Lubbock man held for murder of wife ditched in Fluvanna

Staff and wire reports
LUBBOCK — A man who reported what he thought was a poacher led police to arrest a Lubbock elementary school teacher and charge him with dismembering his wife's body with a handsaw, authorities say.

Arthur Lee MacLeod, 36, is in jail today in lieu of $350,000 in bonds on charges stemming from the death of his 35-year-old wife, Evelyn F. MacLeod, whose head and hands were dug up in his back yard.

Ben Miller of Fluvanna told police he wrote down the license plate number belonging to a man who threw a bundle off a cliff in northwest Scurry County — more than 50 miles south of Lubbock — Tuesday morning. Scurry County adjoins

ARTHUR MACCLOUD, 36, charged with murdering his wife.

Howard County to the northeast. Fluvanna is about 65 north of Big Spring.

Authorities found Mrs. MacLeod's bloody torso at the bottom of that steep cliff.

Using the information Miller provided, Lubbock police investigators said they arrested MacLeod at about 11 a.m. Tuesday at his home and found the body parts buried under a small tree in his yard at about 7:30 p.m.

Lubbock County Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack, who set the bonds, said he had performed the MacLeods' wedding Dec. 29, 1984, and that he was aware of domestic disputes in the couple's household.

Blalack said he had issued a $5,000 temporary peace bond last month against MacLeod in connection with a disagreement involving an ex-girlfriend.

The Lubbock County charges filed Tuesday allege that MacLeod dismembered his wife with a handsaw and dumped her body along Farm-to-Market Road 1269.

Investigators said a handsaw that could have been used in the slaying was found in a storage shed behind the MacLeod house, and a muddy shovel was found in the back yard.

No traces of blood were found in MacLeod's car, Texas Department of Public Safety chemists said.

Garza County Chief Deputy Billy Pimms said he found the fully clothed torso of a headless woman wedged against a dead tree at the bottom of the short, steep cliff.

State may ease natural gas production

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A bill to give the Texas Railroad Commission more flexibility to increase natural gas well allowances to meet the emergencies of a severe winter has won a recommendation from the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Well operators often find that in extremely cold winters they cannot produce their wells to meet the demand for gas without violating commission regulations, even in an emergency, said Jim Yancy, aide to Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene.

Jones and Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, are sponsors of the bill, which has passed the House and only needs approval from the Senate before it can go to the governor.

The Natural Resources Committee sent the bill to the Senate's local and uncontested calendar, which is reserved for non-controversial items. Referral to that calendar usually means the bill will pass and go to the governor much quicker than if it has to come to the Senate floor, especially during the closing days of a legislative session. The 1985 session ends at midnight Monday.

Walt Lillie, special counsel for the Railroad Commission, told the committee that current regulations allow commissioners to approve production of a well at 25 percent of its daily producing capacity as many as four times a year. The yearly allowable still cannot exceed 100 percent, however.

Regulations also allow operators to produce two times a well's monthly allowable without commission permission.

But under the Jones-Craddick bill, those limits could be exceeded "if we have a blue norther come in. We can react immediately to the market demand," Lillie said.

Comanche pool to open on cue

But dispute over repairs may cause waves at City Hall

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Comanche Trail Municipal Swimming pool will open on schedule Monday for Splash Day, but not without creating a few waves of a different kind.

Created by the Public Works Administration in 1935, the pool will celebrate its 50th anniversary this year. No admission is charged on Splash Day, the traditional pool opening festivities.

Although the pool will open on time, in contrast to the long delay last year, the pool waters were far from calm for the city and its contractor.

City officials say they are considering litigation against an Odessa contractor for failure to perform maintenance on the pool. According to a memo from Director of Public Works Tom Decell to City Manager Don Davis, dated May 8, city crews performed the repairs on the sealer. Supplies for the job cost $3,663, the memo stated.

The repairs, according to the memo, should have been covered under warranty from work done last year by Plank Coatings of Odessa.

According to the memo, the city did the repair work only after the contractor did not respond to requests to perform the work and after the contractor left when questioned about his work procedures.

Decell said he could not comment on the issue, on the advice of City Attorney Doyle Curtis, because of possible litigation.

According to Curtis, the city has not filed a civil lawsuit against Plank Coatings. Curtis, however, said litigation might result from the city's conflict with the Plank Coatings and its president, David Plank.

Plank, in a telephone interview today, said statements that he did not perform repairs as requested were "not accurate."

According to Plank, there was no problem involved. "We were doing exactly what they requested us to do."

The city memo states that Plank agreed to perform repairs on the pool after being contacted by Curtis and meeting with city officials.

"Mr. Plank has at best been very reluctant to fulfill his contractual obligations to effect repairs," the memo reads.

"After delays again, Mr. Plank appeared on the scene with the materials necessary to do the repairs. He immediately started to apply the sealer and the base without any curing time as prescribed by the manufacturer," the memo states.

"When questioned about the required curing time for the sealer, Mr. Plank in words not suitable for print, packed his bags and

Auditorium roof bid doubles city estimate

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer
The only bid submitted for restoration work on the city's municipal auditorium roof is more than double what an engineering study previously had estimated for the project.
City officials received only one bid for restoration work on the city auditorium roof.
Texas Roofing of Odessa bid $144,200 for the contract, a significantly higher price tag than the $40,000 to $60,000 estimated by architects from Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock, the city's consultants on the restoration project.
'It is far in excess of the engineer's estimate,' Director of Public Works Tom Decell said today. The bid was opened Tuesday. Engineers and architects with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper have taken the bid estimate to examine and analyze the bid to determine where the higher costs are.
The bid was to include replacement of missing and broken red clay roof tiles, replacement of copper flashings on the proscenium fly loft, placing a water-repellant sealer on the brick masonry walls and caulking the ledges and windows.

The bid figure is only slightly less than the $150,000 grant the city received to restore the historic Spanish Gothic auditorium. The grant money also was to pay for an air-conditioning and heating system to be installed in the building.
Wardrop & Associates Inc. of Lubbock had planned to bid on the project, according to company officials, but could not because their roofing subcontractors backed out at the last moment.
According to Wardrop officials, one of its subcontractors, Texas Roofing, decided it wanted to bid the whole project itself. Another roofing company in Midland backed out at the last moment.
The city also opened two bids for the sprinkler fire-protection system for the Western Container building at the Big Spring Airpark.
Apparent low-bidder was Essential Fire Protection Systems of El Paso, which bid $55,445. The other bidder, Falcon Sprinkler Systems of Lubbock, estimated costs at $61,234.

When asked about the conflict about the curing time, Plank said there was no problem. He also stated that he was acting according to city instructions.

He said he could not comment further because of the threat of litigation. "This may be litigated. I don't want to make any statements."
According to the memo, Curtis then requested Plank to respond within five days to the city's request to perform the repairs and was notified that failure to respond would "precipitate the item being referred to the courts."

Philly city director quits

PHILADELPHIA — City managing director Leo A. Brooks, who directed the attempt to evict the radical group MOVE in which 11 died and 53 homes were destroyed, says he will resign, according to a published report.

Brooks, a former Army major general, said he made the decision four months ago, and told Mayor W. Wilson Goode of his plans to quit two weeks before the May 13 siege, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported Wednesday.

Brooks, 52, said he probably would delay his resignation until the summer while a mayoral commission investigates the confrontation, which also left 270 people homeless.

He also said in the Inquirer interview that he was out of town for the five days before the showdown, when plans to evict MOVE were worked out.

Navy axes GD contracts

WASHINGTON — The Navy, accusing General Dynamics Corp. of "brazen" and "improper" business conduct, stopped the processing of up to $1 billion in new contracts Tuesday pending reforms in the company's dealings with the Pentagon.

Navy Secretary John Lehman told a news conference he also would cancel two existing contracts worth a total of $22.5 million and would fine General Dynamics $676,283 for giving gratuities to retired Adm. Hyman Rickover.

At the same time, Lehman rejected a recommendation by the Pentagon's inspector general that the top officers of General Dynamics be barred from doing work with the Defense Department.

The company's conduct did not warrant such stiff action against the executives, he said.

Senate OKs bank sale

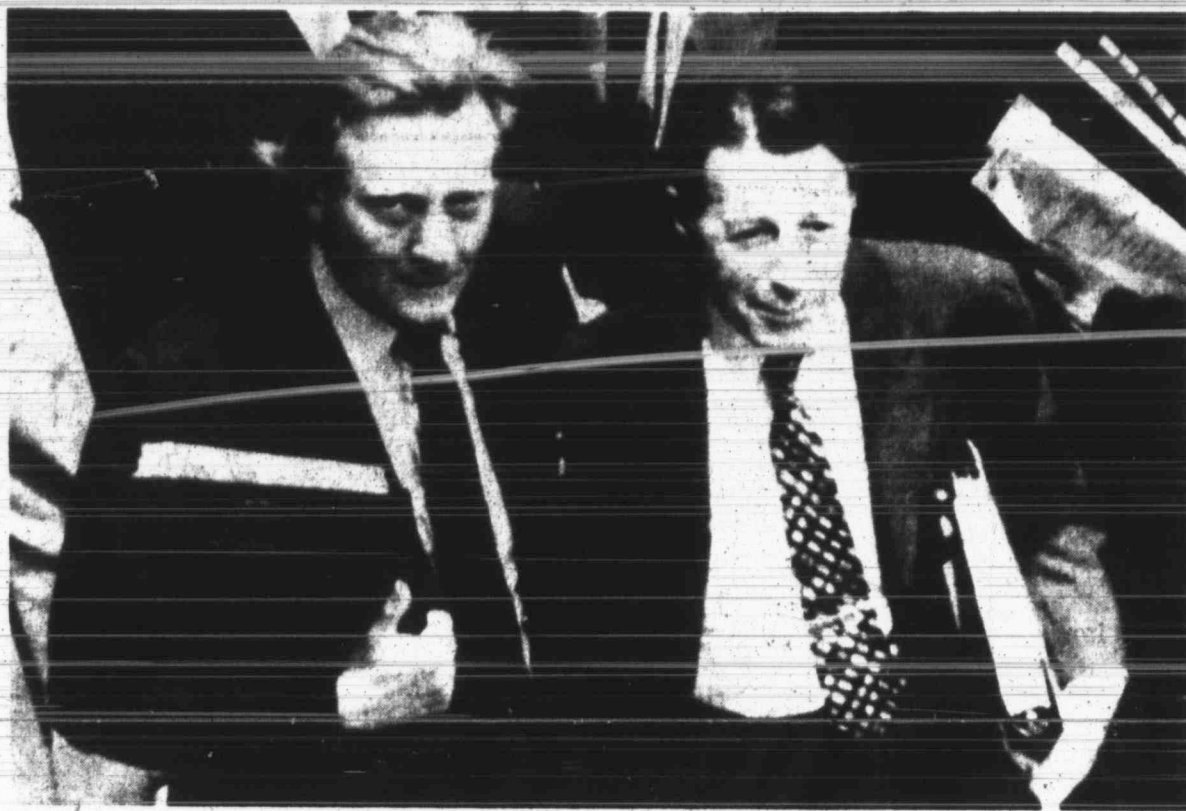

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Senate reversed itself Tuesday, passing a previously defeated bill to allow sale of the closed Home State Savings bank to Chemical New York Corp.

Gov. Richard Celeste quickly signed the measure into law.

About 500 of the thrift's depositors, who have been unable to get their money since the institution closed in early March after a run on deposits, cheered as the Senate approved the House-passed measure on a 17-16 vote.

The bill pumps up to $125.3 million in state money into the deal.

The Senate vote was on a conference committee's compromise version of legislation that passed both houses earlier. The House had approved the conference report Friday, but it failed in the Senate on a 16-16 vote.

NATO ministers open spring strategy session

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO defense ministers open their spring strategy session today committed to stronger non-nuclear forces and higher defense spending.

But their discussion is apt to be less harmonious when they turn to President Reagan's "Star Wars" program.

Meeting at the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the ministers are expected to pledge stronger efforts to improve the alliance's ability to fight a conventional war in Europe, and to reaffirm a goal of increasing real defense spending by 3 percent a year.

Senior U.S. officials say U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger will push for a NATO endorsement of the space defense program known as "Star Wars."

They said it was not on the formal agenda but almost certainly would come up during the less formal open discussion part of the two-day conference.

Even before all 14 ministers had assembled in the Belgian capital for the semi-annual meeting of the Defense Planning Committee, the Reagan plan was the subject of a diplomatic flare-up.

Freddy Vreven, the Belgian defense minister, on Tuesday denied a U.S. report that his government had committed to participating in the program, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Vreven had discussed the program with Weinberger on Monday.

Vreven told a news conference Tuesday that a Pentagon spokesman had been mistaken in suggesting Vreven had told Weinberger that Belgium had decided to participate in Star Wars research.

Michael I. Burch of the Pentagon, in briefing American reporters, said Weinberger "informed the minister during their meeting that he was very glad to hear the word that Belgium was favorably inclined to accept the American offer to participate.... Vreven responded that the matter would be reviewed finally within the next week or so, but that his government wanted to proceed."

The meeting brings together the defense chiefs of the United States, Canada, Britain, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Luxembourg, Portugal, Greece, Turkey and Iceland. Spain is represented by an official observer. France is absent because it is not part of NATO's integrated military command.

Alliance planners said the session will attempt to spotlight key weaknesses in the non-nuclear NATO forces. U.S. and NATO sources say the ministers will review an internal report that finds Western forces in Europe poorly prepared to deal with a conventional Warsaw Pact attack.

The main item of business on the defense minister's agenda was a report from NATO military authorities on their newly developed blueprint for future decisions on technology and spending.

The blueprint is designed to lay out NATO's needs for the next 20 years based on assumptions about the potential Warsaw Pact threat to give the political authorities a better basis for decision making.

Dutch Gen. Cor de Jager, chairman of NATO's highest military authority, the military committee, said Tuesday the blueprint was "a great leap forward."

The defense ministers are to review the secret document and pass it on to leaders in the national capitals for their approval.

Every year since 1977, the defense ministers have pledged to increase national defense spending by 3 percent a year.

Chief justice released

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Politicians, labor and the government reached an agreement Tuesday designed to free the Supreme Court chief justice from jail and resolve a power struggle between President Roberto Suazo Cordova and Congress.

The end of negotiations that began last month came in an 11-hour meeting among a confederation of eight labor groups, four political parties and the government. A copy of the agreement was obtained by The Associated Press.

Unions had threatened a nationwide strike unless the dispute was resolved.

Poland rejects appeal

WARSAW, Poland — The government has rejected an appeal by 28 Nobel Prize winners for the release of a dissident historian and two Solidarity activists who face trial for allegedly planning a general strike.

Historian Adam Michnik, a prominent Solidarity adviser, and Solidarity underground leaders Bogdan Lis and Wladyslaw Frasyniuk are to go on trial before a Gdansk court on Thursday on charges of inciting unrest by calling for a 15-minute general strike against food price hikes.

The strike was cancelled and never took place.

If convicted, they face up to three years in prison.

The three also are charged with playing a leading role in an illegal union, which carries a maximum five-year prison sentence.

India, USSR reach accord

MOSCOW — Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi of India and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev signed agreements today for economic, scientific and technical cooperation until the year 2000.

The official news agency, Tass, said the two leaders signed the documents at a ceremony in the Kremlin palace that was also attended by Soviet Premier Nikolai Tikhonov, other Soviet leaders and officials accompanying Gandhi on his trip to the Soviet Union.

Last week, India signed agreements with the United States to acquire advanced American non-military technology. Gandhi is to visit Washington next month.

A ceremony was scheduled today to rename a square in Moscow's Lenin Hills for Indira Gandhi.

Navy confines spy's son

TEL AVIV, Israel — A U.S. sailor has been confined to the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz in Haifa after his father was arrested in Maryland on charges of spying for the Soviets, Israel Radio reported today.

30 Lebanese killed in explosion

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — At least 30 people were killed and 90 were wounded today when a bomb-laden car exploded during rush hour at an intersection in a densely-populated residential suburb of Christian east Beirut, police said.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station appealed for blood donors to help hospitals cope with what it called a "catastrophic massacre" in the fashionable, pine-wooded suburb of Sin El-Fil.

A three-month-old girl was found lying on the sidewalk, cut by flying glass, after her mother was blown to pieces, witnesses reported. Several school children were wounded in a bus more than 500 yards from the blast.

Firefighters and ambulance crews were still struggling two hours after the blast to rescue people trapped in wrecked cars and buildings.

Huge pillars of black smoke rose above the area, with more than 50 cars set ablaze by the explosion, according to witnesses and the radio station.

The blast occurred at 2 p.m., when students and employees return home at the end of the day's work. Witnesses said the car exploded in an intersection where cars were caught in a traffic jam.

The radio station said the car could have been rigged with up to 440 pounds of explosives, judging from the tremor caused by the blast.

The target of the bombing was not immediately clear. There are no militia offices in the area.

Sirens' warning aided residents

As Monday night's violent storms lumbered across the city, families were bundled up in interior rooms, equipped with flashlight and candles and mattresses for cover. They were prepared for the violent weather.

As it turned out, the potential for a tornado was not realized. But because of timely warnings of the impending thunderstorms, the city's residents were able to take cover and be ready for the worst.

They were warned by radio and television, but most importantly by the city's system of tornado sirens.

The eerie wail of those sirens in the din of the storm reached most parts of the city. It propelled people to action who otherwise might not have been aware of the severity of the approaching weather.

Use of the tornado sirens is, of course, a decision of judgment in every adverse weather situation. Officials must balance between over-reacting and passing up an opportunity to help warn residents.

Use of the sirens Monday night was appropriate. The National Weather Service radar in Midland had detected a possible tornado in intense thunderstorm activity near Stanton. Big Spring was in that storm's path. A tornado warning was issued for Martin and Howard counties as well as for the city of Big Spring.

Hal Boyd, the city's emergency management coordinator, made an instant decision to activate the sirens.

People took cover and waited out the storm.

The decision to sound the alarm Monday was prompt and appropriate.

Shaw seatbelt bill is socialist

To the editor: It has come to my attention that our esteemed State Representative, Mr. Larry Don Shaw, is co-sponsoring a new "bill", number 941, that all Texans must wear seat belts while driving their own cars. Mr. Shaw was raised under Socialism, so he just doesn't know the difference between freedom and doing just as the state tells him to do. After voting for the biggest tax raise and socialistic school bill in the history of Texas, our Mr. Shaw now wants to take away another one of our freedoms.

Let me inform you Mr. Shaw, that my life, body, and soul belong to me, and not to the state. When driving around town in a car that I bought and paid for, what right, Mr. Shaw, do you have to tell me what I must wear inside that car? Do you also want me to wear a football helmet as well? Mr. Shaw, who gave you these rights? Is this a Divine right that you have? Mr. Shaw, by what right do you know better than I do how to run my life?

This is how we have become a socialistic state. By people like you, who in the name of the public good must tell people what they can do and cannot do. If you can tell me what right you have to run my life, then I will wear a seatbelt gladly. Are you telling me that your judgement over my life is a lot better than my own? Or is this just another one of your programs for the "common good", "the public need", or for the "good of the whole". That is a good sounding socialistic group of words don't you think Mr. Shaw?

Why don't you just take another trip? The people are safer when you take those extended trips. At least you don't sit around and think up more of your socialistic programs when you are on your extended trips for the "common good". Mr. Shaw, you need to read the constitution of Texas. There is no such thing as the "public good", or the "common good". There is only one right that we have and that is individual rights, not group rights.

"LULAC", "NAACP", "Texas Consumer Group" and "unions" have no rights as a group. They only have individual rights for each individual. You sure as Heck don't have the "right" to take individual rights away from us.

That, Mr. Shaw, is a limited government. They are supposed to get their rights from the people. Have you read this somewhere before Mr. Shaw?

C.G. GILSTRAP
FM 700 North
P.S. Mr. Shaw, in the dictionary the definition of liberty is as follows:

1. freedom from bondage, captivity, etc.
2. freedom from external control or interference.

In my opinion you should study the definition more closely.

Suicide's burden of guilt

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My sister committed suicide six months ago, and it has been very difficult for me to cope with. I know she didn't really understand what she was doing; she had been in and out of mental hospitals for several years and had had a very difficult life. But I still feel burdened with guilt, wondering if there was something I could have done to prevent this tragedy. Is this normal? — Mrs. G.F.D.

DEAR MRS. G.F.D.: I suspect nearly every person who has known someone who committed suicide has asked the same questions you are asking. You needn't feel that you are abnormal, but you do need to resolve this in your mind so it does not become unhealthy or unbalanced.

From what you say in your letter, it sounds as if you and your family did as much as you could to help your sister. Don't be haunted by such questions as "What if we had done this or that?" Even if you had done something more — visiting her more often, perhaps — you will never know whether the outcome would have been any different. Take comfort in the fact that God, in his wisdom and love knew your sister's problem far better than any human ever could.

But remember, too, that God offers his forgiveness to us not just for the wrongs we have done, but for the things we should have done but failed to do. In other words, it may be that you (or other readers in a similar situation) can now see some definite ways in which you might have helped your sister. Now it is too late — but you still need God's forgiveness, and God in his marvelous grace is willing to forgive.

The Bible says, "Cast your cares on the Lord and he will sustain you; he will never let the righteous fall" (Psalm 55:22). May this be your experience as you turn to Christ and place your burden of guilt on him.

Pentagon's retirement plan

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — One of the hottest issues debated when Congress took up the defense budget is the Pentagon's notorious "revolving door." Pentagon officials have moved through this door into cushy jobs with the defense contractors they dealt with when they worked for the government.

The most glaring recent example is George Sawyer, a former assistant secretary of the Navy for shipbuilding and logistics, who is now executive vice president for land systems at General Dynamics, the nation's third largest defense contractor.

A grand jury in New Haven, Conn., is studying evidence that Sawyer was discussing his possible employment at General Dynamics between March and May 1983, while he was still at the Pentagon.

According to the Defense Department inspector general, Joseph H. Sherrick, Sawyer "had the authority to and did make decisions affecting General Dynamics" during that period.

The revolving door is in pretty heavy use at General Dynamics. Sawyer was only one of 69 retired or resigned military personnel who joined the company in 1983. Since 1974, the corporation has hired 526 former military or civilian employees of the Defense Department.

With the Sawyer case in mind, several members of Congress are pushing for an amendment to the Pentagon budget that would slow the revolving door — or at least make it squeak when used.

For years the Pentagon's official view was that there was nothing wrong with former employees going to work for defense contractors, and the repeated disclosures of revolving door cases were nothing to be concerned about.

But last March, Deputy Defense Secretary William H. Taft, IV told Congress: "We recognize there is room to improve ... public perception of employee integrity. I recognize that many people are uncomfortable with the present situation."

In short, Taft wasn't conceding that there is anything intrinsically wrong with the revolving door — only with the "public perception" that there may be something wrong.

An unreleased "action memo" prepared for Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger last January reflects Taft's view of the problem. But it also makes clear that the Pentagon has been lax in enforcing even the conflict-of-interest law that already applies to former defense employees. The law bars a former employee from dealing with his former military office for two years in his new job, and from ever working on a specific contract he handled while in the department.

Former employees are required to submit annual disclosure forms, describing their current employment and supposedly alerting the Pentagon to possible conflicts of interest. But the memo, obtained by our associate Tony Capaccio, concedes that "minimal resources have been devoted to the standards of conduct program," and warns: "More detailed reports from former mid- and high-level officials may be required."

Noting that Weinberger already has the authority to prescribe more stringent reporting, the memo concedes that the Defense Department has been "reluctant to take this step."

The memo notes that the media and congressional critics "presume that a government official will ignore shortcomings in contractor performance to curry favor and obtain post-departure employment." But it adds:

"This view flies in the face of common sense. A contractor is not likely to hire a disloyal person who is willing to cheat his government employer because such an individual is likely to cheat any employer."

But the memo points out that something probably has to be done. It notes that a staff member of the Senate Armed Forces Committee warned that "greater education or enforcement efforts" may be necessary to "forestall damaging legislation."

Defense Department sources said they are accepting this suggestion and modifying current disclosure forms to require more information.

THE OMBUDSMAN: If you're young, black or Hispanic and are heading north in a late-model car with Florida tags, the stretch of I.S. 40 on the New Jersey side of the Delaware Memorial Bridge is a speed trap set just for you. At least that's the suspicion of some attorneys in Salem County, N.J.

They believe the Jersey state troopers have a profile of potential drug couriers heading for the Big Apple from the South, and anyone who fits it is likely to be pulled over for driving as little as 4 mph over the speed limit. Once stopped, the car's occupants are asked to submit to a search. If they refuse, they're given a "pat-down" and taken into custody.

If they "voluntarily" allow a search, they often wind up with their luggage strewn over the shoulder and their car's seats ripped out.

Around The Rim
Old friends

By KEELY COGHLAN
When she saw him at the door, he hugged her hard, in that peculiar way only ex-boyfriends who are still close can do.

Her heart — corny as the idea sounded — skipped a beat. "I'm so glad you stopped by to see me," he said, dragging her into the living room. "I want you to meet my fiancée."

Obviously, the little white invitation, crumpled in the purse, hadn't lied.

"Kathy, meet Jo. Jo, I've told you about Kathy."

I'll bet you have, she thought and widened the plastered smile on her face. "So nice to meet you."

"Remember, we sent her and her parents invitations?" his voice was cheery enough to disgust the gargoyles at Notre Dame.

I'm coming across horribly, she frowned as she searched for the mundane topics for chit-chat. She reached for the poodle absent-mindedly and had to stop herself from talking to the dog.

"We're getting a new house," he said, and she smiled down at the girl in the armchair.

"What do you do, Jo?" she asked politely. Jo said something; she tried to concentrate.

After a decent interval — the point at which her friendly smile was about to shatter — she stood, said she had to leave, invited them to see her sometime.

At the door, she petted the poodle and the cocker spaniel again. Jo commented on how pleased she was to meet her.

She nodded, said she had to leave before the rain worsened. Smiled nervously and stepped out the door.

He was friendly, but failed to hug her goodbye. Of course not. What did she expect anyway? The friendship to continue?

Well. She wouldn't need to save seats for him at the Katherine Hepburn film festivals, or stock the refrigerator with that beer she couldn't drink, let alone pronounce.

Maybe she'd go to the wedding, throw rice, promise to keep in touch... she'd be lucky if they exchanged Christmas cards.

She jerked the car keys savagely in the ignition and drove away.

Why politicians are ashamed of being rich

By DONALD ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — It took someone as rich as a Rockefeller to demonstrate anew how little is really disclosed in the "financial disclosure" reports members of Congress must file each year.

In the case of Sen. John D. Rockefeller IV, D-W.Va., there was a gap of about $145 million between the assets that could be tallied from his disclosure form and many estimates of his worth.

Add up the letter and Roman numeral codes on Rockefeller's form and the great-grandson of the founder of Standard Oil appears to have assets of $4.1 million "or more." Everyone knows that in his case it's lots more.

Rockefeller has never tried to pretend he's anything but super rich. He's been known to joke about his wealth and during his Senate campaign he and his wife, Sharon Percy Rockefeller, made public their income tax returns for the past 10 years.

But personal wealth is something that has always troubled Congress.

Maybe it's based on a populist tradition in which politicians always have found a receptive audience for attacks on big oil, big banks, big corporations, big anything.

Or is it a conviction that politicians ought to have the same rights of privacy that their constituents can claim?

The populist tradition suggested anyone with the name Rockefeller didn't have a chance of getting elected to public office.

Nelson Rockefeller shook that assumption by getting elected governor of New York and re-elected three times. Then his brother Win-

Rockefeller has never tried to pretend he's anything but super rich...But personal wealth is something that has always troubled Congress.

throp was elected governor of Arkansas, an amazing feat for both a Rockefeller and a Republican.

Now comes the next generation and this Rockefeller is not only getting elected to office in West Virginia, but he's a Democrat to boot.

If it's not fear of a populist revolt, what about the argument that members of Congress should be able to keep their bank accounts and investments as private as anyone else?

The idea of public disclosure was not to satisfy the curiosity of people eager to see what a Rockefeller's investment portfolio looks like or to flip the pages of his bankbook.

Disclosure was established as a way of giving the public a check on elected officials, a way of deterring if, for example, the chairman of the armed services committee is holding large blocks of stock in defense contracting firms or if members of the banking committees are bankers who continue to own shares in financial institutions.

The rules grew out of a sense that members of Congress were not like everyone else. They have the power to make a big difference for a lot of people especially when they make big or little changes in the tax code or vote on whether to fund this or that weapons system or urban development program.

It's possible that among the contractors who depend on the government for their existence are people who might feel that a timely stock tip or a gift or an invitation to a fancy hunting lodge might make a member of Congress vote their way.

The idea was that disclosure would discourage this sort of thing.

The same theory applies to campaign contributions. Political action committees are one of the nation's great growth industries. The PACs have proliferated to channel money to candidates who tend to support the industries that sponsor the PACs.

No one seems terribly shocked that PACs from the defense industry concentrate on giving contributions to members of the armed services and appropriations committees. Neither is it surprising that members of the House and Senate who will have key roles in the tax reform proposals likely to be considered later this year are finding it easy to raise money for their 1986 campaigns.

The records of PAC contributions are available for all to see at the Federal Election Commission. Advocates of changes in the system regularly decry the growing influence of PACs.

But the system hasn't changed because there has been no public demand that politicians tell more about their own holdings or that they accept less from PACs. Lacking change, the personal disclosure forms offer little more than a chance to peek at a Rockefeller's holdings.

Oil kickbacks common, federal attorney charges

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — U.S. Attorney Bill Price says payoffs and kickbacks are common to the oil patch, with thousands of dollars being exchanged under the table for barrel after barrel of stolen oil. "It's non-existent oil fields and kickbacks. It's the paying off of pumpers and oil company officials," Price said Tuesday.

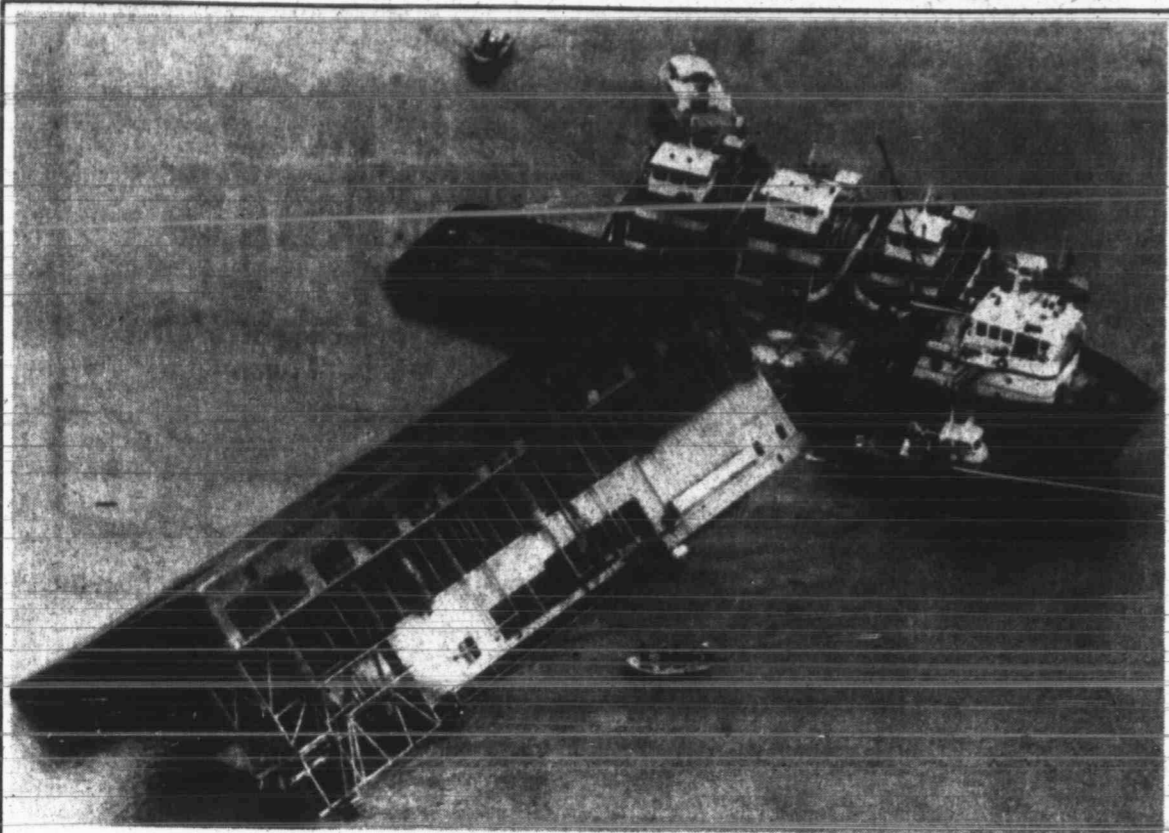

Price, who prosecuted scores of county commissioners and materials and equipment suppliers in the state's kickback scandal, said oil field fraud is "analogous to the county commissioner case." He said Texas produces six times as much oil as Oklahoma and has 33 oil-reclaiming companies doing business in the state. Despite the difference in oil production levels, Oklahoma has 161 oil-reclaiming companies — nearly five times as many as Texas. An oil reclaimer cleans the residual oil from emptied storage tanks, processes and then sells it.

Compared to Texas, "Oklahoma has twice the amount of oil total being sold to reclaimers. I don't think the tank bottoms are that much dirtier in Oklahoma," Price said.

He estimates that about one-twelfth of the reclaimed oil in the state is legitimately collected. "The rest is stolen," he said.

He said pumpers — workers who check wells — and oil company officials are taking payoffs and kickbacks as high as $40,000 to $50,000 to falsify logbooks and permit the thefts.

Divers search capsized rig for survivors

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP) — Federal investigators have been sent to the scene of an oil rig accident to find out why the movable platform capsized and sank in a remote bayou, killing six men and leaving five others missing and feared drowned.

The search for bodies aboard the overturned rig, known as the Tonkawa, was suspended late Tuesday and was to resume early today, said Terrebonne Parish chief of detectives Aubrey Authement.

Divers found one body inside the rig shortly after they began their search and others later as they explored crew's quarters and work rooms. "The outlook is not very good for survivors. Two of the three decks are under water. Very little of the vessel is exposed," said Keith Simon of Acadian Ambulance Service.

"We have no logical explanation at this point in time for what happened," said Don Patteson, president of Temple Drilling Co. of Houston, which operated the rig.

The flatbottomed rig flipped shortly before midnight Monday with 22 men aboard. Eleven were rescued Tuesday. Nine escaped on their own from the toppled rig, and two were pulled through a hole cut in the hull, where they had been trapped for five hours, witnesses said.

The National Transportation Safety Board sent two investigators to the scene, said NTSB spokesman Ira Furman in Washington, and the Coast Guard also was investigating.

Bids taken on gulf oil, gas field

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The oil and gas industry takes another multimillion-dollar gamble today when the U.S. Interior Department opens bids for the right to explore perhaps the richest depths of the central Gulf of Mexico.

It is the first of three bid openings on Gulf tracts for 1985. Another will be held in August for the western Gulf and the last will be in November for the eastern Gulf.

Today's bids, opened at a suburban hotel, were on 4,567 tracts off the Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama coasts — 9 million acres in the highly competitive central Gulf.

Included are submerged blocks off Mobile Bay, where recent discoveries of natural gas have been so significant that a new underwater pipeline is under construction.

Some of the tracts are in deep water, up to 220 miles offshore where the depths are a mile and a half.

About 1,500 tracts, in deeper waters, were pulled out of the sale because of apparent lack of interest from the oil companies.

Others included are in the so-called 8(g) areas in which coastal states and the federal government are fighting over lease money.

Congdon said these 8(g) leases, all off Louisiana, were included after consultation with the state, which could get a $700 million share of the proceeds under a distribution plan now pending in Congress.

Proceeds from those 8(g) sales would go into the special account with the $2.6 billion that has already piled up during the dispute, to be distributed later.

$1.7 million paid in oil lease bonuses

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico Land Office received $1.7 million in bonuses for oil and gas leases on about 26,500 acres of trust land during the office's monthly lease sale Tuesday, said Land Commissioner Jim Baca.

The highest total bid was submitted by Adobe Oil and Gas Corp. of Midland, which offered $250,000 for a 636.6-acre lease in Lea County about eight miles northwest of Lovington.

The highest per-acre bonus was paid by H.L. Brown Jr., also of Midland, who offered $80,000 for a 200-acre tract in Lea County about 17 miles northwest of Lovington. That averages $400 per acre.

Tuesday's sale was the 11th of the fiscal year, which ends June 30. For the year, the Land Office has received $17.76 million, down from the $18.9 million received during the same period in 1983-84.

The Adobe and Brown leases carry a one-sixth royalty provision, meaning the state receives one-sixth of the selling price of the oil or gas produced.

Bonus payments are given directly to the specific beneficiaries for which the land tracts are held in trust. Royalties are deposited in the state Permanent Fund, and the earnings of the fund are used to support the beneficiaries of the fund.

First quarter reports for the Colorado River Municipal Water District amounted to less than the projected budgeted amount for income and expenses.

Through April, income totalled $3,629,983, which was $244,172 less than budget estimates. Expenses amounted to $2,128,997 which was $176,057 less than projected.

Sagerton homecoming set for this weekend

The Sagerton Homecoming will be Saturday and Sunday at the Sagerton Community Center. The classes of 1935 and 1945 are planning a special reunion. Five hundred persons are expected to attend.

This is the eighth homecoming, the last being held in 1982 when the Sagerton History Book was distributed.

Mrs. J.B. Toney (Dorothy Knippling) is the chairman of this year's homecoming. A committee of 20 persons will help.

Reservations are requested by contacting Mrs. Charles Clark in Sagerton. Registration cards were mailed to persons living outside a 50-mile radius who previously attended.

Registration begins at 1 p.m. Saturday. A bus tour will be given from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. of the historical sites in and around Sagerton.

Informal meetings will be held Saturday, and a light supper will be served at 6 p.m. at the center.

After a catered lunch Sunday, there will be a short program in the auditorium. The event is unique in that no tickets are sold for the Sunday dinner. Donations are accepted.

The Sagerton school building was recently remodeled. Since it closed in 1965, the building has been used as a community center. Every year, a Hee-Haw production is put on by the people of the community. The proceeds are used to repair the buildings.

The Beta Kappa Chapter which presently includes members from Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Sterling counties originally encompassed nine counties. It previously included Andrews, Dawson, Ector, Midland and Winkler counties.

On May 18, 1985, 25 West Texas women educators gathered at the Settles Hotel in Big Spring to become charter members of the new chapter. The primary founder of the society, Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, professor of education at the University of Texas at Austin, conducted the installation ceremony. The society now has chapters in all states and eight foreign countries.

Dear Abby
Wife thinks highway hooker breaking limit

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a trucker, and he hauls heavy loads across the country. He has a CB radio in his cab, which he needs for his own safety as well as for entertainment.

He told me there's a hooker who drives a van with a waterbed in the back, and she "advertises" on her CB. He says the guys in that area (Nevada) all know her, and he would like to see her himself just to find out what she looks like. "Just curiosity," he says. Now I'm worried every time he has to go through Nevada.

Isn't that kind of thing against the law? This is no joke, Abby.

TRUCKER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Soliciting in some parts of Nevada is legal, but I don't know if the airwaves can be used for this purpose.

Taking one's show on the road isn't all that unusual. But make it clear to hubby that if he doesn't keep on trucking when he hears this siren's song — his marriage may suffer a blowout.

DEAR ABBY: Now that prom season is upon us, I have a favor to ask: Our son has been to three proms. Each time he has rented a tux, bought the girl a corsage and paid for the tickets plus dinner before the dance. Each prom has cost him between $100 and $125. Our son has told us that when he picks up his date, her parents are waiting with a camera to take a picture of him and their daughter. The girl then has a picture for her memory book, but we have nothing. We don't even know what the girl looked like!

Will you please ask the parents of these girls to please send a picture to the boy who spent so much money on their daughter? Even if the date turned out to be a disaster, the boy (or his parents) may want the photo as a souvenir.

LEFT OUT IN VENTURA, CALIF.
DEAR LEFT OUT: Here's your letter. I hope something develops.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why "Seeing Red" was angry because her husband and his two sisters had a portrait made for their parents and excluded their spouses and children.

I can just imagine a picture with the three couples and all their children. It would be about as meaningful as a photograph of Grand Central Station.

What if one of them gets a divorce? Then the parents would have to explain what happened to the person in the picture who is no longer a member of the family.

I'm sure my mother-in-law loves me, but she can't possibly feel the same toward me as she does toward her two daughters and her only son, who married me. She has often complimented me for insisting that my husband stop by and see her — or take her to lunch, just the two of them — without me. She says so many of her friends have "lost" their sons because after they're married, they never see them alone again.

LYNNE IN LITTLETON, COLO.
DEAR LYNNE: Other daughters-in-law could learn from you. Thanks for writing.

Dr. Donohue
Ex-smoker's cough may linger

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been told my constant coughing is chronic bronchitis. The doctor says when I quit smoking I would be able to cure myself of this. I did quit, but frankly I still cough a lot. How long — weeks? months? — do you have to stay smokeless for quitting to have an effect? Should I be on some kind of medicine? — R.P.

Many times, even the most severe bronchitis can be arrested by removing the irritant effect of cigarette smoke from the airways. That may take weeks or months (I can't be specific for you), but some improvement is certain.

You should soon begin to notice less coughing and less sputum formation in the airways. You came this far without need for medicine, so you probably don't need any now. However, you can ask your doctor to prescribe a medicine to help clear the area of sputum during the early phase of smokeless living. Don't give up. You'll improve, even if you smoked for decades. See the next letter.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My bronchitis is causing me distress at night, from coughing. The real problem is my difficulty in bringing up phlegm. My lungs seem to be clogged and I can't get rid of the sputum. I have heard certain exercises that help. Do you know of them? — H.G.D.

Try this: Seat yourself in a chair and grip the front edge of the seat between your legs. Relax. Inhale from a steam nebulizer. Then, with hands in place, bend forward and downward slowly while breathing out forcefully through pursed lips.

Then raise yourself slowly to the upright seated position and breathe in the normal air.

Try this a couple of times if necessary. You should feel the cough reflex begin. When you do, bend downward again and cough softly. This should permit you to raise sputum and relieve your distress. You can try this on a regular basis, especially before bedtime. Read the above item and, if you smoke, quit.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please write about FANA blood tests? Mine was positive, "in the speckled pattern." What does that mean? Is it a dangerous thing? — J.C.

FANA is an acronym for "fluorescent anti-nuclear antibody," and I don't think we have to wade into that deep subject. It's enough to know it is a blood test for detection of connective tissue disease, of which lupus and rheumatoid arthritis are examples.

FANA displays different patterns that suggest certain illnesses, a speckled pattern, for example, with either of those two ailments I cited above. But before you jump to conclusion about such testing, you have to realize that you can be perfectly normal and have a positive test result. Other pieces of evidence must be fitted into place to make a certain diagnosis, things like symptoms reported and other observations the doctor makes. There aren't very many tests, which in and of themselves are diagnostic of a specific illness. FANA is not one of those.

College fans heat problems

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Jack Roberts, an engineer from Lubbock, met with Howard County Junior College District trustees Tuesday to discuss the district heating and cooling systems.

Roberts told trustees that the goal of a new system would be to reduce utility costs and to improve efficiency.

Dr. Bob Riley, president of the district, said district employees would begin work on a feasibility plan for replacing the aging heating and cooling system at Howard College.

Harold Davis, board president, said, "We should make this an agenda item and look at the problems of installing a new system. We must decide if we want to try and accomplish something," he said.

Trustee Curt Mullins was given a five-year service pin from Riley during the meeting. James "Buddy" Barr received a pin for 10 years of service to the district.

Trustees approved raising the bid limit from $1,000 to $3,000. Under the new plan district employees may purchase items under $3,000 without asking for bids. The state limit is $5,000.

Terry Hansen, business manager, told the board, "This will give us more freedom to work within the budget without bringing items to you." Hansen said the new policy would allow emergency repairs on items between $1,000 and $3,000 to be made quickly.

Trustees accepted resignations from three employees of the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. They are Carla Relaford, media center director and Steve Baldwin, SWCID drama instructor, both of whom plan to work on their doctorates, and Rick Shaum, a SWCID interpreter who had agreed to work for one semester only.

Trustees agreed to hire Mary Ann Simpson as an instructor of the nursing program in San Angelo. Simpson will work until February, when the program will be reduced to three faculty members.

Riley explained that the program in San Angelo is being reduced and that only 45 students will be allowed into the program each year, instead of the 60 students enrolled at present.

In his report to trustees, Riley said more than 150 inquiries about the Howard College cosmetology program had been received since trustees approved implementation of the program.

Sam Hill, executive director of SWCID, reported on changes in state legislation which should lower out-of-state tuition at SWCID to $1,800 per semester. At present, tuition for out-of-state students is $4,300 a semester.

The lower rates should improve out-of-state enrollment, Hill said. "I don't think we will feel the full benefit this year," Hill said, because of little recruiting outside of the state. He estimated that enrollment should increase by next year.

Registration for summer school is Tuesday, May 28, and the first day of classes for the summer semester is Wednesday, May 30, Riley said.

52nd rodeo begins June 26

Plans for the 52nd annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion are well underway, according to organizers of the event.

The rodeo begins June 26 and continues through June 29, with performances at 8:30 p.m. nightly. A rodeo parade will kick off at 4 p.m. June 26 in downtown Big Spring. Following the parade, a Kiwanis Club barbecue is slated at the Big Spring Fairbarn.

Announcer for this year's rodeo is Randy Corley from North Platte, Neb. Corley was emcee for the 1984 national finals rodeo.

Quail Dobbs of Coahoma will again be the featured rodeo clown. Dobbs travels to rodeos around the nation but always manages to appear locally.

Stock producer is Mack Altizer of Sonora.

Holye Nix will play a dance on Friday and Saturday nights of the rodeo.

Denver, Philadelphia battle for survival

Nuggets fighting injury battle

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Denver Nuggets, who are ravaged by injuries, will battle for survival tonight when they challenge the healthy Los Angeles Lakers in Game 5 of the National Basketball Association's Western Conference finals.

Even under the most ideal conditions, beating the Lakers is not an easy task, especially at the Forum, where they have won 23 of their last 24 games. For the Nuggets, a victory at this point would be a major surprise.

The Nuggets will be without forward Alex English, who averaged 30.4 points in Denver's first 13 playoff games. English suffered a broken thumb on his shooting hand during Sunday's 120-116 Los Angeles victory at Denver.

English is only one of several injured Nuggets. Forward Calvin Natt and guards Lafayette Lever and Mike Evans are nursing knee injuries; center Wayne Cooper has a strained rib ligament; swingman Elston Turner has a sore hamstring and center Dan Issel has a deep thigh bruise.

Outside of English, all the wounded Nuggets are expected to play.

The Lakers are in good health going into the nationally televised game, which begins at 10:30 p.m. MDT.

A win by the Lakers, who are 10-2 in the playoffs and hold a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference finals, would earn them a berth in the NBA's Championship Series for the fifth time in the past six years. Despite their injuries and the loss of English, the Nuggets were in a position late in the fourth game to deadlock the series. They fell behind for good with 20 seconds remaining on a tip-in by James Worthy.

"I've seen a lot of courageous performances," Abdul-Jabbar said. "That definitely has to rank with them."

"They had guys hurt, but they have a lot of pride, and I have to give them credit for having the courage to keep coming back at us."

As grim as things appear to be for the Nuggets, perhaps one statistic can give them some hope — they have won four of their last six games at the Forum. But on those occasions, they were healthy.

BOSTON (AP) — Julius Erving was tired. Larry Bird was hurt. More than 72 hours of rest could help the two superstar forwards shake their shooting slumps at a critical time.

Bird and the Boston Celtics take a 3-1 lead into tonight's fifth game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series against Erving and the Philadelphia 76ers.

A Celtics' victory would send them into the championship round against Los Angeles or Denver, who also play their fifth game tonight with the Lakers leading 3-1. A 76ers' victory would force a sixth game Friday night in Philadelphia.

Boston captured the first three games of the Eastern Conference final before Philadelphia stayed alive with a 115-104 triumph at home Sunday.

In that fourth game, Erving made four of 21 field goals at attempts and scored 15 points, while Bird was four of 15 with 14 points. In the last two games Saturday and Sunday, Erving was five of 31 with 20 points.

He did other things Sunday when he pestered Bird with tight defense that kept Boston's star forward to his lowest playoff point total of the year.

Bird jammed his right index finger in the first half of Saturday's game. He played 38 minutes Sunday, even though the damaged finger on his shooting hand was swollen.

While Bird, who averaged 28.7 points per game during the regular season, has been limited to a 21.6 average in the four games against the 76ers, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale have played well for Boston. Parish has averaged 16.8 points and 13.5 rebounds, and McHale has averaged 22.3 points and 10.5 rebounds in the series.

The 76ers have led each of the last three games after the first quarter. They have won only one of them. To avoid elimination, they must snap Boston's 10-game home playoff winning streak, then beat the Celtics Friday in Philadelphia and Sunday here.

Despite the long odds, the 76ers haven't conceded defeat in their quest to become the first team in NBA history to win a series after losing the first three games and to keep Boston from becoming the first club to win consecutive titles since the Celtics did it in 1968 and 1969.

Bird, Erving fighting off slumps

Flyers keep jinx on Oilers with Stanley Cup win

Edmonton Oilers goalie GRANT FUHR flops to the ice after stopping a shot by the Philadelphia Flyers during first period NHL Stanley Cup Championship action in Philadelphia Tuesday night. The defending champion Oilers lost the first game of the series, 4-1.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — On Nov. 13, 1982, the Edmonton Oilers won a game from the Philadelphia Flyers. They haven't repeated that feat since.

The Flyers extended their domination of the Oilers to nine games Tuesday night with a one-sided 4-1 victory in Game 1 of the Stanley Cup finals. Philadelphia is 8-0-1 against Edmonton in that time.

"This team has won only four in a row against them," noted Flyers Coach Mike Keenan. But even that is quite an achievement against the Stanley Cup champions.

"We play basic hockey against them," added rookie Rick Tocchet. "When we do, we have an excellent chance to win."

Flyers defenseman Brad Marsh said the challenge of facing the National Hockey League kings is all the incentive any team should need.

"Whenever you play the Stanley Cup champions," said Marsh. "It brings out the best in you. At least it should."

"I know in the regular season the younger players were almost scared to play them. But when we beat them, it showed they were just another team, but a very good team."

"If you give 110 percent against the champions, you will do OK. If you don't, they'll make you look foolish."

It is the Oilers who have looked foolish in recent competition with the Flyers. On Tuesday, Philadelphia's persistent forechecking and overall defensive scheme didn't allow the Oilers the room they need to operate.

"We weren't skating well and we played like we were skating in sand all night," said Oilers Coach Glen Sather. "The Flyers were superb."

Are the Oilers thinking about the streak?

"I guess when you haven't beaten a team in a while, you think about it," said Wayne Gretzky, hockey's most dominant player. Gretzky, like the majority of his teammates, was ineffectual against the Flyers' blanket-like defense in the opener.

"We're not ready to count ourselves out," he added. "It's been a funny year for us, with a lot of ups and downs. Our backs have been to the wall before. We have to take some momentum from them."

The Flyers have had momentum for nearly three months. They caught fire down the stretch of the regular season and passed Edmonton for the overall points title late in the year.

"Nobody thought we had any chance to catch them, but we did," said Tocchet. "I think we've showed why we were able to do it. We never stop working."

Cougars shoot for 16th title

Houston favored in NCAA golf

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Houston will be gunning for its 16th national title under Coach Dave Williams when the 88th annual NCAA Golf Championships get under way Wednesday at Grenelefe Golf and Tennis Resort.

The Cougars, who edged Oklahoma State by one stroke for the crown a year ago, are led by two of the country's top collegiate golfers — Steve Elkington and Billy Ray Brown.

Elkington was last year's individual runnerup to North Carolina's John Inman, while three-time All-American Brown won the individual title as a freshman in 1982.

Houston, which won its first championship under the 66-year-old Williams in 1956, is seeded first in the 72-hole tournament that will be contested over Grenelefe's par 72, 7,325-yard West Course.

Oklahoma State, UCLA, Florida, North Carolina and Wake Forest are considered top challengers to the five-man Houston team.

Oklahoma State's Scott Verplank is the defending U.S. Amateur champion, while North Carolina features All-America Davis Love and Jack Nicklaus II, son of the PGA Tour star and winner of last weekend's North and South Amateur championship.

UCLA, which finished 21st a year ago, is led by senior Duffy Waldorf. David Jackson and Scott Dunlap will lead host Florida, while the Wake Forest fivesomes includes Jerry Haas, brother of PGA Tour pro Jay Haas.

Williams, who has coached at Houston since 1951, has produced 50 All-Americans. The Cougars won five straight NCAA titles between 1956 and 1960 and also won four in a row from 1964 to 1967.

Houston's other national titles came in 1962, 1969, 1970, 1977, 1982 and 1984.

Lowly Pittsburg dumps Houston behind Reuschel pitching

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Rick Reuschel's fastball is back and so is Rick Reuschel. The 36-year-old right-hander, checked Houston on one run and three hits in 7 2/3 innings in his first major-league start since last Aug. 10 as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Astros 3-2 Tuesday night.

NL Roundup

Reuschel, a 12-year major-league veteran, almost all of it with the Chicago Cubs, retired 15 of the first 16 batters before needing help from John Candelaria in the eighth inning. "I'm just glad to be here," said

Reuschel, who has battled through four years of shoulder problems and signed a minor-league contract with the Pirates after he was released by the Cubs last November.

"I've been happy with the way I'm throwing the curveball, but I had so much success tonight with the fastball. When I was hurt, I couldn't throw the curveball as hard as I wanted, but now I can. It's a pleasure not to have the pain, to go out and do the things that I can do."

Reuschel was 6-2 with a league-best 2.50 earned run average at Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League until joining the Pirates.

"I didn't mind having to go to Hawaii," he said. "I was prepared to go there and I felt like I could go there and do the job. I wasn't disappointed when I didn't make the Pirates in spring training. They told me coming in that I couldn't make their staff unless somebody got hurt. It was the healthiest spring I ever saw."

Pittsburg took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Bill Madlock's single, a walk to Jason Thompson and RBI singles by George Hendrick and Tony Pena. They made it 3-1 in the fifth when Mike Scott walked the bases full and then walked Steve Kemp.

Reuschel threw only 40 pitches in the first five innings and Manager Chuck Tanner said: "I've seen him throw pitches this year he hasn't thrown in years."

Astros Manager Bob Lillis concurred. "He pitched a beautiful ballgame," Lillis said. "He's a very knowledgeable pitcher. He uses the corners and makes you hit the ball. His ball was moving and he kept it down and changed speeds and kept the hitters off balance."

Reds 5, Cubs 2
Dave Parker's tie-breaking double keyed a three-run eighth inning. Pinch-hitter Eddie Milner drew a walk off reliever George Frazier, one out later Dave Concepcion singled and Parker followed with his double off the left-field wall, extending his hitting streak to 13 games. Alan Knicely was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and walks to Tony Perez, who earlier had homered, and Nick Esasky forced across two more runs.

Cincinnati's John Stuper blanked the Cubs until they tied it with two runs in the bottom of the seventh. Jody Davis and Thad Bosley opened with singles, Larry Bowa sacrificed and pinch-runner Gary Woods scored on Richie Hebner's infield hit. Tom Humel relieved and got Bob Dernier to hit into a force at second as Bosley took third. Dernier then stole second and Bosley scored the tying run on catcher Knicely's throwing error.

Expos 6, Dodgers 1
Tim Wallach drove in three runs, two of them with his second homer of the season, while winning pitcher Bill Gullickson scattered five hits over 6 1/3 innings and helped his own cause with two hits, including a two-run double. Jeff Reardon picked up his ninth save with 2 2/3 innings of hitless relief.

Cardinals 6, Braves 3
Rookie Vince Coleman's first major-league home run, an inside-the-park shot, helped St. Louis withstand two mammoth homers by Atlanta's Bob Horner. Colman's homer came off loser Len Barker in the third inning. St. Louis starter Danny Cox surrendered Horner's solo homer in the second inning and a two-run blast in the sixth. Ricky Horton relieved in the sixth and recorded his first save by allowing two hits over the final 3 2/3 innings.

Phillies 6, Giants 5
Glenn Wilson drove in two runs and Philadelphia took advantage of San Francisco's shoddy fielding to score four unearned runs. Winner Shane Rawley gave up seven hits in five innings and Kent Tekulve worked 1 1/3 innings for his second save in two nights. The Giants took a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Royal home runs sink Rangers, 5-0

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — With each opposing team that has entered Arlington Stadium to face the Texas Rangers this season, it seems another batter has found a way to wreak home-run havoc courtesy of "the wall."

Tuesday night, it was George Brett, who teamed up with the stadium's outfield menagerie of billboards to smack two two-run homers and propel his Kansas City Royals past the Texas Rangers 5-0. "Ever since they put up that big wall, well, it (Arlington Stadium) has always been a good place to hit," said Brett.

AL Roundup

The wall, which went up last season, spans the outfield and stands over 15 feet high. Several players say the structure creates a wind-tunnel effect that helps power balls into homers.

Besides Brett's efforts, former Ranger Jim Sundberg also hit a home run for the Royals, making for the third homer off Ranger starter Frank Tanana.

"They should have put that wall up here three years ago," Sundberg said. "I would have had more nights like this one."

Royals starter Bud Black chipped in with a three-hit shutout in nine innings. Black struck out four and walked three to bring his record to 4-3.

Tanana allowed only five hits through eight innings, but suffered the pitching loss that dropped his record to 0-5 for the worst start in his major league career.

"I'm pitching good," said Tanana. "I'm feeling good. I'm just not getting any results. I felt really good tonight, but I made a couple of mistakes, and Brett took advantage of them."

Oakland 3
Baltimore 2
With the bases loaded and two outs in the bottom of the 10th inning and the score tied, the last thing Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli expected was Mike Boddicker to walk anyone.

So what did Boddicker do? He threw four straight high pitches to Dwayne Murphy, which forced in the winning run Tuesday night and gave the Oakland A's a 3-2 victory over the Orioles.

Angels 2, Tigers 1
California rookie Kirk McCaskill held Detroit hitless for 6 1/3 innings. Tigers starter Jack Morris took a one-hitter into the seventh.

But neither McCaskill nor Morris was around at the end to get a decision. The end came when Ruppert Jones cracked an RBI double with one out in the 11th inning.

Jones, who played for Detroit last season and signed with California as a free agent, got his game-winning hit after Juan Benquez singled off Willie Hernandez, 2-1, and took second on a sacrifice.

Yankees 11, Mariners 1
Not even a brounout at the Seattle Kingdome could halt New York's attack.

The Yankees knocked out Mariners starter Mark Langston, 5-4, with one out in the first inning by scoring four runs.

Rickey Henderson drove in four runs, three with a home run in the sixth, and also doubled and singled while scoring three times. Dave Winfield contributed three of New York's 14 hits.

Ron Guidry, 4-3, allowed only three singles in eight innings. Don Cooper pitched the ninth and gave up one hit.

Blue Jays 4, White Sox 3
Jeff Burroughs lined a one-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning, driving in George Bell from third base with the winning run.

Bell started the ninth with a double off reliever Bob James and moved to third on a flyout. Burroughs then singled just past the outstretched glove of third baseman Luis Salazar.

Jesse Barfield hit a two-run homer for Toronto, and Oscar Gamble cracked a two-run shot for visiting Chicago.

Red Sox 9, Twins 1
Dwight Evans, Tony Armas and Mike Easler broke out of hitting slumps at Minnesota's expense to lead visiting Boston.

Evans, who entered the game with one hit in his previous 26 at-bats, singled in the first inning after a walk to Wade Boggs. With two outs, Armas, who was three for his last 23, singled home Boggs.

In the third inning, Evans and Armas ach blasted home runs off Ken Schrom, 3-3. Later in the inning, Easler got out of a 4-for-43 rut with a double, and later scored.

Indians 6, Brewers 4
Brook Jacoby hit a two-run homer in the fifth to put Cleveland ahead 5-4, and relievers Bryan Clark and Rich Thompson held off visiting Milwaukee.

Jacoby's blow came off Ted Higuera, 1-3. Chris Bando added a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Clark, 1-0, entered the game with one out in the Milwaukee third and allowed one run in three innings to get the victory.

Houston wants Rozier in Oiler blue

HOUSTON (AP) — Running back Mike Rozier thus far has only worn the football shoes of a National Football League team.
But the Houston Oilers are working on getting him into a full uniform.
Rozier, currently playing for the Jackson State Football League Jacksonville Bulls, rushed 86 yards on 20 carries in the Astrodome Monday night en route to a 20-17 victory over the Houston Gamblers.
But he didn't need another outstanding performance to convince Oiler assistant general manager Mike Holovak.
"My mind's made up," Holovak said. "Those were some hard-fought yards he got tonight. If you give him room like we can give him, he'll produce."
Art Wilkinson, Rozier's agent, met with Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog on Monday. He said the Bulls have made an attractive offer to retain Rozier next season.
Herzog has said the Oilers will not attempt to sign Rozier until the end of the USFL season.
"I'd like to get to the NFL eventually," Rozier said. "I came to Houston to prove to the fans I'm ready to run for them ... whenever."
The Oilers, who own Rozier's NFL rights, gave Rozier a pair of artificial turf shoes because Rozier had brought grass cleats. Rozier's 86 yards put him over the 1,000-yard mark for the season.
Despite his statements about wanting to play in the NFL, Rozier said he was happy with the Bulls.
"They gave me a chance to play," Rozier said. "Right now, I'm concentrating on the Bulls and helping us win. I can't tell you much except that it doesn't matter to me where I play."
"Football's fun for me, and I just want to play."
Rozier said he wouldn't try to replace departed Earl Campbell.
"Earl's a good running back, but I'm just as good as Earl," Rozier said. "You all look to Earl as the most popular player in Texas. If I play here, I wouldn't be trying to replace anybody. Earl does some things different from me, and I do some things different from Earl."
Campbell was traded to the New Orleans Saints last season.
The Oilers would like to sign Rozier as a complement to running back Larry Moriarty, who is negotiating on a new contract.

Reporters ponder Reagan's pounding

President's closed-fist tactics arouse interest on the Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A moment of desk pounding by President Reagan became a big issue around the White House even though the president joked that all he was trying to do was swat a fly.

It started when the two Republican leaders of Congress, Robert Dole of the Senate and Robert Michel of the House, were briefing reporters on their meeting with the president Tuesday.

They said much of the meeting dealt with U.S. policy in Nicaragua.

Dole said Reagan "made a very firm statement" about the frustration of conducting foreign policy in the face of congressional attempts to tie his hands.

Michel said the president not only made a firm statement but "really put his fist down on the table, very audibly."

Reporters wanted to know more.

"What did the president do with his fist?"

"What did he say?"

"Remember his words?"

"What did he do?"

"Well," said Dole, "I can't re-enact it but he ... pounded the table. Took off his glasses. Had a firm look on his face and laid it out there."

When the president posed for photographers with visiting Honduran President Roberto Suazo Cordova of Honduras, a reporter asked whether it was true he had been "pounding the table on Nicaragua."

"Oh, just kind of slapped it," he said.

This muddled the waters, because slapping is not the same as hitting with your fist.

"You mean it wasn't a real fist?" somebody asked. The president's answer was not audible.

Reporters returned to the attack when White House spokesman Larry Speakes held his daily briefing.

PRESIDENT REAGAN

Military address

President gives academy graduates rousing send-off

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, battling congressional demands for deeper cuts in the Pentagon budget, gave a rousing send-off to the graduates at the U.S. Naval Academy today and warned them "it is too costly for America not to be prepared."

Reagan, in remarks prepared for delivery at the commencement exercises, put in a plug for strong defense systems and the need for top-notch leadership in the nation's military as vital elements of national security.

The president warned the graduates that they will have to guard, as he has, against attempts to clip military expenditures.

"You will hearing during your career ... that maintaining the military at peak readiness, keeping our forces trained and supplied with the best weapons and equipment, is too costly," Reagan said. "I say it is too costly for America not to be prepared."

"It is strength, not weakness, resolve, not vacillation, that will keep the peace," the president told the class of 1,032 at the prestigious service academy in Annapolis, Md.

The president told the graduates that "many good men" gave their lives in World War II because of "America's unwillingness to prepare in the 1930s."

He vowed: "Let me promise you, as long as I am president, that will not happen again."

Reagan argued that U.S. military might has been "an immensely positive force in the world" and that many nations in Europe "owe their freedom ... to the protection of the United States military."

The president warned the graduates that the Soviet Union has "raced forward with the largest peacetime military expansion in history."

His administration has attempted to combat that by funding "top-of-the-line weapons systems," building a 600-ship Navy by the end of the decade and cutting out waste and inefficiency, he said.

"That's why you hear stories about outrageously expensive hammers or bolts," Reagan said. "We're finding the waste and cutting it out."

The president told the graduates that he was proud of their courage and their patriotism. "Be brave," he told them. "As you go forth in your career, the flag will be in your hands. Carry it and yourselves with pride."

The president's remarks came as his plans for increases in military spending have run into a congressional roadblock, with the Republican-run Senate approving a budget plan to slash his Pentagon request and allow only for inflation. A key House committee, meanwhile, has voted to freeze military spending at current levels.

As a gift for the commander in chief, the class planned to present Reagan with a regulation bathrobe decorated with the stripes of a five-star admiral, according to Ellen Gallagher, the academy's spokeswoman.

"Commander in Chief," has been emblazoned on the back, but inside the president will find the Navy's favorite command — "Beat Army," Ms. Gallagher said.

After the presentation of the gift and several customary cheers, the class ends the ceremony by hurling their white midshipmen's caps high into the air.

Some 18,000 guests were expected to attend the ceremony in the Navy Marine Corps Memorial Stadium.

Delivering septuplets

One baby born dead, others stable

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Six "very pink, very small" babies were delivered by Caesarean section Tuesday to a 30-year-old English teacher who took a fertility drug, but a seventh infant was born dead, hospital officials said.

Three dozen doctors, nurses and other medical staffers at Children's Hospital of Orange County assisted in the operation on Patricia Frustaci, who developed complications in her 28th week of pregnancy.

tensive care Tuesday afternoon but that "her reaction so far is one of joy."

Mrs. Frustaci will remain hospitalized up to five days but will not see her babies until her release from the intensive care unit in about two days, Ms. Conkey said. The mother was placed in intensive care as a precaution, she said.

... proud father

The four surviving boys and two girls — ranging in weight from 1 pound, 1 ounce to 1 pound, 13 ounces — were listed in critical but stable condition. Hospital spokesman Doug Wood said premature babies weighing less than 2 pounds generally have a 35 percent to 40 percent chance for survival.

"Right now there is no major problem with any of the six," Wood said. "They all look very pink, very small, very thin. The smallest one you could easily hold in my hand."

"As far as their long-term survival (chances), we really can't tell at this time," hospital spokeswoman Debra Conkey said.

The Guinness Book of World Records lists no cases of septuplets all surviving. It mentions three previous cases in which sextuplets survived, but none was in the United States.

The babies were transferred in mobile incubators to a special neonatal intensive care unit at Children's Hospital via an underground tunnel linking it to the adjacent St. Joseph Hospital, where Mrs. Frustaci started undergoing surgery at 8:17 a.m., Wood said.

The first girl was born at 8:19 a.m., followed by two boys and another girl a minute later, two more boys at 8:21 a.m. and a dead girl at 8:22 a.m., St. Joseph spokeswoman Valerie Orleans said.

"It went very well. All the babies were born within three minutes," said Donald L. Hicks, a St. Joseph vice president.

Later, Mrs. Frustaci cradled the stillborn infant in her arms for 15 minutes, said Tes Pane, director of the obstetrical nursing service.

"It helps identify that that baby, even though it is a stillbirth, is an individual person," said Ms. Pane.

The father, Samuel Frustaci, 32, added, "We feel very strongly this baby will always be with us."

Ms. Orleans said Mrs. Frustaci was in good condition. Martin Feldman, her obstetrician, said she remained heavily sedated in in-

Lay minister convicted of bombing

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Lutheran lay minister was convicted Tuesday night of conspiring to bomb 10 abortion clinics in three states and the District of Columbia.

The U.S. District Court jury also found Michael D. Bray, 32, of Bowie, guilty of one count of obtaining destructive devices but acquitted him of two other counts of obtaining destructive devices.

Bray, who faces a possible 20 year prison term and will remain free on bond pending his July 2 sentencing hearing, showed no emotion as the verdict was read. Neither he nor his attorney had any comment afterward.

Bray and two other men — Thomas E. Spinks, 37, of Bowie, and Kenneth W. Shields, 34, of Laurel — were charged in connection with bombings, burnings or attempts to damage 10 abortion-related facilities in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and Washington. The attacks occurred from January 1984 through January 1985.

Spinks pleaded guilty May 3 to one count each of conspiracy and malicious destruction and agreed to testify against Bray.

United strike talks stall

CHICAGO (AP) — Proposals are being exchanged between the two sides in the walkout by pilots for United Airlines, but no real progress has been made, a mediator in the dispute said. Negotiations resume today in the six-day-old walkout by the 5,000 that has crippled the nation's largest airline. United said it scheduled only 207 out of its 1,580 flights Tuesday — about 15 percent of its normal traffic. Both sides met for 11 hours Monday in the first resumption of talks since the strike began Friday. They met for about nine hours Tuesday.

Officials blame arson for Florida fires

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — As heavy rains doused blazes that had rampaged across much of Florida, authorities said they think arsonists might have been responsible for starting many of them.

More than 100 wildfires had plagued the state for the past five days, scorching more than 150,000 acres, destroying homes and causing mass evacuations, but officials said only seven major blazes appeared to be burning early today.

The seven fires cover 42,589 acres but pose no threat to people or buildings, said Whitney Lerer, spokesman for the State Division of Forestry. Up to 5,000 firefighters from an estimated three-quarters of Florida's 700 fire departments have been involved in battling blazes. The National Guard was called into action after Gov. Bob Graham declared a state of emergency.

By Tuesday afternoon, rain had doused most of the fires that destroyed 150 homes and scorched 21,500 acres near Palm Coast in northeastern Florida, said state forestry spokesman Paul Willis.

The National Weather Service predicted afternoon and evening thundershowers for all the Florida peninsula except the southern tip, where chances of rain remained 20 percent, said forecaster Allen Cummings.

But he said weather experts believe Florida's annual summer rainy season has arrived, and that could mean an end to the unprecedented epidemic of wildfires.

As blazes have been contained, fire investigators moved in to determine the causes. A fire in central Florida south of Flagler Beach, which flared Sunday and Monday, was definitely arson, said state forestry fire investigator Gordon Buckles.

"There have been a number of suspicious incidents and individuals and it is the intention of the state Division of Forestry and local authorities to escalate investigations of these individuals," the division said in a statement issued Tuesday.

Fire investigators are particularly interested in an unidentified man who showed up at the Palm Coast blaze and spent three days assisting firefighters while trying to seek publicity, according to a report by firefighters.

Other blazes continued to burn within fire lines in several parts of the state, but Lerer said he had little information about their sizes or locations.

"The ones that are contained will go through a mop-up procedure," Lerer said. "Crews will go in and put out the fire that is within the control lines with water or with tractors."

Fire guts house, 7 dead

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Fire swept through a three-story rooming house in a working class neighborhood early today, killing at least seven people as it reduced the structure to its frame and ashes, police said.

Ten people were believed to have been living in the old, wood-frame building, said police Sgt. Arthur O'Keefe. He said two had escaped with injuries after the being forced onto an upstairs back porch by flames.

"I've been here 30 years and this is the worst fire I can remember," said city police Lt. Sal Marino. "The fire was emanating from the windows on the first and second floors."

The structure, which is about three blocks from a firehouse, was engulfed by flames by the time firefighters responding to 1:23 a.m. alarm arrived, said O'Keefe. The blaze was extinguished two hours later.

City Fire Capt. Martin Cavanagh said the age of building was probably the reason why the fire spread so fast.

"This is the old-style building built probably in the early 1920s or 30s," he said. "An all-wood frame."

Cavanagh said the cause of the fire had not been determined, but apparently began on the first floor. Officials said they could not immediately identify the victims because their bodies were severely burned.

But man who said he was related to the building's owner, Roscoe Wilson, said the dead included his elderly aunt, Bertha Eaton, who owned the building.

Wilson identified the other victims as: Florence Wilson, his sister, who was in her mid-20s; Jamal Wilson, his 6-year-old nephew; Della Hyman, 15, and Linda Hyman, 17, both granddaughters of Mrs. Eaton; and Bill and Betty Lou Garfield, a couple in their sixties unrelated to him.

City police officer James Moore said officials did not yet know who or how many people lived in the building at 41 Armory Street in an area near the downtown district of this New York City suburb of 23,000 residents.

Cavanagh said the two survivors, both men, were rescued from a back porch on the building's third floor.

O'Keefe said he could not tell whether the building was equipped with fire safety devices it would be required have if it was legally designated a rooming house.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be more objective when dealing with associates and get better results, also acknowledge letters graciously.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are not thinking quite straight today so do nothing that is of importance, but take under advisement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If somebody tries to hurt your feelings, do not argue but walk away briskly. Not a good day to try to see adamant friends.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A private affair is bothering you and you are confused about how to handle it, so wait awhile before doing so.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are meeting up with some opposition to a plan you have for gaining what you desire, so figure out how best to get over that annoyance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle outside matters very conscientiously and don't jeopardize your good name in any way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go ahead with that plan you have been working on and get good results, but don't make any radical changes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A report could require some change, so be sure to make it and be accurate. Do not irk a good friend in some way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be gentle with an emotionally disturbed associate or there could be a severance of connections. Be more thoughtful of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may find work boring this day but handle it quickly and efficiently and it is soon done. Be happy at home tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be content with inexpensive pleasure, otherwise you could spend a lot and get little in return.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of studying problems thoroughly and then solving them very wisely. Teach to not jump to any conclusions, and to be more objective in order to keep from getting hurt personally. An academic education is a must here. Sports are good here.

Consistency of cheeses pleases palates

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

Cheese as a food is almost as old as milk, from which it's made. Stone tablets from as early as 4,000 B.C. show cheese. Legend has it that the first cheese was made accidentally by a shepherd carrying milk in a pouch made from a sheep's stomach. Rennet, an enzyme in the pouch, in combination with heat from the sun, caused milk to separate into a solid portion (curds) and liquid (whey). Another version tells of the pouch left in a cave where cheese formed, possibly with some curing.

If it tasted delicious to the shepherd then, it's even more delicious now. Thanks to the cheesemaker's art, there are hundreds of varieties of cheese, some of them still carrying the name of the place where they originated: Cheddar, Swiss, Stilton, Limburger and others. In the United States, it's relatively easy to obtain 200 varieties, enough to fit any taste.

Cheesemaking evolved from a farm activity to a business in the United States when the first cheese factory started in 1851 at Rome, New York. Approximately 430 U.S. Department of Agriculture-approved cheese plants in this country in more than 30 states make real, high-quality cheeses.

CHEDDAR-PUFFED PORK CHOPS — An airy topping of milk, beaten egg, sharp Cheddar cheese and chopped onion gives new flavor interest to browned pork chops.

1/2 cup finely chopped onion
Brown chops in oil; place in 13x9-inch baking dish. Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Blend in egg; cook until mixture is thick and begins to pull away from sides of pan. Add cheese and onion; stir until cheese is melted. Top each chop with cheese mixture. Bake at 350 degrees, 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CHEDDAR 'N CORN MEAL BAKE

2 cups milk
3/4 cup enriched corn meal
1/4 cup chopped green onion
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
3 eggs, beaten

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 1-quart casserole. In medium saucepan, combine milk, corn meal, green onion and salt. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, about 2 minutes or until thickened. Add cheese and butter; mix until cheese is melted. Stir small amount of corn meal mixture into eggs; return to corn meal mixture, stirring constantly. Pour into prepared casserole. Bake 40 to 45 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Cheesemaking involves careful attention to detail and considerable knowledge by, and training of, the cheesemaker. This is particularly true for cheese that is cured or ripened; for even the slightest errors and inconsistencies will have a negative effect in its quality, taste, texture, smell, appearance and marketability.

Cheeses should be served at room temperature to enjoy their true flavors. Remove full-flavored cheeses from the refrigerator an hour before serving. Milder cheeses can be taken out one half-hour in advance.

Cheese may be served with any food from apples to zucchini. Select the type that goes with your taste as well as the food with which it's served, using your imagination and taste buds to discover new combinations to please every palate.

FRUIT 'N CHEESE BARS

Cheese: a good source of calcium

Real cheese is exceptionally nutritious. It is a concentrated source of milk's nutrients, with all the vitamins and minerals of whole milk. It is also a good source of calcium, a nutrient that is in dangerously short supply in the diets of many adults.

Recent government studies show that many Americans don't get enough calcium in the diet. Two out of every three women over 17 do not get enough dietary calcium, and many men over 35 also have low calcium intakes.

One result of a calcium-deficient diet is osteoporosis, a painful and crippling bone disease. Other health problems that may be caused by low calcium intake include high blood pressure, and loss of the bone that supports the teeth, which can speed up periodontal (gum) disease and tooth loss.

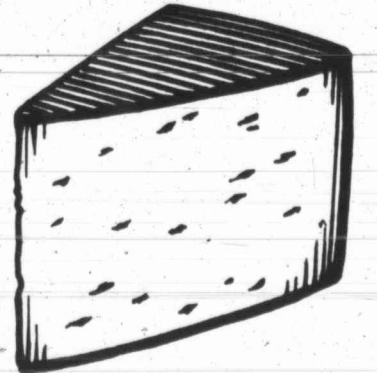

"More than 15 million Americans have osteoporosis to some degree," said Judy Hage, director of the Associated Milk Producers' Consumer Services Division in Arlington. "This is a serious disease that cannot be cured. But, by getting adequate calcium in the diet, it can be prevented."

Without sufficient dietary calcium, the bones become weak, brittle and easily broken, symptoms of osteoporosis. A young person can lower the risk of developing the disease and a person over age 40 can slow the rate at which the bones lose calcium by consuming adequate amounts of calcium-adult male 23-50 years of age. One and a half ounces (1 1/2 slices) of Cheddar cheese contain about as much calcium as a cup of milk.

The Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for calcium is 800 milligrams per day for children and adults. Teenagers and pregnant and nursing women need 1,200 milligrams daily.

"Dairy products as a group are the major source of calcium in the national food supply," says Hage. "Cheese is an important part of that group. People who don't drink milk can get the calcium they need from cheese. It is easily digestible, stores well and, because there is no waste, cheese is an economical food."

"Adding cheese to sandwiches, snacking on cheese and crackers, using cheese in casseroles and other baked dishes, adding cheese to salads, and eating cheese with fruit for dessert are easy and enjoyable ways to add essential calcium to the diet," says Hage.

Thus, a one-ounce serving of Cheddar cheese can supply 26 percent of the RDA of calcium for the rich foods, such as cheese. All cheeses are good sources of calcium. Swiss, Monterey, Edam, pasteurized process Swiss cheese food, Cheddar and Muenster are particularly concentrated sources that provide more than 200 milligrams of calcium per one-ounce serving.

Lawmakers up late arguing over state budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Budget negotiators have spent another long and mostly fruitless night trying to get a 1986-87 spending bill compromise out and avoid a special session.

"There are a number of issues still open — major issues," Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said after the committee meeting ended just before 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"If those issues don't fall into place tomorrow, we'll be in a real critical situation," said Farabee, a conference committee member.

The Tuesday night meeting followed Monday's marathon session that ran past 2 a.m. Tuesday, plus other long meetings Saturday and Sunday.

Negotiators spent most of the evening considering funding for various state agencies, but they steered clear of issues such as higher education and proposed pay hikes for state employees that are key to final approval of a spending plan.

Committee co-chairman Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, said he is "optimistic" that negotiations will result in a compromise, but added,

"I guess I'm too optimistic. I always think we're going to move fast and we end up taking longer."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis showed up to help speed things along, but Hobby wasn't hopeful.

"We've got problems," Hobby told reporters after he and Lewis appeared in the conference committee's crowded hearing room. "This is the latest I can remember for an appropriations bill still being in conference."

"Right now we are $25 million over what we have available and they still have not been through all the bill," Lewis said.

Threats of a special session, which would be necessary if no agreement is hammered out by midnight May 27, were obvious among the tired and worried legislators.

Lewis was asked if he thought a compromise could be reached before May 27, when the Legislature is scheduled to adjourn, or whether a special session would be needed.

"That's why the lieutenant governor and I are up here now," Lewis said. "We're trying to find a way out of this situation."

Both officials said differences over higher education funding and a pay raise for state employees have been the main sticking points. "There have been several tentative agreements but they didn't stick," Hobby said.

After talking with various members of the 10-member conference committee, Hobby, Lewis and legislators from their respective chambers disappeared behind closed doors in a nearby room.

"Each side is working up another package," said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan. "We've had lots of packages and likely will have a lot more."

Panel reaches compromise on junior college funding

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Texas House-Senate budget negotiators are having trouble with many costly issues, but they managed to agree on junior college funding and grants for needy private university students.

In efforts to compromise on separate House and Senate budget plans, the conference committee adopted figures Tuesday in between what was proposed in both bills for junior colleges and private school student aid.

After meeting into the night Tuesday, budget leaders said they hoped to reach final agreement Wednesday on expensive items such as senior college funding, state employee pay raises and welfare. If a budget is not adopted by the House and Senate when the session ends Monday, a special legislative meeting will be needed.

A compromise fell apart earlier in the week, with four of five Senate members mixing an employee pay raise plan. They said they wanted to hold out for more House concessions.

In areas of agreement, the committee decided to slice 2.5 percent from current appropriations levels for junior colleges, compared with a House-proposed 100 percent funding and the Senate-proposed 94 percent funding.

Robert Clinton, a junior college group spokesman, said he felt the compromise was fair and that most schools could live with it. However, some colleges may have to lay off employees, he said, particularly if their enrollments have dropped.

Under the House bill, the Howard College District would have received $3.56 million each year. Included in that amount is $1.35 million each year for the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Currently, the district receives $3.88 million, with $1.95 million set aside for the institute.

The Senate proposal would have appropriated $3.42 million a year for the college district, with $1.35 million a year for the institute.

The committee also compromised between lower House and higher Senate proposals on the Tuition Equalization Grant program, which helps needy students attending private colleges. They set aside $35.9 million over the two-year budget period. That would give the program about 86.5 percent of its current funding.

The Senate plan proposed $39.4 million and the House bill suggested $29.4 million for the grants. In the current budget period, $41.1 million is set aside for the grants.
