Twisters sweep county

3-inch rainfall floods city

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

The weekend's menacing weather brought rainfall ranging from 1 to 4 inches to Big Spring and the surrounding area.

The official rainfall count for Big Spring was .66 of an inch Saturday and 2.18 inches for Sunday, according to reports at the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station. That brings the official total for the year to 6.8 inches, well above the normal of 3.34 inches for this time of year.

Romy Mays, a resident in the Salem Community near Coahoma, recorded 4 inches of rain over the weekend. Residents in Coahoma said the city got 3 inches of rain on Saturday and 1.9 inches on Sunday.

Residents contacted in Sand Springs were unsure of an exact total today, but were guessing more than 2 inches of rain fell in the area on Sunday alone.

Ryan Walker, who lives on the Snyder Highway, said he received more than 2 inches of rain over the weekend. His father, Ray Walker, who lives eight miles north of Big Spring off Highway 87, reported 2.7 inches of rain following the weekend rains.

Reggie Hambrick, a farmer in the Ackerly area, said he received about 1 inch of rain Sunday. Lee Roman, a Knott farmer, said about 1.5 inches of rain fell in Knott Sunday.

Larry Shaw of Knott said today that he received about seven-tenths of an inch of rain over the weekend. In the city, Tommy Hart of 1750 Purdue was reporting a weekend total of 3.01 inches. Most of that was recorded Sunday, Hart said.

Chuck Benz, a resident on the city's southwest side, said 2.3 inches of rain fell in one hour at his home Sunday. Red Thomas, who lives closer to the downtown area, was reporting a total over the weekend of 2.75 inches.

Residents in the Greenbelt area were reporting about 2 inches on rain Sunday. High winds and peized hail also hit the Greenbelt area, a resident said.

At least nine funnel clouds swept Howard County Sunday on the trail of ferocious thunderstorms that dropped up to 4 inches of rain in less than one hour and peppered the area with two hail storms.

No one was injured by the harmless twisters spun from the ranks of rainstorms marching at 30 mph through West Texas.

Heavy resonant thunder signalled the advance of angry black clouds approaching from the southwest about 4 p.m. Within minutes, the balmy spring afternoon turned ugly and sheets of rain were slung by whirling 50 mph wind gusts.

Police and sheriff patrolmen first reported tornado-like clouds over the Silver Heels neighborhood south of Big Spring about 4:20 p.m. and one in Knott a few minutes later.

Police patrolling South Highway 87 reported a funnel cloud receding into a large black cloud bank at 4:25 p.m. and a few minutes later warned of "extremely high winds from the south."

At 4:30 p.m. police reported that tornadoes were "attempting to form" as the black clouds weaved and rolled toward the northeast.

High winds pushing driving, heavy rainfall whipped and whistled through Big Spring as marble-sized hail began to fall in the city about 4:30 and continued for 15 minutes.

A police spotter radioed at 4:45 that winds from the cloud bank south of the city had died down. "I

Warning sirens silent in storms

City sirens were not used Sunday to notify people of tornado alerts because the funnel clouds were too far away and city residents were not in the tornadoes' paths, a city official said today.

"The closest tornado sighting was 18 miles away and unless it is headed on an immediate path toward Big Spring, we do not sound the sirens," said Hal Boyd, Big Spring's emergency management coordinator.

However, reports by police over emergency radio frequencies contradict Boyd's account. A police spotter on Highway 87 reported a funnel cloud at 4:20 p.m. on the southside of Big Spring, in the Silver Hills vicinity, moving to the northeast. Another spotter on Scenic Mountain reported three funnel clouds at 5:45 p.m. All were to the west of Big Spring moving northeast.

"We test our civil defense warning system periodically," Boyd said, "but we did not sound the alarm yesterday."

Twisters, hail rake North Texas

DALLAS (AP) — A flash flood and tornado watch remained in effect today across North Texas in the wake of violent thunderstorms that spawned damaging winds, hail and torrential rain, resulting in the deaths of at least nine people.

One person was reported missing following 24 hours of violent thunderstorms, which also generated at least four reports of tornados late Sunday and early today.

An 81-year-old Shep woman died when a twister lifted her frame house off its foundations and hurled it more than 100 yards into a field Sunday night, Taylor County sheriff's officers said.

The body of Emma Talley was found in the wreckage. Her husband, 83-year-old Alva Talley, was admitted to Ballinger Memorial Hospital with cuts and abrasions, said sheriff's Deputy Ricardo Campos. said.

Kevin Linch, a geological consultant, said the crew of a nearby oil rig saw the twister form in a field. Linch tried unsuccessfully to flee the tornado in his truck.

"Then we were all looking to where we were going to jump in a mud pit," Linch said, when the tornado started moving northeast.

The twister moved about 1 1/2 miles before striking the Talley home, located in the southwest corner of Taylor County near the Nolan County line.

Authorities said three Rockwall residents, including the town's fire chief, died at a flash flood Saturday night in the community about 15 miles northeast of Dallas.

A Dallas man and his two children drowned in the suburb of Duncanville after their car was swept away by a rampaging creek. Authorities continued their search for the man's wife who was carried away by flood waters.

The storms marched through West Texas first, dumping baseball-size hail on Grape Creek near San Angelo and near Bronte and Miles. Mobile homes were dented, car windows broken and roofs damaged, officials said.

Wind gusting up to 70 mph and heavy rain pounded Dallas and northeastern Texas counties Saturday night. The weather service reported some roof damage and felled trees.

The firefighters were injured as they fought a fire that destroyed a house in Arlington, near Dallas, late Saturday. They were treated at a hospital and released.

Twister terrifies Knott

Ackerly family takes cover from tornado

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

ACKERLY — Reggie Hambrick and his family ran for cover Sunday after Hambrick heard a "big roar" and he looked out to see a massive, swirling cloud approaching his home.

Hambrick said, "When I saw it, it was about 100 yards in front of the house. We ran for the hall and covered up with a mattress."

As the family huddled in the hall, Hambrick said the noise stopped. "I didn't hear it anymore."

Hambrick reasons that the twister "jumped over the house" or headed in another direction. The Hambrick home sustained no damage in the frightening incident.

"I feel pretty lucky," Hambrick said today.

A neighbor told Hambrick later that he was watching the cloud as it neared the Hambrick home. "He said he saw it and that it went back up (into the clouds.) The house was in the whirlwind part."

Larry Shaw, a farmer in Knott, said heavy winds blew the roof off a barn at the O'Dell Roman residence. No one was hurt in the incident, Shaw said.

Little damage was reported in connection with the menacing cloud that swooped through the Ackerly and Knott areas, but Hambrick said a neighbor to the northwest of Ackerly said the wind picked up stripper baskets out in the fields and "tossed them around" before pitching them to the ground.

The twister plowed through fields but apparently caused no injuries in the area.

The funnel, which hung low to the ground but was broken in a line reaching toward thick thunderclouds, was visible from several miles away.

Residents in Big Spring, looking north from high vantage points in the city, could see the twister moving in a northeasterly direction.

Across the horizon, dark, menacing clouds sped across the sky toward the Ackerly area. Residents were warned to take cover as the dangerous conditions approached.

Anxious residents watching the skies said several smaller twisters touched down near Ackerly in fields outside the community.

Alfred Herren, who lives about three miles northwest of Knott, said, "We was watching (a tornado) out to the north of us. I seen one by Ackerly."

Although the clouds swooped close to the ground and winds kicked up in the area, residents in Knott and Ackerly said little rain fell across the fields. Herren reported about .2 of an inch by 6 p.m. Other residents in the area reported up to 1-inch of rain.

Larry Shaw, another Knott farmer, said he believed he saw the makings of a twister in the countryside around Lenorah.

Shaw took out across the countryside in his pickup and "was driving around west of here" toward the Lenorah area. Shaw said he could "see it on the ground." He added "it was a twister, not a full-fledged tornado" near Lenorah.

The twisters were a hot topic of conversation at services Sunday night at the Church of Christ in Ackerly, said Robert Billingsley, an Ackerly resident.

Billingsley said residents agreed that three twisters were reported around the area.

"There was one about 1 1/2 miles northwest of Three Howard County residents scan the sky for possible funnel clouds yesterday afternoon. The photograph was taken between Big Spring and Ackerly.

Ackerly, and two others about a half-mile between Ackerly and Flower Grove school. The first one touched down in the fields," Billingsley said.

The two twisters between Ackerly and Flower Grove may have touched down but no one contacted Sunday night seemed sure if they hit ground. "Everyone in Ackerly was out watching," Billingsley said.

'Swirling hook cloud' takes Coahoma by storm

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — A "swirling, spinning" hook cloud skimmed over the tops of First Street in Coahoma, sending some residents scurrying for cover inside their houses.

"It sure was swirling," said Buddy Anderson, manager of the town's Little Sooper Market grocery store, as he checked out a customer.

Radio ham operator Brad McQuerry, who acts as a weather spotter for the National Weather Service, described the tornado as "some turbulence in the clouds that never touched ground."

McQuerry said he spotted the tornado at 5:15 p.m. while in his pickup truck near his home.

"It was just a rotation of clouds in the air. I watched it come overhead. It headed off northeast," he said. "It was a little old hanging cloud."

Some of the other ham operators said they saw the funnel cloud "come down a little bit and then lift up, but I didn't see it do that. It was just in the air when I saw it."

Anderson said he never saw the cloud touch ground. "And I'm thankful for it, too," he said.

"Amen," said his store clerk, Gail Henry, who was rearranging a shelf in the store. "I'm scared of them."

Henry said the funnel cloud was wide and dark when it passed overhead. "It never did come out of the clouds."

Although the storm didn't do any damage in Coahoma, winds that gusted up to 50 miles an hour tore an air conditioner from the roof of Romy Mays' house in Salem, he said today.

"The big hailstorm scared everybody," Mays said. Winds also broke the windows on the north side of his house, he said.

About an hour after the tornado went through Coahoma, neighbors began to emerge from their houses to sit on their porches and discuss the weather, their children playing in the yards.

"I don't know what one looks like. I saw a spinning cloud," said a young boy, playing in front of his yard with a younger child. "I've never seen a tornado before."

"It was just circling in the air, and the wind was blowing pretty hard," he said, waving his hands to describe the cloud. "It didn't touch the ground. Was that one?"

Coahoma resident Nancy Rich said she and her family didn't see the tornado come by but said the winds rattled her house windows. "The wind was kicking up pretty good and moving on. One of us was looking out the window but we didn't see anything. The wind was going pretty good... It was fierce."

Her sister-in-law, however, had seen a tornado on the north edge of Big Spring, Rich said. The sister-in-law, a waitress at Rip Griffin's Truck Stop on the intersection of Interstate 20 and N. Highway 87, called to compare stories, she said.

"I told her I hadn't seen anything. She's a waitress and was working up at Rip Griffin's, and she said they had a big tornado come through," Rich said.

Coahoma State Bank vice president Johnny Justiss had his own memories of tornadoes to tell the customers and employees at Little Sooper Market.

"We were playing football one time, and we saw a little cloud back to Big Spring. It was the only cloud. There wasn't no other cloud in the sky," Justiss said. "We thought it was nothing and just kept playing football. It came all the way (from

Crossroads Country update

By LUIS RIOS
Staff Writer

Crossroads Country residents reported numerous funnel clouds in a four-county area late yesterday afternoon, according to city and county officials.

The line of thunderstorms that moved through the area spawned tornadoes in Martin and Dawson counties. The four-county area also reported heavy rain and marble-size hail.

The Dawson County Sheriff's Department said it recorded eight confirmed tornado sightings in around Lamesa. The damage caused by the high winds and heavy rain was minor, a Dawson Sheriff's Department spokesman said this morning. No injuries were reported in the county.

He said a resident reported his barn was blown over by the high winds. Power lines were reported down throughout the county and irrigation systems suffered damage by the high winds. Dawson County received up to 3 inches of rain in some areas, said.

No tornado sightings were reported in Borden County, according to city and county officials. Borden County received heavy rain and small hail in the northwest corner of the county, said one resident. K.T. Redell said Gail received only a trace of rainfall.

The Mitchell County Sheriff's Department said it received reports of up to 4 inches of rain accompanied by marble-size hail late yesterday afternoon. There were no tornado sightings reported in Colorado City or the county, said Sheriff Wendell Bryant.

Martin County reported several sightings of funnel clouds but no damage was reported. Power lines were knocked down by the heavy winds and rain in Vincent, said a city spokesman.

"Next day it came out in the paper that they had a tornado in Big Spring," he said, and shook his head. "We'd just played football."

Police Beat

Vandals damage cars, houses

Vandals damaged several house windows and cars this weekend, according to police reports.

Two house windows were broken Sunday night at the 1002 N. Main apartments, reports show. Damaged were windows belonging to Teresa Cook, who estimated damage at $40; and Alan Kinman, who estimated damage at $18.50.

Joe Deperto of 710 N.W. Seventh told police that someone stole four chrome hubcaps, two plain and two spoked, from his green 1981 Mercury between 9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Sunday while the car was at the Giant Food Store on Lamesa Highway. The hubcaps were valued at a total of $508.

Opal Wilkinson of 502 Edwards told police someone took the Lincoln and Ford insignia and the cover for the trunk keyhole between 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Saturday from her creme-colored 1984 Lincoln.

Verner Stanhope of 1208 Mesquite told police someone stole a truck tire and wheel, valued at $150, from his 1977 Ford F100 pickup truck. Also, the four-barrel double-pump carburetor for a 350 Chevrolet motor, valued at $300, was taken from his black 1935 Ford Roadster. Both thefts occurred between 7 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday.

Kay Froman of 1500A Sycamore told police someone stole 20 gallons of gasoline and an oil filter from her brown 1983 Dodge pickup truck between 8:30 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday. In addition, the starter relay and starter switch were damaged, the report stated.

Ed Chamblin of Amarillo told police someone stole two Porsche emblems from his metallic gold 1984 Porsche at 11 p.m. Saturday while the car was in the south parking lot of the Holiday Inn. The emblems are valued at $100.

Wes Teal of 804 S. Main told police someone scratched the paint on the trunk of his maroon 1980 Pontiac Trans Am between 1 a.m. to 10 a.m. Sunday. Damage was estimated at $1,200.

Esquiel Valles of 1410 Bluebird told police someone stole $500 in rolled change from his 1982 Chevrolet van.

Amy Robinson of 2505 Morrison told police someone she knows assaulted her at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at 1002 N. Main.

Kathy Ely of 510 San Antonio was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital to be treated for stomach pains after she was shoved and assaulted at 11 p.m. Sunday at 711 N.W. Eighth.

Bonnie Fraley of 1506 Stadium told police a man she knows struck her in the face with his fist four times at 3 a.m. today.

Betty Earl of 2801 Laurence told police someone stole her miniature collie-shepherd between 12:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Sunday. The dog, named Tax, is brown with a little black and weighs 35 pounds.

Sewell Franklin of 4223 Hamilton told police someone took a 30-foot chain and two boomers, valued at a total of $175, between 2:30 and 6 p.m. Sunday from his car.

Susan Garrett of 1701 E. FM 700 told police someone stole two packages of brown drapes valued at $52 at 3:15 p.m. Sunday. The drapes were recovered, according to the report.

Victor Martinez Jr. of 427 Hillside told police someone he knows assaulted him between 10:45 and 11 p.m. Saturday at the Dora Roberts Fairbairn. He suffered an abrasion and swelling on his left cheek.

Hilda Uribe of 1300 Wood told police someone stole a boys bicycle, valued at $126, between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 1 a.m. Saturday.

Alarm

A primary means of notifying people in an area that may be struck by a tornado is through warning messages relayed through the radio and television, Boyd said. If sirens that are scattered throughout Big Spring were used, police cars would also patrol certain areas of the city with their sirens on in order to fill the sound waves.

"We do not have sufficient sirens that will be heard when a storm is in progress. The high intensity sound of winds and rains is going to prevent siren sound from carrying. It (sirens) is a means of notification — but not the best," Boyd said.

Boyd said that he was on standby status Sunday afternoon along with public works director Tom Decell, police chief Rick Turner, fire chief Carl Darton and city manager Don Davis. Boyd said he and other city officials were on standby to begin emergency procedures in case a tornado headed toward Big Spring and struck the city.

Boyd said the first emergency priority in a disaster such as a tornado strike would be to rush the injured to hospitals.

"We would coordinate efforts with the Salvation Army and the Red Cross to aid the injured. Depending on the seriousness of the disaster, we would ask for outside aid," Boyd said.

Outside aid would come from Coahoma, Forsan and Lamesa. Big Spring has "working agreements" with these cities, Boyd said. Other state forces would be mobilized if needed through the Texas Department of Public Safety's regional office in Midland, Boyd said.

Boyd said that local law enforcement agencies would seal off certain areas of the city to maintain control and prevent looting in case a natural disaster such as a tornado did strike Big Spring.

Rainfall

in the incident, according to reports by Calderon's sister, Esther Calderon.

Rains help lakes

Workers at the Colorado River Municipal Water District are still working today to determine how much of the rainfall fell on the watershed at Lake Spence and Lake Thomas. Ground runoff will have to be measured before final tallies are ready.

Rod Lewis, assistant manager of the water district, said Lake Spence was up by about a tenth of a foot today following the heavy rains. Lake Thomas is up by about eight-tenths of a foot.

Lewis said, "Both are lower than we'd like."

Wreck victim remains stable

A 10-year-old Big Spring girl remains in stable condition today in an Odessa hospital after being injured Sunday afternoon when her bicycle collided with a pickup truck.

Ami Chali Olyer, 10, of 2101 Runnels was transferred to the Medical Center Hospital in Odessa Sunday afternoon, according to a hospital spokeswoman. The girl is being treated for a head injury she suffered in the accident, the spokeswoman said.

Olyer was first taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance Sunday, where she was listed as being in critical but stable condition, according to a Malone-Hogan spokeswoman.

According to police reports, Olyer was riding her bicycle east in the 400 block of E. 21st Street when the accident occurred at 3:08 p.m.

in the intersection of Goliad and E. 21st.

The other vehicle, a 1980 brown Ford Ranger XLT pickup truck driven by Lynn Gage Mims, 28, of Sterling City Route, was headed south in the right lane of the 2000 block of S. Goliad, the report stated.

According to the police report, Olyer ran the stop sign at 21st and Goliad and travelled onto Goliad, where her bike collided with the pickup truck.

The truck left 65 feet of skid marks on the street, the report stated.

The impact of the collision separated Olyer from her bike. She landed 15 feet and 9 inches east of the Goliad curbline, while her bike stopped 28 feet and 10 inches south of the point of impact, the report stated.

For the record

Sunday's TV section cover was in error in reporting that the movie "Reds" would be broadcast by the ABC network Sunday and tonight. According to TV Data of New York, the supplier of the television listings to the Big Spring Herald, the network changed its programming schedule after the feature photographs were prepared.

Deaths

Mallie Todd

Mallie Kathie Todd, 77, a former resident of Big Spring, died Sunday afternoon in a San Antonio nursing home following an illness of several months. Services are pending with the Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

Sheriff's Log

Deputy recovers motorcycle

Howard County sheriff's deputy George Quintero recovered a red and black Italjet motorcycle last Friday morning near FM 700 north of Desert Hills Trailer Park.

Persons who are missing the motorcycle are asked to contact Quintero at the sheriff's department and will need to present identification papers.

Big Spring police transferred Guadalupe Carrasco, 23, of Odessa to county jail after he had been charged with theft over $200 and under $750. He was released on $2,500 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Gilbert Sanchez, 23, of 1011 W. Eighth for suspicion of driving while intoxicated early Saturday evening. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Police transferred Ada Rodriguez, 35, of Stanton to county jail after he had been charged with theft over $20 and under $200. She was released on $1,000 bond.

Police transferred Chris Green, 24, of Gail Route Box 158 to county jail after he was charged with DWI and unlawfully carrying a weapon. He was released on bonds totalling $3,000.

Ramiro Lucio, 24, of Stanton was transferred by police to county jail after he had been charged with driving while license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was released on bonds totalling $1,000.

Police transferred Rory Jay Lawson, 21, of 606 San Jacinto to county jail after he was charged with DWLS. He was released on $500 bond.

Sheriff's deputies released Oscar Garza, 27, of 507 Douglas after he served two days of a 10-day DWI jail sentence.

Deputies arrested Steve Gregory, 27, of 703 Edwards for a DWI judgment. He served one day of a 15-day jail sentence.

The sheriff's department released 19 persons to the U.S. Immigration bus. They are suspected of entering this country illegally.

Deputies released Edwin O. Wilbert, 30, of 2911 W. Highway 80 from county jail on $500 bond. He was charged with resisting arrest.

Gas prices to increase

LOS ANGELES — Retail gasoline prices, which have already risen more than 8 cents a gallon in two months, will probably go up another 3 cents as dealers try to keep pace with wholesale prices, an industry analyst says.

The biggest increase likely will be for unleaded gasoline because of tight supplies, analyst Dan Lundberg said Sunday.

In a nationwide survey of 17,500 gasoline stations compiled Saturday, the overall price of all grades of gasoline was $1.22, an increase of 8.4 cents per gallon from two months ago, the publisher of the oil-oriented Lundberg Letter said.

In Lundberg's most recent survey, regular unleaded gasoline averaged $1.10 per gallon, regular unleaded averaged $1.18 and premium unleaded was $1.30. All prices are for self-serve.

Nerve gas opposition

WASHINGTON — A White House commission appointed to review the U.S. chemical weapons program has concluded that the entire existing stockpile of nerve gas should be destroyed and replaced with a new type of chemical weapons, sources said today.

The commission's report was sent to the White House late last week and will be released publicly on Wednesday when commission members testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the sources, who spoke only on the condition they not be identified.

The commission recommended that the existing stockpile be replaced with new binary chemical weapons, which take their name from the fact they are composed of two chemicals kept separate until the shell is used. At that point, the chemicals combine to form a lethal weapon.

Company drops stations

Atlantic Richfield Co. said today it is disposing of hundreds of gas stations, abandoning its copper and molybdenum businesses and making other retrenchments that will lead to a one-time writeoff against earnings of $1.3 billion this year.

To sweeten the sting from the second such cutback in less than a year, the nation's sixth-largest oil company said it was raising its dividend and buying back more than 20 percent of its stock for $4 billion.

Arco, based in Los Angeles, said directors approved the sweeping reorganization on Sunday, citing "diminished expectations" for future oil prices.

The company did not say how many of its 39,400 employees would lose their jobs, but announced there would be a special severance and pension plan.

Challenger's mission

Shuttle crew, rats, monkeys lift off into space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — While the seven-man human crew received final briefings, 24 doomed rats and two squirrel monkeys named "3165" and "384-80" were loaded aboard the space shuttle Challenger, ready for a Monday start on a seven-day scientific mission.

The launch was set for noon EDT. "All systems are go," said Jesse W. Moore, director of the shuttle program. "We are showing the thumbs up sign now."

The weather looked good for liftoff, the second this month, and NASA looked forward to the shortest interval between flights in the space shuttle program. Discovery landed April 19 after a seven-day mission. The previous "turnaround" record was 34 days.

The crew includes commander Robert Overmyer; pilot Fred Gregory; physicians William Thornton and Norman Thagard; physicist Don Lind and Taylor Wang; and Lodewijk van den Berg, a chemical engineer. Van den Berg, born in Sluiskil, the Netherlands, and Wang, born in Shanghai, are naturalized U.S. citizens.

In the shuttle's cargo bay is a 12-ton, barrel-shaped laboratory, 23 feet long and 13 feet in diameter, where five scientists will conduct around-the-clock experiments in materials processing, fluid mechanics, life sciences, atmospheric physics and astronomy.

It is the second time that the $1 billion, European-built Spacelab has flown. The first was in December 1983.

The squirrel monkeys, carefully chosen to be free of herpes saimiri, which infects 95 percent of their species, were put into the laboratory Sunday, a cumbersome procedure when the vehicle is vertical on its launch pad. Herpes-free monkeys were chosen because of a remote risk that the astronauts might be infected with the cancer-causing form of herpes, although they will not handle the animals.

Using a system of ropes, pulleys and platforms, workmen lowered the monkeys and the rats down Challenger's middeck, through a tunnel and into the Spacelab.

Animal rights groups have said they will picket the Kennedy Space Center on Monday.

"Challenger's liftoff means that every painful experiment performed on animals on Earth will now be performed in space," said Alex Pacheco, chairman of People for Ethical Treatment of Animals.

But Joseph Cremin, the Spacelab 3 mission manager, said the animals are being treated humanely.

$50 million heist

4 men rob Wells Fargo

NEW YORK (AP) — Four armed men broke through a wall and overpowered guards at a Wells Fargo terminal early today, then fled in an armored truck with millions of dollars in cash, police said.

First reports estimated the haul at $25 million to $50 million, but Chief of Detectives Richard Nicastro said later "it's nowhere near that."

"Nobody really knows how much was taken," said Lazaro Rodriguez of Wells Fargo, adding the money was still being tallied.

FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette said no total for the robbery was expected until late in the day, "but certainly we're talking in the multimillions."

The previous record for a cash robbery in the United States is $11 million, also from an armored car company, and Kenneth Walton, deputy director of the FBI office here, said the take from today's holdup would probably be less than that.

The four men, armed with handguns, stole the truck from the company's garage in lower Manhattan at about 1:30 a.m., said police spokesman Sgt. Ed LeSchack.

"It's the largest (robbery) that I've ever heard of," LeSchack said.

The thieves ordered four armed guards at gunpoint to open a vault where the money was held, then handcuffed the men to a hand truck and loaded the cash onto the van, according to Chief Robert Johnston, chief of operations for the Police Department.

The guards "were told they weren't going to be hurt" if they cooperated, Johnston said.

The van was found empty and abandoned several hours later underneath the Brooklyn Bridge, a few miles away, LeSchack said.

Johnston said the four guards were surprised after they arrived at the garage at 1:20 a.m. There normally were no guards on duty on Sunday night, and in accordance with standard procedures, they made a search of the building, then went to open the vault.

At that point, the four men jumped them and ordered them to open it, Johnston said.

One of the captives was close enough to a pay phone to call police at 1:49 a.m., after the robbers left, said LeSchack.

Johnston said the four thieves had been in the garage a total of about 20 to 30 minutes, he said, and had apparently been waiting for the employees to arrive.

The robbers got into the Wells Fargo area by punching two holes through a cinderblock wall on the second floor of an adjoining building, he said.

The building houses a mailroom and storage center of Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith, said Bill Clark, a spokesman for the brokerage house.

Israeli tanks roll out of the village Dahr Al-Ahmar in Lebanon's Bekka Valley last week. Israeli Army withdrawal marked the second phase of their pullback after a 34-month occupation.

Israelis withdraw from Lebanon

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Israel withdrew from the last major city it held in Lebanon today, a day after Lebanese Moslem and Druse warriors routed Christians from other areas evacuated by the Israelis.

Thousands of men, women and children danced in Tyre's dusty streets when International Red Cross officials confirmed the last Israeli soldier had gone. They showered each other with rice and rose petals. They hugged, kissed and wept.

"Life under the Israelis turned Tyre into a big jail," said one man, tears welling in his dark eyes. "It was a big prison. But now thank God it's over, it's over."

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv confirmed the withdrawal from the port 50 miles south of Beirut and nearby Shiite villages that had been a center of attacks against the occupiers. On Sunday, the military command had denied reports a pullout was imminent.

As the Israelis left Tyre, they hurled smoke grenades from jeeps and armored vehicles. At the Qasmiyeh bridge north of the city, they fired tank cannons and machine guns, apparently to warn residents to stay away.

The pullback was the latest in a series designed to get Israeli forces out of Lebanon before June 6.

Lower tuition OK'd for SWCID

House finance committee votes to cut out-of-state rates

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A bill to bring out-of-state tuition rates at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf in line with those rates at other Texas colleges won unanimous approval Monday from the House Higher Education Committee.

Under a law adopted by the 1983 Legislature, out-of-state tuition at SWCID increased from $400 to $8,750 per year, said Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, sponsor of the House bill.

A similar bill, authored by Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, won Senate approval earlier. The Senate bill was adopted by the House committee.

Since tuition rates increased so dramatically, Shaw said out-of-state enrollment at SWCID has fallen by 95 percent. This decline of out-of-state students affected resident enrollment as well, he said.

When enrollment dropped, admission standards at SWCID were also lowered, which resulted in brighter Texas students leaving to attend the two other post-secondary institutions for deaf students in Washington, D.C., and Rochester, N.Y., Shaw said. Sam Hill, SWCID president, said bringing out-of-state tuition for deaf students in line with tuition charged to other non-resident students in Texas colleges would increase enrollment by an estimated 55 students.

"This increased enrollment would bring an estimated $148,000 in addition revenue to the college," Hill said.

Because of the state's budget problems, SWCID is receiving 30 percent less state funding than two years ago, he said.

SWCID, which opened its doors in 1980, is under the direct management of the Howard Junior College District.

Under provisions of the bill, non-resident students at SWCID would be charged the same rates as other out-of-state students or the cost of their education, whichever is less.

A bill raising tuition rates for all Texas colleges and universities is being considered by the Senate and has already won adoption in the House.

We can consider ourselves lucky

It's nothing short of miraculous that the severe weather which blanketed Big Spring and the Crossroads County area spared human life and property.

The reports of twisters piled in one on top of the other: Stanton, northwest Howard County, Silver Heels area south of Big Spring, Borden County, Scurry County. For three frantic hours, law enforcement personnel kept their eyes trained on the skies. They saw funnel clouds not once or twice, but several times. Yet we've gotten no reports of twister-caused damage or injury.

The same cannot be said for other parts of Texas hit by the storm system. A sheriff's deputy in Crockett County drowned trying to reach a car washed off the road near Ozona. A tornado in the Abilene vicinity killed one person. Damage was caused by the high winds, hail and heavy rain as it moved east and north from our area.

We were lucky. For us, Sunday's turbulent weather seems to have done nothing more than dump huge amounts of rain on fields soon to be sowed in this year's cotton crop. There's nothing wrong with that.

Military reform is economic must

When David Stockman lashed out at the military retirement system a few weeks ago, he provoked a lot of criticism. Fortunately, though, he didn't kill hopes of an overhaul. Despite fierce opposition, some members of Congress are looking for ways to improve the system and reduce its expense.

The chief bill is sponsored by Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. It would cut the budget authority for military retirement by $4 billion, leaving the Pentagon to figure out how to save the money — and sparing Congress the arduous task of untangling the whole program.

The armed forces boast a retirement plan like no other. Most private plans don't pay full benefits until age 65; this one offers it to anyone who has served 20 years. Most others exact a penalty for early retirement; this one almost mandates it.

Private pensions must provide some benefits to workers after they've contributed for 10 years; the military provides nothing until 20 years. Unlike private pensions, benefits are fully indexed for inflation. Overall, it's worth at least twice as much as most private plans.

That difference is largely to blame for the program's soaring cost. Military retirement benefits (excluding those for the disabled) will cost $17.3 billion, this year, nearly three times the level 10 years ago. The Pentagon says the number of beneficiaries will grow by at least 29 percent by the year 2000, with the annual cost expected to rise to nearly $42 billion.

The system's defenders reply that military retirement should be different from other retirement programs because military service is different from other jobs. It often features long hours, grueling labor, separations from family, overseas assignments and the risk of death or injury. The retirement plan, they say, is merely deferred compensation.

Military service is different from other jobs — although not all service people have to endure all these burdens and not all civilians are exempt from them. But it isn't obvious that generous retirement benefits are the best compensation for its special burdens. The deferred compensation idea made sense back when soldiers and sailors were poorly paid. But pay has risen dramatically since the draft era.

The existing system has serious flaws apart from cost. Since it doesn't vest for 20 years, it provides no real incentive for young soldiers to re-enlist. But it practically guarantees that anyone who makes it for 10 or 12 years will hang on until he qualifies — regardless of whether his talents are needed. The services rarely forces these people out.

The rule also provides service people a powerful incentive to leave after 20 years, even though they may have valuable skills. Most retirees leave in their 20th year or soon after. The alternative, for those who make it that far, is to work for the equivalent of half-pay. (Those who stay longer get higher benefits, but the increases obviously are too small to keep most people.)

So the services keep some people they don't need, while losing some they do. A more rational scheme, using targeted bonuses to valued people, could solve both problems and reduce costs. More money could be saved by reducing benefits until age 55, making this more like a true retirement program. (Most retirees continue working after they leave the service.) Of course, fairness requires that any changes apply only to future retirees, not to current ones.

Changes like these make plenty of sense, but that doesn't mean they'll get anywhere on Capitol Hill. Reforms are opposed by most military retirees, many people in the service and the Joint Chiefs. A vote to cut spending on this program requires some statesmanship. But a $200 billion deficit can force a lot of members of Congress to make decisions they'd normally avoid.

In many cases cutting costs mean sacrificing a program's goals. A reform of military retirement is certainly crucial for budgetary reasons. But the imposing cost is the best hope of enacting changes that ought to be made anyway.

This is not West Texas

By CHARLIE ALCORN

When it rains it pours. But who would have ever thought Big Spring would have its very own monsoon?

You got to figure that Big Spring is getting its share of rain when I open the front door and invite 2 inches of water to come rinse my living room carpet.

I've been involved with my fair share of rainy days in South Texas but it usually takes a good 5-inch cloudburst to get water over the street curbs in Victoria. But not in Big Spring, where if it rains for more than five minutes straight, a giant puddle forms at 9th and Gregg, and up the street on 12th, a nice size duck pond appears out of nowhere. I think perhaps the city's drainage system needs to be updated so that precipitation over a quarter of an inch won't turn the streets into a West Texas Venice.

It also might be nice to adopt some kind of citywide soil erosion policy. Driving around the town after the deluge, I noticed several square yards of Big Spring real estate sluicing toward sod-clogged drains. I'm thinking about planting a garden on my front sidewalk, now that I've got about a foot of topsoil to work with. Maybe I should plant rice. Irrigation would be a cinch. Every time it rains, the semis splash enough water on my lawn for a good size patty.

I was very happy not to have experienced a West Texas tornado, however. At one point Sunday afternoon it looked as if Mother Nature was going to try to make up for the two years of drought all in one day. I looked out the window into a solid sheet of water (something I'd have bet my paycheck wouldn't ever happen). Then it started hailing, which forced me to raise my body from out in front of the Weather Channel for the first time in hours to save my car from permanent dimpling. Which brings me to my final beef of the column.

What in the world is a "tornado warning"? I understand the general drift of these cryptic bulletins, but what good are they when a twister pays a $50,000 visit to your next door neighbor and is about to make match sticks out of your house. I mean if the weathermen could be a little more exact, maybe. ("A water spout was spotted touching down at the corner of 7th and Gregg and was last seen heading toward the sports writer's house on the middle of the block. You better scoot Chuck!")

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 29, the 119th day of 1985. There are 246 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On April 29, 1945, American soldiers liberated the Nazi concentration camp in Dachau, Germany, where tens of thousands of people had perished.

On this date:
In 1429, Joan of Arc entered the besieged city of Orleans to lead a victory over the English.

In 1861, Maryland's House of Delegates voted against seceding from the Union.

In 1862, New Orleans fell to Union forces during the Civil War.

In 1894, several hundred unemployed men known as "Coxey's Army" swarmed into Washington to ask Congress for help.

In 1913, Swedish-born engineer Gideon Sundback of Hoboken, N.J., patented the zipper.

In 1946, twenty-eight former Japanese leaders were indicted in Tokyo as war criminals.

Ten years ago: Americans and South Vietnamese were frantically evacuating Saigon, which was on the verge of falling to the Communists.

Five years ago: President Jimmy Carter nominated Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Me., to be his new Secretary of State, succeeding Cyrus Vance, who had resigned over the attempted military rescue of the hostages in Iran.

IRS is soft on Big Business

WASHINGTON — The federal government may be rough on everyday taxpayers, but it can't seem to do enough for some of the nation's wealthiest corporations. Not only do they pay little or no taxes on their enormous earnings, but these corporate panhandlers line up with their diamond-studded tin cups extended for government grants — and get them.

Our associate Corky Johnson has checked the tax status of several companies that have been given or are negotiating multi-million-dollar grants by the federally funded U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corp. in the hope that they'll develop energy alternatives to imported oil.

So far, not an erg of energy has been produced by these companies, but Synfuels keeps ladling out the taxpayers' money.

As the corporate recipients are quick to point out, it's all perfectly legal. In fact, company executives would be derelict in their duty to stockholders if they failed to take every subsidy and tax advantage they can get. But it does lead to some bizarre situations. For example:

- General Electric: President Reagan's old employer was recently suspended from defense contracts following indictment for fraud. But Synfuels has no qualms about GE. It's part of a consortium that has received $120 million in funding for a coal-gasification plant in California. A GE subsidiary, Ladd Petroleum, has been promised up to $100 million for still another synthetic-fuel plant in California. A GE project in Detroit will seek Synfuel funds later this year, and has asked the Energy Department for $270 million.

- Yet in 1981-1983 GE paid not a dime in federal income tax on its combined profits of $6.5 billion. In fact, the company got $283 million in tax rebates during that period. A GE spokesman said the company did pay $185 million in income taxes for 1984.

- Texaco: This oil giant, which paid no federal taxes from 1981 to 1983, is a partner with GE in the coal-gasification project.

- Dow Chemical: Synfuels has guaranteed this company $620 million in price supports for the fuel it's trying to develop in Louisiana. During 1981-1983, Dow made $776 million in profits, but got $223 million in tax refunds, for a "negative tax rate" of 28 percent.

- Tenneco: Although the General Accounting Office concluded that the huge Great Plains gasification plant in North Dakota can get along without further federal help, Synfuels won't hear of it, insisting on $790 million in subsidies. Tenneco owns 30 percent of the plant. The company will also share in $2.2 billion worth of federal loan- and price-guarantees to produce oil from Colorado coal shale.

Yet Tenneco, an energy and defense conglomerate, had profits of $2.6 billion in 1981-1983, and collected $189 million in tax benefits during that period.

Other winners in the Synfuels' sweepstakes have paid income taxes, but the average is far below the usual corporate tax rate. Signal Corp., for example, which has been promised $365 million to make fuel from peat bogs, paid just 6.5 percent in taxes on 1981-1983 profits of $697 million. And both American Natural Resources and Pacific Lighting Co., which are partners with Tenneco in the Great Plains plant that shouldn't be getting Synfuels aid, paid taxes at low rates on multi-million-dollar profits.

Reps. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., and Mike Synar, D-Okla., have introduced legislation that would eliminate Synfuels — a move that is becoming something of a tradition on Capitol Hill. Last year's attempt ended in a compromise that cut $5.4 billion from the Synfuels budget, leaving $8 billion for the corporation to play with.

This year's bill has some powerful support in Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee. But it also has some powerful opposition, led by Majority Leader Jim Wright D-Texas, who continues to have faith in synthetic-fuel development.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: Ten years after the fall of Saigon, relations between Vietnam and the United States are still frigid. In fact, Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., found the chill to be liberal when he visited Hanoi recently to seek Vietnamese cooperation in confirming the fate of 2,600 American servicemen still listed as missing in Indochina.

The room where the U.S. delegation met for talks with Vietnamese officials was freezing cold, and the situation wasn't helped any by the heated rhetoric of the Hanoi officials. The discussion got nowhere.

- Even by Washington standards, security was astonishingly tight at the Washington Hilton Hotel during a recent reception for visiting Turkish Prime Minister Ugrut Ozal. Plainclothes and uniformed guards were out in force, explosive-sniffing dogs patrolled the premises and a side street was blocked off throughout the event. Turkish officials have been frequent targets of Armenian terrorists in recent years, and the Washington Hilton, of course, is where President Reagan was shot exactly four years and one week before the Turkish reception.

Marie Affleck presents program to group

"Living Off the Interest" was the program presented by Marie Affleck at the Modern Woman's Forum meeting April 12 in the home of Fannie Kent.

Working hard, everyday experience and paying careful attention are the only effective ways to paradise, not drugs, said Affleck. What is really wanted is a simple sense of how great it is just to be here, she said.

Occasionally, mental insulation breaks down and people see things that they have never seen before. They face physical creation, she said. Drugs blur out these experiences, she says, because senses have to be alert.

The world is a miraculous chrysalis which cracks open under the heat of attention. One doesn't need the assistance of drugs to bring the transformation — attention is enough, she said.

Mrs. Affleck tells the story of Uncle Hayden and "Living Off His Interest."

"Uncle Hayden was fond of 'living off his interest' and would bring his interest book with him when he came to visit us on the farm. He told us that we could sell the farm for enough money that we could 'live off the interest.'"

"Dad listened to him but was not impressed. He announced that we were going to start 'living off the interest' on the farm. He went to town and bought a big red book and placed it on the dining table. One morning he got up and made the first entry. Lou read aloud: There is a silver fox den up on Big Penny right under the hollow log by the limestone outcropping.

"We had many exciting times trying to slip up on him. When we finally saw him one snowy morning, we all stood in thrilled wonder.

"Soon everyone discovered how nice it was to remove the dull edge of humdrum from our days in consulting the Interest Book and finding new things to investigate. We were becoming alert for things of greater interest.

"The most famous entry was made by Dad. On spring he found he didn't have enough fertilizer to cover the oat field and covered a spot which said, 'I love Mama,' which turned out darker green than the rest. We were all thrilled when he showed it to us.

"One day Uncle Hayden and I were walking along and he told me that the beavers were building a dam ahead. I told him that I could not see it over the rise. He explained that I could see it if I stood on tiptoes. When I did this, the horizon seemed to widen and I could see.

On returning to the house, Uncle Hayden made his first entry which said, 'Yessir, if you stand on tiptoes your whole world is enlarged.' Yes, the world is a chrysalis that cracks open under the heat of interest."

Dear Abby

Artist's brush covers many a family blemish

DEAR ABBY: I got a good laugh from the letter about the family who had their ex-son-in-law airbrushed out of a family portrait. I found it particularly funny because I am a photo retouch artist who has given many people "the brush." I remove not only wrinkles and zits, but entire people. I once turned a handsomely tuxedoed groom into some grass and shrubbery — leaving his bride visible.

On another occasion I removed two ex-husbands from a family wedding portrait. The parents of these divorced daughters became annoyed every time they looked at the picture, so they hired me to remove the offending parties.

My talent for making people "disappear" in photographs comes in handy. When I want to keep my husband in line, I just tell him if he doesn't behave, I will turn him into a tree!

KIM COUSINEAU, BUFFALO

DEAR KIM: I'm reminded of some unsolicited advice I received many years ago from a political figure who never missed an opportunity to get his picture in the newspaper. "Honey," he said, "when you're posing with three or more people, never stand on the end, they might cut you off."

DEAR ABBY: I was appalled that you advised your readers not to send wedding invitations, etc., to patients who were terminally ill and/or senile.

Some do have lucid moments and would be delighted to know that they have not been forgotten.

WORKS IN A NURSING HOME

DEAR WORKS: I apologize to those who have "lucid moments" and could appreciate being remembered. I had in mind comatose patients who can neither respond to an RSVP nor send a card or gift. This responsibility would then fall on family members or caretakers whose time and money are probably in short supply.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WAITING

TO HEAR: According to Anne Harrison Clark, national director of public affairs for the March of Dimes, in response to my suggestion that readers send a dollar to President Reagan for his birthday for the March of Dimes, approximately $48,500 was raised.

Most well-wishers sent a dollar, but some sent two or three (one for each of their healthy children, they explained). A Texas woman, apparently gung ho for the March of Dimes and President Reagan, sent a check for $500!

Tammy Peugh honored at miscellaneous shower

Tammy Peugh, bride-elect of Koy Dale Blocker, was honored at a miscellaneous wedding shower April 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins of Knott.

Other hostesses were Mes. Robert Nichols, Jerry Roman, Lloyd Robinson, John Jones, John McGregor, Robert Hunt, Calvin Hughes, Andrew Bayes and Don Grantham. The hostesses presented the honoree with cookware.

Peugh, her mother Joann Peugh, and the prospective bridegroom's mother Sara Blocker were presented corsages of ivory carnations and lavender babies breath, tied with iridescent purple ribbon.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Roosevelt Shaw of Sand Springs, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Paul Allen and Mrs. Bob Ethridge of Coahoma, Robin Ethridge of Lubbock, Mrs. Jack Hopper of Stanton and Mrs. Vernon Halcomb of the Merrick Community.

The bride's chosen colors of pansy purple and ivory were used at the entry with a natural straw hat banded with tulle and silk flowers on the front door.

A round mirror reflecting a bouquet of purple iris and babies breath, centered the serving table. A crystal candelabrum filled the purple tapers and a madonna statuette completed the arrangement atop an oval table draped with a floor-length ivory chiffon cloth.

The couple will wed May 4 at the First Baptist Church of Knott.

Dr. Donohue

Bile backup causes liver problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you write something about biliary cirrhosis? My doctor has diagnosed this. I had liver scan and biopsy. Is this the same as regular liver cirrhosis you get from alcohol? I am 72 years old. I feel OK and don't take any medication for it. — Mrs. M.B.

This is a different kind of liver cirrhosis. It doesn't begin in the usual way, from alcohol abuse or some other similar assault on the organ.

Perhaps a little general information on the liver will help you understand what is happening. The liver, as you know, produces bile, the substance that gets to the intestine via the gall bladder in order to do its digestive work. It is drained from this liver by way of tiny channels.

In biliary cirrhosis, the body unexplainably begins attacking those drainage channels. As a result, the bile backs up and pools in the liver, where it begins killing cells. Eventually, scarring (cirrhosis) occurs.

How extensive and how serious it is depends on how many of those cells are damaged. Not having symptoms is a good sign. The most common symptom is body itching from the accumulation of bile products in the blood.

This disease, about which we know little, mostly affects middle-aged and older women. I hope you continue to enjoy good health and escape the consequences of this liver disturbance.

I won't go into treatments for this condition except to mention something about nutrition. You should ask your doctor if you need to take vitamin supplements, especially A, D, and K, the ones that need bile for absorption from the digestive tract.

Having trouble getting to sleep at night? In his new booklet Dr.

Donohue examines the insomnia problem and offers some ways to help you get your needed rest. For a copy of "Why Can't You Sleep?" send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

SOME OF THE GREATEST THINGS IN AMERICA NEVER CHANGE. SOME DO.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Paying Better Than Ever.

Portland Head Light has been a beacon to ships approaching Maine's rugged coast for as long as anyone can remember. And for many, its weatherworn setting is the picture of beauty.

Some things never change. But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. That's the kind of change anyone can appreciate.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7½%.

You can purchase Bonds at almost any financial institution. Or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Buy Savings Bonds. Like Portland's lighthouse, they're another part of our proud heritage.

For the current interest rate and more information, call toll-free U.S. SAVINGS BONDS 1-800-US-Bonds. Paying Better Than Ever

Making the most of space in home topic of club program

Lennie Couch and Ireba Griffith presented the program "Making the Most of Space in Your Home" during the Center Point Extension Homemakers Club meeting at Kentwood Center, April 22.

The club was invited to a luncheon honoring volunteer workers at the Big Spring State Hospital, which was held Thursday, April 23 for Delia McNew.

The next meeting will be at Kentwood Center at 2 p.m. May 14.

Rebekahs drape charter for Delia McNew

The charter of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge #284 was draped April 23 for Delia McNew.

Helping with the draping were: Mary Cole, Irene Maxwell, Marji Norwood, Annie Branson, Mable Morrison, Iva Kenny, Lucille Brown, Lillian Rhyne and Irene Smith.

Twenty-four visits were made to the sick. Cookies will be furnished for the Big Spring State Hospital the second week in May.

The next meeting will be Tuesday at the Lodge Hall.

Thompson speaks to Hyperions

Mrs. Henry Thompson spoke to the 1948 Hyperion Club April 18 about "What you think is what you are." The meeting was held at the Big Spring Country Club. Visiting was Mrs. Jerry Currie.

People think in pictures, not words. "Relax, don't let things upset you. Block out all bad things that come to your mind," says Thompson.

Officers for 1985-86 are: Mrs.

Joseph Boder, president; Mrs. Jerry Foresyth, vice president; Mrs. Robert Rember, recording secretary; Mrs. R.M. Schwarz, treasurer; Mrs. Gerald Wooten, parliamentarian; Mrs. Charles Tompkins, reporter; and Mrs. Ray Don Williams, corresponding secretary.

The next meeting will be a salad luncheon at 12 p.m. May 16. Officers will be installed.

Tornadoes sweep county

 don't know what they're going to do now," the patrolman radioed.

At the same time, Lamesa law officials were spotting several funnel clouds whirling around Dawson County.

At 5:15 a tornado was reported moving east of Big Spring toward Coahoma.

And at 5:20 low clouds, moving northeast from Lenora, skipped through Knott and passed by Vincent. Peter Armendarez of Stanton, who was visiting relatives at a residence on FM 2230 about five miles west of North Highway 87, said one of the tornadoes "was pretty close" and moved off to the northeast.

Residents in Coahoma spotted the funnel at 5:30 moving one mile west of the city to the northeast.

At 5:30 another twister moving toward Knott was confirmed by the National Weather Service radar in Midland. Witnesses also reported two funnel formations dipping from the cloud bank but not touching the ground.

Fifteen minutes later a police spotter on Scenic Mountain reported "I've got a tornado on the ground west of Big Spring north to northwest of Stanton."

"It appears to be closer to Big Spring... about 10 miles northwest of Big Spring."

The twister receded, but as the cloud bank moved north, two more funnel clouds descended to the ground north of the salt lake four miles west of Big Spring.

At 6 p.m. police said four residents of the northside reported a funnel on the ground near Main and Northeast Ninth streets, and a few minutes later police confirmed a funnel cloud trailing low to the ground northeast of the Hotel Settles.

The storm picked up fury as it moved north, drenching Vealmoor and Vincent with heavy rain and battering barns and houses with 50-mph winds.

At 6:15 Department of Public Safety troopers relayed reports of a tornado sighting near Gail in Borden County and an hour later a funnel cloud was reported near Vincent.

Several motorists were stranded by flooded roads as the heavy rainfall coursed through Big Spring, swelling creekbeds and gulleys with torrents of water.

During the thunderstorms earlier, waves of water gushed over streets, stalling cars and floating trash dumpsters into the roads.

Bridges across Beal's Creek were barricaded as the rainfall rushed toward downtown, causing traffic jams at the Benton Street and Owen Street overpasses.

A 4-foot wall of water swept three cars off the Comanche Trail Park entrance road about 4:30. No one was reported injured, and the cars were retrieved from a creek bed. City crews quickly barricaded the road until waters receded.

Police also reported several burglar alarms set off by the storm activity.

A second rainstorm sped through the city about 7:15, briefly flooding streets again and pelting the area with hail.

The second flurry was brief, and at 7:30 — in the extended sunshine of daylight-saving time — a brilliant rainbow appeared in the east.

A twister descends from a heavy cloud bank about 15 miles northwest of Big Spring late Sunday afternoon. Reports show the twister moved in a northeasterly direction, away from the city. The twister headed for the Knott and Ackerly areas but apparently caused no injuries.

Arson blamed for TG&Y fire

A fire Saturday evening at the TG&Y store in the College Park Shopping Center was deliberately set, according to Arson Investigator Burr Lea Settles.

Settles said he found evidence of a flammable liquid at the scene of the fire, but said he could not identify the liquid yet.

"Right across the aisle, there was some lighter fluid. Whether it was set with that or with something else in the store, I don't know," Settles said.

Samples of the substance are being sent to a laboratory for testing. The department should receive results of the test within four weeks, Settles said.

Firefighters have not estimated actual damages from the fire, which was doused by the store's sprinkler system and employees using portable extinguishers, Settles said.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 30, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite all the hubbub and confusion about you, there is a real chance today that you can benefit through the benign attitude and helpfulness of those in prominent positions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Consult with prominent persons and gain their goodwill and fine ideas for gaining your fondest ambitions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be willing to listen to what bigwigs have to suggest and find new and better ways of operating so that you can be more successful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Confer with an expert in some field that interests you and you get fine ideas for gaining your ambitions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Look to dynamic partners for advice about personal matters that have been bothering you and then you know how best to gain right results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can advance in worldly matters by getting into civic and credit affairs and handling them expeditiously.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are inspired to gain your finest ambitions, so don't dilly-dally; go right after them. Get the results you anticipate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to get home affairs improved considerably and make life happier in the future. Do some entertaining.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make it a point to be with a dynamic associate and lay out that plan you have that can benefit you both.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine ideas and can add to your monetary abundance thereby, though it may mean added work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have fine judgment now and you can handle all things well and also be more creative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make arrangements at home that can benefit all concerned. Then entertain your closest friends or family there later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go to a prominent person and discuss a new interest with him or her that is worthwhile and sound.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will appeal to those who are prominent and should have a fine education so that he or she can fit in nicely in such company upon reaching adulthood. One who can easily understand the practical side of life. Don't neglect religious training.

Yogi out, Martin in, as Yanks struggle

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Billy Martin is back. Yogi Berra is gone. The Bronx Zoo is back in business.

"I'm very happy. I never did leave the Yankees," Martin said Sunday night, hours after he was named the New York Yankees manager for the fourth different time in his career.

Yankees principal owner George Steinbrenner fired Berra after the team lost 4-3 Sunday in Chicago to the White Sox. During spring training, Steinbrenner promised that Berra's job would be intact in 1985.

"Yogi will be the manager this year. A bad start will not affect Yogi's status," Steinbrenner said.

That all changed Sunday — after just 16 games. The loss was the team's third straight and 10th of season.

"The action was taken by the Yankees and we felt it was in the best interests of the club," Steinbrenner said in a statement.

Ironically, Martin was in Arlington, where the Yankees open a three-game series against the Rangers tonight, when Steinbrenner telephoned Sunday afternoon.

"He called me and said he wanted me to take over the club, and here I am," Martin said. "I never had any hard feelings with George. I have no problems with George."

Martin, who twice was fired by Steinbrenner and once resigned under heavy pressure from the owner, was working as a consultant and scout for the Yankees since being replaced by Berra after the 1983 season.

That job, though, did not offer the excitement that Martin coveted.

"Anybody who tells you retirement is a lot of fun, they're crazy," Martin said Sunday night. "How many times can you water the garden? And I'm tired of playing golf."

Berra said he did not know whether he would take another job with the team, if Steinbrenner presented one.

"He hasn't asked me yet," Berra said. "Right now, I'm just going to go home and play golf."

The Yankee players, whose bumpy flight to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport symbolized an already bumpy season, were visibly upset when they arrived at their hotel.

"Back off! Back off!" several of them shouted at reporters and photographers who had gathered in the hotel.

Phil Rizzuto, who played with both Martin and Berra with the Yankees and now is a broadcaster with the team, stopped for a minute.

Asked whether the rough ride had affected the team, Rizzuto said: "No, they are all upset because Yogi was let go."

Among the players who declined comment was veteran Don Baylor, considered one of the team's emotional leaders, who had once vowed he would not play again for Martin.

Martin, who said he did not "feel any pressure at all" working again as Steinbrenner's manager, said one of his first tasks with the Yankees would be to get the players "in the proper frame of mind."

The New York clubhouse was gloomy following Sunday's loss, which occurred when starting pitcher Joe Cowley walked home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning.

"Shame, shame, shame," said All-Star outfielder Rickey Henderson, who played under Martin with the Oakland A's before being traded to New York during the off-season.

Spurs, Rockets eliminated

HOUSTON (AP) — It took a fourth-quarter surge by Utah sharpshooter Thurl Bailey and a "no-name" defense to advance the Jazz to the second round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Bailey scored 15 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter and reserve Billy Paultz led a patchwork lineup to a 104-97 victory over Houston Sunday in the deciding game of their first-round series.

Utah lost 7-foot-4 center Mark Eaton shortly before halftime with a hyperextended knee and the NBA's shot-blocking record holder didn't return to the game.

The Jazz trailed 76-67 going into the fourth quarter, but Jazz Coach Frank Layden found the right chemistry with a lineup of Bailey and four substitutes to pull out the victory.

Despite the loss of Eaton, the Jazz rallied behind the efforts of Paultz, Fred Roberts, Rich Kelley, John Stockton and Bailey.

Bailey's 18-foot jumper with 3:38 to play put the Jazz ahead for good. But it was a confrontation between Paultz and Houston center Akeem Olajuwon moments earlier that the Jazz triggered their winning rally.

Olajuwon punched Paultz in an exchange that went unnoticed by the referees, but the Jazz players reacted strongly.

"Everybody got a little steamed up after that," Eaton said. "It appeared to me that it was totally unwarranted."

Stockton said Olajuwon's punch was a key factor in the game.

Paultz said he did not retaliate because "there was no reason to get a technical. The object is to win the game."

Olajuwon said he was merely retaliating against Paultz.

"He punched me and I tried to get the ref's attention, and I couldn't, so I punched him back," Olajuwon said. "I didn't know if it fired them up, but he had already punched me in the stomach about four times."

Olajuwon scored 32 points, including 22 in the second half when the Rockets had hoped to pull away to victory with Eaton on the sidelines.

Denver 126, Spurs 99

The Denver Nuggets' reputation is that of a run-and-gun offensive team that pays only scant attention to defense, and that suits Coach Doug Moe just fine.

"Our defense did it again," said Moe after Denver's 126-99 victory over the San Antonio Spurs in the deciding game of their NBA first-round playoff series Sunday night.

"We really pressured them and forced a lot of mistakes. We had great intensity and we never let them make a run. A lot of people don't know, but that's the way we've played all year and that's what has made us a great team."

Denver cooled off the hot-shooting Spurs, holding them to 39 percent shooting from the floor on only 31 of 79 field goal attempts. Denver, meanwhile, shot 54 percent on 49 of 90 shots.

Denver's defense also forced San Antonio into 24 turnovers, 18 of them in the first half, as the Nuggets forged a 20-point lead.

English had 29 points after three quarters as Denver cruised to a 97-69 lead entering the final period. San Antonio had come into the game shooting 56 percent from the floor for the series — a playoff-record pace — but the Spurs managed to connect on only 17 of 51 field goal attempts in the first three quarters.

76ers 127, Bucks 105

Moses Malone scored 27 points and smothered Milwaukee's three-man center rotation to lead Philadelphia over the Bucks.

Alton Lister, Randy Breuer and Paul Mokeski committed 10 personal fouls and scored only 17 points against the 6-10 Malone.

"I think my all-around talent is better than them," Malone said. "To overcome their depth, you've just got to work hard."

Celtics 133, Pistons 99

Boston, which won three games in its first-round series against Cleveland by a total of just seven points, routed Detroit as frontcourt starters Robert Parish, Kevin McHale and Larry Bird all scored more than 20 points.

Denver Nuggets ALEX ENGLISH and teammate DAN ISSEL celebrate the Nuggets' 126-99 victory over the San Antonio Spurs on Sunday night. ENGLISH led the Nuggets with 33 points.

Parish had 27 points and grabbed 16 rebounds, McHale added 26 points and Bird 21. The Celtics led 64-53 at halftime and left no doubt about the outcome by outscoring the Pistons 37-20 in the third quarter.

Detroit, which swept New Jersey 3-0 in its opening-round series to stretch its winning streak to eight games, got only 42 points from its centers and forwards to 106 for Boston.

January, Littler team win Austin Legends

AUSTIN, Texas (P) — Don January gave new partner Gene Littler a prophetic pep talk that helped make each of them $50,000 richer in a dramatic conclusion to the Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf.

"I told Gene on the 16th tee box that we could get a piece of the title or win it if we could birdie the last three holes," January said. "By golly, that's the way it turned out."

Littler chipped in from 45 feet for birdie on the 16th.

January holed a 10-footer for birdie on the 17th.

And on the 590-yard, par-5 18th, Littler called himself a "lucky dog."

His 30-foot, sidwinding, downhill birdie putt gave the tandem a one-shot victory Sunday and prevented a four-team, sudden-death playoff in the better ball tournament at Onion Creek Club.

"I just put the ball outside the hole four or five feet and hoped I hit it the right speed," said Littler. "Darn if the thing didn't run right into the hole. It was one of the few times all day I helped Don."

January said Littler "puts so good he probably could have made that one with a hoe handle."

It was the first time they had been paired together, although January won the tournament with Sam Snead in 1982 and Littler won with Bob Rosburg in 1981.

"I was really glad they paired us together," said Littler.

"It was even more fun than winning the first time," said January. "You can really choke quick out there. A win like this just kind of makes you tingle. It was a whole lot of fun."

They shot a final round 6-under-par 64 for a 23-under par total of 257.

Snead, watching the putt from off the green, shook his head and said, "When it got eight feet from the hole, I knew it was going in. It just had that look about it."

Defending champions Billy Casper and Gay Brewer had to settle for a second-place tie with the teams of Snead-Lee Elder and Miller Barber-Bob Goalby.

Casper and Brewer shot a final round 5-under-par 65 for 258.

Each second-place team split $36,667.

"We just lost the tournament after the 11th hole," said Brewer. "We had four putts lip out. It was unbelievable. I don't know how any of them stayed out."

Snead made an 8-foot birdie putt on the final hole to give his team a 7-under-par 63 and Barber nailed a short birdie putt on the final green and his team shot a 5-under-par 65.

Golfers DON JANUARY, left, and GENE LITTLER pose with the winners trophy after winning the Legends of Golf Tournament at Austin Sunday. The pair took home $100,000 first place money.

Mickey Wright and Kathy Whitworth, representing women for the first time in Professional Golf Association-sanctioned competition against men from the same tees, finished with a 5-under-par 275. They shot a final-round 69 with birdies on the last two holes.

"The course played very long for us today," said Wright. "The over-

Floyd captures Houston

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — After three weeks of frustration, Raymond Floyd was beginning to doubt himself.

"The last three tournaments I've gone to bed on Saturday night with the lead," said the 23-year veteran after shooting a 69 Sunday to win the $500,000 Houston Open by one stroke over Tour rookies David Frost and Bob Lohr. "It was important to my career to take advantage of leading and not let another one slip away."

He didn't.

After blowing third-round leads at Greensboro, N.C. and in The Masters, Floyd charged onto the new 7,042-yard Tournament Players Course at The Woodlands on Sunday with birdies on the first two holes and never looked back en route to an 11-under-par 277 total. It was Tour victory No. 19 for Floyd, and it was important.

Even at No. 18, with Payne Stewart making a charge and Lohr and Frost in the clubhouse just two strokes back, he intentionally aimed his approach shot beyond the water-guarded green, hoping for the rough or a bunker and settling for the bleachers.

"I was not going to lose the tournament," Floyd said. "The only way to blow the tournament was to put it in the water."

That's where Stewart wound up for the second time in the final round, effectively killing his chances.

"I'm a little depressed, I guess, that I didn't win," Stewart said. "But I was never leading and hit the water too many times. I should have known better."

Stewart's watery demise opened the door for Lohr and Frost to cash in their biggest paychecks ever, each earning $44,000.

"One way or another, it was a thrill," said Lohr, 24.

Floyd was overcome with emotion, his voice wavering as he spoke with reporters.

"It's been a long time coming," he said of the 2½-year victory drought. "No matter how well you play, there's still the doubt."

Floyd, whose last win came in the 1982 PGA, played nearly flawless golf, breaking out of the pack and holding a two-stroke edge throughout most of the day until the bogey on No. 18.

Stewart finished at 279, tied with Bob Murphy, Russ Cochran and Keith Fergus. Floyd, Stewart and Fergus had shared the lead after the third round.

Lohr, who had a 67 Sunday, went into the Houston event 127th on the PGA money list with just $12,550 in winnings and had missed the cut in four of his last five outings.

Calvin Peete and Phil Blackmar finished three shots back at 280.

Uncertainty clouds 50th NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Included with all those tons of meat on the hoof up for auction Tuesday at the National Football League's college draft is some prime, well-seasoned beef — Herschel Walker.

The Heisman Trophy-winner who left the University of Georgia a year early to join the infant United States Football League is eligible to be selected by an NFL team this year.

He's in his third year running for the New Jersey Generals and his contract carries through 1989 — but the speculation is that the Generals and the rest of the USFL may not be running next year, much less five or six years from now.

That makes Walker, the USFL's runaway rushing leader, a tempting target for an NFL team.

But it's also a gamble. An NFL team selecting Walker instead of an eligible could wind up with an empty draft pick, wasted if the USFL survives in 1986.

Another "iffy" situation is the status of the draft itself. The Houston Oilers notified the league they were prepared to file a lawsuit today, naming Commissioner Pete Rozelle as defendant. It would seek a temporary restraining order that could delay the draft until a court reviews the commissioner's decision regarding the status of Bernie Kosar.

The Oilers are distressed over Rozelle's decision which allowed the University of Miami quarterback the option of entering the regular draft or a supplemental draft, which would be held this summer. Kosar chose the latter, which would allow the Cleveland Browns, who hold the first supplemental pick, to take him.

The Oilers say that would harm them because they would lose an extra draft pick acquired in a trade with Minnesota on the condition that Kosar would be available for the Vikings to draft on Tuesday.

In the case of Walker, if the USFL folds, he would almost certainly be free — under certain circumstances — to move to the NFL. Presumably he would settle his contract — worth better than $1 million a year — with Donald Trump, the owner of the Generals.

The team has declined to discuss specifics of the contract, insisting it contains a "confidentiality clause" which prohibits them from doing so, but pro football sources say it has a buy-out provision in the event the USFL folds.

Trump says it would cost an NFL "a lot of money" to buy that contract. But Peter Johnson, a vice president with International Management Group, the agency which represents Walker, said Trump could not block an NFL team from signing the running back in the event the USFL went under.

In that event, Johnson said, "Herschel could opt for free agency. Donald Trump would owe Herschel some money, but Donald Trump would not be due any compensation from anyone. All it would cost an NFL team to get Herschel is what they would have to pay Herschel."

So the question is, how valuable a draft pick does one gamble on Walker? It will be a fascinating game of draw poker — each team playing its hand close to the vest — as the high-stakes game of franchise building and rebuilding goes on.

Some teams, of course, can afford to gamble a high-round pick. When it's on top of the world with no serious weaknesses, a situation in which San Francisco finds itself, the 49ers might be willing to spend as high as a "second-round selection."

Gil Brandt, the Dallas Cowboys' vice president of player development, said Walker, "would be pretty close to being the No. 1 pick in the draft" under more normal circumstances, mainly if he was just coming out of Georgia now. "I think he'll be taken by a team with an extra pick in the second or third round."

If he's right, then — barring a major surprise by Houston or Cincinnati, each of which has two first-round choices, or by some other team — Walker will end up with Denver, New England or San Diego, each of which has two picks in the second round, or with Miami, Minnesota, the New York Giants or Los Angeles Raiders.
