Former U.S. Rep. KENT HANCE

Hance to switch parties

Aides say W. Texas lawmaker to jump to GOP Friday

DALLAS (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, who has been heavily recruited to join the Republican Party and run for governor of Texas in 1986, is on the verge of switching parties, The Dallas Morning News reported today.
Sources close to Hance, 42, said Wednesday that an announcement of such a switch was tentatively planned for Friday in Austin, the newspaper said.
However, the announcement could be postponed because Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, who publicly invited Hance to change parties and wants to attend the event, will be tied up with Senate business in Washington.

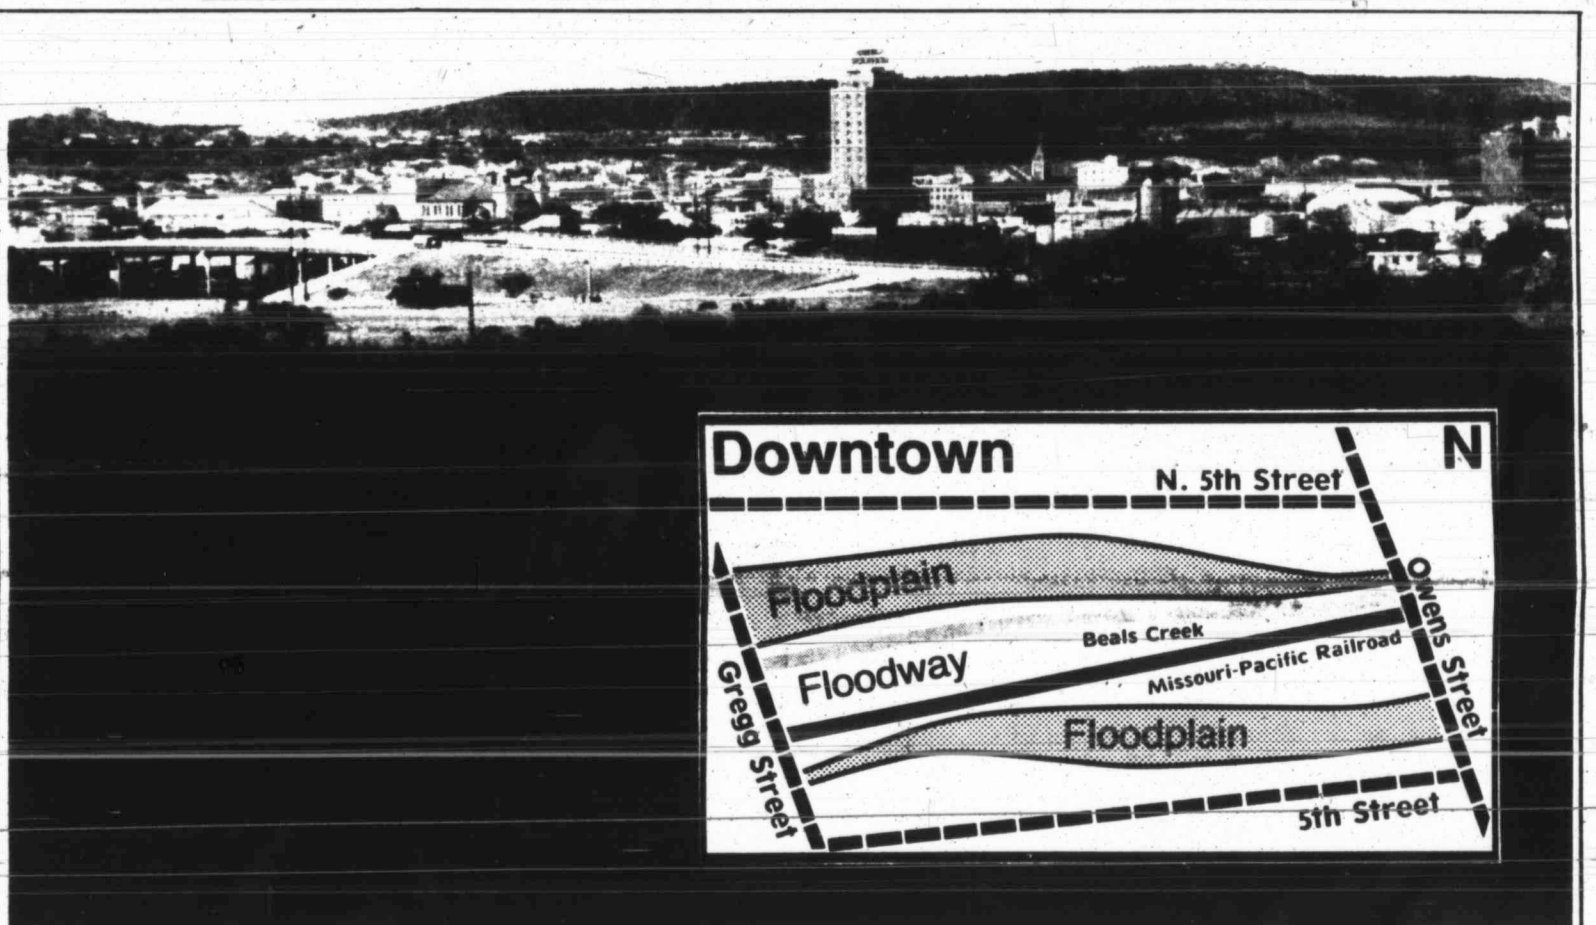

"I think we're getting very close," the newspaper said, quoting a source close to Hance who asked not to be identified. "We're trying to work things out this week, but there are still some ends to tie together. The final knot's not yet been tied."
The same sources said there was still a slim chance remaining that Hance would not make the change, the newspaper said.
The News said Hance was reported to be in Austin Wednesday, but that its repeated attempts to locate him for comment were unsuccessful.
Hance has resumed his practice as an attorney since narrowly losing the Democratic nomination last year for the Senate seat Gramm later won.

Although his West Texas congressional district voted heavily for Hance, it helped give Gramm, Reagan and other Republican candidates landslide victories in the General Election last fall after Hance was
In addition to Gramm, the newspaper said others vigorously involved in the effort to recruit Hance into the Republican Party include Jim Francis of Dallas, the top aide to former GOP Gov. Bill Clements; Austin direct mail expert Karl Rove; and Charles Black, a Washington political consultant who worked on Gramm's Senate campaign last year.

Blue Law repealed by House

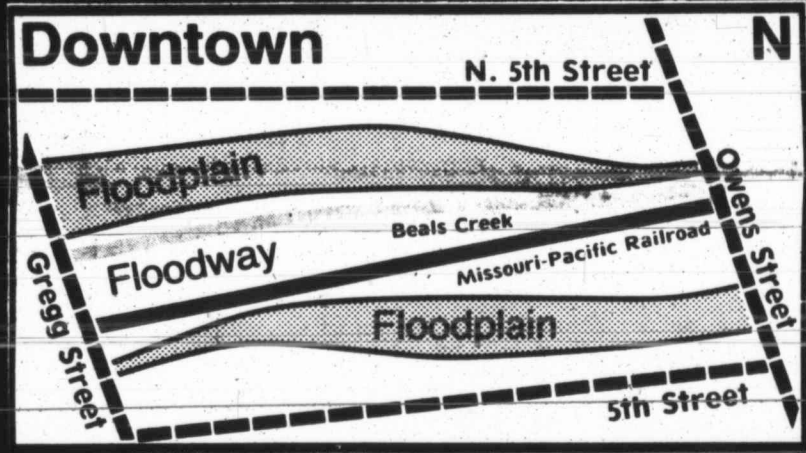

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas House discounted suggestions that repeal of the state's so-called Blue Law would destroy family values and tentatively voted Wednesday to allow sales on both Saturdays and Sundays.
Repeal of the law, tentatively approved 102-40, faces a final House vote Thursday. It then heads to the Senate for consideration where its sponsor, Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, currently lacks a two-thirds vote needed to trigger debate on the issue.
State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, voted for repeal while Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, voted against it.

If approved by the Senate and signed by Gov. Mark White, the repeal would be effective Sept. 1.
House Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, a co-sponsor of the repeal proposal, hailed the House action.
"We're adhering to the wishes of the people of the state of Texas who have said time and time again that they want this archaic, this dinosaur relic, put in a museum," Berlanga said.
The Blue-Law has been in existence in some form in Texas since 1863. The current version that prohibits the sale of 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays was approved by state lawmakers in 1961.
"That," said repeal co-sponsor Rep. David Cain, D-Dallas, "was the year of (television's) Ozzie and Harriet, that's the year of June and Ward Cleaver, where June is sitting there waiting for the Beaver and all his friends to come home after school for peanut butter-and-jelly sandwiches."
Times have changed, he said, and now both spouses often work, meaning, "unfortunately, June is not there" when Beaver gets home and she needs another day to shop for the family.
Included in the repeal proposal is a provision that all employees be given at least one day off each week.

Code of the wet

Floodplain ordinance restricts downtown construction

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Noah never had to worry about building permit codes and flood damage ordinance restrictions. Then again, he was building an ark.
Businesses wanting to build downtown will have to satisfy the city's flood damage prevention ordinance, which prohibits new construction in the city's floodway and puts restrictions on building in the floodplain.
That ordinance, however, should not interfere with rehabilitation and remodeling of downtown businesses, according to Public Works Director Tom Decell.
"We do not arbitrarily and capriciously deny anyone a building permit," Decell said.

"We are committed to the redevelopment of downtown Big Spring."
According to Decell, much of the area near Second and Third streets forms the city's floodway and 100-year floodplain because of its proximity to Beals Creek. For example, the floodway and floodplain includes almost all of First, Second and Third streets from Main to Owens streets.
The channel and adjoining land must be kept clear so that floodwaters can drain without altering the land elevation.
Decell said the city has been working since 1983 with developers and engineers on specific requirements for the city ordinance. He wrote an article of explanation in the current issue of the Heart of the City newsletter to allay concerns of downtown merchants.

"We're gradually trying to bring our code enforcement into being with the (ordinances) on the books. We're not doing it in one fell swoop. But we're trying to bring every code into compliance," he said. The ordinance was adopted in 1981.
"You cannot affect the base flood elevation or channel. You cannot build a new structure (in the floodway)," Decell said.
Decell said, however, that his office would do everything "within its stretch" to further the growth of downtown.
"If they wanted to take (a building) down and build something of the same size and shape, or relatively close, I would do everything to help them," he said. However, "they probably would have to go to the building appeals board," he said.

In addition, new construction in the 100-year floodplain must be built so the finished floor elevation is one foot above the floodplain elevation, which varies, he said.
To meet that requirement, merchants might have to raise the land level by filling with dirt or by building the new structure on stilts, Decell said.
Although the thought of a building on stilts may seem incongruous in arid West Texas, the idea is to protect against the worst flood that could be expected in a 100-year period.

Howard County's juvenile detention center on the fourth floor of the county courthouse is the former jurors' quarters.

Jury out on juvenile detention

Courthouse quarters judged substandard for detaining kids

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A recent attempt by two juveniles to break out of detention has convinced Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Margy Thompson she needs a better holding facility than what the courthouse can provide.
Juvenile detainees are currently housed in the former jurors' quarters on the fourth floor of the Howard County Courthouse.
"It isn't secure. There's no way we can secure it enough to get security detention," Thompson said about the six-bed facility.
The temporary quarters were recently repaired. Thompson said that the health and fire departments would be inspecting the facility soon to see if it complies with state jail standards.
The 118th District Juvenile Board decided last December that juveniles would be housed in the former jury quarters as a temporary means "of getting the juveniles out of jail," Thompson said.

The detention center has been closed twice for repairs in its short life of housing juveniles. Water leakage has seeped downstairs to the district clerk's office and damaged that office's ceiling.
"This building is in noncompliance with the proposed standards. We're under federal mandate telling us to remove children from adult offenders by December 31. This is temporary placement now," Thompson said.
"It doesn't meet another proposed standard of providing outdoor activity space," she said.
Assistant probation officer Pat Dunham said that the current detention center has a separate room to house girls. No girls have been detained as of yet, Dunham said. The detention center has detained a total of 10 boys for a period of 28 days, Thompson said.

Thompson's office reports directly to the juvenile board. The board is mandated by the state to appoint civilians to an advisory board that provides advice and public opinion about juvenile issues. The six-member board is composed of two members appointed by each of the county judges in the three-county district of Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties.
State law requires that county judges preside over juvenile cases. A case can be appealed through the district judge's court.

Cable crackdown is new hit series

It's after 5 p.m., and you're thinking about grabbing a ice-cold drink and a bowl of popcorn to catch the latest movie on Showtime.

Isn't it great that you figured out a way to beat the system and get your cable free? No monthly bills for smart people like you.

Think again. A new law passed in December by Congress makes it easier for cable companies to prosecute people who receive cable service illegally, according to Big Spring Cable TV system manager Paul Thoman.

Under that law, police and cable companies only have to prove you are receiving the cable signal illegally without payment or proper hookups, Thoman said.

"Before, you had to physically catch the person hooking up the cable," he said. "Now, you just have to prove they are receiving the signal."

Thoman today filed what he says is the first case of theft of service against a person for illegally hooking up to the company's cables in Big Spring.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards agrees that it is the first in recent years, but says theft of cable service cases have been filed here before.

So why the crackdown? According to Thoman, partly because of the new law. And partly to discourage the epidemic of people who think that getting cable reception without pay is socially acceptable.

"Cable theft in general is almost as socially acceptable as cheating on your income tax," Thoman said.

"I hope this action sends a signal to people stealing the cable service that we are capable of taking action against them and will take action."

According to a company audit completed this week, between 280 and 300 television sets in Big Spring are illegally hooked up to the company's cable signal.

That means they are either receiving basic service without payment or are receiving a pay-TV channel while only paying for basic service, Thoman said.

"It's really very common. We disconnect three to five sets a day," Thoman said.

He can't explain why people who would think of walking out on a check at a restaurant don't think that stealing the company's cable signal is also theft.

"It's not any different. I guess it's just their conscience," he said. "It's easy to consider it a victimless crime. Nothing is physically taken — it doesn't appear that anything is physically taken."

Thoman, however, said the crime is not "victimless," partly because the company spends a lot of money to put up and maintain equipment to receive and transmit the cable signals — equipment that cable thieves are using free.

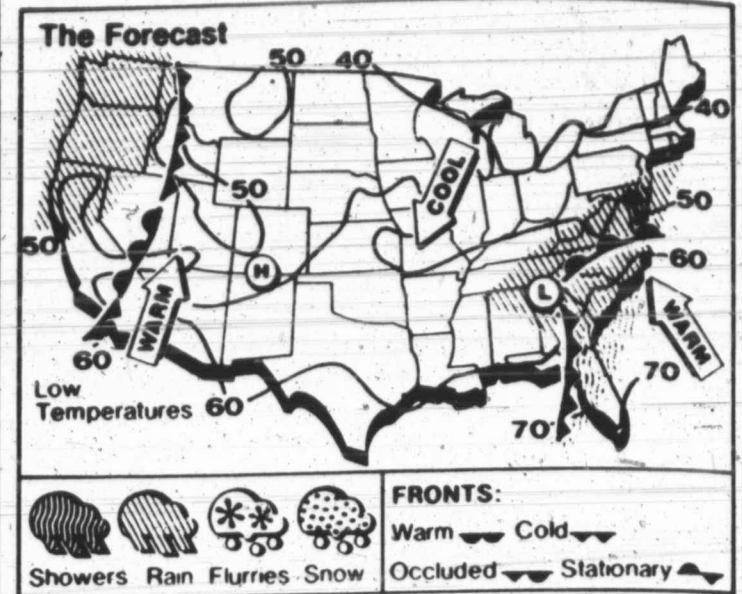

But cable thieves, he said, do leave victims. "Usually, when someone figures a way to get in the system, they damage the equipment. They don't think they do, but nine times out of 10 they damage the equipment."

This, in turn, lowers or destroys the reception of neighbors who are on the system legally, Thoman said.

The current case, involving a suspect on Donley Street, has been filed with police. After police have investigated the case, they will take the case, a Class B misdemeanor, to the county attorney's office for prosecution, Edwards said.

"I don't like doing this," Thoman said. But his company will prosecute to prevent widespread theft, he said.

Suicide prompts lawsuit against minister, church

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Conflicts with his father and other family problems contributed to the emotional stress that triggered Kenneth Nally's suicide in 1979, says a minister accused in a lawsuit of malpractice and wrongful death.

Parents Walter and Maria Nally sued Grace Community Church of the Valley and four ministers in 1980 for $1 million, alleging negligence and outrageous conduct in church counseling that preceded their son's death on April 1, 1979.

But the Rev. Duane Rea, one of the defendants, testified Tuesday that Nally's problems stemmed from difficulties at home, including his father's purported extramarital affair.

Rea also testified that Grace church ministers had counseled Mrs. Nally in late 1976 and early 1977.

Rea said Mrs. Nally suspected her husband of infidelity and traced him to a woman's apartment. Afterward, she told Rea she "had thoughts of killing this woman by stabbing her with a pair of scissors," Rea testified.

"Obviously, Ken Nally did not agree with adultery," church attorney David Cooksey said outside court. "That's not something that can be blamed on the church."

Rea also testified that Mrs. Nally talked of killing her husband and complained that Walter Nally made family life "rather unbearable" after he lost his job. The father also fostered resentment among his two sons by making demands on them, Rea said.

The family's attorney, Edward Barker, had tried unsuccessfully to prevent Rea from testifying about his counseling sessions with Mrs. Nally. He did not challenge Rea's testimony, except to suggest that the diminutive Mrs. Nally could not have been serious about such threats.

During his testimony, Rea said he had counseled Kenneth Nally in early 1978. He said Kenneth Nally needed "regular discipleship" for his personal problems that involved his family, job, personal image and sexual desires.

Rea, reading from notes he had made at the time, testified that Kenneth Nally told him "things at home are rotten. I can't get along with my Dad. It seems like my hate for him is stronger than my love." Rea ended the counseling sessions in 1978 because he said Nally returned to his old problems and rejoined the minister's advice to "rejoice in the Lord and show gratitude for all things."

"Ken liked to get advice, but he demonstrated an inability or lack of willingness to carry it out," Rea testified.

Barker suggested Rea had thus abandoned a vulnerable parishioner, but Rea responded that he would have been remiss to waste time on a person who refused to follow his advice. He added that he remained friendly with Nally and saw him frequently.

Barker also has asserted that Rea and other ministers should have referred Kenneth Nally for professional psychiatric care and that church officials should have warned the family.

Detention

"No child goes to court without an attorney. A child cannot waive an attorney," Thompson said about the juvenile legal process.

Juvenile offenders who are booked by law enforcement officers are charged "as a child in need of supervision" or as a delinquent. Children in need of supervision can be held by law enforcement authorities up to six hours.

Delinquent cases must be presented before the county judge within 72 hours. The judge decides whether or not to detain the child. Those children placed in detention have the right for a hearing every 10 days.

Thompson said she has a rotating staff of eight persons who supervised juvenile detainees. They either have backgrounds in law enforcement or experience in working with children who have behavioral problems, Thompson said.

An adequate detention center that Thompson envisions would house 10 kids with additional space for two holding cells — rooms designated for children who are intoxicated upon placement.

"The kind of detention center I envision is a short term facility where we can hold them. We would detain kids who are suspected of committing felonies or have been placed on probation so they would not be put back out on the street," Thompson said.

"The ordinance requirements are created to minimize damage," Decell said.

The purpose of the 1981 ordinance, a result of the federal flood insurance program and federal floodway and floodplain studies, is to make merchants and residents aware they are susceptible to flood damage, Decell said.

One proposed use for land in floodways, highly recommended by Decell, is creating parking lots or recreational areas. "If someone wanted to go in and buy a block and raze it, that would be within the spirit of the ordinance."

Merchants whose proposed new structures will encroach on the floodway normally would be denied a building permit, according to Decell. The merchant, however, can appeal the decision to the Board of Building Appeals.

In fact, the first test of that appeals process resulted in a permit to build. In that case, the city had denied a building permit to a man planning to construct storage units for recreational vehicles, Decell said.

The permit originally was denied because a corner of the structure encroached on the floodway, Decell said.

"The department's decision to deny a permit is not absolute," Decell said.

During the late 1960s and the 1970s, the Army Corps of Engineers conducted an urban flood problem study and made recommendations, which the city accepted, Decell said.

One of the corps' suggestions was a project to improve the Beals Creek channel, a project that was estimated to cost $2 million in 1969 dollars, Decell said.

The city agreed to participate in a federal project to improve the creek channel, but the federal government has not acted on the Corps of Engineers' suggestions, Decell said.

Although other towns have installed storm sewer systems to handle flooding problems, Decell said such a solution is too costly for Big Spring.

"We don't have the frequency of water that would make it cost-effective to maintain a storm sewer system," he said.

"The cost would be horrendous. In older cities, the systems did not cost as much to build because they (the systems) were built much earlier."

District submits application for Head Start Program aid

The Big Spring Independent School District has submitted an application to the Department of Health and Human Services for the continuation funding of the district's Head Start Program.

The district is requesting $347,123 from the funding agency with the applicant supplying a match of $69,424 for a total of $416,547.

The program serves about 215 children ages three and four. Ten percent are handicapped. Approximately 66 percent are Spanish speaking, 12 percent are Black and 22 percent are Anglo. Ninety percent of the Head Start children come from homes below poverty level.

The funding request will provide for a nurse, a director, 11 teachers, 11 teachers' aides, a social aide, a clerk and a part-time clerk.

GM's X-car era ends

DETROIT — The last General Motors Corp. X-car rolls off the assembly line today, leaving behind six years of recalls and lawsuits that marked GM's running battle to defend the cars' reputation for quality.

The Willow Run assembly plant in Ypsilanti, the last of three plants to build the compact cars, scheduled the final assembly for tonight's second shift.

The front-wheel drive, fuel-efficient 1980 Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Buick Skylark and Oldsmobile Omega were introduced with great expectations and much fanfare during the days of gasoline lines in spring 1979.

But no celebrations were scheduled at Willow Run, plant spokesman Harold Locke said.

Shuttle experiment fails

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Challenger's astronauts shut down a second failed experiment today, kept watch on an ailing monkey and worked to fix another instrument while still hampered by leaking animal cages that fill the cabin with rat food and wastes.

Shuttle managers decided, meanwhile, that the astronauts will return to Earth on Monday as planned. They had considered keeping the shuttle aloft an extra day to gain more science data, but determined there was not enough fuel for an extension.

An instrument that had been studying the chemistry of the upper atmosphere was shut down because of a loss of pressurization in a laser pointing system.

Mission Control said the experiment had made 25 successful data-collection passes that should provide considerable information about the effect of manmade pollutants on the atmosphere.

Gang members arrested

Law enforcement officers today began a national roundup of motorcycle gang members on narcotics and racketeering charges, culminating a three-year undercover operation, officials said.

In one of the raids, a state trooper was shot twice at the Hell's Angels headquarters in Stratford, Conn., police said. An FBI agent was attacked with a sledgehammer.

Nationally, 125 suspects were being rounded up in 14 cities as a result of the undercover operation, begun in 1982 under the code name "Rough Rider," said Kenneth P. Walton, deputy assistant director in charge of the FBI's New York City office.

He said that because of the operation, "we were able to stop five murders from occurring nationally since 1982."

Republican members of the House flank Rick McIntyre as he listens to a reporter's question on Capitol Hill Wednesday after they walked out of the House Chamber. The decision to walk out came after the House voted to seat Rep. Frank McCloskey, D-Ind., in the 8th District seat.

Republican walkout

Indiana's 8th District race has GOP up in arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indiana's 8th Congressional District has a representative for the first time since January but Republicans say the wounds inflicted during the bare-knuckled partisan battle to fill the seat will not heal soon.

The GOP staged the first mass walkout from the House in this century on Wednesday following a 236-190 vote that gave the 8th District seat to Democrat Frank McCloskey, who won a controversial recount by four votes over Republican Rick McIntyre.

House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., said the Republican walkout was a culmination of long-simmering GOP resentment and frustration over "being run roughshod over" by the Democrats, who, with McCloskey's seating, now hold a 71-vote majority.

"This is just the spark that ignites all that feeling we've had over an extended period of time on the kind of autocratic and tyrannical rule" of the Democratic majority, Michel said. A determined GOP will demand its rights from now on, "all in the name of Rick McIntyre," he said.

Democrats said the scars will fade with time. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill greeted the Republicans upon their return to the chambers following their boycott of the swearing-in of McCloskey.

"I'm happy to see my friends back," said O'Neill, as Democrats gave them a standing ovation.

McCloskey, who served one House term before becoming the center of the firestorm, told reporters, "I think there are severe hard feelings that are going to continue several weeks but ... I think over a month or so feelings will subside." To his colleagues, he said: "I'm really sorry for anyone on either side who has been saddened or inconvenienced. Mr. McIntyre fought a good campaign and he's a fine young man and there were hard feelings on both sides."

McCloskey later said the Republicans were not personally vindictive, and that Michel had offered to have coffee with him next week.

But Republican National Committee Chairman Frank Fahrenkopf immediately targeted McCloskey for elimination in 1986, saying, "Frank McCloskey's days in Congress are numbered."

McCloskey said he has not decided whether to run again, but said, "We will be vindicated in the long run. This has united the Republican Party like nothing else."

"Many of us here feel like weeping for our country," said Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. "Because the Constitution has been trampled, two centuries of precedent thrown out the window and Indiana law has been trashed."

While more militant Republicans have threatened to bring the House to a halt, Michel, during the brief Republican walkout, said that would not be his method.

"Legislation has to move forward" he said. GOP members will live up to their jobs as representatives but employ confrontational tactics "whenever we feel our rights are being trampled upon."

President Reagan and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl inspect honor guards lined up in front of the Presidential Residence, where Reagan was welcomed for his state visit to West Germany.

Reagan, Kohl agree to Bitburg visit

BONN, West Germany (AP) — President Reagan and Chancellor Helmut Kohl agreed today to go ahead with their politically sensitive plan to visit a German military cemetery Sunday, but will include anti-Nazi war resisters at the wreath-laying ceremony.

Word of their decision was relayed to reporters by Peter Boenisch, chief spokesman for the Bonn government, after Reagan and Kohl conferred for 50 minutes on the eve of the seven-nation economic summit.

Boenisch also said the two leaders agreed on the necessity of liberalizing world trade and opening export markets, a concern likely to focus on Japan's massive trade surplus among major industrial nations.

Later, after a meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, Reagan told reporters he doubted the Bitburg visit would cost him any political support if the story is "honestly reported" by the press.

"There aren't any problems or controversies," Reagan said, adding that he "never had any intention of doing anything other" than visiting the cemetery for German war dead.

Reagan began his first full day in Bonn with an official welcome from West German President Richard von Weizsaecker at his official residence at Villa Hammerschmidt, a former German millionaire's 19th century home in a park on the left bank of the Rhine River. Reagan reviewed a German honor guard in windy, chilly weather.

During a photo session, Reagan dismissed a reporter's question whether he and Kohl would discuss the controversy surrounding their plan to visit the Bitburg military cemetery. "Why should we talk about Bitburg?" Reagan asked.

The president also said it would make no difference if Nicaragua took to the World Court a challenge of the U.S. trade embargo that Reagan ordered Wednesday against the leftist Central American country. "Whatever they do, we're going to have those sanctions," Reagan said.

But White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters that besides Bitburg, the agenda for the Reagan-Kohl meeting also included summit issues, arms control and Reagan's willingness to meet with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reagan also was meeting separately later today with French President Francois Mitterrand and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher before attending a dinner with the leaders of all seven allied summit nations.

Also attending the summit on Friday and Saturday are Italian Premier Bettino Craxi and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

But the seven-nation conference and Reagan's plans for stops in Spain, France and Portugal could not divert attention from Sunday's planned visit to the Kolmeshebe cemetery at Bitburg.

It contains the graves of 2,000 German soldiers who died in World War II, including 40 members of the Waffen SS.

Pro-Sandinistas get FBI welcome

Congress should investigate complaints from pro-Sandinista American citizens that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has harassed them. Agents have asked them for intelligence information upon their return to the United States after trips to Nicaragua.

The right to foreign travel and the right to return to this country and be free from harassment, no matter how critical you may be of your government's foreign policy, are basic American rights. Only in the Soviet Union are citizens refused permission to travel and disciplined for anti-government opinions.

Some Americans are so supportive of the Sandinistas that they refuse to acknowledge the facts of the Sandinista repression. There are American romantics who have gone to the hills of Nicaragua to help in the coffee harvest and have returned to this country singing the praises of the rural revolutionaries. On their return, some have gotten a call from the FBI.

There may be considerable paranoia in the citizen protests against the FBI. Emotions are overwrought by the controversy over our aid to the anti-Sandinista Contras. Congress should look into the complaints — to determine that they are largely unfounded, if for no other reason. That will reassure all of us.

We believe William Webster, director of the FBI, when he says there is no intent to harass dissenters. We believe every American citizen has a duty to cooperate with his government, whenever the can give helpful information to that government. There is nothing wrong with giving those Americans willing to cooperate an opportunity to do so.

But the government must never question the loyalty of those who decline to cooperate. It must be willing to take no for an answer without rudeness or suspicion. Webster knows that. All of his agents should know it too.

The plight of the American journalist

For some time now, we've been hearing about the plight of assorted groups suffering from dire economic distress. Farmers and autoworkers always seem to head up the list. Now, I've always resisted granting new subsidies to farmers or import protection to autoworkers. But I've changed my mind. I'll go along with all the subsidies and protection they want — just as soon as we attend to the problems of America's journalists.

The problems are really no different from those faced by the folks out in the wheat fields and along the assembly lines. We can't get a fair price for our product. The number of newspapers is falling; jobs in journalism are steadily disappearing, never to return.

We newspaper employees can readily identify with the nation's farmers. Like they say, Americans take their cheap supply of food for granted. But at the rate we're going, soon there won't be any farmers, right? And then a lot of hungry city folks are going to be real, real sorry.

Likewise with your newspaper. We've lost no fewer than 119 daily papers in the last 10 years, not to mention 58 that had to merge with other papers. Chicago, which in 1974 had four major dailies, now has only two. Pretty soon, at this rate, there won't be any farms or newspapers. So besides not having anything to eat for breakfast, you won't have anything to read over it.

The problem is that people just don't appreciate us, any more than they appreciate the farmers. Readers gripe and moan at having to part with the princely sum of 25 cents to read what it took several hundred people working around the clock to put out. And newspapers never have a day off. Not weekends, not Memorial Day, not even Christmas.

But are our readers grateful? Of course not. They whine about the stories we cover, about the stories we don't cover, about our editorial positions, about our movie listings — even about the newsprint coming off on their hands. You'd think they'd never heard of soap and water.

And foreign competition! Why, have you seen a newsstand lately? There are publications from all over the world — everything from the London Sunday Times to Le Monde to the Jerusalem Post. And — caramba! — you can even buy a Spanish — language edition of Cosmopolitan! How many copies of the Chicago Tribune do you think they buy in Spain? Talk about unfair trade.

Not only that, but there's foreign competition in the newsroom too. The Chicago Tribune, which is no different from other papers, has actually stooped to hiring people from abroad. Do you have any idea how cheap you can get a financial reporter from New Zealand or an editorial writer from Canada?

Obviously, a domestic content law is in order here. I mean, if something isn't done, pretty soon the front page will be completely taken up with political squabbles in Ottawa and the state of the kiwi industry. You won't see a word about Bernhard Goetz or Michael Jackson.

Do you think foreigners care about football or baseball? Well, they don't. All you'll get in the sports page will be scores of cricket matches and interviews with rugby stars. And you think editorials are dull now? Hah! You haven't seen anything till you've read about the budget deficit in South Yemen or regulatory reform in Indonesia.

And what will happen to good, honest American journalists once everyone's reading the Tokyo Tribune and Nigeria News and World Report? They'll all be unemployed, that's what, putting a frightful drain on the public treasury. Or else they'll have to work at McDonald's. If you've ever seen journalists botch a news story, wait'll you taste their cheeseburgers.

So, we'd better do something before it's too late. The farmers and the autoworkers have pointed us in the right direction, so they should get behind us. Otherwise every journalist in America is going to buy a cheap Japanese car and go on a diet. The way things are going, we won't be able to afford anything else.

Waiver conflicts with interest

WASHINGTON — Seven days before Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was indicted on grand larceny charges last fall, he granted an unusual waiver to the man he had appointed two months earlier to head the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

This questionable waiver allows the new OSHA chief, Robert Rowland, to take part in agency decisions that affect corporations in which he has substantial investments.

Rowland is a Texas lawyer and Reagan disciple who owns stock in a number of chemical, energy and pharmaceutical companies; all of them have a significant financial stake in OSHA rulings designed to protect workers for industrial hazards.

Rowland has placed most of his holdings in what is known as a qualified blind trust. It allows him to know which stocks he still retains ownership of, but not which new stocks his trustees decide to buy for him.

Rowland declined to discuss his holdings with our associate Donald Goldberg, but an aide said that when he was chairman of OSHA's review commission from 1981 till last July, he excused himself from matters involving companies in which he owned stock.

Donovan's memo of Sept. 26, 1984, relieves Rowland of any necessity to recuse himself now that he is in more direct control of agency decisions that could affect his investments.

Donovan wrote: "I am hereby granting you this waiver ... to engage in the following activities insofar as they may affect interests specifically named in your financial disclosure report ... the setting of policy (including enforcement policy), the making of legislative recommendations and other legislative matters, rule-making, safety and health standards and administrative matters."

'The Ted Turner Story' via CBS

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way Ted Turner tells the story, when CBS executives talked to him in 1981 about buying Turner Broadcasting System, he replied, "Why don't I wait a year and then I'll buy you."

It took four years for Turner to get around to trying, and it still seems unlikely he'll succeed, but now he's in the marketplace with a multibillion-dollar offer to buy control of the top-rated network.

"Financially imprudent" was the quick and hostile response of CBS board of directors to the offer from the Atlanta-based broadcaster.

If the experts on Wall Street are right, Turner will never achieve his goal of acquiring two-thirds of CBS' stock. They take an even dimmer view of the chances that allies of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., can mount a successful campaign to become Dan Rafter's boss.

But the unorthodox broadcaster and maverick politician have long records of confounding predictions that they would fall short of their goals. If the experts were infallible, Turner and his Cable News Network would have been bankrupt long ago and Helms would not be in the Senate.

Whatever the eventual outcome, the CBS siege mixes politics and business and has come about at a time when the media in general is under intense scrutiny. It also is occurring at a time the government is less likely to intervene to block a takeover — friendly or unfriendly.

The CBS takeover drama is no miniseries. In fact, most analysts expect it to take at least a year until the outcome is known and, even then, it could take turns impossible to predict.

"The thing will heat up more before this over," said Bonnie Cook, an analyst with J.C. Bradford & Co. of Nashville, Tenn. "If Turner begins to pursue this more aggressively and CBS begins to feel threatened, then all kinds of things could happen."

"There's several months before CBS really has to start sweating," said Edward J. Aitorino, an analyst with Smith Barney, Harris Upham and Co. in New York. He was referring to the time it could take before Turner gets the required government approval to proceed with his bid.

CBS founder William S. Paley, speaking out for the first time on the takeover bids, said Tuesday that any major change at CBS would be "a tragedy." The

The waiver does not apply to specific OSHA actions in which the companies are a direct party in contention.

According to Rowland's financial disclosure statement, he owned stock in the following companies that have an actual or potential interest in decisions made by his agency — decisions which Rowland is explicitly allowed to make by Donovan's waiver memorandum:

• Monsanto: Rowland owns at least $15,000 worth of stock in this company, which manufactures benzene and formaldehyde, both potential carcinogens. Rowland has denied a petition by the United Auto Workers seeking to temporarily limit workers' exposure to formaldehyde. Benzene standards are under review by OSHA; some manufacturers in which Rowland owns stock have opposed tougher standards for the chemical.

• Eon: Rowland owns at least $15,000 worth of stock in the oil and gas company, which also uses benzene in its operations.

• Squibb and Schering-Plough: Rowland owns stock in these big pharmaceutical firms, which could be affected by OSHA's laboratory safety standards.

Rowland's appointment must still be confirmed by the Senate. The Labor Committee's top Democrat, Sen. Edward Kennedy, is planning to question Rowland and other Labor Department officials about the waiver.

• Johns-Manville: Rowland has another $15,000 or more in this company, which has manufactured asbestos. OSHA is in the midst of its rule-making process for asbestos, and its decisions on the risks associated with asbestos could have a major impact on lawsuits against Johns-Manville.

Around The Rim Celebrando el Cinco de Mayo

Por LUIS RIOS

Escritor

Ese día el mexicano no se rajo. No espeño que lo buscaran y tampoco se escondió.

Fue la Batalla de Puebla, el Cinco de Mayo, 1862.

Fue el ejército mexicano, con sus soldados descalzos, uniformes rotos y peleando con armas viejas, contra el gran ejército francés que estaba mas bien equipado y preparado.

El ejército francés era de 5,000 soldados; el ejército mexicano era de 4,000 individuos. Ellos no eran soldados; eran padres, esposos y hijos de familias.

Pero para las dos de la tarde, este ejército mexicano pobrecito le había ganado a los franceses. El comandante de los mexicanos ese día fue el Gen. Ignacio Zaragoza.

La batalla no fue la última en la lucha para la independencia de México sobre Francia. Fue la primera. Y no fue hasta 1867 que la república de México fue restablecida.

Pero la cosa de mas importancia ese día fue que los mexicanos de se dejaron. Duraron mas de cinco años para ganar la guerra contra Francia.

Pero esos mexicanos no se rajaron. Como cambian los tiempos, verdad?

Hay algo que aprender de la Batalla de Puebla que ocurrió hace mas de 100 años.

La organización de LULAC de Big Spring va a celebrar (con su ayuda) la fiesta del Cinco de Mayo el sábado y el domingo en el Comanche Trail Park.

La fiesta se comenzara a las once de la mañana este sábado. Habrá burritos, tamales, fajitas, barbacoa y mucha mas comida mexicana.

Musica durante la mañana y durante el baile esa noche sera por Los Bandereros Del Norte. El baile va hacer a las ocho de la noche hasta la una de la mañana.

Y el domingo se va saber quien puede servir el menudo mas sabroso aqui en Big Spring. Para participar en este "concurso" o por informacion por favor hable a estos numeros de telefono: 263-4643 o 267-7839.

Para el grupo o persona que gane el concurso, habra un premio de $100 y un trofeo. Para los que ganen segundo y tercero habra $50 y $25 y dos trofeos.

El domingo tambien habra musica de conjunto, mas comida y mas juegos. Las actividades el domingo se comienzan a la una de la tarde.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective May 6, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Public Utility Commission of Texas has received the application as Docket 6200.

While proposals as to specific rates vary, it is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 10.5 percent increase in the Company's unadjusted test year intrastate revenues or a 9.7% increase in test year revenues as adjusted for test year customer growth and annualization of test year rate increases. The rate application seeks an annual increase of $323.9 million in revenues. All customers and classes of customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company within Texas will be affected by the proposed changes.

Most rates proposed for increase would increase by about 18.5 percent, including local exchange rates. However, there are some exceptions. For example, those customers residing in cities that will be reclassified into larger rate groups will experience local exchange rate increases greater than 18.5 percent. Also, the rate increases proposed for private line services in El Paso, due to a proposal to restructure such rates, are greater than 18.5 percent.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas and with each affected incorporated municipality served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate application. This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for local exchange service, intraLATA long distance, intraLATA interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for intraLATA long distance and for intraLATA, interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide certain services in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariffs.

Notice to All Customers Concerning Access Charges and Certain New Service Charges

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, as a part of this filing, is also proposing to reduce certain access rates charged such customers as AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI and other carriers. The resulting reduction in revenues is proposed to be offset by revenues from two new service charges, late payment charges applicable to business customers only and for certain operator services such as busy line verification, plus stimulation of access service charge revenues. Since this portion of the filing, if granted, would have essentially a zero net revenue effect on Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is proposing that this portion of the filing be expeditiously handled by the Commission and not await Final Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Storm causes major blackout

BEAUMONT (AP) — Utility company officials believe lightning from a passing thunderstorm may have caused a three-hour power outage that affected 126,000 homes and businesses in Texas and Louisiana.

"We have no documented evidence that that's what happened, but our people say lightning is a very high probability," David White, spokesman for Gulf States Utilities, said Wednesday.

The blackout started shortly before 12:30 a.m. Wednesday after something interrupted power at a high voltage electrical line near El Dorado, Ark., officials with Gulf States told the Beaumont Enterprise-Journal.

The Arkansas line connects Gulf States with Arkansas Power and Light Co.

Utility company engineers said they think lightning from a passing storm caused the interruption.

Aviso Público

En conformidad con las disposiciones de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company anuncia mediante el presente aviso su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel de tarifas telefónicas en Texas, con vigencia a partir del 6 de mayo de 1985, salvo disposición en contrario de la Comisión. La Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas a registrado esta solicitud bajo el Docket 6200.

Si bien existe variación entre las propuestas en cuanto a las tarifas precisas, se anticipa que el arancel tarifario solicitado aumentará en un 10.5% los ingresos intrastatales no ajustados de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company durante el año de prueba, o sea, un aumento del 9.7 por ciento en los ingresos del año de prueba, después de realizar el ajuste por la expansión de los usuarios y por la anualización del aumento de tarifas para el año de prueba. El objeto de esta solicitud de tarifas es lograr un aumento anual en los ingresos de $323.9 millones. Los cambios propuestos afectarán a todos los usuarios y grupos de usuarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company en el estado de Texas.

La mayoría de las tarifas que resultarían afectadas por el propuesto aumento aumentarían aproximadamente en un 18.5 por ciento, incluyendo las tarifas de centrales locales. Sin embargo, existen algunas excepciones. Por ejemplo, los usuarios que residen en ciudades que se reclassificarán para formar parte de grupos tarifarios mayores experimentarán aumentos mas elevados del 18.5 por ciento. Por otra parte, los aumentos de las tarifas propuestas para servicios de línea privada en El Paso aumentarían en más de 18.5 por ciento, como resultado de una propuesta para reestructurar tales tarifas.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel de tarifas se halla archivada en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos en Austin, Texas, así como en cada municipalidad incorporada afectada que tenga servicio de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa se halla sujeta a cambio toda vez que Southwestern Bell Telephone Company solicite nuevas tarifas. El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de centrales locales, de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada interLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso.

Aviso a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono

El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada interLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso. Los cambios en dichas tarifas también afectarían a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono, puesto que dichas compañías proporcionan ciertos servicios de acuerdo con las tarifas especificadas en los aranceles tarifarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Aviso a todos los clientes con respecto a los cargos de acceso y a determinados cargos nuevos de servicio

Al registrar esta tarifa, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company también propone reducir ciertas tarifas de acceso que se les cobran a clientes como AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI y otras compañías de larga distancia. La consecuente reducción de ingresos se piensa compensar por medio de dos cargos nuevos de servicio (cargos por pago atrasado que se aplicarían solamente a usuarios comerciales, y cargos por ciertos servicios de operadora, tales como verificación de línea ocupada) además de la estimulación de los ingresos por cargos por servicios de acceso. En vista de que, en caso de otorgarse esta parte del arancel tarifario registrado, su efecto real en los ingresos de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company sería igual a cero, esta propone que la Comisión tramite dicha parte de la tarifa en forma expeditiva sin esperar la Orden Definitiva.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el presente proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223, o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para personas con impedimentos de audición.

Heart association honors individuals

BROTHER TO BROTHER — Merlin Coffey, right, of Centralia, Ill., gives brother Oliver Coffey his membership award as a Paul Harris Fellow of Rotary International. Merlin, incoming district governor of Rotary in Illinois, was in Big Spring last weekend to observe the local district's convention. Leadership of the Big Spring Rotary Club tapped Merlin to present the award. Oliver was selected as a fellow by the club's board of directors, which made the $1,000 donation to Rotary in his name, earning him status as a Paul Harris Fellow. Oliver was selected for the award in recognition of his 12 years of service as the bulletin editor.

Area pianists to perform at Forum in Highland Mall

Nearly 100 area piano students will perform from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Piano Teachers Forum at Highland Mall. Les White of Abilene will provide pianos for the first annual recital. "If this works out and everybody's happy, then maybe we'll do this several times a year," said Julie Shirey, recital chairman and local piano teacher. "We like to have recitals where as many people can play as possible," she said. Piano teachers whose students will perform are: Shirey, Betty Downy, Ann Houser, Brenda Shirey, Brenda Bedell, Merry Lee Wilson, Mary Louise Barnes, Leola McCrea, Emilee Beckham and Mary Skalicky.

Activities were reviewed, individuals were recognized for their contributions and the 1985-86 board of directors and officers were elected during the American Heart Association's 1985 Awards Dinner, Tuesday.

Three awards of merit for five-year tenure were presented to John Marshall, Wayne Pierce and Carmen Salazar by Dr. David Rickey. Rickey, the 1984-85 vice president of the Howard County Division, was master of ceremonies during the division's banquet at Holiday Inn.

Following the presentation, Salazar recognized the 1984-85 officers and committee chairmen for their work during the year. They are: Rickey, vice president and public relations/public information chairman; Mary Payne, secretary; Marshall, treasurer; Helen Crandall, program chairman; and Bob Coltrane, development chairman.

Volunteer and services awards were presented by Rickey. Public Service Awards were presented to the local media for helping publicize information about the association and its events. These awards went to: KWKI-KKIK, KBYG and KBST radio stations, the Big Spring Herald and individually to Richard White, advertising director of the Herald, and Tina Steffen, Lifestyle editor of the Herald.

Service awards also went to KBST and its staff members for their work with the Radio-thon for Heart. The program about nutrition and cardiovascular disease was presented Feb. 14. KBST staff members recognized individually for the program were: disc jockeys Charlie Dee and Mike Henry, newsmen Jeff Nicholson, news director Denise Crenwelge, and program director Chris Showalter.

Awards also were presented to local aerobic groups and the Big Spring Squares for their involvement in the recent Dance for Heart project, which was held at Big Spring Mall April 27. Instructors recognized were: Leslie Williams, Rose Van Stein, Donna Palmer, Linda Perez, Edie Weaver, Debbie Churchwell, Laura Churchwell and Terri McIntosh.

In other awards presented, Cindy Robinson was given an outstanding leadership award for her work in coordinating the association's Turkey Walk and Dance for Heart events. Kay Morehead was presented a certificate of appreciation for her work with the American Heart Association's memorial program. For completing two years as division president, Salazar was recognized for her support and dedication.

During the business portion of the meeting, 1985-86 board officers were elected. They are: Dr. Don Crockett, president; Coltrane, vice president; Crandall, secretary; and Marshall, treasurer. Crockett also was selected as delegate to the American Heart Association Texas Affiliate Annual Meeting at San Antonio in July.

New members also were elected to the board of directors. They are: Cecelia McKenzie, Muriel Bridges, Don Davis, Robinson, China Long, McIntosh, Diane Linhart, David Mills, Steve Fraser and Elizabeth Coates.

Following the recertification process conducted by Coltrane for the division, the banquet adjourned. The next two meetings in May will complete the year and the new board will meet in September.

The dinner served at the banquet was a presentation of the American Heart Association's "Creative Cuisine" program. The program encourages restaurants to offer specially prepared foods that are low in calories, cholesterol and fat, as well as delicious and nutritious. Mary Payne made arrangements with Holiday Inn Restaurant staff for providing the meal at the banquet.

Big Spring Road Riders host third annual Crossroads Rally

The Big Spring-Road Riders Motorcycle Club will host its third annual Crossroads Rally at Comanche Trail Park, Friday and Saturday. As many as 300 to 500 motorcycles and cyclists are expected to attend.

The activities kick-off at 6 p.m. Friday with a free pot-luck, bean and cornbread feed for motorcyclists arriving early. Chairpersons for this year's event are Randy and Lois Randall.

Saturday's activities will begin with the registration at 7:30 a.m. A 54-mile poker run will begin at 9 a.m. taking bikers over Howard County roads, visiting scenic rural sites.

The Texas Motorcycle Riders Association's Area D meeting will be at 1 p.m. in the Amphitheater. Field events and games for the young and young at heart are planned, followed by an awards ceremony.

The rally will close with an End of the Day Blessing officiated by a lay minister from the Christian Motorcycle Association.

The rally, held in conjunction with the Texas Motorcycle Safety Week, is to provide motorcyclists with a weekend of activities and friendship. Its purpose also is to make Big Spring residents more aware of the family aspect of motorcycling and to increase their awareness of motorcycles on the road.

Dear Abby

Freeloading father burden for son

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 23-year-old man with a problem: my father. Three months ago he quit his job and moved in with me. He didn't even let me know he was coming; he just showed up at my door — bag and baggage.

He's been here for three months now, and still no job. I doubt if he's even looking. I asked him to take any kind of job for now, but he said he was too old to start at the bottom. (He's 47.)

To top it off, his girlfriend is always here. They have sex in my bed, shower in my bathroom and have practically taken over my apartment. Dad got upset when I told him I didn't want her over here so much. She's married with two small children and is 10 years younger than my father.

Abby, I liked living alone. I work two jobs so I wouldn't need a roommate to share expenses.

What can I do? Dad keeps telling me, "You owe me your life; if it weren't for me, you wouldn't be here." Should I feel guilty because I want him out of here. What should I do?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Reverse roles, and do what a loving parent should do with an able-bodied adult son who freeloads off his parents. Give him a deadline. He'll take as long as you're willing to give.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 48-year-old white male, and a child molester of pre-adolescent children, ages 5 to 12. I have a long history of non-violent sexual offenses. I am once again in jail awaiting sentence for a sexual offense.

Abby, please continue to tell your readers that all children, boys and girls, should be supervised when going to the bathroom at movies or any other public place. No one knows better than I how easy it is for a child to be accosted by a molester in a public restroom. Flea markets, county fairs and carnivals are a molester's delight. I am amazed to see so many small children wandering around alone at these places.

Prevention of child molestation can come about only through educating parents as well as children.

Parents need to warn their children about molesters, and further protect them by never allowing them to roam around in public places unsupervised.

DEAR INMATE: Thank you for reaffirming some facts that many parents are already well aware of. But it never hurts to remind them.

Dr. Donohue

How to spot poor leg circulation

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In a recent column you mentioned the cause of leg pain as either nerve — or circulation-related. I can understand the nerve problem but would like a deeper discussion of the blood circulation problem. How can you tell when that is the cause? — Mrs. E.S.

There are several ways to diagnose circulation-related leg pain and it might be well to review them. They fall into two categories — visual signs and timing of the pain episodes. Both offer unequivocal evidence that the person's leg circulation is not up to demands made on it. The pain comes when the person has exerted leg muscles beyond the capacity of the vessels to nourish them. The arteries are blocked. With rest, the pain subsides.

So the timing of pain is important. The person can be quite accurate in predicting just how much exertion he can tolerate without pain. He'll be able to say, "Doctor, I can walk one block before the pain starts" or "I can climb one flight of stairs painlessly, but the next flight causes great pain."

The visual signs are even more certain in diagnosing the blood insufficiency in general. The ankle pulses are weak, the leg skin shiny and hairless. Skin ulcers may develop. The feet and toes feel cold to the touch and are pale.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband had bypass surgery after long sieges of angina. Three of his vessels were replaced. Now the question is of diet. Prior to surgery he was on a strict low-fat diet. He seems to feel now that he can forget about diet with his brand new "pipes," as he calls them. Does he still have to be concerned about cholesterol? — Mrs. E.E.

Yep. It is perhaps even more important than before, for fatty buildup can still occur. The idea that the post-bypass patient is home free is false. It makes as much sense as having your car engine ruined by cheap gas, then having it fixed and thinking you can go on using the same damaging fuel.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is at the same time vital to human life. For a copy of his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Smith presents happiness program

A program on "Happiness" was presented by Melba Smith during the Xi Pi Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi meeting April 16 at the home of Connie Edgemon. Debbie Glass was a guest.

A transfer ritual was held for Pat Black who moved to Big Spring from Muleshoe. Programs were completed for the Founders Day Banquet held April 25 at the Brandin' Iron Inn.

The April 2 meeting was in the home of Marcie Lykken. Rose Stukel gave a program on "Friendship". Members prepared Easter tray favors for nursing home residents. Pat Black was a guest.

A salad supper was served in celebration of the chapter's anniversary at the March 19 meeting in the home of Dorothy Pereira.

Officers for the coming club year are: Rose Stukel, president; Ruth Vineyard, vice president; Jett Moore, recording secretary; Jan Jordan, corresponding secretary; and Barbara Kennedy, treasurer.

City council representatives are Connie Edgemon, Jo Ogle and Ruth Vineyard.

A Mizpah charm was presented to Aldine Story who is moving to Florida.

1,000 evacuated after hydrogen peroxide spill

CHILDRESS (AP) — About 1,000 residents of this Northwest Texas agricultural community were awakened and evacuated from their homes early today after a railroad car containing hydrogen peroxide ruptured during a derailment.

Officials said six cars of a Burlington Northern east-bound train derailed about 1 a.m. A small fire erupted, but firefighters with the Childress Fire Department quickly got it out.

A large cloud of hydrogen peroxide developed and began drifting over southeast Childress, an agricultural community of about 6,000 people, located about 100 miles southeast of Amarillo.

Assistant Police Chief Russell Grimes said some of those evacuated went to motels or to the homes of friends, and the city auditorium was made into a temporary shelter.

At least one elementary school was declared closed for the day because of the incident.

Hydrogen peroxide is a colorless, watery liquid with a sharp odor that, although non-toxic, is irritating if inhaled. Its vapor causes discomfort of the eyes and nose, whiteness of the skin and a severe stinging sensation, according to a chemical hazards guide published by the Department of Transportation.

Although it is not flammable, containers of hydrogen peroxide may explode if heated, the guide said.

"In most cases, the stinging subsides quickly and the skin gradually returns to normal without any damage," said Ensign Gregory Demarco, with the Coast Guard in Washington, D.C., which operates a toll-free telephone number for the report of chemical spills.

Chemical experts from as far away as Houston and Denver were called in, Grimes said, and officials of Burlington Northern said a railroad response team was at the scene.

Officials going into an area of a hydrogen peroxide leak are advised to wear chemically protective suits, including self-contained breathing apparatus.

Officials of Burlington Northern said the company had a response team on the site.

State views measles outbreak

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A measles outbreak among immunized Corpus Christi secondary students is prompting health officials to take a closer look at the effectiveness of the vaccines.

Corpus Christi-Nueces County Health Department officials said Wednesday they plan a probe that involves taking blood samples from 500 to 1,000 Carroll High and Tom Browne Junior High School students.

Eight cases of Rubeola, sometimes called red measles or nine-day measles, were reported to the health department last week. Many more could surface in the next few weeks, said health department director Dr. Christopher Buttery.

Four of the eight cases have been confirmed through blood samples, said deputy director Dr. R. Marcelo Rodriguez.

Measles is a contagious disease, usually spread through the air by coughing, sneezing or spittle from an infected person. Its symptoms include hacking cough, fever and a rash, and it usually lasts no more than two weeks.

According to established patterns nationally, up to 7 percent or as many as 1,260 of Corpus Christi's 18,000 junior and senior high school students could develop measles by the end of the month, Buttery said.

Senate approves tuition hike

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — The Texas Senate approved Wednesday a bill dramatically increasing in tuition at state colleges and universities but spreading the impact over 10 years.

Since the senators were amending a House-passed bill that featured a lower tuition hike, the legislation now goes back to the House for consideration. If it is rejected, a conference committee with five members of each House will try to work out the differences.

The Senate version includes an emergency loan program, with possible repayment waivers until the student leaves school, and a "state goal" statement that no resident should be denied a college education due to a lack of financial ability.

In another attempt to ease the pain for students, senators added an amendment Wednesday to allow each business to voluntarily contribute its share of sales tax collections for use as student financial assistance grants.

Sellers who collect and send the tax to the state currently can keep 1 percent to cover collection costs. The amendment would allow the taxpayer to contribute this reimbursement for student grants.

The amendment, proposed by Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, passed without objection.

"The tuition bill we have now is drastic, and this would help," Barrientos said. But he still voted against the bill when it passed on final reading by 24-7.

Among those voting for the bill were Sens. John Montford, D-Lubbock; Bill Sims, D-San Angelo; and Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

Plan includes oil tax breaks

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration apparently will save oil and gas tax breaks in its final reform plan this month, but the incentives could be reduced and take on a new look, according to industry and congressional sources.

What appears to be surfacing, as a result of heavy lobbying from industry and congressional leaders, is a balancing act of tax changes for oil and gas producers across the broad spectrum of the tax code.

The industry is trying to convince the Treasury Department to change — but not eliminate — a provision that can account for the deduction of up to 70 percent of the costs for an oil and gas drilling venture, according to industry and congressional officials.

They confirmed the administration appears unwilling to go along with the Treasury Department's first plan to virtually wipe out the tax incentives.

"I am confident now that we will see some substantial changes (from the Treasury Department's first plan)," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

Gramm and others said a major effort would be made to unify the oil and gas industry with other industries in the tax code by linking deductions for oil and gas production with similar write-offs for other businesses.

The incentives are responsible for attracting millions of investment dollars into drilling operations in Texas and other states, and their elimination has been cited by state officials as possibly disastrous for the industry and the state's economy.

WT farmers eye drought loses

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Many West Texas farmers and ranchers stand to lose their land if a dry April stretches into May, a Texas A&M University agriculture expert has warned.

"It doesn't look good," Ken Cook, district 7 extension director said Wednesday. "We're going to lose a certain percentage of producers every year. We're going to accelerate that the longer the drought stays on."

April's sparse rainfall pulled San Angelo's year-to-date total below average for the first time this year. So far, the city has received 3.16 inches, or 0.86 inches below normal.

Jim Boyd, a National Weather Service forecaster at Mathis Field in San Angelo, said the 0.42 inches of rain received in April was significantly lower than the 1.75 inches the area usually gets, despite ample rain in other parts of West Texas.

He said the area has about a 50-50 chance of getting its normal 2.52 inches of rain in May.

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The Stanton Buffaloes boys golf team were unable to hold off the Memphis Cyclones strong closing charge in the second round of the Region I-2A golf tournament. But the Buffaloes did qualify for the state 2A tournament in Austin by virtue of their second place team finish.

In the girl competition, Paducah ran away with the team title by more than 100 strokes, easily defeating second place McCamey. Paducah was led by girls medalist winner Penny Truelock, who fired a pair of 82's for the tournament to defeat Leslie Gooch of Reagan County, who came in at 172 for the tournament.

In the boys medalist competition, Scott Sawyer of Clint, came back from a second place tie after the first round to beat Stanton's Kevin Glaspie and Memphis' Darrell Cofer for the title. Sawyer shot a 72 during the final round for a two round total of 147. Glaspie and Cofer tied for second place at 149. Both second place finishers qualified for the state tournament as members of the top two finishing teams.

Stanton's Mark Gonzales, who was tied with Sawyer after the first round at 75, carded a closing round 76 to place fourth overall in the boys medalist competition. Skip Hopkins fired a final round 85 for a two day total of 169. Stan Young came in with an 87 for the day finishing with a 178 total. Greg Avery rounded out the Buffaloes team effort with an 87 on the day

Regional competitors flock to Big Spring

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Hundreds of athletes, all with one goal in mind, will converge on Blankenship Field and Figure Seven Tennis Center this Friday and Saturday for the Region I-2-A track and field meet and tennis tournament here.

The goal on every trackster and netter's mind is to finish first to second and gain a berth at the state meet in Austin.

Forty-seven schools will be represented in this boys and girls meet at Blankenship which promises to be one of the most competitive meets around.

The girls team title chase may boil down to a five-team race between Hamlin, Rotan, Spearman, Bovina and Clarendon. Bovina, strong in the field events, will send 9 individuals and two relays to the meet. Clarendon, also strong in the field events, will send 8 individuals and 2 relays.

West Texas powers Hamlin and Rotan will rely on their overall team speed. Hamlin is the only school to qualify all three relays to the meet. In fact, the Lady Pied Pipers have the fastest time in all three events. Rotan qualified four individuals and two relays while Spearman will send seven individuals and one relay.

Hamlin is loaded with team speed as their times indicates. Their 49.18 400 meter relay time is a full-second better than the closest competition. Hamlin's 800 relay time of 1:44.48 is four seconds better than second place Rotan while its 1600 relay time of 4:03.56 is nine seconds better than Anson.

Bovina's top field event performer is Marie Peach who has putted the shot 36-9. Jill McInain of Clarendon is the class of the field in the high jump with a leap of 5-8, the second-best jump in the state this season.

The sprints promise to be a good race with Rotan's Kathy Conner Regionals page 2-B

Jolley, Mayfield ready for regionals

LUBBOCK — A pair of Big Spring High School underclassmen will get their first taste of regional competition this weekend when they compete in the Region I-5-A track meet here at Jones Stadium at Texas Tech University.

Freshman high jumper Brian Mayfield and sophomore shot putter Paula Jolley will be representing the Black and Gold in Lubbock.

Mayfield won district with a leap of 6-6, but has gone 6-7 this season, while Jolly finished second with a toss of 37-7. Her best throw is 39-3. Mayfield's qualifying jump places him behind Robert Richardson of Amarillo High, Richard Senter of Plainville and Ronnie Hill of Arlington Sam Houston. All jumpers went 6-8.

Jolly had the sixth best qualifying throw. Kelly Bertka of El Paso Eastwood leads the pack at 42-9. She and Kay McMurray of Bryan are the only two putters over 42 feet. After them, all the throws are relatively close.

Glieber dead at 51

DALLAS (AP) — A funeral service for Frank Glieber, a "consummate professional" who missed only one assignment in his 21-year career as a CBS-TV sports announcer, is scheduled for Friday morning in Dallas.

Glieber, 51, died Wednesday of a heart attack while jogging around an outdoor track at a Dallas health club. He was the original color commentator for the Dallas Cowboys and was sports director at radio station KRLL in Dallas.

The veteran broadcaster covered the National Football League, the National Basketball Association and golf tournaments for CBS, including 18 years at The Masters.

"A runner behind him on the track knew CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and started working on him within 10 seconds. A doctor was on the scene within three minutes," said Robert Vernon, a spokesman for the Aerobics Center.

Glieber was rushed to a hospital but died during treatment at 11:06 a.m., said Richard George, a field agent with the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

He had been a member of the center since 1978, but Vernon said his "program had been deteriorating. He had a lot of risk factors — he was overweight. I'm sure yesterday was a very stressful day with the NFL draft."

Regionals

Continued from page 1-B and Shelia Henderson of Memphis owning times of 12.18 and 12.37. The 200 race should also be close with five runners having a legitimate shot at the gold. Hamlin's Charlotte Bolden has the best time (28.21).

Stanton's Lorrie Jansen rates as the favorite in the 800. She ran a 2:31.05 at the District 8-2A meet, which puts her at the top of the list. She has run in the 2:26's this season. Freshman teammate Rania West has a chance to score some points with her time of 2:36.

Other top competitors include Rotan discus thrower Shelly Haynes (124-9), Hamlin triple jumper Cynthia Titus (36-2) and Memphis hurdler Shelia Henderson (14.33).

BOYS TEAM RACE SHOULD BE CLOSE

The Abernathy Antelopes seem to have the upper hand in the boys team race as they 11 individuals and both relays. Anson and Hamlin each qualified 8 individuals and one relay while Clarendon sends seven individuals and one relay.

The Antelopes and Hamlin are both strong in the field events, qualifying four and five people respectively. Anson's strength comes from the running events. The Tigers don't have any competitors in the field events.

Anson has good chances to send both of its relay to Austin. The sprint relay has the fastest qualifying time (43.71) while the 1600 relay team's time of 3:26.0 follows only Panhandle's 3:24.0.

Like the girls division, the sprints will be very competitive. No less than five runners have clocked times under 11 seconds. Stamford's Tim Delce will be trying to pull off a double in the 100 and 200. His 200 time of 22.14 follows the 21.82 recorded by Panhandle's Tim Sorrels.

Delce is also entered in the long jump, which will also be a good event to watch. Stanley Payne of Quannah and Roy Henderson of Memphis both lead the pack with identical leaps of 23-3.

The Stanton Buffaloes hopes rest on high jumper Derrick Sorley whose jump of 6-0 puts him right in the thick of things. Shotputter Bobby Alamager may give Stanton more points. His throw of 48-7 ranks him in the top six.

Other top performers include Spearman's Steve Burkes in the discus (160-10); pole vaulters Wes Woods of Panhandle (14-0) and Todd Harris of Haskell (13-6) as well as Anson 300 intermediate hurdler Lou Mays (39.72).

Meet action kicks off Friday afternoon with running prelims starting at 6:30. Saturday's action begins with field events at 9 a.m. followed by running finals at 2 p.m.

Meanwhile the tennis action begins at 8 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Admission to the tennis tourney and track meet is $3 for adults and $2 for students.

U.S. sanctions may cripple Nicaragua

Officials, businessmen upset; leftist government defiant over embargo

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The leftist government is defiant in the face of President Reagan's trade embargo, but officials and businessmen say the action may ruin the national airline, damage agriculture and cripple transportation and communication.

Businessmen said the trade bar would hurt private enterprise, and an opposition leader said the action would force Nicaragua further into the embrace of the Soviet Union.

In imposing the embargo Wednesday, the Reagan administration blamed Nicaragua's growing military ties with the Soviet bloc and what it called attempts to export revolution. The trade block followed a Congressional rejection of Reagan's request for $14 million in aid to the Contras fighting the Sandinista government.

Vice President Sergio Ramirez said: "We will look for help in all the countries that have given us support, not only the Soviet Union. We will look for alternative markets for exportation mainly of meat, bananas, tobacco and shellfish."

He did not give specifics. Nicaragua will be losing $57 million in annual exports to the United States.

The vice president said the government will formally protest to the United Nations, the Organization of American States and the World Court.

Bayardo Arce, a member of the ruling Sandinista directorate, said American would not succeed in forcing Nicaragua to its knees.

Erick Ramirez, vice president of the opposition Social Christian Party, told The Associated Press the Sandinista government "was falling further into the whirlwind that pulls it closer to the Soviet orbit."

He criticized President Daniel Ortega for visiting Moscow after the Congressional vote against Contra aid. Ortega left the Soviet Union on Tuesday with a pledge of Soviet aid, although it is not known if he received the $200 million he was reportedly seeking.

"The North American response has been the economic embargo," Ramirez said.

Businessmen said crippling shortages are likely to result from the embargo, including equipment for industry, vital components for the communications and electrical systems, fertilizer, seeds and tallow for cooking oil and soap.

Famine victims forced from camps

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopian authorities forced more than 50,000 famine victims from a refugee camp and ordered them to go to feeding centers in their native regions, international relief agency officials said.

The evacuation this week amounts to a "death sentence" for about half of the refugees, said the administrator of the U.S. Agency for International Development, M. Peter McPherson, in Washington on Wednesday.

The Ethiopian government has made no comment on the forced removal of the refugees — many of whom were children, elderly and dying — from the Ibet camp in the Gondar region about 250 miles northwest of Addis Ababa.

Ethiopian officials said a statement would be issued today.

The evacuation of 56,000 people began Sunday and ended Tuesday, leaving only 2,000 people at the camp, relief agency officials said Wednesday.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Chester Crocker said in Washington that 58,000 of 60,000 refugees were evacuated. There was no explanation for the discrepancy in the numbers.

The relief officials in Ethiopia, who refused to allow their names to be used because of the sensitive nature of the issue, said the evacuation apparently was carried out by local militia.

The Washington Post quoted Western relief officials as saying Ethiopian army troops herded the famine victims out of the camp and then burned their huts.

The relief sources said each famine victim was given 33 pounds of dry rations, equivalent to what is doled out in a month, and told they should make their way to feeding centers in their native regions of Tigre and Wollo.

"They are several days walk — they are all walking, of course — away from their homes, but they came to this camp to begin with because there wasn't anything in their home," said McPherson.

"So to go back to their homes means they go back to starvation," McPherson said at a State Department briefing. He estimated that half of the people will not make it home and "in effect have been given a death sentence."

The United States is calling on Ethiopia to reconstruct the camp, bring the people back to it, and discipline those who dispersed them, he said.

Mystery boy stumps immigration service

MIAMI (AP) — A 6-year-old Panamanian boy described as a "sharp young man" assumed a false identity for seven days after his mother left him at an airport until the two illegal aliens were reunited pending deportation, officials say.

The mother, identified as Vilma Paz, arrived Wednesday evening at the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service office, said Perry Rivkind, INS district director.

Mrs. Paz was arrested and faces deportation because she and her son, Sahid Amed Valdes-Paz, entered the United States with fake passports and visas, Rivkind said.

Marcos expects less U.S. aid

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said today he expects U.S. military aid to be reduced because of "mistaken perceptions" of conditions in the Philippines.

Marcos, speaking on national television at a Philippine air force anniversary celebration, said the country would give priority to anti-insurgency equipment.

"It is becoming apparent that military aid forthcoming from the United States will be reduced because of mistaken perceptions in that country of the situation here," Marcos said.

He apparently referred to moves in the U.S. Congress to reduce military aid and substitute other forms of assistance under a five-year $900 million pledge from the Reagan administration. The aid is in exchange for U.S. use of military bases in the Philippines.

"I believe now that in the air force we should do away with high performance combat planes ... and shift our priority to anti-insurgency equipment, particularly low-flying ground troop support aircraft," Marcos said.

He said "subversion and insurgency" are the country's major security challenges, not foreign invasion. The government has been fighting Communist rebels throughout the islands and faces a dwindling threat from Moslem separatists in the south.

Official predicts lower air fares

TOKYO (AP) — A top U.S. official said today that the new aviation agreement with Japan could mean lower fares between American and the Orient and direct flights from Japan to more American cities.

The interim agreement, signed Tuesday in Tokyo, provides a "substantial expansion and deregulation of service," U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Franklin K. Wallis said at a briefing at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo.

"It is a major contribution to opening up the Japanese market to U.S. carriers," he added.

After 14 months of talks, the United States and Japan agreed to allow each side to establish up to three new routes across the Pacific, pending the conclusion of a new Civil Air Transport Agreement, he said.

Wallis predicted air fares would fall. "The more carriers you get into the market, the closer you get to free market pricing," he said.

As one of those three routes, either nation could designate an airline to operate a small parcel service between Japan and the United States, the agreement said. By 1989, airlines of each country will be allowed an additional 21 flights a week, it said.

In addition, the agreement allows Japanese and U.S. airlines to operate flights into five Japanese cities from Guam-Saipan as of May 1.

Japan's Nippon Cargo Airways was given the right to begin six weekly round-trip flights on the Tokyo-San Francisco-New York route from May 1, the agreement said. The airline will be allowed to expand in relation to the growth of cargo traffic, the agreement said.

Local press reports speculated that the accord will break Japan Air Lines' monopoly at home on the trans-Pacific route, paving the way for All Nippon Airways and Toa Domestic Airlines to become international carriers.

In 1983, Japan Air Lines had a 39 percent share of the 4.5 million passengers traveling between the United States and Japan, with four American carriers — Pan Am, Northwest, United and Continental — handling half. A fifth airline, Flying Tiger Line, operates cargo flights into Japan. Third-country airlines had the remaining share.

Among the cities that have previously indicated their interest in receiving trans-Pacific service were Portland, Ore.; Las Vegas, Nev.; St. Louis, Mo.; Dallas; Houston, Texas; Atlanta; and Miami, Fla., Wallis said.
