Tax reform: 'Go for it'

Reagan proposes radical overhaul; oilmen wary

Staff and wire reports President Reagan, winning plaudits from congressional tax writers, is proposing a vast tax overhaul with lower rates, larger exemptions and fewer deductions—a system he promises will lift the poor and make everybody's neighbor pay a fair share.

"America, go for it," he urged. But some organizations were withholding their enthusiasm for the new plan until more details are outlined. Harry Spannaus of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association said today that the oil industry has not taken a stand on the new proposals.

Under Reagan's plan, medium-size segments of the oil industry would lose part of their depletion allowance, but the full writeoff for labor, pipe and other special costs of drilling for oil would continue as under present law.

The loss of the depletion allowance is one question the oil industry would like to see clarified, Spannaus said.

"We are taking no position until we find out what percentage of the depletion allowance will be cut, Spannaus said.

The reduction of the depletion allowance "will hurt the smaller people, the small independent." Spannaus said he was concerned with the fate of the independents because of their contribution to the West Texas economy.

Spannaus said the oil industry is concerned "about foreign tax credits. That was not mentioned" in Reagan's plan.

But the overall plan, "is not as severe as we thought it could be," Spannaus said.

The 72-year-old federal income tax is un-American, unwise, unwanted and unfair, the president said in a nationally broadcast speech Tuesday night. "For the sake of fairness, simplicity and growth, we must radically change the structure of a tax system that still treats our earnings as the personal property of the Internal Revenue Service," he said.

"Death and taxes may be inevitable, but unjust taxes are not," Reagan said in a speech laden with praise for free enterprise, the family unit and American ingenuity. His proposal, he said, is "America's tax plan: a revolutionary first for fairness in our future; a long overdue commitment to help working Americans and their families; and a challenge to our entire nation to excel...."

Key members of Congress were generally impressed with what details the president offered. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., whose House Ways and Means Committee

Firemen approve of board

Council picks 3 for civil service

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Councilmen named the three members of the firemen's civil service board Tuesday night, sliding in under a June 5 deadline to make the appointments.

After a short executive session at the end of Tuesday's meeting, councilmen named attorney Drew Mouton, retired Lt. Col. Glen Jones and Johnnie Marsalis to the board.

"We feel like we've come up with a good committee," said Gary Don Carey, who strongly supported the firemen's state civil service referendum in his campaign.

"We wanted good, honest people who could look at issues objectively," Carey said. Marsalis, who he nominated for the board, actually voted against the referendum, he said.

"But she's able to look at things objectively. I thought she would be good," Carey said. Marsalis is the wife of Denton Marsalis, who owns D&C Sales Inc., a manufactured housing dealership.

According to Councilman Russ McEwen and Carey, each councilman nominated three persons for the board. The firemen also submitted three names, Carey said.

Jones was named to a one-year term, Marsalis to a two-year term, and Mouton to a three-year term.

Jones, the only nominee Carey said he did not know, had served in the personnel division in the military and was nominated by the firemen, Carey said.

John Branham, president of the Big Spring Professional Fire Fighters Association Local 2922, said, however, that Jones was not one of the union's nominees. "He might have been nominated by Carl," he said, referring to Fire Chief Carl Dorton.

None of the civil service board members were nominated by the union, Branham said. But he labeled the new board members "excellent choices" by the council.

"We'll be able to work real well with the people they selected. I want to congratulate the council. There were many to choose from, and they did their best," Branham said.

Carey, McEwen and Fire Chief Carl Dorton also had praises for Mouton, who has a private law practice in Big Spring.

"We wanted an attorney on the board. We thought that was real important," McEwen said. "He'll be objective, too," Carey said.

Councilmembers sifted through at least 20 nominees before arriving at the current board members.

CLEAN brushes off summer program

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Chamber of Commerce CLEAN program will get a head start Thursday when city youth sweep the streets downtown in preparation for the Heart of the City Festival.

CLEAN employees will be joined by a work crew from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, according to downtown merchants' association member Greg Brooks.

According to Brooks, 10 inmates and two supervisors will clean up the area for the Heart of the City Festival from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday.

The CLEAN program officially starts Monday, but employees will clean up the downtown streets Thursday and Friday evening for the Saturday festival, according to CLEAN Director DeWayne Wallace.

According to Wallace and former CLEAN director Johnny Rutherford, the program will employ about 25 students this summer.

Wallace and his assistant, Edward Seay, both Goliad teachers, will direct the Chamber program. Rutherford, who became well known for his involvement with the program, said he would still be involved with the program but could no longer direct it because he was elected to the city council.

"It's gone smoother this year,"

Rutherford said. "The funding is in place better."

This year, wages for 10 of the employees—equivalent to about $12,000—will be paid under the federal Job Training Partnership Act, Wallace said.

The federal funding will enable the city to stretch its funds, Rutherford said. "Big Daddy City Hall will have that much more money to clean up streets with," he said.

Photographs and memories

Teacher captures students' history through picture albums

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Allene Hamilton will have more than memories to carry with her when she retires Friday.

The spunky Washington Elementary School teacher has photographs of almost every child she's had in the classroom.

Sitting inside her comfortable living room after school this week, Hamilton reaches for one of the albums filled with photographs of smiling first graders. Tucked inside the pages of the albums are yellowed newspaper clippings, wedding invitations and other bits and pieces of information on the students she's taught.

Hamilton "had an inspiration to keep pictures of the children I had" when she began her career several decades ago. "It grew into something I just had to do. The only sad thing is that some children were not at school on school picture day. I'd beg them out of a picture."

Her albums hold 38 years of photographs and she can remember a little something about each child pictured. Thumbing through her albums, she runs her finger across certain photographs and shares a little information on what the students are doing now.

One of Hamilton's earliest photographs is a 1930s black and white group picture of a class at the old Cauble grade school, a country school which is no longer exists. Shortly after she graduated from North Texas State University with a degree in home economics, Hamilton accepted a job at the Cauble school teaching first grade.

She accepted the job thinking she would eventually teach home economics. Later, she did teach home economics for a year, but, "I was already hooked on the little ones," she said.

Allene Hamilton thumbs through one of her photograph albums at her home. The first grade teacher has pictures and clippings of most of her former students dating back 38 years.

Hamilton was born in Stanton and is "a West Texan at heart," she said. During World War II she and her husband Cecil were transferred to Kansas City, but they returned to Big Spring in 1947 and Hamilton began teaching at the old South Ward school.

In 1951 Hamilton was assigned to Washington Elementary. The school was completed in 1952 and Hamilton and her class moved into the new school. She has been teaching first grade at Washington ever since.

During all those years teaching first grade, "There were times I'd think about getting into some other grade. But then at the end of the year I'd see how much (the students) had progressed, so I stayed with it." First grade "is the most important one" in terms of logging progress, Hamilton said.

Hamilton also credits her husband for supporting her throughout her career. "He's been supportive of my work. He's my sounding board."

Although the Hamiltons have plenty of activities lined up for retirement, she is a little anxious about leaving a profession she loves.

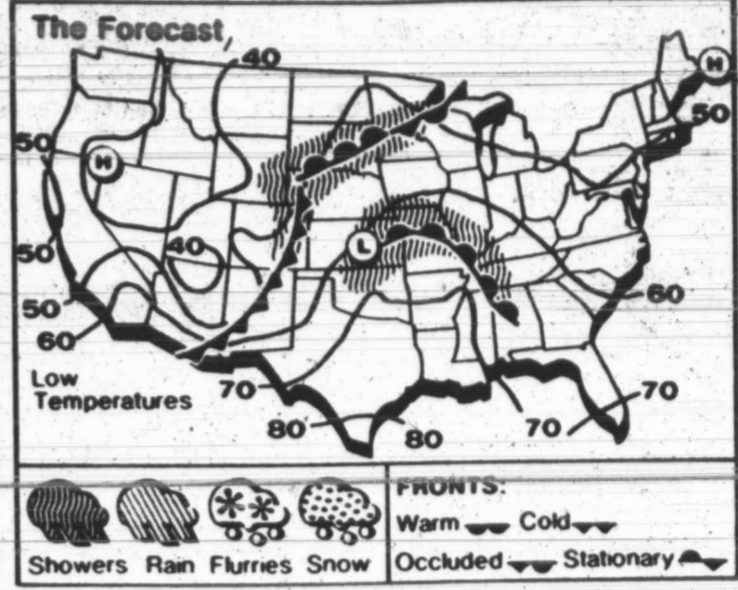

"I have mixed feelings, but I feel...it's time to do some things I'd like to do." She has been considering retirement for about two years but every time she decided to quit, "I backed out."

But this time Hamilton has no plans to change her mind. "We've got several trips planned," she said. The Hamilton's son, Horace, lives in Fort Worth with his family and the couple plans to visit him often.

And she plans to keep busy redoing her photo albums. "It's my hobby. It's really been a pleasure to have this."

Thanks to her photo albums, Hamilton knows she'll never be too far away from her students. "I have a lot of memories that will keep me going for a long time."

Detention center to benefit area counties

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Margy Thompson of the 118th Judicial District said neither Martin nor Glasscock Counties have been asked to contribute monies to the building of a new juvenile detention center in Big Spring.

"The juvenile board as of this date has not requested Martin nor Glasscock counties to assume any financial responsibility to build a detention facility," Thompson said.

Howard County commissioners in a meeting yesterday passed a motion to hire Big Spring architects John Gary and Donald Bailey to design a new county juvenile detention center. Commissioners delayed making a motion to vote on a proposed site.

Thompson said that commissioner courts in each county are required by the state to provide facilities to house juvenile offenders.

"The Howard County Commissioner's court has cooperated 100 percent with judicial justice in this county," Thompson said.

She said commissioners in this county had cooperated with requests from the 118th District Juvenile Board. The Texas Juvenile Probation Commission requires district juvenile boards to inspect juvenile holding facilities annually.

- Approved a motion made by Commissioner Paul Allen to renew a current contract with Midland College in maintaining the county's intoxilyzer machine used in driving while intoxicated arrests.

- Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown cast a dissenting vote for the motion.

- Approved specifications for the sheriff's department request for a new vehicle. County auditor Jackie Olson said the sheriff's department is budgeted $10,053 for a new vehicle and that bids would open on June 24.

The Industrial Foundation also has agreed to supply up to $5,000 for the purchase of two used pickup trucks and a trailer. The vehicles will be sold at the end of the summer and the proceeds from the sale will be given back to the Industrial Foundation, Wallace and Rutherford said.

City involvement in the program has increased also, Rutherford said. The city has budgeted about $10,000 to $12,000 for the program through its weed abatement program, he said.

To be eligible for the program, youths must be 16 years or older. Those hired under the federal act will work 40 hours a week. In addition, CLEAN expects to hire about 15 more students, some at 40 hours a week, while others will work between 20 and 30 hours a week.

To apply for the program or any other summer youth job, youths should go to the Texas Employment Commission office downtown or at the Big Spring Mall. The mall office will be open from 3 to 6 p.m. this week, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. next week, TEC office manager Joe Wallis.

In addition to cleaning up city streets, business owners can hire the program to clean up around their businesses, Wallace said. To hire CLEAN, call the Chamber of Commerce.

8 'Legion of Doom' members indicted

FORT WORTH (AP) — It was graduation day at Paschal High School, a day marred by the indictments of six seniors, one junior and a recent graduate on an array of charges connected to a vigilante group known as the Legion of Doom.

According to the indictments returned Tuesday, the youths constructed an explosive device and bombed an automobile, threatened another student with a gun, killed and gutted a cat and left it in a car, and damaged a school locker and other property in efforts to strike back at those they perceived as troublemakers.

The group's members mostly are the teen-age sons of affluent families. Some are honor-roll students and others are athletes.

The indictments shocked some students at Paschal, although the most common reaction was an assumption of at least some degree of guilt on the part of those charged, coupled with the hope that they won't be treated too harshly.

It was the killing and gutting of a cat, left on the seat of a car allegedly vandalized by Legion members, that got to freshmen Kim Alvarez and Laurie Rutherford.

"Good. I think they deserve it," Alvarez said on hearing of the indictments.

"Having a group is OK, but killing that cat was uncool," Rutherford said.

"It's a terrorist act and I don't think we need terrorists running around blowing up our fair city," said sophomore Karla Farrington, referring to alleged Legion violence.

The student body is loosely divided into "the rich kids, the freaks and the low riders," she said. "The freaks, we're supposed to be the bad kids, skipping school and all," she said. "But here these pillars of our community are doing worse things than we will ever do on our lives."

Board members must be residents of the city and they must not be current officeholders or have held a public office for the last three years.

The next step in the process is implementation of the state requirements into the city fire department, according to Branham, Dorton and the councilmen.

Couple stable after collision

Howard County registered two major traffic accidents that occurred over the Memorial Day weekend.

A Lamesa couple remain in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital Wednesday morning following a two-vehicle accident that occurred Sunday afternoon on Highway 87 south of Big Spring.

A spokesman at the hospital said that Mrs. Ernest Merrill Flenniken, 82, would remain in intensive care. Mr. Ernest Merrill Flenniken, 80, was to be transferred to a room on the fourth floor today, the spokesman said.

The Flennikens were traveling south on Highway 87 as they attempted to pass a vehicle driven by George Mereness, 25, of 1810 S. Goliad. Mereness was in the process of making a left turn onto Hughes Road at the time of the collision.

Mereness was treated for injuries at Malone-Hogan after the accident and then released.

According to the sheriff's log, the jaws of life were requested after the accident occurred. A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper charged Seila Sok, 18, of Odessa with failure to contain speed and failure to maintain financial responsibility following a one vehicle accident Sunday morning.

According to a DPS report, Sok was traveling east on Interstate 20. His car ran off the roadway, crossed the center median, traveled across the westbound lane and turned over 2 1/2 times in the westbound bar ditch.

Sok was treated at Malone-Hogan for bruises, abrasions and minor lacerations before being released.

W. B. Locke, 60, died Monday. Graveside services will be Thursday at 2:00 P.M. at Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Two indicted for spying

BALTIMORE — At least one $1,000 payment for secret U.S. Navy documents has been traced to a 22-year-old seaman accused of spying for the Soviet Union with his retired Navy officer father, the government says.

Michael Walker, a seaman assigned to the aircraft carrier Nimitz, was paid for classified papers he took from the Oceana Naval Air Station in Virginia Beach, Va., according to a six-count indictment returned Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

The indictment charged 44-year-old private detective John Anthony Walker Jr. of Norfolk, Va., a retired naval communications expert, and his son with conspiring to supply the Soviet Union with documents they knew could harm U.S. security.

8 escape from jail, prison

OKLAHOMA CITY — Eight prisoners, including one convicted of murder and another accused of two slayings, were at large today after escaping in two separate breakouts, officials said.

Five inmates fled the Oklahoma State Penitentiary at McAlester late Tuesday, the Highway Patrol said. Earlier, three Osage County prisoners overpowered a deputy sheriff and stole his car and guns.

LT. Lloyd Basinger at the patrol's McAlester office said the escape at the penitentiary was reported at 9:50 p.m. Tuesday, but no details were available.

"All we know is that five inmates escaped from inside the walls," Basinger said. "We've got several units out now, and set up roadblocks. We're helping out local authorities."

Testimony vs. von Bulow

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Claus von Bulow's former mistress lashed out at a defense lawyer and said she is ashamed that she continued to see the socialite even after he told her how he watched his wealthy wife sink into a coma to the edge of death.

Alexandra Isles said Tuesday that she had not revealed what von Bulow had told her about his wife's coma when she testified at his 1982 trial on two counts of attempted murder because she "couldn't bear to think about it."

Mrs. Isles became the final witness for the prosecution after Superior Court Judge Corinne P. Grande refused to allow Martha "Sunny" von Bulow's longtime banker to testify.

The defense was expected to open its case when the trial resumes today.

Virginia prison hit by fire

RICHMOND, Va. — A fire broke out early today in the maximum security section of the State Penitentiary, forcing officials to move 89 prisoners temporarily, authorities said.

No injuries were reported in the fire, said prison spokeswoman Kathi King.

Miracle escape

Lebanese palace bombed; president uninjured

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel's palace sustained two direct hits by artillery shells today and caught fire, but Gemayel "miraculously" escaped unharmed, state radio said.

The two shells set Gemayel's private wing and his office on fire as he was eating lunch in an adjacent dining room, the radio said. There was no immediate report of casualties, but the palace sustained extensive damage, the radio said.

"Firemen, civil defense squads and the presidential guards are trying to put out the fire and remove debris," the radio said.

Beirut radio stations had reported earlier in the day that Gemayel, a Maronite Christian, was preparing to go to the Syrian capital of Damascus to ask President Hafez Assad for Syrian military intervention to stop 10 days of fighting between Shiites, Moslems and Palestinian refugees.

Shiite militiamen and armored units of a mainly Shiite army unit pounded a Palestinian refugee camp on Beirut's southern edge with mortars and tank fire today, officials said. Thirteen shells hit the Beirut airport.

The shells exploded on the airport tarmac as passengers boarded a flight bound for Europe, civil aviation sources said. The passengers sprinted back to the terminal, and there were no reports of casualties.

Palestinians responded to the Shiite assault on Bourj el-Barajneh camp with machine guns and armor-piercing rockets, police said.

Palestinians said they were keeping the Shiites from mounting a push into the three besieged camps which had a population of 120,000 before the fighting began.

Police reported 19 people were killed and 48 were wounded overnight,

Weeping Palestinian refugees file the refugee camp of Sabra Tuesday as fighting between the Palestinian guerrillas and Shiite militiamen raged on for the eighth day. The presidential palace was rocked by bombing Tuesday.

raising the toll to at least 408 dead and 1,803 wounded. The two sides have accused each other of massacres, but there has been no independent confirmation of the charges.

The Syrian army left Beirut during Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon to crush the Palestinians. But Syria has maintained an estimated 30,000 soldiers in northern and eastern Lebanon under a peacekeeping mandate from the Arab League.

Arab mediators continued efforts in Beirut and Damascus to work out a compromise between Shiite demands that the camps be disarmed and Palestinian vows to fight to the last man.

Libya sent envoys to both Beirut and Damascus, and government ministers from Kuwait, North Yemen and South Yemen were in Damascus.

Murderer executed in Florida

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Marvin Francois, who shotgunned six people to death execution style because his mask fell off and exposed his face while he was robbing a "drug house," was electrocuted in Florida's electric chair today.

Francois entered the death chamber at the Florida State Prison and was strapped into the chair at 7 a.m. He was pronounced dead at 7:18, said Sgt. Don Gladish of the Department of Corrections.

It was the third execution in Florida this year, the 13th since the state reinstated the death penalty in 1976 and the 44th in the country since capital punishment was reinstated the same year.

Francois, 39, was convicted in the July 27, 1977, execution-style killings of six people during the robbery of what police termed a "drug house" in the Miami suburb of Carol City.

The U.S. Supreme Court late Tuesday denied a plea by Francois to postpone the execution.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals denied Francois' motions for a stay earlier Tuesday. He was scheduled to have been executed Tuesday morning but won a 24-hour stay from the 11th Circuit when the appeal was filed there.

"I am as a grain of sand on the beach of the black race," Francois said in a final statement he read to witnesses. "The black race has lost its pride and dignity and is slowly dying from within and without. My death ends my tears, and the fortune of watching my race slowly die."

After reading the statement, Francois added, "If there is such a thing as an anti-Christ, it ain't one man but the whole white race."

Cleanup in Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Survivors of a killer storm in the Bay of Bengal lined up for cholera vaccinations today, corpses were pushed into mass graves and helicopters ferried water pumps in a hurried effort to prevent disease from taking more lives.

A government official said navy vessels, army helicopters and Red Cross rescue teams by Tuesday had reached all areas hit by Saturday's storm that killed thousands of people and stripped coastal areas clean of trees and homes.

Reporters saw people lining up for inoculations, and the helicopters brought in small hand pumps to restore sources of clean water.

Estimates of the number killed in the storm varied widely, and the government said it had no list of the missing. It said many of the people living on hundreds of islands in the Bay of Bengal were squatters.

Italian premier in USSR

MOSCOW — Italy's Socialist premier, Bettino Craxi, met with Soviet Communist Party leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev today as part of his drive to give Italy a larger role in East-West relations.

The Soviet news agency Tass gave no details of the Gorbachev-Craxi meeting at the Kremlin. Craxi, head of Italy's Socialist Party, is the first Western European leader to come to Moscow for formal talks with Gorbachev since he became Communist Party leader in March.

Craxi arrived in Moscow on Tuesday after visiting Poland. In the past six months he also has visited Hungary and East Germany, and has hosted East German leader Erich Honecker in an effort to increase Italy's influence on East-West relations.

The talks between Craxi and Gorbachev came one day before the resumption of U.S.-Soviet arms control negotiations in Geneva.

Second-round arms talks

GENEVA, Switzerland — The heads of the American and Soviet delegations to the U.S.-Soviet arms talks arrived in Geneva today after a five-week recess to begin the second round of negotiations on nuclear missiles and space weapons.

The first round here lasted six weeks, and both sides expressed disappointment at the lack of progress.

U.S. chief negotiator Max M. Kampelman, quizzed by reporters on arrival at the Geneva airport, said he was "perhaps somewhat disappointed at the slow pace (of the first session) and I hope that we can enliven and quicken that pace during the second round of these negotiations."

Arriving 12 hours after Kampelman, Victor F. Karpov, head of the Soviet delegation, said President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative "sharply reduced" chances of agreement at the talks.

United scraps strike talks with pilots

CHICAGO (AP) — United Airlines says it plans to "rebuild" the nation's largest air carrier and sees no purpose in further talks to end a 13-day walkout unless striking pilots reconsider their position.

Richard Ferris, United's chairman and chief executive officer, said Tuesday that unless the union was prepared to "come back to the bargaining table and reassess its position" there was no benefit in holding more talks.

The union, however, said it was prepared to resume bargaining. "The union would like to see (negotiators) back together" as soon as possible, said Sam O'Daniel, spokesman for the Air Line Pilots Association.

He said a decision on whether the union will make such a request to the company is up to the pilot's negotiating committee.

Representatives of United and the union held back-to-back news conferences Tuesday as the walkout continued by more than 5,000 pilots.

Ferris said United's objective is to "rebuild this airline" with newly hired pilots and workers who cross picket lines. He said United could be back to full operation by the end of the first quarter of 1986.

Ferris said the company would continue training and hiring "permanent replacement fleet-qualified pilots."

The big gamble on Mideast peace

JERUSALEM — Does either Israel or the Palestine Liberation Organization want peace? The posturing by the two over the proposed peace talks is enough to create the impression that neither does. In fact, both probably do, but each is obsessed with matters that involve more symbolism than substance.

It would be criminal to squander the opportunity provided by King Hussein's newfound interest in settling the Middle East conflict. But unless one side or the other displays some nerve and vision, squander it they will.

The Israelis' error is their refusal to take part in any negotiation involving the PLO. While the U.S. has for years proclaimed its willingness to recognize the organization once it accepts Israel's right to exist and renounces terror, successive governments in Jerusalem have ruled out the prospect, whatever the PLO's concession.

It is possible to understand this refusal without accepting it. The almost universal attitude of Israel is visceral hatred for a group that has habitually committed frightful atrocities against citizens of the Jewish state. To negotiate with Arafat is regarded as the equivalent of bargaining with Hitler.

Unfortunately, nations don't always have the luxury of choosing their enemies. Americans negotiate with the Soviets not because communism is morally attractive, but because we have an interest in avoiding war.

The invasion of Lebanon, it was hoped here, would permanently eliminate the PLO as a security threat and a political force. Had the Israelis succeeded, they might be able to reach peace with the 1 million inhabitants of the occupied territory. Having failed, they can't exclude the PLO from attempts to settle the dispute that spawned Palestinian nationalism.

It is impossible to take seriously the contention that the PLO doesn't represent the Palestinians living in the West Bank and Gaza or abroad. You might just as easily believe that Martin Luther King was an outside agitator. When the Palestinians in the territory have had the chance to express their preferences democratically, as in the 1976 mayoral elections, they have defied this belief. Confidential surveys by Israeli and American pollsters likewise have affirmed the PLO's popular standing.

Moreover, Israel can't imagine that a negotiated settlement has any chance of working without the cooperation of Arafat. Though he may not be able to assure its success, he can guarantee its failure. Anyway, no Palestinian of any stature would participate in the talks without the PLO's approval, public or covert. Barring it means the Israelis will talk to the dummy instead of the ventriloquist. The moral distinction is hard to see.

But the obligations to history are not all Israel's. If Jerusalem won't confront reality, the PLO should. It can start by removing its chief political liability, namely the suspicion that it will settle for nothing less than a dismantling of the Jewish state. Contrary to myth, the PLO has declared its readiness to accept Israel's permanence — for example, in 1981, when it adopted a Soviet proposal acknowledging the "sovereignty of all states of the region including Israel."

That proclamation, like personal statements by Arafat and his confederates, has achieved nothing, because the PLO has emitted contradictory signals.

Surely there is nothing to be gained from persisting in such obstinacy. Arafat can't hope to force his enemy into a peace treaty unless he makes his acceptance of Israel clear, public, irrevocable and, if not unconditional, contingent only on Israel's reciprocal acceptance of the principle of Palestinian self-determination.

Palestinians insist that such recognition can be extended only when a satisfactory agreement is reached. But this kind of thinking has served to keep the West Bank and Gaza under military operation for 18 years. It isn't likely to bear fruit now.

Arafat should also consent to the participation of non-PLO Palestinians in the talks. Even without the formal involvement of the PLO, they would most likely generate an irresistible pressure for Israel to give up the territories.

Lasting harm in sexual abuse

To the editor:

This letter is in reference to the article in the Big Spring Herald on Tuesday 5-21-85 in which Joe Garza received a 7-year probated sentence for sexually fondling a 4-year-old girl. Mr. Basden, attorney for Garza, states that "he hasn't caused physical harm."

What Mr. Basden failed to state was that physical injuries usually respond to medical attention. The emotional scars that this bright 4-year-old will have to endure may not ever go away. The attorney, judge and jurors in this case will never know what will be involved in teaching this child to trust and love again. This will be a life-long task that only this child's mother and grandparents could explain.

In the mean time, Mr. Garza is a free man with only a slap on the hand from our judicial system. Even after extensive media coverage about sexual abuse involving children, this man will not even have to undergo psychiatric treatment which he obviously needs.

Whose child will be next.

Our visit to Big Spring, Tejas

To the editor:

I'd like to thank the "City Fathers" of Big Spring for setting aside part of your nice city park at the south edge of the city for TV'ers passing through on I-20. We ate at a nice restaurant, as we usually do on the road between point A & point B, plus bought 70 gallons of gas the next morning, after walking through the pretty park. So I'm sure the money invested in the RV pads & electric outlets has over a period of time, been recouped by added business to merchants in the city. I also like to leave a place cleaner than I found it, so picked up a large grocery bag of litter before we left.

We Scandinavian Minnesotans like to feel we're friendly with one another, including strangers (a friend you haven't met yet), but all across Texas we found people who really showed us the Spanish meaning of the word Tejas! Friendly!

Thanks again

Inside the Playground

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Washington is one of the few places in the world where state secrets can be found blowing in the wind — literally.

A reader called us to report seeing highly classified government documents strewn around the playground of an abandoned school in the northwest section of the city. A visit to the scene confirmed the information: Amid hundreds of papers scattered about were dozens bearing the familiar red stamps at top and bottom: top secret, secret and confidential.

Fortunately, the Playground Papers were somewhat dated — ranging from 1948 to 1962. But portions of them, at least, would undoubtedly be denied to anyone seeking them under the Freedom of Information Act. And under the rules as interpreted by the Reagan administration, prying the documents loose would probably entail months or years of delays.

Though no self-respecting spy would pay a ruble for the Playground Papers, they do provide a fascinating inside view of history in the making — and some thoughts that are relevant for U.S. policy makers today.

They were the work of a distinguished American diplomat, the late G. Lewis Jones Jr., whose Foreign Service career as a Middle Eastern expert led to his appointment as director of the State Department's office dealing with the region. He was also the first U.S. ambassador to Tunisia.

As nearly as we can figure it, Jones had taken classified documents home with him and eventually put them in a file cabinet with personal effects and stored them in a warehouse near the playground. Thieves broke into the warehouse, carted off the file cabinet, looted it of valuables and left the secrets behind.

The oldest document we found was dated August 1948, and was a classified analysis titled "Reassessment of American Policy in the Middle East." It confirms many critics' longheld suspicion that the State Department was heavily laden with what Jones described as "Arab-lovers such as myself" among career Foreign Service officers. He knew "the State Department crowd fairly well," he wrote. "To a large degree in the past, many of them have shared my thinking."

But Jones was not blind to the Arab leaders' faults. "I have felt a keen sense of personal shame with regard to various phases of (pro-Israeli) U.S. policy in Palestine," he wrote. "However, I must admit that the Arab performance has been so bad that it begins to make the pro-Zionist course of the U.S. government in recent years appear much more realistic and logical than the farmers of U.S. policy probably had in mind."

Jones was appalled by the Arab nations' "pathetic performance" during the first war against Israel, and the "series of displays of disunity and ineptitude ... produced in recent weeks."

As for the "Arab awakening" about which he and his friends had "talked glibly" for years, Jones observed bitterly: "There has not been an Arab awakening: the Arabs merely turned over in their deep sleep."

He added forthrightly: "I confess that almost none of my predictions with regard to the Arabs have come to pass. The Arab performance in connection with Palestine has been marked by such a compound of the worst features of their complex heritage that I can still hardly believe it...The Arab effort has, in the main, been largely one of bluff and braggadocio which was quickly dissipated whenever the Arab groups met the Jews in strength."

The "Arabist awakening" of G. Lewis Jones Jr. was just one subject of historical interest addressed in the Playground Papers. More later.

WILSON UPDATE: Our suggestion that the overnight visit Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, two aides and three friends paid to the aircraft carrier Saratoga was a $4,000 junket has been effusively contradicted by Wilson and the Navy.

At least we think it has; the evidence offered to refute the suggestion is couched in sometimes impenetrable Pentagon jargon.

Wilson's office thoughtfully provided us with a hand-printed itinerary of the trip taken May 3-4 by "CODEL" or "CODEL WILSON" — which is government talk for the "congressional delegation" led by Wilson. The idea, apparently, was to show us how utterly businesslike the whole junket was.

Using the military's preferred 24-hour time designations, the itinerary begins with Friday's "1300 — CODEL departs Rayburn horseshoe via Navy sedan" and ends two pages later with Saturday's "1310 — CODEL departs NAF (Naval airfield) Washington for Rayburn horseshoe."

In between horseshoes (a reference to the Rayburn House Office Building's U-shaped main entrance), Wilson's pitch contains these highlights:

"1705 — CODEL receives general orientation film on aircraft carrier operations."

"1725 — CODEL escorted to primary flight control to observe daylight flight operations."

"1900 — Rep. Wilson addresses members of war-droom and conducts Q&A session on military issues."

"2000 — ...Rep. Wilson conducted lengthy interview of ship's company officer aviator and enlisted operations specialist on retention issues."

"2200 — CODEL escorted to primary flight control to observe night flight operations."

"2330 — CODEL escorted to respective berthing compartments."

Around The Rim The junkyard in the sky

By KEELY COGHLAN
I'm a sentimental old fool. I cry unabashedly at all the saddest parts in any tearjerker movie. I'll read Of Mice and Men and other tragedies over and over, to relive the scenes where life almost worked out right.

I even go beyond the bounds of hopeless romanticism. Last night, I cried about my car.

I have — had — a 1976 silver Chevy Monza, with a maroon interior, and 4.3 litre baby V-8 engine that was my pride and joy. As the mechanics I had used to say, "that car runs pretty fast, doesn't it?"

I even called her by name — "Charly" — though I don't remember the particular brainstorm that led to the christening or any namesakes.

Admittedly, the car has seen better days. Much better. When I purchased it five years ago, I gave it a brand-new silver paint job. You could see yourself in the shine.

The silver paint was a magnet for a fool who rear-ended Charly in downtown Dallas rush hour traffic, less than five months after the new paint job. I cried then, too.

After that, there were always college bills to pay instead of repainting that spot in the back. I let her get run down a little, more than I liked.

And then one day two weeks ago, I was in an accident. Not a horrible accident, though it was slightly unnerving to see your left headlight splinter all over the road.

But bad enough that the insurance people told me I had to retire Charly. It seems that repairs would cost more than what they valued the car at.

I spent a lot of time deciding that I should take the money and let them take the car. That's a hard decision, especially considering that I used to talk to the car every morning. I think that car knew more about me than most people.

I wasn't home when they hauled her away yesterday to the junkyard. I'm thankful; it would have been like watching memories being chopped up and sold for spare change.

I never was one to give things up lightly.

Dishes made with dairy products

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Shoppers pushing their carts down supermarket aisles and past dairy cases have thousands of foods from which to select. During the last year, new products in the dairy category included chocolate almond milk, butter blends, cheese snacks, low-sodium cheeses, lowered calorie sour cream, flavored butters, freezer snack bars and sugar-free hot cocoa mixes.

One way in which the dairy industry is helping to simplify the shopper's selection is by placing a "Real" seal (a symbolic drop of milk enclosing the word "real") on genuine dairy foods. The symbol is being placed on products for which the standard has been set by law. The standard is a legal description or recipe to which a product must conform. The standard for butter, for instance, requires it to be made from cream, with or without common salt. Standards for butter permit no preservatives or additives except approved food color. Butter contains not less than 80 percent by weight of milkfat and has the same calorie content as regular margarine.

Shoppers can be certain they are selecting real dairy products when they see the "Real" seal on the package, or they can read the ingredient label carefully. Real dairy products which conform to legal standards are not required to list their ingredients, but many do in order to satisfy the consumer's desire to know what she is buying.

This week's Herald Recipe Exchange focuses on dishes that are made with dairy products.

Gourmet cooks create the salad revolution

By CONNOISSEUR
Toss those old formulas for salad

iceberg lettuce and join the salad revolution.

Blow away the froth of fads and crazes, says an article in Connoisseur, and you will find the choice and treatment of salad greens is changing.

Some adventuresome folks have given up lettuce entirely, but more common is the switch from iceberg to more exotic varieties.

Literature on salad goes back in English to 1699 and John Evelyn's "Acetaria, A Discourse of Sallets" in which the author talks about frugal French and Italians who gather ingredients so that "every Hedge" can yield a salad.

"See what the Italians and French do" and "look in the hedgerows" are also the mottos of today's salad experimenters.

Evelyn lists 73 salad ingredients, including new wave "discoveries" such as oak-leaf lettuce, purslane and rocket.

To find out what was new on the salad front, author Alan Davidson visited 14 cities, using as his standard of comparison a salad of purslane and flowers such as nasturtium, pot marigold and bridge flowers created by Joy Larkcom, the English author of "The Salad Garden," who grows her own outside Cambridge.

Among the trend-setters was Donna Jean Zentner of Seattle's Cafe Optimum, who uses flowers such as pinks, violas, evening primrose and candytuft to set off 22 different kinds of greens.

A typical Zentner salad might include leaf and dandelion.

ly, small, purple anise hyssop; sorrel; spicy arugula and curly sea kale. Other ingredients might include spinach, bibb lettuce or purslane, a flower such as candytuft and a sprinkling of chopped herbs such as variegated mint or lemon balm.

In Berkeley, Calif., Alice Waters of the Chez Panisse restaurant, and her grower, Andrea Crawford, favor a curly endive called frisee de Louviers, red salad-bowl lettuce, rocket and curled chevril. Small seeded mache, a salad corn, is intersown with bronze-leafed mignonette.

Their salads always include a bed of mesclun, a Provençal mixture that includes rocket, dandelion and baby lettuce, into which Crawford mixes rocket, red oak-leaf lettuce and at least four other ingredients.

In an ideal world, greens should be picked just before being tossed into a salad, but most ingredients will keep if treated properly.

Handle greens as little and as gently as possible. Rinse them and briefly shake or spin nearly dry. Refrigerate them while still dewy in a well-packed bag. Keep storage time to a minimum. For salad dressing, it is hard to improve on the classic vinaigrette, three parts olive oil to one part vinegar, with top quality extra-virgin olive oil worth the price. For a Greek touch, substitute lemon juice for vinegar. Garlic lovers can rub the salad bowl with garlic.

Dessert's history spans time

People have enjoyed ice cream for hundreds of years, but it didn't always look or taste the way it does now.

In the fourth century, B.C., Roman nobility enjoyed a frozen dessert of fruit juices or sweetened milk surrounded by melted snow.

The Roman emperor Nero imported snow from distant mountains which was flavored with fruit juices and honey. In the 13th century, Marco Polo brought recipes for the Chinese water and milk ices to Europe. The Chinese had been making ice cream for 2,000 years.

The Italians perfected a primitive ice cream freezer by inserting a container filled with ice cream mix into a dish of snow to which salt-peter had been added. This advance stepped up the freezing process and made the production of ice cream much more practical.

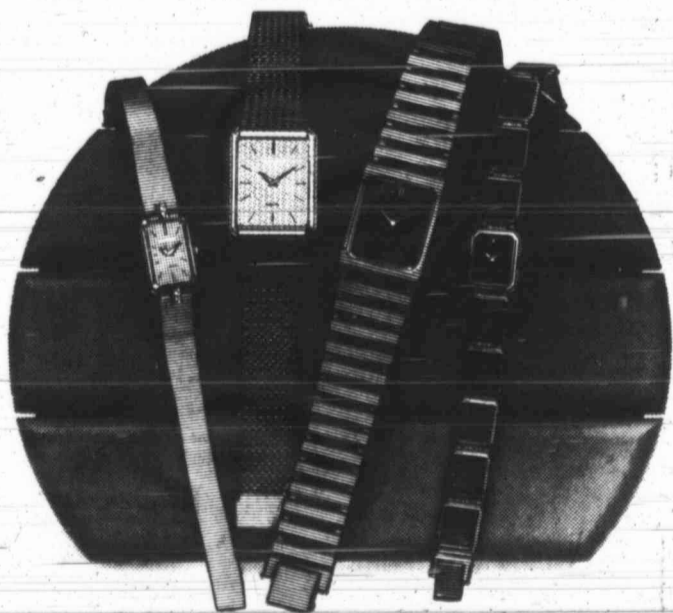

Frozen desserts were brought to France in 1533 by Catherine de Medices when she married the Duke of Orleans. At this time ice cream was reserved strictly for royalty, who kept the recipe secret from the peasants.

It isn't known when ice cream was first served in the United States. In 1774, a caterer name Lenzi from London began advertising ice cream in New York newspapers.

The invention of rotary paddles for the ice cream freezer in 1786 made it possible to manufacture large quantities of a smooth, creamy product. The first wholesale manufacturer of ice cream, Jacob Fussell, opened a plant in Pennsylvania in 1851 and in a few years had plants in Washington, Boston and New York.

Dr. Donohue

Athlete's foot transfers to hand

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have athlete's foot, not only on both feet, but on my right hand as well. I am assuming you can get it on the hand. Am I right? I cannot seem to get rid of the fungus from the feet, and I have tried various powders. I guess I am a candidate for the oral medicine you mentioned. But will you comment on this hand business for me? — L.L.

Yes, you can transfer athlete's foot to your hand. The fungus lives there as well as it can on the feet. It's usual for only one hand to be infected.

But I'd like to mention another interesting possibility. Some people with athlete's foot can develop an allergy to the fungus. Such an allergy can manifest itself as hand symptoms, tiny blisters. Getting rid of the foot fungus then becomes doubly important, and as you imply that can be easier said than done.

The No. 1 mistake in treating athlete's foot is impatience, incomplete use of the anti-fungal creams, ointments, and powders. They MUST be used for a long time, well after visible signs of the infection are gone. Remember that the fungus sets up its housekeeping inside the outer skin layers and those layers have to be shed. Meanwhile you have to continue medication to get at any lingering fungus. If you don't there will be a repopulation and another round of misery.

Your doctor can check to see if your hand symptoms represent a transfer of the fungus or an allergy. If it's an allergy, using the powders, etc., on the hands won't help.

The oral medicine is griseofulvin. If your foot fungi are really putting up a stubborn fight, that kind of medicine should do the trick. But it has to be taken for a prolonged course, and not everyone can tolerate it. It presume you are taking all the sanitary precautions with regard your feet — keeping them dry and changing socks and shoes often.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you comment on a problem of the eyes? For the last year I've been seeing little black flaky objects. It is so, so annoying! The flakes are always the same size and in the same positions in each eye. An eye specialist says I have healthy eyes — 20/20 vision. He said these "floaters" will go away unless I have some other medical problem causing them. What sort of medical problem is he talking about? I am female, 42 years old. It's extremely annoying to have to re-read everything because these little spots keep showing up. — R.N.

Floaters are opaque flakes in the jelly-like substance in the back chamber of the eye; they're often a part of again or nearsightedness. I know they are annoying, and I wish I could tell you something helpful to do about them, but ignoring them is about all you can do.

I'm glad you reported them and I'm glad the doctor found nothing serious going on, for these are times when they can represent a major vision problem. They can result from dislodgement of bits of the retina, the light-sensitive lining of the eye, or from detachment of the jelly-like substance from its moorings. Even an infection can play a role. If there are showers of these spots, the doctor looks for serious retinal problems.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Museum offers summer class for youths

The Heritage Museum will offer a four-session summer class on the history of Big Spring and West Texas for youths ages seven to 12.

Classes begin June 8 and continue each Saturday during the month of June from 10 a.m. to noon. They will meet at the museum. Students will use pioneer tools and equipment, grind corn, dress in antique costumes, see slide shows, visit the Potton House and produce a play as part of their study of Native Americans in West Texas, Big Spring pioneers, and cowboys and cattle.

A registration fee of $10 is charged per student and includes cost of materials. Prior registration at the museum is required. Registration forms are available at the museum. For information, contact the museum at 510 Scurry or by calling 267-8255.

Members offer ideas for future study

Members of 1905 Hyperion Club suggested study preferences during their luncheon meeting at Big Spring Country Club, May 16. The suggestions included trips to art museums, a tour of West Texas Farm and Ranch Center, and local points of interests.

President Modesta Stokes welcomed Grace Long as a new member and Rhonda Camp as the District TFWC Scholarship recipient. Camp received the scholarship this past year while an art student at Texas Tech University. She brought several pieces of her work for viewing.

A review of the year's theme, "Service to God, Man and Country," was given. The club's accomplishments during the year followed. The next meeting will be in September.

Dear Abby

Two trips down aisle add up to odd anniversary

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure there are other couples with this problem, but no one we know has been able to come up with the answer.

I was married six years ago at a big church wedding. After three years we decided it wasn't working, so we got a divorce. We both dated other people and had our flings for a year and a half, then we realized that we really loved each other and belonged together, so we got married by a justice of the peace in a five-minute ceremony.

Our question: Which wedding date should we celebrate as the official one?

Also, how should we figure our special anniversaries? Should we include the time we put in from our first wedding? Or do we have to start counting the years beginning with our second marriage? How about the year and a half we weren't married? Do we have to subtract that from the total of the two marriages? It gets rather complicated.

TWICE WED, SAME GUY
DEAR TWICE: Celebrate your wedding anniversary on the date of your first marriage. Conveniently forget the year-and-a-half break in marital relations. Call that time off for bad behavior.

DEAR ABBY: I am a college senior, soon to graduate. I've invited my mom and brothers and a couple of friends to come up for commencement and a celebration afterward. My brother told me my father has been hinting that he expected to be invited, so just to be sure he didn't come, I wrote him a letter and asked him not to, but he called and said he was coming anyway.

My parents have been divorced since I was in the eighth grade. He stopped being a father after the divorce. I called him a couple of times when I needed a favor (a ride to school, bring me lunch when I was sick), but he never came through.

The divorce devastated my mother. He left her for his office affair. My mother put him through graduate school by sewing Barbie doll clothes and baby-sitting.

I let my father know it would be uncomfortable for both me and my mother if he came. The truth is, I don't want him here. I don't like him pretending to be a part of my life. I'm not proud of him, and I don't want to introduce him to my professors or my friends. He hasn't helped with my education. (He doesn't even know what I'm majoring in.)

Should I just tell him he hasn't earned the privilege of coming, and let him take it any way he wants to?

JUNE GRAD
DEAR GRAD: Leave nothing to chance. Tell him that you do not want him at your graduation, and tell him in straightforward language so he will know exactly how strongly you feel about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old. I bought a motorcycle. It is not registered, is not insured, has no inspection and has my father's old plates from his motorcycle. I've been keeping it at a friend's house because my father wouldn't let me have a motorcycle. He said they're too much trouble.

Well, I was riding it and hit a brand-new car, and I'm being sued for $3,000. I don't have enough money to pay it. If I tell my father, I will get into trouble. What should I do?

ALL LOUSED UP
DEAR LOUSED: Tell your father, and the sooner the better. You're in trouble both ways, and since your father is responsible for you (you are a minor), there's no way you can keep it from him. Confess, take your lumps, and good luck.

Red Cross to organize disaster training class

The Howard Glasscock Chapter of American Red Cross made plans for a disaster training class during its meeting at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, May 21.

Plans also are being made for a cooperative involvement between the chapter and other community groups in case a disaster should strike the Big Spring area that would require large scale assistance from other sources.

The chapter will participate in the Heart of the City Festival Saturday. Cakes, plants and white elephants will be sold. Persons interested in donating these items should contact the Red Cross at 267-3992.

The chapter also is seeking volunteers from age 16 and above to help at the Veterans Hospital this summer. Those interested should contact the volunteer department at the hospital for more information.

Edith Gay, chapter secretary, is recovering from a broken wrist. She was saluted for her outstanding work as secretary during the meeting.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. May 17 at the hospital.

Thressia Henry speaks on rape protection at meeting

Thressia Henry of Rape Crisis Services spoke about rape protection at the Center Point Extension Homemakers Club meeting May 14. The event was at the Kentwood Center.

According to Henry, sexual assault was reported as far back as 500 B.C. One rape occurs every six minutes and only 10 percent are ever reported. About 650,000 children are abused every year.

Henry said some of the protective measures include not walking in dark places, near trees and hedges or alone at night. Security devices also are available to buy.

The "Friends of the Hospital" award given to the club by the Big Spring State Hospital during a recent luncheon was presented at the club meeting.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. May 28 at Kentwood Center.

Shower fetes bride-elect Tammy Yancy

Tammy Yancy was honored May 9 at a miscellaneous bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Sandy Smith. Yancy is the bride of Jody Griffith. Hostesses for the event were Jerenatta Brown, Verma Lee Decker, Doris Pope, Marie Hughes, Sissy Fisher, Tracy Ferguson and Stella Seamans.

Guests were served from a table draped with a pink cloth lace overlay and centered with a basket of pink and purple carnations with white daisies. The couple exchanged wedding vows at Airport Baptist Church May 18. The Rev. Wayman Wills, brother-in-law of the bride, officiated at the wedding.

Club meets for picnic lunch

The City Home Extension Club met May 10 for a picnic lunch and program at Comanche Trail Park.

The program, "Clothing for the Elderly," was presented by Frances Zant and Opal Wooten. Illustrations of displayed clothing were specially designed for those who spend much time in wheelchairs and who are bedfast. Many adaptations make fashionable clothing available to the handicapped. For example, for convenience a long front opening of a dress or slip should end three-fourths of the way down the front.

Zant was elected nominee for delegate to the state council meeting to be held in Longview in September. The next club meeting will be Sept. 13.

Church to honor retiring teacher

Doris Tiller will be honored at a retirement party Saturday at the Coahoma Church of Christ Fellowship Hall. The event will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Tiller has been a school teacher with the Coahoma Independent School District for 30 years.

Gunman kills 3 in shooting spree

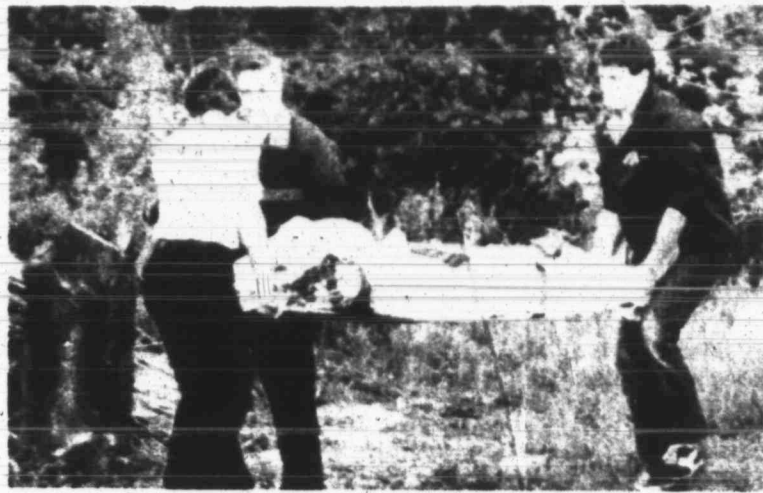

ST. JOHN, Ind. (AP) — A man with a semi-automatic weapon opened fire on traffic along a highway, then shot his way into a department store Tuesday night, killing three people before he was slain in a shootout with police.

The dead included a motorcyclist, a woman store employee, the gunman and another woman who may have been a customer in the store, said Lake County Sheriff's Department Lt. Mike Higgins.

Six people were wounded in the attack, including a tow truck driver, a small boy, and three women shoppers and one male shopper.

The gunman was standing in a field along U.S. 41, across the highway from the discount store when he opened fire on traffic, striking a northbound motorcyclist, Higgins said.

The cyclist, identified by Lake County Coroner Daniel Thomas as

The body of a man identified by police as James Kosgrove, 32, is removed following a shooting spree in St. John, Ind. Kosgrove was shot and killed by police after he opened fire at a discount store killing three people.

George Murr, of St. John, ditched his motorcycle in a driveway about 50 yards from where the gunman stood. Several people, including the tow truck driver, attempted to help the cyclist, but the gunman then began firing on them, Higgins said. The boy was shot in the arm.

Higgins said the tow truck driver was in critical condition in a Dyer hospital.

The gunman then raced across U.S. 41 and into the front doors of a K mart store. He then began spraying people inside the store with at least 60 rounds from his semi-automatic HK-93 weapon, Higgins said.

Police said they did not know how long the gunman stood at the front of the store, blocking the entrance.

Higgins said the gunman made his way through the parking lot, crouching and firing as he headed back across U.S. 41 near St. John, which is about 30 miles south of Chicago's Loop.

"He fired at the officers and they returned fire," Higgins said. "He was shot in the head and pronounced dead at the scene."

Top pupil started fire at school

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An elementary school student described as the "cream of the crop" started a fire that destroyed one building in a school complex and damaged two across the street, authorities said.

The boy was arrested on charges of aggravated arson and turned over to juvenile authorities hours after the fire was extinguished Tuesday. Two firefighters were slightly injured.

The boy was not identified because he was only 11 or 12 years old, but police arson investigator Jeffrey Vappie described the boy as a "cream of the crop student" at Edgar P. Harney Elementary School.

Police said they traced the boy after a custodian identified one of two students seen with him in a book room of the wood-frame building where the fire started.

The school is located in the city's University Section, near the Magnolia Housing Project.

All of its 498 children were evacuated from the grounds within 15 minutes, said Principal Lawrence Taylor. He said only about 60 students were in the building which burned.

"We hold a fire drill about once a month. We consider a good fire drill about 90 seconds. By the time I got from my office to the other building, the school was evacuated," he said.

Police and fire department investigators said the arrested student, in the book room with two schoolmates, poured duplicating fluid over a gas space heater.

June electric bills include new charge

In June, monthly bills from Texas Electric Service Co. will include a charge for some of the costs associated with the company's purchases of power from cogeneration, said Hooper Sanders.

Cogeneration is the simultaneous production of steam for use in industrial processes and for the generation of electricity. The industry uses some of the steam and may use some of the electricity. Excess electricity is available for sale to an electric utility company.

The amount of the charge will vary depending on the amount of power purchased and the number of kilowatt-hours the customer uses, Sanders said. In June the charge for 1,000 kilowatt-hours is 54.6 cents.

Texas Electric customers will begin receiving power during June under the first contract for cogeneration signed by Texas Utilities Electric Company (TUEC). Texas Electric is a division of TUEC.

Under the contract with Dow Chemical Co., TUEC will receive 300,000 kilowatts of cogenerated power capacity through September to help its operating divisions, including Dallas Power and Light Co., Texas Electric Service Co. and Texas Power and Light Co., meet summer peak demand.

Reagan wants new minimum tax for corporations, wealthy must originate tax legislation, presented the Democratic Party's formal response to the president and pledged cooperation.

If Reagan's plan can deliver all it promises, said Rostenkowski, "he'll have a great deal of Democratic support." But Democrats, who control the House, will not rubber-stamp the plan, he added.

Treasury Secretary James Baker acknowledged as much this morning. Interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today" show, he said: "Clearly the legislative process will make some changes. We hope those changes are only marginal because this is a good package."

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said American workers would fare well under the president's plan and added "the prospects of passage this year are excellent."
The president's plan was not so bold as the version recommended by his Treasury Department last November. It reflects political pressures brought to bear on what was largely a dream of the "tax reformers."

Reagan and his aides withheld a detailed explanation of his proposal until today. Today's 461-page explanation contained few surprises, but it did spell out a detail the president had not mentioned — that businesses will be hit with a special $6.5-billion increase in taxes through 1989 to prevent them from reaping a windfall through the combined effects of the existing depreciation benefits and the lower corporate rates he recommends.

Other highlights of the plan:
• Seventy-nine percent of individuals would pay the same or less tax than under present law. The $1,040-per-person exemption would be raised to $2,000; the standard deductions of $2,300 for single people and $3,540 for couples would be increased to $2,900 and $4,000. Individual tax rates — now ranging from 11 percent to 50 percent over 14 taxable brackets for couples and 15 for individuals, would be reduced to three. The new rates: 15 percent, 25 percent and 35 percent.

• The total tax burden on individuals would be reduced by 7 percent while corporate taxes would rise by 9 percent, Reagan said. Through 1990, individuals' taxes would drop $131.8 billion; corporate taxes would rise by $118.4 billion.

Details of the plan released today, however, project that by 1990, when all the president's proposals could be expected to be fully effective, total revenue from individuals would fall 5.2 percent while that from corporations would rise 23 percent.

The figures Reagan used in his nationally broadcast speech apparently applied to a period decades in the future, when all of the economic and social benefits the president is touting for his proposals would be in full force.

• The plan includes little simplification for most people. Reagan estimated the percentage of people who itemize might be cut from the present 37 percent to about 25 percent. Under the label of simplification, the proposal would lump together several miscellaneous deductions — including employee business expenses, union dues and tax-return preparation fees — and allow a writeoff only of the portion that exceeds 1 percent of income. Income averaging would be repealed.

• The deduction for state and local taxes paid would be eliminated; Reagan called that writeoff a subsidy for "the high-tax policies of a handful of states." He would retain the writeoff for mortgage interest on principal homes; other interest deductions would be limited. Itemizers would retain the full deduction for contributions to charity; the 63 percent of taxpayers who do not itemize would lose their special charity deduction.

• Most employee fringe benefits would continue tax-free. Some exceptions: the first $20 a month an employer pays for a worker's health insurance family plan (the first $10 for a single person) would be taxed as income to the worker. Employer-paid commuting expenses and death benefits would be taxed.

• A spouse who is not employed outside the home would be allowed a full $2,000-a-year tax-deferred contribution to an Individual Retirement Account, the same permitted any other worker.

• The earned-income credit, which benefits poor working families with children, would be raised from a maximum $550 a year to $726. This, combined with the rate reductions and increased exemptions and standard deductions would allow a couple with four children to earn $16,000 a year before paying any income tax. A single person under age 65 could earn $4,900 before becoming a taxpayer.

• The maximum rate on capital gains — profits from the sale of property owned more than six months — would drop from 20 percent to 17.5 percent.

• Well-to-do individuals and profitable companies that use big deductions to avoid any tax would be subject to tougher minimum taxes. "The free rides are over," Reagan said.

• The top corporate tax rate, now 46 percent, would be cut to 33 percent, with lower rates for small business. The investment tax credit, under which the government pays up to 10 percent of the cost of machinery and equipment, would be repealed. And the president would take back part of the big 1981 business tax cut by stretching out the time over which firms may write off the cost of plant and machinery.

Gramm says tax proposal fair to oilmen

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Sen. Phil Gramm and several Texas congressmen said Tuesday they support President Reagan's tax reform effort, but expressed reservations that centered primarily on treatment of oil and gas industry tax incentives.

Gramm, R-Texas, who backs the plan most strongly, depicted the coming struggle over the issue in Congress as "a contest between the special interests and the public interest" and predicted that "in the end the public will win."

"We did about as well as we could have possibly done," said Gramm about oil and gas tax incentives in the final Reagan tax plan, scheduled to be released in detail Wednesday. Reagan initiated the push for tax simplification with a prime-time televised speech Tuesday night.

He praised President Reagan for deciding last week to restore a major tax incentive for the oil and gas industry and noted that he personally had asked Reagan to get involved.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, said the president's action was "a positive step for Texas" but said he was "still concerned about the repeal of the percentage depletion allowance," another major industry incentive.

While the administration proposal would keep the industry's deduction for intangible drilling costs, as advocated by Reagan, it would almost eliminate the longstanding depletion allowance. The deduction for intangibles allows the writing-off of costs for non-salvageable materials in a drilling operation and the depletion allowance is a 15 percent deduction on oil and gas income for independent operators.

According to administration and congressional sources, percentage depletion would be kept only for the "working interest" on stripper wells that produce small quantities of oil and gas each day. The plan would not include an exemption for royalty owners on stripper wells.

Loeffler said the plan would have "a very strong negative impact for all the royalty owners" and that "clearly our work is cut out for us" to restore the depletion allowance.

By eliminating or revising tax deductions for various industries and individuals, the tax plan would allow an immediate increase in the personal exemption for all taxpayers to $2,000 from the current exemption of $1,040.

Council under fire

Changes in labor regulations opposed

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Big Spring city councilmen came under criticism for a recommendation supporting changes in federal legislation that could affect city employees from fireman John Branham.

Branham, the president of the city firefighters union, said after the meeting that he was not speaking for the union, but only as a citizen. During the new "citizen input" session, where citizen can address the council on any issue, on or off the agenda, Branham criticized the council's decision moments earlier to support the legislation.

The council had passed a resolution that would support legislation allowing cities to be exempt from the Fair Labor Standards Act.

A recent Supreme Court decision ruled that the employees of the San Antonio municipal transit system were covered under the act. Traditionally, municipal employees have been exempt from the act, which sets overtime rates, minimum wages and number of hours.

"It's going to impact us adversely. We just don't know to what extent," City Attorney Doyle Curtis told the council.

Branham, however, was critical of the council's decision. "You passed to oppose the FLSA without knowing what it is. How can you oppose it if you don't know what it is?" he said.

During the council's discussion prior to passage of the resolution, Councilman Johnny Rutherford had asked staff members to supply better background data on the issue. City Manager Don Davis had said the information would be available before the next reading of the resolution.

Branham also criticized the staff for establishing "contrived figures" to bolster its argument. If city employees are not exempt from the federal law, according to Davis, it could cost the city $215,000.

"It ought to be reviewed closely in the coming weeks. It will affect firefighters, especially. It will affect all employees on more than a 40-hour work week," Branham said.

After the meeting, however, he was careful to stress that the fireman's union had no official position on the issue. "We don't oppose or support it. I just want the council to know what they are voting against. This is not something we are pushing for; it's on the federal level."

• Council members also approved three Parks and Recreation Board recommendations, including a proposal to hold a sailboat race June 9 in Moss Creek Lake. The lake would not be closed for the event, and admission to the race would not be charged. However, donations will be accepted for the Sunshine Neighbors, a charitable organization.

• Councilmen tabled appointments to the city's electrical board. Staff members had suggested that the council replace two members, Billy Bryant and Travis Brackeen, because they did not live inside city limits.

Rutherford, however, said both the master electricians operated businesses within the city. "If there's not any reason beyond their citizenship or paying taxes, I question their removal," he said.

Coahoma selects new councilman

COAHOMA — City Council members Tuesday afternoon unanimously appointed Judy Jackson to fulfill the unexpired term of late Councilman Lawrence Aberegg.

Mrs. Jackson is the daughter of Aberegg, who died May 14 of a heart attack. Aberegg was serving the final year of a two-year term.

In other action:

• The Council voted to set regular monthly meeting times for 7 p.m.

• Council members appointed Billy Sullivan to serve as the ball park coordinator. Sullivan will be the council representative.

The council approved a list of rules and regulations to be instituted immediately by all users of the ball park. One of the new rules sets make-up games by the Coahoma Little League for Wednesday, with all games ending before 6 p.m.

Men's fast-pitch and slow-pitch softball and women's softball games will be played only on the Northwest field. All games will be played only on Wednesday after 6 p.m., Friday evening after league play or Saturday and Sunday at the discretion of the ball park coordinator.

A list of the rules and regulations may be obtained from the coordinator or from a City Council member.

ONE OF THE MOST-ASKED QUESTIONS WE'VE HAD TO ANSWER LATELY HAS BEEN "WHAT HAPPENED... WHERE'S MY RADIO STATION?"

WELL, WE'VE BEEN "SEEING THE SIGHTS FROM SOUTH MOUNTAIN" BUT HERE'S THE REST OF THE STORY.

A FEW DAYS AGO "MOTHER NATURE" GAVE US A DEMONSTRATION OF HER POWER IN THE FORM OF A LIGHTENING STRIKE ON OUR TRANSMITTING AND ANTENNA SYSTEMS. THE DAMAGE THAT RESULTED MEANT AN ALMOST "TOTAL REBUILD" OF OUR TRANSMITTER AND PARTS OF OUR ANTENNA SYSTEM. THROUGH THE WORK OF MANY THE REPAIRS HAVE NOW BEEN MADE.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST REASONS WE PURCHASED KWKI AND KKIK AND MOVED OUR FAMILY TO BIG SPRING WAS BECAUSE OF THE BIG SPRING-WEST TEXAS TRADITION OF "HELP YOUR NEIGHBOR"... Czech women split in French Open

PARIS (AP) — Fifth-seeded Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia was upset Wednesday, while countrywoman Hana Mandlikova, the No. 3 women's seeded, bounced back from the brink of defeat in the $2.2 million French Open tennis championships.

Sukova, 20, won the first set 6-2 against Christiane Jolissaint of Switzerland before losing the next two 6-3, 6-0 on one of the outside courts at Roland Garros Stadium.

Mandlikova, her left knee bleeding and her shirt covered in red clay after three tumbles on the center court, came from behind to beat American Elise Burgin 2-6, 6-4, 7-5 in a match that lasted nearly 2½ hours.

The left-handed Burgin, just two weeks younger than the 23-year-old Mandlikova, twice was a point away from taking a 5-2 lead in the final set after the Czech had squared the match at one set all. But Mandlikova saved the first point with a smash and Burgin squandered the second one by hitting a forehand into the net.

Mandlikova, who won the singles title here four years ago, moved into a 5-4 lead, but the drama at Roland Garros Stadium continued as she lost four match points after holding a 40-0 lead on the American's serve.

Burgin, from Baltimore, saved the first by producing a lob that landed on the line and Mandlikova wasted the second by hitting long and the third by hitting wide.

When the fourth match point arrived, Mandlikova hit the ball into the net.

Burgin was able to square the match at 5-5 and then moved within a point of a 6-5 lead, but she hit the ball wide.

Mandlikova then opened up a 40-0 lead and won on her fifth match point when Burgin volleyed wide.

Mandlikova admitted she was less than steady when she squandered four match points at 5-4 in the final set. "I became a little nervous because she was taking a really long time between serves — a little too long I thought," she said of Burgin. "But I finished the set with confidence."

"I expected a tough match, but not that tough," she added. "She played very well. She played a very good tactical match."

Mandlikova said she had worked hard before the tournament and the unexpectedly hard-fought opening round had increased her confidence in her conditioning, even though her fitness still needed work.

"I didn't play my best tennis today... but I'm in good physical shape and in good fighting spirit. A match like this one builds your confidence that you can stay out there for 2½ hours and still be in good shape."

Burgin, a 1984 Stanford University graduate, was making her first appearance on the center court in the French championships. But she appeared poised and confident.

"I didn't let the ambience get to me," she explained. "I went out there to win."

Her mistake, she said, was letting Mandlikova off the hook at 3-0 and again at 4-2 in the third set. "If you let a player like Hana, who has the capacity for brilliance, back in the game, she's going to make some spectacular shots. I'm disappointed that I let so many opportunities go."

In other second round women's singles matches, Gabriela Sabatini, the 15-year-old Argentinian and No. 14 seed, was a comfortable 6-0, 6-2 winner over Penny Barg of the United States and No. 8 seed Carling Bassett of Canada beat Jennifer Mundel of South Africa 6-3, 6-3.

Men's No. 12 seed Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden defeated American Marc Flur 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 to move into the third round.

On Tuesday, 23-year-old Roberto Saad, a virtual unknown from Argentina who had to qualify to enter the men's singles draw here, scored a major upset by toppling Jimmy Arias of the United States 6-1, 6-4, 7-5 in a first-round match.

Top seeds John McEnroe of the United States and defending champion Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia breezed into the second round, on a likely collision course for a repeat meeting in the final. Last year, Lendl came from two sets down to win.

Take 3-1 series lead

Gretzky powers Edmonton

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The Edmonton Oilers weren't acting like a team which wanted to avoid another trip East. They weren't acting like Stanley Cup champions, either.

"We understood how important this game was but we sure didn't come out like it," said Oilers star Wayne Gretzky, the National Hockey League's most dominant player. Gretzky scored a pair of power-play goals — one in the second period to give Edmonton its first lead and one in the third to clinch the triumph — as the defending champions moved within one victory of their second straight championship with a 5-3 decision over the Philadelphia Flyers Tuesday night. "We felt if they won and tied us 2-2 after tonight, we could be down 3-2 going to their rink."

"We knew that the Flyers would come out hard, no question. They did and we probably could have been down 4-1 or 5-1."

But the Oilers fell behind only 3-1, being bailed out of further damage when goalie Grant Fuhr stopped Ron Sutter on a penalty shot. And their power play woke up, connecting four times in six tries after going 1-for-14.

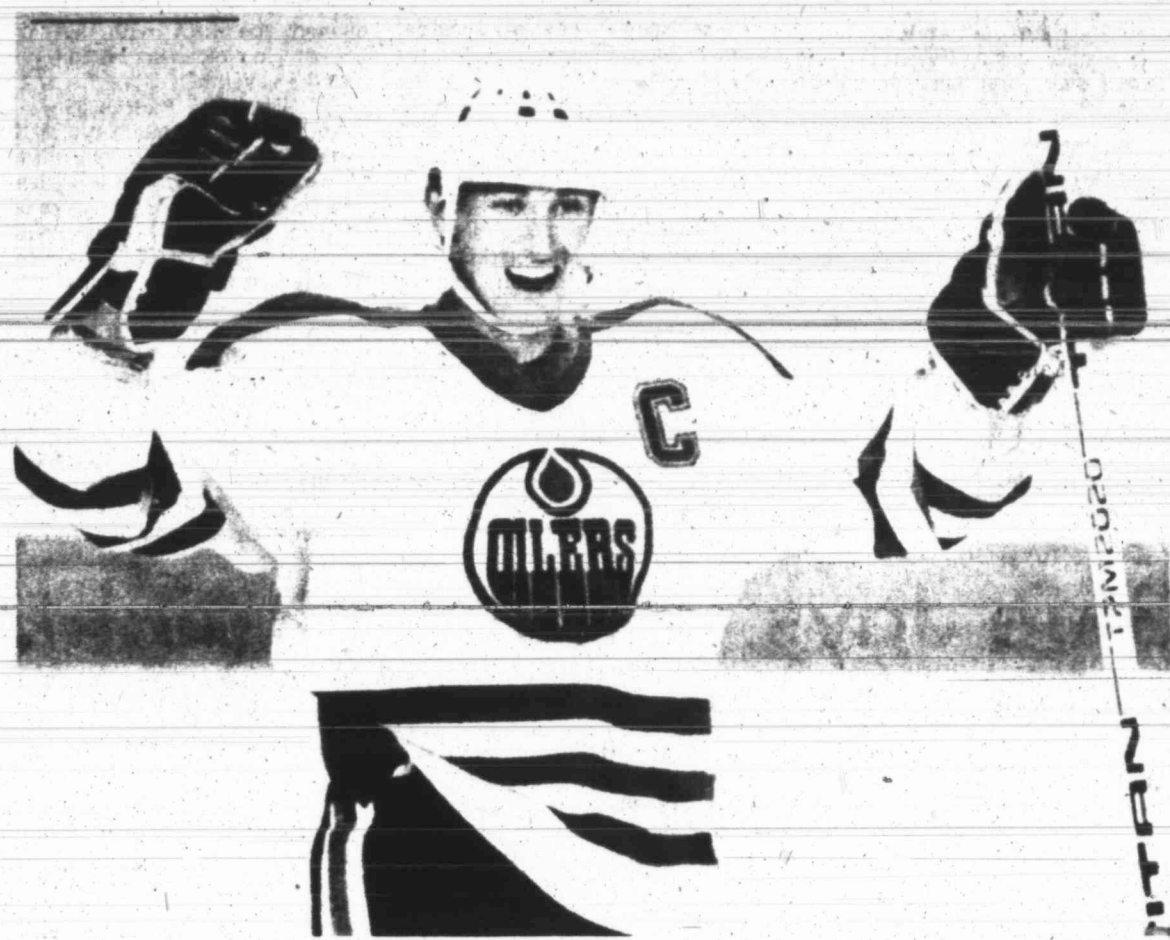

"Charlie Huddy's goal was the turning point for us," said Paul Coffey of his defense mate's screened 35-foot slapshot which soared past the stick of goalie Pelle Lindbergh with 1:37 remaining in the first period. "We played one of the worst periods of the playoffs and were down only 3-2."

Coffey scored the other Edmonton goal in the opening session on a 50-foot slapshot. It was his 10th of the playoffs, a record for defencemen — he already has the points record for his position with 33.

But the Flyers had done well with their specialty teams. Their first goal, by Rich Sutter only 46 seconds into the contest, was at even strength; Sutter sent a backhand from behind the net that banked in off Huddy's skate.

Todd Bergen scored at 6:38 to make it 2-1. The Flyers held a two-man skating advantage and Bergen blasted a 40-foot slapshot past Fuhr.

The pivotal point, according to Gretzky, came at 8:47. Ron Sutter broke behind the Oilers' defense while killing a penalty and was hooked from behind by Mark Messier. As Sutter fell to the ice without getting off a shot, referee Kerry Fraser — a substitute for Edmonton Oiler center WAYNE GRETZKY raises his arms in jubilation after scoring the winning goal in the fourth game of the best of seven series against the Philadelphia Flyers. The Oilers defeated the Flyers in Edmonton 5-3 Tuesday night.

Andy Van Hellemond, who missed the game with a bad back — signaled a penalty shot.

It was only the third penalty shot in finals history, and it ended as the third failure. Sutter, who earlier in his season missed a penalty shot against the Islanders' Kelly Hrudey, tried a wrist shot which Fuhr got his leg pad on. The save made Fuhr 3-for-3 on penalty shots in the NHL.

"I think he was trying to find room either by my glove or between my legs," said Fuhr. "But he stuffed it into the pillows."

The Flyers did get a shorthanded goal later. Huddy fell down at his blue line, allowing Derrick Smith and Murray Craven to break in alone on Fuhr. Craven tucked in Smith's pass from short range for a 3-1 lead.

But Huddy brought the Oilers closer and Glenn Anderson rocketed a 50-footer past a screened Lindbergh 21 seconds into the middle session to tie it.

"Glenn took the wind out of their sails," said Coffey. "It gave our club a lot of confidence."

And Gretzky gave the Oilers the lead, pouncing on a Coffey shot which was blocked and backhanding it past Lindbergh at 12:53. He scored again at 3:42 of the final period with a quick wrist shot after Mark Messier set him up with a spinning move and a perfect pass.

The Oilers pretty much shut down the Flyers the rest of the way, prompting Gretzky to praise Edmonton's defensive skills.

"I keep reading we can't play defense and we keep winning night after night with it," he said. "If we want to play a strong defense, our guys can do that. We may not be as good defensively as a team like the Flyers... but when we want to play really good defense, we can put our minds to it and do it."

Flyers Coach Mike Keenan once again replaced Lindbergh with Bob Froese, who surrendered Gretzky's second goal after starting the third period. Lindbergh also had come out for five seconds in the second period to drink some water.

"Lindbergh needed water, he was close to dehydrating," said Keenan. "The second time (he lifted Lindbergh) he was feeling the effects of being dehydrated and needed to be rested. I felt he was tiring because of that."

Naturally, the Flyers weren't conceding defeat, even though Edmonton has won 15 straight home playoff games and Philadelphia is undermanned: Tim Kerr, their 54-goal scorer, and defenseman Brad McCrimmon are out, and others are playing hurt.

"We can't beat Edmonton from the penalty box and we're running out of time," said defenseman Brad Marsh. "Obviously, it will be hard to get up for Thursday night down 3-1. It's tough to accept. Perhaps we'll play the game of our lives."

Reds win scoring battle over Cubs, 13-11

By The Associated Press
Why are boomers and bad checks like the Cincinnati Reds?

The answer to that seldom-asked question was easy Tuesday night as Tony Perez kept the Reds coming back, first from a 6-0 deficit, then from 10-5, finally breaking an 11-11 tie in the seventh inning and beating the Chicago Cubs 13-11. Pesky Cincinnati refused to be left behind, scoring five runs in the fourth inning and six runs in the sixth.

NL Roundup

Perez was 3-for-3 with a three-run homer in the fourth and a run-scoring double in the tie-breaking seventh.

The Cubs jumped off to a 6-0 lead in three innings. Ron Cey's ninth homer accounted for two runs.

The Reds sent 11 batters to the plate and made it 6-5 in the fourth off starter Larry Gura, who the Cubs started as a free agent before the game.

Cey tripled home a pair of runs in the sixth as the Cubs raced back out to a 10-5 advantage, but the Reds again sent 11 men to bat in the bottom of the sixth.

Gary Redus hit a two-run homer and Cesar Cedeno drove home three more with a bases-loaded double. Cedeno scored on Wayne Krenchicki's single.

Chris Speier reached eventual winner John Franco, 2-1, for his first homer of the year in the seventh, tying the game again, but the Reds had not come this far to lose.

Redus singled off Lary Sorensen, 1-1, in the bottom of the seventh, stole second and scored on Concepcion's single. Concepcion then stole second and scored on Perez's double.

Cardinals 9, Braves 3 ... Tito Landrum homered and singled during a seven-run onslaught by St. Louis that was wrapped around a 24-minute rain delay in the fourth inning. The Cardinals had four singles, three doubles, Landrum's two-run homer and a fielder's interference call in the inning. They had 19 hits in the game.

Terry Pendleton, Vince Coleman and Willie McGee had the doubles in the fourth inning. Coleman had a pair of doubles on the night, and Jack Clark was 4-for-5 in the game.

Ken Forsch, 4-2, chipped in with a single in the fourth and held the Braves hitless until Dale Murphy opened the fifth with his 12th homer. He yielded six hits pitching into the seventh.

Expos 8, Padres 5 ... Andre Dawson pinch hit in the sixth and drove in a run with a single, giving Montreal a 5-4 lead. After San Diego tied the score 5-5, Dawson stroked a two-run double in the eighth that gave Rich Gossage his first loss of the season. Mike Fitzgerald led off the eighth against Gossage, 1-1, with a single.

U.L. Washington reached first when Gossage's slip and fall transformed his sacrifice attempt into a bunt single. After a sacrifice and an out, Dawson delivered his double.

Pirates 4, Astros 3 ... Junior Ortiz, who entered the game as a pinch runner when Tony Pena sprained his ankle in the fourth inning, singled in the 12th with the bases loaded, beating Houston.

Lee Mazzilli led off the 12th with a walk off loser Julio Salano, 1-1, the sixth Houston pitcher. George Hendrick doubled to right and Doug Frobel was walked intentionally, loading the bases for Ortiz.

The Pirates jumped to a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning, but the Astros scored one in the bottom of the fourth, one in the sixth and tied it in the seventh.

Pena sprained his ankle sliding back into first base on a pickoff attempt in the fourth. He had singled, driving in a run.

Cecilio Guante, 1-0, the fourth Pirates pitcher, worked the final three innings for the victory.

Blue Jays win 8th straight

By The Associated Press
While Toronto's exploits may be no match for the runaway Detroit staged a year ago en route to winning the World Series, the consistent Blue Jays aren't apologizing to anyone.

Toronto won a club-record eighth straight game Tuesday night to run its mark to 29-14 — identical to its showing after 43 games last season. It pales by comparison to Detroit's 35-8 at the same time a year ago, but this time the Blue Jays lead the Tigers by four games instead of trailing by seven in the American League East.

AL Roundup

Perhaps as fascinating was that most of the Blue Jays weren't aware of setting a team record.

Dave Stieb, 5-3, hiked his lifetime record to 11-3 against the White Sox and 7-1 at Comiskey Park.

"I don't know the reason," Stieb said. "But this is a pitcher's park. The dimensions are fair and the grass cuts the ball down."

Elsewhere in an abbreviated schedule, Texas trimmed Kansas City 6-1, and Milwaukee edged Cleveland 3-2. Minnesota at Boston was rained out.

The victory was Stieb's second complete game of the season.

Ernie Whitt provided all the offense Stieb needed with a home run, two singles and three runs batted in.

Richard Dotson, 2-3, held Toronto hitless until Len Matuszek tripled to open the fifth inning and scored on a single by Whitt. The Blue Jays added a run in the sixth on George Bell's fielder's-choice grounder before Whitt's sixth homer of the season triggered a four-run seventh in which pinch-hitter Garth Iorg singled in one run and Willie Upshaw doubled home two more.

Stieb ran his string of scoreless innings to 19 before Chicago, which has lost seven in a row, scored an unearned run in the sixth on an error by Stieb, who walked one and struck out five.

Astros get new third base coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Les Moss will replace Don Leppert as the Houston Astros third base coach. The National League club announced Tuesday.

Leppert has been offered an unspecified new assignment, the club said.

Moss will team with Astros pitching coach Jerry Walker, a capacity he held last season.

The Astros also recalled righthanded relief pitcher Julio Solano from the club's Class AAA affiliate at Tucson and sent righthanded reliever Mark Ross back to the same team.

Solano had an 0-2 record with a 2.25 earned run average and three saves at Tucson.

"That was the Burt Hooton of old," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said after the 35-year-old right-hander scattered seven hits to defeat Kansas City and end the Royals' six-game winning streak.

It also dropped the Royals a full game behind idle California in the AL West.

"He had control of three pitches," Valentine said of the former Los Angeles Dodger hurler, who pitched his first complete game since 1983 and first ever in the AL.

It was the fourth start for Hooton, who made seven relief appearances before he was moved into the rotation.

Rookie Oddibe McDowell drove in two runs for Texas.

Brewers 3, Indians 2
The Milwaukee bullpen, mostly ineffective since Rollie Fingers went down with an injury near the end of the Brewers' pennant-winning 1982 season, may be back in business under the leadership of none other than Fingers.

He recorded his seventh save when he combined with Moose Haas for a five-hitter as the Brewers beat Cleveland.

Haas, 5-2, was staked to a 1-0 lead on consecutive, first-inning doubles by Paul Molitor and Charlie Moore. The Brewers scored single runs in the third and fourth innings, but errors by right fielder Paul Householder and catcher Moore led to a pair of unearned runs.
