White, Hobby to toast Stacy at city reception

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is giving a party next month, and Gov. Mark White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby are coming.

The reception, hosted by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, will honor state, city and agency officials who helped the water district in its seven-year battle to obtain a permit for the Stacy reservoir.

The invitation-only party is scheduled for July 10 in Big Spring to thank legislators and others who aided the district obtain a permit for the dam.

"We would be remiss if we didn't say thank you to the ones who supported us," District Board President John Taylor said. "We're grateful we got the dam."

White, Hobby and Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Tarrant County, were instrumental in reaching a legislative compromise between the water district and the Lower Colorado River Authority, which had blocked the dam's permit.

Lewis, however, probably will not be present at the reception, said District Board Secretary Joe Pickle. "He's got a conflict he can't resolve. We hope he can resolve it and appear, but I don't think he will be able to."

Also invited to the party are West Texas legislators and board members and representatives from the Central Colorado River Authority and the Upper Colorado River Authority, boards that supported the dam.

In addition, the water district has invited city council members and top staff from its member cities, Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder, and from cities it currently is arranging water sales contracts with, Abilene, Midland and San Angelo.

Texas oil: Against all odds

Optimist motto: Oil's well that ends wellhead

AUSTIN (AP) — A wildcatter who left the oil fields when he went broke 30 years ago is betting his electric typewriter, computer, printer, $30,000 camera, developer, duplicator and microfiche reader that there will be another energy shortage — soon.

Bill Campbell, who has held a dozen jobs since the mid-1950s, has turned from looking for "black gold" in the sands of West Texas to searching for it in boxes of old drillers' logs and other papers.

He claims his service is unique. Campbell started Santa Rita Research, Inc., in January despite what published reports and his own computer printouts tell him — that all is not well within the oil and gas industry.

"They're still drilling wells but they're drilling development wells, wells that they're committed to already. But as far as wildcats and really hardcore exploration, they're not doing it," he said.

BILL CAMPBELL is betting everything that another energy shortage is right around the corner.

Wildcats are discovery wells in untapped reservoirs.

Campbell was interviewed at the Petroleum Building, across the street from the Railroad Commission, which regulates oil and gas in Texas. On his desk was a newspaper article about Atlantic Richfield, Mobil, Texaco and Exxon closing thousands of gasoline stations as a result of an oil glut, and a magazine article quoting Optimist page 2-A

Drop in oil activity is blamed on tax plans by Reagan

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Oil officials are laying the blame for a drop in oilfield activity at President Ronald Reagan's door.

According to a report by the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, the president's tax reform package has caused a drop in the number of rigs operating in the Permian Basin.

Since the Treasury tax proposal was announced in November, the rig count has dropped from 400 to 278, a 30.5 percent drop, according to the association report.

The report also states that, four years ago, when the federal top income tax rate was cut from 70 to 50 percent, the rig count dropped 24 percent. When it dropped from 92 percent to 70 percent, several years earlier, the rig count dropped 23 percent in one week.

Certainly Uncertain

Name of East Texas town a mystery. But who really cares?

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer
UNCERTAIN, Texas — With a wicked laugh, waitress Lillie Ponder tells of the man who stomped into the Pirate's Cove restaurant one sultry, summer day wearing a look that could kill.

"He was hot, miserable and obviously lost," she recalled.

"Lady," the man growled, "can you tell me where I am?"

"Uncertain," she smiled sweetly.

"Lady," he thundered, "everybody in this place is uncertain!"

The man was right. There is much uncertainty in Uncertain, beginning with the name of this lazy and laconic little fishing village on the southwestern shore of Caddo Lake.

"People in Uncertain are uncertain how Uncertain got its name," chuckled former mayor Fred Dahmer.

"That's the only story of Uncertain that I'm certain is true."

Some say the name dates to the days of steamboat travel, when the water level varied so wildly that no one was certain they could get in and, if so, back out again.

Dahmer said one theory holds that steamboat maps labeled the area "uncertain" and that people would pass and wave and say, "There's Uncertain."

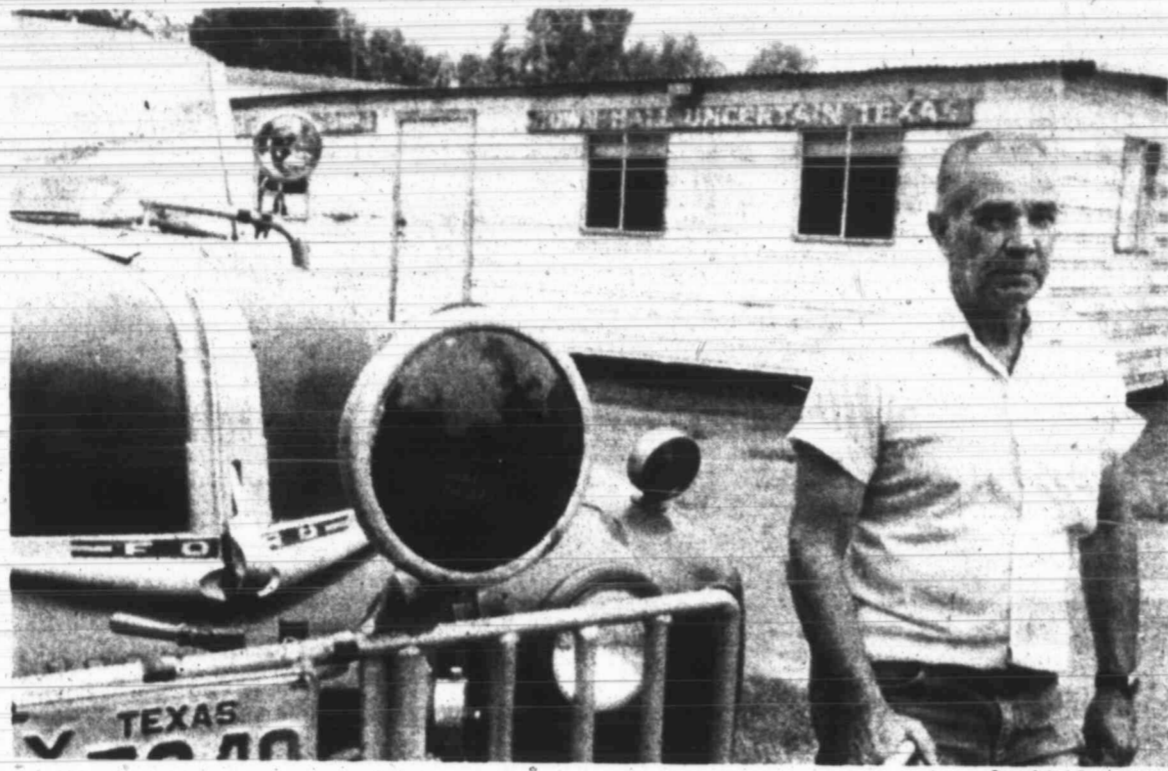

Others vow the uncertainty stemmed not from water hazards but from the automobile trip over the muddy roads that once existed between here and Marshall.

Others suggest the name comes from the uncertainty surrounding a move by a popular resident, the late Beer Smith, to incorporate the town and legalize beer and liquor sales.

Beer's son-in-law, Bob Harper, says paddleboat pilots called it Uncertain because they often became confused by the many arms leading off the channel up to Jefferson.

Still others argue the name derives from the uncertainty years ago over who owned title to the land that is now Uncertain.

"Uncertain's got a great history but very little documentation," said Dahmer. "With oral history, you can't be too sure."

JAMES JACKSON, a volunteer fireman, says he ain't hurtin' livin' in Uncertain.

"And we had some people who would deliberately mislead for a good story."

As you might guess, the good folks of Uncertain are a laid back and fun loving lot, whether cruising Caddo Lake, catching or eating the wily catfish, quaffing ice cold beer or joking about the origin of the name Uncertain.

Motorists weaving through the gentle hills and pine forests and backroads north of Marshall might happen on a sign that says:

Population 176
 This is Uncertain Texas
 Home of Caddo Lake
 Motels, Liquor-Stores, Guides,
 Fishing Camps, Boats, Cabins,
 Restaurants, Motors, Tackle and a Lot of Nice Folks.

Welcome
 Across the road is the Caddo Lake Church, proclaiming itself to be a "Non-denominational church of love and forgiveness, Daniel H. Miner, Pastor."

A longtime resident of Uncertain, Flo Dankel, said the church was being built on guts and grit and volunteer labor.

"My husband's an electrician, and he did the electrical work," she said. "A plumber here did the plumbing and a carpenter did the carpentry."

"The rest of us do the dirty work," she added with a smile.

Uncertain's town hall is down the road and around the corner and housed in a trailer it shares with the Caddo Lake Water Supply Corp.

Next door is Marion's Mini-Mall, which could be the tiniest of all malls. At Marion's, three really is a crowd.

There's also Fish Hook Beer and Liquor, the "May-Bee" art shop and a motor supply warehouse that stands as the town's leading employer.

You can buy bait, launch a boat, rent a room, sip a beer, eat a catfish or just sit and gossip a bit at either the Shady Glade Camp or Curley's Lodge and Marina.

But Caddo Lake is the undisputed heartbeat of Uncertain.

Praised equally for its beauty and mystique, Caddo got its name from the Caddo Indians and its beauty and mystery from the thick, moss coated cypress trees that cloak the shadowy bays, bayous and backwaters.

The lake has a Florida Everglades look about it that artists, photographers and filmmakers find irresistible.

Also moonshiners.

Lillie Ponder recalls that moonshiners and bootleggers once flourished in such numbers that "they needed badges to keep from selling booze to each other."

Though she now lives in nearby Jefferson, Lillie came to Uncertain in 1951 and not long afterward discovered an old still in a graveyard.

"They still stumble across 'em out in the backwoods," she said.

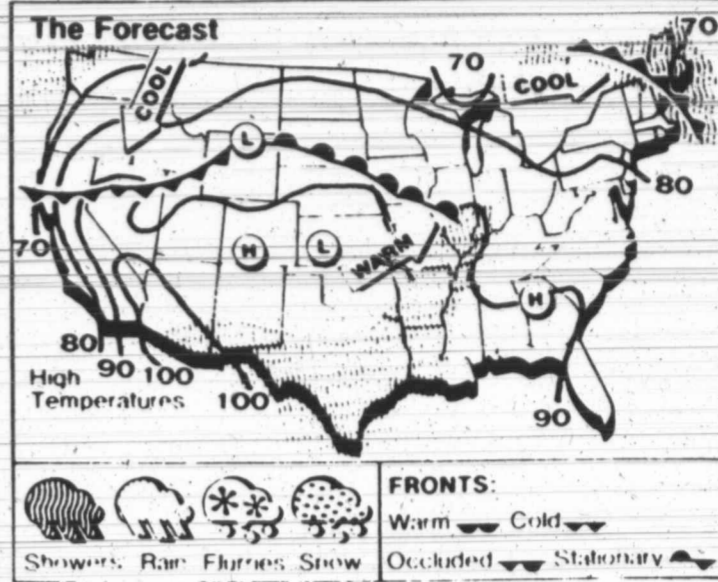

Dawson Hines guides his 24-foot pontoon boat through Alligator Bayou, Mossy Brake and Red Belly, past Hog Wallow and into Turley Shell, one of the most serene of the Caddo waterways.

"This is not a deep lake but it's big, more than 32,000 acres," said Hines, who runs the Shady Glade enterprise.

Ms. Dankel said she lives in Uncertain year-round but that the majority come in for the weekend to fish, boat or just "sip a few."

"If you see somebody having a party, you just go in. We're pretty much just one big happy family, and we look out after each other."

Weather

Local

Skies will remain fair through Wednesday. High temperatures will remain in the low to mid 90s; lows should stay in the 70s. An occasional evening thunderstorm may boom in the late evening, but forecasters predict less than a 20 percent chance of rain.

State

Heavy rainfall from the Hill Country spread across the central Brazos Valley, and more than 5 inches of rain fell in the San Antonio area Saturday.

Tropical moisture combined with a weak upper air disturbance caused the heavy rains Saturday, the National Weather Service said.

Thunderstorms were scattered over all of the state except for the Panhandle, and a flash flood watch was in effect through Saturday for south and south-central regions of the state between the middle coast to the middle Rio Grande plains.

The San Antonio area was the hardest hit Saturday, while many other central and south-central areas received two to three inches of rainfall, the weather service said.

Skies were fair north of a weak front that spread from east of Childress to the Abilene and Midland areas, and temperature readings were in the low to middle 80s. To the south of the front, temperatures warmed to the low 90s.

Cloudy skies were widespread south and east of the front, with the mercury in the 80s except for the central and south-central regions, where temperatures were in the 70s.

The forecast for West Texas calls for isolated thunderstorms in the Panhandle and scattered thunderstorms for the rest of the area. It should be partly cloudy to the south and fair in the northern regions through Monday. The lows Sunday night should be in the lower 60s to lower 70s. Highs through Monday should range from about 90 degrees to almost 105 degrees.

South Texas should be mostly cloudy through Monday with scattered thundershowers. The lows both days should be in the 70s and the highs should be in the upper 80s to middle 90s.

North Texas should have scattered thunderstorms in eastern sections Sunday and Monday.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy south and fair north Sunday through Monday. No important day-to-day temperature changes. Lows Sunday night lower 60s Panhandle to lower 70s Big Bend. Highs Sunday and Monday near 90 Panhandle to mid-90s Concho Valley and near 105 along and west of mountains.

 breaches all these years," Pickle said.

The water district first applied for the Stacy dam in October 1977 and received an uncontested permit May 14.

Details of the reception have not been worked out, Pickle said. However, he said he expects White and Hobby to make speeches.

The district now is waiting for final approval of water sales contracts by the city councils of Abilene, Midland and San Angelo. Once the contracts are approved, voters in those cities must give their support to the agreements in a special election Aug. 10.

If voters in two of the three cities pass the measure, the district will be in good shape, Board member John Currie said at a recent directors' meeting.

While waiting for the elections and their results, the district is surveying land, completing core borings, and has hired land appraisers and a landman, Pickle said.

The district also will reactivate its Section 404 environmental permit. Asked whether construction could be blocked by the presence of a snake that dwells in the shallow water of the Concho River, Pickle said he thought that unlikely.

"I don't think it will be anything insurmountable," Pickle said. "I think the snake is found in other river basins. Its habitat is shallow running water."

According to him, the new dam will not affect the snake's home in the shallow water of the Concho River. "It will still be viable. The snake is overrated."

Mobil president Allen Murray as warning people that "another energy crisis is on the way."

"I took a printout on the wildcats that have been applied for (in Texas) for the first quarter of this year, and out of all the applications for wildcats, only 11.2 percent were from the major companies," Campbell said. "It's way down."

Five years ago, several major companies had Campbell check out 60,000 wells plugged in Texas from 1950 through 1955, because they thought with rising oil prices it might pay off to reopen those wells.

Campbell maintained that early results were encouraging, and he was almost completed with the project when the oil slump hit in 1982-83. "The companies pulled in their horns right then, said, 'Don't send us anything else, just cancel it, quit, stop,'" Campbell recalls.

It was after that that he decided to gamble by investing money in a service that could only prosper if companies get serious again about drilling for oil and gas.

"I'm betting on an energy shortage," Campbell said.

First, he got permission from the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology to copy 260,000 logs of wells drilled from 1918 to the early 1960s. The logs had been donated to UT by the Bess Mason Log Service, which operated out of Dallas. He put the drillers' logs on microfiche and is indexing them in alphabetical order on a computer.

Second, he shows up at the Railroad Commission at 7 a.m. each day to pick up 400 to 800 oil and gas forms, including drilling applications and completion and plugging reports. These are sorted according to area, and put on microfiche in alphabetical order by operator, lease name and well number.

A single 4-by-6 inch sheet of microfiche will hold 204 documents.

"I'm the only company that puts documents on microfiche, and I'm the only one that indexes any of the documents by computer," Campbell said. "Not even the Railroad Commission does this stuff."

Campbell also plans to film and index "scout tickets" donated to the Bureau of Economic Geology by Cities Service Oil Co. These tickets cover 275,000 wells in Texas and southeastern New Mexico dating from the early 1940s through the mid-1960s. He said the tickets include data on wells not found in logs and other documents.

According to Campbell, one of his customers — Texaco — "has really expounded on this and said, 'Man, this is the greatest thing that has ever happened. I don't know why somebody didn't do this years ago.'" like the Administration's tax proposal, and for that matter, any of the others being offered, either," states the report.

"Perhaps our first priority should be to cut budget spending and reduce the deficit, then worry about tax revision," the report continues.

"In Mr. Reagan's recent speech, he pointed out that percentage depletion was too generous to one group. However, his cut in the top tax rate, and increased depreciation, will actually make his tax proposal a money-losing, rather than an income-neutral, one," the report states.

"With passage of the current proposal, we'll be ordering our oil from (Soviet Premier Mikhail) Gorbachev, (Iranian leader Ayatollah) Khomeini and (Libyan dictator Omar) Khadafi in six months because we'll have neither the refining capacity nor the people needed to put oil deals together."

According to the Permian Basin Energy Report, 293 rigs were operating in the area in April. That figure represents a 5 percent drop from March, when 307 rigs were running, and a 3 percent decrease from a year ago when 302 were operating.

According to the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, 280 rigs were in operation last week. The week before, 278 were operating. Both figures are down from the 331 running a year ago.

Drilling applications also fell during April to 927 from 961 in March and 985 in April 1984 because of a marked decline in applications filed in Southeast New Mexico, the Permian Basin Energy Report states.

Well completions, however, were up 1 percent during April to 673 from 669 the month before, despite a 32 percent drop in completions in Southeast New Mexico.

In April 1984, 677 wells were completed. Footage drilled shot up 32 percent in April to 5,873 million feet from 4.141 million feet drilled in March. Even more dramatically, footage drilled was up 74 percent from April 1984, when 3,376 million feet were drilled.

Oil production, for which the latest available figures are six months behind, fell slightly at the beginning of 1985 to 45.7 billion barrels from 46.3 billion barrels from the month before.

Production fell 5 percent from January 1984's 48.3 billion barrels.

Prices for oil fell, too. Cost for a barrel was at $26.68 in April, a 1 percent drop from $27.02, its cost a month before. In April 1984 the average price was $29.43, a drop of $2.75 or 9 percent.

Tehran bomb injures 5

NICOSIA, Cyprus — A car bomb exploded Saturday in the southeastern part of Tehran, injuring five people, the official Iranian news agency reported. Several people were arrested.

Saturday's explosion was the latest in a series of bombings in the Iranian capital. On May 12, a car bomb killed 12 people and wounded 40.

Indian castes riot; 2 die

AHMEDABAD, India — Three bomb explosions and a series of stabbings, firebomb attacks and police shootings Saturday in the western state of Gujarat left two people dead and more than 40 wounded, authorities said.

At least a dozen people have been killed the past week in a surge of Moslems-Hindu and inter-caste rioting in the state of 36 million. Student-led demonstrations began three months ago protesting a state government plan to fix quotas for a new category of backward castes.

Afghans claim victory

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Afghan guerrilla officials on Saturday claimed they killed and wounded 400 government troops and took scores of soldiers prisoner in a week of fighting in the Panjsher Valley in northern Afghanistan.

Jamiat-I-Islami, one of the main Afghan guerrilla groups, said forces led by guerrilla commander Ahmadshah Massoud overwhelmed military outposts in the valley, and two top government officers were among the dead. The guerrilla group also claimed to have taken 160 government soldiers prisoner, including a large number of army officers.

Mengele to get bones

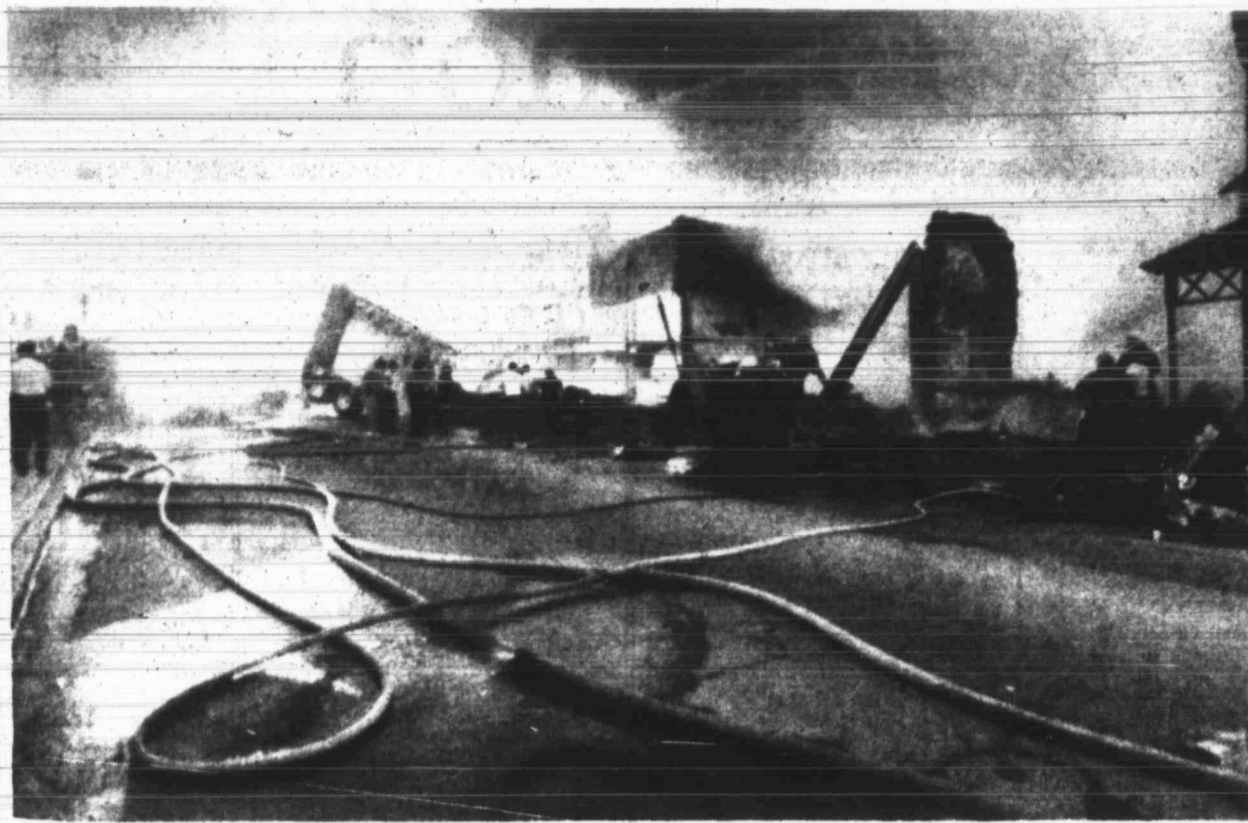

SAO PAULO, Brazil — The bones of the man forensic experts say is Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele will be reburied in the same weed-covered grave from which they were exhumed unless Mengele's family wants them, police say.

Romeu Tuma, the federal police chief in Sao Paulo and head of the Mengele investigation, said the bones will be "put at the disposal of the Mengele family" in West Germany.

Japanese slash tariffs

TOKYO — The government decided on Saturday to cut tariffs by at least 20 percent on some processed agricultural products, mining and manufactured goods, the Kyodo News Service reported.

The reported tariff cuts are part of the "action program" Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone promised by the end of July in order to improve market access for foreign products and reduce Japan's huge trade surplus.

Van Buren, Ark., was ablaze after a runaway truck barreled into town, killing 9 and destroying historic buildings.

Freak accident

Runaway truck smashes town; 9 killed in fire

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — An out-of-control tractor-trailer truck barreled down a steep hill, rammed a packed station wagon and set off a fire that destroyed three downtown stores, police said. Nine people died in the accident.

The truck apparently lost its brakes on the hill Friday night before smashing into the station wagon, killing its seven occupants, and pushing the vehicle into a store before exploding. The fire took eight hours to extinguish, said police Sgt. Tom Bruce.

"That hill is more than a 45 degree grade — it's almost straight down," said police dispatcher Jon Hill. "By the time you get half-way down, you have no brakes."

The truck, carrying meat, bounced across railroad tracks at the bottom of Log Town Hill on Arkansas 59 around 8 p.m., then sped across an intersection and into the station wagon and the stores.

"One witness said the truck was going 70 miles an hour by the time it hit the railroad tracks. Then it went airborne," said Hill.

The wreckage exploded, sending flames hundreds of feet into the air.

"We're still going on the theory that the truck was off the truck route, loaded down and its brakes went out," Bruce said.

The city had banned large trucks from the road because of previous accidents, but the prohibition was often ignored, said assistant police chief Wayne Hicks. "We give tickets every day for trucks being off the truck route," he said.

Seven of the dead were identified as Kay Burt, 24; Billy Burt, 30; Christie Burt, 8; Kathy Owenby, 28; Randy Owenby Sr., 34; Randy Owenby II, 3; and Brenna Parish, 4. All were of Van Buren.

Authorities had not determined how the family members were related and were unsure if Brenna Parish was related to the others, said Bruce.

Two other bodies, a woman and a man, had not been identified, Bruce said. He said all but those two had been riding in the station wagon.

Authorities had not determined the owner of the truck, said Bruce. He said investigators with the National Transportation Safety Board were en route.

Fires sweep Nevada ranges

By The Associated Press

About 400 firefighters spent their fourth straight day Saturday battling a huge range fire in north-central Nevada that has consumed an estimated 76,000 acres of dry brush.

A stubborn brushfire continued in southwestern Idaho and in the Siskiyou National Forest in Oregon. Five fires were burning Saturday around Winnemuc-ca, Nev., and 85,000 acres of dry brush have been scorched since Wednesday. The fires, touched off by lightning, equaled the total range fire acreage in Nevada last summer.

There have been no reports of injuries or major property damage.

Helicopters and other heavy equipment were joined by about 600 firefighters Friday.

Rail union strikes deal

WASHINGTON — A union representing conductors, trainmen and firemen on freight railroads has reached a tentative collective bargaining agreement with management, the National Mediation Board announced Saturday.

Details of the new agreement on wages, benefits and work rules were withheld pending ratification of the agreement by the United Transportation Union. The contract will replace one which expired July 1, 1984. The UTU represents about 90,000 employees on most of the major railroads.

Cardinal rips abortion

WASHINGTON — Cardinal John J. O'Connor Saturday called on supporters at an anti-abortion convention to practice more "good old-fashioned charity" to help women faced with unwanted pregnancies, while keeping pressure on lawmakers to outlaw abortion.

As O'Connor spoke to an enthusiastic crowd of about 1,000 at the National Right To Life meeting, about 100 women from the National Organization for Women marched in protest outside the Capitol Hill hotel with their president, Judy Goldsmith.

Shuttle snares satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Discovery's astronauts racked up a perfect score for their mission Saturday, stalking and capturing a satellite that peered into an area of the universe 30,000 light years away during two days of free flight.

After chasing it around the world 14 times, the astronauts caught up to the Spartan satellite, which had been studying a suspected black hole at the core of the Milky Way, and latched on with their ship's robot arm.

'Satan' search called off

TOLEDO, Ohio — A sheriff who led a fruitless search for possible remains of human sacrifices says he is more sure than ever that a satanic cult is practicing its rituals in the area.

The sheriff said news coverage of the search for what he initially estimated could be from 60 to 75 bodies in a rural area of Spencer Township has brought hundreds of new leads.

Spy's wife to stay mum

WASHINGTON — Even if Barbara Walker decides not to testify against her ex-husband, who is charged with heading a Navy spy ring, there still is enough evidence to convict John A. Walker Jr. of selling secrets to the Soviets, Justice Department officials say.

Mrs. Walker said in an interview published Friday by The New York Times that she was considering refusing to testify against John unless prosecutors granted immunity to her son, Michael, who is also charged in the case.

Shiite leader: Don't try a rescue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri accused the United States Saturday of planning military operations in Lebanon to rescue hijack hostages, and warned such a move could "inflict serious harm" on the 40 Americans, now in their ninth day of captivity.

Berri, head of the Shiite Amal militia, which has taken responsibility for the detained passengers and crew of a TWA jet, spoke as Lebanese media were reporting U.S. warplanes making runs over Beirut and a U.S. aircraft carrier close offshore.

"The United States is preparing for a military operation," said Berri, who has been negotiating on behalf of the Shiite hijackers for an end to the hostage drama, which began June 14 with the commandering of an Athens-Rome flight with 153 people aboard.

"It is certain that the air activity and the flexing of muscles will inflict serious harm on the innocent hostages," Berri said in an interview with The Associated Press. "We have information about the arrival of some U.S. officers to (Christian) east Beirut for the military preparations."

At a news conference at Beirut airport Thursday night, five hostages appealed to President Reagan "at all costs" not to launch a military operation.

The 40 Americans were passengers and crewmembers of a Boeing 727 hijacked by Shiite Moslems. The sky pirates, who have killed one passenger, are demanding that Israel release about 750 prisoners, mostly Shiites.

The three crewmembers of the hijacked TWA flight 847 have remained aboard the plane and are watched around the clock by guards. The remaining 37 Americans have been scattered to various locations in Beirut, in an apparent attempt to frustrate any rescue attempts.

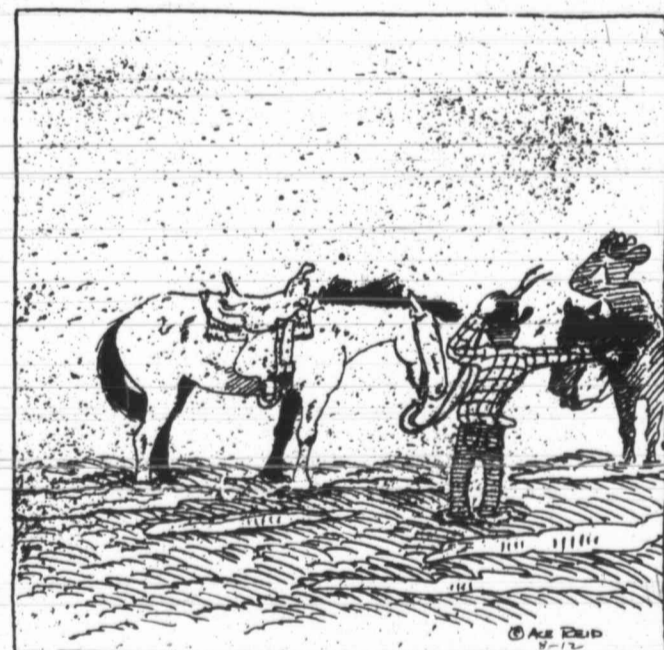

Berri met with U.N. envoy Jean-Claude Aime Saturday and briefed him on the hijacking and the current situation in Lebanon. He told reporters after the meeting that Israel was shelling Shiite villages in south Lebanon and rounding up "hundreds of new prisoners."

There was no immediate verification of the reported shelling or arrests.

Berri said the Israeli operations are being carried out "in front of the eyes of the world and the United Nations, who only look at the fate of 40 American hostages whom we intervened to save."

Newspaper law: an eye for a UPI

The news that United Press International was filing for bankruptcy probably evoked little more than a shrug from Americans grown lamentably accustomed to media casualties in recent years. But if UPI cannot reorganize and survive, it would be more than just another casualty in an industry being reshaped by some harsh economic realities.

UPI is among the Big Four news agencies in the world, an elite group that includes the Associated Press, Britain's Reuters, and France's Agence France Presse. It is also the only U.S.-based competition for the older, traditionally wealthier Associated Press. Although UPI's staff has been pared during the last few years, the news service still maintains bureaus around the globe and in virtually every major American city.

More to the point perhaps, United Press International provides the larger Associated Press with head-to-head competition in almost every market, foreign and domestic. That competition has made both news services better, and kept the American public better informed in the process. If UPI goes under, there will be that much less competition within an industry already suffering a steady decline in competition during most of the last half century.

Fortunately, there is a good chance that a reorganized UPI could find the investors it needs to survive. We hope so. And a public that has benefited by the competition UPI has provided for 78 years now should hope so too.

Footloose in Jerusalem

Take a trip to England or France, and you're a tourist; go to Israel, and you're a pilgrim. Not the kind with the stovepipe hat and blunderbuss, silly — I mean the religious type. In the land of Palestine, you can walk in the footsteps of Moses, Jesus, Mohammed. What better place to commune with God? By such promises are the unwary lured.

My own hypothesis is that the Holy Land is no more conducive to spiritual growth than your local K mart. I found this out the hard way.

My tour of Jerusalem's Via Dolorosa, or Stations of the Cross, will illustrate. The course is supposed to retrace Jesus' walk from his condemnation to his burial. The importance of these events to the faith of every Christian cannot be doubted. The historical significance of the places on the designated route, however, can be.

My own guidebook, whose author is loathe to undermine his livelihood, doesn't deny that the current layout wasn't fixed until the 19th Century — by which time, I fear, memories may have grown slightly dim. But he concedes only that sites are "to be seen for the most part rather with the eye of faith than scrutinized with the scalpel of history."

The maps of the route apparently match some earlier course, judging from their value in finding the starting point. But find it my wife and I do. We are invited into a small church by a gentleman who magnanimously declines a small donation.

After guiding us through the chapel, our friend escorts us across the street to the place where Jesus was sentenced, now the courtyard of a school. A group of boys displays all the reverence they can be expected to muster during a soccer game.

Our procession continues to the next stop, and to the next, by which time it has dawned on our tourist — who, in the surroundings, is less quick to suspect the motives of his fellow man than might be prudent — that his escort may not be acting out of altruism. But Christian charity hinders a realistic appraisal of the likely consequences.

The guide recounts the events commemorated by the various stations — here Jesus fell, here Veronica wiped his face, here he fell again. The credibility of the guide's account, delivered with all the feeling of a weather recording, suffers from my recollection that none of these events has any basis in the Gospels.

But there is no time to quibble. Our guide, not one to linger for contemplation, presses on. But now we are traversing narrow lanes lined with shops selling 7-UP and Kodak film, accosted repeatedly by a man seeking exchange currency, party of a thriving black market. I try in vain to suppress the thought that Jesus, at least, was spared this annoyance.

We manage to evade the various hawkers, until at one point, we find ourselves suddenly delivered into the hands of a man who insists on showing us a collection of religious jewelry, "hand-made by my father." Suspecting his father had as much to do with the jewelry as my father did, I decline. Our guide, no doubt deprived of a commission by my stinginess, steps up the pace another notch.

I assure myself that when Christ's Kingdom is established on earth, the existing Via Dolorosa will be banished to the nether regions. Until then, I take comfort in the reflection of the Medieval pilgrim whose discovery of the pervasive corruption of Rome in no way weakened his faith. Any religion that could survive such guardians as these, he reasoned, could only come from God.

Whipping whopper hoppers

The father of a farmer was talking about his son's crop prospects for the year. "He's doing fine," he said, "today."

Good rains prepared the fields. Farmers are optimistic. But their crops, and their fortunes, can turn in one afternoon. Life in rural America is lived strictly one day at a time.

A story from Mountain Home, Idaho, illustrates the fragile nature of individual farmers' fortunes. For these southern Idaho farmers, traditional worries about prices and the weather have gone back burner to a new foe — grasshoppers.

The grasshopper problem is bad here in the Big Spring area. Young cotton plants are prey to the huge munchers who march on the fields like columns of battle-ready troops.

It's worse elsewhere, though, where the U.S. government has stepped in to help with spraying programs. On the Snake River, for instance, an aerial spraying campaign has covered 1 million acres. But there are 4 million acres to go, and losing the battle may mean losing the farm for growers burdened by heavy debt and depressed crop prices.

The federal Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, which is coordinating the spraying, hoped to have two Air National Guard C-123 spray planes at work today, and a third has been promised later in the week.

APHIS officials say about 4.4 million acres already are under contract for spraying, with more contracts being signed almost daily.

Despite their debts, most farmers have dug deep for tens of thousands of dollars to participate in the government spraying. Others are financing spraying on their own.

For some, spraying has paid off, producing good kills. But with millions of acres infested, crop dusters — even with the C-123s — cannot cover more than 200,000 acres a day, while devastation mounts elsewhere.

As a rule of thumb, it's time to spray when you find eight grasshoppers in a square yard. In the Magic Valley, the grasshopper density is often 20 to 30 per square yard; sometimes 200 or more insects are found dining in that space.

"The ground's alive," said one farmer as he walked through knee-deep wheat, with nothing but grasshoppers left on the ravaged stalks.

Time is of the essence. If the grasshoppers are not sprayed before they are old enough to lay eggs, the hordes will be back again next year.

The plague already is being called the worst in Idaho history, with officials predicting still worse to come.

The grasshopper menace in the Crossroads Country isn't at the point of being a plague, but it's a considerable foe in the farmers' battle to live off the land against politics and the elements. Farmers fight wind, rain, drought, heat, hail, pestilence, prices and politicians in their valiant struggle to feed and clothe the world. They have my unflinching support.

Don't let Houston decide state's future

By JIM DAVIS

AUSTIN — If you don't bother to vote on Nov. 5, be prepared to have Houstonians decide the fate of water planning in Texas.

All Texans will be asked to go to the polls that Tuesday and vote on 14 proposed constitutional amendments. Two of those proposals deal with the water plan that the Texas Legislature adopted last month.

The water plan isn't really a plan. It doesn't set up a system of water use priorities and it doesn't address the state's critical ground water problems except on a voluntary basis.

It basically is a blueprint or funding mechanism for a series of water-related proposals, ranging from water conservation to chloride control.

The Legislature passed enabling legislation to set up the program, but that won't mean anything unless the voters approve the two propositions, or at least pass the main proposition.

The main proposition, listed first on the ballot, would authorize the issuance of an additional $980 million in Texas Water Development Bonds to create special funds for various types of water projects. Who would get how much from which fund would be decided on a case-by-case basis by the Texas Water Development Board.

The other proposition, No. 2 on the ballot, authorizes the issuance and sale of $200 million in agriculture water conservation bonds.

Proposition 2 depends on the success of a $10 million agriculture pilot program and could name of Christ, parts of the world facing disaster or great difficulty.) He assured me that the reports are not exaggerated, and there is much that must be done soon if thousands of people are to avoid starvation.

Yes, certainly, we have a responsibility to do what we can to help those facing starvation in Africa and elsewhere. The Bible says, "The righteous care about justice for the poor, but the wicked have no such concern" (Proverbs 29:7). It also promises,

...Houston is the only place in Texas on Nov. 5 that also is having a general election. And at the center of that election is a red-hot mayor's race that is expected to generate a Houston-sized portion of political blood-letting.

not be issued before 1987. It also lacks necessary enabling legislation unless No. 1 passes also and basically was thrown in to attract rural support for the entire program.

What has all this got to do with Houston? Well, Houston is the only place in Texas on Nov. 5 that also is having a general election. And at the center of that election is a red-hot mayor's race that is expected to generate a Houston-sized portion of political blood-letting. Sad to say, that kind of election usually is needed to interest people in voting.

Constitutional amendment elections by themselves are notoriously under-attended. The items usually are technically worded, dull to read and difficult to understand.

Making matters worse are the local-issue proposals that must be passed by voters to amend our overly complex constitution. Who could get excited about deciding whether Chambers County can "be divided in a sitting duck

By KEITH BRISCOE

President Reagan may do a good imitation of Clint Eastwood, but he obviously lacks the firepower of Eastwood's screen character Dirty Harry.

Reagan can boldly tell the Congress "Make my day" over threatened tax increases, but he can't gather the wherewithal to stand up to thugs and murderers who have targeted Americans as easy quarry.

Hijackers have captured American air passengers, delivering them to professional terrorists in Beirut, and gunmen have slaughtered Marines in El Salvador. All in one week.

Reagan's response, like his action after 250 Marines were buried in a suicide car bomb attack a year and a half ago in Lebanon, has been to reverse Teddy Roosevelt's maxim: "Talk tough and carry a little stick."

Remember, this is the guy who campaigned hard against Jimmy Carter, accusing him of indecisiveness in handling the capture of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Reagan says he's now reached his limit with terrorists. So what bold action does he take? He's spending the weekend at Camp David.

I remember the good ol' days when Gerald Ford was president. Even though the country was remorseful and mournful on our final pullout from Vietnam, Ford didn't hesitate to send in the Navy and Marines to rescue the captured freighter Mayaguez.

Lives were lost, and so was the ship. But the message was clear to both terrorists and U.S. citizens: Don't mess with Uncle Sam.

Had we retaliated strongly two years ago after the car bombing of Marine headquarters in Beirut, we probably would not be faced now with the unethical choice of forcing our best friend, Israel, to bow down before these murderers and bid for the release of our own citizens.

Until we can find a leader with guts, we will continue to be sitting ducks for all the loonies in the world with a cause.

to two to six precincts?" Outside of people in that county, who cares whether they have two, six or 26? No one, but that's the sort of thing you'll face on the Nov. 5 ballot.

But before you decide to skip this election, remember the water proposals and remember Houston.

Sam Kinch, in his Texas Weekly newsletter, points out some scary projections and facts:

- 1. That Houston could generate up to 35 percent of the statewide vote on Nov. 5.
- 2. That the five largest counties will produce about 55 percent of the total vote.
- 3. That all five of those largest counties voted against the 1981 water plan, by up to 2-to-1 margins.

Both proponents and opponents of the 1985 water plan realize the importance of the urban areas and will be tailoring their campaigns to them.

During the writing of the legislation, backers tried to put in magnets for Houston voters, such as a special provision on flood control that should be attractive in that low-lying area.

In fact, the water plan architects proved politically skillful at putting something for almost everyone in the proposals.

The one thing they couldn't include was something to automatically stir voter interest. We voters outside of Houston are going to have to take on that job ourselves.

Operation Lifesaver

Train conductors warn: Stop, look and listen

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Two Big Spring railroad conductors who have witnessed death and injuries caused in railroad crossing accidents are now working to prevent these tragedies through a program called Operation Lifesaver.

Gary Cagle and Ronnie Walker of Big Spring, conductors for the Union Pacific-Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., are starting Operation Lifesaver, a public education program in 44 states aimed at reducing railroad grade crossing accidents.

The program is sponsored by the Texas Safety Association and its member railroads, said Cagle, coordinator of the program for Union Pacific-Missouri Pacific Rio Grande Division.

Operation Lifesaver is being directed at schools through driver education, health and safety classes and school bus drivers. It is aimed at the general public through civic presentations and display booths at public functions. It also is provided for industry through defensive driving course classes and safety meetings.

Cagle and Walker say it's important people are made aware of the problem. Crossing accidents are the most severe of all transportation related accidents, he said. "We want the public's attention," Walker said.

Cagle said the education program was inaugurated in 1977 by the Railroad Section of Texas Safety Association. Texas leads the nation in such accidents, registering 797 grade crossing train-vehicle accidents and 82 deaths and 305 injuries, according to Federal Railway Administration figures.

Operation Lifesaver has reduced accidents in several states, Cagle said.

Union Pacific-Missouri Pacific Railroad officials say two deaths have occurred this year on their Texas lines west of Fort Worth.

There are approximately 10 railroad crossings in Howard County and more than 15,000 public grade crossings in Texas, Cagle said.

Each crossing is equipped with one or more of the following signs: octagonal stop sign, x-shaped crossbuck, yellow and black advance warning sign, flashing lights, bells and or automatic gates, he said.

But, Walker said, the signs do no good if they are not obeyed. "As long as people will listen, we will keep educating them on the danger (of disregarding the railroad crossing warning signs)," Walker said.

The Operation Lifesaver program presentation lasts approximately 45 minutes and consists of personal accident accounts from Walker and Cagle, a presentation on grade crossing accidents, a film and a question and answer session.

Any organization, business or school wanting an Operation Lifesaver presentation can contact the Union Pacific-Missouri Pacific Railroad Company at 267-5544.

West Texas turns green with military traffic

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Who are those guys in green, and where are they going?
Motorists on Interstate 20 may have noticed last week military truck convoys transporting men in the westbound freeway lanes. And some drivers reported seeing trailer rigs hauling military trucks with USMC emblems.

The USMC stands for the United States Marine Corps. The migration westward is headed for Camp Pendleton, Calif., where the USMC is conducting its annual reserve summer camp.

"We're shipping all our trucks to Camp Pendleton for reserve summer camp. All of our reserves are going there," said Sgt. James Boehn of Lubbock.

"Reserves left on June 15. We had approximately 70 persons go out," Boehn said. Lubbock's unit of reserves flew out to California rather than travel by ground. Truck convoys carrying men, Boehn said, are from other reserve units ranging as far away as Louisiana.

The rigs transporting Lubbock's platoon trucks are handled by a "private civilian," Boehn said.

Those men who report for reserve duty at Camp Pendleton usually stay for a two-week period. The camp is located midway between San Diego and Los Angeles, Boehn said.

Besides offering a highway for military ground transport, West Texas recently has become a skyway for military travel and training.

Tommy Jones, assistant director of aviation operations at Midland Air Terminal, said the terminal has increased its fueling and maintenance services for military transport.

"We average 20 to 30 flights per day," Jones said.

He said the air terminal made a deal with the Air Force, which needed a refueling stop in this area for its air convoys. Jones said the Air Force determined that a change in the recent weather patterns dictated a switch from its base in El Paso to one in Midland.

"We have sophisticated equipment in our control tower. It was upgraded last year, and we have expensible capability," Jones said.

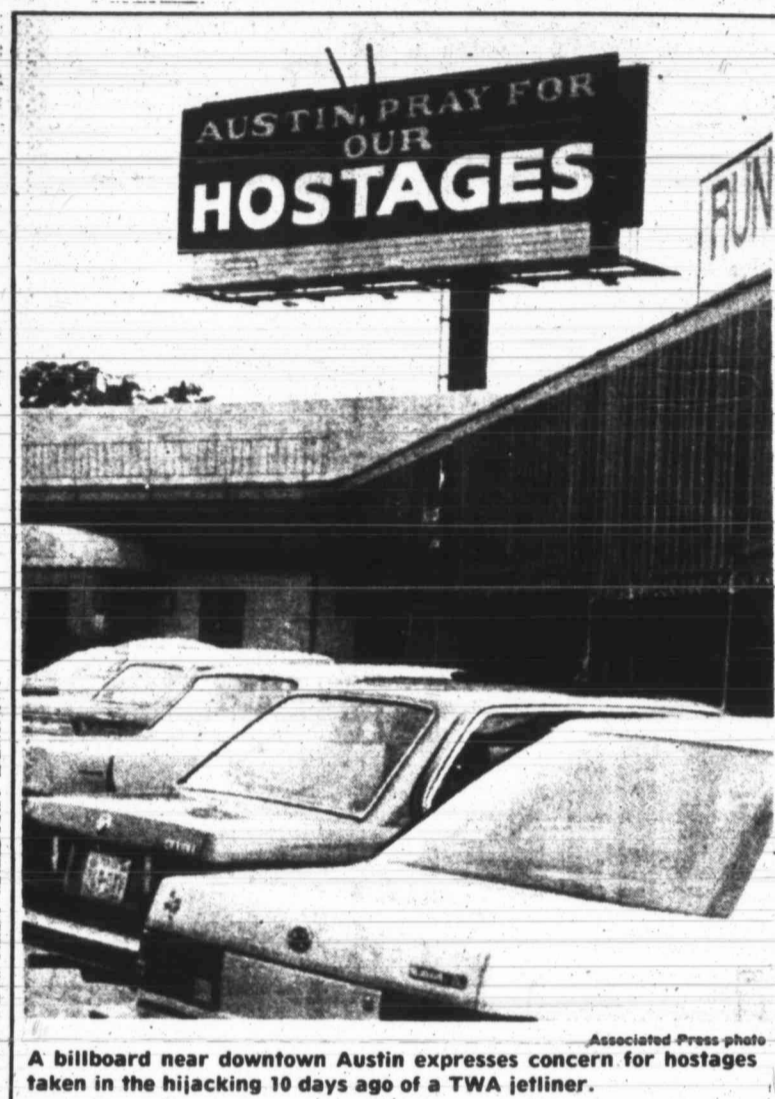

He said military units will use Midland's airport to practice pattern training.

"We never know what's going to show up," Jones said.

County begins draft of upcoming budget

Howard County Commissioners will continue reviewing all county department expenditures as members of the court work again on the 1985-86 budget. Commissioners will meet at 9 a.m. Monday in the Howard County Courthouse. "The commissioners will determine how much money we (county) have spent compared to the budgeted amount," said county auditor Jackie

Olson. She said commissioners also will review revenues such as fees collected for office services and "money that has been carried over," from each department's budget. Olson said the court will set the 1985-86 budget and accept it before the 1985-86 fiscal year begins on Oct. 1. Commissioners will also consider bids for a new motor grader for the county engineer's department, a new telephone system for the courthouse and construction of cabinets and moving counter in the district clerk's department. Frank Martinez of the adult probation office will appear before commissioners to discuss a lack of office space in his department. Commissioners also will consider a purchase request for two radios.

You too can become one of our local SUCCESS STORIES!

Hi! I'm Roxie Forrest, owner of Nutri/System weight loss centers in Odessa, Midland and Big Spring. But weight loss is more than a business to me because it wasn't long ago that my clothes stretched instead of hung. That I used a cover up over my swimsuit. That all my clothes had long sleeves to cover up my arms. And everytime I bent over to pick something up, I got in my own way. After four children I had accumulated my share of baby fat. At Nutri/System we know how self-conscious being overweight can make you. Nutri/System is not magic; you have to want to lose weight. But if you are fed up with being overweight, Nutri/System can help. You can lose up to a pound a day. And more importantly, you can keep that weight off with our program. If you call by July 15th, you can be 20 lbs. slimmer by August 1st, for only $49.00!

Won't you join me and hundreds of others and become one of our Nutri/System success stories. It does work! I went from being a size 12 to a size 7 three years ago and have not changed.

Rodeo: The original American pastime

By Charlie Alcorn

Which of America's hundreds of national pastimes is the most American? The obvious choice would be our so-called National Pastime—baseball, or our most popular spectator sport—football. But we're not talking attendance figures now, we're talking RODEO.

Yes sir, rodeo really is the most American sport of all and technically it is the only professional sport born out of necessity. See, rodeo does not have an official birth certificate. It started near places like the Chisolm Trail or the dusty pens of a Howard County ranch during the great "Trail Drive" era of the 1860-1880's. Sure, there are some old rodeos down in Pecos and Scottsdale, Arizona, but it was the Cowboy vs. the Cow long before the first official rodeo. Nobody was keeping records the first time a cowboy strapped himself to a wild mare or lit out after a stray steer. During those long trail drives a cowboy who could throw a rope or a steer with equal ease and break an ornery steer's spirit made good money. Those same basic skills are applied today by the professional cowboy.

Eventually, some of the wranglers came off the range and decided to form the Rodeo Association of America in the late 1920's. But the RAA was loosely organized in the typical vaudeville fashion of the day. The first lasting organizational effort did not occur until 1936. That year the Cowboy Turtle Association (because they were so slow to organize) banded together and would later change their name to the Rodeo Cowboys Association in 1945.

The organization evolved slowly into the PCRA of today that boasts over 600 officially sanctioned rodeos all over the United States and Canada.

The same Old West toughness and spirit can be found on the modern ProRodeo circuit. It's still man against beast. And those big bulls and wild horses relish the chance to stomp whoever is brave enough to jump on their backs. Whether on the open prairie or the manicured floor of the Astrodome, the bottom line is still the same; you either hang on, or get thrown.

Rodeoing may not be the toughest way to earn a living, (I suppose the guys picking up carcasses for a rendering plant might have it worse) but the card-carrying members of the PCRA earn every dollar they make. Granted, the pro cowboy literally only has to "work" a few minutes year to earn his keep. But the logistics that make all those 8 second rides possible are nothing less than staggering.

No one tells the cowboy when, where or how to pursue his professional career. A cowboy contending for a world championship will enter between 100 and 125 rodeos a year, many requiring multiple performances. In other words, a pro cowboy lives with his foot in the door.

He must constantly balance the factors of ability and current ranking against the parameters of time, distance, expense and the stock he's drawn. It's a hectic, fast-paced life where getting enough sleep becomes almost as challenging as the competition. So don't be surprised if you hear a few yawns mixed with the yelps from the cowboys coming our way.

Be sure and get out to the Rodeo this week and take a look at some of the most unique athletes in the world. If it doesn't make you feel like an All-American, nothing will. Or at the very least, rodeoing will make you appreciate that office job a little more.

4-0 victory over Colts

Tigers win City Championship

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

Using the potent pitching of Dimas Morales and the 4 for 4 hitting of catcher Micheal Olivas, the Texas League Tigers played near flawless ball for the second night in a row, beating the National League Colts 4-0 to claim the Big Spring Little League City Championship Saturday night at the National League field.

Morales, who had an overpowering fastball all night, collected 11 strikeouts while twirling a 3-hit shutout. The righthander also displayed excellent control in the complete game victory, allowing only three walks in 6 innings.

It was a well played game defensively, with both teams executing well from the field. The score remained at 0-0 through the first three innings as each team stranded runners in scoring position. Losing pitcher Jonathan Downey changeups and looping curve ball had the Tigers on the ropes through the first three innings.

In the top of the fourth Sammy Gonzales broke the scoreless deadlock with two outs. The Tiger first baseman drew one of Downey's 5 walks on the night and advanced to third on a passed ball. Gonzales showed some alert base running stealing third base as Downey walked back to the mound. Gonzales stole home on a passed ball by Downey to make the score 1-0 after four innings.

Texas League Tiger catcher MICHAEL OLIVAS strokes one of his four hits on the night during first inning action of the Big Spring Little League City Championship game Saturday night at the National League field. The Tigers won the city championship while raising their record to 14-5.

The Tigers big inning came in the top of the fifth. After Marvin Rubio flied out to center to open the inning, Gonzales stroked a single and Olivas lashed his third hit of the night to put runners at second and third. Morales then helped his own cause with an RBI single scoring Gonzales.

Downey was then called for a balk before pitching to Charlie

Garcia forcing in Olivas to make the score 3-0. Garcia lined a shot to Downey with two outs and Morales scored as Downey threw the ball over catcher Allen Wood's head to make the score 4-0.

Morales shut the door on any hopes of a Colt comeback in the fifth and sixth innings with the help of some fine defensive play from his infield.

The 1985 city champions finished the season at 14-5 and bring the city title back to the Texas League for the second straight year. Last year's champions, the Texas League Red Sox defeated the International League Pirates 5-3 in the City Championship consolation final earlier Saturday night.

The Colts finished their season at 16-3.

DAVID FROST, of Capetown, South Africa, acknowledges the crowd after a birdie putt on the 18th green Saturday at the Atlanta Classic. FROST fired a 64 to tie DANNY EDWARDS for the lead.

Frost, Edwards tied at Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (AP) — Rookie David Frost of South Africa fired an 8-under-par 64, Danny Edwards birdied the final hole for a 68, and the two shared the lead after three rounds of the $500,000 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic.

Frost, who served two years of national service as a police constable in Cape Town, knocked in five of his eight birdie putts from 10 feet or more for a 54-hole total of 202, 14 under par on the hilly 7,008-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Edwards, a part-time race car driver with four tour victories in his career, got his closing birdie after the national telecast had ended for the day.

Raymond Floyd, a two-time PGA champion and the winner of one Masters, held a one-shot lead after 13 holes, but fell off the pace with a pair of bogeys before getting a birdie on the final hole for a 68-204 that left him tied for third with rookie Steve Pate, the second round leader. Pate was never able to get it going, but did birdie the final hole for a 71.

Frost, who tied for second in the Houston Open, got his day going with a 12-foot birdie putt on the first hole.

He added three more birdies on the front side — from 20 feet on No. 5, two feet on No. 6 and 10 feet on No. 8 — to make the turn at 32.

He added four more birdies on the back, two of them in the 16-18-foot range and two others after coming out of bunkers — from 30 yards away to three feet at No. 11 and to one foot on the final green.

"I just wanted to hit the ball in the fairway," said Frost, a 25-year-old with three years of experience on the European tour. "I wasn't really greedy when I started out today."

Watch out, Tony!

Cincinnati Reds first baseman TONY PEREZ receives assistance from teammate DUANE WALKER (25) to keep from falling in the dugout after catching a foul pop out off the bat of Atlanta Braves infielder GLENN HUBBARD during the 7th inning of their National League game Saturday afternoon.

Yankees, Guidry blank Tigers, 4-0

DETROIT (AP) — New York left-hander Ron Guidry is dispelling a lot of old myths these days while proving that — even at 34 — he still is the key to the Yankees' pitching staff.

Guidry fired a brilliant four-hitter and got a two-run homer from Don Baylor to beat the Detroit Tigers 4-0 Saturday.

The victory improved Guidry's record to 8-3, and sent a message to the baseball world that Guidry is far from washed up — as had been whispered after he went 10-11 last year.

"There were some personal things which I think upset me last year," Guidry said. "This year when I went to spring training, I said I'm not going to fall into that. My mind was clear."

The loss, which snapped a four-game Tiger winning streak, was only the third in Detroit's last 13 games.

It was the second consecutive shutout for Guidry, who blanked the Baltimore Orioles 10-0 last Monday. As he did in that contest, Guidry used a deadly mixture of sliders, changeups and fastballs to keep the Tigers off balance.

"It's not 1978 where I can just blow the fastball past them," Guidry said. "I can still throw hard, but I have to mix it up and set them up."

"To be a good pitcher, you have to accept the fact that you might have to change — especially if you want to stay around. I'm not hard-headed."

"It was difficult, though, especially the way I was programmed to pitch."

Guidry fanned the side in the Detroit first inning and finished with six strikeouts.

"He's throwing as well now as he was a couple of years ago," said Detroit slugger Kirk Gibson, who had his hitting streak snapped at eight games.

Guidry didn't allow a walk in winning his seventh straight decision and gave up only one hit over the last five innings.

"He's just one of those great pitchers you like to catch because he's always around the plate all the time," said Yankee catcher Ron Hassey, noting that Guidry has walked only 14 batters in 15 games all season. "He had a great slider today and a good fastball, too. He keeps ahead of the batters."

"He's been really on top of his game the last five times out. When he's in a tight situation, he makes the pitches. That's what you've got to do — make pitches."

Guidry called the victory a "big win" for a couple of reasons.

"It stops the losing streak and keeps a club like Detroit from thinking they can just run over you," Guidry said. "The Tigers showed the last two nights they can come back even when they're behind and beat you."

"With a team like that, you've just got to bear down all the time." Dan Petry, the losing pitcher, thought Guidry might have blown himself out with his stellar first inning.

"When he struck out the side in the first inning, I thought of the old saying, 'Start fast, don't last,'" Petry said. "But Ron just kept on going. He proved the old saying wrong this time."

Petry, 9-5, gave up 11 hits, walked two and struck out five. Petry continues to lead the American League in victories despite winning just once since May 22.

Ken Griffey walked in the Yankee first, stole second and scored on Dave Winfield's two-out single.

Winfield doubled in the fourth and scored on Hassey's single.

Don Mattingly singled in the sixth and scored ahead of Baylor's 12th home run — a shot off the facing of the second deck in left field.

"I was upset that I gave up that home run," Petry said. "A 2-0 game is still within reach but a 4-0 lead with Guidry pitching that way was just too much."

The two teams were scheduled to conclude their four-game weekend series on Sunday with Detroit newcomer Frank Tanana, 2-7, who was acquired from the Texas Rangers a couple of days ago, going against New York's Bob Shirley, 2-1.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO (AP) — Bill Buckner hit a two-run single in the eighth inning and Marty Barrett homered in the ninth Saturday to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in a game delayed by rain for more than three hours.

The contest was delayed because of a heavy downpour in the bottom of the fifth with Toronto ahead 3-2. Play resumed under bright sunshine after a delay of 3 hours and 16 minutes, during which time Blue Jays Manager Bobby Cox was ejected from the game, apparently for questioning umpire crew chief Joe Brinkman's decision to resume play.

Wade Boggs led off the Boston eighth with an infield single against Jim Ackr, 4-2, and Jim Rice followed with an infield hit. An error by third baseman Rance Mulliniks allowed the runners to advance and Buckner greeted reliever Gary Lavelle with his single.

Barrett hit his second homer of the season leading off the ninth. Reliever Bob Stanley went the final 2-3 innings to even his record at 3-3.

Tony Fernandez put the Blue Jays ahead 3-2 in the fourth inning with his second homer after an infield hit by Jesse Barfield.

The Red Sox had taken a 2-0 lead with a run in the first and another in the second. Steve Lyons started the game with a single to left, moved to second on a groundout and scored Rice's single to center.

In the second inning, Dwight Evans drew a leadoff walk but was forced at second by Rich Gedman, who moved to second when shortstop Fernandez's relay bounced past first baseman Willie Upshaw. One out later, Gedman scored on Glenn Hoffman's single to center.

Toronto shaved Boston's lead to 2-1 with a run in its half of the second. Bell led off with a single, Ernie Whitt walked and Fernandez slapped an opposite-field single.

Ron Musselman, after 39 relief appearances in the majors, was given the starting assignment by Cox instead of scheduled starter Dave Stieb because of the prospect of rain.

Retirement near for Connors, Evert-Lloyd

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

When the big iron gates of the All-England Croquet and Tennis Club creak open this week, Wimbledon's faithful will woefully watch the curtain coming down on the "Jimmy and Chrissy Show."

To sports fans, it is a distressing prospect.

James Scott Connors and Chris Evert Lloyd, with their two-fisted backhands and grim fighting qualities, were the game's whiz kids of the '70s — Connors, the brawler out of Belleville, Ill., and Lloyd, then just plain Chris Evert, the classy shotmaker from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Two years ago, she said she would play a couple more before fulfilling her desire to start a family with her tennis-playing British husband, John Lloyd.

But now that the deadline is here, she may be having a change of mind.

Grand Slam titles going into the last two big ones.

The inside word is that winning either Wimbledon or the U.S. Open, or both, would facilitate rather than delay Lloyd's homemaking plans. Fiercely proud of her

"I don't point to Grand Slam events," he said recently. "I consider regular tour events just as important. My attitude is that no match is as important as the one I'm playing. I play every match like it's my last."

"I have subjected my body to a lot of punishment, but it's been worth it."

JIMMY CONNORS
... ranked 3rd in world

CHRIS EVERT-LLOYD
... No. 1 in the world

In their own separate ways, they were the catalysts of an explosive era. They were the center court of the world. The new, burgeoning pro tennis game bounced off them.

Now Jimbo is 32 and Chrissy is 30. Both are facing the crossroads in their respectively brilliant careers. Their sport is being ruled by Martina Navratilova and John McEnroe — a pair of powerful, agile left-handers capable of taking a tournament by the throat and shaking it to death.

Check the legal London bookies. If Navratilova and McEnroe can coordinate their minds with their innate talents, they are odds-on favorites to maintain their dominance of Wimbledon's hallowed Center Court.

Connors and Lloyd are ready to give it at least one more shot — perhaps a couple or three more. The string, however, is growing shorter.

Connors has confided privately that he is wearying of Wimbledon and may just kiss the old lady goodbye. He never liked the place anyhow — the 19th century stuffiness, the emphasis on tradition and propriety — just as the old lady never cared much for him. He is more at home among the rowdy, barracking buffs at the U.S. Open in Flushing Meadow, N.Y.

Five years ago, Lloyd said she planned to play five more years.

This indecision apparently was prompted by a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Navratilova in the Virginia Slims of Florida final in Key Biscayne in January — her first triumph after 13 straight losses to her longtime adversary — and then buttressed by her dramatic triumph in the French Open at Paris earlier this month.

"I proved to myself that I am still capable of beating her," Lloyd said. "I don't think I have been in better shape then now. I look forward to Wimbledon and the U.S. Open."

It's one thing to win an ordinary tour event in Key Biscayne or even on the red clay of Paris' Roland Garros Stadium — Lloyd's favorite surface — and another to beat Navratilova on Wimbledon's fast grass or Flushing Meadow's equally fast cement.

"I like grass and am comfortable on it," Lloyd said, and the record supports her. It was on turf that she won the 1984 Australian Open, which now gives her two of the four record, she would cherish the thought of ending her career as a winner.

"I don't intend to stay around just to be playing tennis, as much as I like the game and the life," she said. "Nobody likes to see a champion slide downhill. I would love to finish on top."

"The clock is ticking away." If success proves to be the formula for Lloyd's retirement, just the opposite may speed Connors' departure.

Winner of three Wimbledon and five American crowns, he has failed to win a Grand Prix event all year and has struggled to remain in the Top Ten. Ivan Lendl has replaced him as chief challenger to McEnroe's throne and he now is getting further heat from a whole pack of Bjorn Borg clones out of Sweden, headed by the new French champion, Mats Wilander.

Connors acknowledged that his court intensity has exacted a heavy mental and physical toll.

It's this fierce, unshakeable spirit that has distinguished Connors and Lloyd. Neither is equipped with extraordinary physical assets. Neither possesses the power serve and net-storming game that has become the style of the 1980s.

They have been content to remain largely backcourt strategists with a mental toughness that helped them dominate the past decade. McEnroe not only has power but also instincts and natural skills that baffle the smartest students of the game. Navratilova is much the same.

Yet McEnroe is so gifted he finds it hard to constantly apply himself. He can lose matches by lapses of concentration and temper tantrums. Navratilova's prowess has been pierced by a tendency to panic under pressure. Special coaches, dietary experts and instructors have failed to erase the problem.

So Lloyd, with her iron will, can still shake Navratilova's confidence enough to pull off upsets, as at Key Biscayne and Paris. Connors, on the other hand, hasn't beaten McEnroe since the Queens Cup final two years ago, losing nine straight, including a 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 wipeout in last year's Wimbledon final.

Connors and Lloyd, once engaged to be married, have had parallel careers, both turning pro in 1972 — Connors at age 20 and Lloyd at 18 — and made their debut at Wimbledon the same year, although Connors lost as an amateur in the first round in 1971.

Fire and ice, thunder and grace, petulance and poise — contrasts in so many ways yet similar in others — they stroked their way to tennis greatness and left marks that will long endure.

Staid, century-old Wimbledon hated the one at times but never quit adoring the other. The world's most knowledgeable fans appreciated Connors' court tenacity and skill although they deplored his rakish behavior and particularly resented his 6-1, 6-1, 6-4 rout of their beloved Ken Rosewall in the 1974 final.

Attention Cotton Farmer!

Question: What is better than a $20 per acre hoe bill this summer?

Treflan

Answer: A $2-$3 per acre application of Treflan over the top (O-T-S) of cotton.

Question: Where will this O-T-S application work?

Answer: 1. Replanted fields
2. Areas where water has stood
3. Fields where herbicide was banded only
4. Any untreated but planted fields
5. "Set Aside" acres
6. Extra protection wanted due to excessive soil moisture and high weed pressure

Question: How does this Treflan O-T-S program work?

Answer: Apply when cotton is in 4 True Leaf Stage or after - using 3/4 to 1 pint per acre, and incorporated within 24 hours. Wheat can be followed in the fall.

Treflan is the only "yellow" herbicide labeled for this O-T-S cotton application.

See your Treflan supplier for more information.

Ritzman, Miller tied for lead in Mayflower Classic golf

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Alice Ritzman had five consecutive birdies and seven in eight holes Saturday, while Alice Miller used an eagle to tie her for the lead after three rounds of the $250,000 Mayflower Classic.

Ritzman, who had nine birdies and a double bogey, finished with a 5-under-par 67 and had a 6-under 210 total after 54 holes. Miller, who like Ritzman started the day in a tie for fifth at 1-under, played without a bogey for the second time in the tournament.

Ritzman, winless since joining the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour in 1978 and only 75th on this year's money list, and Miller held a one-stroke edge over Stephanie Farwig.

Farwig, also winless as a pro, putted only 23 times in scoring her 68. She was followed by Kathy Postlewait at 4-under 212. Amateur Marletha Feyer, a three-time Indiana high school champion who will be a senior at Southern Methodist this fall, was tied for fifth at 213 with another Indiana native, veteran Beth Solomon.

Foyer, who hopes to qualify for the tour after her senior year, had a 69 and Solomon had a 70.

Mary Beth Zimmerman, second-round leader Heather Drew and Amy Benz were the only other players under par after 54 holes at 214.

The tournament at the 6,203-yard Country Club of Indianapolis ends Sunday with the winner earning $37,500. That check would send Miller past JoAnne Carner's single-season record total of $310,399 set in 1982. Ritzman gained a stroke with a birdie on the opening hole, but was even par for the tournament before starting her streak.

"At times I would be a little uncertain," said Ritzman about her club selection during the streak. "The wind was a little tricky."

Miller had her eagle on the 426-yard, par 5 No. 16, making an 8-foot putt after knocking in with a 4-iron. The only three-time winner on this year's tour and the leader of nearly every statistical category, began her round with six consecutive pars and had her only birdie on the front at the seventh hole. She made the turn at 2-under and had two birdies before the eagle.

"I played real solid," said Miller, who was frustrated after her 76 Friday. "I putted well, especially coming down the back nine."

"I stayed aggressive with my irons."

Zimmerman, also shooting for her first professional victory, shot a 1-under-par 35 on the front nine to move into a share of the lead before running into trouble with three bogeys on the back nine.

Zimmerman, who began the day in second place two strokes behind Drew, took the lead when Drew posted her third bogey of the day on the sixth hole by leaving a 15-foot putt inches short.

Ritzman, who hasn't finished higher than 21st this year while earning $14,660, began her streak at the 315-yard, par 4 No. 6 and moved into the lead at 7-under.

But, Ritzman then put her drive on the 384-yard, par 4 No. 14 into a creek and later two-putted for a double bogey.

Drew, who held the 36-hole lead after a career-low 67 Friday, stumbled down the leader board with four bogeys on the front. Her sixth bogey of the day, and her fourth in her row, left the University of Arizona graduate at even par for the tournament. She managed to gain a stroke back on the 12th hole, but was unable to make a charge.

Postlewait made the turn at 3-under after starting the day at even par. She then had one birdie and eight pars on the back.

Zimmerman also had a birdie on the first hole, just missing an eagle putt. She moved to 5-under with a birdie on the fourth hole, but lost that stroke by scoring her only bogey of the day on the next hole.

Drew, also a non-winner, had only one birdie on the front and had her fourth bogey of the day on the ninth hole.

REAGAN'S TAX PROPOSAL

President Reagan has announced his tax reform plan. Some of the changes for individuals under Reagan's proposed plan include: 1) Replacing the current multiple tax rates ranging from 11% to 50% with only three tax rates — 15%, 25%, and 35%. 2) Increasing the personal exemption from the current $1,040 to $2,000. 3) Increasing the zero bracket amount (standard deduction) from $2,480 to $2,900 for single taxpayers, from $3,670 to $4,000 for joint returns, and from $2,480 to $3,600 for single heads of household. 4) Eliminating the itemized deduction for state and local taxes. 5) Eliminating income averaging. 6) Retaining the deduction for interest paid on your home mortgage but limiting other interest deductions. 7) Taxing unemployment compensation and workers' compensation (with special treatment for the elderly and disabled). 8) Repealing the working married couple's deduction. 9) Providing for an effective top capital gains rate of 17.5% compared with the current 20% top rate (for stock and certain other assets but not for depreciable assets such as buildings).

Some changes for businesses in the plan include the following: 1) Cutting the top corporate income tax rate from the current 46% to 33%. 2) Eliminating investment tax credit. 3) Eliminating fast write-off for business equipment. 4) A limit on business meal deductions — $10 for breakfast, $15 for lunch and $25 per person for dinner (only half deductible beyond these amounts). 5) Allowing corporations to deduct 10% of dividends paid to shareholders. 6) Eliminating rehabilitation and energy tax credits. 7) Indexing inventories for inflation. 8) Providing for a tougher 20% minimum tax on corporations.

Reagan's plan is just a "starting point" for tax reform by Congress. You can participate in the democratic process by contacting your Congressman and expressing your viewpoint.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Big Spring, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Purchase Agent until 2:00 P.M., Tuesday, July 2, 1985, for the City of Big Spring, Texas.

The project consist of partial replacement and repair of clay tile roofing, replacing of built-up roofing, replacement and repair of sheet metal flashing, gutters and down spouts, sealing of brick masonry walls and joint sealer application to existing sealed windows.

Bidders may bid individual items, all items combined or any combination of items. The owner anticipates the possibility of awarding separate contracts on bid items, but reserves the right to award a single contract if such results in the lowest bid price.

The project will be awarded based on lowest bid for each item or lowest combination of bid items.

Bidders must submit a Cashier's or Certified Check issued by a bank satisfactory to the Owner, or a Proposal Bond from a reliable Surety Company, payable without recourse to the order of the City of Big Spring, Texas, in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the largest possible bid submitted as a guaranty that the Bidder will enter into a contract and execute bonds and guaranty in the forms provided within ten (10) days after notice of award of contract to him. Bids without the required check or Proposal Bond will not be considered.

The successful Bidder will be required to furnish a Performance Bond and Payment Bond, each in the amount of the contract, written by a responsible Surety Company, authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and satisfactory to the Owner, as required by Article 5160, V.A.T.C.S., as amended by H.B. 344, passed by the 56th Legislature, Regular Session, 1959.

The City of Big Spring, Texas, reserves the right to hold all proposals for a period not to exceed 30 days after the date of receiving bids, to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. No bids may be withdrawn, after having been opened, within the 30 day period set out herein.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

Information to bidders, proposal forms, specifications, and plans are on file in the office of the Purchase Agent, Big Spring, Texas, and at the office of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers 4010 Avenue R, Lubbock, Texas, 79412, Phone 806-747-0161.

Copies of the plans, specifications, and contract documents may be secured at the office of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 4010 Avenue R, Lubbock, Texas, 79412 (Phone 806-747-0161) upon payment of $15.00 deposit for each set of documents. Refund of the deposit will be made as provided in the INSTRUCTION TO BIDDERS.

Attention is called to the fact that there must be paid on the project not less than the general prevailing rates of wages as set out in the SPECIAL PROVISIONS. However, the inclusion of such minimum schedule of wages does not release the Contractor from compliance with any State Wage Law that may be applicable. The Contractor must abide by the Wage and Hour Laws of the State of Texas and must pay not less than the rates legally prescribed or as set forth in the SPECIAL PROVISIONS, whichever is higher.

VISITING WITH PATIENTS — Volunteer Cynthia Mason visits with Kelly Howell and her infant daughter Sheena Marie Howell. Cynthia is a candystriper or Junior Volunteer with the Malone-Hogan Hospital. She plans a career as a maternity nurse.

Candystripers

Volunteers part of health care team

By TINA STEFFEN

"It's a girl?" asked candystriper Cynthia Mason. Kelly Howell's hospital room is full of symbols of love, joy and care. A balloon saying "It's a girl!" bobs toward the ceiling.

"Is this your first baby?"
"No. I have a little boy... I was glad she was a girl," Mrs. Howell says smiling at her sleeping baby.
"She's a pretty baby," Cynthia says.

When 17-year-old Cynthia became a candystriper in March to fulfill a requirement for the Miss West Texas TEEN Pageant, she didn't realize her work would change her life and influence her choice of a career.

Candystripers are Junior Volunteers at Malone-Hogan Hospital. The Junior Volunteer program, like others across the country, provide youths the opportunity to see first hand how a hospital cares for the sick of the community. Junior Volunteers, 12 to 18, also learn the disciplines of the workworld at an early age and contribute to the community's well being by becoming a member of a health care team.

ACCORDING TO Dorothy Blackwell, director of volunteers at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Junior Volunteers lift part of the workload from the shoulders of other hospital employees. They help patients and nurses handle mealtime functions, make beds for ambulatory patients, assist with patient dismissals and their visitors, run errands, assist ward clerks in charting procedures, or help in the offices and labs.

"This year, we have more kids than we ever had," Blackwell says. "We had 60 applicants. I'm working 43 of them. Departments are using Junior Volunteers who have never used them before."

"I want to encourage (the youth) to do something like this... We are hoping it will help them develop a choice as to whether they want to go into a medical profession," she said. "It also will give them job skills and discipline for any type of work and keep them active during the summer." Junior volunteers work four hours a day once or twice a week.

"Some will go into a medical field," in the future, she said. "Others, once they are inside the world of a hospital, realize they don't want to do this. It's not like TV. But the patients love them. They are here to give extra attention, smiles and warmth... The older patients especially like them."

Cynthia has learned much by being a volunteer. After working as one in March, she returned again for the summer. During her first term, she stayed up one night at the hospital's OB ward talking with a woman in labor. When the woman went into delivery, Cynthia was too excited and curious to leave. She sat in another room through the delivery and was among the first persons to see the newborn baby and the new mother.

"It's neat," she said. "It's like you know (the patient). Maybe it's the time and how their feeling," she said reflecting back on the event. "They are real talkative."

"YOU HEAR STORIES about having babies, but when you're in there and see what happens it's interesting and realistic." She can tell the difference between families who have few children and those with several, and the difference between mothers who have taken care of themselves and those who drank, smoked or continued drug habits during pregnancy, as well as the effects on the newborn.

"Some young girls (in their teens) come in and have a baby (out of wedlock). I feel sorry for them because they often do not have many others to comfort them, she said. "Working in the OB has taught me a lot about problems of having children early."

"When you work up here and see actual differences (in babies) with your eyes you don't blow it off. It sticks with you and makes you want to be careful."

When summer came along, Cynthia volunteered again. "You can only (volunteer) until you're 18, so I thought I might as well do it now." Her work at the hospital influenced her to seek a career as a maternity nurse. This fall she will enter Texas Tech University and work toward a bachelor's degree in nursing.

She believes a good volunteer has to care about others and the work. "They can't be prejudiced," she says. "They must be open and able to talk to people. You can be helping someone more than you think. An interest in the medical profession might make a difference in how good of work you do and how far you go with it."

"Volunteering is interesting," she said. "You meet a lot of people. The way you meet, it's not 'hi.' You see the ladies, and they say 'Look at my baby.' There's kind of a bond."

Love, friendship at risk in dramatic scandal

A romantic Shakespearean comedy will be on The Cheesecake Theatre Company's menu this week at Howard College Auditorium.

"Two Gentlemen of Verona" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday by Howard College's Theatre department. It is the second summer repertory theatre company production at the college under the direction of Tim Haynes.

Prior to one of the rehearsals last week, Haynes sat in a breezy backstage among used plywood and set material reflecting on his upcoming production.

"Two Gentlemen of Verona" is the first Shakespearean production presented at Howard College for many years, Haynes says. He's been interested in presenting it for quite some time.

"It's a comedy with delightful characters, funny situations and language that isn't complicated," he says. "The story is clear, the characters' intentions are very evident and the characterizations are set. It provides lots of repartee back and forth between characters and is fast-paced."

The plot follows a particular time in the lives of two gentlemen from Verona who are best friends. Proteus, one of the two, is in love with Julia, also of Verona. Valentine, the other gentleman, is sent to Milan to visit and live in the Emperor's court. When Valentine is in Milan he falls in love with the Dutchess's daughter, Silvia.

Proteus is later sent to Milan and also falls in love with Silvia. He plots to get rid of his friend so he can have Silvia to himself.

Julia suspects something is up, so she dresses as a man and goes to Milan. She finds out she is right and that Proteus is in love with another woman.

Proteus succeeds in getting his friend banished in to the forest, but nothing goes right. Silvia goes into the forest looking for Valentine and a chase involving the Dutchess, servants and Proteus follows. The ending is up to you to discover; however, as Haynes says, "everyone lives happily everafter."

Haynes re-worked the script to suit the needs of the students and added some characters. "Everyone has an opportunity to try out and experience acting in it," he says of his cast members. He also "jazzed up" the language and cut some scenes down to provide better running time.

"(We're) not doing it as a period piece but more contemporary in the costuming, staging, by adding a few dance numbers to it, using a unit set that can be changed easily, and bright colors."

"I'm not going for a carnival effect with bright colors," he says. "I'm trying to go for the spirit that is in the show, the pranks, type of staging and bright, free, spontaneous atmosphere. We built the stage out into the orchestra pit area to make different use of levels and a variety of entrances."

"The type of staging I have done doesn't permit period costuming (long dresses and heavy coats) because we do a lot of running and chasing."

The goal of the summer rep theatre, Haynes says, is "getting the people involved and providing that opportunity for involvement."

The summer theatre productions involve college students, high school students and community people as well. Area schools are well represented by the old and new cast members, Haynes says. Twenty three cast members make up the production company, which is larger than last year's cast by 10.

The summer theatre is an opportunity for the community to get in-involved in a production by registering for a class, and it doesn't obligate on a long-term basis. That is one reason why it's successful, Haynes says.

Some business people have a hard time getting involved in theatre because of the time obligation needed for it, he says. During the summer and in summer rep, they can be involved for a short time and fulfill that hobby.

A couple of adults in this year's production are Rita Fort of Rita's Flowers and Carrie Conley, director of theatre at Coahoma High School. For Conley, this gives her a chance to do stage work instead of directing, Haynes says. Conley plays the part of Silvia, while Fort is the Dutchess of Milan. The other leading figures are portrayed by Charlie Ragan as Proteus, Kim Beckham as Julia, and Pat Burke as Valentine.

Cheesecake "is kind of fun, a nice summertime dessert," Haynes said. He named the summer production company after the dessert and plans to sell slices of cheesecake along with other concessions during intermission.

The play runs Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at Howard College Auditorium. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and students. Group rates are available for groups of 10 or more. For reservations call 267-6311 Monday through Thursday.

THE SUNKEN TUB

Sunken tubs give an elegant effect to bathrooms. Standard sunken tubs come in varying shapes, sizes and depths. If planning a sunken tub of larger-than-normal size, it is necessary to check the capacity of the water heater. A sunken tub can be installed as part of a remodeling project if there is room under the floor to accommodate it. This space may be available in the crawl area beneath the first floor, a garage under a second-story bathroom or even a stairwell. Extra framing is often necessary to carry the weight of a sunken tub built on the second story.

A sunken tub may also include a whirlpool spa. If space allows, a separate shower is an added convenience. If you're remodeling a bathroom, consult the specialists at BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK. We design, build and install new baths and kitchens from floor tile to custom cabinetry. Come to Bldg. 613 in the Industrial Park, or phone 267-5811. Open M-F, 8-12, 1-5 or by appt.

Q.: We are finally getting to move closer to our children and grandkids. Since I am semi-retired, why should I pay a real estate agent to sell our house?

A.: You shouldn't — if you want to spend extra time and possibly money selling your house, yourself. Services a realtor can do include: •Help you get a better price for the property. The agent may suggest simple improvements or save you from making expensive changes which won't add to the selling price. •Because of market knowledge, the agent can help you set a price for the property — one favorable to seller and buyer. •A realtor can make it possible for many prospective buyers to view the property, with the least inconvenience to you. •An agent can direct prospects toward available mortgage money.

NOW SEE THIS!
"Stars Wars" Contact Lenses
Recently, at an international educational meeting concerning eye care, some very advanced concepts were presented for possible future vision correction. One of the ideas particularly got my attention because it suggested a way to eliminate the need for conventional bifocal lenses. Technically the device would be called a "variable focus electronic lens." In plain ole English that would be a contact lens capable of changing its power from distant vision to near vision by means of an electronic signal controlled by the person wearing the contact lens.

Even though the "variable focus electronic lens" is far from being available to the general public, just the fact that it is scientifically possible in the future is truly a space-age miracle. Who knows! If we live long enough we may beat those bifocals yet.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1491, Big Spring, Texas 77720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald

after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.
