Students at Big Spring High School Monday morning raise the city's sesquicentennial flag, which commemorates the state's 150th year of independence from Mexico. The flag will fly at different locations in the city each week through 1986.

Farmer chafed wheat not sent to Ethiopia

By KEELY COGHLAN

Elbert Long doesn't understand the system.

He wants to send wheat grown on his set-aside acres to Ethiopia, and the federal government wants him to plow it under.

Long, a farmer in the Fairview Community, planted wheat this winter on his set-aside acres — land taken out of cotton production under the requirements of the federal 1985 Cotton Program.

"Under the present law, it has to be either grazed or plowed under," Long said. "I don't have any cattle."

"I'm trying to see if there is some way to get the regulations removed so I can be able to gather the wheat and give it to the starving people," Long said.

"It looks like it's just going to be impossible."

Time, he said, is running out for his wheat, which has another 40 days until it must be harvested. But Long hasn't given up on the wheat grown farther north, which is harvested later, he said.

The wheat, because it was planted on set-aside acreage, would not "infringe on anyone's market," Long said. According to him, Congress has approved a $160

Band loses 33 to bad grades; drops May trip

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

A trip by the Big Spring High School band to Colorado has been cancelled because a number of students are ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities due to falling grades.

Bill McQueary, principal of Big Spring High School, said today that 33 students out of the 142-member Steer Band were forced to drop from outside band activities during the last six weeks of school.

Recent state education reforms require grades of 70 or above in all classes before students are allowed to participate in certain extracurricular activities.

Ricky Mitchell, band director, presented two spring tour proposals to the Big Spring school trustees several weeks ago. Trustees approved a plan for the band to attend a marching contest in Canon City, Colo., next month. Students would miss two days of school under the plan.

To participate in the contest, "Mr. Mitchell would need his entire band," McQueary said. Eligible members of the band will instead tour to the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Students in band were not the only ones affected by the new education mandates.

Forty students out of 140 are ineligible to participate in spring training for the fall football season, McQueary said. Twenty-three of that number are freshmen and the other 17 are sophomores and juniors.

Band and football were monitored by district administrators, McQueary said. "We have a jillion things going on," such as individual club activities, but "individual sponsors check those grades." A number of students have been barred from various activities because of problems with grades, McQueary said, but no list is available.

And other activities were not affected at this time because rules prohibit practice during certain times of the year. McQueary cited girls' sports as an example of activities not being monitored at this time.

Grants targeted for water, roads

By KEELY COGHLAN

Muddy flooded streets, rusty water and low water pressure plaguing Northside residents of the Banks, Rosemont and Moore Additions may come to an end in the next year — if the city receives a state grant.

About 45 residents of the additions met Monday night at Lakeview School to offer suggestions at a public hearing on the city's application for a $300,000 grant.

According to city Public Works Director Tom Decell, the grant, if awarded to the city, would fund repairs and improvements to area water lines and streets.

"I'd like to tell you the $300,000 would solve all the problems here. But it's not going to," Decell told the audience.

Instead, if the city receives the Texas Department of Community Affairs grant, the city will concentrate on installing 6-inch to 8-inch water lines in the additions in contrast to the 1-inch and 2 inch lines that serve the area now.

"You can't circulate any water in a 1- or 2-inch line," Decell said.

"You can be in the shower and come out dirtier than you were before," said Stephanie Sherman of 703 Wyoming, referring to the

Coahoma names top grads

COAHOMA — David Shaw is valedictorian and Mary Jane Salazar is salutatorian of Coahoma High School.

Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw of Sand Springs, posted a 95.97 grade point average during his four years at Coahoma High School.

He plans to attend Texas Tech and major in biochemistry.

Shaw has been president of the National Honor Society, senior representative of the student council, a member of Who's Who, a participant in UIL literary science and calculator contests and a member of the Big Red football team.

Salazar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Morphis of Big Spring, has maintained a 94.24 grade point average at Coahoma.

She plans to attend Howard College. She has been treasurer of the National Honor Society, president of the Office Education Association, selected to Who's Who, senior representative of the Student Council, and qualified for the state solo and ensemble contest in band.

Youth achievement banquet set tonight

Winners of the 1985 Youth Achievement Awards will be announced during a banquet tonight at the Big Spring Country Club, according to Tom Watson, publisher of the Big Spring Herald.

The awards are sponsored by Zale's Jewelers, the Big Spring Rotary Club and the Herald.

This is the 19th year that the Herald and Zale's Jewelers have sponsored the Youth Achievement Awards, Watson said. The Big Spring Rotary Club has been a sponsor for five years.

Watson said the banquet provides "a positive picture of our young people. It recognizes their accomplishments."

The banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. Watson will serve as emcee, and Pat Porter, a local humorist, will be the featured speaker.

FBI collects clues in Wells Fargo heist

NEW YORK (AP) — A videotape and an abandoned armored car could yield valuable clues to a nearly $8 million robbery of a Wells Fargo depot in which four masked gunmen ambushed and disarmed four guards, authorities say.

Investigators "have some very encouraging leads," said Kenneth Walton, deputy director of the FBI's New York office. "I think we'll have a break in this relatively soon."

The four thieves, carrying handguns, surprised the armed guards at Wells Fargo's five-story garage near the Hudson River about 1:20 a.m. Monday, police said. The $7,896,000 haul may have been the largest U.S. cash robbery ever.

The men waited until the guards had opened a vault where about $20 million in cash was kept, then disarmed them, handcuffed them to a handtruck and loaded cash onto the van themselves, said Chief Robert Johnston, chief of operations.

The van was found empty several hours later on the other side of Manhattan.

It was being examined by police, as were "some implements" the robbers left at the scene of the crime, Chief of Detectives Richard T. Nicastro told a joint police-FBI news conference.

Also under scrutiny was a videotape made by automatic television cameras in the depot, he said.

Walton said authorities had no reason to believe it was an inside job, although Nicastro said it was possible a former employee was involved.

"I would say that you had to have some knowledge of the premises and the adjoining building," Nicastro said.

Police and the FBI agreed the job appeared to have been the work of professionals.

Three of the men wore ski masks and a fourth had a turtleneck collar pulled over his face, police said. All were white.

Officials said the robbers left more money in the vault — $12 million — than they took with them. The money they took included bills "of all different denominations, not traceable," Walton said.

ABC News reported Wells Fargo has offered a $50,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the robbers.

Police learned of the heist 10 minutes after it happened, when one of the handcuffed captives was able to get to a phone.

Johnston said there are normally no guards on duty Sunday night, the only night when the depot is unguarded. Following standard procedure, the guards searched the building upon arriving at work early Monday, then opened the vault. At that point, the four thieves jumped them, police said.

Man reports mischief to deputy

Ray Nix of Longshore and Garden City Highway told a sheriff's deputy this morning that someone stole his pickup during the night. The pickup was recovered about 300 yards away from where it was initially parked.

Sheriff's deputy Barney Edens said that Nix had left his keys in the truck. No gas had been siphoned from the vehicle and "apparently someone was just messing around," Edens said.

● Big Spring police transferred Wayne V. Williams, 27, of 700 Andrew to county jail after he was charged with a driving while license suspended charge. He was released on $500 bond.

● A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Lee Don Fotheringham, 27, of 304 Settles for suspicion of driving while intoxicated Monday night. He was stopped 1/2 mile east on a refinery road off Sand Springs road. He was later released on $1,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace China Long.

● Troopers and one sheriff's deputy arrested Bobby Frank Boyd, 58, of 1000 E. 20th for a Wichita County warrant charging him with criminal mischief. He also was warranted for traffic charges in Howard County. He remains in county jail.

● Big Spring police transferred Corina Aguirre Puentes, 28, of 3308 Auburn to county jail after she was charged with theft over $750 and under $2,000. She was released on $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

● The sheriff's department mailed 80 jury notices Monday morning. Jurors will report to county court at 9 a.m. on May 6.

● Oscar Garza, 27, of 510 S. Lancaster was released from county jail after serving two days for a DWI judgment. He was given credit for his jail sentence after serving time on weekends and earning a trusty status from the sheriff's department.

● Deputies released Ricardo Artemyo Uranga, 25, of Route Two Box 162A from county jail after he served 7 1/2 days in jail and was given credit for good time on the remainder of his sentence.

● Santos T. Mendez, 37, of 3000 W. Highway 80 was placed in jail Monday morning for a DWI judgment. He will serve 30 days.

Wreck victim reported stable

The condition of a 10-year-old girl injured Sunday in an accident has been upgraded, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Ami Chali Olyer, 10, of 2101 Runnels is in satisfactory condition today in Medical Center Hospital in Odessa, the spokeswoman said.

The girl was listed in stable condition Monday at the hospital, a spokeswoman said.

Olyer was injured Sunday afternoon while riding her bicycle.

Jewelry taken in burglary

Jewelry valued at more than $2,900 was stolen Monday in a burglary at 804 Birdwell, Carol Stephens told police.

Taken in the burglary were: a one-half carat solitaire diamond with a gold necklace, valued at $2,500; a gold ladies' watch, valued at $300; a silver and turquoise ring, valued at $100; and a pair of silver and turquoise earrings, value unknown.

Burglars also broke a house window, according to the report. The incident occurred between 8:20 a.m. and 4:10 p.m. Monday.

● Vandals broke three windows at the Northside Community Center at 110 N.E. Eighth, center director Marianne Brown told police. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. Thursday and 3:30 p.m. Monday.

● Allen Kinman of 1002 N. Main told police someone Monday damaged two headlamps, two tail lamps and a windshield on his lime green 1978 Ford pickup truck. The damage, estimated at $570, occurred between 3 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. Monday.

● Charles Smith Jr. of 404 Owens told police someone pointed a gun at him at 8:41 a.m. Monday at Two Highland Cove and threatened to use it on him.

● Police Monday arrested Corina Puentes, 28, of 3308 Auburn at 101 W. Third on a theft warrant.

● Police Monday also arrested Rodney Dale Smith, 23, of 700 Willa in the 1300 block of Lancaster on suspicion of driving while license suspended.

● Police early today arrested Wayne Williams, 27, of 700 Andrea in the 2900 block of W. Highway 80 on suspicion of DWLS.

Pre-school registration set

The Coahoma Elementary School, in compliance with House Bill 72, will have a review of four year old children to determine eligibility to attend pre-kindergarten during the 1985-86 school year.

To be eligible for enrollment, a child must be at least four on or before Sept. 1 and must be unable to speak and comprehend English or from a family whose income, ac-ording to standards set by the State Board of Education, is at or below subsistence level.

Students who meet these requirements should be registered at the Coahoma Elementary School office Tuesday, April 30, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Parents should bring birth certificates and immunization records. Parents must reside in the Coahoma district.

For the record

Domingo Abreo, a member of the Hot Potato Band from the Spring City Senior Citizens Center, was misidentified in an article about the band on Sunday.

To book the band, contact the Senior Citizens Center at 267-1628.

Baltimore bans stun guns

BALTIMORE — Possession and sale of stun guns, pocket-sized weapons that temporarily immobilize victims with an electrical shock, were outlawed by a unanimous vote of the city council.

Several council members, however, said they felt the measure, passed Monday night, wasn't strict enough.

Two councilmen said the bill, which goes to Mayor William Donald Schaefer to sign, should be expanded to prohibit use of stun guns by law enforcement officers. A third said the city should urge the state to outlaw possession of all handguns.

Stun guns currently are not used by city police, and Commissioner Bishop L. Robinson has indicated he would not let members of the force use the weapon in the future.

Pepsi mounts ad attack

NEW YORK — The Pepsi Cola Co., seizing "the opportunity of a lifetime," has launched an advertising campaign that seeks to exploit rival Coca-Cola's decision to change its formula.

In a television commercial put together in less than a week, a teen-age girl stares into the camera and asks: "Can somebody out there tell me why they did it? They said they were 'the real thing.' They said they were 'it.' And now they've changed."

After announcing that she is about to try Pepsi for the first time, the girl takes a sip from a can and says, "Ummm. Now I know why."

The Coca-Cola Co. announced last week that it was scrapping its 99-year-old formula for one that is slightly sweeter. Pepsi began work on the new commercial immediately, shooting it Friday on videotape instead of film so it would be ready faster.

FBI find kidnapped girl

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — A man obsessed with an orphaned girl kidnapped and held her for two years before FBI agents discovered them just hours before the girl's picture was broadcast on national television, her sister said.

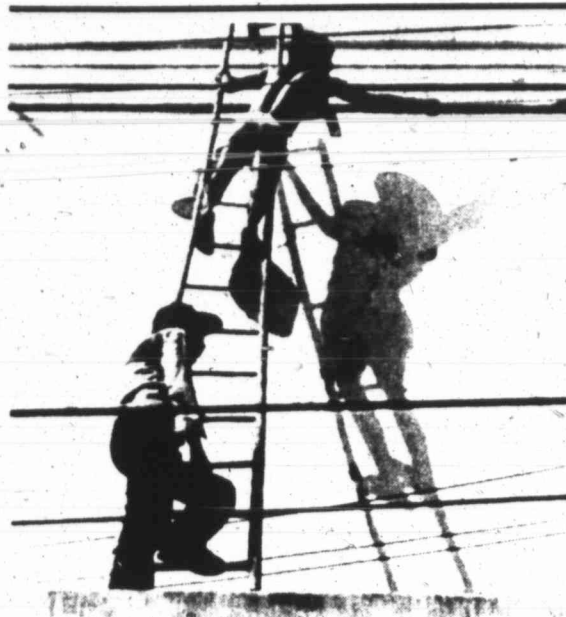

John Stanley Sykora, 32, of Chicago, was charged Monday with kidnapping Cheryl Cramer on April 6, 1983, while she was walking to school near her home in Hamilton Township, N.J., said FBI spokesman Joe Del Campo.

Cheryl, now 16, "appeared relieved, was anxious to be reunited with her family and was cooperative" when she was found, Del Campo said.

Vietnam: A forgotten war story

Parade highlights anniversary of communist victory

HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam (AP) — Jet fighters thundered overhead and thousands of soldiers and civilians marched through Ho Chi Minh City today to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the communist victory over U.S.-backed South Vietnam.

Nguyen Van Linh, Communist Party boss of the city formerly known as Saigon, said in a speech opening the ceremonies that the victory was "a brilliant exploit of the 20th century."

He thanked the Soviet Union for its support, and said for the United States, the Vietnam War was "a tunnel with no light at the end."

High-stepping infantrymen of the world's fourth largest armed force and militia units carrying U.S.-made M-16 rifles, seized at the collapse of South Vietnam, moved past a stand filled with aging revolutionary leaders who had fought the Japanese, French and Americans.

Thousands of spectators watched the parade, officially said to include 50,000 participants.

It traveled to the former presidential palace where on April 30, 1975, South Vietnam surrendered to communist forces who had ringed the city the previous day.

Towed Soviet-built artillery pieces, tanks, and armored vehicles were part of the parade. Soviet-built MiG-21 jet fighters, helicopter gunships and transport aircraft flew overhead.

The parade route went past or near some of the places where the last acts of the South Vietnam drama were played out — and at almost the same time that those events occurred ten years ago.

The parade began at almost exactly the same time that on April 30, 1975, the last helicopter had lifted off the roof of the U.S. Embassy at 7:52 a.m. to end a mass evacuation of Americans and South Vietnamese.

Communist troops were then moving through the city's last defenses.

Just before 10:30 a.m. on that day in 1975, the last leader of South Vietnam, Gen. Duong Van Minh, announced on the radio that his nation had surrendered.

At 12:45 p.m., Nguyen Trung Kien, a tough 20-year-old woman guerrilla, raised the flag of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government over the presidential palace after a tank smashed through the gates. President Nguyen Van Thieu had fled days earlier.

Linh said in his speech that Saigon had suffered for 116 years as an imperialist city, "a place full of debauch, prolific in social evils, oppression and injustice."

He claimed major advances have been made over the past decade such as more vegetable growing and elimination of prostitution.

With Linh on the stand were eight of 13 members of the Politburo, the nation's key organ of rule. They included Communist Party Secretary General Le Duan, Premier Pham Van Dong and Defense Minister Gen. Van Tien Dung, the architect of the 55-day campaign which climaxed with the fall of Saigon.

Godspeed takes to sea

LONDON — The sailing ship Godspeed, watched by Virginia Gov. Charles Robb and Britain's Prince Phillip, set sail from London today in a re-enactment of the voyage that carried English settlers to America almost four centuries ago.

The crew of 14 Virginians unfurled two of the 68-foot ship's topsails, and the Godspeed glided down the Thames on the start of a 6,000-mile, 10-week journey.

The trip will include stops at Tenerife in the Canary Islands and at Martinique and St. Thomas in the Caribbean.

Prince Phillip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, boarded the Godspeed at its mooring off east London's Isle of Dogs and spent 15 minutes asking questions about the vessel.

"Are you sure you wouldn't like to engage another passenger?" Philip asked. The skipper, George Salley, 52, replied, "I'd be happy to have you sail with us."

Battle brews in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Moslem militias backed by heavy artillery fire stormed the Christian mountain redoubt of Kfar Falous in southern Lebanon today and were locked in close-quarter combat with the defenders, the state radio reported.

The radio reported at least two Moslem militiamen were killed and five wounded in the assault. There was no word on Christian casualties.

The assault in the south, the latest push in a six-day Moslem offensive, came after heavy fighting between Christian and Moslem militias in Beirut overnight and today in which a freighter was set on fire.

A cease-fire was declared at mid-morning, but snipers duelled past the deadline. Police said at least five fire fighters were wounded.

Ortega seeks Russian aid

MOSCOW — President Daniel Ortega of Nicaragua departed today with a promise of economic aid from the Kremlin, but Soviet officials did not say whether they would give him the $200 million in emergency aid he reportedly sought.

In a brief statement at the airport, Ortega said the Soviet Union is "collaborating" with Nicaragua in restoring the economy of the Central American nation and that the Sandinista government would also like a similar relationship with the United States.

But Washington so far "has brought only death and destruction to Nicaragua," and prospects are poor for normal relations as long as the U.S. government aids rebel forces in Nicaragua, Ortega said.

Ortega arrived today in Belgrade, Yugoslavia and was greeted by President Veselin Djuranovic.

Crew faces mishaps aboard Challenger

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The scientists of space shuttle Challenger mixed research with trouble-shooting today as they settled into a round-the-clock work routine aboard the laboratory they share with a menagerie of monkeys and rats.

A broken airlock, fouled plumbing system, a "crashed" computer and communications gaffes that caused radio signals to echo as if in a cavern slowed efforts by the astronauts to activate the billion-dollar Spacelab.

Challenger, which was purring along in good shape, was launched from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida on Monday, but within a few hours the seven astronauts found themselves beset by pesky mechanical problems that quickly threw them behind schedule.

They overcame many of them, including the confused communications, with help from specialists on the ground. But others remained unresolved and threatened to wipe out one or two of the 15 experiments planned during a week in orbit.

Most of the problems showed up in the early hours of the mission. Two new ones cropped up early today. A computer used to send commands to some experiments simply quit — "crashed," as one crewman reported. Unable to revive it, the crew switched to a backup computer.

An optical device used to view the growth of an electronic crystal failed to produce an image until some trouble-shooting procedures were read up to Challenger.

Despite all the problems, Challenger remained a healthy ship, according to mission control, and the astronauts today began a series of crystal growth and fluid dynamics experiments that are testing ways of making new and purer exotic materials in weightless space.

Within hours after liftoff, the astronauts were able to send one small satellite spinning off into an independent orbit as planned but another craft, called GLOMR, failed to budge from its can-like nest in the cargo bay.

A medical experiment that was to vacuum up and measure the volume of urine produced in space worked in reverse. Fluid was spewed into the cabin, sending the astronauts scurrying around with paper towels to sop up droplets.

PUBLIC NOTICE
 AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective May 14, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.
 AT&T Communications has filed a reprice of its tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for WATS and 800 Service and all private line services including Channel Services, Foreign Exchange (FX), DATAPHONE Digital Service, and OCC Facilities.
 Also proposed is the institution of a charge for Directory Assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls. The initial minute charge for all AT&T Long Distance calls and additional minute rates for AT&T Long Distance calls 51 miles or less are proposed for increases to reflect the access charges approved by the PUC for such calls.
 The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $139 million or 12.7 percent.
 A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.
 Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Sirens' wail was needed Sunday

At 4:20 p.m. Sunday, a funnel cloud was spotted south of Big Spring by a law enforcement officer. The funnel cloud was moving north toward town. At 5:30 p.m., a series of funnel clouds dropped from a storm system west of town and touched down briefly before scrambling off to the northeast.

Yet, despite those reports, Big Spring's emergency sirens were mute Sunday.

There was an intervening hour of hellish weather, as funnel clouds and twisters were spotted all around Big Spring. The city's emergency management team decided sirens weren't necessary. We believe there could have been no more compelling reason than Sunday's violent weather to sound the alarm of the sirens.

Hal Boyd, the emergency management coordinator, defends the decision not to the sound the sirens on the basis that they weren't needed. His comments, however, indicate that the siren system itself is inadequate.

In either case, the city's residents should have been warned of danger by some means other than television and radio. The reason is obvious: Should the same situation have occurred at 4:20 a.m. instead of 4:20 p.m., no one would have had radio or television turned on. The city would have been sleeping.

Boyd said Monday that the city's sirens are not sufficient that they will be heard when a storm is in progress. He cites the muffling effect of wind and rain as the reason. He says, should the civil defense sirens be activated, police cars' sirens would be used to supplement them.

If sirens are inefficient as warnings, why then are they the staple of Texas communities which are subject to tornado strikes? Wichita Falls and Abilene, both much larger than Big Spring, use a system of sirens for that purpose. Lamesa didn't hesitate Sunday to let loose the wail of its municipal sirens.

If sirens are inadequate in Big Spring, then they should be upgraded to ensure communitywide coverage. Or the city should give up the pretense of a siren protection system and not let its residents harbor a false sense of security.

Weather experts tell us the only thing predictable about a tornado is its unpredictability.

When every second is precious, the idea that a police car could be deployed to each neighborhood to serve as a modern-day Paul Revere stretches credibility.

BMW's, brains and the Bitburg visit

President Reagan couldn't understand what all the fuss was about when it was announced he was going to visit a German military cemetery next month and pay tribute to German soldiers killed in World War II.

The White House said the president had decided not to visit the Nazi concentration camp at Dachau or an Allied war cemetery because his trip was being made in the "spirit of reconciliation" and Mr. Reagan did not want to open old wounds.

While no one doubts that the president is a great communicator, every once in awhile he does fall on his face. How did he make his most recent blunder? One theory, advanced by Bill Greider of Rolling Stone, is that Mr. Reagan's advance team was so busy buying BMWs at half price that they didn't check out the political ramifications of the decision.

"Mr. President, here is the itinerary for your trip to West Germany in May. We've got you down for a trip to the Bitburg Military Cemetery. The Germans thought it would be a nice gesture if you visited a place where only German soldiers are buried. It would show that you are willing to let bygones be bygones."

"I have no objection, but shouldn't I visit Dachau and an Allied cemetery as well?"

"That would be opening up old wounds, Mr. President. We can't send a wrong message to the Germans at this time."

"How can I send a wrong message to the Germans if I visit Dachau?"

"Because you don't want to remind them of all the bad stuff they did during the war. It would be a mistake to lay a quilt trip to Germany just when we got them to take our Pershing missiles."

"There's something in that. At the same time you are aware there is going to be a tremendous amount of flack from our veterans and also the victims of the Nazis. How do I handle that?"

"You can say at your press conference we can't hold today's Germans responsible for things that their ancestors did in World War II."

"Ancestors?"

"Of course. All the Germans involved in World War II are dead. They told me so at the BMW showroom."

"I thought there were quite a few ex-Nazis alive."

"There are none in Germany. The only ones left are living in Argentina."

"Won't our ex-GIs be upset if I go to a German military cemetery without stopping by an Allied one?"

"There are hardly any of our veterans from World War II alive either. We're talking about something that happened over 40 years ago. Besides, if you go to an Allied cemetery after visiting a German military graveyard, Bonn will feel you are rubbing salt in the wounds."

"How can you be so sure of this?"

"They told me so at the BMW assembly line."

"I'll take your word for it. What do I say at the Bitburg cemetery?"

"The thrust of your speech will be that both sides were wrong."

"I can't say that. We weren't wrong. They were wrong."

"Okay. How about just saying 'War is hell?'"

"That's all you want me to say?"

"Well, you have to make it short, because I promised them you would make your major speech at the BMW factory."

Covering up an insurance claim

WASHINGTON — About three weeks ago, a federal agency actually experienced the nightmare that Social Security beneficiaries often worry about: It ran out of money to pay the people it owed.

There was practically no money left in the till to pay insurance claims filed by farmers for crop losses — though the farmers had paid premiums for the protection.

According to our sources, the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. simply stopped processing demands for payment. To cover its financial embarrassment, the FCIC secretly resorted to a bit of Peter-Paul robbery, transferring $50 million of administrative and operating funds to the bankrupt claims section. It has since asked Congress for permission to take yet another stopgap measure to cover the first one.

But it's becoming obvious that FCIC needs an overhaul, which will require some hard decisions by both Congress and the administration.

The FCIC was created in 1938 as an attempt to spread the risk of an inherently risky business. And through 40 years of dust, droughts and deluges, it worked. It was not only self-supporting, but for 30 postwar years it took in more in premiums than it had to pay out in claims.

That cheery picture darkened abruptly in 1980, when the FCIC paid out $199 million more than it took in. In the past five years, it has gone $861 million into the red.

Various stopgaps have kept it afloat — but as precariously as a henhouse in a flood. First it borrowed $250 million from a sister agency in the Agriculture Department, the Commodity Credit Corp. That loan was swallowed with barely a burp to note its passing. Commodity Credit has written it off as a bad debt.

Then the FCIC went to the Treasury Department. With congressional permission, it may sell up to $500 million in so-called "stock" in itself to the Treasury, supposedly to build a reserve against the lean years.

But the money from the stock sales disappeared rapidly — in both fat and lean years. Now the FCIC has only $50 million of its worthless stock left to peddle to an understandably reluctant Treasury. It is trying to extract this last residue to replace the money it transferred from its administrative budget.

How did the FCIC get in such pathetic straits? Merritt Sprague, a plain-spoken Illinois farmer who is the agency's third manager since hard times struck, put it simply: "The truth is we've experienced losses that have exceeded our premium income for five consecutive years, and that has resulted in an unintended Federal subsidy to the program."

Persecution isn't only in Germany

To the editor: Let me be the first to deplore racial and religious persecution, whether it be in Dachau or Nebraska. However, it should be looked at in perspective.

Being of German descent, I deny that the hard-working and conservative Germans have any monopoly on religious persecution. Have we forgotten the bloody reign of terror of the French Revolution in which the beautiful Notre Dame Cathedral was desecrated by being made the Temple of Reason and a prostitute put in charge of the church? How many priests went to the guillotine?

Have we forgotten how Thomas Jefferson piously talked about a right to life and then supported his fellow revolutionaries in their bloody mass murder of the French middle class?

Have we forgotten Jefferson's talk about "all men are created equal" while he "pursued happiness" by committing adultery with two of his slaves?

At the end of WWI, the Wilson administration, dominated as it was by Colonel House and the Council on Foreign Relations, gave the world the infamous Versailles so-called peace treaty which allowed the international bankers to help bring the Nazis to power.

Later when Hitler was coming to power he received sizeable financial help from General Electric, Henry Ford, the Henry Schroeder Bank of New York and last but not least from John Foster Dulles, secretary of state under Eisenhower. After helping Hitler to power, Eisenhower and Dulles brought the PLO into Lebanon about 25 years ago, the mission of the PLO being to finish the job started by Hitler.

The PLO are right now conducting a war of extermination against the Christians in Lebanon and are in Nicaragua, poised and ready to race up Central America to West Texas. The PLO are supported by the United Nations Organization.

Yet the self same New Dealers who denounce religious persecution in Germany support the religious persecution carried out by the U.N.

Let us put an end to religious persecution by getting out of the United Nations.

Art Club letter deserved response

To the editor: I agree with everything Becky Smiley says (Mailbag, Friday). My opinion really is the same as hers, but that has all happened mostly this year, because o. Becky Smiley and Doris Vierregge and the fact that we meet in the art department now. She is entirely right.

I'm glad she came back at me because things have been picking up. The year before we didn't even have a show (art show) at all. I'm pleased as anyone that it is picking up. We had none of those things before!

Learn to keep your faith

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It is hard for us not to be bitter and angry at God. Our teen-age son was hurt in an athletic accident several months ago, and it looks like he will be permanently paralyzed ... It all seems so useless. — Mrs. A.B.

DEAR MRS. A.B.: We cannot always understand completely why some things happen to us. A friend of Job — who encountered nearly every type of suffering and sorrow imaginable — declared to him, "Yet man is born to trouble as surely as sparks fly upward" (Job 5:7). But in the end, Job came to realize that God was with him no matter what the circumstances were, and God could use even the most difficult circumstances to draw Job closer to Him.

God can help you through this tragedy. Look at your choices. You can turn your back on God, accuse Him of ruining your sons' life and say that He must hate you or He would not have allowed this to happen. But if you did, you would have a false understanding of God and you would cut yourself off from His love and strength.

Your other choice is to turn to Christ by faith and ask Him to help you and your son — even if you do not understand right now why this happened. God knows what it is to suffer, for his only Son, Jesus Christ, took upon Himself the worst suffering anyone could ever undergo. He took on your sins and mine, and He went to death and hell so that we could be saved.

God is able to give each of you victory over the anger you feel. Anger only feeds upon itself and becomes that much stronger and more destructive. Bitterness will never help your son. But Christ can give you hope, and if you will ask Christ to come into your life, you will discover that God loves you and is able to encourage you with His presence every day.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Service.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Tuesday, April 30, the 120th day of 1985. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: Ten years ago — on April 30, 1975 — the South Vietnamese capital of Saigon fell to Communist forces as President Duong Van Minh announced an unconditional surrender. Three decades of conflict that had racked Vietnam were over.

On this date: In 1789, George Washington took office in New York as the first President of the United States.

In 1803, the United States purchased the Louisiana Territory from France.

In 1812, Louisiana entered the Union as the 18th state.

In 1900, Hawaii was organized as a U.S. territory.

In 1945, Adolf Hitler committed suicide.

In 1973, President Richard M. Nixon announced the resignations of his aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, along with Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and White House counsel John Dean.

Five years ago: Several gunmen claiming to represent dissident Iranian Arabs seized the Iranian embassy in London, taking about 20 hostages.

One year ago: President Reagan ended his visit to China by concluding three agreements with his hosts on scientific and cultural exchanges, economic cooperation and the development of nuclear power.

Today's birthdays: Actress Eve Arden is 73. Singer Willie Nelson is 52. Actor Gary Collins is 47. Actress Jill Clayburgh is 41.

Volunteers honor Burchett, Edgemon

Big Spring State Hospital employees Evelyn Burchett and Connie Edgemon were honored Thursday during the hospital's Volunteer Services quarterly luncheon.

The Volunteer Services department likes to occasionally honor employees who do special things, said Volunteer Services Director Kathy Viccineilli. This year Burchett was honored because she is always available to give special help to a client. Edgemon was honored because she helps educate the public about the hospital through tours, panel discussions and community education events.

The luncheon was dedicated to the hospital's volunteers in honor of National Volunteer Week, April 21-27. The volunteers were asked to set in a special section during the luncheon so that they could be recognized.

President of Avery and Associates, Johnnie Lou Avery presented the keynote address to "say thank you to the volunteers." She mentioned the works of some state hospital volunteers to illustrate what volunteers do for the hospital.

She presented her speech as a thank you to the volunteers because: they could not give in the ways they do if they didn't love themselves first; they say "that needs to be done and I'm the person to do it"; and because they are so open-minded and sensitive to others that they accept others as they are, she said.

Jim Weaver, president of the Volunteer Services Council, announced plans for the annual Rummage Sale at the former Prager's Men's and Boy's Wear building. The sale will be Thursday and Friday, and volunteers are needed. Volunteer groups also are needed to sponsor picnics for patients, he said.

Christensen shows slides of gardens throughout world

Mrs. W.H. Christensen presented a slide presentation titled "The World is My Garden" at the April 23 meeting of the Rosebud Garden Club. Roll call was answered with "A Garden I Have Visited."

Christensen, who has traveled extensively, has a collection of slides she has taken of gardens in Europe, Canada, Mexico, parts of the Orient, Puerto Rico and the continental United States.

On April 10, four yellow roses, honeysuckles and trumpet vines were planted in the rose garden at Comanche Trail Park.

Members are to bring 24 dozen cookies to the May 28 meeting. These are to be donated to the Big Spring State Hospital.

Fitness topic of Fairview's program

Ina Richardson gave a program April 23 on "Finding Time for Fitness" to the Fairview Extension Homemakers Club.

A person must pick a time to exercise, she said. If walking or jogging isn't his style, he should move his hands, arms and legs while sitting. The bottom line is move it, she says.

Bernice Micallef recently attended the Cotton Art Show in Lubbock. She saw fashions, art and a display of machinery used in agriculture.

The next meeting will be May 7 at the home of Nell Smauley.

Residents participate in Western Day

Residents of Golden Plains Care Center participated in Western Day, Friday. The residents and staff dressed in Western apparel to join in the spirit of the old days.

The center's decor consisted of a saloon atmosphere and trail-drive necessities. The dietary department served a lunch of Chuckwagon Barbecue, old-fashioned potato salad, skillet cornbread and Grandmother's cherry pie. The Tom Castle Band provided country-western music to help end the day's trail drive.

Dear Abby

Bike shop can teach pedal-pushing

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Ashamed," the male college student who never learned to ride a bicycle. I'm a 27-year-old male who's never learned how to ride a bicycle either. I can't believe there are two of us! I certainly can identify with his shame and embarrassment.

Ironically, I recently completed a motorcycle course and obtained my license.

MIKE IN WICHITA
DEAR MIKE: Don't give up. Read on.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from a young college man who did not know how to ride a bike and was embarrassed to ask.

Bicycle USA has trained cycling instructors in virtually every state. Contacting a local bike shop, bicycling club or Bicycle USA (6707 Whitestone Road, Suite 209, Baltimore, Md. 21207) directly should be sufficient to put anyone interested in learning to ride a bike in touch with a certified instructor. No matter what the age of the rider, instructors have the skills and experience to be of assistance. Often instructors teach through local park and recreation offices, or through bike shops. Bicycling safely becomes more and more important as more people commute to work, ride on the weekends and make cycling a family activity. We stress safety!

I hope you can find room for this in your column, Abby.

SUSAN BAXTER,
INSTRUCTOR, EUGENE, ORE.
DEAR SUSAN: Find room? I'll make room to promote safety in cycling. Especially since May is National Bicycle Month.

Dr. Donohue

Hair pulling reflects anxiety

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing in regards to a problem I have with my 5-year-old. She has been pulling her hair out at night. She also sucks her thumb. Her hair is broken off at the crown and she is almost bald in spots. It also happens during the day when she is tired. One hand goes to her mouth and the other twists in her hair. She has done this since she was little.

I've tried everything from thumb medicine to mittens and hats to stop her. Her teacher has to remind her constantly at school. I might add that she is also insecure and we try to overcome that with extra attention. She has been to an allergist, who offers no solution. Can you tell me anything about this? — V.C.

Twisting and pulling out hair is trichotillomania, a word that may seem to reflect an ominous and rare illness, but which is really fairly common and almost always associated with thumb-sucking. And though it doesn't call for pushing panic buttons, and most youngsters do get over it, it is something you want to get behind her as soon as possible. Carried to extremes and allowed to proceed into later years it can result in permanent hair problems. And other problems may develop if she happens to be continually ingesting broken bits of hair.

Since you mention her insecurity, I wonder if your doctor has suggested that as the treatable cause. It may be time to bring in a professional to evaluate things, if only to find out if her anxieties need special attention right now. I have a feeling, though, that peer pressure to abandon this compulsion may play a strong role for her. She is fortunate to have parents that want to help her without creating an unnecessary fuss.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please tell me if a haital hernia is hereditary. My parents had it and my brother and I also. — M.S.

I can see why you would assume it is hereditary, but it is such a common anatomical quirk that your family background would not be considered unusual. And from the writings of many authorities on the subject I can find no substantiation for hereditary factors. About 60 percent of all people in their 60s will show evidence of hiatus hernia, but fewer than 5 percent will ever develop symptoms.

For those who are not regular readers, I guess I should mention again that the hernia (bulge) occurs where the moorings of the upper stomach anchor to the diaphragm muscle. There is a slight weakening of the muscle at that point. As a result, part of the stomach protrudes upward into the chest cavity, above the diaphragm.

Usually, that's no cause for concern. Many times the person with the HH may simultaneously suffer from gastric juice reflux into the esophagus and associate the two problems. But the truth is that the reflux happens with or without the herniation.

Rx for Flu or Chicken Pox: Kindness

Be good to yourself when you've got the flu or chicken pox. Take it easy. Get plenty of rest. Viral illnesses such as these are usually self-limiting. Time will cure them.

Check with your doctor about using medications to treat flu or chicken pox. For children—including teenagers—medications such as aspirin and aspirin-containing products may not be a good idea. A rare but dangerous condition called Reye syndrome may develop in young people just when they appear to be recovering. Studies strongly suggest a link between the development of Reye and the use of aspirin to treat the flu or chicken pox.

So, treat yourself right when you've got the flu!

Grants

water, which she said comes out of the faucet thick, red and rusty.

The city tried to fix the problem, but "the water turned red within a period of a couple of weeks," Sherman said.

According to Decell, the problem is citywide. "I have a jar of red water in my office that a woman gave me (in another addition). She showed me a red shirt that had been white (before being washed). She was a little upset."

Residents also have problems running water and flushing the toilet at the same time, Decell said.

Under the grant program, the city would install more fire hydrants to increase firefighting protection and repair streets where water lines were installed, Decell said.

Any remaining funds, he said, would be used to improve streets, some of which are just mud or gravel.

In some cases, streets like Wyoming and Ohio, where new water lines will be laid, will be inverted to collect the water in the middle of the street.

Dorothy Wooden of 800 Pine, however, said she wanted the city to work on her street, which she described as "nothing but dirt and rocks as big as your fist. It looks like red clay mud."

"The water runs down the street and around the curve. If you step in the street, it's like a river. It will wash you down the street," Wooden said.

"My daughter lives across the street. And if she was sick, I couldn't cross the street to get to her," she said.

If the city does not have enough funds to pave the street, Decell said he would consider mixing emulsion with gravel and caliche to cover the street and keep it from washing away. According to Decell, he used the mixture six months ago on Anna street, which also carries a lot of water, and the street has held up well.

Residents also talked about ways to divert the water from entering their neighborhood and to slow down the water, which naturally flows down Wyoming and other area streets from the gullies between the railroad and Interstate 20.

"It's not so much the rainfall in the area (that causes the flooding)," said Roosevelt Rutledge of 803 Ohio. "Most of the water is coming in from another area rather than originating here."

"All the water is directed to us," he said, and asked the city to consider a feasibility study to see what could control or slow down the water coming into the area.

Milton Perkins of 811 Pine also asked Decell whether the city could install some type of drainage system to divert the floodwaters during rains. Even if the city puts in streets, he said, "the water will still wash it out."

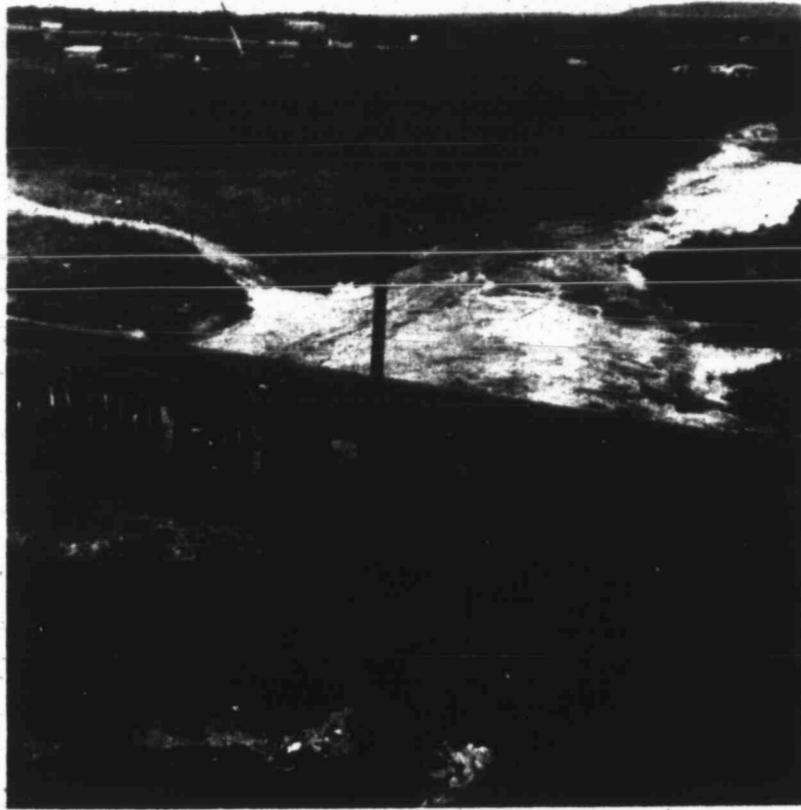

But according to Decell, the cost of putting in drainage pipe would be too costly. "The problem is we would need to put something like 60-inch pipe in there to handle the water. It would probably cost $75 a foot.... It's too cost-prohibitive," he said.

The cost of putting in a road over the salt flats for better access to Malone-Hogan Hospital, another suggestion, also would be too costly, Decell said.

Decell, however, said he would have city crews clean off the area along the lake and would have engineers examine where the runoff water was originating. If it were draining from the interstate, he said he would contact the state engineers.

Decell and Administrative Assistant Pat Hardy, in charge of the grant application, said they were "optimistic" about receiving the grant since they had received one last year.

City officials will know whether the grant will be awarded to them in four months, Hardy said. If awarded, the city would begin work in the summer of 1986 on the project.

Water runoff crosses under this bridge running underneath the railroad tracks Sunday at Sulphur Draw. Heavy rains and hail pounded Big Spring and the Crossroads Country area this weekend.

Kidnappers free woman; one man killed in attack

FORT WORTH (AP) — A scribbled note left on a restroom wall at a Louisiana truck stop Monday led to the release of 18-year-old Donna Irwin of Fort Worth, who was abducted at gunpoint from a park near Lake Worth after an attack that left one man dead and two injured, authorities said.

Miss Irwin was shaken but "in good condition," Jim Whitaker, chief of detectives for the Iberville Parish Sheriff's Department in Plaquemine, La., told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"She says she's all right. She's O.K.," Bill Irwin said after speaking with his daughter Monday evening.

A 28-year-old Arlington man and a 22-year-old Houston man were being held in the Iberville Parish Jail for Fort Worth authorities.

The two are also wanted in the shooting death Sunday night of Kevin Allen, 21, of Fort Worth, and the wounding of two other Fort Worth men, David Suson, 32, and his brother-in-law, James Bell, 31. Deputies also recovered a .22-caliber automatic pistol believed to have been used in the fatal shooting of Allen, and a large pocket knife, Whitaker said.

Suson was shot in the head and was in critical condition late Monday at John Peter Smith Hospital. Bell was shot in the face and was listed in good condition.

The three men who were shot were driving around in the Lake Worth area when they came across Miss Irwin and her date, Thomas Emmitt Cox, 22, as they were being attacked by two men at Inspiration Point, a scenic overlook in Marion Sanson Park at Lake Worth in northwest Tarrant County, said Fort Worth police Detective J.D. Roberts.

She and Cox had been dating for only a week, but they have known each other since they were children, her friends said.

Roberts said the two men robbed Miss Irwin and Cox and threatened to kill them. About that time, the three other men drove up, were pulled out of their truck and shot. Cox escaped and ran for help while the two attackers fled, forcing Miss Irwin to go with them.

"There is a way he can do it. You have to go to the USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service," Waggoner said. "You can't do it in one day's time."

According to Waggoner, the office was able to get the USDA's approval for two Eastland County churches that shipped black-eyed peas, green beans and corn.

"Because it is a set-aside, it's up to the secretary's discretion. This month he may approve it. But CCC (Commodity Credit Corp.) stocks may go down below a certain level and he may want more put in that," Waggoner said. "Just because he says you can do it in April doesn't mean you can ship it in May. The situation may have changed."

Long was going to call the office back after talking to other farmers but has not as far as Waggoner knows, he said.

The problem with shipping the wheat to Africa may arise from another USDA regulation that prohibits farmers from using automated equipment to harvest crops on set-aside land, Waggoner said.

"Black-eyed peas — you have to pick them manually. Corn you can get by with it. But wheat — there's no way," Waggoner said.

Long came up with the idea to send the wheat to Ethiopia after looking at his wheat crop, which he claims is "about the best wheat crop ever. I could get 50 bushels to the acre," Long said.

"I thought, 'Isn't it a shame to let that wheat hit the ground and all those people are starving?'" he said.

MADD, White announce $13 million campaign

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas broadcasters and the Mothers Against Drunk Driving joined Gov. Mark White Tuesday to begin a $13 million campaign aimed at reducing the number of alcohol-related traffic accidents and deaths.

Don Chaney of Tyler, president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters, said 120 radio stations, 50 television stations and the Texas State Network will air public service announcements beginning mid-May and continuing through Labor Day.

The broadcasters will provide about $13 million worth of free air time for the ads.

"In mid-May these announcements will emphasize the importance of alcohol-free school celebrations," Chaney said.

During late May the broadcasts will warn against drinking while driving and during June to mid-August broadcasts will stress moderation in drinking during family outings.

In late August, the announcements will again caution against drinking and driving during the Labor Day holidays.

"In 1981 when my son was killed by an intoxicated driver, drunk while driving was socially acceptable behavior," said Marinelle Timmons of Houston, state director for MADD. "Since that time we have come a long way and MADD sees public awareness as the key to reducing the deaths and injuries on our highways."

Gov. Mark White said he and his family will tape a public service announcement to help in the campaign. The White ad will be aired Memorial Day weekend.

Ten minutes with Gene Stallings

Gene Stallings has been around a lot of football. The Cowboys secondary coach for the past seven years fits the mold of a true-blue Texan. Big shoulders, strong chin and he looks you straight in the eye when he talks to you.

The Paris native has served under two of the greatest minds the game has produced, the late Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama, and present Cowboys head mentor Tom Landry. Stallings also has the distinction of being the last Texas A&M coach to lead the Aggies to a Southwest Conference title, in 1967.

I talked with the Cowboys coach before his speaking engagement at the Coahoma High School athletic banquet last week. Naturally the main thing on my mind was how the Cowboys would do in today's and tomorrow's NFL draft.

"Usually the Cowboys have been noted for taking the best player available," said Stallings. "But we lost some wide receivers, so this year we'll be looking for some."

Are there any good wide receivers in this year's draft? "Yes, I think there are some good ones this year. There's the Rice kid (Jerry) from Mississippi Valley and Eddie Brown from Miami. I rank these as the top two."

But Stallings made it clear that wide receivers were not his business. Finding players to cover wide receivers are. "We're set up pretty good in our secondary. The only question mark is six of the defensive backs are free agents, but I don't anticipate any problems re-signing the players," he said.

With Dexter Clinkscale, Bill Bates, Everson Walls, Mike Downs and Ron Fellows coming back, the Pokes seem in good shape in the secondary. Carl Howard, Vince Albright, Victor Scott and Dennis Thurman will also be back. "Last year there was talk of problems with Dennis Thurman. He said he wanted to be traded. I think that's all settled now. Hopefully he'll play because we need him."

Stallings said he was more than happy with his secondary's performance last season.

"All you have to do is look at the stats. We ranked second in the NFL in yards per attempt, and first in the NFC. We also ranked second in the league against top quarterbacks and second in the NFL in completion percentage. The only goal we did not meet last year was touchdown passes with 23. We had set our goal at 18 for the year."

Stallings also admits this year's draft might be good pickings for secondary players. "With more college teams going to the passing game, there are better defensive backs coming out. But we'll try to get the skill people we need before we think about defensive backs."

What changes will be made in the offensive line? "I don't think there's much wrong with our offensive line as far as talent goes. But we need to get them healthy. If you will remember last year we never had the same players in the lineup because of injuries. They'll be okay this season."

And then the question that's been a topic since the season ended last year: Will Danny White or Gary Hogeboom or both be with the team when training camp opens?

"As far as I know, they'll both be back this season. But let me tell you, if there was going to be a trade I wouldn't know about it. The front office pretty much keeps it to themselves. Personally I feel that both Danny and Gary will be in training camp. Both are good enough to win in the NFL."

As I was about to fire another question at the Cowboys coach we were informed it was time to eat because Stallings had to leave before the festivities would close. I held back my questions, put my pen back into my jacket, thanked Mr. Stallings and said good-bye.

I must admit, it was the best 10-minute interview I'd had in a long time.

NFL Draft
Virginia Tech lineman first to go

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League teams went for the beef today in the league's 50th annual draft, passing up quarterbacks in favor of offensive linemen to protect them and defensive linemen to sack them.

It was, in fact, a record-setting draft in a way, going through nine picks without the selection of a quarterback, running back or receiver — the first time that has happened since 1968.

As expected, no quarterbacks were chosen in the first round for the second straight year, although Miami's Bernie Kosar would have been had he not opted for a supplemental draft and the chance to play for his hometown team, the Cleveland Browns. The Browns' rights to him were upheld only last week by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

But there were six defensive linemen taken, five linebackers and six offensive linemen, including four with the first nine picks, when teams bypassed the three wide receivers expected to go high — Eddie Brown of Miami, Al Toon of Wisconsin and Jerry Rice of Mississippi Valley State.

The first running back selected, Ethan Horton of North Carolina, wasn't taken until the 15th pick, when he was grabbed by Kansas City. By the end of the round, three other running backs had been taken — George Adams of Kentucky by the New York Giants, Steve Sewell of Oklahoma by the Denver Broncos and Lorenzo Hampton of Florida by the Miami Dolphins.

Brown, Toon, Rice and Jessie Hester of Florida State, taken by the Los Angeles Raiders, were the wide receivers picked.

The first round took 3 hours, 36 minutes, the longest since 1974 and the third longest in the 19 years.

It was billed as a draft thin in the glamour positions — running back and quarterback — but it wasn't expected to be quite that thin, with such standout wide receivers as Toon, Brown and Rice.

But they didn't. The New York Jets finally took Toon on the 10th pick to break the skein.

The Buffalo Bills opened the parade of linemen by using the first choice to ratify the selection of 283-pound defensive lineman Bruce Smith, the Outland Trophy winner, who was signed in January. Then the Atlanta Falcons, who flip-flopped their choice in a deal with Minnesota, took offensive tackle Bill Fralic of Pitt and the Houston Oilers took defensive tackle Ray Childress of Texas A&M.

Fralic said he had two reasons — economics and the weather — for not wanting to play in Minnesota. "They have a reputation for not paying their draft choices well," Fralic said of the Vikings. "I'd rather play in a warmer climate," he added.

"It worked out well, and now, it's up to me." After Childress, then came linebacker-defensive end Chris Doleman of Pitt by the Vikings; Southern California linebacker Duane Bickett by the Indianapolis Colts; offensive tackle Lomas Brown of Florida by the Detroit Lions; offensive tackle Ken Ruetters of Southern Cal by Green Bay, who obtained the pick in a last-minute deal with Buffalo; Washington defensive end Ron Holmes, by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, and offensive tackle Kevin Allen of Indiana by the Philadelphia Eagles.

Finally the Jets grabbed Toon, much to the delight of their fans in the gallery of about 250 at the Omni Park Central Hotel, who began shouting his name and Brown's almost as soon after the Eagles made their choice. Afterwards, a group of fans began singing, "Goodbye Wesley," for Wesley Walker, heretofore New York's primary wide receiver.

Houston, using the pick it got from New Orleans for running back Earl Campbell, took Toon's Wisconsin teammate, cornerback Richard Johnson, and the San Diego Chargers went back up front with guard Jim Lachey of Ohio State as the first half of the first round ended. The Chiefs then opened the second half of the round with Horton.

Then the Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers pulled a coup, trading up for New England's choice and grabbing Rice, the wide receiver they had coveted.

That left Dallas, which would have loved to get Rice, to pick Kevin Brooks, a pass-rushing defensive end from Michigan who will help fill the hole on the outside of the Cowboys' defense left by the career-ending injury to their top pick of last year, linebacker Billy Cannon Jr.

Texas teams draft defensive players first

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, trying to bolster their sagging defense, used their two first round selections in today's National Football League draft to select Texas A&M defensive end Ray Childress and Wisconsin cornerback Richard Johnson.

The Oilers' selection of Childress was expected, Oiler Coach Hugh Campbell said.

"For the past month we've been looking toward selection Ray but we had to play out our cards until this point," Campbell said. "He's 6-6 and he gives us the height and power. We're just happy it worked out. We're looking forward to having him in our defensive line."

The Oilers used their second pick in the first round, obtained from New Orleans for running back Earl Campbell, to select Johnson, a 6-0 190 speedster.

"He has exceptional speed and quickness," Campbell said. "Some reliable people have clocked him in under 4.4 which is hard for me to believe."

The Oilers expect Childress, a 6-6, 267 second team All-American from Richardson to step in immediately and help the team's anemic pass rush and the defensive flavor of the draft will likely continue in later rounds.

first round of the National Football League draft.

"We tried to move up in the draft and came close to making a trade but it didn't work out," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys' pick from the 17th position.

"Brooks fills a defensive need for the future of the Cowboys," said Landry. "We have security in our down linemen positions where we are starting to get some age."

Landry said he wasn't certain whether the 6-foot-6, 260-pound Brooks would play end or tackle. "I think the Cowboys are pleased with the selection," said Dallas draft agent Bob Rawls, "from the draft center in New York. "He (Brooks) will help out the team."

Brooks is scheduled to graduate on Saturday from Michigan.

Brandt said Brooks "has the potential to be a dominating player. He has size, speed, and played in a good program. He was taught to work hard and has good fundamentals."

Landry said, "Brooks has good size, like Ed Jones. He's very active on the film I saw of him."

Tubbs upsets Page for WBA title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — There were no tangible spoils for the victor, but that didn't curb Tony "TNT" Tubbs' enthusiasm.

The World Boxing Association heavyweight title belt was stolen from Greg Page's hotel room Sunday night and Monday, Tubbs took it where it matters, in the ring.

"I got to wait for the belt," said Tubbs after his 15-round decision over Page. "I want to see that belt."

The belt will come later, but Tubbs proved Sunday night in his first title fight that he isn't out of place in the swollen ranks of heavyweight champions.

"He maybe underestimated me," said Tubbs, who Page had promised to take out in four rounds during the pre-fight hype. "He was throwing shots, but he wasn't landing any blows. Every time he came in, I landed the cleaner shots."

That was a pretty good synopsis of the fight. Page, who came in at 239 pounds, moved slowly through much of the fight, throwing punches that Tubbs deflected or eluded.

Tubbs meanwhile, took his time and waited. When Page would make an advance, Tubbs countered effectively, scoring the cleaner blows.

"I knew it was a close fight," he said. "I've never been 15 rounds, so I tried to pace myself for the 15 rounds."

It was a strategy that proved effective for Tubbs. After a shaky start in the first few rounds, the Cincinnati native controlled most of the middle rounds, coasted a little in the later rounds, but ended up ahead on points on all three judges' cards.

Page, who claimed he injured his hand in the second round, nonetheless didn't use that as an excuse.

"The fight was close and he did a great job," said Page, who fought Tubbs several times when they were both amateurs. "I can't take anything away from Tony."

Oilers split with Andrews

ANDREWS—The Big Spring Oilers, of the Texas-New Mexico semi-pro league, split a doubleheader with the Andrews Braves Sunday. The Braves took the opener, 9-8, with a two out, three run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning. Randy Clanton took the loss for the Oilers in relief. Kurt Salisbury went 4-4 for the game and drove in 3 runs. Randy Clanton hit a solo home run for the Oilers and Ricky Stone went 3-4 to round out the Oiler hitting.

In the second game, the Oilers came back to down the Braves 9-6. John Carr led the Big Spring contingent with a 4-4 performance at the plate that included a solo home run and 4 RBI's. Steve Stone went 3-4 in the game.

Ricky Stone picked up the complete game win for the Oilers. Tommy Rodriguez was also lauded for his excellent play at shortstop in both games.

Boston looking for Piston rebound

By The Associated Press
After winning their first laugh of the playoffs, the Boston Celtics are looking at the past to remind themselves that an easy victory doesn't necessarily mean an easy time the rest of the series.

The Celtics' centers and forwards outscored Detroit's counterparts 106-42 Sunday as they crushed the Pistons 133-99 in the opener of their Eastern Conference semifinal.

"They're a much better team than they showed," said Boston forward Kevin McHale of the Pistons. "Remember, we lost to Los Angeles by 30 points last season."

McHale, who had 26 points and 13 rebounds, was remembering a 33-point loss that gave the Lakers a 2-1 lead in the championship series. But Boston took three of the next four games and the title. Philadelphia also romped in its first game with Milwaukee, and the 76ers also have to guard against a letdown tonight.

"I think these guys (the Bucks) had a great season," 76ers forward Julius Erving said. "We didn't lose any respect for them. We're not taking anything for granted."

The Lakers have won their first four playoff games by an average of 21 points, including a 125-101 decision over the Trail Blazers in the opener of their Western Conference semifinal.

"They will regroup and play much better," L.A. center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar predicted of the Trail Blazers, "but we will have something for them."

The Jazz and Nuggets meet for the first time tonight after winning their first-round series 3-2.

Draft

left by the defection of tackle Luis Sharpe to the United States Football League, settled instead for Freddie Joe Nunn, an outside linebacker from Mississippi. The New York Giants then went for running back George Adams of Kentucky to beef up their anemic running attack and Pittsburgh took Daryl Sims, a defensive end who became the third Wisconsin player taken on the first round.

After the Los Angeles Rams chose Texas safety Jerry Gray, a two-time All-American, the Chicago Bears took what some scouts consider a gamble — drafting Clemson's 330-pound defensive tackle, William "The Refrigerator" Perry, whose play can sometimes be awesome, but whose weight and work habits concern some scouts.

However, the fans in the gallery enjoyed Perry, responding with "oohs" and "ahs" as some of his better moments in college were flashed on the large-screen television in the room.

Then the Los Angeles Raiders, seeking outside speed to replace the aging Cliff Branch, went for Jessie Hester, a wide receiver from Florida State. New Orleans, with the choice it obtained from the Washington Redskins last week for running back George Rogers, went for Alvin Toles, a linebacker from Tennessee who missed most of last season with a broken leg.

Cincinnati took another linebacker, Emanuel King of Alabama, then Denver pulled a mild surprise by choosing Steve Sewell, a versatile Oklahoma running back.

Miami took a similarly versatile running back, Lorenzo Hampton of Florida, to shore up an area that was lacking in its Super Bowl loss to San Francisco. New England, which got the pick in its deal earlier in the day with the 49ers, then closed out the first round by taking center Trevor Matich of Brigham Young.

At least three years out of four, the Los Angeles Raiders confound the draft experts who study the scouting guides the way horse players read The Racing Form by choosing players in the draft closer to the bottom than the top of most lists.

At least three years out of four, those players — a Howie Long, a Bill Pickel, a Malcolm Barnwell — becomes a starter, if not an All-Pro.

The 12-round NFL draft began this morning with the Buffalo Bills using the first pick to choose defensive lineman Bruce Smith of Virginia, whom it signed last February.

As it carries over into the early hours of Wednesday, there will be a lot of confused draftniks because more and more often these days, NFL teams are picking players — particularly after the first round — to fit their own specifications rather than some general norm.

A Big Spring WINNER!

Jack Barber
21 Years Service
To Little League Baseball

Jack Barber began his career in Little League as concession stand manager at the American League Ballpark in Big Spring. Jack devoted 21 years of service to Little League and retired in October, 1983. During that time Jack served as state tournament director on four occasions, league treasure, concession boss (2 years) and followed with a term as vice president, and 3 years as president of American League. He completed his 15th season in 1983 by presiding over the largest area in Texas.

Jack and his wife Bonnie have one son, Jackie. When Jackie began playing ball, Jack began to get involved. This started Jack's long-term devotion to Little League Baseball.

Presently Jack is on the Foundation Board of Directors at Howard College and owner of Barber Glass and Mirror.

On April 27, area Little League baseball teams were present for the dedication ceremony of the Jack Barber Field. A bronze plaque in Jack's honor is at the entrance to the field.

For his interest and involvement in baseball for 21 years, Jack is a Big Spring Winner.

THE WINNER — says "It may be difficult but it's possible."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to concentrate upon whatever details are important, especially in the morning, so that you can get a considerable planned project off the ground. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is fine for increasing your efficiency at work, but tonight steer clear of a partner who is not thinking straight. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting into the details of any project at hand can make them more profitable, but avoid a new venture in the evening. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Even while at business, think about home affairs so that you can improve them. Be very wise in handling practical affairs. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A fine day to go shopping and get your errands run, but show gentility at home in the evening. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on financial affairs in the morning, and improve them. Drive with care, especially on the highways. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your reflection in the mirror and see how to make yourself more charming, but forget about money angles. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can get private affairs well handled during the day but don't become irate tonight about what you can do little about. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) By doing small courtesies for friends and acquaintances, you can gain their goodwill and devotion. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) See how you can handle your work more efficiently, and in the evening don't permit a friend who is upset to confuse you. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You get a worthwhile idea but then should study every facet of it before putting it in operation. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you do your work well, then make collections. Impress others with your ability to keep promises. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to have much conversation with partners and know just where you stand where interests are concerned. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very good at anything that has to do with designing and the like, where exactness is a prerequisite. Teach to understand what others have in their minds before becoming allies with them. Teach to not become so entangled in details that the overall picture is lost.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you! © 1985, The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Slaughter cattle sales jump

AUSTIN — Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter in Texas totaled 2.12 million head on April 1, an increase of 9 percent from last year and the largest April total since 1974.

ago. Marketings during March were up 8 percent from the previous month to 410,000 head.

According to the monthly report released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, the April total was up 1 percent from March.

Feedlot operators in the Northern High Plains had 1.56 million head on feed April 1, up 12 percent from the 1984.

Placements during the first quarter, at 1.12 million head, were down 10 percent from that same period last year. March placements totaled 450,000 head, up 36 percent from February.

Feedlot operators in the Northern High Plains had 1.56 million head on feed April 1, up 12 percent from the 1984.

State statistician Dennis Findley reported the first quarter marketings, at 1.25 million head, were 4 percent more than a year

Area farmer receives award

TEMPLE — A Mitchell County farmer, a Colorado City radio station and a Garden City boy will be honored Thursday at the seventh annual Region II Texas Conservation Awards Program in San Angelo.

pled to his agricultural enterprise. The Morris was sponsored by the Mitchell County Soil and Water Conservation District. Receiving first place in the category was Artemio Gonzalez Jr. of Dell City.

The awards recognize and honor individuals who have dedicated themselves to the conservation and wise use of renewable natural resources on their private land or those who have contributed time and talent to promoting sound soil and water conservation in their communities.

The "Public Media Award," presented to an individual in the print or broadcast media for efforts to promote soil and water conservation, will be given to Jim Baum, owner and manager of KVMC radio in Colorado City. He also was nominated by the Mitchell County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Preston Morris and Sons of Colorado City were named the runners-up in the "Resident Conservation Farmer" category, awarded for superior land management and conservation systems ap

Identification proposal studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is asking for comments from livestock producers and others on a proposal to require cattle and hogs to wear identification tags until they com plete out-of-state journeys. Bert Hawkins, administrator of the department's Animal and Plant Inspection Service, said that current regulations require that identification devices — eartags, backtags, brands and tattoos — remain on the animals only for their actual interstate movement.

Pickens nears takeover in battle with Unocal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. appears to have won another round in his takeover battle with Unocal Corp. as two courts split on whether Unocal must permit Pickens to profit from a lucrative stock buyback offer.

The two rulings were handed down within hours of each other Monday in Delaware and California.

In Wilmington, Del., Chancery Court Vice Chancellor Carolyn Berger said that, based on Delaware law, Unocal can't proceed with its buyback unless Pickens is included. Los Angeles-based Unocal, parent of Union Oil Co. of California, is incorporated in Delaware.

But in Los Angeles, U.S. District Judge A. Wallace Tashima ruled that Unocal's decision to exclude the Pickens group, Mesa Partners II, from its stock repurchase doesn't violate federal securities law.

Mesa Partners had filed actions in both courts challenging the exclusion.

Unocal spokesman Barry Lane said the company had no immediate comment on the rulings. Unocal lawyers were studying the decisions as the company decided its next move.

If Pickens is allowed to participate in the buyback, it would put Unocal in the awkward position of helping to finance a group that is trying to take it over by giving it a windfall profit of an estimated $178 million.

Under terms of Unocal's offer, it can cancel the entire buyback if it is challenged in court, although Unocal Chairman Fred Hartley last week indicated he might not do that.

Unocal could reap the wrath of other shareholders if it cancels the offer.

In Amarillo, Texas, David Bat-chelder, a vice president of Mesa Petroleum Co. of which Pickens is chairman, said he welcomed the Delaware decision.

He noted that the federal judge's ruling, while denying Mesa's request, doesn't directly affect the Delaware order, which was based on state law.

As part of its defensive moves to fend off a Pickens takeover, Unocal, the nation's 13th largest oil concern, had proposed repurchasing 50 million of its shares at a premium price of $72 each in high-quality securities.

Purpose of the buyback was twofold.

It would lure shareholders away from tendering their stock to a competing offer by Pickens for $54 per share in cash for 64 million shares. It also would saddle Unocal with $3.46 billion in new debt, making it a less attractive takeover target.

The Pickens group's offer would raise its stake in Unocal to 50.1 percent from 13.6 percent.

Unocal contended in court that exclusion of Mesa was a permissible legal maneuver.

Courts have held in the past that it is legal for companies to pay such premiums to buy back the stock of individual shareholders or groups of shareholders who are threatening a takeover.

Unocal argued in Delaware court that it was simply doing the reverse — offering the benefits of premium stock prices to everyone except the corporate raiders.

However, the Delaware judge concluded that "legally or equitably impermissible conduct cannot be justified by the fact that it was motivated by a proper purpose."

Summer Car Care by Eason Brothers Garage

Five hundred miles from home is hardly the best place to have your car serviced. When you're on a vacation trip, you are dependent on what you did beforehand to make sure your car performs at its best.

For your summer trips ahead, rely on Eason Brothers Garage. Have your air conditioner serviced, tune up (if needed), check all belts, hoses and any other maintenance needed before you depart on your long-awaited trip.

The Garage features all general repairs. In addition, replacement parts for farm equipment are available. Being air conditioner specialists, Eason Brothers are able to repair, service and install, such as add air conditioners for rear air in vans, factory and hang on air.

The garage guarantees its repairs. It is the quality of their work and the willingness to meet the customer's criteria that have consistently caused one car owner to recommend the garage to other car owners. Many customers have been coming there for years.

The staff includes Judson Lloyd and Gilbert Rodriguez, mechanics. Eason Brothers Garage is located at 507 W. 3rd. St.

Hester & Robertson Offers 3 Plans For Cooling And Heating

Hester & Robertson offers planned service for air conditioning and heating units. They have two radio dispatched service vehicles ready to give fast efficient service at all times, and all calls are usually worked the same day they are taken. As hot weather approaches this becomes more important.

New this year in the Lennox sponsored planned service contract program are three plans from which to choose. Plan number I is for basic services once at the beginning of heating season and once at the beginning of cooling season. (All parts are billed in addition.)

Plan II covers all labor and material used on both the heating and cooling systems and also guarantees 24 hour per day availability of services. (This covers units from one to five year old equipment.)

Plan III is the same as plan II except it is for equipment from 5 to 10 years old and covers all labor and parts.

Hester & Robertson invites all customers to compare services and prices. The work is guaranteed to be fast and efficient, and parts are usually on the service vehicle, saving time and money for the customer. Call Hester & Robertson at 263-8342 or stop by north Birdwell Lane.
