seventh inning.

Willie Upshaw tripled home the tying run and scored on a sacrifice fly by Willie Aikens in the eighth inning as Toronto beat Baltimore 3-2. Lloyd Moseby started the rally when he reached first base on an error by shortstop Cal Ripken.

Mike Pagliarulo hit a basesloaded, three-run double to cap New York's four-run first inning, and the Yankees coasted to a 5-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. The double made a winner of Phil

The fourth annual Big Spring Health Fair will focus on children, according to Barbara Holdampf, one of the organizers of the event. The fair is scheduled Saturday, May 18, at the Big Spring Mall. Holdampf said 5,000 people participated in the 1984 fair and 4,000 completed screenings.

Sponsors are the Big Spring Health Council, including the division of Allied Health at Howard College, Howard County-Big Spring City Health Unit, Hospital Council of Big Spring, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Texas Agriculture Extension Services, Big Spring Herald and the Chamber of Commerce.

Fifty booths are expected this year, offering counseling and information on health matters. Approximately 18 screenings will be offered.

Holdampf said the most popular screenings are blood pressure, diabetes, hematology and weight screenings. The glaucoma and hearing screenings are also popular.

A number of screenings this year will be aimed at children. Finger printing and child identification, coordinated by Police Sgt. Fred Pace, are planned.

Assisting Pace will be the home health department at Malone-Hogan Hospital and the 'Chemical People" volunteers.

A puppet show will be offered to educate kids and their parents on recognizing child abuse.

The American Diabetic Association will offer diabetic screening for children. The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will sponsor developmental screening

A dental screening will be coordinated by Dr. Charles Rainwater and Dr. Alice Haynes, assisted by other local dentists, dental hygienists and students enrolled in the Howard College Dental Hygiene program.

Other screenings include orthopedics, scoliosis, breast and colon cancer, blood pressure, anemia, sickle cell anemia and

The Health Fair was developed in 1982 to provide health information and selected screenings to persons in the community. Persons interested in participating in the fair may call Barbara Holdampf at Howard College.

Fire burns West Texas blood bank

LUBBOCK (AP) - A two-alarm blaze that may have been sparked by a faulty chair motor decimated a blood blank early Saturday and caused more than $1 million damage, officials said.

United Blood Services of Lubbock lost its entire blood supply more than 1,000 units - in the fire that broke out shortly after 3 a.m., said Carolyn Paulus, the blood bank's executive director.

But she said she anticipated no blood shortage in the Lubbock area because United Blood, owned by Blood Systems Inc. in Scottsville, Ariz, "is part of a very large system.'

'We have 23 blood centers in 18 states and are receiving blood from Albuquerque and El Paso," she said. "We will begin drawing our own supplies in Lubbock on Monday, and we will be able to cover our own needs.

No one was injured in the blaze, but the downtown building and all its supplies and equipment are a total loss that Ms. Paulus estimated at more than $1 million.

Fire department officials said the fire, which took 21/2 hours and 20 firefighters to extinguish, may have started after a motor used to raise and lower an examination chair shorted out.

United Blood, which employs 30 people, has relocated its operations to Methodist and Lubbock General hospitals, she said.

Nancy Martin's hobbies of spinning and weaving gradually are becoming more of a lifestyle and cottage industry.

Every evening she sits at her spinning wheel spinning yarn from natural fibers or weaving a piece of cloth or rug on one of her four looms.

(Spinnning and weaving) satisfies a basic creative urge," she says as she sits at her large floor loom weaving a twill rug from tube sock rags. Sunlight filters through her husband's stained glass window to brighten her work with color.

"I like to do things creative." As a claims representative at the Social Security office in Big Spring, "my work is exacting and tedious. and the weaving and spinning are outlets for

Mrs. Martin is from a family of hobbyists and has done handwork since she was old enough to hold a needle, mostly embroidery and crocheting. In 1978 and 1979, she learned to weave from needleweaving and offloom weav-

While visiting a Houston friend in 1981, she learned to spin cotton with a drop spindle. This set Mrs. Martin spinning to learn more about this ancient artform and yearning for a spinning wheel. She received one for her birthday. And after assemblying the simple machine, she discovered that it didn't work the way she thought it would. Spinning wasn't as easy as she expected. She quickly enrolled in a weekend class in Lubbock to learn basic spinning techniques and spinning wheel care.

Daily practice improved her skill so well that today she demonstrates it to others at fairs, exhibitions and arts and crafts shows. Mrs. Martin spins yarn for one to three hours almost nightly. "It helps you unwind.

"I've really practiced with different ways of spinning: more twist, less twist, loops, thick and thin spots, decorative yarn, in addition to even textured yarn.

"I love it. There's something about spinning that makes you go back in the past with your forefathers...in colonial times," she says.

In colonial America and in other countries, men did most of the weaving of fabric and traveling weavers carried their looms from village to village. The women spun yarn and brought it to the weavers to make into coverlets, she said. Some women also wove, and in some places (Scotland, for example) women exclusively wove.

Mrs. Martin has spun silk, cotton, wool, flax, ramie, alpaca, yak, camel and goat. All are luxury fibers with the exception of wool and cotton. She buys the fibers in bulk to get lower prices. Silk fibers runs about $20 a pound and up. Wool fiber runs $8 to $13 a pound.

"In spinning, you can design your own yarn. I try to make enough of each color (and type) of varn...enough so de can make a sweater. I try to use a lot of natural fibers so they breathe. They are easy to care for and feel good on the skin.

"I really enjoy the wool because it's relaxing (to spin). Cotton'is tedious. (Wool) is easy to show others. Most of the fun comes in by educating the people at a show or

"Spinning was a logical progression to weaving," she said. Since she had to have a way to use her handspun yarn she did offloom and round weaving and crocheting with it at first. Another reason Mrs. Martin began weaving is because her husband wanted a saddle blanket from the yarn she had spun. He hasn't received the blanket yet and continues to request it.

In the spring of 1982, she rented a loom and enrolled in a weaving workshop. She enjoyed it so much that she bought the loom and made plans to buy another loom. Today she has four.

"Weaving is so much more fun," she says. The other (crocheting and embroidery) is bor-

Mrs. Martin has always had an interest in fibers and textiles. Most of what she's learned she has taught herself. She has a library of books on textiles, weaving and spinning. She also attended four workshops on spinning and

Accessories are her weaving specialty: belts, purses, shawls, scarves and rugs. She makes handwoven accessories and does custom weaving and spinning for other people. Some farmers bring her cotton to spin so they can have thread made from their own cotton

Some people buy Mrs. Martin's handwoven fabric and have dressmakers fashion clothes from it. "It's expensive but many who do this want something no one else has.

Although sewing is not her cup of tea, Mrs. Martin has created some of her own clothes with her fabrics. She has a wardrobe planned in her head for which she will weave the fabric and make - someday.

Carrie Carnahan takes life one day at a time

Lifestyle Writer

SPINNING — Nancy Martin of Luther spins fiber into thread. She practices many forms of spinning to create beautiful yarns and threads: more twist, less twist, loops, thick and thin spots, decorative yarn and even tex-

Like most 10-year-old girls, Carrie Carnahan plays with dolls, follows the latest fad of collecting stickers, and wants to be a nurse when she grows up. But Carrie isn't like most 10-year-olds. In July 1982, she was diagnosed as having acute lymphatic leukemia. The fifth grader at Coahoma

Elementary School has been through a six-month hospital stay, radiation and chemotherapy treatments and hundreds of pokes and sticks by doctors and nurses. But this blue-eyed, sandy-haired child is tough. Despite her illness, she enjoys life, day by day. It all started with a virus infection. "Of course kids never get sick except on the weekend when the doctors aren't in," said her mother, Jennifer Carnahan. "She never was the same kid after that bad infection." Carrie lost her appetite, lost weight and was tired all the time. Then a tumor appeared on the back of her head. Surgery was done at Hall-Bennett Hospital. The tumor was found to be cancerous. Blood tests came up positive. Carrie had leukemia

A week later, the Carnahans took their 7-year-old daughter to Wadley Cancer Center in Dallas where she stayed for 6 months with only a two-week vacation.

The day she checked in, Carrie was started on chemotherapy. After being on chemo for six weeks, she went into remission. Carrie, luckily, has remained in remission since that time.

While at the hospital, radiation and spinal treatments were started in hopes that Carrie wouldn't get leukemia in the spinal fluid and weeks, just to turn around and appeared in her blood, Carrie had kill the infection and she had to go spend another two months in to have intravenous treatments for through 25 more days of the Carrie then came home for two Dallas. Because a fungus infection 21 days. But the first time didn't

66 We were always these parents that bragged about having such wonderful, healthy children. 9 9

"Her veins were wearing out so fast they were like exploding," said Mrs. Carnahan. Carrie finally had to get IVs in her feet and fingers because there was no place left to stick on her wrists and arms.

Just before Christmas 1982, Carrie returned home. She now makes trips to Dallas every six weeks for treatments.

A year ago, Carrie went into the Dallas Hospital for bone marrow preservation. In the process, multiple pone marrows were done, taking out her own bone marrow, freezing it, and storing it. Carrie was the first child at Wadley to have this done.

If Carrie ever comes out of remission, stops producing bone marrow, or the chemo begins to destoy her bone marrow, the bad bone marrow will be replaced with the frozen bone marrow.

Carrie couldn't walk after the bone marrows. "She was like a little old lady crouched down because everything hurt so bad," said her Through the lengthy hospital stay, Carrie has learned to appreciate home. "The beds were hard there and the pillows were plastic," said Carrie about the hospital. "It's much better sleeping on my waterbed."

Carrie knows about death and When she was at the hospital in Dallas, she made 10 friends. But only one is still living. When the last two of the nine died, "I was used to it," said Carrie. "I cried, but I didn't cry that much." She keeps a scrapbook of pictures and newspaper clippings of her friends at the hospital. Because of the possibility of catching an illness from other children. Carrie hasn't attended school much in the last few years. She has a homebound teacher.

She enjoys going to school, being with her friends, but she knows that staying away from sickness is important. This child, who has seen only a decade of life, is in some ways more mature than most adults. She doesn't question the ways of life or death.

Carrie doesn't like to talk about herself or her illness, but expresses her feelings through poetry.

Instead of writing her grandfather a letter while she was on a ski trip with Sunshine Kids (a group of children with lifethreatening diseases) Carrie wrote him a poem, "A Drop of Sunshine." Carrie has a special relationship with her grandfather. He, too, has cancer and goes to the same doctor as Carrie.

Although the illness caught them by surprise, the Carnahan family, including older sister Stacey, an ighth grader at Coahoma Junior High School, has learned to cope and adjust.

'We were always these parents that bragged about having such wonderful, healthy children," said Mrs. Carnahan. "We never faced anything like that before in his (Patrick's) family or my family so it was just really shattering to us."

At first, the Carnahans didn't explain to Carrie what was going on, but Carrie knew that it was serious because her mother kept crying. There were other clues, too. "My grandmother, she gave me a lot of Barbi dolls, and I knew something was wrong," said Carrie.

"I really thought that we just had her for a short time. Leukemia to me was like a death sentence,' said Mrs. Carnahan.

The Carnahans got most of their information on leukemia from other parents. "We didn't know all the terminology that you should be asking the doctors," she said. "And doctors don't volunteer information.

They also had to educate Carrie. We felt like she had a decision to make, too, since it's her body,' said Mrs. Carnahan.

"There are times that we all wish that we could be a normal family again - no more doctors," said Mrs. Carnahan. "Your whole life revolves around that child's illness and it effects the whole family." At the hospital in Dallas, the Carnahans were told that they needed to talk about their problems as a family. Having a child who has leukemia affects families two ways: They either become close or break up. And the Carnahans became a strong, close family.

Although Carrie is in a strong remission, "I don't think there's a day that goes by that we don't worry whether or not she's gonna lose it," said Mrs. Carnahan. "We always say 'Well, we'll just take it a step at a time' and keep hoping that things keep going Kimberly Ann West and Glenn Richard Slate were united in marriage Saturday evening at 14th and Main Church of Christ. Doug Morris, youth minister, officiated at the 7 p.m. rite before an archway flanked by two seven-branch candelabra, both accented with greenery and peach bows. A kneeling bench, memory candle and two floral arrangements of peach gladiolus completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Sarah West, 2703 Clanton, and the late Leonard West. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Slate, 2505

The Acapella Choir, directed by Rick Lee, provided music for the ceremony. Joe West of Marble Falls gave his sister into marriage.

Venise lace also accented the sheer sleeves and waist. Rows of Wedgewood lace ruffles edged the skirt and chapel-length train's hem. The bride wore a caplet embellished with Venise lace, seed pearls and Wedgewood lace, which held a fingertip-length veil.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and peach flowers, accented with peach and white streamers.

Karon Saunders of Mesquite served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Debbie West of Marble Falls, sister-in-law of the bride, and Elizabeth Slate, sister of the bridegroom. Keri Saunders of Mesquite, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

cousin of the bridegroom. Candlelighters were Angela West of Marble Falls, niece of the bride, Jason West of Odessa, nephew of the bride, and Kristi Saunders of Mesquite, niece of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted at a reception at the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was draped with a floor-length white lace cloth and centered with a fountain, which held a three-tiered wedding cake. The cake was decorated with peach-colored roses and topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine. The bridegroom's table was draped with a cream-colored floor-length lace cloth and featured a chocolate cake with the bride and bridegroom's name written on it.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She is employed by the Howard County Court House. The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School and is employed by Hester and Robertson Mechanical Contractors, Inc.

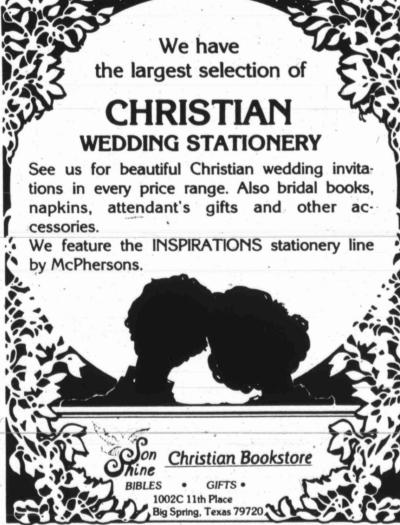

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, the couple will live in Big Spring.

I had a delightful lunch with

CAROLE OWEN and her friend and author MARY FRANCES BEVERLY of Midland, Tuesday, at the Rockhouse. We also were joined by BETTY WRINKLE.

Mary Frances recently had a book published by Gulf Publishing Company of Houston titled Great Hometown Restaurants of Texas. Not everybody travels 10,000 miles with a typewriter to eat a good meal like Mary Frances does. She was in search of the perfect little home-owned restaurant known only to the townsfolk and regular travelers along the route. She wanted to find 100 of the best of these restaurants for her book so that other travelers, tourists and newcomers to Texas could know about these places and have a nice

She worked on her book throughout 1983, beginning in February. At first she wrote to many Chambers of Commerce, the Texas Restaurant Association, the Texas Tourist Development Agency, the editors of Texas Highways, and friends. She also consulted magazine articles and guidebooks about restaurants. Later, she sent letters to more than 100 restaurants throughout the state announcing her project and her criteria for choosing a good restaurant.

Her criteria is:

The restaurant is owned and operated by residents of the town. The restaurant's success and popularity have been consistent for many years. Every aspect of the restaurant is top quality. The owner or manager shows conspicuous interest in the guest's enjoyment and satisfaction and is personally involved in the day-today operation of the restaurant.

Big Spring is not listed in the book, but that is not the a junior at Big Spring High School restaurants' or the Chamber's fault. She didn't visit Big Spring restaurants because the ones she selected were spaced along the routes for a traveler's the time lapse between meals. Big Spring was in between sites. She plans to revise the book someday and include Big Spring in it, she says.

Area restaurants listed are: The Ole Landmark in Sterling City; La Bodega, Luigi's and Robert's Copper Pot in Midland; Barn Door and Pecos Depot in Odessa; Allen's Family Style Meals in Sweetwater; Orlando's in Lubbock.

While working on her book, Hurricane Alicia hit Galveston and damaged two out of three restaurants she had planned to visit, a tornado hit Nacogdoches, a restaurant in Balmorhea caught fire, and managers of three restaurants skipped town with the funds. She was left with exactly 100 of Texas "finest restaurants" for her book, although she knows there

Dear Abby

Wife's nose for news is a little too keen

DEAR ABBY: For 47 years I have been married to a beautiful. kind, affectionate, caring, concerned, bright and loyal woman. On the other hand, for 47 years she has been reading all my personal mail, and never have I received a phone call that she has not listened to on the extension phone.

We have discussed this violation of my privacy many times in a calm and fairly amiable open discussion, but to no avail.

Please understand, her policing of my communications has nothing to do with jealousy or suspicion it seems to be an extension of "what's new" - her keen interest in everything that's going on. No guile or meanness is involved.

What could I have done to improve the situation? I'm writing this at 4:10 a.m. W. IN BOYNTON BEACH, FLA.

DEAR W.: If you had demanded your privacy, instead of discussing her violation of it in a calm and fairly amiable open discussion, perhaps you wouldn't be writing to Dear Abby at 4:10 a.m. 47 years too

How a kind, caring, concerned and bright woman can be so insensitive to the rights of her husband baffles me.

DEAR ABBY: Please warn people never to send cash to a charitable organiztion - even if it's only a dollar! (Small amounts are more easily pocketed.) I worked for a highly respected charitable organization, and when

I had been there a short time, I send checks or money orders discovered that one of the employees who had been there for a very long time was taking money. Even though the giver received a receipt for the donation, a copy of that receipt to show that the organization had received the money was not kept.

There are many fine charities that are 100 percent honest, so I am not discouraging people from sending money; I want only to advise them never to send a dollar or two in cash — give checks or money

I truly believe that if this letter is published, it will save a lot of money from going to places unintended by the giver.

Dr. Donohue

Persons with angina can exercise

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last year I had uncomfortable pain and went to my doctor. He diagnosed angina. It is under control now. I haven't had the least twinge of pain. I still take medication, though.

Now I am wondering about an exercise program. My doctor is actually urging this, but I'm a little leery. My wife had your printed material on antina, but you don't mention formal exercise programs as part of therapy. What is your opinion about exercise and angina? - B.E.

Exercise programs are possible for people with angina, and may, in fact, become real parts of ongoing therapy. The same applies to heart attack victims. Heart attacks are, as you know, merely exaggerations of the events that cause angina (heart pain). As long as the person has the doctor's approval and as long as the exercise is supervised, I'd go along with it.

Your program can not be a hitand-miss, anything-goes kind, of course. Its intensity, duration and frequency must be carefully controlled and planned. Always remember that unlike other people exercising with you, you are continually walking this tightrope.

If you go about it correctly, you should reap benefits directly related to your problem. You heartbeat. And in that respect your exercise will be accomplishing the same goal as your medicine. Along with the exercise, continue to stress weight control and avoidance of foods that pile up fats in your blood. And here is a related question:

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been fairly active and been into aerobic exercise. I guess I am an exception to the rule, but I have recently developed hypertension. My doctor has put me on beta blocker medicine for control. Shouldn't I now get a re-evaluation of my exercise pulse rate, since the medicine I take is supposed to be slowing my heart rate? - E.E.

A good question. You probably should get a new reading on your resting pulse rate, just to be sure. I'll make that stronger and say you definitely should.

The way to do this is with a stress test. You will find out what your new maximum safe pulse rate should be. It will be lower than your maximum rate before you went on the drug, for, as you say, that does reduce the pulse. You can try to raise your pulse rate to 70 percent of the maximum rate during exercise if - IF - your doctor feels that is safe for you at this rates during exercise, for his angina pain threshold is too The previous reader (with delicately balance. His exercise, as angina) asked about exercise. He mentioned, should be carefully should not be thinking in terms of tailored to the minimum possible to arbitrary maximum target pulse get benefits without pain.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO GET

IN SHAPE FOR SUMMER

> YOU CAN LOSE UP TO 30 LBS. BY JUNE 1.

Hi! I'm Roxie Forrest, owner of Nutri/System weight loss centers in Odessa, Midland and Big Spring. But weight loss is more than a business to me because it wasn't long ago that my clothes stretched instead of hung. That I used a cover up over my swimsuit. That all my clothes had long sleews to cover up my arms. And everytime I bent over to pick something up, I got in my own way. After four children I had accumulated my share of baby fat. At Nutri/System we know how self-conscious being over weight can make you. Nutri/System is not magic; you have to want to lose weight. But if you are fed up with being overweight, Nutri/System can help. You can lose up to a pound a day. And more importantly, you can keep that weight off with our program.

Right now at Nutri/System I will deduct $5.00 for every pound you want to lose. Lose ten pounds and save $50.00. And there is no limit. Won't you join me and hundreds of others and become one of our Nutri/System success stories. It does work! I went from being a size 12 to a size 7 three years ago and have

A CLOSE SHAVE

One of the problems that must be overcome when shaving is its inherent abrasiveness. Hair equilibrates with its environment. This means that it soaks up moisture easily, especially moisture from a hot bath. Hair is much easier to cut when swollen with moisture. If you cannot bathe before shaving, then at least wash your face, legs or underarms with hot water and soap. Or, wrap the area with a towel soaked in hot tap water. Shaving with the grain minimizes abrasion and irritation. It is not always easy to do, but try if you can. Since skin is made raw in varying degrees by shaving, the fewer ingredients in the shaving cream, the better. Menthols, citric essences, perfumes and the like are more a source of irritation than of comfort.
