Couple arraigned on drug charges

A 27-year-old Denison man and a 34-year-old Big Spring woman were arraigned before a U.S. magistrate in San Angelo on drug-related charges stemming from an undercover buy-bust operation Tuesday.

Arrested were James Burger, 27, of Denison and Dorothy Jean Moser, 34, of the Barcelona Apartments, according to Big Spring Police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

Burger, described by Police Chief Rick Turner as "the major source of amphetamines" in Big Spring, was arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to possess a controlled substance with intent to deliver. Moser was arrested on suspicion of delivery of a controlled substance, according to Edwards.

They were arrested at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the parking lot of the Mid-Continental Inn on Interstate Highway 20, according to Big Spring police.

According to Chief Rick Turner, Moser delivered 7 ounces of what police believe is powdered amphetamine to undercover agents with the Drug Enforcement Agency and a policeman from another Texas city.

A secretary with the U.S. magistrate's office said she could not release any information on the arraignment.

Passing to play

• City's summer school enrollment up

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Tougher graduation requirements and the new "no pass, no play" rules have drawn more Big Spring students into the classroom this summer.

Summer school enrollment is up slightly overall, according to Big Spring Independent School District officials.

Ninety high school students and 55 junior high school students are taking summer courses, school officials said.

High school enrollment is "up a little bit" from last year, Big Spring High Principal Bill McQueary said. The number of junior high students has risen by 15, or 25 percent, according to school district coordinator Janice Rosson.

This year, however, most students are from the Big Spring school district. In the past, many have been from smaller area school districts that did not offer summer courses, officials said.

At the high school level, about 40 more Big Spring students are taking government or English courses than last year, McQueary said. English and government are the only classes offered, he said.

"Most of the students here are ours. Before, a lot of kids were from area schools, like Colorado City and Snyder," said Shirley Matthews, Big Spring High registrar.

"We probably don't have 10 kids that aren't from Big Spring," Matthews said. He was unsure if area schools were offering summer school this year.

Officials gave varying reasons for the increased attendance of Big Spring students, including tougher academic requirements that allow fewer electives.

"Maybe some kids are interested in getting their government out of the way in time to take other courses as a senior or to graduate at mid-term," Matthews said.

McQueary said he was unsure of what students' motives were in attending summer school, but said that the state's new "no pass, no play" rules probably did not affect enrollment.

"A few are going to get the minimum number of credits (to play)," McQueary said. "I'd guess about a couple — I can't really say. They may be going just to meet their graduation requirements."

"It's not any larger than in the past. We've always had kids who were in athletics or band that took summer school so they had enough credits to be promoted or to participate in UIL. It's not any more than in the past," he said.

The school has no figures on the number of students participating in extracurricular activities who failed and are attending courses to meet eligibility requirements, McQueary said.

"There are a number of junior students who are taking government so they can take more electives and put themselves in a position so they have all their requirements. They may be going to get the harder subjects out of the way so they have more time to play," he said.

According to McQueary and Athletic Director Ron Logback, athletes who failed their last six weeks will not be penalized when they start classes in the fall.

"Everybody starts fresh this fall.... Everyone becomes eligible providing they have enough units," Logback said. The number of academic units needed to participate in UIL sports and other competition is not the same as the number needed to graduate, he said.

"I don't think we're going to lose any athletes to 'no pass, no play' until the end of the six weeks. Everyone who was off the football team will be back and eligible," Logback said.

Larger enrollments in summer school could be a trend, Logback said. "Everybody involved in athletics probably will have to go to summer school twice because of the strict requirements. You can't be in a major sports class and get the number of units necessary to graduate."

The same applies to band, said Ricky Mitchell, the high school band director and sponsor of the flag and rifle corps. He had 10 to 20 band and corps students attending summer school this year, he said.

Diplomas are rated into three classes now, Mitchell said. "If they want to get an academic diploma,

• 'No pass, no play' ruling set for fall

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court is expected to rule before school starts next fall whether a student failing any course can be banned from extracurricular activities until the grades are made up.

Oral arguments were presented the nine justices Wednesday.

The legal issue arose when Houston attorneys representing 45 unhappy parents and students asked state courts to declare the rule unconstitutional.

The rule — often called "no pass, no play" — was approved by the State Board of Education in carrying out policy directives of the major school reform bill passed by a special legislative session in 1984.

A student failing to make at least 70 in any course during a six-week period can be banned from extracurricular activities the next six weeks.

"This rule resulted from the Legislature attempting to put the emphasis on the curriculum in our schools, not the frills," said Dave Richards, first assistant attorney general.

"This rule says the business of Texas schools is education. If a student passes his work he can enjoy the frills; if he does not pass, he cannot," Richards argued.

Richards said the rule passes the constitutional test because it is "rationally related to the education process" in Texas.

"We don't see it as overinclusive," Richards said. "We do not see it as a form of punishment."

But attorneys challenging the rule argued the concept infringes on the rights of students.

"It affects more than sports," said Houston lawyer Anthony Sheppard, representing a group of Harris County students. "We do not think regulation of extracurricular activities is a compelling state interest."

Sheppard said he thought the rule also violated freedom of speech guarantees, because a failing student would not be able to take part in student government, work on the school newspaper or take part in debate competition.

Houston lawyer Robert Brown said the rule created two classes of students — "those who take part in extracurricular activities and fail and those who do not take part in extracurricular activities and fail."

Brown said the rule affects students who are underachievers and who take part in extracurricular activities.

"Many of these students simply fall out of the educational environment," he said.

He said 65 percent of the students in the Alief school district, which he represented, do not take part in extracurricular activities.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon argued that the rule does not create two classes of students.

"There is equal protection for all," O'Hanlon said.

Hijacked: Day 7

Militia leader will present hostages to press

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem militia leader Nabih Berri said he will present some of the 40 American hostages from a hijacked TWA airliner to the press at Beirut airport tonight in an apparent effort to show they are not being ill-treated.

"We will show them to the press tonight at Beirut airport at 8 o'clock (1 p.m. EDT)," he told reporters. But he did not make clear whether reporters will be permitted to question the hostages.

Earlier, Akef Haidar, a spokesman for Berri's Amal militia, told The Associated Press that the hostages were "in a very good situation."

He said 37 passengers from the hijacked Boeing 727 who were spirited away from the plane to secret locations in Beirut to prevent any rescue mission and he said they "are kept in eight or 10 places."

He declined to say where the hideouts are, but said all the hostages were in good condition.

"They're eating well and have TV sets in their rooms. They are getting good food. There's always a menu in Arabic and in English. They have a taste for Lebanese food. Everything for them is fine."

Haidar added, "They talk all the time with the hijackers, talking politics and asking questions about the Shiite philosophy and the Shiite religion. Some of the discussions are of a very high level."

Berri, Lebanon's justice minister, has emerged as the chief negotiator between the hijackers and the United States and his Amal militiamen are guarding the hijacked plane where the three crew members are being held.

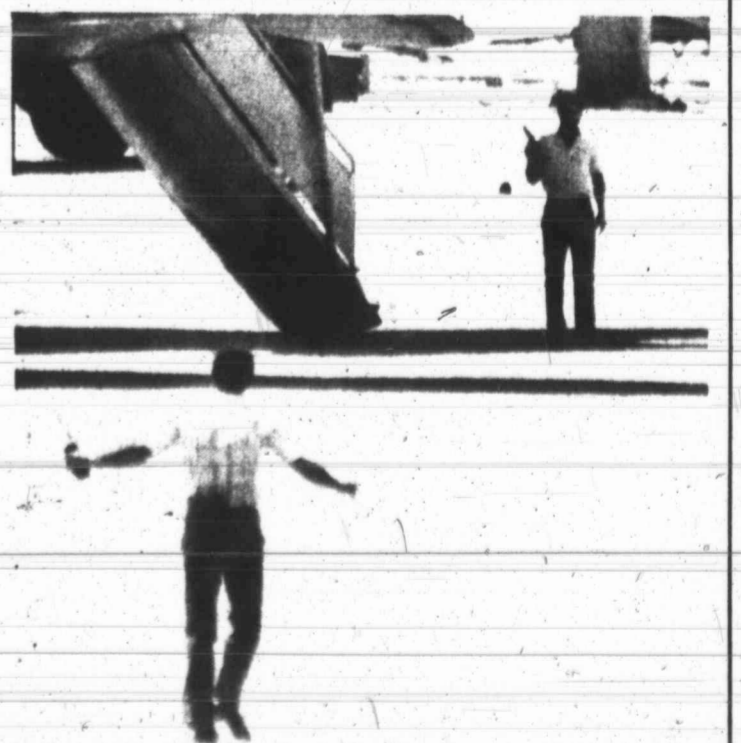

He also has said he has control of, or access to the other hostages, and has insisted that he will not release them until the chief demand of the hijackers is met — that Israel release 700 Shiite Moslem prisoners taken from south Lebanon during the Israeli army occupation that ended early this month.

Gunmen inside the hijacked Boeing 727 fired over the heads of reporters at the Beirut airport today after a Lebanese reporter tried to sneak aboard the plane by posing as an airline attendant. The captain and his two crew members said they are aboard, surrounded by many gunmen.

Berri also said he had accepted a Swiss offer to use its territory to hold an exchange of the American hostages.

Berri made the disclosure after meeting with Swiss Ambassador Jean-Paul Ramsiere who delivered a letter from Swiss Foreign Minister Pierre Aubert saying, "Switzerland puts all its potential at the president's disposal to contribute to resolve the hijack tragedy."

A Shiite Moslem AMAL militia negotiator, carrying a walkie-talkie in one hand, a notebook in the other and a pistol on his waist, raises his hands as he approached the hijacked TWA jet on Thursday. One of the hijackers stands next to the aircraft's steps holding his pistol ready. The plane has been parked at Beirut Airport since Sunday.

Chamber challenges worth bill proposals

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce took a stance against the comparable worth bills now moving through Congress during the Chamber's Board of Directors meeting at noon yesterday.

The chamber will send a letter today following its signing by Chamber President Granville Hahn to Congressmen against the comparable worth bills, said LeRoy Tillery, chamber staff member.

If adopted into law, comparable worth would require employers to pay the same salary to employees in different jobs determined to have equal values.

Proponents of the comparable worth concept say disparities in average income between men and women and the heavy concentration of women in certain occupations indicate discrimination.

The chamber's reaction to the comparable worth concept is stated in an example letter given to the directors to use in presenting their stances to congressmen.

"Equal opportunity is the law; equal pay for equal work is the law," the letter reads. "The law does allow an employer to pay bookkeepers less than truckdrivers, for example, as the difference in pay for the jobs and the market are different and not a matter of sex of the workers is involved."

A public and private comparable worth bill through both the House

Senate. The public sector bills are H.R. 27 and S. 519. These two claim to be studies of federal workers. The private sector bills are H.R. 375 and S. 5.

These bills say the federal government must help "educate" employers on how to eliminate "discriminatory wage setting practices" through the comparable worth job evaluations, according to a Congressional Action report by U.S. Chamber of Commerce labor relations attorney Virginia B. Lamp.

In other business, the board of directors approved members for the Nomination Committee. Clyde McMahon, Sr. was approved as chairman. Committee members are John Arrick, Max Green, Russ McEwen and Bill Crooker.

In approving the Convention and Visitors Bureau Budget, the Chamber decided to supply $3,500 in funding for the Original West Texas Baptist Conference to be held in Big Spring in August. The directors also approved $1500 for the 4-H junior rodeo to be held in July.

The city contract on the C.L.E.A.N. Program, which currently has 20 high school and college students working to clean areas in the city, was approved to be sent back to the city council.

The chamber's financial statements were also approved after a motion from Bruce Hoganmiller was seconded and carried.

The Chamber of Commerce Community Luncheon will be Friday at noon.

Jury reaches split decision on man's second DWI trial

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A four-man, two-woman jury in a Howard County Court at Law trial reached a split decision Wednesday evening for a driving while intoxicated case that was retried for the second time.

Howard County Attorney Tim Yeats said his office plans to dismiss the case of Alberto Rodriguez, 53, of 103 Canyon Drive who was arrested by Big Spring Police on Feb. 13 on suspicion of DWI. "Two is enough for me," Yeats said this morning about his decision to dismiss the case.

The case was declared a mistrial by Howard County Judge Milton Kirby after a preliminary hearing last month.

Jurors then reached a five to one decision for Rodriguez's conviction. A conviction requires a unanimous decision.

The retrial began Tuesday morning with testimony from Big Spring Police Officer William Anderson who stopped Rodriguez at the corner of Price and W. Fourth. The state presented four witnesses and a videotape exhibit of Rodriguez performing sobriety tests at the police station at the time of his booking.

Presiding juror Les K. Kinman said the videotape exhibit "was the outstanding piece of evidence" that jurors used to make their decision.

"We reviewed the video once in the courtroom and three times in deliberation," Kinman said. Jurors deliberated for 5½ hours after final arguments were presented by Yeats and Rodriguez's defense attorney Wayne Burns.

Before closing arguments, Burns asked Kirby to hand down an instructive verdict of not guilty due to "a viable and important piece of evidence that has been destroyed," he said.

Yeats argued that the evidence in question, a videotape of Rodriguez attempting to perform the breathalyzer test, "is not material and not required by law."

Kirby denied Burns' motion saying the tape wouldn't help jurors determine whether Rodriguez was physically able to perform the breathalyzer test.

The defendant had testified that he suffered from diabetes and "had an extremely dry mouth" during the time of his booking.

Firemen douse truck blaze

Fire caused $20,000 damage Wednesday evening to the cab of an 18-wheeler truck at Rip Griffin's Truck Stop on Interstate 20 and N. Highway 87, according to fire department reports.

Firemen arrived at the fire at 6:20 p.m. to find flames coming from under the 1982 Freight Lines truck cab, the report stated.

After the seven firefighters extinguished the blaze under the cab, they then battled flames coming from the sleeper portion of the truck, according to the report.

Firemen then spent several minutes overhauling the sleeping compartment before returning to the station at 7:07 p.m.

The truck is owned by Raymond Crowley of Columbus, Ohio, the report states.

Firefighters were called to douse flames in a vacant weedy lot when the fire, started by a neighbor trying to burn a snake, got out of control.

According to a fire department report, Mrs. Gonzales of 2410 W. 16th started the fire to burn a snake crawling in the tall weeds of a vacant lot at 1507 Mesa.

Firemen arrived at the lot at 1:22 p.m. Wednesday and had extinguished the fire by 1:39 p.m. According to the report, they found burned grass, weeds, tree stumps and scrap lumber.

Firemen also put out a dumpster fire Wednesday evening in the alley behind the 7-Eleven at 18th and Gregg streets, reports show.

They used 50 gallons of water to douse a small amount of cardboard boxes burning in the dumpster. They arrived at the burning dumpster at 5:49 p.m. and returned to the station at 6 p.m., according to the report.

No pass

Continued from page 1-A and they want to take band, they have to go to summer school."

Schools are considering adding a seventh class period or having a zero-hour class, at 7:30 a.m. or at 3:30 p.m., so students can take the necessary number of classes without going to summer school, Logback said.

The district is not offering summer school for elementary students because of a lack of demand, Rosson said.

"We only had one elementary student whose parents wanted him to attend. Most elementary student parents, in addition to the cost, decide to have the children gain more maturity and repeat the grade," Rosson said.

"A few are going to get the minimum number of credits (to play)," McQueary said. "I'd guess about a couple — I can't really say. They may be going just to meet their graduation requirements."

Ritz Theater closes its doors

The Art Deco lions perched near the roof on the front of the once-elegant Ritz Theatre at 401 Main are as blank-faced as ever.

So is the movie marquee. Apparently, the Ritz Theatre has been closed. Theater owner Jim Wilmes of the Ritz Theatre Corp. in Midland could not be reached for comment today.

The marquee has been blank since Wednesday, the doors are locked, and the posters advertising coming attractions have been stripped from the front windows.

Calls to the theater end in a telephone company recording that the number has been disconnected or is out of service.

Calls to theater offices in Midland are answered by two recordings: one describing the features at the theater in Midland and another saying that Wilmes temporarily out of the office.

Wilmes assumed the lease for the theater in November 1984 from former owner Keith Pherigo of Big Spring. At the same time he purchased the Ritz, he also purchased the old R-70 theater, the Cinema and the Jet Drive-In.

Pherigo has repurchased the Cinema since the R-70, which was a short-lived Spanish-language moviehouse, is closed. The Jet, which Wilmes said during an interview with the Big Spring Herald would open in spring, has not opened.

Signature verification begins for liquor petition

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Some names have been dropped. Other petition signatures calling for a local option election in Precinct One regarding the mixed drink law have been accurately verified.

"We're about one-quarter to one-third done checking signatures. We've deleted about 80 to 100 names," said Howard County Tax Assessor Dorothy Moore.

The signatures were submitted to Moore's office last Monday. Michael Russell of Citizens for a Choice said the volunteer group had collected 2,643 total signatures.

He said that 2,570 signatures "do everything to abide by the state regulations."

Citizens for a Choice had to collect a minimal 2,421 signatures to call for an election.

"We're working expeditiously trying to get through," Moore said about her office's task.

She said office deputies were taking each name individually and checking it against the current voters registration list.

"If we don't have it, we're researching back through past lists to check before deleting someone's name," Moore said.

Mike Russell who was present in the tax assessor's office this morning, told Moore that a problem his group had in trying to convince people to sign petitions "was convincing people how big Precinct One was."

He said lots of potential signees did not believe that the Siver Heels and Tubbs Addition were within precinct boundaries.

Moore said names that had been deleted included persons who had signed more than once and those who lived outside the precinct.

"We even found a Coahoma resident's signature," Moore said. She said her office deputies hope to finish the task of verifying signatures in a week. The task would not be completed before the next commissioner's court on Monday, Moore said.

Asked what Citizens for a Choice would do if petition signatures do not reach a minimal amount, Russell said the group would "have to wait and see. If we come out short, we'll have to get a list of the signatures they threw out and challenge them on it," Russell said.

Deaths

Lena Howerton

Funeral services for Lena E. Howerton, 72, will be Friday at 2 p.m. at Nalley-Pickle and Welch Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Rick Davis, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Stanton officiating. Burial will be at Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Antiques taken in break in

An estimated $8,400 in antique furniture was stolen in a burglary of a house at 1700 Virginia, Frances Einsel told police.

Items taken include: a Russian walnut china cabinet, valued at $3,000; six Russian walnut chairs, valued at $1,000; a dining room table, valued at $600; an antique dresser, valued at $1,300; and three antique chairs, value unknown.

The burglary occurred between 3 p.m. Tuesday and 12:35 p.m. Wednesday, the report stated.

Burglars stole gold and jade jewelry Tuesday from an apartment at 2911 W. Highway 80, Barbara Smyth told police.

Taken between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. were a gold chain necklace with a small gold and jade medal and a gold and jade chain with jade beads spaced at one-inch intervals. Burglars also broke a storm window.

• Betsy Coleman of 906 E. Sixth told someone stole more than $1,000 in cash and jewelry between 10:30 and 10:45 p.m. at 1110 E. Fifth.

Taken were a tan purse, valued at $10; a brown wallet; a blue checkbook; two payroll checks and cash, totalling $707; a man's gold wedding ring, valued at $460; and a silver watch, valued at $20.

• Tom Vernon, an employee of Rockwell Brothers and Co. at 300 W. Second, told police someone forged a check at 10:30 a.m. Thursday for $462 in merchandise.

• Margaret Atwell of 619 Ridgelea told police someone damaged her door frame and lock and stole two pairs of curtains at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

• Gary Fuqua of the City Sanitation Department told police someone damaged a brown metal trash dumpster at 2603 Dow between Sunday and Monday. Damage was estimated at $75.

Men plead guilty to charges

District Court Judge James Gregg received two guilty pleas Wednesday afternoon regarding an arson incident and a revocation of probation hearing.

Albino Noyala, 32, of 404 Benton was placed on eight years probation for a Howard Grand Jury arson indictment. He is also required to pay court costs and $7,500 in restitution fees.

John Flores, 33, of Midland had his probation revoked and will serve three years in the Texas Department of Corrections. He was given credit for 99 days spent in Howard County jail.

• Deputies arrested Solomon Zepeda, 51, of 903 N. Goliad on a peace bond warrant issued from Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin's office. He was released on $2,000 bond.

• Lubbock County sheriff's deputies arrested Billy Glen Crawford, 29, of Lubbock on an issuing a bad check warrant from Howard County. He was released on $200 bond.

• Deputies arrested Johnny West Reid, 37, of Route 2 on an issuing a bad check warrant. He was released on $200 bond.

• Deputies arrested Brooke Rae Bodine, 28, of Box 2375 on a warrant charging him with bondsman off bond.

He was arrested last February by Big Spring Police at the Back Door Lounge and charged with assault.

• Deputies arrested Perfecto Caudillo Jr., 36, of 2501 Dow on a peace bond warrant. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Heflin.

• Deputies arrested Avel Abreo Ramirez, 38, of 1504 Cherokee for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was placed in county jail with a $2,000 bond set for his release.

Five injured in 2-car collision

Five Big Spring residents were injured slightly Wednesday afternoon in a two-car accident at the intersection of E. Fourth and State.

Injured were Naomi Ann Rushing, 45, of 105 Presidio, and her passengers, all of the same address: Robin Hutcheson, 22; Robert Hutcheson, 23; and Joe Rushing, 20.

The other driver, Naomi Houghting Formby, 57, of P.O. Box 1303, also was injured. All five refused medical treatment.

Rushing was traveling north in the 400 block of State in her 1969 gold Buick Skylark, while Formby was driving east on E. Fourth in a 1979 white Ford pickup truck when the accident occurred at 12:58 p.m., the police report states.

According to the accident report, Formby drove through a red light and struck Rushing's car in the intersection.

Formby's car then struck a cinder block fence owned by Mrs. Lewis Stallings at 1606 Gregg and a wooden bench owned by Perco Car Center at 901 E. Third, according to the report.

Damage to the fence was estimated at $500, the report stated.

Both drivers received tickets for failure to maintain financial responsibility, the report shows.

Mayors blast Reagan

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — The nation's mayors shelved party differences to attack President Reagan's budget and tax proposals, saying the plan would leave cities floundering financially.

"I think our messages are clearer than they have been for a long, long time because we are more together on the issues than we have been for a long, long time," said New Orleans Mayor Ernest Morial, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The mayors, at the end of their five-day meeting here, urged Congress Wednesday not to forget the cities as it considers Reagan's proposals.

The 160 mayors approved resolutions urging Congress to continue three programs that Reagan wants to cut: deductions for state and local taxes on federal personal income tax, general revenue sharing, and the tax-exempt status of municipal development bonds.

Spyproof paper for sale

BOISE, Idaho — For every bureaucrat who worries about snoops in his office, Boise Cascade Corp. has some help — a line of paper that cannot be photocopied.

The company says it will begin selling the unique, spyproof paper to the U.S. government in September. Inventors Norman Gardner, a Toronto advertiser, and Michael Voticky, a Montreal furrier, retain the right to sell the product to commercial customers.

"We don't know how much we can sell to the government," said Vicky Diede, project manager for Boise Cascade's security paper division in Portland, Ore. "I can tell you that we've had a tremendous amount of interest because of the (John A. Walker Jr.) spy case."

Walker, arrested last month, allegedly was the head of a spy family that sold classified Navy information to the Soviet Union.

Campbell Soup boycott

TOLEDO, Ohio — Campbell Soup Co. had no ulterior motives in revealing a secret agreement designed to end a 6-year-old boycott by a farm workers' union, a company spokesman said.

The agreement calls for representatives of growers for Campbell and the Farm Labor Organizing Committee to form a commission by July 1 to set up rules for elections that could make FLOC the collective bargaining agent for some farm workers in Ohio and Michigan.

After Campbell confirmed existence of the agreement, signed May 13 after mediation by the National Council of Churches, FLOC President Baldemar Velasquez said Campbell had broken its word by announcing the agreement.

Reagan victory

President wins approval for chemical weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — After three years of defeats, President Reagan has finally won House approval — with strings attached — for new U.S. chemical weapons.

"I've got President Reagan's tire tracks down my back," Rep. John Edward Porter, R-Ill., an opponent, said after the House voted 229-196 Wednesday to permit new nerve gases two years from now under certain conditions.

Those strings include a requirement that America's NATO allies formally request that the weapons be built and stored in Western Europe.

The Republican-controlled Senate approved new chemical weapons two weeks ago, but without the restrictions attached by the Democratic-run House. A conference committee will iron out the differences, but Porter said he expects the restrictions to be dropped.

"The NATO hurdle would be insurmountable if it remains," Porter said after the vote. "But it won't. It'll be dropped in the conference."

For three years, the House had refused to approve building gas weapons, continuing a moratorium begun in 1969. It rejected arguments by Reagan that the weapons were needed to offset a threatening Soviet chemical arsenal.

The Senate twice approved the weapons, but the House position had prevailed in the conference sessions.

Porter credited Reagan with "a masterful job of lobbying," noting the president met at the White House on Monday with a group of 40 House members.

The Army wants to build binary weapons, so named because they would be composed of two chemicals kept separate until they mix after a shell is fired or bomb dropped.

The Pentagon says binaries would be safer than the current stockpile of aging weapons stored in eight states and Europe.

The House approval also included restrictions that require the Army to store the binary components in separate states and closely restrict any shipments or transports.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., told his colleagues that "we need to be able to counter the Soviet threat" with new U.S. weapons.

That was an argument heard often from nerve gas proponents during four hours of debate.

Opponents like Porter said the current stockpile was large enough. "We have a sufficient amount to deter use," he said.

Chemicals weapons are limited by a pair of international treaties, but both pacts lack effective enforcement procedures.

The United States and the Soviets are now trying to negotiate a new treaty and the Reagan administration is also arguing the U.S. weapons are needed to show American resolve.

The vote Wednesday came as the House worked through a bill authorizing most of a proposed $292 billion defense budget for fiscal 1986.

75 killed by car bomb

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A red Volvo car packed with explosives blew up outside a candy store in the northern port of Tripoli where Moslems had gathered to buy sweets for a feast, killing 75 people and wounding 150, state radio said today.

Rescue workers searched through the rubble of the building all night for more victims and divers scoured the nearby Mediterranean Sea for bodies thrown into the water by the blast.

Police earlier reported the explosion late Wednesday killed 33 people, wounded 95. They could not immediately confirm the radio's higher casualty figures.

Also Wednesday, Red Cross workers evacuated 103 wounded Palestinians from Beirut refugee camps under a cease-fire that ended an assault by Shiites trying to oust Palestinian guerrillas.

Gunmen kill Americans

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Gunmen disguised as Salvadoran soldiers sprayed two crowded outdoor cafes with automatic weapons fire, killing at least 13 people — including four U.S. Marines and two other Americans, officials said.

All the Marines at the cafes Wednesday night were embassy guards, and all were in civilian clothes, said U.S. Embassy spokesman James Williams. The United States has U.S. Marine guards at all its embassies worldwide.

Williams said officials of Interdata, a computer company, told the embassy that two of its employees who were American citizens were killed in the attack.

Four Guatemalans and five Salvadorans also were killed in the attack, he said earlier. It was not clear whether the two American civilians had been identified originally as Guatemalans or Salvadorans.

Bombing suspect sought

FRANKFURT, West Germany — Police said today they were searching for a young man seen running from the terminal shortly before a bomb blast that killed three people at Frankfurt airport.

Police spokesman Franz Winkler said the man was seen jumping into a dark blue Mercedes sedan Wednesday afternoon and speeding away from continental Europe's busiest airport.

No one had claimed responsibility for the bomb, he said. "The actual target of the attack is still not known," said a second police spokesman, Karl-Heinz Wagner.

Investigators tentatively identified two children killed in the blast as a 5-year-old Australian boy and his 3-year-old sister, he said. A man killed in the attack was thought to be Portuguese, Winkler said.

U.S. economy shows signs of recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, showing signs of picking up steam from a nearly flat first quarter, is growing at a 3.1 percent annual rate, the government estimated today.

In issuing its so-called flash estimate for the gross national product, the government's broadest economic measure, the Commerce Department revised first quarter GNP downward from 0.7 percent to 0.3 percent.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said that consumer prices rose a moderate 0.2 percent in May, held down by a second straight drop in food prices and an easing in recent gasoline price hikes. For the first five months of the year, prices were rising at a 3.9 percent annual rate, virtually matching the 4 percent gain for all of 1984.

AA says thanks to Drs. Bill, Bob

On June 14, 1935, Dr. Robert H. Smith, "Dr. Bob," an Akron, Ohio physician, took his last drink, or what members of Alcoholics Anonymous refer to as a "road trip" or a "slip." Dr. Bob's search for sobriety began earlier that spring when a member of the Oxford Group, an evangelical society, arranged for him to meet with another alcoholic with whom he could talk, New York businessman William G. Wilson, "Bill W."

The name Alcoholics Anonymous wasn't used until three years later by the two co-founders. But the June 14 date is observed by most AA chapters as the beginning of what is now a self-supporting fellowship of more than 1 million people around the world committed to helping themselves and other alcoholics stay sober through a 12-step self-help program.

AA's membership has changed over the years. It initially shunned women and blacks. Today, AA members cross the spectrum of humanity. They include movie stars, politicians, housewives, gays, teenagers, cross-drug users, prisoners and the mentally ill. Doctors, psychiatrists, churches, businesses and the courts all recognize the value of AA by referring to it people with drinking problems.

The gravestones of Dr. Bob and Bill W. contain no tributes. But their lifesaving idea is appreciated by millions of alcoholics and non-alcoholics, alike.

Gramm, Kennedy's own budget battle

It's not every day that you find a conservative Republican senator trying to cut the defense budget and a liberal Democratic senator opposing him. But it happened the other day, and the battle tells a lot about the obstacles to reducing the federal budget.

The fight between Phil Gramm of Texas and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts was over a measure that dilutes the Davis-Bacon Act as it applies to military construction. Davis-Bacon, a relic of the Depression, forces the federal government to pay inflated wages on construction projects.

The law was supposed to prevent Washington from forcing wages down. It requires contractors getting federal contracts to pay the "prevailing wage." That has generally been taken to mean the highest wage. Besides raising the cost of housing projects and highways, the law protects union contractors against non-union competition. It is dear to organized labor.

The Congressional Budget Office estimated in 1983 that repeal would save $1.5 billion a year in budget authority. The Reagan administration has made changes in how the law is administered, but their effect isn't known yet. They surely won't be as valuable as simply killing Davis-Bacon.

The amendment offered by Sen. Gramm, Texas A&M's contribution to sound economic policy, doesn't do that. It only reduces the scope of the law on military construction. Right now, it applies to contracts of $2,000 or more; Gramm raises the threshold to $1 million. His proposal relaxes job classification rules, so that contractors won't have to pay an electrician's wage to an electrician's helper. It also codifies some of the administration's regulatory reforms.

The changes exempt about 90 percent of military construction contracts from Davis-Bacon, involving 40 percent of the dollar volume. The Defense Department says it would save $150 million a year.

But Ted Kennedy, that fierce opponent of Pentagon waste, was eager to defend it this time. In the June 4 floor debate, he called Gramm's proposal "an indefensible assault on the wages of construction workers" and warned that lower wages would mean less productive workers and "shoddy work."

Both charges are nonsense. The point of Davis-Bacon is not to prevent wages from being driven down, but to raise them above their competitive level. It is no crime against carpenters to pay them what their labor is worth in the marketplace.

Nor is there any reason to believe that paying workers more ensures higher quality. I have racked my memory in vain to find an occasion when Kennedy argued that paying more to General Dynamics guarantees better fighter planes, or that a $700 toilet seat is 28 times better than a $25 model.

In fact, Kennedy took this opportunity to denounce those high-priced seats, thus exhausting Gramm's always-limited supply of patience. "We are talking about more money here on this one vote," he retorted, "than we have ever paid for toilet seats and crescent wrenches and cathode ray tubes in the whole history of the Republic."

If firms paying high wages boast higher productivity and better work, they will underbid contractors employing sloppy, low-paid workers. If Kennedy truly believed in the superiority of unionized companies, he would welcome the chance to prove it.

Given Congress's avowed determination to restrain defense spending, you might expect Gramm's measure to sail through. But Kennedy's amendment to delete it, which needed a majority to pass, fell barely short by a 49-49 vote. Among the Democrats who voted for higher defense spending: Gary Hart, Alan Cranston, John Glenn, Howard Metzenbaum, William Proxmire, Christopher Dodd — a profile in courage, every one. And Gramm still has to get the House of Representatives to accept the idea.

Unfortunately, a lot of members of Congress who think the Reagan administration is too generous to the Pentagon won't temper their own benevolence toward the AFL-CIO. Liberals who are serious about cutting the defense budget can't exempt their friends from sacrifice.

Jack Anderson

Does society fail children or do they fail themselves?

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — The 1980s is a sorry time to be young — a jaded time beset by harmful diversions, a time short on vigor and excellence.

We are failing our children. Our school system, for example, is failing them. An estimated 90 percent of America's high-school graduates won't be able to cope with the computers, robots and microwaves that will be standard equipment in tomorrow's world. Most schools simply aren't teaching the basic scientific skills that will be needed in everyday life.

Comparing mathematical achievements in 20 industrial and underdeveloped countries, U.S. students ranked as low as 18th in some tests, no higher than 10th in others. An Illinois study found 90 percent of our high-school graduates scientifically and technologically illiterate.

Meanwhile, Soviet high schools are developing a high-tech generation which understands the fundamentals of science, physics, chemistry and math. Japanese and German students are even better schooled in high technology. Yet competence in math has taken a nose dive among U.S. high-school students, with a corresponding decline in scientific proficiency.

Our free society is also failing our children. The freedom too many youths seek is freedom from responsibility. This is a false freedom that leaves them adrift. Increasingly, they are turning away from the challenge of the future and pursuing the excitement of the moment. All too often, they find this in destructive drugs. They get their stimulation not from the excitement of discovery and the joy of achievement, but from chemical "highs."

Drug dealers, meanwhile, are moving down through the grades to elementary schools. They have turned teenagers into pushers, who carry weapons, drive fast cars and act macho. These punks now peddle drugs to young children.

Children who use drugs start at the average age of 11; many become hooked before they leave primary school. It's no longer uncommon to find 8-year-olds puffing on pot. Where are they going? Of the 12-to-21-year-olds now being treated by Straight, Inc., 96 percent have committed at least minor crimes.

To fight these evils and excite youngsters about the future, President Reagan introduced the Young Astronaut program last October. Seldom, if ever, have circumstances held forth to young people such an incentive to rise above themselves as the lure of space. For half a millennium, the spirit of adventure has awaited the dawn of a new age of Columbuses and Magellans. Now it is at hand for our children on a scale far more vast.

The president hopes schools will form Young Astronaut chapters to stir students' imaginations and arouse their adventurous spirits, to shake them out of the educational doldrums and prepare them for the technological challenge. He has called the program "dear to my heart."

Though the program is still in its formative stage, tens of thousands of schools have already formed chapters or expressed the intention of doing so in September. A big recruitment drive is planned after school opens this fall. Nine states have already proclaimed Sept. 30 Young Astronaut Day.

On Sept. 14, CBS will begin a "Young Astronauts" animated television series. Safeway Stores will promote the program on millions of paper bags, cereal boxes and milk cartons. Marvel Comics will feature the Young Astronauts in 6 million comic books. And McDonald's has offered to promote the program across the country.

Meanwhile, Coleco will produce a line of Cabbage Patch dolls, dressed for overseas travel and carrying miniature passports, as part of the Young Astronauts' "toys-that-teach" program. Next year, Cabbage Patch dolls manufactured overseas will be admitted to this country. They will be granted "alien registration cards" and later, will be sent their naturalization papers.

Footnote: For more information, write to the Young Astronaut Council, 1015 11th Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20005. For the record, Jack Anderson is chairman, Hugh Downs vice chairman and Harold Bursen secretary.

EXECUTIVE MEMO: The FBI's firepower was enhanced last year by the purchase of 2,568 Smith & Wesson Model 13 revolvers, 52 S&W Model 495 pistols, 200 Model 870 shotguns, 15 Ruger .357 revolvers, eight Heckler Koch Model MP5-A2 submachine guns (for its special hostage-rescue team) and 60 H&K Model MP5-A3 submachine guns.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?: A name just won't stick if the public (and headline writers) won't accept it. The perversity of the public in these matters is well illustrated in the fast-food field. Hamburgers in Hamburg, Germany, are known as "German beefsteaks." Hot dogs in Frankfurt are known as "Weiner wurstchen" or little Vienna sausages. But in the Austrian capital, they are known as "Frankfurters."

MINI-EDITORIAL: The dove and the olive branch symbolize peace. The olive tree is a hardy specimen that can — like hope — take severe punishment and survive for centuries, reliably producing fruit year after year. The dove is an equally apt symbol of hope, probably deriving from the biblical story of the flood, when a dove released by Noah brought back a green twig — an olive branch — as evidence that the waters were receding. Yet some politicians and pundits — such as those who refer to the MX as "Peacekeeper" — insist on the hawk as the real bird of peace, forgetting it is strictly a bird of prey.

Seatbelt law ignores majority

To the editor:
I'M MAD TOO CECIL!!!!!!
I don't usually voice my opinion in public, and this is the first time I have ever written a letter to the editor, but this time I have to agree with C.G. Gilstrap.

In our form of government, our representatives we send to Austin are supposed to represent the people back home. They are not supposed to make our decisions for us. They are supposed to vote the way the majority of the people they represent want them to vote.

Recent published statistics show that only 15 percent of all Texans use seat belts when they drive their car. Now I may not be as smart as our politicians, but that would lead me to believe that 85 percent of all Texans don't want to use seat belts, and when I went to school long years ago 85 percent was considered a majority.

So I wonder why our elected representatives think they should vote for a law that 85 percent of their constituents didn't want. I guess they think we are too dumb to be allowed to make our own personal decisions and they are smarter than we are so they have to make them for us.

Well I don't vote again for someone who thinks they have to make my personal decisions for me.

Charlie Dee is 'better looking'

To the editor:
I'm writing this letter for two reasons: First, to express gratitude to all the lovely people in the beautiful community of Big Spring. You've got a great little city, and I enjoyed living there for a year and a half, during which time I was employed at KBST.

KBST is a community-minded station, and it was a joy working with them. Leaving to get involved in another line of work was a hard thing to do but something I've needed and wanted to do ... Keep the spirit, Big Spring, because there's much to believe in!

Second, I'm a bit embarrassed and upset at Tim Appel ... his photograph of me printed in the Herald on June 9th was awful!! Eeegad! Tim usually takes good pictures, but, if I say so myself, he didn't do me much justice! (Actually, if I may speak from vanity's viewpoint, I'm much better looking!!) Shame on you, Tim.

As I was saying, Big Spring is a beautiful community, and I wish you all the best of luck and love and prosperity!

On hijacking and universal law

To the editor:
Universal law vs hijacking & abduction must be enforced — such criminals brought to conviction. U.N. should be arbitrator in this last episode and by international law and jurisdiction, if 700 Muslims brought across Israel borders are imprisoned illegally, the U.N. should sanction their release and thus the release of American hostages. It's in keeping with the pull-out. Do it with ease.

Fire rips through north Dallas

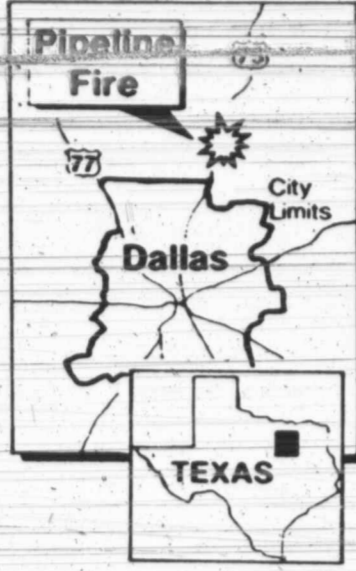

DALLAS (AP) — A massive pipeline fire in north Dallas could have been worse if firefighters had not been on the scene when it began, authorities said.

The inferno occurred about 11 a.m. Wednesday, sending a plume of deep black smoke billowing into the sky.

At least one person was injured, and hundreds of people were evacuated from the Prestonwood Town Center shopping mall, a savings and loan building, and several office condominiums.

Officials said a construction company backhoe sliced through a 12-inch underground pipeline while digging a ditch. The fuel began to flow into a deep drainage ditch and, as the fuel spread, the first fireball erupted next to Vernon Savings about 11 a.m., authorities said.

"It was just like an inferno — one big fireball, then another, then

Vernon Savings Building before she was forced to leave.

"I was hypnotized. I couldn't believe it," she told the Dallas Morning News.

The fuel line, which is owned by Explorer Pipeline Co. of Tulsa, Okla., originates in Lake Charles, La., and passes through Greenville in East Texas, where it splits in two legs, one running to Tulsa and the other through north Dallas to Carrollton, where it splits again to Irving and Grapevine.

The pipeline is the sole supplier of jet fuel to Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, according to Joe Dealey Jr., public information manager of the airport.

However, the pipeline, which is used to move several types of fuel, was carrying unleaded gasoline — not jet fuel — on Wednesday.

Airport officials said Wednesday they had a three-day supply of jet fuel.

Laser replaces scalpel

HOUSTON (AP) — A hand-held carbon dioxide laser, being tested by doctors at the Texas Heart Institute, could "ultimately replace the scalpel" during heart bypass surgery, Dr. Denton A. Cooley says.

"The success rate of the bypass at the Texas Heart Institute is about 98 percent. The laser is unknown. To use it any other way would be malpractice. You have to crawl and then walk before you can run. We've just taken the first step," Dr. Lee Sutter, an engineer with the California-based Directed Energy Inc., which designed the device, said Wednesday.

The laser, a gun-shaped instrument two feet long and weighing about a pound, currently is being used during bypass operations to remove plaque deposits from coronary arteries.

Coronary laser techniques are being used only experimentally because they have yet to establish a success record comparable to traditional bypass surgery, but limited experiments with the laser show great promise, doctors said.

The laser has been used on three patients since January, said Dr. James Livesay, the only surgeon who has permission from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to use the carbon dioxide laser for cardiac surgery.

Company recalls 40,000 gallons of 'bad' milk

WACO (AP) — Southland Corp. has recalled about 40,000 gallons of milk from stores in Central Texas and the Dallas-Fort Worth area after a random sampling of milk delivered to a Dallas dairy showed traces of an antibiotic that could cause a rash to someone with a low tolerance for it.

Kirmon Smith, director of the division of milk and dairy products of the Texas Department of Health, said milk tested in a Dallas Oak Farms dairy plant contained more antibiotics than allowed by standard milk regulations.

Milk containing the antibiotic, which was determined to be penicillin or a derivative of penicillin, was placed on shelves late Tuesday afternoon and voluntarily removed by 3 or 4 a.m. Wednesday, said Doug Reed, assistant manager of public relations for Southland Corp. in Dallas.

"It shouldn't be taken out of proportion. I don't feel there is a health problem," Smith said.

Consumption of the milk shouldn't cause a serious health problem because of the small amounts involved, Smith added. The typical reaction to penicillin by a person with a low tolerance is a rash, he said.

If the levels are high enough, Smith said, an exposed person would go into anaphylactic shock.

By late Wednesday, Department of Health officials still were tracking the source of the contaminated milk and knew only that it had been delivered to the Dallas milk plant on Saturday.

Smith said it is assumed the milk came from a cow in East Texas. Speculation is that a cow inadvertently was milked before enough time had lapsed after she was "doctored for an infection" with penicillin, he said.

Tigers bite Indians, 14-2

Little League journey heads to second round

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Texas League Tigers got a strong pitching performance from Charlie Garcia and routed the International League Indians 14-2 in the opening round of the City Little League tournament.

Garcia scattered four hits and struck out 10 Indians as he went the distance. He got lots of help from his teammates as they banged out 10 hits. Shortstop Marvin Rubio and second baseman Demos Morales inflicted most of the damage on Indians starter Joey Perez. Perez went four innings, allowed 10 hits and nine earned runs.

Rubio got a single and a triple in two trips to the plate, scored two runs and drove in four. Morales went three-for-three, collecting two doubles and a single. He scored three times and drove in two runs.

Indians shortstop Kevin Menges was the only one who had much luck hitting Garcia. Menges got a double and single in two trips to the plate. The other Indians hits were by Albert Smith and Lance Reeves. The Tigers took a 4-0 lead after one inning of play thanks to three walks and two Indian errors. Michael Olivas doubled for the Tigers in the inning.

The Tigers added three more runs in the third inning on singles by Garcia, Roderick White and triple by Rubio.

In the following inning they padded the lead to 9-0 on Morales' double, a triple by Ricky Gonzales and a run scoring sacrifice fly by White.

The Indians scored their first run of the game when Reeves walked and scored on a single by Smith.

The Tigers blew the game wide open in the fifth, chasing Perez from the game. Three Indians errors and three hits accounted for five more Tigers runs. Orlando Laeos and Rubio got singles and Morales belted his second double of the contest.

The Indians scored their final run in their last bat. James Ward walked and scored when Reeves singled.

The Indians conclude their season with a 4-13 record. The Tigers raise their record to 12-5. They will play the National League Rangers tonight at 7:30 at the National League Park.

Cardinals 14 Dodgers 3

D.J. Tedeso and T.J. Lane combined for an eight-hitter as the National League Cardinals downed the Texas League Dodgers 14-3.

Tedeso got the win as he went the first four innings. Lane finished the final two innings. Steven Robles took the loss for the Dodgers. The Cardinals pounded out 15 hits in the contest.

The Cardinals will face the American League Colts tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the American League Park.

Lions 12 Eagles 8

The National League Lions scored eight runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the American League Eagles 12-8.

Joe Conway got the win for the Lions as he went the distance, striking out nine and allowing five hits. He also aided his own cause with two singles. First baseman Nick Roberson went three-for-five, collecting a single, double and triple. Gerald Covas got two hits and made the defensive play of the game by turning a double play from his shortstop position, killing an Eagles rally.

Brian Neary homered for the Eagles. Billy Bob Sumpter was the losing pitcher. The Eagles end the season with a 10-6 mark. The Lions record goes to 7-9.

The Lions will face the International League Pirates at 8 p.m. at the International League Park.

Hawks 8 Panthers 2

The American League Hawks moved into the second round of play as they downed the International League Panthers 8-2.

Wooten was the winning hurler for the Hawks and Michael Gamboa took the loss for the Panthers. The Panthers close out the season with a 12-4 record. The Hawks will play the Texas League Red Sox today at 6 p.m. at the Texas League Park.

Queens sign Louisiana star

Howard College Hawk-Queens coach Don Stevens announced the signing of Betty Vaughn from McCall High School in Tallulah, La.

Vaughn, a 5-9 guard, helped lead her team to the Sweet Sixteen State Tournament. She was also the first player from her school to receive All-State honors.

Last year she averaged 28.8 points per game and was selected the Most Valuable Player in District 2-AA. She also averaged nine rebounds and five assists.

Vaughn was also named to the second team of the All-Northwest Louisiana squad.

Coach Stevens was happy with the signing of the high-scoring guard. "I am very excited about the signing of Betty Vaughn," he said. "She is a racehorse-type player who can excel in every phase of the game. She is quick, aggressive, a leaper and has no problems when it comes to scoring points. Our fans will love her style of play."

NCAA to crackdown on all rule violators

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A radical new penalty structure could amount to a death sentence for some programs, the president of the NCAA said on the eve of the special "integrity convention."

The two-day convention, marking a deepened involvement in athletic problems by college presidents, opened today with more than 1,000 delegates representing about 500 schools. To be voted upon Friday are 12 proposals, most dealing with a crackdown on recruiting and academic abuses.

Many presidents indicated in a survey commissioned by the NCAA Presidents Commission that they believe such scandals have begun to threaten the integrity of higher education itself. The most severe step in the proposed new penalty structure could force schools guilty of major violations twice within a five-year period to suspend their football or basketball programs as long as two years.

"I know there is some concern and some contention that if football gets caught as a repeat violator and the program is suspended, that would terminate the whole program," NCAA President Jack Davis said at a news briefing. "I think that's what the presidents want."

Davis also predicted that the series of get-tough measures "will sail right through," when voted upon Friday.

"The presidents and chief executive officers have a pretty high degree of resolve on this one," Davis said. "The feeling is that that something must be done."

The special convention, only the fifth in the NCAA's 79-year history, has also attracted almost 100 media representatives, many times the number that normally cover NCAA conventions.

The Presidents Commission, a newly created branch of the NCAA governance consisting of 44 college presidents and chancellors, has been urging college presidents to take an active hand in their athletic departments. As many as 300, many more than ever attended an NCAA meeting before, were expected in New Orleans to personally cast their school's vote.

Davis, the faculty representative from Oregon State, also said the college chiefs believe most coaches will welcome the harsher sanctions, which include prohibiting cheating coaches from recruiting and seeing to it that a penalty would follow a coach if he changed schools.

"The good coaches are saying, 'Let's have a system where we tighten up and toughen up the enforcement program,'" Davis said. "They hear of all the other guys who are cheating, and they know that cheaters are often winners."

Davis acknowledged that cheating has reached all-time proportions. "We're trying to get the house back in order," he said. "The risks for cheating have not been great enough. In order to be good enough to go to bowls ... and get big TV money, an occasional probation is seen by some as just part of the game. The presidents have decided that this simply cannot go on."

Astros power Atlanta, 7-3; Rangers nip Seattle, 5-4

ATLANTA (AP) — Craig Reynolds said he never consciously thinks about hitting home runs in Atlanta, but he smashed his third round-tripper of the season against the Braves to lead Houston to victory.

Reynolds is batting only .185 against Atlanta but he has hit both his other home runs against the Braves. He had three hits as Houston pounded four Braves pitchers for 14 hits in a 7-3 victory Wednesday.

"I never consciously go up thinking about a home run here, just because I'm in a good hitter's park," Reynolds said. "It just kind of happens."

Reynolds led Houston's attack with a single, double and home run. Kevin Bass, Glenn Davis and Denny Walling all had doubles as the Astros took a 2-1 lead in the four-game series.

Joe Niekro, the Astros' all-time winningest pitcher with 139 victories for Houston and 197 overall, scattered 12 hits for the victory. Frank DiPino worked the final 14-3 innings.

Niekro also helped his team with the bat when he set a team record with three sacrifices in the game.

"I didn't know it was a record, but it took me a long time to do it," Niekro said. "It was the third strike before I got the first and third ones down."

Despite his 4-7 record, Niekro said he thought he had pitched well all season.

"I've averaged staying in about seven innings a game, which is pretty good," Niekro said. "When we score seven runs we should win any ball game. Sure, I think about 200 now that it's close. Ten years ago I never dreamed I'd get so many victories."

Reynolds' home run over the right field fence gave Niekro a 1-0 edge in the first inning. The Astros stretched it to 2-0 in the second when Bass opened the inning with a double and scored on a single by Davis. Alan Ashby singled Phil Garner home against Steve Bedrosian, 3-6, to make it 3-0 in the fourth.

The Astros knocked Bedrosian out of the game with a three-run, four-hit sixth. Opening singles by Garner and Davis brought on reliever Rick Camp. One run scored when Niekro hit into a double play, and Bill Doran and Reynolds singled in one each.

Jose Cruz hit his fifth homer of the season to close out the Astro scoring in the ninth.

NL Roundup

Dodgers 5, Padres 1

Andy Hawkins, baseball's hottest pitcher, was finally grounded. And perhaps it was fitting that the game's hottest home run hitter, Pedro Guerrero, was the man who brought him down.

Hawkins, who had won his first

11 decisions, served up a leadoff home run to Guerrero, who has hit 10 of his 14 homers in June, to start a four-run Los Angeles Dodger rally in the bottom of the seventh inning that resulted in a 5-1 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Earlier, another of the National League's premier hurlers, New York's Dwight Gooden, was hanging on for dear life. But he worked out of a ninth-inning jam and pitched the Mets to a 1-0 victory over the slumping Chicago Cubs.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Montreal 4, Pittsburgh 3; San Francisco 5, Cincinnati 2; Philadelphia 1; St. Louis 0, and Houston 7, Atlanta 3.

Hawkins, 11-1, enjoyed the best start by a National League pitcher since 1959, when Elroy Face went 17-0 for Pittsburgh en route to a 19-1 season.

After Guerrero broke a 1-1 tie with his leadoff homer, the Dodgers got run-scoring hits from Dave Anderson and pinch-hitter R.J. Reynolds and scored another on an error by San Diego left fielder Carmelo Martinez.

Mets 1, Cubs 0
Meanwhile, at Shea Stadium, Gooden was struggling, but Manager Dave Johnson had seen enough of his bullpen recently to determine that the Mets would live or die with their ace right-hander.

In a similar situation Friday night, Johnson pulled Gooden after the 20-year-old pitcher had thrown 146 pitches. Doug Sisk and Jess Orosco failed to hold a one-run lead and the Mets dropped a 5-4 decision to Montreal.

"All I had left, I was going to let it go right there," Gooden said of the fastball he threw by Bosley.

Gooden, 10-3, now has three shutouts, six complete games and a personal four-game winning streak. He struck out nine, walked two and scattered six hits in lowering his major league-leading earned run average to 1.66. He also leads the majors with 125 strikeouts.

The Mets have beaten the Cubs, with whom they complete a four-game series today, on three complete-game victories, the first two by Ron Darling and Ed Lynch. The last time the Mets did that was in August, 1976, with Jerry Koosman, Jon Matlack and Tom Seaver the pitchers.

Giants 5, Reds 2
Bob Brenly called his performance a hit-or-miss proposition, and he wasn't kidding.

"I hit two on the nail and missed six completely," said Brenly, who knocked in four runs with two homers and struck out twice. Brenly's three-run homer in the third capped a four-run inning off Cincinnati's Mario Soto, 8-6, and he added a solo shot, his seventh, off Tom Hume in the eighth.

Dave LaPoint, 3-6, who worked the first six innings, and Scott Garrels combined for a four-hitter.

Phillies 1, Cardinals 0

"It was like an older car with a few dents," the 42-year-old Koosman said, referring to himself and a knee operation he underwent May 8. "We fixed the dents, changed the oil and are ready to go again."

Koosman, looking as sharp as ever in his 601st major league game, pitched six innings before giving way to hard-throwing Don Carman, who got his second save.

While Koosman held St. Louis at bay, Greg Gross provided all the offense the Phils needed with a second-inning, run-scoring single that handed Joaquin Andujar just his second loss in 14 decisions.

Expos 4, Pirates 3
Montreal's Jim Wohlford reached reliever John Candelaria for a pinch single with two outs in the eighth inning to score Vance Law, who had tripled off Jose DeLeon, 2-9, earlier in the inning.

Tim Burke, 3-0, pitched 3 1-3 innings of one-hit relief and Jeff Rardon recorded his major league-leading 20th save with a scoreless ninth.

The Expos got off winging with Hubie Brooks hitting a three-run homer, his fifth, off DeLeon in the first. Bill Almon had a two-run homer, his fourth, when Pittsburgh scored three runs in the third off Montreal starter Joe Hesketh.

Astros 7, Braves 3
Craig Reynolds had three hits, including a home run, as Houston pounded four Atlanta pitchers for 14 hits in support of Joe Niekro, who collected his 197th career victory.

Niekro, 4-7, the Astros' all-time winningest pitcher with 139 victories, scattered 12 hits. Frank DiPino worked the final 1 1-3 innings.

Reynolds led Houston's attack with a single, double and home run.

Reynolds, batting only .185 against Atlanta going into the game but having hit his only two home runs against them, crashed his third of the season over the right-field fence to give Niekro a 1-0 edge in the first inning. The Astros never trailed.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) —

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said defense, including three crucial double plays, played the key role in the Rangers' victory over the Seattle Mariners.

"The defense was outstanding," Valentine said Wednesday night after the Rangers had claimed a 5-4 victory. "We made some great defensive plays. There were some great individual efforts and you put it all together and its a win."

Second baseman Wayne Tolleson, who was in the middle of two double plays and drove in the winning run with a sixth-inning sacrifice fly, agreed with Valentine's assessment.

"We were just able to turn some double plays at the right time and it kept us in the game," Tolleson said. "Several of the guys made big plays, like (Gary) Ward's throw and (Glenn) Brummer's play at home."

Leftfielder Ward threw out Seattle's Spike Owen at the plate to end the Mariners' fourth and keep the Rangers within a run. Owen beat the throw after Ward's outfield catch, but Brummer had the plate blocked and tagged out Owen when the Mariner shortstop fell past the plate.

"I thought I made it," Owen said. "I didn't realize I didn't touch the plate until I was up walking around and he ran up and tagged me."

"Gary Ward's throw to the plate and Glenn Brummer staying in there I think won the game for us," Valentine said.

The play did keep the Rangers close enough for their sixth-inning rally to make the difference. The Rangers entered the sixth trailing, 4-3, and had not had a hit since the first. But Pete O'Brien broke the streak with a leadoff single, Gary Ward grounded into a fielder's choice and Larry Parrish walked, chasing Frank Wills, 2-1.

The victory gave the Rangers a 17-15 record in the 32 games since Valentine took over from Doug Rader. The Rangers were 9-23 under Rader in 32 games this season before Rader was fired.

AL Roundup

Yankees 10, Orioles 9

After three straight losses to the New York Yankees, Earl Weaver was happy to get out of town...even if that town was Baltimore.

"I'm glad we're leaving," the Baltimore manager said after Wednesday night's 10-0 loss to the Yankees. "People paid good money the last three days, and watched two of those (10-0 games). Two of the games were no-contests."

During the three-game series, the Yankees pounded Baltimore pitching for 44 hits and outscored the Orioles 26-4. The Yankees collected 14 hits in the final contest, with Ron Hassey belting two solo homers.

White Sox 8, A's 7

Ozzie Guillen scored all the way from second base on a wild pitch in the 12th inning as Chicago took a thriller from Oakland. The White Sox were one out away from a 7-4 loss, but tied the game in the ninth on a solo home run by Carlton Fisk, his 16th, and a two-run shot by Greg Walker, his 10th.

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 1

Jim Clancy scattered seven hits in seven innings and George Bell hit a two-run triple to lead Toronto over Milwaukee, snapping a six-game losing streak for the Blue Jays.

Tigers 9, Red Sox 3

Lou Whitaker and Kirk Gibson each homered and drove in three runs to back the combined eight-hit pitching of Walt Terrell and Aurelio Lopez as Detroit beat Boston.

Terrell, 8-2, scattered eight hits over the 7 1-3 innings before Lopez came on for his fifth save. Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 8-5, who was bidding for his fifth straight complete-game triumph, gave up 11 hits before leaving after 7 1-3 innings.

Indians 2, Angels 0

Bert Blyleven pitched a three-hitter and retired the final 24 hitters and George Vukovich hit a two-run single to snap a scoreless tie in the sixth as Cleveland beat California.

Blyleven, 6-6, struck out seven and didn't walk a batter while pitching his eighth complete game and fourth shutout of the season. The shutout was the 50th of his career.

Royals 3, Twins 2

Hal McRae hit a solo home run and doubled in another run to power Kansas City over Minnesota.

McRae snapped a 2-2 tie with his second home run of the season, off Pete Filson, 3-4, with one out in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Danny Jackson, 5-4, was the winner with relief help from Dan Quisenberry, who pitched out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth for his 13th save.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you are eager and anxious to show off your capabilities and special talents, but don't be surprised if obstacles arise that cause you to put off until a better time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get right at those interesting outside affairs and complete them before you have some problem to resolve.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can easily become more successful with the assistance of one who dwells with you, so follow advice given to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Financial affairs are very important to you so study periodicals that can help you to become more efficient in your work.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find better ways of getting your plans working more efficiently and easily, and don't let stumbling blocks throw you for a loop. Make appointments for the evening.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You are very charming today and can get just about anything you wish, if you smile more. Later conditions are not favorable.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after more of the personal things you want out of life and gain them, then be of assistance to a good friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Morning is best time to invite friends for a soiree, since later both you and they will have much to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't deviate in handling worldly affairs. Get routine work done precisely. Morning is best time to ask for a favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to the suggestions of one whose experience has been quite different to yours, and then you can handle some proposition from a different angle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study practical issues and make them work so that you benefit more. Handle details well. Take time for shopping.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more willing to go along with ideas of a bigwig and put yours aside for the time being.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find better ways to add beauty and comfort to your surroundings in the morning, then get at other work you have to do.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need much encouragement and affection, in order to do his, or her best work, so give a pat on the back when something exceptional is accomplished. One who can do well in executive positions. There is much generosity in this nature as well as logic.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
