Oklahoma explosion

Firemen battle flames while rescue workers search for survivors at a fireworks plant in Hallett, Okla. Twenty-one workers, mostly teenagers, were killed in the massive explosion, which obliterated the factory.

21 killed in fireworks blast

Massive explosion levels plant; mostly teen workers die

HALLETT, Okla. (AP) — Most of the 21 people killed in an explosion at a fireworks plant were teen-agers apparently hired to meet demand for the Fourth of July, but severe burns make identification difficult, authorities say.

Five other people, including the owner of the Aerlex Fireworks plant, were injured in a series of massive blasts Tuesday which were felt 13 miles away and hurled bodies and debris hundreds of yards.

Reports that victims may have been under 18, forbidden by law to work at plants like the one making aerial fireworks used in civic displays, sent state Labor Department officials to the scene along with other investigators.

The cause of the blast had not been determined, but Bob White of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said authorities were checking reports of carelessness outside the building as a pickup truck was loaded.

"It's just like when you're driving down the road — you don't pay attention for just one second and something happens," White said. "Someone gets careless, and this is the end product."

The plant had passed an inspection two months ago, he said.

Dr. Joseph Pierce, a Creek County medical examiner, said he believed most of the victims were teen-agers, "but it's awfully hard to tell. They were burned so badly, almost beyond recognition."

Highway Patrol Lt. Jim King said a number of 17- and 18-year-olds had been hired for the holiday crush.

"They worked until late at night, and then started again real early in the morning to make all of the fireworks," said Mary Lewis, whose trailer less than a mile away was shifted off its foundation by the explosion.

"It was a real popular spot for teen-agers to work, and make some good money," she said, adding that the factory, about 35 miles west of Tulsa, had a normal staff of about 10 but had expanded to nearly 30 for holiday sales.

Pierce said all the victims died instantly of burns and the blast.

Farmers praise rain, but floods threaten

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Tuesday rains brought the year's precipitation total to 12½ inches, almost as much as was recorded in all of 1984, while a flash flood watch continues for the area today.

The wet spring is drawing praise from farmers who have shared in varying degree the 12.52 inches of rainfall recorded in 1985 at the Big Spring U.S. Field Station. The total for all of 1984 was 13.71 inches.

Rain totals across the Crossroads Country for yesterday afternoon and last night ranged from one-quarter inch recorded on the west side of Coahoma to a little more than an inch reported in Big Spring.

The U.S.-Big Spring Field Station officially recorded .54 of an inch of rain. This brings the total accumulated rainfall to almost 4 inches above normal for this time of year.

Luther was reporting continued rain at 8:30 a.m. A report of six-tenths of an inch came from residents there for last night's showers.

The entire Permian Basin area is under a flash flood watch as a 30 percent chance of more rain falling on saturated fields continues today. The Midland-Odessa area has a 50 percent chance for additional showers, according to the National Weather Service.

Farmers across the area were giving the rain good marks. Some who had their cotton seed washed out earlier had completed replanting and said Tuesday's rain was beneficial.

Calvin Perry of Luther said the showers that were still falling there this morning "looked good" and couldn't have come at a better time for his cotton which has just started to break the surface.

A similar report came from the Roy Lee Metcalf farm located south of Coahoma. Other rainfall reports were:

- Red Thomas of 107 E. 13th — 1.05 inches.
- Elton Hartin of 203 N. Nolan — .70.
- Calvin Junek of Luther — .60.
- The Gene Perry residence in Lomax — .50.
- The Melva Swinney residence on the west side of Coahoma — .25.
- Tye Renfro, north side of Coahoma — .35.

Boyce Hale of the Sterling City Route recorded .85 inches, bringing his total for June to 5.34, and for the year to 11.16. Hale said he recorded only a trace last June.

Big Spring businessmen have a patent on inventions

GRANVILLE MAHN

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — In the miles of microfilm and catalogs that fill the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, the name of Charles W. Neefe pops up probably as often as any other Texan in what perhaps is the most unusual profession: the inventor.

Neefe, a resident of Big Spring since 1946, boasts of holding 57 U.S. patents "and almost that many pending" for a variety of new and sometimes unusual products.

Until three years ago, Neefe was owner of Neefe Optical

Laboratories and most of his inventions stemmed from the optical field. After closing the optical business, the Lubbock native went fulltime into the business he had been practicing on the side since he moved to Big Spring.

Neefe Tech Inc. now has six employees, although the total number of workers was as high as 53 two years ago and probably will go back up when the company again engages in production of a new Neefe product.

His more recent inventions, drawn with meticulous detail in the annals of the Patent Office in Washington, have ranged from solar energy applications to high precision earth dishes that he builds with "optical quality."

In the optical field, his best-known invention was the bi-focal contact lens in 1966, which he said provided funds for his continuing involvement with inventions and the eventual founding of Neefe Tech Inc.

"It's kind of unusual," said Neefe. Inventions page 2-A

Uranium stored at plant

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (P) — More than 50 million pounds of radioactive uranium buried since 1954 at the Oak Ridge nuclear weapons plant was put into trenches in containers that would not prevent leaks, a newspaper reported today.

The U.S. Department of Energy was scheduled to release a report today to the state on uranium disposal at its 500-acre reservation. The Knoxville Journal reported today that the uranium was buried in trenches near the plant and that an internal Energy Department document said the uranium was not put in leak-proof containers.

Battered wife wins suit

HARTFORD, Conn. — A jury award of $2.3 million to a battered wife "spoke more loudly than we will ever be able to" about police duty to protect women from domestic violence, a National Organization for Women official said.

In its award Tuesday, the U.S. District Court jury found that 29 Torrington police officers violated Tracey Thurman's constitutional rights by failing to protect her from a stabbing and beating by her estranged husband.

Convict, 32, executed

RICHMOND, Va. — Morris Odell Mason, convicted in a 1978 crime spree, went calmly and silently to his death in the electric chair after efforts to block the execution because of his mental impairment failed.

Mason, a 32-year-old laborer, was led to the basement death chamber at the state penitentiary about four hours after the U.S. Supreme Court denied a final appeal. Mason was convicted of raping and murdering Margaret K. Hand, 71, who was beaten to death. Her hand was nailed to a chair and her house was set afire.

Evacuees return home

ANAHEIM, Calif. — About 7,500 evacuees began returning home today, more than three days after a fire in a pesticide and fertilizer warehouse spewed poisonous fumes into the air.

Police were issuing passes and limiting access to only those people who could show that they lived or worked in the area. As the evacuation order was lifted late Tuesday for all but a two-block area immediately around the building, investigators challenged the legality of some warehouse operations.

Cheese plants probed

LOS ANGELES — State food and agriculture officials have asked the district attorney to investigate a company whose Mexican-style cheese has been linked to a bacterial infection that has killed 48 people.

Public health officials also moved Tuesday to tighten inspections at other cheese plants in Southern California.

JIMMY PARKER, 48, of Little Rock (background) listens as Shiite leader Nabih Berri explains the release of one hostage.

Hostage break

Shiite release 1, may move others to embassy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — American hostage Jimmy Dell Palmer flew to freedom today, 13 days after he was captured by hijackers of a TWA jet. Shiite militia leader Nabih Berri freed Palmer for health reasons and proposed that the other 39 hostages be placed in a Western embassy until Israel releases 735 Arab prisoners.

Berri said the remaining American hostages might also be sent to Syria if no Western nation would hold them in an embassy and promise not to let them out of Lebanon until the hijackers' demands for freedom of the prisoners in Israel are met.

Palmer, 48, of Little Rock, Ark., flew from Beirut aboard a Middle East Airline Boeing 707 to Larnaca, Cyprus. Wearing a red polo shirt, Palmer smiled as he walked down the steps of the airplane without aid.

"I feel fine," he told waiting reporters. "I'm just happy to be out of Beirut and with the American people... I'd like to say, 'Hi,' to my wife and family. I'm so happy to be home."

The scheduled flight was delayed 45 minutes until Palmer arrived in an airport bus, with six Shiite Amal militiamen.

Palmer told The Associated Press as he waited to board the plane: "I can verify that we were very well treated. I don't know of anyone (among the hostages) who has been mistreated."

Before releasing Palmer, Berri brought him to a news conference, where he said he also was studying the medical condition of another hostage, Simon

Grossmayer, 57, of Algonquin, Ill., who has only one lung. "If he is not in good condition I will release him today or tomorrow," he said.

The French government today indicated it might be willing to accept custody of the Beirut hostages under the plan outlined by Berri. The Foreign Ministry said in a brief statement: "France is always available when it is a question of protecting human lives and avoiding suffering."

A spokesman, traditionally anonymous, said Foreign Minister Roland Dumas had delayed leaving for Bonn this morning to take personal charge of the situation.

The Americans, passengers on a TWA Boeing 727 that was hijacked June 14 on its way from Athens to Rome, are thought to be held in separate groups in and around Beirut.

Asked if he has the power to release all the hostages, some of whom are thought to be held by the radical Hezbollah, or Party of God, Berri said: "All of them, no. The majority are under Amal and the others under the hijackers."

However, he said all 39 are in Beirut. There had been news reports in Lebanon and the United States that about nine of the hostages were being held in Baalbek in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, a stronghold of Shiite extremists.

Two Frenchmen kidnapped near the Beirut airport on May 22 also will be freed once the hostage crisis is settled, Berri said.

U.K. cops net suspects

LONDON — Police who thwarted a planned IRA blitz of English seaside resorts also have netted some of Northern Ireland's most wanted men, including the suspected "master bomber" behind last year's attack on the prime minister, news reports said today.

Police are holding 15 persons under the Prevention of Terrorism Act, which allows detention without charge for up to a week, Scotland Yard confirmed. Among them is a 33-year-old Belfast man who stayed at the Grand Hotel in Brighton four weeks before a bomb in the room gutted the building last October during a Conservative Party convention.

Rebels vow war on U.S.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Leftist guerrillas say the slaying of four American Marines last week was "only the beginning" of a "just" war against U.S. military personnel.

The Marines were shot dead last Wednesday along with two U.S. businessmen and seven Latin Americans when gunmen dressed as Salvadoran soldiers sprayed two sidewalk cafes with automatic weapons fire.

Jet's recorder missing

CORK, Ireland — American and British experts held out little hope that the flight recorders from an Air-India Boeing 747 could be retrieved from the Atlantic Ocean.

Officials said Tuesday there had been no sign of the two "black boxes," or flight recorders, which are supposed to emit radio signals to help searchers find them. The jumbo jet crashed into the ocean Sunday while enroute from Toronto to India. Officials said 131 bodies have been recovered, and all 329 people aboard are presumed to have died.

Jamaica unions meet

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Prime Minister Edward Seaga says his government cannot meet the demands of striking workers, but he will meet with union leaders if they end a two-day general strike on schedule.

Seaga, during a 25-minute speech delivered to Jamaica's parliament and on radio and television Tuesday night, said he would meet with labor leaders if "there is a full resumption of work" today. Six union presidents were reportedly meeting at an undisclosed site in downtown Kingston, Jamaica's capital, to discuss Seaga's position.

7 blacks killed in riots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Two explosions apparently caused by bombs ignited a government fuel depot and knocked out a power station today in the black tribal homeland of Transkei, authorities said.

Budget talks break down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate budget negotiators, citing irreconcilable differences with the Democratic-controlled House over Social Security spending, Tuesday broke off talks aimed at drafting a compromise 1986 budget.

"No good purpose could be served by continuing this conference at this time," declared Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the chief Senate budget bargainer. He accused House bargainers of unwillingness to agree to any compromise that would include limits on Social Security cost-of-living increases to help reduce the U.S. budget deficit.

With the collapse — at least for the time being — of the budget talks, House leaders immediately announced they would proceed with action on individual spending bills that had been backed up awaiting a resolution of the budget impasse.

"We're going to achieve a $50 billion-plus savings even if we don't have a budget," said Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., chief House budget negotiator.

The budget approved earlier this year by the Republican-led Senate — endorsed by President Reagan — included a one-year freeze on cost-of-living increases for 36 million Social Security recipients and those on government pensions. House leaders have steadfastly resisted efforts to come up with a budget that includes any limits on the increases.

Failure to get a budget would guarantee that Social Security benefit boosts, projected at around 4 percent, would take place next January, as provided by permanent law.

Saying "there is no solution," Domenici said he was throwing in the towel shortly after joining other Republican congressional leaders in a lunch with Reagan. Domenici said that he informed the president of his decision at the lunch and that the chief executive "expressed disappointment and concern."

However, he said Reagan played no role in the decision to call off the bargaining sessions. Democratic House leaders Monday had accused Reagan of seeking to torpedo the budget talks — preferring to control spending through his veto powers.

Cauble moved to El Paso prison

Staff and wire reports
Rex Cauble, millionaire rancher and owner of the Cutter Bill western wear stores, has been transferred to La Tuna Federal Correctional Institute so he can be provided greater security than was available at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, officials said.

REX CAUBLE

Cauble, 71, of Denton County, arrived Friday at La Tuna to continue serving a 5-year sentence for a 1982 racketeering conviction, according to John Gluch, warden of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

William Messersmith, executive assistant to the warden at the La Tuna institution, confirmed Cauble's arrival there Friday.

Messersmith said Cauble was completing orientation at La Tuna and had not been assigned to one of the many manufacturing jobs at the prison.

Cauble was convicted of masterminding a marijuana smuggling ring that authorities said brought more than 150,000 pounds of the drug into the United States in 1977 and 1978.

George Wilson of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons regional office, said the move was "an administrative decision" and denied reports that the move was the result of threats against Cauble. But he would not explain why the move was made.

"Cauble needs more security," he said. "At this time, the only statement that we are releasing is that it was an administrative decision," Wilson said.

Wilson said authorities are making an "ongoing investigation" to determine if Cauble will stay at the medium security La

Tuna facility or return to the lesser security facility at Big Spring.

"We are not at liberty to discuss the details of the investigation. It involves another agency," Wilson said. He would not identify the other agency.

Cauble is not cooperating with any investigation by a federal agency, Wilson said.

Officials said Cauble had no record of disciplinary problems at Big Spring and that no one had threatened him.

The decision to move Cauble to La Tuna was made by authorities in Dallas, officials said.

At La Tuna, Wilson said, Cauble will be in a more rigid setting than at Big Spring, which an employee jokingly called "Club Fed."

Cauble is scheduled to be released on Sept. 8, 1987, but could be released sooner if he accumulates "good time," officials said.

3 treated for injuries in I-20 crash

Three persons were treated for injuries at Malone-Hogan Hospital Tuesday morning following a two-car collision on Interstate 20, 9 1/2 miles west of Big Spring.

A hospital spokesman said that Caroline Czaplicka, 63, of Inkster, Mich., would be released sometime today. She suffered minor injuries as the result of the wreck. Stan Anthony Czaplicka, 36, and Emilia Czaplicka, 31, both of El Paso were treated and released yesterday morning.

A Texas Department of Public Safety accident report listed fatigue as a factor contributing to the collision. According to the report, a car driven by William Preston Kelso, 20, of Garden City was legally parked on the north shoulder of the westbound lane of I-20.

A car driven by Emilia Czaplicka drifted from its lane and struck Kelso's vehicle in the rear. The report said the driver may have fallen asleep at the wheel.

Students sue school district over religious meetings

DALLAS (AP) — A federal lawsuit has been filed by six current and former high school students who allege the Dallas Independent School District violated their rights by barring them from meeting on campus to discuss religion.

School officials hope the suit will "bring about a clarification" of conflicting court opinions and federal law, school board secretary Bob Johnston said Monday.

The plaintiffs, current and former students at Skyline High School, contend they had met on campus "three or four times" before school last September when they were told to disband.

They met again about a week later and school principal Frank Guzik once more told them to not to meet, according to the suit.

The suit, filed Monday in federal court, seeks unspecified damages and asks the court to void a school district policy that bars on-campus religious meetings.

School officials say they tried several times to reach a compromise with the students, but were unsuccessful.

A district policy based on a 1982 federal appeals court ruling forbids religious groups to meet on campus, school officials said.

But a new federal law passed last year contradicts the appeals court's decision. The legislation grants student religious groups equal access as non-religious groups to public high schools.

"It's a difficult position that we'll have to take until the Supreme Court resolves it," said district Superintendent Linus Wright.

The high court is expected to rule this summer on a similar case from involving a Pennsylvania high school religious group forbidden to meet on campus.

American Jews unhappy with Catholic statement

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewish groups today criticized a new Roman Catholic Church statement on Judaism, saying it does not adequately stress the Holocaust and significance of Israel.

The International Jewish Committee on Interreligious Consultations, an umbrella group representing five major Jewish organizations, said it was disappointed in "the regressive spirit and formulations about Jews, Judaism, the Nazi Holocaust and the meaning of Israel" in the Vatican document.

The document, meant as a guide to priests on how to present Judaism to the Catholic faithful, was issued Monday by the Commission for Religious Relations with the Jews of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity.

The document calls for an end to presenting Judaism in "a prejudiced, distorted manner." It says study should "help in understanding the meaning for the Jews" of the Holocaust; Israel, it says, is "a historic fact" and should be "envisaged not in a perspective which is in itself religious, but in their reference to the common principles of international law."

"I think there are some positive clarifications in the statement which we welcome," said Rabbi Marc Tannenbaum of the American Jewish Committee. "But there are also a number of deeply troublesome references which we regard as regressive compared to earlier documents."

He said the tone of the document was not warm and conciliatory, such as other recent statements by Pope John Paul II.

Cosden: No layoffs

Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. officials are offering early retirement incentives to 15 "selected, salaried" employees, said Ross Westbrook, director of public relations at the Big Spring refinery. "We've been hearing the rumors that people will be laid-off," Westbrook said. "That's not true. No one is being laid-off."

Company officials from the Dallas office of American Petrofina were in Big Spring this week to talk to the selected employees, all of whom are older than 55 years old, Westbrook said.

In addition, 20 temporary employees, hired to help the company repair its burned crude oil unit, were dismissed Friday, Westbrook said.

Liquor petition drive dead

By KEELY COGHLAN
 Staff Writer

Proponents of liquor-by-the-drink probably will not contest the certification process that resulted in the rejection of their petition.

The petition fell 291 signatures short of the number needed to require an election on liquor-by-the-drink. Even if all the names rejected for faulty middle initials had been allowed, the petition would still be short, according to Micheal Russell, a spokesman for Citizens for a Choice which led the petition effort.

"I don't think we're going to contest it," he said. "We just counted the ones thrown out because of middle initials, and we're still 41 short. Some were thrown out because they were duplicates or the certificate number wasn't complete," Russell said.

Under state law, a person must sign his name exactly as shown on the registration list. Signatures were not counted if people did not sign their middle initials and the voter registration list showed their names with initials.

"We still contest we had 2,500 signatures of good, registered voters in the precinct."

Russell said he was investigating whether the county could legally call for an election without a petition.

But both he and Gary Hopper, another leader of Citizens for a Choice, said they would not work on another petition drive.

"I've had my fill of it," Russell said.

Memphis St. program under investigation

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bombarded by reports of special favors for athletes and other wrongdoing, officials at Memphis State University have decided to investigate the allegations.

Dr. Roy Nicks, chancellor of the state Board of Regents, said the investigation will be coordinated by Ben Hale, a retired FBI agent hired by Memphis State to shield athletes from dope dealers and gamblers.

The investigation reportedly will include reports by The Commercial Appeal of Memphis and Sports Illustrated magazine that Memphis State basketball Coach Dana Kirk offered $10,000 to relatives of All-American Keith Lee while recruiting the 6-foot-10 forward four years ago.

Kirk has denied offering money to any athletes, but has refused to discuss the allegations concerning Lee.

Lee, the all-time scoring and rebounding leader at Memphis State, led the Tigers to the semifinal round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs last year.

He was the 11th player chosen in the National Basketball Association draft and is preparing to join the Cleveland Cavaliers of the NBA.

Nicks said he and Memphis State President Thomas Carpenter decided the university needs to conduct its own investigation into allegations reported by the news media.

"What we are going to do is go to the sources first," Nicks said. "They made these statements. Let's see if they can back them up."

The Memphis newspaper and Sports Illustrated also have reported allegations that boosters of Memphis State athletics provided money and favors to athletes.

Memphis State officials have denied any knowledge of such gifts, which would violate NCAA regulations.

Nicks said results of the Memphis State investigation will be passed along to the NCAA and the Metro Conference if evidence of wrongdoing is found.

The NCAA reportedly is looking already into allegations that William Bedford, a 7-foot starter on the Tiger basketball squad, was twice ticketed by police and was involved in a minor traffic accident while driving luxury cars borrowed from school boosters.

And the NCAA has been told by the Board of Regents that Memphis State may have paid $60,000 to much in financial aid to basketball and football players over the past four years.

Carpenter has blamed those overpayments on sloppy bookkeeping.

Hale was hired by Memphis State after a federal grand jury began an investigation into allegations of big-time sports bookmaking in the Memphis area.

Several Memphis State boosters and a former athletic director from the school have been called to testify before the grand jury.

Mariners ground Texas, 2-1; miscues plague Houston

SEATTLE (AP) — After a new stadium lease was renegotiated for the Seattle Mariners, the team gave its hometown good reason to keep it around.

The Mariners, behind the combined six-hit pitching of Matt Young and Ed Nunez, defeated the Texas Rangers 2-1 Tuesday for their fifth straight win, their eighth in their last ten games.

Earlier in the day, the Mariners announced they had reached an agreement with King County in their attempt to renegotiate their lease for the Seattle Kingdome.

"It's a good thing we got this county problem out of the way, so I could concentrate on my pitching," said Young half-seriously.

Young raised his record to 7-8 by allowing Texas just five hits and two walks in eight innings of work. Nunez earned his ninth save of the year by holding the Rangers in check in the ninth.

On the field the Mariners continued a recent streak of good pitching and good defense that has raised their record to 33-36. In their last five wins the pitching staff has allowed just seven runs.

Texas starter Charlie Hough, 5-9, had just one bad inning, the first, but with the Rangers hitting offense it was one bad inning too many. The Rangers are 3-6 in their last nine games. In that span the offense has delivered just 25 runs, and eight of those runs came in one game.

"As far as Texas manager Bobby Valentine was concerned, the Mariners need more than a new lease. They need a new pitching mound.

"It's a lousy mound," he complained. He attributed some of Hough's first inning wildness to the condition of the pitching hill. "It's something less than a big league mound, it's flat on the top and has no slope."

AL Roundup

Yankees 7, Orioles 4

It would be difficult not to be impressed with Rickey Henderson's major-league-leading .360 batting average, but that's a pittance as far as the Baltimore Orioles are concerned.

Henderson, who had three hits and drove in three runs Tuesday night as the New York Yankees whipped the Orioles for the fifth straight time in a nine-day span, is hitting .700 against Baltimore, whose Manager Earl Weaver has been wondering aloud: "Doesn't he ever make an out?"

Yes, Henderson lined out hard on the one occasion he was retired in the Yankees' 7-4 victory. Henderson, who also swiped his 32nd base in 33 attempts, is 21-for-35 in his last nine games.

"I hope I never cool off," said Henderson, who has hit Baltimore pitching at a .366 clip during his six years in the majors.

Perhaps that's the reason the Orioles went after him in the off-season.

"They tried to get me," said Henderson, who came to the Yankees in the off-season from the Oakland A's.

Loser Mike Boddicker, who fell to 7-7 as the Yankees made it a 38-12 run deficit in those five games, said Henderson must be pitched to regardless of his torrid hitting.

"First of all, you've got to make him hit the ball," Boddicker said of the 26-year-old center fielder who set the all-time baseball record when he stole 130 bases in 1982. "You can't walk him because that's like a double."

Henderson's two-run single capped a five-run fourth inning and he singled home the Yankees' final run in the seventh against Sammy Stewart.

Tigers 3, Red Sox 0 ... Hot-hitting Darrell Evans slammed his 11th home run in the last 37 games for Detroit, which got four-hit pitching from Jack Morris. Evans' two-run homer, his 14th of the season, came off Boston's Bob Ojeda, 4-2, and staked Morris to a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Blue Jays 7, Brewers 1 ... AL East leader Toronto laid waste to Milwaukee with a six-run third inning. Tony Fernandez and Lloyd Moseby reached Brewer starter Ray Burris, 4-6, for run-scoring hits, then the Blue Jays took advantage of reliever Jamie Cocanower.

An error by first baseman Cecil Cooper, and four walks and a wild pitch by Cocanower fueled the big inning.

Jim Clancy, 4-4, fired a six-hitter over eight innings.

Clancy, who beat the Brewers 5-1 in his last start, was effective with a slightly modified slider, a fastball and changeup.

Royals 3, Twins 0 ... Kansas City's Danny Jackson pitched his second shutout of the season and Lonnie Smith drove in one run and scored another. Jackson, 6-4, pitched his third complete game — a four-hitter — while striking out five and walking two.

"Jackson pitched a heck of a game," Minnesota Manager Ray Miller said. "I was actually sitting on the bench hoping they would bring in Quis (ace reliever Dan Quisenberry). That's really something when you hope Quis comes in. It shows what kind of stuff Jackson had."

A's 5, White Sox 4 ... Pinch-hitter Dusty Baker drew a bases-loaded walk to force in the winning run in a 13th-inning rally that began when Mike Heath homered off Chicago reliever Gene Nelson.

Chicago's Carlton Fisk hit his 17th homer to tie for the AL lead, while teammate Greg Walker hit his 13th. Carney Lansford hit his 12th — and fourth in the last six games — for Oakland.

Angels 7, Indians 3 ... Ruppert Jones hit a grand-slam home run with two outs in the 13th inning to cap a five-run California rally. Brian Downing's double had tied the game and walks to Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces by Neal Heaton, 4-9, loaded the bases for Jones.

Juan Beniquez walked with two outs before Downing, fighting a 6-for-66 slump, doubled off the left-center field wall.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Atlanta Braves found some loopholes in the Houston Astros' defense, as the left side of the Houston infield committed six errors that led to four unearned runs in a 6-4 Atlanta win in the Astrodome.

Houston's stream of errors Tuesday night was just one short of its club record for errors in one game.

Third baseman Phil Garner and shortstop Craig Reynolds both had three errors, with each being charged with a pair of miscues in a three-run Braves' sixth inning.

Atlanta shortstop Rafael Ramirez drove in two runs with a triple to center field that scored Ken Oberkfell and Glenn Hubbard.

"It was a fast ball that I hit as hard as I could into the alley," said Ramirez, who has produced 19 RBIs in his last 20 games.

The triple and the errors victimized Houston starter and loser Bob Knepper, 7-4, who has dropped four of his last six decisions.

Garner, a 12-year veteran, said, "I've had good and bad days in the major leagues, and tonight was one of the worse. I've got no excuses."

Houston, 35-34, remains fourth in the National League West while fifth place Atlanta is 30-38.

Trailing 6-1 with two outs in the eighth inning, the Astros staged a three-run comeback as Jerry Mumphrey launched a two-run homer to right field and Alan Ashby followed with a solo shot to left center.

NL Roundup

Phillies 3, Cards 1

Jerry Koozman has done twice what the rest of the National League has only done once this season: And it only took him seven days.

For the second time in a week, the NL's oldest pitcher beat baseball's winningest pitcher as Koozman and the Philadelphia Phillies beat Joaquin Andujar and the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 Tuesday night.

The 42-year-old left-hander pitched a three-hitter — yielding only an unearned run — struck out eight and walked two. Andujar, 12-1 before he ran into Koozman, dropped to 12-3.

Koozman underwent surgery on his left knee May 8. A month later, he was pitching in relief. Last Wednesday he started for the first time since the surgery and hurled six innings as the Phillies hung a 1-0 loss on Andujar and the Cards.

"It's like a broken bone in that I should have given it longer (to heal)," said Koozman of the knee. "But I didn't. I wanted to help."

He pitches with a brace on the knee designed to prevent fluid accumulation.

Mets 3, Cubs 2

Dwight Gooden returned to the only park where he was frustrated in his rookie campaign and went all the way to force a 13th straight defeat upon Chicago. He struck out six Cubs and walked three.

Last Tuesday, Gooden, now 11-3, beat the Cubs 1-0 in New York.

"I was glad to finally win at Wrigley Field, I knew what happened last year," said Gooden, who absorbed losses of 11-2 and 9-3 in Chicago as a rookie in 1984. Working with six days rest, he pitched his seventh complete game of the year.

Reds 7, Giants 6

Cincinnati, trailing 6-3, rallied for four runs in the eighth inning. Cesar Cedeno's first home run as an American — a two-run shot — touched off the rally against reliever Mark Davis, 3-5.

"I hit my first home run as an American," said Cedeno, a Dominican who became a U.S. citizen last week. "Now I'm only 754 behind Henry Aaron."

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Tim Lincecum hit a solo homer and Dan Drissien, who had committed a costly error the inning before, drilled a tie-breaking single as Montreal rallied in the seventh and moved into first place in the NL East, a half-game in front of St. Louis.

The Pirates lost their fourth game in a row.

Dodgers 3, Padres 2

Al Oliver's bases-loaded sacrifice fly with one out in the ninth scored Ken Landreaux, ending the Padres' four-game winning streak.

Trailing 2-1, the Dodgers tied the game in the eighth. With two outs, Bill Russell, batting for starter Bob Welch, dropped a single into center field that scored R.J. Reynolds and denied San Diego starter Andy Hawkins his 12th victory.

Painting the town blue

AUSTIN, Minn. — (AP) — Stiff breezes often blow hats into gutters and turn umbrellas inside out, but some recent high winds came out of the blue and painted the town that way.

Three vehicles and five houses — including those of the police chief and a city councilman — got a blast of blue last week when high winds hurried paint off a water tower being painted.

City officials haven't estimated the damage, but hope that insurance carried by the company painting the tower will cover the cost of removing the blue hue.

Salesman sells himself

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Golden was new in town, unemployed and inexperienced. Then came the sign.

He's still relatively new in town, still unemployed and still inexperienced. But the sign made a difference.

Early in June, Golden pounded the pavement for three days in the heart of Los Angeles' financial district. Strapped to his shoulders was a wooden sandwich board, advertising his qualifications as a salesman.

He started setting up interviews promised by employers who had stopped to read his sidewalk resume. On it, the 27-year-old college graduate described himself as dependable, creative, personable and aggressive.

By Monday, Golden had been on 17 interviews, pitching his qualifications in more traditional arenas. He's been offered two jobs, but turned them down because they weren't in the telecommunications or computer field, he said.

Second interviews have been scheduled on some of the jobs he is more excited about.

Golden's sales pitch also attracted the media.

In the beginning, newspaper, television and radio stories about Golden "spread me a little too thin." He said he got calls from investment bankers, real estate brokers and other firms looking for salesmen.

"I've had an opportunity to interview with companies like Burroughs Corp. and AT&T," he said. "It was an excellent way to introduce myself to the business world. Direct contact marketing is the best way to advertise yourself."

Make way for outdoor grilling season

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

With summer in the air can the aroma of grilled beef be far behind? What refreshing taste the barbecue "season" brings to the table.

Now is a good time to bring beef to the grill. Steaks, beef cubes, patties and franks are best if cooking time is limited. Roasts and larger cuts are suitable when you have several hours or more for cooking.

You can figure 1/4 to 1 pound per serving of beef cuts with bone in and 1/2 to 3/4 pound for boneless cuts. Choose thick steaks — at least 1 1/2 inches thick — and plump hamburgers at least 3/4 inch thick for outdoor broiling. They will be juicier than thinner ones. Cut your own boneless beef cubes, 1 1/2 inches thick, from sirloin or top round to make good shish kebabs.

Make a marinade serve you in two ways: impart a special flavor and tenderize the meat. Plan ahead so you can allow beef to marinate in the refrigerator overnight or for several hours. Marinate in glass, pottery or enameled container since the acid in marinades can react with the metals in pots or pans. Be sure to turn meat frequently so the marinating action will be even.

Drain marinated meat well before cooking, reserving the marinade for basting or gravy. Go easy on the basting if the marinade contains a lot of sugar. Sugar has a tendency to burn quickly. In this case, baste the meat once about 5 minutes before cooking is completed, then again just before serving.

HOT BARBECUE SAUCE

- 1 cup tomato juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice or vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 1 Tbsp. diced onion
- 1 Tbsp. diced green pepper
- 1 Tbsp. prepared mustard
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 Tbsp. diced celery
- 1 tsp. chill powder
- 1/4 tsp. ground cloves

Combine above ingredients and mix thoroughly. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

KABOB MARINADE

- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 tsp. garlic salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 2 Tbps. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Combine above ingredients. Makes about 3/4 cup of marinade. Pour over cubes of beef, cover dish and refrigerate overnight, turning frequently. Thread drained beef cubes on skewers alternately with whole mushrooms, cubed green peppers, tiny onions and tomato squares. Baste again with marinade and cook slowly over hot coals until done as desired. Re-baste during cooking if desired.

TERIYAKI MARINADE

- 1/2 cup Teriyaki sauce
- 1/2 cup beef consommé
- 1/2 cup dry red wine
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 3 Tbps. lime juice
- 2 Tbps. brown sugar

Combine ingredients. Let stand several hours to blend flavors; combine with steak strips or beef cubes and marinate for one hour before grilling. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

WINE MARINADE

- 1/2 cup dry red wine
- 1 tsp. meat tenderizer
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1/2 cup soy sauce

With a fork, pierce meat deeply several times on each side. Combine above ingredients; pour over meat. Marinate for two hours in refrigerator, turning several times. Remove meat from marinade and pat dry on paper towels. Barbecue over high heat until done to taste. Brush often with the marinade while grilling.

CITRUS-GLAZED SPARERIBS

- 3 lbs. meaty spareribs
- 1 jar (10 oz.) sweet-sour sauce
- 1/4 cup sugar

- 2 Tbps. Chinese hot mustard
- 1/2 cup soy sauce

- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 Tbps. frozen (thawed) orange juice concentrate
- 1 Tbsp. dried orange peel
- 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
- 1/4 cup Scotch whiskey
- 1/2 cup water

Combine all ingredients except spareribs and let stand for 1/2 hour to develop flavor. Brush glaze on spareribs during last 10 minutes of cooking to prevent burning. Warm leftover sauce and serve it at the table.

WHAT TO DO BEFORE YOU START YOUR FIRE

Check which way the wind is blowing before you set up your grill. Face the grill into the wind to help your fire. Make sure family and guests are not sitting downward. Since charcoal briquets burn from the bottom up, you'll want to create a draft. If your barbecue has an open grate, you're set. If it doesn't, cover the bottom of your barbecue grill (the bowl) with sand or gravel.

STARTING THE FIRE

Pile the briquets into a small pyramid. One rule of thumb: You'll need a lot less charcoal than you would dream possible. Your pyramid should be only a little larger than the size of the food you're cooking. Drizzle liquid fire starter over all the charcoal. Never use gasoline or kerosene. Kerosene adds a taste to food you don't want. Wait one minute and then drop a lighted match on your pyramid.

THE FOOD

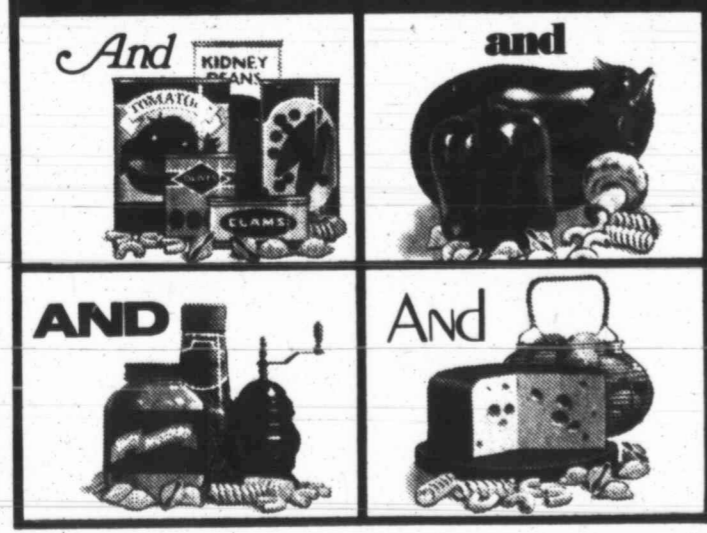

Wait at least 30 to 40 minutes for your coals to be ready before you start cooking. When your coals are ready, there will be a layer of grey ash all over them. No flames. You also don't want flames during the cooking process. Use a spray of water (not from the garden hose) to put out flames. Also, if you want just the right texture to room temperature before you start cooking. Bon Appetit!

COOKOUT TIME. — It's time to barbecue that beef. Today's Recipe Exchange features marinade and barbecue recipes.

Age makes fighting bulge battle harder

By REDBOOK
A Hearst Magazine
 The older you get, the harder it is to fight the battle of the bulge.
 As you get older your body doesn't burn off calories as quickly as it used to, according to an article in the July issue of Redbook, and lack of regular exercise can make your metabolism even more sluggish.
 "Pounds can sneak on, not necessarily because you're eating more than you used to," said Reva Frankle, director of nutrition at Weight Watchers International in New York.
 David Levitsky, associate professor in the Division of Nutritional Sciences and the Department of Psychology at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., recommends cutting 300 calories per day from your diet, which should make you 10 to 20 pounds thinner at the end of a year.

 Eating less fat is one of the most painless ways to cut calories, since the average American diet consists of 40 to 50 percent fat, while 30 percent fat would be healthier. Here's how:
 • Eat red meat fewer times per week and choose leaner cuts. Substitute veal, skinless poultry and fine-textured white fish such as sole, haddock and flounder.
 • Drink skim milk and eat yogurt and cheese made with it.
 • Limit luncheon meats, sausage, bacon and canned meat.
 • Use low-fat cooking methods such as steaming, broiling, baking and braising.

 • Enjoy occasional meatless meals.
 "Get your protein from lentils, beans, chick-peas, soy products and low-fat cheese," said Alan Waylor, assistant professor of nutritional biochemistry at Harvard Medical School.
 Nutritionists also advise filling up on low-calorie high-fiber foods such as fruits and vegetables, dropping out of the "clean plate" club, and watching what you eat on the run.
 Figure out your total calorie allowance for the week, rather than counting calories daily, said Dr. Jerome L. Knittle, director of the Division of Nutrition and Metabolism at the Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York City.

 Exercise is the second front in the battle of the bulges. The best way to fire up your metabolism, work off flab and increase cardiovascular fitness is through sustained aerobic exercise such as swimming, cycling and aerobic dance.
 Experts advise 30 to 45 minutes of exercise three to five times a week to lose weight, cutting down to at least twice a week to maintain weight.
 Try skipping rope for five or 10 minutes before your morning shower; if you drive to work, park a half-mile away and walk to the office; if you take the bus or subway, get off a few stops before your destination; climb stairs instead of taking the elevator or escalator; take a half-hour walk at lunchtime. At home, jog in place, jump rope or do stretching exercises while watching TV.

 Other figure-trimming tips, from the book "365 Diet Tips," by Julie Davis, include:
 • Pinpoint snacking patterns and schedule activities that will keep you busy during those periods.
 • Avoid carrying loose change to feed the office vending machine. Carry bills of $5 or more — most people are reluctant to break big bills for snacks.
 • Keep a tray of frozen juice cubes in the freezer for a 10-calorie snack. The coldness also dulls your taste buds.

 • Curb sugar craving by eating a sour pickle.
 • Drink fragrant herbal teas to suppress hunger and give yourself a full feeling.
 • Use whole potatoes to create one-dish nutritious meals.
 • Use a cooking-oil spray instead of bottled oil for frying.
 • When food shopping, go for small sizes — thin-sliced bread, small eggs — and check calorie counts on labels.
 "Even small adjustments in your daily diet," Cornell's Levitsky told Patricia Bozic in Redbook, "can make a big difference in getting and keeping unwanted weight off."

Proper care is needed to avoid food poisoning

By JULIE LALO
For AP Newsfeatures
STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — The potato salad looks mouthwatering and even the common hot dog looks kindly as it sizzles over the coals.
 Whether this summertime meal becomes a memorable feast or a bout with serious illness has already been decided by the time it hits the table, says Gerald D. Kuhn, professor of food science at The Pennsylvania State University.

Food poisoning can ruin the most elaborately planned picnic if even one of several simple food-handling rules is broken, he says.
 "A lot of foods contain foodborne pathogens," he says, "but in small numbers. They are part of our environment." And as such, the bacteria are normally ingested and pass through our systems without our notice, he explains.
 During the summer, however, it is temperature that can "provide an ideal environment for (bacterial) populations to grow," he says. In food held at higher than refrigerator temperatures, it takes only two to four hours for normal numbers to grow to high enough populations to become toxic, Kuhn says.

Common picnic foods that are susceptible are meats, egg products, meat spreads, salads and, surprisingly, cream pies, Kuhn says. "I discourage anyone from taking a homemade cream pie to any carry-away eating activity," he says. "Bacteria grow best on these pies."
 "The big three," says Kuhn, can ruin a summer meal. Staphylococcus, clostridium perfringens and salmonella are the bacteria that, when found in excessive numbers in your food, can cause food poisoning and its accompanying painful symptoms.
 Kuhn says 100,000 bacterial germs per gram of food are not harmful, but if they multiply to 1 million or more per gram they can cause problems. The symptoms can include stomach cramps, diarrhea and vomiting, lasting from a few hours to several days.

Although bacteria are more commonly introduced through foods such as raw meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products, even if the food was "sterile" when purchased, how it is handled at home can turn an innocent-looking cheeseburger into a menace.
 "You know those signs in rest rooms that tell employees to wash their hands before returning to the bathroom and are handling food," he says.

 Improper holding temperatures and poor personal hygiene are two of the most common factors contributing to food poisoning, he says, so it is easy to understand why food poisoning is more likely with a summertime fresh-air meal.
 Kuhn recommends cooling as a particularly easy preventive. "Cool foods ahead of time and pack them in ice so they will never exceed 40 degrees in temperature," advises Kuhn, who suggests packaging for the cooler should be done with plastic. "Do this and almost any food can be perfectly safe on a cookout."
 As to the "myth" about mayonnaise, he says it is this condiment that can often save a sandwich or a salad from being a timebomb. "Mayonnaise is acidic. Food poisoning bacteria can grow in a normal mixture of food and mayonnaise, but they grow even better without it," he says. That does not mean that a food laced with mayonnaise doesn't need refrigeration, he adds.

 Outside of cream pies, there are no other foods he would absolutely discourage anyone from enjoying outside. What does he recommend as the best thing to take on a picnic?
 "Lots of fresh fruit and vegetables."

Organize that medicine chest

By REDBOOK
The bathroom medicine cabinet can be a cluttered and dangerous place and should be traded in for a new system of storing medical supplies.

The bathroom is fine for toothpaste, shampoo and beauty supplies, according to Redbook, but it is too damp and crowded for medicine.

Bathroom cabinets tend to be cluttered and confusing, mixing prescription and over-the-counter drugs, often housing unlabeled or outdated medication, sometimes in uncovered containers and non-sterile conditions.

The first step toward safe and sane medical supply storage is to create two medicine chests, according to pharmacy experts at the Food and Drug Administration Office of Public Affairs.

One box should contain only prescription drugs; the other devoted to nonprescription drugs and first aid supplies. Each box should contain clearly labeled compartments — fishing tackle boxes are easy to convert to this use.

In the prescription drug box, compartments should be labeled with the name of both the drug and the person for whom it was prescribed. Tape a list of contents to the lid of each box.

The best place to store medicine chests is a clothes or linen closet that is cool and dry — but make sure it does not contain moth crystals or insect repellent whose vapors might damage drugs.

Richard Penna, director of professional affairs for the American Pharmaceutical Association, offered a general guideline for what the well-stocked medicine chest should hold.

Drugs to have on hand include aspirin and/or acetaminophen, antacid, anti-bacterial topical medication, anti-diarrhea medication, antihistamines for allergy symptoms, antiseptic solutions such as iodine and hydrogen peroxide no stronger than 3 percent.

Also: burn ointment, calamine lotion, cough syrup, decongestant, an emetic such as syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting in case of accidental poisoning by a non-caustic substance, hydrocortisone cream, laxative, and petroleum jelly.

First-aid necessities suggested by Penna include absorbent sterile cotton for cleaning wounds, adhesive bandages, sterile gauze and adhesive tape, elastic bandages, an eye cup, small blunt scissors for cutting tape and gauze, thermometer, and tweezers for removing splinters.

The medicine chest also should contain a list of emergency telephone numbers — the nearest hospital, an ambulance service, your doctor, pharmacy and local poison control center.

Medicine that is out of date or has deteriorated because of poor storage can be either ineffective or, more rarely, toxic, warned Alberta L. Henderson, director of consumer affairs for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

"For your protection," she said, "never keep nonprescription medications beyond the expiration date on their labels, and keep prescription drugs no longer than one year from their label dates."

"And if you ever have any doubts that a medication is still good within these time limits, discard it."

Vitamin and mineral supplies should be kept in a cool, dry place and used within two years of purchase, according to J.B. Cordaro, president, Council for Responsible Nutrition in Washington.

To dispose of old medicine, Henderson told Redbook, flush capsules, tablets and liquids down the toilet and rinse containers before throwing out. Any medication that can't be flushed away should be well wrapped before disposal in an outdoor garbage container.

Preference for dad hard on mom

By REDBOOK
Little girls often shock their mothers by showing an open preference for their fathers — and even trying to replace mommy in daddy's affections.

It may be natural, says an article in Redbook, but it also is hard on mothers, who find themselves jealous and resentful of their own daughters.

Shared parenting turned sour for New York City magazine editor and freelance writer Ellen Sweet when her 5-year-old daughter showed a clear preference for her father.

"I tried to tell myself that girls always prefer their fathers," she wrote. "Then I tried to tell myself she'd grow out of this stage. But the more she seemed to favor her daddy, the more jealous I felt."

The experts have advice for parents on how to deal with the mother-father-daughter triangle. "Think of her behavior as a normal phase, like the 'terrible twos,' which may seem endless but will pass," said Dr. Froma Walsh, family therapist and researcher at the University of Chicago and the Family Institute of Chicago.

Walsh advised setting aside special mother-daughter time, saying, "Remember that you offer her your unique qualities as well; don't forget how important they are."

Allow her to favor her father, said Dr. Susan Bogas, psychologist and therapist in Princeton, N.J.

"Try to avoid reacting negatively to what she says and does," Bogas said. "Give her time alone with her father."

"Your feelings are normal, too," Walsh said. "It's natural to want to be no. 1 in your child's feelings, but keep in mind the family benefits of having your husband actively involved with her."

Walsh told mothers to remember their special place in their husband's affections.

"Remind yourself, I come first, and I'm loved too," she said. "The more self-confident you feel, the less likely you are to view your daughter's reactions as your own failure."

Bogas advised seeking husbandly support. "The more he understands what you're going through, the less chance there is for competition between you," she said, adding:

"Try to remember that your daughter's behavior is not directed at you but is her way of developing closeness with her father."

Walsh added: "This brief fling with her father is crucial to her development. It is her first attempt to become less dependent on you, and to establish her own relationship with her father."

The doctors said husbands should be receptive to the child's affection but should support their wives.

"Tell your daughter that you love both her and her mommy, but differently," Bogas said. "Make it clear, by your words and actions, that you accept her attentions, but that she can't get you to favor her over mommy."

A father can reaffirm his relationship with his wife, Walsh says, "by praising her competence as a mother, and by going out with her on a regular basis and doing things, as a couple, that you enjoy."

U.S. household size at record low

Single parent households up

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American household contained fewer people than ever last year, while families with children increasingly were headed by a single parent, the Census Bureau says.

The decline in the size of the household, from an average 2.73 persons in 1983 to 2.71 in 1984, resumes a trend which had been strongly under way since the 1960s. Also reflecting a dramatic post-1960s phenomenon, more than one in four families with children last year were headed by one parent, the Census Bureau said recently.

The maturing of the post-World War II Baby Boom generation helped spur the decline in overall family size, with many young people setting up households on their own and young couples postponing children to pursue education and careers.

At the same time, more and more elderly people continue to maintain households on their own rather than moving in with their children, a trend that also helps lower the average size of households.

Nonetheless, after falling from 2.76 in 1980 to 2.73 in 1981, the per-household average held steady until last year's drop.

Some sociologists speculated that family size had evened out because weak economic conditions discouraged the formation of new households. Thus improvements in the economy and increased public confidence may have led to the resumed decline found in the new study.

While household size has declined most steadily since the 1960s, the trend has been a way of life throughout the nation's history.

The first census in 1790 found an average of 5.79 persons per household. That slipped below five persons by 1890 and below four in 1940, after which it leveled off, fluctuating only slightly until the average reached 3.34 in 1961 and then began falling steadily.

But as household size has fallen, the number of one-parent situations has shot upward. Single-parent family groups constitute 25.7 percent of all family situations, up from 21.5 percent in 1980 and only 12.9 percent in 1970, the bureau reported.

Prime reasons for this change were cited as premarital birth, separation and divorce.

While the increase occurred among both black and white families, blacks reported a considerably higher ratio of one-parent situations, totaling nearly three out of five families in 1984, Census officials said.

The new study found 59.2 percent of black families with children had only one parent present, up from 51.9 percent in 1980 and 35.7 percent in 1970.

By contrast the 1984 figure for whites was 20.1 percent, up from 17.1 percent in 1980 and 10.1 percent in 1970.

In one-parent situations, mothers continue to predominate in caring for children. Women headed 22.9 percent of families with children, while 2.8 percent were headed by fathers only.

That is an increase for fathers, though. They headed 2.2 percent of the families with children in 1980 and only 1.3 percent in 1970, the bureau reported.

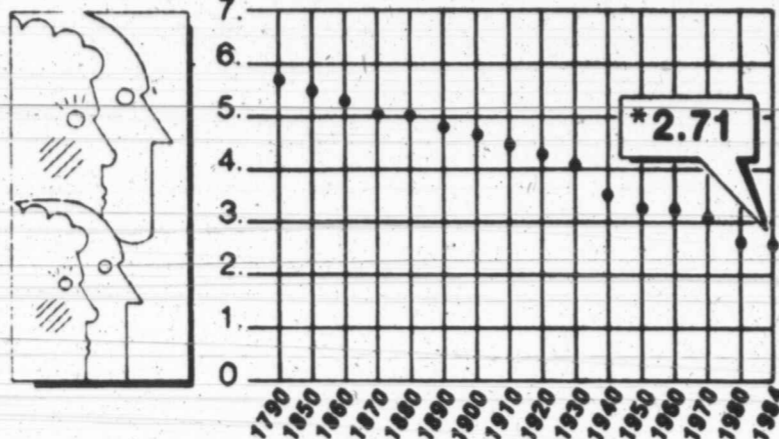

Other findings of the new report, which updates preliminary statistics issued earlier, included:

- There were 85.4 million households in the United States in 1984, including 61.9 million families. About one-third of the households had children under age 18.

- Married couple families constituted 73 percent of white households but only 53 percent among blacks.

- The median age of the head of household was 45.6 years in 1984,

Households Get Smaller

Household size has dropped at a higher pace since World War II as young people and the elderly increased the number of one-person households.

down from 46.1 in 1980 and 48.1 in 1970.

- Nearly 70 percent of households were located in metropolitan areas in 1984.

- The South had the most households, 34 percent, followed by the Midwest, 25 percent; Northeast, 21 percent, and West, 20 percent.

Horn descendants have reunion

Descendants of the John C. and Lucy M. Horn ancestry met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ravellette in Longview June 14-16 to begin an annual reunion for the family.

Attending the first event from Big Spring were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horn, the Marshall Horn family, and Mrs. Kurt Biesemeyer and family, Christy Irwin, Michael Irwin, Leslie Marie Irwin, and Kevin Irwin. With the exception of Jack Horn, all children of J.C. and Lucy Horn are deceased. All of the Horns who attended this reunion were born and raised in Big Spring.

In the early 1900s, Archie, P.M., Cliff and Betty Horn came to Howard County. P.M. was a machinist at the Texas and Pacific Roundhouse. Cliff filed on a homestead south of Morita near Lomax. Betty went to the Catholic convent school with Annie Berry Vines (wife of Charlie Vines, a well-known engineer at the T & P Railroad). These were cousins of John C. Horn.

In 1906, J.C., as he was known, came and built a home at 401 Goliad for his wife Lucy and their four children: Bob, Bill, John and Annie Mae. They were from Fisher County and established the Wig Wam Cafe across the street from the T & P Railroad ticket office. They served meals to railroad hands and section gangs.

Not long after J.C. established his family here, his brothers and a sister followed. Lawrence, Jim, Frank and Mamie (Mrs. Lee Powell) came but did not stay permanently. Archie Horn went to Oklahoma. P.M. went to the mines at Bisbee, Ariz. Mamie moved to Sylvester, and the others went to Alabama and Louisiana.

In later years, Bill Horn built the Horn Hotel, and a small cafe was built across the street. The cafe became a family affair and a fruit stand and small grocery store was added to it after it was moved to 4th and Goliad. Two more children were born into the family (Lorene and Jack), and another home was built at 504 E. 4th.

All the landmarks of the Horn family have gone way to concrete and steel. The Main Street Cafe (the Wig Wam) became Thomas Typewriter and Supply, which was closed last year. The Horn Hotel became the Duncan Hotel, which later made way for an automotive parts business. The old homes were demolished and the land became a used car lot, lately used as the Firefighters Union Headquarters. The Horns' also owned land which is now Lancaster Street, and some of the land is now in the court settlements known as Cole and Strayhorn.

Lucy Horn was an active member of the First United Methodist Church for more than 56 years.

Dr. Donohue

CREST a variant of scleroderma

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have written before with no answer forthcoming. If you don't answer this time I'll believe you know nothing about the ailment my doctor tells me I have or that he's treating me just to make money. It's scleroderma, or the CREST syndrome. Please tell me what scleroderma is all about. Is it common? Cure? — Mrs. M.R.

Scleroderma is fairly common. You may recognize the two Greek words, sclero and derma, for "hard" and "skin." Hardening of the skin is scleroderma's most obvious sign. It gets tight, making joint-bending difficult. CREST refers to a variation of the ailment, which I'll get into later. In scleroderma, the skin is not the only organ affected. The same thickening of tissue may occur in various other organs — esophagus, intestines, lungs, heart and kidneys. We don't know what causes all this to happen, but we do know that overproduction of collagen occurs. Collagen (KOL-uh-geen) is a fibrous material that serves as a sort of packing material under the skin throughout the body, supporting organs and filling spaces between them, rather like the packing foam one uses when shipping a delicate object through the mail. Collagen overproduction results in thickened skin and internal organ damage from pressure. CREST syndrome is, as I said, one of the variations on the same theme. It's an acronym. C stands for calcinosis (calcium deposits under the skin); R is for Raynaud's phenomenon (sensitivity of blood vessels to cold); E is for esophageal involvement (difficulty swallowing); S is for sclerodactyly (shiny bright and taught skin of fingers and toes); T stands for telangiectasis (a bunching of tiny blood vessels near the skin surface). The outlook for this variant of scleroderma is thought to be good. However, when speaking of this ailment generally, we think more in terms of control than cure. And there are several medicines for that — steroids, colchicine, probenecid. I hope I've restored some of your faith in your doctor?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please define hyperoxaluria — W.J. It means excess oxalate in the urine, usually a sign of oxalate kidney stones. We get oxalate from food intake, with some substances being particularly rich in it — foods like chocolate, beets, nuts and spinach. The problem is found in some people who have had surgery for intestinal bypass or among those with bowel disease. They may have trouble handling the substances. The usual answer is avoidance of the high-oxalate foods and increased fluid consumption.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please write something about cystocele. I am a woman of 57, fairly active. This was diagnosed three years ago. Now I have trouble when I stoop over or bend around. What is the cause, cure and prevention? — Mrs. L.R.H.

A cystocele comes from a weakening of muscles that support the urinary bladder. Cysto is the Greek word for bladder. When the muscles weaken the bladder falls and bulges into the vagina. This may produce a bearing down sensation, and there may be trouble controlling urination. When the woman strains there may be a little loss. Childbirth is the biggest cause. Surgery is the cure when it causes distress. Some find help with exercise to strengthen pelvic muscles. You practice stopping the urinary stream. Repeat this about 20 times a day in three or four sessions.

Dear Abby

Juror remains tight-lipped

DEAR ABBY: This is my second week of jury duty. I've committed for eight weeks of jury duty, and I am afraid by the time it is over, my marriage will also be over. My husband, a very opinionated and persuasive man, insists that I tell him the details of the trial I am now on, knowing full well that I have sworn not to talk about it until it's over. I have refused to discuss the case with him, but he is very angry, which has created a lot of friction between us.

Today is our 19th wedding anniversary, and he's using that as a reason why I should tell him. "After all," he said, "we've kept no secrets from each other all these years, and if you really love me you would trust me enough to tell me everything."

I told him I love him enough to not ask him to do something he thought was wrong. I looked forward to being an honest juror, and nobody is going to spoil it for me — not even my husband.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby. I'm signing my name, but for obvious reasons, sign this...

DEAR OFF: You are right on! In time, your husband's anger will blow over. Meanwhile, in his heart he knows you're right, and he can only love and respect you more for your integrity.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Tired of 'OK' in Arizona" brought to mind the following: Few people know the origin of the expression "OK." Our eighth president, Martin Van Buren, was born and raised in Kinderhook, N.Y. In later years he was nicknamed "Old Kinderhook."

During his presidency, when a bill was brought before him, he would either veto it or approve it by initialing it "OK" for his nickname. Hence an OK indicated approval.

And that's how OK became a part of the language.

DON FINN, ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR DON: Thanks for an interesting bit of trivia. And for those who wonder if I am any kin to Old Kinderhook, I am not. I took the Abigail from the Old Testament (Book of Samuel) and the Van Buren from our eighth president because I liked the aristocratic ring.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of this invitation from a 3-month-old son who was born out of wedlock: "John Jay Smith requests the pleasure of your company at an open house to celebrate the marriage of his parents, Richard James Smith and Jane Susan Doe, Saturday, June 15th, from 2:30 until 5:30 p.m. at their home" etc., etc.

SEEN EVERYTHING IN ST. PAUL, MINN. DEAR SEEN: I think it's unique, courageous and original.

DEAR ABBY: "Grieving in Gulfport, Miss." could have been signed "Grieving in Wichita, Kan." and written by me. Only it was my older sister who died from cigarettes. I tried to get her to quit, but her only answer was the same as many others: "I'm not hurting anybody but myself."

But the night she died, her family had to listen to her cry out, "Help me, help me." And that's the night she hurt a lot of other people.

Artist from throughout the United States are scheduled to teach oil, watercolor, acrylic painting as well as pastel, drawing and composition at the Jan Herring Workshop and Rheata White's Cloudcroft Summer Workshops.

Herring workshop features artists from Texas. Watercolor classes are from July 8-26 with a week of still life, landscape and portrait and figure. Enameling will be taught from July 1-5, and a beginning watercolor class will be taught July 29 to Aug. 2.

White will bring together many artists for her first annual summer workshop. She maintains a studio in Muleshoe, where she teaches classes in watercolor, oil, acrylic, enamel on copper and professional floral design. Rudy Calao of New York will teach still life in oil, demonstrating how to achieve the essence of fabric, flowers, glass, pewter and other objects.

John Squire Adams of San Antonio will teach portraits, and Angie Banta Brown of San Antonio will teach portraits and wild flowers. William Herring will teach drawing and composition.

Paul Milosevich of Sante Fe will focus on acrylic and oil, covering one day of still life, two days of landscape and two days of portraits. Cheryl Derrick of El Paso will teach oil painting. She paints mostly landscapes, still life, interiors and street scenes.

The week of July 1-5 has Leo Smith of Dallas teaching watercolor techniques. Creative drawing for kids with Helen Green, mixed drawing media with Esme Glenn and beginning watercolor with William Herring will be the week of July 8-12.

The last week of the Cloudcroft summer workshops will end with William Henry Earle teaching oil. He is from Wilton, Conn. and teaches marine painting, still life, landscape, portrait and figure.

For information on art classes contact the Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce at (505) 682-2733 or Rheata White or Jan Herring at (505) 682-2756.

Stenholm to make about 20 stops in week's time

Ever wonder if Congressman Stenholm earns his money. He will fly into the district late Friday night arriving in Abilene after 11 p.m. Very early the next morning he has to be at Dyess Air Force Base for day-long activities. Sunday he will be in Sweetwater. Monday in Clyde, Cross Plains, Coleman and back to Abilene. Tuesday he begins his day at 7 a.m. in Big Spring with the Salvation Army victory breakfast and groundbreaking at which he will make a speech. Then he goes to the Federal Prison at 10 a.m. for ceremonies and to give another speech. He has to hurry to Colorado City for a noon speech. Then back to Coahoma for a reception. At 4 p.m. he will be in Stanton to meet with constituents before returning to Stamford for another event. Wednesday he will be at Baird for a 7 breakfast. Then to Cisco, Ranger, Stephenville, DeLeon, Strawn, winding up at the Possum Kingdom Lions Club. Thursday, July 4, he will be in Bowie all day for a gigantic series of activities there. On Friday and Saturday he will work in his district office before leaving Sunday to head back to Washington to be at work early Monday morning. Monday, July 1, is his wedding anniversary, and he hopes to have dinner with Cindy in Abilene to celebrate.  Five Big Springers have been awarded Permian Honor Scholarships for their last semesters at UTPB. The scholarships were awarded based on the academic excellence of: Barbara Hernandez, Amy Aguilar, Natalie Parmenter, Robbie Rhoton and Lloyd Sam Hunnicut.  The Friends of the Library, led by President Kelly Draper, is an aggressive group who makes things happen. They are in the process of setting long-term goals through a self-study. Because this group has made some very wise fund-raising moves, it has the money to plan a course of action and then get the ball rolling without having to call on the taxpayers to fund it through the County budget. The Friends have retained Gene Mikeska to do a space evaluation study. There are several possibilities to make the library more "user friendly" — an elevator, more private office space, a children's area in the basement; better book flow and check out arrangement; landscaping; a kitchen and lounge for staff use. After the study is complete, a master plan will be developed and submitted for approval.

Judith Gray and her good staff do wonders despite the overcrowded conditions.  Kathy Terrazas, high school teacher, has had another article published — this one in CORRECTIONS TODAY, the official magazine of the American Correction Association. It is an article about Joe Whitten and His Children and their prison ministry.  A new kind of garden club has come about. It is called Corporate Garden Club or Workers Garden Clubs. The idea originated because workers who otherwise couldn't take advantage of opportunities offered by traditional garden clubs began forming clubs at work to meet during the noon hour. The first of these clubs was started at the K Mart Corporate Headquarters in Asheville, N.C. Corporate garden clubs differ from career garden clubs in that all members are employed by one company. A minimum of 10 interested persons is required before a club can be formed and affiliate with the national Garden Clubs. The local Council of Garden Clubs will assist any company group who want to form. Contact Edna Womack or Annie Matt Angel.  Sesquicentennial plans for

Howard County are well under way with Wade Choate and Katie Grimes at the helm. At an executive meeting a few weeks ago, publicity chairman Mel Prather recommended that some souvenir items be ordered for sell. This was approved and has now arrived. A "store" will be set up at the museum. A booth will also be set up for this purpose at the Rehab Festival on July 4.  A special evening will be held at Furr's Cafeteria Wednesday, June 26, featuring Ronda Fowler. Ronda needs the support as she prepares to leave to participate in the Miss Texas Pageant representing Howard County. Diners will watch Ronda model her Miss Texas wardrobe and present her talent selection. Those interested in attending this dutch-treat dinner can reserve a place by calling 267-6311, extension 229. Cheri Sparks is her sponsor. Call me about your news! This column is written by Jeanne Lou Avery.

Shower honors mother and son

Chase Carroll and his mother Darlene Carroll were honored at a baby shower June 20 at the home of Debbie Hicks. Hostesses for the event were: Shana McGee, Paulla Hull, Terri Blackshears, Terri Johansen, Janet Hull, Valerie Sholwalter, Nita Wright, Cindy Stanley, Crickett Pairett, Karen Porter, Mary Cain and Mindy Claxton. Their gift to the honorees was a car seat. The shower's theme of "Pin Dot Goose" was incorporated in the decorations, cake and a wooden goose pull toy made by Stanley. Special guests in attendance were the baby's grandmothers Dorothy Stephens and Dorothy Carroll. Chase was born June 4 to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carroll of 1810 Alabama. He was welcomed home by sister Kristina, 2½.
