Senate OKs indigent care plan

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The special legislative session that began as a surprise ended with the expected Thursday as the Texas Senate gave final approval to funding an indigent health care plan and cancer research.

All the senators had to do was accept some minor amendments that the Texas House put on the legislation on Wednesday. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who presides in the Senate, had predicted earlier the matter would take only five minutes. It took less than half that in an apparently unanimous voice vote.

Sen. John Montford, who represents Howard County, was not present at the final session Thursday morning because he had to catch a plane to Florida. But a spokeswoman said he registered a "yes" vote for the bill before he left.

Montford, D-Lubbock, was scheduled to speak to a group in Florida about the state's water package that he was instrumental in passing during the regular session.

Gov. Mark White, who called the special session within an hour after the regular 140-day session ended at midnight Monday, called the three-day session "outstanding."

With a reference to his expected re-election bid in 1986, he added: "I look forward to seeing you in January of 1987." That's the date of the next scheduled legislative session.

White said he will sign the health care bill in a public ceremony in the near future.

The $70 million health care package passed the Senate easily in both the regular and special sessions but died before a vote could be taken in the House. It cleared the House 90-54 on Wednesday after the Conservative Coalition failed on a close vote to cut it to $22 million for maternity care only.

Final approval of the indigent health care package was a sweet victory for Hobby, who had made it one of his priorities for the regular session. He said after the final vote that his strong support came because: "It's basically right."

He blasted the chairman of the Texas Republican Party, George Strake, saying he had heard that Strake had called legislators on Wednesday urging a "no" vote on the proposal.

"Everybody who voted against this concept has something to explain for the rest of their lives," Hobby said.

$750 million settlement in nuke suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Brown & Root Inc., former builder of the South Texas Nuclear Project, has agreed to pay $750 million to four Texas utilities in what attorneys termed the largest cash settlement in U.S. history, the companies involved announced today.

The Houston-based construction company, a unit of Dallas-based Halliburton Co., will pay $630 million to Houston Lighting & Power, San Antonio City Public Service and Central Power and Light.

In the $6.3 billion lawsuit filed three years ago, those three utilities and the city of Austin, all of whom are partners in the nuclear plant, alleged that Brown & Root mishandled the construction project. Bechtel Corp. has replaced Brown and Root.

The city of Austin has not decided whether it will participate in the settlement. If it rejects its $120 million, Halliburton said it intended to "defend the litigation vigorously."

Bargains light up Chamber auction

'Christmas in June' proceeds to refurbish holiday decorations

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

The auctioneer's gavel will be pounding the desk frequently Saturday when bidders try to find bargains at the "Christmas in June" Chamber of Commerce auction.

Proceeds from the auction, slated for 2 p.m. Saturday on the corner of Third and Scurry streets, will fund the refurbishing of the city's Christmas decorations.

In order to get a bid in edgewise while the auctioneer rattles on, prospective bidders must register at 1 p.m. to receive a number. Bidding will be by numbers, according to Chamber Business Committee Chairman Corky Harris.

Registering as a bidder also registers a person for a drawing for a $100 savings account.

According to Harris, the decorations are "in bad need of repair." Harris, whose committee will direct the event, said the auction needs to raise $7,500 to pay for the refurbishing.

Members of the Chamber business committee developed the idea for the auction, expected to become an annual event, during the last six weeks, Harris said.

"I expect a lot of things will go for good bargains," Harris said. "The merchants of Big Spring were very generous."

All items to be auctioned off were donated by merchants or the Chamber.

"The retail value of the items donated is far in excess of $15,000. When I say there probably will be good bargains, I truly mean it," Harris said.

The auction will kick off with the sale of the first of four featured items, a satellite receiver system.

Three other featured items — a Honda ATC 250 SX three-wheeler, a hot spring spa and a late model pickup truck — will be sold at specific times in the auction. The three-wheeler will go on the block at 2:30 p.m., the spa at 3 p.m. and the pickup truck at 3:30 p.m.

In addition, the chamber will auction off its gold and silver souvenir belt buckles. Ten sterling silver key chains with the same design also will be auctioned off. The chamber also will sell buckles during the day.

Items will be on display throughout the morning, Harris said.

Other items to be auctioned include: a collector's Beatles album, "Introducing the Beatles," donated by The Record Shop; a lead crystal vase and a lead crystal wine decanter; accounting services, china; Christian Dior cologne; a gold plated money clip; a computer starter kit; a baseball glove; an instamatic camera; a water filter; a black and white television set.

In addition, the Big Spring Herald has donated a full page of advertising for the auction. Radio stations KBYG-AM/KIOF-FM, KBST-AM and KWKI-FM/KKIK-AM also have donated advertising time to be auctioned off.

Several gift certificates, savings accounts, bottled water, a physical exam valued at more than $200 from Malone-Hogan Hospital, an eye examination for contacts by Dr. Kilgore and a telephone also will be auctioned.

Oilmen fear Reagan tax reform

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Spokesmen for the oil and gas industry Wednesday said President Reagan's proposal for tax reform would kill investment in oil and gas production at a time when "it's virtually burned out."

"If you're looking at this proposal versus what was first proposed, it's a big improvement, but we're still very concerned about the percentage depletion allowance," said Peter Wellish, spokesman for the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"Unless you have those incentives in there, there's just nothing you can do to make the industry attractive to outside investment," he said.

Wellish and other industry representatives said specific estimates were not yet available on the impact of the president's plan, released Wednesday in a bulky 461-page analysis after the president's speech Tuesday night.

A preliminary analysis by the Texas State Office of State-Federal Relations in Washington indicated that the tax plan's impact on the oil and gas industry would be one of the largest overall effects of the proposal within the state.

The analysis backed up the industry view that the plan "might damage (the) energy industry's ability to raise money and buy drilling equipment. Besides chilling a major Texas industry, the change (in taxes) also would slightly reduce state revenues derived from oil and gas activity," the analysis said.

Reagan's proposal recommends a five-year phase-out of the longstanding depletion allowance for all oil and gas production except small stripper wells for oil and gas.

Unlike the original administration proposal, however, the final plan would retain the current deduction for intangible drilling costs. That deduction allows independent producers to write-off up to 80 percent of expenses for items ranging from labor costs to unsalvageable materials such as drilling fluids and cement.

"The oil and gas industry generally views percentage depletion as less vital than intangible drilling costs," the Texas State Office analysis said.

Harry Spannaus, spokesman for the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland, said the industry "won one and lost one, but we won 75 percent" with the president's proposal. He referred to the two major tax incentives and Reagan's decision to keep the deduction for drilling costs.

A loser in the plan would be the state's 650,000 royalty owners who receive checks averaging about $200 each month. The exemption for stripper wells from the phase-out of the percentage depletion allowance would not be extended to royalty owners under the administration plan.

Along with others who receive oil and gas income, royalty owners have to use cost depletion rather than percentage depletion as a deduction under the Reagan plan. Cost depletion would be less valuable than the current 15 percent deduction for oil and gas income for independent operators.

Waltz across Texas

Czech musician has listeners skipping to the schottisches

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — If you press a stethoscope to Lee Roy Matocha's chest, his heart must surely beat with a rhythm like this: oom pah pah, oom pah pah.

That's because Matocha, 52, has lived and breathed Czech music — polkas, waltzes and schottisches — for more than 38 years.

He plays accordion and leads a six-piece band called the Lee Roy Matocha Orchestra that plays dances in farming communities and large cities across the state, in venues like the SPJST Hall in Elgin, the Bill Mraz dance hall in Houston or the American League Hall of Shiner.

He also hosts nearly two dozen Czech music radio shows on five AM stations across Central and Southeast Texas. Broadcasting in Czech and English, he plays requests and dedications for a faithful core of listeners in nearly 50 counties, some of whom still claim Czech as their primary language.

His 13 albums, recorded at small studios throughout Texas, are not big sellers, but have sold briskly at dances and some record stores.

So for thousands of radio listeners and dance hall regulars throughout the region, Matocha's name is synonymous with polka.

He's legendary in national polka circles, too. Al Grebneck, a polka band leader for 51 years who lives in Nebraska and used to tour Texas yearly, says Matocha is one of the best in the business.

"He's at the top," says Grebneck. "He's No. 1 in the marketing of Czech music in Texas."

The nerve center of this vast Bohemian empire is a cramped, 12-by-12-foot spare room that Matocha built himself at the rear of his home near the town square here.

This is where Matocha, a former gravel pit worker who quit it all to devote his life to polkas, churns out 22 hours of weekly Czech music programming.

He began the show in 1960 at the La Grange radio station as polka parade intended to appeal to Fayette County's large Czech population. Before that, he hosted a dance show that was broadcast live from the American Legion Hall in La Grange.

Matocha's show is strictly boburk. No rock. No Western. No ballroom music. Just traditional brass and accordion renditions of songs like "All By Myself Polka" and "All Smiles Tonight Waltz." The groups on the show have names like the Math Sladky Band and Bob Blecha and The Bouncin' Czechs.

The room is cluttered with stacks of 78 rpm records, recording equipment and decorated by yellowing pictures tacked to the wall that show Matocha and fellow musicians during the heyday of Texas polka music.

Matocha records 22 weekly radio shows that play on stations in El Campo, Brenham, La Grange, Cameron and Gonzales.

Most of the shows are in English, but three of the shows — two in La Grange and one in Gonzales — are totally in Czech, including the commercials.

He sells and reads advertisements that he solicits from area businesses. Customers pay each station for the ads, and Matocha gets a commission off that. He won't say how much he makes, but adds it is enough to pay his bills.

He can be found most days in his makeshift studio, huddled over a sound mixing board and flanked by two turntables and three tape recorders.

He speaks in a clipped Czech accent that's difficult for first-time listeners to understand. Each show is recorded as though it were live, even though out-of-county shows are done up to nine days in advance. An hour-long show, he said, takes him 1 hour and 10 minutes to record.

Czech music is one of the last forms of purely ethnic music left in Texas. It came here in the late 1800s as Czech immigrants settled in and around towns like Ennis, La Grange, Cameron and Rosenberg.

Matocha learned to love Czech music from his father, Louis Matocha, a Fayette County farmer who played in a band run by other family members.

Little Lee Roy Matocha would sit at his father's feet while the elder Matocha played accordion and piano. Like his father, Lee Roy can't read music, picking up most tunes by ear.

Lee Roy Matocha joined his uncle's band, Zbrank's Accordion Orchestra, in 1947, replacing his father.

In those days, most polka bands were family operations. The most famous, and the one that had a seminal effect on Czech music for decades to come, was the Baca Family Band. The band consisted of 12 brothers and sisters and they were the biggest act in the polka business.

They've disbanded now, and about all that's left of their music are hundreds of rare recordings on reel-to-reel tape that were given to Matocha by various Baca family members throughout the years. The tapes are kept in a cardboard box under Matocha's broadcast desk.

Most of the music played on his shows comes from these tapes or his extensive record collection. Many of the recordings are on 78 rpm records, and date back to the 1930s and 1940s.

A lot of those bands disappeared as interest in Czech music waned, Matocha said. Lots of dance bands do polkas, but most only know a few. There are few pure Czech bands — with brass, drums, accordion and keyboards — remaining in Texas, Nebraska and Wisconsin, the three big polka states.

Matocha's band is one of the busiest polka acts around. His calendar for the next three and a half months shows 31 bookings.

The band started in 1964. The lineup has changed several times, and now includes his daughter, Janice Marek, on piano, and son-in-law, Mike Marek, on bass tuba.

The crowds at a Matocha dance are like other polka and Czech functions — mainly older people who still know how to speak at least some Czech. But as the older generations pass on, there aren't as many new listeners showing up at the dance halls. Except in areas with large and established Czech populations, polka and waltz music is losing its audience.

"Younger potential fans continue to favor rock and country," says Grebneck. "So it's not economical for dance halls to book bands that won't sell tickets."

Matocha says there's now some interest showing among younger fans who want to preserve their Czech heritage. But Grebneck says, it may be too late.

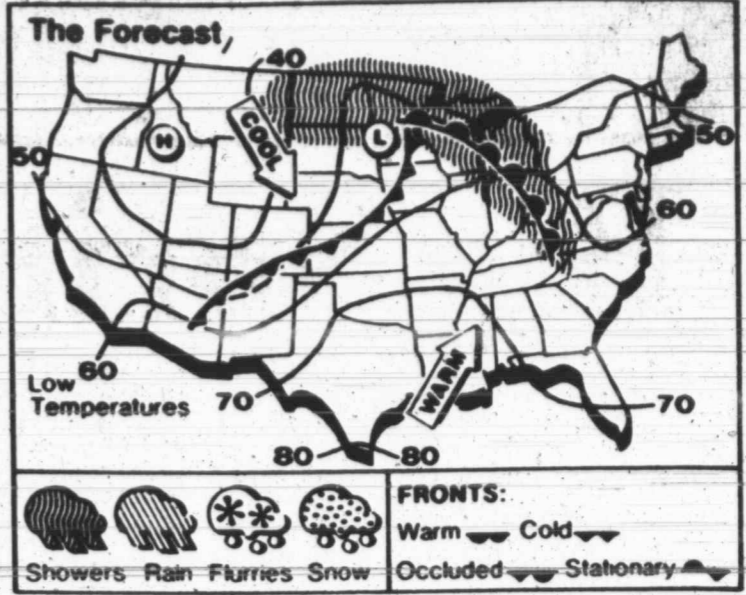

Matocha's own show has suffered some setbacks. It used to be heard on seven stations, but station owners in Karnes City and Seguin dropped it to play more country music.

Still, it remains a popular show where it still plays, according to station managers.

"The response to his show is very good," says Dan Mueller, manager of KVLG in La Grange. "Listenership here has never gone down. As a matter of fact, it may have gone up."

"One time, a few years back, we were late in getting his show on, and we were swamped with calls," Mueller said. "We haven't done it since." And, he said, Matocha hasn't missed a daily show in 25 years.

2 injured in collision; man jailed in incident

Two Big Spring men, a Coahoma man and one San Angelo woman were injured Wednesday in two separate two-car accidents, according to police records.

Eustalia Muzquiz Roach, 41, of San Angelo was treated and released Wednesday morning from Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

The driver of the Pontiac, Masadonio M. Landin, 54, of 410 Ayford was treated and released from Hall-Bennett Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

According to police reports, Landin was traveling west on W. Fifth, while Roach was northbound in the 500 block of Gregg when the collision occurred.

The three passengers in Roach's car — Nelson Fulcher, 16, of San Angelo; Michael Roach, 16, of San Angelo; and Joel Roach, 14, of San Angelo — were not injured in the accident.

Two Big Spring men also were injured in a second accident at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday in the 400 block of E. FM 700 20 feet west of Goliad.

Roy Lynne Thornton, 30, of 814 W. Eighth was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital, a spokesman said.

The passenger in Thornton's 1975 white and yellow Ford Supercab pickup truck, Bill Alex Moser, 36, of 1429 E. Sixth, was injured but not treated.

A passenger in the second vehicle, Mario S. Cevallos Jr., 30, of Coahoma was injured but not treated at a hospital, according to police records. The driver of the 1979 white Ford F7000, Robert Charles Barlow, 27, of the I-20 Trailer Park was uninjured, the report stated.

According to the police report, Thornton was eastbound in the 400 block of E. FM 700, and had stopped at the traffic light at the intersection of FM 700 and Goliad.

Barlow also was eastbound, behind Thornton, the report stated. According to the report, he told police he had been having brake problems. When Barlow tried to stop, the brakes did not hold, and the trucks collided, according to the accident report.

Firefighters douse car blaze

Big Spring firemen Wednesday evening extinguished a small fire in a car that had been involved in an accident in the county, according to department records.

The driver of the car, W.R. Harkins of 2911 W. Highway 80, was not injured, the report stated.

According to the report, the car, a 1966 Pontiac LeMans, overturned after an accident on Birdwell Road a half-mile south of Hilltop Road.

4 injured in car accidents

A Big Spring man was listed in critical condition this morning in Lubbock General Hospital following a two-car accident on North Birdwell Lane, one mile north of Interstate 20.

A spokesman at the hospital said William Ray Hankins, 30, of 2911 W. Highway 80 No. 32 was placed in the intensive care unit at Lubbock General after he was transferred from Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring last night.

The accident occurred at 5:45 p.m. according to a Texas Department of Public Safety report.

Hankins was traveling south on North Birdwell when a car driven by Bobby Lee Edmondson, 24, of 608 S. Goliad attempted to pass him on the left side. According to the DPS report, Edmondson misjudged the distance between the cars. The 1973 Chevrolet Nova driven by Edmondson struck the other vehicle in the rear.

The 1970 Pontiac LeMans driven by Hankins veered into the west bar ditch due to the collision and overturned.

The Big Spring Fire Department was notified of the accident. According to a fire department report, the car (LeMans) was found upside down in a ditch. After a wrecking service truck pulled the car out of the ditch, firemen extinguished a small patch of smoldering carpet in the vehicle. The vehicle driven by Edmondson skidded south, turned halfway around and slid backwards off the west side of the roadway into a cluster of trees, according to the DPS report.

Edmondson was later arrested on charges for a second offense of driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended. According to the Howard County Sheriff's log, he was placed in a holding cell at the county jail and later released on bonds totalling $2,500 set by Justice of the Peace China Long.

Also suffering injuries from the accident was Lee Ann Smith, 18, of Sterling City Route Box 144A-1. She was a passenger in the car driven by Hankins. A spokesman at the Malone-Hogan emergency room said she was treated and released.

According to the DPS report, Edmondson had no liability insurance at the time of the accident.

Plant to reopen

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. — Stung by years of the public's fear and criticism from the 1979 nuclear accident at Three Mile Island, plant operators say they're ready to prove they can produce power safely.

Six operators were interviewed Wednesday just after the Nuclear Regulatory Commission voted 4-1 to allow the idle Unit 1 plant to return to commercial service.

"I think this is great," said Mark Bezilla, 29. "I've been trained to be an operator. I want to operate the plant. I want to make power. I want to feel like I'm productive and I'm helping people...."

Bezilla was in the Unit 2 engineering department when it was involved in the worst accident in history of the U.S. nuclear industry. He said he took it personally that TMI workers were perceived as "bad guys."

"I always felt that I was trying to help people and be productive in society and now all of a sudden you are the outcast," he said. "You get sort of defensive...."

Donald Smith, 38, a shift supervisor with 11 years' experience at the plant, said he once came close to a fist fight with someone over TMI.

Puzzling volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Extremely high levels of earthquake activity deep inside cloud-shrouded Mount St. Helens make it hard to tell what the volcano will do next, observers say.

In previous dome-building eruptions, the mountain shook with earthquakes centered just below the surface of the giant lava dome inside the volcano crater. However, the recent earthquake activity is located a half mile below the dome.

On Wednesday, scientists issued a statement saying they don't know what will happen next.

"Noting that the current seismicity pattern is different than we have observed prior to previous dome-building ... increases our uncertainty as to the outcome of this particular eruptive activity," said Steve Brantley of the U.S. Geological Survey.

It is possible that the dome could continue to grow as it fills up with molten rock, Brantley said. Magma may or may not push its way on to the dome's surface, or a small to moderate-sized explosion could occur at any time, he said.

"Despite the uncertainties, we anticipate that hazards will be largely confined to the restricted area" around the mountain, Brantley said.

Challenging overhaul

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — President Reagan acknowledged today that he faces a challenge in trying to sell the country on his plan to overhaul the federal tax system, which he called "utterly impossible, utterly unjust and completely counterproductive."

Soccer game clash leaves 38 people dead

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The government said today it was considering banning British soccer teams from Belgium after a clash between British and Italian fans at a championship match left 38 people dead and more than 275 injured.

Most of the victims were Italians trampled or crushed to death under a wall that collapsed when panicked fans tried to escape Brussels' Heysel stadium when the riot broke out before the match.

The Interior Ministry and a European soccer association started work today on separate inquiries to determine responsibility for Wednesday night's deadly riot.

"People were trapped by rubble and dead bodies," said John Welsh, 27, of Toxteth, England. "It was terrible and nobody seemed to be doing anything. We were trying to pull people out, but idiots were still pushing."

Louis Wouters, president of the Belgian Soccer Federation, demanded an autopsy for two whom he said were either stabbed or shot, but State Prosecutor Judge Michel Peytier said preliminary autopsies provided no evidence to support that assertion.

The Belgian government in a statement said it was "very seriously reconsidering" giving permission for matches involving British teams. It said it had taken all the necessary precautions "in the light of the presumed risks and previous experiences."

On May 11 a grandstand fire, possibly started by hooligans, killed 53 people and injured 200 at Britain's Bradford stadium.

European sports officials and newspapers questioned whether Britain should be allowed to compete in international events. One British legislator said his country's team should be banned from the 1986 World Cup final.

In London, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher issued a statement saying those responsible for the rioting "have brought shame and disgrace to their country and to football."

Premier Wilfried Martens said on television that the decision to go ahead with the game "may have astonished the Italians, but it was taken for security reasons." He sent a telegram of condolence to Italian Premier Bettino Craxi.

The two teams played the game after a 90-minute delay, and Juventus, of Turin, Italy, won the European Cup, the continent's leading soccer competition, defeating Britain's Liverpool by a 1-0 score.

The Interior Ministry, the State Prosecutor's Office and Brussels Fire Brigade spokesman Francis Boileau said 38 fans died in the riot, including a 10-year-old Italian boy. The Interior Ministry said 26 were Italians, four were Belgian, one was French, one was British and six were not yet identified. Earlier, Boileau said 33 were Italians.

Turk pressed for details

ROME — A prosecutor today pressed a Turk accused of conspiring to kill Pope John Paul II to explain why he was in Bulgaria at the same time convicted assailant Mehmet Ali Agca was picking up a false passport.

Omer Bagci, on the witness stand for a second day, insisted he had only spent a few hours in Bulgaria in late August 1980, and that he had met with no one. On Wednesday Bagci testified he had given Agca the gun he used to shoot the pope.

Prosecutor Antonio Marini, speaking to reporters during a recess, said he was pressing Bagci about his stay in Bulgaria because "the coincidences are too much." He said Agca was in the same area at the same time picking up a false passport from fellow Turks.

Normally, only the judge can ask direct questions in Italian trials, but Marino has been allowed to speak to Bagci directly, through an interpreter, in order to save time.

Bagci, three other Turks and three Bulgarians are accused of complicity in the attempt on the pope's life in St. Peter's Square on May 13, 1981.

The prosecutor who recommended the indictments against Bagci, Antonio Albano, said that Bulgaria, possibly with Soviet support, sought to kill the pope to end his support for the Solidarity free trade union in his native Poland.

Marini said Wednesday that Bagci's testimony has shed new light on the alleged plot to kill the pope and that he is studying whether new charges should be issued.

6,000 people dead

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Relief workers passed out food, blankets and vitamins today to typhoon survivors trying to patch together their shattered homes in the Bay of Bengal.

The government dismissed reports of tens of thousands dead as "guesswork" and said no more than 6,000 people had died.

Radio Bangladesh said Wednesday a new storm was brewing in the bay. Yutaka Kuwabara of Japan's meteorological agency said this morning satellite photos showed a huge cloud ring over the bay but this was only a "possible" indication of new bad weather.

Meanwhile, martial law president Lt. Gen. Hassain Ershad visited areas north of Dhaka Wednesday, where floods cut off some communities and left 800,000 homeless. One death was reported.

Whole populations of the storm swept islands of the bay were living on meager relief goods, although pledges of aid were pouring in from around the world.

Pentagon's defense offensive to budget

The Pentagon is caught in another embarrassment of riches that doesn't ease the task of lawmakers trying to pass a fair deficit reduction package.

This latest defense budget flap doesn't involve outrageous charges by greedy contractors, but is the result of a falling inflation rate during the last four years. Because the Reagan administration overestimated the rate of inflation, more money has been appropriated than needed.

The windfall came to light a few days ago at congressional hearings on the deficit reduction package. After the Senate passed what appeared to be a "no growth" budget limiting defense increases to the rate of inflation, the Senate Armed Services Committee was informed by Pentagon controller Robert W. Helm that its task of cutting programs to meet any cuts would be easier than imagined because $4 billion in unspent funds has turned up from this fiscal year's accounts.

In fairness to the Pentagon, inflation accounted for only $1.6 billion of the $4 billion surplus; the rest came from unspent contingencies that federal agencies traditionally squander at the end of a fiscal year to avoid any surplus showing for budget cutters.

It should also be noted that during the 1970s, many federal programs, including those for defense, suffered because of the tendency to underestimate the rate of inflation.

Because both national security and popular domestic programs are at stake, the American people deserve to learn the truth about any Pentagon budget padding. Unfortunately, the controversy appears to have degenerated into a partisan treasure hunt with the "can't do anything right" Pentagon targeted for easy pickings.

Rewriting a wrong doesn't make it right

There is a great deal of rewriting of history in the United States these days. One of the most outstanding scholars in the field is Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, who chairs the President's Commission for Historical Revisionism.

I found Applebaum in a tiny government office off Lafayette Park, tapping away on his word processor. He seemed to be grateful for the interruption. "What are you working on?" I asked him.

He replied, "I was a Teenage SS Colonel. It is the diary of a child who serves for 14 years as a storm trooper, only to become one of the millions of victims of World War II."

"Where did you find the diary?" "I was tipped off by one of President Reagan's speechwriters."

"How do you explain the sudden interest in historical revisionism?" Applebaum said, "You can't learn from history unless you rewrite it. The job of the revisionist is to make people forget the past. The neo-historian looks at what has been printed so far and then asks himself, 'Will this hurt or help our present alliances?'"

"Can you give me an example?" "When the revisionists saw that the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II was coming up, we realized that the German people would be very sensitive if they were shown in a bad light. So we assigned a crack team of neo-historians to make their role in the unpleasantness more palatable. This book was the result."

As I leafed through it he told me, "It proves that Adolf Hitler started World War II against the express wishes of the German people. As a matter of fact, we discovered the entire population rose up to stop him from invading Czechoslovakia, Poland and France."

"That's quite a scoop," I said. "You must have done a lot of research."

"I interviewed hundreds of people who lived through those days and couldn't find one who admitted to supporting Hitler's mad ambition to take over the world. This confirmed our earlier suspicions that Hitler worked alone."

"It sounds like you've got a Pulitzer prize winner here," I said. "What's this other manuscript?" "That's my revisionist history of the war in the Pacific. It sheds a whole new light on how we got involved."

"In what way?" "I discovered the Russians bombed Pearl Harbor."

"That's one I hadn't heard before."

"They wanted us to think the Japanese had done it so we would declare war on the Axis powers. Roosevelt fell for it hook, line and sinker."

"I always thought there was more to Pearl Harbor than any of us had been led to believe. But if the Russians sank our fleet, why did the Japanese capture the Philippines?"

"Who says the Japanese captured the Philippines? They were Cubans dressed as Japanese."

I looked over the manuscript and was impressed with what I read. "If the United States had known who really bombed Pearl Harbor I'll bet we would never have dropped the atom bomb on Hiroshima?"

"Who said the United States dropped the bomb on Hiroshima?" "Don't tell me. If we didn't do it, who did?" Applebaum said tersely, "The Nicaraguans."

Stockman falls from grace; commission gets blessing

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — President Reagan's fiscal guru, David Stockman, was reprimanded in 1981 for deriding in private the Reaganomics he was defending in public. But apparently that scolding has merely made him more cautious.

White House sources familiar with Stockman's backdoor routines say he continues to undercut presidential policies he doesn't like. He has instigated attacks, they claim, on the Grace Commission, which the president admires.

By leak and critique, Stockman allegedly has inspired editorial and congressional criticism of the commission's findings on waste in government. Apparently the findings were an embarrassment to Stockman, who is supposed to uncover misspending in the federal bureaucracy.

Yet J. Peter Grace, who heads the commission, pointed out billions being wasted right under Stockman's nose.

Stockman reacted by trying to discredit Grace's work. He couldn't do this openly, since the Grace Commission has President Reagan's staunch backing. So Stockman began a whispering campaign against the commission.

The president put Stockman on the spot the other day by asking him to meet with the Grace Commission. Reagan led off by hailing Peter Grace's "energetic but healthy troublemaking" and praising the commission for its exposure of "a spendthrift, irresponsible bureaucracy."

The president also declared his support for Citizens Against Waste, a bipartisan, grass-roots group which is striving to persuade Congress to eliminate the waste the commission has uncovered. He called chairman Peter Grace and Jack Anderson "an unusual but high-octane team (who) focus on the abuse of taxpayer dollars and hold appointed officials accountable."

One official whom they intend to hold accountable is David Stockman. After the president spoke, Stockman could hardly contradict him. So instead, the budget director gave a lip-service speech supporting the stop-waste reforms that he has been sabotaging behind the president's back.

Then he solemnly called for a lobbying campaign to persuade Congress to pass the six most controversial reforms. White House sources suggest that Stockman's secret strategy is to antagonize Congress, unite the opposition and defeat the reforms he's opposed to support.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., who is spearheading the Senate battle to reduce government waste, told us he's aware Stockman is secretly trying to block the reforms. The senator's counter-strategy is to push the least controversial reforms and get as much waste eliminated as feasible. Then he will consider Stockman's six stumbling blocks.

Footnote: The General Accounting Office has completed a review of the Grace Commission's findings and has endorsed most of them. Meanwhile, the commission's leading critic, columnist George Will, who is close to Stockman, has run afoul of cost-cutter Ernest Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald, the celebrated whistle blower, disputed arguments raised by Will and Harvard professor Steven Kelman.

"They've been caught in an absolute fabrication," said Fitzgerald.

We couldn't reach Stockman for his comments. But his defenders say Stockman feels the Grace Commission is proposing major policy changes that Congress will never approve. He believes the solutions are not as simple and painless as the commission implies.

Officials oppose local tax options

WASHINGTON (AP) — The section of President Reagan's tax overhaul plan that wipes away the deduction for state and local taxes drew opposition Wednesday from governors and mayors who said it would amount to double taxation and pressure them at a time when federal aid is dwindling.

But the ranks of local leaders weren't united, and some said losing the deduction against federal taxes could be worth the price for a simpler tax code.

Democratic governors in high-tax states were among the most vocal in condemning the proposal.

"It's philosophically all at odds with states' rights, which the president talks about but seldom follows," said Wisconsin Gov. Anthony Earl.

"It subjects taxpayers to double taxation, a tax on taxes already paid to state and local governments," said New York Gov. Mario Cuomo. "It punishes states that are trying to provide essential services in the face of massive federal spending cuts."

In New York, 56 Republican members of the state Assembly wrote Reagan that they oppose the loss of deductibility "as a matter of principle and as a practical, economic concern."

Reagan's tax overhaul plan, proposed in the name of simplification during a national television address Tuesday night, would eliminate the provision that allows taxpayers to deduct the amount they pay in local taxes from their federally taxable income — a provision as old as the federal income tax itself.

Without change, the deduction is expected to be worth $33 billion next year to taxpayers.

"It subjects taxpayers to double taxation, a tax on taxes already paid to state and local governments. It punishes states that are trying to provide essential services in the face of massive federal spending cuts."

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo

State and local officials defended the deduction as the most common itemization taken by taxpayers, but Reagan called the writeoff a subsidy for "the high-tax policies of a handful of states."

While losing the deduction for local taxes, individuals would see their federal income tax rates lowered. But some questioned whether the lowered rate would be enough to offset the loss of the local tax deduction.

"Under Reagan's proposal, California taxpayers will pay more, not less, in federal income taxes," said Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

Groups such as the National Governors Association, the League of Cities and the National Association of Counties oppose eliminating the deduction.

"The effect of this will be to increase pressure on local taxes," said Matthew Coffey, executive director of the counties organization. "It will force local governments into a position where they cannot provide services being demanded by citizens."

Taxpayers won't be as willing to pay local taxes when they are unable to write them off on the federal form, Coffey said.

"Every dollar they spend on local taxes will be a real dollar. It won't be a 50 cent dollar as it has been," he said. "... You're going to put more pressure on local governments to limit taxes."

Moreover, Coffey said corporations will still get to write off their state and local taxes as a cost of doing business. "Is that fair and equitable?" he asked.

Republican Gov. Lamar Alexander of Tennessee backed the proposal, saying low-tax states such as his have been in effect subsidizing "rich New Yorkers" and people in other high-tax states. Taxpayers in those states get a larger deduction because they pay more in state and local taxes.

West Virginia's Republican Gov. Arch Moore backed the proposal, saying "I am convinced that it will result in a stronger economic base for our state and our people."

John Gunther, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said he expects his group will be divided on the proposal when it meets next month. If the Reagan proposal increases people's confidence that taxes are fair, he said, local governments would be winners too.

"A lot of the mayors whose cities might even get hurt a little, in this might swallow it because mayors have been trying to get the federal tax code simplified for years," he said.

Officials of the government associations said they opposed another feature of the proposal that would restrict the ability of local governments to issue revenue bonds with tax-free interest.

Tonta y peor republicana

Por LUIS RIOS
Escritor

El Partido Republicano hizo tonta a la pobre de Linda Chavez. Y la pobre de ella nunca supo que le paso. Y cuando ocurrio eso, los republicanos nomas se miraron y se sonrieron.

La Sra. cambio del Partido Democratico al republicano hace mas que un ano. Su titulo es asistente diputada por enñace publico para el presidente.

Ahora la Sra. quiere explicar porque hizo lo que hizo. En una entrevista con "Focus", un reporte de nuevas sobre detalles hispanos, Chavez dijo que la ideologia de los republicanos era en lo que creia ella.

Dijo que fue dificil cambiar de un partido para otro. Explico que gente como ella, mexicana, fueron criados a pensar que el Partido Republicano solamente representaba a la gente rica.

Chavez dijo que lo que pensamos nosotros del Partido Democratico son ideas o caprichos preconcebidos y esterotipos.

Y dijo que lo que pensamos es falso. Explico que los republicanos eran los que debiamos oir. Pero tambien ellos son los que le firman el cheque.

La Sra. Chavez tambien es una directora de La Comision de Derechos Civiles.

Ella dijo que las leyes civiles fueron escritas para garantizar que la gente no sea juzgado por el color del piel, que idioma habla y de que sexo es. Pero dijo que estas leyes han servido para detener algunas personas y tambien quitarles a otras la oportunidad de ser igual.

Yo creo que piensa esta senora que el mundo y los estados unidos tratan a todas las personas iguales nomas porque deben.

No es verdad. Los negros, que pelearon por sus derechos con violencia en los 1960s, lo saben. Estudios cada ano han ensenado que las mujeres hacen mucho mas poco que el hombre en su lugar de empleo. Ellas saben. Y luego hay los mexicanos. Los que nos quedamos con la boca cerrada. Los que aceptamos lo que nos dan y los que nos aguantamos de lo que nos dicen. Nosotros sabemos.

Esta sociedad no es igual para todos. Otros son mas iguales que otros porque tienen el dinero y el poder.

La Sra. Chavez luego dice que ella sabe (fijese sabe!) que la mayoria de los mexicanos oponen cuotas para empleo igual. Yo y Uds. somos parte de la mayoria y yo creo que nosotros no pensamos asi.

Si, pero es verdad que a nosotros no nos han hecno tontos y peor, republicanos.

Hasta luego.

Ear infection laid to bottle feeding

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know if there is any possible way that a baby can get an ear infection from sucking a bottle. For instance, can he get one if he falls asleep with the bottle in his mouth? Could some of the milk get into his ears? — J.C.

Certainly this can happen. In infants, the tubes from the back of the throat to the middle ear are more open than they are in adults. Fluid can easily seep into the middle ear when a baby feeds from a bottle while lying down. The stage can be set for ear infection if any organisms migrate to the ear along with the fluid. The ideal position for the baby when being bottle fed is the one mothers use when breastfeeding.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I understand that aspirin has been found to lessen blood clotting. Aspirin upsets my stomach and I have started using acetaminophen. Does this non-aspirin product have the same anti-blood clotting effect? — G.B.

No. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do you have information on the use of potassium salt for the high blood pressure patient? — M.

Potassium salt is used with high blood pressure for two reasons. For some it substitutes for sodium chloride, which promotes fluid retention. At the same time it can replace potassium that might be lost from the body along with sodium by people using water pills.

The whole field of diet and high blood pressure control is evolving. We don't know everything about it; new speculation appears almost weekly. Some feel that potassium by itself helps keep pressure down. Others think the chloride in table salt (the other part along with the sodium) plays a role in blood pressure elevation. And there is speculation that other minerals — calcium and magnesium — are involved in pressure control. Your other questions are answered in the booklet "Blood Pressure and Your Health," which other readers may order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25 for printing and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there a medical term for too much oxygen in the blood? Please explain. What is the effect of it? — V.M.G.

I'm kind of stumped. I think you mean getting too much oxygen into the blood under unusual circumstances — as when a person has to breathe pure oxygen for long periods to assist respiration. When too much is used, then oxygen toxicity can result. But under normal circumstances, as in regular air breathing, this cannot happen. Maybe you would like to clarify your question if I have gotten the wrong idea. Lung damage is one consequence of oxygen toxicity.

Dear Abby

Baby-sitting isn't in Grandma's plans

DEAR ABBY: This is for "No Names, Please," who couldn't understand why neither her parents nor her in-laws would take her kids once in a while so she could have a little vacation.

I am a grandmother, and I won't keep my grandchildren either. I raised five by myself, and I was never ashamed to take them anywhere because they were taught how to behave. I'm sorry I can't say the same about my grandchildren.

I love the little tykes and it's not their fault that they weren't trained right, but I refuse to baby-sit or take them anywhere. If they don't get what they ask for in a store, they fall down and kick and scream. When they were at my house, they walked on the furniture, stood on the table and pulled things out of cupboards and drawers. I was exhausted trying to watch them. Meanwhile — their mother (my daughter) paid no attention to them.

My neighbor and her husband are just retired, and they were so afraid they might be drafted to baby-sit their grandchildren, they sold their home, got a post-office box and bought an RV. They keep traveling in self-defense.

Please print this so some young parents will understand why their parents won't help with the kids.

NO NAMES, EITHER DEAR NO NAMES: You have lots of company. However, there are some people who are lucky enough to be able to write a letter like this one:

DEAR ABBY: I'm sorry for "No Names." My husband and I are only children, so our children are the only grandchildren on both sides. We have twin daughters and one son — all under 10 — and both sets of grandparents beg to baby-sit, or keep the kids for days or weeks if we'd let them. We actually have to be careful not to favor one set over the other.

LUCKY IN LONG BEACH

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior who will be 18 in June. I have been going steady with a 17-year-old girl for six months and want to give her a gold ring with two small diamonds and two small rubies.

My parents think it is improper to give a girl a ring at my age, and would rather see me buy her a bracelet. To me a ring is just a piece of jewelry, and has no more significance than a bracelet, necklace or earrings.

A KID FROM NEW YORK

DEAR KID: A ring may be "just a piece of jewelry" to you, but to most people it symbolizes a serious commitment. And until you're ready for one, give necklaces, earrings or bracelets.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing the letter signed "The Quiet One." I could have written it.

I suppose people mean well when they try to bring me out of my shell by teasing. "My goodness, you sure talk a lot!" Or by asking me in a group, "Why are you so quiet?" Such remarks do not "bring me out" or encourage me to talk; they have the opposite effect.

There is a saying that sums it up nicely: "If you don't understand my silence, you won't understand my words."

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: That "saying" strikes me as the ideal response to the clod who asks, "Why are you so quiet?" Silence may be golden, but the appropriate retort to an inappropriate question is worth its weight in platinum.

Dennis leaves Coahoma

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

COAHOMA — Amid some controversy, Coahoma High School head girls basketball coach Bill Dennis announced his resignation. Coahoma Athletic Director Bruce Mitchell confirmed Dennis' resignation and announced that Ken Kelso will replace him.

Dennis, who finished his third year as the girls varsity basketball and track coach, has accepted a job as girls Athletic Coordinator at Jacksboro High School. He will also serve as head coach of the girls cross country, basketball and track teams for the Tigerettes of District 11-2A.

During his three years at Coahoma, Dennis compiled a 47-39 record while going to the playoffs all three years. Dennis' 1983 track squad won the District meet and the 1984 mile relay squad placed fourth in Class 3A.

There were rumors, following a decision by the Coahoma school board in February to drop two coaching positions, that Dennis' job was on the line. Following the conclusion of the 1985 basketball season, Dennis had a talk with Mitchell about problems concerning community unrest with the girls basketball program.

"I had problems with some parents this year," explained Dennis. "But you come to expect that."

Razorbacks struggle in NCAA track

PATRICK SANG of the University of Texas, is followed by Dartmouth's MICHAEL FADIL and ROLAND REINA of the University of Arkansas as the trio battle in the 3,000 meter steeplechase at the NCAA Track and Field Championships.

AUSTIN (AP) — Don't inscribe "Arkansas Razorbacks" on the 64th annual NCAA Outdoor Track and Field championship trophy just yet.

The heavily favored Razorbacks, seeking to become only the second team in history to win the NCAA cross country, indoor, and outdoor in the same year, suffered a series of setbacks during Wednesday's qualifying in Memorial Stadium.

They'll get a chance to bounce back today as qualifying continues in the meet which runs through Saturday night.

Mike Conley, the Razorbacks' seven-time NCAA long- and triple-jump champion, boosted Arkansas's morale by leading the qualifying in the long jump and 200-meter dash.

Conley ran a wind-aided 20.12 seconds in the 200-meter dash in a race in which Olympic bronze medalist Thomas Jefferson of Kent State failed to qualify.

The NCAA record of 20.15 by Mike Miller of Tennessee still stands because the wind on Conley's run was over the allowable.

Conley also led the long jump qualifying with an effort of 26 feet, 6 1/2 inches.

Also, Mark Klee of Arkansas failed to make the opening height in the pole vault qualifying.

Conley, who is competing in four events, said he felt fine despite the 90-degree Texas heat and high humidity.

Conley, a senior from Chicago, won the silver medal in the triple jump at the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Conley also ran a great third leg on the Razorbacks' 400-meter relay team which qualified second in 39.21 behind Baylor's 39.20. "Conley is just unbelievable," said UA coach McDonnell. "I hope he can last three more days. He gives everything he has."

The Arkansas team was already hurting because sprinter Wallace Spearman suffered a strained hamstring in the Southwest Conference meet and was not available to anchor the 400-meter relay.

"The final relay made the day for us," McDonnell said. "It was a great way to finish. We're still in position to control our own destiny. We had some bad breaks."

There were several other major disappointments on Wednesday.

Nawal El Moutawakel of Iowa State, who won the Olympic gold medal for Morocco in the women's 400-meter hurdles, failed to qualify in the event. Latanya Sheffield of San Diego State led the qualifying with a meet-record time of 55.39 seconds, eclipsing Moutawakel's old standard of 53.84.

Jackie Joyner of UCLA led the qualifying with 56.91 seconds but then shocked her followers by failing to make it in the long jump. She finished 16th with an effort of 20-5 1/2, a half-inch back of the last qualifying leap. Olympian Carol Lewis of Houston led the qualifying with 21-8 1/4.

UCLA is seeking its third women's title in four years. Florida State was the winner last year.

Texas-El Paso is the only school to have swept all three men's championships in one year.

In the only final on Wednesday, senior Nan Doak of Iowa won the women's 10,000 meters in 33:33.03.

Championship series

Celts win minus Bird's scoring

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird finally has run into a team that can stop him. It's his own Boston Celtics.

He hasn't had to score as much as usual because his teammates have been shooting well, and many times his chief competitors for rebounds have been Celtic big men Robert Parish and Kevin McHale.

Though, while Bird's scoring and rebounding statistics have dipped from the National Basketball Association's regular season to the playoffs, his performance hasn't fallen much, said Boston assistant coach Jimmy Rodgers.

Scott Wedman, who made all 11 field goal attempts, and McHale, who hit 10 of 16, led Boston with 26 points each in Monday's 148-114 rout in the series opener. Bird and Danny Ainge scored 19 points apiece.

"I was worried last series, said

Bird. But I'm not worried after the way I played the last game," he said. "When everybody else is playing better, I don't have to do as much as in the past."

Wedman and Ainge will merit extra attention tonight because of the damage they did in the first game, said Lakers' Coach Pat Riley, but he won't forget about Bird.

"We're never going to take Larry for granted," Riley said. "That's always been the main key to our defense. We would still try to continue to allow other players to shoot the ball than Larry Bird."

Offensively, the Lakers will try to get their fastbreak going and get center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar more involved, said Riley. Jabbar had 12 points and three rebounds in Game 1.

On defense, James Worthy guarded Bird.

Oilers want to end it tonight

EDMONTON Alberta (AP) — Poised at the threshold of their second consecutive Stanley Cup crown, many of the Edmonton Oilers marvel at just how they got there.

Nine of the Oilers have been playing hockey since last August, when they joined Team Canada or Team USA to prepare for the Canada Cup. People such as Wayne Gretzky, Paul Coffey, Mark Messier, Glenn Anderson and Kevin Lowe — leaders of Edmonton's playoff domination this spring — have participated in six Canada Cup exhibition games, eight tournament games, six National Hockey League pre-season contests, 80 regular-season games and — heading into tonight's fifth meeting with the Philadelphia Flyers in the championship series — 17 playoff contests.

That makes 117 games — an awful lot of hockey.

But being close to successfully defending their Stanley Cup title, the Oilers aren't complaining.

If the Oilers continue their home-ice dominance — they've won 15 in a row here during playoff action — Gretzky once again will be carrying the Cup around Northlands Coliseum tonight. But the Oilers aren't counting the Flyers out.

Philadelphia is undermanned, with high-scoring right wing Tim Kerr and ace defenseman Brad McCrimmon out and goalie Pelle Lindbergh seemingly exhausted from his heavy workload. Lindbergh was removed from Game 4 because he was close to dehydrating.

Coach Mike Keenan has replaced Lindbergh with Bob Froese the last two games and Froese has played well.

Wilander rolls in French Open

PARIS (AP) — Now that he's overcome the tag of being the "new Borg," Sweden's Mats Wilander is beginning to shake a reputation as the current bore.

Seeded fourth in the $2.2 million French Open tennis championships, Wilander on Wednesday showed an enthusiastic center-court crowd at Roland Garros Stadium that he can do more than sit back and counterpunch.

The Swedish right-hander beat rising West German teen-age star Boris Becker 6-3, 6-2, 6-1, to advance to the third round of the year's first Grand Slam tournament, trading power for power, attacking the net and hitting line-drive backhand passing shots.

On Wednesday, top-seeded John McEnroe of the United States breezed through his second-round match against Romania's Florin Segarceanu 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Also advancing in men's play were Andres Gomez of Ecuador, the fifth seed; No. 9 Yannick Noah of France; No. 12 Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden; and No. 13 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia.

Chris Evert Lloyd, the women's No. 2 seed, had to battle to advance to the third round by beating fellow American Lisa Bonder 7-5, 6-3. But three other seeded women — No. 5 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia and two Americans, No. 6 Zina Garrison and No. 16 Pam Casale — were ousted.

In the toughest match of the day, South Africa's Rosalyn Fairbank eliminated Garrison, a right-hander from Houston.

In the three-hour, 27-minute battle, Garrison reached match point at 6-5 in the final set. But Fairbank staved it off and, four games later, had two match points of her own.

Hogs hunt for CWS title

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks under Norm DeBrynn finished second in their only other appearance at the College World Series, so DeBrynn has an idea of what it takes to capture a national baseball title.

"The competition is so keen and the teams so good, you have to be hot and have some things go for you to win," DeBrynn said as Arkansas prepared for this year's National Collegiate Athletic Association championship, which begins here Friday.

"There is an aura with the media, the attention, all the activities that are there," DeBrynn said. "It takes some concentration. You've got to have your head screwed on right."

In 1979, DeBrynn brought a Razorback team to Omaha, winning three and losing two, including a 2-1 championship game with Cal State Fullerton.

DeBrynn has all new faces on his 49-13 team that opens the double-elimination tournament against 47-20 South Carolina at 4:10 p.m. CDT Friday.

"I think in a way it's a reward for the kids to be there," DeBrynn said. "But we'll be coming to Omaha to win."

In other first-round games, Oklahoma State, 57-14-1, meets Mississippi State, 48-13, at 7:10 p.m. Friday, while Stanford, 47-13, faces Miami, 59-15, at 4:10 p.m. and Texas, 60-12, meets Arizona, 47-20, at 7:10 p.m. Saturday.

Here are capsules on each of the CWS tournament teams:

Arkansas
DeBrynn is one of few coaches who can claim to have had Texas' number this year. The Razorbacks won four of five against the Longhorns. Hitting and defense are team strengths with a team batting average of .324. Dave Patterson leads the team at a .373 clip and six players have 40 or more RBI. Fred Farwell, 10-1, is the top pitcher with a 3.10 ERA.

Texas
Greg Swindell, winner of two CWS games a year ago, is 17-1 with a 1.66 ERA for the Longhorns. Texas' team ERA is 3.18, the best in the tournament. Dennis Cook, Dodd Johnson, Bill Bates and Bobby Behnsch hit .350 or better for a team with a .318 average.

Arizona
Coach Jerry Kindall's Wildcats carry a .321 team average and 5.13 team earned run average into the tournament. Todd Trafton leads the team with a .375 batting average, 74 runs batted in and 103 hits. Joe Magrane, 13-7, heads the pitching staff. Kindall says his team isn't overpowering but has lots of heart.

Mississippi State
Pitching is Mississippi State's strength with Gene Morgan, 13-1 and 1.89 ERA, paired with Jeff Brantley, 17-2 and 2.17. The team ERA of 3.22 is second in the tournament only to Texas. Will Clark is hitting .416 for a team that averages .295 at the plate.

Oklahoma State
Offense sums up Oklahoma State with a team batting average of .342, 124 homers and 774 runs scored in 72 games. The main gear in the power machine is Pete Incaviglia, who boasts a .466 average with NCAA season records for 47 homers and 140 RBI. Nine players hit over .315 but the pitching staff has a team ERA of 5.54.

South Carolina
Another hard-hitting team, South Carolina has a .322 team batting average, including .397 for Rob Rinehart and .359 for Jeff Barns. With good power, the Gamecocks have 144 team homers, led by Joe Datin's 23.

sort of thing, especially coaching high school girls. I've had some good years here in Coahoma, and when Bruce (Mitchell) told me to start looking around at other coaching opportunities, I told him I was going to stay."

Mitchell was sympathetic to Dennis' dilemma but warned that situation might become increasingly tense if he decided to stay. "I just explained to him that he had a good record and it might be a good idea to apply if a coaching position he liked happened to open up," said Mitchell.

Dennis took a month to think the situation over and came to Mitchell to hand in his resignation. "I was getting no administrative support and so I decided that it wasn't worth trying to buck the system."

Kelso, who served as an assistant football, junior varsity boys basketball and JV track coach, will take over Dennis' position as head girls basketball and track coach.

Mitchell also announced the hiring of two new coaches for the 1985-86 school year. Keith Stone, formerly a coach at Big Spring Runnels Junior High, will coach 9th grade football and girls junior varsity basketball.

Bobbie Trulove will serve as the girls tennis coach for the 1985-86 season. Trulove's husband Tony is an assistant football coach for the Bulldogs.
