Q. What percentage of Howard County farmers participated in Federal Crop Insurance programs this year?

A. According to Dottie Sampley, area director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. office in Big Spring, 30 percent of Howard County farmers participated. That number is down from last year's 85 percent because of the heavy rainfall and the good subsoil moisture, she said.

Teacher career ladder under fire

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

A Big Spring math teacher says she won't climb down from her fight for higher placement on a new career ladder, even though school trustees Thursday denied her appeal.

Dolline Budke, a teacher at Big Spring High School for seven years, had appealed a special committee's decision not to place her on Level 2 of the state's teacher career ladder. The promotion carried with it an additional $1,575 for the coming year.

According to records, 116 Big Spring teachers were eligible for Level 2, and 83 teachers were placed on Level 2.

Several teachers showed up Thursday night to support Budke, and after the meeting they criticized the career ladder.

Lynn Hise, superintendent of schools, said anyone appealing placement on the ladder must prove that placement was arbitrary and capricious or done in bad faith.

Following an executive session with Budke, trustee Dewayne Fraser moved "that the ruling of the (career ladder) committee be upheld." He added that he felt the committee "did not act in an arbitrary and capricious manner."

Dan Wise seconded the motion and the motion was approved. Alma Marshall of Midland, the state chairman of the professional and human rights committee of the Texas State Teachers Association, remained with Budke during the executive session to speak in her behalf.

Marshall said an evaluation used in Budke's case "was not done...according to law," Marshall said.

In a letter appealing the assignment, Budke stated: "I feel the decision...was made in disregard of the facts and circumstances. I have not had anyone...observe or evaluate my performance in the classroom in the past three years."

She added: "I feel that I deserve placement on career ladder Level 2 due to my dedication to my profession and to my students."

Before meeting with the board, Budke earlier met with the career ladder selection committee to protest her placement on the ladder and had her appeal denied.

Montford good, but not the best

Senator misses Texas Monthly list

By JAY ROSSER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — If Texas Monthly magazine put out a listing of the state's "11 Best and 11 Worst" legislators, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, would be on the best list.

But the magazine publishes a "10 Best and 10 Worst" list, so Montford, who represents Big Spring, missed by one.

Advance copies of Texas Monthly's July edition containing the article were furnished to Capitol reporters on Thursday, one week before the magazine hits the newsstands.

Montford, in that article, gets a "Purple Heart." The writers said he would have made the "10 Best" list had it not been for House members appointed to a conference committee selected to negotiate a final statewide water plan.

"Their inflexibility sabotaged Montford's chances of making the 10 Best list; give him a Purple Heart instead," the article said.

Garnering a spot on the "10 Best" list is Rep. Jim Rudder, D-Brownfield, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee. He is lauded for having "produced the state's first kosher budget — no pork."

"Thanks to Rudder," the article states, "in a year when there was less money to go around than anyone could remember, there was also less rancor about the appropriations bill than anyone could remember."

After presenting his committee's 1986-87 spending proposal to the House for action, the magazine notes, "Rudd received the rarest of House tributes, a standing ovation."

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, is not mentioned in the article.

In addition to Rudder, those selected by the magazine as the "10 Best" for work during the 1985 Legislature that ended May 27 are Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls; Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston; Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville; Rep. Charles Evans, D-Hurst; Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington; Rep. Bill Messer, D-Belton; Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth; Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston; and Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City.

Those legislators tapped for the periodical's "10 Worst" list are Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena; Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Richardson; Rep. Jerry Clark, D-Buna; Rep. Gerald Geistweid, R-Mason; Sen. Glenn Kothe, D-San Antonio; Rep. Jan McKenna, R-Arlington; Rep. Robert Saunders, D-La Grange; Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston; Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston; and Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston.

The article was penned by senior editor Paul Burka, with help from associate editor Alison Cook and researcher Kaye Northcott.

Criteria for selection to the "Ten Best" list, according to the writers, are "intelligence, integrity, open-mindedness, fairness, and the desire to find a way to advance the ball."

Add the writers: "The constant characteristic of bad legislators is their absence of a constructive purpose. We judged harshly those who elevated partisanship and emotional issues above the business of the state."

Brad Daniels, a student in the Big Spring schools gifted and talented program, tests a rocket during a demonstration at Goliad Middle School playing field. Constructing and testing the rockets was a class project. The demonstration was held early this morning.

Long falls way short

Wheat deal trampled

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Elbert Long's wheat is falling down.

His hopes to ship his wheat grown on set-aside acreage to Ethiopia have fallen by the wayside, also.

The Elbow farmer said today that his efforts to donate the wheat to the famine-stricken country had failed. In the last few months, Long had lobbied Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to remove restrictions that prevented him from harvesting his wheat.

"Nothing ever materialized. I'm just going to let it go back to reseeded," Long said. "It's already starting to fall down."

A Washington, D.C., agriculture aide for Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, had said earlier that Long and other wheat farmers were prevented from donating the wheat. A federal provision prohibits crops grown on set-aside acreage to be harvested mechanically.

According to the aide, other farmers in Stenholm's district in the past had been able to donate crops such as black-eyed peas that could be harvested by hand.

Wheat, however, is impossible to harvest by hand, according to the aide and Long.

"I never got anything other than maybe the coverage the media gave it — maybe the pressure will energize the people that are responsible to do something," Long said.

Long had grown wheat as a set-aside crop on 80 acres this year. The yield, at 34 bushels to the acre, was "exceptional," he said.

Juneteenth

Parade, activities highlight celebration

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Black emancipation in the field of education "has progressed some," and "it's a lot better than it use to be," said Cynethar Woodruff, chairman of activities for this year's Juneteenth celebration.

Juneteenth is a state national holiday proclaimed by the 1981 Legislature that celebrates President Abraham Lincoln's signing of the Emancipation Proclamation on June 19, 1865.

This year's Juneteenth celebration in Big Spring will begin with a reunion of former teachers and alumni of North Big Spring's Lakeview School. The reunion is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Lakeview.

Woodruff said she had traced the school's origins as far back as 1930.

"We could not get a record to show us who was the principal at that time," Woodruff said about her information search in the Howard County Clerk's office.

The school was part of the Big Spring Independent School District and educated blacks through the ninth grade until 1951. Blacks had to go out-of-town to complete their schooling because they were not allowed to attend Big Spring High School.

"When you say segregated — it meant everything. Even kids who lived near white schools could not go to that school, even if it was within walking distance. There was no bus service for Lakeview students. That was the way it was," Woodruff said.

Lakeview graduated its first 12-grade student in 1951. Woodruff said black kids were not allowed to participate in sports activities with white kids.

Woodruff said the school district became desegregated in 1959.

"This (reunion) is a big thing for us because we've never gotten together before," said Woodruff.

Other Juneteenth festivities planned for the weekend include a continental breakfast beginning at 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning at Lakeview.

The Webb Spring Lion's Club will host a barbecue beginning at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Comanche Trail Park. A dance featuring golden oldies music will be held beginning at 8 p.m. tomorrow night.

Admission for weekend festivities is $25 per family for all activities. Admission fees for barbecue only is $3 per person and $5 per person for dance only.

Woodruff said a Juneteenth Parade has been scheduled for next Wednesday. All those who wish to participate should be at the parade's 9:30 a.m. lineup at Lakeview School.

"Anyone that wants to parade should come on over," Woodruff said.

The parade's final destination will be the parking lot of the former Gibsons Discomb Store on S. Scurry, she said.

Kimo's jest a clown

UT at Dallas student takes pride in work and play

RICHARDSON (AP) — "The fool doth think he is wise; but the wise man knows himself to be a fool."

So quotes from Shakespeare's King Lear he thinks) Kimo the Clown, alias University of Texas at Dallas student Langston James Goree VI.

The ironies abound: The 31-year-old Dallas entertainer graduated cum laude from the University of Texas at Dallas this spring, and he plans to juggle more books and classes than colored balls this summer, when he will begin a master's program in interdisciplinary studies at UTD.

Eventually the clown who has entertained at children's birthday parties and adult nightclubs in Dallas for 10 years hopes to get a doctorate and teach at a university.

After 12 years of on-and-off attendance, including a 21-hour sprint last semester, Goree earned his bachelor's degree in general studies, for which he combined classes in philosophy, psychology and Latin America.

"Some people need the structure of a university occasionally to return to an organized way of learning," said Goree, who spends six months a year traveling and entertaining in Central and South America. "There's something nicely structured about a university that shines up your habits."

And, he added, "we do live in a credentialed society."

Goree said students at UTD, where most work full-time and are

District won't appeal ruling on case

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Big Spring school trustees voted not to appeal the case of Griffith vs. the Big Spring Independent School District during their meeting Thursday.

James Griffith, a former coach with the district, sued the district several years ago after his contract was not renewed.

The case recently went to trial in Lubbock and a judgement was made for Griffith.

Under the agreement, the plaintiff's attorney's fees of $91,925 will be paid and judgement of an additional $3,500 to Griffith for lost retirement benefits will be paid by the local district.

Guilford Jones, the attorney for the Big Spring district, submitted a resolution outlining terms of the agreement and trustees voted not to carry the case any further.

In other business, trustees accepted the resignations of seven teachers, including Evangeline Andrews, Deborah Bingham, Patricia Conway, David Dillard, Marjorie Dodson, Gayle Nicholas and Hortencia Wyatt. Lynn Hise, superintendent of schools, said, "We are in the process of looking for replacements."

Trustees approved the nomination of Charles Wade as representative to the Texas Association of School Boards for District 11. Wade is from the Monahans-Wickett-Pyote ISD, which is also in District 11.

The board certified the signature of Bill McQueary, who will take over the duties of the assistant superintendent for instruction and personnel in July. McQueary is replacing Harold Bentley who is retiring.

A low bid of $26,435 for paper from the Xerox Corp. was accepted Thursday. The paper should serve "80 to 85 percent of the district's needs" during the coming year, said Don Crockett, assistant superintendent for business.

Sheriff

Man reports attempted theft

Howard County sheriff's deputies continue to investigate an attempted theft that occurred early this morning at Gene Leonard's residence on Route One.

According to a deputy's report, Leonard said he heard persons trying to start his two Honda three-wheelers on the north service road in front of his residence around 4:30 this morning.

Leonard ran out of his house and said he saw two persons run away.

District Court Judge James Gregg sentenced Robert Henry Williams, 47, of Center Point to two years at the Texas Department of Corrections after he pleaded guilty to passing a forged instrument charge.

Williams was given credit on his sentence for 26 days that he spent in Howard County Jail.

Sergio Guadalupe Banuelis-Muela, 50, of El Paso pleaded guilty in district court to a forgery charge. He received four years probation from Judge Gregg. He was also required to pay court costs and restitution.

A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Daniel Diaz, 21, of LeFeria for Floyd County traffic warrants. He was released on bonds totalling $350.

Deputies arrested Jerry Mann, 39, of Coahoma on a peace bond warrant issued from Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin's office. He was released on $3,500 bond.

Deputies arrested Gary Grant, 38, of Coahoma on a peace bond warrant issued from Heflin's office. He was released on $3,500 bond.

Big Spring Police transferred David Rojo Buendia, 21, of Coahoma after he was arrested for a third offense of possessing no driver's license and a second offense of failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was released on bonds totalling $1,000.

PD answers vandalism calls

A 26-inch boys' bicycle was stolen Thursday from the backyard of 1405 E. 15th, according to police reports.

The bike, valued at $150, is owned by Michael McKenzie of 603 E. 12th. The bike was taken between 6 and 7 p.m.

Francis Hock of 406 E. 22nd told police someone damaged two concrete lions between noon Monday and 9 a.m. Thursday at 1400 Main.

Vandals broke a window at 2:30 p.m. Thursday on the north side of Goliad Middle School at 2000 Goliad.

Long

"Hopefully, the people who write the new farm bill will put something in there (to allow set-aside crops to be harvested) for this purpose," Long said.

Long originally came up with the idea of donating the wheat when he heard reports of the Ethiopian famine and of Project Tejas. Project Tejas is a joint Texas Department of Agriculture and U.S.D.A.-sponsored effort to collect money to buy Texas surplus crops and products and ship it to Africa.

Teachers

Continued from page 1-A Following Thursday's meeting, Marshall said, "We will request a tape of these proceedings." The tape will be given to the general counsel for TSTA and "we will decide what action to take from there."

Marshall argued that "criteria" for selection among the 113 teachers eligible "was not published. We need to know what the criteria was."

The career ladder mandate has sparked controversy around the state. Following the meeting, Marshall said, "parents of students need to rise up in righteous indignation" and protest sections of new state laws. She called selection for the career ladder "discrimination."

Lynn Hise, speaking later about the career ladder, said, "this is the most divisive thing that has happened" in education during his career. "I think it is bad. I think it won't work."

Several other teachers present at Thursday's meeting said they were not aware that placement on the ladder could be appealed.

Budke said she was told during a meeting in May by Big Spring High principal Bill McQueary that, "If you feel like the decision was incorrect, please appeal." Budke told McQueary on May 31 that she would appeal.

Teachers named to Level 2 on the ladder include:

Firemen battle three blazes

Firemen Thursday responded to three reports of minor fires and smoke scares, according to department reports.

Firefighters arrived at 6:06 p.m. at 1002 N. Main, where they found a stove burning around one of the cut-off valves, the report stated.

Firemen turned the gas off. No damage was done to the building, owned by West Texas Property Management and occupied by Shirley Larry, the report stated.

They returned to the station at 6:26 p.m.

Firefighters doused a dumpster fire at 3 p.m. in the 100 block of Edwards. According to the report, firemen found a dumpster full of cardboard boxes burning. They used 75 gallons of water to extinguish the flames and stirred the trash around to dampen it.

They returned to the station at 3:15 p.m.

A smoke scare Thursday afternoon at Western Mattress at 1901 Gregg was caused by a burning light ballast, according to reports.

According to the report, firefighters could smell the ballast burning as they entered the building, owned by Frank Meadows of San Angelo. They found the southwest ballast by the front door out, took off its cover and advised the manager to disconnect it, according to the report.

Firefighters arrived at the scene at 3:05 p.m. and returned to the station at 3:15 p.m.

S. Africa launches raid

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — South African troops firing rifles and rocket-propelled grenades raided 10 alleged guerrilla targets in the capital of neighboring Botswana this morning, killing at least 15 people, the South African military said.

The 40-minute, coordinated attacks throughout Gaborone were aimed at safe houses and offices of the African National Congress (ANC), said Gen. Constand Viljoen, head of the South African Defense Force. The ANC is the main guerrilla organization fighting South Africa's racial segregation system.

Iraqi jets strike Tehran

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran said Iraqi warplanes raided Tehran and 10 other cities Thursday, killing eight civilians and wounding 30.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, said Iranian forces responded with artillery attacks on seven Iraqi border cities. The air raid on Tehran was the 50th reported attack on the capital since last March when Iraq started bombing Iranian cities in an effort to force Iran to accept a cease-fire in the war that began with an Iraqi invasion in September 1980.

13 die in Beirut battles

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Christian and Moslem gunners fought mortar duels across Beirut's dividing Green Line today and Moslem forces battled beleaguered Palestinian guerrillas at refugee camps. Police said 13 people were killed on the two warfronts.

A mortar salvo struck a crowded vegetable market in west Beirut's low income Basta neighborhood this morning, killing at least five civilians and wounding 50, police said.

Another mortar round crashed in the Christian neighborhood of Bin el-Fil in east Beirut, killing one civilian and wounding 11, police said.

Solidarity trio convicted

GDANSK, Poland — A court today convicted three leaders of the outlawed Solidarity union of inciting civil unrest and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from 2½ to 3½ years.

The trial judges convicted Adam Michnik, Bogdan Lis and Wladyslaw Frasyniuk on all counts against them.

Hijack...again

Gunmen pirate TWA plane, force it to Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Hijackers seized an Athens-to-Rome TWA flight today with 153 people aboard, mostly Americans, and forced it to land in Beirut after the pilot said they beat and threatened to kill hostages.

The hijackers, reportedly armed with grenades and machine guns, freed at least 19 women and children and the plane took off. The pilot said he was ordered to fly to Algeria, according to the Beirut control tower.

One of the freed passengers, Irma Garcia of Laredo, Texas, said the hijackers had shot a black man, apparently a passenger, in the neck. She said the man did not appear to be in serious condition.

Initial reports said three hijackers were on the plane. But Lebanese Transportation Ministry spokesman Ziad Kassem told The Associated Press there were only two.

The hijacking was the third this week involving the Beirut airport.

Mrs. Garcia, who was flown with other freed American passengers to Larnaca, Cyprus, said she did not know why the man was shot, but apparently had resisted the hijackers in some way. She said two young gunmen ordered passengers to put their hands behind their heads and confiscated their passports.

A yellow escape chute was lowered from the plane's front door and the freed passengers slid down to the tarmac in Beirut. The passengers then raced across the tarmac to a fire station, where they were picked up by airport vehicles and an ambulance.

Reporters in Beirut said the freed passengers appeared stunned. "Are you a good guy or a bad guy?" a white-haired woman with an American accent screamed at a British journalist. "My husband's still on board with the others."

Dan Howard, public affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Cyprus, said the the Algerian government had refused permission for the hijacked jet to land there. He said 17 American women and two infants were released and flown to Cyprus.

Briefing newsmen on what the released passengers said, Howard added that there were two hijackers occupying the last two seats of the Boeing 727. "Fifteen minutes after takeoff (from Athens) they got up and raced to the cockpit. Then one of them came out and brandishing a gun he ordered the stewardesses to place their hands on top of their heads."

Two male passengers "were roughed up and tied up," he added. He did not mention the shooting incident related by Mrs. Garcia.

One hijacker issued a statement to reporters through the Beirut control tower, saying the "organization of the oppressed in the world" was responsible for the hijacking. He demanded that all Lebanese Shiite Moslem guerrillas held by Israel be turned over to the Red Cross in Lebanon's southern port city of Sidon.

Israel is holding about 700 Lebanese captured in Lebanon in prisons in northern Israel.

More bones unearthed

WEST POINT, Calif. — The diary of a dead survivalist linked to a cabin where children's teeth and the remains of five people have been unearthed led authorities to expand their search to a site more than 300 miles away.

Two new sites with bone fragments were found Thursday near the yellow, hillside house used by Leonard Lake, died after swallowing a poison pill while in police custody last week, Parker said. As many as 25 missing people are believed to be linked to Lake, 39, and his companion, Charles Ng, who is being sought in an international manhunt.

United pilots delay vote

CHICAGO — Leaders of United Airlines' 5,000 pilots say they won't consider ratifying a tentative agreement to end their month-old walkout until they are sure flight attendants who honored picket lines won't be penalized.

Discussions between the company and flight attendants focused on the same back-to-work issues that prompted a breakdown in talks between the company and the pilots after economic issues had been settled May 24.

Clown held in sex case

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — A man who performed as "Happy Humphrey" the clown must stand trial on 33 counts of criminal sexual conduct involving a 9-year-old boy and a 12-year-old boy, a judge ruled.

Robert R. Hanner, 37, was bound over Thursday for trial on 21 counts of first-degree and 12 counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct involving acts prosecutors allege occurred between March 1984 and March 1985.

Cops kill honor student

NEW YORK — Police say a 17-year-old honor student was shot and killed by a plainclothes officer after trying to rob him, but a lawyer and the youth's mother called it part of a pattern of brutality against minorities.

Edmund Perry, a June graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, N.H., was shot Wednesday night by Officer Lee Van Houten after Perry and another youth had tried to rob the officer, police said. Perry died Thursday morning.

Mengele's son offers help in probe

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Rolf Mengele, who claims his Nazi father Josef Mengele is dead, said today he would soon give a prosecutor evidence of his father's life in South America, including a 1970s photograph and a handwriting sample.

In Sao Paulo, Brazil, a woman who claimed she harbored Josef Mengele for 17 years said Thursday Mengele told her he was briefly detained by American soldiers after World War II.

Mengele's son, a lawyer in the southern German city of Freiburg, issued a statement today to news agencies in Munich. Earlier this week, he broke the family's silence about the Nazi doctor by saying he believes his father is dead.

In his statement today, the 41-year-old said he has no proof of a motorcycle accident in 1944 in which his father is said to have suffered a hip injury. His wife, Almuth, in a telephone interview with The AP, said that reports of Mengele's motorcycle accident were "simply untrue."

She refused to comment on allegations made by Nazi-hunter Simon Wiesenthal Thursday that Mengele suffered a wound on the Soviet Front in 1943.

Adult illiteracy growing in U.S.

Sixty million adult Americans can't read? They can't read a daily newspaper? They can't read a tax form? They can't read the warning on a pesticide can? How do they survive in this modern society?

Sixty million is an appalling number. It is approximately one-third of this nation's adult population.

Yet, that's the conclusion reached by Jonathan Kozol, an educator and the author of the recent book, "Illiterate America."

In this country? In this society? Sixty million Americans can't read? Maybe in a Third World country. But, here? In America?

Kozol defines "literacy" in the United States as being able to read at the 10th-grade level. He suggests that level is mandated by the "real print demands of the workplace." And he says that "the move from a smokestack economy to the information age means that the individual who reads at the fifth-grade level is no longer literate."

Kozol claims that illiteracy is growing, citing the growing influence of television and the other visual media. He also referred to a 1979 Ford Foundation study, showing that 25 million adult Americans read at less than the fifth-grade level and 35 million read at less than the ninth-grade level.

While Kozol suggests a massive mobilization of volunteer tutors to staff community-based remedial reading programs across the country, maybe the emphasis should be placed on working with school-age children rather than the illiterate adult.

The latter should not be ignored, but reducing illiteracy would be hastened by emphasizing better teaching techniques with our future generations.

A wild pitch for tax reform

A bunch of us Washington sophisticates were lurking around a bar the other day when President Reagan, who was barnstorming the country selling his tax reform, came on the air.

"Hey," said Beaver. "There's Ronnie, the people's lobbyist."

The President had the crowd in his hands when he attacked the "special interests," "bureaucrats" and "so-called experts" who had "forgotten about the America that exists beyond the Potomac." Mr. Reagan got everyone riled up because he told them Washington didn't care about them. His message was that it was just the voters and him against "the government."

Capehart said, "Boy, he sure looks mad."

Beaver laughed. "He isn't mad. He's putting on an act. There's nothing that plays better in Peoria than a President of the United States who hates Washington."

Capehart said, "But he is Washington. All those buildings out there are filled with Reagan bureaucrats. His people have been here for five years. Why does he make it sound as if he doesn't know who is running the country?"

Beaver said, "Because he just struck a political gold mine. Everyone is against 'special interests,' 'bureaucrats' and the 'so-called experts.' What better way to sell a tax reform program than to set up all the straw men in Washington who are against it?"

Dumbarton said, "I haven't met anyone who is against tax reform. I've met people who are against parts of it. But hell, most of them are Reagan's best friends. The housing industry, the oil lobby and the fat cats have been his biggest supporters. I don't think the President has ever addressed a lunch or dinner for less than $1,000 a plate. If special interests didn't buy those tables I'll eat all the food left on their plates."

I said, "Knowing the President as well as I do, I'm sure he is just resorting to Pat Buchanan's rhetoric. When Mr. Reagan attacks Washington he really means the Democrats in Washington who are interfering with his programs. And when Mr. Reagan says he wants the government to get off the people's back, he really means he wants Tip O'Neill to get off his back. The President's strategy is to turn the American people against their elected officials. Being the guy on the white horse is the role he plays on the best."

"Well said," Beaver told me. "We must always keep in mind that those special interests he's flailing are the ones he and Nancy keep inviting over to the White House for dinner. And those tax reform stonewallers that he holds up to ridicule are the very corporate types that keep meeting in the President's kitchen. The biggest mistake we could make is to take seriously anything Ronald Reagan says on the road."

Dumbarton said, "It makes Ronnie happy to pretend he has nothing to do with what goes on here. And I'm one of those who believes that anything that makes Ronald Reagan happy is good for America."

Capehart was still the dissenter. "I have an exception. By demagoguing against this town he takes no responsibility for the fact his Administration is the 'Washington' he is attacking. They're his 'so-called experts' that are running the country."

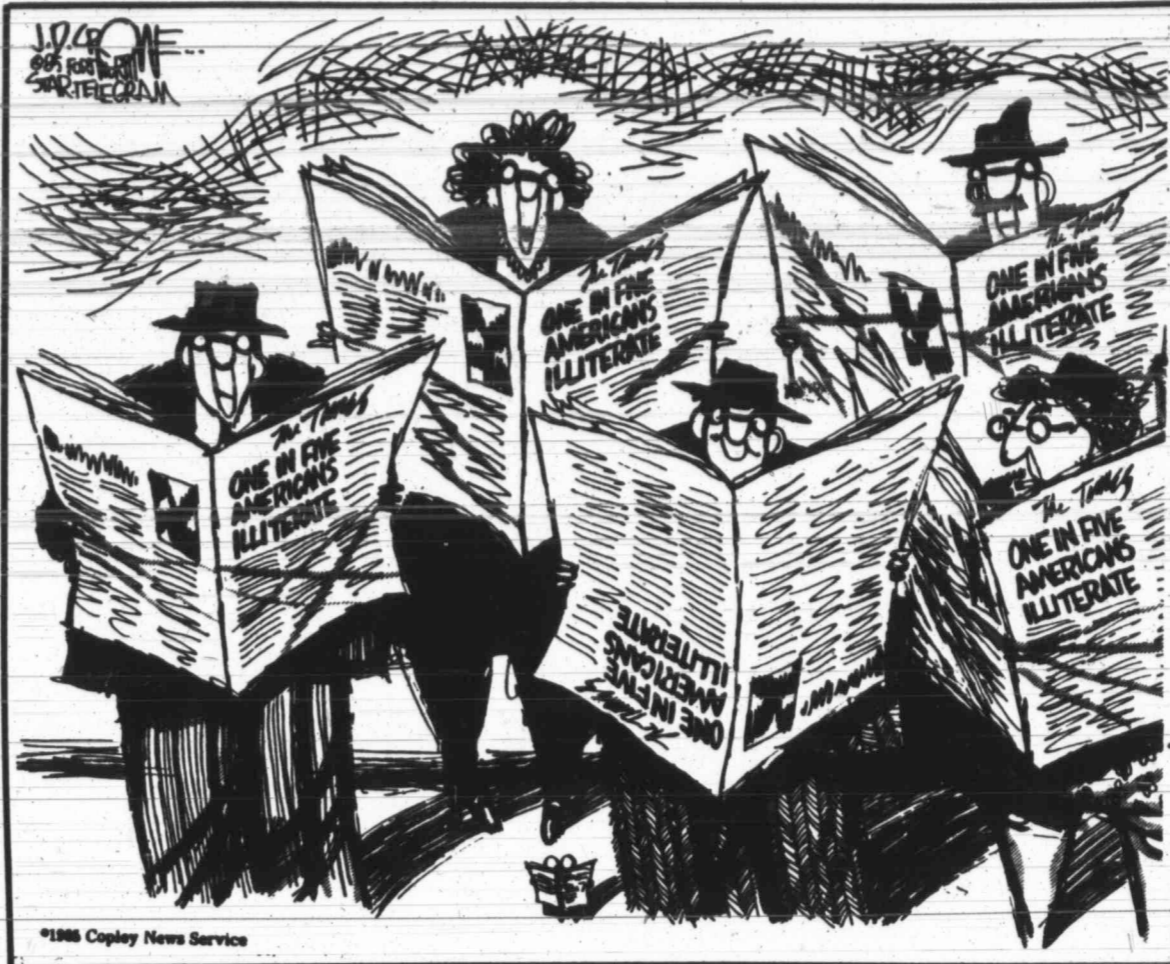

I could see Capehart didn't get the big picture, so I tried to explain it to him.

"The President has discovered you get no ovations from the American people when you defend their government. But he knows he can set them on fire by making them think everyone in Washington is a crook. When Reagan raves and rants about the 'special interests,' he's just invoking his 'make my day' syndrome."

Capehart wasn't convinced. "There's something wrong with all this. Why doesn't he level with Americans and tell them how much it really costs to run the country?"

Dumbarton said, "If you had a $200 billion deficit and your Defense Department was paying $600 for an ashtray, you would only talk about tax reform, too."

Former State job costs Times reporter story

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — The revolving door through which some reporters leave for big government jobs — and later return to the media — can be a tricky apparatus, and every so often someone gets his foot caught.

That's what happened to Leslie Gelb, who went back to work at The New York Times after serving two years as director of the State Department's bureau of politico-military affairs. Gelb's predicament raises interesting questions about this continuing traffic between the world of government secrets and a profession that is supposed to dig them out.

Could a former government official take advantage of his clout when he becomes a reporter again? Sure. Did Gelb? No.

In fact, his brief State Department career cost him a story. But that didn't keep some people — including, apparently, the State Department's current politico-military director, Lt. Gen. John T. Chain Jr. — from suspecting that Gelb had traded improperly on his former position for a story he wrote Feb. 13 on U.S. nuclear contingency plans.

The Times story was based on a top-secret White House document that had already surfaced abroad and caused a brief furor in the foreign press. It revealed that the United States had contingency plans for deploying nuclear weapons in Bermuda, Canada, Iceland and Puerto Rico — but had neglected to tell the governments involved.

But the top-secret document was dated 1975, two years before Gelb's tenure in Foggy Bottom. Chain, who had reportedly been getting some ribbing about the story, ordered his staff not to talk to Gelb. And in a fit of pique, Chain removed Gelb's picture from the wall featuring photographs of past directors and put this notice in its place:

"Removed for Cause. The P.M. Director, 1977-1979, did willingly, willfully and knowingly publish, 1985, classified information the release of which is harmful and damaging to the country."

Chain didn't name Gelb, nor did he say that Gelb had seen the document during his two-year tour at State. But the implication was clear.

The accusation was outrageous, of course, and after a time Chain and Gelb reconciled.

In fact, there had never been any reason for Chain to suspect his predecessor. Ethics aside, why would Gelb have waited more than five years to write a story he had learned in his official capacity?

Gelb obtained the 1975 document from another source — and was astonished to realize that no one had apparently seen fit to disclose its diplomatically delicate contents to the State Department bureau most obviously concerned.

Gelb couldn't recall ever having seen the document during his two years at State. Just to make sure, though, he called friends in his old office and was assured that they were unaware of the document and the policy it described.

For the determinedly scrupulous Gelb, the knowledge that key officials in the State Department had been left in the dark all these years was something he could not ethically write about, since it stemmed directly from the two years he had worked for the government. So he didn't include the information in his story.

Former government employees are forbidden to divulge secrets they learned in their jobs. This time, a meticulous reporter apparently decided he couldn't reveal that, while he was a government muck-a-muck, he hadn't been told a secret that he should have been told.

The mind reels.

Top secrets: determining who to trust

WASHINGTON (AP) — Access to some of the nation's most sensitive secrets starts with Form 1879.

That's the government form that is sent to the Defense Investigative Service in the Pentagon to trigger an investigation into this question: Can this person be trusted with the nation's secrets?

The process is coming under scrutiny — and already has come under criticism — as a result of the arrest of four men with ties to the Navy on charges of passing military secrets to the Soviet Union.

Particularly troubling is the fact that the spy ring apparently operated for at least 18 years. All four of the suspects had passed security checks — and two had been re-investigated and cleared again.

Three of them — John A. Walker Jr., his brother, Arthur, and his friend, Jerry A. Whitworth — had "top secret" clearances and the fourth, John's son, Michael, had access to "secret" information, permitting them to do what top Navy officials say is "very serious" damage to military secrets, particularly coded communications.

A military agency's request for a security clearance, the Form 1879, triggers an investigation intended to turn up any potential damaging material that could make a government employee vulnerable to blackmail, temptation or pressure, such as a history of money problems, excessive drinking, arrests or the use of drugs.

But those investigations may often miss important material because of their sheer number — more than 200,000 were requested last year alone — and because a conflicting maze of legal requirements blocks access to some important material.

"We need to improve our bureaucratic structure for investigations, there's no question about that," Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., and chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said Wednesday.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., one of the Senate's most respected military experts, said recently, "We should do a better job of clearing government and defense workers."

While the military security investigations sound complete, there are big gaps, according to critics like Nunn.

For example, Defense Investigative Service (DIS) investigators have no direct access to the National Crime Information Computer, the centralized data bank that even local police agencies can tap into. If a person is convicted of a crime but that information is not sent to the FBI for some reason, it would not turn up in the "agency check," said DIS officials.

DIS is barred from using the computer system because of privacy safeguards built in after civil libertarians raised fears about "Big Brother" federal dossiers when the system was created 19 years ago.

However, DIS can get access to the computer information by going through the FBI. State privacy laws, the federal Privacy Act, and the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act also keep DIS from looking at records that conceivably could help show whether someone might be a security risk.

One of the biggest problems involves re-investigations, Nunn noted, since "rarely do people enter federal service intending to commit espionage. It is usually after they have been on the job for a time that, for a variety of reasons, they become vulnerable to Soviet recruitment attempts."

There are no re-investigations done for people with "confidential" and "secret" clearances, DIS officials said.

Individuals with "top secret" access are supposed to be rechecked every five years as a matter of Pentagon policy, but the DIS is so overworked that 17 years, on average, pass before people are rechecked, according to congressional sources who spoke on condition they not be named.

After the DIS finishes its work, the results are sent back to the agency, which then decides whether to grant the clearance. This means different agencies, such as the Navy or the Marines, can reach different decisions on basically the same kind of information, according to Pentagon sources, who spoke on condition they not be named.

The DIS has 1,555 investigators to do its background checks. The investigators, operating from their headquarters in Baltimore, Md., do three different types of investigations, depending on the request.

The two lowest levels of classification — "confidential" and "secret" — trigger a so-called "national agency check," in which the FBI is asked for any records it has on the individual.

The next highest level is "top secret," which involves a "national agency check" along with a probe of credit references, local police agencies, interviews with friends or co-workers and a personal interview with the applicant.

The highest level is for compartmentalized levels beyond "top secret," in which more thorough checks are done.

Security clearances aren't conducted only for military people. Civilians seeking jobs which would give them access to sensitive materials — in the State Department, the CIA, even for congressional committees — must first get clearances. Employees of many defense contractors also must be cleared in order to work with secret papers.

NBC is going to scrutinize our profession again tomorrow night when it airs "John Chancellor Looks at Journalism — Warts and All."

(I like that title).

Since big shots like Ben Bradlee of The Washington Post and John Seigenthaler of The Nashville Tennessean are going to match wits before nationwide television viewers, a feller such as I here in the nowhere land of West Texas might feel kinda overshadowed by these big shots.

I don't. In fact, I've got some secrets to share about this business to people who have to deal with newspaper reporters.

• Never trust a reporter who uses a mini-taperecorder. Reporters are not mechanically inclined. Gosh darn, first it was a typewriter and now its these computers...

• Never trust a reporter who calls his editor "chief." Editors do not like this title. They would rather be called "sir."

• Be dubious of attractive female reporters. They have an inbred quality of being able to get right at the source of a big news story. This can be dangerous. These female reporters usually need to be rescued from dangerous situations as the result of their snooping.

• Be wary of telephone booths near the scene of news events. They are used for more functions other than just placing telephone calls. Also, beware of alleyways and public restrooms.

• Do not trust mild-mannered looking male reporters. These guys are using their reporter status to disguise who they really are.

And that's the issue at stake here. These guys are from outer space and they can fly. They are able to leap from tall buildings with a single bounce. They're faster than a speeding bullet and able to stop locomotives.

Did you ever look up into the sky and thought you saw a bird or a plane?

No — it was a newspaper man and you know his name.

That's what NBC's White Paper special will fail to reveal about the profession tomorrow night.

So watch it with a grain of salt.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

American father, son snared twice in bizarre hijackings

LARNACA, Cyprus (AP) — An American father and son trying to leave Beirut were twice snared in a bizarre eye-for-an-eye hijack episode that ended when a suspected Palestinian hijacker surrendered in Cyprus.

Landrey Slade, 53, assistant president of the American University of Beirut, and his son, William, were on board a Jordanian airlines plane that was hijacked Tuesday in Beirut, and a Middle East Airlines jet that was commandeered Wednesday as it neared Cyprus.

They were attempting to leave Beirut for the graduation of Slade's older son, Lawrence, Jr., from Georgia Tech on Sunday. William Slade, 18, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from his hotel room in Larnaca, Cyprus, after the second hijacking ended: "We are fine ... It wasn't bad, but it isn't something we want to talk about."

Asked where he and his father planned to travel next, he laughed and said: "You mean fly somewhere? I'm not sure yet."

But they departed Cyprus this morning on a British Airways flight to London.

"Please God, let it be true," was the only reaction from Slade's 82-year-old mother, Gladys, in Wayland, Mass., when news reports said her son and grandson had been freed after the second hijacking.

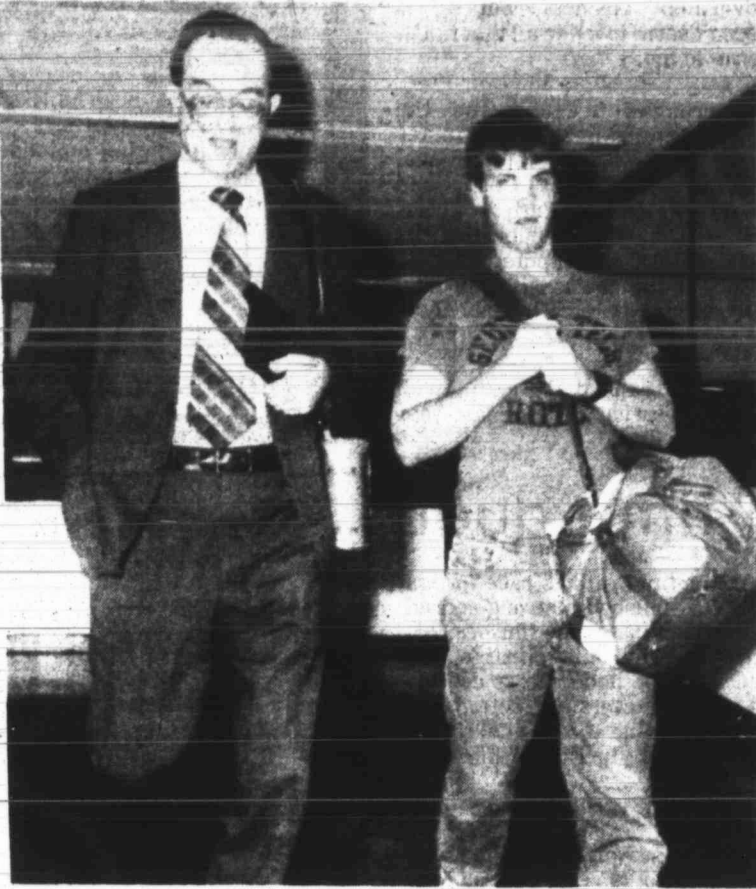

In Amman, Jordan, authorities took the suspected Palestinian hijacker of the Middle East Airlines jet into custody today.

Jordanian officials did not identify the young man they rushed past reporters at Amman's airport.

That hijacking apparently was in retaliation for the Tuesday hijacking of a Jordanian jet by Shiite Moslems in Beirut, which ended Wednesday when the Shiites destroyed the plane with three explosions.

No one was hurt in either incident. The Shiites, who had demanded expulsion of Palestinian guerrillas from Beirut, got away. The Palestinian, who said he was protesting the Shiite assault on the Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut, surrendered after releasing his hostages and asked to go to Amman.

Both hijackings apparently had their roots in the three-week-old fight between Palestinian guerrillas and Shiite Moslems for control of Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut.

Professor Landrey Slade and his son, William, 18, arrive at Heathrow Airport in London Thursday from Larnaca, Cyprus, enroute to New York. Both were unwitting victims of Wednesday's two hijackings, one in Lebanon and the other in Cyprus.

48 states, other nations serve as N-battlefields

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-eight of America's 50 states and more than five dozen nations around the world are now "on the front lines" of any nuclear battlefield because of the growth of a huge infrastructure needed to support nuclear forces, a book published Thursday asserts.

The book, entitled "Nuclear Battlefields," also concludes that more than 50,000 nuclear warheads are stockpiled or deployed by the five major nuclear powers — the United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The United States has deployed or stored its nuclear weapons within the borders of 28 states, on the island of Guam and in eight foreign countries: Belgium, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Turkey, Britain, West Germany and South Korea, the authors add.

South Carolina contains the greatest number of nuclear warheads, with New York in second place and North Dakota in third, the book says. The largest nuclear storage sites within the United States are the Seneca Army Depot in New York; Barksdale Air Force Base, La.; Kirtland AFB, N.M.; and Nellis AFB, Nev., it says.

The Soviet Union appears to have deployed nuclear warheads in at least four foreign countries — Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary and Poland. Britain has some nuclear weapons deployed in West Germany, while France and China maintain their arsenals within their borders, the book says.

But such proliferation ignores a network of research and production facilities, radar sites, communication and surveillance centers, weather stations, command posts and observatories and oceanographic and seismic laboratories that "have become more important than the weapons themselves," conclude authors William Arkin and Richard Fieldhouse.

Arkin directs the Nuclear Weapons Research Project of the Institute for Policy Studies, a liberal research organization that has frequently criticized Pentagon and Reagan administration policies. Fieldhouse is a research associate at the institute.

Such "nuclear-related" facilities are now located throughout the globe. Within the United States, only Delaware and West Virginia "house no nuclear infrastructure facilities."

A new emphasis on "post-attack" communications is leading to the creation of the Ground Wave Emergency Network, consisting of a grid of 300 to 500 unmanned, radio-relay towers the book says. One result, the authors conclude, "will be to put targets into towns across America."

In short, the development of specialized facilities needed to support a nuclear planning and nuclear war has created "a new geography," say Arkin and Fieldhouse.

Gorbachev displays a new Soviet leadership

MOSCOW (AP) — In the 100 days since he took power, Mikhail S. Gorbachev has laid to rest the image of an aging and infirm Soviet leadership with personal vigor, calls for economic reform and a flair for publicity unsurpassed in Kremlin history.

Gorbachev, 54, is spearheading the modernization and discipline drive on which he has staked the course of his leadership, using vivid and tough oratory that appears to affect even jaded Communist Party audiences.

As head of the Communist Party he has started putting his own men into power. In July, the nominal Soviet Parliament is expected to make him president as well as party general secretary.

After launching a new round in the anti-alcohol battle, Gorbachev unveiled some of the economic programs he has been promoting so enthusiastically.

Most details aren't public yet, but Gorbachev served notice that the Politburo wants serious reforms in the lumbering, centralized system.

Occupied with domestic problems, Gorbachev has not put his stamp on foreign policy since succeeding the late Konstantin U. Chernenko on March 11.

Since his ability to reshape the Kremlin power structure to ensure his future and achieve his goals has yet to be fully tested, Gorbachev's major contribution so far has been one of style.

His vigor and self-assurance contrast starkly with Leonid I. Brezhnev's final years and the brief tenures of the aged and ailing Chernenko and Yuri V. Andropov.

When they appeared in public, Western reporters and diplomats scrutinized every move for signs of illness. Their absence from major events was bigger news than their presence.

But Gorbachev has made public appearances routine and has lent his own modern style to his official activities.

V.I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, was famous for mixing with the public. But that tradition died with him and even the idolized Josef Stalin remained a remote figure seen only at parades and other ceremonies. Nikita Khrushchev had a habit of going to exhibitions and Brezhnev ventured outside the Kremlin in his early years. Andropov and Chernenko both visited Moscow factories.

But none has left the cloistered halls of power as regularly and dramatically as Gorbachev, sometimes with the stylish Raisa Gorbachev at his side.

Gorbachev has received the usual series of foreign visitors. But he also visited a Moscow art show in June, Leningrad in May and a working region of Moscow in April.

These trips, more Western than Soviet in style, displayed a sophistication in using the trips to cultivate an image of a man of the people.

Corporate heads oppose tax plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chiefs of some of the nation's largest corporations told Congress Thursday their firms are willing to give up special benefits as the price for overhauling the federal income tax. But they roundly denounced a provision that would impose a retroactive tax increase on business.

"We believe that reform of the tax system is essential to social and economic progress," Roger B. Smith, chairman and chief executive of General Motors Corp., testified to the Senate Finance Committee. "Tax reform is the right thing to do."

Although the giant automaker, whose revenues last year approached $84 billion, could lose by giving up some current tax benefits, Smith added, "we believe the benefits of a healthier economy resulting from rate reduction and increased fairness can outweigh these costs."

Computer giants may merge

DETROIT (AP) — Burroughs Corp. and Sperry Corp., two of the world's largest computer makers, announced today they have opened negotiations aimed at a merger of the companies in what could be a $6 billion deal.

Burroughs, headquartered here, and New York-based Sperry released a joint one-sentence statement saying "they are engaged in negotiations with respect to a common stock merger of the two companies."

Burroughs spokesman Irving Geller declined further comment. Sperry, with sales of $5.2 billion in 1984, is the larger of the two companies. Burroughs' 1984 sales totaled $4.9 billion.

Besides computers and related equipment, Sperry has interests in defense electronics, aviation controls, and farm equipment. Bur-

Burroughs' business is limited almost entirely to computers.

"The biggest problem they're going to have is how to meld the two very different product lines," said Dave Terrie, senior analyst with The Yankee Group, a Boston-based market research and consulting company.

"It will probably make them more competitive, but it is not certain that one and one is going to make more than two. It may in fact make less than two," Terrie said. "You've got two incompatible product lines," said George Elling, analyst with Oppenheimer & Co. in New York. "You can see some synergy in trying to compete for government business, but ... it doesn't seem to make all that much sense to me."

Burroughs in 1984 was the world's third-largest computer company — behind International Business Machines Corp. and Digital Equipment Corp. — according to rankings published by Datamation, a computer publication. The rating was based on data-processing-related revenue only of $4.5 billion.

Sperry ranked seventh, with data-processing revenue last year of $3.47 billion.

NBC, CBS ready for prime time duel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC and CBS, expected to continue next season their current fierce battle for prime time leadership, already have come out swinging, criticizing each other's audience and programs.

Last week, Harvey Shephard, CBS' senior vice president for programming, said NBC's new hit, "Highway to Heaven," "has a good following with older people in rural areas ... who had johns (bathrooms) in the backyard."

On Wednesday, Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC Entertainment, addressing the same group of TV reporters, sniped back: "The 'Dukes of Hazzard' audience didn't even have johns." (That CBS series was canceled last season after a lengthy run.)

And the beat goes on. CBS thinks NBC's audience is too young. NBC says CBS' viewers are too old. Much of this back and forth is good-natured fussin', but some of it also is hard-edged feudin'.

CBS has won the prime-time ratings race for six consecutive seasons. NBC finished a strong second last season after a decade of last-place finishes.

Besides the matter of pride and prestige, the rivalry between NBC and CBS underscores conflicting attitudes about whose viewers are better consumers and thus more valuable to the advertisers whose commercials ultimately fuel the prime-time business.

The issue has been called the great "Demographic Debate."

NBC was the leader last season in kids and with men and women aged 18 to 49. CBS led in total households and viewers over 50.

Shephard said younger viewers don't have the discretionary income older viewers do, and Bud Grant, president of CBS Entertainment, said bluntly, "much of NBC's audience is not desired by most advertisers."

Reagan honors 'B+' students

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is sending pins and certificates to 761,139 school pupils who proved their academic fitness by getting B-plus averages or better, the Education Department said Friday.

The program, in its second year, is modeled after the Presidential Physical Fitness Awards program that Lyndon Johnson began in 1966.

The new Presidential Academic Fitness Awards are for students graduating from elementary, junior or high schools.

Dr. Donohue

Overactive thyroid should be treated

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please give me advice on treatment of an overactive thyroid gland? My doctor is urging "burning out" the gland with nuclear medicine. He tried controlling it with drugs. They didn't help, but affected my liver. I am female and normally active. Can you see any reason why I should undergo this nuclear treatment and then have to take medicine afterward? I have ordered your booklet on the subject. — P.F.

You neglected to tell me what kinds of symptoms of the gland's you were having. For most, an overactive thyroid causes conspicuous signs related to the outpouring of the gland's hormones. The revved-up metabolism brings weight loss, tremors, intolerance to heat, sweating, diarrhea, and weakness — and for a woman, like yourself, perhaps changes in menstruation.

Should this be treated, even when, as apparently is the case with you, the symptoms are slight? Yes, usually, and the best treatment is the one that works best.

You've already eliminated one possibility, the use of medicine to stop production of hormone in the gland. That caused unacceptable side effects for you. That leaves two options. One is scalpel surgery to cut out gland tissue and stop production that way. The other is nuclear medicine, which your doctor now feels is best. I know the term "nuclear medicine" may sound a bit ominous, but it really quite common and safe.

It's surgery without cutting. The doctor administers iodine that has been rendered radioactive. Because the thyroid tissue likes to soak up iodine the radioactive substance will head straight for the gland and selectively kill its tissue. The outpouring of excess hormone will stop and your body will revert to normal activity.

If you feel the least bit uneasy about your doctor's suggestion you have a perfect right to have another opinion. Neither your doctor nor I will feel slighted. You'll find all this reviewed in greater

Dear Abby

Couple fears theft could cause feud

DEAR ABBY: An expensive piece of jewelry was taken from our home recently. The sad part is that we have good reason to suspect a teenage relative who visited us at the time.

The young relative reads your column faithfully, so perhaps seeing this in your column might result in the piece being quietly returned. There would be no questions asked.

We carry insurance, but if we report the loss to our insurance company, they will insist on a police report, and the police will want a list of people who were in our home at the time in order to question them. We are afraid that our young relative might break down under questioning, which would cause very bad feelings in the family.

Should we get the law involved in this? Or should we risk talking to the parents? We've considered talking directly with the teen-ager, but if said teen-ager denies taking it and tells the parents of the accusation, it still spells family trouble.

We are waiting for your answer. We want to help — not punish — the young person, Abby. To me that is more important than getting the jewelry back.

A LOVING (AND HURT) RELATIVE
DEAR RELATIVE: Pass the word around among the family concerning the missing piece, stressing that the insurance company wants a police report, which will include a list of people who were at the house at the time. If that doesn't cause the piece to turn up, then speak privately to the young person you suspect. If that doesn't bring results, proceed with the routine report to your insurance company.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Microdot is the newest child safety measure

BERWICK, Pa. (AP) — The dot on 10-year-old Jessica Bishop's tooth is something she says "lots and lots of kids" should have.

Called a dental microdot, it is a tiny spot of information about the size of the letter "o" on a typewriter that is the new wave in personal identification.

Steven Bishop, a dentist and Jessica's father, applied her dot last month. He expects to do a lot more dots as word spreads through his eastern Pennsylvania town.

"I feel safer now," Jessica said, referring to the possibility of any mishap in which she could not tell people where she lived. "I think lots of kids should have this — lots and lots of kids."

"If this thing does catch on and a lot of people have it, it'll be the first spot people will look" in emergency situations for identification or with missing children, Bishop said.

The widespread publicity about missing children has spurred development of the dots, some producers say, although they emphasize that the dots can be used to identify both children and adults.

"It's a hot item right now," said pediatric dentist Roland Hansen of Rolling Hills Estates, Calif., one of the most recent developers of a micro-identification system marketed by CODENT, Inc.

Teeth have long been considered the final element in identification, but better dental hygiene and fluoridation have reduced the number of children with cavities and fillings and made it harder to identify them through dental charts.

In a 1980 study of more than 3,000 nine-year-olds, the Atlanta-based Centers for Ten-year-old Jessica Bishop braves the dental chair to show how her father, dentist Steven Bishop, recently applied a dental microdot, a tiny piece of microfilm containing identifying information.

Disease Control found that 51 percent never had a cavity, said American Dental Association spokeswoman Cathy Penesis.

Five companies have sprung up around the country in less than a year, four in the last six months alone, to produce and market the dots. They claim they've sold thousands to dentists around the country.

The Chicago-based American Dental Association, which has 134,000 members, is considering whether to set standards for dots, an upsetting prospect to some producers. A decision on the ADA's

"microdisk proposal" could come as soon as this weekend at the association's Board of Trustees meeting in Washington, said Kendall Beacham, secretary of the Council on Dental Practice.

The systems used by the various companies, as well as the one under consideration by the ADA, all differ, some only slightly.

There are two basic types of dots. One lists pertinent information, such as name, address, emergency contact numbers and medical history in a microfilm format that can be read when magnified. The second type lists only a patient identification or Social Security number and has a toll-free telephone number to call for more information.

The dots are made of either stainless steel or plastic, come in round or rectangular shapes and cost about $15, including a spare. They're bonded to a tooth with a liquid plastic, as are many braces, in a process that takes about 15 minutes and requires no anesthesia.

Their average life expectancy is about six years or as long as the bonding material holds. Both the dentists and the ADA say they don't harm the tooth.

Many dentists have questioned whether the ADA should market its own dots; others have said the ADA took the best its members had to offer for the association's use.

Beacham said the companies producing the dots "tend to be small and local, and I don't think that's what the public needs. The public needs confidence in a national system."

INS agents break up 'Operation Matrimony'

MIAMI (AP) — "Operation Matrimony" netted indictments of 30 people in what officials called a multimillion-dollar ring that arranged weddings so illegal aliens could get residency status, authorities said Thursday.

Since 1982 hundreds of aliens, mainly Haitians, paid $2,500 to $5,000 in bids to win residency, said Perry Rivkind, district director for the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"It's a form of prostitution," Rivkind said. "Other people have waited for years to come in legally."

Of 14 people arrested Thursday in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties, four were "matchmakers" and 10 were either U.S. residents who married for money or the Haitians who had entered into the matches, he added.

Police expect to arrest the remaining 16 people who were indicted, one a wedding arranger and the rest phony spouses.

"This operation is large and organized and probably responsible for $1 million to $3 million yearly," Richard B. Smith, a supervisor with the INS in Miami.

The new residents were eligible to apply for federal and state aid, such as welfare. "We saved the taxpayers, just in Dade County, $3 million by uncovering this type of fraud," Smith said.

Indictments charged marriage middlemen with several counts of defrauding the government by arranging the weddings. If convicted, they face prison terms of five years and fines of between $5,000 and $10,000 on each count, Smith added.

Indictments charged the in-name-only spouses with various counts of fraud and misuse of visas, permits and other immigration documents. These charges carry penalties of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The Miami Herald reported Thursday that many of the hired spouses married more than one alien and some have married as many as 11 times — without bothering to divorce in between.

A valid marriage to a U.S. citizen qualifies an immigrant for permanent residency status in this country. If the marriage lasts two years, the new resident can then live and work in the United States indefinitely.

A marriage license and an interview is often the only proof INS officials use to determine whether a couple is legitimately married.

"They'll ask you everything from what color is her underwear? What size? Who sleeps on what side of the bed? Whose clothes are on what side of the closet? Does the bed have feet or wheels on it?" Carmen P. Hernandez reportedly told a pair of Herald reporters posing as a Haitian with immigration problems and his friend.

Ms. Hernandez is director of Luzcar Immigration Counseling and offers two weeks of intensive study to prepare a couple to answer such questions, for $4,000, the newspaper said.

Auto sales skyrocket 15.5 percent in June

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic carmakers Thursday reported their best early June sales since 1978 with a rate 15.5 percent above the healthy pace of a year earlier.

The gains were made despite the expiration of many factory sales incentive programs, leading analysts to conclude that the new-car market remains strong after nearly two years of brisk sales.

Sales by the seven major manufacturers for the June 1-10 period totaled 216,565, compared with 187,482 a year earlier.

Average sales per day came to 27,071, the best for the period since 31,475 a day in early June 1978.

Among the Big Three, General Motors Corp. sales were up 16.7 percent above last year, Ford Motor Co.'s rose 14.4 percent and Chrysler Corp.'s were up 20.7 percent.

Each of the Big Three had a market share within a percentage point of its showing last year. GM accounted for 59.8 percent of the domestic cars sold in the period. Ford had 24.4 percent and Chrysler, 13 percent.

Among the small companies, American Honda Motor Co. Inc.'s sales of Ohio-made cars were down 34.1 percent, American Motors Corp. sales were down 27.4 percent and Volkswagen of America Inc.'s sales were low, but still 18.7 percent above last year's pace.

"These numbers are a nice, positive surprise," said Joseph Phillippi, automotive analyst at E.F. Hutton in New York. "The encouraging thing is that there's decent momentum in the market without having to hit the customer over the head with incentives."

Sales for the year so far came to 3,854,734, which is 4 percent ahead of 3,706,455 at the same point a year ago.

Foreign companies only report once a month, so no June 1-10 totals were available for them.

Rising energy prices drive up inflation

Staff and wire reports
Rising energy prices more than offset sharply lower food costs in May and sent the wholesale inflation rate up 0.2 percent, the government said today.

The 3.4 percent gain in energy prices compared with a 5.3 percent increase in the preceding month. Analysts have said the spurt in such costs, which began in March, probably has about run its course. Evidence of softening on world petroleum markets is already evident.

A Permian Basin oil official said the rise in gasoline and natural gas prices has been artificially created.

"It's not rising at the wellhead," said Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Oil Association. "It's just what they can get away with. There's no justification for the increases."

Thompson said prices for petroleum products have been falling on the wholesale and futures markets in recent months. "Ask any producer out there, and you'll get an emphatic answer," he said.

Gasoline prices were up 3.8 percent after a 9.5 percent rise in the preceding month. Heating oil rose 0.4 percent after a 10.2 percent gain. Natural gas prices, however, rose 4.7 percent after a slight decline in the previous two months. All of the energy price calculations lag a month behind the rest of the index.

Food, the other major component of the Labor Department's Producer Price Index, fell 1.1 percent in May, the sharpest drop since an identical decline in April 1984. Those prices have not risen since December and have showed declines in four of the last five months.

The largest declines were for fresh vegetables and fruits, beef and veal, fish and coffee. Prices rose modestly for bakery goods, pork and poultry.

Mario Jaimes, a vice president of the Jalisco Mexican Products Inc., speaks to reporters outside of the firm's Artesia headquarters and plant Thursday afternoon. The company's Jalisco-brand cheese is linked to at least 86 illnesses and 28 deaths. A recall was ordered and the cheese factory closed down temporarily.

Killer cheese

28 stillbirths, 87 cases linked to contaminated product in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Twenty-eight deaths or stillbirths out of 87 cases of sickness were linked to contaminated cheeses sold mostly to Hispanics, state health officials announced as they ordered the products removed from stores throughout California.

The manufacturer of the cheeses closed down voluntarily. Most victims of the flu-like illness that has struck since April were women and their children, and all were in Los Angeles and neighboring Orange counties. But state authorities Thursday ordered all cheese produced by Jalisco Mexican Products Inc. off market shelves.

The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta said bacteria called Listeria monocytogenes were detected in samples of Jalisco cheese sent by Dr. Shirley Fannin, associate deputy director of health programs in Los Angeles County. She studied 50 to 60 different foods beginning in mid-May after health officials detected a link in a rash of influenza-like illnesses in the two counties.

Ms. Fannin said she learned Thursday that the cheese was contaminated.

Dr. Claire Broom, chief of the respiratory and special pathogens branch at the CDC, said Listeria monocytogenes, "attacks either people who have some underlying disease like cancer, or pregnant women."

"But not every pregnant woman who is exposed will become ill. You can't predict what's going to happen — you can just have a probability."

Ms. Fannin said the infection was being blamed for the deaths of 21 people in Los Angeles County since April. In Orange County, 16 illnesses, 14 of them among Hispanics, led to seven deaths, said Dr. Thomas Prendergast, a county epidemiologist.

Health officials said they realized in retrospect that the cases began two or three months ago in people who had eaten the Cotija and Queso Fresco brand cheeses manufactured by Jalisco.

But the pattern of infection emerged slowly because it involved numerous hospitals in two jurisdictions and the disease, with influenza-like symptoms, is not normally reported to health officials, Prendergast said. Officials said it can be treated with antibiotics.

Jalisco, named for a Mexican state, manufactures white, soft, mild-flavored cheeses often used in cooking. Its factory in Artesia was closed.

"We don't know if it's anything in our cheese," said Stephen Gigliotti, an attorney for the company. "Right now we are running tests and the government is running tests and we'll find out what it is."

Experts from the CDC are working with local health officers and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to inspect the plant and its shipping records, Ms. Broom said late Thursday.

"The CDC and FDA will notify the states where the cheese might have been distributed," she said. "We're also trying to pin down how the Listeria got into the cheese."

Ms. Fannin said the bacteria occur naturally in soil and animal viscera and should have been killed during pasteurization.

"Out of the 71 cases (of illness) that we've studied, 45 have occurred in either the mother, her child or both," she said, adding that "all but one were Hispanic."

State officials said the factory was closed indefinitely and all its cheese ordered stored until it could be collected.

The company notified retailers and distributors not to sell its cheese, said Gigliotti. The rest of its food products were not affected.

Dexatrim, Skoal ads top list for deception

WASHINGTON (AP) — The red envelopes were ripped open and trophies handed out just like Emmy or Oscar night, but the winners of the "first annual" Harlan Page Hubbard Memorial Awards weren't on hand to note their selection — for the year's most deceptive or misleading advertising.

Instead, the makers of Dexatrim diet pills, R.J. Reynolds Co. cigarettes, Skoal tobacco, Miller beer, Volvo automobiles, String Along toys and Uniden telephones, plus the Beef Industry Council, will have to pick up their gold trophies — each topped with a lemon — sometime later.

Named for a pioneer in the advertising of patent medicines, the Hubbards were awarded in eight categories Thursday, selected by a coalition of consumer and health groups.

Reporters and photographers jammed the morning event, though some of the tension usually present at awards announcements was missing thanks to news releases handed out in advance listing the winners.

The event came a day before the advertising industry's annual Clio awards, in which it honors the best ad campaigns of the year.

The bad ad awards were instituted, said Bruce Silverglade of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, because of laxity on the part of the Federal Trade Commission.

He said the groups hope to pressure the FTC to renew its efforts to police deceptive advertising and at the same time to warn consumers of the misrepresentations of the marketplace.

An FTC official denied any reduction in the agency's efforts.

"We do not share the premise that we are doing less in the area of advertising regulation," said Wallace Snyder, FTC associate director for advertising practices. "To the contrary, regulating advertising is one of our priority issues at the FTC."

The first Hubbard went to Dexatrim diet pills, which had been chosen by the Women's National Health Network. The group charged that Dexatrim ads claim safe weight loss, but fail to warn consumers that the product contains the chemical PPA, which may raise blood pressure and thus should not be used by people with hypertension.

Dean Siegal, a spokesman for the manufacturer, Thompson Medical Co., challenged the women's group, stating that no scientific evidence exists linking PPA and hypertension.

Siegal added that the Dexatrim ads state that the product should be used only in accordance with the directions enclosed, and those warn that persons with hypertension should consult a doctor before using any medication.

ON TOUR — Members of "Jubilation," a group of junior high and high school-age youth at First United Methodist Church, are touring a five-state area. They are presenting Allen Pote's liturgical musical drama, "A Season to Celebrate."

'Jubilation' presenting musical across Texas

"Jubilation," a group of junior high and high school-age youth, will present Allen Pote's liturgical musical drama "A Season to Celebrate" at First United Methodist Church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Public invited.

The drama is directed by John Wilson, minister of music and associate minister at First United Methodist. The group left Thursday to make appearances in San Antonio, Georgetown, Corpus Christi, McAllen and Harlingen.

Organized in September 1983, this is the group's first tour. Two bell choirs from within the group will play a 20 minute concert prior to the program.

For centuries the Christian church has celebrated specific historical events related to the person of Jesus Christ and has commemorated these events throughout the year in what is known as the Christian Year, says Wilson. "A Season to Celebrate" focuses on each of the six seasons as they are traditionally observed and captures the essence of each through words, music, action and visual impressions, he said.

Dallas barstools empty with Southern Baptists in town

DALLAS (AP) — The largest delegation of Southern Baptists is attending a convention in Dallas this week, but their teetotaling ways are not bringing much business to local bars, local hotel officials said.

"Needless to say, they didn't hit the lounges much at all," said Greg Rardeen, beverage manager for the Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Dallas.

Rardeen said the hotel had expected sparsely populated lounges, but added, "We have a good drinking group checking in here today."

More than 45,000 Southern Baptists — twice the size of any previous Southern Baptist Convention — turned out Tuesday to vote for a new president of the 14.3 million-member denomination.

Southern Baptists reserved nearly 6,000 hotel rooms, bringing an estimated $4.8 million to lodging, restaurant and entertainment businesses. But most Baptists have not been heading for local watering holes once convention business is done.

Anticipating the dry palates of the Southern Baptist conventioners, some hotels made special provisions for their guests during the three-day gathering.

The Passerelle Bar at the Plaza of the Americas Hotel had an hors d'oeuvre happy hour and publicized a special $2.50-a-glass fruit punch and "other non-alcoholic drinks" on its welcoming signs.

Alphonso Sunpongo, assistant food and beverage manager, said the hotel's drink revenues were down because of the teetotaling guests.

"We'd be a lot slower if we did not have that special for them," he said.

But not all the visitors have been on the wagon.

Alphonso Johnson, a bartender at another bar in the Plaza of the Americas Hotel, said 60 percent of the guests coming into the lounge have had non-alcoholic drinks, while another 40 percent have ordered alcoholic drinks.

The low alcohol receipts "reflect that they are here for business," said Randy Rhea, public relations assistant at the Bradford Hotel.

Christian Bible Assembly offers scholarships

A "Testimonial Write-off Festival" will be held by the Texas Synod of the Christian Bible Assembly's United Theological Seminary of Bishopville, S.C.

Contestants must be at least 18 years of age and not over 25 years of age on Sept. 1, 1985. They also must be high school graduates, active members of a local church at the time of entry, and live in Texas, Louisiana or Oklahoma.

First prize will be a scholarship in the undergraduate school of United Theological Seminary, and the winner will work toward a degree in divinity or theology. There will be 13 runner-up prizes awarded by the preparatory school. These will be full scholarships in the associate of arts program. Contestants will be required to write an essay of 1,000 words but not more than 1,100 words on "What Jesus Christ in My Life Means to Me."

Judging of local contest entries will be Sept. 22. Essays must be postmarked no later than Sept. 7. The local winner will compete at the national level "Write-off Festival" on Nov. 1.

For full contest rules and more information, pastors of churches wishing to enter contestants should write to: Christian Bible Assembly, Synod of Texas President, Rev. Jeff Straub, 1613 S. 37th St., Temple, Tx. 76501.

United Theological Seminary is a fully accredited, interdenominational school of higher learning, sponsored by the Christian Bible Assembly.

Church celebrating 95th anniversary

In observance of its 95th anniversary, the First Baptist Church of Westbrook will host a homecoming and community worship service Sunday. All members, former members and friends are invited. The Rev. Bob Manning is the pastor.

The service will begin at 10 a.m. with a time of testimony and reminiscing. The worship service, led by former pastor the Rev. S.L. Yielding of Wellington, will begin at 11 a.m. The church choir, under the direction of Wayne Pierce, will present music. Mrs. W.D. Whitesides, organist, and Mrs. Charles Ranne, pianist, will accompany. Mrs. Opal Powell, Wayne and Sue Pierce, Tommy Sloane, the Clawson Family and Eddie Ranne also will present selections.

A catered noon meal will be served at Westbrook School following the services.

Fathers to be recognized Sunday

All fathers present will be recognized at the 10:50 a.m. worship service Sunday at the First Church of the Nazarene. Dr. Carl Powers, pastor, will present a sermon for dads. Music will be presented by the Rejoice Choir, directed by Otis Thompson.

Children's Church sessions are in Kid's Korner during the morning service, providing worship experiences for children in kindergarten through 5th grade. Sunday School classes begin at 9:45 a.m. with various methods used for teaching. One class uses video; others use traditional printed literature; some use only the Bible for a textbook. All ages are ministered to through the class structure. Cotton Mize is Christian life director.

"Celebration of Praise" begins at 6 p.m. There will be congregational singing, special music, prayer time, testimonies and a sermon by Powers.

Services begin at Oak Tree church

"Praise, Celebration and Study in the Word" services began Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Oak Tree Restoration Church on North Birdwell Lane, a mile south of the Snyder Highway. Randy Gee is the pastor.

Oak Tree is an interdenominational church. Area residents and visitors are invited to attend the Thursday night worship services or services on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m.

"Our desire at Oak Tree is to love Jesus with our whole heart, to grow in our faith as his disciples, and express our hearts toward God in worship, praise, service and love for the brethren," said Gee.

Midland one of 59 convention hosts

Midland is experiencing a temporary growth in population this month. The reason? Midland is one of 59 cities in the United States selected to host Jehovah's Witness conventions this summer.

A total of 112 "Integrity Keepers" district conventions will be held. Stanley Weigel, spokesman at the world headquarters in New York City, said the events are expected to attract over 1,100,000 delegates.

"There has been a gradual diluting of strict bible laws and principles for many years so that now many people do not know what to believe," said Frank R. Garig about the convention theme. He is the convention manager for Midland.

The convention will be June 20-23 at the Chaparral Center. About 4,500 delegates are expected from Texas and New Mexico.

Church of God sponsoring fun night

The College Park Church of God, 603 Tulane, will be having a "Youth and Adult Christian Fun Night" Wednesday. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

There will be gospel singing, contests, games and refreshments. The attendance goal is 100 youth under 20 years of age and 100 adults over 20.

Admission is free, and the public is invited. For transportation, call 263-3846 or 263-4961 before 6 p.m. Tuesday. The church bus will pick up persons needing a ride between 6 and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Degrate to conduct musical program

The Rev. L.H. Degrate will conduct a musical program at 8 p.m. tonight at New Hope Baptist Church, 1011 N. Runnels. Public is invited.

Degrate is chairman of the educational board for the West Texas Baptist District Association and vice president of the West Texas Baptist District Association Congress of Christian Education. He also conducts workshops, evangelistic services for youth and fund drives. The fund drives are held to raise money to send youth to district and state conventions.

Rev. Richard Vera to conduct revival

A revival will be conducted Wednesday through Friday at La Primera Iglesia Bautista, 701 N.W. 5th. The Rev. Richard Vera, pastor of La Iglesia Bautista El Calvario of Dallas, is leading the 7 p.m. services. For more information or for transportation, call 263-2823 or 263-1139.

Church sponsors stop smoking seminars

The "Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking" will be held Monday through Friday at the Seventh-day Adventist Church, 4319 S. Parkway. The five session video seminar begins at 7:30 p.m.

The video seminar is presented by Roger Morton, a hospital health educator who has helped more than 7,000 people quit smoking. Each session gives suggestions on how to handle the physical and psychological withdrawal symptoms.

The plan has been offered as a community service by the Seventh-day Adventist Church for 20 years with more than 16 million graduates world-wide.

Police and emergency personnel wheel Jerome Roady to an ambulance Thursday afternoon outside the Dallas County Courthouse. Roady shot himself after a state judge sentenced him to seven years in prison for sexually abusing a 12-year-old girl. Roady died while in surgery at a Dallas hospital.

Father pleads guilty to assaulting his daughter, kills himself

DALLAS (AP) — Moments after pleading guilty to sexually assaulting his 12-year-old daughter and being sentenced to seven years in prison, a 39-year-old man fatally shot himself with a .38-caliber pistol in the Dallas County courthouse.

State District Judge Jack Hampton said he had just pronounced sentence on Jerome Roady of Mesquite when the shooting occurred about 4:15 p.m. Thursday in a woman's restroom directly behind his courtroom.

Roady died at 8:50 p.m. while in surgery at Parkland Memorial Hospital, assistant administrator Claude McCain said.

Roady spoke briefly to his wife, who had testified and asked for leniency for her husband, and then apparently requested to use the restroom, the judge said.

"We heard a shot," he said. "... I gave him seven years. I let him say goodbye to his wife, and bam! I don't know where the gun came from," the judge said.

Chief felony prosecutor Rider Scott said authorities believe Roady, a machine operator for AT&T for 15 years, hid the gun in his boot.

Hampton said he was uncertain whether there were any witnesses to the shooting. The bailiffs responsible for escorting Roady were not available for comment.

Defendants on bond are not routinely searched before court appearances, prosecutor George West said.

"That guy could have shot everyone in here," he said.

Two prosecutors, two attorneys, the judge, a bailiff, a court reporter and Roady's wife, Barbara, were in the courtroom immediately before the shooting, but most had left when the incident occurred.

"He (Roady) came up to me (after the sentencing) and said he was sorry it all happened," Hampton said.

Stenholm's son pleads guilty to DWI charge

ABILENE (AP) — Carey Watson Stenholm, 19-year-old son of U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, pleaded guilty Thursday to misdemeanor driving while intoxicated and was put on two years' probation.

The charge stemmed from a high-speed chase involving Abilene police last week.

Taylor County Court-at-Law Judge John Saringer sentenced Carey Stenholm to a 30-day jail term, probated for two years, and fined him $250.

The younger Stenholm remained silent during most of the brief hearing, allowing his attorney, Charles Brownfield of Stamford, to enter his guilty plea for him.

The fine and probated term, recommended by Assistant Criminal District Attorney Mark Westenhover, is the "regular" punishment for first-offender DWIs, Westenhover said.

"It was handled just like any other case," he said.

The younger Stenholm, a Texas Tech University sophomore who listed an Arlington, Va., address, was arrested at about midnight June 7 following a 5-mile chase that reached speeds "in excess of 100 miles per hour," said arresting Abilene police officer Steven Price.

He and a passenger, Robert Ray "Bob" Bird Jr., 19, were arrested for public intoxication. They told police they were returning to Stamford, 40 miles north of Abilene, from an Abilene nightclub.

Chen makes U.S. Open history; double-eagle leads way to 65

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Tze-Chung Chen had never shot a double-eagle and the U.S. Open had never seen one. Not in his 26 years and not in the golf tournament's 85.

But on a Thursday in which lightning flashed across the face of the Monster known more prosaically as the South Course at the Oakland Hills Country Club, Chen ("Just call me 'T.C.' It's easier.") caught lightning in a bottle.

In his first U.S. Open, his extraordinary shot on the 527-yard, par-5 second hole started the fifth-year pro from Taiwan on the way to a 5-under-par 65.

It made him the first-round, one-stroke leader at the front of a seven-man squadron of players who broke par.

Fred Couples, whose driving had driven him crazy for the past three weeks, had driven to a 66 and was the leader in the clubhouse when Chen birdied No. 18 to finish off the round and the Monster.

Mike Reid, Andy Bean, Jay Haas, Tom Kite and Rick Fehr all came in at 1-under 69 and eight others matched par in a 14-hour stretch which, as defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller put it, "showed us all four seasons" with warmth, chill, sun, rain and, through it all, a precocious wind.

Zoeller had a 1-over-par 71. So did Spain's Seve Ballesteros, one of the pre-tourney favorites. So did Curtis Strange, the PGA Tour's leading money winner.

Tom Watson, the 1982 U.S. Open champ who had said par just might be good enough to win this one, came in 5-over 75. Jack Nicklaus was a stroke farther back, as was Lee Trevino.

Chen, whose best finish in four years on the PGA Tour was a playoff loss to Couples in the 1983 Kemper Open, grew up hearing and revering names like Watson and Nicklaus.

For one day, anyway, they can look at him in wonder, and wonder how he did what he'd done. It sounded as though he wondered a bit about it, too. In his broken

English, he really couldn't explain how he'd done it, only that it had happened. "It was a perfect drive," he said of his tee shot at No. 2. "From my ball to the green was 235 (yards) to the front edge, and to the pin was 21. So that's about 255. I took the three-wood. It was perfect. The ball went straight to the pin. I heard the crowd, the people standing behind the green. I knew the ball would be pretty close. I never thought it would go in the hole."

He didn't know it had gone in until he actually reached the green and spoke to the two young standard-bearers, the men holding the scoreboards. He didn't know he'd done what no man had done before at a U.S. Open until the post-round news conference.

"Never?" he exclaimed. "Really?"

Someone asked whether the double-eagle gave him any particular momentum for the rest of the round. "Oh, yes," he said, not quite comprehending the question. "It was a good start."

In fact, he was never less than Open page 2-B

Weaver takes over Orioles' helm

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver, the fiery spirit of the Baltimore Orioles during 14½ years that included four trips to the World Series, returned as manager of the American League club Thursday as a replacement for Joe Altobelli.

Weaver, who had turned down numerous job offers since retiring at the end of the 1982 season, agreed to handle the club through the remainder of the season, after which the situation will be reviewed.

"I think he came back out of loyalty to this organization," said team owner Edward Bennett Williams, who described his dismissal of Altobelli as a "painful experience."

Weaver was not on hand for the announcement at an afternoon news conference, which ended 48 hours of speculation about the fate of Altobelli, and a prior commitment kept the new skipper out of the dugout for Thursday night's game against the Milwaukee Brewers.

Third base coach Cal Ripken Sr., considered a possible successor to Altobelli when the firing rumors started on Tuesday, managed the club in Weaver's absence.

Altobelli, who was beset by questions while the club was in Detroit on Wednesday, was angry during an appearance at Memorial Stadium Thursday morning.

"I thought this was a class operation, but I guess I was sadly mistaken," Altobelli said as he walked to the clubhouse to clear out his office.

Altobelli, who said he was told by general manager Hank Peters in a Wednesday telephone conversation to "hang tough," said he came to the stadium looking for Peters.

But Peters already had departed for Williams' law office in Washington, D.C., to continue negotiations with Weaver. That further infuriated Altobelli.

Walking along the hallway of the club's new offices, Altobelli paused at each door and asked, "Does anybody know if I've been fired?"

At the news conference, Williams said he would not apologize for the way the situation was handled, explaining that he wanted to break the news to Altobelli face-to-face.

"The decision to relieve Joe Altobelli was reached (Wednesday)," Williams said, "and the decision to hire Earl Weaver, and the agreement with Earl Weaver, was reached at 12:30 Thursday."

A meeting was set up with Altobelli at 3 p.m., giving Williams and Peters time to drive from Washington and, Williams contended, "he was told at the very moment we could see him face-to-face."

Williams, long an admirer of Weaver, said he had "as great a record as any living manager in baseball. We went to the best possible resource we could get."

Altobelli, already under the gun because of Baltimore's fifth-place finish in 1984, was under increased pressure to get the team off to a good start this season after Williams invested heavily in the free agent market by signing outfielders Lee Lacy and Fred Lynn and reliever Don Aase.

St. John's heads preseason NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Hometown favorite St. John's is among 16 college basketball teams selected for the inaugural Big Apple National Invitation Tournament in November.

Joining St. John's, a semifinalist in the NCAA Tournament last season, will be Louisville, a semifinalist in the post-season NIT last March. Other teams of note included Kansas, Tulsa, Alabama-Birmingham, Duke, Washington and Texas-El Paso.

The preseason NIT will be played at four regional sites before moving to Madison Square Garden for semifinal and championship rounds.

Hartford, Conn., Cincinnati, Houston and Denver have been chosen as the sites for first and second round games Nov. 22 and 24. The four regional winners will advance to the semifinals and title rounds at Madison Square Garden Nov. 29 and Dec. 1.

Peter A. Carlesimo, the tournament director, said teams committed to the Great Alaska Shootout, Rainbow Classic and Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic at Springfield, Mass., were ineligible under an agreement with the NCAA.

"We feel we have many of the top 20 teams in the country, some in the top three or four," Carlesimo said. "We expect this tournament to be around for many years." Carlesimo said the projected top six teams in the Big Ten Conference were approached for participation in Big Apple tourney but all declined because of scheduling conflicts or participation in the other tourneys.

He said the Big Ten schools indicated they would be willing to participate in the future.

Under the Big Apple format, a team is eligible to play once every four years. As with the Alaska Shootout and the Rainbow, the Big Apple games do not count against a school's 27-game limit.

All the Big Apple games will be held at night, thereby avoiding Sunday conflicts with National Football League games.

Madison Square Garden announced it has reached a multi-year agreement to host the semifinal and championship rounds. Mizlou will handle the television syndication.

Carlesimo also directs the postseason NIT, which has been in existence for 49 years but has long taken a back seat to the NCAA Tournament. He said the postseason NIT would be held in 1986.

The 16 teams in the Big Apple NIT, with 1984-85 records and game sites:

St. John's, 31-4, vs. Navy, 26-6;

Auburn, 22-12, vs. West Virginia, 20-6; Hartford Civic Center.

Philadelphia attacks slumping Mets, 5-4

NEW YORK (AP) — When Jesse Orosco took the mound in the eighth inning in his usual role as protector of another New York lead, Philadelphia's Glenn Wilson hardly pictured himself as a hero.

"All I can remember is two strikeouts and a couple of ground balls," said Wilson, hitless against the Met relief ace since coming to the Phillies last season from Detroit.

So the hot-hitting outfielder threw caution to the wind. He swung hard and got a fly ball into the breeze. It made it over the wall in center field to give Philadelphia a 5-4 victory Thursday night.

National Roundup

"I didn't think the ball was going out," Wilson said. "It didn't have that real good feeling off the bat. It didn't jump. The wind helped it."

The two-run homer, Wilson's seventh, gave the Phillies their third victory in the four-game series which saw them set a slew of club records when they banged out 27 hits in a 26-7 victory Tuesday. The Mets collected 16 hits Wednesday, but had to rally for four runs in the 11th inning to post a 7-3 victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Montreal 9, Chicago 7; St. Louis 2, Pittsburgh 1; Cincinnati 9, Atlanta 2 in 11 innings, and San Diego 3, San Francisco 0.

Wilson also homered Wednesday night, circling the bases on a three-run, inside-the-parker. He has knocked in 14 runs in his last five games.

The 26-year-old outfielder leads the Phillies in home runs and in runs batted in with 42. After going 0-for-3 against Mets starter Ed Lynch, Wilson's homer extended his modest hitting streak to six games.

"He is my best relief pitcher. Jesse is usually effective even if he works two nights in a row. And last night was the best I've seen him pitch all year," Johnson said. "I was looking for him to pitch the same way tonight."

Rookie John Christensen led the Mets with two hits and drove in three runs.

Cardinals 2, Pirates 1 ... Efficient St. Louis got only two hits, Jack Clark's 13th home run, in the second inning, and a seventh-inning RBI double by Tito Landrum.

"That's making the most out of the least," Landrum said. "You might not see a game like this again for a while."

John Tudor, 4-7, scattered six hits over 8 1-3 innings before Jeff Lahti came on to strike out ex-Cardinal George Hendrick on three pitches for his fourth save.

"I've been struggling this year but I feel like I've gotten into a groove the last couple of times out," said Tudor, who has won three straight decisions.

His only blemish was Jason Thompson's eighth homer, in the seventh.

Reds 9, Braves 2 ... Eddie Milner was "just trying to hit the ball hard" when he stroked a run-scoring single to break a 2-2 tie and start a seven-run Cincinnati rally in the 11th inning.

The Reds had been held to only one hit — Dave Parker's 10th homer, a two-run shot in the fourth inning — over the first eight innings by rookie Steve Shields. They managed only one more off three relievers before breaking the game open with seven singles — two on the infield and one a blooper — in the 11th.

"They all count," Milner said of the hits in the final inning.

Dave Concepcion, who earlier had extended his hitting streak to 14 games, started the inning with a single off Gene Garber, 1-3. He scored one out later on Milner's

Cincinnati starter Jay Tibbs pitched 7 2-3 strong innings. John Franco, the third pitcher for the Reds, retired six Braves in order over the last two innings to up his record to 3-1.

Expos 9, Cubs 7 ... Terry Francona rarely gets to start at first base for Montreal, so he tries to make the most of his limited opportunities. He didn't fail as he and Hubie Brooks each had two hits and drove in two runs.

"When you don't play that often you try to at least get in good at bats and hit the ball hard somewhere," Francona said.

San Diego Manager Dick Williams didn't hesitate to summon his stopper despite having what would normally be considered a safe lead, and starter Dave Dravecky, 5-4, didn't mind a bit.

The Giants, in their ninth shutout of the season, hit several line drives which were caught. The Padres turned the last one into their fourth double play of the game, in the ninth inning.

"We've got an outstanding bullpen. Period. The Goose (Rich Gossage) has a great record, and it was an ideal situation for him."

Angels 2, White Sox 1 ... Reggie Jackson, once again rising to the occasion, snapped out of a 2-for-21 slump with a game-winning, pinch-single with the bases loaded and two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning on reliever Bob Fallon's first pitch.

"When you hit the ball enough times, once in a while you're going to hit it solid," said the 39-year-old

Royals 4, Mariners 3 ... Darryl Motley and Jim Sundberg hit home runs and Kansas City starter Mark Gubicza and relievers Joe Beckwith and Dan Quisenberry made the lead hold up in Seattle.

Bill Wilkinson, making his major league debut for the Mariners, struck out Willie Wilson and Lonnie Smith to start the game. But Frank White then singled, Steve Balboni walked and Motley welcomed Wilkinson to big-league life at the Kingdome with a three-run homer.

Sundberg's homer made it 4-0, before home runs by Ivan Calderon and Alvin Davis helped Seattle pull within 4-3 in the sixth against Gubicza, 3-4.

Beckwith preserved the lead over the next 2-3 innings and Quisenberry pitched the ninth for his 12th save.

Minnesota, Puckett hammer Texas, 7-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Kirby Puckett of the Minnesota Twins has been trying to be more selective in finding pitches he can "hammer" this season. Apparently, he is succeeding.

Puckett had three hits Thursday night, including a home run and two doubles, to lead the Twins to a 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"I'm trying to be more patient this year," Puckett said. "I worked in spring training to be a little bit more selective and get a good pitch to hit. I want to go up there and concentrate and do what I want to do. I want to get a pitch I can hammer."

One of Puckett's hammers, a double in the sixth inning, helped key a three-run Minnesota rally that broke a 4-4 tie.

With two out, Greg Gagne, Dave Meier and Tim Laudner hit consecutive singles off losing pitcher Frank Tanana, 1-7, and Puckett then followed with his two-run double.

Red Sox 6, Blue Jays 7 ... Rich Gedman's two-run double sparked a four-run rally in the seventh inning and Wade Boggs had three hits, including a two-run homer.

Boston roughed up five Toronto pitchers, including relief aces Gary Lavelle and Bill Caudill, for 14 hits in overcoming a 6-2 deficit after 4 1/2 innings.

Trailing 6-4, Boggs led off the Red Sox seventh with a walk and scored on a double by Jim Rice. Lavelle, 2-1, gave up a two-run double to Gedman and Marty Barrett singled home the final run of the inning.

"We feel there is no lead big enough to hold us down," said Boggs. "We just go back out there and peck away."

American Roundup

The Twins took a 2-0 lead in the second inning. Tom Brunansky led off with a double and scored on Roy Smalley's double. Smalley later scored on Gagne's sacrifice fly.

Puckett led off the third with his second homer of the season and Gagne hit his first major-league home run, giving Minnesota a 4-0 lead in the fourth. Puckett, after his double in the sixth, also doubled in the ninth in going 3-for-5.

Angels 2, White Sox 1 ... Reggie Jackson, once again rising to the occasion, snapped out of a 2-for-21 slump with a game-winning, pinch-single with the bases loaded and two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning on reliever Bob Fallon's first pitch.

Sundberg's homer made it 4-0, before home runs by Ivan Calderon and Alvin Davis helped Seattle pull within 4-3 in the sixth against Gubicza, 3-4.

Beckwith preserved the lead over the next 2-3 innings and Quisenberry pitched the ninth for his 12th save.

Padres 3, Giants 0 ... San Diego Manager Dick Williams didn't hesitate to summon his stopper despite having what would normally be considered a safe lead, and starter Dave Dravecky, 5-4, didn't mind a bit.

The Giants, in their ninth shutout of the season, hit several line drives which were caught. The Padres turned the last one into their fourth double play of the game, in the ninth inning.

"We've got an outstanding bullpen. Period. The Goose (Rich Gossage) has a great record, and it was an ideal situation for him."

Thinclads experiencing post-Olympic blues

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Injuries, a post-Olympic letdown, the loss of shoe contracts and the lateness of the year's major event have put a damper on this weekend's USA-Mobil Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

That's the opinion of Jim Spivey, the defending champion in the men's 1,500-meter race and the fifth-place finisher in the Los Angeles Games.

"This is a post-Olympic year and the intensity is not there as in the past. We're experiencing a post-Olympic letdown. We're kind of going through the motions now. I think that's a reason why a lot of people aren't competing," explained Spivey, ranked ninth in the world in the 1,500 and second in the U.S. behind Steve Scott, who will be seeking his sixth national title in Sunday's final.

The three-day meet at the Indiana University Track and Field Stadium began today with the women's 10,000-meter final as well as trials in 19 events, qualifying in nine events and semifinals in two events. It continues Saturday with 13 finals and ends Sunday with 25 finals.

Among those absent from the national championships are Edwin Moses, two-time Olympic champion in the men's 400-meter intermediate hurdles; Valerie Brisco-Hooks, gold medalist in the women's 200, 400 and 1,600-meter relay in the 1984 Olympics; Joan Benoit, Olympic women's marathon champion; and Mary Slaney, whose collision with Britain's Zola Budd during the women's 3,000 final was one of the Games' most celebrated incidents.

Despite the numerous withdrawals, there still were many notable entrants.

Leading the way was Carl Lewis, winner of four Olympic gold medals. He was entered in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Other Olympic champions competing included Fitzgerald-Brown;

Roger Kingdom, winner of the men's 110-meter high hurdles; and Al Joyner, gold medalist in the triple jump.

Also entered among the men were long jumper-triple jumper Michael Conley; pole vaulters Joe Dial, Mike Tully, Earl Bell and Billy Olson; high jumpers Jimmy Howard, Dwight Stones and Dennis Lewis; sprinters Kirk Baptiste, Terry Scott and Roddie Haley; 800-meter runners Johnny Gray and Earl Jones; steeplechaser Henry Marsh; distance runner Sydney Maree; intermediate hurdler Danny Harris; javelin throwers Tom Petranoff and Roggy, and Banks in the triple jump.

Among the women, there were Merlene Ottey-Page in the sprints; Kim Gallagher and Ruth Wysocki in the middle distances; Francie Larrieu Smith in the 10,000; Rhonda Blanford in the high hurdles; Latanya Sheffield in the intermediate hurdles; Louise Ritter, Joni Huntley and Pam Spencer in the high jump; Carol Lewis in the long jump, and Karin Smith in the javelin.

The championships qualify numerous American teams for international competitions this year, most notably the World Cup at Canberra, Australia in October.

"But," said Spivey, "that's too late in the year for a lot of athletes. (Joaquim) Cruz (of Brazil, the Olympic 800-meter champion) and Scott told me they're not going to World Cup. A lot of other people aren't going, either."

"If World Cup had been earlier, this meet could have been more attractive. But my season ends in September. I can't train and be doing intervals after that."

Spivey said he wants to peak for August, when the lucrative European season will be in full swing.

three under after that. He followed immediately with a birdie on the par-3 third hole, birdied No. 6, bogeyed No. 7, birdied No. 12, then bogeyed the 13th and 15th.

Then the lightning came and, with it, a 14-minute break in play. Chen said he was worried the delay might hurt his game. It didn't. He closed out the round with birds on 17 and 18.

When he was asked how a young man who didn't take up golf seriously until age 17 had managed to become so good so quickly, Chen's reply was — although he didn't know it — the punch line to the classic joke about how to get to Carnegie Hall:

"Practice."

Couples was 8-over 288, tied for 69th in the Colonial a month ago, 9-over 297 and tied for 45th in the Memorial the next week and missed the cut completely in the Kemper two weeks ago. Last week at Westchester, he had a third-round 82 and finished with a 16-over 300.

"The last few weeks I played horribly," he said. "I hit a bunch of bad shots in the previous rounds. Today I hit only one or two. I drove the ball fairly accurately. ... I feel like I'm back to normal.

"If anyone plays well, they play to their strength. Today, I played to mine, which was driving. ... I have a tendency to give in a little quick.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"IS THERE PROOF IN THIS PUDDING?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Do they have the scarecrow and the cowardly lion, too?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is essential that you use care in financial or practical matters, and also that you do not take too stubborn a position with others who are apt to be in the same frame of mind.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think very carefully before committing yourself to any financial obligations and listen carefully to the ideas of others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to have something attractive at all costs, but could run up against much opposition from others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have assumed a responsibility, and it is up to you to go through with it now honorably.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) See that friend from whom you need a favor, but later steer clear of other friends. Be more alert to danger around you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Everything works fine for you in the morning, but later be careful with credit affairs or you could suffer loss.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go on some fascinating little trip in the morning, and await the afternoon before delving into duties that await your attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Organize your books of record and get bills paid first thing in the morning. Try to please the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what is expected of you by a partner and handle the matter quickly in the morning, before some problematical affairs arise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Decide how to handle your duties better in the morning, and then carry through with other affairs of importance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Early plan entertainments for the weekend and then handle regular Saturday duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are practical now and can get your home improved as you would like it to be. Get busy at it and finish work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early make that important visit and get good results, but later you may find duties boring or difficult.

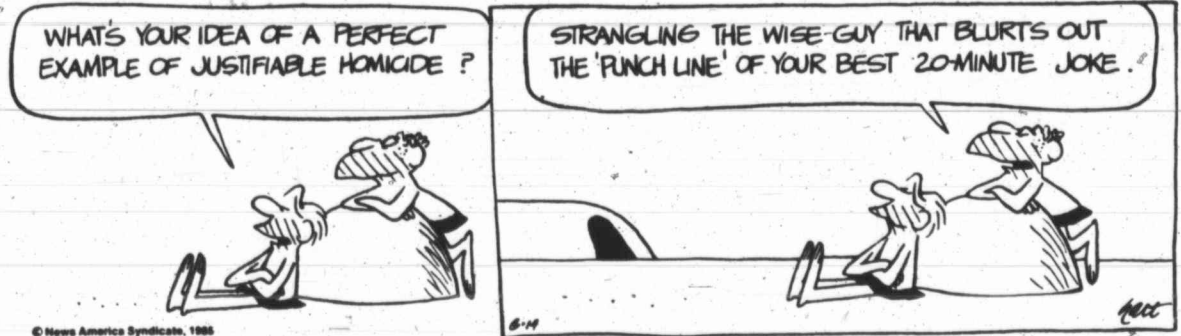

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the chance to have a happy life during adolescence and rightfully so, since later your progeny will get so tied down with business that little time will be taken for the pleasures of life, but will build a solid foundation in life and feel quite content. The later years will be quite happy and philanthropic.
