WASHINGTON (AP) — Public schools may not set aside daily moments of silence if students are told that "prayer" is one possible activity during the silence, the Supreme Court ruled today.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices ruled that an Alabama law allowing such periods for "meditation or voluntary prayer" by public school students violated the constitutionally required separation of church and state.

The ruling represents a strong reaffirmation of the court's 1962 decision banning organized prayer sessions as part of the Stevens wrote for the court. public school day.

But it does not mean that public schools cannot provide for a daily moment of silence, during which students may pray if they so desire

"The legislative intent to return prayer to the public schools is, of course, quite different from merely protecting every student's right to engage in voluntary prayer during an appropriate moment of silence during the school day," Justice John Paul

"The addition of 'or voluntary prayer' indicates that the state intended to characterize prayer as a favored practice. Such an endorsement is not consistent with the established principle that the government must pursue a course of complete neutrality toward religion," Stevens said.

The moment-of-silence case was as politically charged as any on the high court's docket this year. Numerous political candidates in 1984 - including President Reagan - called for a return of organized prayer in public schools.

The Reagan administration, entering the Alabama case as a "friend of the court," told the justices that such state laws "enhance the opportunity for students to include silent prayer as part of their activities

Wright labels national debt as top priority

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright says America's No. 1 priority is reducing a national debt that puts the country in the position of "living on a credit card binge and sending the bill to our children and grandchildren."

Wright said at the outset of a speech Monday that he was no expert on President Reagan's proposed tax package, but he added, "You can just be sure whatever it is today, it's going to be a little bit different if, and when, it comes out of the House.' One part of me says we ought to do it (the tax proposal) as quickly as possible. ... By the same token you don't want to move so rapidly that you don't know what you're doing ... Let us, whatever we do, know what we're doing and let us be at least careful and cautious and prudent enough that we don't rush headlong into the passage of legislation with which we are not familiar," Wright said.

The Fort Worth Democrat, addressing the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association, said. We have a tendency to rock along fat, dumb and happy until a crisis has us by the throat and then demand instant solution."

Wright prefaced his remarks to the oil and gas producers by saying, "I don't mind one little bit anybody telling folks up there (in Washington) anything I've done for this industry or for this state, because if I've got to hide the fact that I'm a Texan in order to become speaker of the House, then I'm not going to be speaker of the House."

Wright posed the question of "what are the big things, what are the principal priorities that confront this country today?

"The first one, I think most of us would agree, is that we absolutely must do something to begin not only to reduce the annual deficits that add to the national debt but somehow to begin to reduce the national debt itself before it consumes us all," he said.

He said Reagan's blueprint would run the debt to more than $3 trillion by 1988. To illustrate the size of the debt, he said if someone had spent $1 million a day since the birth of Christ, "he still would not have spent anything like $1 trillion.

Wright said annual interest on the debt now totals $500 for every man, woman and child, and this will go up to $620 per capita next year.

The second major priority, he said, is "to try to make this country energy independent," which is "just as important to our future, just as important to our national security as the economy.'

Shaw's efforts received a boost from Comptroller Bob Bullock who, late in 1984, predicted declining oil and gas revenues would complicate legislative efforts to write a balanced 1986-87 state

Bush visits town destroyed by twister

12 Pennsylvania, Ohio counties declared federal disaster areas

By The Associated Press

Altough 12 Pennsylvania counties and four in Ohio were declared federal disaster areas, the spotlight is on Wheatland, Pa., a ting town that lost nearly all its industry in the tornadoes that killed at least 86 peo-ple in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Ontario, Canada.

Vice President George Bush planned to visit Wheatland today, accompanied by Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh. Bush planned to spend about an hour in Wheatland before heading to Pittsburgh for a previously scheduled fund-raiser

"That area simply must be seen to be believed." said Thornburgh, who toured the vicinity Saturday. "Industrial facilities with structural steel bent out of shape like straw, whole areas just flattened as if it had been carpet bombed. ... This is probably the area that has the most substantial immediate impact in terms of damage to the ecomony."

Fifty homes in Wheatland were destroyed and a dozen factories and businesses were wrecked by Friday's tornadoes, which killed seven people. Damage was estimated at $50 million.

The twisters caused at least $250 million in damage as they swept through parts of Penn-sylvania, Ohio, New York and Ontario, Canada.

The bulk of the damage occurred in Pennsylvania, where almost 1,700 buildings were destroyed. Sixtytwo people were killed and 700 people injured in the

There were 12 deaths in Ohio and damage in vestern New York state and the Canadian province of Ontario, where 12 people died.

Although 95 percent of Wheatland's industry was wiped out by the tornado, the determination and for-titude of its 1,122 residents remained intact, said Helen Duby, the town's mayor.

"I think that by Thornburgh being here and Vice President Bush following him up, I think it will be the rebirth of Wheatland," Mrs. Duby said Monday night. "I believe with all the helping hands that are going out, we will be lifted again.'

Mercer County, in which Wheatland is located, was among 12 in Pennsylvania included in a disaster declaration signed by President Reagan on Monday. Four Ohio counties received the designation within hours of a visit to Washington by Gov. Richard Celeste, who hand-delivered a request for aid to officials of the Federal Emergency Management

Chamber auction raises $5,000

Almost $5,000 was raised for Christmas decorations from the Heart of the City auction Saturday, LeRoy Tillery of the Chamber of Commerce said.

'Gross sales were $11,000," Tillery said. Part of that money was received from belt buckle and key chain sales and some of the money went to pay off large items that had been purchased by the chamber but did not bring full price during the auction.

After deductions, the fund was left with $4,910. Tillery said a few items still need to be picked up but he does not expect the dollar amount to change much.

Tillery said he was pleased with the amount raised for the Christmas decorations, "considering that normally in a fall schedule we collect less than $2,000 in donations to help pay for the decorations," he said.

NEW YORK - Two sides in a bitter hotel strike disagreed over the progress made so far in negotiations, with management claiming, "We are closer than we've ever been," but labor saying, "We have no more moves to Labor and management agreed to meet with a mediator at 4 p.m. today, the fourth day of the strike. Meanwhile, the union claimed two pickets were cut in a scuffle with two replacement workers outside the Sheraton Centre on Monday.

2 septuplets weaken

ORANGE, Calif. - Two of the five surviving Frustaci septuplets have "a very severe lung disease" and doctors say their condition is now critical and unstable.

The poor report on the progress of the two infans was changed from last Friday when all five were reported to be holding their own. Three of the babies, Patricia Ann, Stephen Earl and Richard Charles, were described Monday as stable and improving daily.

Haydon suffers stroke

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Artificial heart recipient Murray Haydon, who has been confined to an intensive care unit since March, is believed to have suffered a stroke, a hospital spokeswoman said today.

Dr. William DeVries, who implanted the heart in Haydon on Feb. 17, reported that his condition worsened during the night. Results of the apparent stroke were seen in Haydon's left side, but the extent of damage was not immediately determined.

AMC balks at closings

MILWAUKEE - American Motors Corp. will consider letting three United Auto Workers locals act autonomously in efforts to keep open two plants and has scheduled meetings with the locals to explain its position, officials say.

Border agent arrested

CALEXICO, Calif. - Authorities were holding a U.S. Border Patrol agent who allegedly forced a 14-year-old Mexican boy to strip and lie on the ground, then fired a gun two feet from his head during a three-day ordeal.

Robert Ferrick, who works at the U.S. Border Patrol station at Calexico, was arrested Sunday night after the boy told police he had been taken against his will, stripped and shot at. The boy told police the agent was retaliating for the boy's theft of the agent's binoculars in March.

Suspect detonates car after gun-battle with cops

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - A man sought in the slayings of five members of his girlfriend's family fired a machine gun at police before he apparently blew-up his van, killing himself, the weman and her two children, authorities say

Three police officers, including two from Kentucky,

Frederick Klenner, 32, "opened fire with an automatic weapon" Monday as officers tried to arrest him, said police spokeswoman Joanna Colodin. He was wanted in the 1984 murders of two women in Kentucky the former sister-in-law and mother-in-law of his girlfriend - and in the slayings of the woman's parents and grandmother in Winston-Salem last Klenner then drove off in a van with Susie Newsom Lynch, 39, and her children, John, 10, and Jim, 9, before the vehicle exploded, said Oldham County police Sgt. Dennis Clark in Kentucky. Clark said Klenner apparently detonated the blast, but Greensboro police Chief Conrad Wade said that wasn't clear.

Clark said police were trying to arrest Klenner in connection with the May 19 deaths of Mrs. Lynch's parents, Robert Newsom Jr., 65, and Florence Newsom, 63, and her grandmother, Hattie Newsom, 84, in the elder woman's home.

Kentucky police, in North Carolina to investigate the 1984 deaths of Delores Lynch, 68, and her daughter, Dr. Jane Lynch, 39, said a child custody dispute may have been the motive for those killings and that Klenner's romantic involvement with Mrs. Lynch may have figured in the triple slaying.

Mrs. Lynch's father was to have testified against her in the custody dispute, Clark said, adding that authorities had anticipated charging Klenner with the Newsoms' killings.

The two women shot to death at their Prospect, Ky., home were the mother and sister of Dr. Thomas J. Lynch of Albuquerque, N.M., who had been married to the woman killed Monday, authorities said. After firing the machine gun at police, Klenner headed north, followed by several vehicles filled with State Bureau of Investigation agents and Kentucky officers, authorities said.

"It was not really a chase," said Wade, adding that speeds never exceeded 35 or 40 mph. "It seemed to be a very passive kind of event."

The officers did not try to overtake the vehicle, but got a good look at the man in the truck, said Guilford County Sheriff Jim Proffitt. "He looked at them and smiled," Proffitt said.

Volcano cools off as tremors subside

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) The strong earthquakes that signaled a new eruption at Mount St. Helens have tapered off, and scientists say the volcano may have entered a slump.

For nearly a week, strong earthquakes shook the mountain every few minutes, suggesting that molten rock was moving, but the frequency of the tremors began decreasing Monday.

Who is at fault for rising tensions along some parts of the U.S.-Mexican border? The U.S. Border Patrol?

Some critics of the patrol seem to be saying so. In a New York Times story about the rising tensions, critics of the Border Patrol gave "aggressiveness" by patrol officers as a factor in rising tension and a reason for increased assaults on agents in California. Among the incidents is the recent shooting by a patrol officer of a Mexican boy who was part of a group throwing stones at U.S. agents.

Rock-throwing and shooting, serious as they are, are but small symptoms of the profound problems caused by the soaring birthrate and economic stagnation in parts of Latin

Each year, 2 million or more people from Mexico and other Latin American countries try to enter the United States illegally. More than a million are turned back each year, but as many as 15 million are believed to be living in the United States.

The effect on the U.S. economy, as well as on the social service network, the schools and the economies of some communities, is incalculable.

It goes without saying that the Border Patrol and its agents have a responsibility, while enforcing the law, to avoid unnecessary incidents.

Tension along the border is regrettable. The relative ease with which Americans and Mexicans have been able to conduct tourism and commerce across the border has benefited both countries. Tension and violence that come with illegal immigration and U.S. efforts to prevent it could disrupt that

But it also goes without saying that the United States could face serious problems if it is unable to control its borders at a time when population growth in Latin America is out of control. And that's the direction in which things are going as long as Mexico is unable - or unwilling - to reduce its birthrate to realistic levels and provide for the population it already has.

Reagan tax plan to be reformed right now the complicated tables purporting to show how President Reagan's tax reform plan affects YOU. Shrink with similar haste from the analyses of the Second Reagan Revolution and the coming Realignment of the Parties.

For the basic rule about the President proposing and Congress disposing has not been repealed. The one certain thing about the Reagan tax proposal is that it will before it comes up for decisive votes in fall.

Lack of keen public interest provides one reason. No doubt the nation hearkened when the President made his eloquent appeal on national television Tuesday night. the next few days.

ed attention over many months. The evidence shows that the country is far from being turned on by the subject itself. Two Democratic tax reformers - Sen. Bill Bradley of New Jersey and Rep. Dick Gephardt of Missouri — toured the country last month without starting any prairie fires. Politicos returning from the Memorial Day weekend reported only very mixed interest. Their mail has been dominated by opponents of reform.

interest now, he is far from coasting home. He will drop the subject in the summer months and return to the charge in fall. Whether a public only lukewarm to begin with is going to go the distance on tax reform remains in doubt. Nor is it clear that Reagan to bat. himself cares enough to hang in there. He cared so little last February that he gummed up budget-cutting, thereby forcing postponement of the tax plan announcement from the optimal day - April 15 - to a time in May when balmy weather beckoned most people to carefree pursuits.

Economic uncertainties also affect the tax plan. Growth has begun to slow. Basic industry is particularly hard hit, because the super-dollar makes imports of manufactures cheap, while Output per hour worked - or productivity, which suffers when manufactures are in trouble - sustained during the first quarter of this year its biggest drop since the 1982 recession.

But the President's plan cuts away a deduction explicitly designed to stimulate the competitiveness of heavy industry. The Investment be transformed in the Congress Tax Credit gives basic industry an incentive to modernize equipment and machinery. It was adopted to that end by the Kennedy Administration back in 1962. It was dropped by the Johnson Administration when tax reform was in the air, and then revived in a Probably he will get a good recession. But if the economy continues to lag, pressures will But tax reform demands sustain- mount for maintenance of the Investment Tax Credit — a step that would bend the President's package totally out of shape.

Then there is the cut-and-thrust of partisan politics. The original reform plan, devised by Treasury technicians and delivered to the White House just after the election, was remarkably free of political bias. It struck across-the-board at deductions, the better to lower the maximum tax.

Subsequently Republican politics Even if the President stimulates in Texas entered the picture. The oil-and-gas industry, working through such fellow Texans as Vice President George Bush and Treasury Secretary James Baker, prevailed on President Reagan to reinstate favorable loopholes. Now Democrats from other states come

In that spirit Gephardt of Missouri - a senior member of the Ways and Means Committee known for his advocacy of tax reform — has taken shots at the Reagan plan. Bureaucrats' spring flings placed on taxpayers' bill

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON — Spring fever has hit Washington. As the heat and humidity give a foretaste of another muggy Washington summer, federal officials are dreaming of a getaway to the beach or the mountains. And inevitably, some are trying to figure out a way to have the taxpayers pick

At the Energy Department, officials chose the beach - Ocean City, Md., to be exact, a popular resort for Washington refugees. When the agency's administrative director, William S. Heffelfinger, announced that management training courses would take place there this month, another official worried about the public-relations fallout

In a memo to acting Assistant Secretary Donna Fitzpatrick, Gary Giesick, director of the Office of Policy and Management, wrote:

"1) Should our people be meeting for training in an ocean-front resort area when training facilities in the DOE building or at other locations here in town are excellent?

"2) Could it cause the secretary or yourself problems in explaining why this is happening? ... Could we be criticized for wasteful travel?'

Fitzpatrick replied: "I agree that training programs should be located so as to minimize travel and ging expenses and avoid the appearance of 'two weeks at the beach.' I think the issue deserves attention at higher level. In the meantime, the Ocean City site is the closest available for our employees and I do not want to deprive them of the training. At least they should get off-season rates.'

In fact, the bill for the two persons that led Giesick to worry — one for one week's stay, the other for two totaled $1,861, according to his memo. An Energy Department spokesman told our associate Donald Goldberg this was cheaper than hotel rooms in Washington. But the two employees in question both live in or near Washington, so they would not need government-paid lodgings if the training course were held here.

Over at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the officials chose the mountains the Coolfont Hotel in Berkeley Springs, W.Va. June Koch, an assistant secretary, is taking her entire policy development and research staff — 30 persons in all — for a "retreat" there from June 10 to 13.

When contacted by our reporter Mark Woolley, Dr. Koch said heatedly: "We're not the only govnerment agency that takes retreats. Why are you contacting us? Are you a retreat specialist? My people are overworked, and I feel it's necessary for us to get

Koch said the overall cost to the government will be only $2,000. But a spokesman for the Coolfont said the HUD employees are being charged $68.75 each per day, which would make the bill for 30 persons more than $6,000 for the three nights. A Koch assistant said his boss had misspoken

Finally, at the Agriculture Department, some officials chose the exotic Far East for a governmentpaid getaway this month. Four department employees are accompanying a group of 26 American farm wives on an 18-day tour of Japan, China, Hong Kong and Korea for meetings with government agriculture officials. The farm women are paying their own way; the taxpayers' bill for the four official chaperones is $14,000.

Inc., the nation's biggest waste disposal company, is in the forefront of the lobbying effort to block renewal of Superfund by Congress. The fund, created by industry contributions, pays for the cleanup of dangerous dump sites.

Waste Management was recently fined $7 million for violations at one of its toxic waste dumps, which might explain its opposition to Superfund. Yet ironically, the company stands to gain some benefits if Congress renews Superfund, as it probably will. Toxic wastes from some sites to be cleaned up by the fund will be burned in Waste Management's incinerator near Chicago.

Soccer's story of violence

By CHARLIE ALCORN

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (AP) At least 40 people were killed and more than 100 injured in a riot between fans of the British and Italian teams about to play the Super Bowl of European soccer.

This lead to a rather lengthy account of one of the worst melees in the history of organized sport sure caught my attention. I decided to do a little research on the subject of soccer violence. The results were astounding

If you had been in attendence at the Cup of Champions match in Brussels last week, chances are you would have been maimed or killed, probably at the hand of what are commonly referred to as the "most civilized people on Earth," the British. Unfortunately, these English hoodlums are not at the bottom of the heap where soccer violence is concerned.

Although English soccer matches have far and away produced the most instances of spectator injury and property damage, they are not the "worst" fans.

The single worst soccer riot in the last 25 years (when they started keeping records of such atrocities) occurred in Lima, Peru, in the spring of 1964. Three hundred fans vere killed and 600 injured when the Argentine national team defeated Peru on a last-minute goal in an Olympic qualifying match. A short-lived war broke out between the two countries as a Multiple deaths have occurred on nearly every continent. Twenty killed in India, 24 in Lagos, Nigeria. Even the staid Chinese fans became unruly, injuring 10 foreigners May 10 after Hong Kong eliminated them in World Cup qualifying.

In 1985 alone, 92 spectators have died and over 500 were injured in soccer matches involving English clubs. UEFA, the governing body of European soccer, banned English teams indefinitely from European competition as a result of last week's violence. I guess if they hadn't banned them, civil war would have broken out.

Give me a nice relaxed Pittsburg Steeler fan any day. At least you wouldn't have to pack an Uzi into the stadium with you for protection.

1040 revision: Simplification vs. fairness

WASHINGTON (AP) - Only a few months ago the central aim of overhauling the federal income tax was simplification. Now the focus is on fairness - partly because for most taxpayers the system is about as simple as it ever

Or at least until the early 1990s. By that time, if President Reagan's tax plan is approved, the Internal Revenue Service hopes to begin testing a 'return-free' system. Taxpayers with the simplest tax returns who didn't want to bother with all the paperwork could simply trust the IRS to calculate their taxes and send a refund or a bill for the

"With John Q. Public realizing what is happening with the IRS computers this year, he would be very skeptical of a computer telling him he owes money or is due a refund," said Peter Elinsky of the accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. "They will have a heck of a sales job convincing people to use

But that proposal is still in the development stage. In the meantime, most individuals would find little change in how they compute their taxes. The dream of a tax form that would fit on one side of a postcard would remain just that.

For individual taxpayers, the chief goal of the president's proposal is to reduce tax rates. Although in doing this he would slash the number of taxable brackets from 14 or 15 to three, that by itself would not result in a simpler tax return.

The great majority of taxpayers simply look in the tax tables for the taxable-income number that matches theirs and read across the page to find what they owe. Reducing the number of brackets would not change whatever complexity is in those tables.

The White House estimates its plan would make it worthwhile for about 4 million couples and individuals who now itemize to switch to the standard deduction.

'With John Q. Public realizing what is happening with the IRS computers this year, he would be very skeptical of a computer telling him he owes money or is due a refund.'

Peter Elinsky, accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.

"But overall, I don't think we've achieved simplification at all" with Reagan's proposal, said Elinsky.

There is no question the income tax can be simplified. But the price can be a loss of fairness, an argument the Reagan administration uses, for example, against subjecting every person regardless of income to the same single rate of tax. Such a "flat tax" would be simple - a return would fit on a postcard but it would produce a huge tax cut for the rich at the expense of lower-income Americans. About 17 million single taxpayers this year filed their returns on Form 1040EZ, a single page with 10 figures at most. Reagan's proposal would repeal the charitable-gifts deduction for non-itemizers and thereby eliminate one line from 1040EZ.

That change also could affect the 19 million couples and individuals who file Form 1040A and the 24.5 million who file the long Form 1040 but do not itemize deductions. Those forms would be shortened two lines by eliminating the $100-a-person exclusion for dividends. Unemployment compensation would be fully taxed, eliminating one line. Another two lines would be dropped by killing the tax checkoff for the presidential election campaign fund.

Wiping out the special deduction for twoearner couples would eliminate several lines from 1040A and the separate Schedule W for Repealing the deduction for state and local taxes paid would eliminate five lines from Schedule A, on which deductions are itemized. But the president also wants to limit certain miscellaneous deductions - including union dues and tax-return preparing fees — to those that exceed 1 percent of adjusted gross income. And that would add three or more lines to the same schedule.

Many itemizers who use credit cards, are paying for a car or have a second home would have to calculate how much of their interest would be deductible. A business person who takes a client to dinner would face a new calculation on the deductible portion of the

A person who buys an ordinary life insurance policy would have to add to taxable income the annual increase in the cash value of the policy. Employees would have to figure taxes on a portion of the health-insurance premiums paid by their employers. The elderly and blind would lose the additional personal exemption they now have; it would be combined with the present tax credit for the elderly, which is one of the more complicated individual tax provisions in current law.

When Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III went before the House Ways and Means Committee last week to present the president's plan, a fellow Texas Republican, Rep. Bill Archer, told Baker the proposal doesn't offer the simplification people had been led to

'If you're going to give your best girl ' Archer said he learned as a child, 'you better give her real roses because they know the difference between roses and Miss heard rumors that the new hepatitis B vaccine can give a person the dreaded AIDS disease. Can you set at rest the minds of parents like ourselves, whose daughter (a nurse) must get vaccinated with it for her work? We have heard also that it is safe, that the rumors about it are just that. - Mr. and Mrs. G.G.

They are just that - rumors. The vaccine has been ruled safe. It will not give your daughter AIDS or any other disease. AIDS, as you know, is an acronym for acquired immune deficiency syndrome, a disease which strips a person of his natural protection against illness.

Fear about the vaccine arose because it is made from blood of people who are carriers of hepatitis That blood makes possible preparation of the protective vaccine. As it turns out, those donors are among the groups most at risk for having AIDS, in addition to their hepatitis B. In using their blood, therefore, there was conjecture that the AIDS virus might survive and be transmitted to users of the vaccine.

This was actively investigated. below that? - Mrs. R.T. But very recently, scientists were able to identify the virus that shake the mercury column down to causes AIDS. And subsequently it about 96 degrees. was shown that the virus does not survive the stringent purification process the donated blood is put through in preparing vaccine.

And if that were not enough evidence of its safety, the fact that more than 700,000 people have gotten the vaccine without a trace of AIDS in any of them should put minds at ease. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a diabetic. I have good control except for early in the morning. My doctor had me check my sugar dur-

Your doctor was talking about the "dawn phenomenon." Some diabetics have early-morning blood sugar elevation because they get rid of insulin more rapidly in those hours (between 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.). This causes a relative insulin lack and the blood sugar rise.

But this pheneomen doesn't always account for the early a.m. low blood sugar symptoms. That's why your doctor wanted the nighttime checks, usually done before retiring and again at 3 a.m. If both those are normal but a check on awakening shows a high reading, then the odds are its the "dawn phenomenon." You combat it by changing the times you take insulin or by switching to another kind of

Dear Abby

Mom's gift is breath of fresh air

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, on the morning of Mother's Day, my two teen-age daughters gave me a lovely gift. That evening I decided to join my neighbor in running because I had started to put on a little weight. At 39, what seemed to be a good idea turned out to be an impossibility. I couldn't even run half block — I couldn't even breathe. When I got home I lit a cigarette and didn't have enough breath to take a deep drag.
I suddenly knew I had to face the facts. I had been a smoker for 20 years, never over a pack a day just a moderate smoker. For years my daughters had been after me to quit because they learned in school that smoking was damaging to one's health. I put out the cigarette, went to my daughters, and told them that since they had given me something lovely for Mother's Day, I was going to give them a present

— a mother who would do everything she could to live as long as possible I have not smoked since then. The first few days were difficult, but I had given my daughters a gift I couldn't take back.

It's been two years since that Mother's Day, and I have never felt better in my life. You may change this letter any way you wish, but please print it, Abby. The gift of not smoking is one that parents can give to their children (or their spouses) that will be appreciated above any other.

for an excellent suggestion. Children could give their parents the same gift, too.

DEAR ABBY: I can feel for that 83-year-old woman who didn't know how to leave one ring to two equally deserving daughters.

I had the same problem with one ring and three deserving daughters. My solution: I took the ring to a reliable jeweler, had him refinish it to look like new, then I had him make two copies. I put them in separate boxes and gave one to each daughter. No one had

There are dozens of ways to use electricity in our kitchens alone. Add other rooms and outbuildings and you come up with a hundred ways we use electric power advantageously. We're using almost eight times as much power today as we did in 1949.

Fortunately the cost of power from the electric cooperative is less than twice as much now as in 1949. This makes electricity a real value. Which is what the cooperative promises it always will be regardless of how much we require.

TRHALOMETHANES
The City of Big Spring is required under the Safe Drinking Water Act to reduce the maximum contaminate levels for Trihalomethanes below the 100 micrograms per liter limit. In order to comply with this public law the City of Big Spring will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant in the treatment processes and to maintain a residual throughout the distribution system. The combination of chlorine with ammonia does not allow the chlorine to alternately combine with the naturally occurring organic acids to form Trihalomethanes. Thus, the system will be able to be incompliance with the maximum contaminate levels for Trihalomethanes.
The change from the previous routines of water treatment to the use of Chloramines at the treatment plant can cause serious problems to persons dependent on dialysis machines then Carbon Filters are not employed to prepare for the dialysate. A condition known as Hemolyticanemia can occur. Therefore, the general public is hereby placed on notice that on July 15, 1985, the water treatment with process within the City of Big Spring water system will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant. Dialysis patents may be affected by this change, therefore, it is imperative that the pretreamment scheme used for dialysis units provides some means such as, charcoal filters for the removal of the chlorinating (disinfecting) agent.
In addition, the use of Chloramines for disinfecting the potable water system will require different pre-treatment prior to being utilized in aquariums and other uses where the disinfectant agent would prove a hazard to the proposed use.
Anyone having any questions with respect to this process, are urged to contact the Director of Public Works or the Big Spring Health Department.

How much does advertising cost

By now you've probably read the story about the man who wakes up in the morning and drinks an advertised brand of coffee, brushes his teeth with an advertised brand of toothpaste, drives to work in an advertised car, yet refuses to believe in advertising his own business. The story goes on to say that when his business goes under, he sells it. How? By advertising it in the classifieds.

180 degree turnaround

Talk about a 180-degree turnaround. That's just what the National Basketball Association championship series between the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers-is turning I'll admit that it's still anyone series, with the Lakers holding a 2-1 advantage. But the thing that has thrown me off is how the Lakers have gained their advantage.

Who would have thought that the run-and-gun Lakers would be physically dominating a team like Boston, who is noted for its patterned offense and bruising defensive style of play?

When I hear the words Boston Celtics I think of players that fit the role of blue-collar workers. Nothing fancy, just hard workers who go out on the court and get the job done. no matter what it takes. Usually it takes some bone-jarring play in their own disciplined way.

On the other hand, I visualize bright lights, big city when I hear Los Angeles Lakers. It's never a dull moment when the boys from Tinseltown step on the court. The Lakers are flashy and their run-and-jive game typifies the fast city they perform in.

So it's understandable that most experts pitted this meeting as Boston's muscle against LA's finesse. Can the Celtics physical play do the Lakers in, much the way it did in last season's championship series?

But oh, what a surprise so far. The story of the first three confrontations is the Lakers plysical style of play. Yes that's right, the LA Lakers got out of their style of Tinseltown finesse and turned into the LA bullies. Meanwhile the blue-collar workers from Beantown found themselves in the role of the intimidated instead of the intimidator.

Looks like the Lakers are taking heed to coach Pat Riley's warning of no rebounds, no championship ring. The Lakers front line has answered Boston blow-for-blow; plus a little bit more. One thing is for sure, Mitch Kupchak is not a wellliked name in the Boston area.

With the Lakers having two more games in the Forum, a place they've won 25 of their last 26, the remainder of the series should be intresting.

The Lakers are zooming in for the kill but Boston green runs thick. How many times have we seen the likes of Bill Russell, John Havlicek, Jo Jo White and Dave Cowan battle back from almost insurmountable deficits.

Like I said, It's still anybody series. Maybe we'll see another 180-degree turnaround.

Evert gains French semis

PARIS (AP) - Second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd recovered from an uncertain start today to beat fellow American Terry Phelps 6-4, 6-0 and breeze into the semifinals of the $2.2 million French Open tennis championships for the seventh con-

She next will face the winner of today's second women's quarterfinal match between fourth-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria and 15-year-old Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, the 14th seed.

The first men's semifinal berths were decided today when topseeded John McEnroe took on No. 7 Joakim Nystrom of Sweden and No. 4 Mats Wilander of Sweden, who won here in 1982, faced the sentimental crowd favorite, unseeded Henri Leconte of France.

After a string of errors, the 30-year-old Lloyd, a five-time winner of the tournament who has reached the semis this year without dropping a set, took a 5-3 lead in the opening set. But after Phelps held her service in the ninth game, the 18-year-old from Larchmont, N.Y., had four break points in the 10th game - a chance to knot the set at 5-5.

Suddenly Lloyd's game clicked as her accurate shots from the baseline forced Phelps into a series of errors. Lloyd then saved the fourth break point with a perfect lob that landed on the baseline.

Lloyd clinched the opening 45-minute set on the second set point and followed up by breaking Phelps in the first, third and fifth games of the second.

"I was intimidated by her and by the occasion," Phelps said. "I have never played her before, I was on the center court for the first time and I was in the quarterfinals for the first time.

"I have grown up idolizing Chris, as a lot of people have," she added. Lloyd, who has reached the semifinals in each of her 10 appearances at Roland Garros, said: 'I think I played well in the second set, but not so good in the first."

She echoed her rival, top-seeded Martina Navratilova, by saying she, too, might retire in "about two

"I still think I can be a better athlete physically if I worked harder. But mentally I don't know," she said. "Five or six years ago my concentration never

Red Sox sweep Big Lake

The Big Spring Red Sox continued their unbeaten streak by winning a pair of games from first game, throwing a 3 hitter against the visitors. The Sox's 16 hit attack was led by Adam wavered. Now I find there are Monday more distractions.

Navratilova, the 28-year-old defending champion, said Monday that although physically she felt capable of continuing for "five or 10 years," she was not so sure how long she can stand the pressure of being the world's top-ranked player.

On Monday, Jimmy Connors reached the men's quarterfinals a feat he doesn't think much of.

'Being in the quarterfinals doesn't make my day," the 32-year-old left-hander said. "I'm used to being in the finals and winning.

But Connors — who has won 105 tournments, more than any other man in the open era — has always come up empty-handed on the clay courts of this Grand Slam event. In fact, no American man has won the French since Tony Trabert did it in

"If I win the finals here, it would be the biggest, the complete accomplishment of my career," Connors said after beating Italy's Francesco Cancellotti 3-6, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2 in a fourth-round match

Of the top six tournaments in the world, the French is the only one played on the slow, red clay surface. Wimbledon and the Australian Open are contested on grass, the U.S. Open on hardcourt and the Masters and WCT Finals on a synthetic indoor surface, all of which are much faster than clay.

The last winner of the French Open men's singles who wasn't considered a clay court player was Australian Rod Laver in 1969, when he captured his second Grand

Connors has reached the quarters here seven straight years, but has never gotten beyond the semifinals. Now, he says this could be his last try at Roland Garros Stadium. "I have to think of my family. I have to start playing for convenience - things that are close to nome," he explained, adding that he's considering doing U.S. television commentary rather than playing here next year.

But Connors insists that's it's almost impossible for an American to win the men's singles here because the surface is radically different from what they are used to playing on. The women, on the other hand, have had no such problems with capturing this title.

"It's a shame, really," Connors said. "To really prepare well for this tournament, you'd have to come over here and play six, seven weeks beforehand. I play one week,

The Mississippi State first baseman was chosen second — one pick sooner than he expected - by the San Francisco Giants in Monday's major league draft. Clark then displayed his professional potential with a home run, triple and single, driving in four runs as the Bulldogs rallied to edge Arkansas 5-4 and remain unbeaten in the College World Series.

"You'd have to say he had a great day, from the draft all the way to the ninth inning," Mississippi State Coach Ron Polk said.

The triumph advanced the Bulldogs, 50-13, to a game Thursday that will involve the only teams without a loss in the doubleelimination tournament. Mississip-

> Mississippi State's Frank Davis led off the seventh with a fly ball that left fielder Norm Roberts dove for and held momentarily before the ball spun out of his glove. Arkansas Coach Norm DeBriyn argued that Davis was out, but umpire Dan Pederson called him safe

One out later, Gator Thiesen skipped a looping liner off the foul line and into the right-field corner for a game-tying triple. Clark then singled up the middle to drive in the decisive run.

"I was trying to get the ball out of my glove to show (Pederson) that I had it," Roberts said of his nearcatch. "I know I had it."

There was no controversy about Clark's extra-base hits. The lefthanded slugger rocketed an RBI triple to right-center in the third inning and socked a two-out, two-run homer to left in the fifth that tied the score 3-3. "I was so pumped up by the draft, I took it into the ballgame, said Clark, who is hitting .429 this season with 24 homers and 76 runs batted in. "This is one of the better days of my life."

Texas ready for Hurricanes

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Texas sophomore All-American pitcher Greg Swindell says he could pitch against Miami tonight and come back Thursday to pitch in the winners bracket finale at the NCAA College World Series

Although the 18-1 left-hander said after the Longhorns 2-1 victory over Arizona Saturday that he feels strong enough to take the mound again tonight, Texas coach Cliff Custafson said he'll start Bruce Ruffin, 12-2, against sixth-ranked Stanford 17-3 in the other Saturday game, setting a series record with five home runs. "I could do it," Swindell said of pitching both games. But Gustafson said he plans to rest Swindell tonight and come back with him either Wednesday or Thursday. Swindell said Miami's hitting has impressed him. "They reminded me of Arizona were swinging the bats," Swindell said of the 60-15 Hurricanes. Arizona State scored 37 runs and hit over .340 in the CWS to finish third in last year's national college baseball championships.

"It looks like Miami has a lot of .200 hitters and not many .300 hitters, but they sure swing the bats," he said. "In pitching, you have to go out and pitch your game and not worry about them.

Swindell had offensive help Saturday night from All-American Miami. Miami thumped top-ranked second baseman Billy Bates, who scored the tieing run after walking in the seventh and then doubled home the winning run in the eighth.

The winning hit may not be that unusual for Bates, but the way he did it was. Hitting twice from the left side of the plate against Arizona left-hander Joe Magrane, he grounded out and struck out. The last two times up Bates jumped to the right side, only the State of last year the way they third game this year he has done

"Coach Gustafson asked me to give it a try," Bates said. "I wasn't picking up Joe's curve ball so I thought I'd switch. I'd only done that about seven times or so this year.

Bates said he jumped on an offspeed pitch to line a double to the left-field corner in the eighth with Robbie Byers on base.

Whether Bates decides to switch again tonight against scheduled Miami starter Dan Davies, 15-1 and also a lefty, depends on how Davies pitches, said the Longhorn junior. Gustafson said Miami's showing Saturday was impressive. "They're a great ball club," he said. "Stanford was No. 1 in the country and Miami flat overwhelmed them." Texas, ranked third, carries a 61-12 record into the 7:10 p.m. CDT game tonight. The winner advances to Thursday's winners bracket final, also at 7:10 p.m.
