Crestwood Mobile Home Community tenants say they are upset because park owner Gil Cuadra last week gave them notice to move out of the park by May 31. Cuadra, the San Antonio developer who also owns the landmark Hotel Settles downtown, has failed to deliver on promises to tenants, according to two families at the

made his plans inoperable. "When we bought the park, we wanted to revitalize it, using the existing sewer and water lines," Cuadra said Tuesday morning in a telephone interview.

But to repair and improve the sewer, water and gas lines, everything must be cut off, he said. "Everything is backing up," he said, referring to the delays in starting construction. "There's no way we can work around Lehigh said, "I wasn't fired. In this type of work (clinic administration) there is always something that doesn't run smoothly. There is always some disagreement."

But, "I did resign," he said. Malone and Hogan Clinic is owned by the doctors who maintain office space in the clinic, according to Doyle Lamb, assistant ad-ministrator. Malone-Hogan Hospital, which is adjacent to the clinic, is owned by the Hospital Corporation of America. The clinic and the hospital are separate and are managed separately.

Lamb said that the clinic is under the direction of a board of directors composed of doctors from the clinic. This board is responsible for hiring personnel and for accepting resignations.

"They have the authority for the total operation of the clinic," Lamb said. Board president is Dr. Rudy Haddad.

The directors are elected from the 18 doctors who make up the membership of the clinic. The board members "have total responsible of running the clinic through an administrator."

Lamb said he did not know when Lehigh will be replaced. "I don't know what will happen. They will

Davis vows pact on downtown parking

To park or not to park.

This is the question confronting downtown business owners and city officials at odds over a year-old ordinance that prohibits parking on the sidewalks.

In an attempt to work out a solution to the dilemma, city officials are arranging a meeting with merchants upset about recent enforcement of the ordinance, City Manager Don Davis said Tuesday

Downtown merchants, angered when told their 50-year-old parking practices violated a year-old ordinance, have said they will fight City Hall and have asked to appear at the next council session.

"We want to arrive at a mutually satisfactory agreement (with the mer-chants)," Davis said.

The problem, according to Davis, started with a lawsuit in Midland in which the courts issued a $1 million award in civil damages against the city because obstacles in the city right-of-way contributed to an

To avoid the same situation happening in Big Spring, City Attorney Doyle Curtis drafted a law prohibiting sidewalk parking, Davis said. That ordinance was passed in January 1984.

State law also prohibits obstructions in pedestrian right-of-ways, Davis said. Downtown merchants, however, say customer parking on their sidewalks, permissible for more than half a century, does not impede pedestrian traffic.

"The only pedestrians we have are winos," said James Norwood, owner of Wilson Auto Electric Co. on Third Street. But Davis said the issue of safety is still the city's primary concern with the ordinance. "Our intent is not to put anyone out of business," he said.

But some merchants say they fear the effects of the legislation would do just that decrease the traffic at their businesses drastically because Big Spring customers 'won't walk across the street.

Norwood and Willie Battle, owner of Willie's Cafe, say their customers have no place to park except in front of their businesses on Third Street.

Norwood and Battle have led a petition drive to appear on the next council agenda. According to Battle, her cafe would go out f business and she could not afford to move

Winners are selected by officials of the sponsor college or university they plan to attend. College officials determine the amount of the scholarship within a range of $1,000 to $8,000 over the four years of undergraduate study. Grimes has been named to Who's Who Among American High School students. She has won the presidential endowed scholarship from Texas A&M University, and is a member of the National Honor Society. She is ranked 4th in her graduating class.

She has been a Key Club calendar girl, a scholarship tennis award member and a Spanish club member.

She participated in the University of Texas honors collequium in July, 1984.

The mood was upbeat Tuesday s Superintendent Lynn Hise and the Signal Mountain Singers serenaded dozens of Big Spring school district employees Tuesday during the annual end-of-the-year banquet sponsored by the local chapter of the Texas State Teachers Association.

The Signal Mountain Singers provided some good, old-fashioned barbershop singing. The lighthearted entertainment set the mood for an evening set aside each year as an opportunity to say 'thank you' to employes who have given years of service to the local district.

The Signal Mountain Singers includes Hise, former high school band director Dan Conley; band director Ricky Mitchell, Green, and administrator Wade

Judge declares mistrial in case

if the law

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Howard County Judge Milton Kirby declared a mistrial Tuesday night after an all male six-member jury did not reach a unanimous decision in its final verdict on a driving while intoxicated charge against a Big Spring man.
County attorney Tim Yeats, who prosecuted the case, said there was ood possibility the case against Albert Rodriguez, 53, of 103 Canyon would be presented again "in about a month or so.'

Rodriquez was defended by Big Spring attorney Wayne Burns. Jurors deliberated nearly 21/2 hours after hearing testimonies from 11 persons including Howard County Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown and watching a videotape of Rodriquez performing sobriety tests at the time of his booking.

Jack Barber who was chosen as presiding juror said the videotape was the most important piece of evidence used in reaching a decision. Jurors requested replays of the videotape during their deliberation and "after we looked at it two or three times, two persons who first said not guilty changed their mind," Barber said.

The final jury count was five persons ruling guilty and one person ruling not guilty.

Governor's ghost busters

DOVER, Del. - Armed with a uija board and other ghost-busting tools, three girls staked out the 200-year-old governor's mansion in hopes of confronting a lost child and a former slave dealer said to haunt the eerie estate.

In the welcome light of morning, they weren't sure today what they'd encountered. But something caused their camera and tape recorder to fail

Gov. Michael Castle, who invited the girls, says he's a believer, having already en-countered the unknown at Woodburn, which he moved into last January.

First there was the large hallway on the second floor where "this window kept opening and the burglar alarm kept going off all night," about six or eight weeks ago, Castle

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Doctors said the hemorrhaging that sent artificial heart patient William Schroeder back to a hospital occurred in the left side of the brain and may have been caused by his diabetes, his family

The 53-year-old Schroeder, the world's longest-lived implant patient, was in critical but stable condition Tuesday evening at Humana Hospital Audubon, said Donna Hazle, the hospital's director of public relations.

A CAT scan, a series of computer-enhanced X-rays, showed Tuesday that the bleeding had stopped, Ms. Hazle said. No other details from the tests were available from doctors, she Schroeder was admitted Monday, one month after his release, after tests revealed he had suffered a brain hemorrhage.

900 arrested in protests

More than 900 people were arrested in five states on the first day of the Reagan administration's trade embargo of Nicaragua in protests against the economic sanctions leveled at the leftist Sandinista government.

Rallies against the racial policies of South Africa's white minority government continued in California, Kansas and Washington, D.C., but protests against the trade embargo that took effect Tuesday drew larger crowds.

More than 500 people were arrested Tuesday in Massachusetts, at least 440 of them in Boston at the John F. Kennedy building in Government Center. There were 258 arrests at a similar demonstration against U.S. policy in Central America at San Francisco's federal building. Others were arrested in Connecticut, Vermont and New York.

About 120 of the Boston protesters gave false names or refused to identify themselves and were taken to a county detention center in Lawrence, said Essex County Sheriff Charles Reardon. He said about 170 other people whoremained inside the federal building would be picked up bodily today and taken to court.

Ticker-tape parade greets 25,000 Vietnam vets

NEW YORK (AP) - New York threw a belated welcome-home party Tuesday for 25,000 veterans of the Vietnam war with a ticker-tape parade that drew tears and cheers echoing along the concrete canyons of lower Manhattan.

'We love you," a woman shouted from her fifthstory office. "Thank you, lady," a marching vet yelled back. "I needed that.'

Leaning from office windows, standing on fences, and precariously perched atop vending trucks, throngs cheered and waved American flags as group after group of veterans from across the nation passed by, many wearing jungle fatigues.

And they cheered when Gen. William Westmoreland, the soldiers' commander for part of the war, climbed down from a reviewing stand to march with his men alongside 26 Medal of Honor recipients at the head of Police estimated the crowd at 1 million, although some spots along the route were nearly empty, but even when sparse the spectators were enthusiastic.

Signs lining the route read: "We should have said it sooner - we're proud of you," and "Thanks, so Welcome home," said a banner held by Janet Scarpati, 40, of Jackson Heights, Queens, as she stood atop bleachers behind City Hall.

"These are the appropriate words to say to soldiers when they come back from fighting," she said. "It's been a long war, and it's a little late, but we do welcome them.

The air was filled with confetti and trees were webb ed with streamers as the parade made its way from Brooklyn across the Brooklyn Bridge and down to Battery Park at Manhattan's southern tip. The night before fireworks had thundered in the sky after the dedication of the city's monument to the soldiers and sailors who fought in Vietnam.

"It was really a thrill," Westmoreland said after the parade, adding it was one "I don't think any of us expected to happen.

After finishing the march Westmoreland returned to the City Hall bleachers to review the rest of the Crowd cheers 'women who served

NEW YORK (AP) - First there were surprised looks, then proud smiles followed by wild cheering as the "Women who served in Vietnam" marched by.

Making up one of the smallest contingents at New York's ticker-tape parade Tuesday honoring Vietnam veterans were the nurses, clerks, USO and Red Cross workers marching behind their bright yellow banner with red and green stripes. Small, yes, but not overlooked.

'You'll notice we're getting the loudest cheers today," said a smiling Sharon Vennel, 33, who spent a year in Vietnam as a decoder for the Army Security

Spectators along the parade route cheered and applauded as the group passed and women spectators, in-cluding female police officers, appeared to cheer the As the group of almost 50 women neared the Manhattan side of the Brooklyn Bridge, a bedsheet banner on a nearby apartment building proclaimed: "Welcome "Hey, we're here, too!" the women jeered good-naturedly, turning their own banner toward the

A man standing behind the welcome sign slapped his forehead and blew the group a kiss.

"We're the hidden, forgotten vets, but we're working on that" said Ms. Vennel, now a counselor with the New Jersey Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program. People are always surprised to hear she's a Vietnam

'First they ask 'What were you doing there?' and then 'Why did you go?' I did it for my country," said Ms. Vennel, who was 18 when she went to Vietnam.

"This is wonderful! We wanted to march together as a unit," said Grace O'Brien, an Army nurse who served in Vietnam in 1966 and 1967.

"I think the veterans have really wanted desperately to be welcomed home," she said, walking across the Brooklyn Bridge carrying a small American flag. Chris Peterson said she was the first psychiatric nurse to set foot in Vietnam when she landed there in

"It was kind of sad," said Ms. Peterson, 41, who was dressed in battle fatigues. "I didn't know what to expect," she said of Tuesday's parade. "It's nice but it brings back memories, old experiences. I feel sort of sad.

Gorbachev seeks GB aid

LONDON — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gor-bachev has asked Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to join him in fighting against the nuclear arms buildup, the militarization of space and another world war.

Gorbachev's message came in an exchange of letters with Mrs. Thatcher to mark the 40th anniversary of the defeat of Nazi Germany in World War II.

Mrs. Thatcher's office released copies of the letters to the media Tuesday night.

"The experience which the peoples of our countries lived through shows that war should be fought against before it breaks out," Gor-

"In order to prevent a new world war, a climate of trust and mutual understanding among peoples is urgently needed, as well as consistent efforts by all states aimed at stopping a dangerous build-up of nuclear arms, preventing the militarization of space, and removing the military threat hanging over the world," he said.

8 blacks killed in riots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Handte-hand fighting between tribal groups outside the city killed eight blacks this morning, while soldiers and police swept through two riottorn black townships in the south, police said.

The eight were killed as rival Zulu and Xhosa tribesmen battled after dawn in Tsakane, a black township east of Johannesburg, according to a police statement.

A mob of about 250 blacks stoned and burned two black men to death in the same area Tuesday night, and the body of another black man was discovered Tuesday near a male hostel in another part of the township, police

Star newspaper of Johannesburg reported the fighting today was between blacks who have permission to live in Tsakane and black men who live in single-sex hostels as migrant workers. The newspaper did not describe the fighting as tribal.

Reagan marks VE Day

STRASBOURG, France - President Reagan marked the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe today by asserting that the Soviet Union is undermining the world's nuclear stability by developing a mobile, land-based missile "clearly designed to strike first.

In a televised speech to the European Parliament, the president was heckled by several protesters sitting in members' seats who pounded their hands on their desks and held up banners reading "Hands Off Nicaragua''' and "Cruise No Pershing" reference to new, medium-range U.S. missiles stationed in Europe.

Reagan ignored the protesters at first, but responded when a chorus of boos and deskpounding greeted his declaration there were "Soviet efforts to profit from and stimulate regional conflicts in Central America.'

Coke to make shuttle flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) Coca-Cola, which is available virtually around the world, may be carried into orbit aboard the space shuttle in July in a special container developed at a cost of more than $250,000.

The Coca-Cola Co. announced Tuesday that the special steel can has solved the problem of keeping carbonated drinks from inadvertently escaping their containers in the weightlessness and low pressure inside spacecraft.

A statement from NASA said the earliest flight under consideration for the soft drink is the Spacelab 2 mission on space shuttle Challenger, scheduled for launch on July 15.

A news release by the Atlanta-based Coca-Cola Co. says the company has spent more than $250,000 to develop the "Coke Space Can."

Mixed drinks are not desirable

To the editor:

Alcoholism appears as a cause of death on more than 18,000 death certificates yearly. Undoubtedly, alcoholism contributes to many deaths which are attributed to other causes.

Estimates by surveys in 1978-1979 showed over 10 million adults in this country and over 3 million youths were problem drinkers. That was six years ago.

Alcohol use effects our sensation, perception, attention, memory, and conceptual processes. It effects our muscular control and coordination, also our emotions, sexuality, and our sleeping habits.

The effects of alcohol are not limited to the drinker alone - his or her family, employer or employees, and much of innocent society at large are all harmed by alcohol and its abuses.

we don't see and we still have to vote on whether or not to legalize the sale of mixed drinks in our city. God forgive us.

The argument from most all in favor of legalization is that drinking is done already in our city in private clubs, bar rooms, and homes. We can legalize it and reap the benefits. My question is what benefits? If we can come up with enough benefits to outweigh the destruction that follows alcohol. then I might understand.

I understand most of your feelings. I started drinking at the age of 16 years old. Like so very many of your children and yourselves. It was at the age of 22 years old, over five years ago that I found the "real thing" in this life, it was then that I accepted Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior of my life.

Big Spring, the answer to a happier and more prosperous city is not found in legalizing mix drinks sales, but the answer is Jesus

Many Christians have openly spoken in favor of legalization. Please ask yourselves "Would Jesus vote 'yes' for the sale of mixed drinks?" Why don't we pray and try to stop drinking all together in

Christ's ranking offends reader

To the editor:

In the "Around the Rim" editorial on Sunday, Mr. Briscoe rated the most important men to affect the life of 20th century man. On the list he rated Karl Marx as most important. He states that 2/3 of the World's government followhis philosophy and 3/4 of the world's population is under the rule of Karl Marx philosophy.

He fails to mention that millions of those people are oppressed. Millions are slaves to the government that rule by the Karl Marx philosophy.

In most cases these governments were taken by force and are ruled by a few power hungry men. Some examples are Hungary, Afghanistan, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, to name a few.

He rates Jesus number 9 in importance to the life of 20th century man. He does so by referring to Jesus as "The Roman rabbi whose legend inspired most of the great art and music of the West.'

That was the total comment about Jesus, who died on the cross to free oppressed people

Mr. Briscoe states that the name of Karl Marx is most recognized among men. I consider this an insult to the man called Jesus of Nazareth.

Karl Marx philosophy was to op-press people. Jesus' philosophy was to free oppressed people. The thing that upsets me most about this article is that it seems to glorify Karl Marx as most important name to modern man while Jesus seems to only get Honorable

I'm tired of the followers of the teachings of Jesus having to sit, as to say "in the back of the bus" in the journalism of today's America.

This country was founded on Christian principles and no amount of biased journalism will change that fact.

It's journalism such as this that will lead to the oppression of American people by the philosophy of Karl Marx.

Settles Hotel is silent sentinel

To the editor:

I am glad to see that the remodeling of the Settles Hotel may become a reality after all! Each morning I drive by this silent sentinel which seems to be standing guard over the city and I often find my thoughts going back to the years 1937-40.

At that time, I was a member of the San Angelo Bobcat Band. My director, Homer Anderson and Big Spring director, Dan Conley, must All of this destruction, all we see have been good friends because each time we came to Big Spring the Bobcat band would have a big parade — usually before the football game I think.

We would parade down Third Street and end up in the lobby of The Settles. There the band would form on the stairs with the cheerleaders, pep squad, and other boosters down in the lobby and we would have one big pep rally. I always marvelled at how full and good the band sounded in that lob-

Little did I know that some forty five years later I would find myself retiring in Big Spring. The late Oscar Glickman and I reminisced back to those days. He remembered walking to the Settles to see the parade and hear the

Any way, let's all give the Cuadra family all the help and encouragement they may need in remodeling the Settles as their success will undoubtedly help in the restoration or rebuilding of downtown Big Spring and in turn help the whole city!

U.S. should follow Soviets

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — Good old American know-how and free enterprise are what made the United States the arsenal of democracy, and will assure that we triumph over the hopelessly inefficient Soviet system of military research and development. American industrial management needs no lessons from a bunch of commie bureaucrats.

Wrong, declares a CIA specialist in a study intended for official eyes only. The U.S. weapons-procurement system, the study reports, is "in deep trouble." It takes too long, costs too much and "taxes away too much of the time and energies of the limited (personnel).

The study's heretical conclusions, which may induce cardiac seizures among the procurement poohbahs, are that U.S. policy-makers would be well advised to borrow a few leaves from the Soviet book on weapons development.

In fact, the report congratulates the Reagan administration for adopting some Soviet ideas already. A copy has been obtained by our associate Indy

"One of the most concerted efforts ever attempted to repair the ailing U.S. system ... focused on 32 separate initiatives," the CIA report states, adding: 'A number of (these) proposed actions coincided with Soviet practice. One official who was ivolved in formulating the initiatives confirmed that some were drafted with Soviet practices in mind."

But the author of the study, operating with an inhouse CIA grant under an "exceptional intelligence analyst program," added this warning: "Without structural changes to the U.S. system, these or any actions are said to be difficult to implement."

The study, embarrassing as it may be to the entrenched Pentagon weapons-development establishment, confirms the general criticism we've been offering for years: The system that worked such miracles in World War II has degenerated into a costly and complicated process that makes multibillion-dollar boondoggles inevitable. Only a top-to-bottom shakeup can restore efficiency and cost-effectiveness to the Pentagon's cumbersome weapons programs, which eat up a staggering portion of the federal budget each year.

Indeed, the CIA analyst's most telling criticism may be in the anecdote he relates about an expert on arms production who was asked how the U.S. effort in World War II succeeded so splendidly "with so few people (doing) so much with so little." The expert replied: "Because there were so few people."

Among the myriad deficiencies in the U.S. system today, the report says, is the growing length of time it takes to acquire new weapons. For example, the first submerged ballistic missile, the Polaris A-1, was developed in less than five years; the A-5 took more than six years, the Poseidon C-3 took nine years and the Trident C-4 11 years.

'The increasing lead time,' the CIA analyst notes,

"results in greater costs and, in a fast-changing technological arms competition, tends to render systems almost obsolete by the time they are operational." The report points out that the Pentagon's cost overruns are far greater than those of other countries. Citing figures that show cost overruns in France, Sweden and Great Britain are between 10 percent and 30 percent, the report states that the U.S. cost overruns range between 50 percent and 90 Among the specific flaws the report finds in the U.S. system are the continuous interference of Congress throughout the development of a weapon; the use of cost-plus contracts; testing procedures designed not so much to evaluate weapons as to help decide whether to allocate more money for succeeding stages of development; cutthroat competition that leads to unrealistically low bids, and the incredibly complex bidding system.

Five competitors for one Air Force plane contract, for example, submitted documents that weighed a total of 35 tons, the report states.

MISSING CHILDREN: Hundreds of thousands of American parents know the heartbreak that comes when their child is kidnapped, murdered or simply disappears. Until recently, these parents faced their anguish pretty much alone, but that situation has changed dramatically as public awareness grows.

The scope of the problem was made depressingly clear when the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children opened last June in Washington. In its first three months, the center received more than 7,000 calls on its toll-free hot line (1-800-843-5678).

Yet that barely scratches the surface. According to government figures, 1.5 million children are listed as missing every year.

The center was promoted by President Reagan who has declared "Child Safety Week," and has met with representatives of law-enforcement agencies. schools, community organizations and government. They will form a coalition called the National Partnership for Child Safety, and focus on recruiting more help from the private sector in the nationwide Utility companies have already joined the campaign by enclosing pictures of missing kids in monthly billings. Photos are also appearing on milk cartons and shopping bags.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, working with the national center, shows photos of missing children four times a day during newscasts on its satellite TV station. Crime-watch groups - now active in one of every six neighborhoods - are keeping an eye out for threats to their children.

The results so far have been heartening. In the first six months of the national center's operation, 841 missing children were accounted for.

Can't scratch travel's itch

By KEELY COGHLAN I'm giving everybody notice. I have one of the fiercest spring fevers on record, so hot my feet have blisters from the thought of all the miles I want to travel. The ads for vacation getaways jump out of the paper, searing their promises of excitement and adventure into my dust-clogged brain.

The names of places - San Francisco and Honolulu, Dublin, Paris, Washington, even Bangkok - have assumed a magical quality to conjure up visions of cherry blossoms and white marble, golden gate bridges, the Left Bank, sidewalk cafes and the Abbey Theatre, Even Kerrville and Waxahachie are beginning to sound like island paradises, or at least ... interesting.

I'm stir-crazy. It's all I can do when I hear someone say Tahiti, not to rush out, sign away my firstborn for a loan and buy a ticket.

The book on my nightstand is John Steinbeck's Travels with Charley, the chronicle of Steinbeck's journey to find America more than 20 years ago with his French poodle in a camper called Rocinante.

Reading Steinbeck, I can taste the road, smell the woods in Maine, the vinyards in northern California the hunger to be gone ...

Yesterday, I met a Frenchman who went past the "Oh, I'd like to go there some day" stage and actually dropped everything - work, school, family - and set out for two years on a bicycle.

Where was he going? Tahiti, Reunion Islands, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, Italy, — a litany of places I've never been to but which conjure up vistas of freedom. I almost cried.

Two years on the road, just vanishing into the wilderness of humanity, not planning - the idea has a lot of appeal when you're terminal.

So why haven't I done it? Loaded the car, lathered on the suntan lotion, gunned the motor up or down

The bills, the career plans, the thousand daily routines of life lock you into a fixed existence. I have a thousand excuses as I sip my coffee, a million reasons.... Maybe next year.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Wednesday, May 8, the 128th day of 1985. There are 237 days left in the year. This is "V-E"

Today's highlight in history: On May 8, 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced in a radio address that World War II had ended in Europe. On this date:

In 1541, the Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto discovered the Mississippi River.

They play hardball at the Kremlin

WASHINGTON - The advance warnings on Mikhail Gorbachev turn out to be right. He has moved forward rapidly, indeed blatantly, to take charge of the Soviet Union. In the process the new Soviet leader threw at this country a knuckleball that is much harder to hit than anything served up by his recent predecessors. Despite some growls, it is difficult to see how President Reagan, having overcommitted himself, can now retreat from a Big Two summit this fall under disadvantageous conditions.

The action in Moscow came at a meeting of the Communist Party's Central Committee. The most striking move was the elevation of two members of the party Secretariat — Yegor Ligachev, who has been in charge of personnel, and Nikolai Ryzhkov, an economic planner — to the ruling Politburo. Both came to the Secretariat at a time when Gorbachev served there as chief personnel man for Yuri Andropov. Both were jumped to full membership in the Politburo without having served the normal apprenticeship as candidate members. Their promotions were thus a sure sign of strong personal influence, and an absence of effective opposition. In addition, Gorbachev showed control over the security appratus. Viktor Chebrikov, who became head of the secret police or KGB under Andropov, was promoted from candidate member of the Politburo to full member. Marshall Sergei Sokolov, the defense minister, was made a candidate

The priority accorded the KGB over the regular forces piqued the interest of some American analysts. Their theory is that Gorbachev, like his predecessors, depends more on the secret police than the military. It is believed that the relief of Marshall Nikolai Okargov as chief of staff last year represented a move to contain the soldiers. That caution is apprently still being observed.

Economic change seemed to be the dominant theme of Gorbachev's speech to the Central Committee. The general secretary dumped on his predecessors, saying that

"earlier we did not make timely assessments of ... changes in economic methods." He called for "mandatory and serious improvement in the system of management and the economic mechanism in general.'

Whether those words point toward fundamental reform or merely a tightening of discipline remains to be seen. Even a major reduction in drunkenness and absenteeism could yield big dividends for the Soviet economy. And enforcing discipline is so huge a task that a certain breathing spell in Russia's relations with the outside world would make

But the Gorbachev speech showed no signs of a more conciliatory stance toward this country. On the contrary, he evinced a clear intent to break the cooperative link between Peking and Washington. Moreover, in an allusion to the latest round of Geneva arms control talks, he said the U.S. refusal to negotiate on the "Star Wars" missile defense program "gives ground to say that Washington does not seek agreement with the Soviet Union."

Girl dies in airplane crash

AVINGER (AP) — Divers found the body of an Avinger High School senior in the wreckage of a twinengine airplane early today, several hours after the plane plunged into a private lake near

The body of Tammy Putnam, 17, a passenger in a plane that crashed into Simpsons' Lake was found about 2 a.m. today, officers said. She was pronounced dead at the scene, they said.

Jack Putnam, the woman's father-in-law and pilot of the plane, was taken to a Linden Hospital for treatment after the crash. Officers said the crash occurred about 7 p.m. Tuesday when the wing of Putnam's orange Cessena 310 hit the water, causing the plane to spin, hit the lake and sink into the 30-foot-deep water.

Putnam, 52, got out of the plane before it went down and began diving to try and rescue his daughter-in-law, according to David and Karen Mason, who live nearby.

Mason paddled out to Putnam in a canoe and pulled him out of the water, officers said. Putnam, a foreman at Lone Star Steel, owns a private landing strip four to five miles from the crash site, officers

Officers said four boats, a barge and two divers were used in the search of the lake.

Spindletop lawsuit dismissed judge on Tuesday dismissed a lawsuit by two cor ins who claim they own more than a $20 billion chunk of the Spindletop oil fortune.

U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher ruled the challenges by James Clark of Cincinnati and Dan Profitt of Elsmere, Ky., were without merit because of a 70-year delay in filing the claim. Clark and Profitt filed the suit lasts year on behalf of themselves and about 200 people who say they are heirs to Texas' first oil fortune.

Texas ASCS director denies harassment of female office employees

Harte-Hanks News Service

The Texas executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service was suspended on charges that included sexual harassment of female employees, according to a letter released Monday.

ASCS Executive Director Charles Wayne Mayfield, who says his suspension was unfair and based on unfounded charges, returned to work Tuesday at the service's headquarters in College Station. He was suspended for 30 days. An April 3 letter to Mayfield notifying him of his suspension was released by USDA official Donald Downing Monday under a Freedom of Information Act request from Harte-Hanks

The suspension, lasting from April 7 through May 6, was the result of an investigation conducted by the USDA's office of inspector general last year and early this year.

Previous reports on reasons for Mayfield's suspension had indicated that the infractions concerned only alcohol in government vehicles and allowing an unauthorized employee to drive a government vehicle. But the letter, signed by USDA Director of Personnel William J. Riley Jr. states: 'The investigation reports contain signed and sworn statements from four women who either were or are subordinate to you, alleging that certain actions were committed by you

The letter said Mayfield carried alcoholic beverages in his government vehicle on a trip from College Station to Salt Lake City, Utah, and that he allowed a subordinate employee to use his government vehicle "for other than official purposes." It concluded with a warning Mayfield could lose his job if such conduct

State ASCS Commissioner Harold Thomas, who has backed Mayfield, said he believes the primary complaint against Mayfield - which came from his assistant, J.P. Jones - was the result of sour grapes because Mayfield was appointed to the executive position over Jones more than three years ago.

Mayfield said the sexual harassment accusations against him came from women who had "very sour grapes" about not receiving promotions or advancements.

"That is unfounded," Mayfield said when contacted Monday. "I have not seen that before," he added. "I have not seen those words; but it doesn't surprise me - that's what Mr. Jones has been trying to do."

Mayfield added that his 30-day suspension was severe and unfair. The only charge that he said had any grounds was that he was the senior officer with a group that bought a bottle of liquor, which was not opened in the government vehicle.

Among other things, the conservation service, which is part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, helps carry out farm programs and works with farmers in complying with federal regulations.

The department's investigation of allegations regarding Mayfield has raised some

Since December, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office has made several requests for information concerning the investigation that led to Mayfield's suspension, said Bentsen spokesman Jack DeVore.

DeVore said Bentsen still is not satisfied with the responses he's received from the USDA about the handling of the Mayfield investigation, but DeVore would not elaborate.

Sen. Phil Gramm said on a visit this weekend that he believes the investigation into the complaints against Mayfield went far enough and that Mayfield is a credit to the ASCS.

Odessa football players suit up after 'no pass, no play' lawsuit

ODESSA (AP) — A 16-year-old Permian High School student will suit up for spring football drills after a court slapped a temporary restraining order on school administrators, officials said Tuesday.

Ricky Cronk, along with five other underclassmen, was declared incligible for spring practice at the Odessa school, known for its football prowess, because he failed a class during the last six-week grading period, Permian Principal Charles Broughton said Tuesday.

But Cronk, who Broughton said failed introductory algebra, will participate in practices this week after State District Judge Joe Connally Monday issued a temporary restraining order against Ector County Independent School District.

Another hearing is scheduled Friday.

Connally's order was the second issued in less than a week regarding a Permian sophomore football player who has failed a class, and is one of several court actions taken by parents and others across rule.

The rule, which bars students from extracurricular activities if they flunk one or more classes, is part of the package of education reforms approved by the Legislature last summer.

On Thursday, Connally issued a temporary restraining order allowing 16-year-old Terry Bryant to participate in the Permian High School spring drills.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the state school board said in a speech Monday in Odessa that the state should help local school districts saddled with lawsuits over the state-mandated reforms.

Bill Holm, Ector County Independent School District superintendent, said such litigation is a financial burden.

Montford pushes Senate's OK to reappropriate water rights

AUSTIN (AP) — Amid debate reviving memories of the long court fight over Stacy Dam in West Texas, the Senate approved Tuesday a bill that would allow unused Texas water rights to be reappropriated. The bill, by Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, was sent to the House on a 29-2 vote.

"This is a bill to try to prejudice the holders of old water rights," said Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, who with Sen. Oscar Mauzey, D-Dallas, opposed the bill.

"The purpose of this legislation is merely to restore a workable state policy on handling water permits and prevent waste of water. If the state supreme court's ruling is allowed to stand there will be no more reservoirs built in Texas."

Montford said his bill originated from the long controversy over a permit for Stacy Dam on the upper Colorado River, which would furnish water to Abilene, San Angelo, Midland, Odessa and Big

The permit was approved by the Texas Water Commission although testimony showed the amount of water in the Colorado had alaready been appropriated, on paper.

The Lower Colorado River Authority filed suit claiming the permit would decrease the amount of water available to LCRA lakes by 15 percent. The Texas Supreme Court overruled lower courts by saying that since all available water had been appropriated on paper, the state had no right to issue a permit for Stacy Dam.

Later, the LCRA and Stacy Dam builders reached an agreement in which the LCRA could continue to get a certain amount of the flow from the upper Colorado but it would gradually decrease as use by West Texas consumers increased.

Montford said his bill clarifies the definition of unappropriated water by providing that "water rights not being beneificially used shall be the subject of new appropriations."

Montford said the provision was made mandatory, instead of optional, at the request of the Brazos River

The Medicine Shoppe, 1001 Gregg, and others in the country are offering a free fingerprinting program for pre-schoolers to teens Thursday through Saturday. Called "Thumbody Misses You", the program is endorsed by Child Find, Inc., the missing children's group.

Trained volunteers use an inkless, no-mess pad to provide parents with a permanent record of their child's fingerprints. Parents keep all records. The fingerprint record can become a complete identification file since space is included for the child's photograph, birthmarks and scars, and the location of his medical and dental

Though fingerprint records cannot guarantee a child's safety, they can help authorities trace a child's whereabouts (such as an abductor's car or house). Plus, police can use prints to identify a lost, confused or injured child.

Death by smoking inspires woman

DEAR ABBY: On April 5, I read letter in your column in the Rocky Mountain News that did something for me that nothing else was able to do. It made me decide to quit smoking.

It was written by a woman signed "Grieving in Gulfport," whose beloved younger sister had died from lung cancer. Her doctor bluntly stated, "Cigarettes killed

"Grieving's" final paragraphs hit me like a thunderbolt: "Abby, why do advertisers make cigarette ads so attractive? Instead, they should run a before and after picture of a once-beautiful woman vomiting and bald from radiation

Bob McBee is the same, but different. That is, the difference is 85 pounds. And he lost those pounds in an amazingly short period of time-90 days. Bob's story, however, is not uncommon. Not since the first Nutri/System Weight Loss Center opened its doors 13 years ago in Jenkintown, PA.

Today Nutri/System is an international network of professionally supervised centers with over 700 centers in North America alone. This growth can be explained by the fact that Nutri/System promises and delivers up to a pound a day weight loss or more without using drugs, injections or strenuous exercise. Dr. Jay Satz, Director of Research and Development at Nutri/System. further explains the program's success: "Our weight loss program is individualized and easy to follow; involves no decisionmaking; and, very importantly, the exclusive Nu System Cuisine™ is delicious!"

Dr. Satz was absolutely right about Nu System Cuisine™. sampled an entree, and it was superb! Later, I tried Veal Ragout, Turkey Tetrazzini and Chicken a la King, all delicious, In fact, all the entrees taste as if they were made by the magic hands of a gour-met chef! 40 years later, ex-GIs recall excitement, lessons of VE Day

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Forty years ago Americans spilled out into the streets to celebrate the surrender of Nazi Germany. World War II was not yet over, but millions around the world saw the European victory as the beginning to an end of a war that violently altered the lives of people around the world.

In the four decades since that day, Allen Walker and Joseph Gooch have not forgotten how they felt at receiving news that the war in Europe was over. Both men were in Europe on May-8, 1945.

Today, both are patients at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. Their experiences in Europe taught them to recognize the horrors of war and to appreciate peacetime.

Walker, 66, of Midland was in Berchtesgaden near the Austrian border when he was told that the war in Europe was

"We were near Hitler's hideaway home," Walker said. "I've got some of his silverware at

Walker knew the war was drawing to a close long before he received official word. "We knew it was over when we saw Germans coming down the road, marching toward us." Although he would remain in Europe for several months. Walker "was glad the war was over. A lot of people over here don't know what war is. People can't feature it. I've seen everything over there." He remembers the "DPs," or displaced persons, "coming toward us, acting like we was God." For the homeless displaced by the war, VE day was only a small beginning to the momumental task of rebuilding a country shattered by the war.

Gooch, 61, a Seminole resident, remembers "everyone was pretty happy" when news reached American troops that the war had ended in Europe. But Gooch said he had no idea that the war would draw to a close when it did.

"At 21, you don't really think too much about those things,"

When asked how long he remained in Europe, Gooch says with a smile, "Too long." Gooch was with the Army Air Force and arrived in England in February. "I flew 10 missions in Europe," he said.

After VE day, he would wait until August before being allowed to return to the United States.

"I've always said that until a war hits the United States, people won't wake up to the fact" of the destruction that war can Gooch remembers a remark that upset him after his return. "A man said he didn't care how long the war went on" because he was not directly affected by it. After seeing the destruction the war caused, Gooch could not understand the attitude of those untouched by the atrocities.

Gooch still becomes emotional at the thought of the destruction of the war. But he says he is glad he participated in World War II. "It was my du-

- House and Senate lawmakers gave their final stamp of approval Wednesday to a comprehensive statewide water plan. But two hurdles still stand in the way: Gov. Mark

White and Texas voters.

SAVE

Fanfare

White's signature is almost a certainty since he labeled the water plan his number one legislative priority, and congratulated lawmakers on their work after the House adopted the package.

But voter approval is more uncertain. Texas voters have rejected three water plans in the past 18

The House and Senate voted overwhelmingly in favor of a House-Senate conference committee's proposal that resolved differences on the issue between the two chambers.

Coastal lawmakers in the House, however, voted against the measure because of fear it would not provide enough protection for bays and estuaries that dot the coast

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, lambasted the lack of strong protections for bays and estuaries but voted for the measure.

A leading sponsor of the water plan, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, called voter acceptance crucial to Texas' future.

"Frankly we've got to pass this bill in November to mantain the quality of life in Texas," Montford said. The water proposal - a financial and management blueprint designed to meet state water needs well into the 21st century — includes $980 million in state bonds that would be used to finance local water supply, water quality and flood control projects.

In addition to those bonds, voters will be asked to authorize the issuance of $200 million in bonds to help farmers and ranchers buy efficient irrigation equipment.

Issuance of those bonds, however, would be dependent on the success of a $10 million agriculture pilot program and could not be issued before 1987.

Also included in the proposal is a $250 million bond package that would be used to guarantee local water bonds in an effort to gain higher bond ratings and lower interest rates for local governments

Magic leads in finale

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) -Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 34 points, 19 assists and nine rebounds Tuesday night as the Los Angeles Lakers clinched their National Basketball Association playoff series against the Portland Trail Blazers with a 139-120 victory.

The Lakers, who defeated the Trail Blazers four games to one, next face the Denver Nuggets in the Western Conference finals, the last stepping stone to the NBA Championship Series. The Nuggets won their series against Utah 4-1 with a 116-104 victory Tuesday night

Johnson skillfully handled the Trail Blazers' trapping defense that on Sunday forced 28 Los Angeles turnovers. The Lakers led the Trail Blazers from the second quarter on.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 25 points for the Lakers, and Bob Jerome Kersey led the Portland scoring with 18 points, Clyde Drexler had 17 and Darnell Valentine 15.

The Lakers put the game away with a 20-7 scoring spree in the third period that staked them to a 100-83 advantage going into the final 12 minutes

Abdul-Jabbar had 10 points in the third period, and Johnson had eight points and five assists.

The Trail Blazers, who had pulled to within 68-63 early in the third quarter, were never within striking distance again.

After trailing 26-19 during the opening quarter, the Lakers outscored Portland 14-6 in the closing four minutes of the period to DENVER (AP) - Denver forward Calvin Natt scored 11 of his 21 points in the first five minutes to ignite a surge that eventually produced a 30-point lead, and the Nuggets held on for a 116-104°victory over the Utah Jazz Tuesday night to clinch their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Denver, which won the best-of-

The Nuggets, despite the loss of point guard Lafayette Lever with a knee injury, exploded to a 43-23 lead at the end of the first quarter. Natt, hitting two jump shots from the key and muscling inside for his other baskets, staked Denver to an 18-8 advantage with 7:05 left in the opening quarter.

Natt hit all five of his field-goal attempts and Alex English was 5-for-6 in the quarter as Denver raced to its big advantage over the Jazz, who were plagued by 10 turnovers in the period.

Natt had 11 points in the quarter and English 12.

English's fast-break basket made it 69-39 late in the second quarter, but Utah guard Rickey Green sparked a Jazz rally late in the third quarter. Utah scored 16 straight points, seven by Green, to draw within 90-77 with 2:21 left.

Rookie Willie White's threepointer padded Denver's lead to 97-79 at the the end of the period. The Jazz eventually whittled the margin to eight points on a turnaround basket by Darrell Griffith with 2:35 remaining in the game, but White scored on a basket underneath and English sank a 14-foot jumper as Denver eased out to a 12-point lead and the victory.

NE

GARDEN CITY - After miles and miles of tireless road and track work three of the Crossroads Country's premier rur ers will take their last laps this weekend at the UIL State High School track championships at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium facility.

Garden City's state qualified contigent consists of 3200 meter man Brian Thompson, Gina Schaefer in the 800 meter run and Jacque Jost in the 400 meter dash. All three are seasoned veterans who have competed on Memorial Stadium's pressure cooker tartan

As a junior distance man for 2A San Saba, Thompson placed fourth in the 3200 meter run in last year's state meet. Schaefer will be making her third straight appearance at the state meet. She placed third in last year's 800 meter run after finishing fifth her freshman year. Sophomore Jost was a member of the 1984 girls mile relay squad that qualified for the state meet.

Lady Bearkat track coach John Blair thinks his girls have a good chance of coming home with some state championship hardware if the conditions are right. "If it's a hot, still day I think Gina can beat the girl from Iraan this week." The Iraan girl coach Blair referred to is two-time Class A 800 meter champ, Darla Graham, who beat Schaefer at the Region I-1A meet this past weekend in Levelland. "Gina was leading right up through the final 220 meters at Regionals, but the Graham girl is awfully strong. She just outkicked Gina," commented Blair. "That was the closest she has ever come to beating Graham. This may be the meet Gina beats

For Jost, the road to Austin was not nearly as certain as with her state-ranked teammates. She barely qualified for the Regional finals by being the fastest third place finisher in the girls 400 meter heats. Ironically, the eighth and final qualifier to the finals was slotted for Lane 2, an inside position which Jost prefers. She made good use of her fortunate positioning by winning the 400 meter final with a personal best 60.14.

"Jacque has been improving about 1 second a week since District. It's going to take a 58 (second) 440 or better to win this year and I think she is up to it," explained Blair. "If she gets an inside lane, Jacque is strong enough to pull it off."

For boys coach Eddie Knight, he has the enviable position of having one of the top Class A distance runners in the state under his wing. Thompson's 10:06 3200 meter time is the state's best for 1A competitors in 1985, but there will be no dearth of competition for the senior two-miler. "I think Brian is going to win it. But the two kids from Chico (Travis Hood) and Bells (Jason Ramsey) are going to be right there with him," commented Knight. "Brian has the experience from last year, which is a big help, and he's not doubling up with the mile." commented Knight.

Thompson had entertained thoughts of distance double in Austin before he was struck down by a case of bronchitis a week before the Regional meet. The illness left the state ranked miler only with enough energy to finish the two mile race. "I was leading the 3200 meter by about 100 meters with half a lap to go but I only won by about 5 meters. My legs were just dead. I was too weak to come back for the mile," explained

Thompson will stick to his year long strategy of getting ahead early in the race and staving off rivals to the end. "It's worked for me all year, although it's liable to be harder to get out front in Austin," said Thompson. "Last year there was lots of pushing at first and I got tripped too. I'll just have to do my best to take the lead and hope my legs hold out."

The Bearkat trio and their coaches will leave for Austin early Friday morning. Schaefer will be the first to compete. Her 800 meter final is scheduled for Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Thompson will be running two events later at 7 p.m. Jost's 400 meter dash is scheduled for late

Jansen beats all odds enroute to state meet

By STEVE BELVIN Staff Writer

STANTON - To say it's been a trying track season for Stanton's Lorrie Jansen would be putting it mildly.

The junior half-miler has faced all kinds of adversities in her haul toward the state track meet in Austin - yet Jansen will be at the starting line when the gun is fired for the start of the Class 2A 800 meter run Friday at Memorial Statlium.

Lorrie had high hopes of making it to Austin this season since she barely missed making the trip two years at regional. During her freshman year she ran the 400 and finished fourth in the region, last season she switched to the metric half mile and finished third.

Last week at Big Spring's Blankenship Field she finally reached her goal when she finished second at the region meet. Her time of 2:26.09 was well of the time of 2:20.05 she ran last year at regionals, but it was good enough to get her to the place she has always visioned running.

After completing a successful cross country season this fall in which she finished 26th at the state meet, her troubles started.

First she started having knee pains, which later were diagnosed as cartlidge damage in both knees. She will have arthroscopic surgery on both knees after the season. But her troubles were just starting.

Next Jansen was plagued by shin splits, a painful burning sensation in the lower front part of the leg. Again this slowed her down because she had to cut back on workouts. "I was getting worried," replied Jansen. "I was beginning to (wonder) if I would ever get to state."

Then came the week before regionals. She began to have stomach problems and doctors thought it was ulcers. This forced Jansen to miss the entire week of workouts. "I didn't know what to think about my chances. I figured it's all in God's hands and if it was His will I would get to state, and he let me make it to state."

Another problem Jansen had to deal with was the pressure to do better, caused as much by herself as others.

"It's really hard on you emotionally when you start comparing yourself to something you did last season," she said. "I just want to do the best I can this year."

But through all the toil and turmoil, Jansen has risen to the occasion in earning a spot she has envisioned for the last three

"I went to the state meet my freshman year to watch Mary Beth Tollison (former Stanton distance runner) run. I remember saying to myself, 'wow this is a big place.' That's when I made a vow I would run in this meet one year." It couldn't have happened to a more deserving person.

Where's the money?

Gunslingers' checks bounce

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Some of the San Antonio Gunslingers' latest paychecks have bounced, local newspapers reported today.

Both the San Antonio Light and The San Antonio Express-News quoted unnamed players who said their paychecks, which arrived three and four days late last week, bounced when they tried to cash them.

The Express-News reported South Texas Sports Inc., parent company of the United States Football League team, pledged to make the checks good by paying each player 50 percent cash and the other half with a personal check from club President Bud

Meanwhile, the USFL Players Association filed a formal grievance against STS to protest the franchise's chronic payroll problems this season.

Four of the five series of Gunslingers' paychecks this season have either been late or lacked sufficient funds.

Meanwhile, the Guns traded defensive end Ken Gillen to the Arizona Outlaws for two draft

The San Antonio Light reported Gillen was traded for comments he made to the newspaper last week criticizing the paycheck situation.

Battle of the worst, Giants beat Pirates

By The Associated Press When the Pittsburgh Pirates opened the season with good pit-ching but little hitting, Manager Chuck Tanner figured things had to change. He was right.

NL Roundup

"Now we're hitting fairly well and the pitching hasn't been good," Tanner lamented after the Pirates dropped a 5-3 decision to the San Francisco Giants in a game matching the National League's two worst teams. The Pirates fell to 8-16, last in the NL East, while the victory pulled the Giants, 10-15, within 11/2 games of fifth place in the West.

Yanks, 8-6

By The Associated Press As far as Manager Billy Martin and the New York Yankees are concerned, the Minnesota Twins can take their Metrodome and go

"It's a little league ballpark," Martin said. "What a joke."

What frustrated Martin most was not that his Yankees lost to the Minnesota Twins 8-6 Tuesday night. What peeved him was how his team lost.

In other American League games, Boston beat California 6-4, Toronto routed Oakland 10-1, Chicago halted Cleveland 7-4, Milwaukee downed Seattle 5-2, Baltimore tripped Kansas City 4-2 and Detroit shelled Texas 10-1.

Minnesota Manager Billy Gard-ner said he understood other teams' complaints about the Metrodome, but "was not too

The Yankees probably knew they were in trouble from the start. After taking a 2-0 lead in their half of the first inning, weird things began to happen when the Twins came to bat.

Kirby Puckett led off with a bunt single. Mickey Hatcher hit a popup to center that fell between four New York fielders for another single. Kent Hrbek hit a weak grounder to first baseman Don Mattingly, but it turned into a bases-loading single when pitcher Ed Whitson couldn't cover first fast enough

Red Sox 6, Angels 4 Tony Armas cracked his seventh home run of the season and also singled to drive in three runs as Boston won in Fenway Park.

Jim Rice stroked three straight ngles and Mike Easler knocked in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly. Roger Clemens, 3-3, went sevenplus innings for the victory. Bob Stanley, who allowed RBI singles to Jerry Narron and Rob Wilfong in the eighth, got his fifth save. Blue Javs 10, A's 1

Ernie Whitt drilled a two-run homer and George Bell fueled Toronto's six-run sixth inning with a two-run single.

White Sox 7, Indians 4 Ron Kittle snapped out of his slump with a home run while Chicago starter Floyd Bannister and relievers Tom Seaver and Bob James combined to strike out 14 Cleveland batters.

Kittle had struck out six straight times before launching his first home run of the season, a solo shot in the second inning. Greg Walker clubbed a two-run homer in the fifth to break a 4-4 tie in Cleveland. Tigers 10, Rangers 1

The World Series champion Detroit Tigers looked ferocious in clawing host Texas. Larry Herndon and Nelson Simmons hit home runs on consecutive pitches in the fourth inning, and Lance Parrish and Lou Whitaker also homered. Kirk Gibson helped spark the offense with four of Detroit's 15 hits; he also drove in three runs and scored three times.

Jack Morris, 4-3, went seven innings for the victory. Rangers starter Dickie Noles, 2-2, lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

FESTUS, Mo. (AP) - Mike Scott had been laid off from the lead mines and was selling tires for his brother-in-law when he heard about an offer that couldn't be ignored: construction jobs, exotic places, $100,000 a year.

He investigated, and everything seemed legitimate. So Scott, like hundreds of other le across the country, paid fees to Trans World Careers Inc. of Jacksonville, Fla., with the understanding that he would soon be drawing a big salary on construction projects in Egypt, Africa or Thailand.

Authorities allege that at least 675 jobseekers were swindled and some were targeted for murder to prevent them from blowing the whistle on the scam.

Howard W. Crawford, 43, founder of Trans World Careers, was arrested last month in Florida and charged with organized fraud and 29 counts of solicitation to commit murder. He allegedly tried to hire an undercover detective to commit the killings during a trip to Thailand.

Carter Lester, another laid-off Missouri lead miner, paid $650 for a job he never got. Crawford's arrest didn't surprise him, he said. "We expected to hear anytime that his office in Florida was closed up and he was gone," Lester said. "It was too good to be Authorities said 675 people, most of them from economically depressed areas, paid Crawford up to $750 each for help in getting the overseas jobs he advertised. Prosecutors, who said they expected the number of victims to reach 800, have traced the alleged scam to 20 states and Canada; most victims came from Missouri, Louisiana and Washington state.

"I haven't heard of anything like it," said Bobby George, a spokesman for the Missouri

Fat woman wins lawsuit in job denial

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) :- A woman who was refused a job by Xerox Corp. on grounds that she was too fat at 249 pounds won a discrimination case against the company in New York's top court

Tuesday. In a 5-1 ruling, the Court of Appeals said the company had no right to deny Catherine McDermott a job as a systems analyst in 1974 on the grounds that a company physician diagnosed her overweight condition as "gross obesity. Mrs. McDermott, 67, of Staten Island, pursued her case through the courts for years, writing her own legal briefs without the aid of an attorney and said her major expenses were "Xeroxing costs" and postage.

She said she didn't know what she might receive for back pay and other benefits as a result of Tuesday's ruling but estimated it would be more than $100,000.

Since she started the action against Xerox, she said, the company had made increasing offers in attempts to persuade her to drop the action. But the offers didn't take into consideration any raises based on promotions she may have received had she been hired by the firm, Mrs. McDermott said.

"If I can beat your hired lawyers, I certainly deserve a promotion," she told the company at one point in her court action. Peter Marshall, counsel for the company, said he couldn't comment on what settlement offers were made. Marshall and Richard Chapman, another Xerox attorney, said they had no comment about until they had read opinion.

Chief Judge Sol Wachtler, writing for the majority, said, "We have found nothing in the (state Human Rights) statute or its legislative history indicating a legislative intent to permit employers to refuse to hire persons who are able to do the job simply because they have a possibly treatable condition of excessive weight."

Xerox attorneys had argued the company was concerned with potential impairments that Mrs. McDermott might develop in the future.

"I couldn't believe I would have lost," Mrs. McDermott said, "but it's like Yogi Berra — it's not over until it's over, you know?'

She said she started the lawsuit for what she said was the same reason Rosa Parks refused to sit at the back of a Montgomery, Ala., bus in 1955 and helped start the civil-rights movement. "I was just tired of it," she said.

The ease began after Mrs. McDermott, then 56, was refused the job in 1974 when a Xerox doctor ruled she was obese. At the time, she was 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighed 249 pounds.

Town rallies to rescue blast furnace

DUQUESNE, Pa. (AP) - The fate of a 22-year-old blast furnace known as Dorothy Six, the largest iron-making oven in a rusting steel valley, hangs on a tug of war pitting corporate bottom lines against community

Its owner, U.S. Steel Corp., shut it down a year ago and condemned it for demolition because it was unprofitable. But a coalition of union, community and religious leaders hopes to rescue the furnace and make it a centerpiece for reviving industry

"This is where we draw the line. It would be a sin to tear it down," said Jay Weinberg, a furloughed steelworker and an organizer for the Tri-State Conference on Steel, an advocacy group working to save the furnace. 'Everyone is aware that what happens to Dorothy will happen to all the plants in the valley if we don't take a stand," said

"Our interest is the stability and future of these communities. Their interest is making a fast buck. We're here to stay. Our history is here, our culture is here, our families are our institutions are here," Weinberg

The No. 6 furnace at U.S. Steel's Duquesne Works boasts a 29-foot hearth that once made 5,000 tons of iron daily. (It was named Dorothy for the wife of a corporate officer.)

Last year, the furnace won U.S. Steel's "Ironmaster Award" for beating production goals. But it cooked its last batch of iron ore, coke and limestone on May 24, 1984, and has a June 10 date with a wrecking ball.

At the Duquesne Works, Dorothy's iron was purified into steel by blasts of pure oxygen in a basic oxygen furnace, which the company also proposes to raze and the workers want to save. Since January, the two sides have offered contrasting views of Dorothy Six's future. The latest study for the United Steelworkers of America contends the furnace's products would be "highly marketable" if it had a continuous caster. A caster saves time and energy; continuous cast steel is often of higher quality and cheaper.

The revitalized facility would employ 650 workers, one-third fewer than the 830 employed by U.S. Steel, according to the

The company's study, released in April, found a "vastly insufficient market." Start-up costs for Dorothy Six would include $10 million to buy the plant, $77 million to rehabilitate it and $150 million for a caster. It projected a $110 million loss for the plant in its first three

"We'd hate to see people put their money and hopes into a venture that cannot succeed," said Chairman David Roderick. But Roderick said U.S. Steel would not demolish the facilities if somone makes a serious offer to buy it.

Labor chief unions split

on teen wage

WASHINGTON (AP) - Labor Secretary William Brock held a cordial meeting Tuesday with the executive council of the 13.7 million-member AFL-CIO, but serious differences emerged over the minimum wage and a summer wage for youth.

In discussions that lasted more than an hour, Brock told the council that he favors on a trial basis allowing employers to hire teenagers at sub-minimum wages for the summer months. What's temporary in Washington has a half-life of a good number of years," AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland later told a news conference, saying the federation opposes the plan in any Labor unions say employers would use a sub-minimum wage to replace higher-paid workers with low-rate teen-agers. The Labor Department has said stiff fines and criminal penalties would prevent abuses and that the proposal would create 400,000 jobs.

On another matter, council members told the new laborsecretary that the minimum wage, unchanged in more than four years, should be raised. Because of inflation, the current $3.35 an hour amounts to a sub-minimum wage,

Kirkland told reporters. Brock, however, in a speech April 30 to the National Press Club, said he didn't think raising the minimum wage was a good idea. Among other things, he said, rais ing it would open the gap between the minimum wage and the subminimum wage proposed for

The labor secretary worked with a number of council members in his previous post as U.S. trade representative. He said he was pleased with Tuesday's conversa tion and that when "we disagreed. we disagreed on the basis of fact, not rhetoric. I think they know my door is wide open; not only open but I need their help. "I sought their support and their participation in the department and ... policies of the administra-tion," Brock said.

Kirkland said the meeting was "cordial." However, he criticized the Reagan administration by citing an AFL-CIO executive council statement which calls the current Republican budget compromise "blind mismanagement of the nation's finances.'

Brock said he shared the council members' concern about vigorous enforcement of a variety of wage and hour, anti-discrimination, health and safety laws administered by the Labor Department. But the council members had a number of questions for which Brock, who was sworn in April 29, apparently does not yet have answers.

Among them: Whether to overturn a 40-year ban on home work in women's apparel, jewelry and several other industries, and what to do about the controversial director of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

OSHA director Robert A. Rowland has been accused of delaying enactment of new exposure standards for a number of dangerous industrial chemicals, including formaldehyde and benzene. Last month Rowland rejected a proposal to require farmers to provide toilet facilities and drinking water to more than half a million field hands

And this battle was won by the American

It was the battle that produced the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, the monument on the Mall in Washington — hallowed ground now, that reminds visitors of the 2.7 million Americans who fought in that losing war and the 58,000 Americans who died in combat.

"I think the Vietnam Veterans Memorial from day one was really somewhat of an impossible dream," said Jan C. Scruggs, who saw the need for a memorial and for national reconciliation after this unpopular war.

Scruggs, a former low-level government bureaucrat who was wounded as an infantryman in Vietnam, has recounted the strug-gle to establish the memorial in a book, "To Heal A Nation", written with Joel L. Swerdlow. It is being published Wednesday by Harper & Row.

"In 1979, Vietnam was not a popular subject," he recalled in an interview last week. "The attitude has turned around about the veterans since then. I don't think the American public has changed its mind about the war since then.'

The story leading to the memorial's dedication in 1982 is one of dogged determination by Scruggs and the relatively powerless group of veterans that joined him and surmounted obstacles - including the hostility of then-Interior Secretary James Watt — to establish the memorial.

It began with a combat flashback in 1979 afer Scruggs saw the movie "The Deer Hunter." And although even his wife dismissed the notion, Scruggs pursued his idea of a memorial listing the names of every American killed in Vietnam and of doing it with private contributions.

However, by the time he announced that he'd raised only $144.50, his plan became the butt of television talk-show jokes. But some other Vietnam vets joined him, including Washington lawyers Jack Wheeler and Bob

They enlisted the aid of two Republican senators: Maryland's Charles Mathias, an opponent of the war, and Virginia's John Warner, who as secretary of the Navy sent men into the combat zone.

They faced opposition and suspicion about their motives, their view that the memorial shouldn't make a political statement for or against the war. But they also got support from hawks and doves alike. Former Sen. George McGovern joined their board of directors. Money-raising efforts began to take hold.

1st casualty in Vietnam had 'unknown fate'

By The Associated Press James Tom Davis was the first. Before it was over, 2.7 million U.S. servicemen would go where he had been. And when it was over, 58,019 other names would be added to the list on which his was the first.

Specialist 4th Class James Thomas Davis, RA 14 696 877, was killed in an ambush on Dec. 22, 1961, the first U.S. soldier to die in combat in Vietnam. He was 25.

"My ambitions are unlimited, my fate unknown," he wrote in his high school autobiography when he was 17. In his early 20s, Tom Davis made an appointment with his unknown fate that would give him a place in history. In April 1959, he dropped out of college in his senior year to enlist in the Army.

Less than three years later, his unlimited ambitions were cut short by a war that would end 14 years later on April 30, 1975.

Before the war had ended, American forces in Vietnam would grow from 3,200 advisers at the time Davis was killed to more than half a million troops at the height of the war in 1968.

Davis was an outstanding football player at his Tennessee high school, Livingston Academy. He loved the outdoors and was a licensed taxidermist, even at that early age.

"I had started hunting and fishing, in a more or less limited way, and nothing was as important to me as my gun and fishing rod," he wrote in the autobiography.

He wanted to be an industrial engineer when he went to Tennessee Technological University in Cookeville, about 20 miles from Livingston.

His brother, Bill, just a few years younger, was also at Tech but in his sophomore year decided he was unhappy with school and wanted to do something different.

The brothers decided to join the Army under the "buddy system," going through basic training and assignments together to fulfill their military obligations. But circumstances changed for Bill, and Tom went on his own.

When Tom got his orders to go to Vietnam, Bill and their father, Jim, took out a map to find it.

His father had fought two decades before. In World War II, "Bum," as he was nicknamed, left his job as a pharmacist and volunteered for duty, leaving behind his wife, 8-year-old Tom, Bill and another son, Joe, who had just been born. Two other children, Jack and Jane, were born after the

In the two years Bum Davis was away fighting in Europe, Tom - asthe oldest child — was the man-ofthe-house. It left him with a tremendous feeling of selfassurance.

"Bill was in the first grade that year and was another responsibility," Tom wrote. "So I began to feel the weight of years pushing in upon

Just as his father had left his family for the war, Davis left his wife, Gerrie, and their 7-month-old daughter, Cindy, in Livingston, a small town of 3,000 people.

He arrived in Vietnam in May 1961, on temporary duty with the 3rd Radio Research Unit after completing his early training at Fort Devens, Mass. He was a specialist 4th class, making $150 a

Pilot picks the world's best to serve at Minnesota restaurant

RICE, Minn. (AP) — Several times a year, Steve Kaminski says, he leaves this tiny town, travels halfway around the world to pick up a Kuwaiti prince and flies him to vacation spots in a jet that has gold faucets, king-sized beds, a lounge, and video machines in each room.

Even though the $20 million Boeing 727 "puts Air Force One to shame," the job — like others — gets a bit monotonous, he says

What keeps Kaminski high on being a royal chauffeur is the way the flying dovetails with his other business, operating a restaurant that offers ethnic fare to the people around this central Minnesota

He returns from his sojourns with special wood for cooking, spices and perhaps a recipe for the chefs at

"The plane puts Air Force One to shame," Kaminski said. "It has gold faucets and large bathrooms; with showers, king-sized beds in the two staterooms, a lounge, video machines in each room, telephones so they can call anywhere in the world.

"It's all very plush. And from the pilot's standpoint, it's a dream."

His travels have taken him to the north coast of Airica, where he dug up coins he says date to 400 B.C. He has brought back butterfly wing collages from South Africa, hand-painted papyrus from Egypt; lead crystal from Poland, wooden masks from Nairobi and silver and gold trays from the prince's

New Yorker NEW YORK (AP) - The New Yorker, for 60 years a showcase for such talents as J.D. Salinger, John !! Updike and Dorothy Parker, became the property of publishing magnate S.I. Newhouse Jr. on;

Tuesday at a stockholders' meeting punctuated by protests. The $168 million sale was ratified T by a vote of about 632,517 shares to "slightly under 6,000 shares," -1 publisher J. Kennard Bosee announced at the meeting, adding, "The New Yorker clearly will not, be a public company after today." Bosee told stockholders, staff w members and readers that he had the "assurance of Mr. Newhouse" is that the magazine's highbrow literary tone would "continue in id the same fashion."

"As a very small shareholder in and a very longtime reader, I would like to say that I wish this :u had never happened," responded id one dissenter, who refused to give his name. "I have difficulty seeing how Newhouse can ... make a profit without doing something to the quality of the magazine.

Newhouse has said he will keep ; editor William Shawn, 77, who recently wrote in the magazine's "Talk of the Town" column that none of its owners had "ever made an editorial suggestion...(or) ever permitted the advertising or circulation or accounting people to bring any pressure to bear on us.'

The new owner, whose fortune is estimated at more than $700 w million, is listed by Forbes as the of 17th richest person in America.

He runs Conde Nast, whose publications — including Vogue, House & Garden, Glamour, Gourmet, GQ and Bride's - reach an estimated 25 million readers. In 1989 he bought Random House, one of the nation's leading publishers from RCA.

Newhouse was not at the stockholders' meeting.

Many of the protests came from editorial employees of the New. Yorker, who complained that an incentive plan that would have given them a share of the sale profits had been struck down.

"It's unjust that those who work with such dedication to make this a great magazine get nothing out of this merger," said Mary D. Kiorstead of the fiction department, whose remarks were followed by lengthy applause.

One stockholder, who identified himself as Crosby Kemper, said he was pleased about the sale and thought the magazine had garnered a "very good price."

"It's what any management in America would have done," said

WIZARD OF ID

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning brings out all sorts of problems with saying or doing the tactful thing, and it is not a good time to make commitments

You have an opportunity to make long-term plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find a better way of handling career duties and later you can handle business matters very wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You get some good ideas for becoming more successful provided you steer clear of a newcomer. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to an expert for advice about business problems, and then you can handle

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You and a partner may be at odds in the morning, but later can reach a fine accord. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Work may go slowly in the morning, but don't get discouraged since later all picks up and you can accomplish a great deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You find it difficult to reach one you like and make plans, but later something comes up and you can have a fine time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may not comprehend what is going on at home, but bide your time and then you can profit from the situation. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to fly off the handle with a bigwig or you lose valuable support. Be very careful in the handling of mechanical gadgets.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You do not understand a monetary matter well in the morning, so give it more thought before you handle it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may feel very anxious without cause in the morning, so go after your personal wishes with poise and gain them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't worry about a situation you can do little about. Concentrate on more practical affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early plan how to gain your personal wishes and then carry through in a most positive way and get right results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early have to be shown that it is foolish to act on impulse and be taught to think and make plans before taking action on anything. Your progeny can become a fine organizer. Teach to be more direct and not try to work so many angles.

Research shows salad eating on the upswing

By TINA STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor

Salad eating is on the upswing, according to consumer research. A Better Homes and Gardens consumer panel survey conducted in 1982 indicates that 98 percent of consumers said they serve tossed green salads at home. Fully 54 percent of the panelists said they have eaten more fresh vegetables, and 60 percent said they have eaten more fresh fruit during the past three years.

Salads are moving from side dish to main dish meal status, according to a food company's research. Since 1972, salads as a main meal have increased by 26 percent, while salads eaten as a side dish have

According to Restaurants and Institutions magazine, tossed greens are the most popular type of salad served in restaurants today, followed by another classic, cole slaw. In terms of growth on menus, though, pasta salad leads all other salad offerings, with taco salad and avocado salad also gaining in

Americans didn't invent salads, but to look at our eating habits in the 1980s, you might think we did. The advent of the salad bar, and today's emphasis on health and fitness, have both contributed to the popularity of salads in this country. Since salads have become so important to the American diet today, this week's Herald Recipe Exchange features several salad

Creator of seasoning keeps recipe to himself

By JOHN PLATERO Associated Press Writer

LaBELLE, Fla. (AP) — When Bill Gerstman mixes up a batch of 'Monkey Dust" he's very careful no one is around to learn his secret a secret he's vigorously guarded since he first put it together on a Pacific Island 40 years ago.

Even if you read the list of ingredients on the package, you'll not have the key to why this former mess sergeant's concoction is gaining national popularity without any advertising.

Actually, "Monkey Dust" is how he's dubbed his Everglades Seasoning, a mixture of spices and herbs customers use to enhance the flavor of anything from eggs, salads and soups to all kinds of meat, fish or vegetables.

"Only my wife, Lora Mae, my son-in-law and my attorney know all the ingredients," says the 68-year-old Gerstman, unlocking the small building on State Road 80 in this country town on the Caloosahatchee River 30 miles east of Fort Myers, where he makes his product.

"It's up here," he says, pointing to his head when asked where he guards the formula for Everglades

Born in Cullman, Ala., Gerstman learned to be a butcher in the family slaughterhouse. In 1941 when he joined what was then the U.S. Army Air Force, the military made use of his trade — first making him a butcher and finally a mess sergeant.

In 1944, he was transferred to the 714th Rescue Squadron stationed on the Pacific island of Saipan.

News and Information Big Spring Herald There, army troops on the island eat it." got their supplies from the navy commissary. After providing for sailors' needs and officer mess halls, the only meat left for Gerstman's 300 GIs was lamb the least palatable to the troops.

He decided to "doctor" the meat so his men would eat it. With ingenuity, he put together an assortment of condiments he gave the cooks to disguise the lamb taste. The change was immediate.

"They didn't know what they throwing the lamb into the ocean," were eating," he says with a smile, recalls Gerstman. "They wouldn't "and asked for more." Using his
