Hospital fraud

Facilities scalped Medicare program

DALLAS (AP) - Texas taxpayers have been footing the bill for some hospitals' televisions, telephones and bad debts because of overcharging in the govern-ment's Medicare program, a federal study shows.

The General Accounting Office, which reviewed the 1981 billings of 21 hospitals, found that all had overcharged the Medicare program in claims, some of which were caught by auditors and disallowed

The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday that the hundreds of ineligible charges eventually reducted by the federal government include: A Texas City hospital's attempt to recoup its income tax payment for the previous year

· A Killeen hospital's bill for $405,654 in bad debts. A Galveston-area hospital's bill for $1,374 for a doctor's moving

 A San Antonio hospital's charge of $175,525 for unexplained "employee discounts."

 A Garland hospital's attempt to charge $284,823 in indigent health care costs — after the hospital already had been repaid

While those impermissible items were eventually caught by auditors and disallowed, the GAO said countless others have gone through undetected since Medicare was started in 1966. The agency's seven-month study of Medicare billings for 418 of the nation's hospitals shows that Texas facilities are not the only ones that pad costs.

The GAO, in an investigation of General Dynamics and other defense contractors, found the government had been overpaying millions of dollars for equipment.

"With General Dynamics, we were talking millions of dollars," Dan Garcia, a senior evaluator in the GAO's Dallas office, said.

'Here, we're talking billions.' Hospitals' 1981 cost reports were used to set the national Medicare reimbursement rates being phased in for 5,700 U.S. hospitals that contract with the federal program.

Senator addresses Texas oilmen, lauds reform proposals

Harte-Hanks News Service AUSTIN - The time for tax reform is now, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm told members of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association at their 39th annual meeting Sunday

Both Texas' senators gave their stamp of approval to President Reagan's tax reform proposals that affect the oil industry. Gramm spoke in person on the opening day of the three-day annual meeting under way here. Mike Pate, legislative assistant to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, gave TIPRO members Bentsen's views of the Reagan tax reform plan. Saying, "I'm in favor of tax strongly favor tax reform.

TAIF, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Nine ministers of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries held a second round of talks today to deliberate ways of upholding the cartels pricing and quota

It was reported earlier that the executive council met behind closed doors to reportedly discuss a possible price cut for heavy crude oil and ways to uphold the cartel's pricing and quota systems.

As the meeting began, Mana Saeed Oteiba, oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, warned that action will be taken against member countries violating OPEC's rulings on production quotas.

Perched atop of the veterans' memorial in front of the Howard County

Courthouse, Theresa Rector keeps a close watch Saturday on events at Oteiba told the English-language Arab News that the council "will review the oil market situation and how member countries are committed to their quotas within the 16 million barrel per day ceiling.

"We will tell them (the overproducers) that we will not stand handcuffed if overproduction continues. And that also applies to non-OPEC producers. The oil market is a very sensitive one, and we call on every producer inside and outside OPEC to stand up to its responsibility," Oteiba said.

Oteiba said possible retaliation against overproducers will be discussed at the full OPEC ministerial session scheduled for July 22 in Geneva, Switzerland.

Arab News also quoted Nigeria's oil minister, Tam David West as saying he never proposed a production cut to stabilize link because it produces crude that competes with the North Sea grade that non-OPEC Britain and Norway produce. In-

Nigeria is considered OPEC's weakest dustry sources said that up until last week, Nigeria was overproducing by 300,000 bar-

But the U.A.E. oil minister, before leaving Abu Dhabi for Taif Sunday, told the Emirates News Agency that the OPEC member states were ready to lower their 16 million barrels per day production ceiling if that became necessary to remedy the present imbalance on the world oil market which threatens a new price war. Before the first session got underway at the conference palace here late Sunday, 10 oil ministers - nine from OPEC nations and one from Mexico - met informally.

Dallas County sheriff's deputy is true-to-life cowboy

DALLAS (AP) - Within seconds of receiving the call, Sgt.

Buddy Munster

saddled his Dooley pickup, goaded its 460-horsepower engine and bumped across the backroads of Dallas County, once again an urban cowboy in search of wayward livestock.

As head of the sheriff department's Livestock Control Division, Munster repeats that performance nearly 2,000 times a year in an effort to keep the county's highways and rights of way free of wandering animals.

His catches — horses, pigs, cattle, yellow-eyed goats and an occasional ornery mule - are incarcerated on a dusty nine acresof county property at the end of Landon Raod near Hutchins.

Every week, Munster's menagerie grows - an anomaly in an urban county.

Muster receives about 35 calls a week about wayward livestock, "but not all of them net a catch."

Although most of the reports come from southern Dallas County, some originate in the strangest places.

Three weeks ago, Munster carted his 16-foot livestock trailer to Southern Methodist University to confiscate a calf that pranksters had muzzled and abandoned on the third floor of Dallas Hall.

Munster, who has 20 years' experience in the department's patrol division, has been the Livestock Control Division's lone employee since former Sheriff Don Byrd created the post in

Police arrest two men in gang shooting

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two men are under arrest and one still at large today after bloody shootings that police say are the worst outbreak of gang violence in recent years.

A 22-year-old man was killed and nine other people, including two young children, were seriously wounded early Sunday in the shootings on the city's north side.

Police said the bloodshed apparently was part of a long-standing feud that has intensified recently between two rival Mexican-American gangs, La Loma and Varrio Gran

"Since the gangs have become known to our department, this is the worst I've seen, police Detective Ron Pendergraft said Sunday. "Look at the victims. We've got one dead and nine wounded. It looks like it's going to be

Ohio, Pennsylvania twisters leave 87 dead

By The Associated Press

As residents of tornado-stricken Pennsylvania and Ohio towns consoled one another and cleared away rubble, officials said the death toll could top the 87 already reported and that one hard-hit town had almost no warning of the wave of deadly twisters.

In Pennsylvania, where at least 62 people died and more than 700 were injured after the state's worst tornado outbreak Friday, Gov. Dick Thornburgh declared a state disaster emergency for 13 counties, where 1,658 houses were destroyed and damage could exceed $200

"I asked Gov. Thornburgh when he toured the city Saturday for $50 million," said Mayor Helen Duby of Wheatland, where seven people died and more than 50 houses were destroyed. "I asked for the moon. But I'll settle for half a moon.

In Ohio, where at least 12 people were killed, Gov. Richard Celeste asked President Reagan for federal disaster relief for four counties where damage was estimated at $45 million. "I wish I could say that we won't find any more bodies, but I can't," Ken Robinson, head of the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, said Sunday. "They're still going through the rubble."

There were no reports of looting, but Pennsylvania held 522 National Guardsmen and 90 state police in damaged areas Sunday, Robison said. Ohio had 9 p.m. curfews in some areas and about 700 guardsmen were still on duty.

In the Ontario, Canada, city of Barrie, which had eight of the region's 13 fatalities, authorities Sunday demobilized 300 Canadian Armed Forces personnel sent into the area. Officials said about 440 houses would have to be razed.

In Pittsburgh, meteorologist Bob Davis of the National Weather Service said at least five tornadoes 'stayed on the ground for a good period of time" in Pennsylvania.

"It's just like somebody scraped a swath right out of the ground and everything's obliterated. We don't normally see that in this area because of the hills. Usually The weather service warning, sent to weather radio channels and some broadcasters and newspapers, came eight minutes after state police first saw a funnel cloud near Albion, Davis said Sunday. "We're really required to have some indication of the existence of a tornado before we put one (a warning) out," Davis said. "You want to try to save them for the exclusive times when they are there on the But the warning came only two minutes before the twister virtually flattened Albion, killing nine people, injuring 75 and damaging or destroying 202 houses. On-

Diseases hit Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bagladesh (AP) - Diarrheal diseases that set in after the recent hurricane have killed at least 150 people and infected another 1,000, a Bangladesh newspaper reported today.

The hurricane that struck on May 24-25 killed an estimated 10,000 people and on Sunday, the leaders of India, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh visited the tiny island of Urir Char, where officials said 2,228 people died.

Meanwhile, officials today reported at least 12 people missing after a trawler loaded with 150 passengers and relief materials for storm victims sank Saturday near the offshore island of Hatiya, in Noakhali district.

Officials in Noakhali, reached by telephone, said the ship capsized in strong tides, and a search for the missing was under way.

The English-language New Nation reported 40 dead from diarrheal diseases in Sonagazi in Noakhali district, 155 miles south of Dhaka.

Iran, Iraq trade shots

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iraqi warplanes fired rockets on Tehran late Sunday night, and Iraq said its jets also attacked "a large maritime target" in the Persan Gulf near Iran's main oil terminal

The attack on Tehran, reported by both Iraq and Iran, was the third Iraqi air raid since an explosion 24 hours earlier in Baghdad that Iran claimed was a long-range missile attack.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said the attack on Tehran, the Iranian capital, came at 11:30 p.m. It said Tehran was blacked out and the attacking planes were repulsed by anti-aircraft fire, but that several Iraqi rockets exploded in the city.

The news agency later said one housing unit was destroyed and several damaged in the attack, but it did not mention casualties. It cited unconfirmed reports as saying six people were killed in the Iraqi raid on the capital late Saturday night.

GB soccer gets booted

BASEL, Switzerland - Europe's soccer association has banned English teams from European competition indefinitely because of the bloody riot in Belgium, and British officials said they deserved the penalty.

In London, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was expected today to propose a ban on the sale of alcohol in and around soccer grounds and stiffer penalties for offenses related to soccer hooliganism

Britain's attorney general, Sir Michael Havers, said Sunday that British fans identified from photographs or video recordings as participating in the Brussels riot could be extradited for trial in Belgium or Italy.

Israeli withdrawal nears; Syrian troops enter Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - With outskirts under a joint Lebanese-Israel planning to complete its Syrian security plan. withdrawal from Lebanon this week, Syrian troops in the east reportedly are grouping for a move to put down the chaotic fighting in Beirut.

On Sunday, the Christian commander of Lebanon's main air force base was assassinated and his son was seriously wounded by a carload of gunmen in eastern Lebanon.

Christians and Moslems fought with grenades and anti-aircraft guns along the Green Line that splits Beirut into Christian and Moslem sectors, with two people reported killed and seven wounded.

Two people were killed and 18 wounded in continued fighting between Shiite Moslem militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas in Beirut's refugee camps, and the Shiftes raided a Palstinian camp in southern Lebanon as well.

Since the Shiite Moslem militia Amal attacked the Palestinian refugee camps of Sabra, Chatilla and Bourj el-Barajneh on May 19, 502 people have died and 2,063 have been wounded in the fighting, by police count.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel announced Sunday that Israel would complete its withdrawal by Thursday, the third anniversary of the invasion that Israel launched to crush the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Syrians and the Lebanese units will form a peacekeeping force to oversee Gemayel's blueprint to disengage the warring factions in the capital.

One Lebanese source said the move could come "in a week to ten

Other sources said it could take longer until Lebanese leaders hammer out a plan for political reforms, possibly including an expanded Cabinet, under which Christians would agree to give Moslems an equal share of power.

The government and key army and intelligence posts traditionally have been controlled by Christians.

The Syrians sent troops into Beirut in 1976 to quell civil war fighting under an Arab League mandate. They left the city in 1982 after Israel invaded. They have kept a force estimated at 30,000 men, with tanks, in north and east Lebanon.

Israel's war against the PILO was largely fought in southern Lebanon, the traditional territory of the Shiite Moslems, and the Shiites are are determined that the PLO will not rebuild its power base in Beirut or the south.

Greek Socialist party scores election victory

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Huge crowds poured into the streets today to celebrate the election victory of Premier Andreas Papandreou's Socialists, who have cooled ties with America and NATO and pledged to shut down U.S. military Papandreou, 66, an American himself for 20 years and a former University of California at Berkeley college dean, told reporters today:

"I believe this vote is a triumph .. It's a great defeat for the reactionary forces, whether they're Greek or foreign. The Greek people don't expect anything from anyone.

As he spoke, tens of thousands of cheering supporters surrounded his home in the fashionable suburb of Kastri. Traffic jams blocked traffic from Kastri to the city center, about 12 miles away.

Some supporters outside the wooden coffins and chanting, "The right is dead."

Early this morning, returns from 13,341 out of 14,738 polling stations showed the Socialist party, known officially as the Pan-Hellenic Socialist Movement, with 46 percent of the vote. The conservative New Democracy Party received 41 per- Sunday night.

Communist Party just 9 percent with small parties receiving the remainder.

Parties reported a high voter turnout.According to Interior Ministry computer projections, the Socialist party will win an overall majority of 161 seats in the 300-member, single-chamber Parliament. New Democracy is expected to receive 125 and the Communists, 13. Seats are allotted in proportion to the popular vote.

Among those elected by the Socialists was Papandreou's American-educated son, George. The premier's wife, Margaret, 62, also is American. As head of the Women's Union of Greece, she campaigned vigorously all around the country for her husband.

Greek voters roundly rejected New Democracy's platform of closer ties with the United States and supply-side economic policies. New Democracy leader Constan-premier's home carried black tine Mitsotakis, conceding defeat, claimed that "democracy had been sorely tested" during a bitter election campaign. "The state is falling apart," Mitsotakis, 67, told reporters. He claimed police had looked on while rampaging Socialist supporters attacked New Democracy electoral centers in six provincial towns on

Playing politics via video wave

Rarely does the business of politics keep pace with the vagaries of pop culture. Yet, the unmistakable beat of an innovative campaign device is now being heard - the political Loosely defined, the political video is a one- to three-minute commercial dominated by music and shifting settings rather than the candidate. Evocative imagery, not a recitation of issues, delivers the video's message.

The vanguard of this format is Music Television, MTV, a cable program which has energized the rock music scene in America. Rock videos feature self-absorbed musicians performing in garish surroundings, the entire spectacle allegedly illustrating the song's message. We imagine candidates won't rely on similar showmanship. But we've been fooled before.

The political video has an ideal medium in cable television. Channel VH-1, Video Hits 1, made its debut earlier this year, and is aimed at persons in their 30s and 40s desiring music videos less frenetic than those found on MTV. Peter Shapiro, a candidate in New Jersey's Democratic senate primary, is using VH-1 for his political video. It's based on nostalgia for the 1960s and is accompanied by earthy, Bruce Springsteen-style

Of course, the big question concerning this campaign innovation is: Will political videos influence young voters, a notoriously apathetic group? Exit polls from several campaigns should answer that. The medium itself could be hardly less captivating then traditional campaign advertisements such as billboards, radio and television spots, and candidate

Taking the new format to its logical extreme, it is conceivable that candidates might eventually employ rock personalities to appear, maybe even perform, in campaign videos aimed at young voters. Skeptical? Recall the efforts of Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale to enlist the endorsement of Bruce Springsteen.

Innovation sometimes precedes disaster, particularly in politics. Yet, if the hand that rocks the cradle, indeed, rules the world, then the political video phenomenon is worth watching.

Nicaragua: A war that almost was

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 15, Officials and veterans gathered in the nation's capital today to celebrate "Nicaraguan Remembrance Day" and honor the over 200,000 American GIs who died in the recent war in Central America.

The ex-GIs. dressed in old khaki, some wearing combat boots and medals, marched from the steps of the Capitol to the recently completed memorial overlooking the Potomac.

The war, which began during the second term of Ronald Reagan and was continued by two other presidents, ended in a stalemate with the withdrawal of American troops after a decade of fighting.

An estimated 535,110 fighting men on both sides and 1,620,000 civilians died during the bloody police action.

Many of the ex-GIs who participated today were bitter about the way they had been treated on their return from Nicaragua.

Ex-Chief Petty Officer Clyde Durban had served on the destroyer escort Fishbait, the vessel that President Reagan claimed had been fired on by a Nicaraguan PT boat. It was because of this incident that the president asked for a "Gulf of Fonseca Resolution," which he said gave him the legal justification for ordering the U.S. Marines to invade Managua.

Durban said, "It was nighttime and we never did see the ship that was supposed to have attacked us in the Gulf of Fonseca. Some of the guys on board the Fishbait said they thought it was a fishing boat shooting up flares. 'We never dreamed that the United States would go to war over it."

Former Infantry Lietenant Harvey Robinson, who had been wounded at the Battle of San Rafael del Norte, tried to find the names of his buddies on the memorial wall. "It was Vietnam all over again," he said. "We were able to get control of the cities, but the Commies held the countryside. We'd wipe out a jungle hideout and as soon as we moved on, they would move back in. We didn't know which civilians were for us and which ones were against us. So after a while we started shooting at anybody who looked suspicious. When we couldn't hold on to real estate, Washington demanded body counts. Based on the counts. every president since Reagan promised we'd be home by

Ex-Captain Robert Simpson, who was show down in a helicopter by a Soviet missile near Jinotega and held prisoner by the Sandinistas for four years, was bitter because so many American boys refused to go when President Reagan asked Congress to reinstitute the draft in September, 1986.

He said, "After the October riots when an estimated 3 million kids declared they would go to jail rather than fight in Nicaragua, the president had to backtrack on his call for national conscription. So this left the professional military people and the unemployed to fight the dirty little war. We got our butts shot off while the guys back home were earning big bucks and getting the best jobs. 'Nicaraguan Remembrance Day' doesn't mean diddly beans to the guys who were there.

George Shultz, who was Ronald Reagan's secretary of state at the time of the "Gulf of Fonseca Resolution," and is now teaching diplomacy at the University of Chicago, told reporters he still feels the United States did the right thing by invading Nicaragua. "At the time, Congress would not support the freedom fighters in Honduras, nor CIA efforts to destabilize the Sandinista government. So we had no choice but to get our American boys directly involved. The price may have been higher than we predicted, but we kept tyranny from being exported to Haiti. In spite of the casulaties, the important thing is that President Reagan sent a strong message to the Russians that he would do everything to maintain his credibility.

U.S. spy tells his story of heartbreak in Vietnam

JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON - Ed Weimer's problems began 10 years ago in Saigon, a few months before the city fell, when he saw Le Hoang riding by in a pedicab on

That chance encounter was to lead - by a circuitous, bureaucratically booby-trapped route - to heartbreak, frustration and loss of his job, followed years later by a nervous breakdown.

Weimer lists his occupation as "retired U.S. spy." He was employed by the super-secret National Security Agency in Saigon when he caught his first, fleeting glimpse of the beautiful young woman in the bicycle-drawn rickshaw. He waved and she smiled. Then she disappeared in traffic

By another chance — the kind of coincidence that makes security officers uneasy - Weimer saw Le Hoang later that same day while he was sitting on the veranda of the Continental Palace Hotel. This time he hurried up to her, asked her name - and fell Weimer wanted to marry Le Hoang - "Barbara." he called her — but he knew he'd lose his top-secret job if he did. He couldn't even tell her where he worked or what he did.

Three months later, as chaos descended on the South Vietnamese capital, Weimer tried to get Le Hoang evacuated with other American dependents. He was turned down.

On the day I left, I can remember my bags were packed, and we were both sitting on the steps of my little house, crying," Weimer recalled.

When he landed in Hawaii, Weimer said, the NSA promised him his fiancee would be flown out of Vietnam. Instead, his passport was confiscated to keep him from trying a last-minute rescue effort on his own. He couldn't even use the agency's teletype cable to try to locate Le Hoang.

Back at NSA headquatrters in Washington, Weimer was stripped of his top-secret clearance and told he's be fired if he didn't stop all attempts to communicate with Le Hoang. Though he has since heard from her aunt in this country that Le Hoang eventually made it safely to France, Weiner has lost

It's not worth our paychecks

Equal pay for equal work has been the law of the land since 1963; however, equal pay for comparable worth is not the same thing. The Equal Pay Act of 1963 and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 require equal pay for equal work. If any woman is being paid less than her male counterpart, who is doing the same work and has the same experience, she can take her grievances to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission for a confidential review. The EEOC will go to bat for her (without charge), and if there is a case of discrimination, she will be reimbursed for back pay.

So what's this we're hearing about Comparable Worth? Comparable Worth is a wage-setting system under which an employer is required to set wages based on a subjective evaluation of the intrin-sic "worth" of different jobs without relating it to the market place. Comparable Worth studies compare jobs held primarily by women to those held primarily by men and enforce their findings by wage control. Usually an outside consulting firm is called into compare different jobs by evaluating them on a point system. The scale ly low paying vocations is then used to arbitrarily set wages of men's and women's salaries. For example, nurses and truck drivers salaries would be the same if they received the same number on the scale.

Wages based on any other criteria than marketplace factors would be disastrous for our free enterprise system. Sure, the free market has its faults - but it's the best system in the world. It's made for the highest standard of living ever achieved by man.

Proponents of Comparable Worth say their concept will cure discrimination against women in the work place. However, Comparable Worth could actually hurt women. If employers were required to raise certain salaries after the Comparable Worth study, cuts would have to be made in the work force if not enough money were allotted. Those cuts would naturally affect those whose positions would be the easiest to replace, such as secretaries.

Discrimination will never be eliminated; but the laws are in place to punish violators. (There are laws against murder, but people still kill; however, violators are punished.) Wage control to enforce equality is a violation of what our nation stands for. Let's not change the whole system just because women choose to go into consistent-

It's bad news for good news

To the editor:

We have been subscribers and readers of the Big Spring Herald for over thirty years now.

There is a lot of good things going on that never even gets put in the paper. Some of the good things get such a minor mention, it is a disappointment to those who did the good, that they do not bother to turn the items in any more.

For instance. Our local School District sponsored, for the first time in our history, a School Bus Roadeo. I personally know this item was turned in, and got only a small paragraph report. Our local merchants helped sponsor this Roadeo, and were not even credited. There was no picture of our first place winner or her trophy, and no news coverage at the Roadeo which took place at the Industrial Park Runway.

Some of the same events that our Highway Patrolmen did (in which one of the reporters rode along to view first hand) was done in the School Buses. Our maneuvers have to have some of the same skills, but at a lower speed. We were pushing School Bus Safety.

Another thing that happened here that I personally reported and got no news coverage was the unscheduled programs done from the kindness of one of the NASA Space Representatives. The Space Worm Van broke down here in Big Spring. Thanks to Ray, who could not repair the van at his station, the CAP young men and their parents and friends got to see a very informative program of our astronauts' Space Life

My son-in-law Gordon W. Eskridge was that Space Representative, driving a Space Worm Van.

One other thing that happened here, that we personally asked news coverage on, was a practice emergency evacuation of a school bus. On 28 March, at 3rd and Scurry, 58 children were evacuated from a bus in 32 seconds.

I am positive there are many more good things happening in Big Spring today, that the public should be informed of. A minority of bad things happen, but it outweighs the good thanks to our news media all over the world. It makes us wonder, why we bother to teach our young ones right from wrong.

Dear Abby

Abby battered by cake comment

DEAR ABBY: I would like to as he should have been. clear up a misconception that has been perpetrated over the years

Years ago, the French bakers would make a mixture of flour and water that they spread on the bricks of the oven. This hardened crust provided a clean surface on which to place the dough for baking bread. At the end of each day, the baker would scrape off this crusty substance and put it in buckets out the back door for the beggars. Thsi substance was called "cake," which later became confused with the sweet pastry that only the wellto-do could afford.

GRETCHEN HABEL, BELLEVILLE, MICH. DEAR GRETCHEN: Another defender of Marie Antoinette offers this informative morsel:

DEAR ABBY: Please, please, please! While Marie Antoinette may have been no paragon of virtue, let us not damn her further by repeating that malicious retort, "Let them eat cake," after being told the peasants had no bread.

The person who translated that remark was obviously not as familiar with the French language

Properly translated, it should have read, "Let them eat the little concerning Marie Antoinette's cakes" — meaning the small, famous statement, "Let them eat round, flat cakes of flour or meal a far cry from a delicacy. Those little cakes (or something similar) are still eaten by the very poor in

DEAR ABBY: Love your column, Abby, but might I suggest eating crow rather than cake for allowing a nasty misquote to slip

A letter on the etiquette for eating wedding cake ended by attributing "Let them eat cake" to Marie Antoinette. This much maligned queen had too much class to utter such a remark.

In the sixth book of his "Confessions," written in 1766, Jean Jacques Rousseau refers to an incident that happened in 1740, 15 years before Marie Antoinette was born:

"At length I recalled the thoughtless remark of a great princess, who, when she was told the peasants had no bread, replied, 'Let them eat cake."

In The Dictionary of Misinformation, author Tom Burnam notes the writing of Alphonse Karr, who in 1843 explained that a duchess of Tuscany supposedly uttered the remark in 1760. Karr contended the quote was used to discredit Marie

Serious biographers of the queen do not even grace the remark with

As a newspaper editor, I hate to see such dubious — and ugly statements creep into print.

And I have a more personal reason as well: I am the greatgreat-great-grandson of the man who claims to be her son, the lost dauphin, Louis XVII. As the inheritor of a family legend, I have been compelled to defend the honor of Marie Antoinette many times.

I would appreciate your correcting this matter.

Mouth rinses help canker sores

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You've answered many questions I have had on my mind, but this is my first letter. Our daughter-in-law is suffering from a problem called aphthous stomatitis. It is a type of ulcer that forms in the mouth. Just what is this and what can be done for it? - Mrs. B.J.G.

Aphthous stomatitis has a very familiar second name - canker

Why canker sores appear in the first place is an enigma. Some lump them in with other inexplicable abnormalities that seem related to self-allergy, feeling that somehow the body has decided the mouth lining is foreign territory that it must attack. The ulcers represent that assault.

While I'm answering I might as well outline the more common treatments for canker sores. They few weeks, during wqhich time example, the tetanus shot promost people are content to suffer in silence. Life can be made more tibodies against the tetanus bearable through use of rinses like organism were it to become prelidocaine or diphenhydramine, which act as numbing agents. For really troublesome sores, a against strep, for example, or topically-applied steroid can help. For the rare, severe and longlasting ulcers, steroids can be given in oral tablet form.

temperature of 104. I fainted when I tried to raise my head and broke out in a terrible rash and was swollen all over. I spent weeks in the hospital and finally was diagnosed as having systemic lupus erythematosus. I was on 85 milligrams of prednisone for a long time, now reduced to 10 mgs every other day. Your article on tetanus shots caught my eye. I just wonder if people who have lupus could be immunized with the tetanus shot to stimulate their bodies to help the antibodies fight for us. What do you think? - Mrs. S.M.P. It seems that something like that

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: After his heart attack my husband very nobly gave up cigarette smoking. But guess what? He switched to cigars. Not only is the odor objectionable to me, but I worry about his health. Is it dangerous for him to continue to smoke cigars? -

It appears so. Ex-cigarette smokers who switch to cigars are rrted to have as poor a chance of surviving as those who continue to smoke cigarettes. They tend to inusually last only a few days to a work against that target only. For hale the cigar just as they did the the cigarettes. I urge your husband to give up his cigars. Am I right in thinking that giving up cigars is easier than giving up cigarettes?

Steve Waggoner hero of the band

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Before school ended, the high school band held the annual band banquet at which a special award was presented. Band President-elect Sam Gladden presented a plaque of appreciation to Steve Wag-goner with these words, "When we consider our ban-quet theme, 'Celebrate Youth,' and our childhood nemories, one important element comes to mind: childhood heroes. Astronauts, superheroes and television celebrities were figureheads we all admired and aspired to become. We looked up to these people because they represent the qualities many of us never ascertain: courage, intelligence, leader-ship, compassion, and willingness to help others

There is one man here tonight who exemplifies all of these qualities and so many more. In the true spirit of dedication, he has done so many things for all of us not for thanks, recognition or gratitude, but rather because he truly loves and cares for us. When he left his position last year, there were no parades or fanfare or gratitude. But now at last, we are thanking him for all he's ever done. We could never have achieved what we have without his leadership, encouragement and guidance. It is he who is responsible for our accomplishments. Please give a big hand to our hero, Mr. Steve Waggoner.'

The current band president, Jimmy Olague, was named to the McDonald (as in hamburgers) All American Band, a significant national award. Jimmy was also voted to receive the John Phillip Sousa Award, the highest annual band award voted on by his fellow band members.

A suggestion came from Margaret Wise that some summer brown-bag lunch lectures be held with a series on the history of Big Spring. For example, there could be programs coverings such topics as:
"Big Spring — The First 100 Years," "Big Spring's Pioneer Women," "Oil History in Howard County," "Basics of our Environment: Soil, Water, Fertility, etc," and "Things You Should Know About Big Spring." This might be a good project for the public library or the museum.

Most people are not aware that Madalyn Murry O'Hair, whose efforts successfully eliminated the use of Bible reading and prayer from all public schools, has been granted a federal hearing in Washington to stop the reading of the gospel on the airways of America. If she is successful, all Sunday worship services being broadcast either by radio or television will stop. Many elderly people and shut-ins depend on this media to fulfull their worship needs

O'Hair also is campaigning to remove all I am sorry you had such a bad Christmas programs, songs and earols from public

> Janice Rosson heads up a Speakers Bureau for Blue Blazers that has more than a dozen speakers with any possible topics.

A triathelon was held in Midland this weekend in which several of our local adults participated. For those who aren't sure what is a triathelon, let me explain. It is a 3-team event: swimming for 10k, bicycling for 18.2 miles, and running 10k (which is 6.2

The men enter as individuals which means that each entrant does all three but the women enter as a team of three people with each member of the team doing one of the three. Vic Keyes, local pharmacist, women team from Big Srping was made up of Carolyn Mahon (swimming), Linda Davis (running) and Laura McEwen (cycling).

Not only did they worry about finishing, which would be a victory in itself, but they also competed for the best times. In the team event, one cannot start until they are "tagged" by the team member in the event before theirs.

A sad note crept into the happy anticipation of this March-of-Dimes benefit when the director of the event was killed in a tragic accident last weekend. He and a 14-year-old boy were riding a bicycle along the side of a road near Midland when a speeding car hit them, causing instant death.

 Sexual Assault Awareness Week is June 2-8. Locally, the Big Spring Rape Crisis Center, headed by Cecelia McKenzie, director, is doubling efforts to create awareness and enlightenment. In the first 9 months of its existence, 34 cases were logged. Support this worthwhile and needed helping agency.

Johnny Hatch graduated from Bgi Spring High School in May 1982 and went on to Texas A&M. This year he finished his junior year and was just elected president of the Texas State Student Asociation. The association is designed to be an information network for colleges in Texas. Members include junior colleges, colleges and universities, and has existed since 1949. Their role in the past has been to lobby state officials on behalf of Texas students. It is now moving toward an information network and not a lobbying organization.

Hatch is the son of Ann and Buddy Duncan of 2504 Lynn. He is a political science major, a member of the Corps of Cadets, and recently ended his term as director of the Legislative Study Group, which is the official voice of the 36,000 students of Texas A&M to the State legislature. Hatch received the Buck Weirus Spirit Award for his involvement in campus activities. His future plans include law school after graduation from A&M.

Gruaduates of Big Spring High do very well in competition with other students at the college level. This spring, one of our locals, Debbie Shroyer, was ranked 110 out of a class of 1030 at the Naval Academy. Her parents, Shirley and Sonny Shroyer, attended her graduation at which President Reagan was the graduation speaker. When the Shroyers returned home, they learned they had won a cruise trip to the Carribean.

Another example is Craig McMahon who was chosen as one of the top architectural graduates at Texas Tech to spend several weeks in Europe this summer studying from masters in European

Still another example is Jose Lupe Arguello who received his doctorate in civil engineering from A&M. He had previously received bachelor's and master's degrees from A&M in their tough engineer-

Overall, Big Spring has a very high quality of schools, teachers and students.

And speaking of our native young people who have made a name for themselves...Rose Magers, Olympic silver medalist in volleyball, has been playing in the Japan League. That season just ended with Rose having an outstanding year, ending as one of the top six players in all of Japan. Her team finished second overall but Rose was first in at least three categories. Rose is back in the United States where she will be touring with exhibition teams and putting on clinics. She has signed to be on the 1988 Olympic team. She will return to Japan to play in their league in December and also continue with her education. Then in June 1986 she starts working full time with the Olympic team. They will be in training two full years in preparation for the summer Olympics.

An orientation for junior volunteers will be held at Malone-Hogan Hospital June 6 at 10 a.m. in the classroom on the second floor of the hospital. Young persons between the ages of 12 years and 18 years who are interested in volunteering at the hospital during the summer months are invited to attend the

Hit song outlines drug trade

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) -Long before the name of accused drug baron Rafael Caro Quintero became a household word throughout Mexico, popular bands were making hits with songs describing the adventures of CARO QUINTERO narcotics traffickers.

But now, Caro Quintero, who is charged in the kidnap-slaying of U.S. special agent Enrique Camarena Salazar, has been immortalized in the latest "corrido" to come out of northern Mexico.

The just-released song, "The Black Marquis Band," is subtitled "Corrido of Rafael Caro Quintero" and recounts one group's version of the hottest news story in Mexico. "Through the sweet-smelling

Lakers overpower Celtics, again

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Thanks to a massacre of their own, the Los Angeles Lakers have a 2-1 advantage in the National Basketball Association's Championship Series.

And they have that advantage mainly because they've hit the backboards with a fervor and improved their defense.

After a miserable first game, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has been brilliant in the last two games. He had 26 points, a game-high 14 rebounds and seven assists Sunday to follow his 30-point, 17-rebound, eight-assist performance in Game 2.

Abdul-Jabbar's 20th point of Sunday's game, scored with 9:06 remaining in the third quarter, made him the leading all-time NBA playoff scoring leader. It gave him 4,458 post-season points, one more than former Laker Jerry West.

Abdul-Jabbar had plenty of assistance. Forward James Worthy led the Lakers in scoring with 29 points - all of them in the second and third quarters - and grabbed nine rebounds; reserve Bob McAdeo contributed 19 points and six rebounds; and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 17 points and a game-high 16

Kevin McHale scored a career playoff high 31 points and had 10 rebounds, but was the only Celtie to play an above-par game.

Larry Bird had only 20 points and seven rebounds.

He made just eight of his 21 field-goal attempts. Robert Parish had 17 points and eight rebounds, but was held scoreless and without a rebound in the se-

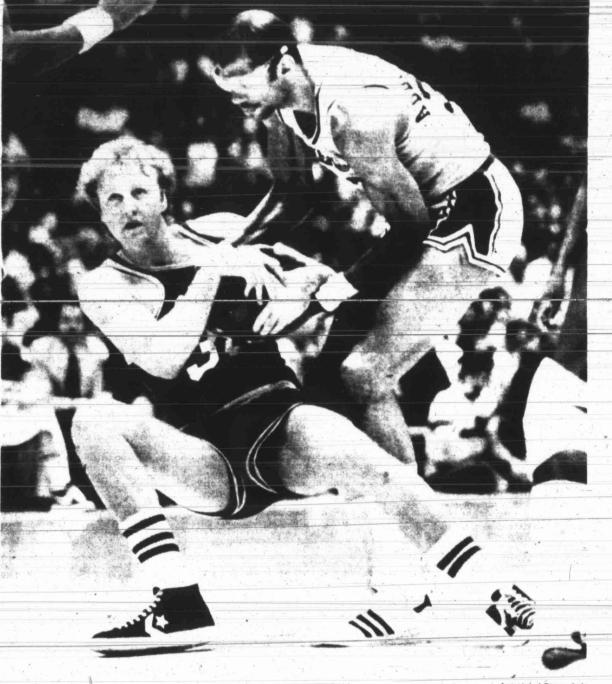

The Lakers, who have won 25 of their 26 games at home since Feb. 1, could beat the Celtics for the first time in nine Championship Series meetings by winning the fourth and fifth games here Wednesday and Friday nights. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be in Boston next week.

It appeared the Celtics were on their way to taking it early on Sunday. They led 29-25 after one quarter of play Sunday and 48-38 early in the second period before the Lakers exploded.

Los Angeles outscored Boston 27-11 in the final seven minutes of the first half to go ahead 65-59 at the intermission, and the Celtics never issued a serious threat after that. It was 100-85 after three quarters and Boston wasn't closer than that 15-point margin in

The game was marked by at least three shoving matches, and the hard play came to a head with 4:11 left when Boston guard Ray Williams punched Lakers' forward Kurt Rambis and was ejected from

Involved in the earlier altercations were McAdoo and McHale late in the first quarter and Ainge and Rambis midway through the third period.

DeLeon blanks Braves, 5-0 Schrom's blast sinks Twins, 5-4

By The Associated Press Jose DeLeon, who had worried about his major-league future, can rest easy.

The 24-year-old right-hander was on a 1-16 streak that extended back to last season, after a 13-7 start over his first 11/2 years in the majors. He was 0-7 in 1985 and had a string of 11 winless starts.

DeLeon took a load off his mind Sunday, combining with Al Holland on a two-hitter as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Atlanta Braves
