Mail routes

Q. Are any of the mail routes from the Big Spring post office bid by the year? If so, what are they and at what time of the year does a person bid on them?

A. There are five mail routes: two Sterling City, one Knott, one Garden City and one Gail. All of the routes are done by bid every three years. Different routes come open at different times. The placements are made in June. Bidders must be Howard County residents. This year bids were taken on the Sterling City routes. Announcements were and are always made a month in advance before bids are taken, said Jesse Crane, superintendent of postal operations.

Spring Israel releases 31 prisoners

Israeli trucks carrying Shiite prisoners roll toward Lebanon.

RAS EL BIYADA, Lebanon (AP) - Thirty-one Lebanese prisoners freed by Israel today knelt on a beach and praised God for their release. They said they had not heard of the hijacking of a TWA flight and the holding of 40 American hostages.
Shiite Moslem leaders have said that the American captives now held in Beirut will not be freed until Israel liberates all the Lebanese it holds. The Israeli Cabinet agreed Sunday to free the 31, leaving 735 still behind bars. Israel insisted its decision to free the 31 was not linked to the hijackers' demands, and was simply part of the ongoing process of freeing Lebanese taken across the border before the end of Israel's three-year occupation of Lebanon.

The prisoners, wearing red-striped track suits, were handed over to International Red Cross officials at 1 p.m. at Ras el Biyada, the northernmost checkpoint in Israel's "security zone" in south Lebanon.

They were then transported in a hired yellow school bus flying a Red Cross banner nine miles north to the port of Tyre, where the prisoners jubilantly knelt on the beach and prayed.

The Lebanese later left the bus in Tyre shouting "Allah Akbar," meaning "God is great," and gleefully displaying freshly untied white plastic wrist ropes Once the men arrived at Tyre's Red Cross headquarters on a beach near the ruins of the ancient port, they rushed out, knelt on the white sand and began traditional Islamic prayers.

'I didn't believe that I was going out," said Karim Sakmani, 20.

He, like others questioned by reporters, said he did not-know about the June 14 hijacking of the TWA plane now in Beirut.

"We didn't know about the hijacking or any other kidnapping," he said. "We haven't read newspapers since two weeks."

"We didn't know we were being released until 7 a.m. this morning. Yesterday we were in cells.

329 feared dead in jumbo jet crash

CORK, Ireland (AP) Helicopters and rescue ships pulled scores of bodies from the cold North Atlantic and forensic experts began examining them today for clues to what caused the crash of an Air-India jumbo jet carrying 329 people off Ireland.

Officials said saboteurs may have set off an explosion on the flight, which originated in Toronto, Canada. All those aboard were feared dead.

The airline's offices in London and New York said the flight carried 307 passengers and 22 crew members. The airline said 278 Canadians were aboard, almost all of Indian descent.

Also on board were at least 28 American residents, including seven U.S. citizens. Authorities said 131 bodies were found in a massive sea and air search Sunday and today. 'The examination of the bodies involves extensive tests because the possibility of crime cannot be ruled out," said Joe Jennings, director of the Irish Government Information Service. A British Royal Navy doctor, Lt. Richard Cribb, said bodies he saw were "badly shattered and broken but all in one piece. Deaths were very swift, if not instantaneous." Helicopters ran a grisly airlift from the crash site to the southern Irish city of Cork. There, burned and broken bodies were carried through pelting rain to a temporary morgue in an airport

A Spanish radio station serving fishermen today said it overheard the captain of a Panamanian ship reporting he had seen an aircraft explode in the sky.

Blast rips Tokyo airport

Fatal bomb linked to crash of Air-India jet

TOKYO (AP) - Japan assigned more than . three dozen investigators today to probe the explosion of a luggage container unloaded from a Canadian Pacific Air jetliner at Tokyo's Narita airport.

Officials refused to comment on reports the blast may be linked to the crash of an Air-India jetliner in the Atlantic. Canadian Pacific Flight 003 originated in Vancouver. The Air-India flight originated in Toronto and stopped in Montreal, and was heading for London en route to New Delhi and Bombay when it crashed. Indian officials said the Air-India crash may have been resulted from an explosion possibly a bomb. In the Canadian capital of Ottawa, Foreign Minister Joe Clark condemned what he called the "terrorist bombing" in Japan. Sean Brady, a spokesman for Clark, said there was no firm evidence of a link with the Air-India crash, but, "Certainly people are looking at the possibility of a connection between the two incidents given their coincidence in terms of date."

The Canadian Press news agency quoted an unidentified senior Canadian official as saying: "There are a number of little things starting to come up suggesting very strongly that these incidents are linked. There are a number of very interesting leads right now that people are following:

The Sunday explosion, which killed two luggage handlers and injured four, occurred about 40 minutes after the baggage was unloaded and 53 minutes before the Air-India etliner with 329 people aboard crashed off the Irish coast. Noboru Takada, Narita Airport police chief, told a news conference that 40 police officers had been assigned to investigate the explosion. Police spokesman Akira Shitatori said preliminary tests of metal shards from the explosion showed "gunpowder reaction. The blast occurred in a cargo handling area separated by a wall from where scores of passengers were gathered at luggage carousels awaiting delivery of their baggage from the aircraft.

Masafumi Ebie, spokesman for the airport police, said Sunday that the six workers apparently were unloading luggage from four containers beside a conveyor that carries baggage to arriving passengers.

Canadian Pacific spokesman Sam Akiyama said the flight left Vancouver about 15 minutes late but because trans-Pacific headwinds were weaker than usual, it arrived 15 minutes ahead of schedule at Narita, 40 miles northeast of Tokyo.

The Air-India plane was one hour and 40 minutes from London when it crashed. It had been delayed leaving Montreal by air traffic control difficulties.

Former governor lives gentleman's life on 'Golden Pond'

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) - A battered cattle gate, standing wide open, leads down an unmarked drive to an old Texas oilfield house here. It is the place which former

Texas Gov. Price Daniel Sr., the senior statesman, calls home.

Topic,

It smells of home cooking, and has that warm lived-in feeling, with grandchildren's toys strewn in front of a stone fireplace adorned with a set of Texas-sized longhorns over the mantle.

'We call this place our 'Golden " said the 74-year-old Daniel. He enjoys the view of his pond, a dammed creek that crosses his 6,000-acre spread, from a comfortable seat on his glassed-in

Here is where his grandchildren love to come to see the deer, play pool, read, fish, swim in an indoor pool and have cattle roundups. Here is also where Daniel's own children always insisted on spending each holiday when they lived in the governor's mansion.

In true country tradition, Daniel's wife, Jean, insists on keeping an old railroad engine bell hanging from an outside rafter. The first clang warns it's time to eat; but the second gives an ultimatum, "Drop everything and come!" said Daniel.

Missing are the fancy trappings of their life in the governor's mansion. But the Daniels only have to walk a few paces down the road to relive those years.

Two years ago, Daniel built a two-story antebellum house — patterned after the governor's mansion — next to the Sam Houston Regional Library there. The huge edifice, which will be deeded to the library after Daniel's death, will one day be used for additional archive space and to house Daniel's private collections.

But despite the new mansion's luxury, the Daniels have spent fewer than a dozen nights there.

They prefer the ranch house over their new mansion and their two condominiums in Austin and San

In fact, Daniel is convalescing at his ranch house now from a cold he caught somewhere between coauthoring and publishing a history on the Texas governor's mansion and attending a presidential prayer breakfast in Washington D.C.

Physically, he tires easily, bu he's as spunky and ready for mental gymnastics as he was when he falters is at the mention of his dead launched his political career here son's wife, Vicki. Her photo is representative, speaker of the some "manufactured fun."

nearly 50 years ago. He can still nip a probing question in the bud faster than a swarm of locusts can devour a crop.

To control a line of conversation, he abruptly gavels it to an end by announcing, "I'm sure you've got all you need on that!"

One topic that he keeps strictly off-limits is the controversial shooting death of his eldest son and namesake, Price Daniel Jr., a former speaker of the Texas

Photographs of that son, his three other children, and seven grandchildren are prominently displayed along the hall walls.

When Daniel's eyes rest on the photo of his late son, they grow misty. Yet he quickly catches himself, squares his jaw and moves forward to other subjects.

The only other time Daniel noticeably absent from the family portraits, and her name cannot cross his lips without great difficulty and many pauses But he'll say nothing derogatory in public about her - not a word since her acquittal four years ago on charges of murdering his son.

During the trial, however, Daniel did lose his composure, sobbing on the witness stand. He called Vicki's accusations then that his son was a child molester and a wife beater, 'a pack of lies."

Today , he talks about seeing Vicki's two sons, his grandchildren, on a regular basis, something he would not care to jeopardize.

The fact that Daniel can hold his tongue may be one reason he has held more elected offices than anyone else in Texas history.

Bids

U.S. senator, governor and Texas Supreme Court justice. John Connally, the man who kept

Texas House, attorney general,

Daniel from winning a fourth term as governor, described his former adversary as the "thoroughbred who won the triple crown.

But were he starting out today, Daniel said, he would steer away from politics: "It's a rich man's game or for someone willing to be obligated to other people for a lot of money. I don't know how anybody with independent views like me could get elected.

When he started out, he crisscrossed the countryside with a loudspeaker mounted atop his Chevrolet. His brother, Bill, who later served as governor of Guam, also drew large crowds at courthouse squares with emotional speeches in his brother's behalf. Expensive television campaigns never entered the picture until late in Daniel's career.

Also, life after the electon wasn't as jet-set as it is today.

'The governor never had a private airplane or traveled with an army of flunkies like they do today. If Daniel needed to get somewhere, he'd just go catch a plane or train by himself, as anyone does," recalled George Christian, his former press secretary.

At age 16, when Daniel packed off to Baylor University, he already had an uncanny feeling of

"I was motivated by an idealistic view of being of service to my fellow man, and I have to admit, I wanted it for the glory, too," said

He confided to his Baylor roommate, Fred Hartman, that he felt he would be governor one day. Hartman decided not to wait a moment longer and from that day forward always called him "governor." The two had met while working on the Baylor student

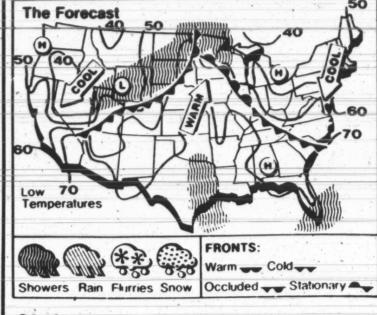

Daniel was then going by his initials, M.P., but Hartman told him, "Nobody with a name like that could get elected dogcatcher."

Daniel thought his first name, Marion, was too sissified. So he settled on his middle name. Price.

Because of his strict Baptist upbringing, Daniel had a reputation as something of a prude. That's not to say he didn't take his turn sowing a few wild oats of the fermented

NAACP leader says fight for equality not over

DALLAS (AP) — The fight for equality and a truly 'color blind society" for their children is not over for blacks, NAACP Executive Director Benjamin L.

In a keynote address to the NAACP convention Sunday night before several thousand people overflowing a Dallas Convention Center ballroom, Hooks urged blacks to oppose a "hostile" administration in Washington and help make a better life for themselves and their children.

'We have not ever received full justice, full equality, full parity," he said. "How can anybody say we've made it? We still have a long way to go.

As in the past, Hooks lashed out at the Reagan administration for "turning back the civil rights clock." Cuts in social programs and attacks on affirmative action have given "aid to the enemies of civil rights," he

But he also told blacks they have problems of their own to solve.

'We must address the problem of our young people being able to recite the lyrics of everything that Michael Jackson and Prince sing, but not what's in their schoolbooks.

We must train students for the computer age, he said, but first teach them to read and write in English. We must address teen-age pregnancy, he said, which keeps blacks "mired in poverty.

'Unless we act to deal with this dilemma, our entire race will bear its effects through the 21st Century,' Hooks said. "They must understand that having babies when you're a teen-ager is simply not cool. Black unemployment is still double that for white workers, he said, and almost 50 percent of black youths are out of work. The median income for black families is only 56 percent that of whites, he said. Less than 2 percent of all lawyers and doctors are black, he said. But although he described times as "gloomy" because discrimination has kept minorities out of economic parity with whites and from positions of power in private business and government, Hooks said the NAACP is strong enough to overcome. "We have three times as many people here as the last convention (in Dallas in 1954). We have young people from 290 cities here - over 1,000 young people participating in the convention," Hooks said.

"The national press won't report that. They say we're struggling to attract the young," he said. More than 10,000 visitors are expected in Dallas for

But the thousands who crowded the hall on opening night Sunday - including many children and young adults - showed no signs of abandoning the fight.

Shuttle ends flawless flight

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Discovery's international crew, proud of a nearflawless flight, swooped out of orbit today and guided the space plane to a perfect dawn landing on a hardpacked desert runway.

Five Americans, a French test pilot and a Saudi Arabian prince touched down at 6:12 a.m. PDT, at the end of a weeklong, 2.9-millionmile journey during which they launched a record four satellites and their ship served as a laser target in the first "Star Wars" space shuttle test.

Sixty-five minutes before landing, the pilots fired braking rockets 220 miles above the Indian Ocean to drop the shuttle out of orbit and start it on a blazing dive through the atmosphere on a course that descended over the Pacific and across the California coast north of Los Angeles.

Two loud sonic booms cracked the air as Discovery descended into Edwards, its fuselage glistening in the morning sun as it circled overhead and made its approach.

Scarlet bumper sticker

Shades of "The Scarlet Letter." A judge in Sarasota County, Fla., has begun wielding what she feels is a potent weapon against convicted drunken drivers: public humiliation.

"Convicted DUI (driving under the influence)," proclaims the red bumper sticker that first-time offenders must affix to their cars if they want special driving privileges after having lost their licenses for a year. Says Judge Becky Titus, who modeled this scheme after one in Oklahoma: "There's nothing in the book that says I can't think of something new."

She is right to look for new answers, because the problem she seeks to deal with is a dreadfully serious one. However, her something new in this case seems like something old — a throwback to the Puritan era, when offenders were displayed in public stocks. It's hard to see how Titus's brand of bumpersticker justice will help rehabilitate drunken drivers, much less keep them off the road.

Dissenting from the dubious idea, the judge's husband (who happens to be the county's chief public defender) wonders what's next, and so do we. Will shoplifters be forced to wear red T-shirts saying, "Convicted Thief?"

WASHINGTON — Journalism, almost as much as government, experiences anguishing difficulties in coping with terrorism. For the professional impulse is to draw close to the event the better to extract its human interest. But yielding to that instinct helps the terrorists for whom publicity is oxygen.

But the profer independent to the Shi'ite letter to extract its pressure for the American government, experiences anguishing difficulties in for independent to the Shi'ite letter to extract its pressure for the American government, experiences anguishing difficulties in coping with terrorism. For the professional impulse is to draw close the Shi'ite letter to extract its pressure for the Shi'ite letter to extrac

So here is an inventory of mistakes to which those of us in the news business are unwittingly prone when covering terrorist actions. It is culled from the coverage of the hijacked TWA plane, as a guide for the next such event.

Hype represents probably the most common error in the treatment of terrorist actions by the media. Hostages are taken precisely in order to capture public opinion in ways that coerce governments. But to be successful what is merely an episode has to be escalated to crisis proportions.

Jimmy Carter himself inflated the seizure of hostages in Iran. By personally involving himself, he stressed the responsibilities of his office in ways that undermined the challenge then being posed in the Democratic primaries by Sen. Kennedy. It was hard, in those conditions, for the news media not to follow where Carter led. But rough justice was done. When the "crisis" dragged on and on, Carter became its victim — "the 53rd hostage."

That process was reversed in the affair of TWA 847. The laid-back style of President Reagan offers obvious advantages when it comes to dealing with terrorists. The President can stay out of the negotiations and thus build pressure on the terrorists to prove there is a crisis. In fact, the burden of proof did lie on the troublemakers during the first hours after the hijacking: hence the panicky scurrying back and forth between Beirut and Algiers.

But the hijacking presented those of us in the media with a rare opportunity to examine Reagan's tough-guy bombast. The networks initiated "special reports" to keep abreast of the hijacking. The reports found that President Reagan was taking his ease at Camp David while nothing much was doing at the White House.

Fear of looking like a do-nothing President made Reagan return to Washingtoin. Once back in town, he had to talk to the news media. There followed a brace of comments which mixed pledges to hang tough with expressions of humanitarian concern. There developed a sense of White House infirmity in the midst of crisis.

Mixing in delicate negotiations presents a second pitfall. American officials have long been in touch with Nabih Berri, the Shi'ite leader in Lebanon who hijacked the hijacking to advance his local political standing. Berri and Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew are particularly close, and no purpose is served by affording Berri another forum for

But the press and television vied for independent access to Berri. Those who got it were "used" by the Shi'ite leader to put additional pressure for concessions on the American government. In effect, the American media lent themselves to a campaign which weakened the hand of the U.S. government.

Use of "expert" commentators from past administrations represents another disservice done by the news media. Those who go on air — even the most sensible — are obliged to protect themselves against charges of weakness and indecision. So they stand tall in the saddle and warn the President that to yield an inch is to capitulate entirely. They thus put the Administration on trial at home.

In fact, as former officials should understand, no good choices are available to responsible leaders in the midst of a hijacking. Public suggestions that narrow the options even further do positive harm. Indeed, former officials sensitive to that point usually decide not to air their views. So to use "expert" advisers is to misrepresent the range of choice.

Finally comes the misrepresentation — not to mention the abuse of good taste — inescapably bound up with sticking mikes in the faces of hijack victims and their sisters, brothers, cousins and aunts. The questioning of victims and their kinnow knows no bounds. The other day, indeed, one of the networks interviewed a woman whose husband was mistakenly confused with the Navy diver who was beaten and killed.

Such encounters are the stuff of soap opera. They yield only the vicarious titillation of watching other people feel grief or exultation. But in large, the interviews falsify what is going on. They reduce political acts to tears. They sentimentalize events and make it that much more difficult for American authorities to deal with the terrorists, and their intermediaries, on the merits.

Refraining from such actions would, to be sure, restrict the freedom of news organizations. But the value of scoops in terrorist affairs is distinctly limited anyhow. It is not as though, by brilliant journalistic enterprise, new and important facts are disclosed. On the contrary, the terrorists exercise their own censorship. It is notable that they smuggled the TWA 847 hostages off the plane without anybody knowing it at the time.

In sum, little is gained and much is lost when journalists deal with terrorism as if they were doing business as usual. There is an overwhelming case for the exercise of special journalistic self-discipline.

The Union Jack in Oman

WASHSINGTON — Some of our recent columns have kicked up a sandstorm in the strategic sultanate of Oman, and the dust still hasn't settled.

We reported that the Air Force has been quietly negotiating an agreement to give a British firm the multi-million-dollar contract to operate three U.S.-built bases — and the super-secret equipment they will eventually contain — in Oman, near the approaches to the Persian Gulf.

Afterward, Gen. John Chain, chief of the State Department's bureau of politico-military affairs, flew to Oman to review Omani-U.S. affairs. An angry Omani foreign minister erroneously accused him of having been our source.

The Air Force, meanwhile, has used one excuse after another to stall the implementation of the contract, which was supposed to have been signed months ago.

Chain reportedly told the British they could "go to hell" before they'll get access to U.S. communications and other sensitive equipment at the Omani bases.

Pentagon sorces say the Air Force has just asked for an additional 90-day delay in awarding the contract. But there seems little likelihood that the deal can be undone, since the sultan of Oman and his British advisers insist the British firm get the contract.

The concern inside the Pentagon is that sensitive military and intelligence information would necessarily come into the hands of the civilian contractor who maintains the base. For example, in the event of a U.S. decision to use the Omani bases for their intended purpose — as staging areas for U.S. rapid-deployment forces — the contractor would need to know in advance.

The British company that has been secretly tapped for the contract on an ostensibly competitive basis, Airwork Ltd., tried to defuse the objections by taking on an American company, Vinnell Corp., as a partner. But Vinnell was apparently signed on mainly as window dressing.

Here, meanwhile, is what our sources have told us about the situation:

xxThe driving force behind the award of the contract to Airwork-Vinnell is British Air Vice Marshal Erik Bennett, a tough-minded Ulsterman on leave from the RAF to serve as commander of the sultan's air force. He has had extensive Middle East experience, including a stint as adviser to the Jordanian air force.

"He can be totally charming or a bit of a bastard," one source said. "He is the single most influential figure on the Omani defense scene next to the ruler himself."

The same source wrote in a confidential paper that Bennett "is dedicated to the proposition that the Sultanate of Oman Air Force was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be British-equipped."

Cool heads prevail during hostage crisis

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost as soon as word arrived at the White House on June 14 that an American airliner was hijacked and en route to the Middle East, Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter convened the first meeting of his interagency crisis committee and parceled out assignments.

The State Department was to set up a special task force to monitor developments and the Pentagon would review the military situation. Contacts were set up with the airline, intelligence agencies and friendly governments in the region. Poindexter's boss, National Security Adviser Robert C. McFarlane, kept President Reagan informed of developments, but the president took no immediate action to step in to manage the crisis. Before another 48 hours had passed, the events surrounding the administration's handling of the hijacking would show how the Reagan White House handles a crisis.

The hijacking also showed how the administration's response differed from President Jimmy Carter's struggle with the similar, if even more perplexing, hostage crisis in Iran more than five years before. For the Reagan administration, the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 was yet another tering of TWA Flight 847 was yet another terrorist incident. Most of the people involved had been through it before. The embassy bombing in Beirut, the suicide attack on the Marine headquarters, the coordinated assault on U.S., French and Kuwaiti facilities.

And when the crisis team didn't have real tragedies to cope with, it practiced the procedures to follow when another terrorist incident occurred, as one almost certainly would. Reagan, whose detached management style and lack of appetite for detail is often food for his critics, left for a weekend at Camp David, Md., as scheduled to relax at the mountaintophideaway he once described as the only place where he can walk out the door and not be surrounded by Secret Service agents.

On Sunday, however, things took a turn for the worse and the airliner headed back to the uncertainty of a landing in Beirut with many hostages still aboard. The president returned to the White House a few hours early to convene a meeting of the National Security Council, demonstrating his personal concern for The atmosphere in the Situation Room, the communications nerve center in the White House basement, was described as calm, professional and collegial...

The atmosphere in the Situation Room, the communications nerve center in the White House basement, was described as calm, professional and collegial by one who was there. The president gave some guidance, but it didn't differ markedly from what everyone there already knew.

There was to be no negotiation with the terrorists, no concessions made. No action was to be taken that might further endanger the terrorists' captives.

The philosophy remained intact, and the procedures to follow it had been established long before. The one element of Reagan's policy that had been set aside — at least for the time being — was his pledge to seek "swift and effective retribution" for terrorist acts. The safety of the hostages came first, and retaliation would follow only if intelligence could identify and locate the perpetrators.

During the course of the week, the first of the Beirut hostage crisis, Reagan would hold only one other meeting of his top national security advisers — to consider the attack that killed six Americans in El Salvador — and he would stick to his travel schedule to promote his tax plan.

Although he had canceled plans to face the press at news conferences when the news was bad before, he didn't this time. Instead, he used the nationally broadcast session with reporters to explain his approach to the problem.

He showed his involvement not by concert.

He showed his involvement not by concentrating all his attention on the crisis but by visiting briefly with families of victims during previously scheduled trips to Indianapolis and Dallas to promote his tax overhaul plan.

President Carter, by contrast, canceled trips, stayed awake late into the night, walked the White House grounds alone, chaired meeting after meeting to consider his options and, eventually, found himself held hostage y the crisis in Iran.

Reagan, aides said, was determined to avoid that trap,
"The safety and wellbeing of the American hostages became a constant concern for me, no matter what other duties I was performing as president," Carter wrote in his memoirs.

"I would walk in the White House gardens early in the morning and lie awake at night, trying to think of additional steps I could take to gain their freedom without sacrifying the honor and security of our nation. I listened to every proposal, no matter how preposterous, all the way from delivering the shah for trial as the revolutionaries demanded to dropping an atomic bomb on Tehran."

On the fourth day, Carter postponed a state visit to Canada and a few days later canceled trips that had been scheduled to Pennsylvania, Florida and Georgia, where he had hoped for a few days' vacation on Sapelo Island.

"Staying close to Washington quickly became standard policy," Carter wrote. And on Dec. 4, a month after the embassy was seized and the day he announced his candidacy for re-election, Carter formally confined himself to quarters.

On the eve of a week-long fundraising trip he had scheduled to kick off his campaign, Carter announced to the nation: "My campaign travels must be for a time postponed. I must remain here, near the White House, because of the situation in Iran. While the crisis continues, I must be present to define and to lead our response to an ever-changing situation of the greatest sensitivity and importance."

While his wife his vice president and others

While his wife, his vice president and others would campaign for him, Carter said, "I must devote my concerted efforts to resolving the Ira dan crisis. The overriding fact is that 50 of our fellow Americans have been unjustifiably thrust into agony and danger, and I have a personal responsibility to get them out of that danger as fast as possible."

A. though he eventually did take to the campaign trail four months later, while the hostages remained in captivity, the crisis consumed him and, perhaps more than any other event, his presidency.

I do volunteer work at the local hospital on my time off, and people tell me I would have made a wonderful doctor.

If I go back to college and get my degree, then go to medical school, do my internship and finally get into the actual practice of medicine, it will take me seven years! But, Abby, in seven years I will be 43 years old. What do you think?

The thing that troubles us is this: Our daughter is married to a very unworthy character. For years he has taken advantage of her sweet, forgiving, generous nature because he knows she worships him. We are sure that whatever we leave our daughter will be spent on this dirty

Our problem (my husband's and mine) is how do we cope with this? We are ashamed to be around them. Our sons have accepted the situation, but we seem unable to. Perhaps we need more help than the girls. Any suggestions?

Allergy may cause dizzy spells

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like a bit of information on Meniere's disease. I have been told there is no cure but an operation. I have tried eliminating salt, but I still get these attacks where the room spins around and then I get sick to my stomach. - H.B.N.

For other readers, let me explain that Meniere's disease is a problem of fluid build-up in the inner ear, where the sensitive structures of hearing and of balance are situated. Pressure on those structures causes hearing loss, dizziness and ringing noises.

Getting rid of the fluid is the goal of treatment, and there are many avenues to explore to accomplish that. You've tried one, eliminating salt (sodium) from your diet to discourage fluid retention in the body generally.

Perhaps other causes have been investigated and you haven't mentioned them in your brief note. Sometimes allergy causes such build-up. If so, treating the allergy cures, the problem in the ears. There may be a smoldering par infection causing it. C't n, no specific cause can be for nd, and after various therapies have been tried, then surgery is considered. In the surgery an artificial drainage passage is created, and if your attacks are becoming more frequent you might consider that.

Besides cutting back on salt, other steps such as use of water pills or blood-vessel-expanding drugs may help. Caffeine is usually on the restricted list for people like

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Does the doctor always have to keep track of one's blood pressure when the patient is taking diuretics? Is this medicine given only for treatment of congestive heart failure?

Diuretics are often referred to as water pills. If you read the preceding letter and response you get the answer to your question about their uses. I noted for Mrs. N. that they are used sometimes to try to relieve ear-fluid build-up. But diuretics have many other

The assignment: Take a four-day holiday to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, stay at the Sheraton Hotel in Arlington at no charge, rent a car free of cost, tour area theme parks and museums and write a brief article on your experiences.

The trip, part of a promotion by the Dallas-Fort Worth Area Tourism Council, began on a Thursday and continued through a Sunday earlier this summer. If you are looking for lots of things to do wrapped up in a relatively small space of time, then the Dallas-Fort Worth area might be worth looking

If you're planning a vacation or an extended weekend away from home, make yourself a checklist like I did and decide what you want to see and do once you arrive.

QUESTION ONE: First you must decide what is the quickest and most economical way to get to the Dallas area? We decided to fly, and we flew into Dallas Love Field and returned via the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. D-FW is an adventure unto itself. Although it is easy to find your way around once you get accustomed to the place, be advised that you don't come chugging up to this airport at the last minute and expect to make your flight.

QUESTION TWO: Where does one stay in the Metroplex area? We checked into the Sheraton CentrePark in Arlington, right across the street from Six Flags and across Interstate 30 from Wet 'N' Wild, a water park.

The Sheraton is a beautiful hotel built on the site of the old Seven Seas park. The hotel is so new that workers were milling around the pool area, putting in the finishing touches on the landscape. Although price-conscious families might choose a hotel with a smaller pricetag, others may want to stay at a hotel such as the Sheraton just for the convenience and the QUESTION THREE: What's there to do besides spending the day at Six Flags or a water park? How about the Texas Rangers, a day at the Galleria mall in Dallas, seeing a show at Casa Manana Theatre in Fort Worth or the Dallas Theatre Center, visiting the Wax Museum of the Southwest and the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in Grand Prairie or touring the Fort Worth Museum of Science and

Tickets to the theater are $4.50 for adults and $2.75 for kids and senior citizens. For many people I've talked to, the Omni is one of the highlights to a visit to Fort Worth.

We were treated to an interesting meal at the Old San Francisco Steakhouse in Dallas on a Saturday night. While the meal was delicious, the real attraction was a- about $9 for kids. We also enjoyed eating at the Old Spaghetti Warehouse in Fort Worth. The restaurant is housed in the old Armour building near the Stockyards, another attraction worth seeing. On a cool summer evening, it is enjoyable to walk around at get a taste of old Fort Worth. Western shops and a western theme fill several blocks of the Stockyards area.

One of the attractions in Fort Worth that brings hundreds of people to the downtown area yearround is the Water Garden, a multileveled waterfall located in the heart of downtown just off Interstate 30. The brave-at-heart can climb down a staircase into the heart of the waterfall. Those of us afraid of the rushing water and height of the waterfall may stay on the side and watch dozens of other people descend into the pool. The Water Garden costs nothing to

I doubt I have to tell anyone in Big Spring about Six Flags, because it is an attraction which draws hundreds of folks from this

I've been there a dozen times and I still love to spend the day at the theme park. There's a special atmosphere there and lots of rides for people of all ages. A special attraction this year is Looney Tunes Land, and kids under 42 inches tall get a $7 discount to the park. Tickets for older folks are $14.95 and parking is $3. Don't miss the Roarin' Rapids, especially on a blazing day.

White Water, located in Grand Prairie, and Wet 'N' Wild, located in Arlington, are huge water parks with a variety of slides and pools. Tickets are about $12 for adult and of people at both, but lines to various attractions were short.

I've touched on only a few of the things to do in the area. I think the magic of the Dallas-Fort Worth area is the opportunity to have a routine for awhile. If you're looking

Planes collide on landing; 1 killed

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — A pilot tried in vain to warn two small planes that they were dangerously close to colliding moments before the single-engine Cessnas crashed in mid-air, killing one man and injuring two others, authorities said.

The accident occurred as both planes were making a final approach to the runway at Draughon-Miller Municipal Airport about 4:20 p.m., said patrolman Terry Kelley of the Temple Police Department, who was investigating "The airport has no tower and pilots are responsible for letting each other know their positions," said Kelley. Authorities identified the dead pilot as

Steven L. Morris, 34, of Killeen. His passenger, Gregory A. Arzola, 30, of Fort Hood, and the other pilot, Shannon A. Schunicht, 23, of Killeen, were critically injured. Officials at Scott and White Hospital at Temple said Arzola and Schunicht were in critical condition early today in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Kelley said that according to witnesses the two single-engine Cessnas were making a final approach to the landing strip and one plane was flying slightly above the other. The pilot of a third plane noticed the two air-

Morris was pronounced dead at 5:30 p.m. at Scott and White Memorial Hospital in Temple, said hospital spokesman Donald Nelson.

The crash occurred 150 to 200 feet north of the airport runway, the officer said. He said officials had not determined the altitude of the planes at the time of the collision.

The Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board from Fort Worth were investigating the crash, Kelley said.

HOUSTON (AP) — The weekend bombing of an Islamic mosque may have resulted from hostility stemming from the U.S. hostage situation in Lebanon as well as erroneous perceptions about Islam, a religious leader says.

Two homemade bombs exploded at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, an hour after worshippers had finished their evening prayers and left the mosque, authorities said.

An estimated $50,000 damage resulted from the blast and subsequent fire at the DAR US SALAM mosque located in a strip shopping center, arson investigators reported.

It took less than a minute to extinguish the fire, authorities said. No arrests were made Sunday, police said. Senior arson investigator Bill Sammons was not certain that the bombing had anything to to with the U.S. hostage situation.

Deadline set for sorghum

Deadline for planting insured grain sorghum in Howard County is June 30, said Dottie Sampley, district director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

Insured grain sorghum planted by June 30 must be reported by July 15 to receive full crop insurance coverage. The acreage report reflects the actual acreage planted and reported by the farmer. To provide flexibility on planting dates, a late planting option may be exercised by farmers who find themselves unable to plant their crops on time because of weather conditions. The late planting option provides insurance coverage for the crop but at a lower guarantee.

For insured farmers, "entering into the late planting option is not automatic," Sampley said.

DANNY EDWARDS ...first to sixth

ATLANTA (AP) — It was a veteran against a rookie and experience proved to be the diference, but not in a way most would expect. Wayne Levi needed two holes of a sudden-death playoff to oust rookie Steve Pate Sunday and capture the $500,000 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic.

Levi won his eighth tour title with a 12-foot birdie putt on the second extra hole, but he thought the experience factor came into play late in regulation - and had nothing to do with Pate.

Levi, holding a one-shot lead, placed his approach to No. 15 in the bunker and took a bogey 5, losing birdie putt on the hole.

lead, I said 'don't let that bother you," Levi said.

He recalled the 1982 Atlanta event when he had a quadruple bogey 8 on the hole and failed by one shot of going into a playoff.

Levi, who earned $90,000 for the victory, got even with an eight-foot birdie putt on the 17th and both playoff competitors birdied the 18th — Pate from 12 feet and Levi from 15.

Each parred the first extra hole before Levi's 12-foot birdie on the 17th green ended it.

Levi said his winning putt chipped six feet past the hole from "After I bogeyed 15 and lost the the fringe "because I knew I would still be tied if I missed."

Both finished regulation in 273, 15: under par on the hilly, 7,008-yard Atlanta Country Club course. Levi had a last-round 67 and Pate, the second-round leader, a 69.

"I played real well," said Pate. who earned $54,000 for second place. He had won only $5,461 in his previous 13 pro events, with a tie for 53rd serving as his best finish before Sunday.

"I don't have to worry about keeping my card this year," he said. "It was strange for me playing before the big crowds and on his lead to Pate, who sank a 12-foot became "much easier" when Pate TV, but it didn't make any difference."

"It's great to win," Levi said.
"It's what I've practiced all my life to do. When you play the last few holes when the pressure's on you, that's what it's all about."

Raymond Floyd, a two-time PGA champion, could have made it a three-way playoff by sinking a 30-foot eagle putt on the final green. But he barely missed and settled for a birdie that finished a round of 70 to finish alone in third at 274.

Mac O'Grady shot a 69 and third round co-leader David Frost, a PGA rookie from South Africa, a 74 to share fourth at 276

Danny Edwards, the part-time race car driver, skied to a 75, blowing a two-shot lead after 10 holes with two double bogeys.

Edwards, who shared the lead with Frost on Saturday, had a 277 total and was tied with Scott Simpson, who shot 71. Levi said he definitely was surprised that Pate didn't get rattled, as one might expect a rookie to do. "Steve was hanging right in there," Levi said. "That was pretty impressive. He was playing well.'

"I played better at the end, which surprised a few people, including myself," Pate said.

"I have no complaints," he said.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - The U.S. Open, the final leg, gets Martina Navratilova was hurt by Chris Evert Lloyd's surprise victory in the French Open Tennis Championships two weeks ago.

But it is her archrival who is feeling the pain now that Wimbledon is set to open.

Ironically, while Navratilova tuned up for Wimbledon with her fourth straight singles title at the $150,000 Eastbourne grasscourt tournament, Evert Lloyd sustained a neck injury during practice and now plans to ask for a one-day postponement of her first-round game against American Mary Lou Piatek, scheduled for Tuesday.

Evert Lloyd, bidding for a rare Grand Slam triumph, said she suffered the injury after training. She said she woke up Thursday with a stiff neck.

But Wimbledon referee Alan Mills said: "Her husband John alerted me to the position a couple of days ago, but I have heard nothing from either of them since."

Jane Blalock, Mary Beth Zimmerman and Beth Solomon shared second at 286. Blalock finished with a 70, Zimmerman a 72 and Solomon a 73 for her best tournament finish

Amy Benz and Lori Garbacz were the only other women to break par, each finishing at 287.

Miller, a 29-year-old Arizona State graduate, had only three victories and $374,992 in earnings for her first seven seasons on the tour. In just 18 tournaments this year, she has almost doubled her earnings - and, with 18 more tournaments on the schedule, figures to collect a few more dollars.

12 lucky for Guerrero; unlucky for the Cubbies

BY The Associated Press It's an even dozen for both Pedro Guerrero and the Chicago Cubs.

Twelve was a magic number Sunday for Guerrero, who hit his 12th home run this month to tie a Los Angeles club record and lead the Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Twelve was also a miserable number for the Cubs, who lost their 12th straight game in a 7-0 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dodgers 6, Astros 2 ... Guerrero's two-run homer in the third inning off Ron Mathis, 3-2, gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead and tied Frank Howard's record for most homers in a month by a Los Angeles Dodger. Howard hit 12 in July of 1962.

Guerrero has hit seven home runs this season against Houston, including six in the last six games against the Astros, and has 16 overall to rank one behind Atlanta's Dale Murphy in the NL home run standings

The blow started Rick Honeycutt to his fifth victory in 11 decisions. Honeycutt and Tom Niedenfuer combined on a five-hitter as the Dodgers won their fourth straight game and their seventh in a row over Houston.

Cardinals 7, Cubs 0 ... John Tudor pitched a two-hitter, scored two runs and drove in one as the Cardinals defeated slumpstricken Chicago and extended the Cubs' losing streak to the longest since they dropped 13 in June, 1982.

The Cardinals, incidentally, won their fourth straight and 13th of their last 16 while surging to the top of the NL East.

"I don't think anybody wants to play us right now," said Cardinal first baseman Jack Clark. "We know we've got a lot of home games coming up and we want to make the most of it.

St. Louis will be home for 14 of the next 19 games before the All-Star break Expos 5, Mets 1 ...... Vance Law hit a two-run homer and Tim Raines drove in two runs to back the seven-hit pitching of Montreal's Bryn Smith. Law's homer, his fourth of the season and third against the Mets, came in the fifth inning after Raines hit a oneout single.

Smith, 8-3, pitched his second complete game of the season, striking out two and walking none. Ed Lynch, 4-4, who pitched five innings and allowed all five runs, was the loser. The Mets were guilty of three errors; all in the third inning when the Expos jumped to a 3-0 lead with the help of Raines' triple.

Phillies 3, Pirates 2 .... Juan Samuel scored on a throwing error in the ninth as Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh. Samuel was hit by a pitch from Pirate reliever Jim Winn, 2-3, leading off the ninth and moved to second when Winn balked. Rick Schu then bunted past Winn and third baseman Jim Morrison barehanded the ball and threw wildly to first, allowing Samuel to score.

The Phillies managed only three hits in the game, including home runs by Mike Schmidt and Derrel Thomas. Ironically, it was Thomas who also allowed the Pirates to tie the score 2-2 in the eighth with an error at short.

inning for the victory, his second in two days and his only two majorleague victories.

Braves 2, Reds 1 ... .. Steve Bedrosian and two relievers teamed up on a fourhitter to lead Atlanta over Cincinnai. Bedrosian, 4-6, blanked the Reds on one hit over six innings, yielding to Rick Camp in the seventh after giving up a pair of one-out singles. Camp pitched out of that trouble, and Bruce Sutter came on to give up a unearned run in the eighth to earn his 11th save.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead in the third off Frank Pastore, 2-1, on a sacrifice fly by Dale Murphy, then made it 2-0 in the fourth when Glenn Hubbard walked and came home on Larry Owen's double that eluded Gary Redus in the left-field

Paders 6, Giants 1 ... .. Kurt Bevacqua belted his second grand slam of the year in the fifth inning and Dave Dravecky scattered nine hits as San Diego won its fourth consecutive game.

Dravecky, 7-4, struck out a career-high nine batters while only walking one, giving up the Giants' only run on a two-out, ninth-inning homer by Rick Adams.

Two innings before Bevacqua hit his grand slam, he had struck out in a similar situation off Atlee Hammaker, 3-7.

Don Carman, 2-1, the fourth Houston Astros JOSE CRUZ reacts after being struck in the groin by his Phillies' pitcher, worked the ninth foul ball, upper right, after it bounced off the plate.

'Jays, Red Sox

TORONTO (AP) - Boston reliever Bob Stanley will have a long wait before he ges the opportunity to carry out a threat he issued Sunday after the Red Sox were trounced 8-1 by the Toronto Blue Jays in a game marred by a bench-clearing brawl.

Boston right-hander Bruce Kison triggered the fourth-inning melee by hitting outfielder George Bell on the left arm. Kison had also narrowly missed hitting catcher Ernie Whitt with a head-high pitch in the second

"I don't know if Bruce was trying to hit him (Bell) or not, but I know the next time I see him I will," said Stanley, who'll have to wait until the Blue Jays visit Fenway Park for a two-game series Sept. 17-18 to carry out his

Bell dashed to the mound after being hit and delivered a glancing, flying kick to Kison's groin area. As the Boston pitcher wheeled to the right side of the infield, Bell veered in the opposite direction with Red Sox catcher Rich Gedman in hot pursuit.

Bell, who was later ejected by home plate Derryl Cousins, appeared to land a solid right before the combatants were separated by teammates. Meanwhile, across the field, Toronto bullpen coach John Sullivan wrestled Kison to the artificial turf. While the two tussled, Boston first baseman Bill Buckner kicked Sullivan in the face. The latter's face was red after the game, but there was no bruise or swelling.

"I told him to get off and he ignored me, so I got him off," said Buckner. Kison, who shook off Bell's blow and went on to take the loss, said: "I don't even know George Bell. I don't know what his (hitting) game plan is with me. I was just trying to jam him."

Bell refused comment on the incident.

Tanana hurls Chisox past Yankees, 3-1

By The Associated Press Frank Tanana pitched seven innings of scoreless ball and the Chicago White Sox defeated the New York Yankees 3-1.

Chet Lemon, making his first start since pulling a thigh muscle June 15, hit a two-run homer in the fifth to break a scoreless game in Detroit. Darrell Evans doubled and scored on a single by Tom Brookens in the seventh for the Tigers' other run.

Willie Hernandez relieved Tanana and gave up a run in the eighth on a triple by Rickey Henderson and a sacrifice fly by Ken Griffey. But Hernandez preserved the lead in recording his 15th save.

Blue Jays 8, Red Sox 1 ... Ernie Whitt hit the first grandslam home run of his career and Rance Mulliniks added a two-run shot as Toronto beat up Boston in a brawl-interrupted game.

Mulliniks homered off Bruce Kison to give the host Blue Jays a 2-0 lead in the third.

Kison got himself in trouble in the sixth by loading the bases with three walks, and Whitt hit a grand slam for his eighth homer of the Tanana to Detroit. He allowed just five hits, walked none and struck out two, and retired 15 of 16 batters before Mike Stenhouse doubled with one out in the seventh. Greg Harris relieved and got his sixth save, giving up a sacrifice fly to Roy Smalley in the ninth.

The Rangers scored twice in the sixth, one on Pete O'Brien's 450-foot home run. The loss was the first in three games for new Minnesota Manager Ray Miller.

Orioles 6, Brewers 3 ... . Larry Sheets climaxed a fourrun rally against Milwaukee reliever Rollie Fingers in the eighth inning with a three-run homer to pace Baltimore.

Fred Lynn's solo homer pulled the Orioles within 3-2 in the seventh, and Jim Dwyer led off the eighth by drawing a walk from Fingers. One out later, Dwyer scored when Murray doubled and then took third on right fielder Ben Oglivie's error.

The visiting Mariners rapped 12 hits, including six doubles, and also drew eight walks. Jim Presley and Ivan Calderon each had two doubles.

considering relocation here, expansion or simply "If an industry wanted to move here, and they came to look and found themselves sitting in traffic, sure it's going to make a difference" in their decision on whether to relocate, said Warren Green, president of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce. "There are other areas (that) will be all too happy to invite those companies," he said. "People do not want to come to a place where there's traffic congestion," said Norm Robbins, vice president of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. Although traffic on several freeways and streets in Dallas, Fort Worth, Arlington and other area cities is slow, and sometimes stopped, during rush hour, officials say the problem here is not yet severe enough to hurt development.

In research done by the Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M University, traffic congestion in the five largest Texas cities was compared. Researchers designated an "undesirable mobility level" - where traffic is snarled but not yet at a standstill, said Dennis Christiansen, a division head at the institute.

Houston took the dubious honor of most congested in Texas, and measured over the "undesirable mobility" mark, Christiansen said. Dallas was found to be about seven years away from Houston's level of traffic congestion, and Fort Worth about 12 years

But the study is based on 1980 data, Christiansen

"I think they all realize it's time to go ahead with the strategies" to solve the problem, said Michael Morris, NCTCOG transportation and energy assis-ed to own the Texas School Book Depository where Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly perched to shoot President John F. Kennedy, wants to sell Dallas a slice of history.

Aubrey Mayhew, who owned the building from 1970 to 1972, says he owns the original sixth-floor window and would like to sell it along with 3,000 other Kennedyassassination artifacts.

The Dallas County Historical Foundation says Mayhew has contacted the group about selling the articles he claims to own, including ledgers signed by Oswald, The Dallas Morning News reported Saturday.

The offer was discussed at a recent board meeting of the foundation, a panel of 11 Dallas residents appointed in September 1983 to oversee fund raising and construction of a $3 million, sixth-floor Kennedy exhibit, a foundation official

The exhibit will be educational and historical in nature - with no artifacts collected and no souvenirs sold, The News said. But Mayhew's offer may be an exception, according to the newspaper.

"Although we're not collecting artifacts for this exhibit, I thought the window certainly belongs in the building," Mrs. Adams said. "But he (Mayhew) said he would have to sell these things."

Mrs. Adams did not say how much the foundation would pay for the window or any other artifacts.

Money has been a sensitive issue for the foundation, which is only now organizing its first fundraising effort. The group plans to solicit contributions from corporations and the general public.

"It's just up to us now to mount an organized campaign, and I have no doubt people will support this," Mrs. Adams said.

The foundation is currently producing a slide-audio show to go along with the campaign, which will cost about $10,000, Mrs. Adams

The slide show bears the same title as the exhibit - "One-November Day" — and notes that Dallas cannot escape history.

"There is a natural reluctance to dwell on tragic times," says the show's narrator. "But history can-Adams said Mayhew also claims to not be denied. And Dallas has a own office furniture used in the chance to chronicle that fateful day

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 25 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you need to make sure you do not accept anything you see or hear as Gospel truth as there are too many angles and unknown factors present in whatever arises

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get your duties handled early in the day and later show patience when others expect big things if you.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go to the beauty or barber shop of your choice early and then get at your duties in a calm and poised fashion.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get the situation at home righted before youtput some talent to work, even though the problem may arise with it. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Handle your outside business affairs well before you try to handle that situation at home in the evening. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get your budget in order before you go out to handle some problematical affair, and be skillful at it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are concerned with the self this morning, and rightly so, and you can go after personal aims and get them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good morning to plan for the future, but tonight you may run up against stumbling blocks in the path of your progress.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can go after the personal wishes that mean much to you in the morning, and get good results. Show your mate you are loyal. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get at your career work early since later you will have to handle personal problems. Don't expect much help from friends. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try a new way to gain a cherished wish, and later handle some worldly affair most carefully. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to find some way of getting the one you love to be more interested in you. Make sure to pay your bills on time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) An associate can give you fine suggestions, so listen carefully to them. Improve relations with your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will easily understand technical-oriented material, so send to technical schols where he or she will be taught how best to make use of this fine ability, otherwise your progeny could create all kinds of personal problems for the self just to prove how well they can be solved.
