Drug busts net four; officers raid pot field

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Law enforcement officials Tuesday arrested four persons in two unrelated drug-related busts in Howard County, according to Big Spring police.

The separate raids netted 20 to 25 marijuana plants, which would yield about 20 pounds of the drug, and 7 ounces of what is believed to be amphetamines, according to Police Chief Rick Turner and Lt. Jerry Edwards.

Undercover officers arrested three persons Tuesday evening after buying 7 ounces of what police believe to be amphetamines in a motel room at the Mid-Continental Inn on Interstate 20. The drug's street value was placed at $69,000, Turner said.

Those arrests, said by Turner to include the "major supplier" of amphetamines to Big Spring, were made by police, an undercover officer from the Drug Enforcement Agency's Midland office and an undercover officer from another city.

Earlier that morning, police, DEA agents and a Howard County sheriff's deputy arrested a 56-year-old man on a warrant for suspicion of felony possession of marijuana while executing a search warrant.

He was arrested at 10:30 a.m. after law enforcement officers found 20 to 25 marijuana plants, varying from three feet to eight feet in height, growing in a field three miles northeast of Coahoma, according to Edwards.

The marijuana was concealed by high weeds, according to police.

No formal charges were filed against the suspect in the marijuana raid, and he was released from custody, Edwards said. The name of the suspect will not be released until after a federal grand jury investigation, he said.

According to Turner, charges were not filed at the request of the U.S. attorney handling the case. The federal speedy trial act requires that a suspect be indicted within 30 days after a complaint has been filed, Turner said.

Cases involving "less serious offenders" cannot always be taken to the grand jury in 30 days, Turner said, so the prosecutor asked them not to file charges immediately. "He's not a big-time crook," Turner said.

The warrants were obtained on the basis of information from a confidential informant, according to Edwards. Police officers making the arrest included Sgt. Pam Jordan of the detectives division and officers John House and Rick Burt.

Howard College tuition to double this fall

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Tuition at Howard College will double this fall, college district board members decided Tuesday afternoon.

The move, which would raise in-state tuition to $8 a class hour, will bring the college's rate in line with the other area junior colleges, according to College President Bob Riley.

The Legislature this session raised the tuition at all junior colleges for the next biennium, he said.

"I'm really not in favor of doubling the tuition from $4 to $8 if we didn't have to," said Board Chairman Harold Davis.

"Our other income is cut some. Even if we made it up, we've got to have some additional monies for heating and air conditioning system and to replace two roofs.... We need the money and then some," Davis said.

According to Riley, the in-state tuition rate has not gone up since the 1960s.

In addition, the out-of-state tuition rate also will be increased to a $200 minimum, Riley said.

The board also approved tuition changes at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. A special bill in the Legislature lowered the out-of-state tuition rate to $120 an hour, the same as at other colleges, Riley told the board.

The board also agreed to set a special work session later this summer to discuss necessary improvements in the air conditioning and heating system, roofing, paving and other capital improvements.

"The plumbing is in shambles all over the campus as far as the steam-heating goes," said Riley.

"I saw the pipes go in 40 years ago. We need to develop a scheme that we think today we can live with for the next 20 years," said Dr. P.W. Malone.

Davis cited water damage in the college auditorium, a hole in the projection booth wall and inadequate lighting as problems that needed attention.

In connection with the work on the air conditioning and heating, the board agreed to retain Fannin, Fannin and Agnew of Lubbock as a consultant.

After a short executive session, board members accepted the resignations of three persons and hired three others.

Texas economy tops; future looks brighter

Reports shows sales, production up

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas' economy is expected to have considerable gains in industrial production, employment, retail sales and international commerce, according to a statistical annual report.

The state can look towards a bright economic future partly because of its low tax rates and interest in research and development, according to Texas Facts and Figures, a report released Tuesday by Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc.

"The longterm outlook for Texas looks exceptionally promising. Texas is still the most attractive state in the nation for new industrial activity," said Carol Bennett, vice president and economist for Texas Commerce.

Texas' retail sales of $95 billion in 1984, ranked second in the country to California which had sales of $155.6 billion, according to the Houston-based bank's report.

Ms. Bennett said the retail outlook in Texas continues to be bright, with sales expected to exceed $100 billion this year for the first time ever and rising to more than $150 billion by 1990.

Industrial production in Texas rose 10 percent last year and should increase 6 percent this year and 4 percent in 1986, she said.

Texas has somewhat suffered along with the energy industry in recent years, but still can expect a favorable future because of increased demands in developing countries and the rising need abroad for engineering and energy-related equipment, according to the report.

Among the Texas cities hurt by the energy industry's woes is Houston.

"The city of Houston has received some adverse publicity in the past three years," said Texas Commerce President Charles Beall.

"Reports out of East Coast cities would have you believe that grass is growing in the streets of Houston."

But Beall predicted that Houston will recover from the energy industry woes.

"Houston has both the will and the wherewithal to recognize opportunities and convert them into accomplishments," he said.

Houston's economic outlook is particularly good because of the city's link with the space program, Beall said, adding that commercialization of the space industry will play an important role in economic growth.

Contributing to the city's recovery are an increase of new plants and manufacturers in the area, growing international commerce and commercialization of space.

Beall said he expects the glut of unleased office space in Houston to be eliminated within three years.

In the Dallas-Fort Worth area, construction is the only industry that is not expected to grow significantly in 1985, according to the bank study. Sales in the area will increase to $35 billion this year, compared to $23 billion in 1984.

Wholesale trade will continue to be important to growth in Dallas, where 25,000 manufacturers do business and buyers spend $7 billion each year.

San Antonio also can expect to grow over the next several years because of land availability, a low cost of living and a productive labor force, Texas Commerce predicts.

The medical industry will be San Antonio's primary source of growth, according to the report.

Benjamin C. Zimmerman of Cascade, Idaho, flight engineer of the hijacked TWA jetliner, today talks to reporters from the cockpit window. The plane, hijacked Friday, has been parked at the Beirut International Airport since Sunday.

Hijacked: Day 6

Reagan's game plan is to wait out terrorists

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he has no choice but to wait out the terrorists holding about 40 Americans from a hijacked airliner because to retaliate "would probably be sentencing a number of Americans to death."

Openly expressing his own frustration as the hostage crisis in Beirut entered its sixth day, Reagan nonetheless reiterated his policy of refusing to give in to terrorists' demands while holding his own fire to avoid injuring innocent victims.

At his first nationally broadcast news conference in nearly three months, Reagan acknowledged Tuesday his long-announced policy of "swift and effective retribution" against terrorists has been stymied by the United States' inability to locate and identify the instigators of attacks against Americans.

"Retaliation in some peoples' minds might just entail striking a blow in a general direction," Reagan said. But he added, "If you just aim in the general direction and kill some people, well then, you're a terrorist too."

Later, he added: "I could get mad enough now to think of a couple of things we could do to retaliate, but I would probably be sentencing a number of Americans to death if I did it."

Although he refused to go into detail, Reagan said, "We have used our utmost capacity and intelligence gathering to try and find these people and these places.... I can only say that we have gathered a considerable body of evidence, but I'm not going beyond that."

Modern day pioneers

Rainbow Valley residents see life in a different light

RAINBOW VALLEY (AP) — They've been called "the intellectual simple folk" by Kiplinger Magazine. Some local people term them "sort of strange" because of the houses they build and the philosophy they espouse.

"But members of the Rainbow Valley Association think of themselves as pioneers, they say. They've signed a compact to create homes, neighborhoods and environments which are beautiful, nurturing, peaceful and enduring. "We're all trying to live in peace and harmony, and live and let live, to be like the pioneers," said Ruth Foote, developer of the community about three miles east of Sanger. "I'm jealous of the pioneers. We're trying to have a community that can get back to nature."

The community encompasses 220 acres, half of which will be retained as communal property. The land is hilly and wooded, and a lake is planned soon. When the homes are completed, wild flowers will grow on the roofs, Mrs. Foote said, and from the air the valley will appear almost undisturbed.

Mrs. Foote also was a developer of Whitehawk Valley, near Denton, where the residents also live in earth sheltered or other non-traditional homes. Whitehawk Valley now has about 20 homes, she said. Rainbow Valley has about 10, but most are in stages of completion. Buyers usually deposit a down payment on the land, then start building their house themselves, said Robin Foote, Mrs. Foote's son who built his home in Whitehawk over a six-year period and who now contracts to help others build their homes. "We teach them how to build with the ferrocement (a steel and cement composite in a thin shell). They can build one room and move in, then build the rest as they go along. Most people don't take out loans; they use cash as they go along, and when it's finished, it's paid for," Foote said. There are no electrical lines to the valley and no telephone lines.

Jim Hensell, who lives in a ferrocement dome that will eventually encompass 5,200 square feet, said the lifestyle isn't nearly as uncomfortable as it sounds. Homeowners, join the association and attend meetings once a month. Every new home must be approved by the association as to design.

Woman's death linked to deadly cheese

FORT WORTH (AP) — An elderly woman hospitalized three days after eating cheese that has been linked to as many as 31 deaths in California died today, health officials said.

Liz Romero, 83, died at 1 a.m. at St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Worth, said Dr. Nancy Bowen, assistant health director for the Fort Worth-Tarrant County Health Departments.

But the cause of death has not been determined, and an autopsy has not been ordered, said Susan Pearson, public relations manager at the hospital.

Ms. Romero had been hospitalized since June 16. Leftover Jimenez brand queso fresco cheese was found in her refrigerator and taken to the health department for analysis by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

"She's one of the cases that we know is connected with the cheese," Ms. Bowen said today.

Ms. Bowen said test results should determine if the cheese Ms. Romero ate was contaminated. Ms. Romero was diagnosed as having listeriosis, the bacterial infection blamed for the deaths in California.

Another elderly man remained hospitalized in Fort Worth in critical condition today with listeriosis, which has been linked with certain Mexican-style cheeses, officials said.

Three other patients with the disease have been treated and released from Fort Worth hospitals in the last 2 1/2 months, and one baby is listed in good condition at John Peter Smith Hospital, officials said.

Earlier, erroneous reports of two babies' deaths in Fort Worth were "very unfor-lunate," the result of health department officials misinterpreting information obtained from one hospital, said Ms. Bowen.

The two babies had been transferred to Fort Worth Children's Hospital with early onset cases — present at birth or within a few hours of birth — but both were treated and have gone home, said Dr. Janet Squires, director of infectious disease control at the hospital.

While at least two of the local patients ate cheese manufactured at the same plant as the one implicated in the California deaths, no cause-and-effect relationship has been established, health officials said.

All contaminated cheese apparently was produced at Jalisco Mexican Products Inc. in California. However, it has been distributed in at least 14 states under four brand names.

Showers dot Crossroads area

Yesterday's cool temperatures and light rain brought a welcome break to the hot temperatures the Crossroads Country tolerated last week and Monday.

Temperatures climbed into the high 90s and low 100s in the area on Monday, but Tuesday, a spokesman from the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station said the high only reached 76 degrees. Some additional cooling came from .01 of an inch of rain received in the city, he said.

This brings the rainfall total to 11.97, about four inches above the normal 7.77 inches.

Coahoma seemed to have had the most rain as one-tenth of an inch was reported in the town. Most of it came from a light afternoon shower.

The farming communities of Luther and Lomax had no report of rain.

Gloria Sanders of Coahoma said that one-tenth of an inch was received near her home west of town.

Melva Swinney of Coahoma said she received a trace of rain in her garage.

In Big Spring, Red Thomas said he also received a trace of rain at his home on 107 E. 13th.

Graham and Earnst hiring dates are effective at the beginning of the fall semester.

In other action, the board hired the Big Spring accounting firm of Lee, Reynolds and Welch as the district's outside auditor.

Agent Orange lawsuit

NEW YORK — A federal judge Tuesday increased by more than $1 million the fees and expenses to be paid lawyers from the Agent Orange settlement fund.

In a 162-page decision, U.S. District Judge Jack B. Weinstein increased from $9.2 million to $10.7 million his Jan. 7 order granting fees and expenses to more than 80 lawyers involved in the class action.

The money will come out of the $180 million settlement reached last year by Vietnam veterans and their families with seven chemical companies that manufactured Agent Orange, a herbicide widely used in Southeast Asia.

8 die in airplane crash

BAILEY, Colo. — Eight people on their way to a banquet honoring a law firm associate died when their twin-engine aircraft crashed near the top of 11,970-foot Windy Peak, authorities said Tuesday.

The Cessna 402 crashed Monday afternoon shortly after leaving Jefferson County Airport near Denver for Monte Vista in southern Colorado.

The still-smoldering wreckage was spotted from a search plane Tuesday morning about 10,500 feet up the mountain, officials said.

Authorities worked Tuesday to recover the bodies and remove them from the nearly inaccessible site 35 miles southwest of Denver.

Coke man pulls a no-no

ANNISTON, Ala. — Dexter Gooden said he was laid off for three days for drinking a Pepsi at the Coca-Cola bottling plant where he works.

He said his wife brought him a Burger King lunch on Monday, including a soft drink. Gooden quoted his wife as saying she asked the saleswoman for two Cokes and that she "never told me they were Pepsis."

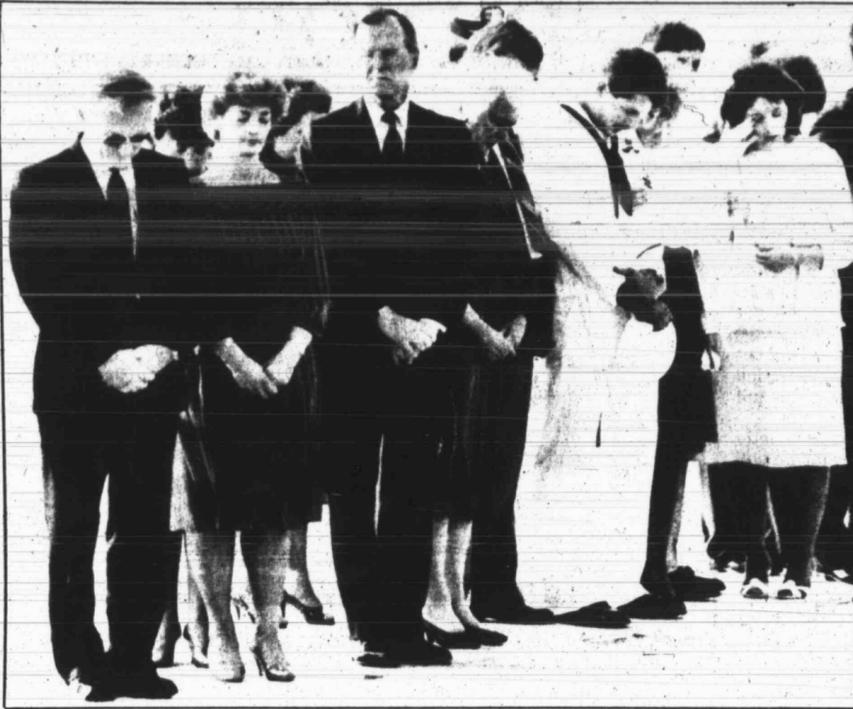

When Gooden took his lunch back into the factory, he was seen drinking the beverage out of a Burger King cup and sent home for three days, he said.

Money laundering ploy

MIAMI — Colombian financier Hernan Botero was found guilty Tuesday on all seven counts in what the government says was a $57 million money-laundering scheme.

The U.S. District Court jury returned the verdict after deliberating more than eight hours.

Botero, one of the first group of Colombians extradited under a new agreement between the United States and the South American country, was convicted of one count of conspiracy to defraud the United States.

Hijacked: Day 6

Rev. Jesse Jackson volunteers to help hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson has volunteered to travel to Beirut with a group of Shiite Moslem leaders from the Detroit area in an effort to secure the release of all American prisoners held hostage in Lebanon.

Jackson, who wants seven Americans kidnapped in Beirut over the last 18 months included in negotiations for the release of the estimated 40 Americans held hostage by the hijackers of TWA Flight 847, said the Shiite leaders have offered to assist in any hostage talks.

Detroit has the largest concentration of Arabs in North America.

"They were willing to use their access to Mr. Berri to help gain the release of the Americans," Jackson said, referring to Nabih Berri, head of the Shiite militia in Beirut.

"There is no force within this country with more direct access to the people involved than the American Shiite community in Detroit."

At a LaGuardia Airport news conference, Jackson said he met Monday in Detroit with Aman Cirri, leader of the Shiite community there, and Abdul Hassan Sawan, who he said was a friend of Berri and talked with the Lebanese leader Monday night by telephone.

Berri has been negotiating with the Shiite extremist hijackers.

"It just seems to me that this is a resource that is too valuable to miss," said Jackson, who in January 1984 negotiated the release from Syria of Navy flyer Robert Goodman Jr.

He said he would go to Beirut "as part of a delegation of American Shiite leaders and as a representative of the relatives."

He said he would discuss his proposal with State Department officials.

Jackson was met at the airport by Michael Suggs, brother of TWA hostage Clinton Suggs; and by Peggy Say and John Weir, whose relatives are among the seven kidnapped earlier in Beirut.

Mrs. Say is the sister of Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, kidnapped at gunpoint March 16. Weir is the son of Presbyterian minister Rev. Benjamin Weir.

Business strike in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel — Gasoline stations and food producers shut down their businesses today in a growing rash of strikes that appeared to signal the breakdown of the government-imposed wage and price controls.

The government imposed the controls last January in an effort to curb the spiraling inflation rate which last year reached 445 percent. The controls, which were to remain in effect until September, were implemented with the agreement of the country's trade unions and industrialists.

But the steps have failed to come up to the government's expectations, and inflation continues to soar at a projected annual rate of about 300 percent.

More unrest in Poland

WARSAW, Poland — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa today refused to answer a Gdansk prosecutor's questions about allegations that he has incited public unrest and been active in the illegal trade union, an aide said.

The prosecutor warned Walesa that he risks imprisonment unless he stops his illegal activities, the aide said in a telephone interview from Gdansk.

Walesa was questioned less than a week after a Gdansk court convicted three Solidarity activists, Adam Michnik, Bogdan Lis and Wladyslaw Frasyniuk, of inciting unrest and illegal union activities. They were sentenced to prison terms of up to 3½ years.

Jailed Ugandans tortured

LONDON — Thousands of Ugandans have been tortured by the country's military forces since President Milton Obote took office 4½ years ago, Amnesty International said Wednesday.

"All but a few of those detained in military custody are tortured," and many have died, the London-based human rights organization reported.

Amnesty International based its findings on medical examinations of 16 people imprisoned at various times between early 1981 and late 1984, and on interviews with other former prisoners.

Soviet N-plant inspection

VIENNA, Austria — An agreement permitting outside inspection of some Soviet nuclear facilities is "in force," but Moscow has not specified which reactors can be checked, the International Atomic Energy Agency said Tuesday.

The agency's director general, Hans Blix, told reporters it was up to the Soviets to decide which civilian facilities would be open to inspections.

Shuttle crew to rendezvous with lasers

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's astronauts delivered a third communications satellite to orbit today and sped on to a rendezvous with a "Star Wars" laser beam.

"We're glad to be 3-for-3," astronaut John Fabian reported as the satellite, Telstar 3D, spun away from the shuttle's cargo bay, giving the crew a perfect record on the trio of launches.

The satellite joins a fleet of AT&T satellites that beam telephone, television and other communications services to the United States and Puerto Rico. It is capable of handling 21,600 long-distance calls at once.

The deployment left one satellite in the cargo hold — Spartan 1, which will be released Thursday to examine what may be a black hole in the center of our Milky Way galaxy. Black holes form when a massive star or a galaxy exhausts its nuclear fuel and suddenly collapses into an object so densely packed that its gravity prevents even light from escaping.

In the first shuttle test of an element of President Reagan's proposed Stars Wars missile defense system, the astronauts planned later today to mount an 8-inch reflector in a shuttle window as a target for a laser tracking system in Maui, Hawaii.

The laser, a tightly focused beam of light, is not meant to demonstrate the ability to destroy an object in space, but rather to gather data on how much the light spreads while traveling through the atmosphere and how corrections for such spreading can be made.

The Pentagon described the beam as low-power.

Reagan rhetoric not at all radical

Ronald Reagan is often misjudged. His rhetoric misleads people. They think he is going to take radical action. But, when it comes time to make a life-or-death decision, he is a moderate and cautious man.

The media in this country and Tass in Moscow were all set for the president to renounce the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty and refuse to dismantle a Poseidon submarine this fall when the next Trident submarine goes out for sea trials.

Big surprise. Reagan announces that he will abide strictly by the treaty's terms. The older and smaller submarine will be put to the cutting torch when the new ballistic missile-firing submarine is ready for action. The SALT limits will continue to be observed, to the letter.

There was a warning. We may abrogate the treaty, or certain of its limits, in the future, if the Soviets don't do a better job of compliance.

Cheers and sighs of relief from our European allies. The new strategic arms control talks can continue in Geneva without disruption.

The Reagan action made sense, at least if you believe:

- A world without arms control would be a more dangerous world for all of us.

- We cannot pursue a new arms agreement at Geneva while unilaterally abrogating old ones.

- And, next time, don't believe the news reports that tell you in advance what awful thing the president is going to do, based on unnamed sources high in the government.

Take them with a grain of salt.

A silent minute just isn't as good

Alabaster was furious as he came in the kitchen door. "They've gone too far," he shouted, waving the newspaper in his hand. "The Supreme Court won't let my kids pray in school."

"I'm sorry to hear that," I said. "Why don't you let them pray before they leave home in the morning?"

"They don't have time," he said with fury. "They have to get dressed, eat breakfast and do their homework. The first chance they have to pray is when they get to their classroom."

I scanned the article. "The court isn't taking away the voluntary minute allotted to meditation. It just struck down the words 'voluntary prayer' at the end of it."

"Why should we let our kids have a minute of silence just to meditate? If they can't use it for prayer then I say forget about it."

"Maybe that's why the Supreme Court ruled against you. It's really a question of separation of church and state. I believe what the court was saying is that the government cannot force prayer on children in a public place."

"That isn't what they were saying at all," he retorted. "They are saying that God can't be in our classrooms and the secular humanists have taken over our schools, and communism has won again, and that this ruling is just what the Soviets have ordered."

"You read all of that into the decision?"

"That and a lot more."

"Why don't you admit it, Alabaster? You don't want voluntary silent prayer in the schools. You want voluntary spoken prayer, with a strong tilt toward the church of your choice."

"That's because we know the truth," he retorted. "Religious truth lies in the church and the home. The minute you bring it into the classroom all hell breaks loose."

"How can you prevent tiny little kids from asking God's divine guidance every morning before class begins?"

"Why can't they do it on the way to class? It wouldn't hurt to pause one minute for a prayer. They wouldn't even have to keep it to a minute. They could pray as long as they liked, provided they are not late for classes."

"God doesn't listen unless they pray in their school," Alabaster shouted.

"Calm down. The ruling doesn't say that the minute allotted can't be used for prayer. It just says the state or government cannot specify it be used for that purpose."

"That's what we are yelling about. By not specifying what the minute is to be used for it bans prayer in the school."

"Alabaster, your problem is that you think every religion calls for prayer whilst standing up. This is not true. Some demand you kneel and bow your head forward. Others insist you sit straight up, and there are some that instruct you to prostrate yourself in a certain direction. Once you bring prayer into the schools you must allow those participating to do it their own way. And as soon as you permit that, you split up the children into religious factions until the classroom turns into Beirut."

I could tell Alabaster wasn't convinced. "The only way now to get God into the schools is through a constitutional amendment," he said. "He'll never get there as long as an atheistic bunch of old men sit on the bench."

"God is in the schools already. It may not be God according to you, and it isn't God according to me, and it isn't God according to Ronald Reagan. But it is God, and for the good of the country that's the way it should always be."

"You should be burned at the stake," Alabaster said.

I knew he was upset so I didn't get angry. "I'm sorry you lost this one, Alabaster. The only thing left to do is for your kids to get up a little earlier so they can pray at home. It will be good for the entire family."

Paranoid federal agency keeps 'secrets' under wraps

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — "The cheaper the crook, the gaudier the patter," an amused Sam Spade observed of Wilmer, the tough-talking gunman in "The Maltese Falcon." In Washington bureaucratic circles, this fact of life translates: The less an agency has to hide, the more it is obsessed with "security."

Surely the glorified air-raid wardens of the Federal Emergency Management Agency are the most paranoid bureaucrats in the government. Desperate to make their little agency appear to be a vital cog in national defense, they stamp security classifications on just about every document but the cafeteria menu.

The latest figures from the Information Security Oversight Office, which keeps track of the way federal agencies handle classification, shows the true absurdity of FEMA's infatuation with its rubber stamp.

According to the oversight office's statistics, FEMA stamped a whopping 30 percent of its classified documents "top secret." By contrast, the Defense Department, which handles far more sensitive information than the civil-defense agency, stamped only 1 percent of its classified material "top secret."

And the CIA, which has information so secret that even its classification is secret, puts the "top secret" stamp on only 5 percent of its restricted material.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., chairman of a House subcommittee on government information, has asked the Information Security Oversight Office to investigate "this apparent disproportionate use of 'top secret' at FEMA." In a letter to the office's director, seen by our associate Donald Goldberg, English suggests, "It may be that the phenomenon of 'prestige classification'... is a fact of life at FEMA."

GRAY MARKET BLUES: Former White House adviser Mike Deaver isn't the only American who found a bargain in a German car this year. Through the end of April, about 20,000 German cars — mostly the fancier BMW and Mercedes models — have been imported through the "gray market" that saves a purchaser as much as 45 percent of the cost in this country.

American Mercedes dealers have been particularly hard hit by the gray market; some 22,000 Americans bought Mercedes in Europe last year, taking advantage of the overvalued dollar. The dollar's strength and the skyrocketing increase in car prices in recent years have made the individual-import system especially attractive; such sales jumped from 5,000 in 1982 to 48,000 in 1984 and an anticipated 60,000 this year.

The savings can be substantial: A Mercedes diesel sedan that costs about $32,000 at a U.S. dealership sells for about $15,000 in Europe. (A similar model sold for $5,600 here in 1970.)

American dealers are understandably upset about the flourishing gray market, and bills have been introduced in Congress to put a crimp in it. The dealers' main argument is that cars bought in Europe don't meet the safety standards required for cars the dealers import.

But there is little or no hard evidence to support this claim, since the Transportation Department insists that all imports meet its safety and pollution standards. The necessary modifications can cost the individual buyer-importer a few thousand dollars, but on a $50,000 automobile the net savings will still be significant.

OUTRAGE OF THE WEEK: The Energy Department announced recently that it will close down its uranium enrichment plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and halt construction of another in Portsmouth, Ohio. It's an economy move that is expected to save $400 million to $600 million over the next three years.

But it will also throw 1,300 workers out of their jobs in an industry that has been depressed ever since the government lifted restrictions on imported uranium. One of the biggest sellers of uranium to the United States is South Africa, which gets its uranium supplies from mines in neighboring Namibia, which the South Africans have occupied for years in defiance of United Nations directives.

Proposed legislation now being debated in Congress would slap an embargo on South African imports, and stop the uranium trade that is putting American workers on the unemployment rolls.

UNDER THE DOME: Pretty soon members of Congress and staff aides won't leave Capitol Hill without their special Diner's Club charge cards. The House clerk's office is setting up a card system similar to the executive branch's, so that members and their aides will have "official use only" credit cards for charging airline tickets, hotel rooms and meals. The hope is that the new system will eventually eliminate the huge load of paperwork involved in travel authorizations, cash advances and reimbursements.

STATE VS. CHURCH: Marxist governments' fear and loathing of organized religion is traditional, but in heavily Catholic Poland the communist regime is reduced to a pathetic rearguard action against believers. Seminary students drafted into the army are isolated in three special camps, where "political education" courses try to wean them away from their faith. The army isn't having much luck converting these demonstrably devout recruits to atheism, but the generals evidently feel the attempted brainwashing will at least discourage the seminarians from proselytizing their buddies.

Straightening out Juneteenth facts

To the editor:

I would like to correct a few errors in Friday's story in which the Herald stated that Juneteenth is a state national holiday celebrating Lincoln's signing of the Emancipation Proclamation on June 19, 1865.

Actually, Juneteenth is not a state national holiday, it is a Texas holiday. It does not celebrate Lincoln's signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, it celebrates freedom of slaves in Texas. Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation was not signed June nineteenth, 1865, but was issued in September 1862 to be effective January 1, 1863.

Since the Confederate States had seceded and were at war with the Union, the Proclamation of January 1, 1863 was only effective in the Union States. After General Robert E. Lee surrendered the War Between the States, April 9, 1865, General Gordon Grainger was appointed Provisional Governor of Texas. When he arrived by ship at Galveston, Texas on June the Nineteenth 1865, he took over the state government and declared all slaves in Texas to be free.

Downtown hassle isn't necessary

To the editor:

My name is W.L. McMullan and I own and operate "The Billiard Place" at 212 Main. Recently we have had problems in downtown that truly seem unnecessary to me.

There have been parking problems for many small business people and water line problems. My water pipes have burst in front of my building, under the curb and almost in the street. This has happened to other places in town and has been repaired by the city. The City Manager now tells me that I will have to tear up the sidewalk and repair all this at my cost.

What upsets me the most is the total indifference and uncaring attitude of the city. If my landlord John Currie hadn't come forward and volunteered to pay all the cost, I would now be out of business.

Even with his help they still haven't come over to repair it.

It seems that the small business people don't have enough problems just hanging on here in downtown where about one-half the buildings are vacant, we must constantly battle with city management, also.

Furthermore the county courthouse repeatedly bills me for taxes on my business for several years that I did not even live in this town or own anything. They have even threatened to sell my property if I don't pay.

I always thought that the city and the businessmen of a city were supposed to work together to make it easier and more profitable and pleasant for everyone concerned.

Obviously it is certainly not this way in Big Spring. Could this be the reason Big Spring is going downhill so fast?

My friends and my family have warned me that if I speak out I will be constantly harassed by the city until I do have to close up and leave.

If this is the case, so be it.

Sound and fury over hostages

By KEELY COGHLAN

Hostages. The word is frightening in the intense images it evokes: hijackings of planes and buses, kidnappings from universities, the storming and bombings of embassies.

Almost five years ago, Americans went to bed with late night news programs with titles like, "America Held Hostage: Day 142."

On the television screen and the newspapers were pictures of terrified, blindfolded people, played over and over in an attempt to identify the hostage.

Terrorism in the years since has become commonplace. Almost daily, the stories of lone assassinations and kidnappings filter in from the Middle East, a reminder of how vulnerable even a "superpower" can be.

It is the great leveler of presidents. Jimmy Carter, who placed his concern for the hostages above his re-election campaign ambitions, was buried in a landslide because of the hostage issue.

Under the administration of the man who replaced him, Ronald Reagan, the acts of terrorism and the single hostages taken have increased. So has Reagan's rhetoric of "standing tall" and retaliation.

His reaction to the skyjacking last week, probably because he remembers the political cost of Carter's Rose Garden vigil, was not to interrupt his vacation until late Saturday or Sunday. He capped it with a speech as futile as any of Carter's about the deplorable methods of terrorism and how the United States would refuse to negotiate their release.

I by no means condone terrorism. But whose lives do you decide aren't worth negotiating for, and why?

What can you do? You try to negotiate and you wait. If you are the Israelis, you can sometimes stage successful raids to free the hostages, such as at Entebbe.

But you can't stage raids unless you know where the hostages are and if there is no element of surprise. You can't always send battalions and armies into an area as a sign of force and expect it to scare terrorists.

In this case, we scared them — into hiding the hostages in a city torn for years with civil war, in a city where they rarely bother to tell you the names of the dead because there are so many.

There are no "right" ways of handling terrorists, except preventing hijackings and kidnappings and bombings.

And so we wait....

Hardy speaks of new trends in Big Spring

Dr. Donohue

Allergy differs from sensitivity

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have had bad skin outbreaks most of my adult life, and only recently did it get bad enough for me to see a physician about my rashes. He took one look at me and said he wanted me to start a food diary test. I now have a list of foods he suspects as responsible. My question might fall into the curiosity category. Anyway, he uses the term, food allergy, but I noticed in discussing this subject, recently you used the term, food sensitivity. Any reason for the difference? Or do they mean the same thing? — K.K.

The two terms do have precise definitions, but the shading of difference is often lost.

A true food allergy occurs when a substance to which most of us can be exposed with impunity kicks up a storm of reaction. That substance, whether in a food or in the atmosphere, sets off a disease-fighting war, marshalling the body's immune system.

Food sensitivity is a bit different. Here, a food (and milk is a classic example) cannot be tolerated by a person because his body is not geared to handling it properly. He may not produce the chemical substance necessary for proper metabolism of it. For example, he may lack the enzyme (lactase) to handle the milk sugar (lactose). Another term for this is food intolerance.

Many times, symptoms of true allergy and food sensitivity may overlap, further complicating a complex illness.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My daughter has a low platelet count and has been diagnosed as having ITP. Can you explain exactly what this is? Is it recurring? — Mrs. J.G.

Let's find the words for those initials. ITP is idiopathic thrombocytopenia. Thrombocytopenia is another term for blood platelet. The "penia" refers to the fact that there is a deficiency of the platelets in the blood. "Idiopathic" is the doctor's way of saying he doesn't know why this is happening. In children, the problem often comes on the heels of a viral infection.

In any event, what is occurring is the body's irrational production of antibodies, which attack its own platelets, causing the deficiency. The platelets become coated with antibodies, permitting scavenger cells to gobble them up.

If this goes on apace, the dearth of platelets leads to easy bruising from the smallest bump.

The situation resolves itself, and three out of four children make a recovery in a few months. In about a year, platelet counts have returned to normal; relapses then are rare. I'll bet by the time you read this your daughter's ITP will be a memory. Let me know.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A recent blood test during a clinic I attended showed my potassium level abnormally low. I feel OK, really. Yet I now wonder if I should be concerned about the finding. Should I report it to my doctor? — R.R.

You cannot evaluate a blood potassium level on the basis of a single test. I don't know what your reading was, but a low level would be below 3.5. Now some people have mildly low levels and are quite healthy. What is really important to know besides the actual reading is a previous level, from which to measure significant drops. Is the person using diuretic medicines that can reasonably account for a falling level?

As long as you are feeling well and are having no untoward symptoms, you need not get excited about a mildly low potassium level. You should just report it to your doctor the next time you see him.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I find that if I take a sip of plain water just prior to putting one of those plastic drug capsules in my mouth I am able to swallow easily. Of course you have to take another drink at the time you swallow the capsule. — C.S.

Fine. Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read the booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About them." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Administrative Assistant for the City of Big Spring, Pat Hardy spoke about "The Emerging Trends of the Public and Private Sectors" during the Desk and Director Club meeting June 11 at Albertos Crystal Cafe.

Hardy says Big Spring is progressive in non-traditional areas and he sees the emergence of a trend of public/private cooperative functions. He also believes the trend emerged because both local government and businesses get their jobs done through people and focus on management of people.

He used the Heart of the City Project and the CLEAN campaign as examples of the government, businesses and individuals working together toward a common goal of making Big Spring a better place to live.

The trend developed, Hardy says, because economic changes in Big Spring placed new demands for changing and refocusing many traditional services offered through local government. Non-traditional needs emerged and there was a lack of technical assistance or leadership to fill this void and secure these needs. They became the responsibility of both the private and public sectors and demanded cooperation from both. A willingness to cooperate by both sectors has helped accomplish many things through the efficient use of limited resources, he said.

"One of the most profound effects is that we have found that people are more committed to the projects they engage in, and the results that are demonstrated, when they are directly involved in the pursuit of these goals... We can see that things are being done and results are being achieved," he said.

Read highlights her 65 years in Eastern Star

Dorothy Driver Neel, Bernice Davis, Elva Biffar, Ina Richardson and Pyle Bradshaw gave tributes to Florence Read, past grand matron of the Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of Eastern Star during a meeting Tuesday. The Past Matrons Club of Big Spring Chapter No. 67 Order of Eastern Star meeting was held at the home of Candy Andrews.

Read gave highlights of her 65 years of membership in the Order. She and her husband, Norman, became members of the Coahoma Chapter in January 1920. Her first office was warder. "I advanced from warder to worthy matron because I was absent the night the Coahoma members elected officers," she said.

She served as worthy matron of the chapter for two years. In 1928 she received her first appointment to serve on a committee of the Grand Chapter of Texas Order of Eastern Star. Later, she served as deputy grand matron, district deputy grand matron, grand examiner at large and worthy grand matron of the Grand Chapter of Texas Order of Eastern Star. She was worthy grand matron in 1936.

She told how a fire broke out during the opening session of which she presided in El Paso. She was so frightened by the blaze that she forgot about the opening ceremony and led the assembled members in the singing of "The Eyes of Texas." Later, after the firemen had the blaze under control the Grand Chapter session was officially opened.

Judge Childress of San Antonio served as her worthy grand patron. "My late husband, Norman, served as worthy grand patron of the Grand Chapter of Texas Order of Eastern Star in 1941.

Janette Smith, worthy matron-elect of Big Spring Chapter No. 67 Order of Eastern Star, announced her installation of officers will be at Staked Plains Masonic Temple June 22. The Past Matrons Club members will serve at the installation and reception.

Local Junior Woman's Club installs officers at banquet

GFWC-TFVC Big Spring Junior Woman's Club members gathered for the 1985 Installation Banquet at Big Spring Country Club May 18.

New officers were installed by 1984-1985 past president Sue Robertson. Officers are: Karen Fraser, president; Gay Herren, past president; Debbie Wegman, president-elect; Annette Godfrey, first vice president; Kim Jones, second vice president; Pam Mitchell, recording secretary; Judi Johnston, corresponding secretary; Sandra Waggoner, treasurer; Barbara Harris, parliamentarian; and Lynne Chalker, press reporter. Godfrey was presented as "Club Woman of the Year."

Cheryl Harris presented the club's contributions for 1984-1985. A contribution was sent to the Statue of Liberty Fund. Club member Sherree Moates accepted a contribution for "McGruff." McGruff is the puppet that teaches Big Spring Elementary students facts about personal safety and protection in connection with the Big Spring Police Department. Funds will be used for the purchases of McGruff.

Contributions also were awarded to special guests Joe and Virginia Whitten of the Prison Ministries, Teresa and Lee Henry of the Rape Crisis Services, and Marianne and Chestnut Brown of Northside Community Center.

Hike is mere stroll for country kids quires more energy than walking 14 miles a day -- and it's not for only five days, it's for months and years.

I wonder how "Saddened" thinks high school and college students who also happen to hold down full-time jobs manage to make it?

NELL IN LOUISVILLE, KY.
DEAR NELL: If "Saddened" saw my mail, he's be sadder still. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Saddened Psychologist," who sent you a telegram saying the parents who made their kids walk 14 miles to school and back were guilty of child abuse.

I'm 64, and when I was a kid, not only did I walk 12 miles to school and back, I grew up on a farm and had to milk the cows (by hand yet!) before I went to school. And when I got home I had to milk our cows again and do all sorts of chores before supper. (No TV in those days.)

America is the only country in the world where mothers will drive their kids to the YMCA so they can get some exercise.

Ex-Cowboys owner files for bankruptcy

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboys owner Clint Murchison Jr. will meet Wednesday with a committee representing his creditors to start negotiating for financial reorganization, his attorney says. Papers filed in U.S. bankruptcy court show the Dallas promoter has almost $400 million in debts and a little more than $70 million in assets. Murchison, who suffers from a degenerative nerve disorder that reportedly has not affected his mind but has left him a physical invalid, has nearly 300 creditors — including family members and some of the nation's largest banks. In February, Murchison filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code to prevent a forced liquidation of his assets requested by a group of his creditors. The document filed in federal bankruptcy court has more than 200 pages. Richard Holmes, the Dallas partner of the

New York-based accounting firm of Oppenheim, Appel, Dixon and Co., said the case has been the most complex ever handled by the firm. Philip Palmer Jr., Murchison's attorney, said he hopes to "get rid of $300 million or better" of the debts through liquidation of assets controlled by Murchison's corporate holdings. "The next step is to meet with creditors and begin negotiations of a plan," Palmer said. But $114.5 million of the $396.7 million in debt is secured by specific assets, including an $8.1 million claim by Murchison's four children and their trusts. Murchison may be personally responsible for debts not covered by liquidation, attorneys said. Murchison's cash on hand amounts to $4,876.66 on deposit in Dallas-area banks, according to court documents.

Vegas becoming hot spot for illegal aliens

Resort city jobs, wages attracting increasing number of immigrants

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — More jobs and higher wages than in traditional immigration centers are attracting increasing numbers of illegal aliens to this resort city with the help of organized rings of smugglers, an immigration official says.

More than 2,000 illegal aliens have been arrested in the city in the past eight months, including hundreds in a crackdown that began after Roy Hendricks took over the local Immigration and Naturalization Service office last month.

"The majority of people we've apprehended in the past month entered through California, stopped briefly in San Diego or Los Angeles, then headed for Las Vegas," Hendricks said in a recent interview.

"When we ask them why they come here, the answer is always the same: 'We heard there was a lot of work here.'"

Hendricks said the largest number of illegal aliens found in Las Vegas work in the housing industry in areas such as construction and landscaping. Others work in restaurants and as cab drivers, masons and furniture finishers, while areas like Southern California offer more jobs in the relatively low-paying agricultural field, he said.

"For many years aliens were taking jobs that nobody wanted," he said. "Now they're not."

Some aliens are paid as much as $30 an hour, but wind up with little once they pay the bills they must stay in this country, Hendricks said. "They have to pay their job foreman a percentage of those wages, and they also pay a percentage to their smuggler, the person who brought them here, found them a job, a place to stay. By the time they pay their smuggler and their foreman, they aren't earning very much."

Hendricks said some employers will hire illegal aliens for a week or two, then call immigration officials just before payday to try to avoid paying the aliens.

But the INS makes sure aliens get paid before they're deported, he added.

He said employers are at least as responsible for the growing illegal alien problem as the aliens and their smugglers and most recent raids have brought the arrests of foremen as well as aliens.

"Just about every place we've been we're arresting people in a supervisory capacity. It's very tough to convict contractors, but somewhere along the way we're going to be able to bring charges against some contractors," he said.

Pupils reject urine testing for drugs

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Nearly 80 percent of students responding to a poll at Becton Regional High School oppose a new anti-drug abuse policy mandating blood and urine tests for all, the student council president says.

The survey taken Monday during homeroom found 348 of the public school's 516 students opposing the plan, 78 in favor and 15 with no opinion, said council president Sal Incanno.

The school board voted 7-1 last week to require the tests this fall as part of an extensive annual physical exam. The action appeared to be the first of its kind in the nation.

Incanno said the survey was requested by school board president Adele Dempsey, who expressed disappointment and surprise at the results.

"I thought it would be more evenly distributed. I thought it would be like 50-50," she said.

District Superintendent Alfred Marbaise said after the board's vote last Wednesday that students who failed the tests would not be allowed to return to school or participate in extracurricular activities.

The district's lawyer, John L. Molinelli, said the school could also decide to give the names of students who fail the tests to police.

But Marbaise said Monday that he would recommend to the board that the test results not be given to police.

"I don't believe — in the school — we should be involved in a law enforcement type action," he said, adding that he would, however, like to notify parents whose children fail the tests.

Plant manager pleads guilty to fraud scheme

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A former ammunition plant worker has pleaded guilty to participating in one of two schemes to defraud the Army out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

James E. Lewis III, former administrative branch manager for the Westinghouse Electric Supply Co., was one of five employees of Remington Arms Co. and Westinghouse indicted last week on charges of conspiracy and defrauding the Army.

Lewis agreed to cooperate with the government months before the indictments were handed up, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Schneider.

He said Lewis, who appeared Monday before U.S. District Judge Howard F. Sachs, would be put on probation, will have to pay no more than $200 restitution and still faces the possibility of a fine up to $10,000.

Remington operates the Lake City Ammunition Plant under a contract with the Army and is reimbursed by the Army for its expenses. Westinghouse supplied electrical goods to Remington.

The five men allegedly submitted invoices to the Army for goods that never were delivered or that the defendants kept and used for themselves, prosecutors said. Remington paid the bills and was reimbursed by the Army.

W. German magazine depicts Mengele's life

A photograph of Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele taken in 1977 by his son Rolf in the bay of Bertiooa, Brazil, is published on the cover of the latest edition of the West German magazine Bunte. The headlines read: The son breaks his silence. Mengele — How he fooled the world.

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Life as a hunted man left Josef Mengele an unrepentant but "frightened creature" who considered suicide as he aged, a West German magazine said Tuesday in its first installment of a story based on documents from the Nazi fugitive's son.

Bunte weekly, quoting Mengele's son Rolf, said the doctor known as the Auschwitz "Angel of Death" escaped justice by living as a recluse in Europe and South America, sometimes getting by on $100 a month sent by his relatives.

Rolf Mengele, 41, broke years of silence last week to announce that his father, implicated in the death of more than 400,000 concentration camp inmates, had died in 1979. He said he was certain that remains exhumed June 6 near Sao Paulo, Brazil, are his father's.

Brazilian authorities also say they believe the bones are Mengele's, but some Nazi hunters are skeptical. Positive identification has not yet been made.

In Sao Paulo on Tuesday, Dr. Wilmes Teixeira, a forensic expert examining the remains said they had been mutilated after death. He did not say whether the bones had been fragmented to make identification more difficult.

Teixeira also appealed to any South American doctor or dentist who may have treated Mengele to furnish X-rays, to enable positive identification of the remains.

Mengele's son, a lawyer in Freiburg, announced Monday that he had given hundreds of documents to Bunte, and designated the magazine to speak for the family.

In one of West Germany's most extensive looks at a fugitive Nazi, Bunte ran the first installment of what it called exclusive photographs and details of Mengele's life on the run. The magazine splashed a color photograph of a smiling man, said to be Mengele, on its cover.

Bunte appears on newsstands Thursday. An advance copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

In a letter to its readers, Bunte said it had not published the materials "without skepticism" and was submitting them to experts and historians for verification.

But, the magazine said, "We believe that the publication of the documents we have could contribute to bringing more clarity to the Mengele case."

Bunte said Mengele was arrested by Italian authorities in Genoa in 1949, but that they turned him loose with apologies three weeks later "without any idea of what a fish had gone in and out of their net." It did not say why the Italians arrested him.

Bunte gave only sketchy details about Mengele's life and none about his flight from post-war Germany to South America, but said more would come in future editions.

Rolf Mengele says he took the picture of his father in 1977 on the same Brazilian beach where the man believed by Brazilian authorities to be Mengele drowned two years later, Bunte said.

Bunte said in May 1977, Rolf flew to Sao Paulo, and Wolfram Bossert, a friend of his father's, drove him to Mengele's house in Cairas.

The son said he was surprised at the shabby surroundings, but even more so by his father's appearance.

"The man who stood before me in 1977 was a frightened creature," Bunte quoted Rolf as saying. The elder Mengele reportedly trembled and had tears in his eyes.

Rolf saw "his father was full of fear, that he suffered from depression, that he intended to commit suicide," Bunte said.

But when Rolf asked his father why he did not face justice, Bunte said Mengele replied that "for him there were no judges, just avengers."

C. American nations begin peace talks

PANAMA CTY, Panama (AP) — A new round of Central American peace talks among nine nations began Tuesday with officials divided on whether their efforts can promptly resolve the region's conflicts.

With tensions increasing in Central America, Costa Rican Deputy Foreign Minister Jorge Urbina said, "This is a trial by fire for the Contadora group."

A regional peace treaty was first proposed 2½ years ago by Mexico, Columbia, Venezuela, and Panama at a meeting on the Panamanian resort island of Contadora, from which the group takes its name.

The proposed pact would commit Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala to reduce arms imports, begin talks on arms reductions, get rid of foreign military advisers and bases, and hold free, democratic elections.

Panamanian officials have described the latest two-day meeting as crucial to efforts to move rapidly toward an agreement.

But only hours before the formal talks began, officials from the Central American nations, in separate news conferences, disagreed about what they expected to accomplish at the meeting. They also criticized the Contadora nations for doing little to ease regional tensions.

Victor Hugo Tinoco, deputy foreign minister of Nicaragua, accused the Contadora group of "discussing peace in theory." He said it had ignored U.S.-supported aggression against his country and other "measures that are promoting war in the region."

Pope's assailant admits to lying during plot trial

ROME (AP) — Mehmet Ali Agca told a judge on Tuesday that he has sometimes lied in testimony during the pope plot trial. He also denied knowing a mobster who has been quoted as saying Agca was coached to invent a Soviet bloc connection in the shooting of the pope.

Agca, the convicted papal assailant who turned state's evidence, was speaking at the trial of three Bulgarians and four Turks accused of complicity in the May 13, 1981, attempt to kill Pope John Paul II. Only three of the seven are in custody, and the rest are being tried in absentia. In addition, Agca is being tried on a gun charge.

When asked by the judge to explain why he has frequently changed his testimony, Agca rambled and said, "Everyday something comes out. ... Yesterday for example, Giovanni Pandico made these revelations."

Pandico is a jailed member of the Naples-based Camorra gang who has turned state's evidence in a trial of suspected gangsters.

"I have never known a Camorrista (member of the Camorra). Everyday false news comes out, and therefore I am forced to invent some things to be able to respond," Agca said.

In previous testimony, Agca has said he is Jesus Christ, and has implicated both the Soviet KGB and Bulgarian agents. Both the Soviet and Bulgarian governments have denied involvement.

Surgeon rents flat infested by rats to family of seven

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A neurosurgeon has been ordered to move from Beverly Hills for 30 days to an apartment resembling a rat-infested flat he rents to a family of seven.

The judge in the case says she hopes the sentence will bring the doctor "contact with some sense of human decency."

The judge ordered Dr. Milton Avol to spend equal time in a clean jail cell and one of the garbage-strewn apartments he owns after he failed to significantly improve the buildings during 36 months' probation.

For three years, Ramona Mota, her husband and five children have squeezed into a four-room, fourth-floor apartment in a building owned by Avol on South Main Street near the downtown garment district.

Rats, cockroaches, mosquitoes and flies have become almost like part of the furnishings, according to court testimony. "I set traps, but it doesn't do any good, because there are too many (rats)," Mrs. Mota, 28, said Tuesday through an interpreter.

The Motas said they pay $263 a month for an apartment that lacks a reliable hot water supply, leaks when it rains, has a broken floor and requires sheets in the windows to keep the street dirt out.

Locks on doors, mailboxes and security are nonexistent.

Avol, who lives in Beverly Hills, was sentenced to spend 30 days at an even sordid unit at one of his other complexes, also on the fringe of downtown.

'Dallas' star loses battle in courtroom

LOS ANGELES — In a courtroom drama worthy of the denizens of "Dallas," actress Donna Reed lost a bid Tuesday to regain her role as Miss Ellie on the hit prime-time soap when a judge refused to halt production of the series.

Superior Court Judge John L. Cole denied Miss Reed's request to issue a preliminary injunction, which could have halted production on scenes involving the Miss Ellie character indefinitely, possibly up to a year. Cole denied a similar motion last month that asked for production to be stopped immediately, but for a short period of time.

Despite the two setbacks, attorney Michael Donaldson said he will proceed with Miss Reed's $7.5 million breach of contract lawsuit that was filed last month.

No new hearing dates have been set on the suit, which contends that CBS-TV, which broadcasts the show on Friday nights, induced Lorimar Productions to replace Miss Reed with Barbara Bel Geddes, the original Miss Ellie on "Dallas."

"She's a 64-year-old Iowa farm girl who has certain principles and class. ... She intends to stand on them," Donaldson said of Miss Reed.

Miss Reed signed a three-year contract in October 1984 to play Miss Ellie, the matriarch of Southfork ranch, but Lorimar informed her in April that the company had decided to reinstate Miss Bel Geddes in the role.

Van Gogh suffered from brain disorder

BOSTON (AP) — Almost a century after the suicide of Vincent Van Gogh, a doctor believes the Dutch impressionist's strange behavior and frenetic work habits can be diagnosed as a personality disorder stemming from epilepsy.

Dr. Shihram Khoshbin of Harvard Medical School says Van Gogh had classic symptoms of a recently recognized syndrome that sometimes strikes people with one form of epilepsy.

Victims often have an overpowering urge to write or paint. And Khoshbin says this could explain Van Gogh's awesome productivity. In the years before he shot himself to death in 1890, Van Gogh produced hundreds of paintings, sometimes turning out two a day.

Khoshbin, a neurologist, is head of the electroencephalograph laboratory at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

He believes that Van Gogh had interictal (which means "between seizure") personality disorder of temporal lobe epilepsy.

The disorder was first described about a decade ago by Dr. Norman Geschwind, a Harvard neurologist.

"I don't think he was a genius because of his epilepsy, but it affected his art," Khoshbin said in a recent interview.

Van Gogh's peculiarities have long fascinated physicians.

Ewing, Tisdale lead 'Year of the Big Man' in NBA Draft

DETLEF SCHREMPF of West Germany gets acquainted with Mavericks scout Richard O'Connor Tuesday after being selected by the Dallas team in the first round of the NBA draft. SCHREMPF was the 8th player taken in the draft.

NEW YORK (AP)— Dave DeBusschere called it "a landmark day in the history of the New York Knicks," and with Patrick Ewing to make it so, no one was arguing with him.

Draft Day 1985, however, could have an impact even beyond the considerable expectations for the former Georgetown center, if just three or four of the seven centers drafted among the first 17 players become fixtures in the middle for their National Basketball Association teams.

Ewing's long-awaited selection by the Knicks was followed by five more big "impact" players before the first guard, Chris Mullin, was taken seventh by Golden State.

Forward Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma was picked by Indiana, 7-0 center Benoit Benjamin of Creighton by the Los Angeles Clippers, 6-7 forward Xavier McDaniel of Wichita State by Seattle, 7-0 center Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist by Atlanta and 6-11 center Joe Kleine of Arkansas by Sacramento.

"Prior to the draft, we had pegged the top centers as Ewing, Benjamin, Koncak and Kleine, and that was the order they were selected in," said the NBA's scouting chief, Marty Blake. "There were no surprises. It was truly the 'Year of the Big Man.'"

"Every other team is going so big up front," Knicks Coach Hubie Brown said of his plans to pair Ewing with 7-footer Bill Cartwright on New York's front line next season. "It becomes a league of match-ups. The size factor at all the positions is increasing."

After Mullin, five forwards were taken before another player ticketed for backcourt action, Alfredrick Hughes of Chicago Loyola, was picked 14th by San Antonio.

They were 6-9 Detlef Schrempf of Washington by Dallas, 6-9 Charles Oakley of Virginia Union by Cleveland and 6-9 Ed Pinckney of Villanova by Phoenix, 6-10 Keith Lee of Memphis State by Chicago, 6-7 Kenny Green of Wake Forest by Washington and 6-9 Karl Malone of Louisiana Tech by Utah.

Lee was later traded by the Bulls, along with guard Ennis Whitley, to Cleveland for Oakley and 6-3 guard Calvin Duncan of Virginia Commonwealth, a second-round pick of the Cavaliers. Hughes was followed in order by three more 7-foot centers, Blair Rasmussen of Oregon by Denver and Bill Wennington of St. John's and Uwe Blab of Indiana, both by Dallas, which had three first-round picks.

Dallas is happy with its four mid-size players with all-star quality — Mark Aguirre, Sam Perkins, Rolando Blackman and Schrempf — but through the history of the franchise the Mavericks have always lacked a big, talented center.

"Dallas doesn't have big men right now and I knew they wanted to fill that void," Wennington said. "I think it was good (to draft two centers). In practice, when two big men play against each other, they can only improve and make each other better."

The Los Angeles Lakers proved again in the playoffs that running teams need to rebound to get a fastbreak offense going, and that idea was not lost on the rest of the NBA.

Of the six guards picked in the first round, four were among the last seven choices.

Houston picks small

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets, looking to beef up their backcourt to complement the "Twin Tower" offense of Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon, took in four forwards and two guards during the National Basketball Association college draft.

The Rockets opted Tuesday for Tulsa guard Steve Harris, a 6-foot-5, 196-pounder from Blue Springs, Mo., as their first choice. Harris finished his four years at Tulsa as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,272 points.

"I'm very happy, very excited about getting the opportunity to play," Harris said. "I didn't have any idea where I would be going." Other forwards chosen by the Rockets include Sam Mitchell, 6-foot-7, 196-pounds, from Mercer; Michael Payne, 6-foot-11, 210-pounds, from Iowa; Sam Potter, 6-foot-8, 210-pounds, from Oral Roberts and Don Turvey, 6-foot-8, 220-pounds, from Marshall. Oral Roberts' Michael Brooks, a 6-foot-2, 175-pound, guard was also picked.

Harris was the 19th player selected in the draft, a somewhat uncustomary position for the Rockets, who have had the first choice overall in each of the past two college player drafts.

Two years ago, the Rockets picked Sampson out of the University of Virginia, along with Louisville forward Rodney McCray, another early first-round pick. Last year, it was Olajuwon, from the University of Houston, who topped the NBA draft order.

Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson said Harris was the man he was after this year.

"He's a terrific player, a good shooter," Patterson said. "Harris had never been to Houston and never played against any of the Rocket players in their collegiate days. But said he was familiar with the team."

Harris, who carries the nickname "Silk" because of his smooth play, also is a strong defensive player, winding up his college career as Tulsa's all-time leader in steals with 271.

He had a rough start at Tulsa, breaking his jaw in his first exhibition game as a freshman, then breaking his nose a week later. But he still scored 311 points in his first year, a school record for freshmen. He also set a school record for points by a sophomore, 574.

San Antonio lands Alfredrick Hughes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs' ability to trade Gene Banks for Chicago's Steve Johnson set the stage for their unexpected first-round NBA draft choice of Alfredrick Hughes, team General Manager Bob Bass says.

The Spurs announced hours before the draft began that the 6-foot-8 Banks would go to the Bulls for the 6-10 forward Johnson.

It looked like San Antonio would call on 7-0 Blair Rasmussen of Oregon at its No. 14 first-round position. But the Spurs instead opted for Loyola's Hughes, who at 6-5 can play at small forward.

"The Steve Johnson trade had a lot to do with our choice here," Bass said Tuesday.

"Why would we take Blair Rasmussen — a project — when we've got Steve Johnson?" he said.

Hughes was second overall in the NCAA in scoring his senior year, averaging 24.3 points a game and 8.2 rebounds.

"He could come off the bench and score for you. He plays very physical and does his share of rebounds," said Spurs Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

Hughes, in a conference call to reporters at Spurs headquarters, said he was "very surprised" to go to San Antonio.

"They're going to need some scoring out of me," he said. "I want to be in a situation where I can help out on the team."

Bass said the Spurs scouted Hughes at the Aloha Classic and "got high on him but we dropped off until we got Steve Johnson."

Johnson went in the first round of the 1981 draft to Kansas City at the No. 7 spot. He was traded while Cotton Fitzsimmons was coach at Kansas City to Chicago.

Johnson, Bass said, is an adequate scorer and rebounder, averaging 10 points and almost six rebounds last season.

Dallas goes German

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks went into the National Basketball Association draft seeking a 7-foot center, and they came out with two.

Dallas used the eighth pick in Tuesday's draft to tap Washington's Detlef Schrempf, a play-making "poor man's Larry Bird," and then used its two other first-round choices for its own "twin towers."

The Mavericks drafted 7-foot Bill Wennington of St. John's and 7-foot-2 Uwe Blab of Indiana — a move Coach Dick Motta said should give the team the NBA-caliber center it has craved since its founding.

"If one touches and succeeds and carries his position, we can surround him now with quality players," Motta said. "If one of these two fellows can hit, we're going to have a very nice team."

Despite the longing for a center, Motta said the 5-foot-5 Schrempf was too good to pass up with the eighth pick of the draft.

"Schrempf is the only player we did not interview, which is typical," Motta said. "We didn't think he'd be there."

"I just get tired of saying it, almost as much as you guys do of writing it or asking it — what our needs are," Motta told reporters, referring to Dallas' need for a center.

"I really believe it would have been foolish to pass up Schrempf to take Wennington — we felt Wennington was the next-best center in the draft."

When Wennington was still available at the 16th spot, Dallas was doubly delighted, Motta said.

One attraction of both Schrempf and Blab, both natives of West Germany, is that they began their basketball careers late and are likely to have more room for improvement than U.S.-bred athletes.

"They're on the upside of their potential," he said. "(Schrempf) has a flair for the game. ... He's a natural."

Schrempf has been called "the poor man's Larry Bird" because of his versatility, passing and scoring ability. Scouts say he can play either forward or guard in the NBA.

He averaged 15.8 points per game his senior year at Washington, with a shooting percentage of .558. In three NCAA playoff games, he averaged 23.7 points per game and 8.7 rebounds.

American football big hit in Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Football, American style, made its debut in the Land of the Midnight Sun with predictable results — a one-sided victory for the visitors. Despite the score, the Swedes were thrilled just to play.

"Tonight's game was a tremendous experience," defensive back Carl Adam Rosenblad said after his Swedish All-Stars were thrashed 72-7 Tuesday night by Bethany College of Kansas. The game, played in the stadium which hosted the 1912 Olympics, marked the first appearance in Sweden by an American team.

"Forget the score," said Mats Frohling, an assistant coach and kicker for the All-Stars. "That was not the important thing. We learned a lot. We had fun out there. The fans liked it and the Bethany players I talked to thought it was great."

Frohling, who learned the game while an exchange student at Covington High School near Memphis, said he turned down a couple of scholarship offers from American colleges in order to play and coach at home.

"I know a lot of people, especially young Swedes, who are getting tired of sports like soccer and hockey," he said. "They want something new."

"We got a lesson," Rosenblad admitted, "but we had a real nice time together when practicing and they taught us so many things. Of course, we lack the basics and we're working hard on it. But they told us we tackled well and hard."

Jim Smith scored three touchdowns, including two in the first quarter, and Jeff Voth also scored three times as Bethany rolled to a 45-0 halftime lead.

"We practiced together the other night," said Smith. "They learned a lot. They looked a hundred percent better tonight."

Bethany Coach Ted Kessinger was a gracious winner.

"Both teams were pretty equal in reference to inspiration, effort and attitude," Kessinger said. "What they lack is the fundamentals."

"If the Swedes are able to stay with it, if they practice at it, you know, within a couple of years they can be a good football team."

Rosenblad, now 19, said he began playing American football in high school in Danderyd, a plush Stockholm suburb. "Some guys who went to high school in the U.S. started it a few years ago."

There are about 500 players on 15 teams in Sweden, most in the Stockholm area.

Texas stops Mariners, 8-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Pete O'Brien doubled in Texas' six-run first inning and homered in the second and Gary Ward and Larry Parrish had three hits apiece Tuesday night to lead the Texas Rangers to an 8-5 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Winning pitcher Frank Tanana, 2-7, took a two-hitter into the sixth inning but gave up four runs on two walks, four singles and a fielder's choice grounder. Dave Rozema relieved Tanana with two on and one out and pitched the final 3 2-3 innings for his fourth save.

Loser Bill Wilkinson, 0-2, lasted only a third of an inning, giving up five runs on two walks and three hits. Wilkinson was making his second major league start.

The Rangers, who banged out 12 hits, sent 11 batters to the plate in the first inning. With one out, Toby Harrah and Buddy Bell walked before O'Brien hit his run-scoring double. Ward followed with a two-run single and Parrish singled chasing Wilkinson.

Robert Long came in and gave up a run-scoring single to Don Slaught. Parrish scored from third on a wild pitch by Long and Slaught scored from second on an error by first baseman Alvin Davis.

The homer by O'Brien, his seventh, increased the Ranger lead to 7-0 in the second.

The Mariners cut it to 7-4 in the sixth. Phil Bradley and David Henderson hit run-scoring singles, Gorman Thomas drew a bases loaded walk and pinch hitter Ken Phelps drove in a run with a fielder's choice grounder.

Ward, who had singled, scored from third on Parrish's single to give the Rangers another run in the bottom of the sixth.

Seattle got its final run on an RBI single by Spike Owen in the ninth.

Parrish's homer keyed a five-run Detroit sixth inning that handed Boston only its third loss in the last 20 games and moved the Tigers into second place in the AL East — two percentage points ahead of the Red Sox.

"When I stepped in the box, I said to myself, 'This would be a nice time to hit a home run,'" Parrish said. "A lot of times I've done that when I haven't (hit a homer), too. But at least I'm thinking positive before I go in there."

Elsewhere in the American League, it was California 7, Cleveland 3; New York 6, Baltimore 4; Kansas City 10, Minnesota 1; Milwaukee 4, Toronto 1; Texas 8, Seattle 5; and Chicago 4, Oakland 3, in 13 innings.

The Red Sox, who had 11 hits in a losing cause, were leading 7-5 on the strength of homers by Bill Buckner and Dwight Evans and two RBIs by Jim Rice when the Tigers rallied in the sixth against Bruce Kison.

"I had already had a couple of hits and I was very relaxed," said Parrish, 11-for-19 in his career against Hurst, 2-6, the third Boston pitcher.

That statistic didn't escape Boston Manager John McNamara. Angels 7, Indians 3.

"It's hard to carry on about it verbally because you don't want to carry on about yourself, but when I think about only eight (actually nine) guys being ahead of me, it's awesome," Jackson said of the homer that tied him for 10th place on the all-time list with Ernie Banks and Eddie Mathews.

"When a ballplayer passes a Hall-of-Famer or another great ballplayer, it gives you a feeling of great pride," the 39-year-old slugger said.

Jackson, who also singled and doubled as the Angels pounded out 20 hits, surpassed Mel Ott's 511 home runs. Jackson's three RBIs gave him 1,542 — moving him to 22nd place in front of Willie Stargell.

"I'm just sneaking by," said Jackson, hitting .248 with nine homers. "I'd like to finish this year and hopefully play next year. If I can hit .250 or .260 and contribute to the ballclub I'd like to keep playing."

Doug DeCinces had four hits, while Mike Brown, Bob Boone and Dick Schofield also had three each to help Mike Witt raise his record to 5-6.

The sixth-inning homer came on a 2-2 pitch against Cleveland reliever Rich Thompson following a Mike Brown single and gave the Angels a 7-2 lead.

The 20 hits were the most by California since 1980.

White Sox 4, A's 3
"I was trying to make hard contact and I hit it good," said Harold Baines, who led off the 13th inning with a home run off Oakland's Keith Atherton. "I like to play a part in the game as long as we win."

Baines played a big part. He singled to help build a run in the third and drove in another in the fifth to give the White Sox a 3-1 lead.

The homer, his fifth of the season, on a 2-0 pitch, landed in the upper right-field seats at Comiskey Park, giving Chicago its eighth victory in 10 games.

Oakland's Dusty Baker had tied the game with his eighth homer, a two-run shot in the eighth.

Yankees 6, Orioles 4

Streaking Rickey Henderson had a double and two singles and stole three bases to increase his total for the season to 25 in 26 attempts. Henderson, who had five singles and a walk in Monday night's game and walked in his last plate appearance on Sunday, reached base 10 consecutive times before hitting into a force play in the sixth inning.

"Have I ever been this hot before?" Henderson said, posing his own question. "No, not in terms of reaching base. I seem to always get hot this month, and right before the All-Star break."

Ken Griffey got two hits and two RBIs for the Yankees, who reached four Baltimore pitchers for 13 hits.

Eddie Murray clubbed his 10th homer and John Shelby had a two-run shot for Baltimore.

Royals 10, Twins 1

"It's been kind of a struggle to get two good games in a row," said Mark Gubicza, who evened his record at 4-4 with his third straight victory.

Eight Royals drove in runs for Gubicza, who walked five while striking out only two. Frank White had three of Kansas City's 12 hits, drove in one run and scored twice. Lonnie Smith had a two-run triple for the Royals.

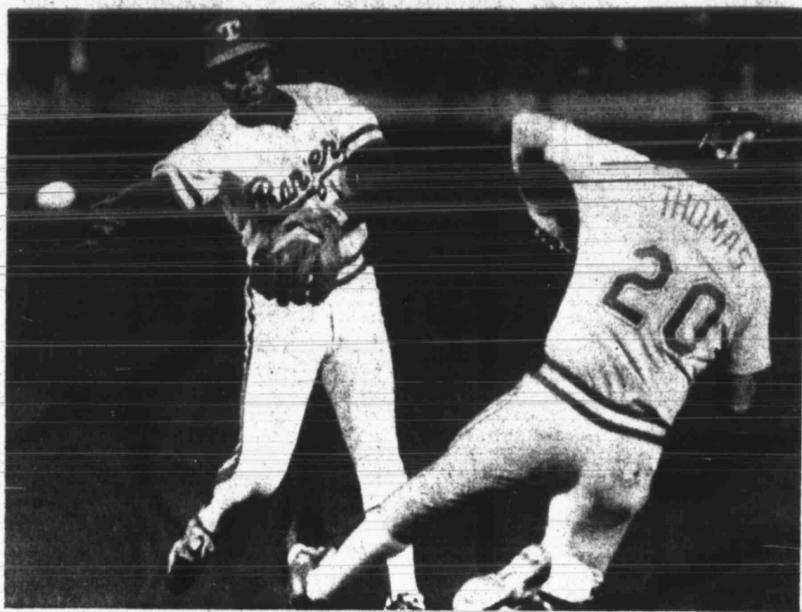

Brewers 4, Blue Jays 1

Ray Burris, 4-5, pitched a seven-hitter and Paul Molitor homered as Milwaukee handed slumping Toronto its sixth straight defeat.

"We don't like it," Toronto Manager Bobby Cox said of the Blue Jays' decline. "We show up and do as well as we can do."

The Blue Jays have lost 18 of their last 22 games to the Brewers in Milwaukee, including eight of the last nine.

Toronto leads the AL East by 1½ games over Detroit and Boston.

Texas Ranger shortstop CURTIS WILKERSON sends the ball back to first base after forcing Seattle Mariner GORMAN THOMAS out at second base during the Rangers 8-5 win over the Mariners.

AL Roundup

Somebody had to cool off the Boston Red Sox, and Detroit's Lance Parrish figured his chances were as good as anybody's — especially with Bruce Hurst on the mound.

Parrish was right, and his fifth career grand slam and sixth career homer off Hurst was enough to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 9-8 come-from-behind victory Tuesday night that halted a six-game Boston winning streak.

It led a 17-hit Tiger assault on a night when American League batters pounded out 145 hits, but would take back seat — historically, at least — to Reggie Jackson's 512th career homer.

Cubs remain in losing slide

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs have already lost seven straight games. And it doesn't get any easier tonight.

"We have too many good players for this to continue," Cubs right fielder Keith Moreland said after Tuesday night's 5-1 loss to the New York Mets extended their longest losing streak since they dropped 13 in a row in 1962.

A tall order faces the Cubs tonight as they try to stop the slide that has knocked them out of first place in the National League East — they face Mets right-hander Dwight Gooden, one of the league's premier pitchers.

"Gooden's not unbeatable," Moreland said. "If you get in a slump like this, you have to forget each loss and go to each game with a positive attitude. If not, you'll never get going."

In other NL games, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 6-1; Pittsburgh stopped Montreal 4-1; Atlanta nipped Houston 3-2; St. Louis turned back Philadelphia 6-2; and San Diego shut out Los Angeles 4-0.

NL Roundup

Ed Lynch led the Mets with an eight-hitter and Gary Carter drove in two runs, including one with a single as New York scored twice with two out in the fifth inning.

Lynch, 4-3, struck out three and walked just one en route to his third complete game this season. Before this year, he had only pitched one complete game.

Mookie Wilson and Kelvin Chapman, the No. 1 and 2 hitters in the Mets' lineup, each scored twice, and Wilson also had an RBI.

"I got lucky. They hit some balls hard right at people," Lynch said. "I just tried to do what I always do — don't walk anybody, move the ball around and throw strikes."

Reds 6, Giants 1

Spot starter Frank Pastore pitched a four-hitter and Cincinnati took advantage of a pair of errors to score four unearned runs and beat San Francisco.

Pastore, 2-0, replaced John Stuper in the rotation and registered his first complete game since May 10, 1984. He struck out three in his second start of the season.

Losers Bill Laskey, 1-8, blanked the Reds on one hit until the sixth, when Gary Redus' one-out double triggered a three-run rally.

Eddie Milner, who had three hits, doubled to score Redus, and Dave Parker and Alan Knicely added run-scoring singles. Redus and Parker hit sacrifice flies in a three-run seventh.

Pirates 4, Expos 1
Larry McWilliams pitched a three-hitter and George Hendrick hit two doubles and drove in the winning run to lead Pittsburgh over Montreal.

McWilliams, 4-5, ended a personal four-game losing streak by going the distance for the second time this season. The Pirate left-hander struck out three and walked only one.

Hendrick's first double came in the third inning when he grounded a ball down the third-base line to score Johnny Ray and break a 1-1 tie.

"I didn't hardly strike out anybody tonight," said McWilliams, who fanned two. "But the guys in the infield made some really nice plays and the outfielders got to all the balls they had to."

Braves 3, Astros 2

Zane Smith hurled hitless ball for 5 2-3 innings and Glenn Hubbard provided the winning margin with a solo home run in the eighth inning as Atlanta defeated Houston. Smith lost his no-hit bid when Dickie Thon singled through the right side of the infield on a hit-and-run play with two out in the sixth. The left-hander allowed just two hits through seven innings, walking three and striking out one.

Bruce Sutter, 4-2, got the victory in relief after losing a lead for the fourth straight time.

Dale Murphy hit his NL-leading 16th homer in the bottom of the first inning, a bases-empty blast over the center-field fence, to give the Braves the early lead.

Cardinals 6, Phillies 2
Tom Lawless drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Vince Coleman singled three times, stole two bases to run his total for the season to 44 and scored twice, leading St. Louis over Philadelphia.

The victory was the fifth straight and ninth in the last 11 outings for the Cardinals, who moved into second place in the Eastern Division standings.

Winner John Tudor, 5-7, gave up six hits before leaving with none out in the ninth. Reliever Jeff Lahti shut the door on the Phillies after they scored a run on Bo Diaz' RBI groundout.

Steve Carlton, experiencing his worst season so far, lost his seventh game in eight decisions.

Padres 4, Dodgers 0

Dave Dravecky pitched a three-hitter and Tim Flannery collected a pair of run-scoring singles to lead San Diego over Los Angeles.

Dravecky, 6-4, held the Dodgers hitless until Steve Yeager grounded a single up the middle with two outs in the bottom of the fifth inning. The only other Los Angeles hits were singles by Mariano Duncan in the sixth and in the ninth.

Dravecky walked two and struck out six in hurling his second complete game of the season and the fourth shutout of his big-league career.

Prime rate falls below 9 percent

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks across the country reduced the prime lending rate to single digits on Tuesday for the first time in more than 6½ years, trimming it a half percentage point to 9.5 percent.

Analysts said declines in interest rates set in the money markets and lagging commercial demand for bank loans enabled the banks to reduce their key commercial lending charge.

And they noted that while falling rates are good news for many borrowers, savers may not like the lower rates they are being offered on maturing bank certificates of deposit.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth largest bank, led the way in the latest round of reductions in the prime, which is the benchmark against which banks measure their interest charges on business loans.

It was followed by San Francisco-based Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, and Citibank, the New York-based institution that ranks second.

By midafternoon, all of the 10 largest banks in the country and several large regional banks also had moved to a 9.5 percent prime rate.

It was the third decline in the prime rate this year and the first time a major bank has had its prime in single digits since the fall of 1978.

The prime was last as low as 9.5 percent for two weeks in September 1978 and has not been below 10 percent since it was raised to that level from 9.75 percent on Oct. 13, 1978.

Bernard Markstein III, senior financial economist for the economic research firm Chase Econometrics, said rates on car and home improvement loans have already fallen in many parts of the country.

But he said it is likely that mortgage rates, which generally fall more slowly than other rates, may fall further. In addition, he said borrowers may also find banks relaxing terms for such loans.

However, savers may not like the rate declines because they "won't be able to roll over those certificates at rates as high as they had been getting," he said.

A reduction in the prime rate had been widely anticipated as the money-market interest rates that banks pay for their lendable funds declined in recent weeks.

One of these key rates is the federal funds rate, the interest that banks charge each other for short-term loans. The funds rate traded below 7 percent on Tuesday and had averaged nearly 8 percent in May.

"Whenever you see more than 200 basis points between the prime rate and the federal funds rate, that is a sign that the prime will be cut," said George Salem, a senior banking analyst at the investment firm of Donaldson Lufkin & Jenrette Securities Corp.

A basis point is a hundredth of 1 percent, and the difference between the former prevailing prime rate of 10 percent and a 7 percent federal funds rate is 300 basis points.

Another reason for the prime rate cut is lagging business demand for bank loans, analysts said.

Harold Nathan, senior financial economist at Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco, the nation's 10th largest and one of the institutions that lowered its prime rate, said corporate borrowing at banks is "significantly lower" than a year ago.

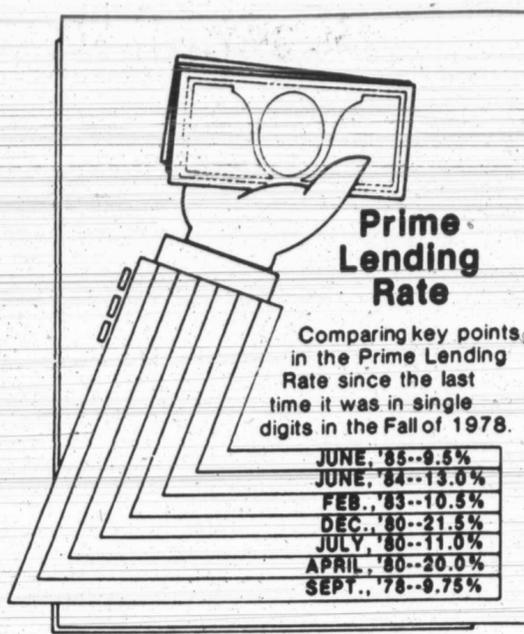

But Salem said banks are often reluctant to cut their prime rates because doing so cuts how much they receive on many new and adjustable-rate loans.

He said banks also prefer waiting to lower their prime until making sure that the declines in market-based interest rates are going to hold.

The prime fell steadily in the last three months of 1984, starting Sept. 27 when it was cut to 12.75 percent from the 13 percent level that had prevailed for three months.

The latest reduction was the third this year. The prime was cut to 10.5 percent on Jan. 15 and to 10 percent May 15.

The prime rate peaked at 21.5 percent in December 1980.

'Rambo' holds tough onto box office lead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Rambo: First Blood Part 2" held the high ground for a fourth week at the box office while a new release, "Prizzi's Honor," starring Jack Nicholson and Kathleen Turner, opened strongly in fourth place.

"Rambo," which had a total of $65 million tucked under its ammo belt after the weekend, appears to be the first summer release with promise to top the $100 million mark.

"The Goonies," one of several Steven Spielberg films to be released this summer, held the No. 2 spot after opening two weeks ago. The modern pirate adventure rang up $8.2 million over the weekend in gross revenues from 1,705 theaters and reported a total of $22 million.

"Fletch," a Chevy Chase comedy about an investigative reporter, placed No. 3 in its third week. "Fletch" grossed $5.2 million to bring its total to $24.5 million.

Film critics gave high praise to last week's opening of "Prizzi's Honor," a black comedy starring Nicholson as a hit man for a mob family who falls in love with Miss Turner, who works as a killer herself.

The movie cashed in $4.2 million at 719 theaters and consequently reported the best per-screen average, $5,841, of any current release.

Tom Sherak, 20th Century Fox's distribution president, said "Prizzi" played strongest in urban areas and was weakest in blue-collar markets. However, Sherak hopes that word-of-mouth endorsements will build demand for "Prizzi" and Fox is considering a tougher advertising campaign to woo more blue-collar moviegoers.

Following up "Prizzi" were "A View to a Kill," with a weekend gross of $3.4 million, and "Brewster's Millions," $2.8 million.

Another new release, "D.A.R.Y.L.," earned $2.6 million in its first week, enough to place seventh on the box office tally.

Here are the top seven films at the box office over the weekend, with distributor, weekend gross, number of screens, total gross and number of weeks in release.

1. "Rambo: First Blood Part 2," Tri-Star, $9.2 million, 2,074 screens, $85 million, four weeks.
2. "The Goonies," Warner Bros., $8.4 million, 1,705 screens, $22 million, two weeks.
3. "Fletch," Universal, $5.2 million, 1,277 screens, $24.5 million, three weeks.
4. "Prizzi's Honor," 20th Century Fox, $4.2 million, 719 screens, $4.2 million, first week.
5. "A View to a Kill," MGM-UA, $3.4 million, 1,479 screens, $35.9 million, four weeks.
6. "Brewster's Millions," Universal, $2.8 million, 1,287 screens, $28.8 million, four weeks.
7. "D.A.R.Y.L.," Paramount, $2.6 million, 1,100 screens, $2.6 million, one week.

Doonesbury cartoon takes on Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some residents of this posh ocean-side community are annoyed at becoming the latest target of "Doonesbury" cartoonist Garry Trudeau's barbs, but they say it's just another storm they will weather.

"Palm Beach has survived all of the slanderous comments and innuendoes against the wealthy people who live here," said Chamber of Commerce Chairman Jesse Newman. "After 34 years here, I don't dignify anyone who slanders Palm Beach."

"At the heart of the satire is a city law titled 'Registration of Certain Occupations,' requiring waiters, bartenders, clerks, janitors, servants and other workers to be fingerprinted and photographed at the police station within 48 hours of starting their employment. The resulting identification card must be carried at all times, and the ordinance says,

"One cartoon shows a black motorist, stopped by police, saying, 'Pass card, officer? This isn't Pretoria.'"

"No, sir, it's Palm Beach," the officer replies. "All hotel and domestic employees must carry I.D.s."

The comparison to Pretoria, South Africa, has "no foundation of fact," protests Palm Beach Mayor Yveline "Deedy" Marix, a descendant of French Emperor Charlemagne.

The South African government's policy of apartheid, or legal segregation, specifies that blacks must carry passes when they are in whites-only districts.

Other Palm Beach officials also protested the cartoon.

"I would like to say that Mr. Garry Trudeau has missed the entire point of our ID card system," said town council member Nancy Simmons Douthit, of the Simmons Mattress fortune. "It is for the protection of our residents and visitors."

But lawyer James K. Green, who donates time to the West Palm Beach American Civil Liberties Union, disagreed, saying the ID card law in this town of 10,000 is indeed analogous to South Africa.

"Palm Beach is one of the most beautiful towns in the world. Underlying the physical beauty is an ugliness directed toward the common man," Green said.

Chamber of Commerce president Newman said the cards are in fact useful for the employees.

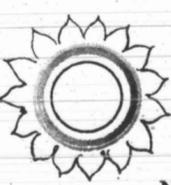

"It's a morale builder," Newman said. "It's good all around the world. They can cash a check anywhere. The people who object must have something to hide."

But the card isn't the only target of Trudeau's satire.

Another strip details an idealistic congresswoman telling a socialite about her proposed fund-raising project, a shelter for the homeless. Comic strip character Lacey Davenport describes the plight of the homeless.

"That's awful," the wealthy matron says. "Why don't they just move to their country homes?"

"In Palm Beach, they think homelessness is caused by bad divorce lawyers," a weary Mrs. Davenport confides to another Doonesbury character.

NBC, Cosby Show takes ratings war

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ratings leader Bill Cosby landed in Nielsen's Top 10 twice, with his regular series episode Thursday plus a Father's Day show, as NBC kept far ahead of the competition for the week ended June 16.

Cosby had almost the same effect on NBC's Sunday schedule as he has had on Thursday night. "The Cosby Show" on Thursday was first, while the special "Cosby Show" rerun on Father's Day was ninth.

NBC's entire Sunday prime-time schedule was about Father's Day. "Fathers and Sons," a rejected pilot, was in a three-way tie for 17th place. The movie "A Father's Love" was No. 26.

Two comedies telecast before "The Cosby Show" were "The Cosby Show," first; "The A-Team," second; "Family Ties," third; "Riptide," fourth; "Remington Steele," fifth; "Trapper John, M.D.," "Cheers" and "Night Court," tied for sixth; "The Cosby Show" Sunday special, ninth; "Miami Vice," tenth.

top five. CBS's "Trapper John, M.D.," in a three-way tie for sixth place, was the only competitor to make it into the Top 10.

NBC, recovering from a nine-year ratings drought, seems to be turning the summer into an NBC festival. The network has been first for four consecutive weeks and has been first seven out of eight weeks since the end of the 1984-85 season.

NBC won the ratings with a network average of 13.6 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey. CBS was second with 12.4 and ABC was third with 10.0. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 13.6 percent of the audience was tuned to NBC.

The Top 10 all NBC except CBS' "Trapper John" were: "The Cosby Show," first; "The A-Team," second; "Family Ties," third; "Riptide," fourth; "Remington Steele," fifth; "Trapper John, M.D.," "Cheers" and "Night Court," tied for sixth; "The Cosby Show" Sunday special, ninth; "Miami Vice," tenth.

Father's Day gift worth $2.9 million

BALTIMORE (AP) — A retired steelworker says he guarantees his grandson is "gonna get an education" because the 11-year-old gave him a lottery ticket he had purchased with his allowance for Father's Day, and it won $2.9 million.

"I usually get my dad a box of cigars or some shorts, something like that," said young Robert Windham, who will enter the seventh grade next fall. "I just wanted to get something different."

"I should probably get just about everybody something like that from now on," he said. When he opened his grandson's card Sunday and removed the ticket, Edmund C. Mech, 64, of Baltimore, said he thought he had only five of the six correct numbers drawn in the Lotto game the night before. But Mech said his son-in-law looked at it and said, "Dad, I think you got a winner."

"I'll tell you what," Mech said. "That little guy's gonna get an education. He's gonna get an education."

Mech said he will put a large sum of the money in a trust fund for his grandchildren. He said he will "remain the same" despite his new wealth.

Robert had his mother buy the ticket because he is underage, Mech said. He also got two for his father and one for an uncle.

Robert said he saved money for the tickets from his allowance, which he receives in exchange for "chores and stuff I do around the house."

He said he allowed the lottery computer to randomly pick the numbers on the ticket he gave his grandfather.

Mech will receive the winnings in 20 annual payments. His first check, for $116,000, will arrive Friday, lottery officials said.

Affects of sweetner on infants unknown

ATLANTA (AP) — Pregnant women and newborn infants should be cautious about using the artificial sweetener aspartame because it contains a substance that may cause brain damage, a medical researcher said.

But another researcher, who has begun a federally funded study of the sweetener also known as NutraSweet, said Tuesday it could be years before its effects on pregnancies are known.

The study by Dr. Rueben Matalon of the University of Illinois will not involve pregnant women. He said a study of aspartame's effects on pregnancy would have to be conducted retrospectively — such as a look at children with a common problem to determine if they were born to women who were regular users of a certain product.

"I don't think anyone would purposely include pregnant women (in a chemical research study) and give them large doses of aspartame," said Matalon, professor of pediatrics at Illinois and head of the university's genetics department.

On Monday, an Emory University doctor said pregnant women and newborn infants should be cautious about using aspartame until more research can be conducted into possible side effects.

Dr. Louis Elsas, a professor of pediatrics and biochemistry and director of medical genetics at the Atlanta school, said use of aspartame may cause brain damage in some people because one of the two major components of NutraSweet — phenylalanine — has been linked to brain abnormalities.

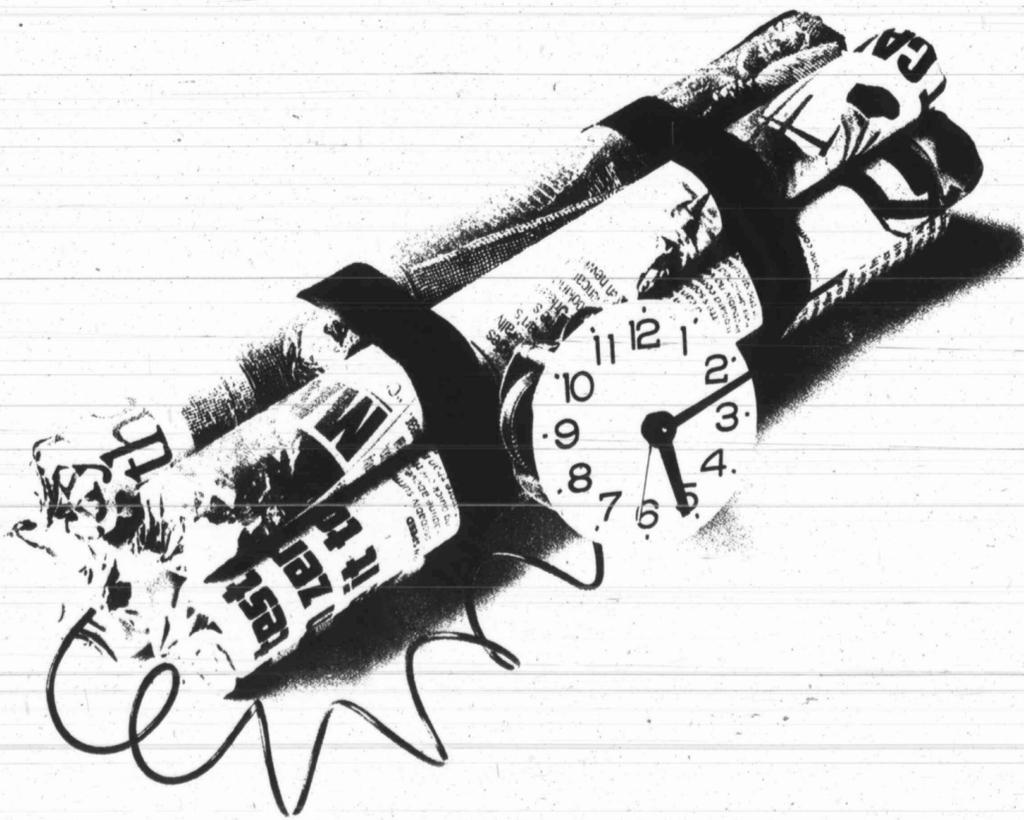

In healthy adults, the effect could be a shortened attention span or other apparently reversible behavioral changes. In fetuses and young children, the damage could be more severe and permanent, he said, because phenylalanine concentrates in a fetus's brain.

Matalon stressed that his study, funded by the National Institutes of Health, has just begun and will take up to three years to complete. "I have no data to support for or against NutraSweet," he said.

Matalon said his study will explore whether the toxic substances that make up phenylalanine are organically disposed of by normal, healthy individuals.

"People should understand, the NIH is looking into it," Matalon said in a telephone interview from Chicago. "The door is not closed on understanding more about NutraSweet."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is good for long-term planning and utilizing your experiences from the past to benefit you at present. Later you may find obstacles in your path.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Begin the day properly by getting into business and other important matters ahead of you, but don't make any radical changes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Communication of all kinds about which you have procrastinated can now be handled with alacrity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Analyze your position well and you will know how to make greater progress in the future. Go to an expert for financial advice.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Go after your personal wishes and gain them with relative ease. Learn to economize more.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to gain fascinating new information in the morning, but later may feel annoyed because of some condition.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be more willing to listen to suggestions of a partner and use them for good results. Then go after new knowledge you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You find that civic and business affairs go along smoothly for you in the morning, but look out for some monetary trouble later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A different approach at some personal matter can clear it up to your satisfaction now. Get credit affairs improved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Interest yourself in finding better ways to please your partners in the morning and later don't get taken in by a new contact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate may be overly anxious, so get your heads together and work out a fine deal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Work at a measured pace and you get far better results than if you try to rush. Render a personal favor to a fellow worker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Personal pleasures can be enjoyed during the morning, and then get busy and improve your surroundings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can easily comprehend diagrams, directives, reports and the like and should have a good education that will be helpful in this also. Make sure that the discipline is gentle, otherwise your progeny could easily develop a martyr complex and be overly sensitive.

Spanish Sea saga

Texas author-historian reveals Gulf treasures

BONHAM (AP) — Bob Weddle, Texas historian, publisher and journalist, has come out with his eighth book — "The Spanish Sea: Discoveries in the Gulf of Mexico" — a culmination of 10 years' effort. While Weddle's previous books have focused on Texas, "The Spanish Sea" goes well beyond Texas — it covers the entire Gulf of Mexico, Weddle said. The book covers exploration of the Gulf up to 1685. Another book will cover the following period up to 1805, Weddle said.

The Bonham native and former employee of the "Sherman Democrat" said, "I spent three months in Spain researching documents, and traveled and explored the circumference of the Gulf."

Weddle spent two weeks traveling from the Texas coastline through southern Florida via coastal roads. He stopped at major universities, including those in New Orleans and specifically the University of Florida and the University of Texas at Austin. He spent two more weeks were spent on the Mexican coastline, conducting research, using documents as well as the site observations.

"The idea is travel," Weddle said. "You can tell a great deal by the coastline."

Weddle says historical charts and maps, as well as diaries of individual explorers, document the changes in the coastal environment.

"In the 1687 diary of a Spaniard looking for La Salle, he came to the coast of Florida," Weddle said. "You can see dead trees where he saw living timber, and there is a basis for comparison."

"A lot of the kick is putting the site and the history together," Weddle said.

"I like to see the places where the things I write about happened," he said.

"I try to determine the effect of geography and physiography on history — figure out the trials and tribulations of explorers. You understand these better when you're there," Weddle said.

But the growth of industry on the Gulf Coast creates problems for on-site research, Weddle said. "The whole U.S. Gulf Coast is taken over by the petrochemical industry. It's really messed up."

Little information on the environment and coastline can be obtained from the oil companies, which only in recent years have been made to file environmental impact statements with the Environmental Protection Agency before undertaking major projects, Weddle said.

"The Spanish Sea," was written with a $20,000 per year stipend plus expenses granted by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Pornography Commission begins work

Federal agency will wage war against sexually explicit material

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal commission on pornography must weigh any effort to combat the spread of sexually explicit material against its impact on freedom of speech, the Justice Department's second-ranking official says.

On the eve of the opening of public hearings today by the Commission on Pornography, Deputy Attorney General Lowell Jensen said: "This is surely the time for Americans to speak out on this issue."

But at the same time, Jensen said Tuesday, the commission is faced with "difficult and far-reaching issues," such as how far government should go to rein in the distribution of pornographic materials, especially those that graphically depict acts of violence.

Earlier this week, the Supreme Court ruled 7-2 that police do not need a warrant if they enter a bookstore and purchase, rather than seize, material alleged to be obscene.

"This administration has said that our children are our greatest asset," Jensen told the 11-member commission at an organizational meeting. "It is includes law professors, psychiatrists and people who have been active in the movement to protect children. Many have spoken out previously against pornography."

The American Civil Liberties Union has criticized the composition of the commission as lacking experts who are sensitive to First Amendment concerns.

On Tuesday, Jensen told the panel that its recommendations must be "in a manner consistent with constitutional guarantees." And Hudson said, "I think I can say without reservation" that the panel's members will approach the problem objectively.

Over the next year, the commission will delve into the broad scope of the pornography issue, particularly the effects on children of such new technologies as videotapes and cable television systems, which have made sexually explicit materials widely available, and the role of organized crime in the dissemination of such materials.

Jensen said there has been "a substantial change in the amount and quantity" of sexually explicit materials since 1970, the last time a federal study commission attacked the problem.

At that time, Jensen added, the commission was "unable to conclude" that there was a direct link between exposure to erotic material and anti-social behavior.

The commission is headed by Henry Hudson, commonwealth's attorney for Arlington, Va., and
