'The Boss' on fire: Springsteen to wed

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

LAKE OSWEGO, Ore. (AP) — Bruce Springsteen, the high-energy rocker whose songs of restless youth and broken dreams are embodied in his hit anthem "Born to Run," will tie the knot with a woman he met backstage, the woman's parents said.

Springsteen, 35, and model-actress Julianne Phillips, 25, telephoned with the news Sunday night, said her parents, Bill and Ann Phillips.

It would be the first marriage for both.

Phillips said his daughter and Springsteen are expected in Portland sometime today. Springsteen is to open a European tour June 1 in Dublin, Ireland, and Julianne plans to accompany him, he said.

The wedding will be in this Portland suburb, the Phillips said, but would not specify where. The New York Daily News reported today that the event would take place Wednesday, followed by a big party in Los Angeles.

The Portland Oregonian reported today that the wedding would take place next week either at the Our Lady of the Lake Catholic Church or the Phillips' home.

"We're very proud to have Bruce Springsteen in our family," Mrs. Phillips said. "He's a fantastic young man. We just couldn't be happier."

"He's just as gentle and down-to-earth and lovable. He's concerned about people," she said.

At CBS Records in Los Angeles, a spokeswoman who identified herself only as Sheryl said she could not confirm whether Springsteen was getting married.

"We haven't heard anything," said an unidentified spokesman for Springsteen's New York City management firm, Jon Landau Management.

Springsteen, born in Asbury Park, N.J., on Sept. 23, 1949, began establishing a reputation for "blue-collar" rock and roll 12 years ago when he recorded his first album, "Greetings From Asbury Park."

The Phillipses said their daughter and Springsteen met backstage at one of his Los Angeles concerts six months ago, introduced by their agents.

She has appeared in three television movies — "His Mistress," "Summer Fantasy" and "Friends and Lovers," the Portland newspaper reported.

Oil tax breaks revived

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The Treasury Department may recommend restoring two-thirds of the value of oil and gas tax breaks that would have been eliminated under an earlier Treasury tax proposal, according to congressional and Energy Department sources.

Although part of the incentives would be restored, the oil and gas industry may lose most or all of the percentage depletion allowance under the plan expected to be recommended by the Treasury Department for President Reagan's approval, the sources said.

A Treasury Department spokesman said the department's final tax simplification plan should go to President Reagan next week before being introduced in Congress.

Percentage depletion — a 15 percent write-off of oil and gas income for independent producers, investors and royalty owners — has been part of the tax code in some form since 1913.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, confirmed that the Treasury Department was considering an exemption for so-called "stripper wells" from any reduction of the depletion allowance. Stripper wells, numerous throughout Texas, produce less than 10 barrels of oil a day and account for about 15 percent of all oil production.

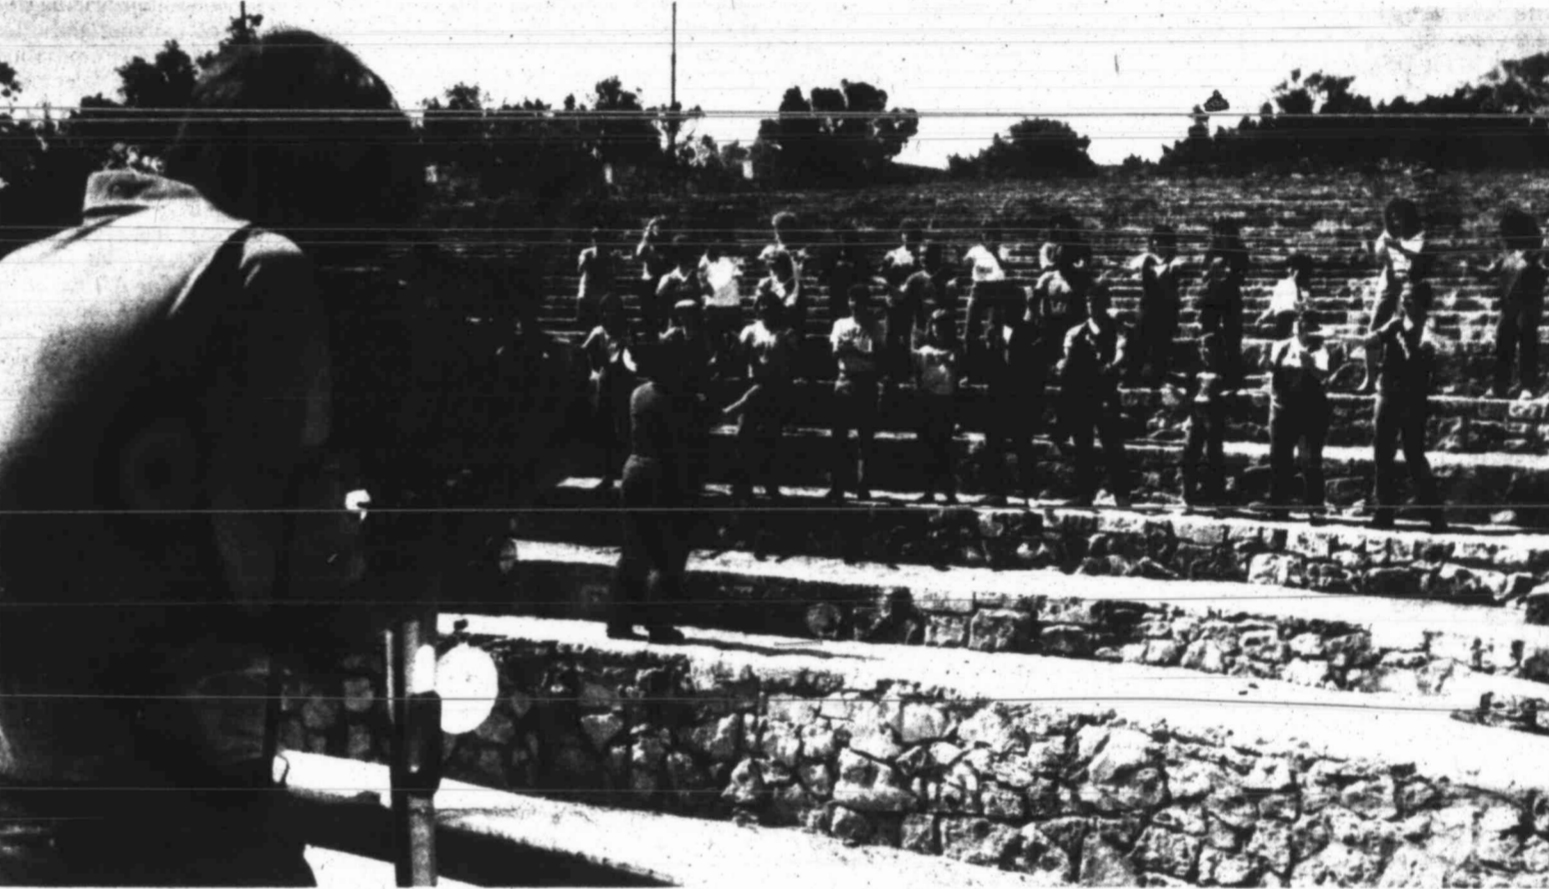

The deduction for intangible drilling costs, which is the other most important of the tax incentives for oil and gas producers, would be improved considerably for the oil and gas industry under the Treasury Department's final plan, according to a high-level Energy Department source.

Intangible costs, including expenses for labor and unrecoverable items, can now be deducted in the same year of the expenditure.

Under the Treasury Department's final recommendation, the costs would be deducted over a two-year period, according to the Energy Department source. In the original Treasury proposal, the intangible costs deduction would have been disallowed until the pro-

Deaf students sign 'We Are The World' for videotape

These words, a message to help the cause of famine relief in Africa, were recorded in sign language on videotape by the moving hands of students and staff members of the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf Thursday.

"We Are The World" Sign/Song Project used the American Sign Language to communicate the lyrics originally recorded by USA for Africa.

The group planned the project for a month and made the videotape during a day-long production session under the hot sun at Comanche Trail Park's amphitheater.

"Deaf people won't buy the record, but this way deaf people can buy the video tape..."

The original version of "We Are The World," performed by many popular musicians known collectively as USA for Africa, will be dubbed to the videotape so it can be understood by both the hearing and non-hearing world. For each male solo, a male person expressively signed the words to the music's rhythm, which could be felt through its vibrations and seen by director Deb Covell's movements. Female signers performed the parts of female singers.

Filming, editing and dubbing of the tape to the recorded music is being done by Tommy Arcand, with Bo Hardy as his assistant. The videotape will look similar to the original video done by the musicians in USA for Africa, but will be in sign language.

"The students had to give up some studying for their final exams to be involved in this project," said Bob Coltrane, the project coordinator, of the month of practice for the production session.

"If we would have had more time, there's more people that would be involved," he said. "The idea hit and flourished at a bad time when people are busy. At the end of the semester there's an awful lot going on and people are swamped with work."

Finals ended Wednesday and students have postponed going home, taking their vacations and having parents pick them up at school in order to complete the project.

Being involved in the project "is a lot of fun and it serves a good purpose," said sophomore Anna Lamprecht of San Antonio. "I wanted to be a part of it because those people (in Africa) are my brothers and sisters in Christ."

Planters: rain is peanuts

Cotton prospects uncertain despite moisture

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Knott is coming up cotton. Farmers are "cautiously optimistic" about planting prospects in Knott and most of the county, which has received almost double the normal rainfall for the year, they say.

The rain, they say, is a relief, breaking a three-year drought in the county. Farmers produced only 5,000 bales of cotton last year. In good years, county farmers produce between 80,000 to 100,000 bales.

But the green fields of Knott are a contrast to the browns of Lomax, where farmers still wait for a good planting rain.

"Unless we get rain in the next 30 days, we will be in trouble again. At the present time, we're not in good shape," Lomax farmer Gene Perry said.

According to Perry, farmers near Lomax and west of Big Spring have received only three-tenths of an inch of rain this spring.

"We can't put any seed in the ground unless it rains. It's very dry," Perry said. The rain, he said, has fallen everywhere but in the Lomax area.

Today, the skies were cloudy, and Perry was hopeful it would rain. "You don't know how bad we need this rain. We need it desperately."

Farmers in the Lomax community plant between 12,000 and 15,000 acres of cotton.

Another Lomax farmer, Neil Fryar, probably will dry-plant his cotton if the area remains without rain, according to his secretary.

But dry-planting causes farmers to lose much of their topsoil, already facing constant erosion from West Texas winds.

Knott farmers have had a heavier than normal rainfall this year, but they still want more, said Paul Hopper. "I don't know if we can ever have enough rain.... Nearly any day of the year we can take a good general rain."

A lot of farmers have "jumped in and started planting," said Don Richardson, Howard County extension agent. "Over 50 percent are finished."

And the northern part of the county may be too damp to go in and plant yet, said Richardson. "They had a big rain on the northern edge of the county, and it's still a little wet."

Most Knott farmers have started planting their cotton crop, said Paul Hopper.

"There's a lot of cotton at Knott already. It's looking pretty good," said Hopper, who plans to begin planting Monday.

"The prospects are pretty good. But there's not any unbridled enthusiasm," mainly because of the price cotton is expected to bring, Hopper said. Prices, he said, are

Three sue E.F. Hutton

SCRANTON, Pa. — Two stockholders and a customer of E.F. Hutton & Co. filed lawsuits here in connection with the brokerage firm's admitted multibillion-dollar cash management fraud.

Stockholders of E.F. Hutton Group Inc., the parent company, filed two U.S. District Court suits Wednesday to recover damages the company suffered as a result of the brokerage firm's practice of writing checks in excess of its deposits at about 400 banks.

The third suit, filed Wednesday by customer Melville A. Carty of Bangor, accused Hutton of using bank-check processing delays to avoid the timely payment of funds owed customers.

Hutton & Co. Inc. pleaded guilty last week in District Court here to 2,000 felony counts of mail and wire fraud that the government said amounted to a $4.35 billion fraud. The company agreed to pay the maximum fine of $2 million.

Cops nabbed for burglary

MILAN, Mich. — Three of this farm town's 12 police officers and one ex-officer have been arrested on burglary charges and the police chief said Thursday the scandal is "tainting all of us."

"In the minds of people, it's not three officers, it's the Milan police force," chief Chip Snider said, one day after the state attorney general announced the charges on Wednesday.

The former sergeant and three senior patrolmen turned themselves in to state police Wednesday and were charged with a total of 30 counts, including conspiracy to break and enter, breaking and entering an occupied building, larceny from a building and conspiracy.

The four are accused of burglarizing four businesses between 1982 and 1983 in the community of about 5,400 people 50 miles west of Detroit, Snider said.

Schroeder remains stable

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Artificial heart recipient William Schroeder underwent more tests today as doctors tried to find the cause of his second stroke.

"Another CAT scan of Schroeder's brain is being conducted this morning along with an arteriogram," said Donna Hazle, public relations director at Humana Hospital Audubon. CAT scans are computer-enhanced X-rays. Arteriograms examine the condition of arteries.

She said Schroeder slept well Thursday night after visits from his family. "His wife, Margaret, has expressed her gratitude to the public for its concern about his recovery," Ms. Hazle said.

Schroeder's condition remains critical but stable, she said. "He continues to respond to verbal requests and movement is slowly returning to his right extremities."

U.S. President Ronald Reagan addresses a news conference in front of the 18th-Century Queluz Palace, near Lisbon, Friday as he concludes his 10-day European tour here. He flew back to Washington shortly after the speech.

Mission of peace?

Reagan ends tour with speech on SALT treaty

LISBON, Portugal — President Reagan ended his symbol-laden, four-nation trek through Europe today declaring "mission accomplished," and said the United States must consider whether to continue observing a nuclear arms agreement with the Soviet Union.

Reagan, questioned about continued compliance with the unratified SALT agreement with the Soviet Union, said: "There's considerable evidence now that that has been rather one-sided. If it has been, then there's no need for us to continue."

"We have tried on what seemed to be a verbal agreement between ourselves and the Soviet Union for some time that even though we have not ratified that treaty ... that we would both seek to abide by the terms," Reagan said.

Speaking to reporters before departing, Reagan said the United States will make a decision "down the road" on whether to continue observing the strategic arms limitation agreement.

When a decision is made, he said, "we'll do it openly and ... with full knowledge of the Soviet Union."

Reagan held a departure news conference in front of Queluz Palace. He stood outside on a bright, cloudless day with the palace's manicured gardens behind him. The president viewed some of the palace's horses before boarding Air Force One for the trip back to Washington.

"We're leaving today with our Atlantic ties strengthened and we're returning home mission accomplished," he said.

"It's been a long, historic and thoroughly worthwhile trip," Reagan said.

Answering questions, Reagan noted his invitation to meet with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and said Gorbachev's recent tough talk hasn't changed his mind about a meeting.

Senate approves $295 billion in cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate early today approved, 50-49, a Republican package of $295 billion in spending cuts that would cancel next year's Social Security benefit increases and pare President Reagan's defense buildup — with an ailing GOP member rushed to the Capitol by ambulance to provide the winning margin.

The three-year deficit-reduction package next goes to the Democratic House of Representatives, where its fate was uncertain. House Democratic leaders have generally voiced opposition to any provision limiting Social Security benefits.

Reagan, speaking in Portugal before ending his European trip, praised the package as giving him "more than 90 percent of what we have asked for in the budget." He also said he received assurance from the Senate that he can come back for more if it appears the reduction in his defense spending request is harmful.

"I have the agreement of the Senate that if this represents ... a cut in (defense) spending beyond where we should go, I will be returning for a supplemental appropriation," he said.

On Social Security, Reagan said, "I was faced with a mandate" from 79 senators who "demanded that we have some curbing" of the cost-of-living increases.

Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., who underwent surgery for a ruptured appendix the day before, was brought to the Capitol from nearby Bethesda Naval Hospital to vote for the package on the suspenseful, post-midnight roll call.

Wilson, wearing a vacation by members of both parties.

Wilson's vote brought the roll call to 49-49 in the Republican-controlled Senate. Vice President George Bush then voted to break the tie.

After the vote, Reagan congratulated Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., by telephone on successfully steering the compromise 1986 budget through the Senate.

Police nab hi-tech thief

LONDON — A West German has been arrested on charges of exporting U.S. high technology to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, and he faces an extradition hearing in a London court, Scotland Yard said.

Police spokesman Mick Jordan said Werner J. Bruchhausen was arrested Wednesday at a hotel in London's fashionable Kensington district by Scotland Yard officers.

Bruchhausen appeared at London's Bow Street Court on Thursday and was charged with "obtaining by deception in the United States between 1977 and 1980 electronic equipment for export to the Soviet Union in contravention of U.S. laws."

Scotland Yard gave Bruchhausen's age as 49, but the Justice Department said he was 42. In Washington, William von Raab, U.S. customs commissioner, described Bruchhausen as "one of the world's top techno-bandits."

Unrest shaking Iran

Exile groups and other sources say a wave of anti-war protests has shaken Iran's cities, just as that battle-weary nation is entering a new period of political uncertainty.

The past month's anti-government demonstrations, some reportedly bloody, pose little immediate threat to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's rule, say diplomatic and academic specialists who follow Iranian events.

But they say the disturbances dramatize growing discontent among ordinary Iranians over the 4½-year-old war with Iraq — at a time of battlefield disasters, economic privation, a looming presidential election campaign, and continued frail health for the 84-year-old supreme leader Khomeini.

"Previously, I thought that once Khomeini died, the transition to new leadership would be smooth," said one Washington-based authority on Iranian politics, Shaul Bakhash. "But if he dies amidst a crisis of mounting street demonstrations, I just don't know."

Roof collapse kills 12

USTER, Switzerland — A 4-inch-thick concrete and steel ceiling collapsed "like a lid" onto three indoor public swimming pools, killing 12 people, including five schoolchildren, and trapping others, police said today.

Rescue workers drained some water from the pools, then used jackhammers and their bare hands to dig at least one hole through the slab, enabling divers to enter the pool and search for survivors and bodies.

Workers at the scene said children and members of a local swim club had been among those trapped. Police said the youngest victim was a 12-year-old girl, who drowned along with her 13-year-old brother and their 34-year-old mother. No names were given.

"It was agonizing and ghastly," said one resident of the Zurich suburb of Uster, describing the scene at the complex, which houses two large pools and a wading pool. Uster is 12 miles southeast of Zurich.

Pope expecting opposition in Netherlands trip

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Saturday starts a five-day trip to the Netherlands, where his conservative policies have run into a wall of opposition from some of the world's most liberal Catholics.

In advance of the papal visit, posters containing death-threats and calls for riots have appeared in Amsterdam. The "Call-up for Anti-Papist Rioting" urged rioters to "get" the pope, describing him as a fascist.

"Progressive" Dutch Catholics — and their priests — question the church's bans on artificial birth control, marriage for priests and the ability of laymen to say Mass, as well as the position of women in the church and papal infallibility on doctrinal matters.

The split between "progressives" and "traditionalists" polarizes the approximately 5.6 million Dutch Roman Catholics, about 40 percent of the population.

The Vatican has acknowledged the problems facing the pope during his trip, which also includes stops in Luxembourg and Belgium.

"Today the Dutch church is in a state of crisis," the Vatican newspaper said in a front-page commentary on Wednesday. "There is talk of a difficult trip."

Monsignor Harrie Verhoeven, director of the Pontifical Missionary Aid Works in the Netherlands, said: "The problems facing the church in general are seen even more sharply in the Netherlands. I think he will offer the Dutch encouragement to practice the fundamentals of the faith."

He added that the pope's plans to speak in Dutch "will have a positive effect" on his attempts to reconcile the Dutch church.

The "progressive" positions, sparked in large part by the modernizing trends of the Second Vatican Council of the 1960s, have given rise to the terms "experimental" or "do-it-yourself" Catholicism, to signify individual decision-making rather than Vatican direction.

John Paul's appointment in 1983 of Archbishop Adrianus Simonis, a hard-line conservative, to succeed Dutch primate Cardinal Johannes Willebrands, a moderate, was sharply criticized by the liberals of the church.

Cisneros appointed Notre Dame trustee

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mayor Henry Cisneros has been elected a trustee on the Notre Dame University board. Cisneros was elected to the three-year term last week and he accepted the appointment this week.

"We are looking for people — and we don't think there are too many of them — who can stimulate our thinking in a debate about where this university should go in the 21st century," said William Sexton, vice president for university relations.

"We think Henry can help raise our sights on the next century," he said. "He's a leader in that kind of thinking. He can be an articulate challenger of the beliefs we have held in the past and help us decide where we want to be in the future."

Cisneros said he was looking forward to serving "one of the most distinguished universities in the world."

Sexton said Cisneros was the choice of Notre Dame's longtime president Father Theodore Hesburgh.

Like most of the 47 other trustees, Cisneros is a Roman Catholic. But unlike most of the board members, he is not a graduate of Notre Dame.

Cisneros holds degrees from Texas A&M, Harvard and George Washington universities.

All of the trustees are either priests or executives of major corporations.

Cisneros' first opportunity to sit on the board will be at a trustee meeting Oct. 24.

Inmates get Mother's Day treat

LOVELADY (AP) — Inmates at the Texas Department of Corrections' Eastham Unit are getting ready for a special treat on Mother's Day — a true visit from their mothers, the unit's warden says.

In past years, Mother's Day has consisted of inmates giving their mothers a corsage and a peck before going to their respective sides of the visiting rooms to talk between the wire and glass.

This year, however, mothers and sons will be allowed to go to chapel together and then visit in the dining room, said Warden David Myers. Corsages, made at the women's prison units, also will be provided.

"I just decided to do it," said Myers, who says he even shocked himself with the decision. "It's been years since some of these men touched their mother or anybody in the free world. Eight, ten, twelve years in some cases," he said.

More than 250 mothers have said they are attending and more are expected, perhaps three times the usual number, Myers said. He said many of the mothers who have called are excited about the visits and some have even asked for extended visits.

"I'm having to take a hard line on that because there's going to be so much going on," he said.

Myers said about 10 percent of the inmates at Eastham are not eligible for the special visit.

Court reverses death sentence

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Thursday reversed the death sentence of Texas inmate Pedro Cruz Muniz, convicted of the Dec. 20, 1976 rape and murder of a 19-year-old college student in Williamson County.

The 5th Circuit cited prior rulings by the federal courts "that both the Fifth and Sixth Amendments are violated by a doctor's testimony on future dangerousness of the defendant when the opinion is based on questioning conducted without a prior warning on the Fifth Amendment privilege and without opportunity for advice of counsel."

"The psychiatrist who interviewed Muniz did so at the direction of the prosecutor and without notice to the attorney for Muniz," said the 5th Circuit.

UAW's dispute delays selection for Saturn site

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. won't announce its choice of a site for its high-tech Saturn car plant until it reaches a labor agreement with the United Auto Workers union, a top UAW official said Thursday.

UAW Vice President Donald Ephlin also said the lack of agreement on a contract governing workers at GM's Saturn subsidiary was a factor in the automaker's delay in announcing the site, originally set for May 1.

"You may have noticed things have been slipping a little," Ephlin said. "I think you might find those things are related."

William Hohlund, president of Saturn Corp., said Thursday that GM expected to announce its site decision in July. But he refused to comment on the labor talks.

Ephlin said that so far, bargainers have not had any unusual problems in the contract talks.

"We may get to that," he said.

Saturn is GM's plan to make a significant profit on a subcompact car — and thus compete with the Japanese — through use of high technology and flexible work rules.

GM said it will commit $5 billion to the project.

White studies Blue Law repeal

Proposed legislation should exclude a '7-day work week'

AUSTIN (AP) — Any legislation to repeal the Blue Law and allow Sunday shopping should include assurance that Texans won't have to work seven days a week, Gov. Mark White warned Thursday.

"We must make some protection for individuals to have time for their homes, their families," White told his weekly news conference.

"We don't want to do anything at the state level that would help speed up the loss of that family unit or support for our children," he said.

The House has approved a bill to repeal the Blue Law and allow Sunday sales for all but automobile dealers. The legislation has been endorsed by the Senate State Affairs Committee and could be debated by senators next week.

Without specifically threatening a veto, White said he is studying the bill to make certain seven-day work weeks aren't allowed.

"That's one of the things I've been saying all along I wanted that Legislature to consider — the fact that workers have families and they should be given time with their families," he said.

GOV. MARK WHITE

blems we have in that prison, in schools, is the fact that we have families that are not as strong a unit as they once were."

Backers of the repeal bill say it includes provisions to allow time off for religious worship and to protect workers against having to work seven days a week.

"I like that," the governor said. "If you force somebody to work seven days a week, you have a very severe problem."

White also said he hasn't decided whether to sign into law a bill that would triple tuition at state colleges and universities, effective this fall.

The bill, designed to raise about $275 million more for state government over the next two years, has passed both the House and Senate. Lawmakers say it is needed to help balance the state's 1986-87 budget.

Before he decides whether to sign it, White said, he wants to make certain the legislation will enable poor students to obtain financial aid to get a college degree.

Granny accused of bootlegging alcohol

HOUSTON (AP) — A 75-year-old great-grandmother has been accused of illegally trading prescription pills and alcohol for food stamps, narcotics agents say.

Sally Evans, who claims she has 22 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren, was arrested

Thursday at her home after deputies confiscated about 4,000 pills and three refrigerators full of beer, wine, vodka, whiskey and gin, said Sgt. Bill Kessler of the Harris County sheriff's department.

Ms. Evans had been selling the contraband to "kids, juveniles, whoever" in the neighborhood.

Kessler said. "They were trading food stamps for pills and liquor. It was quite an elaborate operation for a 75-year-old woman," he said.

Ms. Evans was charged with possessing and selling controlled substances, possessing alcohol with intent to sell it without a license and with selling alcohol without a license. Bond was set at $13,600.

Judge upholds no pass ruling

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A district judge has dissolved a temporary restraining order and ordered 11 Clark High School students off the football practice field because they have failed at least one course.

State District Judge John Cornyn's ruling Thursday upheld the state's new no-pass, no-play rule passed by the legislature last year and implemented by the State Board of Education earlier this year.

Parents of the Clark students had won a temporary restraining order from State District Judge John Yates earlier this week, allowing the teen-agers to practice football.

John Peveto, father of one of the students, said he does not plan to continue the court fight, but will take his complaints to the state legislature.

Bomber show

100,000 expected to attend arrival of B-1B at Dyess AFB

Harte-Hanks News Service
ABILENE — The population of this West Texas city is expected to almost double when the new B-1B bombers arrive at Dyess Air Force Base next month.
 Although President Ronald Reagan and Vice President George Bush won't be among the dignitaries to attend the June 29 arrival, Dyess officials said Texas Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and Phil Gramm will be on hand for the ceremonies.
 As many as 100,000 people are expected, said Lt. Col. Terry Pratchett, Dyess' arrival officer. But that estimate is a bit tenuous, he said, since "it's not something you do every year."
 The new aircraft will come to Abilene exactly 30 years to the day after the first B-52 bomber was put into service by the Air Force.
 Visitors will be able to view vintage World War II bombers owned and operated by the Confederate Air Force, as well as modern strategic bomber and tanker aircraft.
 A flyover by Confederate Air Force aircraft will start the ceremonies at 9 a.m. At 10 a.m., Dyess AFB will begin admitting visitors wishing to see the first B-1's arrival, set for 2 p.m.
 The Confederate Air Force's vintage aircraft are scheduled to take to the air again at 12:15 p.m. for flights over Dyess.
 The B-1B is scheduled to arrive overhead at Dyess about 1:40 p.m., fly over the airfield twice, land, and be brought to the center foreground of the other display aircraft. The first bomber's name will be announced at that time.
 In the interim, visitors will be able to see aircraft such as the B-52, FB-111, KC-135 and C-130s on display, as well as the A-20, B-17, B-24, B-25, B-26 and B-29.

Mexican-American lawmakers to oppose pesticide committee

AUSTIN (AP) — A plan to turn over pesticide regulation to a three-member committee is being opposed by Mexican-American lawmakers who said it would water down safety rules already in place.
 Members of the Mexican-American Legislative Caucus said Thursday they will fight the bill by Rep. Robert Saunders, D-Columbus, chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

 Saunders' proposal is unnecessary and a political attack on Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who was the first state official willing to confront problems of agricultural chemical hazards, caucus members said.
 "It's a ridiculous bill," said Rep. Juan Hinojosa, D-McAllen. "It's clear to me it's just a way of trying to attack Hightower and humiliate Hightower."

 Earlier this year, the Texas Department of Agriculture under Hightower's direction imposed safety regulations governing use of farm pesticides. The rules require posting of treated fields and re-entry periods before farmworkers can return to fields that have been sprayed.
 The Senate in March approved a compromise bill.

RRC reports oil, gas discoveries

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas oil and gas operators reported 99 gas and 54 oil discoveries in April, according to the state Railroad Commission.
 The gas discoveries in April included three in the San Antonio area; 15 in the Refugio area; 20 in Southeast Texas; 31 in South Texas; seven in East Central Texas; eight each in East Texas and West Central Texas; three in the San Angelo area; and four in North Texas.
 Oil discoveries included three in the San Antonio area; five near Refugio; 13 in South Texas; three in East Texas; nine in West Central Texas; one each in the San Angelo and Midland areas.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Wes-Tex Telephone Cooperative, Inc., in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of filing an application with the Commission to revise the Cooperative's services charges for installations, moves or changes in service, establish charges for handling returned checks and establish charges for providing directory assistance service.

The revised tariff and rate changes will be effective on May 24, 1985, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission and will affect only the Cooperative's customers using the services listed in this Notice. The rate changes and new charges to be implemented will result in an annual increase of approximately $74,000 or 3.3% in the Cooperative's annual revenues.

A copy of the revised tariffs and new rate schedules are on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas and with each affected incorporated municipality served by Wes-Tex Telephone Cooperative, Inc. Information concerning the applicable tariff changes may be obtained from the Cooperative's Business Office in Stanton, Texas, telephone number 915/756-3393.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Boulevard, Suite 400-N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at 512/458-0223, or 512/458-0227 or 512/458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Dear Abby

Peepholes make woman squawk

DEAR ABBY: When I was a 16-year-old girl, I discovered a semi-concealed peephole in the wall of a ladies rest room at a gasoline station. The hole had been strategically drilled at a level that would afford the "viewer" on the other side of the wall a pretty good peep show.

Since then I have examined the walls of hundreds of gas station rest rooms and have found a surprising number of peepholes!

I think gas station owners who are aware of this disgusting invasion of privacy should be held accountable by law. What agency should I contact to put a stop to this? And if I can't do anything to stop it, perhaps a letter in your column will alert women to the fact that they may be inadvertently the "star" of some creep's peep show.

DISGUSTED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR DISGUSTED: Write to the consumer relations department of the oil company that owns (or leases) the gas station.

And until some action is taken to ensure privacy, men as well as women should be on the lookout for such peepholes. (A view is possible from either side of the wall.) P.S. An instant remedy: Stuff the hole with a wad of toilet tissue. Here's looking at you, lechers!

DEAR ABBY: You often advise people to talk to counselors, but let me ask you something: Can counselors help people decide whether to have children or not?

I've seen two counselors about this problem, and they were no help at all. They've seen so many kids with problems that their stock answer is: "When in doubt — don't."

I could be happy with or without kids, but my husband loves kids and he would make a wonderful father. I like kids, too, but they walk all over me; I've never been able to exercise authority over anyone. Even 2-year-olds push me around.

I told this to one counselor, and he said, "If you had a kid, by the time he was 10, he'd be kicking your rear end."

What do you think, Abby? Should I take a chance and leave all the disciplining to my husband?

WEAK IN WATERLOO, IOWA

DEAR WEAK: No. Kids who have a "wait 'til your father comes home" kind of mother usually grow up hating their fathers and walking all over their mothers.

Don't take on parenthood until you've had a course in parenting and feel equal to the task. It's an 18-year commitment (minimum).

SENIOR RECITAL — Dawn Underwood will give a Senior Recital Sunday at the chapel of First Baptist Church. The public is invited. A reception hosted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Underwood of Luther, will follow in the parlor. A piano student of Ann Houser for 10 years, Miss Underwood will perform a program of Bach, Haydn, Debussy, Rachmaninoff and Schumann. She will be accompanied by Raime Fryar and Courtney Fryar, pianists, Scott Underwood, vocalist, Tessa Underwood and Vicky McDowell, accompanists.

Dr. Donohue

Summer 'brings out' those white patches

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last summer I developed a white patch on my right hand, on top of it. It started to grow and before long it seemed to pop out in contrast to the rest of the hand. Later I read your discussion of it. You didn't say either way whether this was potentially dangerous, a sign of something serious. Can it be? Is there anything new in medicine to get rid of such spots? — Mrs. L.D.A.

Vitiligo is the name for this cosmetic problem. Once in a while such spots may be a sign of diabetes or of some thyroid gland inflammation. But usually they reflect local loss of skin pigment cells. Those are the cells that cause skin darkening when exposed to sunlight (tanning).

Because this vitiliginous area now lacks natural protection from the sun's ultraviolet rays, you have to protect it. If you cannot wear gloves, then use a powerful sunscreen lotion over it. By powerful, I mean one with the number "15" on the label.

I don't recommend the more extensive treatments for run-of-the-mill forms of vitiligo. By and large they are just too prolonged, too tedious. But I'll give you some examples. Sometimes, steroid creams will initiate repigmentation. They usually have to be applied for from four to six months. There are oral medicines that may stimulate the pigment process, but they have to be taken for six to 12 months. They must be used under a doctor's supervision, and you must limit time of sun exposure while taking the pills.

The whiteness of vitiligo spots become exaggerated as the summer wears on because of the surrounding dark skin — where pigment cells are active.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

JANEL BARNHILL

Nurses Griffith and Barnhill honored by VA administrator

Anne Griffith and Janel Barnhill received the first annual administrator's awards for excellence in nursing Thursday at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center.

Mary Louise Traczyk, chief nurse at the hospital, said the awards will be given each year "to recognize excellence in nursing." Similar awards will be made in VA hospitals around the nation.

Traczyk said the awards are based on knowledge, skill, compassion, dignity and respect.

"We are honoring personnel who have demonstrated adherence to the highest standards," Traczyk said.

Griffith, a registered nurse, was "recognized as a health care teacher," Traczyk said. She has been a nurse at the VA for six years. She trained at St. Paul's Hospital in Dallas, at Howard College and at West Texas State University in Canyon.

At present, she is attending Texas Women's University in Denton, working toward her master's degree in nursing.

She and her husband, Robert, have three children.

Barnhill, a licensed vocational nurse, has been an employee of the VA for 10 years. She received all of her training at Howard College.

She was recognized for giving veterans "her undivided attention" and making them feel important, Traczyk said.

Barnhill and her husband, James, have four children.

John Stewart, administrator, congratulated the winners and added, "There are many here who deserved this honor."

LOS ANGELES — Film-maker Mervyn LeRoy, whose nearly 80 films include "The Wizard of Oz," was hospitalized briefly after becoming ill at a reception for the wife of Vice President George Bush.

LeRoy, 84, appeared to be having difficulty breathing Thursday while waiting to greet Barbara Bush at the Century Plaza Hotel, where she received the 21st annual Woman of the World Award from Childhelp USA, a non-profit group working against child abuse.

He taken to the Beverly Hills Medical Center for examination, then released in good health an hour later, said Dr. Stephen C. Acosta, the emergency room physician.

LeRoy, whose screen-credits also include "Little Caesar," "Little Women," "The Bad Seed" and "The Green Berets," was awarded a special Academy Award in 1945 for his contribution to the film industry.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Pulitzer Prize-winning author Alex Haley said he learned a thing or two about storytelling from his great-aunts, especially one who enjoyed a dip of snuff while spinning yarns.

"When she was in good form (she) could drop a lightning bug at six yards," said Haley, 64, who was honored Thursday by the state Legislature with a resolution to convert his family home in rural Henning into a museum.

The author of "Roots" said his great-aunts enjoyed a dip of snuff during storytelling time on the porch of the home, which he has agreed to sell to the state for $1.

The House Finance Committee on Thursday approved a $182,250 appropriation for the conversion.

JERUSALEM — The works of exiled Czechoslovakian novelist Milan Kundera have "given expression to the struggle of the individual for his freedom," said a panel that selected him for the Jerusalem Prize for the Freedom of Man in Society.

In conjunction with Israel's annual book fair, Mayor Teddy Kollek on Wednesday presented the prize, worth $5,000, to Kundera, whose books were banned in his homeland.

The three-member judging panel said Kundera had "given expression to the struggle of the individual for his freedom and uniqueness against the forces of history, regime and politics."

Kundera, 56, has been living in Paris and lecturing at French universities since 1975.

He has written poetry, short stories and a play. His latest novels include, "The Book of Laughter and Forgetting," "The Farewell Party" and "The Unbearable Lightness of Being."

LOS ANGELES — Actor Jack Nicholson was set to begin shooting of a film sequel to "Chinatown," in which he played the Los Angeles private eye Jake Gittes, when Paramount Pictures pulled the plug on the production.

The company had already spent $1.5 million in preproduction costs on the film, "Two Jakes," starring Nicholson, 48, and with a screenplay by Robert Towne, who won an Academy Award for his script for "Chinatown."

Judge blocks prayer at school graduation

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A federal judge on Thursday barred an Iowa high school from including a prayer in its graduation ceremony this weekend, even though most students consider the invocation "a cherished tradition."

U.S. District Judge Harold Viator said the prayer proposed at Leon High School would violate the First Amendment separation of church and state.

Viator said even if most of the 49 graduates want to include a prayer in the commencement exercises, "the enforcement of constitutional rights is not subject to the pleasure of the majority."

"The constitution protects all of us, including those in the minority," Viator said.

The judge prohibited the Central Decatur school system from including a three-minute prayer in the Leon High graduation Sunday.

Rebecca Graham, one of the seniors, had objected to the prayer and filed the suit, claiming the school system was promoting a particular brand of religion. She was represented by the Iowa Civil Liberties Union.

School attorneys claimed most of Leon's 2,000 residents supported the prayers, which are considered "a cherished tradition."

Von Bulow denied mistrial requests

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A judge today rejected requests by lawyers for Claus von Bulow to dismiss one of two attempted-murder charges against the socialite or declare a mistrial.

Superior Court Judge Corinne P. Grande said, "The fairness or integrity of this trial" had not been compromised.

Von Bulow's lawyers had asked the judge to drop the charge, saying state prosecutors at his 1982 trial concealed information crucial to the defense. The judge said today she would allow that evidence to be presented during the retrial.

Attorney Thomas P. Puccio said the prosecution team at the first trial withheld a doctor's opinion concerning his client's first alleged attempt to kill his wife with insulin injections — in 1979. The former prosecutors have denied the allegation.

The information was provided by Dr. Janis Gailitis, who was recalled to the stand as the jury returned to the courtroom and the retrial resumed. He repeated what he had said earlier this week with the jury out.

BIG SPRING HUMANE SOCIETY

Margaret Lloyd of the Big Spring Humane Society said dogs may be dipped for fleas and ticks Saturday at Highland Pontiac.

Cost for the dipping is $3 for small dogs and $5 for large dogs. Owners should bring proof of rabies vaccination and a towel.

Pet owners also should have their dogs vaccinated for parvo virus, "an epidemic in Big Spring," she said.

'Boom Boom' retires

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, who held the World Boxing Association lightweight title for two years and made millions of dollars in a 5½-year pro career, says he is retiring from boxing. "I don't want to train anymore," Mancini, 24, told the New York Daily News. "I don't want to get banged around at this stage of the game. I have used boxing. Don't worry, I'm not going to let boxing use me." Mancini, who won the lightweight title on May 8, 1982 with a first-round knockout of Arturo Frias, was a favorite of boxing fans who liked his straight-ahead, aggressive style. He recently was the subject of a television movie, "Ray Mancini, the Heart of a Champion." He held the championship until he was knocked out by Livingston Bramble last June 1, a bout that caused him to be hospitalized because of the punishment he took. He also took hundreds of punches in losing, by decision, a rematch to Bramble on Feb. 25. Mancini won 29 of 32 pro fights, 23 by knockout. His only other defeat was against then World Boxing Council lightweight champion Alexis Arguello on Oct. 3, 1981. Mancini's retirement has been anticipated since the second loss to Bramble. "I ain't coming back, I'm almost sure of it now," he said then. "But I just want to know if I can still practice the self-denial a fighter must have." His relatively short career has been a lucrative one, he said, and his bank account is healthy. "I can live off interest for the rest of my life," Mancini said. "That's the bottom line." Mancini's boxing career followed in the footsteps of his father, Lenny, who also was nicknamed "Boom Boom." Winning the lightweight title for his father, who was denied a title shot when he was drafted for World War II and then was wounded, long was the younger Mancini's No. 1 ambition. One of the defenses ended in tragedy. Korean fighter Duk Koo Kim lapsed into a coma after being knocked out by Mancini in the 14th round on Nov. 13, 1982, and the challenger died several days later.

O'Grady grabs Nelson lead

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Mac O'Grady invoked the name of Steve Carlton and refused to speak with the press after shooting an 8-under-par 63 that staked him to a one-shot lead in the first round of the $500,000 Byron Nelson Classic. "He pointed out that (Philadelphia Phillies pitcher) Carlton doesn't talk to the press and nobody thinks anything about it," PGA Tour official Tom Place said Thursday after he made a vain effort to induce O'Grady to speak with reporters. "He said he doesn't have to talk with the press and he doesn't want to," said Place, the information director for the Tour. Place said O'Grady "apparently was upset" over a magazine article about him last year. "He said he had been embarrassed by the press and had absolutely nothing to say to them," Place said. O'Grady's action, while unusual in pro golf, is not without precedent. J.C. Snead declined an invitation to a mass interview last year, but did talk with reporters on an individual basis. Deane Beman, a former player and now commissioner of the PGA Tour, failed to appear at a press conference at the St. Louis Open in the early 1970s. He said later he was not invited. Again in the early 1970s, Lee Trevino left the course immediately after winning a playoff for the title in the National Airlines Open in a order to catch a plane. O'Grady made no excuse. He simply refused to be interviewed after matching the tournament scoring record and fulfilling a Tom Watson prediction. "The course is virtually defenseless with no wind," said Watson, a four-time winner of this title who had an early 67 despite some erratic putting. "I don't think I've ever seen the course play easier. I wouldn't be surprised to see someone shoot lights out, a 63," he said. About six hours later, O'Grady came in with that number on the Las Colinas Sports Center course. Rookie Andy Magee, who one-putted 11 times, also had it eight under par until he bogeyed the 17th hole. He finished with a 64, one shot back and one of 62 players in the field of 156 to break par on what Watson said was "a perfect day for scoring." Mike Holland, who missed the cut in seven of eight previous starts this season, had a career-best 65. The group at 66, five under par, included Peter Oosterhuis, Jodie Mudd, Mike Nicolette, John Cook and Bob Wrenn. Watson and defending titleholder Craig Stadler were in a large group at 67. Trevino, the current PGA titleholder, shot 70 in the warm, sunny weather. Ben Crenshaw, a former Nelson winner trying to fight his way out of a slump, had a 68. Tom Kite, a winner last week in the Tournament of Champions, had a 69.

MAC O'GRADY waves to the crowd upon completion of the first round of the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Irving, Texas. O'GRADY shot a course record 63, one stroke ahead of ANDY MAGEE of Dallas.

Rahal cracks 'Brick Yard' speed mark in number two car

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — After establishing an unofficial speed record for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Bobby Rahal decided it was time to make a switch. Rahal went 214.183 mph on Thursday in what had been his back-up car. That was 2 mph quicker than he had gone in the team's No. 1 car, so Rahal decided a change of plans was in order. "I would say right now we're going to run the T (backup) car," Rahal said of plans to qualify one of the Truesport Team's Budweiser-sponsored Marches for the May 26 Indianapolis 500. "I'm glad it worked out as well as it did. We're obviously ready to go." He planned to go after some more speed in today's final full day of practice before qualifying begins Saturday. "I'm certain 215 is within reach.

I don't think it's going to be easy, but we can make it," he said. "It felt really good. We're real close to it. We're not at the end of the rope but we're near there." Rahal, who finished seventh in last year's Indy 500, had a lap of 212.114 mph earlier in the day and then decided to call it a day after his quick lap. "There's no reason to go out again today," he said while enjoying a sandwich and a drink. "It was fun out there. The car is handling so well. It's a lot scarier having a car going 190 and not handling well than being in a good car and going 210," he said. The record performance boosted Rahal's confidence for qualifying and the race. "We're in real good shape. The sponsorship of Budweiser shows how far we've come since arriving here in 1982. We were babes in the woods then. It makes us proud when I think who we are and where we've come." Prior to Thursday, the sixth day of practice, Rahal's best practice speed was the 212.414 mph lap recorded in his No. 1 car. That duplicated the previous unofficial track record set last year by Mario Andretti.

"There's not much difference between the two cars, just a little difference in suspensions and aerodynamics," Rahal said. "I could be comfortable in either car, but I'm a little happier with the one I used today." Andretti's 1984 speed has been bettered by six drivers since practice began last Saturday. Defending champion Rick Mears completed a lap of the 2.5-mile oval at 213.371 on Wednesday.

Cardinals trip Dodgers, 5-4

The St. Louis Cardinals won ugly, thanks to two 10th-inning errors by Los Angeles first baseman Greg Brock. But after losing on three unearned runs the previous night and blowing a two-run lead in the ninth, the taste of victory was hardly sour. "Last night, we made the errors," said Willie McGee who scored the winning run in the Cardinals' 5-4 victory Thursday night. "They made the errors tonight. That's baseball." McGee led off the 10th with a single and went to third when Brock lost a pickoff throw by from loser Ken Howell, 2-2. One out and an intentional walk later, pinch-hitter Steve Braun hit a double-play grounder to short, but Brock dropped the throw to first, enabling McGee to score.

hitter Bill Russell singled to left. Pinch-hitter Candy Maldonado struck out, but Guerrero lined Allen's 2-2 pitch to center to tie the game. Allen got Mike Marshall on a grounder to send it into extra innings. Vince Coleman lined a run-scoring double to break a 2-2 tie in the seventh off Fernando Valenzuela. Coleman, after driving in Ozzie Smith with the go-ahead run, stole third base for the ninth time this season — he leads the major leagues with 21 steals — and scored on a single by Tom Herr, who leads the National League in hitting. Valenzuela worked eight innings, giving up eight hits and four walks and striking out eight. Kephshire gave up four hits in 8-1-3 innings but walked eight. He also struck out five. Both National League afternoon games ended 1-0, with San Diego blanking Pittsburgh and San Francisco edging Chicago in 12 innings. There were no games in the American League.

walking none. "It's good to get the first win under your belt and you feel a lot better when you know you're contributing," Thurmond said. The victory was San Diego's third straight. Pittsburgh has lost four in a row. Giants 1, Cubs 0 San Francisco's Manny Trillo didn't like what he saw, but after being ejected the previous night for protesting a called third strike, knew when to keep his mouth shut. And it paid off later when his two-out hit lifted the Giants over Chicago. "I was going to swing if the pitch was anywhere close," said Trillo, whose single on a 0-2 pitch from loser Warren Brusstar gave the Giants their fourth victory in five games and dropped the Cubs to second place in the NL East. They trail the New York Mets by a half-game. "I thought the last pitch was a ball, but I didn't say anything to the umpire (Doug Harvey)," Trillo said of his eighth-inning strikeout. He had been ejected from Wednesday night's 1-0 loss to the Cubs after arguing with Eric Gregg. Rob Deer, batting for winning pitcher Scott Garrelts, lined a two-out single to center in the 12th and went to second when Brusstar hit Dan Gladden. Trillo followed with his single to left, giving the Giants their first run in 24 innings. The Cubs have been blanked over their last 20 innings. Atlee Hammaker, who worked the eight innings, and Garrelts, 1-1, combined on a four-hit shutout. Scott Sanderson scattered eight hits and fanned nine batters in working the first nine innings for the Cubs.

NL Roundup "That's our game, running, that's how we win," McGee said. "You throw so many times over to first, it's hard not to make a mistake. I definitely planned to steal on that pitch." "I didn't see the error but I had my mind made up to go to third." The Dodgers had tied the game with a two outs in the ninth inning on a single by Pedro Guerrero off winner Neil Allen, 1-2, the third Cardinal pitcher. Ken Dayley pitched the 10th to earn his first save. They trailed 4-2 entering the ninth against Kurt Kephshire, who had limited them to three singles. After getting the first out, Kephshire gave up a pinch homer to Terry Whitfield and left after walking Steve Sax. Sax, who stole three bases, stole second off reliever Ricky Horton and advanced to third when pinch-

Padres 1, Pirates 0 Tim Flannery got up a little early, thanks to his 11-day-old son Daniel, and capped a long day with a seventh-inning single to drive in the game's only run for NL West pacesetter Padres. "We got up at six o'clock and had a talk, and I told him I was going to hit one for him," Flannery said. That he did, stroking a two-out hit off the glove of Pittsburgh second baseman Johnny Ray to score Carmelo Martinez from second base. Martinez walked to start the inning off loser Mike Bielecki and advanced when winning pitcher Mark Thurmond sacrificed for the second out. Thurmond, 1-2, tossed a three-hitter for his second career shutout, striking out three and

HC signs EP Eastwood star

Howard College head basketball coach Ed Sparling announced the signing of El Paso Eastwood standout Larry Thompson to a one year scholarship. Thompson, who will be slated at the power forward position for the Hawks, was selected first team All-El Paso and All-District in 2-5A his senior season as team captain at Eastwood. Thompson averaged 12 points, 9 rebounds, 9 assists and 3 steals per game in his senior year. The 6'7" 210 pounder is a deadly shooter from the outside, hitting on 63-percent of his shots from the field this season.

In addition to Thompson's feats on the basketball court, he has also won accolades in the classroom as an Honor Society member and architectural designer. Thompson was named to the Who's Who among American High School Students this year for his academic achievements and also garnered the West Texas Advanced Architecture Excellence Award. "Larry is the kind of kid we love to recruit to Howard. He was a standout player from a tough district and a fine student. I expect him to make a definite contribution his freshman year," commented Sparling.

LARRY THOMPSON ... power forward

ROYALTY — The women of Wesley United Methodist Church will be treated like queens in honor of Mother's Day. The Rev. Johnny Robertson, pastor, serves secretary Marjorie Lebkowsky.

Women to get royal treatment

Mother's will be treated like queens Sunday at Wesley United Methodist Church.

During the morning service, mothers will be honored and a Mother of the Year named. Excerpts will be read from what youth and adults have written about their mothers. The children's and youth choirs will sing.

At 6 p.m. the church men will host a second annual dinner in the Fellowship Hall. "At least on this day the women can gather around a table and tell stories while the men do all the work," said the Rev. Johnny Robertson, pastor.

"This year, they (the men) decided it would be better to cater it since they weren't such great cooks," he said.

Jubilation, First Methodist's youth choir, will present a musical on the life of Jesus called "A Season to Celebrate" at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary.

The youth choir of 36 members directed by John N. Wilson, will make appearances in San Antonio, Georgetown, Corpus Christi, McAllen and Harlingen.

The public is invited to all Mother's Day celebrations at Wesley Methodist, 1206 Owen.

Van available for wheelchair-bound

It first began with a thought that transcribed into a vision and then a project.

College Baptist Church has been involved in Sunday School ministry at Mountain View Lodge and the Veteran's Administration for many years. This ministry has brought those involved close to people who have physical handicaps and cannot attend worship services.

On the first Sunday in May 1984, College Baptist borrowed Kenneth Williams' van that is equipped with an electric wheelchair lift and brought Pearl Rogers to the morning service. She joined the church that Sunday, and the vision was created.

According to a survey, many people in the Big Spring area are restricted to wheelchairs. Many of these are in need of transportation to the doctor, grocery store, and other places and find it nearly impossible to secure transportation without a great cost.

After Pearl Rogers died, relatives and friends began to make memorial gifts for a ministry for handicapped people. Later, a van was donated to the church by a family in the church.

Rental, Inc. provided an electric lift at a special price and donated his personal time to install it. Joe Fortson headed the fund raising for the lift ministry.

Following the lift's installation, church member Tommy Porter insulated, paneled and carpeted the van.

In one year the van was finished and put into active ministry. On the first Sunday of May 1985 Hattie Bowlin was brought to morning service in the handicap van. Bolin has been blind all of her life and recently lost her seeing-eye dog.

College Baptist will use the van to bring people to services at the church of their choice. Trained personnel will be available to bring persons requesting this service to attend worship and Bible study times on Sundays and Wednesdays.

The church also will provide the service to the handicapped at any time to take them to the doctor or other places they need to go. The only requirement is that the church be notified in ample time to secure one of the personnel to be available.

Persons desiring these services may call the church office at 267-7429 to make arrangements.

Revival ends Sunday at Nazarene church

A Spring Spiritual Renewal Revival at the First Church of the Nazarene continues through Sunday night. Services today and Saturday begin at 7 p.m. Sunday's services are at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The Rev. O'Neal Loetscher from Springfield, Miss., is serving as evangelist. He and wife Linda are in the field of full-time evangelism, traveling from coast to coast in revival efforts.

The Loetschers provide a musical package each night. The reJoyce Choir also sings nightly with Otis Thompson directing. Nursery service is provided.

Sunday School classes for all age groups begin at 9:45 a.m. Cotton Mize is Christian Life chairman.

included growth through discipline, prayer, Bible study, meditation, witnessing and service to others.

A spiritual birthday cake was unveiled with each participant lighting a candle and making a personal commitment to some area of Christian growth.

The June meeting will be under the direction of the stewardship chairman.

Former wrestler revival evangelist

...revival evangelist

Former professional wrestler Tommy Phelps will be the evangelist for a revival at Vincent Baptist Church Monday through May 19. Randy Anderson, music minister at Hillcrest Baptist Church in Big Spring, will lead the music.

Services begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday. On Tuesday through Saturday services begin at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Services May 19 begin at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

A professional wrestler for 17½ years, Phelps went into the ministry in 1962. He attended Southwestern Baptist Seminar from 1963 to 1966, receiving a diploma in theology.

Before entering evangelistic work in January 1967, he pastored Temple Baptist Church in Hereford for 13½ months.

'Yardstick of Growth' topic of program

Spiritual Life Director Renae Loy presented a program, "Yardstick of Growth", to the Women of First Church of God at the May 6 meeting. The program was written by Ruth Kilmer, former missionary to Egypt.

According to the program, individual spiritual growth was measured by Bible scripture which

Sermons Sunday

Mother's Day ranks fourth on the year's list of card presenting occasions following Christmas, Valentine's Day, and Easter. However the most expensive cards are given on Mother's Day. Last year over 150,000,000 Mother's Day cards were given.

We, through teaching the Bible, are constantly endeavoring to instill respect for Fathers and Mothers, and thus to strengthen the home. Come worship with us!
