Lone tornado damages home

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

A lone tornado Tuesday night tore the roof off a backyard patio in the northeast part of town, hurling the splintered fragments into the street.

Although no one was injured when the tornado briefly touched down at 9:30 p.m., residents of 912 Baylor still had a case of "the nerves."

The tornado was spotted at 9:27 p.m. at Stink Creek softball field by softball players. The sirens were sounded, and the tornado was confirmed six minutes later by the Department of Public Safety, according to reports on the police scanner.

After the sirens, the National Weather Service issued a tornado warning for eastern Howard County until 10:38 p.m.

The driving winds and rain also knocked out traffic lights, caused scattered electrical blackouts and flooded most of the city's low-lying intersections.

The swirling storm dropped pea-sized hail at 10:24 p.m. in the northeast corner of Howard County. Earlier, a second cloud bank was spotted at 10:15 p.m. approaching from the southwest, but no tornadoes were sighted.

In Big Spring, Jim Woolverton of 912 Baylor stood in his soggy backyard about 10:30 p.m. to survey the wreckage left in the tornado's wake. He waved a flashlight at the two uprooted corner posts and the flooded cement slab, all that remained of his patio.

"We had a nice patio," said his wife, Kathy Woolverton, and laughed a little nervously.

Only half an hour earlier, the Woolvertons' house had been the site of a mad scramble for the bathroom. Now the front room was a magnet for neighbors who stopped by to check the damage and offer help as the Woolvertons tried to notify their insurance agent.

"We were sitting here watching TV, and we felt a tingling go up our necks," said Kathy, describing the incident. "We (she and her husband) both jumped up at the same time and grabbed our little girl. The glass was shaking and rattling, and we ran into the bathroom."

"I was like this, lying on the floor," said their 7-year-old daughter, Shauna, as she demonstrated. "And I jumped up and my mother and father threw me on the couch — yakooee! My mom and dad were on top of me and we ran into the bathroom. And I had a blanket over me."

City crews began working late Tuesday night to clear Baylor Street of the splintered wreckage of the Woolvertons' patio, swept out of their backyard and into the road.

Later, when the Woolvertons went outside to inspect the damage, they found the back patio and the roof "completely gone," Kathy said.

The tornado, which came from the west, ripped the patio supports out of four feet of concrete, Jim said.

"Now it's standing on end (against the house) and rain is pouring into the light sockets," said Kathy. She pointed to a kitchen sink light fixture filling with water. "Don't touch that window. It's full of electricity," she said.

The high winds also carried a metal ventilation fan three blocks away, where it smashed through a plate glass window on Drexel and Baylor, the Woolvertons said.

"The man came up to us and said, 'I think this is yours. It came through our window,'" Kathy said. "Three blocks away."

No accidents occurred in the city as a result of the high winds, rain and flooding, Big Spring Police Capt. Lonnie Smith said.

A transformer fire was reported at 10:20 p.m. at 201 Jones, but no evidence of a fire was found by the Big Spring Fire Department.

Mass flooding reported throughout city, area

Staff reports

The Big Spring area today remained under a flash flood warning after tornado-bearing thunderstorms drenched the Crossroads Country with up to 3 inches of rain Tuesday night.

The National Weather Service in Midland issued the watch as rainfall continued through the morning Wednesday.

Low-lying areas in Howard County were immersed in torrents of water Tuesday night after two lines of thunderstorms roared in from the Southwest, pelting the area with driving rain and pea-sized hail.

Area rainfall reports ranged from 2.75 inches reported on Wasson Road to eight-tenths of an inch in Stanton.

Big Spring received 2.36 inches of rain yesterday and last night, according to the U.S. Big Spring Field Station. This brings the total rainfall of 11.25 inches to almost 5 inches above the normal 6.57 inches for the year.

The weather service said a 60 percent chance of rain remained in the area forecast for today and tonight, with a probability of more heavy thunderstorms.

Lightning, which splashed the sky with brilliant flashes, also caused problems with electric service.

Hopper Sanders, division manager of Texas Electric Service Co. in Big Spring, said TESCO received a report of power outages about 9:35 p.m. on Long Shore Road off of the Garden City Highway.

"We had some lines down. It took about three hours to replace them," Sanders said. About 400 residents in that area were affected by the power shortage, Sanders said. He said TESCO also responded to a fuse problem in the Coahoma area that affected about 90 homes from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

"One reason we didn't get customers on sooner was that we had scattered problems throughout our division," Sanders said.

He said that TESCO in Big Spring had a crew of 10 persons responding to calls.

Former resident pleads cause for Afghan rebels

Staff and bureau reports

WASHINGTON — Afghanistan, the scene of famine and fighting since the 1979 invasion by the Soviet Union, will become "another Ethiopia" without additional U.S. aid for the Afghan resistance movement, said a San Angelo physician who recently visited the country.

"These people (the Afghan rebels) are starving," said Dr. J. Preston Darby, a San Angelo physician who just returned from a three-month tour with a faction of the resistance movement. "Unless they get some help, Afghanistan will parallel Ethiopia."

Darby is a former Big Spring resident. On Tuesday he began relating secret military information and eyewitness accounts of conditions in Afghanistan to Congressmen in Washington, D.C., as he opened a three-day visit to the

Capitol

Darby spent two months setting up medical clinics in Afghanistan, a country in Western Asia where natives are fighting a bitter guerrilla war against occupying Soviet Union troops.

Darby, 54, practiced in Big Spring at the Malone and Hogan Clinic from 1964 to 1969, retired clinic administrator R.L. Heith said.

Now, Darby is working to arouse American sympathizers for the Afghans. After debriefing from the State Department, Darby said he is ready to discuss the atrocities in Afghanistan to encourage people to help refugees from the war-torn nation.

He traveled to Afghanistan after an article in a medical newspaper led him to Dr. Robert Simon, a California physician who started a non-profit organization that sponsors volunteer doctors on three-month missions to the country. Darby had intended to stay for one month because his wife, Pam, was pregnant. Because of the difficulty of getting into Afghanistan, however, his trip lasted two months. Darby is scheduled for an interview on Voice of America, which will be translated into Persian and broadcast in Afghanistan, he said. The doctor also may meet with Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, and other congressmen.

Karen McKay, executive director of the Committee for a Free Afghanistan, is arranging the interviews, Darby said. She also is trying to schedule him on "Good Morning America" and other news shows.

After leaving Washington Wednesday, Darby will travel to Sacramento, Calif., for a fundraising banquet. At the banquet, a documentary depicting Darby's work, filmed by TV newsmen Stan Atkinson from KCRA-TV in Sacramento, will be shown.

Coahoma residents take shelter in tunnel

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Residents here ran for cover Tuesday night when thick clouds, heavy rains and high winds blew into the community.

Although early reports indicated a tornado had been sighted in the Coahoma area, weather-spotters later reported that what appeared to be a tornado was actually a low-lying cloud.

Don Wilson, a member of the Coahoma volunteer fire department, said he saw what looked like a tornado Tuesday night.

Wilson's report coincided with an early report from the Department of Public Safety.

"I could see it in the lightning," Wilson said. He explained that what he saw "appeared to be a cloud trailing back." Wilson said, "I had no way to confirm it without getting close. I really didn't want to get too close."

Wilson said he saw the frightening cloud northwest of the city a little after 9 p.m. By 10 p.m. the cloud bank had passed over the city. Wilson and several other Coahoma residents were watching a heavy downpour of rain from the Town and Country on First Street around 10 p.m.

About three dozen other residents took shelter in an underground facility at Coahoma Elementary School. Jerry Doyle, superintendent of the Coahoma school district, said, "When the new elementary school was built in 1982, it included several underground tunnels designed for several purposes."

The tunnels were built to provide passage to the main cafeteria during bad weather, Doyle said. The tunnel also is a place of refuge in case of threatening weather. The tunnel is large enough "to hold all 1,000 kids" in the Coahoma district, Doyle said.

The entrance to the tunnel is opened when school is closed if threatening weather approaches, Doyle said. Doyle said when the DPS reported seeing a tornado a decision was made to open up the facility.

Coahoma has no warning system, and word of serious weather is usually passed "by general word of mouth," Doyle said. Doyle said principals received several calls from worried residents, and the decision was made to open the facility based on that and on the DPS sighting.

Although no damage was reported, a number of drivers trying to make their way through flooded streets had to take cover and wait out the heavy rainfall.

"We had a good rain," Doyle said. Reports ranged from about 1.5 inches of rain to almost 2 inches. "We didn't get any hail that I know of," Doyle said.

Sirens sounded after funnel cloud spotted

By CAROL BALDWIN

Warning sirens in the city were set off Tuesday night after a tornado was sighted, but city officials are not sure if all of the sirens were operating properly.

Larry Miller called the Big Spring Police Department to ask that the sirens be switched on. He was acting in the absence of Hal Boyd, who was out of town during the storm. Boyd is in charge of civil defense in Big Spring and Miller is second in command during Boyd's absence.

Although many Big Spring residents heard the warning sirens, others around the city reported that they did not hear any type of warning. Tom Decell, director of public works for the city, said he was not sure if all sirens in the city were operating properly.

"I was not involved in that," Decell said. "I heard the sirens were turned on, but I've gotten no reports of who heard them," Decell said.

Any reports of sirens not operating properly should be turned in to emergency management crews, Decell said.

Miller was in the Coahoma area when he stopped and made a call to Big Spring, requesting that the sirens be turned on. "I was way past Coahoma...and I saw a tornado," Miller said.

Janie Edwards, a dispatcher for the Big Spring Police Department, said Miller called about 9:20 p.m. His call was relayed to the Big Spring Central Fire Department and a switch triggering the sirens was flipped there.

A resident whose home sustained heavy damage during high winds Tuesday night said he heard the warning sirens for about three minutes. The sirens then went off and the resident's home was hit shortly thereafter.

Miller said the sirens are not designed to stay on indefinitely during periods of violent weather. He said it is normal procedure to sound the sirens for three to five minutes.

The sirens are an indication that residents "should take cover," Miller said. When the siren cuts off, that is not a sign that the weather has cleared, Miller said.

Sheriff

Judge places 4 on probation

District Court Judge James Gregg placed four men on probation Tuesday afternoon after each person pleaded guilty to their charges.

David Martin Polendo, 17, of 2511 Gunter pleaded guilty to burglary of an automobile. He was sentenced to five years probation and released. His forgery charge was dropped.

Victor Morales Toca, 32, of El Paso pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana over four ounces. He was sentenced to six years probation and released.

Camilo Marquez Dominguez Aponte, 48, of La Cross, Wis. pleaded guilty to a charge of marijuana over four ounces. He was sentenced to six years probation. He was also required to pay court costs and attorney fees.

Jose Hernandez, 20, of Odessa pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana over four ounces charge. He was sentenced to six years probation and released. His unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charge was dropped.

Mitchell County sheriff's deputies arrested Guadalupe Corona, 44, of Colorado City on a Howard County warrant charging her with revocation of probation. She was released on $1,000 bond.

Big Spring Police transferred Juan Earl Williams Jr., 19, of 1502 Bluebird to county jail after he was charged with theft over $20 and under $750. He was released on $5,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

PD has suspect in robbery

Police have a suspect in a robbery Tuesday evening of a Big Spring man, but have not made an arrest, according to Capt. Lonnie Smith.

Clarence King of 704 E. Third told police a lone man forced him to hand over $500 in cash at 6:30 p.m. in his home, according to police reports.

Burglars took stereo equipment valued at $350 Monday night, Nguyen Nam of 1108 1/2 Runnels told police Tuesday.

Taken were a stereo, valued at $150; a 10-band stereo, valued at $200; 12 albums, valued at $85; and $24 in food, including a case of beer and two liter bottles of soft drinks. The burglary occurred between 10:30 p.m. Monday and 7:20 a.m. Tuesday.

Debra Sizenbach of 1603 E. 16th told police someone stole her orange 1979 Kawasaki dirt bike, valued at $250, between 5 p.m. Monday and 11:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Police Tuesday morning arrested Juan Earl Williams, 19, of 1502 Bluebird at the police department on a warrant for theft of more than $200 and less than $750.

Jeff Carnell of 3227 Drexel told police that someone threw a rock at his navy blue Buick LeSabre, damaging the left front quarter panel. The damage occurred at 12:20 p.m. Tuesday when the car was in the 900 block of Golias.

became the first American doctor to meet Ahmad Shah Massoud, the key military commander of the rebels. In discussions with Massoud, Darby said he learned about the types of bombs used by the Russians, their methods of fighting and the weapons used against the Afghans.

Darby made his remarks at a Tuesday press conference sponsored by Reps. Barney Frank, D-Mass., and Don Ritter, R-Pa., and the Committee for a Free Afghanistan, a Washington-based organization seeking U.S. support for the anti-Soviet rebels.

The group contended that the Soviet Union has initiated a major new offensive to win the war. The Soviets, which now have approximately 150,000 troops in Afghanistan, have recently resorted to chemical warfare and the indoctrination of Afghan citizens into the Red Army, the group said.

"The war in Afghanistan has taken a turn for the worse," Ritter told reporters. "The genocide by the Soviets has accelerated."

Mohammed Es'Haq, a deputy to Afghan resistance leader Ahmed Shad Massoud, urged the U.S. government to approve funds for his movement, saying it may be its only chance of survival.

"It has reached a critical point," he said. "No matter what sacrifice is needed, we are ready to give it." Darby, a member of the International Medical Corp, a Los Angeles-based organization established to treat Afghan rebels, has helped organize two medical clinics during his visits to the war-torn country.

Darby said he nearly lost his life during the last tour.

"I almost starved to death," Darby said. "I lost 35 pounds. We went one month on nothing but tea and cornbread. These people have nothing."

Although the Central Intelligence Agency reportedly has funneled millions of dollars in supplies, Darby said there is no evidence that they have reached the rebels.

throughout the night. Several rural areas throughout Howard County experienced power outages in last night's rain storm.

A spokesman at Cap Rock Electric Co-op in Stanton said maintenance crews were out all night rearing power.

Major outages were experienced in Lomax, where three power poles were knocked by high winds. Stanton also reported two poles knocked down.

Power breakers were knocked out in Midkiff and areas south of Stanton.

Telephone service throughout the area was unaffected by the storm. Eddie Saenz, a test center supervisor with Southwestern Bell in Midland, said the phone company had crewmen working through the night.

"We didn't receive any severe damage reports, though," Saenz said.

Those who were dispatched, Saenz said, were responding to calls that reported heavy static on the line. "We had wet cables all around the town (Big Spring) due to the heavy electric storms and rains," Saenz said.

The phone company's central office in Big Spring has an automatic backup system for power shortages, Saenz said.

Big Spring radio stations reported no transmitting disruptions during last night's storm.

Rain reports varied widely across the county:

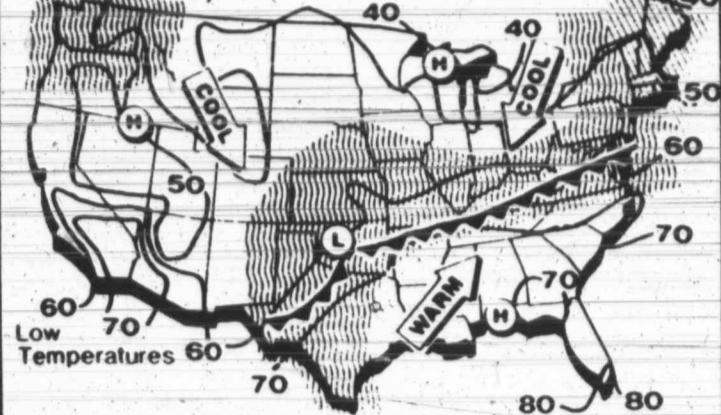

• Boyce Hale of Sterling City in Route in Big Spring said he received 2.75 inches of rain by 9 a.m. this morning.

• Tommy Hart of 1750 Purdue received 2.2 inches of rainfall at his home.

• In Forsan, O.W. Scudday said he received 2 inches as of 8:45 this morning with rain continuing to fall.

State

Heavy thunderstorms dumped as much as nine inches of rainfall in portions of West Texas, causing flash flooding across a wide area.

The heaviest rainfall was at Sudan, where nine inches fell between 7 p.m. Tuesday and dawn today. Elsewhere rainfall amounts included about two inches at Wichita Falls and about one-half inch at Lubbock, Amarillo and Abilene.

Flash flood warnings were issued during the night for several counties in the South Plains, including Lubbock County. A flash flood watch was in effect today for much of West Texas and western portions of North Texas.

The showers and thunderstorms were being triggered by an upper level low pressure system over New Mexico that was slowly moving eastward towards Texas.

Thunderstorms were widespread from the Panhandle southward through the South Plains and Permian Basin to the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas. The thunderstorms extended eastward into western portions of North Central Texas. Scattered showers are being reported early today along the middle Texas coast and in South Central Texas.

Forecasts called for showers and thunderstorms across most of the state today, more numerous in West Texas. Highs were to be mostly in the 70s and 80s, ranging from the 60s in the Panhandle to near 103 in the Big Bend area.

Local

Today's forecast calls for a 60 percent chance of rain. The highs will be in the mid 70s with the lows falling into the 60s tonight. Tomorrow highs should reach the mid 80s.

Marquez not sentenced yet

LUBBOCK — The sentencing date for Robert "Bobby" Marquez, 39, of Gail Route, who pleaded guilty Tuesday to a federal drug charge, has not been set yet, according to U.S. Attorney Dick Baker.

The Big Spring Herald incorrectly reported in Tuesday's paper that Marquez was sentenced.

Marquez pleaded guilty in federal district court in Lubbock to a charge of distribution of 6 ounces of cocaine Jan. 26 to a federal undercover agent, Baker said.

Marquez faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a fine of $125,000.

In exchange for the guilty plea, three other pending charges against Marquez were dropped, Baker said. Dropped were federal charges of a second count of distribution of cocaine, perjury and conspiracy to distribute cocaine, he said.

A pre-sentencing report on Marquez is being prepared before he is sentenced by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward, Baker said. Marquez had been on federal parole for a seven-year sentence on a felony conviction for possession of marijuana.

Deaths

A new comet in the skies

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Not many backyard stargazers ever find much of interest to anyone but themselves. But scientists say Donald Machholz, using a cardboard telescope, discovered a new comet, the second such find for the assembly line worker.

Actually, two comets he discovered have been named after the amateur astronomer. The latest, Machholz 1985-e, was formally recognized last week by the Central Bureau for Astronomical Telegrams in Massachusetts.

In both sightings, Machholz, 32, used a homemade cardboard telescope. He says it has a wider aperture, 10 inches across, which affords a broader field of view than most commercial telescopes.

Through his lens, comets, composed of water, ice, dust, dirt, gases and chemicals, look like "dirty snowballs," he said.

"Illuminated by the stars, they appear as bright, fuzzy elements," he said. "I appreciate the beauty of that."

Battle against prayer

MOBILE, Ala. — A man who waged a legal battle to halt voluntary prayer in Alabama public schools said a U.S. Supreme Court ruling in his favor was a lesson in toleration although it was bound to stir up the "religious right."

Ishmael Jaffree, an agnostic whose three children attend public schools in Mobile, had challenged a 1981 state law that specified that school children pray during a period of silent meditation.

Jaffree said the decision Tuesday was a "giant step" by the court in saying "that in matters of religion on public schools, public officials are not authorized to tread."

In an interview Tuesday at his office at the Legal Services Corp., Jaffree, 41, described the case as a "lesson in toleration, a lesson that we have a country full of divergent views and different people with different ideologies."

Majority favor tax plan

NEW YORK — Three out of five Americans believe President Reagan's proposed tax revision plan would treat most people fairly, although two out of five also believe it will cost them more in taxes, according to a New York Times-CBS News poll released today.

The poll also found that the president's popularity has increased, with 59 percent of those surveyed approving of his job performance, up from 56 percent in May.

The latest New York Times-CBS poll, conducted in telephone interviews with 1,509 adults in the continental United States between May 29 and June 2, showed 60 percent thought the Reagan tax plan fair, with 29 percent opposed.

Chief executives of three corporations look over some papers prior to testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee on the impact of President Reagan's tax reform package. Meanwhile Reagan was touring the Southwest stumping for his proposals.

Tax reform rally

Reagan takes proposal on tour of Southwest

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — President Reagan carried his campaign for tax simplification to the Southwest today, saying the present tax system is so unfair it "has made our people sick at heart."

In remarks prepared for delivery to employees and families at an AT&T plant that makes computers and telephone switching equipment, Reagan said his proposal would bring "revolutionary change."

"All the way up and down the income scale, American families would have more resources to devote to your children, to pay for your homes, to put away for retirement and, perhaps, here in Oklahoma to buy a boat to use on Grand Lake or Lake Eufala," the president said.

"For too long, our tax code has discouraged us, not helped us," he said. "It has undermined work and cut into savings. Its unfairness has made our people sick at heart."

"What we're talking about is revolutionary change, a plan that is pro-growth, pro-family, pro-fairness and pro-future," Reagan declared.

On the eve of the president's trip, which included speeches at Republican fundraisers in three states over two days, a Senate Democratic leader accused

Reagan, who has asked Democrats to embrace his tax plan, of "preaching one thing and practicing another."

Sen. George Mitchell of Maine, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said Reagan's speeches at fund-raising events for Republican senators smacks of partisanship.

"The president is preaching one thing and practicing another," Mitchell said Tuesday. "In Washington, he is asking Democratic leaders for bipartisan support on his tax program. At the same time, his trips, which are billed as selling the tax program to the American people, are highly partisan. How can he ask for bipartisanship on the one hand and lead political pep rallies on the other?"

Mitchell, a member of the Finance Committee that considers tax legislation, said Republican incumbents in all three states, where Reagan's appearances are expected to reap an estimated $850,000, are regarded as vulnerable. So, he said, are GOP senators who appeared with Reagan at tax simplification rallies in Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Florida last week.

Mexico fires 427 agents

MEXICO CITY — The government says 427 federal security agents have been dismissed in a continuing campaign against police corruption.

The former director of the Federal Security Agency, roughly equivalent to the FBI in the United States, dropped his candidacy for a seat in the Chamber of Deputies last month and left the country.

The government said Tuesday no charges had been filed against Antonio Zorrilla Perez, who had directed the agency from January 1982 until he resigned March 1 to run for office on the ticket of the long-dominant Institutional Revolutionary Party.

The Federal Security Agency, which has an additional Secret Service-type role in addition to its law enforcement duties, has been the subject of scrutiny in the wake of revelations about narcotics trafficking here.

Enrique Camarena Salazar, an agent for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration in Guadalajara, was kidnapped in February and his brutally beaten body was found in March.

Battle in Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Heavy fighting between rebels and Somoza troops erupted Tuesday along the Nicaragua-Costa Rican border.

Meanwhile, Nicaragua proposed a demilitarized zone along the border. Costa Rica's foreign minister, Carlos Jose Gutierrez, said he had not received a formal proposal from Nicaragua but if he did, "it would be duly studied."

Public Security Minister Benjamin Piza, referring to border clashes between Costa Rican and Nicaraguan forces during the past week, said in reaction to the proposal: "After seeing the things that have happened in the past days, I would very much doubt the word of our neighbors to the north."

A statement issued by President Daniel Ortega's office late Monday said the demilitarized zone should be backed by the Contadora Group — Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama, with French collaboration.

Greece's welfare state

ATHENS, Greece — Premier Andreas Papandreu pledged today that his new, smaller Cabinet would fight bureaucracy and build an efficient welfare state in Greece during the Socialist's second term as head of the government.

"We have to work day and night to win the battle against bureaucracy, improve state-citizen relationships and fight for the welfare state that must be achieved," Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu told reporters after a 20-minute meeting of the new Cabinet.

Earlier, the head of the Greek Orthodox Church swore Papandreu, 66, and the 17 other members of the Cabinet into office following Sunday's decisive victory over the conservative New Democracy Party.

GM to buy Hughes Aircraft Co.

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. will buy aerospace giant Hughes Aircraft Co. from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute in a multibillion-dollar deal, GM sources said today.

General Motors, the nation's largest automaker, along with Ford Motor Co. and Boeing Co., had been considered the leading bidders in the competition which began Monday. Only Ford had announced making a bid.

Directors of the Hughes Medical Institute met into the evening in New York City on Tuesday to consider the bids and the GM sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the automaker had submitted the winning bid.

No prices were disclosed, but Hughes had been expected to bring between $4.5 billion and $6 billion, making it one of the costliest acquisitions ever outside the oil industry.

GM has more than $8 billion in cash and marketable securities on hand.

GM spokesman Donald Postma would not comment, but said that GM Chairman Roger B. Smith had scheduled a news conference today in New York City to discuss a "major development."

The merger would be the largest in GM history, eclipsing the $2.5

billion acquisition last fall of Electronic Data Systems Corp. of Dallas, a giant computer services company.

Trading in Ford stock was heavy Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange amid speculation that it might be the winner of the bidding. Nearly 4.1 million shares changed hands Tuesday, bringing the two-day total to 5.5 million.

Trading was light in GM and Boeing stock, and none of the three experienced a wide swing in value.

The Bethesda, Md.-based medical institute has been sole owner of Hughes Aircraft since industrialist Howard Hughes donated the company to the non-profit foundation in 1953. It put the company on the auction block in January.

Hughes Aircraft is the nation's foremost defense electronics concern and one of the world's biggest satellite builders.

Group preparing arms-control plan

Nixon, Muskie designing proposal to present to Soviet Union

CHICAGO (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon and former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie have spent months heading a secret, private group trying to work out a bipartisan arms-control plan that the United States can present to the Soviet Union, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

The newspaper said that, according to one source, Nixon and Muskie have been encouraged in their endeavor by President Reagan. Reagan was briefed by the group last year, the Tribune said.

Besides Nixon and Muskie, a former U.S. senator from Maine who sought the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination to oppose Nixon, the group includes former Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Alton Frye, who heads the Washington office of the Council on Foreign Relations, the Tribune said.

"There have been meetings among the people you mention concerning the whole area of Soviet-American relations, including arms control," said Frye, who reluctantly confirmed the group's existence when reached while on a business trip in New York, the Tribune said.

"But the nature of this effort has been to be helpful to a process which needs some help, and I don't think it would be helpful for me to go into detail."

Frye confirmed two reports from anonymous Democratic sources, the newspaper said. One was that the group's work is continuing, and the other is that members of the group briefed Reagan last year while he campaigned in New York for re-election.

A Republican source said he understood members of the group also talked to Reagan's 1984 Democratic opponent, Walter Mondale. But the newspaper quoted an unidentified Mondale campaign official as saying the group only briefed a Mondale aide.

The Tribune said group members were concerned during the campaign that Reagan might reveal the group's existence and his cooperation with it to deflect criticism by Democrats who charged Reagan was not concerned with arms control.

When Reagan did not disclose the group's existence, the newspaper's sources said, the four would-be peacemakers were not only relieved but also convinced Reagan wanted them to continue their work.

Terrorist tactics mock democracy

It was a scene cruelly symbolic of the self-inflicted wounds sustained by democracies. Rolling out of jail yards came buses packed with jubilant men flashing v-for-victory signs and shouting, "Tomorrow the freeing of Palestine!"

The world is saddened and shocked by Israel's exchange of 1,150 prisoners, including convicted terrorists, for three captured soldiers. This transfer mocks that nation's hard won "no negotiations" policy on terrorism and increases the likelihood of kidnapping and violence in the Middle East.

The humanitarian motive explicit in the exchange rate is dwarfed by the savagery implicit in the currency. At least 380 of the newly freed prisoners were serving life sentences for crimes involving the random murder of men, women and children. One free man is Kojo Okamoto, formerly a member of the Japanese Red Army squad that in 1972 killed 26 persons in a Tel Aviv airport. Two others freed were members of a Palestinian group that murdered 33 civilians in a 1978 bus attack.

Why, then, this madly unbalanced exchange? Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin doggedly assert the long-standing policy that no effort is spared in guaranteeing the lives of Israeli soldiers.

Yet, the transfer is also a product of the Israeli government's wrenching, psychological duress from "Peace for Galilee." By freeing the prisoners and regaining the POWs, Israel desperately seeks to disentangle itself from the misery in Lebanon. In addition, some observers assert the swap is the ultimate folly of what has been an evolving, defeatist policy of negotiating with terrorists.

Will terrorists now amass human capital for the purpose of future exchanges? By their sincere, though grossly grievous moral miscalculation, Israel has unloosed that question. Unloosed, too, a huge pack of marauders into the volatile Middle East. There are no neatly fashioned Bible quotations for Jerusalem's misguided mercy. We can only pray that Israel's action does not prove self-destructive.

Reagan's tax plan feels political pains

During his nationally televised speech on tax reform, President Reagan paused to offer some fatherly advice: "To young Americans wondering tonight, where will I go, what will I do with my future, I have a suggestion: Why not set out with your friends on the path of adventure and try to start up your own business?" I've got another tip: Don't become a tax lawyer.

The president's proposal, after all, is intended to make that profession as obsolete as the mule-skinners. Probably the most enticing feature of the entire package was his promise that more than half of all taxpayers wouldn't ever have to fill out another return. I might be willing to endure higher tax rates for that act of mercy. Reagan is offering lower ones.

He is also proposing a greatly simplified tax code that moves far toward the goal of neutrality — encouraging the economy to function as it would in the absence of taxes. Individuals and corporations would be induced to make economic decisions more on the basis of their market return and less on the basis of tax considerations.

That would be a powerful stimulus to efficiency and production. A study by the American Enterprise Institute calculated that the original Treasury tax reform plan would yield efficiency gains of $413 billion over time.

Unfortunately, this is not the original Treasury plan. All sorts of political pressures have pushed the administration's final version into a less attractive shape. Those alterations are not a reason to forgo this historic chance to overhaul the tax code, but neither should they be excused.

Reagan retreated on several important provisions. On the individual side, he decided not to tax most fringe benefits, which are merely income in disguise. The employer contribution to medical insurance would have been taxed above a certain level, encouraging basic protection without subsidizing gold-plated policies. Reagan's plan taxes only the first $10 for individuals and $25 for families — which gets the incentives precisely backwards.

He also succumbed to the demand to continue special treatment of capital gains, instead of sticking with Treasury's level-headed insistence on taxing all real gains — excluding illusory gains caused by inflation — as ordinary income.

He scotched up the worthy idea of allowing corporations to deduct half of their dividends, which would ease the double tax on this type of income. He refused to give up accelerated depreciation, thus inducing overinvestment in capital, though he mitigated the damage by proposing to kill the investment tax credit.

Reagan also caved in to the oil industry. While sternly denouncing the percentage depletion allowance, he agreed to keep it for small wells, as if they are somehow innately noble. He overruled the original Treasury proposal by keeping the notorious tax breaks for intangible drilling expenses. The industry would have been wiser to trade these for a repeal of the punitive windfall profits tax.

But the president showed surprising courage on other fronts. Scrapping the deduction for state and local taxes won't be popular in some places, but there is no reason Illinoisans should help New Yorkers pay their high taxes. Limiting business entertainment expenses, though it may strike the country-club set as ingratitude, is only fair.

This package is far from perfect. It could be improved most by a lower top rate, say 30 percent instead of 35, which would ease the pain of the change on state and local taxes. Measures to lighten the marginal tax burden inflicted by Social Security taxes on middle-income workers would also be welcome.

Still, Reagan's proposal is a big improvement over the status quo, elevating simplicity over complexity and neutrality over presumptuous economic tinkering. Its enactment would not inaugurate "freedom's finest hour," as the president expansively predicted.

Walesa's battle is against oppression, not for capitalism

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — We in America do not have, nor need we rely upon, a moral giant comparable to the Polish patriot Lech Walesa. In our historic good fortune, we have evolved entire institutions — opposition parties, dissenting newspapers, independent trade unions — to undertake the mission that in a tyranny falls to the lonely genius and hero.

What is this mission? To give the people an alternative to official rule, a rival account of reality, an unauthorized stimulus to action or resistance.

But in communist Poland, Walesa is fighting a mortal battle for the right to protest. The police follow him wherever he goes. "We go fishing and picking mushrooms together," he told us wryly. "They are always with me."

When Walesa has private business, of course, he gives them the slip. "If I have to escape, I do," he said. But he doesn't like to get them in trouble with their superiors.

"My last escape they liked very much," he recalled. "I managed to run away in the midst of transferring me from the shipyard guards to the police outside of the shipyards." The authorities didn't know whom to blame. "They all blamed each other," he said. "Everybody was satisfied afterward."

We applied twice for permission to visit Poland and speak to Walesa. The Polish government turned us down both times. So we arranged with the underground for movie producer Ralph Andrews to meet Walesa and get the rights to film the Walesa story. Andrews brought along a set of questions from us.

In response, Walesa spoke boldly. His struggle with the government, he said, "is a continuous fight." As he sees it, "the right and the truth is on our side. On the other hand, there might be some rights on their side, too, but we are not informed enough to know. For our country's good, we should sit down at the table to see what is possible, what is not and even see who is right."

He predicted that his Solidarity labor movement would survive, in any case, "for at least 40 or 50 years. But our inefficient economy will not last for that period of time."

He is looking, he said, "for a better way, a new Polish way." He is critical of the American way. "You have so much," he said. "It is time to have a look at your internal needs."

Still, he would prefer the American system to the communist system. "Let's say capitalism does not have as many pretty slogans, but looking inside you can see more for people," he said. "Our system has pretty slogans and beautiful programs but without any real fulfillment."

He hinted that U.S. aid only strengthens the communist apparatus. "You have to question if your help does any good" for the people, who may "get strangled by all this help," he said. He pointed out that "we do not always have control over distribution" and warned, "One who is helping should take responsibilities for all consequences of one's help."

Despite the danger, Walesa has no intention of fleeing Poland. "One would need a heavy crane to pull me out of Poland," he said. Meanwhile, he intends to continue the struggle. "I know that for 100 years of my life, I will have a lot of troubles and problems," he said. "But looking optimistically, it will not be more than 100 years."

If he should find peace ahead of that time, what would he do? "If I had a lot of money," he reflected, "I would buy a car and go from village to village, from town to town, talking with the wise men."

Footnote: We recently received a letter from Solidarity leader Adam Michnik, smuggled out of prison. He and two colleagues face five-year sentences for disturbing the peace and engaging in union activity. Michnik informs us that the only evidence against them is a doctored tape recording. Their prosecution, he writes, "bears all the characteristics of a crudely plotted political provocation." Michnik urges Western lawyers, writers, union leaders, scientists and human rights advocates to attend their trial. "Your presence might be decisive to our fate," he writes.

THE OMBUDSMAN: Don Hodge, a Vietnam veteran in Boise, Idaho, asked for our help with the Veterans Administration, which had nixed his VA mortgage application on grounds that he hadn't served the required 90 days in Vietnam. In fact, Hodge told us, his record clearly shows that he served seven months there, more than twice the necessary time. We called the VA loan office in Boise, and they acknowledged their error. A loan package and an apology were soon on their way to Hodge.

Heroin sticks D.C. smack in the arm

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the shadow of the federal government, where the nation's top law enforcement officials work to combat drug trafficking around the world, the purest, strongest heroin in the country is readily available to the city's 15,000 addicts.

"If you want to buy heroin, you go where it's easy to get," said Lt. Hugh Irwin, commander of the U.S. Park Police narcotics branch. "And everybody knows it's easy to get in D.C."

The strong heroin is killing more people than ever — nine over one weekend in March and three in one night in May. Street sales are growing despite a massive police crackdown and concern by Washington officials that the city is getting an image as the heroin capital of the world.

"Some parts of this city ought to be declared a disaster area," said Calvin Lockridge, a member of the school board from Anacostia, the poorest section of the city. "It's destroying the fiber of the community. We've got areas where there are 200, 300 addicts standing on the streets."

District Police Chief Maurice Turner recently told Congress that $190 million in heroin, which he called a conservative estimate, changes hands in the district each year and that 16,000 arrests for drug violations over the last two years have "not had an impact on the problem."

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who chairs the House Select Committee on Narcotics, said at a recent hearing, "What I don't understand is how ... in this small city, by New York's standards, that we have given communities over to the drug pusher and say we are doing a great job."

Turner and others said part of the problem results from what is perceived as relatively light sentencing for drug-related offenses. Dealers believe "D.C. is lenient and you don't have to do time," Turner said.

Irwin, of the park police, said officers from his force recently arrested a man with 70 bags of heroin worth some $2,800 and $14,160 cash. "He got five years probation, and he's a major heroin distributor," he said.

"In Virginia and Maryland, dope peddlers know they're going to get heavy time," said Carl Jackson, special agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration's Washington field office. "Sentencing in D.C. is not that even. It sends a message that this might be the place to come and try things because you might not be treated as harshly."

The U.S. attorney for the district, Joseph E. diGenova, told a congressional hearing recently that although his office has been disappointed in some cases, drug sentences handed down by federal judges in Washington are "a lot longer than they have ever been."

The District of Columbia had just seven overdose deaths in 1978. A total of 140 deaths were attributed to heroin last year; there were 71 heroin-related deaths by May 21 this year. There also were 69 deaths attributed to the hallucinogen PCP in 1984.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, June 5, the 156th day of 1985. There are 209 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On June 5, 1968, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot and mortally wounded in Los Angeles after claiming victory in California's Democratic presidential primary. He died the following day.

On this date:
In 1783, Joseph and Jacques Montgolfier publicly demonstrated their hot air balloon in a 10-minute flight over Annonay, France.

In 1917, about 10 million American men began registering for the draft in World War I.

In 1933, the United States went off the gold standard.

In 1940, the Battle of France began during World War II.

In 1947, Secretary of State George C. Marshall gave a speech at Harvard University outlining a program of aid for Europe that would become known as The Marshall Plan.

In 1967, the Six-Day War between Israel and its Arab neighbors began.

Ten years ago: Egypt reopened the Suez Canal to international shipping, exactly eight years after it was closed because of the Six-Day War with Israel.

Five years ago: With the United States abstaining, the U.N. Security Council voted to condemn Israel for failing to protect Arabs in the West Bank. The vote came three days after bomb attacks blamed on Jewish extremists seriously wounded two Arab mayors.

One year ago: Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale won the New Jersey and West Virginia primaries, while Gary Hart took California, New Mexico and South Dakota. The next day, Mondale claimed victory in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Robert Lansing is 56. Broadcast journalist Bill Moyers is 51.

Thought for Today: "Conventional people are roused to fury by departure from convention, largely because they regard such departure as a criticism of themselves." — Bertrand A. Russell.

Angeles County, with a population of 7.7 million, 224 overdose deaths involving heroin were reported in 1984. The latest figures from New York City, with 7 million people, showed 598 "drug dependent" deaths in 1983.

Washington's population is only 638,000. Washington police say one explanation for the deaths is that heroin here is consistently stronger than anywhere else in the country.

"For whatever reason, we've got a lot more dying going on here than anywhere else in the country," said Capt. James Nestor, head of the metropolitan police narcotics branch.

While heroin of about 2 percent purity is sold on the streets of other cities, Nestor said addicts in Washington can easily get the drug at purity rates of 6 percent to 7 percent. He says undercover officers recently bought packages on the street that were 14 percent heroin.

"We've bought it stronger, but we assume that this was for use, not cutting," he said. "That would kill you right away; soon as you shoot, you die."

The metropolitan police have 250 to 280 officers assigned full time to drug cases. Other officers from the U.S. Park Police, the Drug Enforcement Administration and Fairfax and Arlington counties in Virginia and Prince George's and Montgomery counties in Maryland make up a formidable anti-drug force.

But suburban police chiefs said they devote only about 10 officers each to full-time drug investigations. That doesn't help to solve what is really a regional problem, say police officers in Washington.

"Every city on the East Coast is a major hub for drugs, Washington is no different," said diGenova. "It just so happens that heroin is the drug of choice here."

Dear Abby

Soldier's papers become troubling legacy

DEAR ABBY: Before his death some 15 years ago, a friend of mine showed me some identification papers he took from the body of a German soldier he had killed shortly before the end of the war. He said that for years he had felt guilty for having consigned another soldier — even an enemy — to an unknown grave. He asked me to translate the papers and forward the information to the German authorities so the soldier's family would have definite information about his death. With my meager high school knowledge of German, I translated the information and promised to forward it to the proper authorities.

I delayed doing the task, stored the papers away and forgot about them. I came across them recently, and I'm wondering if, at this late date, I should do something about the matter. I feel strange to be the only person in the world to know the final saga of a dead soldier whose family must still be wondering about his fate.

I decided to ask your advice. After all these years, would it be better to withhold this information and let the survivors alone in the resignation they have probably achieved by now? Would I open old wounds by forwarding the papers? Or if I should reveal the information, whom shall I contact?

I will be grateful for your advice and abide by it.

V.H., SANTA FE, N.M.
DEAR V.H.: The families of soldiers missing in action never forget. I assure you they would be thrilled to have this information. Enemy or ally, that soldier was somebody's son, brother, husband, lover or father. Please write to: Bundesarchiv - Zentralnachweisstelle, 5000100 Aachen, Kornelmuenster, Abteistr. 6, West Germany.

DEAR ABBY: "No Names, Please" complained because her parents and her husband's never offered to keep the grandchildren so they (the parents) could get a little rest.

Well, we are grandparents who have been denied the pleasure of having our grandchildren

Music sessions to be given during July

Two sessions of the Fort Worth Suzuki Institute and Teachers' Workshop will be conducted in July. The workshop is sponsored by Texas Christian University's Department of Music and Division of Continuing Education.

The main session for violin, cello and piano will be July 15-19, followed on July 22-26 by a second piano session. Both will be on the TCU campus, with dormitory facilities available.

Under the director of Dr. Jeff Cox, associate professor of strings at TCU, the Suzuki session will be conducted by 29 faculty members from Nebraska, Colorado, Kentucky, Texas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Florida, Tennessee, Illinois, Connecticut, New York, Washington and from Israel and Japan. Gwen Runyon of Fort Worth is assistant director.

Activities will include private lessons for students, group instruction, specialty classes, solo recitals, orchestra, theory and parent sessions as well as the teacher development program. Final solo recitals will be presented July 19, followed by the grand recital at 6:30 p.m., all in TCU's Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Applications may be requested from the TCU Division of Continuing Education, Box 32927, Fort Worth, Tx. 76129. Fees are due by June 15. The institute is approved by the Suzuki Association of the Americas.

Earrings easily lost when living out of suitcase

Tiny earrings for pierced ears are easily lost when you're travelling and living out of a suitcase. To save yourself from aggravation, here's a tip from Family Circle magazine: Poke your earrings through the lining pocket inside the lid of your travel bag or case. Not only will they stay put, they will be easy to spot when it's necessary to make a quick change.

overnight. Why? The parents say we "spoil" the children because we let them eat, drink and do whatever they want. We also let them stay up late to watch TV. We're told: "It takes a lot of hard work on our part to undo all the harm you do when you keep the kids overnight."

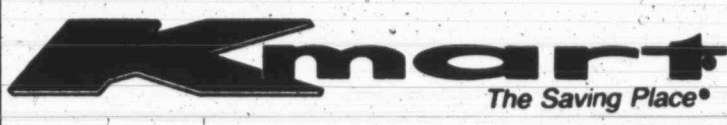

Abby, isn't it a grandparent's right to spoil a little one?

DOTING GRANDMA
DEAR DOTING: In a word, Grandma, no.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your letter about unwanted summer guests: My husband and I resolved a similar situation when we built our swimming pool.

We put in a flagpole and sent beautiful announcements to inform our friends and relatives that we had built a swimming pool. We added that when the flag was flying, they were welcome, but when the flag was down, they were not. The flag was placed where it could be seen by those approaching our home. This system has worked perfectly for 21 years. J.L.R.

Bright colors update wardrobe

What can you do to easily and inexpensively update last summer's wardrobe? Look on the bright side: Bright colors are everywhere — from blazing Hawaiian shirts to eye shadows in tropical hues, says Family Circle.

If you're a bit overwhelmed by the spectrum of brights, start with accessories.

Good combos: bold earrings and a belt; a vivid necklace and shoes.

• Pair brights with white, black, navy or gray; solid brights; graphic prints. Tip: Choose accessories that pick up one of the colors in a splashy print.

• Avoid bright accessories with khaki or pastels — they overpower the clothes.

• Accent clothes with one or two color bursts.

Working women need a vacation

COLLEGE STATION — Many of the women who most need a vacation are least likely to have one, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

"Women who work full-time jobs and then come home to cook, keep house, sew and play chauffeur, often with little help from other family members, have the equivalent of two full-time jobs, says family life specialist Diane T. Welch.

These women may be in a double bind at vacation time, she says. Some tend to save up chores like sewing, house-cleaning, gardening or house painting to do on their vacation time.

Others may continue to carry the burden of house-cleaning, cooking and other tasks while the family vacations in a camper, cabin or condo. The surrounding may change, but the work doesn't.

Employed women who "vacation" in this manner are getting no vacation at all, says the specialist. "They return to work exhausted, but in a different way."

When vacation time comes around, employed women should have a plan for using the time for self-renewal, she says. "Plan some time to relax completely when you do absolutely nothing and to do some activities just for enjoyment," Welch says.

Everyone — especially busy working women — need some true leisure time on vacation in order to go back to work renewed and refreshed, she said.

Dr. Donohue

Cirrhosis not always from alcohol

(I received a letter from the American Liver Foundation in response to a recent item on liver cirrhosis. I am glad to print excerpts.)

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: As a physician you are aware that alcohol is not implicated in all cases of cirrhosis. Unfortunately, the general public does believe mistakenly, that only those who drink a lot are prone to cirrhosis. This is a misconception that the American Liver Foundation is laboring to correct because thousands of people, including young children, suffer from hereditary and acquired liver diseases that also cause cirrhosis. They also suffer from the label, "alcoholic," that the myth has affixed to them.

Your column has great influence on the health of your readers. If you could correct the above mentioned and other common but mistaken notions your readers may have about liver disease you could accomplish so much. I am enclosing samples of a few of the information leaflets we send to thousands of people, including diseases. Thank you for your cooperation. — J.L. Boyer, M.D.

I have made this point on several occasions over the years. I regret failing to have repeated it in my most recent reference to liver cirrhosis. I am surprised I neglected to do this, for it's a sore point with me, too. I emphasize how rash and unfair it is to leap to the conclusion that all cirrhosis comes from alcohol. And I do want the public to realize, as you point out in your letter, how erroneous that assumption is. I read your fine literature and can recommend it to my readers. The address of the American Liver Foundation is: 998 Pompton Ave., Cedar Grove, N.J. 07009.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My oldest daughter, who is 44, is going to go on a crash diet. I have tried to vain to discourage it. I said I'd write to you and see what you had to say about crash diets. She places some store in what you write. — Mrs. O.V.

Object to any diet that does not provide basic nutrition. I refer not only to minimum calorie needs, but of the need for all the vitamins and many trace elements found in food. Unless the food variety in the diet supplies that, the person should forget it or seek expert advice on how to get all those substances supplementally.

It is true that the person doesn't really require a great number of calories to get all those substances — if, and it is a big if, he is getting the variety of food necessary. I am, therefore, opposed to the "tea and toast" kinds of diets sometimes falling into the crash category. Also, a crash diet can be so severely limiting in volume that, even if it included the necessary food variety, it would still fail to supply the proper amounts of vitamins and trace elements.

So what your daughter has to determine is if this diet answers all these basic nutrition demands. Beyond this, crash dieting by its very nature is usually unsound from a practical standpoint. Weight lost is quickly regained, and along with fat loss there usually is muscle loss. All in all, I do not recommend crash dieting even in the best of circumstances.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What does high iron in the liver mean? What causes it? What's the treatment for it? — G.T.

I can give you two causes for high liver iron. One is hemochromatosis, where a defect in body regulation of iron absorption permits accumulation in the liver and other organs. Treatment for that is periodic removal of blood. And in some forms of alcohol-induced liver disease, there's too much iron in the liver. Treatment for that is abstinence from alcohol.

FOR R.U. — Discourage your children from playing with backyard raccoons. Children have died from infestation with a roundworm found in raccoons. The American Veterinary Medical Association has warned parents about the threat. As many as 80 percent of raccoons may contain the parasite involved — Baylisascaris.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cauble loses controlling interest in bank

DENTON (AP) — In what was called the largest forfeiture under federal racketeering laws, a federal prosecutor said Tuesday that the government has gained controlling interest in Western State Bank and the two Cutter Bill Western Wear stores from convicted millionaire rancher Rex Cauble.

At a news conference in Denton, U.S. Attorney Robert Wortham of Beaumont said the federal government will receive the controlling interest of the bank and the stores debt free. One of the stores is in Dallas and the other is in Houston.

According to the Department of Justice's Asset Forfeiture Division, the settlement marks the largest forfeiture in the United States under the Racketeering Influence and Corrupt Organizations Act. The bank in December listed assets of $29.2 million.

The government gets 87 percent of the Denton bank's stock, previously owned by Cauble, his wife and son.

A Dec. 5 deadline has been given for the stores to vacate the buildings. The buildings will be leased by the government, Wortham said.

The Dallas store already has announced it would close its doors on June 8. Store president Steve Mallow recently said the closing was a business decision.

A closing date for the Houston store has not been announced.

The federal government will hold on to the bank and appoint a board of directors, Wortham said. The government hopes to eventually sell the bank to local investors, he said.

A year ago, Cauble went to prison for masterminding one of Texas' largest drug-smuggling schemes. The 71-year-old millionaire was convicted in 1982 of violating federal racketeering and banking laws.

Cauble was sentenced to five years in prison. He also was ordered to forfeit almost one-third interest in Cauble Enterprises — a three-way partnership valued at more than $80 million.

For more than three years, lawyers have been wrangling over how to carve up Cauble's 31 percent share of the partnership. The company's other two partners are his wife and son.

Defense lawyers have been contending that the government can't split the company up.

Man hospitalized after accident

A 23-year-old Big Spring man remains in Malone-Hogan Hospital today after a motorcycle accident Tuesday evening on FM 700 near the Scenic Mountain entrance.

Cody DeWayne Carroll, 23, of 408 Donley is in "good" condition today, according to a hospital spokesman. Carroll was admitted Tuesday with a broken right collarbone, a broken right wrist and multiple abrasions, the spokesman said.

The single-vehicle accident occurred at 6:55 p.m. in the 900 block of W. FM 700, about 200 feet northwest of Wasson Road, according to the accident report.

Carroll was traveling west on FM 700 in his 1981 black Yamaha 850 motorcycle, according to the police report. He struck gravel on the roadway and lost control, then struck a cement median and overturned, finally landing on the east side of the road.

The motorcycle also struck a reflector pole one foot from the curb and flattened it, the report stated.

Salvation Army fund tops goal

By LISA MUSSER Staff Writer

The local Salvation Army's "Light of Hope" campaign has gone over its $763,000 goal, according to local fundraisers.

The goal was met with a $50,000 gift given by the Dora Roberts Foundation. Money raised during the campaign will be used to renovate current facilities and to build an addition to the Salvation Army headquarters, G.C. Broughton, chairman of the Pacesetter Division, said.

Fund raising committees led by community leaders and supporters of the Salvation Army have raised $763,340 since the beginning of April.

Money raised included more than $400,000 from local residents. "This shows Big Spring is not dead. We're still a vibrant community," he said.

The remainder of the money has come from the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, the Meadows Foundation of Dallas and the Dora Roberts Foundation of Big Spring. A large memorial donation of $20,000 was received yesterday from Ted Groehl in memory of his wife Elber and his daughter Mozelle Groehl-iron, said Johnnie Lou Avery, general chairman of the project.

"The funds will be used to construct a new building for the Salvation Army that would allow it to expand its services. Broughton said construction may start in January 1986.

Valerie Braun of the Salvation Army said earlier that the local community drive set a goal of raising $503,000 in Big Spring. A challenge grant was issued from the J.E. and Ellie Mabee Foundation from Dallas. The foundation agreed to contribute $250,000 if Big Spring could raise the rest of the money needed for the project.

Broughton said he is pleased that the approximately 120 Big Spring residents who had taken part in the campaign had shown that the money could be raised.

All money over the $753,000 goal would be reserved for a maintenance fund for the new facility, Broughton said.

Avery said a victory breakfast will be held July 2. Dignitaries from the Mabee Foundation, the Dora Roberts Foundation and the Meadows Foundation will be honored guests at the breakfast, and Rep. Charles Stenholm is scheduled to deliver the victory address. Following the breakfast, ground-breaking ceremonies will be held.

The proposed expansion includes a 7,800 square-foot activities and social services center on San Antonio Street on land donated to the Salvation Army by the Dora Roberts Foundation. Other plans include renovating and remodeling the existing family emergency shelter.

Truckers' delight

'Dad' Carter brings a different life to the freeways

By RICK BROWN
Odessa American
ODESSA (AP) — W.F. "Dad" Carter leaned forward from the back bunk of a friend's speeding, westbound Mack truck, lit a pipe and eyed the two ribbons of divided highway that stretched out before him.

"They (truckers) are the last cowboys, the last one-man businesses, the last free enterprise and the last American dream that's still alive," he said. "They are a throwback to the first man that ever rode a horse across this country."

Carter, 61, isn't a truckdriver himself, but he battles feverishly for their causes. Carter enthusiastically acts as a moneylender, jobhunter, portrait maker, historian, all-around advocate and information clearing house for truckdrivers.

He publishes a pamphlet each year in which he chronicles their lives — and deaths.

"I hitchhike to every location where one of these drivers dies," said Carter, adding that he writes obituaries of the men and attends their funerals. "What I do is my way of recording a phase of history," he said. Carter also prints in the pamphlets the ink-on-paper portraits he draws during his travels. He estimated he's drawn nearly 4,000 truckers' portraits since starting his life on the road in 1977.

But in addition to these activities, Carter acts as a watchdog for problems large and small that affect his truckers, he said.

He solicits their opinions on three-page questionnaires that range in topics from the best and worst truck stops to what trucking companies tend to cheat their drivers, he said.

His wife, Kay, enters the drivers' answers into a computer, he said, and they address the issues in his annual pamphlet.

High on Carter's list of causes is a crusade to bring a more law-abiding atmosphere to truck stops, he said.

"I can get anything you want from coke (cocaine) to hookers," he said. "You want a washer and a dryer? You want a wetback? You want syphilis and gonorrhea? I can guarantee you that," he said with a laugh.

"The truck stop owners don't want to stop it," he said. "They don't want to play law enforcement. They don't want to run anybody off."

Trucker Janet Snead, 27, who drives in tandem with her husband, Sam, both of a Eufala, Ala., echoed Carter's concern, particularly in regard to truck stop prostitution.

"They're trying to sell you everything under the sun — commercial meat, they call it now — banging on your doors at night," she said. "And the majority of us feel like we'd like to go somewhere we don't have to be bothered."

"I won't go to a truck stop where there's hookers working the lots," Carter said.

A mobility among the truck-driving population that may seem unusual or even frightening to the general public is the reason Carter can make easy connections among his friends, he said.

To Snead and another Carter friend, Mike Oates, 32, of Bainbridge, Ga., the mobility and the freedom that goes with it is an appealing part of the job.

"Out here, you have freedom from responsibility and can make your own decisions," Snead said.

"You're not running from anything," added Oates. "You might be running to something, but you're not running from anything."

W.F. Carter visits with driver Janet Snead, in Snead's rig at a truckstop west of Odessa. Though he is not a truck driver himself, he battles for the causes of the truck driver.

Houston's expansion leads U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charlotte, N.C. and Salt Lake City have joined the list of metropolitan millionaires, but Houston continued its phenomenal expansion to lead major urban growth in the United States, the Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

The Houston-Galveston-Brazoria area grew 15 percent between 1980 and 1984 to a total of 3,565,700, the bureau said, climbing from ninth to eighth place among metropolitan areas.

The increase pushed Houston past Washington, D.C.-Md.-Va., on the list, with the nation's capital dropping from eighth to ninth despite a 5.5 percent growth to 3,429,400.

Close behind Houston was Dallas-Fort Worth, with 14.2 percent growth to bring its population to 3,348,000. It ranked tenth in both 1980 and 1984.

The addition of Charlotte-Gastonia-Rock Hill and Salt Lake City-Ogden to the million population list brought the metro millionaire club to 37.

The New York metro area, including portions of New Jersey and Connecticut, remained firmly atop the list with a 1984 population of 17,807,100 people.

That was an increase of 1.5 percent from 1980, reversing a decline that had occurred during the 1970s, Census officials said.

Although definitions have been altered somewhat over the years, metropolitan statistical areas are generally defined as regions of common economic interest with a city of at least 50,000 people at the center.

Nationally there are 277 such areas, designated by the Office of Management and Budget, ranging from massive New York down to Enid, Okla., with a population estimated at 65,400.

Garage sale lands gangster in Texas jail

HOUSTON (AP) — A Chinese-American convicted in absentia of slaying a fellow New York City gang member has been apprehended at a Houston garage sale.

Chun Huen Lam, formerly of New York City, was taken into custody by a Houston police investigator and an FBI agent as he bought an $80 sofa at a southwest Houston garage sale Friday afternoon.

Lam, who is being held in Harris County Jail, is expected to go before a state magistrate Thursday before being extradited to New York.

"One way or another, though we're going to get him," said Thomas McCarthy, a spokesman for Queens District Attorney John Santucci.

Lam, 20, was convicted last December for the March 1984 slaying of Hueng Shui Lam, 24, at the victim's apartment in New York City. The two are not related.

During the December trial Lam disappeared, officials said. A co-defendant, Boo Wat Cheung, 25, also of New York City was convicted and sentenced to 25 years to life for the slaying of Lam.

Recipes and information for hypoglycemics

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Hypoglycemia is a disease defined as an abnormally low level of glucose in the blood.

Malone-Hogan dietician Helen Wenzel says a hypoglycemic should have three small meals and three protein snacks per day. Although the meals are small, she recommends that hypoglycemics eat a well-balanced diet and stay within their proper caloric requirement.

Hypoglycemics should eat meals and snacks that provide higher levels of protein with one exchange (standard serving) of a complex carbohydrate such as bread or another carbohydrate (fruit or vegetable). Proteins are foods that aid in the repair and maintenance of body tissues. Meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cheese are rich sources of protein.

When eating carbohydrates, hypoglycemics should eat more complex carbohydrates and less simple carbohydrates, she said. According to the Sugar-Free Cookbook by Jennifer Pink and Veronica Oxley, carbohydrates affect the blood glucose level. "When carbohydrates are eaten and digested, they are broken down to form a simple sugar called glucose, which travels in the blood and enters the cells of the body," with the aid of insulin.

Carbohydrates are divided into two groups: simple carbohydrates (fruit juices and candy) and complex carbohydrates (starches such as breads). Little effort is required for our bodies to digest and convert simple carbohydrates into glucose.

"Complex carbohydrates are a network of several different sugars all bonded together (and include foods like breads, cereals, fruit, vegetables and milk). The bonds holding these sugars together do not break easily and it takes the body far longer to convert complex carbohydrates into glucose. Thus it takes longer for the blood glucose level to rise after a meal.

For a sample 1500 calorie a day diet, Wenzel suggest the following menu plan.

Breakfast: 1 fruit exchange (¾ cup strawberries), 2 meat exchanges (2 poached eggs), and ½ cup skim milk.

About 10 a.m.: ½ sandwich (1 bread exchange and 1 meat exchange).

Lunch: 3 ounces meat (3 meat exchange), ½ cp cooked vegetables or small salad (1 vegetable exchange), ½ cup rice (1 bread exchange), 1 cup skim milk.

About 2:30 p.m.: 1 ounce meat (1 meat exchange), 1 small orange (1 fruit exchange).

Dinner: 3 ounces meat (3 meat exchange), ½ cup vegetables (1 vegetable), 1 small baked potato (1 bread), ½ cup skim milk (½ milk).

Evening snack: ½ sandwich (1 meat exchange and 1 bread exchange), ½ cup skim milk (½ milk exchange).

During a hypoglycemic reaction the blood sugar level goes down so low that the person feels weak, trembles, sweats, has extreme hunger, is confused, has headaches, hallucinations, bizarre behavior, convulsions and can go into a coma.

The objective of dietetic treatment is to prevent a rise in blood sugar that stimulates the pancreas to over secrete insulin, Wenzel said. For this reason the person should avoid quickly digested sugars and incorporate more slowly-digested proteins and fats. A person might carry crackers and cheese to control attacks if they are frequent.

HAMBURGER STUFFED TOMATOES

4 med. tomatoes
¾ lb. lean minced beef
1 Tbsp. grated onion
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
1 tsp. worcestershire sauce
¼ cup bread crumbs
¼ cup grated cheese
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Remove stem ends of tomatoes; scoop out some of the pulp and drain tomatoes. Combine beef, tomato pulp, and seasonings and stuff tomato shells with the mixture, dividing it evenly. Sprinkle with mixture of bread crumbs and grated cheese. Place in baking dish and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 30 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

One serving: 2 meat, medium fat exchanges, 2 vegetable exchanges and ½ fat exchange, OR 2 meat, medium fat exchanges, 1 fruit exchange and ½ fat exchange. Consists of: 19 gm protein, 13 gm fat, 10 gm carbohydrate, 421 mg sodium, 553 mg potassium, and 233 calories.

For a meal, the dietician recommends one serving of Hamburger Stuffed Tomatoes with tossed salad with regular salad dressing and 1 oz. of cheese cubes on top, Waldorf salad (½ cup apples, celery and nuts mixed with a little mayonnaise), and ½ cup yogurt for dessert.

TURKEY QUICHE

9-inch pie shell, unbaked
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 Tbsp. margarine
8 oz. or 2 cups aged Swiss or Gruyere cheese, grated
4 oz. turkey, cooked and cubed
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups milk, 2 percent fat
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cayenne or black pepper
1 Tbsp. flour

Prick and bake pie crust until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Sauté mushrooms and onions in fat. Sprinkle mushrooms and onions and turkey over crust. Top with grated cheese. Mix eggs, milk, flour, salt, nutmeg and pepper together. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 375 degrees for 45-50 minutes or until a knife comes out clean. Yield: 8 servings.

One serving: 2 meat, medium fat exchanges; 1 bread-starch exchange; and 2 fat exchange. Consists of 19 gm protein, 22 gm fat, 13 gm carbohydrate, 703 mg sodium, 247 mg potassium, and 326 calories.

For a meal plan, the dietician suggests: 1 serving of Turkey Quiche, ½ cup vegetable (cooked or salad), ½ cup rice or roll, and ½ cup mixed fresh fruit.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

¼ cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1½ cups milk, 2 percent fat
½ tsp. baking powder
6 oz. sharp cheese
4 egg whites
4 egg yolks

Combine flour, salt and milk in a saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add flour mixture to egg yolks. Mix well. Fold in egg whites. Pour into 1½ quart casserole. Set in pan of hot water. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes or until soufflé is firm. Serve at once. Yield: 5 servings.

One serving: 2 meat, medium fat exchanges; ½ bread-starch exchange, and 1 fat exchange. Consists of 17 gm protein, 17 gm fat, 8 gm carbohydrate, 775 mg sodium, 174 mg potassium, and 253 calories.

The dietician suggests the following meal plan: 1 serving Cheese Souffle with ½ cup vegetable (cooked or salad), 1 whole wheat roll and ½ cup orange sections.

SALMON MOUSSE

2 tps. safflower or corn oil margarine (polyunsaturated)
1 small onion, chopped
440 g (14 oz.) canned salmon
2 Tbps. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. gelatin
¼ cup (2 fl. oz.) hot water
Salt
Dash Tabasco sauce
Pinch nutmeg
¾ cup (6 fl. oz.) light sour cream, well chilled
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 egg white
Cucumber mayonnaise

Heat butter in a small frying pan; saute the onion until soft. Remove the skin and bones from the salmon and place salmon with its liquid, onion and lemon juice in the bowl of a blender or processor; puree. Remove to a large bowl. Dissolve the gelatine in hot water, cool and add to salmon with salt,

Tabasco and nutmeg to taste. Whip sour cream until increased in volume, fold into salmon mixture with the mayonnaise. Beat egg white until stiff and fold into mixture with a metal spoon. Pour into a lightly greased mold. Cover and refrigerate for several hours until set. Unmold on to a serving platter and garnish with salad vegetables. Serves 8. Serve with Cucumber Mayonnaise. One serving contains 1 gm carbohydrate and 179 calories. One tablespoon Cucumber Mayonnaise adds 100 calories to a serving.

MAYONNAISE
To be sure of the success of this recipe, have the oil at room temperature adding it drop by drop to egg mixture. Once sauce begins to thicken, the rate may increase. The quantity of oil used in mayonnaise makes it high in calories. For weight reducers, an alternative would be to Cottage Dressing.

2 egg yolks
½ tsp. salt
Freshly ground white pepper
½ tsp. dry mustard
2 tps. lemon juice or white wine vinegar
1 cup polyunsaturated oil (safflower, corn, cottonseed, soy or sesame)

Place egg yolks in a mixing bowl, add salt, pepper, mustard and lemon juice. Whisk until smooth. Carefully add the oil, drop by drop, whisking continuously: the sauce will curdle if the oil is added too quickly. If this happens add a little extra vinegar and beat well. As the mixture thickens, add the oil more quickly in a steady stream, whisking to prevent it from becoming too thick. Use to combine ingredients in salads or serve with seafood. Makes 1½ cups.

One tablespoon contains no carbohydrates and 103 calories.
VARIATION: Cucumber Mayonnaise. Add ¼ cup finely chopped cucumber and 1 tsp. finely chopped fresh mint.

COTTAGE DRESSING
Use as a tangy low calorie substitute for mayonnaise.
1 cup (8 oz.) cottage cheese
¾ cup (6 fl. oz.) sour cream

Small clove garlic, crushed
2 tps. vinegar

½ tsp. worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Blend all ingredients together until smooth. Chill to develop the flavor before serving. Yield: 2 cups. One tablespoon contains no carbohydrates and 39 calories.

BAKED SPICY CHICKEN

The yogurt lends an unusual twist to the baked chicken pieces — a tasty alternative to rich cream.

4 large chicken pieces
1 cup (8 oz.) natural low fat yogurt
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ tsp. chili powder
¼ tsp. ground cardamom
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. ginger
1¼ tps. salt

Place the chicken, skin side up, in an attractive baking dish. Combine the yogurt, parsley, garlic, spices and salt. Pour over the chicken, cover and marinate for several hours, preferably overnight. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Bake chicken for 1½ hours or until tender. Baste occasionally. Serves 4. Serve with pumpkin and green vegetables. One serving contains 3 gm carbohydrates and 249 calories.

HERB STUFFED EGGS

6 eggs, hard-boiled
1 Tbsp. chopped chives
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
2 Tbps. sour cream
2 tps. lemon juice
¼ tsp. curry powder
Cayenne pepper to taste
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
Paprika and parsley for garnish

Peel eggs, cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out the yolks, mash and mix with the remaining ingredients. Using two teaspoons, carefully spoon the mixture back into the hollow in the egg whites. Chill before serving sprinkled with paprika and garnished with parsley. One serving contains no carbohydrates and 42 calories. Makes 12 appetisers.

Cook / writer becomes expert in ecology field

By SOLL SUSSMAN

Associated Press Writer ZITACUARO, Mexico (AP) — Diana Kennedy, whose books on Mexican cooking have acquainted thousands of Americans with its variety and sophistication, knows there's more to life than tacos and enchiladas.

Here, on the five-acre ecological farm she has spent five years developing, she says new ways must be found to handle what she believes will be a future of scarce resources.

"I don't know why I started, except I'm tenacious," said the British-born cooking expert, wearing a simple white cotton blouse and pants, and a straw hat atop her gray-streaked, chestnut-colored hair. "It's just a more interesting way to live — experimentally." The house essentially runs like a ship, with power coming in from a windmill next to it. The gardens, of course, run naturally.

The mountains of Mexico's Michoacan state are visible from virtually any point of the grounds or the house, an airy and spacious brick and adobe dwelling filled with Mexican crafts, artwork and furniture.

"There are also things for the soul," Mrs. Kennedy said, with a gesture toward the view. "Sensually, it's very satisfying."

She first lived in Mexico as the wife of New York Times correspondent Paul Kennedy. After his death, Times food critic Craig Claiborne suggested she teach what she had learned about Mexican cooking in her extensive travels around the country.

The resulting publicity in New York led to an offer to write a book, and "The Cuisines of Mexico," published in 1972, established her reputation as an authority on what she calls "a very complex cuisine, full of surprises and full of contrasts — and many surprisingly mild dishes."

It was followed by "The Tortilla Book," "Recipes from the Regional Cooks of Mexico" and, most recently, "Nothing Fancy."

"It becomes a life, really," she said of her career as a cooking expert, which leads her to spend much time out of Mexico. "I work all the time. I like what I do. You're always trying new recipes — experimenting, adjusting, then writing them up."

Her latest book roams from recipes remembered from her childhood outside London to Middle Eastern favorites to "cazuelitas," small tortilla-dough cups filled with zucchini squash and tomato that started off a lunch for recent visitors to Zitacuaro, 100 miles west of Mexico City.

"We were brought up cooking — just something we were expected to do in that generation in England," she said. She declines to state her age.

The recipes in her books are mired with anecdotes that leave no doubt about their authenticity or the author's knowledge and genuine fondness for Mexico.

Mrs. Kennedy has little patience for errors, pretense or ignorance regarding cooking, which she clearly believes should be a rewarding experience. But neither does she have many kind words to say about the overactive attention to style that seems to be affecting eating in the United States.

"Food has become too chic. We've simply got to get back to some basics," she said, after carrot and coriander soup made from her own garden's produce had been served.

"I hate to make everything look beautiful; it should look appetizing."

The kitchen has a tile counter with a tray of drying chili peppers. Its walls and shelves are draped with the copper, straw, wooden and ceramic utensils and vessels found throughout Mexico.

Modern gadgets — an electric food mill, an ice-cream maker — round out the wooden spoons, 20-year-old pressure cooker and cast-iron pots.

After a Bibb lettuce salad, again from the garden, Mrs. Kennedy produces Veracruz-style tamales, made from a thin, delicate dough topped with an "hoja santa" — "holy leaf." She and her two maids then quickly whip up some corn tortillas to wrap around homemade "chorizo" sausage, served individually — "Excuse my fingers."

"Good Mexican food is labor intensive, and people aren't willing to pay the price for that sort of thing," she said of Mexican restaurants in the United States. "They think Mexican food should be cheap."

Poor diet may compound problem of arthritis

Good nutrition will not cure arthritis, but poor diet may compound the problem, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

Mary K. Sweeten explains that arthritis is a chronic inflammatory process of unknown origin which causes discomfort and pain in the joints.

"In an attempt to alleviate the pain, many arthritics become the victims of food faddists, quacks or self-appointed experts who advocate miraculous cures with a special diet plan," she says.

Dietary oil, vitamins, lecithin and blackstrap molasses have all been promoted for the relief of joint pain. But there is no scientific evidence that any food or any nutrient is of special help to people with arthritis, Sweeten says.

"Still, people with arthritis should pay attention to their diet," she says, "since nutritionally balanced meals benefit overall health, muscle tone, and build resistance to the wear and tear of the disease."

According to the specialist, one recent study of rheumatoid arthritis patients indicated that one out of four was malnourished and deficient in a variety of proteins, zinc and folic acid.

An inadequate diet, the effect of arthritis drugs, or the disease itself may be the cause of nutritional deficiencies, she says.

Whatever the cause, people with rheumatoid arthritis should make special efforts to eat well with a varied diet of fruits, vegetables, meats, fish, poultry, grains and dairy products, says Sweeten.

"Accepting the fact that no special diet or vitamin will cure arthritis will save disappointment and frustration," she says. "It will also save money for expensive arthritis foods, health foods or other fad diets that have no effect."

New survey shows college cagers have problems receiving degrees

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — "Student-athletes" who receive college basketball scholarships have more trouble receiving diplomas, a survey shows.

Much of the survey by USA Today, published in Wednesday's edition, focused on Memphis State University, which made it to the Final Four in this year's NCAA basketball tournament. It revealed that Memphis State graduated only 10.7 percent of its basketball scholarship students from 1972-1981, well below the national average and easily the worst among 1985's Final Four playoff teams.

The paper surveyed 196 of the NCAA's Division I basketball schools. It shows Memphis State compares unfavorably with Villanova, Georgetown and St. John's, the three other members of this year's Final Four.

Champion Villanova had the highest rate — 91 percent of the school's basketball scholarship athletes graduated during the period studied. Georgetown graduated 81.5 percent, and St. John's graduated 72.5 percent.

The NCAA has reported that 26 percent of athletes entering school in 1977 graduated in four years, compared with 37 percent of all students.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., has introduced a bill in Congress to penalize colleges failing to graduate 75 percent of scholarship athletes.

Low graduation rates are "a serious problem, one we can't ignore," said Bob Atwell, president of the American Council of Education. "Fortunately, there are some shining examples that make you realize it doesn't have to be that terrible."

"I knew we were low," said Memphis State President Thomas Carpenter. His school was recently charged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Memphis with exploiting black athletes. The NAACP cited poor graduation rates.

Alone among the Final Four,

Memphis State is not a private school. It is an urban commuter school with an enrollment of 22,000.

Villanova, Georgetown and St. John's have higher graduation rates for all students than the national average. Of all students entering Memphis State in 1978, 28.6 percent have graduated.

Dana Kirk, who has coached at Memphis State since the 1979-80 season, was quoted as saying, "I'm tickled to death that a lot of people are concerned with our program. It proves they are interested in the welfare of our athletes."

Carpenter said that when he arrived at the school, "I was aware that the basketball program had the worst record of graduates during a specific period. The program hit a gap."

"I haven't studied the figures and I don't argue with them, but I dislike them."

Carpenter said his school is tightening entrance requirements and instituting a short-term "developmental remedial pro-

Celtics top player hopes to find shooting touch

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Any hitter would be happy with a .393 batting average. As a shooting percentage in basketball, it's worse than mediocre.

For the NBA's Most Valuable Player, Larry Bird, .393 is a total disaster.

"For the past several weeks, I've been shooting the ball extremely well in practice," Bird says. "It's just that in games, the shots haven't dropped."

In his last five National Basketball Association playoff games, including the first three of Boston's championship series with the Los Angeles Lakers, Bird has made only 35 of 89 field-goal attempts.

If the Celtics are to rally from a 2-1 deficit in tonight's fourth game of the best-of-seven series, they need Bird to snap out of the doldrums.

"Of course Larry is vital for us," Coach K.C. Jones said Tuesday. "He's the MVP of the league, isn't he? But if we have to depend solely on Larry, we're in trouble."

Despite Bird's slump, the Lakers are under no illusion that he might quit shooting tonight.

"I look for him to be very aggressive offensively," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "He might take as many as 30 shots."

Bird has been troubled in the postseason by elbow, finger and ankle injuries, but he steadfastly refuses to use them as an excuse.

When he sat out one game of the first-round series against Cleveland to rest his elbow, he came back to score 34 points in his next outing.

Laker guard Michael Cooper said that in tonight's game he expects Bird to "go inside, use his weight advantage and get more rebounds. Once he gets going, it creates a different ballclub for them. His teammates feed off his energy."

Bird's rebounding figures also are down from his norm. He had 14 rebounds per game last year en route to becoming the playoff MVP and was eighth in the league during the regular season with a 10.5 average.

Bird said his poor shooting doesn't have him worried.

"I take it game by game," he said. "I know the next game will be my game. I know I'm going to play better Wednesday night. I'm sure my teammates are ready to get it going, too. We're going to be a different ballclub."

Howard signs Canadian star

Howard College Hawk Queen head coach Don Stevens announced the signing of his first international recruit, Sildic Chan of Vancouver, Canada. Chan is a native of Hong Kong and moved to Vancouver as a child with her mother, who is an international concert pianist, and father, who is an engineer.

The 5-7 shooting guard averaged 29.1 points, 6.3 assists, 5.4 rebounds and 3.1 steals per game last year for the Gladstone Secondary School in Vancouver where she was a four year starter.

Chan was selected Most Valuable Player in the 1984 and 1985 Senior Girls Basketball playoffs in the Vancouver region. She was also named to several all-star teams while attending summer basketball camps in Pullman, Washington and Vancouver.

Ray Clay, who starred on the Howard College teams in the late fifties, was instrumental in recruiting Chan. He is living in the Vancouver area and contacted Stevens after seeing Chan play this winter.

"Sildic is extremely quick and talented," commented Stevens. "She has the soft shooting touch and overall speed that will complement our other girls well. It looks as if we're going to have the quickest team that I've ever coached next year."

Lendl charges into French semifinals

PARIS (AP) — Defending champion Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia romped into the semifinals of the $2.2 million French Open tennis championships today with a 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 triumph over unseeded Martin Jaite of Argentina.

In the semifinals, the strong Czech right-hander will meet the winner of today's second quarterfinal between third-seeded Jimmy Connors and Sweden's Stefan Edberg, the No. 14 seed.

Jaite produced some spectacular moments with his aggressive style, occasionally winning points with improvised shots at the net.

But after staying even with Lendl through the first eight games to begin the match, he won only two of the next 13 games to trail by two sets and 0-3 in the third.

The Czech said the quarterfinal was "not an easy match," but added that he has felt fit all tournament. "I still felt good out there today, and (in the third set) I started feeling I was getting my second wind." The other semifinal pits top-seeded John McEnroe against Sweden's Mats Wilander.

Rangers pound Chisox, 7-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers have won two straight games, six straight at Arlington Stadium, and Manager Bobby Valentine, for one, believes there is something building.

"We're just playing good baseball, and it's lots of fun," Valentine said after the Rangers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7-3, Tuesday night. "And I'll tell you, the fan support here has been tremendous."

With the help of an error by White Sox third baseman Tim Lincecum, the Rangers staked starter Charlie Hough to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and delighted the crowd of 14,249.

"It gets the players pumped up when they get a big ovation when they head into the dugout or they're introduced at the beginning of the game," Valentine said. "It's positive enthusiasm, and every performer does better when he gets that type of appreciation."

Hough, who allowed four hits, raised his record to 5-4 and got his fifth complete game of the season, agreed.

"In this town, I thoroughly believe the fans are always behind us," he said. "No matter what, they cheer us."

After a double play ended Chicago's first inning, rookie Odibe McDowell got the crowd going by drawing a walk off Tom Seaver, whose record dropped to 5-4 with the loss.

Seaver, who gave up six hits, walked five and struck out six, then walked Toby Harrah. Buddy Bell hit into a fielder's choice and Larry Parrish struck out, but Hulett booted Gary Ward's bouncer and McDowell scored the game's first run.

Mariners 7, Tigers 6

It was a night Seattle's Phil Bradley will always remember and one Detroit's Willie Hernandez would just as soon forget.

With relatives and friends totaling 30 in the ballpark, Bradley wanted to do something unforgettable. And that he did, hitting a 12th-inning home run Tuesday night off Tiger relief ace Hernandez to lift the Mariners to a 7-6 victory.

"I've had some thrills, but I'd have to say this was one of the biggest," Bradley said.

Hernandez, 4-2, won't soon forget Bradley's homer — the first the American League Cy Young Award winner has allowed in a regular-season game since July 24, 1984 — or what followed.

After the homer, Bradley's ninth,

Hernandez hit Alvin Davis with a pitch and then engaged the Seattle dugout in an exchange of obscenities that resulted in his ejection.

"The first base umpire (Jim Evans) said he had to throw me out because 35 guys in their dugout wanted to whip my behind," Hernandez explained. "I said, 'Well, they're going to have to come across the line because I'm not going over there.'"

"I think he was wrong. I didn't mean to hit that batter. It was a mistake."

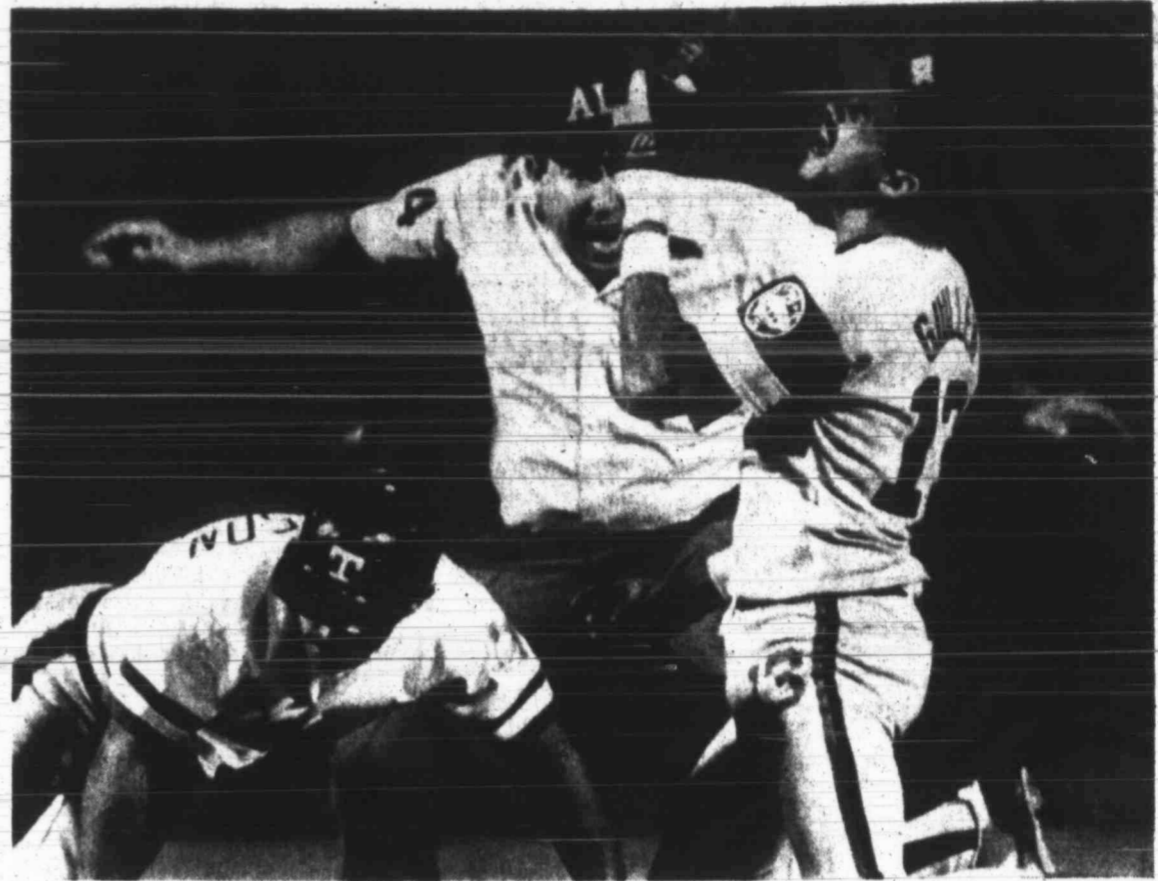

As was the pitch to Bradley.

"It was like a batting practice pitch," Hernandez said. Hernandez had worked four perfect innings and had one out when Bradley jumped on the 1-0 pitch and hit it into the upper deck in left field. One out later, Hernandez hit Davis.

Roy Thomas, 1-0, got the victory and Matt Young, the seventh Seattle pitcher, retired the final batter for a save in his first relief appearance of the year.

Elsewhere in the AL, it was Toronto 9, Minnesota 2; California 6, Baltimore 5 in 15 innings; Boston 5, Cleveland 0; Oakland 2, New York 0; and Kansas City 4, Milwaukee 3.

homer to highlight Toronto's three-run fourth inning, and Jim Clancy scattered four hits over eight innings.

George Bell added a three-run homer for Toronto and Buck Martinez, who had three hits, hit a solo shot for the Blue Jays, who extended their lead in the AL East to five games over Detroit. Clancy, 2-2, said he went most of the way with one pitch.

St. Louis, Andujar scorch Houston, 6-1

ST LOUIS (AP) — Rookie Vince Coleman singled four times, scored four runs and stole three bases, leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-1 triumph Tuesday night over the Houston Astros as Joaquin Andujar threw a four-hitter for his 10th victory.

Tommy Herr, the National League's leading hitter, doubled and singled for St. Louis, driving in three runs. A 12-hit Cardinals' attack also included Willie McGee's double and two singles and two RBI.

Andujar, who has lost once, collected his sixth straight victory and fourth complete game.

Victimized by the St. Louis attack was Houston knuckleballer Joe Niekro, 2-6, who failed for the sixth straight time to post an Astros-record 138th career victory. Niekro surrendered 10 hits in four innings.

Coleman's first single, a walk to McGee and Herr's double made it eight-hitter, striking out 12 and contributing three hits to New York's 4-1 victory.

After the Mets broke a 1-1 tie in the ninth on Danny Heep's sacrifice fly and RBI singles by Rafael Santana and Gooden, Mets Manager Davey Johnson praised his 20-year-old fireballer.

"Dwight is my security blanket," said Johnson. "I used to get goosebumps watching him pitch ... at least I'm over that now."

Padres 6, Phillies 5

Kevin McReynolds's two-out, two-run triple in the ninth lifted the host Padres past Philadelphia in a game marred by a bench-clearing brawl. With one out, Tony Gwynn beat out an infield hit but Kent Tekulve struck out Steve Garvey, who earlier had homered. After Graig Nettles walked, McReynolds lined a 1-2 pitch to the center-field fence to score Gwynn and pinch-runner Jerry Royster.

Pinch-hitter John Wockenfuss lined a one-out single in the ninth to give the Phillies a 5-4 lead.

Reds 9, Pirates 3

Cincinnati's bats continued to sizzle, piling up 15 more hits, including two by player-manager Pete Rose, who is 52 hits shy of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time mark of 4,191. Gary Redus belted a home run and an RBI double as the Reds upped their run production to 26 in three games.

"Hitting is contagious," said Redus. "I don't know why we're hitting like this, but I hope it continues."

Mario Soto, 8-3, scattered six hits over seven innings before yielding to Ted Power. One of the six hits was a two-run homer by George Hendrick.

The victory put the Reds five games over the .500 mark for the first time this season.

Giants 5, Expos 1

Jim Gott threw a six-hitter for his first complete game of the season, striking out seven and walking two. Jose Uribe paced the offense with a pair of doubles and three RBIs.

Montreal's Dan Schatzeder struck out Gott with two out in the fifth inning but the third strike was a wild pitch, allowing Alex Trevino to score from third base to break a 1-1 tie.

"I asked as a joke after the game if I got the game-winning RBI," said Gott, who had two homers in a game three weeks ago. "The main thing is that we went ahead. I didn't care how we did it."

"The wild pitch hurt, but Gott pitched a good game, a real good

CITY OF BIG SPRING
PUBLIC WORKS DIVISION
PUBLIC NOTICE
IN COMPLIANCE WITH THE MAXIMUM CONTAMINATE LEVELS FOR TRIHALOMETHANES
The City of Big Spring is required under the Safe Drinking Water Act to reduce the maximum contaminate levels for Trihalomethanes below the 100 micrograms per liter limit. In order to comply with this public law the City of Big Spring will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant in the treatment processes and to maintain a residual throughout the distribution system. The combination of chlorine with ammonia does not allow the chlorine to alternately combine with the naturally occurring organic acids to form Trihalomethanes. Thus, the system will be able to be in compliance with the maximum contaminate levels for Trihalomethanes.
The change from the previous routine of water treatment to the use of Chloramines at the treatment plant can cause serious problems to persons dependent on dialysis machines then Carbon Filters are not employed to prepare for the dialysate. A condition known as Hemolytic anemia can occur. Therefore, the general public is hereby placed on notice that on July 15, 1985, the water treatment with process within the City of Big Spring water system will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant. Dialysis patients may be affected by this change, therefore, it is imperative that the pre-treatment scheme used for dialysis units provides some means such as, charcoal filters for the removal of the chlorinating (disinfecting) agent. In addition, the use of Chloramines for disinfecting the potable water system will require different pre-treatment prior to being utilized in aquaria and other uses where the disinfectant agent would prove a hazard to the proposed use. Anyone having any questions with respect to this process, are urged to contact the Director of Public Works or the Big Spring Health Department.

1-0 in the opening inning. Catcher Randy Hunt's first major league hit, a single, was followed by an Andujar sacrifice and Coleman's run-scoring single in the St. Louis second. McGee then doubled home Coleman to make it 3-0, and the Cards added two more runs in the fourth on Herr's single.

The four runs scored by Coleman equaled the NL high by an individual for the year, and his four hits matched his top one-game production.

Hunt, called up from Louisville of the American Association on Monday, took over for Tom Nieto after St. Louis' starting catcher was struck by a foul tip in the first inning. X-rays on Nieto's left knee proved negative.

Houston's only run came in the fourth. Terry Puhl and Denny Walling singled with one out and Puhl scored on Kevin Bass' forceout grounder.

Dallas Baptist upended in NAIA Series

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — The Lewis-Clark State College Warriors are the NAIA baseball World Series champions for the second straight year, thanks in large part to relief pitcher Tony Dineen. Dineen threw 7 1-3 innings of relief and was backed by three solo home runs as the host Warriors came from behind Tuesday night to beat Dallas Baptist College 10-6. Dineen, 12-2 and the Series Most Valuable Player, entered the game in the second inning with LCSC trailing 5-0, then gave up just one run the rest of the way to win his third Series game. He scattered seven hits, walked one and struck out eight en route to a spot on the all-tournament team.

LCSC knotted the score at 6-6 in the fifth on back-to-back home runs by Jamie Archibald and Kyle Brock, then Brian Thomas hit a two-run triple to give the Warriors the lead for good. Joe Padilla added a solo home run in the seventh, his fifth of the Series and sixth of the year. Padilla and fellow outfielders Keith Peterson and Lonnie Phillips were named to the all-tournament team, along with first baseman Brock, shortstop Thomas, catcher Bill Stevenson and designated hitter Dwight Thomas. LCSC, 51-20, finished second in the small-college championship in 1982 and 1983. Dallas Baptist, in only its second year in the NAIA playoffs, finished 54-24. Losing pitcher Darren Hall, 4-3, lasted just one-third inning as he gave up Thomas' triple in the fifth. Dallas Baptist took its big lead in the second on a two-run single by Russ Gregory, RBI singles by Charles Jackson and David Jefferson and a suicide squeeze bunt by Jamie Cooper.

Rounding out the all-tourney team were pitchers Brian Otten of Southern California College and Lester Lancaster of Dallas Baptist, catcher Ray Hydes of Dallas Baptist, second baseman Kurt Miller of College of St. Francis, third baseman Bill Blair of Georgia College, utility infielder Jay Johnson of Dallas Baptist and outfielder Scott Markley of St. Francis.

French IOC head forced to resign

BERLIN (AP) — After 14 years at the head of the International Olympic Committee, Madame Monique Berlioux ended several days of speculation by announcing her resignation.

Berlioux, director of the IOC since 1971, told a crowded news conference today that she would terminate her association with the Olympic committee at the end of its current session in Berlin on Friday.

On the verge of tears, the 61-year-old former French Olympic swimmer said that she was resigning because of "differences with the IOC executive board." She refused to elaborate.

The executive board, headed by IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, decided Sunday to terminate her contract, which would have run through the 1988 winter and summer Olympics in Calgary, Alberta, and Seoul, South Korea.

Madame Berlioux came to her news conference surrounded by the top officials of her 100-member staff and wearing an elegant white suit and a royal blue blouse. Her eyes were welling with tears as she read a statement which she had circulated earlier in the day to the 89-member IOC gathered for its annual session in East Berlin.

With Berthold Beitz, West German member of the executive board, she opened by complaining that her resignation had been prematurely disclosed by "rumors in the corridors," adding:

"I have been through several very difficult and very moving days."

Her statement gave no details of the settlement agreement she reached with the IOC.

"For many years, I have served sport, and particularly the Olympic movement, as athlete, official and principal collaborator as director of IOC," the statement said.

"Of course, I sometimes found myself in disagreement with some of you on particular issues. This is only natural in an organization like ours, containing so many strong and varied personalities. My only rule of conduct has always been the superior interest of the Olympic movement and its ideals."

"As time went on, the differences with the executive board led me — like a journalist invoking his conscience — to decide to put an end to my functions as director. I will nonetheless continue to carry out my duties until the end of the current session."

She refused to elaborate on her statement or to give any indication of the compensation she will receive for the IOC's breach of her long-term contract. Some IOC sources requesting anonymity said the settlement was a lump payment of between $300,000 and $500,000.

There were widespread reports that Jacques Chirac, the mayor of Paris, has asked her to direct his campaign for the award of the 1992 Olympics to the French capital. The IOC will choose the 1992 site among six candidate cities — Paris, Barcelona, Amsterdam, New Delhi, Belgrade and Brisbane, Australia — in October of next year.

Speaking privately to reporters immediately after the news conference, Madame Berlioux said she intended to write her memoirs and told reporters "you will still be hearing a lot from me" — implying that she intended to retain some important role in world sports.

There had been earlier speculation that the IOC executive board tried to obtain her commitment not to publish background details of 10 successive winter and summer Olympics, including those of 1988, where she has played a crucial planning and organizing role.

In her entry in the French Who's Who, Berlioux listed her birthdate as Dec. 22, 1923, but an official IOC biography issued Wednesday said she was born in Metz in eastern France in 1925.

She was the holder of 40 French national swimming records and titles and won a silver medal in the London Olympics of 1948.

A professional journalist, she joined the IOC in 1967 while press chief of the French ministry of Youth and Sport.

After assuming control of press and administrative affairs of the supreme Olympic authority for four years, she became its director in 1971.

Differences with Samaranch emerged almost immediately after the former diplomat was elected IOC president in 1980 and decided to set up his permanent residence at the IOC's headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon it is necessary that you sidestep a temptation to break up conditions because you are discontented; it will boomerang against you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do not follow the advice of friends who are dramatic and do not have their feet on the ground, and avoid getting into trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although outside duties may seem annoying to you today, be sure to handle them wisely and avoid trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are anxious to get off to some new kind of pleasure but would find that it is very disappointing.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You are tempted to argue with a higher-up or dispute over some business deal, but this would be wrong for you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Although you do not like what an outside partner is doing, don't take to task as yet but watch development carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to make changes in routines, so carry on as usual and you accomplish a good deal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You feel like dashing off to some pleasure, but this could cost you a great deal in more ways than one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) When you are at home, show kin more devotion, and don't try to be selfish. Try not to invite a guest in who could cause you trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may receive a message that could drive you mad, but take it easy and you win the game. Be careful in motion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care in handling financial affairs or you could lose quite a bundle. Avoid one who has an axe to grind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to be different so that others will not criticize you. Don't lambast one who is not doing things right.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be more optimistic about those problems you have; handle them objectively, and they are soon behind you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a most extraordinary personality and mentality and should be given free reign early to best express self. Teach to have respect for the orthodox, and this will become a successful chart, provided enough education is given. Permit to have many playmates.

Sports Briefs

Softball tournament

The Third Annual Class B June Fest Men's Slow Pitch Softball Tournament will be held June 7-8 at Johnny Stone Memorial Park.
 First through fifth place teams will receive team trophies and the first three teams will receive individual trophies. There will also be a Most Valuable Player award along with a team sportsmanship award.
 Entry fee is $100 per team. To enter call Noel Hull at 263-3108.

Games cancelled

All city softball games have been cancelled for tonight.
 Here is the schedule of games set for Thursday, weather permitting: 7 p.m. on north field will be Dave's versus Do-Its. Padres and Reaction get underway at 7 on the south field.
 At 8 on the north field Malone and Hogan will play Eason and Cameo will play Texico on the south field. At 9 on the north field Do-Its will play Williams and Dave's will play American on the south field.

Walker Player of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Herschel Walker of the New Jersey Generals was named the United States Football League's Player of the Month for May by the Professional Football Writers of America.
 Walker has rushed for more than 100 yards in eight straight games and is the league's top ground-gainer with 1,757 yards on 330 carries. He also leads the USFL in touchdowns with 16.

White put on Waivers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charles White, the running back who won the Heisman Trophy in 1979 while at the University of Southern California, was waived by the Cleveland Browns.
 The Browns cited an abundance of talent at running back, including the drafting of highly-regarded Greg Allen from Florida State, as the reason for releasing White.

U.S. lead amateur golf

GOLSPIE, Scotland (AP) — Two Americans led the qualifiers for the match-play stage of the British Amateur Golf Championships.
 Californian Dana Banke had the good fortune to tee off first in calm conditions at Golspie and recorded a 68 to finish with a one-under-par 137 for the two days of qualifying.
 Douglas Clark, a pediatrician from North Carolina, was next-best at 139.
 Three-time titlist Peter McEvoy also qualified but last year's finalists, Spain's Jose-Maria Olazabal and Scotland's Colin Montgomerie were eliminated.

CWS postponed

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The College World Series game Tuesday between Miami and Texas was postponed because of wet grounds.
 All remaining sessions of the tournament will be pushed back one day, National Collegiate Athletic Association officials said. Miami and Texas will play Wednesday at 7:10 p.m. CDT.

Clarence Jones, who played for Yates and now coaches at Memphis Frayser High School, said, "I saw things get a little bit out of hand under Wayne Yates, as far as discipline and team morale. I think they (the coaches) were more concerned about us being eligible than what we would be doing after our eligibility was up."
 Yates recently resigned his post as coach at Northwestern State in Louisiana. "If a player who doesn't graduate wants to blame somebody, he ought to go stand in front of a mirror," he responded.
 Carpenter argued that the University bears only part of the responsibility for educating the athletes. "We're providing more than most universities. But before we get a good score (better rate), it depends on the high schools."
 "We are not proud of the record we have," Carpenter also said. "It is a problem, but not one the university alone is going to solve."
 Fred Horton, a Memphis State graduate and coach at Memphis's Booker T. Washington High School, agreed. "Any time you get kids in college who don't know how to read or count, you have a problem," he said.
 Horton, however, added that colleges must share the blame for problems. "The colleges recruited them, and they are responsible for that child getting an education," he said.
