Backup bomber

Gen. Bennie Davis introduces prototype B-1B Saturday at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene. The Star of Abilene insignia was borrowed from grounded plane.

B-1 bombs

Backup plane needed for Abilene celebration

ABILENE (AP) — The guest of honor missed the B-1B welcoming ceremonies at Dyess Air Force Base Saturday — the bomber was stuck in Nebraska with mechanical problems.
But Air Force officials were determined not to disappoint the nearly 45,000 citizens and dignitaries who turned out to welcome the nation's newest and only active-duty B-1B to its new home.
So the Air Force sent its only other operable B-1B from Edwards Air Force Base in California, and they even plastered it with the stranded plane's name, "The Star of Abilene."
"The Air Force is always prepared for all eventualities," said Dyess spokesman Jim Carlisle.

Related stories, Page 10A

Col. Alan Rogers, commander of the 96th bombardment wing at Dyess, said the B-1B No. 2 ran into mechanical trouble Thursday at Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska.
"After the aircraft landed at Offutt, we discovered a mechanical problem centered in the air cooler-blower, part of the plane's air conditioning system," he said.
He said the active-duty plane would probably be at its new home within a few days. It replaces the B-52 bomber, which first rolled off assembly lines exactly 30 years ago.
The newest weapon in the nation's arsenal, the B-1B has inspired a virtual love affair in Abilene. About 150 miles west of Fort Worth, the city and its residents have flown flags, posted "Welcome B-1B" signs and urged children to "color the B-1B" in a coloring contest.

"It's a great, great day for this country of ours," Gen. Bennie L. Davis, Strategic Air Command commander-in-chief, said after the substitute plane's 1:40 p.m. arrival. "What better place to start this grand and glorious airplane than the great state of Texas?"
The four-engine swept-wing supersonic plane replaces the B-52 strategic bomber. The Strategic Air Command's 96th Bomb Wing at Dyess eventually will consist of 29 B-1Bs.

Stenholm wings to Big Spring

Congressmen to address Salvation Army, prison

U.S. Rep. CHARLES STENHOLM

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, fresh from welcoming the B-1B bomber to Abilene, will be the keynote speaker for two special events Tuesday in Big Spring.
Stenholm, D-Stamford, whose 17th Congressional District includes Howard County, will appear at the Salvation Army's Victory Breakfast and at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp's Community Appreciation Day.
The breakfast, at 7 a.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Hall of the United Methodist Church at Fourth and Scurry, will honor members of the community who helped raise funds for a new Salvation Army building. Honored guests at the breakfast will include representatives of the J.E. and Ellie Mabree Foundation of Tulsa, the Meadows Foundation of Dallas and the Dora Roberts Foundation of Big Spring, all of which contributed to the "Light of Hope" building campaign.

Ground-breaking ceremonies will follow the breakfast.
Salvation Army members raised more than the $763,000 goal for the "Light of Hope" campaign, which was matched by a $50,000 grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation.
The funds will be used to renovate the Army's current facilities and to build an addition to its headquarters. Contributions in excess of the $763,000 will be put in a maintenance fund.
More than $400,000 of the money was raised by members of the community since April. The remainder was donated by the Mabree Foundation, the Meadows Foundation and the Dora Roberts Foundation.

The breakfast is open to the public, according to a Salvation Army official.
Stenholm also will speak at 10 a.m. at a formal ceremony at the prison camp. Audience members will be limited to an invitation-only group.
The camp will be open to the public in the afternoon for a brief ceremony and guided tour. Registration for the public tour begins at 1 p.m. in the gymnasium. Stenholm will not be present at the afternoon ceremony.

Hostage release snagged by new demands

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Renewed demands by Shiite Moslem captors blocked the road to freedom Saturday for the 39 American hijack hostages, who spent another night on their roller coaster of hope and despair.
It had seemed clear that the 16th day in captivity would be the last in Lebanon for the Americans, who were homeward bound on a TWA jetliner when two Shiite terrorists seized it June 14 between Athens and Rome. The hijackers killed a U.S. Navy petty officer.
They had expected to be taken to Damascus. Syria had announced a "happy end" to the crisis, and Vice President George Bush planned to meet them in Frankfurt, West Germany.

Then Shiite militia leader Nabih Berri, who is in charge of the negotiations, demanded pledges from the United States and Israel that they would not launch reprisal raids when the Americans are free.
The demand appeared to stem from President Reagan's threat in a speech Friday in Chicago to hold to account "terrorists and those who support them." Berri told reporters at his home late Saturday: "We are still awaiting guarantees that no retaliatory military strikes will be undertaken after the hostages are released. Guarantees must be given to Syria.

"If these guarantees are provided tonight (Saturday) they will be released tonight. If not, we are not in a hurry. Tomorrow, the day after, who knows?"
Jaafar Shalabi, a Berri's aide, told NBC News the guarantees were demanded because of "a suggestion that was made after Reagan's conference in Chicago."
White House spokesman Larry Speakes, still insisting the White House would make no concessions to the captors, said Reagan was "obviously disappointed that the release that we anticipated has not been completed, but he is hopeful that the situation will resolve itself."

He said the president "doesn't have any comment" on the suggestion that his remarks might have contributed to the snag in arrangements.
Ali Hussein, a member of Amal's ruling Politburo, also renewed the demands that warships of the U.S. 6th Fleet standing off Lebanon be withdrawn and that

OPEC faces price fight

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Pressure is building for a new round of oil price cuts that a splintered OPEC may be powerless to stop, industry analysts say.
"I don't think OPEC has a way out," said Paul McDonald, a senior analyst at the investment firm of Shearson Lehman Brothers Ltd. in London.

Oil ministers of the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will be looking for ways to prop up prices when they open their summer conference Friday in Vienna, Austria.
The meeting originally was scheduled for July 22, but the date was advanced when it became clear in early June that the cartel would have to act quickly to prevent prices from falling, or even collapsing, as demand continued to lag.

Some oil producers outside OPEC, including Mexico and China, have already cut the price of some crudes, and North Sea producers Britain and Norway have been selling at the going rate in the open market.
Mexican officials hinted on June 18, when they lowered the price of their lower-grade crude by $1.50 a barrel to $24, that they soon might cut the price of their top-quality oil, too.
If passed along completely to consumers, a $1 cut in the world price of oil results in a drop of a little over 2 cents a gallon in the retail price of gasoline, analysts say.
Sylvia Davis, an energy analyst at DRI Europe Ltd., a research firm in Paris, said OPEC no longer had the power to resist market forces that have been pushing down oil prices since 1982.

She believes the cartel leaders will cut the price of their top-grade crudes at the Vienna meeting by about 90 cents a barrel from the current level of about $28. Lower-quality crudes probably will be reduced by 50 cents from the current $26.50 a barrel, she predicted.
"I don't think OPEC will get out of that meeting without a general cut," she said.

Pride and internal bickering made the two previous OPEC price-cut decisions — in March 1983 and this past January — slow in coming. So while oil buyers are demanding another reduction now, it could take several weeks or months before OPEC knuckles under.
Bernard Herman, an economist at Chase Econometrics Inc. in Brussels, says that "it's only a question of time" before OPEC surrenders to a general price cut. But he doubts it will happen

Palau president shot

KOROR, Palau — President Haruo I. Remeliik of the western Pacific island Republic of Palau was shot and killed early Sunday by an unknown assailant, his office said.

Remeliik, in his second term and the only elected president the island republic has known, was shot three times as he walked from his car to his home in the capital city of Koror. Remeliik, in his early 50s, became Palau's first president in January 1981.

37 die in rebel ambush

MAPUTO, Mozambique — Anti-Marxist rebels ambushed a convoy of five buses on Saturday, killing 37 passengers with machine-gun fire and wounding 67, the official news agency AIM reported.

It said the attack took place about 30 miles north of Maputo, the capital, in the Pateque region near the site of a similar massacre last Tuesday in which rebels reportedly killed 24 people. It said rebels fired on five privately owned buses traveling north from the capital to Gaza province.

IRA leaders arrested

LONDON — Five suspected IRA guerrillas — three men and two women — were flown under heavy guard on Saturday from Scotland to London.

Police have refused to comment on widespread speculation in British newspapers that the suspects include an IRA guerrilla who masterminded the bombing attempt last October against Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. More than 100 officers ringed west London's Paddington Green police station as they were driven to the station in armored cars.

Cops raid universities

SEOUL, South Korea — Police raided nine major universities before dawn on Saturday, and said they arrested 65 radical leaders sought in connection with recent violent anti-government demonstrations.

It was the first major police operation on South Korea's campuses since the government of President Chun Doo-hwan last year withdrew all police agents from the universities in a step toward easing restrictive measures.

'Boat people' rescued

MANILA, Philippines — A ferry rescued 67 Vietnamese refugees from rough seas at the mouth of Manila Bay on Saturday, 22 days after the "boat people" said they fled Vietnam aboard a fishing boat.

Hostage ordeal taxes president's patience

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman, after expressing the administration's hopes and prayers that victims of the TWA hijacking had begun "a journey to freedom," said Saturday that President Reagan was disappointed but remained hopeful despite the hostages' failure to leave Beirut as expected.

Ironically, it appeared that Reagan's own harsh rhetoric threatening to hold terrorists and their supporters to account had helped snarl a carefully laid plan to get the Americans out of Lebanon with the help of the Red Cross and a Syrian military escort.

A top White House aide, speaking on condition he not be identified, said he didn't "attach much significance" to new demands put forward by an associate of Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri.

"The basic terms of the situation were set long ago," the official said, attributing the holdup to "each side gauging the credibility and endurance of the other."

It was understood that the movement came to a halt when Syrian mediators who helped work out the release arrangement learned that Berri had failed to produce all 39 remaining victims of the June 14 hijacking.

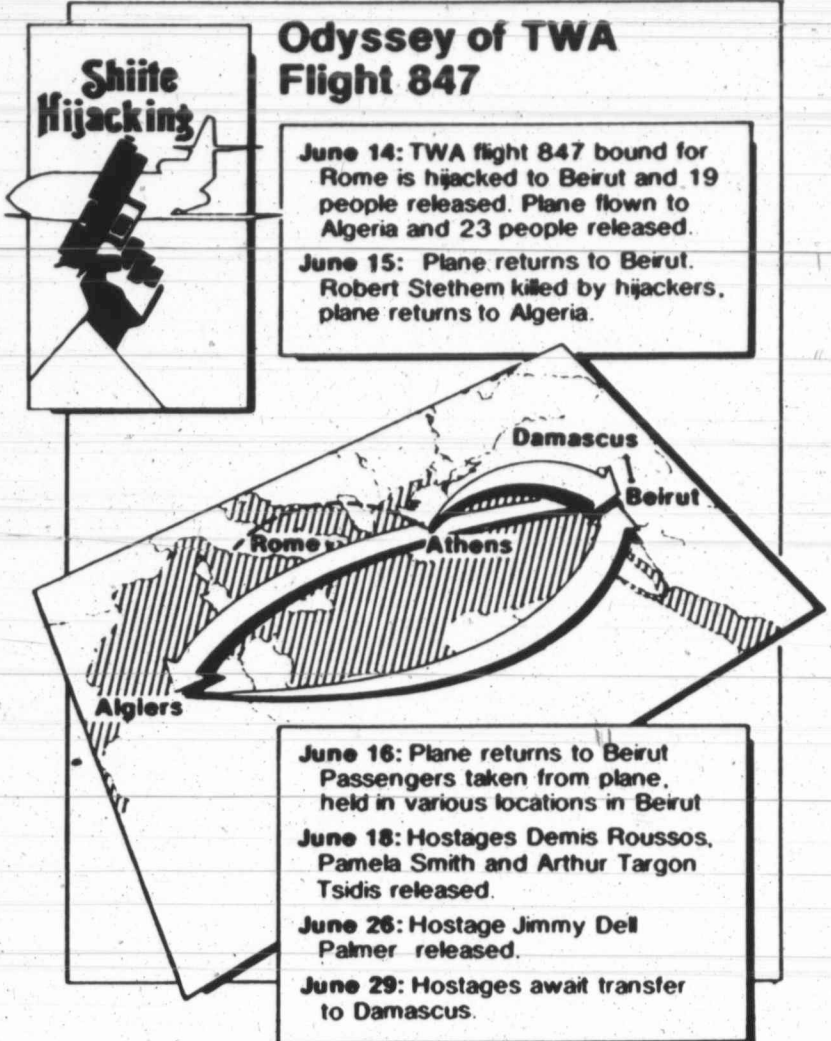

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was "obviously disappointed that the release that we anticipated has not been completed, but he is hopeful that the situation will resolve itself."

He said the president had instructed that diplomatic contacts "with all parties that are involved" be continued in an effort to resolve the new problems.

Although a senior administration official had warned Friday night there were "still a lot of opportunities for screw-ups," a mood of great expectations swept the White House in the hours before dawn as officials gathered to await word the 39 remaining hijack victims were on their way home.

At 4:12 a.m. EDT Saturday — 11:12 a.m. in Beirut — presidential spokesman Larry Speakes announced there were reports the hostages "are now departing Beirut."

"We hope and pray that this is the beginning of a journey to freedom," the spokesman said.

An administration official, briefing reporters at the White House on arrangements for the hostages' release, said they were expected in Damascus at about 7:45 a.m. EDT. A U.S. Air Force transport flew to meet them there and take them on to Frankfurt, West Germany, where Vice President George Bush was to welcome their return to freedom.

Instead, most of the passengers remained at a school near Beirut International Airport. When they were about an hour overdue in Damascus, a Berri associate announced that they were being retained pending the receipt of U.S. guarantees that there would be no retaliation for the hijacking.

The official of Berri's Amal militia, Ali Hussein, told The Associated Press his organization also wanted the release of more than 700 Shiite prisoners being held by Israel, which was among the hijackers' original demands, and the withdrawal of U.S. warships from their position off the Lebanese coast.

Another Berri aide, Jaafar Shalabi, told NBC News the new insistence on a pledge of "non-belligerency" grew from a remark Reagan made Friday during visit to Chicago.

The president, speaking in Chicago Heights about his plan for overhauling the income tax system, interjected a few comments about terrorism.

"We cannot accept these repeated and vicious attacks against our nation and its citizens," the president said. "Terrorists, and those who support them, must — and will — be held to account."

Father shoots sick child

MIAMI — The father of a brain-damaged girl was charged with first-degree murder Saturday after he allegedly pumped two bullets into her comatose body as she lay in a hospital crib, police said.

Charles Griffith, 24, had spent about three hours with his 3-year-old daughter, Joy, in an intensive care unit of Miami Children's Hospital before Friday night's shooting. Griffith, of Miami Beach, was "upset, but calm" after the shooting, Rivers said.

U.S. Bhopal suit filed

NEW YORK — U.S. attorneys for victims of the chemical disaster that killed more than 1,700 people and injured 200,000 others in India in December have filed suit in U.S. District Court asking for unspecified damages from Union Carbide Corp., which operated the plant.

The suit consolidates 65 legal actions against Union Carbide stemming from the Dec. 3 leak of methyl isocyanate gas in the Indian city of Bhopal. It says the survivors of the disaster "experienced an unimaginable and unforgettable catastrophe, witnessing the virtual destruction of their entire world."

PORT GIBSON, Miss. — The Grand Gulf nuclear power plant begins selling its electricity Monday amid protests that its $3.5 billion price tag will wreck household budgets and stunt regional economic growth.

Housing the largest single-unit reactor in the country, the 1,250-megawatt plant along the Mississippi River was planned in the 1970s as a hedge against future oil and natural gas shortages. It was promoted as a key ingredient to bring industrial development into the nation's poorest state.

White oil suit filed

AUSTIN (AP) — A suit has been filed in state district court challenging a Railroad Commission order that "white oil" operators claim would shut down their wells in the Panhandle Field.

The suit names as the defendant the Texas Railroad Commission, which adopted an order May 13 requiring wells equipped with "low temperature and/or high pressure" — LTX — facilities to retest their wells within 75 days.

On June 17, the commission denied a motion for rehearing.

The suit said retesting 1,100 wells would be "physically impossible" in the time allowed by the order. Also, the suit said the cost to retest a single well would range from $3,000 to $10,000.

The regulatory agency began its review of "white oil" wells after Phillips Petroleum Co. filed a complaint in September 1981. Phillips contends that some operators in the 1.5-million acre Panhandle Field use LTX units to chill vapor to a white-water liquid the operators call oil.

This is done, Phillips says, to get particular wells classified as oil wells, which have certain advantages over gas wells. For example, an oil well can be drilled on 10 acres, a gas well on 640 acres.

The commission order specifies that "hydrocarbon liquids which are not in the liquid phase in the reservoir ... shall not be counted as crude oil" for purposes of classifying a well in the Panhandle Field as an oil or gas well.

A suit that names 19 companies as plaintiffs was filed Thursday, and asked for a temporary restraining order.

Dallas workers prepare the city's convention center for another group.

Dallas image lures convention crowds

DALLAS (AP) — Lately, it's difficult to tell just who is meeting in Dallas.

With numerous groups staging conventions in the city's meeting halls, Dallas has become a giant revolving door, sweeping one group in while whisking another out.

During the past year that door has picked up some speed as the city reaps the benefits of playing a host to the 1984 GOP National Convention.

As 45,000 Southern Baptists were making their exit, more than 20,000 members of the Lions Club International arrived, and then departed the same weekend as about 10,000 people arrived from the NAACP's annual convention.

In August, 20,000 people are expected for a Veterans of Foreign War convention.

"What it (the GOP convention) has done is helped put into the minds of people that Dallas is a convention city," said Frank Poe, Dallas convention center manager.

But the title isn't newly assigned, Poe said. For the past five or six years Dallas has been the third busiest convention host in the nation, running behind first-place New York and second-place Chicago.

"With all the attention Dallas got — the press, articles — it helped improve an already good image."

Dallas came of age as a convention city in 1972 and 1973

when it hosted the National Association of Home Builders, the American Food Marketing Institute and the American Academy of Ophthalmology, Poe said.

"When you do those key events, that's when you get recognized as a convention center," he said.

The Southern Baptist's convention this summer was also a "key event," he said, because Dallas showed it could handle very large groups of people.

The average convention brings 15,000 people to Dallas, each pumping money into the city's economy. Convention business in the 1984-85 convention season will amount to about $761 million a year for the local economy, $30 million of which goes to city coffers through sales and liquor taxes.

"That's money our property owners don't have to pay," said Charles Bass, director of the city's Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The Southern Baptist's convention contributed $35,000 alone for parking at the Dallas Convention Center and another $200,000 from food and beverages sold at the center during the convention.

"The benefits are many," Bass said. "But the greatest (benefit) is keeping 60,000 people employed."

That's an increase of almost $200 million from the 1982-83 total, Bass said.

THE PLUSES OF REMODELING

There are many advantages to keeping your present house and remodeling it. First, there is the equity that has been built up in the home. Perhaps the mortgage has been paid off or substantially reduced. The interest rate may be at the original low rate which may favorably compare to the rate currently offered by banks. Taxes may be modest because of an existing low assessment and may include a homeowner's exemption. Location is in a familiar neighborhood with shops that are known and preferred, near church and medical facilities, and close to old friends and neighbors. On the plus side as well is the possibility that remodeling will create the house that has always been wanted, tailor-made to one's own special life-style.

Remodeling can give you the house of your dreams without the nightmare of moving. Let BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK Handle your home renovations. We design and build all types of room additions, decks and sunporches, kitchens and baths. We specialize in all kinds of custom woodworking. Come to Bldg. 613 in the Industrial Park, or phone 267-5811. Open M-F, 8-12, 1-5 or by appt.

LUBBOCK (AP) — After receiving credit for discovering the oldest known set of fossilized dinosaur bones, graduate student Bryan Small has settled back into his normal routine as a vertebrate paleontologist at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

His discovery of the fossils in Arizona's Petrified Forest National Park thrust him briefly under the national microscope, but he said recently that he prefers to be on the other side of the magnifying glass.

Small, 20, a graduate of Lamar University in Beaumont, discovered the remains of the ancient reptile during field work with a California paleontology team in late August 1984. After a lengthy analysis period, it was announced in May that Small's find had pushed the age of dinosaurs back a few thousand millennia to about 225 million years ago.

The fossils, including a leg, several thigh bones, ribs, vertebrae and other fragments, are believed to be from an ancestor of the giant brontosaurus. Small said the animal would have been "about the size of a large Great Dane" with longer neck, tail and legs.

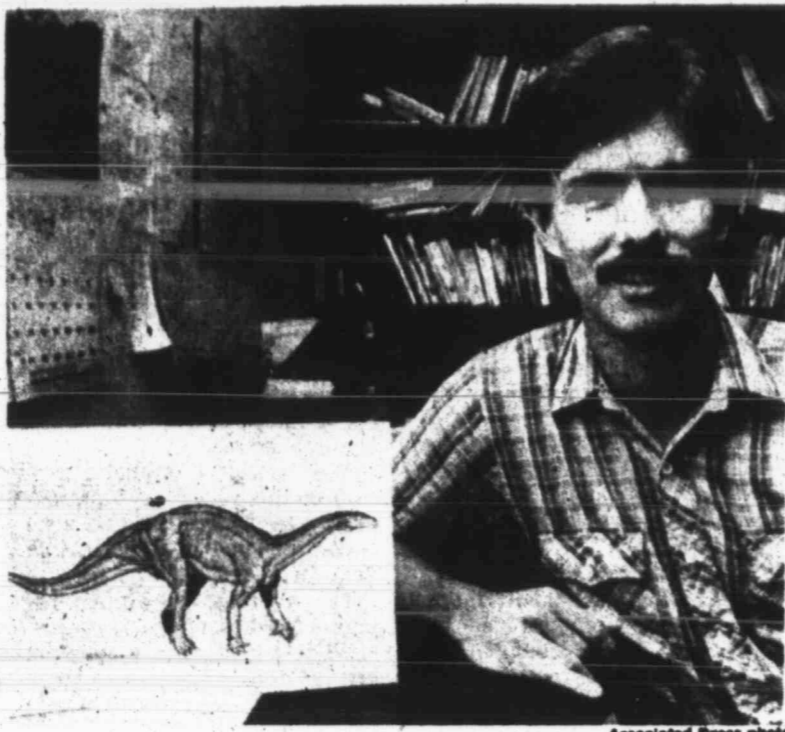

Small said his discovery, which occurred while searching a dry wash for fossil plants, was a stroke of "extreme luck."

"I was walking along one of the little canyons, and the fossils had washed up out of the ground," he said. "I found them when I stepped on them. After that, it was just a matter of sitting down and looking at them until I could figure out what I had."

Small's name found its way into the national news, and the subsequent attention received by the Orange native was a bit overwhelming.

"It was kind of a good feeling, but at first it was embarrassing with everyone wanting to talk to me and take my picture," he said from the security of his basement lab at the museum. "I wasn't used to that kind of attention."

Small, who recently returned from another trip to Arizona's Painted Desert to help airlift the prehistoric remains from their

BRYAN SMALL made a big discovery with his dinosaur fossils.

The student who found a dinosaur

ancient burial ground to a research lab in California, said his discovery was more accidental than intentional.

"My field work for Tech ended in July, so I didn't have anything else to do (in 1984)," he said. "I had called some people out there (at the University of California-Berkeley) to see if I could help them in the Painted Desert, and they contacted me and told me to come out. I hadn't really planned on finding anything like this; I was just going out there to see what other people were up to."

Although the Arizona discovery is to date his most famous, Small also has made significant finds in Antarctica and, closer to home, at the "Dinosaur Hollow" site along the Caprock near Post.

In 1983, some of the fossils discovered by Small at the Post were found to have come from a previously unknown species from the Triassic Period, referred to as the "Dawn of the Dinosaurs," 190 million to 225 million years ago. The 3- to 4-foot-long plant-eater, a typical inhabitant of Earth during the Triassic Period, was named Technosaurus smalli in honor of the university and its discoverer.

Small said the same fossil bed in Garza County yielded the remains of another newly discovered dinosaur, the 18-foot meat-eating Postosuchus kirkpatricki. That formidable beast, although smaller than the better-known Tyrannosaurus rex, was the dominant terror of the South Plains during its reign, he said.

"Postosuchus paled in comparison to Tyrannosaurus," Small said, "but he was the big guy on the block as far as meat-eaters in this part of the country were concerned."

Small said he concentrates on Triassic fossils because of their significance to the rise of the great lizards.

"During the Triassic Period, the South Plains and West Texas were in a tropical zone," Small explained. "It was a pretty wet environment, with a lot of lakes and ponds and water. Mammals were just coming into the picture, and birds were just developing. It was a very important period."

Small said the West Texas of that period was like "another world."

"There was no grass, as we know it, just ferns and trees," he explained. "The area was dominated by giant crocodiles along the water and meat-eaters like Postosuchus in the highlands. There were no birds or flying reptiles or butterflies, and just a few small mammals."

Although the California paleontologists analyzing the Arizona fossils believe the small animal possibly lumbered through the early Triassic Period on four legs and foraged for plants, like a miniature brontosaurus, Small thinks the creature may turn out to be a quicker, bipedal meat-eater.

Whatever its appearance, Small said its genus probably will be named after the area in the Petrified Forest where it was found, Chinde Point, followed by the already familiar species category of small.

Although Small modestly accepts the scientific accolades that have followed his discoveries, he would rather spend his time piecing together the ancient mysteries of the dinosaurs.

"The find in Arizona could have implications as to the evolution of dinosaurs," Small said. "We have evidence of dinosaurs, but we can't figure out who their ancestors are. This could help us nail it down a little more and, if nothing else, it adds another animal to the list of Triassic life."

Small, like many others within and outside the paleontology field, expressed awe at the size and abundance of dinosaurs that lived in the far reaches of Earth's past.

"I think that if dinosaurs had not become extinct during the Cretaceous Period (130 million years ago), man would not be around today," Small said. "Once dinosaurs developed, they became the dominant creatures of their time. You can see that by comparing their size with some of the mammals of today."

"I'm glad to be back here at the museum and ready to get back to work," he said. "I'm glad to be out of the spotlight for a while."

Immigration bill sponsor cancels speech to LULAC

ANAHEIM, Calif., (AP) — An author of the controversial Simpson-Mazzoli Immigration Bill canceled his appearance Friday at the League of United Latin American Citizens convention after threats were made against his life and his family, a LULAC spokesman said.

The FBI advised U.S. Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyoming, to bypass the gathering of 3,000 Hispanics after he received the threats, said LULAC executive director Jose Trevino.

"He (Simpson) indicated to me he has received some threats and the FBI has advised him that he should be very cautious as to where he travels," Trevino said, noting that he had spoken to Simpson by phone in Washington.

There is no indication who made the threats.

An FBI agent in Los Angeles, who would not give his name, said he knew nothing about any threats. Trevino said Simpson had discussed the threats with FBI agents in Washington.

About 60 anti-Simpson demonstrators calling themselves the Coalition for Visas and Rights chanted "LULAC, Si! Simpson, No!" as they waited in vain for the senator to arrive at the Marriott Hotel in Anaheim, where the league's 56th annual convention is being held through Sunday.

Later, 150 protesters from the Orange County Coors Boycott Coalition, some carrying red balloons and red United Farm Workers union flags, marched outside the hotel carrying placards reading "Simpson, Coors, Reagan: Anti-Mexican."

"The bottom line is that Coors continues to do business with right-wing organizations," said Stephanie Lopez, a coalition spokeswoman and student at California State University-Fullerton. She stressed that the protest was against the Adolph Coors Co. and not against the conference.

"They tried a clever marketing strategy by dropping a few coins into the Latin community and claiming to be friends of Hispanics," Ms. Lopez said. She referred to a $60,000 donation by Coors to underwrite the convention and an agreement the brewery reached with six other Hispanic organizations last October to filter $350,000 into the Hispanic community over the next five years. The agreement, of which LULAC was not a part, is dependent on the amount of beer Hispanics buy.

There were no incidents as the group demonstrated for about 90 minutes.

In addition to Simpson, several other scheduled speakers failed to attend the conference. They included UFW leader Cesar Chavez, who said Wednesday that he would not cross the anti-Coors picket line, Rep. Esteban Torres, D-Whittier, State Assemblywoman Gloria Molina, D-Los Angeles, San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros and William Richardson, chairman of the National Hispanic Caucus.

Former LULAC national president Antonio Bonilla said he was disappointed by the absence of most of the speakers.

Mexican banks to deal in dollars

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexicans banks beginning Monday will be able to buy and sell dollars in a move by the government to bring order to the parallel currency market and bring dollars back into the banking system.

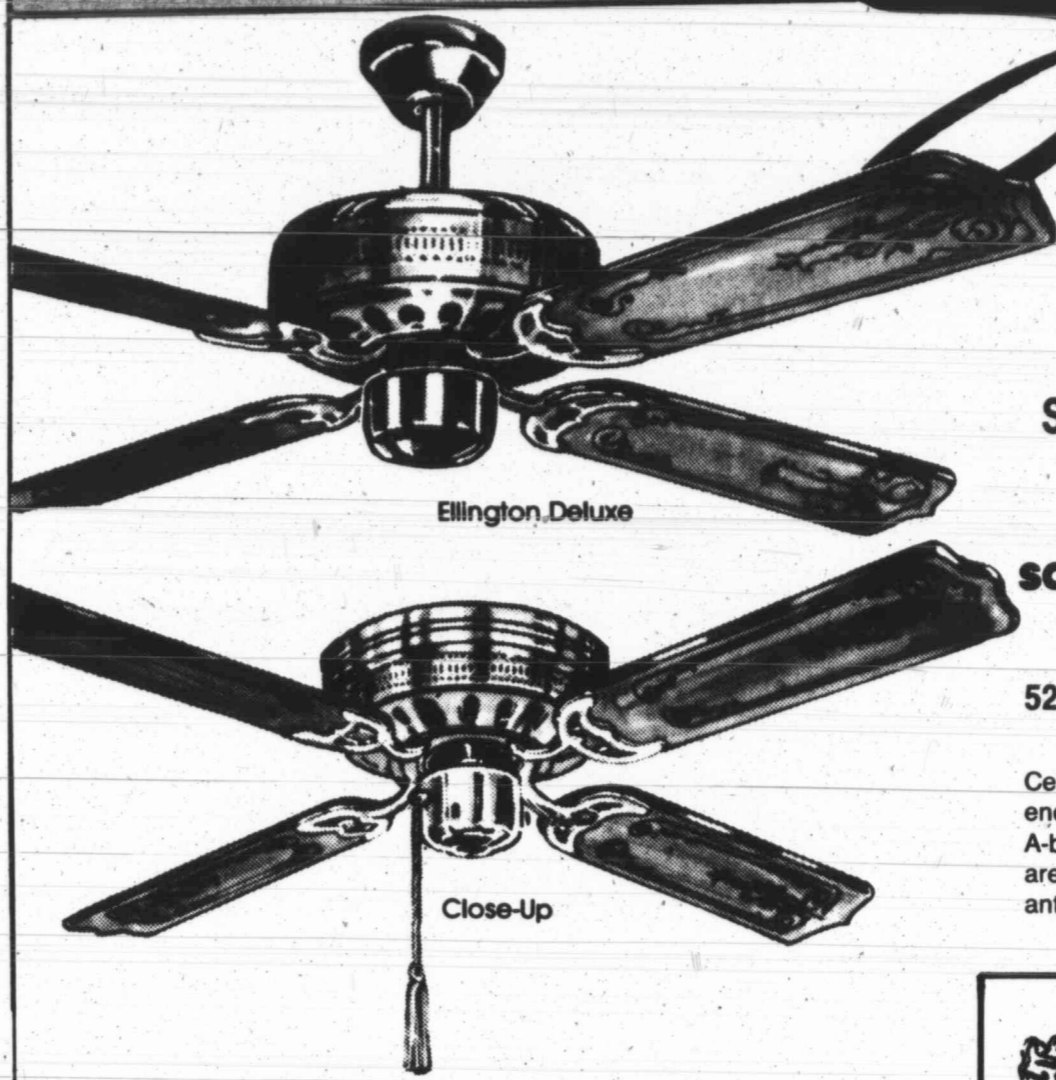

The government is allowing banks to establish exchange houses for buying and selling dollars, but the change does not eliminate the controlled dollar rate or the government regulated "free" rate. The peso exchange rate on the "super-free" or black market has been driven to record levels in the past month, apparently by Mexicans nervous about a fresh devaluation of the currency and the effect of falling oil prices on the shaky economy.

The government sets two rates for the peso. The controlled rate established for nearly all commercial transactions was 227 pesos to the dollar Friday; the so-called free rate was 244 to 245 pesos to the dollar.

You too can become one of our local SUCCESS STORIES!

Hi! I'm Roxie Forrest, owner of Nutri/System weight loss centers in Odessa, Midland and Big Spring. But weight loss is more than a business to me because it wasn't long ago that my clothes stretched instead of hung. That I used a cover up over my swimsuit. That all my clothes had long sleeves to cover up my arms. And everytime I bent over to pick something up, I got in my own way. After four children I had accumulated my share of baby fat. At Nutri/System we know how self-conscious being over weight can make you. Nutri/System is not magic; you have to want to lose weight. But if you are fed up with being overweight, Nutri/System can help. You can lose up to a pound a day. And more importantly, you can keep that weight off with our program. If you call by July 15th, you can be 20 lbs. slimmer by August 1st, for only $49.00!

Won't you join me and hundreds of others and become one of our Nutri/System success stories. It does work! I went from being a size 12 to a size 7 three years ago and have not changed.

Waco seeks tourists...no joke

Waco officials point to this suspension bridge near downtown as a tourist attraction...no joke.

WACO (AP) — Waco is trying to convince Texans it is more than just a place between here and there.

"Most people think of it as a place to go through," said Kathy Gowdy, an exuberant woman who is part of the city's new convention and visitors bureau.

Waco wants tourists.

The invitation is being extended in an advertising campaign built on the theme "Waco This Weekend." A striking highway billboard — displayed along busy expressways in Dallas and Austin — features two tourists in a yellow sports car, packed with luggage and carrying a sign that says "Waco or Bust."

Waco? Tourists?

"It's better than Killeen, isn't it," joked Neal Spelce, the Austin advertising man whose firm created the Waco campaign.

"You're a quick drive from just what you need," says a Waco newspaper ad. "A weekend off and a high ol' time at a good low price."

Spelce is sold on Waco tourism. He's convinced others will be sold once the word gets out.

"It just hasn't been promoted as to what a little jewel they have there. There are legitimate tourist attractions. It's a legitimately good place for a vacation or a weekend or a quick day," he said.

Ms. Gowdy said the biggest obstacle in promoting Waco tourism is "the idea of the Old West and that we're a hick town back in the horse and buggy days."

"We're trying to change and be a fun place," she said.

"Our advertising is more toward the romantic," said Carol Flint, who works with Ms. Gowdy.

Here is some of what Waco offers for your tourist dollar: a well-stocked zoo; a suspension bridge billed as the prototype for the Brooklyn Bridge; the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame; the world's largest sea turtle (it's dead); a collection of Scottish Rite Mason memorabilia; the world's largest collection of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett Browning letters and manuscripts, and a tennis museum conceived in disgust.

The Ranger Hall of Fame does little to downplay the Old West image. It's impressively stocked with guns, some great, some pathetic.

"That one never was a success," curator Gaines de Graffenreid said as he pointed to a 19th century rifle. "They wounded a lot of people using them, shot fingers off and stuff."

The Texas Tennis Hall of Fame was started by Charlie McCleary. It's been expanded to house the Texas Sports Hall of Champions. But tennis remains the featured sport.

"Only three people from tennis had been inducted into the Sports Hall of Fame in Grand Prairie. I got disgusted with it and said if they are not going to induct them up there we are going to have a place we can induct them down here," said McCleary.

The tennis collection includes old equipment and clothing. City-by-city displays highlight tennis throughout Texas. For example, tourists can see the plaque won by George Chandler, now a Lufkin lawyer, for his second-place finish in junior boys doubles at the 1956 Lufkin Open.

Tournament organizer Fred Bates whittled the winners' plaques — featuring the player's likeness — during the tournament.

The Hall of Champions collection includes Earl Campbell's high school letter jacket and a display honoring the "Waco High School Football Regime of Paul Tyson, 1913-1941."

The suspension bridge near downtown crosses the Brazos River. It was opened in 1870 and designed by John A. Roebling, who later designed the Brooklyn Bridge.

The Brazos is a big part of Waco tourism and officials hope it will get bigger. It's nothing more than a muddy trickle now because of repair work underway on the nearby dam. Also in the works is a new, 165-foot dinner-and-dancing boat.

Briscoe won't support Briscoe

ANDREW BRISCOE

AUSTIN (AP) — Andrew Briscoe of Dallas, who right now is unopposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year, said Friday his candidacy raised "some hesitations" from his cousin Dolph.

Dolph Briscoe was Texas governor from 1973-79.

"He wrote me a letter and, as he always had with the younger generation of Briscoes, he encouraged us to get involved in politics," Andrew Briscoe said at a Capitol news conference.

"He also threw out some hesitations, particularly about the office

I was going for at this point in time. He showed reservations," said the candidate.

Andrew Briscoe, a Dallas businessman, is planning to take on Gov. Mark White in the Democratic primary. White has not announced his candidacy, but is expected to run.

The current governor served as Dolph Briscoe's appointed secretary of state.

"I'm going into this without Dolph Briscoe's personal commitment at this point in time to establish my credibility."

Pickens not among GOP pickin's

T. BOONE PICKENS

AUSTIN (AP) — Oil company president T. Boone Pickens, subject of considerable speculation as a potential Republican candidate for governor in 1986, Friday said it doesn't appear that he will join the race.

"You've got to color me unlikely," Pickens told the Texas Press Association's summer convention.

Pickens, president and chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co., said several people have asked him about running against incumbent Democrat Mark White. He said he is getting close to the time when he will have to make a final decision.

"I have been consistent in my remarks that I'm a very unlikely candidate for it. But I'm not totally ruling it out, either," he said.

Two other potential candidates are considering the race — U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and former congressman Kent Hance, who switched from the Democratic Party to the GOP earlier this year.

6 cheers for Coahoma Squad wins coveted spirit award at summer camp

The Coahoma High School cheerleaders received the National Cheerleaders Association Spirit Award at a summer camp at Howard College.

The Coahoma squad were given the award by a popular vote of the more than 30 squads at the camp.

Coahoma's high school girls were named runners-up for the Award of Excellence, behind the Floydada high school squad.

The team also received a spirit stick, three blue ribbons and a red ribbon during the camp.

Coahoma's 8th-grade cheerleaders also was honored at the camp. The four-girl team was named "Best Junior High Squad" on the basis of their cheerleading technique, unity, friendliness, cooperation, leadership and sportsmanship.

Members of the 8th-grade squad are Trina Whitaker, Michelle Earnest, Christy Fowler and Krista Thomas.

Big Spring High junior varsity cheerleader Ginger Brooks was named "All-American Cheerleader" at a summer camp at Howard College.

Ginger, the daughter of Theda and Bill Brooks, has been a cheerleader since 7th grade.

Rep. Shaw rated low by conservatives

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Young Conservatives of Texas weighed the state's lawmakers on a philosophical scale Monday and the needle registered Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, as a conservative lightweight.

Shaw scored a "33" on the group's scale, while Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, registered a "64." Under the group's scoring system, a "100" represents a philosophical parity with conservative goals and beliefs, a "0" the opposite.

The lowest conservative mark in the Senate went to Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas. The lowest House grades went to Reps. Ron Wilson and Harold Dutton, both D-Houston.

Senate grades were dependent on whether a senator agreed with the conservative group on 21 legislative votes.

Crowd gathers for first-hand look at B-1B bomber prototype.

Praise genuine, even if plane wasn't

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

ABILENE — A small problem marred yesterday's celebration over the arrival of the B-1B bomber at the Dyess Air Force Base.

The B-1B No. 2 bomber didn't appear.

Instead a replacement, B-1B No. 1, was flown from Edwards Air Force Base in California and received praises from an estimated crowd of 45,000.

Bomber No. 2, which will be based in Abilene, was grounded because of a malfunction with its air-conditioner. Col. Alan V. Rogers, commander of the 96th Bombardment Wing at Dyess, said Air Force officials "were not exactly sure" how the plane's air cooler panel worked itself loose. The loose panel and its screws "damaged turbo blades in the engine," Rogers said.

"When planning with a new weapon system, things like this can occur," Rogers said.

A B-1B replacement didn't affect the audience's enthusiasm nor dignitaries' zeal for the arrival of the aircraft.

After the prototype aircraft performed dazzling loop displays around the runway site to its own sound of sonic booms, it landed without complications.

As the aircraft was attached to a hitch, eight airmen armed with machine guns surrounded the plane. They walked beside the plane as it was towed and parked before the grandstand.

After an Air Force brass band performed its last tune, a public address announcer instructed viewers to pause and "marvel at this fantastic aircraft."

General Bennie L. Davis and his staff of pilots were then introduced to Darlene Miller and other members of Abilene's Chamber of Commerce. Miller is the author of the bomber's name "The Star of Abilene."

Gen. John Vessey, chairman of the armed forces' joint chiefs of staff, began reciting a long list of praises for the bomber and its usefulness.

Vessey said "looking at the aircraft makes my mouth water."

He referred to President George Washington's idea that for a nation to keep peace, "we need to keep an army ready at all times."

Vessey also said that prior to his arrival at Dyess, he had met with President Ronald Reagan in Washington. He delivered a message from the president that said the bomber "helps insure the nation."

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Benson, D-Texas, said the B-1 Bomber is not a "provocative weapon."

"Here you have a complex and sophisticated weapon that was ahead on production schedule and came in on budget. Now, that's quite a record," Benson said.

He said the could be a negotiating instrument during the time of a national crisis.

"You can't say that about a missile. It's a great day for our country," Benson said.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, told the audience that "Texans always believe in strong defense and providing a lead."

"This is a weapon we will see Texans fly as a symbol of the world's resolve," Gramm said.

He said the B-1 would add strength to our country's defense and "deter aggression."

U.S. Rep Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, said "the people of Abilene and West Texas have always looked at the B-52 and seen the men and women in blue."

"There is no secret why we are here... people of Texas are recognizing without these people who fly these machines, there is no peace in the world," Stenholm said.

He addressed Dyess Air Force personnel and said "may you never have to fly the B-1 in anger."

B-52 marks anniversary

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The man who flew the first active-duty B-52 bomber to its base didn't get sentimental Saturday at the thought that ceremonies to welcome its replacement were being held exactly 30 years later.

Retired Brig. Gen. William E. Eubank Jr. did chuckle and say, "I'll be dog!" when he was told that the B-1B developed mechanical troubles on the way to Dyess Air Force Base on Saturday and ended its first trip at a Nebraska base.

Eubank, 72, said the B-52 made its first flight without trouble on June 29, 1955. "Of course, it wasn't a very long flight. From Moses Lake, Washington, to Merced, California," he said.

He said he was invited to Saturday's ceremonies in Abilene, Texas, but didn't make it.

"It didn't look like I was going to get transportation, so I made other arrangements," he said. "Then the transportation came through yesterday, but I didn't think I could cancel the other arrangements."

He said it was probably no coincidence that ceremonies for the B-1 came exactly 30 years after the first B-52 was delivered to the 93rd Bomb Wing at Castle Air Force Base in California.

He was wing commander of the 93rd Bomb Wing when the B-52 went into production in 1955.

Thinking About Contacts?

Let me give you some tips to help with your decision.

...Be sure you have a contact lens exam. Contact lenses cannot be made directly from your eye glass prescription. Many factors must be considered.

...Do not decide solely on cost. Contacts cost most doctors about the same. What you pay extra for is professional skill, knowledge and service. Why does it take such skill to determine proper fit in contact lenses?? If we strive for accuracy, all of the contact lens variables must be fabricated properly.

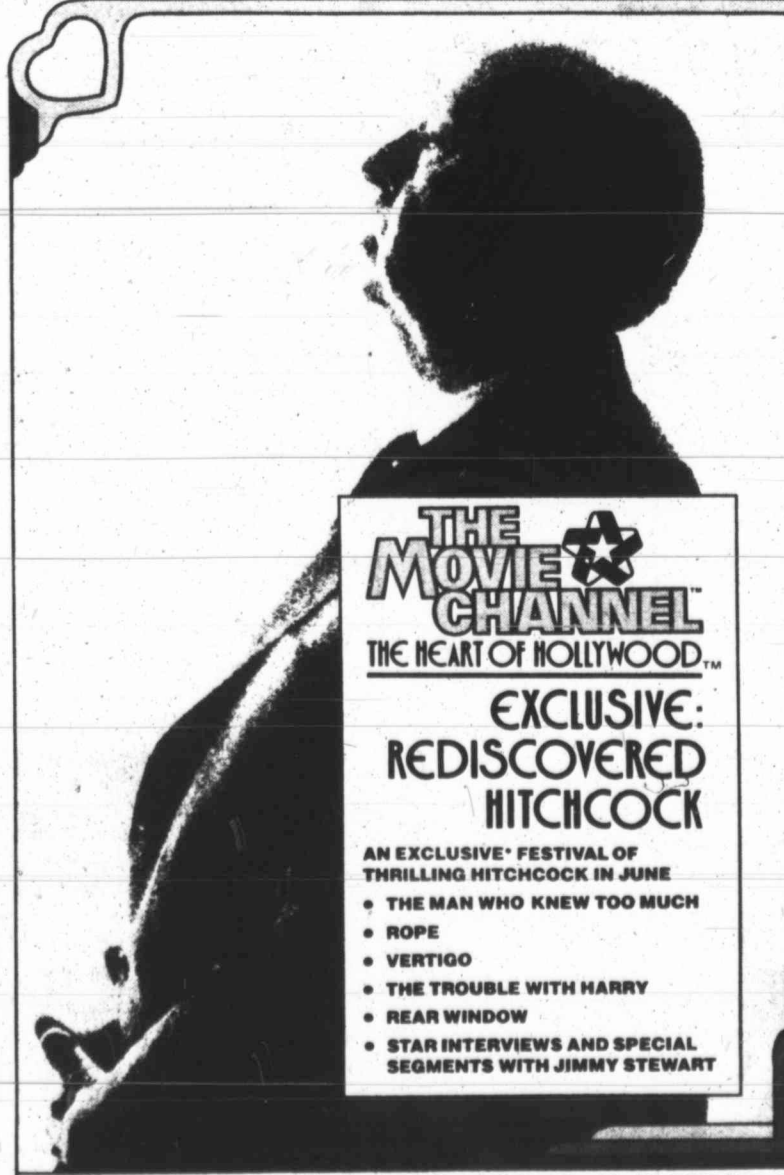

One authority figured out that there are 4,298,427,000 possible hard contact lens formulas. Multiply that by the different lens materials available today and you have a total exceeding 15 billion formulas. What you pay for is the skill used in the determining which lens formula is right for you.

...Don't be afraid to ask questions.

...Would you like to know how a lens feels in your eye? You're welcome to come by and let me show you.

Top seeds struggle at rainy Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — They had added charm, grace and a touch of sunshine to the Wimbledon tennis championships. And when crowd favorites Gabriela Sabatini and Hu Na lost Saturday, was it just coincidence that that was when the rain came?

The top names — Martina Navratilova, Ivan Lendl and Jimmy Connors — all struggled, but they had won.

Even Hana Mandlikova, the No. 3 women's seed from Czechoslovakia, dropped the first set before eliminating Australia's Dianne Balestrat 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

But it was "Gabby," the long-legged, bronzed 15-year-old from Argentina who had dazzled the crowd at the staid All England Club. And it was Hu, the first native of China to play in the women's singles in this fabled grass court tournament, who had battled her way through the qualifying before ousting Britain's Annabel Croft en route to the third round.

Sabatini, the 15th seed making her first appearance at Wimbledon and reminding many of Brazil's Maria Bueno, a three-time Wimbledon champion, lost to France's Catherine Tanvier 6-7, 6-4, 6-1.

And it was about then that the bright sunshine that had broken through the heavy overcast, disappeared again, replaced by the showers that had plagued the tournament all week.

The action ended early again, when the rain returned in the evening — a replay of the entire first week.

Navratilova, the women's co-top seed with Chris Evert Lloyd, was taken to a first-set tiebreaker before ousting West Germany's Bettina Bunge 7-6, 6-3. The 32-year-old Connors, whose forte throughout his long career has been his aggressive style, looked his age in stopping Ramesh Krishnan of India 7-5, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, and Lendl outlasted American Mike Leach 6-3, 1-6, 6-2, 6-7, 6-4 in a match that began Friday and was interrupted three times by rain.

Other seeds to lose were No. 6 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany, No. 9 Bonnie Gadusek of the United States and No. 10 Kathy Jordan of the U.S. in the women's field.

Sixth-seeded Pat Cash of Australia was ousted, as were No. 9 Johan Kriek of the U.S. and No. 15 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia in the men's division.

Pam Shriver of the U.S., seeded fifth among the women, was a winner Saturday, as were No. 4 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, No. 7 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia, No. 8 Zina Garrison of the U.S., No. 14 Wendy Turnbull of Australia and No. 16 Kathy Rinaldi of the U.S.

Winners in the men's draw included fifth-seeded Anders Jarryd of Sweden and two Americans.

Area riders take rodeo titles

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Guy Miller and Raylynn Key were the only area athletes to win titles at the 52nd Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo as festivities closed out last night at the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl.

Over 3,500 spectators turned out for the final performance, which was the largest crowd attendance for the four-day event.

Miller, of Lamesa, hung on to win the calf roping competition. His combined two-ride time was 23.2. Britton Barron of Richmond had the night's top single performance in the event with a time of 12.1.

Key, who hails from Gail in Borden County, came away with top honors in the barrel racing with a time of 16.66. Lee Ann Guilkey of Decatur came on with a ride of 16.80 to take second place honors. She nosed out Kimbra Dorset of Childress, who clocked a 16.92.

But the big winner of the rodeo was Clay O'Brien Cooper of Gilbert, Arizona. The 24-year-old cowboy won the steer wrestling in a combined 11.2. He also teamed with Jake Barnes of Bloomfield, New Mexico to win the team roping competition.

Randy McKenzie turned in the top single performance of the night in the calf roping when BRAD MUNROE of Valley Mills hangs on for dear life in the saddle bronc competition at the 52nd Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

he snagged his prey in 5.1. Randy Taylor of Tulsa, Oklahoma hung on to win the bareback bronc competition after taking the lead Friday night from Tony Hackshear of Snyder. Taylor won the competition with a two-ride score of 144. Hometown favorite Jack Himes competed on the final night and scored a 68, the third best showing of the night. The saddle bronc competition ended in a tie between Monty Henson and Brad Munroe. Both riders received scores of 77 from the judges. The bull riding competition also ended in a tie. Bubba Monkres and Billy Wayne Busbee of Midland both recorded rides of 82. One of the highlights of the rodeo occurred Thursday when local favorite Toots Mansfield was presented a belt buckle from sons of cowboys Mansfield use to team rope with. It was a fitting tribute for the seven-time World Champion.

Burns in Memphis lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Veteran pro George Burns grabbed sole possession of the lead in the St. Jude Memphis Classic on Saturday, firing a 2-under-par 70 to take a two-stroke lead over David Ogrin and Andy Bean.

"It was really work out there today," Burns said after finishing 54 holes at the 7,282-yard Colonial Country Club with 10-under-par 206.

Burns began the day tied with Ogrin and Bill Sander at 8-under. Richard Zokol and John Mahaffey were a stroke behind.

Playing with Burns and Ogrin, Sander picked up two birdies in the first nine, then dropped to 7-under with a double-bogey on 13 and a bogey on No. 16 where he hit his tee shot in the water.

Sander, who has won only $712 on the tour this year, is still in striking distance with a 7-under-par 209 after Saturday's 73.

Bean, who was three strokes back after 36 holes, hung up four birdies and a bogey on his way to a 69 to move into position for Sunday's final round.

"I've played about as well today as I can play," said Bean, another veteran who won this tournament in 1977. "If I can go out and make a good score tomorrow, I can win."

"I would consider 68 a good round. If the wind blows like it did today, a 69."

Burns, who is 37th on the money list this year with $103,099, said he could have done better Saturday.

"My putter kinda let me down on the back," he said. "But I made a couple of real long ones on the front so it evened out. But I really had a chance to put it away, but I missed a couple of real short ones coming in."

Burns said the greens were fast and the pin placements difficult. "I haven't won since 1980," he said. "It would be very nice."

Ogrin, who has won only $11,241 on the tour this year, was obviously tickled with his position after being summoned once again to the press room for a post-round interview.

"This is three days in a row," he said. "I'm setting an all-time record for myself."

"It's George, Andy and I tomorrow. It's going to be an interesting day for me. I'm looking forward to it."

Ogrin, who is in his third year on the Professional Golfers' Association Tour, moved to 10-under par Saturday before bogeying No. 5 and the seventh hole.

"I 3-putted for bogey on seven," he said. "As the day went on the greens got faster."

But Ogrin played steady par golf the rest of the day to finish with a 72 for the round.

U.S. dominates West Germans, Budd wins in England

BREMEN, West Germany (AP) — Maryanne Torrellas of Clinton, Conn. set an American record in the women's five-kilometer walk with a time of 22 minutes, 51.10 seconds Saturday as the United States team dominated West Germany on the first day of their weekend track and field meet.

Both teams were hit by injuries or withdrawals of top stars, but the Americans won all but three of the 19 events contested Saturday.

Cool temperatures and intermittent rain crowded performances, and kept the crowd to about 10,000.

America's men won 10 of the 12 events and took a 77-49 lead, while the U.S. women won six of seven events for a 45-28 lead.

Torrellas quickly established a big lead in the walk and finished more than 30 seconds ahead of the runner-up, teammate Teresa Vaili.

Another 1-2 finish for the American women came in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, with Olympic silver medalist Judi Brown-King winning in 56.08 and U.S. record-holder Latanya Sheffield second in 57.11.

In the absence of two-time Olympic champion and world record holder Edwin Moses, his long-time rival and European record holder, Harald Schmid, easily won the men's 400-meter hurdles in 48.96.

The other victory for the German men came in the discus, but Olympic champion Rolf Danneberg was upset by teammate Alwin Wagner. Wagner's best throw was 206 feet, 4 inches, while Danneberg managed only 203.11.

Mike Morris clocked 10.16 in the 100-meter dash, leading a 1-2 finish for the American men. Lee McNeil was second in 10.25.

Another 1-2 for the American men came in the 1,500 meters, with Todd Harbour winning in 3:44.48 and Frank Assuma the runner-up in 3:44.58.

Billy Olson, the American indoor record holder, and Joe Dial, the American outdoor record holder, tied for first place in the pole vault, each clearing 17-4½.

Another clear-cut victory for the Americans came in the men's 5,000 meters, with Keith Brantley winning in 14:11.98 and James Sapientza second in 14:12.52. West Germans Christoph Herle and Hans-Juergen Orthmann were a distant third and fourth, respectively.

In the men's 10-kilometer walk, Tim Lewis beat American teammate Marco Evoniuk.

ZOLA BUDD runs fastest 3000 meters

In Greathead, England Britain's Zola Budd posted the fastest women's 3,000-meter time in the world this year, while star middle-distance runners Steve Cram and Steve Ovett suffered surprising losses in an international track and field meet Saturday.

Budd, 19, running barefoot as usual, was timed in 8 minutes, 44.55 seconds in a meet against France and Czechoslovakia.

Jarmila Kratochvilova, the world record holder in the women's 400 and 800 meters, won the 200 in 22.73 and the 400 in 51.88, victories which helped Czechoslovakia win the women's competition with 118 points, followed by Britain with 110 and France with 84.

In the men's division, France collected 155½ points to Britain's 148½ and Czechoslovakia's 118.

Budd, bouncing back from a 3,000-meter loss at Belfast, Ireland, Monday night, led all the way and won by 60 meters.

Little-known Scot Tom McKean sped past Olympic silver medalist Cram in the home stretch and won the men's 800 meters in a personal best of 1:47.25.

It was Cram's second 800-meter loss in eight days — in between which he ran the third-fastest 1,500 meters in history at Oslo, Norway.

Ovett, the world record holder at 1,500 meters, misjudged a slow-paced race over that distance and was beaten by compatriot Chris McGeorge in 3:50.50.

"I haven't done any real speed work this season so I wasn't too disappointed," Ovett said.

McClain pitching in different league

ATLANTA (AP) — Denny McLain's 12-year absence from the pitching mound will end next Saturday when major league baseball's last 30-game winner strides up the hill for the Detroit Tigers.

Part of his audience will be armed guards who will make sure that only baseballs, and not people, go over the wall, which encircles the federal penitentiary in Atlanta where McLain is serving a 23-year sentence for gambling and drug convictions.

McLain won 31 games for the Detroit Tigers in 1968, losing six and winning the American League Cy Young award. He also won the award as the league's best pitcher the next year with a 24-9 record.

But his career began to slide, amid suspensions from baseball for consorting with bookmakers. It eventually ended in Atlanta in 1972 where he was 3-5 in eight games for the Braves.

In 1973, he pitched for a minor league team in Shreveport, La., but didn't pitch again until last week, when he began preparing for Saturday's game between his namesake team and the Cardinals — a squad made up of mostly young inmates that was established before McLain arrived at the Atlanta prison three weeks ago.

When McLain suggested the Cardinals move a young outfielder with a strong arm to the mound, he was told they didn't want any outside interference.

After the rejection, other inmates rallied around the 41-year-old McLain and asked him to pitch for a new team that would challenge the Cardinals.

Most of the players are between 40 and 50 and want nothing more than to beat the younger team.

One Midland Angels named to All-Stars

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Shreveport paced six players on the Eastern Division Texas League All-Star team that is to meet the Western Division All-Stars July 9 in Beaumont, Texas.

Shreveport players named to the team are pitchers Terry Mulholland, Eric King and Randy Bockus, infielders Mike Aldrete and Robby Thompson and outfielder Alan Cockrell.

Other members of the Eastern Division team are pitcher Randy Myers of Jackson, pitcher John Martin of Arkansas, catcher Barry Lyons of Jackson, catcher Bob Geren of Arkansas, infielder Dave Magadan of Jackson, infielder Rod Booker of Arkansas, outfielder Ruben Sierra of Tulsa, outfielder Stanley Jefferson of Jackson, outfielder Alan Cockrell of Shreveport, designated hitter Randy Milligan of Jackson and utilityman Eddie Tanner of Arkansas.

Jim Riggleman of Arkansas is to manage.

The Western Division includes pitchers Juan Nieves of El Paso, Adrean Meagher of San Antonio, Mark Heuer of San Antonio, Mike Mills of Beaumont and Scott May of San Antonio; catchers Benito Santiago of Beaumont and Joe Debus of San Antonio; infielders Billy Joe Roubidoux of El Paso, Mark McLemore of Midland, Mark Wasinger of Beaumont, Gary Green of Beaumont; outfielders Johnny Tutt of Beaumont, Jose Gonzales of San Antonio and Glenn Braggs of El Paso, designated hitter Joey Meyer of El Paso and utilityman Tom Brassil of Beaumont.

Terry Bevington of El Paso is to manage.

Knepper hits and bats Astros past Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bob Knepper pitched a four-hitter and drove in four runs with a homer and a single Saturday as the Houston Astros defeated San Francisco 8-1, handing the Giants their ninth straight loss.

Knepper, who had just one hit in 33 previous at-bats this season (.030) with no RBI, stroked a two-run single in the top of the fourth off Giants' starter Al Lee Hamaker, 3-8, to pad Houston's lead to 4-0.

Then in the sixth inning with a runner on and two out, Knepper slammed a two-run homer into the right field seats off reliever Frank Williams. It was the fifth career homer for Knepper, a .141 lifetime hitter.

Knepper, 3-4, limited the Giants to three singles and Rob Deer's third home run, a solo shot in the fifth. Knepper, who completed his first game, walked three and struck out six.

Houston scored its first run when Mark Bailey hit his fifth home run in the second inning, and the Astros added another in the third on Phil Garner's sacrifice fly. Bailey also accounted of the final Houston run with a ninth-inning single.

The loss tied a San Francisco franchise record set last season. The Giants also have lost 11 straight to Houston dating back to last year.

blooped a double to right, scoring Samuel and Schmidt. Montreal scored in the fifth when rookie Al Newman broke up the no-hit bid with his first major league hit, went to second on an infield out and scored on Andre Dawson's pinch single.

Orioles 16 Red Sox 4

BOSTON (AP) — Floyd Rayford had four hits, including a homer, and John Shelby and Lee Lacy had three apiece as the Baltimore Orioles rode an eight-run sixth inning to a 16-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Rayford and Lacy drove in four runs each, while Eddie Murray had three RBI with a homer and a single and Cal Ripken had two RBI in the big sixth with a pair of singles.

The Orioles bombed Boston starter Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 9-6, for nine hits and seven runs in four innings en route to a 19-hit game, their biggest assault of the season. The 16 runs were the most scored against Boston since 1981.

A single by Shelby, a double by Lacy and Murray's 11th homer gave Baltimore a quick 3-0 lead in the first.

After Jim Rice hit a two-run homer, his 14th, in the Boston first, Baltimore scored two in the second on an RBI double by Shelby and a sacrifice fly by Lacy.

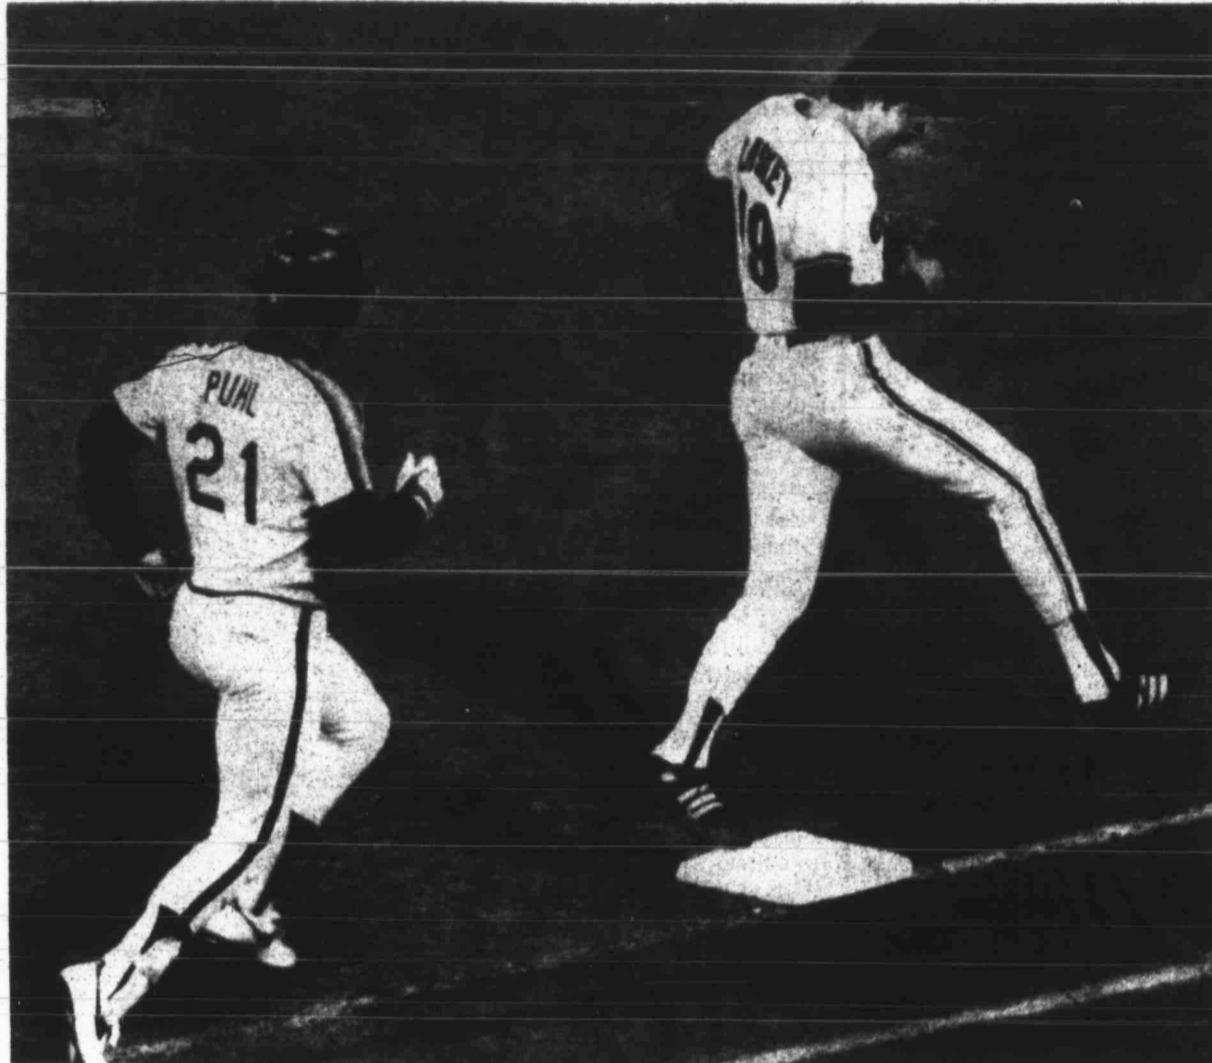

Rayford's second homer and another sacrifice fly by Lacy made it 7-2 in the fourth.

Then, after Boston picked up a run on a two hits and a double play grounder in its fourth, the Orioles destroyed the 1985 debut of just recalled Boston reliever Jim Dorsey.

Dodgers 3 Braves 2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Reuss and Tom Neidenfuer combined on a five-hitter Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers snapped Atlanta's five-game win streak with a 3-2 victory Saturday.

Reuss, 6-6, struck out one, walked one and allowed only one hit between the fourth and the ninth, retiring 15 of 16 batters as he took a 3-0 lead into the final inning.

But after he retired the first two hitters, Dale Murphy singled, then Bob Horner hit his 11th homer for the two Braves runs. Neidenfuer then came in to retire Terry Harper on a ground ball to first for his sixth save.

Greg Brock, R. J. Reynolds and Steve Sax led the Dodgers' nine-hit attack against loser Rick Mahler, 11-7. The win was only the second in the last six games for the Dodgers.

Dave Anderson doubled to lead off the Dodgers' first, was bunted to third by Mariano Duncan and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ken Landreaux.

Baseball Roundup

Phillies 6 Expos 2

MONTREAL (AP) — Garry Maddox had three hits and drove in three runs to back the four-hit pitching of Kevin Gross as the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Montreal Expos 6-2 Saturday.

Gross, 6-7, did not allow a hit until the fifth inning. He struck out five and walked only one en route to his first complete game of the season and also had an RBI single.

The Phillies struck quickly against Expos starter Mickey Mahler, 1-2.

Juan Samuel led off the first with a single and Mike Schmidt doubled one out later. After Glenn Wilson grounded out, Ozzie Virgil walked to load the bases and then Maddox

Andretti holds top GP spot

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Mario Andretti held onto the pole position for Sunday's U.S. Grand Prix at the Meadowlands by virtue of his first-day qualifying speed, while Danny Sullivan withdrew one car Saturday and still nailed down the other front-row starting spot.

The pole position for Andretti was his third of the season, 11th in his last 21 tries and the 53rd of his career, tying the Indy-car record set by A. J. Foyt.

The 45-year-old Andretti was unable to better his Friday qualifying lap of 98.452 mph, which broke his own track qualifying mark set at the inaugural Meadowlands race last year. But, with warmer weather heating up the tires and oil making the temporary circuit slick, that was good enough for his Beatrice Lola T-900 to retain the top qualifying spot.

Abou starting up front on the 1.68-mile, 11-turn circuit at the New Jersey sports complex, Andretti said, "The clear advantage of being on the pole at a circuit like this is to set the pace at the start of the race. The less cars you have around you the better."

Sullivan, the budding star of the CART-PPG series and the winner of this year's Indianapolis 500, retained the second qualifying spot by driving his March 85C Miller American racer to a fast lap of 97.015 Saturday.

The 35-year-old Sullivan was forced to go to his backup March on Friday after an engine problem developed in his No. 1 car during the final practice session that day. He managed to put that car in the second spot at 97.244.

However, the Penske Racing team crew put in a new engine

Saturday morning in the No. 1 car and, after practicing in that car, the team decided to qualify it.

That meant withdrawing the backup and taking a chance of slipping farther back into the field at the tight temporary circuit where a premium is put on starting near the front.

"We wanted to race our race car," explained Sullivan. "The spare car was not quite up to what we want. It just didn't have everything on it that we have on the other one."

Sullivan explained he waited until late in the final 45-minute qualifying session to make his final effort.

"We knew the track conditions were not as good as they were (Friday) because it was hotter and there was a lot of oil on the track," he said. "But we knew if there was going to be a time to go fast, it would be right at the end. Then we just had to hope for a clean lap. We came out of it okay."

The only other major changes on Saturday saw Geoff Brabham of Australia jump past Bobby Rahal into third place with a lap of 96.715, and Indy-car rookie Roberto Moreno of Brazil leap from 22nd to sixth at 95.630. Brabham was fourth Friday at 96.009, while Moreno, who tangled with fellow rookie Jan Lammers of Holland on Friday, had a lap of 91.537.

Rahal still improved his first-day speed from 96.030 to 96.496, though he fell one spot.

Houston Gamblers CALVIN EASON (34) breaks up a pass intended for Birmingham Stallions JIM SMITH (86).

Field goal sinks Gamblers

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Danny Miller, kicked five field goals, the last with two minutes left in the game, as Birmingham defeated Houston 22-20 in a United States Football League first round playoff game Saturday.

The victory leaves Birmingham, the USFL regular season eastern conference champion, with a 14-5 record. Houston ends its season at 10-9.

Birmingham jumped to a 10-0 lead in the first half and held the edge until Houston went up 17-16 in the third period on a 21-yard pass from Jim Kelly, the league's top quarterback, to Richard Johnson.

Birmingham made it 19-17 on Miller's fourth field goal of the afternoon, a USFL playoff record 57-yarder, late in the third period, but Houston's Toni Fritsch countered with a 46-yard field goal that put the Gamblers ahead 20-19 in the final quarter.

The Stallions moved to midfield, and a Bob Parsons punt was blown dead on Houston's 1-yard line. The Gamblers moved to their own 20-yard line, but were forced to punt and Birmingham took over at Houston's 48.

After four running plays picked up 30 yards, an incomplete Cliff Stoudt pass set the stage for Miller's winning kick, a 35-yarder. His five field goals tied a league record for most in one game.

Miller opened the first-half scoring with a 39-yard field goal. On the ensuing kickoff, Birmingham's Ted Walton knocked the ball away from Clarence Verdin and Dennis Woodberry recovered at the Houston 34-yard line. Four plays later, Stoudt hit Jim Smith with an eight-yard touchdown pass.

Houston tied the game on a 23-yard pass from Kelly to Gerald McNeil and a 20-yard Fritsch field goal.

Two more Miller field goals for 26 and 41 yards, made it 16-10 before Kelly and Johnson linked up to make it 17-16.

After Birmingham went up 22-20, the Gamblers started a final drive at their own 10-yard line.

McDonald Observatory retires lone laser ranger

Harte-Hanks News Service
FORT DAVIS — Officials from the University of Texas, McDonald Observatory and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration retired the lunar laser ranging system Saturday after 16 years of service.

The system will be donated to the Smithsonian Institution in a formal ceremony next month.

"McDonald has done many things that are important in astronomy, but the one most unique is the lunar laser ranging system," said Dr. Harlan Smith, director of the observatory. "The other experiments, someone else in the world has been able to do in some degree. The lunar laser ranging system, however, has been a unique experiment here."

The laser system is being decommissioned because scientists have a more modern laser system.

The laser, which fired its first burst on July 20, 1969, the day the Apollo 11 astronauts placed the 18-square-inch array of reflectors on the moon, is credited with enabling scientists to predict the uneven rotation and orbits of the Earth and moon, and substantiating Einstein's Theory of Relativity.

The retiring laser was specifically designed for the McDonald Observatory 107-inch telescope, which focuses the laser beam and receives particles bouncing from the reflectors 250,000 miles away.

Dr. Carroll Alley, one of the supporters of the system, said other experiments have helped support Einstein's theory, but the laser system has eliminated competing theories.

"It is fair to say the lunar laser ranging system is one of the most significant tests of the validity of Einstein's theory versus competing ideas,"

Alley said.

The second laser system, also based at McDonald Observatory in the Davis Mountains, was constructed in 1980 and began operations in 1983. The two lasers were operated simultaneously so scientists could see the differences in the systems.

The second system, attached to a 30-inch telescope, has three times the power of its predecessor.

"In some ways it's a nostalgic time," said Shelus. "We're losing a system we've grown to know and love. It's exciting on the other side, because we now have a modern, sensitive system. We want to share the excitement with the world."

Eric Silverberg, who headed the lunar laser ranging project from 1970 to 1982, said the experiment provided substantial amounts of information, helping scientists resolve questions that had lingered for centuries.

"It has become the stereotype of what a successful laser research station is all about," Silverberg said.

Alley said he fought the NASA bureaucracy to receive approval for the experiment in 1969.

Alley said astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin refused the original, more complicated, experiment because they thought installing the reflectors would take too long.

In practice runs, deploying the original array of reflectors took 45 minutes, and the two astronauts thought it would take twice that long on the moon. They had been allotted only two hours on the moon's surface.

Later, Armstrong and Aldrin agreed to deploy a smaller, 18-square-inch array of reflectors.

Every three seconds, the lunar laser system fires billion-watt impulses of light to the moon.

Republican leads special vote

By The Associated Press
 Republican Edd Hargett led a field of eight candidates Saturday but was forced into a runoff with Democrat Jim Chapman in a special election to fill the 1st congressional district in East Texas, a seat held by Democrats for more than a century.

Hargett, a former Texas A&M University quarterback who drew on well-financed, big-gun backing from Vice President George Bush and other national GOP leaders, came up short of the 50 percent needed for victory.

With all precincts counted, Hargett had 29,814 votes, or 42.2 percent. Chapman, the Hopkins County district attorney, had 21,370 votes, or 30.2 percent.

Since no candidate in the field of eight — including six Democrats — won more than 50 percent of the vote, the top two vote-getters will meet in a mid-July or early August runoff.

The special election was called after U.S. Rep. Sam B. Hall Jr., was appointed a federal judge.

Participants said the race took on even greater significance than who will represent the district's 20 counties. A victory for the GOP, they said, would show that traditionally Democratic Texas is indeed swinging toward the Republican Party.

But Chapman said he thought the vote was an indication that the Democratic base was not eroding.

"There's no greater indication (of Democratic strength), I think, than what's been demonstrated today," Chapman said.

"If a candidate can only get 41 percent of the vote and outspend the other candidates 2-to-1, that indicates that Texas is still Democratic country."

Hargett said the results put him in "a solid position" for the runoff.

"We're very excited about the results. I had two goals, one was to win by 10 percent and the other was to get over 40 percent. And we accomplished both of them," Hargett said.

"It's a good showing, and I'm proud of the result," said Sen. Phil Gramm, a former Democrat who switched parties and won a landslide victory in November. "I think we've got momentum. This is a tough district. You have to realize that in 100 years, there has not been one single Republican elected."

About 20.8 percent of the 339,158 voters in the district cast ballots Saturday.

State Rep. Sam Russell had 12,604 votes, or 21.3 percent.

State Rep. Jim McWilliams, former state treasurer Warren G. Harding, retired businessman Carl Brown and independent candidate Fred Wieder each had less than 5 percent of the vote.

The district stretches from Paris near the Oklahoma border to San Augustine in the southeast, and the candidates are from towns as far-flung as the district's boundaries.

The campaign turned bitter in the last week when Democrats blasted Republicans for two incidents.

Oklahoma goes wet Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Across-the-bar liquor sales become legal in Oklahoma's 24 wet counties and illegal in the state's 53 dry counties minutes after the stroke of midnight Sunday.

And the man coordinating enforcement of the state's new liquor laws says his agents won't waste any time checking reports of clubs and restaurants that may be violating the new laws, which take effect at 12:01 a.m. Monday and also ban happy hours statewide.

"This is the 11th hour and the emphasis is changing from licensing to enforcement," said Ron Willis, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Laws Enforcement Commission.

Willis, who has been loaned 25 state agents and has 17 on his staff, said enforcing the new laws in the state's 77 counties will be "a little difficult," but is relying on assistance from local law officers.

By Saturday, Willis said between 1,000 and 1,100 drinking establishments had applied for a license to operate in wet counties. Clubs that applied for a license by late Saturday afternoon are eligible for temporary permits, he said.

Only 60 applications were received from establishments seeking to operate bottle clubs in dry counties, most of them from country clubs and fraternal organizations, Willis said.

Bottle clubs are for members only, with $25 annual or $3 temporary membership fees. Each member must bring his own bottle.

9 Texans plead guilty to condo loan scheme

TYLER (AP) — Nine people have pleaded guilty to filing false loan applications to finance condominium projects targeted in an ongoing federal criminal investigation.

Friday's pleadings brought to 10 the number of defendants who have admitted filing false loan applications with Investex Savings Association of Tyler.

In a day-long session before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, seven people were charged with inflating the value of personal assets to obtain condo investment loans from Investex, now known as Independent American Savings.

Meanwhile in Dallas federal court Friday, Roy and Allan McCann — a father and son — pleaded guilty to inflating the value of their property on loan applications to the now-defunct Empire Savings & Loan Association of Mesquite and to Bell Savings Association in Bell County.

Federal investigators say the borrowers were the "bottom rung" of a scheme to obtain hundreds of millions of dollars in loans from at least six Texas lenders for over-valued real estate.

Investex had made $110 million in loans for the condominium developments along Interstate 30 and in Tarrant and Collin counties.

"We anticipate completing the investigation in three to four months," U.S. Assistant Attorney Chris Harrison of Tyler said.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of two years in federal prison and a $5,000 fine.

Comanche Peak owners ask for delay in license

DALLAS (AP) — The Comanche nuclear plant's principal owners have asked that licensing hearings be delayed until December, when a reinspection of the plant is expected to be near completion.

Texas Utilities Electric Co., chief owner of the plant at Glen Rose 80 miles southwest of Dallas, said it asked for the delay because many safety questions should be resolved by then.

The U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board had planned to resume hearings on Comanche Peak in September.

The hearings are to assess the plant's safety before the board recommends whether the plant should be licensed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Utility spokesman Dick Ramsey said the proposed delay is an effort to streamline the process and not an attempt "to deprive anybody of due process or input."

The utility also submitted a report Friday to the licensing board in which it said the controversial $4.5 billion plant was "generally well-designed and constructed" despite weaknesses in the management team that supervised construction.

Juanita Ellis, president of the Dallas-based Citizens Association for Sound Energy, called the report the "biggest bunch of bull I have ever seen."

Summerfest to offer a holiday blast

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Wholesome fun and good food described last year's Fourth of July Summerfest, which benefited the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. This year's event will have more of the same plus the additional excitement that only a fireworks display can bring out.

Summerfest activities will be similar to the "Battle of the Network Stars" contest that has appeared occasionally on television. The day-long event will be held at Dora Roberts Community Center July 4 beginning at 7:30 a.m. It will end with the fireworks display held in conjunction with Summerfest but sponsored by local businessmen with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Competitive events include mechanical armadillo races, football throw, horseshoes, washers, tennis tournament, Rose Magers Game Field, obstacle course, wheelbarrow race, canoe race and volleyball. The play-off will be The Great Mud Pull. The top eight to 10 teams will take part in this double elimination mud pull tournament to determine the overall winner.

Teams are made up of four males and four females. Each team must enter all team events, which are the armadillo race, wheelbarrow race, canoe race, volleyball and obstacle course. There are five partner events. Every team will have one couple in each of the partner events. These events are the football throw, horseshoes, washers, tennis tournament and Rose Magers Game Field.

Points will be awarded for each event. The top teams with the highest points will qualify for the mud pull.

Entry fees for the competitions are $30 per couple or $120 per team. The overall winners will be presented a traveling trophy with their names on it. It will be displayed at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Other trophies include the Sportsmanship, Best Dressed Team, and Last Place Team awards.

As of Wednesday, 18 teams of eight people each had signed up for the Summerfest competition. Teams can enter until the events begin.

Last year the teams came from businesses and civic organizations. Individuals also can get together teams to compete in the events.

Last year's competition was often absurd, always intense and generally all in fun. Exchanges such as the following were heard during the blindfolded wheelbar-

"Sharp right."
"Sharp right."
"Straight, straight."
"Left, left."
And then an "Oh, my God!" followed as wheelbarrow and passenger toppled over.

Even if not on a team, anyone can enjoy watching the competition. Partner events will begin at 9 a.m. and team events will begin around 10 a.m. Jay Phinney will play guitar and sing during lunch inside the Dora Roberts Community Center. A barbecue catered by Big John's Feed Lot will be from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. From 5 p.m. until whenever, the American Business Club will serve hot dogs. Xi Pi Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will sell lemonade and tea. A Coca-Cola booth and Coors beer booth also will be available.

Depending on how everything is going, says John Sparks, chairman, team events will resume at 1 p.m. "Nightshift," a band from Snyder, will perform outdoors from 2 to 6 p.m. "Eagle Creek," a band from Odessa, will perform from 7 to 10 p.m. Mel Prather will have a booth for selling Texas Sesquicentennial paraphernalia. The Pro Shop at the Figure 7 Tennis Center also will be open during the day.

About 6 p.m. the double-elimination mud pull tournament will begin to determine the winning team. From 8 to 8:30 p.m., Miss Howard County Rhonda Fowler will sing. At nightfall, the fireworks display will begin. If it's too windy, the show will be postponed until July 5.

To watch the fireworks, people will need to be at the Dora Roberts Community Center area. Professionals from Western Enterprises fireworks company out of Enid, Okla. will shoot the bombs, rockets, shells, comets, chrysan-them, circles, and flares.

About 177 items or $4,000 worth of fireworks have been purchased for the show by businessmen with the Chamber of Commerce. The show will last about 20 minutes, Sparks said. The Chamber has a committee headed by Bruce Hogenmiller to raise donations to pay for the fireworks. Donations can be made at Big Spring Savings.

The Summerfest committee plans to raise between $20,000 to $25,000 for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center during the day-long event. Most of the proceeds will go into an endowment fund and some may go into the operations of the physical plant.

Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center provides services to individuals who are referred by their physician or a medical agency. It strives to provide the best physical restoration services available at the lowest possible cost to every individual referred to the Center.

The center is funded by area individuals, organizations and foundations. Patients at the center pay for treatment on a sliding base scale depending on what they can afford. Interest from the endowment fund offsets expenses from patient usage and enables the center to continue its sliding scale system. "All the money stays here, and it aids the people in this area," Patterson said.

Anyone interested in getting up a team to participate in the Summerfest events may submit their entry and entry fee to "Summerfest 85," Attention Jo Adams, P.O. Box 2213, Big Spring, Texas 79721 or bring their entry to Ms. Adams at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Entries must include the team name, who it's sponsored by, the team captain and his address and telephone number, and the names of the eight team members (four male, four female).

Psychic is 'Dear Tabby' for animal kingdom

By MARGARET HABERMAN
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Phyllis Moline calls herself the "Dear Tabby" of the animal kingdom.

A self-styled psychic, Mrs. Moline, 31, believes she can solve animals' problems by reading their minds. She calls it "telepet," or pet telepathy.

"Most humans are aware only that their pet gives them pleasure, or pain at times, and aren't conscious of the dynamics of what takes place between themselves and the animal," she says. "We communicate with our pets not just verbally, with a look or gesture. We also send them mental images."

And although veterinarians and others may be skeptical, Mrs. Moline has done readings on hundreds of animals — from cats and dogs to birds and boa constrictors.

Pet owners pay $10 to learn why their cat is depressed, why their dog keeps wetting the rug, or even if their animals are suffering from internal physical ailments.

Some of her customers want to see if she can learn things about them through their pets, she said. Others bring pets in "to find out what they're feeling or just for curiosity."

Mrs. Moline works out of Transpersonal Counseling Center — a Nashville office complete with couch, desk and small Buddha statue — with her partner, the Rev. Donald Wageck, an ordained United Methodist minister.

She and Wageck opened the center 1½ years ago and advertise only by word of mouth. In addition to the "telepet" readings, the two counsel people and conduct regular healing seminars to discuss such things as past and future lives and spiritual development.

IN HER WORK WITH animals, Mrs. Moline says her chief task is to "interpret the pets' feelings." "Sometimes they're lonely, they don't understand something in the environment or why their owners leave them alone during the day," she said. "It ranges from emotional to real physical problems."

The telepathy process with pets is similar to that with humans, Mrs. Moline said. "I link my mind to their mind, my soul to their soul and then get sensations and feelings," she said.

"If a cat, for instance, feels sad, I feel sad and then the cat sends a picture which I interpret. Most dogs are in black and white and cats in color."

To demonstrate for a reporter, Mrs. Moline went to the Hillsboro Animal Hospital in Nashville and did several readings, including one on a 2½-month-old puppy owned by June Goodman, an assistant at the facility.

"This dog thinks it's a cat — it's very curious," Mrs. Moline said as she played with the mixed-breed puppy.

"It has a cat buddy. It's very happy; has no fear of the car, likes water and music ... likes to jump up on a small bed. Plays tug of war, but won't chase a ball. It's a chewer, digger and destroyer of objects."

Ms. Goodman confirmed much of the information. "She's uprooted every plant in the house," she said. "She gets up on my bed ... and has made friends with a cat in the cage next to hers here at the hospital."

MRS. MOLINE SAID she discovered at an early age in Kenilworth, N.J., that she was different from other children when, at age 5, she touched a playmate's sty and the sore healed.

At age 12, she moved to India with her family. There, she studied for about two years at an ashram where she said she learned how to communicate with the temple animals.

When her family returned to the United States six years later and settled in Murfreesboro, Mrs. Moline decided to put her abilities to work and started in the psychic profession about four years ago.

College students and adults experience being foreigners

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

Ten Howard College students and seven other people from Big Spring recently had a first-hand experience at being foreigners.

The group returned June 12 from a nine-day trip to England and France. By taking the tour, the students received three hours college credit in art history.

The tour was coordinated by the American Leadership Study Group. The cost of $1,089 included all expenses except spending money and lunch. "Everything was planned out and mapped out before we got there," said Lois Brace, sponsor of the tour and an instructor at Howard College.

Although there are many tours available, "we went with the educational since it's more proper in the environment of Howard College," said Brace.

On the way from London to France, the group stopped in Canterbury Cathedral. "It's hard to imagine anyone taking the time to build such a beautiful place," recorded Denia Pope in her travel journal. She is a student at Howard College.

The group stopped at Notre Dame in time for mass. "Even though I'm not Catholic, it brought tears to my eyes. It was very inspiring — it makes you feel very insignificant," said Pope.

The group watched the "Moulin Rouge" a French Cabaret show which was "comparable to one of the Las Vegas shows," Brace said. Other highlights of the trip included the Windsor Castle, Bateau Mouche, Westminster Abbey, the Louvre, the palace of Louis XIV at Versailles and sightseeing in London and Paris.

"The excitement is just so powerful that you don't get tired until you get home," Brace said.

"An unpleasant surprise was our motel room," said Karla Cregar in her journal. "At first I almost refused to live in it, but I knew that I had no choice — plus I wouldn't be spending that much time in it. "Some Europeans my age wore wild looking clothes, but the majority dressed regularly in jeans and a t-shirt or button-up," said Cregar.

The people in France are "hospitable in every way. They like to tease. They like to joke," said Brace. But being a foreigner, "made me feel out of place sometimes, especially in France because I didn't know what they were saying," said Cregar.

"I never really realized how a foreigner felt until I became one. It's like being a minority. Sometimes you feel totally ignorant and helpless," said Pope.

This summer's trip was a trial run, said Brace. The college board will make a final decision on whether to give credit for the tours in the future.

"The students really want to see the trip make for next year," she said. A 15-day tour to five countries is planned. Cost will be $1,389. For more information call Brace at 267-4632.

Family plans party for Clark

CHARLES CLARK, a 1955 graduate of Big Spring High School, will be visiting his family over the July 4th holiday. His family would like to invite all his friends and classmates to a lawn party at the home of PAUL AND DEE JENKINS on Country Club Road at 8 p.m. July 5.

Charles has been coaching in Hemet, Calif. for the past 16 years. He and wife SHERRI will be visiting his mother, CLARA SCARBOROUGH, and two sisters DEE JENKINS and MARAE BROOKS.

Do you remember when former KKIK discjockeys JAY MCKAY and LARRY RAY sat in a hot tub for three days at Big Spring Mall to raise funds for Muscular Dystrophy Association? Well, Jay's at it again.

This time Jay is trying to gather at least 5,000 people from throughout the Permian Basin area to shoot for the world's record musical chairs game. The record so far, according to Guinness's Book of World Records, is 4,514 participants in a musical chairs game at Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio April 25, 1982.

Jay wants to get area groups, organizations and individuals involved in this effort to raise money once again for Muscular Dystrophy Association. Each participant donates $10 as their entry fee.

CHARLES CLARK
...to visit home

"Anything else people want to throw in that's fine too," he says. The winning organization or individual will receive $5,000 to do with as they please. The rest of the money will be put into check form and the winner will try to present it to JERRY LEWIS during the MDA telethon in Las Vegas during Labor Day weekend.

The entry fee may sound steep, Jay says, but each person or organization has a chance at the $5,000 and the trip to Las Vegas. This stunt has to be pulled off sometime in the next two months, and Jay plans to have it recorded with Guinness.

If you or your organization is interested in participating, give Jay a call in Stanton at (915) 756-2247 after 6 p.m.

The Howard County Council on Aging handles three activities of interest to area senior citizens.

The Council is in charge of the Mobile Meals program in Big Spring. During summer months, Runnels Junior High Cafeteria prepares food for the program. The meals are delivered five days a week by volunteers.

The council also sponsors Defensive Driving classes when enough people sign up for the course. The class' cost is $7.50. Once a person has taken the course, most insurance companies will reduce parts of car insurance by 10 percent.

Blood pressure checks are given once a month on the second Tuesday at the Spring City Senior Citizens Center, Building 487 at Big Spring Industrial Park. The blood pressure checks are available from 1 to 3 p.m.

Dear Abby

Man's affairs may live on after him

DEAR ABBY: I have this problem that has been on my mind for quite some time. I am married to a wonderful, hard-working man. We both work, but barely make ends meet between us. I am 48 and my husband is 51.

For the last six years I have been seeing a respectable, well-to-do, 74-year-old gentleman who has a living wife. He dearly loves me, and we get together for a few hours at his friend's apartment at least one afternoon a week.

I accept no money or gifts from him, but he told me that in his will he is leaving me his fine home and all the furnishings.

I am now wondering how this will go over with his family if he should die before his wife? Wouldn't they wonder why he is being so good to me? His wife knows nothing about us, and this could be a terrible shock to her. I don't want to ask him to leave me out of his will because I could sure use whatever he wants to leave me, but I don't want him to muddy his name or mine after he's gone. What should I do?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You are worried with good reason. Please share your concern with this "well-to-do, respectable, old gentleman" and ask him if he has considered the consequences of his generosity. Perhaps his lawyer can suggest some other way of remembering you. (You might also ask to see his will. You could be worried for nothing.)

***

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to give other young mothers a good piece of advice. It's about glass baby bottles.

My toddler was running down the sidewalk with one when he tripped; the bottle broke and stabbed him in the chest!

Fortunately, all he needed was four stitches, but the damage could have been much worse.

Glass baby bottles are fine for infants, but for older babies they're a no-no.

DEBBIE IN ROYAL OAKS, MICH.

DEAR DEBBIE: Thanks for caring enough about others to share your shattering experience.

***

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter signed "Ready to Scream" from the young Iowa couple who couldn't get any work done outside because their neighbors kept stopping by to visit.

You advised them to just keep right on working and tell the neighbors to come over some other time.

I have a better solution: Ask the neighbors to help. The worst that can happen is for them to stop coming over when they see you in the yard. And the best is that you'll get some extra help in the yard.

OHIO YARDBIRD

DEAR YARDBIRD: Of course — the old Tom Sawyer technique! Why didn't I think of that?

Q.: In discussing with friends the possibility of buying our first home, one mentioned we would need to pay for a title search before buying. What is this and why is it necessary?

A.: A title to a piece of property is the legally recorded history of the ownership, liens, etc., which are attached to or affect that property. It is important to have a title search on any piece of property you are going to acquire to determine if there are any liens or encumbrances against the property. Even if these date several years back, when you purchase the property you are responsible for them. A title search is for your protection as you don't want to acquire anyone else's debts. If something out of the ordinary comes to light because of the title search it can usually be taken care of before you sign the "dotted line," saving you worry and sometimes money.

Adults earn high school diplomas

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Howard College Adult Education Program just hosted the annual GED graduation ceremonies. Those earning a high school equivalency diploma go through meaningful ceremonies of great importance to the graduates. This is the graduation they missed the first time around and now through hard work and sacrifice have reached this goal. Eleven people graduated, ranging in age from 20 to 46. Some have been working toward this for over a year, others less than that — but for all it means a commitment.

Valedictorian Ethylene Parker gave the keynote address and it was about the importance of setting and achieving goals. Also speaking at the program were Salutatorian Henry Gutierrez and Outstanding Student Award Winner Bruce Erick Kimble. Honorable Mention Outstanding Student was Levy Peterson. Both Kimble and Peterson received scholarships to continue their education at Howard College.

Vicky Griffin, administrator of the Golden Plains Care Center, received word this week that the Health Department inspection and survey resulted in Golden Plains being recommended for a superior rating. This is good news for the 157 residents and the employees. Griffin said, in commenting the effort taken since the change in ownership of Golden Plains a little over a year ago.

Did you know that gospel singing is held every Monday night at the Kentwood Older Adult Center. Beginning at 7:00 p.m., there are solos, duets and quartets as well as congregational singing. The public, of all ages, is invited to this uplifting, old-fashioned get-together each Monday night.

A. J. Prager, who isn't in town often anymore, came back this week and brought his collection of postcards which tell the history of Howard County. The history is depicted both by the pictures on the postcard fronts and by the messages written on the backs. The postcards date from 1895 to 1980 and have stamps from one cent to 22¢. Prager is offering to loan his collection for use during the Howard County celebration of the Texas Sesquicentennial.

Sherry Wegner hosted a special evening at Highland Chrysler-Dodge Showroom June 28-29. Guests had the opportunity to view a western art show by three prominent artists who were on hand to visit with the art lovers. The artists were Ben Konis, Jim Thomas and Justin Wells. As an added attraction, several pieces of art were given away in special drawings to those who had test driven new cars.

Those who missed the formal reception at First Federal Savings and Loan Association Sunday shouldn't have. Marking the 50th (golden) anniversary of this company, several prizes of gold were given away to the more than 200 people who attended the affair. Charles Beil and his staff do things first class!

There have been a lot of changes at UT-Permian over the past year under the leadership of the new president, Dr. Duane Leach. Some of these include: an excellent master's program in geology, solid training in land management, and a strong humanities division. UTPB offers undergraduate degrees in over 25 different majors and master's degree in nine areas. It has recently opened a Woman's Center that meets a variety of needs. Beginning this fall, an opportunity will be available to undergraduate students to participate in the London Semester Abroad Program. The UTPB students will join other UT system scholars to live in London while taking courses in art, English, history, and sociology. Classes for the fall semester begin in London Aug. 29 and end Dec. 12. Deadline to apply for this program is July 10. Call or write Registrar's Office, UTPB, Odessa.

There is a critical and direct link between the continued economic vitality and health of a state and the quality of its institutions of higher learning. Therefore, it is critical that we keep a vibrant university in our midst if the Permian Basin is to soar to its potential.

In July the Howard County 4-H will host the 40th annual AJRA Junior Rodeo. Approximately 400 contestants and their families from throughout Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma will be in town. It is probably the oldest continuous junior rodeo held in this part of the country. Proceeds from the rodeo finance the 4-H club program for the year which will include various leadership training opportunities for the youth of 4-H, assisting with the development of different areas of projects: food and nutrition, clothing, crops, animal projects, etc.

August 6-8 are the dates Mt. Bethel Baptist Church will host the West Texas Baptist District Association convention. Approximately 700 people from Texas will gather in Big Spring. The Rev. Karl Hockenhuil will oversee plans for this large event.

Call me about your news. This column is written by Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery & Associates, West Texas Program Bureau, Professional Business Services Bureau. Her offices are located at 210 Permian Building and her phone number is 263-1451. She welcomes comments and suggestions for this column.

Buchanan-Stanley

The First Baptist Church of Coahoma was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding ceremony of LaRhonda Kay Buchanan and D.F. Stanley. The Rev. Danny Curry, pastor, and the Rev. B.W. Briggs officiated at the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DelRoy Buchanan of Coahoma. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Stanley, Sterling City Route.

The couple was wed before two brass candelabra and a brass archway entwined with greenery and burgundy flowers. A unity candle completed the setting. Alicia Curry, pianist and vocalist, and Rhonda Fowler, vocalist, performed at the wedding. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a white gown of Swiss embroidery lace. The fitted basque bodice was adorned with Venice lace motifs encrusted with pearls and crystals. It featured a V-neckline bordered with Venice lace, shoulder-line flounces of Swiss embroidery and cap sleeves of Venice lace and pearls. Long fitted sleeves extended from the flounces and ended with a pointed Venice lace cuff. The full skirt fell from a pointed waistline and into two sheer flounces at the hem, which formed a cathedral-length train. Each flounce was accented with Venice lace. The bride wore a caplet of Venice lace, pearls and crystals that held a fingertip-length silk illusion veil edged with matching lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of burgundy rose and white carnations accented with white lace, satin ribbon and baby's breath.

Betty Thixton was matron of honor. Rammie Uranga was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tobie Henry of Coahoma, Sherrie Stanley, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Susan Buchanan of Garden City, sister-in-law of the bride. Kristen Thixton, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Ernie Strickland of Forsan was best man. Groomsmen were Brent Nichols, A.J. Stanley, brother of the bridegroom, Keith Bagnall, and Rory Buchanan of Garden City, brother of the bride. Ushers were Carl Wayne Barnes of Sand Springs, cousin of the bride, and Wesley Thixton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception at the church's Reception Hall. The bride's table featured a white three-tiered wedding cake with a fountain. The cake was accented with burgundy tiger lilies. The second layer was topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine, and the top layer was topped with doves and bells. The bride's table was draped with a burgundy cloth and lace overlay and centered with crystal hurricane candelabra with burgundy candles.

The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate horseshoe cake. The table was draped with a grey cloth and white lace overlay.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and Alladin Beauty College. She is employed by Coahoma Beauty Center. The bridegroom is a graduate of Forsan High School and is self-employed as a welder.

Following a wedding trip to Cloudercroft and Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will live in Big Spring.

Deatherage-Connel

Sonya Cynette Deatherage became Mrs. Marshall Ray Connel in a double-ring ceremony June 23 at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dan Pierce, pastor of the Tarzan Baptist Church, officiated at the 2 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Deatherage of Tarzan. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Connel of Blackwell.

Brenda Robertson, vocalist, provided music for the ceremony performed before a fireplace and tall pedestal marble-topped tables. Large bouquets of white roses, rosebuds, gladiolas and greenery were atop the table.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight gown designed with Chanti lace and beaded Venice lace. The long-waisted, fitted bodice was adorned with Venice lace motifs that were heavily beaded with pearls and iridescent sequins. The sheer neck yoke was bordered by Venice motifs and featured an Elizabethan collar. The full Victorian sleeves were of sheer organza and Chanti lace. From the pointed basque waistline a bouffant skirt fell into five tiers of Chanti lace, which swept into a cathedral train. The matching headpiece of candlelight Venice lace featured pearl scallops on each side. A fingertip-length, two-tiered silk illusion veil fell from the headpiece.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, white miniature carnations and English ivy, concealing an antique handkerchief belonging to the bride's grandmother. It was something old. Something new was her gown. She wore a diamond dinner ring belonging to her mother as something borrowed. The traditional garter was blue.

Kresi Pylant of Stanton, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

MRS. MARSHALL R. CONNEL
...formerly Sonya C. Deatherage

Bridesmaid was Gracie Villa of Lenora. Jim Corbell of Big Spring was best man. Groomsmen were Robert Lara of Big Spring, Lori Web of Stanton, cousin of the bride, registered guests.

A reception followed at the same location. The bride's table was covered with a candlelight lace cloth with rust underlay. A silver candelabra adorned with peach flowers, ivy and five candlelight tapers centered the table. A three-tiered candlelight wedding cake decorated with peach baby carnations and peach roses was served. The cake was made by Mickey Lander, aunt of the bride.

Serving at the bride's table were Lori Webb, Shanna Hale and Tracey and Beth Glendening.

The bride graduated from Grady High School and attended Midland College. A graduate of Blackwell High School, the bridegroom is employed by Corbell Electrical Co.

The couple is living in Big Spring.

The Johnny Zitterkopfs

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Zitterkopf, Route 1, will be honored for their 25th wedding anniversary by their children and friends today. The event will be from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall of Midway Baptist Church.

Zitterkopf, originally from Scottsbluff, Neb., met the former Jackie Wilson in Abilene in January 1960. She was attending Hardin-Simmons University, and he was stationed at Dyess Air Force Base. She was born in Celina.

The couple was wed July 1, 1960 at the First Baptist Church of Coahoma. The Rev. Wayne Perry officiated at the rite. The couple has two children: Brent Wilson Zitterkopf and Darren Clark Zitterkopf.

The Zitterkopfs lived in Abilene, Merkel and Casper, Wyo. before moving to Big Spring 21 years ago. After working in the Air Force, Big Spring Police Department and in construction, Zitterkopf has been employed by Cosden for 20 years. Mrs. Zitterkopf taught for 15 years at Coahoma Elementary.

The Zitterkopfs are members of

The D.W. Roberson

Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Roberson, 4304 Connally, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary June 16 at a backyard gathering at their daughter's home in Odessa.

Hosting were the couple's three children: Bettye Turner of Odessa, Robert Roberson of Big Spring and David Roberson of Crane.

Although the Robersons were married March 29, 1925 in Eastland, a delayed celebration allowed more of the family to attend. Among the 26 guests were the Roberson's three children, seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Guests were from Crosby, Dallas, Abilene, Austin, Big Spring, Crane, and Massachusetts. The Robersons received a microwave oven as a gift.

'Late is better'

By REDBOOK
Becoming a bride at age 30 and beyond is not just as good as marrying younger — it is better.

Women who marry later feel they chose husbands more wisely than they would have in their 20s, Judith Viorst writes in Redbook, and they think they make better wives.

The differences between 30-plus brides and their younger counterparts begin with little things — of the 10 brides Viorst studied, only one had a bridal shower and she said she was "touched but embarrassed." Only one bride registered her china, several helped their parents pay for the wedding and three married younger men.

Some older brides deliberately delay marriage in order to establish careers, while others find marriage eludes them until their 30s. Even the most career-oriented older brides felt that finding a husband and having children was a major priority.

Unmarried women today are no longer considered over the hill, matrimonially speaking, when they reach 30, but they still face pressure from family, friends — and their biological clock.

Some of the women, while claiming to have marriage on their agenda, put it off for years by picking unsuitable marriage candidates — impossible, distant, juvenile or married men.

"One of the things I'm planning to warn my daughter about is how easy it is to get a married man," a late-marrying corporation lawyer said.

She added it was not easy to get them to leave their wives. Four of the 10 women credited psychotherapy with helping solve problems that prevented them from marrying earlier.

"I'm certainly not suggesting, and my research doesn't suggest, that women who aren't married by 30 need therapists," Viorst said. "Some of the women I talked to simply weren't ready or able to marry till then."

"What I've been hearing, however, is that the men these women wound up with in their 30s are far more together than their '20s' men."

Many of the older brides imply that while they married for love, there were other factors that influenced them and they used phrases such as "rational choice" to explain why they married men who were "supportive of my growth" and "easy to be with."

The women also believe they make better wives, pointing out that they have a surer sense of who they are and what they want than younger women do. They also are more content to settle down.

All but one of the 10 women Viorst talked to were eager to have children, spurred on by pressure from the biological clock. They believe motherhood is easier for the older bride, who thinks of it as an expansion, not a restriction in her life.

There are drawbacks to marrying in your 30s: years of dating can be dreary, the pool of attractive marriage-worthy men gets smaller, the biological clock keeps ticking and — for those who long to be married — anxiety over whether they ever will be.

"Getting married later may involve a lot of preliminary anxiety about whether you will ever marry at all," Viorst said. "But once the matter is settled, the wedding should be, all these women agree, a time of rejoicing."

PAGEANT BOUND — Mindy Robertson, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robertson, 402 George, will compete in the State Cinderella Pageant in Denton July 2-7. She was the beauty winner from the local Cinderella Pageant and recently won first place in casual outfit modeling at the National Little Miss Pageant in Lubbock last July. At the Camelot Pageant last fall in Forsan, she won an appreciation award and first place in modeling sleepwear, rainwear and back-to-school wear.

Museum to display exhibit

A mountain range runs between Dallas and Fort Worth and continues down through central Texas. The Rio Grande River flows southwest into the Gulf of California — and California is an island.

These geographical surprises appear on a map published in 1956 by the Royal Geographer of France. This document is one of 22 historical maps on the southwest to be featured in the photographic exhibition, "Crossroads of Empire," which goes on display Tuesday at the Heritage Museum.

The 18 panels of historical images were produced by the Texas Humanities Resource Center of the University of Texas at Arlington Library under a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The exhibit is based on a major collection of historical maps, which is now on a two-year tour of the southwest. The display of rare maps was organized by the Amon Carter Museum in collaboration with the Cartographic History Library of the University of Texas at Arlington and other institutions and private collectors in Texas.

The photographic exhibition is accompanied by a 22-minute media program which introduces the significance of these maps in the development of the southwest and summarizes their role in the history of the region.

This program will be shown July 2-22. The museum, 510 Scurry, is open Tuesday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $1 for adult non-members, and there is no charge for children and students. For further information, contact Neil Allen, curator.

Newlyweds given vacuum cleaner at wedding shower

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Prather were honored with a wedding shower June 22 in the Fellowship Room of the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

Hostesses were: Mattie Fuller, Willene Humphrey, Zarah Bednar, Louise Havens, Sylvia Kerby, La

Quite Hicks, LaRue Shanks, Ruth Ann Box, Kathryn Perry, Loyce Phillips and Edie Falkner. Their gift was a vacuum cleaner.

Prather married the former Julie Bayer June 8 in Fort Worth. He is the son of June McCasland, 618 Bucknell.

Dr. Donohue

He wants muscle minus the fat

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a power lifter. I have started noticing that while making muscle gain I have started putting some fat on in my midsection. I have now started cutting back on calories. How can I continue to gain muscle mass without putting on fat? I know that can be done because I have noticed body builders with small waists. — C.V.

You are on the right track with your calorie watch. That you are putting on any fat indicates an imbalance between the number of calories taken in and the number expended in exercise. To overcome this you will need to do some tedious mathematical homework.

Continue with your calorie restriction until your weight remains constant over a few days or a week. When that happens you will be back into calorie balance.

Any future calorie intake has to be matched with additional exercise. That will prevent any fat storage and also permit continued muscle growth. The growth will be stimulated by exercise. Any weight gain will be in muscle growth and not fat storage. As soon as your calorie intake begins exceeding what the muscles need for their growth, you will fall back into the fat-storage trap.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am three months pregnant and hate to give up all the great aerobic gains I've made in the past couple of years. Is it possible for me to continue with my program, which includes running? — Mrs. E.A.

Women who continue with a judiciously-tailored exercise program usually have very successful pregnancies. Your own doctor is the judge, since he has the facts about history, general health, and past exercise practices.

Body changes of pregnancy dictate practical restrictions. Extra weight demands less intense exercise. Because of the change in your center of gravity, you should avoid any exercise calling for delicate balance. Remember that the extra hormones produced in pregnancy make joints looser, inviting injury. Sports such as water skiing are the kinds that specifically should be avoided altogether.

A general rule is not to exceed the duration or intensity of pregnancy exercise at any time. You should avoid long runs in later months and should not do any exercise that requires lying on your back.

Pay careful attention to your pulse rate during exercise to be sure you don't exceed reasonable levels. A combination of increased heart output and greater blood vessel volume can create a relative deficiency in red blood cells. You may notice breathing disturbance during exercise you formerly did with no trouble. It is a signal to stop and back off.

Do not become overheated, for increased body temperature can harm the fetus.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Man finds it's not too late to learn

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Ben Narra emigrated to the United States from Korea "to study," but more than six decades passed before he completed his education.

Work got in his way over the years, but Narra finally began taking college courses in 1972 after he retired.

And he finally earned a bachelor's degree this spring from Fresno State University at the age of 84. School officials believe Narra, who came to the United States in 1922, is the oldest graduate in the history of the university located 180 miles southeast of San Francisco.

Narra became a college graduate despite arthritis, cataracts that leave his eyes abnormally dry, and a stroke that forces him to walk with a cane.

He first began taking yoga classes in 1972 at a community college "to relax my mind and body." Narra said he had been "a nervous man" when he was younger and underwent psychiatric treatment in 1929.

Narra had to quit practicing yoga because of the arthritis. That's when he began exploring other classes, including painting, and went on to earn an associate of arts degree from Reedley College in 1977.

Two years later, he began taking classes at Fresno State because "learning excites me."

The stroke restricted Narra's ability to speak, and the school's Disabled Students Services provided people to take notes in his lecture classes. He was able to compile a 2.51 grade point average, a respectable C-plus.

"By and large, I think Ben Narra is a happy man who has found lots of beauty and lots of pain and who will go on questioning," said Stan Todd, a counselor with the Disabled Student Services office. "He is a man still searching for meaning."

It has been hard for Narra to ride a bus eight miles to school from the senior citizens complex where he lives and hard to climb stairs and keep putting drops in his irritated eyes. "But I believe Ben has a wonderful desire to be as young and active and growing as possible every day of his life," Todd added.

Kids offer tips on making school interesting

SELMA, Calif. (AP) — Some sixth-graders at the Jackson School thought their workbooks were boring, and many agreed that they didn't look forward to school each day.

Realizing they had some morale problems, the class in the rural farm community of Selma 200 miles southeast of San Francisco decided to form a "research corporation" to see if they could solve some of their problems.

"Honors Inc." was born when teacher Mario Guerrero divided his class into the research, development, marketing, finance and public relations departments.

Students obtained business sponsors, performed weeks of research, developed a student survey, compiled the results and developed 20 recommendations for presentation at a news conference.

The class came up with some down-to-earth ideas for improving their school — plus one suggestion from wishful thinkers.

"This one's a little far-fetched," admitted Sara Bybee, research vice president. "But we're putting down building a swimming pool, too. It certainly would make school more interesting."

Other proposals are more practical:

- Soundproof the cafeteria because it is next to classrooms.
- Create a science laboratory.
- Open a computer lab, recreation center or gymnasium.
- Establish a student council or court to give students a role in school policy.

Roger George of G.W. Insurance Services in Fresno helped the class develop a statistically sound survey to get the opinions of 250 fifth- and sixth-graders at two nearby elementary schools.

The results showed:

- Almost 30 percent find school boring.
- More than 40 percent find their workbooks boring and do not think school puts much pressure on them.

- Almost half feel "bad" about their daily work and homework.
- But nearly 60 percent believe education will be important later in life.

One student recommendation covers those workbooks that some students don't like.

"Many of the students find workbooks boring, and they teach lower levels of knowledge and comprehension," Sara explained. "We would like to see them used less and more teaching done at the higher level of evaluating."

A curriculum group in the development department proposed study of famous battles and more emphasis on career orientation. The department also was responsible for fliers and letter-writing on stationery bearing the student-designed corporate symbol.

Anne Maree Barron, financial department president, thought her corporate career was going to be easy.

"But I soon found out that everyone had to learn to work together or a division didn't operate," she said.

To illustrate their findings, the class met with a computer specialist to learn how to create graphs and pie charts on a computer screen — a task they mastered within hours.

"These kids are knocking my socks off," said their proud teacher. "And they're learning more because they are involved."

The class has finished its corporate work for the school year, but Guerrero's class next year is expected to pick up where the first group left off.

The new task will be to attain the corporate goals by seeking outside sponsors to finance the proposed school improvements.

Book review

Novel, 'Call,' is a masterful work of fiction

THE CALL. By John Hersey. Knopf. 701 Pages. $19.95.

For David Treadup, a young neophyte missionary, the call is China, where he is determined to change the lives of millions of people through literacy programs and religion.

But it is Treadup's life which will be changed in "the Call," a powerful novel by Pulitzer-prizewinning author John Hersey.

Born in China of missionary parents, Hersey is quick to point out in an introduction that Treadup is not his father. Instead, Treadup's life is based on incidents in the lives of eight different missionaries. But "The Call" isn't the story of a single man; it is also the story of the American spirit, always unwavering, never giving up even after Treadup is interned by the Japanese or exiled forever from China by the new Communist government.

Treadup's insufficiencies, which Entrepreneurial drive emerges early in life

NEW YORK (AP) — Entrepreneurial tendencies emerge early in life, according to the 2,740 respondents to a recent Venture magazine survey conducted to determine which psychological factors helped shape today's entrepreneurs.

The survey showed that 44 percent of those responding were first-born children who, for the most part, had a positive relationship with their fathers. The leadership qualities and motivation established in childhood spurred on more than one-third of them to hold three or more jobs before the age of 15.

Eager to make their own mark in the business world, two-thirds of the entrepreneurs surveyed started their first businesses before the age of 30. Sixty-two percent were personally liable for the capital borrowed to launch their ventures.

will grow as his life in China progresses, will plague him all his life; and because of his unflinching devotion to the Chinese people, he unwillingly allows a fatherly relationship with his three sons to suffer.

Perhaps Treadup and the hundreds of other missionaries were overwhelmed by their task; perhaps they really did not understand the Chinese personality. In the end it was the Revolution that succeeded in bringing literacy to China, and the efforts of the missionaries were quickly erased by newly written history books.

"The Call" is a masterful work of fiction. The poignant last chapter when Treadup's son, Philip, tries to bring his parents' remains to China for burial should touch the hearts of everyone.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information. We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department. The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Seaway. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1481, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published. If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS
Local hospitals supply information for Starclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Starclub information. Information needed for Starclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Resorts offer more activities for youths

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — For single parents or young working couples with children, vacations are a time to reaffirm the meaning of family and to provide "R and R" for fatigued adults, says an expert in the recreational field.

"A growing number of resorts are answering the needs of parents by providing a structured camp-like vacation environment for children along with activities for parents," notes Michael Catalano, a children's camp director.

"Parents will be able to do more than be 24-hour baby sitters, can have the fun and personal time they've looked forward to all year, minus the guilt of leaving Junior behind, thanks to the care-giving and activity offerings of a family resort," he adds.

Catalano, director of the year-round children's camp at The Concord resort in the Catskill Mountains region of New York State, offers these tips for parents considering a family resort vacation:

- Read the brochure outlining the resort's activities for kids, explaining how it works to your children before you arrive so it's no surprise when you enroll them in the camp.
- If you need any additional information, don't hesitate to call the children's activity director, who should willingly tell you the counselors' qualifications. If you have any lingering doubts about the program or staff, request a personal meeting when you arrive.

- Become familiar with the camp's safety measures: is there a formal registration system that enables the camp to keep an accurate "head count" of children in its charge at all times? Does the camp offer a "permission to leave" clause by which an older child can come and go at will? If your child has a health or behavioral problem or needs periodic medication, is the camp prepared to deal with it — and how?
- If your child is of nursery age, is there at least one camp administrator with formal experience in child development or a related health profession?
- Does the camp require a signed medical release that will ensure prompt attention to injury even as the parents are being notified?
- What are the camp's age divisions, counselor-to-camper ratio and ability to give special attention to a particular child, when necessary? If too many children or too wide an age span are lumped together, will your child's attention span and skill level be compromised — as well as his desire to continue at the camp?
- How does the camp structure a child's day? Is it jam-packed with activities beginning right after breakfast and continuing at a breakneck pace through the afternoon? Or are there restful periods, too, when a child can discover the calming side of vacationing? Is the schedule flexible enough to accommodate a tired or unhappy child long enough to get him back to normal? Can parents and children take their meals as a family if desired?
- Does the camp attempt to engage pre-teens and teens in activities that are wholesome and diverting — under the guidance of watchful professional caretakers?
- How many hours of the day can a family spend as a family — and if a relaxed parent feels so inclined, can a child be picked up early from camp for some extra togetherness without upsetting the camp schedule?
- Does the resort offer additional baby-sitting facilities to enable parents to enjoy a quiet late supper after the kids are tucked in bed?

WET HAIR

Hair is at its most vulnerable when wet. If hair is combed, brushed or rubbed very hard when it is wet, it is, in fact, being stretched and damage is risked. As hair is stretched, it will considerably lengthen at the cost of cutting down the diameter. Hair diameter can actually be halved in the stretching process. The result is a reduction in the tensile strength of the hair which leads to the strong possibility of breakage. It is somewhat like stretching a piece of taffy. It stretches to its limits then breaks. It is a similar problem to what happens when combing or brushing takes a great deal of hair from a wet head.

To look your best, your hair style is one that must be best right for you. The proper hairstyle is one that highlights your features. It should accent the natural contour of your facial structure. At LA CON-TESA, we are experts in creating a hairstyle that reflects you. Our staff is here to offer you the professional assistance you want and need in hair care. Plan to visit with us soon. We're located at 1508 Marcy. We are open Tues.-Sat. Call us at 267-2187.

Nursing home 'watchdog' says industry reforms are needed

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty years after she began delving into nursing home abuse, and a decade after she wrote a book on the subject, Mary Adelaide Mendelson says government still doesn't know how to write laws to deal with the industry.

"We still don't know how much money to reimburse nursing homes," she said. "We don't know how to write a piece of legislation that could cover abuse. Is overmedication an abuse? Yet we sit in this office and hear complaint after complaint of neglect and abuse."

Although her book sparked reforms and investigations, she said little has changed materially since "Tender Loving Greed" was published in 1974. It sold 47,000 copies.

"There's a recognition that there is a problem ... there's been a lot of reform legislation across the country," said Ms. Mendelson, 67. "But the same problems are there in spite of all that."

Efforts to improve care and facilities, she said, have been stymied by influential nursing home owners and the powerful associations they finance.

"I think the thing that is at the heart of the problem is that the nursing home is a political force," she said. "It was when I was doing

"Tender Loving Greed" and it is every bit as strong today. I think this is key to understanding why nothing actually works."

Ms. Mendelson's involvement with nursing homes began 20 years ago when she became a part-time job consultant with the Federation for Community Planning. At the time, she said, everyone assumed that increasing Medicare and Medicaid payments to nursing homes would bring better care.

In years of talking to nursing home operators and patients, and inspecting nursing homes, she said she found a profit-hungry industry aided by government indifference.

The industry was "a national scandal in which greedy nursing home operators are getting rich by exploiting helpless patients and extracting huge sums from governments — state and federal — that do not seem to care either about the patients or the taxpayers," she wrote.

Ms. Mendelson said her book became a catalyst for the formation of federally funded fraud and abuse units in each state. Although critically acclaimed, the book was also denounced by nursing home operators, as well as some legislators and regulators.

Ten years later, Ms. Mendelson says nursing homes have improved their facilities, but "you still find understaffing and untrained aides." Children of nursing home patients are usually in their 60s, facing retirement and their own medical problems, and are "so exhausted from the whole thing they do not make a viable group to bring about reform," Ms. Mendelson said. "It takes a younger person, and the younger person just simply isn't interested."

Families of nursing home residents also fear retaliation against the patient if they complain to authorities, and "Since beds are so difficult to find ... you're powerless to do anything about it as a family," she said.

Treatment often helps stage fright

By SCIENCE DIGEST

A Hearst Magazine Stage fright afflicts 80 percent of Americans, in some cases so severely that it makes them drop out of school or limits their careers.

The problem can be overcome, according to Science Digest, with treatment programs that have racked up an almost 95 percent success rate.

Clinically, stage fright begins when the brain sends a fight-or-flee danger message to the central nervous system. The adrenal glands pump out adrenaline and the stage fright victim feels his heart beating faster, his hands sweating and shaking and his mouth dry.

Psychologists and psychiatrists disagree about the cause. Some hold it is a form of shyness, and author Amy Mereson says most people who are shy also suffer stage fright.

But the converse is not necessarily true, according to Jonathan Cheek, a personality psychologist at Wellesley College, and people who suffer stage fright are not necessarily shy. Cheek reported to the Eastern Psychological Association that shyness and stage fright are two distinctly different problems.

Shyness, he believes, is a complex problem rooted in childhood when parents and/or teachers made a youngster feel incompetent. Stage fright, on the other hand, may be due simply to lack of experience.

Whatever the cause of stage fright, in most cases new techniques that bypass psychoanalysis can overcome it within a few weeks or months.

One pioneering approach, conceived by Gerald Phillips, a speech specialist at Pennsylvania State University, teaches people how to organize their thoughts, how to stand, gesture, etc. Other methods stress relaxation training, or concentrate on building confidence and self-esteem.

Dale Carnegie Associates offers a 14-session course that starts the student off making short talks on simple subjects and building to longer speeches on more challenging subjects. That way, according to Frank Ashley, international manager of instruction, "People are not put on the spot nor threatened."

Members of Toastmasters International, described as the Alcoholics Anonymous of public speaking, help each other by giving, listening to and offering critiques of each other's speeches.

Some experts believe all phobias and fears stem from a basic fear of being fearful. At the San Antonio Phobia Clinic, Dr. Haib Nathan's treatment includes group therapy and independent fieldwork done with a therapist.

Nathan said in the three years he had run the clinic he had found some students so afraid to speak in public that they dropped out of school. Nathan's approach is not so much to eliminate that fear as to teach patients how to control it and channel it in a positive way.

"Anxiety can be good," Nathan said. "It may make people try for perfection."

Rinsing white rice washes off nutrients

Don't rinse white rice before cooking it unless the package so advises. According to Family Circle magazine, you'll wash off the enriching nutrients by doing this. In another food tip, the magazine says, "Whip 1/2 cup butter or margarine with 1/4 cup skimmed milk to cut the calories from 100 a tablespoon to about 53. Whipping doubles the volume, so it's a money saver, too."

New grads may have easier time finding jobs this year

By CHANGING TIMES

This year's college graduates shouldn't have quite as tough a time finding a job as last year's grads did.

A year ago a number of companies that traditionally mine the ranks of new grads reported to Changing Times magazine that they had cut back their hiring goals, and some curtailed their campus-recruiting schedules.

This year, however, the job market appears to be catching up with the general economy.

Of the companies responding to this year's Changing Times jobs survey the vast majority report they will hire more or at least as many graduates this year as compared with last year. Only about 6 percent indicate their hiring goals will be down; last year 18 percent expected a decrease.

Another encouraging sign for job hunters: More than a third of the companies say they are having difficulty finding qualified candidates for certain kinds of jobs.

These job openings are mostly in technical fields, such as polymer science and electrical and electronic engineering, and for engineers with graduate degrees, computer specialists and health physicists.

But some companies are looking for graduates to fill such diverse jobs as copy writers, commercial loan officers, and software developers.

Engineering graduates again top the shopping lists of corporate and government recruiters. About 57 percent of the companies in our survey report they need graduates with various engineering specialties, from electrical and electronic to aerospace and computers.

For the first time in a number of years the need for engineers doesn't far outstrip demand for graduates in other academic disciplines: 55 percent of the companies listed are looking for computer science graduates; 54 percent want business-marketing-economics grads; half need accounting graduates.

The high demand for graduates in those four fields is a reflection of industry's current concern with high technology and cost controls.

Significantly, the demand for liberal arts graduates is up in this year's survey. At about 21 percent, it's almost equal to the demand for physical science grads.

At the bottom of this year's demand index in our survey are math graduates, with only 18 percent of the companies reporting a need for them.

Besides specific academic credentials (the right major and course work with a 3.0 average or better), corporate recruiters say work experience counts, whether co-op programs, summer jobs or part-time jobs during the school year.

Corporate recruiters view even unrelated work experience as a plus. It shows that the graduate appreciates the work ethic and will require a minimum of acclimatization and training.

In what could be a significant trend in the government job market, Rick Kenney, who heads the Navy's civilian personnel office in Brooklyn, N.Y., told Changing Times there are signs of significant attrition in the federal government work force over the next several years as the World War II generation retires.

"This will create sudden-surge requirements for entry-level staffing as current employees move up to senior and midlevel positions," he says. "That's a harbinger of good opportunities for new and recent grads."

While the job outlook for new grads is the most encouraging in years, voices of caution can be heard.

Jack Fowler, director of employment for the Illinois Farm Bureau in Bloomington, Ill., advises: "Many college graduates are going to have to be aggressive in their job searches. Each year the percentage of college graduates in the American work force reaches a new record high.

"Graduates should keep in mind that their education will pay dividends in the long run, but maybe not so much in the short run. What this means is that many graduates may have to start their careers at a lower level than they had hoped."

Three-quarters of the companies in our listing report that the salaries they'll be offering 1985 graduates will top last year's offers, many by at least the expected amount of inflation. Projected increases vary all the way from 1-to-9 percent and average about 4-to-6 percent.

According to the annual salary survey made by Michigan State University's Placement Services office, these are the dollar figures new graduates can expect to be offered this year:

— Overall, bachelor's degree graduates should average $20,470 in starting-pay offers; master's degree grads, $24,656; and graduates with a doctorate, $26,808.

— Bachelor's degree grads in the three highest-paid engineering specialties can expect starting salaries ranging down from $28,086 (electrical) and $28,004

(mechanical) to $27,827 (chemical).

Technical and scientific bachelor's grads can look for top salaries to start at $28,012 in metallurgy-materials science, $26,690 in computer science, and $25,411 in physics.

— Other bachelor's grads will find salary offers varying from $15,124 to $17,082 in such fields as arts and letters and education to an estimated $19,262 in accounting and $20,630 in math. Graduates in communications, business administration and social science should also get offers that fall within that range.

Wayne Carroll attends annual conference

Wayne Carroll, director of physical therapy at Malone-Hogan Hospital, was among more than 4,000 members of the American Physical Therapy Association participating in its 1985 Annual Conference in New Orleans, La. June 16-20 at the Superdome.

A member since 1978, Carroll joined other physical therapist practitioners, educators and researchers in New Orleans to learn about the latest advances in physical therapy techniques and research.

The group attended the presentation of more than 300 research papers and lectures on such topics as: the treatment of low back pain, the effects of gravity inversion, disability trends among the elderly, rehabilitation of the injured worker, and the impact of the prospective payment system on physical therapy practice. Members also had the opportunity to visit a 350-booth exhibit of the latest physical therapy equipment and technology.

The association is a national professional organization representing 40,000 physical therapists, physical therapist assistants and students throughout the United States.

Technology offers new opportunities

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Will machines start replacing nurses in the nation's hospitals?

No, says Loretta C. Ford, dean of the University of Rochester School of Nursing. Instead, new technologies and new specialties offer nurses new opportunities.

For example, the new lip-triptor smashes kidney stones using ultrasound, and that means no nurses will be needed to assist with surgery. But, the dean says, nurses do take the lead in insuring the patient's comfort and safety during the procedure, in communicating with the patient, his family, and other health professionals, and in follow-up procedures and patient education.
