House OK's drinking age hike

AUSTIN (AP) — Acting under what the sponsor called "federal blackmail," the House voted Friday to raise the legal drinking age from 19 to 21.

A 126-6 vote sent the measure — which includes enhanced penalties for drunken drivers caught drinking behind the wheel — to Gov. Mark White.

There was no debate before the House agreed with the Senate amendments that turned a minor House bill into the measure that would raise the drinking age. If approved by White, the new drinking age would go into effect Sept. 1, 1986.

The enhanced DWI penalties would go into effect 90 days after White signs the bill.

Federal officials have threatened to cut highway funds to states with a drinking age lower than 21. That could mean $100 million to Texas over the next two years.

House Liquor Regulation Committee Chairman Billy Hall, sponsor of the amended bill, said he saw no choice but to raise the drinking age.

"I think a good number of people on the floor of this House consider this federal blackmail," he said after the vote. "We're just under the gun once more to meet federal edicts or lose highway funds."

"My attitude is I didn't come here last summer to raise taxes for highways to the tune of $440 million to turn around and lose $100 million back to the federal government by not raising the drinking age," added Hall, D-Laredo.

Hall said the change would make "second-class citizens" out of 19- and 20-year-olds who are allowed many other rights.

Rep. Harold Dutton, D-Houston and one of the six who voted no, said he did not fear the federal threat.

"I don't think they would really do that, I think it's offered as a threat," he said. "We'd like to see a balanced federal budget, but I don't see them listening to us." Hall said, "Hopefully, one of these days Congress will pass a law that says you can no longer blackmail states."

The increased drinking age and enhanced DWI penalties were added to a House bill by senators on Thursday.

As originally passed by the House on an uncontested calendar, the bill merely changed a few words in the Alcoholic Beverage Code. The House has yet to act on separate bills raising the drinking age and banning drivers from drinking alcoholic beverages.

Hall said the separate bill to raise the drinking age would be considered in the House next week. But even if it should fail, Friday's vote sends the governor a bill that would set 21 as the legal drinking age.

Sen. Bill Sarpalus, sponsor of the Senate-approved open container ban, has accused Rep. Kenneth Armbrister, D-Victoria, of killing that bill. Armbrister has said he would not let the measure out of his Liquor Regulation Committee subcommittee.

Under the amendment added to the House bill, jail time and fines for drunken driving would be increased if the driver was drinking behind the wheel.

"Maybe we can discourage a few people," said Sarpalus, D-Canyon.

The House Friday tentatively approved a bill requiring seat belts on new school buses, but added an amendment that would make the state pay for them.

Also Friday, the House gave final approval to an indigent health care package that would spend about $124 million in 1986-87 for improved care for the poor.

Corpus Christi Rep. Eddie Cavazos' bill would mandate seat belts on buses put into service after Jan. 1, 1986. He said about 10 percent of the state's school buses are replaced each year. Each seat belt would cost $16, according to Cavazos.

"The fact of the matter is there are accidents. There are injuries. There are fatalities," he told the House.

Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, said the state could require the seat belts, but it would be difficult to make students wear them.

"You're very optimistic about the ability of school bus drivers to enforce these rules of 35-40 kids," said Smith.

Rep. Talmadge Heflin, R-Houston, said 1977 federal school bus safety requirements are adequate to protect children. He said seat belts are not needed because children on school buses are not seated near doors which could fly open in a wreck.

"Seat belts will not do what we think they will do in school buses," he said.

The bill was approved 66-52 after the Fox amendment was added. The measure faces a final House vote next week.

Disaster drill

Desperate scene is only rehearsal

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The scenario would have fit an Irwin Allen disaster movie like "Towering Inferno." Victims lay on the ground, groaning, while smoke poured out of the three-story building behind them.

Plastic eyes popping out, fake intestines hanging from shirts, imitation blood running down their necks, faces, arms and legs — the inmates were enjoying the act.

Medical personnel and emergency crews scurried around the Sunset dormitory at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, treating "wounded" during a disaster drill Friday afternoon.

The 15 "wounded" inmates were evacuated through thick clouds of haze by inmates and prison officials in gas masks and oxygen tanks. The haze, caused by a smoke bomb set before the drill began shortly before 2 p.m., was used to simulate real effects of an airplane crash into the dorm.

Physician's assistants, officials and inmates worked methodically through the lines of wounded, administering triage and first aid.

Instructions were quick. "Did you splint this one yet?" "Wrap this in gauze." "He's losing a lot of blood. Change his priority."

"Are we dead?" one victim asked his medical crew.

Among the inmates assisting physician's assistants was Rex Cauble, the former owner of Cutter Bill's Western Wear, convicted under a federal racketeering statute for alleged involvement in a Texas drug ring.

Cauble, bright and cheerful, went about his job efficiently. At the beginning of the drill, he told some of the non-injured inmates walking to an evacuation area to hurry up. "Walk faster," he said and smiled. "You're not wounded."

Despite the serious purpose of the drill, inmates and officials enjoyed a few jokes about the wounds. "I knew you'd spill your guts someday," Camp Assistant Superintendent Jan Schmidt joked with Garry Gunter, whose moulage wound showed an exposed intestine.

Another victim referred to a second in a neck brace. "He can wait. He's a white-collar criminal." Many inmates in the minimum-security prison were convicted for white-collar crime.

Physician's assistant David Keyes, assisted by Rex Cauble, help "victim" James R. Adkins during a drill Friday. The Big Spring Federal Camp was joined by local agencies in setting up the disaster drill.

Benjamin Gallups sits patiently with his arm in a sling. Inmates from the prison camp served as "victims."

Tom Chavaha gets first aid on some serious looking mock injuries he received in Friday's drill.

Health Fair to offer free screenings

Clowns and refreshments will be interspersed among booths manned by health care professionals offering tips on health and screenings for possible medical problems as the fourth annual Health Fair opens today in the Big Spring Mall.

The day-long event begins at 9:30 a.m. with a "fitness test," according to Barbara Holdampf, chairman of the Health Fair. Registration for the test begins at 9 a.m. at the main entrance of the mall.

Participants will take a 1½ mile run/walk to measure aerobic (heart and lung) fitness and effort.

Holdampf said the main focus of the Health Fair is health care awareness and prevention. The health care screenings are intended to make participants aware of abnormal health findings and to educate persons on the "concept of wellness."

"The health care screenings are not intended to take the place of a physical examination. Persons with abnormal findings will be encouraged to seek further assessment and evaluation from their family physician or specialist of their choice," Holdampf said. Screenings are free of charge.

"The response by health care professionals to participate in the Health Fair has been overwhelming," Holdampf said. Participants may choose from 50 educational health care exhibits and screenings.

In 1984, more than 4,000 screenings were conducted during the Health Fair. Nineteen percent of the findings were abnormal, and participants were referred to physicians.

The Health Fair features screenings for persons of all ages. A special emphasis will be placed on children's screenings, and clowns will roam the screening areas to cheer up kids a little way.

Puppet shows will also be presented throughout the day. One of the shows will feature "Farrah the Frog" who will warn kids about "bad touching." Dave-O the clown, an attraction at last summer's Heart of the City Festival, will be on hand to visit kids.

Included in the children's screenings will be child identification, dental screening, diabetic screening, and speech and development screening.

A new addition is the "bicycle skills and safety program" sponsored by K mart. Steve Trezise, manager of K mart, said all participants' bikes will be checked by safety by skilled technicians.

Other screenings include glaucoma, conducted by local ophthalmologists, Dr. John R. Fish said. The colon-rectal cancer screening will be provided by the internal medicine department of Malone and Hogan Clinic. Instructions for doing the screening at home will be provided, as will copies of a special diet participants must eat before taking the screening.

Local dietician Mary Payne said dieticians will be using a computer to assist them in conducting the "personal height-weight screening." Participants for the hearing screening are encouraged to come in early because of long lines.

Laboratory technicians will conduct screenings for anemia and blood-typing. Educational exhibits will include information on Planned Parenthood, organ donation, crime prevention, cancer prevention, eye bank and poison prevention.

Professionals will be on hand to help participants understand what the test results mean and to educate participants on choices they must make should results be abnormal. The results of all screenings will be recorded on a special sheet contained in the health fair packet.

The fair is sponsored by the Big Spring Health Council, an organization of health-related institutions and community agencies, including the Division of Allied Health at Howard College, Malone-Hogan Hospital, Veterans Administration Medical Center, Malone and Hogan Clinic, Big Spring Herald, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring State Hospital and the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit.

Disaster drill sends area personnel scurrying

ing silently, or laying with eyes closed, such as Tom Chavana, who sported a garish fake eye separated from its socket.

Jerry McEntyre, shunted off his stretcher, winced as he lay on the parking lot gravel. "I think I was pronounced dead," he said, and closed his eyes.

McEntyre, however, lives. The mock tragedy left no casualties, concluded doctors at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, where victims were transported for surgery and further treatment.

Victims, they decided after the drill ended, little more than an hour after it began, were saved by fast, proper treatment at both the prison and the hospital.

Officials involved in the disaster drill at the prison camp and the hospital, including the Big Spring

Fire Department, said the drill went smoothly.

About 55 people at the prison camp, including about 25 inmate victims and assistants, participated in the drill.

Once the drill was over, the staff had an emergency inmate count. In a real emergency, the count would "make sure not only that nobody slipped away in the confusion but to make sure everyone is safe and no one is lying somewhere injured," Schmidt said.

Once victims entered the VA hospital lobby, they went through triage conducted by VA staff and were sent to surgery, X-ray and medical services units.

Late in the afternoon, both hospital and prison officials met to discuss needed improvements.

"Overall, it went very good," Schmidt said.

Prison officials, she said, need to work on communications within the camp: "Communications outside are fine." They also need to set up an official recorder, she said.

At the hospital critique, Chief Administrator of Medical Services Peter Pegan, the chairman of the hospital's disaster planning committee, said staff performance was good.

The semi-annual drills at the hospital are "quite beneficial. It keeps us alert to what we need to improve," Chief of Medicine Dr. John Barnett said.

Staff, Pegan said, need work on lifts of persons with possible spinal injuries and gurneys.

And the staff needs to decide whether to give extensive medical treatment in the first triage, or whether to wait until the person reaches the department, Barnett told staff representatives.

He praised the cooperation with the prison staff, who have an annual disaster drill. "It's been my experience that small communities usually don't work together."

Fire Chief Carl Dorton agreed the drill went well. "It was a learning process for us. We learned where we can set up our larger equipment (like the snorkle)."

Inmate victims said they enjoyed the drill. "We're all living. We're all better people for it," said William Geittmann after it was finished.

"We didn't end up in a box," said Jeffrey Beaulieu.

"I want to do it again next year," Geittmann said. "And the next year," said another.

"Not me," said one inmate. "I'm a shorty."

Oklahoma robbery survivor recalls murders in bank

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — A survivor of a bank robbery that left four people dead and three wounded testified Friday she was ordered to lie down in a back room, already crowded with victims, by a gunman threatening to kill her 14-month old daughter.

Bellen Robles said she and her husband followed the orders of the two men who were robbing the bank but were shot in the head anyway. She was the last witness called Friday in the trial of Robert Gray Johnson, 22, and Jay Wesley Neill, 19, before it was recessed for the weekend.

The two are charged with four counts of first-degree murder and three of shooting with intent to kill in the Dec. 14 robbery of a small branch bank in Geronimo.

The crime anguished residents of the small farming town 10 miles south of Lawton and extra security measures were ordered for the celebrated trial. Prosecutors are seeking the death penalty for the two.

Dr. Richard Boatsman, the medical examiner who autopsied the slaying victims, also testified that the three women killed were nearly decapitated with a knife while the fourth — a man — was shot twice in the head.

Mrs. Robles said she first went in the bank to pick up a check when she heard moans.

"I started walking toward the bathroom but didn't make it all the way. I seen the women laying down and a man on top of one and he looked like he was hitting her ... he was sort of squatting down on top of her," she said.

Mrs. Robles said she returned to her car and told her husband, Ruben, she thought the bank was being robbed. She said he did not believe her. The couple and their daughter went back in.

Eddie Zeller, who died in the bank, walked in behind them, she said, and while they waited for someone to help them, "the guy came out and said if we didn't want to die we'd go to the back and lay down."

"I was the last one to go in ... there wasn't much room for me to lay down so I kind of squatted and held the baby. He told me 'Lady, do you want your baby to die?' I said no. So I layed down," she said.

Although she followed his instructions, "we got shot," Mrs. Robles said.

Mrs. Robles, her husband and Marilyn Roach were wounded in a volley of gunfire in the small room. Zeller was shot to death. The Robles' daughter was not injured, although a man stood over the baby and tried to fire his gun at her, but it was empty, prosecutors said.

Mrs. Robles' testimony was stopped at 5 p.m., when Comanche County District Judge Jack Brock recessed the trial until Monday.

New funeral home to be issued permit soon

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Owners of a new funeral home being constructed at 24th and Goliad should be issued a building permit Monday, according to Dewey Byers, chief city inspector.

Byers inspected the plans Friday for the two-story, stucco-front building owned by Bill Myers and "Smitty" Smith, he said.

Myers was formerly employed by Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home, Smith, who recently sold the Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream franchise in Big Spring, also has worked for a funeral home in the past.

Construction costs for the Myers-Smith Funeral Home are estimated at $338,000, Byers said. The contractor for the 8,254-square foot building is J.W. Little Construction of Big Spring, he said.

The architect for the building is J. Stuart Todd of Dallas, who specializes in designing funeral homes and mortuaries, Byers said. Todd is a member of Mortuary Designs International and the American Institute of Architects.

The building should be completed within 150 days, Byers said. "It's going to be real pretty," Byers said. "They went first class on everything. Of course, these places have to be first class."

The funeral home will seat 198 people in the chapel and 60 in the family area. The visitation room also will have a fireplace, he said. "I really think they've got a really nice floor arrangement," Byers said.

The Art Deco gasoline station at 204 Johnson will house Cain Electric Co. when the current remodeling efforts are complete, Byers said.

Tom Rose was issued a building permit for the work in April. Construction costs are estimated at $1,000. Contractor for the work is Justice Construction.

Police Beat

Leather wallet stolen

A leather wallet containing $150 in cash was stolen at 8:30 a.m. Friday from inside McDonald's Restaurant, Natalie Norwood of 408 E. Third told police.

Her hand-made wallet was valued at $20.

Arnold Tonn of Fox's Pawn Shop at 911 W. Fourth told police someone stole a .25-caliber Raven semi-automatic pistol at 3 p.m. Friday. The pistol is valued at $55.

Weldon Austin Hambrick of 2202 Monticello told police he received harassing phone calls between 11 p.m. Thursday and 7:15 a.m. Friday.

Injured man may have been involved in Texas shootout

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Hattiesburg police were checking Friday on whether a man hospitalized with two wounds to the chest was involved in a shootout with a Texas judge.

Detective Lt. Jimmy Dale Williams disclosed Friday that officers were seeking a positive identification of a man who gave his name as John Evans, 42, after he was brought to Forrest General about 5:45 p.m. Monday.

Williams said the wounded man was admitted to the intensive care unit and since has been moved to a private room, in stable condition and under police guard.

Although he gave his name as Evans, he was tentatively identified by police Tuesday as Richard Marquez based on an insurance card officers confiscated.

"At this time, we still don't know (positively) who he is," Williams said. "We've sent photographs to San Antonio for identification."

Williams said San Antonio officers advised that a shooting had occurred at the home of Bexar County Judge Anthony Ferro as the judge watched television with his wife. He said the shooting occurred when a man rang the doorbell, with the judge firing four times and the intruder eight.

Ferro, who told San Antonio police he saw a woman in the bushes, had once rented office space to San Antonio attorney July Marquez, identified as one of three women who brought the wounded man to the hospital here.

Williams said the possible connection to the San Antonio shootout came to light as a result of teletype messages sent from Hattiesburg describing the wounded man and the situation.

The officer said her law license was suspended by the Texas State Bar in February after an appeals court upheld a perjury conviction in a hit-and-run traffic case in 1983.

Ms. Marquez was lodged in the Regional Jail charged with obstruction of justice and two counts of assault on a police officer. Justice Court Judge Ronald Doleac set bond at $100,000 on each count.

The shooting victim "was in pretty bad shape and couldn't tell us a whole lot," Williams said. "We talked to the (woman) who actually checked him in. Her name was Sheila Herring of Hattiesburg."

Williams said Ms. Herring told officers the man was her cousin whom she had not seen in several years, and he had arrived at her house about 4:30 a.m.

"It was determined by District Attorney Glenn White to charge July Marquez and (her son) Richard Marquez with obstruction of justice," he said.

Ms. Marquez, 42, was taken into custody at the hospital and her 25-year-old son was picked up in a nearby parking lot in a car rented in San Antonio.

Beach Boys concert beached

GALVESTON (AP) — A Beach Boys concert in this island resort town has been cancelled because officials say there is not enough room to accommodate a huge crowd during the busy tourist season.

City officials wanted to postpone the concert, planned for Aug. 10-11, until the fall, but the group's agent said there were no open dates the rest of the year.

"Everybody agreed they'd like to have the Beach Boys, but not during the (tourist) season," John Dellanera, executive director of the city's Park Board, said Thursday.

Dellanera said there was not enough room on the beach at R.A. Appfel Park to accommodate the extra people.

"You can only get 5,000 cars in Appfel Park," said Dellanera, adding that a crowd of at least 35,000 would be needed to break even.

City officials suggested having the concert at Scholes Field Airport, but the group's agent insisted the concert would have to be on the beach, Dellanera said.

Typists vye for 'fastest' title

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two hundred-sixty of the fastest fingers in North America took to the keys Friday in a test of agility, nerves and spelling.

Amid a muted hum of electronic chattering, beeps and brrrs, 25 women and one man, all winners of regional typing competitions, stared intently at a passage that many agreed was "deliberately designed to slow you up."

Only the blur of hands on keyboards broke the stillness of the moment. No one coughed. The typists blinked less frequently than they struck a wrong key.

The Eighth Annual World's Fastest Typist Contest ended five minutes and, for most of the contestants, almost 600 words later. Some thought their word counts might be a bit low because of the humidity.

"They don't call this the Olympics of the keyboard for nothing," said Xerox Marketing Vice President Jere Rowland as he rang a bell to signal the end of the test period.

While the closing bell brought sighs of relief, the opening bell made even the most experienced typists jump.

The winner, Linda Williams, a secretary for Chevron in San Francisco, was so nervous that at the bottom of the official contest sheet she put her home address in the space that called for her company's address.

Brushfire cuts power

MIAMI — A brushfire in the Everglades overheated a power line and cut power to 4.5 million South Florida residents at noon Friday, snarling traffic, closing businesses and stranding elevator riders.

Electricity was gradually restored in Dade, Broward, Palm Beach and Monroe counties by midafternoon, and no serious problems were reported, officials said.

The fire, which also temporarily blocked traffic on U.S. 27 near Andytown, heated up a nearby 500 kilovolt transmission line, according to Florida Power & Light Co. spokeswoman Teresa Gomez.

Reagan denies buy

WASHINGTON — President Reagan complained Friday about the "ceaseless propaganda" concerning Pentagon overpayments for spare parts, and said the military "never bought" a hammer costing more than $400 — as the Navy acknowledged it purchased in 1982.

Departing from his prepared speech text, Reagan told an audience that his administration is "talking about how to cure some great misconceptions that are the result of a drumbeat of ceaseless propaganda that's been prevalent in the land with regard to national defense.

Insulin caused comas

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — A physician's testimony crucial to the state's case was corroborated Friday by another medical expert who said that Martha "Sunny" von Bulow's two comas were caused by insulin injections.

The testimony was heard after the judge in Claus von Bulow's attempted murder retrial refused a defense request to throw out the first expert's opinion.

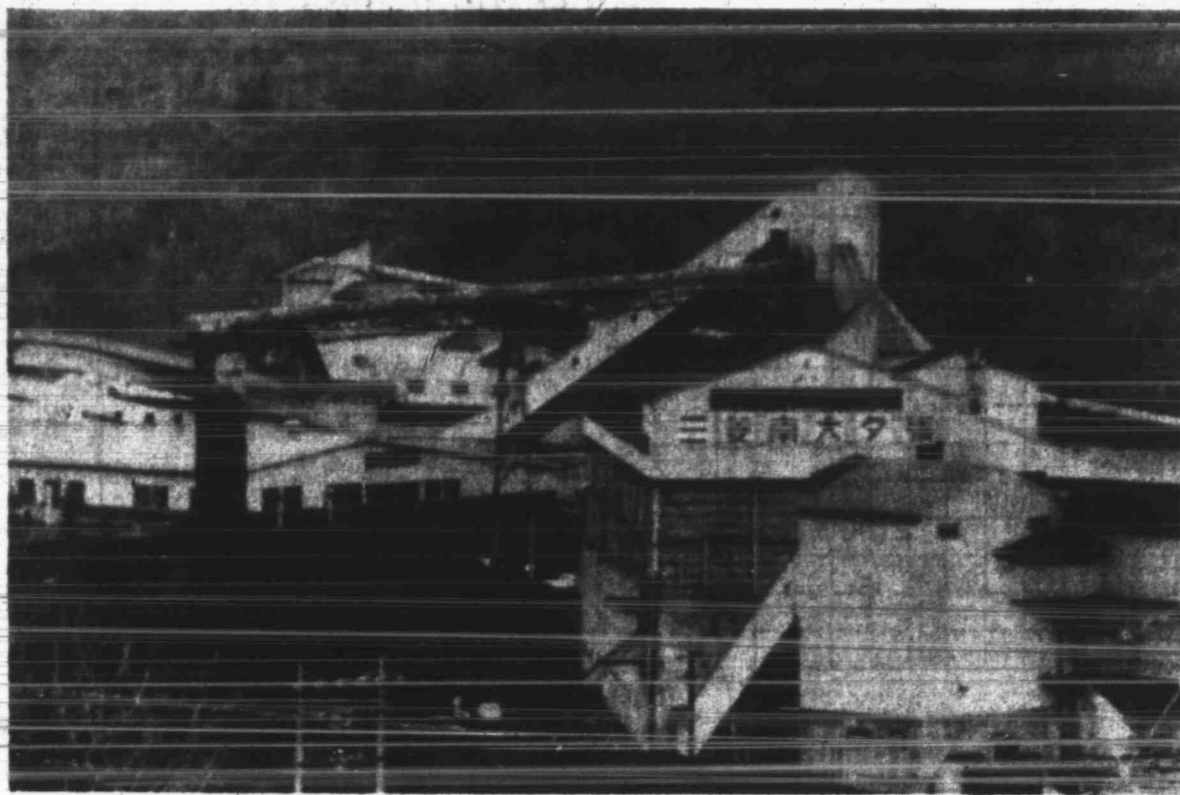

The state's presentation, which is expected to conclude Tuesday, depends heavily on persuading the jury that Mrs. von Bulow received insulin injections, which would severely aggravate her low blood-sugar condition.

Love triangle uncovered

RAYWOOD, Texas — The junior high school principal in this rural farming community killed the football coach because he was jealous that the coach was planning to marry the school secretary, authorities say.

Hurley Fontenot, principal at Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High, apparently was jealous and hurt that Laura Nugent jilted him for Coach Billy Mac Fleming, said Liberty County Sheriff E.W. "Sonny" Applebe.

"All our evidence shows it was a love triangle," Applebe said.

A general view shows Mitsubishi Minami Oh Yubari Mine in Yubari, near Sapporo, on Japan's northernmost main island of Hokkaido, where an underground gas explosion killed dozens of miners.

Mine explosion

Blast traps miners in northern Japan

TOKYO (AP) — An coal mine explosion a half-mile underground killed at least 36 miners in northern Japan and trapped 29, police said Saturday. There was no sign of life from those still in the shaft.

Rescuers struggled to reach miners trapped by the Friday blast, and mine operators tried to blow air into the tunnels, said Shin Kamiya, manager of Mitsubishi Coal Mining Co.'s Minami Oh Yubari mine on the island of Hokkaido.

Yubari mine manager Shin Kamiya said 336 miners were in the colliery at the time of the explosion, but most got out minutes after the explosion.

Hopes for the missing miners faded as searchers found more bodies.

The explosion blew mine cars from their tracks and hurled miners to their deaths against mine walls.

It was the second disaster to befall a major Japanese coal mine in three weeks and occurred at the Mitsubishi Mining Co.'s colliery in Yubari, 560 miles north of Tokyo.

On April 25, a gas explosion killed 11 miners and injured four in a coal mine on the island of Takashima in southwestern Japan. That mine also belonged to Mitsubishi Coal Mining.

Yubari police spokesman Takeshi Hashiba said 36 miners were confirmed dead in the Friday explosion and 22 were injured, seven seriously.

Akira Suzuki, an official of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry's Mine Security Management Bureau in Sapporo, Hokkaido's capital, told The Associated Press the blast was centered near two diagonal shafts about 2,640 feet below sea level.

He quoted the ministry's senior mining official Tatsuo Takahashi as saying that methane gas, which was detected in the mine, may have set off the explosion. A 70-member rescue team, carrying oxygen masks and food, was searching for the missing miners about 2 1/2 miles from the closest entrance.

But hours later, no contact had been established. Rescue operations initially were delayed for more than two hours when a machine which sends fresh air into the shafts broke down.

The nature and cause of the explosion were being investigated. The government has classified the Minami Oh Yubari Mine as being one of Japan's most dangerous in terms of potential gas leakage.

Suzuki quoted a ministry senior mining official, Tatsuo Takahashi, as telling a news conference at the scene that a leakage of methane gas was one possibility.

"There was a dull, boom-like sound, immediately followed by a power failure. After an abrupt change in air pressure, the air was filled with coal dust," the Japan Broadcasting Corp. quoted an unidentified injured miner as saying.

Japan's Kyodo News Service said searchers were hampered by fallen debris. The mine was the scene of another gas explosion accident in 1979, when 15 miners were killed.

Mitsutama Chiba, an official of the government's Sapporo Coal Mine Security Management Bureau, said miners are required to carry emergency gas masks that would protect them from poisonous carbon monoxide for about 15 minutes.

Chiba said oxygen masks and tanks are required to be stored in specific areas, but did not know if they were available near the site of explosion.

Fire destroys stadium

BRADFORD, England — Fire destroyed part of a deserted soccer stadium in the southwest England town of Torquay early Friday, hours before an inquest opened into a soccer stadium fire that killed 52 people in the northern city of Bradford.

No injuries were reported. Friday's blaze wrecked a third of the 65-year-old wooden grandstand at Torquay United's stadium. Officials said it likely would have been replaced soon because it broke strict new fire safety rules instituted by the government after the Bradford disaster.

"We are looking at the electrical apparatus within the building as a possible cause," said Torquay police superintendent Brian McCreery.

2 killed in fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Moslem and Christian battled with rocket and artillery fire along the capital's dividing line Friday night. Scores of stray rounds hit residential areas, driving people into basements and bomb shelters.

Police said at least two people were killed and 24 were wounded in the barrages that continued into the night.

A car bomb exploded outside a Druse militia office in west Beirut on Friday, wounding eight civilians, police and witnesses reported. No organization claimed responsibility.

The flare-up and the bombing coincided with appeals by Lebanese politicians for Syrian military intervention to halt 20 days of sectarian bloodletting along the Green Line that separates Christian and Moslem sections of Beirut.

The blast occurred about 50 yards from an eight-story building housing the offices of the Progressive Socialist Party, the name for Druse leader Walid Jumblatt's militia, on crowded Museitbeh Street.

Sinn Fein wins seats

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Sinn Fein, the IRA's legal political wing, won Belfast's Catholic stronghold and gained elsewhere, winning more than 10 percent of the province's town council seats, according to complete election returns Friday.

With Sinn Fein represented on 17 of the British province's 26 town councils, analysts see stormy times ahead for local politics.

The Sinn Fein's publicity director, Danny Morrison, claimed his party had won "a popular mandate" for the outlawed Irish Republican Army's armed struggle against British rule.

Northern Ireland's two main Protestant parties, who together captured 59.7 percent of the seats in Wednesday's elections, announced a pact to ostracize "these godfathers of gunmen."

3 hospitalized in apparent Legionnaires' outbreak

DETROIT (AP) — At least three people were hospitalized in critical condition Friday and 27 more were sick in an apparent outbreak of Legionnaires' disease, but authorities said they do not expect any new cases.

"There's no cause for alarm," said Dr. Basil Williams, an infectious disease specialist. "The incubation period for the bacterial pneumonia disease is five to about 14 days and that's passed."

A 76-year-old Detroit man is the only victim confirmed to have the disease, said Dr. Donald Lawrence, Wayne County medical director.

Green Moore was in very critical condition Friday in Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, Williams said. "He's continuing to deteriorate."

The other people who became ill were among 350 people at a Pentecostal Temple Church banquet April 27 at the Hilton Airport Inn in suburban Romulus, Lawrence said.

Moore has been hospitalized since May 7 — a week after the banquet, Williams said.

State Department of Health investigators have since scoured the hotel's air conditioning system, swimming pool and whirlpool, and are analyzing water samples, Lawrence said.

The pools and air conditioning system were disinfected after samples were taken, he said.

Legionnaires' disease is spread by water droplets in the air, Williams said.

No cases of the disease were reported among those who visited the hotel before or since the church banquet, said Lawrence.

"There doesn't appear to be anything to make us believe the organism still survives," he said. "We see no reason to close the hotel down."

Results of blood tests on the other apparent victims were expected in about a week, Lawrence said.

"There is no evidence that the disease is transmitted person-to-person, so there is no danger of it spreading to the general public," Lawrence said.

"However, we are urging those people who attended the banquet to contact us or their physicians because they could have contracted it."

An outbreak of Legionnaires' disease at a hospital in Stoke-on-Trent, England, this month has killed 36 people.

The disease earned its name when it infected 180 people and killed 34 following an American Legion convention in Philadelphia in 1976. It is easily treated by antibiotics if caught early, experts said.

Lawrence said he was unaware of any previous large-scale outbreaks in Michigan. However, across the Detroit River in Windsor, Ontario, Canada, five cases were reported last November of a mild strain of the disease called Legionella. One of the five died.

Aid offered to Philadelphia homeless

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Federal officials Friday offered 49 temporary homes, rent subsidies for 60 displaced families and $1 million to help rebuild a neighborhood destroyed during a battle between police and a radical cult.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel Pierce Jr., sent to tour the devastation by President Reagan, announced the emergency aid at a news conference.

"The president is deeply saddened by what occurred, and he asked me to do everything I possibly can to help remedy this situation," Pierce said.

A police helicopter dropped a satellite bomb on the MOVE stronghold Monday. At least 11 members of the cult, including four children, died in the resultant fire that burned 61 homes and left 270 homeless.

Mayor W. Wilson Goode estimated it would take $8 million to rebuild and refurbish the west Philadelphia neighborhood. Work could start by July 1 if there are no legal obstacles, he said.

"We are doing everything we can as quickly as we humanly can to get people from temporary shelters into temporary homes,"

Goode said. Pierce said 37 HUD properties, most of them in west Philadelphia, and 12 city-owned homes at scattered sites can be used as temporary homes. Refugees are now staying with friends, neighbors or at a Temple University dormitory.

In addition, HUD will provide 60 vouchers that can be used like money by families to rent temporary homes.

The $1 million grant comes from discretionary funds and is earmarked for the long-term rebuilding project. The remainder will come from city, state and private sources, Pierce said.

Pierce and Goode joined Pennsylvania's two Republican U.S. Senators, John Heinz and Arlen Specter, on a 15-minute walking tour in a light rain to inspect the ruined neighborhood. Fifty-three houses were destroyed and eight others damaged in a six-hour inferno.

They walked past the ruins of the bunkered MOVE stronghold, where police are picking through the rubble to see if there are more bodies or weapons.

"It's a war area. It's just desolate," said Specter. "Once you look at it, your heart has to go out to the people who have been rendered homeless."

He refused to comment on police tactics, which have been criticized by some. "We need to help the people who have been displaced. This is not the time to talk about blame and recrimination."

Meanwhile, police kept watch on two other MOVE homes in the city.

Streamline your home for today's lifestyle

CARDIN — Model displays a moroccan crepe printed long evening dress in black and white. It is part of the 1985 summer haute couture collection by Paris couturier Pierre Cardin.

If you've ever rushed home from work to be confronted by a messy house that you haven't got the time or energy to clean, you may need to do something streamlining. Or if you have the time to do housework but prefer to use it for hobbies, volunteer work or other activities, streamlining may help you, too.

Streamlining is simply a way to cut down on those household maintenance chores that can take up so much of our time. Here are some techniques for creating an easy-care home:

- Simplify. Less furniture, fewer accessories and simpler window treatments mean fewer household chores. Two or three major objects of interest will produce the same personalizing effect as cluttered collections and they require less dusting.

- Decorate with practicality in mind. Pick upholstery fabrics which show dirt the least. Choose big plants that don't need watering more than once a week rather than a collection of thirsty ones.

- Use a home-care tool chest. Keep rags, brushes and cleaning solvents in a portable container to take with you when making housework rounds. Keep the tool chest simple too, discarding inefficient cleaning tools.

- Throw away anything that's not needed or unused. Sort through paperwork to organize your documents, bills, or recipes, discarding unimportant items as you go. If you have clothes hanging in your closet that you haven't worn in a year, chances are you don't need them. Give them to a charity. Also clear out the medicine cabinet. Old prescriptions are dangerous, old vitamins are useless and old cosmetics may be out of style.

SIMPLIFYING MAKES HOUSEWORK EASIER

You can't make housework go away, but you can simplify your home care routine so it saves time, energy and effort.

Start your "work simplification" by eliminating unnecessary details and removing clutter. That means throwing or giving away household items that are not used. Then combine or streamline motions and activities and rearrange the sequence in which you perform jobs to reduce movement and exertion. For easy access, arrange all equipment at its point of first use. For example, store all baking items such as mixing bowls, mixer and dry ingredients, within a small radius. Developing an assembly line approach to your tasks also will allow you to do more in less time.

Establish correct work heights for your household tasks. Proper heights eliminate excessive reaching, bending and stooping. The proper counter height for standing work should be two inches below the bent elbow.

Let your body work for you, not against you, as you do household tasks. Reduce exertion by using motions that are swinging, smooth and rhythmic rather than jerking. Use both hands when possible. Keep feet a shoulder-width apart with one foot slightly in front of the other to provide better stability.

When sitting, standing, walking or climbing stairs, stay as erect as possible. When you lift, push or pull a heavy object, bend your knees, not your back. And never twist while lifting. Instead, pick up the item, hold it close to your body and then pivot.

And try working to music — pleasant surroundings will help reduce fatigue and make your chores go faster.

Pecan nut casebearer prediction

Pecan growers in the Howard County area should be aware that pecan nut casebearers are present in the county and can destroy a large part of the crop.

These small worms do most of their damage during late May and early June as the first generation feeds on the small nutlets causing them to fall from the tree. This year the predicted date for this damage to start occurring is May 27.

This date has been arrived at by using a model developed by entomologists at Texas A&M University which predicts the date when the damaging first generation of pecan nut casebearer will begin to enter nuts in an area. The model works on the accumulated heat during the year.

Since insects are cold blooded animals, the time required for them to develop cannot be measured in hours, days and years as it can be in warm blooded animals. Instead, development in the insects is governed by accumulated heat units. The more heat that is available, the faster the biochemical reactions that are necessary for insect growth and development occur.

Using this basic idea, data from research and the temperature at a location we can accurately predict the date damage will start occurring.

On the predicted date, pecan growers should check the nutlet clusters of their trees for pecan nut casebearer eggs. These small white eggs are laid singly on clusters. Several nutlet clusters should be examined. If one or more eggs are found per 100 nutlet clusters, the trees should be sprayed with a recommended insecticide such as Sevin, Malathion or Zolone. A second spray application should be made 7 to 10 days after the first one.

A second generation of pecan nut casebearer will occur about 42 days after the first generation. For Howard County this will be around July 9-10. Pecan growers should recheck nuts at that time for pecan nut casebearer eggs. If 2 or more eggs per 100 clusters are found at that time, spraying again is recommended.

Jones tells 'The Snow Goose'

The Modern Woman's Forum met in the home of Adele Tibbs May 10 for a luncheon, show and tell, and a story, "The Snow Goose."

Members displayed and described various articles such as a 100-year-old clock, picture and story of the man a member married, the Salt Lake Commune dated 1906, a poem, a hand-made tablecloth, antique glasses, a painting of a home in Virginia and a bullet mold.

Jeanette Jones told a story of "The Snow Goose" by Paul Gallico. The book is about a hunchback named Raider who lived in an abandoned lighthouse. It was published after the Battle of Dunkirk. Raider was a lonely man with a twisted body who loved mankind.

He mastered his deformity and built a bird sanctuary. In his 16 foot boat, he brought in injured birds. One day, a girl named Fritha brought a large white bird and asked if Raider could heal its broken leg and wing. A snow goose from Canada, it had been lost in a storm and shot by a hunter.

Raider splinted, cared for and healed the snow goose. The lost girl stayed with Raider, cooked for him and listened to his legends of birds in his sanctuary. One morning, the snow goose began to fly. Raider told the girl that it was flying back to its home.

In 1970 guns shelled England and the birds didn't come back to the sanctuary. In May a large white bird fell into the pen to be fed. The snow goose had chosen her home.

As the English were loading boats to rescue the men at Dunkirk, Raider loaded his boat, too, and helped bring the soldiers back. Fritha stayed behind to take care of the birds. The big white bird flew over the boats as the soldiers were being rescued. A man shot Raider and caused a boat to miss a mine. Three mines were shot after the goose flew over them.

Fritha went back to feed the birds and found a picture of herself holding a large white bird which Raider had painted. She took the painting and went down to the seashore.

Raider could be compared to Jesus who was persecuted by many and gave his life to save others.

The next meeting will be in September.

Duane Sanders and his wife Sherry stand inside the showroom at Crossroads Carpet.

Crossroads Carpet owners are professional installers

Crossroad Carpet at 907 Johnson is a family affair. The new business is owned by Duane Sanders, his wife Sherry and Sherry's brother, Rocky Wooley. Both Sanders and Wooley have been carpet installers for several years.

Sanders said he has installed carpet in Big Spring for nine years, working for every carpet outlet in the city. Wooley was a union installer in Houston for 14 years before moving back to Big Spring.

Wooley specializes in commercial jobs and Sanders specializes in residential jobs.

Sanders decided to open his own carpet outlet at the request of friends who encouraged him. The store has been opened for one month, and Sanders said business has been "good."

Sanders said another reason he decided to open his own outlet was because of slow sales in the carpet industry.

"We depended on others to sell. We were starving," he said with a laugh.

They decided to "make a big move" and go into business for themselves. Sander's wife added that the 33-year-old Wooley and the 34-year-old Sanders "wanted to own their own store while they were younger."

Sanders and Wooley do all the installation for sales through the local store. Sander's wife handles sales through the store.

Sanders admitted that the sluggish local economy worried him as he decided to open a store, but, "People here will have to maintain their houses."

And, "We're selling service," including choice of carpet, installation and a guarantee. "We will take care of the customer," he said.

Crossroads Carpet has "all the major brands" of carpet available to choose from. "I've counted more than 1,000 samples," Sanders said, "and we've got two more lines of carpet coming."

The outlet also has choices of "four complete lines of vinyl, 200 samples of kitchen carpet," and tile, wood flooring, formica and astroturf, as well as commercial carpet.

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Chamber names new director

Chamber of Commerce directors elected Troy Fraser to the board this week to replace John Bingham.

Bingham, administrator of Malone-Hogan Hospital, has been transferred from Big Spring by the Hospital Corporation of America.

Fraser will also serve as chairman of the Industrial Development Committee, according to LeRoy Tillery, executive director of the Chamber.

Chamber directors this week heard reports from the Community Assessment program. Chris Christopher, head of the economic development council, said the first general meeting of the development council will be at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Johnny Rutherford told Chamber directors that the city has agreed to cite 286 vehicles which have been abandoned or left on the roadside. The campaign to remove the vehicles is part of the C.L.E.A.N. program.

It was announced that the Jimmy Moorehead residence at 704 Highland is the residential beauty spot of the month. Lucille's located at 10th and Scurry is the commercial beauty spot.

Gibbs named senior associate

James G. Gibbs Jr. has been named senior associate with Wilson and Co. in Albuquerque, N.M.

Gibbs is a former Big Spring resident. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gibbs of 902 W. 17th.

Gibbs began working for Wilson and Co. in Salina, Calif., in 1974. He joined the Albuquerque office in 1978 and he takes care of water and wastewater projects for the office, including the $18 million South Valley Sewer work under construction in Albuquerque.

He has also spearheaded wastewater treatment facilities for Roswell and Tucumcari, and a rural water distribution system for a 3,000-square-mile area in South Dakota.

Gibbs is a graduate of Texas

Tech University with a BS in Civil Engineering and is a Registered Professional Engineer in New Mexico and Texas.

He and his wife, Sheila, have three children.

New restaurant association formed

A new restaurant association has been formed in Big Spring, according to Mike Connelly, secretary.

Other officers are Janice Jordan, president; Sean Thornton, vice president; and Maureen Everett, treasurer.

"We created the restaurant association to basically keep us informed on what is going on within the city," Connelly said. "The association is based on cooperation rather than competition."

Declines may spur construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further declines in mortgage rates will spur construction and sales in coming months with the increased activity in the building industry likely to filter through to the rest of the economy, economists say.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that new housing was constructed at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.91 million units last month as a continued surge in apartment building offset a slight decline in single-family construction, it said.

The 1.6 percent April increase followed a much larger 14.3 percent gain in March. Both increases helped to push construction activity to its highest level since April 1984.

Since the spring of last year, housing activity dropped by about 20 percent as rising mortgage rates dampened homebuyers' enthusiasm. But mortgage rates have dropped considerably from their peaks last July of 15.2 percent for fixed-rate loans.

Two United Airlines ticket-holders wait at a counter Friday at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport as employees try to re-book them on another airline.

On strike American ready for trade in face of strike

FORT WORTH (AP) — The pilots' strike against United Airlines has generated additional passenger demand, prompting competitor American Airlines to begin increasing staffing and installing extra equipment to deal with the crunch, officials said.

United pilots began picketing early Friday after contract talks stalled over the company's demand to pay lower salaries to beginning pilots, said a union spokesman.

In response, American has accelerated its training, cancelled vacations, increased part-time hours and extended work shifts to add the equivalent of 1,500 reservations personnel and 600 airport agents to deal with anticipated demand.

An American spokesman said that the airline has installed an additional 200 computer terminals and 250 extra toll-free "800" telephone numbers to help process callers and passengers. American's reservations offices, ticket counters and airport facilities will be fully staffed as long as the strike lasts, the company spokesman said.

Occasional extra flights may be added to meet exceptional passenger demand, the spokesman said.

A strike deadline for the 5,300 pilots who work for United, the nation's largest airline, passed at midnight Thursday, officials said.

"We have a strike," Dave Jewell, a spokesman in Chicago for the Air Line Pilots Association, said.

United pilots still wearing their uniforms began picketing after 9 p.m. PDT in Seattle, where one 9:25 p.m. flight was canceled.

Bills to change wage rate

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

On March 28, 1985, bills were introduced in the Senate and House which would create a summer youth differential to the minimum wage. The purpose of the legislation is to create as many as 400,000 new summer jobs for our country's teenagers. Youth unemployment has risen to historic highs and now stands at almost 20 percent (more than 40 percent for black youths.) The incentive to employers is a wage rate roughly 25 percent below the minimum wage of $3.35 per hour for newly-hired teenagers.

The Senate bill (SB 797) and the House bill (HR1811) would permit the youth minimum wage to be $2.50 for newly hired youths ages 16-19 for a period of May 1 to Sept. 30. Employers would be prohibited from using the youth differential to hire youth instead of existing employees, or from lowering the wages of any currently employed youth. The bills contain a "sunset" provision requiring Congress to re-evaluate it after three years.

Contact your senator and congressman today to voice your opinions about these bills. The final vote will be taken in both Houses before the end of this month. Leading opponent of these bills is the AFL-CIO.

farmsteads and ranches also will be registered. To qualify, these organizations or their buildings must be 100 years old by 1986, and must have been founded by German speaking immigrants.

Three additional categories of German-Texas heritage will register cemeteries (public, church and private), Fachwerk construction and museums and historical societies.

A special section of the "Registry" will list all markers, monuments and statues pertaining to German-Texas heritage, giving the full text of the market and the exact location.

The public is invited to submit entries in all nine categories as soon as possible, giving as much information as possible including exact location and the name and address of the owner, pastor or director. Send entries to: GTHS Registry, Box 35, Warda, Texas, 78960.

Founded in 1978, the German-Texas Heritage Society is a non-profit organization devoted to building pride in the heritage of German Texans through historical research and cultural preservation. The Society, which numbers around 1,000 members, is headquartered at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

Texas children will get hands-on exposure to the Sesquicentennial when they join the 1986 Texas Reading Club program which will have as its theme "Celebrate Texas." The chosen theme should further Texans' awareness of their history. Sponsored by the Texas State Library System, our local library will participate with a Reading Club allowing children from ages 6-10 to be involved with a complete, focused program which will include posters, bookmarks, reading logs, certificates and other materials in keeping with the Sesquicentennial theme. Call Judith Gray, librarian, for more information.

"Awesome Adventures" is the theme this year which starts June 3. Over 400 youngsters are expected to participate in the program that ends July 18. Several exciting programs are planned in addition to the reading material provided. Among those will be a talk by Perry McMillen about sky diving, and Glynna Mouton about scuba diving.

One of the largest ethnic immigrant groups in Texas is the German-Texas Heritage Society, which created a "Registry of German-Texas Heritage." Among the categories to be included are the old businesses founded by German-speaking immigrants before 1887 which are still in existence. To qualify, the business need not be under the original owner. And if only the building remains, that alone may be registered.

Stores, banks, newspapers, mills and other businesses are invited to submit a full resume of their history — including pictures, pamphlets, newspaper clippings, old advertising and other related information.

Churches and their buildings, organizations such as singing societies and shooting clubs, schools, and

There has been some interest shown in establishing a League of Women Voters in Big Spring. The purpose of the League is to serve as a non-partisan, political organization that encourages the informed and active participation of citizens in government and influences public policy through education and advocacy. The League is a force in public policy because it is based on sound, informed work at the grass-roots level.

Founded in 1920 at the culmination of the 72 year struggle to gain women's suffrage, the League took as its first charge helping to educate 20 million women on how to exercise their new political rights and responsibilities. Although programs and priorities have changed over the years, the League has remained true to its basic purposes:

- To establish positions on public policy issues through member agreement;
- To take concerted actions that secure public policies consistent with League positions;
- To enhance citizen participation in federal, state and local government decisions, and;
- To increase citizen participation in the election process.

To determine the degree of interest in Big Spring, we are asking those interested to call 263-1451 and register your opinion about the need for this organization in Big Spring and give names of those who might be interested in helping in its establishment.

Tom Peters on Excellence

Showing respect

By TOM PETERS

The British coal miners recently went back to work after their year-long strike. Newsweek reported, "The miners filed into the pit baths to change for work. They found the floor sprinkled with paint chips from the peeling walls. There was no hot water, and the pipes, after a year's neglect, needed repair. To see this is an insult," said Lynn Roberts, an official of the local. "It's degrading. The strike had ended only that morning, so there had been no time to clean up. But the situation rankled. 'It's like Belfast,' said Mickey Walker. 'Down here we're the Catholics.'"

The strike was rancorous, the worst this century. Now that it's over, the objective for both sides should be to get on with the job at hand, to seek both the efficiencies and increased cooperation necessary if the coal industry is to survive. One way not to ensure the industry's survival is to insult the miners. Yet by allowing the miners to return to filthy conditions, British coal management did exactly that.

There are converse (albeit rare) examples of marks of respect for one's people. In an earlier column, I mentioned issuing all people calling cards and calling them "associates" rather than "workers." Another example: Four years ago, major league baseball players went out on strike. One team, the Baltimore Orioles, went beyond its contractual obligations and bought plane tickets for its players from the site of the last game (Seattle) back to Baltimore or to their homes. The other 25 teams demurred. It comes as no surprise that the Orioles are baseball's top team over the past 25 years, widely known for the "family feeling."

The Orioles' general manager explained the logic behind the ticket purchase. He said the strike would eventually end. The 25 players must be management's allies, not adversaries, over the long haul. So why, he asked, insult them?

The general manager's words make sense. Yet sometimes it seems that managers have an uncanny ability to seize a large defeat from the jaws of a small one. At a seminar some time ago, the owner of a 600-person forest products wholesaling company told me a story. He'd lived through a tough strike, lasting 90 days. During that time, there had been an incident of arson, causing a few thousands of dollars of damage. When the strike was over, he instituted a draconian inspection procedure; he essentially went through his employees' pockets looking for matches to ensure that no such an incident ever happened again.

I was appalled. I believe that arsonists should be tracked down and prosecuted. At the same time, I am certain that the act of arson meant only that in a barrel of 600 apples, one or two (at the most) were rotten. The owner, however, had made the reverse assumption. He had treated the other 99 percent of his people as if they, too, were criminals. The new, post-strike regime thus began with a slap in the face to 598 or 599 people who, while unhappy to begin with, were hardly arsonists. A disaster was thereby turned into a rout. What troubled me most was his attitude as he told me the story. It was clearly, "What else was I to do?"

Another mark of disrespect is an activity that seems wholly out of context with the surrounding conditions. A recent Business Week cover story reported on U.S. Steel. It remains a bleeding company: Tens of thousands of people have been permanently laid off; whole towns have been battened down, and there's little relief in sight. Yet, according to the article, "(O)n the 61st floor in Pittsburgh, uniformed stewards deliver coffee on silver trays to executive suites."

My own opinion is that there's no justification for already highly-paid executives to be served coffee by uniformed stewards with silver platters — at any time. In this case especially, though, the silver platters and the uniformed stewards do more than personally offend me; they symbolize a horrible and unjustified insult to communities that have been put out of business permanently.

In the meantime, America's only two sizeable, profitable steel companies — Nucor in Charlotte, N.C., and Worthington Industries in Columbus, Ohio — have survived, primarily because of an extraordinary degree of cost consciousness. Staffs are lean; headquarters are bare-boned, spartan. Coffee for top management comes in a styrofoam cup — and management pays a quarter for it.

As always, in a simple message there's a trap. You can't treat people like dirt and make up for it by providing a single can of paint, removing executive parking spots or abandoning the practice of serving coffee on silver platters. On the other hand, if you're trying your best, eliminating these small marks of disrespect can be vitally important to your people's morale, and, therefore, to their — and your company's — performance.

Wearing the Texas Rangers uniform for the first time, newly appointed manager BOBBY VALENTINE checks his lineup card for Friday night's game against the Chicago White Sox.

Valentine ready for Ranger turnaround

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — To Bobby Valentine, the suspense surrounding Doug Rader's leadership of the Texas Rangers is over and he can get on with the job of whipping the major leagues' cellar-dwelling team into shape as the youngest manager.

The Rangers, in an anticipated managerial shuffle, fired Rader and took the 35-year-old New York Mets third base coach the 13th heir to the Texas hot spot. The team released a statement Thursday night from its headquarters after the New York Yankees handed Texas its sixth straight loss, 6-5.

Valentine was in Houston, where the Mets fell to the Astros 1-0.

"It's official; I got the phone call from Tom (Grieve, Texas vice president and general manager) 12 minutes after 10 o'clock," said Valentine, who will take over tonight when the Rangers open a three-game series with the White Sox in Chicago.

"He informed me that it would be announced immediately so I guess I can stop walking around like I'm pregnant," Valentine said. "The baby has been delivered. Now I can just get excited."

Valentine scheduled a press conference at 3:30 p.m. today at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

Rangers vice president Tom Grieve, in Chicago, said the agreement had been ironed out earlier in the day and that the official announcement awaited formal notification to Rader, whose team arrived from New York Thursday evening.

"I feel that the Rangers are extremely fortunate to obtain the services of Bobby Valentine to manage our ballclub," said Grieve. "Although he will be the youngest manager in the major leagues, he brings a wealth of baseball knowledge to our organization."

"He has gained valuable experience during the past three years as a key member of the New York Mets coaching staff," Grieve said. "Bobby's goal has always been to become a major league manager, and the Rangers are proud that he has accepted our offer to start his managerial career with us."

The Rangers' statement released from team headquarters said Valentine signed a contract that extends to the 1986 season and includes an option for 1987.

"The move was made at this time in an attempt to improve the performance of the ballclub, which we believe to be much better than its current record," club president Michael H. Stone said in the statement.

Valentine, in a Houston news conference, said he thanked the Rangers for "going out on a limb and hiring a guy who has never managed before."

"Baseball is a people business," said Valentine, former Mets' third base coach. "People think it's salaries are what baseball is about, but I believe it's people running around on that field, doing their best."

"I'm a good people person, as good as anyone around," he said. "And I'm ready to put that claim on the line and go out and deal with 25 people in Texas Ranger uniforms."

"This is the greatest challenge in my life and it came at a time when my life was most secure," he said. "The Mets are going great and I have the greatest rapport with Davey Johnson. But I needed another challenge. I was almost getting bored with what I was doing."

Earlier this week, reports began circulating that the Texas management had decided to fire Rader.

Big Spring honors athletes

Big Spring High School honored its high school athletes Friday night at the annual Spring Sports Banquet at the Big Spring cafeteria. The Obie Bristow Outstanding Male Athlete Award was awarded to two athletes this year, freshman three sport star Brian Mayfield and senior football and baseball standout Jerry Anderson. The Wanda Ferguson Outstanding Female Athlete Award went to senior basketballer Trel Clemons.

The featured speaker at the annual event was local softball czar Cotton Mize, whose nationally famous Cotton Chipper fast pitch softball team is always among the top teams in the state. Mize gave a motivational speech to the athletes and parents. The master of ceremonies was Big Spring Athletic Director Ron Logback.

Awards were given in five sports; basketball, track, golf, swimming, and baseball. Special awards went to student trainers and managers; Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and the U.S. Army presented a special citation as well.

The award winners for coach Mike Randle's varsity basketball team were; Most Valuable Player: Benard Williams, Parks and Company Award: Mike Leuschner.

Girl's varsity coach Carol Niemeyer presented awards to Outstanding Defensive Player Lisa Hale. Most Improved: Sherry Myrick. Outstanding Players: Monique Jones and Trel Clemons. The Coaches Award went to Teresa Pruitt.

Tennis coach John Strahl presented team awards to Charlie Bott and Mark Slate for Most Dedicated. Kristi Grimes and Jeff Needles garnered the Academic Awards for highest individual GPA. Amber Logback was named Most Improved. Coaches awards went to Jeff Needles and Linda Arroyo. Most Valuable Players were Kristi Grimes and Mark Slate.

Coach Harlan Smith presented a number of new awards including

Most Improved Freshmen to Margaret West and Mark Lynch. Most Improved Swimmers: Victoria Logan and Dean Payne. Outstanding Diver Louis Morelton. Female Swimmer of the Year was senior Hartley Newell. Boy's MVP award went to sophomore Cade Loftin.

Varsity golf coaches Mike and Susan Sharpe presented awards to Boys Most Valuable Player Robert Gilbert and Girls MVP, Pam Martinez. The newly founded C.G. Griffin Award was given to Jeff Rhodes and Tami Burnsed.

Randy Britton, who assumed the duties of both boys and girls track coach this year, awarded the Track MVP trophies to Brian Mayfield, who set numerous freshman and school records this year, and Girls MVP, Paula Jolley, who qualified for 5A regionals this year in the shot put. Coaches Award went to junior hurdler Brian Reid and sprinter Monica Lockridge.

Coach Roland Atkins baseball awards went to seniors Jerry Anderson for the Team Leadership Award, Mike Dodd for Outstanding Pitcher and the Ken Cope Most Valuable Player Award went to Sammy Watson, who just recently signed a scholarship to play baseball for Sul Ross University.

Big Spring athletic trainer Everett Blackburn presented the Outstanding Student Trainer Award to Delia Correa. Anna Rodriguez was awarded the Outstanding Student Manager Award.

Girls junior varsity basketball coach Elaine Stone presented the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Awards to Outstanding Male Members, Carl Speck and Taff Wennick. The Outstanding Female Member Award went to Sheila Chatman.

U.S. Army Leadership Awards were presented to seniors Jerry Anderson and Hartley Newell by Sargeant Barton of the New Mexico Army Installation. Barton also presented Big Spring High School secretary Shirley Matthews with a special citation of merit.

Pavin leads Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Corey Pavin-untangled a four-way tie for the top with a 64, set a course and tournament record and established a four-shot lead Friday in the second round of the $500,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

"This game can be fun sometimes," Pavin said after a birdie-birdie finish to his six-under-par effort.

Pavin, who last season set a rookie money-winning record at $260,536, completed two trips over the Colonial Country Club course in 130, 10 under par for a course and tournament record. The old mark of 131 was set by Dave Stockton in 1967.

"To play this well at Colonial, one of the best courses on the tour — in the world, for that matter — is quite an honor," said Pavin, 25, who played the European tour and won three international titles in 1983 before joining the American circuit.

"It's something I'm very proud of, something that I'll always remember."

"I'd just like to tack on something else later in the week," said Pavin, whose only American tour triumph came in the Houston Open last year.

Pavin was not alone in his heroics, nor in his record-setting. The ideal playing conditions — mild temperatures and just the breath of a breeze — helped produce the lowest overall scoring in the tournament's 39-year history. More than three dozen players broke par 70.

Tom Watson, who last season gained his sixth Player of the Year designation, set a course and tournament record with a 6-under-par 29 over the front. Watson, however, made double bogey on the 10th hole and finished at 66-140, 10 shots off the pace at the tournament halfway point.

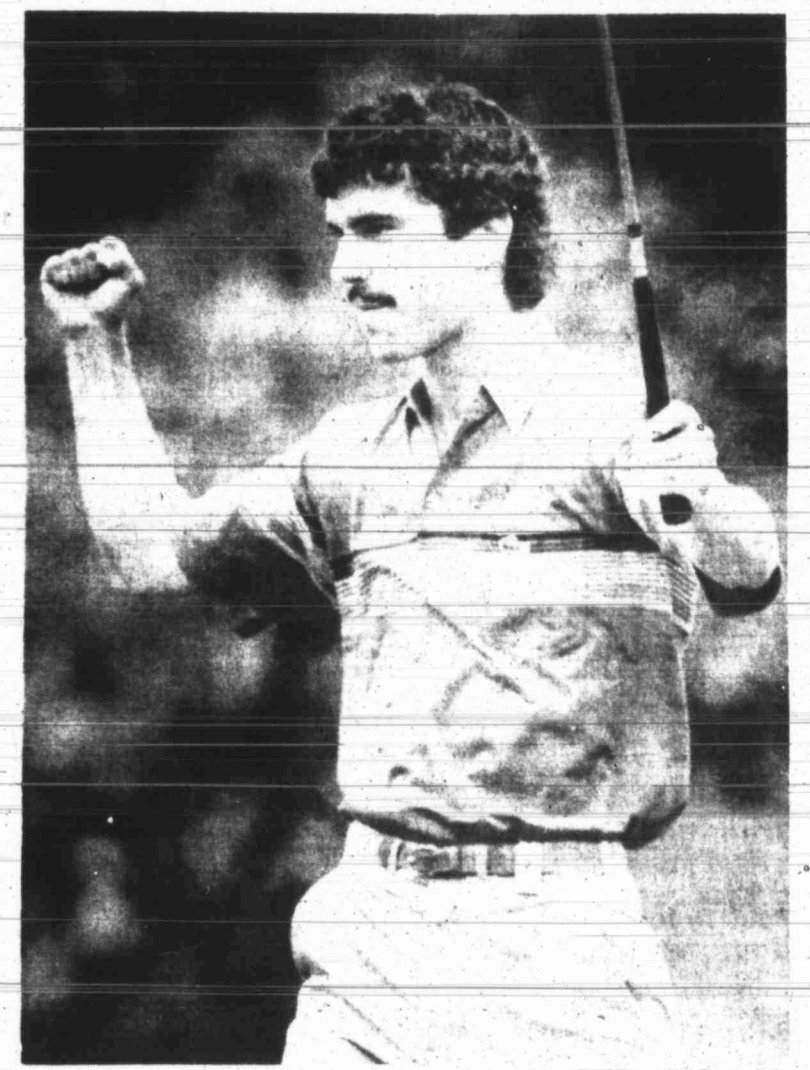

Mark O'Meara, who shared the first-round lead with Pavin, Jim Thorpe and Willie Wood, dropped back to second alone at 68-134. Thorpe slipped to 72-138, and Wood, who had a 69, was one of three at 135.

Also at that figure were Canadian Dan Halldorson and Tim Norris. Norris shot 66 and Halldorson 67.

Tied at 136 were John Mahaffey, Mike Donald and Mike Smith. Mahaffey shot a 66, Donald 68 and Smith 69.

PGA title-holder Lee Trevino, a two-time winner of this event, had a 69 and was at 139. Defending champion Peter Jacobsen was 73-140. U.S. Open champ Fuzzy Zoeller, also a former Colonial winner, failed to qualify for the final two rounds after posting a 75-148.

Pavin's 64, one stroke off the course record, was not without its adventures. He hit at least two trees, each time bouncing back toward the fairway. He holed a 40-50 foot sand shot for a birdie.

COREY PAVIN reacts to his birdie putt on the 18th green Friday afternoon during the second round of the Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth. PAVIN broke the two-round record with a ten-under par.

Conley sets record at SWC meet

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' Mike Conley set a meet record Friday of 27-4 in winning the long jump at the Southwest Conference track and field championships.

A north wind of 1.1 meters per second was below the allowable 2 meters per second for the record-setting leap. Conley's jump eclipsed the old record of 27-0 3/4 set in 1981 by Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis of Houston. Conley said it was his best jump within the wind allowance. It was short of Conley's 27-6 wind-aided jump at the 1983 TAC Championships.

After the completion of four events, Texas led with 41 points, followed by Arkansas with 38, Houston with 19, Texas A&M with 17, Rice with four, Texas Tech with three and Baylor with two. SMU and Texas Christian failed to score Friday.

With five women events completed, Houston led with 58 points, followed by Texas with 35, Rice with 24, Arkansas with 19, TCU with 10 and Texas Tech with nine.

Conley said Friday's sunny and mild conditions were perfect for jumping. "If the triple jump was today, I could have been the American record-holder," Conley said. He is to try for the SWC meet record of 56-2 3/4 in that event Saturday.

Conley's victory was his fourth straight outdoor title. That, added to his indoor championships gives him eight consecutive SWC long jump titles.

Mike Davis of Arkansas was second in the long jump at 26-8 1/2 and A&M's Chris Walker was third at 25-10.

Texas' Dag Wennlund won the javelin with a throw of 266-11. Wennlund threw 302-5 earlier this month, the best in the conference this year and the second best collegiate throw ever. Greg Bullion of Texas took second at 239-4 and Bob Erskine of Houston was third at 235-4. Last year's champion, Roald Bradstock of SMU, did not compete.

Houston's Rick Meyer took first in the discus with a throw of 198-3, well short of his best toss this year of 207-2 and less than the meet
