Court OKs Panhandle nuke dump

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas attorney general's office said Friday it will appeal a federal court's refusal to review a Department of Energy plan to consider two Panhandle sites as potential nuclear waste dumps.

A three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans rebuffed Texas officials Friday in their effort to block consideration of the Deaf Smith County sites.

Spokeswoman Loretta Hendley of the Texas attorney general's office said Texas would ask for the entire 5th U.S. Circuit Court to hear the state's plea. She said that motion would be filed next week.

The court dismissed a petition by Texas officials that sought review of the DOE's listing of the Texas sites as potentially acceptable.

"Review at this point would entail a waste of judicial and administrative resources, would be difficult to conduct in any event for lack of a meaningful framework within which such review may go forward, and would detract from the public review process currently in process," the panel said.

It said the state still had the opportunity to "attack the designation by bringing complaints directly" to Energy Secretary Donald Hodel "through the public hearing process, and judicial review would likely interfere with the administrative process under way with respect to the sites."

"Should he (Hodel) decide not to nominate either Texas site our review would have served little purpose, and if either is nominated, review will swiftly follow," the panel said.

The opinion by Judge Patrick Higginbotham said Texas can demand public hearings near any site subject to nomination.

Sites in two other states also are being considered by the federal government for a national nuclear waste disposal site.

AB-1lene buzzing over new bomber

Harte-Hanks News Service
ABILENE — Finding a drink called the "B-1 Bomber" will be a lot easier than finding an empty hotel room here this weekend as the Air Force's newest plane wings its way to Dyess Air Force Base.

Cars all over this West Texas town are sporting bumper stickers that proclaim: "AB-1lene." The city's population is expected to double to about 200,000 with the influx of spectators hoping to catch a glimpse of the 2 p.m. arrival Saturday of the B-1B bomber. Some hotels already were booked up several weeks ago, reservation clerks confirmed.

The Abilene Kiva Inn's version of its bomber drink is a mixture of amaretto and Bailey's Irish Creme topped off with a dash of rum, which is ignited to make the beverage flame, explained the hotel's manager, Jimmy Morris.

"It's a rather mild drink," he said. "We decided not to try to fuel the B-1 but to have a drink in celebration of it."

The hotel also has developed a dessert in honor of the new bomber, Morris said. The concoction is made of chocolate cake and green mint ice cream cut in the shape of an airplane and topped with whipped cream.

The base is prepared to accommodate up to 100,000 people for the ceremony, and approximately 50,000 parking places will be available, said Capt. Kenny Wilkerson, a member of the bomber arrival committee.

Wilkerson said that "most of the distinguished visitors are military or congressmen and senators and will be coming into Dyess" rather than flying in on commercial or private planes.

Corpus Christi No. 1 pick for battleship port

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Corpus Christi reportedly will be the homeport for a battleship naval force, but Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger will not give final approval to a site until early next week, according to a high-ranking Navy official.

A congressional source close to the decision-making process said Friday that Corpus Christi apparently has surfaced at the top of the list of Gulf Coast cities seeking the port. The recommendation to Weinberger was made by Navy Secretary John F. Lehman.

The decision will not be final until Weinberger "signs off" on the proposal, said Navy Assistant Secretary Charles G. Untermeyer.

He said there would be several announcements when the homeport decision is made public and that at least one, and possibly several of the ships in the Battleship Surface Action Group would go to sites other than the main homeport.

Several sources suggested that if Corpus Christi loses out with its bid for the battleship, the city likely will be awarded another of the support ships.

Untermeyer and Navy spokesmen would not confirm that Lehman had recommended Corpus Christi as the homeport site for the Gulf Coast.

Several congressional sources confirmed that Houston-Galveston had been eliminated for the homeport selection and a Florida congressional aide said his office had been informed that Lake Charles, La., also had been eliminated.

Bambi, bear best of friends

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Bambi and Honey might never have met in their habitat, but within the confines of an animal hospital the white-tail fawn and black bear cub have become pals.

"They're both babies," said veterinarian Paul Gunnoe of his patients, who roughhouse and fight over the honey jar and his affections. "They don't have any prejudices right now."

Honey, who is 5 or 6 months old, was found by a motorist after she had been hit by a car Sunday night in Cabin Creek.

As the man was driving her to Charleston to seek medical attention, Honey became dizzy from her injuries and nearly fell from the back of his truck. Connie Summers, who was following the truck, stopped when she saw what was happening and volunteered to help.

She brought the bear to Gunnoe, who frequently treats wild animals. "I held her all the way here," said Summers, who stopped Thursday to visit the cub. "She would just lie there and every once in a while get up and stretch — just like a baby."

Honey was suffering from a concussion and shock, and cuts on her back toes required stitches.

Bambi was already a patient at the hospital when Honey arrived. The fawn, who is about 3 months old and a resident of the St. Albans Parks and Recreation petting zoo, had been bitten by a dog, and the wound had become infected.

The two have quickly become Gunnoe's star patients, stealing the hearts of everyone they meet.

Honey has developed a fondness for bologna and hot onions, as well as peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

"We've spoiled them," admits Gunnoe's wife, Robin.

Lynn Brickles, a veterinary assistant, said if she had her choice, "I'd take them home with me."

Post office is community focalpoint in tiny East Texas town

GOBER, Texas (AP) — If walls could sing, the Gober post office would chime some pleasant melodies.

In this Northeast Texas town of 250 people, the tiny post office represents more than just 65 boxes and a place to buy stamps. It's the unofficial center for renewing friendships, spreading a little gossip and in general, living the good life.

The current officer-in-charge of this U.S. Government abode, Judy Robinson, says, "You just have to live in a small community to know what we feel. This is a neat little place to live and the post office is a gathering place for many of us."

Gober resident John Glover continued these thoughts: "This post office is needed. But it represents more to many of us — it's an identification for the whole town; it gives us a name."

The Gober post office has a rich history. From 1965 to 1982, Opal Nelson was postmistress of the facility. When news reports predicted imminent doom for many small post offices a few years ago, Mrs. Nelson circulated a petition in the town.

The document was passed on to U.S. Rep. Ray Roberts who later acted to reassure the townspeople that their beloved post office would not be closed.

The 102-year-history of the Gober post office began with the first postmaster, James Christian, who took up his duties Nov. 24, 1879.

To date, 19 postmasters and officers-in-charge have run the facility. Three of these people served about 17 years each.

For 73 years, Joe Porter has known life around the Gober post office.

"We think a lot of the post office. We go down to wait for the mail ... It's brought each day by the mail carrier from Wolfe City," said Porter. "Somedays he's a little later than others because he has to stop at every mailbox to distribute a local shopper's guide. We don't mind because we just gossip and sit and wait." "There is always, 10 or 15 of us down there. Yep, it's the highlight of my day. It's about the smallest post office around here and we're a-hopin' to keep it awhile. None of us down here knows a thing, we just talk about the weather and wait for the mail."

Timmy Davis, who has carried the mail to Gober for the last ten years, said, "I would hate to see this post office close — that is what these people look forward to every day." For many years, the home of the post office was in the local grocery store. In 1944, several local men put up money and constructed the current building.

The Gober Cemetery Association bought a parcel of land and the post office was placed there.

Ms. Robinson feels strongly about her friends and the style of life in Gober: "I wouldn't take a million dollars for any of these people. If I ever got in trouble, I could just lean out the front door and yell for help, and someone would come running."

Another resident, Barry Young, has some thoughts: "We go down to the post office to pass the pleasantries of the day. We find out who is sick and well. This is a nice, quiet life ... a little town that is just barely hanging on. We have some characters here, but they are all good people."

Gober was first known as Gritterville, "gritter" being an old-time expression for grist. Later, the town was named in honor of J.F. Gober who owned a cotton gin and waterpowered grist mill.

Apparently, the post office will be laying down some more history before all is said and done. Director of Customer Service for the Postal Service in Dallas, Barbara Haisley, had some reassuring words for Gober residents. "The postal service is not making an effort to do away with small post offices," she said. "As far as I know, it is not feasible for us to cut out service to many small, isolated communities."

At Farm Roads 68 and 271 in Northeast Texas, there is a post office that is loved.

As Judy Robinson likes to say, "It doesn't matter how little this post office is, the service and the friendship are big."

LULAC meeting marred by Coors demonstration

ANAHEIM, Calif., (AP) — A co-author of the controversial Simpson-Mazzoli Immigration Bill prepared Friday to address the League of United Latin American Citizens, and protesters gathered to demonstrate against the partial financing of the meeting by Adolph Coors Co.

LULAC National President Mario Obledo said the league had no problems inviting U.S. Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyoming, even though the organization disagrees with his stance on immigration issues.

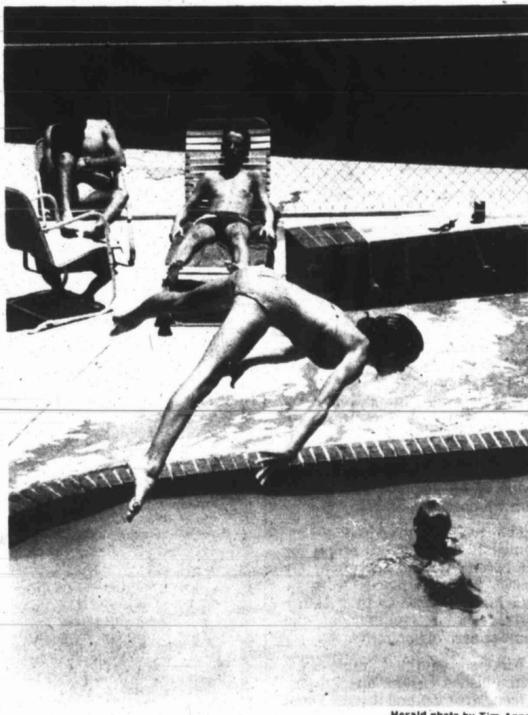

"I'm willing to listen to all views," Obledo said Thursday. "We invited him to inform the membership. We invite friends and foes alike."

Simpson, who co-authored the bill with Rep. Romano L. Mazzoli of Kentucky, was invited to the league's 56th annual convention, held at the Anaheim Marriott Hotel through Sunday.

The bill has been a volatile issue with Hispanics. Opponents claim the bill discriminates against undocumented workers. If passed, it would impose strict penalties on employers who knowingly hire undocumented workers, give amnesty to those illegal aliens who've been in this country since 1982 and reinstitute a guest worker program.

The protest is being organized by a coalition of 12 community groups calling itself the Orange County Coors Boycott Coalition. The group plans to set up an informational picket line to distribute an open letter intended inform LULAC members of alleged racist policies by Coors.

Bell rate case delayed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public Utility Commission on Friday delayed the opening of the Southwestern Bell rate case one day, but consumers still will get to air their views Monday.

Bell's request for a $323.4 million rate hike had been set to open Monday, but the commission granted a one-day postponement at the request of Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle. Despite the delay, consumers will be allowed to make comments to the hearing examiner Monday.

In an opening statement filed Friday, Boyle called Bell the "largest, most pervasive monopoly in Texas." The company's Texas rates should be slashed by $124 million, he said.

4 treated for crash injuries

Four people injured when a car rolled over Friday morning in Howard County have been released from the hospital.

A spokesman at Malone-Hogan Hospital they "were seen by a doctor and discharged." According to a Department of Public Safety report, those treated for injuries were Homer Bexley, 33, Willard Rhymes, 39, Thomas Moon, 30, and Gene Rogers, 36, all of Odessa.

The accident took place 16 1/2 miles north of Big Spring on FM 1584, said DPS Trooper William Cooper. Cooper said the rollover occurred when Bexley, driving a 1982 Chevrolet Suburban, "swerved to avoid hitting" a Ford pickup driven by J.W. Smallwood, 40, of Sterling City Route. The pickup was stopped on the road in the northbound lane; Bexley was driving in the southbound lane, Cooper said.

Midland County sheriff's deputies arrested Theresa M. Anzaldua of Colorado City on Howard County warrants charging her with issuing bad checks. She was released on bonds totalling $400.

Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper William Cooper transferred Craig Merritt, 23, of Odessa from Midland to Howard County Jail. There were three DPS traffic warrants issued for his arrest.

The remaining cities competing for the base, besides those two sites and Corpus Christi, are Pensacola, Fla., Pascagoula, Miss., and Mobile, Ala. The Associated Press reported Friday that the selection had been narrowed to Corpus Christi, Pensacola or Pascagoula.

An aide for a Houston congressman said his office had been told that a frigate in the action group probably would be based in Houston.

The complete surface action group will include the battleship USS Wisconsin, one guided missile cruiser, one guided missile destroyer, one guided missile frigate, reserve guided missile frigates and a destroyer tender to provide maintenance for the ships.

An official announcement on the homeport is expected early next week, perhaps Tuesday. Navy officials have said for more than a month that the announcement would be made prior to July 4.

"There's still time to change minds," Navy spokeswoman Lt. Patricia O'Neill said of the final decision.

In the defense spending bill passed Thursday by the House, $53.5 million was authorized for continued renovation of the Wisconsin in 1986. The Senate authorized the same amount in its defense bill that passed June 5.

While Congress has authorized the renovation, actual funding for the project still will have to receive congressional approval.

Jet crew thwarts hijack

ISTANBUL, Turkey — The crew of a Turkish Airlines jet overpowered a passenger who burst into the cockpit during a flight Friday and sprayed the pilots with a fire extinguisher, Turkey's semi-official news Anatolia agency reported.

The Boeing 727, with 81 passengers aboard, landed safely in Istanbul, its destination, the independent Hurriyet news agency said. The flight began in Frankfurt, West Germany. Anatolia said the passenger, whom it identified as Yusuf Oren, a Turk, was disgruntled because his West German work permit had been canceled.

S. Africa bans meetings

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The white government on Friday more than doubled the number of anti-apartheid groups banned from holding public meetings, and extended the ban for six months.

A government spokesman also rejected as "absolutely ridiculous and unfounded" the guerrilla group's charge that police had tricked seven activists into killing themselves with grenades this week. Seven blacks were killed and seven wounded late Wednesday in blasts in three black townships east of Johannesburg. Police said six of the victims had their hands blown off, and suggested they died in a failed "coordinated terrorist attack."

Cops find IRA cache

GLASGOW, Scotland — Police hunting alleged Irish Republican Army bombmakers sealed off a section of this Scottish industrial city's south side Friday, and there was a report they had found an arms cache.

Bystanders near cordoned-off James Gray Street, where dozens of families were evacuated from their homes, said they heard a muffled thud from the vicinity, but police refused comment.

Jet's recorder located

CORK, Ireland — An Irish government spokesman said a British navy search ship had tentatively located the flight recorders of an Air-India jumbo jet that crashed in the Atlantic. The British said they weren't positive they had found the recorders.

In London, the British Ministry of Defense issued a statement saying that the seabed support vessel HMS Challenger had received a weak and intermittent signal since Wednesday but that "the nature of the signal has been such that she was unable to locate or analyze it."

Jamaica strike ending

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Most utilities, schools and government offices operated normally in Jamaica on Friday, but soldiers had to load and haul fuel because of a five-day-old general strike over government economic policies.

Leaders of five major unions said after a mass rally late Thursday that the strike in the Caribbean island, which began Monday, would continue. Many public employees began returning to working Thursday, however. The government of Prime Minister Edward Seaga made no public comment, either on union plans to pursue the strike or on Thursday's call by the opposition People's National Party for Seaga's resignation.

Hostages talk to reporters; may be Syria-bound

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Government sources said Friday that a U.N. envoy was negotiating a plan under which the 39 American hijack hostages would be moved to Syria and held there until Israel frees 735 Lebanese prisoners.

Nabih Berri, the Shiite Moslem militia leader who has taken responsibility for the hostages, produced three of them for reporters. Allyn Conwell of Houston, Texas, said he believed Israel should release the prisoners "because there's got to be one hell of a strong cry from the American people for justice to prevail in this situation."

Jean-Claude Aime, a Haitian serving as special envoy for the U.N. secretary-general, Javier Perez de Cuellar, has visited Beirut and was in Jerusalem on Friday for discussions with Israeli officials.

Aime said he had not been to Damascus, and would give no information on his talks.

The Lebanese sources said the Americans could be taken to Damascus within 48 hours, but U.N. officials in New York said reports that an agreement was near should be treated with "extreme caution."

U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani would not comment. The other officials spoke on condition of anonymity.

The United States and Syria, which is the main power broker in Lebanon and backs most Moslem militias, have been in contact about resolving the crisis.

The American hostages have been held since Shiite extremists hijacked a TWA jetliner June 14 on a flight between Athens and Rome. They killed a U.S. Navy petty officer Robert Dean Stethem and have released the more than 100 other people aboard.

Berri, chief of the more moderate Amal militia, proposed Wednesday that the Americans be moved to a Western embassy or to Syria until Israel frees the prisoners as demanded by both Berri and the hijackers.

Possible arrangements with France or Switzerland appeared to have collapsed Thursday. Both insisted that the hostages be freed unconditionally.

Israel and the United States have maintained official silence for the past few days.

An Israeli official said privately Friday, however, that Israel had not changed its policy of gradually releasing the Lebanese prisoners, most of whom are Shiites, as security conditions in south Lebanon permit. The Lebanese are accused of plotting or carrying out attacks on Israeli units during the withdrawal from south Lebanon.

Israel let 31 of the prisoners go on Monday, and said the release was unrelated to the American hostages.

Berri produced the three Americans at his sandbagged home in west Beirut. After the news conference he gave the hostages — Conwell, 39; Simon Grossmayer, 57, of Algonquin, Ill., and the Rev. James W. McLoughlin, 45 of Geneva, Ill. — a luncheon of hommus — mashed chickpeas — eggplant, barbecued lamb and chicken.

Conwell said it did not surprise him that the United States had not asked Israel publicly to release the Lebanese prisoners because Washington does not "want to cave in to terrorism."

He said Berri's offer to move the hostages to a Western embassy was a "noble initiative." He urged Israel to "grow up and reciprocate by doing what I think all people in the world know is right."

McLaughlin said there was gunfire every night around the house in which he was being held.

Bail sought for ill Nazi

LOS ANGELES — A magistrate said Friday he intends to set bail for Andrija Artukovic, accused of overseeing the deaths of 700,000 people as a Nazi collaborator, because the ailing man's imprisonment is cruel and unusual punishment.

Artukovic, whose ailments include senility and partial blindness, has been held at the federal medical facility in Springfield, Mo., since March 15 as he battles extradition to Yugoslavia. Artukovic served as the World War II interior minister of the Nazi puppet state of Croatia.

Virginia judge resigns

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — West Virginia's top judge, acknowledging "public outrage" over his firing a secretary for refusing to baby-sit, gave up the post of chief justice Friday but kept his seat on the Supreme Court and offered the woman her job back.

Pat White, state treasurer of the National Organization for Women, said the decision by Richard Neely was a "step in the right direction" but reiterated NOW's demand that he also resign from the court. She said Neely's announcement will not stop investigations into the controversy.

UAW ponders contract

MILWAUKEE — The United Auto Workers considered American Motors Corp.'s "final and best proposal" on Friday, the automaker's deadline for concessions before it would begin closing its two Wisconsin plants employing 7,400 people.

The company had set Friday as the deadline for reaching an agreement, saying that the Milwaukee plant would be shut down by Sept. 18 and the Kenosha plant no later than July 1, 1986, unless concessions were approved.

Cops indicted in looting

BOSTON — Four of six Revere police officers sent to a drugstore after its burglar alarm sounded were indicted Friday on larceny charges, and two of the six were indicted on perjury charges.

Three of the officers had been picked from a lineup by a hooded witness who claimed he saw six police officers looting the store Feb. 1. The witness's allegations were the basis for broadcast reports on the incident, and a reporter had faced a jail term for not revealing the witness's identity.

TV woman loses award

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A federal appeals court Friday took away the $325,000 a jury awarded Christine Craft, the former television anchorwoman who waged two court battles against the station she claimed demoted her because of her appearance.

It marked the second time judges have overruled juries that awarded Ms. Craft large sums of money. The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Metromedia Inc., former owners of KMBCTV, had not defrauded Ms. Craft by promising "no makeover or substantial changes" in her appearance.

Cherokees hold council

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. — Eastern and Western bands of the Cherokee Nation renewed a ceremonial council fire Friday, the second such reunion since soldiers 150 years ago herded most of the tribe on a forced relocation march known as "The Trail of Tears."

More tough talk from Reagan on hostages

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — President Reagan on Friday linked the fate of the 39 U.S. hostages from the hijacked TWA jetliner with seven Americans kidnapped earlier in Lebanon, saying there was nothing wrong with trying to win the freedom of anyone "kidnaped by thugs and murderers and barbarians."

While refusing to say there has been progress toward winning the Americans' release, Reagan crossed his fingers and, with a smile on his face, said, "You know me, I'm superstitious. I never talk about a no-hitter if you're pitching one."

Answering reporters' questions during a luncheon with community leaders during a visit to this Chicago suburb, the president used strong language when he was asked if it was a mistake, as one of the TWA hostages suggested, to insist upon the simultaneous release of all 46 Americans held captive in Lebanon — the 39 TWA hostages, taken June 14, and seven people kidnapped earlier, one as long ago as March 1984.

"I don't think anything that attempts to get people back who have been kidnapped by thugs and murderers and barbarians is wrong to do," said Reagan.

"We are going to do everything we can to get all Americans back that are held in that way."

In a taped telephone interview with CBS, hostage Allyn Conwell said earlier Friday that he was distressed by the Reagan administration's demand for the release of all 46 Americans. He said the Amal militia holding the TWA hostages were not the same Lebanese as those holding the seven, elsewhere in Beirut.

Butcher profits in photography career

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Not many, if any, one-time butchers ever get international photography recognition, but Max Hutchins, owner of Max's Photography at 211 Johnson, is proof that 36 is not too old to start a new career.

Ten years ago Hutchins made a move that he "never regretted." The butcher left his occupation to pursue a career in photography.

His new career began to evolve after he bought a 35 mm camera and took up a new hobby. In just a few years, his pastime had turned into a booming business. The increasing demand for his work would not allow him to continue on a part-time basis, so he opened Max's Photography in Midland.

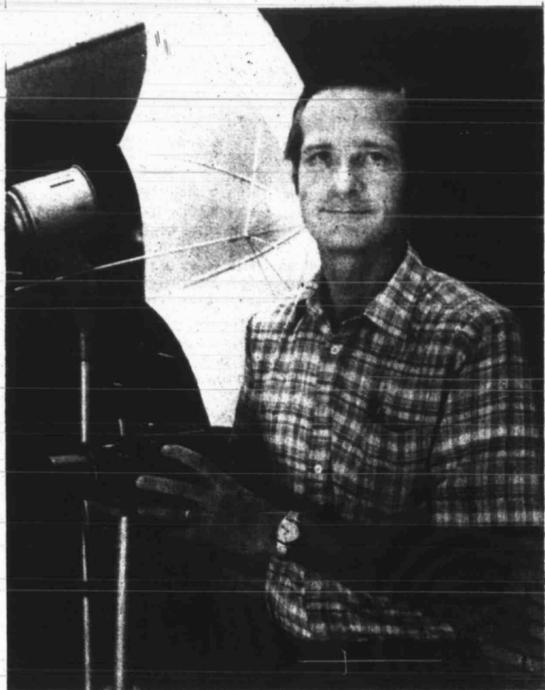

After 10 years of operating in Midland, he is ready to expand, he said. At the prompting of Big Spring residents, Hutchins chose to open a second store here.

June 17 marked the opening for Max's Photography of Big Spring.

Hutchins' goals in Big Spring are to take an active part in rebuilding the downtown area, and give the city the best quality photography available, he said.

He said his specialty is "ladies portraits done with a glamour flare."

In doing them, he combines soft lights and a soft focus, which gives a "sensual way to photograph a woman and bring out all of the beauty that's already there," he said.

MAX HUTCHINS of Midland has opened a new studio, Max's Photography, at 211 Johnson. The store is open Tuesday through Friday from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Hutchins has studied under several famous glamour and lighting photographers, including Peter Gowland of Hollywood, Calif., Dean Collins of Lemon Grove, Calif. and Steve Palen of Las Vegas, Nev.

Though glamour photography is his favorite line of work, Hutchins has also profited from other forms of photography. His "Apache Tear" photograph which profiles a crying Indian was chosen by the National Loan Collection for its gallery display in 1982. Hutchins said that this is very prestigious recognition, as only an average of 5 percent of the nation's photographers have work in this collection.

"I feel real fortunate to have done that," Hutchins said.

Other awards received during his photography career include an International Merit Award Honorable Mention and two National Merit Awards. He has also had 16 of his prints hung at the Southwest Photography Convention, and six have been hung at the state convention.

Hutchins also does team, wedding, aerial, and commercial pictures. Hutchins also does model portfolios, as well as family portraits.

"Everytime I take a picture, it's like taking in a breath of fresh air," he said.

Hutchins does most of the photography at his Midland store himself and all of the photography for his Big Spring customers. "I really don't like any work going out with my name on it that I didn't do," he said.

Presently Max's Photography is open Tuesday through Friday from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. and by appointment.

G & M Garage adds computer to its tools

A partnership between mechanic and computer saves time and money for G & M Garage and its customers, co-owner George Leatham said.

The Big Spring automobile service center, owned by Leatham and his wife Mary and located at 900 E. Third, added a $21,000 computer to its tools last week.

The computer, a Smart Engine Analyzer made by the Allen Group, Inc. of Kalamazoo, Mich., helps G & M speed up repair time, cut down on labor costs and reduce car owner expenses, Leatham said.

The computer analysis "physically tells you to replace, adjust or service," Leatham said. "It is artificial intelligence."

In a 15-minute car examination, the computer is capable of giving a mechanic 640 diagnoses. It virtually identifies all problems, Leatham said.

Problems identified in the analysis can be approached by a technician immediately without any time wasted on guesswork, Leatham said.

The 15 minute examination saves over three hours on the average that a technician spends identifying problems, he said.

Once a problem has been identified, he said, the computer "walks a technician through" the manual work required to correct what is wrong with the vehicle.

Leatham said a unique thing that he has noticed in his early uses with the machine is that it "doesn't treat every car the same."

The Smart Engine Analyzer holds information on almost all cars produced in and after 1981. However, it is still useful on other cars. With enough information, "I can physically make my own program," Leatham said.

At G & M the computer is turned on in the morning and not turned off until close. Because of its accuracy, Leatham has begun using it before and after most repair jobs. "It helps us hit more home runs more often," he said.

Leatham said that the system is the most up-to-date of its kind offered in Big Spring. An analysis costs $42.50.

Two businesses relocate

Downtown Big Spring gained one business and will lose due to relocations.

Moffat Carpet and Furniture, formerly located at 1009 11th Place, has moved downtown to 200 Main.

Sue Hooser, Moffat salesperson, said the decision to move was a good one, because the store's business has increased.

The store is owned and operated by Linda Biden.

Moffat Carpet and Furniture is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Today is the last day to find Big Spring Athletics at 215 Main. Monday, the store will open at its new location in the Highland Mall on FM 700.

The move was prompted by a need for additional space, according to owner Dick Helms.

Big Spring Athletics is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Man celebrates release by Shiite hijackers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Freed hostage Jimmy Dell Palmer, arriving home Friday night, told 200 people greeting him at the airport that "American people are the greatest people because they love freedom."

Palmer, 48, was accompanied by his wife, Sammie, on the flight from London via St. Louis to Little Rock. In a brief session with reporters, Palmer refused to comment on the plight of the 39 remaining hostages held by Shiite Moslem extremists.

His voice tight with emotion, Palmer said: "I did try to collect some of my thoughts on the way home but I don't think I can hold my composure to even think about them. I'd just like to say to my family, my friends and my fellow Americans, this is the greatest homecoming anybody could ever ask for."

A jazz band played "Tie A Yellow Ribbon," and the crowd cheered as the Palmers exited the TWA airplane. City and state officials presented proclamations declaring Friday as "Jimmy Dell Palmer Day" in Little Rock and Arkansas. Spectators wore yellow ribbons pinned to their shirts, and there were yellow balloons tied with yellow ribbons and a hand-painted banner.

Asked whether reports Friday that the remaining hostages were being taken to Damascus, Syria, gave him hope for their release, Palmer said: "I felt like we were close to an end ever since I've left. I'm surprised it hasn't ended already."

Palmer said the time on the airplane with the hijackers was the hardest part of the ordeal. "Until we were taken off the airplane, our lives could have passed from us at any time, many times," he said. He would not comment on whether the United States should retaliate against the hijackers once the other hostages are freed.

Although he attributed his release to his health problems, Palmer said he felt great. When reporters asked what he and his wife planned to do on their 29th wedding anniversary Sunday, Palmer said with a laugh, "I'm going to be hiding from you, for one thing."

After the 20-minute ceremony, Palmer and his family, including three sons who greeted their parents on the plane along with about 29 other family members and friends, were driven home in a city-provided van with a police escort.

Officials were notified early Friday that Palmer and his wife had left London, where they were reunited Thursday after he was held hostage for 12 days.

Palmer, Mrs. Palmer and their youngest son, Joe Don, 13, were among 153 passengers and crew aboard TWA Flight 847 when it was hijacked Jun 14. Mrs. Palmer and her son were among the first hostages to be released.

Amal militia leader Nabih Berri set Palmer free in Beirut, citing his heart problem. Palmer's doctor said he was to undergo a heart catheterization to see how much arterial blockage he had.

Palmer said he will return to Saudi Arabia, where he worked as an air-conditioning engineer.

Former hostage JIMMY DELL PALMER and his wife Sammie arrive at the Little Rock Airport Friday night.

Hostages show sympathy for captors

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the 9 Americans being held hostage by Shiite Moslems in Lebanon have "profound sympathy" for their captors' cause, hostage Allyn Conwell said Thursday.

And the brother and girlfriend of hostage Ralf Traugott said Thursday that they and others had been invited to Beirut to visit the captives, who have been held since June 14, when TWA Flight 847 was hijacked.

Conwell and Traugott were permitted to call home Wednesday night.

Traugott's girlfriend, Niki Assimakopoulos of Fitchburg, Mass., said that during a two-hour call, his captors invited her to visit the hostages in Beirut and "apologized for Ralf being hostage there. They said they really like Ralf and that he was their friend."

Meanwhile, Donna Jill Brown, 39, wife of hostage Richard G. Brown, 42, of Stow, Mass., said she doubted the wisdom of a trip to Beirut.

"Ralf's girlfriend has to make a decision tonight," she said. "I'm not telling her what to do, but what she does could affect the hostages and the situation is too delicate now."

Miss Assimakopoulos had not decided whether to go to Beirut as of late Thursday, according to her father, John.

Traugott's brother, Axel, said he has not decided whether to make the trip. "I pushed myself so hard over the last three days without any sleep, I almost collapsed," said Axel Traugott. "For health reasons... I decided to sit back and take a look at the situation again. I haven't ruled out a trip."

His brother had been granted the telephoning privilege because "we are very sympathetic to the cause of the Amal and the Lebanese people," Axel said in New York on NBC's "Donahue" show.

Conwell, 39, of Houston; Ralf Traugott, 32, of Lunenburg, Mass.;

and the Rev. James McLoughlin, 45, of Geneva, Ill., appeared in a 45-minute interview with ABC News from a Beirut seaside resort Thursday, the 14th day of the hostage crisis.

They were unshaven and appeared somewhat tired, but all three said they and the other hostages were in good health.

The interview was overseen by six Amal guards, one of them armed, said Charles Glass, ABC Middle East correspondent. He said the three hostages appeared to be on good terms with their captors and were "laughing and joking together."

McLoughlin, asked whether he felt he was being used for propaganda purposes, said only that he felt the interview gave him a chance to "speak directly to my family and the people of my parish... an opportunity to show them by seeing me on the TV that I'm doing well."

Carol Jacklin, McLoughlin's secretary and bookkeeper in Illinois, said he looked "fine — he looked good." Of references to the hostages appearing unshaven, she said, "The beard is very natural for Father Jim."

Traugott said he did "not feel any pressure." "I'm not here of my own free will but it's not as difficult as I thought it would be," he said. "It's not as hard as people imagine, I'm sure, back in America."

Conwell, who had acted as the hostages' spokesman at an airport news conference last week, did most of the talking.

"Fortunately or unfortunately as the case may be, we find that many in our group have a profound sympathy for the cause, for the reason the Amal have in saying, 'Israel free my people,'" said Conwell.

Their captors have demanded release of more than 700 prisoners, mostly Shiites, being held by Israel.

If they are not criminals and not lawful prisoners of war, Conwell said, "I see no reason for Israel to hold those people. So yes, I say, 'Israel, please release those people, not because there are 39 hostages captured in Lebanon but simply because it's the right thing to do.'"

But Conwell also said, "I certainly do not exonerate them (his captors) from blame. I say that they are indeed capitalizing on the situation."

By telephone Wednesday night, Traugott told Miss Assimakopoulos that he was in good health and had not been hurt.

Lottery hopes high, even in Beirut

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the hostages from TWA flight 847 has written home to make sure his family knows where to find lottery tickets he bought, ABC News reported Friday.

The information was in a letter from Leo Byron, 47, to his daughters in Harrisburg, Pa., said ABC correspondent Betsy Aaron in Beirut.

"One of the first things he tells his daughters is that he bought Lotto tickets for June and they are in the family room, so please find them," she said.

The letter also tells Pam that she should practice her piano and "if you don't obey your mother you're going to be in trouble with me," Miss Aaron reported.

She also disclosed parts of two other letters, one written by Tom Murry of Newbury Park, Calif., that contained an "inside" message for two of his friends.

"All my love to you and the family," Murry, 52, wrote to his wife Jeanne. "I'm OK, in good health and relatively well cared for. ... It has been interesting, scary and boring, but we are safe and well treated."

"As Ken and Bob say, egbok. I bet they have never heard that from a Beirut hostage," Murry wrote.

"Egbok" — an abbreviation for "everything's going to be OK" — is a slogan from a popular Los Angeles radio show.

Peter Hill, 57, writing home to Hoffman Estates, Ill., made several requests, including "duplicate keys made for his car and his house and his office, because he says Amal has taken all of his keys," said Miss Aaron.

Captives get roses, dinner

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Thirty-two American hostages held in Beirut dined at a luxury hotel early Saturday and left carrying red roses from their captors. Syrian officials told reporters the hostages would be taken to Damascus.

"We were all at the dinner but we don't know where we're going now," said hostage Thomas W. Murry, 57, of Newbury Park, Calif. He shouted at reporters from the back seat of a car outside the Summerland Hotel on west Beirut's seafront in the early hours of the morning.

"All we've been told is we're going to Damascus — we're getting out," another of the hostages, who could not immediately be identified, said as they were leaving.

Dozens of heavily armed gunmen stood by as the hostages were taken away in several cars and a white mini-bus.

"I think it's over. We are going now," George Lazansky, 53, of Algonquin, Ill., said as the vehicles drove off. "I don't know where."

HELEN'S LAST DAY

Saturday, June 29th

See you soon at our New Location

By the year 2000, 2 out of 3 Americans could be illiterate.

Read that again, just to be sure you read it correctly.

Because, believe it or not, it's true.

Today, 75 million adults, about one American in three, can't read adequately. And by the year 2000, U.S. News & World Report envisions an America with a literacy rate of only 30%.

Before that America comes to be, you can stop it...by joining the fight against illiteracy today.

Call the Coalition for Literacy at toll-free 1-800-228-8813 and volunteer. You'll be fighting illiteracy for generations to come.

Volunteer Against Illiteracy.
The only degree you need is a degree of caring.

REV HUDNALL of Haller takes down his steer in the steer wrestling competition at the Big Spring Cowboys Reunion and Rodeo last night at Rodeo Bowl.

Cooper rides well on third rodeo day

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Clay O'Brien Cooper stole the spotlight in the third night of the Big Spring Cowboys Reunion and Rodeo here at Rodeo Bowl.

Cooper, who hails from Gilbert, Arizona, put together top performances in the steer wrestling and team roping events, much to delight of a well-packed rodeo arena.

Cooper's performances moved him into first place in both events. This could make him the top money-winner in this year's rodeo if he holds his position in tomorrow's final rodeo performance.

Cooper started off the evening by teaming up in the team roping with Jake Barnes of Bloomfield, New Mexico to top all contestants in a time of 9.4. This gave them a two-ride time of 17.6, placing them as the team to beat. They took over the lead from the Lovington, New Mexico duo of Steve Purcells and Sterling Price. Purcells and Price remain in second with a total clocking of 18.9.

Another added delight for the crowd was seeing long time hometown favorite Toots Mansfield team up with his partner of some 50 years, Walt Poage. The Rankin native and Mansfield clocked a time of 16.7 in the team roping. This was good for second place in last night's action.

Area favorites Guy Miller of Lamesa and Raylynn Key of Gail continue to lead their respective events. Miller clocked a 10.8 in his first run in calf roping on Thursday night. He followed it with a 12.4 to lead with a combined time 23.2.

Key's Thursday clocking of 16.66 is still good enough for first in the barrel racing. The time got a strong challenge from Kimbra Dorset of Childress who clocked a 16.92. Dorset is the sister of Big Spring High School football coach Jack Dorset.

There was one other new leader after last night's ride. Randy Taylor of Tulsa, Oklahoma scored a 70 in the bareback bronc riding, giving him a two-ride total of 144. He took over the lead from Snyder's Tony Hackscher.

Blake finally gets his title shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "Rockin' Robin Blake, whose once bright career was jolted by two consecutive losses, finally gets a shot at a title Sunday when he meets International Boxing Federation lightweight champion Jimmy Paul in a scheduled 15-round bout.

Blake, a former No. 1 contender in the 135-pound division, has won his last five fights and appears over the brief slump that temporarily derailed his career.

"I went a little sour but I'm ready now," said Blake, who fights out of Fort Worth, Texas. "I lost a couple of fights but, then again, I'm only human."

Blake followed an outstanding amateur career where he piled up a 250-10 record with 22 straight wins as a pro before dropping a 10-round decision in October 1983 to Tyrone Crawley, who is now ranked No. 1 by the World Boxing Association.

He followed that three months later with another 10-round decision loss to Harry Arroyo — the fighter that Paul beat in a unanimous 15-round decision April 6 to win the title.

"It's hard to come back after those two losses, his attitude was down," said Gene Hatcher, the WBA junior welterweight champion who is Blake's stablemate. "It takes a while to build yourself back up but now he's looking like he was."

Two seeds fall on fourth day

Top women take easy Wimbledon wins

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe overcame questionable line calls and fan taunting, while Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd won easily, leading a stampede of seeded players into the third round of the Wimbledon tennis championships Friday.

But two seeds fell on a day when rain interrupted play for 35 minutes, then later halted it entirely.

No. 8 Eliot Teltscher of the United States was ousted by Britain's John Lloyd 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 7-5, and Canada's Carling Bassett, No. 13 among the women, was toppled by Rene Uys of South Africa 0-6, 7-6, 6-3. Uys won the second-set tiebreaker 14-12.

Along with the three No. 1 seeds — for the first time in history, tournament officials couldn't decide who should be the favorite in the women's singles and made Navratilova and Lloyd co-top seeds — others advancing on a chilly, overcast day included Yannick Noah of France, Sweden's Stefan Edberg and Joakim Nyström, and Americans Jimmy Connors, Johan Kriek, Tim Mayotte and Kevin Curren.

In the women's singles, Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany and Americans Pam Shriver and Bonnie Gadusek won first-round matches, while Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia, West Germany's Steffi Graf, Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, and Americans Zina Garrison and Kathy Jordan posted second-round victories.

McEnroe, who is trying to become the first American to win three consecutive men's singles titles at the All England Club, was way off his game, yet still managed to win in straight sets, downing Nduka Odizor of Nigeria 7-6, 6-1, 7-6.

Navratilova, who has dropped only seven games in two matches, rushed to a 6-4, 5-0 lead over Anne Minter of Australia before the first rain interrupted her match. When they returned to the court, Minter held serve before Navratilova, going after her fourth straight women's crown, closed out the 43-minute match 6-4, 6-1.

Chris Evert Lloyd also had an easy time, crushing fellow American Susan Mascarin 6-3, 6-0 in 58 minutes.

John Lloyd, Britain's last hope in the men's singles who reached the quarterfinals in the U.S. Open last year, grabbed an early two-set lead over Teltscher, who was making his first grass court appearance since playing at Wimbledon in 1977. But Teltscher, ranked 13th in the world, fought back to level at two sets apiece and served for the match at 5-3.

Lloyd then won the next four games, thrilling the center court crowd which cheered his every shot.

In matches that were halted by the second storm that swept through the area, second-seeded

Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and American Mike Leach were tied at one set apiece; No. 6 Pat Cash of Australia led 5-3 in the decisive fifth set against Chile's Ricardo Acuna; No. 5 Anders Jarryd of Sweden led American Scott Davis 2-1 in sets; Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, the women's No. 4 seed, led American Terry Holladay 3-0 in the decisive third set; No. 16 Kathy Rinaldi of the United States trailed 2-3 in the opening set against South Africa's Rosalyn Fairbank, and No. 15 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia trailed 3-5 in the first set against American Sammy Giammalva.

Connors, the No. 3 seed, crushed Kelly Evernden, a qualifier from New Zealand, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 in 82 minutes. A two-time Wimbledon champion who admittedly may be playing here for the last time, Connors was much too strong for his nervous opponent, who was making his first Wimbledon appearance.

Although the first set was decided by a single serve break — in the eighth game — Connors won six of the nine games at love.

Hu Na, the first Chinese woman ever to play at Wimbledon, advanced to the third round by stopping Lea Plichova of Czechoslovakia 7-5, 6-4. Hu also beat Plichova in the final round of qualifying for this tournament, but the Czech woman was placed in the main draw as a "lucky loser" when Italy's Rafaella Reggi dropped out because of illness.

3 tied in Memphis Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — George Burns overcame a double bogey on the 17th hole on Friday to claim a share of the lead with Bill Sander and David Ogrin after two rounds of the $500,000 St. Jude Memphis Classic golf tournament.

Burns, Sander and Ogrin each finished 36 holes with 8-under-par scores of 136 at Colonial Country Club. Ogrin had a 70 and Sander a 71.

Burns, a 36-year-old Baiting Hollow, N.Y. pro in his 10th year on the tour, had the second-round lead all to himself after getting to nine under through 16 holes. Then came the trouble at the 17th.

Sander, who had earned only $712 on the pro tour this year, said he "didn't feel as loose today as I did yesterday" when he tied Sutton for the lead.

The Seattle, Wash., golfer got a birdie on No. 6 and "felt pretty well relaxed. It was tougher today."

Ogrin, a Waukegan, Ill., native in his third year on the tour, said he was happy with his position, the highest midway placing of his career. Ogrin has earned only $11,241 this year.

"It feels good to back up a 66 with a 70," he said.

John Mahaffey, who had a hole-in-one while shooting an opening 67, shot a 70 Friday and was tied at 137 with Richard Zokol, who had a 69.

Larry Nelson used a hole-in-one on the 216-yard 12th hole to carve out the best round of the day, a 66 that tied him at 138 with Russ Cochran and Bob Tway. Nelson shook off a bogey at No. 11 with his ace on the 12th hole, then added birdies at 15 and 18.

Nelson, playing in a threesome with Burns and Scott Hoch, barely missed a second ace when his approach to the 5th hole came within an inch of the cup. On No. 12, "I hit a 3-iron and George said he thought it looked like it was going in. I knew it was going to be close. It just trickled right in," Nelson said.

Cochran had a 68 and Tway a 69.
