Pet rocks

Q. Who was the inventor of the pet rock?

A. Gary Dahl of California was the originator of the pet rock, which sold to 1.2 million Americans and made him more than $1 million in three months. Dahl gained his success after packing regular stones in ordinary boxes and selling them for $4 a piece. The novelty item came complete with an owner's manual on care and training of the rocks.

B-1 lost engine power in flight

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two engines of the Air Force's first B-1B bomber, which will be based at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, lost power and overheated Saturday after ingesting pieces of metal while the plane was being flown to Offutt Air Force Base.

The B-1B is expected to be flown later this week to Dyess Air Force Base where the Strategic Air Command's first B-1B wing will be located, said Lt. Col. John Alexander, a SAC public affairs officer.

Another B-1B was substituted Saturday for a welcoming ceremony at Dyess after the engine problem was discovered at Offutt.

Air Force Secretary Verne Orr and the three crew members aboard were never in danger, according to Alexander.

The engines didn't shut down entirely and, like other modern aircraft, the B-1B is designed to fly on two engines if necessary, according to specifications made available by Rockwell International, the principal B-1B contractor.

"The safety of flight was not compromised at any time," said Alexander.

The engines have been replaced, but Air Force specialists are continuing to inspect the plane, SAC said.

Alexander said Air Force investigators estimate the problem developed just prior to the plane's landing at Offutt last Thursday. The flight crew wasn't aware that the two engines had been damaged until after the B-1B touched down at Offutt, he said.

The landing was witnessed by Gen. Bennie L. Davis, SAC commander in chief; Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee; Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb.; two former SAC commanders; and about 3,000 other people.

The first indication of the problem was when the flight recorder tape was checked at Offutt, SAC said.

"There were some high engine temperature readings, and some power drops (in the two engines) showed up," Alexander said.

White oil producers lose battle

AUSTIN (AP) — "White oil" producers in the Panhandle Field have lost another battle in what one says has become a "Panhandle War."

State District Judge Harley Clark on Tuesday rejected a request by white oil producers to block temporarily a Railroad Commission order that requires retesting of their wells.

Retesting, in fact, already has begun among those wells that use refrigeration — or LTX — units to chill vapor into a white-water liquid the producers call oil.

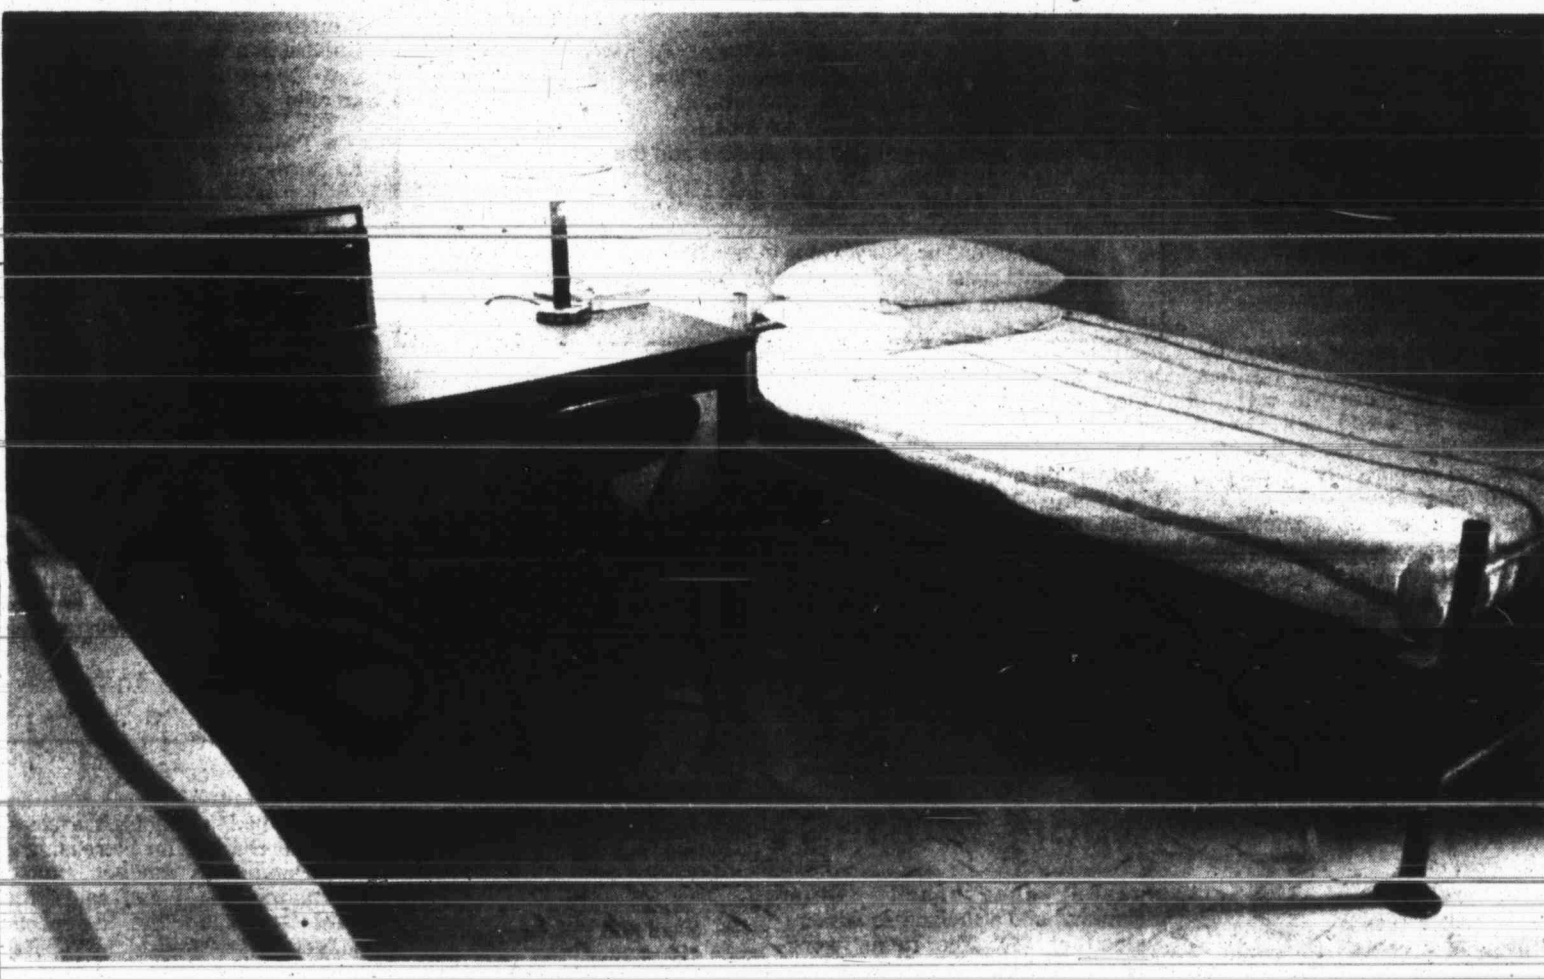

Some producers have acknowledged that if the commission disallows white oil in calculating whether a well is an oil well or gas well, they would have to shut down their wells.

An oil well is defined as a well that produces one barrel of oil per 100,000 cubic feet of gas, and operators who own only oil rights must have their wells classified as an oil well to produce. The tests would establish whether the wells in question can meet the criteria for an oil well without the refrigeration units.

Phillips Petroleum Co. and others maintain that the white oil

Thus spake Stenholm

Congressmen talks issues

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Shiite terrorists who hijacked an airplane and held Americans hostage should be brought to "justice," U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, said here yesterday.

At a news conference following his keynote speech at Community Appreciation Day Tuesday morning at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, Stenholm responded to questions about the recent hostage situation.

"I agree with the President. We're going to have to demand that all countries are jointly held responsible for terrorism in their country," he said. "If it happens in Lebanon, Lebanon should be held responsible. If it happens in the United States, we should be responsible."

Stenholm labeled the two guerrillas who admitted to killing Navy diver Robert Stetham "hoodlums with hoods on, thugs." During their press conference after Stetham's death, "I thought that now would be a good time to lob a few 20-inch shells and have them land on the table in front of the microphones," Stenholm said. "I say that a little facetiously, but I think we should retaliate."

A better word would be justice...I strongly support capital punishment."

Although he said that retaliation would "absolutely" lead to an escalation of violence and counter-retaliation, he said that was better than not reacting to the terrorism.

At an afternoon reception at the Coahoma State Bank, Stenholm clarified his position. Americans, he said, "were going to have to live with it (terrorism) for a period of time... Every politician runs against crime and it hasn't been stopped."

He also said he did not agree with some suggestions sent to his office, such as taking a Lebanese hostage for every American hostage. "That's not the way we do business in America."

And although he supported the president's handling of the crisis, "Candidate Reagan had to eat a lot of crow. He had to eat a lot of his words, which candidates do." Stenholm was referring to Reagan's statements on the Iranian hostages when campaigning in 1980 against President Jimmy Carter.

The hijacking will affect more than just airport security, he said. As a result of the hijack-

Fireworks foster 4th fun at fest

From heated team competition to a $4,000 dollar fireworks display, Summerfest, a day-long event to benefit the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, promises a variety of activities starting at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Partners and teams made up of 8 participants will compete in events throughout the day.

The team and partner events, similar to those held on the occasional television special "Battle of the Network Stars," include mechanical armadillo races, football throw, horseshoes, washers, tennis tournament, Rose Magers Game Field, obstacle course, wheelbarrow race, canoe race and volleyball.

The play-off for the teams will be the Great Mud Pull.

Partner events are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and team events will begin around 10 a.m. Entry fees for the competitions are $30 per couple and $120 per team.

Varieties of food and drink will be provided by area merchants throughout the day.

After the double-elimination mud pull tournament scheduled at 6 p.m. to determine the winning team, Miss Howard County, Ronda Fowler, will sing from 8 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

At nightfall, the fireworks display will begin. If it is too windy, the display will be postponed until July 5.

To watch the fireworks, people need to be in the Dora Roberts Community Center area.

Texas sells the Navy

Corpus Christi big winner in Gulf Coast military buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corpus Christi can expect to gain 5,200 Navy and civilian personnel and an annual Pentagon payroll of $95 million to $100 million if Congress approves plans to place a battleship in the Texas coast city, the Navy said.

The figures exclude dependents or private-sector jobs generated by homeport status but include shipboard personnel, officials said.

The Defense Department announced plans Tuesday to spread 29 of the nation's warships among nine homeports on the Gulf Coast, sending the battleship Wisconsin and the training carrier Lexington to Corpus Christi and a planned new flatop to Pensacola, Fla.

Corpus Christi also would get three smaller warships under the plan, making it the clear winner in the intensive competition among Gulf cities for the Wisconsin and the job bonanza that often results from homeport status.

The plan, which would spread the vessels among nine Gulf ports, now goes to Capitol Hill. If approved, it would wrap up a massive planning operation to find homeports for the largest warships in the Reagan administration's buildup to a 600-ship Navy.

The plans, announced by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and Navy Secretary John F. Lehman will be implemented late in this decade at the earliest, the Navy said.

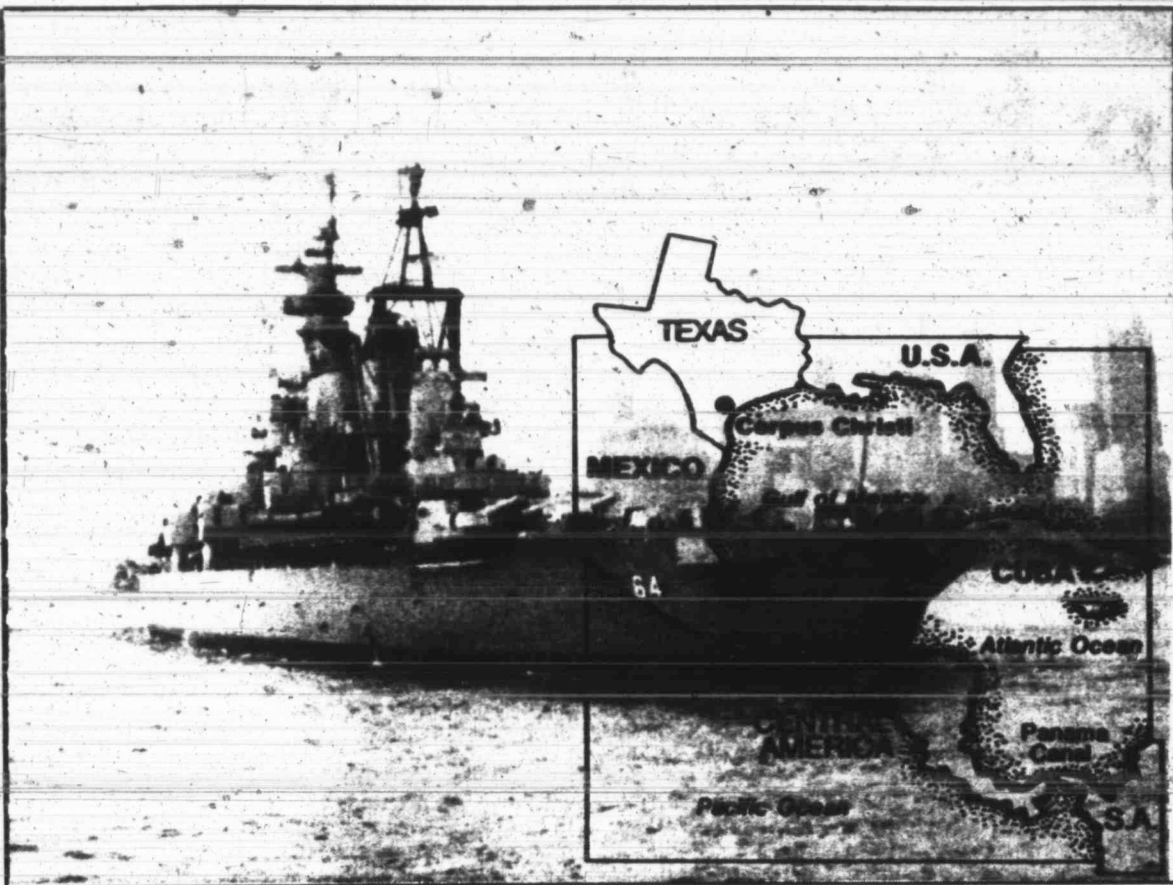

Earlier, the Pentagon had announced plans for three of the four World War II battleships it is reactivating, sending the New Jersey to Long Beach, Calif.; the Iowa to Staten Island, N.Y., and the Missouri to San Francisco. At that time, it also chose Everett, Wash., as homeport for a 14th flatop it will add to its current fleet of 15 operational carriers plus the Lexington.

Under Reagan's buildup, the Navy will eventually have 15 operational carriers.

Weinberger said Tuesday the Wisconsin — the last of the four battleships coming out of mothballs — would call Corpus Christi home. He said a 15th carrier would displace the Lexington at Pensacola.

The Lexington would move from its current berth at Pensacola to Corpus Christi, probably in 1992, Weinberger said.

The other winners in Tuesday's homeport sweepstakes, which

The USS Wisconsin, shown here off Manhattan in 1957, has been mothballed since 1959 at the Philadelphia Naval Yard.

- Scheduled completion date — 1990s.
- Annual payroll — more than $50 million.
- Construction estimate — $100 million.
- Civilian employment — 3,000 jobs.
- Navy employment — 7,500 officials and their families.
- Size: 3,500 acres.
- Required depth of harbor — 42 feet (Corpus Christi is 45 feet deep)
- Objective: The Navy wants to establish a presence on the nation's third coast — and presumably be closer to potential trouble spots in Latin America.

began last year with 16 Gulf Coast cities vying for the Wisconsin, are: New Orleans, La.; Lake Charles, La.; Mobile, Ala.; Pascagoula, Miss.; Gulfport, Miss.; Key West, Fla.; and Houston-Galveston, Texas. The latter had submitted a joint application.

The Navy had announced in February six finalists for the Wisconsin — Mobile, Pensacola, Lake Charles, Pascagoula, Corpus Christi and Houston-Galveston. Key West was described as in the running for smaller vessels. All seven applicants came away with some Navy vessels as did New Orleans and Gulfport, which had not been listed among finalists.

Weinberger also announced assignment of:

- A cruiser, destroyer and minesweeper to Corpus Christi.
- A mine warfare ship to Pensacola.

- Two frigates and three minesweepers to the Houston-Galveston area.
- Two mine warfare ships and an oiler to Lake Charles, La.

- Two fast sealift ships to Violet, La., near New Orleans.

- Two destroyers, two frigates and a minesweeper to Mobile.

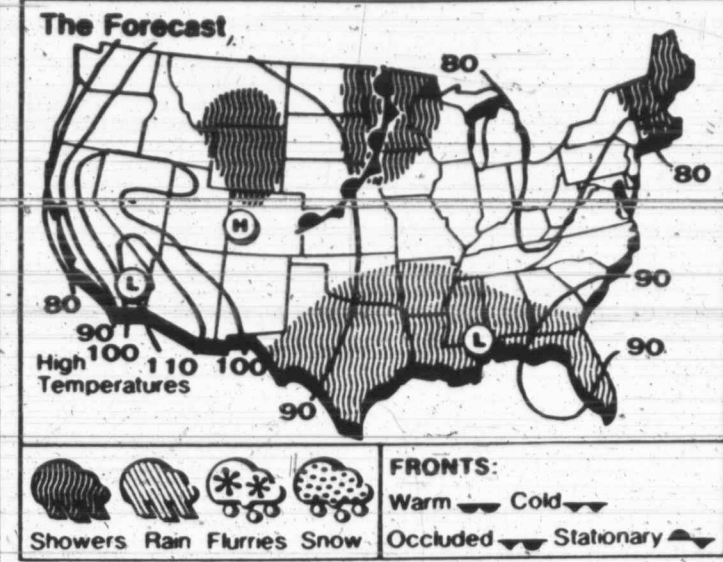

- Two cruisers and two destroyers to Pascagoula.

- A mine warfare ship to Gulfport.

- A landing craft repair ship, a salvage ship and a shore-based ocean surveillance ship support group to Key West.

A decision on the Wisconsin had been expected no later than July, but the announcement of homeports for the other vessels came as a surprise.

Weather

Local

Following the early morning lightning show and showers, the Big Spring area can look for partly cloudy skies and highs to be in the low 90s. A 20 percent chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms is forecast. For the July 4 holiday, skies should be sunny with temperatures in the low 90s. Southerly winds will be blowing 5 to 10 miles per hour.

State

Scattered showers and heavy thunderstorms, the strongest southeast of Wichita Falls along the Red River, continued to wet parts of Texas this morning.

Storms also stretched from near Abilene southwest through the Edwards Plateau to near Rock Springs, according to the National Weather Service.

Forecast

West Texas — Widely scattered thunderstorms tonight mainly south and southwest. Generally partly cloudy tonight. Sunny and warm the Fourth of July. Highs Thursday near 90 to mid 90s except near 103 Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight low 60s north to near 70 extreme south.

Apartments report theft

A stereo speaker, valued at $500, was stolen Tuesday evening from the Bent Tree Apartments at One Courtney Circle, according to police reports.

Terry Huitt told police the speaker was taken between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Pat Johnston of 509 Hillside told police someone stole $300 of doll furniture and children's toys between 5 p.m. Sunday and 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Danny Murley of 3620 Hamilton told police someone damaged his brick wall and windows between 6:30 and 11 p.m. Tuesday.

William Froman of 1111R Settles told police someone stole three stereo speakers, valued at $100; a speaker checkboard, value unknown; and a 10-band equalizer, valued at $50. The items were taken between 8 a.m. and noon Tuesday.

Police Tuesday afternoon arrested Delia Moreno Samora, 31, of Ackerly on suspicion of theft of more than $20 and less than $200.

According to police reports, Randy Pierce, an employee of the Revco Drug Store at College Park Shopping Center told police a woman shoplifted $53 of cosmetics at 2:30 p.m. from the store.

Police Tuesday afternoon also arrested Cynthia K. Minshew, 23, of 910 Scurry at her home on three Smith County warrants for issuance of bad checks.

DWI suspect released on bond

A Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper arrested Michael Owen Hudson, 19, of Midland on suspicion of driving while intoxicated Tuesday night.

He was released on $1,000 bond.

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Adam Rodriguez Canales, 18, of 106 Algerita on a DWI judgment. He began serving a 19-day jail sentence that was ordered by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Deputies arrested Johnny Russworm, 36, of Route 3 Box 56-R on a warrant charging him with simple assault. He was released on $500 bond.

Deputies arrested Cynthia Kay Minshew, 32, of 910 Scurry on bad check warrants. She was released on bonds totalling $600.

Deputies arrested Gilbert Moncado Sanchez, 24, of 1011 W. 8th on a DWI warrant. Judge Kirby sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail.

Deputies arrested Ricky D. Slaughter, 22, of Snyder on a DWI warrant. He began serving a 29-hour jail sentence.

Stenholm

ing, the Congressional budget probably will see an increased focus on intelligence-gathering services, he said.

Stenholm Tuesday afternoon discounted the idea that U.S. forces would go to war in Central America.

He predicted oil prices would fall another $5 a barrel, forcing another "major shakeout." "A lot of people who thought oil would go to $100 (a barrel) have taken banks with them. I've had more bankruptcies in my district from oil than from agriculture."

"There's nothing to keep the oil price high," he said, citing production capabilities that are larger than the amount being produced.

Prospects for cotton prices also look poor, though the cotton loan price will stay where it was last year, which Stenholm called "a mistake."

On the 1985 Farm Bill's progress, Stenholm said both the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, of which Stenholm is a member, should begin hearings on the bill Tuesday, and the bill should be on the floor by July 15. The earliest it would be in conference committee would be Sept. 1, he said.

The bill will include his proposal to determine bases and yields, a "sodbuster" package to deny federal agriculture programs on any land to farmers breaking out highly erodible soil and a program to allow farmers to bid out their least productive acreage into a conservation program.

Stenholm also said he supports a bill that would make fraud on government contracts — such as charging $400 for a hammer — a criminal offense. "It's being done now. Heads are beginning to roll."

He blamed the sky-high prices and overcharges on increasing the Pentagon's budget "too much, too fast," and said he wants to keep the defense budget to the House figure of $292 billion, rather than the $302 billion requested by the administration.

On the good side, Stenholm said, the B-1 bomber came in under budget, and it has 80 to 90 percent of the technology that the Stealth plane will have. "And they're having the air-conditioning fixed."

On the President's tax reform proposal: "I wish the president would stop taking his dog and pony show on the road for the tax reform and take it on the road for a balanced budget."

According to the Congressional Budget Office, the proposal would cut $35 billion in revenue by 1990; the Office of Management and Budget predicts a $12 billion cut, he said. "It's not revenue-neutral. ... If we haven't disproved the theory of supply-side economics, where you cut taxes, raise defense spending and stimulate the economy, then explain why we have built $800 billion debt in 5 years. It will not work."

He also said he had reversed his previous opinion, and now supports a constitutional amendment for a balanced budget, and said Congressional support for it had increased.

He also said his friend and former fellow "Boll Weevil," Kent Hance, probably will not get the GOP nomination for governor in 1986. Instead, U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler would get that spot. Hance probably would run for the GOP nomination for Senate in 1988.

He also said he had reversed his previous opinion, and now supports a constitutional amendment for a balanced budget, and said Congressional support for it had increased.

Prison riots quelled

WARTBURG, Tenn. — A series of prison disturbances involving about 1,200 inmates ended today when nearly 300 convicts at the Wartburg facility returned to their cells after a convicted murderer was found beaten to death with a baseball bat, authorities said.

Elsewhere in the state's prison system, rioting that began Monday night at the Turney Center prison near Only ended Tuesday after inmates burned three buildings. Trouble hopped to a prison in Nashville and another in Bledsoe County, but those facilities were also under control by nightfall. Injuries included five inmates stabbed or beaten, none seriously, and one who suffered a heart attack during the riots.

Alaska may impeach

JUNEAU, Alaska — Legislative leaders said they hope to make a quick but "totally legal and germane decision" about calling a special session to consider impeaching the governor for his role in negotiating a state office lease in Fairbanks.

The grand jury returned no indictments Tuesday. But in a 69-page report, the panel recommended that lawmakers consider impeachment proceedings because of evidence that "discloses serious abuse of office by Gov. Bill Sheffield and his chief of staff."

Satan search called off

TOLEDO, Ohio — Sheriff's deputies say they now believe no victims of a satanic cult are buried in rural Spencer Township, where three days of digging failed to turn up any of the 50 to 75 bodies they were told they would find.

Workers dug up three sites in the township June 20-21 after informants told deputies they would find the bodies of people killed in satanic rites during the past 15 years. Sheriff James Teib then called off the digging, saying his informants may have been perpetrating a hoax, but reported Tuesday that new information had prompted him to resume the search.

Blaze threatens city

LOS ANGELES — Firefighters today battled a blaze that threatened the city of Ojai and forced the evacuation of thousands of people after six days of mostly arson-caused fires charred more than 100,000 acres, destroyed at least 175 homes and killed two people, authorities said.

Fires burned today in California, Idaho, Arizona and Washington. The blazes, including one started by a plane crash and another by small-arms practice at an army base, have caused more than $30 million damage in California alone, authorities said.

Israel releases 300 Lebanese Shiite prisoners

RAS AL-BAYADA, Lebanon (AP) — Israel today freed 300 Lebanese prisoners from among 735 captives whose release had been demanded by the Lebanese Shiite Moslem hijackers who held U.S. hostages for 17 days.

The release of the 300 came three days after the Shiite gunmen freed the last 39 U.S. hostages held in the Lebanese capital of Beirut.

Most of the prisoners freed today were members of the Shiite Moslem militia Amal, whose leaders had taken responsibility for the U.S. hostages in Beirut from the extremist Shiite hijackers and brokered their release.

Israeli troops led by an armored personnel carrier escorted the detainees back into Lebanon, where about 100 Israeli troops remain in a border strip supporting a pro-Israeli Lebanese militia.

International Red Cross officials at Ras Al-Bayada, the northernmost Israeli checkpoint in southern Lebanon, received the prisoners as they were freed one by one by soldiers wearing flak jackets.

Earlier, the prisoners fled out of the Atlit military prison in northern Israel into civilian buses for their 30-mile trip to the Israel-Lebanon border.

The men who hijacked TWA Flight 847 on June 14 had demanded the release of all 735 prisoners. Both Israel and the United States denied a deal has been struck with the hijackers to release the Lebanese prisoners in exchange for the Americans.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Israel had planned to free the prisoners June 5, but their release was delayed by attacks in south Lebanon and by the hijack drama, during which Israel refused to free the Lebanese.

Shiites threaten remaining hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Radical Shiite Moslems today threatened seven Americans still in captivity, reacting to U.S. plans to close Lebanon's airport after the hijacking of a TWA jet.

Islamic Jihad, a shadowy group believed made up of Shiites loyal to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, warned in a communique that seven Americans abducted and held since March 1984 "will face a black fate" if the United States attacks Lebanon.

The communique was delivered to the News of Lebanon, a privately owned local news agency, and telephoned by anonymous callers to two private Beirut radio stations.

The communique said: "We wish to emphasize to the American administration and its president, clown Ronald Reagan, that it will shoulder the full responsibility if it attempts directly or through Israel any aggression against the oppressed in Lebanon.

"For the second time we emphasize that seven Americans with us will face a black fate if the American administration commits any foolhardiness against our people."

It was the second Islamic Jihad threat in as many days. In a statement delivered to the Beirut office of a Western news agency on Tuesday, the organization said it would "chase the Americans and strike at their interests in Lebanon, the Arab world and across the world."

The latest Lebanese government denunciation of the Reagan administration came today from Salim Hoss, minister of education and labor.

Reagan, Gorbachev schedule summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials, preparing to announce a summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, are portraying the late November talks in Geneva as largely a get-acquainted session.

But at the State Department, a senior official told reporters Tuesday night he expected "genuine, substantive exchanges" between Reagan and Gorbachev. "A meeting between heads of state can be an opportunity for constructive movement in our relationship," said the official, who demanded anonymity.

Reagan, returning to the White House Tuesday from a meeting with Americans who were held hostage in Lebanon, was asked, "Are you going to have a summit?" and nodded his head, apparently in the affirmative.

The formal White House announcement was expected today. Secretary of State George P. Shultz also planned to discuss preparations for the summit meeting at a news conference later in the day.

While the Geneva agenda will range from nuclear weapons curbs to turmoil in the Middle East and Latin America, White House officials are already trying to dampen any expectations of a breakthrough.

2 black leaders killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Police found the stabbed bodies of two black leaders Tuesday, five days after they were reported missing.

Col. Gerrie van Rooyen, a police spokesman, said the bodies of Matthew Goniwe and Fort Calata were found at the edge of a road outside the Cape Province industrial center of Port Elizabeth. The burned bodies of two other blacks who had been traveling in the same car were discovered in the area last weekend.

Iran, Iraq trade blows

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iran said Tuesday its forces had punched through a series of Iraqi fortifications in the southern part of the war-front near Fakkeh and killed or wounded hundreds of Iraqi troops in a battle that began over the weekend.

Iraq said its forces fired on the Iranians, who broke off the attack at Fakkeh without reaching the Iraqi positions. It also said an Iranian force attacked Iraqi positions in the northern Murrivan sector of the battlefield over the weekend and killed or wounded least 75 Iraqi soldiers.

Big quake hits island

NEW IRELAND — A major earthquake today rocked the island of New Ireland, east of New Guinea, and there were reports of "considerable" damage, scientists said.

The epicenter of the earthquake was located near 4.2 south latitude and 152.8 east longitude, according to the Tsunami Warning Center. The settlement of Rabaul, on the island of New Britain, was about 20 miles from the epicenter. New Ireland and New Britain, in the Bismarck Archipelago, are part of the nation of Papua New Guinea, northeast of Australia in the southwest Pacific Ocean.

IRA attacks in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Guerrillas fired mortar shells at a joint police-army base in predominately Catholic West Belfast, but there were no reports of injuries, police said.

One shelled exploded in the Tuesday night attack, but the other failed to explode. Police said a kitchen at the base was badly damaged. The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the attack in a statement to Belfast news organizations.

Candidate kidnapped

MEXICO CITY — A band of gunmen has kidnapped a prominent member of a Communist-led political coalition, who is a candidate in Sunday's congressional elections, his party and the Interior Ministry reported.

Missing the ship by 10,023 miles

You know why the first test of a Star Wars device aboard a U.S. space shuttle failed utterly? Because no one remembered to convert the height of a mountain from feet to miles. For lack of a nail....

The space shuttle was supposed to position a mirror to reflect back to earth a laser beam shining from the top of a volcano on the island of Maui. But, according to the New York Times, when the height of the volcano — 10,023 feet — was fed into the shuttle's computer, no one remembered that the computer was programmed to read all distances in nautical miles unless otherwise instructed. No one otherwise instructed it, and the computer aimed the shuttle's mirror to reflect a beam shining from 10,023 miles above sea level. The mirror, in other words, was aimed straight upward, a position from which it no doubt reflected something to somewhere out in space, but missed the Maui laser beam altogether.

Humans back at mission control, of course, figured out the error quickly; it was hardly complicated. And on the next try, the Star Wars experiment was successful. But for a weapons system that has to be 100 percent effective the first time it is ever deployed if it is to be of any use whatsoever, that first failure is some augury.

There are any number of reasons to worry about Star Wars — from the dangerous new round of nuclear weapons escalation that it inevitably will set off to the exorbitant and indigestible cost of the program. But not least of the problems is the original concept of a foolproof shield. Humans, we shouldn't have needed this experiment to remind us, aren't perfect and ought not to be hinging the fate of the planet on their ability to approximate perfection in a weapons system. They're too likely to miss by 10,023 miles.

Steve Chapman

Andy Hardy good 'nuff for Reagan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Stephen Chapman is on vacation for one week. During Chapman's absence Donald Kaul is substituting.

By DONALD KAUL

A couple of weeks ago, Pat Buchanan, the White House Rasputin, bragged that the Reagan administration's new tax plan would benefit the "traditional family," that is to say, one in which the wife stays home to mind the house and take care of the children. His comments brought an immediate broadside from feminists, who said that while the traditional family was a good thing and deserving of support, there were other kinds of families in need of help that would be left worse off by the President's plan.

That response misses the point. What's so good about the traditional family? To the degree it still exists, which is small, it is as outdated as an Andy Hardy movie. It's supposed to be a great way to raise kids.

Ha! Most typically it effectively removes the father from parenting altogether. An ambitious man who seeks to be the sole, successful provider for his family doesn't have time to be a good father; he's got to be out there hustling. His appearances at home generally are marked by an apathy born of exhaustion.

For the woman of a traditional marriage, the scenario is worse; much worse. In the early years of motherhood, she spends her days talking either to children or to women who talk almost exclusively to children. The intellectual demands of her routine would not challenge a mushroom.

Let's face it, most tasks of the traditional housewife are mind-numbing: picking up socks, making beds, doing the laundry, vacuuming. Child-rearing can be better than that, but it can be worse, too. Women who seem to survive the ordeal best are those who lack all curiosity of the larger world or who manage to suppress their personal ambitions and become extensions of their husbands' careers or children's lives.

Imaginative women locked into traditional marriages seek to embellish their roles by becoming gourmet cooks or accomplished interior decorators or canny shoppers, but no matter how good they get at their jobs, the bottom line is this: They will be rewarded precisely in proportion to how successful their husbands become. A good wife married to an unsuccessful man is poor. A bad wife married to a successful man is well-to-do. And while a successful man will almost always say that he couldn't have done it without the help and support of his wife, in his heart, he almost always believes he could have.

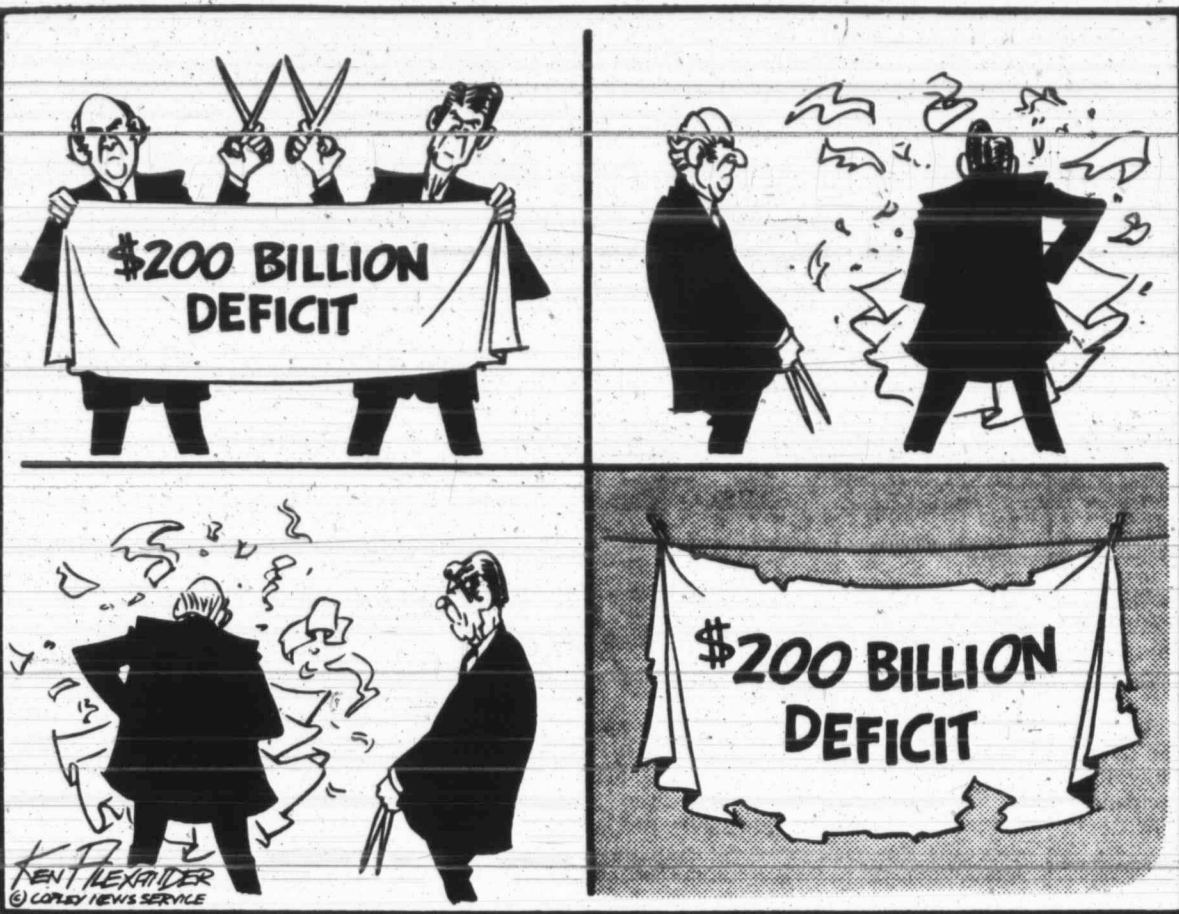

In middle age, a "traditional" woman finds she has paid an enormous price in self-sacrifice. Her children no longer need her and, indeed, on visits home even treat her with a certain condescension. Her husband, established in his career, may decide he has "outgrown" her and take up with a woman who shares his interests. She takes up tennis. She watches the soaps. Her husband asks, "Is this all there is?" She asks, "Is that all there was?"

Too grim a scenario, you say? Perhaps, but there seems to be a lot of it going around these days. Obviously, some women are able to break this mold, but they do it by breaking out of the traditional marriage. More typically, they find that a half-lifetime of keeping house and raising children has given them few skills that the world wants, and those few low-paid.

It is extraordinarily difficult for a warm, caring, intelligent couple to have a successful traditional marriage. The man has to ignore too much of his warmth, the woman too much of her intelligence. So what do we want with a tax code that encourages such an institution, one that strip-mines the personalities of its inhabitants? We should be trying to stamp it out.

And, indeed, for whatever reason, the traditional marriage is on the endangered species list. Last year husbands were the sole earners in only 22 percent of American families.

The modern American family does not need illusory tax breaks. It needs services: day-care centers, school lunch programs, recreation centers. But don't look for that from Ronald Reagan.

Greedy Texas tycoons

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — T. Boone Pickens has already become a legend in the nation's financial community. The "takeover tycoon" has somewhat the image of the mysterious stranger in an old Western, who rides into town and challenges the entrenched interests by threatening to buy them out.

Often the mere hint of a Pickens takeover attempt is enough to send corporate executives running for cover like so many craven saloon loungers. But a close review of Pickens' record suggests that he may not be quite the hero his fans think he is — more a Bret Maverick than a Shane, you might say.

In fact, market analysts consider Mesa Petroleum, the Texas-based company he runs for $22-plus million a year (and worth it, he says), to be a fairly risky investment. It is "not a stock for conservative accounts," warns one report.

Our associate Donald Goldberg looked into one recent takeover by Mesa that made millions for Pickens — but appears to have been of doubtful value to the rest of Mesa's stockholders. What Mesa did — presumably at Pickens' direction — was to pay a generous price for stock in a company in which Pickens owned more than half-a-million shares. It was all perfectly legal.

The target of Mesa's takeover was actually a spinoff company, Mesa Royalty Trust, or MRT, a Houston-based firm that owns oil and gas reserves in Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming. Texas Commerce Bank, of which Pickens is a director and which has been involved in several of Mesa's takeover deals, was MRT's trustee.

During the 18 months prior to Mesa's announced takeover bid, MRT units, or shares, were selling at prices ranging from $22 to $29.63. Mesa offered $35. Although a Mesa spokesman insists the MRT purchase was designed to "acquire long-life, high-quality reserves" of gas and oil, analysts question the value of the deal to Mesa stockholders, given MRT's financial performance.

But Pickens made out like the proverbial bandit. He owned more than 3 percent of MRT, or upwards of 500,000 units. His take from the generous offer by his own company was more than $17.5 million.

Of course, as a Mesa stockholder, Pickens shared in the $507 million cost of the takeover. But his percentage of Mesa stock was only about 1.4 percent, so his share of the takeover cost was far less than the amount he made selling his MRT stock to Mesa.

Though Pickens made a bundle on the takeover, there was no violation of securities laws or regulations. And Mesa officials deny any conflict of interest on Pickens' part.

But some critics are not sure it was all so innocent. They wonder whether Pickens shouldn't have disclosed to Mesa's stockholders the fact that he would be enjoying a huge personal windfall in the deal. They also think more should be known about his role in Mesa's decision to buy MRT, considering his financial stake in the target company and his position as a director of the trustee bank.

Meanwhile, some Mesa stockholders reportedly are considering a lawsuit over Pickens' salary and other compensation for last year. In 1979, a stockholder suit led to an agreement that Pickens would be given an option for only 4.8 million shares of Mesa stock at a bargain price, instead of the 6 million originally given him. The deal was still worth about $30 million.

Footnote: The Securities and Exchange Commission is reportedly investigating possible insider-trading violations involving almost all of Pickens' takeover targets. There have been allegations that some investors were illegally tipped off in advance to Pickens' takeover plans.

UNDER THE DOME: The poorest congressional district in the nation is New York's 18th, in the South Bronx — the site of "photo opportunities" for presidential candidates every four years. Three other New York districts — the 11th, 12th and 16th — are among the nation's 10 poorest.

Court fans flames of state-church debate

By ROBERT FURLOW

Reagan administration and religious education officials are unhappy with new Supreme Court rulings against government aid for church-school pupils while opponents of church-state links are elated.

Neither side is proclaiming any final victory in the battle over federal help for private education, a fight that includes the pending issue of tuition tax credits.

However, no one was suggesting Monday's court decisions that threw out Michigan and New York programs of aid for private-school pupils provided hopeful signs for anyone pressing for expanded government help.

Education Secretary William Bennett, said the rulings "reflected a hostility toward religion" and would make it "vastly more difficult to provide educational services to some of America's neediest schoolchildren. This is terrible."

But opponents of church-government educational links praised the decisions, saying they should educate federal and other officials not to try to mix government and religion.

Those opponents also noted, however, that both decisions were by bare 5-4 majorities, suggesting the overall issue had hardly been settled forever.

In both cases, Reagan administration lawyers had joined state and local officials in arguments that the court rejected, ruling as unconstitutional.

• A New York City program in which about 40,000 mostly Roman Catholic parochial-school pupils were given remedial schooling by public school teachers in private-school classrooms at federal expense.

• A similar program in which more than 10,000 private-school pupils in Grand Rapids, Mich., were given extra classes taught by public school teachers. The local school system was reimbursed by the state for providing the teachers.

'The doors to the public schools are open to their children, and we stand committed to guaranteeing those children a well-rounded education.'

Scott Widmeyer, a spokesman for the American Federation of Teachers

The shared-time programs were challenged as drains on taxpayer money.

Despite local efforts to make the private schools less "religious" for the special classes, such as removing crosses and other symbols, Justice William J. Brennan wrote that "the symbolic union of church and state ... threatens to convey a message of state support for religion to students and to the general public."

Estimates were not immediately available on whether the decisions would affect pupils in many other states.

However, Robert L. Smith, executive director of the Council for American Private Education, said, "The decision is a serious blow; it affects hundreds of thousands of the neediest and most educationally disadvantaged students in private schools."

Scott Widmeyer, a spokesman for the American Federation of Teachers, said parents of pupils involved should know, "The doors to the public schools are open to their children, and we stand committed to guaranteeing those children a well-rounded education."

Robert Maddox, executive director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, said, "We're elated not only for the specifics of the cases, ruled on today, but that

Freeport lead plant to close

FREEPORT (AP) — New lower limits to the lead allowed in gasoline will force the Nalco Chemical Co. plant here to shut down in October, officials say. Nalco's Freeport plant produces the lead that refineries add to gasoline to raise its octane level, which in turn improves automobile performance. But in March, the Environmental Protection Agency announced lower limits to the lead allowable in gasoline, limits that went into effect Monday and will put the Freeport plant out of business.

Odessa jails overflowing

ODESSA — Between lots of arrests and near-capacity jail crowds, sheriff's officials in Midland and Ector counties say they had to distribute some of their prisoners to surrounding facilities last weekend.

A supervisor at Ector County jail said a near-capacity population prompted Sheriff Bob Brookshire to halt bookings of Texas Department of Public Safety prisoners into the jail for the weekend. Capt. Ollie Carnes, jail supervisor, said 16 DPS prisoners were booked into the city jail, with which the county has a standing agreement to house any county overflow.

Suits filed over toxic site

TEXARKANA — City residents who live on a toxic waste site have filed six more lawsuits against a company that 25 years ago ran a wood-preserving plant in the area. The suits, filed in federal court in Texarkana this week, add to one other in seeking a total of $14.8 million in actual damages from Koppers Company Inc. of Pittsburgh, Pa. The first suit was filed last week. The plaintiffs claim that Koppers left behind toxic chemicals that caused three deaths, injured 10 people and devalued the homes of seven families in the Carver Terrace Subdivision.

2 busted in huge pot haul

COMFORT — Ten days of surveillance on a small private plane paid off for law enforcement officers with the arrest of two men and the seizure of $675,000 worth of marijuana, officials say.

The twin-engine Aero Commander was seized at a private airstrip on a ranch two miles east of Comfort early Tuesday, DPS spokesman Mike Cox said.

2 held in slaying of teen

FORT WORTH — Two men, one of whom was arrested trying to drive across the Mexican border in an Arlington teen-ager's car, were being held today in connection with the teen's abduction and death.

DPS agents, Kendall County sheriff's deputies and other officers searched the brush surrounding the landing strip and found 900 pounds of marijuana in boxes and burlap bags. Capital murder warrants were issued for the two suspects, who were being held in a Del Rio jail. An affidavit, filed in municipal court, alleges the two men asked Bolden, 17, for a ride after he left work at the Fort Worth Boys Club. The pair is accused of beating Bolden with a rock, then stabbing him in the neck and fleeing for Mexico with his car.

Woman injured in 2-car crash

A 22-year-old Big Spring woman was injured slightly Tuesday afternoon in a two-car collision at the intersection of Runnels and First streets.

3910 Hamilton, was injured. The accident occurred at 3:35 p.m. Lewis was traveling west in her 1974 tan Chevrolet Vega in the 200 block of E. First Street, according to reports.

Firemen douse car, trash fires

Big Spring firefighters Tuesday answered two reports of car fires, a trash fire and a grass fire. According to a department report, firemen arrived at 9:03 p.m. at 905 W. 18th to find a 1976 Ford LTD enveloped in smoke and flames.

Brooks, who was driving a 1981 white Chevrolet Impala, had driven out of the Union Pacific Railroad parking lot on First and was attempting to cross First Street into the 100 block of Runnels when the accident occurred, the other car, Don R. Brooks, 63, of report stated.

The two firefighters who responded to the call determined that the car motor was on fire, opened the hood and doused the blaze.

under the hood of a 1978 Ford LTD owned by Hettie Froman of the rear apartment at 1104 11th Place, the report states.

According to the report, the car, owned by Mrs. C.B. Arnold, had extensive fire damage to the motor and under the hood, but no exterior damage. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Firemen extinguished the burning engine and pushed the car out of the middle of the street before returning to the station at 9:54 p.m. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Four firefighters early Tuesday morning doused a fiery stack of wood and trash in the front yard of 508 S. Bell.

According to the report, firemen arrived at the scene at 2:40 a.m. to find the trash burning. After dousing the flames with 300 gallons of water, they returned to the station.

According to the report, the owner of the house, Luis Melendez, told firemen he had stacked the wood in the front yard while working on the house earlier. He was awakened by the smell of the smoke and called the police.

When the three firefighters arrived at the scene at 9:33 p.m., they found flames coming out from

GM to announce Saturn plant site

DETROIT (AP) — Top officials of General Motors Corp. will break the news in person sometime this month to leaders of the three dozen states that vied to win the highly publicized Saturn car project.

Only one of the states will hear good news — that it has been chosen as the site for GM's plan to build a high technology subcompact car plant using flexible work rules, including a salaried production force.

vestment by GM in the state it chooses, with 6,000 jobs in the plant itself. Suppliers and other firms connected with the operation are expected to add another 10,000 or more jobs. Sources say the site selection will move into the final stages soon and that an announcement is likely in mid to late July. The tentative plan calls for locally based GM officials — such as state capital and Washington lobbyists and plant managers — to break the news to governors, other top state officials and congressmen, sources said. They also will be told who won and will be asked to keep it a secret until the official announcement is made by GM, the sources said. "It won't be done a whole lot of time in advance," one company official said. "We'll have everything in order before we tell the guys to go" break the news. "It only makes sense to do this," the official said Tuesday. "Many of these people have spent a lot of time on their presentations." GM has kept a tight lid on the site selection process at headquarters in Detroit, where voluminous offers from states are evaluated on computer systems designed by Electronic Data Systems Corp., the huge computer company GM bought last year.

Reams of offers of deals and incentives have been made for the plant, including personal pitches to GM by at least two dozen governors. The Saturn plant will bring a $3.5 billion in-

Removing the injured from one of the buses took almost two hours Tuesday as firefighters applied neck braces to the victims and moved them down the narrow bus aisle to the door. Most of the injured passengers, who ranged in age from 56 to 75, were taken to hospitals, treated and released, said Mike Compton, Emergency Medical Services supervisor.

The buses carried members of the Gulf Coast Community Services Association. They were on their way to a meeting sponsored by the Texas Housing Authority when the accident occurred about 2:30 p.m.

The bus drivers said one vehicle struck the other in the rear when a car stopped suddenly to make a turn at the intersection. The car was bumped slightly by one of the buses.

Dear Abby

Salvation Army reunites families

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your information about the Salvation Army tracing long-lost relatives. I was able to find my brother whom I had not seen since 1947. We are both so happy to be in touch with each other again, Abby. My brother lives in France, and I have been in America since 1947. I am planning to visit him next year. I am a very happy reader of your column in the Lansdale, Pa., Reporter.

M.R. IN LANSDALE, PA.
DEAR M.R.: Glad I was able to help.

Readers, the Salvation Army operates a Missing Persons Locator Service in 86 countries of the world. This is available to the public. Those interested in this service should be aware of the following basic guidelines:

1. The inquirer should be searching for a near relative.
2. The inquirer must be able to provide essential information about the missing person.
3. The Salvation Army reserves the right to accept or reject any request for services based upon considerations of reasonableness, feasibility or motive.
4. The inquirer is asked to pay a $5 non-refundable fee.
5. The inquirer may secure information and/or a missing persons inquiry form by contacting the nearest Salvation Army office in his area or by contacting the nearest Territorial Headquarters.

Addresses: 860 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610; 120 W. 14th St., New York, N.Y. 10011; 1424 Northeast Expressway, Atlanta, Ga. 30329; 30840 Hawthorne Blvd., Ranch Palos Verdes, Calif. 90274.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a wonderful man I have known for a little less than a year. Ours is a very loving relationship and we communicate well, but he is very vague about his past. This makes me wonder if maybe he is married.

How can I find out (without his knowing) if he was ever married in Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Missouri, Kansas or Kentucky? Our wedding date is getting closer, and I am becoming more and more nervous.

NERVOUS IN ILLINOIS
DEAR NERVOUS: Marriages are a matter of public record, but it will take you some time to gather the information from each state unless you engage a private investigator. (They don't come cheap.)

If yours is really a "loving relationship" and you communicate well, a direct "Are you married?" is not an unreasonable question to ask your fiancé. And if his response still leaves you with doubts, I urge you to postpone your marriage until you have this "wonderful" man checked out thoroughly.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "US IN TACOMA": Your suggested 11th commandment, "Thou shalt not get caught," is very catchy. But if you obey the first 10, you won't need an 11th.

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, also available in Spanish, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue Rheumatic fever still lurks

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had rheumatic fever as a child 40 years ago. To me it was something people used to get, as you intimated in a recent column. However, it struck our family again a couple of summers ago as my 17-year-old daughter began her senior year in high school. She developed the nodes and had been having incredibly bad and persistent sore throats. She could hardly walk without assistance. The doctor hospitalized her immediately. The point I am trying to make is, do not underestimate the likelihood of anyone contracting rheumatic fever. One case may not be important, but when it is your child it becomes important. — Mrs. J.H.

I hope I didn't leave the impression that rheumatic fever had disappeared; it hasn't. It is a lot less frequent, but it exists here and in less affluent countries, where it is rampant.

Just to recap, rheumatic fever follows strep throat. In fact, the possibility of rheumatic fever is the most compelling reason for treating the strep throat. If untreated, the throat infection results in the rheumatic fever in about three of 100 cases.

The strep germ seems to set off the body's antibody machinery. It's those antibodies that can cause the serious damage, including to the heart.

Signs of rheumatic fever include joint inflammation, skin nodules and a skin rash. Another is St. Vitus dance, the peculiar and uncontrollable jerking of the arms and legs. Usually the person recovers from all these effects except for those involving the heart.

I am sorry your daughter encountered this old enemy. I hope she is making full recovery, and that you know of her need for penicillin on a regular basis to prevent further strep infections. This is necessary because a second attack of rheumatic fever is more damaging than the initial one.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Any connection between scleroderma and leprosy? Is it contagious? What causes it? — Mrs. S.A.
No connection exists between scleroderma and Hansen's disease (formerly called leprosy). Scleroderma is not contagious. An abnormal production of collagen (body-filling material) causes the tissue changes of scleroderma. There's also some vessel inflammation. What sparks these things in the body is not known.

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing $1.00 and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Co-eds attend citizenship seminar

Janet Roberts, Angela Reid and Judy Roberts participated in the twenty-third annual Texas Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar at Angelo State University at San Angelo June 17-21. More than 400 high school juniors and seniors participated in the event.

The seminar's purpose is to give students a better understanding of the various forms of government and their responsibilities as citizens, says James Gipe, coordinator of the seminar for the Texas Farm Bureau. Students are sponsored through county Farm Bureau.

During the seminar, participants heard talks about the Farm Bureau and its future, patriotism, the making of America, free enterprise, and understanding the Soviet Union and the Middle East.

Dallas suburb facing severe water shortage

ROWLETT (AP) — Some residents in this Texas town are finding it hard to live a clean life these days.

Dawla Boyd says she can't wash her clothes on the weekend or certain week nights.

And other residents mostly in the western parts of Rowlett said Monday that their water pressure is so low that they have problems flushing toilets, taking a bath or just washing their hands.

"It takes five minutes just to fill a glass of water," Ms. Boyd told The Dallas Morning News.

The problem stems from inordinately small pipes that allow only a small amount of water to pass through at any one time, officials said.

City officials acknowledge there is a lack of water pressure in some areas, but say that the problem should be resolved by July 15 when the first water lines are run to a new two-million gallon ground storage tank for Rowlett, located northeast of Dallas.

Meanwhile, residents primarily in the western part of this small city continue to face water pressure problems.

"We kept sticking to the pool slide because there wasn't enough water to keep it wet," said resident Kathy Ladebauche.

The town's growth is partly responsible for the water pressure problems, officials said. "We're working as fast as we can and in a few weeks, the water should flow easy again," said John Schroy, a Rowlett City Council member. "Our town is just growing faster than anticipated and the hot summer kind of creped up on us."

Schroy told The News that census figures predicted the city would have about 10,000 residents this year, but the actual number is closer to 13,000. The new ground storage is supposed to accommodate a population of 30,000.

"Our problem is not with the supply of water — because we've got plenty of it — but it's the bottlenecks in the distribution system," he said.

County may cremate corpses of Mexicans

SAN ANTONIO — Bexar County's chief medical examiner says the county could save money if it cremated the bodies of unclaimed or indigent Mexican nationals who die here.

Dr. Vincent DiMaio told Commissioners Court Tuesday the idea was proposed to him by Mexican Consulate General Hector Mendoza.

Mendoza, who serves in San Antonio, said his country would pay to have the ashes shipped back to family members.

DiMaio said the county handles about 30 dead indigent or unclaimed Mexican nationals each year.

Each burial, he said, costs the county about $370 per body. Sending the bodies back to families in Mexico would cost $2,000, he said.

Cremation could be performed for about $140 to $190.

Commissioners agreed to accept bids for the cremation service to determine if the county can save money.

DiMaio said the bodies only would be cremated with the consent of family members.

Soldiers told to stay away from Mexico

FORT HUACHUCA, Ariz. (AP) — Soldiers at this southeastern Arizona base should use "extreme caution" if they enter Mexico during upcoming elections, the Army says.

A letter distributed Monday by the Fort Huachuca Military Intelligence Detachment warned military personnel that demonstrations and other disturbances may occur through next Tuesday.

Voters in the Mexican state of Sonora, which is across the international border from Arizona, and six other Mexican states on Sunday will decide gubernatorial races.

The elections could trigger "anti-government demonstrations and may result in wide-spread civil disobedience," the letter said.

"Mexican Army troops have been deployed along the northern border of Mexico to preclude civil unrest. Troop concentrations have been observed in the Hermosillo and Agua Prieta areas of northern Mexico," the letter said.

A copy of the letter was obtained by the Sierra Vista Herald.

Paul Stoll, a spokesman for the Army's Information Systems Command here, said the letter was purely advisory in nature.

"It simply is designed to encourage people to use good judgment," Stoll said.

Stoll spokesman, said there was "no plan by any authority on Fort Huachuca to declare Mexico off-limits during the election."

The letter said the source of the information was "U.S. Border Officials," but a Border Patrol official in Douglas, across the border from Agua Prieta, Sonora, said he could not confirm a Mexican troop buildup around Agua Prieta.

"Normally we can see something like that, but it doesn't mean it is not happening," said the official, who declined to be identified.

The official told the Herald he also could not confirm another portion of the letter which said Mexican authorities in June had arrested a former Mexican policeman supposedly trained to disrupt the election process.

Vince Hovanec, a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, called the Army's advisory "totally off the wall."

"We have checked and neither the U.S. Embassy nor any of its consulates has issued any warnings telling Americans to go home," said Hovanec. He added that those at the embassy "never even contemplated" any of the information contained in the warning.

In Mexico, a spokesman for the ruling Partido Revolucionario Institucional said soldiers have been sent to Sonora but said the troop deployments were routine during elections in Mexico.

No violence is expected, said the spokesman, Jesus Salazar Valencia, in Hermosillo.

"It has always been that way," he said. "Throughout the electoral process, historically, soldiers have always patrolled during elections."

An opposition party leader claimed the troops could intimidate voters or harass people on their way to the polls.

"What they (PRI) are doing is anticipating violence," said Norberto Corella, the national delegate of the Partido Accion Nacional. "The soldiers will intimidate voters."

In Agua Prieta, Mayor Leonardo Yanez said troops began arriving at the border town last week.

State warns against phone hike

AUSTIN (AP) — An increase in the state's telephone bill could bust the budget, an assistant attorney general said Tuesday as the Public Utility Commission began consideration of Southwestern Bell's $277 million rate hike request.

The package would add 18.5 percent to the state government's Bell bill, which is now about $40 million a year, according to Assistant Attorney General Scott McCollough.

"We'd have to find it somewhere, either through personnel reduction, reducing services or reducing the number of telephone lines. Certainly, that's not in the public interest. We need those telephone lines," said McCollough.

During questioning of Jim Adams, Bell's Texas president, McCollough also mentioned the possibility of a tax hike to pay the phone bill.

"That would be one way," Adams replied. McCollough and Allen King, representing the Texas Retailers Association, also questioned Adams about Bell's request to add a 5 percent penalty to business phone bills not paid on time.

Adams said the company is looking for ways to combat business customers who intentionally pay late. In some cases, King said, it takes awhile for business customers to review lengthy, complicated bills.

Adams replied, "It is not our intent to penalize customers with late charges on the basis of some error Southwestern Bell has made. What we are attempting to do is simply provide for a more prompt payment of bills than we have previously seen."

Bell is not seeking a late charge for residential customers.

"Residential customers on occasion do pay late," said Adams. "They do not pay as late as businesses do, who have a concerted effort" to pay as late as possible.

The lawyers took over the case Tuesday after comments from just one consumer. No consumers showed up Monday for a session set aside to hear Texans' thoughts on Bell's plan that would raise monthly residential bills by about $1.50.

Election runoff set for Aug. 3

AUSTIN (AP) — The nationally watched election in Texas' 1st Congressional District will be settled Aug. 3, when a runoff election is scheduled between Republican Edd Hargett and Democrat Jim Chapman.

State officials Tuesday certified a canvass of Saturday's election, showing Hargett the winner with 42.01 percent, 29,720 votes. Chapman finished second with 30.2 percent, 21,382.

State Rep. Sam W. Russell, D-Mount Pleasant, was a distant third at 13,090 votes, 18.5 percent.

The canvass showed Jim McWilliams with 3,410 votes, Billy W. Flanagan with 2,270, Carl Brown with 416, Warren G. Harding with 305 and Fred John Wieder Jr. with 130. Seven other people, all write-ins, received one vote each.

Immediately after the canvass was completed, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, filling in for a vacationing Gov. Mark White, signed the proclamation setting the runoff election for Aug. 3.

The election is being held to replace Democrat Sam B. Hall, who resigned his seat in the U.S. House to become a federal judge.

The race has drawn considerable attention as the national political parties have watched it for indications of public sentiment and trends.

Both runoff candidates predict victory in the northeast Texas district.

Chapman, 40, a former Hopkins County district attorney from Sulphur Springs, points out that he faced five other Democratic candidates while Hargett was the only Republican running.

"If a candidate can only get 41 percent of the vote and outspend the other candidates 2-to-1 that indicates Texas is still Democratic country," Chapman said.

Gov. White agreed, pointing to the large amounts of money the GOP has spent on Hargett's race.

"In spite of all the money they could pump in from the North and all the Republican areas, there was a very strong Democratic turnout," White said.

"Fifty-eight percent said they were Democrats, said they preferred Democrats. That's the kind of response I like to see," he said.

But Hargett, 37, a former professional football player and electrical engineer making his first bid for office, said Saturday's election results met all his expectations.

"I had two goals. One was to win by 10 percent, and the other was to get over 40 percent (total vote). And we accomplished both of them," he said.

Houston pollster Lance Tarance, a consultant to Hargett's campaign, said he sees two strategies developing between now and the runoff.

Chapman will seek to convince voters it is a Republican-against-Democrat race, he said, while Hargett "will try to make it a conservative Texas candidate vs. a liberal, national Democratic Party race."

How sweet it is — '85 crop of peaches plentiful

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

July is a good time to enjoy Texas peaches at their finest. Roadside stands are overflowing and pick-your-own orchards are heavy with the sweet, vitamin-A-rich fruit.

According to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, around 625,000 bushels will be harvested by the end of August when peach harvest comes to a halt, a 30 percent increase over last year's crop.

Now is the time to buy peaches in large quantities and put them up for later in the year.

A commercial crop in Texas since the 1890s, peaches have never been raised in large enough quantities to satisfy the state's appetite. About 25 varieties are grown here, including some in the Rio Grande Valley, which is developing its own small peach industry. Major peach-growing areas in Texas are the Hill Country around Fredericksburg and Stonewall, Central, East and North Texas and the Panhandle. The state usually ranks among the top 10 producers in the nation.

Texas peaches are hand-picked after they have fully ripened. About 85 percent are sold at roadside stands and pick-your-own outlets. These are the freshest peaches in Texas. They are sold within 24 to 48 hours after harvest at roadside stands and other local outlets. Texas peaches sold in supermarkets usually reach the produce department four or five days after they are picked.

The earliest peaches are clingstones. Freestones are available in July. The season peaks around July 4 and ends between Aug. 15-31.

When you've had your fill of fresh peaches, try these recipes. All are easy to make and taste wonderful. Serve Texas Peach Kuchen when company comes, Whole Wheat Peach Bread for breakfast or between-meal snacks. And when you feel like treating yourself, whip up a Texas Peach Julep in the blender, sit back and enjoy.

County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt has a recipe request this week for Homemade Blueberry Cheesecake Ice Cream. If you have this recipe and others you would like to share, please send them to the Herald Recipe Exchange, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

French vinegars add zip to dish

By TOM HOGE

AP Wine and Food Writer
When I was growing up, I used vinegar liberally in salad dressings and on many vegetable dishes. But the only kinds we had were distilled white apple cider.

It wasn't until World War II that I began sampling the tangy red and white wine vinegars used in the homes and restaurants of France. Now we are receiving a number of elegant wine vinegars from the French that are part of the much-discussed nouvelle cuisine. They are often costly, but have a unique taste. The new ones include champagne or white wine vinegars blended with blueberries, cherries, raspberries and strawberries, to name a few.

Actually, such off-beat vinegars are not new. For years inventive chefs have been experimenting with vinegars made from bananas, dates, oranges and pineapple, with varying degrees of success.

For some time, gourmets have indulged in sherry vinegar, which has a nutty flavor. This type should be used in moderation because it has a high acidic content that grates on some palates.

The French vin aigre, or sour wine, has existed for as long as the fermented grapes of France. It is said to have originated there when an absent-minded steward left a cask of wine uncovered and it turned sour.

The origin of vinegar goes back much further than France's first effort. More than 3,000 years ago, the Chinese made a vinegar from rice wine, and the Japanese used a relatively sweet vinegar to flavor rice.

Back in the Middle Ages, Europeans actually drank vinegar mixed with spices in an effort to ward off the dreaded Black Plague. It is not known how the therapy worked, but vinegar still is used in the health field.

mix
1/2 cup flaked coconut
2 1/2 cups peeled, sliced fresh peaches
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 slightly beaten egg
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Cut butter into cake mix until crumbly. Mix in coconut. Pat mixture lightly into ungreased 13x9x2-inch baking dish, building up slight edges. Bake 10 minutes. Arrange peaches on warm crust. Mix sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle on peaches. Blend sour cream and egg; drizzle over peaches. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until edges are light brown. Serve warm. Serves 12 to 15.

WHOLE WHEAT PEACH BREAD

1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. salt
2 1/2 cups pured peaches
1 tsp. almond extract
1 cup chopped pecans
Heat oven to 325 degrees. Grease and flour two 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch loaf pans. In medium bowl, cream sugar and shortening. In separate bowl, stir together flour, baking powder, soda, cinnamon and salt. Add dry ingredients and pured peaches to sugar mixture and mix well. Stir in almond extract and pecans. Pour into loaf pans. Bake 50 to 60 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Then remove from pans and cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

Food

Grades help consumers shop

Knowing the differences among government food grades can help you shop more economically for yourself and your family, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist Dr. Dymple Cooksey.

Take beef, for example. Prime, the top USDA grade, is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor. While Prime is best for roasting or broiling, it is likely to cost more than USDA choice which is the second grade, she says. The key difference between the two grades is that choice has slightly less "marbling," or fewer flecks of fat within the lean that makes the meat tender and juicy.

Some stores sell beef that would qualify for other USDA grades, such as Good, under a house brand name rather than under the USDA grade mark. This beef will likely cost less than Prime or Choice, and it may meet your needs well, particularly if you use slow, moist cooking to make it tender.

In establishing grades for foods like meat, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables and dairy products, USDA considers the values that wholesale buyers and sellers place on the products. Generally, products with characteristics of the higher grades are more marketable and bring a better price.

Labeling of the grade on a product is not required by federal law, even if a food has been officially graded, she says. But a number of food manufacturers and distributors choose to put the official grade on their products, as do many retailers.

USDA grades help establish quality levels of products, and this in turn, can help shoppers make choices. "Grade A products might be used in special meals or dishes when looks and textures are important," says Cooksey. "But lower grade products, which cost less and are still of good quality will do just as well in most dishes."

Consumers should remember that all grades are equally wholesome and nutritious, says the specialist.

As you shop, you are most likely to see the USDA grade on beef, veal, lamb, broilers, turkeys, eggs and butter. You may also see it on some cheese, instant nonfat dry milk, preserves, frozen concentrated orange juice and canned and frozen fruits and vegetables.

Some fresh produce — mostly potatoes and apples — are also grade labeled. For fresh fruits and vegetables, the typical range of grades is U.S. Fancy, U.S. No. 1 and U.S. No. 2. The chief trading grade for most of these products in U.S. No. 1, while U.S. Fancy is a premium quality. These grades are generally based on a product's color, shape, maturity and freedom from defects, such as cuts from harvesting equipment, says Cooksey.

While only a few packers grade canned, frozen and fried products, many processing plants use USDA's grading service for quality control purposes.

Not all cheeses are created equal

When it comes to salt, not all cheeses are created equal. So careful selection from among the many natural and "low-sodium" cheeses on the market is needed if you want to reduce your salt intake, says Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Dr. Alice Hunt.

Salt has an important part in producing the distinctive flavors of many varieties of cheese. It may be added to curds during mixing, as it is with some soft cheeses, or it may be sprayed, sprinkled or rubbed on the rind of cheese as it ages.

But not all natural cheeses are equally salty, says Hunt. For example, one ounce of Swiss contains 74 milligrams of sodium while one ounce of Edam has 274 milligrams. Cheeses produced in different dairies may also vary significantly in sodium content.

It's possible to moderate your salt intake by selecting those cheeses naturally lower in sodium, says the nutritionist. A switch from creamed cottage cheese to Ricotta, for example, or from Edam to Gruyere or Swiss will save 100 milligrams or more of sodium per ounce. Dry curd cottage cheese and uncreamed farmer or pot cheese should also be low in sodium since the salt is usually added in the creaming mixture, she says.

Some natural cheeses are available in no-salt versions. But they will still contain small amounts of sodium, since that mineral is found in milk, says Hunt. Gouda, Swiss, Cheddar, Colby and a few other varieties made without salt generally have a sodium content of fewer than 10 mgs. per ounce.

A number of "low-sodium" and "reduced-sodium" cheeses are also on the market, she says. But because natural cheeses have different sodium levels to begin with, the variation in reduced sodium levels can be large. That's why it's helpful to read and compare the nutrition labels.

One market survey found that the sodium content of low-sodium products ranged from less than 10 mgs. per ounce to 200 mgs. per ounce.

Processed American cheese products are also sold at two levels of sodium reduction: 90 mgs. and 200 mgs. an ounce. However, the regular process cheeses, cheese foods and cheese spreads are high in sodium. So even when the salt is reduced, they will still contain more sodium than many natural cheeses, says the nutritionist.

Canned foods compare to fresh, frozen

COLLEGE STATION — When it comes to nutritional value, fresh and frozen vegetables are good — but not necessarily better — than canned vegetables, says Mary K. Sweeten, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

A study by the National Food Processors Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that the levels of nutrients in fresh, frozen or canned vegetables are nearly comparable.

Researchers compared prepared fresh, frozen and canned lima beans, peas, spinach, sweet potatoes, carrots and squash for levels of thirteen minerals, eight vitamins and fiber, she said.

The study shows little difference in the vitamin A content of any of the products. In the case of the peas and spinach, the canned product was a little higher in vitamin A than the fresh produce.

Analysis also showed little difference in minerals and fiber content between fresh, frozen and canned samples, she said.

Sweeten attributes the comparable vitamin and mineral levels to the fact that vegetables are preserved in cans within hours of harvest. "Vitamin A is very light sensitive, and can be destroyed by artificial light or sunlight, and vitamin C can be lost by heat and exposure to air," she said.

Cans also protect against nutrient loss that occurs in shipping and handling produce between field and home. Few nutrients are lost if fruits and vegetables are eaten directly from the garden, she said, but the nutritional quality of fresh produce in the supermarket depends on the care it receives during harvesting and shipping, as well as shipping time.

Earlier studies compared canned vegetables with uncooked vegetables. Since canned vegetables are "cooked in the can" during the canning process, it's more appropriate to compare them with cooked produce, she said.

This research considered the most important nutrient loss due to home cooking of fresh vegetables, says Sweeten. The comparisons were made between canned foods cooked in their canning liquid and drained, and unpeeled fresh and frozen foods cooked in as little water as possible to avoid the necessity of draining. The fresh vegetables were prepared within two days of harvest, so they had not been commercially handled and shipped as the produce in most retail outlets and homes.

Japanese say it with melons

TOKYO (AP) — In Japan they say it with melons when a friend is ill.

The fruit, which is native to Asia but is very rare and expensive in Japan, is used to show respect and love, according to Masao Yuri, president of Suntory International which makes a melon liqueur.

"The more melons the friend who is sick receives, the more respected he is," said Yuri. "Melons are used much as flowers are used in America. Because of the Japanese climate and soil, melons are grown in hothouses. This makes them extremely expensive."

State inmate fatally stabbed

ROSHARON (AP) — A 25-year-old convicted burglar was fatally stabbed by his cellmate Tuesday, the 15th homicide this year inside the Texas Department of Corrections, the nation's second largest prison system, authorities said.

Pedro Izanga Ruiz, serving a 5-year sentence at the TDC's Darrington Unit for burglary of a habitation, robbery and sexual contact with a child in Grayson County, died about 8:50 a.m. of multiple stab wounds to his upper body, said prison spokesman Phil Guthrie.

Prison guard Thomas Hernandez, 27, also suffered a superficial wound near the lower rib cage, Guthrie said.

A 39-year-old inmate who shared a cell with Ruiz in the administrative segregation wing was being questioned about the attack, Guthrie said. The suspect was serving a 15-year sentence for burglary of a habitation in Bexar County.

"We have no motive," Guthrie said. "There had never been a problem between the two of them, that we know of."

It was the 5th homicide this year at the unit, located about 25 miles south of Houston.

Guthrie said Ruiz was stabbed as Hernandez was preparing to take him to the shower.

"After the guard put the handcuffs on Ruiz, the suspect attempted to stab the officer through the food slot in the door. He then stabbed Ruiz 18 times. He was pronounced dead at the unit infirmary," Guthrie said.

Guards confiscated an 8-inch piece of metal apparently broken off the screening over cell doors, the spokesman said.

Houston firefighters attack the blazing Palmer Warehouse near the ship channel.

Fire forces evacuation

HOUSTON (AP) — At least five firefighters were hurt and a voluntary evacuation was recommended for residents in the area of a four-alarm blaze that gutted a Houston warehouse Tuesday.

The fire at the 100,000-square-foot Palmer Warehouse sent a column of black smoke high into the air, visible for miles around the city. It took firefighters more than five hours to bring the blaze under control but the building continue to burn some 12 hours after it first was reported.

More than 140 firefighters were summoned to the scene near the Houston ship channel, on the east side of the city, after the blaze was spotted about 2 a.m.

by officers in a police helicopter. None of the injured people was hospitalized, Fire Capt. Tommy Rogelio said.

Rogelio described the contents of the warehouse as "everything under the sun," including insecticides, poisons, plastics and food.

A shelter was set up by the Red Cross at a nearby church for those residents who were bothered by the smoke. Red Cross spokesman Bobby Allred said about 30 people had left their homes.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known, officials said.

Car dealer hooked for bait scheme

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston Chevrolet dealer must pay $60,000 in fines, the highest civil penalty ever assessed, for running a bait-and-switch advertisement, a Texas Motor Vehicle Commission official said.

Henri ten Brink, assistant director of enforcement for the commission, which regulates car dealers in Texas, said Landmark Chevrolet used bait and switch tactics "with alluring and insincere offers made to attract people to the store in order to sell them a product at a higher price."

Aside from the fines, the commission also told Landmark not to engage in any such advertisements.

"They were advertising vehicles unattractive to buyers in the Houston market. Vehicles without air conditioning, without any options, advertising at low price in order to lure them into the store to attempt to sell them something different," ten Brink said.

Jim Johnson, manager of Landmark, replied to the commission's action in a prepared statement and refused to answer any questions.

"We feel this fine pays our dues for aggressively entering the Houston market," Johnson said. "Our sales have more than doubled in the nine months since we've purchased Landmark. Our auditors have documented the facts that we have saved consumers hundreds of thousands of dollars during this period with our low price-trading policies."

The commission also entered agreed judgments against nine other Houston-area car dealers for advertising violations and assessed each civil penalties of $500, the minimum under commission rules, ten Brink said.

The nine dealers assessed penalties include: Bob Marco Buick; Marcus Jones Buick; Al Parker Buick; Hub Buick; DeMontro Buick; Ben Reading Buick; Vahce & Sons AMC Jeep, Renault and Ron Carter Chevrolet.

The ads used an asterisk to point out that tax, license and destination fees were not included in the advertised price.

Under commission rules all charges except tax, title and license must be included as advertised price, ten Brink said.

Ron Carter Chevrolet was fined for a "name your own price, write your own deal" advertisement that ten Brink said also violates the commission's advertising rules.

Frenchman HENRI LeCONTE, right, blows kisses to the Wimbledon crowd Tuesday as his dejected opponent, IVAN LENDL, leaves the court. LeCONTE won the match 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 to advance to the quarterfinals against Germany's precocious serve-and-volleyer, BORIS BECKER.

Navratilova in semis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Martina Navratilova experienced her toughest set of the tournament to date before beating Pam Shriver 7-6 (7-5), 6-3 today to reach the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Kathy Rinaldi, the No. 16 seed, reached the semifinals for the first time, scoring a 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 victory over Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia.

In a high-quality match which enthralled the capacity crowd on a sun-baked center court, Navratilova squeezed through opening set against Shriver on a tiebreaker and captured an early break of serve in the second set, enough to win her the match.

Although the defending champion was never behind after breaking serve in the opening game, she was made to fight for every point.

After saving a set point in the 10th game, Shriver leveled at 5-5 with a magnificent service return. Both players then held serve to send the set into a tiebreaker.

Shriver quickly established a 3-1 lead, but could not capitalize on her advantage and lost the tiebreaker by seven points to five.

In the second set, Navratilova again gained an early break and led 3-0 while her opponent still rued the chances she missed in the tiebreaker.

This time, there was no way back for Shriver as the defending champion, going for her sixth singles title, made fewer and fewer errors.

Although Shriver, 23 on Thursday, did have a point for a break in the seventh game, she netted a service return and never had another chance.

She held serve to stave off defeat in the next game but when Navratilova served for the match, she gained the semifinals on her first match point, a winning backhand volley down the line.

"I think the whole thing was how I played the tiebreaker. I set up about two or three points that I didn't win. I felt that if I had won the first she might have got shaky," said a disappointed Shriver.

"I was looking forward to the match because I really thought I stood a chance."

The Rinaldi-Sukova match followed a bizarre pattern.

Rinaldi quickly captured the opening set. But her opponent, the No. 7 seed, gained an early break in the second and continued to jump in on Rinaldi's poor second service, quickly squaring the match.

Sukova continued to dominate as she broke Rinaldi again in the first game of the final set. But the young American suddenly hit back, pinned her opponent to the baseline and ripped off the last six games.

Four unseeded players, including a Chilean qualifier and a 17-year-old West German, were still in the hunt for the men's title.

As the seeds continued to tumble, Chilean qualifier Ricardo Acuna joined West Germany's Boris Becker, Switzerland's Heinz Gunthardt and France's Henri Leconte in the last eight of the sport's most coveted tournament.

Since Wimbledon seedings were introduced in 1927, no unseeded player has ever won the men's or women's crown.

But one, at least, was certain to reach the semifinal stage in the men's event as a result of Wednesday's pairings.

Becker and Leconte, two of this year's giant-killers, were scheduled to clash on the Centre court in a classic confrontation between the big server and the touch player.

In what has already become the year of the underdog at this famed grass court tournament, Gunthardt, ranked 56th in the world, moved almost unnoticed into the last eight of the men's singles, the first time he has reached that stage in a Grand Slam event.

His big weapon has been a lethal serve that has accounted for 74 aces and 159 service winners in four matches.

Two of those victories have been five-setters, including a third-round battle against Vitas Gerulaitis which the Swiss won 7-5 in the fifth set.

On Tuesday, Gunthardt had an easier time, beating Vijay Amritraj of India in three sets.

Jarryd, who like most Swedes grew up playing on clay, is the only seeded player remaining in the bottom half of the draw.

Until this year, the No. 5 seed, one of the quickest players in the game, had never gotten past the first round at Wimbledon but this year has come to terms with the fast grass courts.

McEnroe was in equally strong command of his fourth-round match against Andreas Maurer of West Germany, also winning in straight sets.

But both McEnroe and Connors, who cruised past Sammy Giammalva, said they would have to play better to win the title despite the elimination of many of their rivals.

McEnroe was aiming to become the first American to win the men's title three straight times, while Connors, seeded No. 3, was going for his third crown at age 32.

Leconte, who upset his Davis Cup teammate and doubles partner Yannick Noah in the French Open last month, scored another shocker when he overpowered a listless No. 2 seed Ivan Lendl, the world's second-ranked player who has won only one Grand Slam title in his career.

"I give Lendl so much trouble because I play so well," Leconte joked after his 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 victory, his fifth in eight meetings with the stone-faced Czechoslovakian.

Becker shrugged off a sprained ankle to out-blast American Tim Mayotte, the No. 16 seed, 6-3, 4-6, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 and continue his remarkable charge through the tournament. He is the youngest player to reach the last eight since Bjorn Borg in 1973.

Kosar cashes in with Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — In just two seasons as quarterback of the University of Miami Hurricanes, Bernie Kosar threw 40 touchdown passes among his 463 completions for 5,971 yards while leading his team to a national college football championship in 1983.

Now the 6-foot-5, 218-pound Kosar has cashed in with the National Football League team he says he idolized as a youth growing up in northeast Ohio.

The Cleveland Browns followed through on majority owner Art Modell's game plan Tuesday and selected Kosar as the first pick in the NFL's supplemental draft.

Kosar, 21, said playing for the Browns is "what I always wanted."

Shortly after Cleveland selected Kosar, he agreed to contract terms believed to provide him with the best payday ever for a Cleveland player.

"People keep asking me if I intend to go on a spending spree, but I have no plans like that. It really hasn't sunk in yet," Kosar said. Modell would only say that the deal is either the largest or among the largest contracts in the history of the Cleveland team. Kosar signed five one-year contracts carrying him through the 1989 season and will receive a signing bonus. The whole package is believed to be worth between $5 million and $6 million, based on the pre-draft target set by Kosar's agent.

"It's a real pleasure to be here and to finally put an end to this whole ordeal, and I'm looking forward to a long career here," Kosar said. "I'm not looking at this upcoming season in terms of what string I will be on."

"I've been told by Mr. Modell that they will let nature take its course and let me progress at my own pace. If that means starting this year, that's fine. If it doesn't, I'm ready to learn and do whatever it takes to be successful and be a part of this team."

After answering questions, Kosar donned a Browns' jersey. He will wear No. 19.

Kosar was the big catch in the supplemental draft, which usually does not involve big-name players and is of little interest. The Tuesday draft took only about 10 minutes and was conducted via telephone and telex at the league's New York office.

Kosar had two years of eligibility left at Miami, but became eligible for the supplemental draft last week by graduating one year early with a major in economics and finance. Kosar was red-shirted his first year at Miami.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle ruled in April that Kosar was not eligible for the regular NFL draft held April 30.

Cleveland got the supplemental first pick from the Buffalo Bills prior to the regular draft in a complicated and controversial deal that sent four Cleveland draft choices, including Cleveland's first in 1985 and 1986, to Buffalo. In making the deal, Buffalo had to forfeit its own first pick in 1986.

Big Spring native KELLY ROGERS, a rising junior at Texas Tech, recently competed in the United States International Shooting Championships in Chino, California where he earned a bronze medal in the men's junior singles competition. ROGERS earned a place on the U.S. International Trapshooting squad that will travel to Italy for the World Championships later this summer.

Rodgers wins bronze

CHINO, CALIF. — Big Spring trapshooting specialist Kelly Rogers recently garnered a bronze medal at the United States International Shooting Championships here at the Prado Range. Rogers also earned a place on the U.S. International Shooting Team for the fourth straight year by virtue of his third place performance in the junior men's division.

Rogers started slowly during the first day of competition but increased his daily score during each of the four rounds of competition. After a disappointing opening round of 62 out of 75 targets, Rogers strung together rounds of 67, 68, and 71 to put him in third place going into the final round where only 60 of the original 102 competitors shot at 100 targets to determine the overall winners in each division.

Rogers had an excellent final round, hitting 96 out of the 100 targets, but it was not enough to catch the junior men's silver medalist Shawn Brack of Garden Grove, California, who remained a single target ahead of Rogers in the final standings. Jay Waldron of Tacoma, Washington was the junior men's gold medalist.

In addition to the three junior men's medalists, men's gold medalist Dan Carlisle of Conroe, Texas, silver medalist Ken Blair of Goddard, Kansas and George Haas of Fort Benning, Georgia, will comprise the rest of the U.S. contingent.

The women members include gold medalist Frances Strodman of Jackson, Montana, silver medalist Audrey Grosch of Eden Prairie, Minnesota and bronze medalist Glenda Stark of Casper, Wyoming.

Rogers will compete at the National Sports Festival in Baton Rouge, Louisiana later this month before traveling with the U.S. International Team to Montecatini, Italy for the World Moving Targets Championships later this summer.

Oilers trade for veteran receiver

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, trying to add a deep threat to their receiving corps, have obtained Los Angeles Rams wide receiver Drew Hill in a trade. The Oilers also have signed veteran wide receiver Tim

Smith and kicker Florian Kempf, the club announced Tuesday. Terms of the trade were not announced but the conditional deal was believed to involve middle-round draft choices in 1986 and 1987.

Hill, 28, was a 12th-round draft choice for the Rams in 1979 and has caught 60 passes in five seasons and has the speed, 4.5 in the 40-yard dash, that the Oilers seek. "He's a legitimate deep threat, a big play man," Oiler player personnel director Mike Holovak said. "He was a spot receiver for the Rams. They have a lot of speed at wide receiver, and since they're primarily a running club with Eric Dickerson, they could afford to give him up."

Hawks sign four from San Antonio

Howard College baseball coach Bill Griffin recently announced that four San Antonio players have agreed to play for Howard College this coming season.

Infielder-outfielder Ed Cardenas hails from Edison High School. The 6-3, 190-pounder was an All-District performer carrying a .330 batting average while driving in 14 runs and stealing 14 bases.

"Not only is Cardenas a good baseball player, he ranks very high in the classroom," said coach Griffin.

Al Lopez is a 5-9, 175-pound catcher. Last season at Burbank High School he batted .392, drove in 19 runs and stole 22 bases. He also lettered all four years in high school. "Al's an excellent defensive player and has great speed for a catcher," said Griffin.

Pitcher-outfielder Mike Haskins played at East Central High School. The 5-10, 160-pounder was a four year starter and posted a 7-7 record on the mound this season. His batting average was .286. "Mike has tremendous potential," said Griffin. I think he may be the stopper for on us the mound."

Thomas Aguirre rounds out the list of San Antonio signees. The 5-10, 155-pound pitcher-outfielder from Central Catholic High School was named to the All-State team as an outfielder this season. He is also a two-year All-District performer.

On the mound he compiled a 5-4 record with a stingy 1.24 earn run average. He batted .405 and drove in 18 RBIs. Griffin said he will probably use Aguirre in the outfield.

This brings the number of signed players to eight for the Hawks this season. Earlier Griffin signed Ramces Guerrero and Rafael Diaz from from John F. Kennedy High School in New York City.

The Howard College coach also inked Joel Chimelis from Eastern High School in Brooklyn, New York and Ernesto Castro of Jay High School in Union, City New Jersey.

Curry sporting cast for injured finger

FORT WORTH (AP) — World champion Donald Curry is now sporting a fiberglass cast instead of a splint on his right hand that was fractured during his six-round junior middleweight victory over Juan Pablo Baez June 22.

Curry fractured the metacarpal bone behind the knuckle of the index finger during the fight-closing flurry against Baez. Because the swelling has abated, Dr. B.J. Wroten said he won't need another set of X-rays.

"The bone is not out of position," Wroten told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Tuesday. "But it will still more than likely take another three weeks in the cast."

Once the cast is off, Wroten said it would take Curry four to six weeks of exercising to strengthen the wrist and hand. And given that Curry likes to train six weeks before any fight, he probably won't enter the ring again until November.

The 'other' Niekro wins number 200

By The Associated Press
After reaching one plateau, Joe Niekro quickly set his sights on another.

"If we stay healthy, we should get the record," the Houston Astros' right-hander said after winning his 200th major league game Tuesday night with a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

With that barrier cleared, Niekro is now gunning for a combined record with his brother, Phil, of the New York Yankees. They are currently 39 victories behind the leading brother combination of Gaylord and Jim Perry, who racked up 529 victories between them.

In other National League action, Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati 3-0.

Niekro, 7-7, pitched seven innings and recorded his fourth straight victory in becoming the 84th pitcher in major league history to reach the 200-win plateau. With a 200-174 record, he also became the eighth active pitcher to reach the milestone.

NL Roundup

Dodgers 3, Reds 0
Fernando Valenzuela allowed just three hits in pitching Los Angeles over Cincinnati for his National League-leading fourth shutout of the season. Valenzuela, 8-8, struck out eight and walked two.

Pedro Guerrero had three hits and two RBIs as the Dodgers won their fourth straight game and broke a tie with the Reds for second place in the NL West.

Giants 8, Braves 3
Manny Trillo drove in two runs with a single and his first home run of the season and Jeff Leonard also knocked in two runs to power San Francisco over Atlanta.

Jim Gott, 4-5, allowed six hits and two runs over 6 2-3 innings before giving way to reliever Scott Garrelts, who was touched for an unearned run in the eighth before recording his sixth save. The Giants rapped out 13 hits, eight against loser Steve Bedrosian, 5-7, and took advantage of four Atlanta errors for only their third victory in 15 games.

Cardinals 4, Expos 0
John Tudor won his seventh consecutive game, allowing only three singles, and Willie McGee rapped four hits and stole two bases to lead St. Louis over Montreal.

Tudor, 8-7, went the distance for the fourth time this season, striking out six. He got all the offensive support he needed when the Cardinals took a 3-0 lead in the first inning off David Palmer, 6-7.

Mets 5, Pirates 4
Ron Darling and Roger McDowell combined on an eight-hitter and Ray Knight knocked in two runs as New York snapped a six-game losing streak, their longest of the season.

Darling, 7-2, gave up all eight Pittsburgh hits before needing relief help in the ninth from McDowell, who gained his fifth save after snuffing a Pirate rally. Larry McWilliams, 4-7, was the loser as he allowed four of the Mets' runs before giving way to a pinch hitter after six innings.

Phillies 11, Cubs 2
Glenn Wilson and Derrel Thomas hit home runs and Shane Rawley scattered eight hits in his first complete game since Sept. 17 as Philadelphia routed Chicago.

Wilson's homer, a three-run shot, highlighted a four-run first inning for the Phillies off Rick Sutcliffe, 7-7, last year's Cy Young Award winner. Wilson now has 55 RBIs — tied for third in the NL — on only 71 hits.

Hall of Fame pitchers EARLY WYNN (right) give some pitching instructions to fellow Hall of Famer WARREN SPANN during Monday's 4th Annual Cracker Jack Old Timers Baseball Classic. The National League won the game 7-3.

Brett really socks it to Oakland A's

By The Associated Press
George Brett hit two, three-run homers while leading the Kansas City Royals to a 10-1 win over the Oakland A's last night.

Charlie Leibrandt, who scattered six hits in eight innings for his seventh victory in 12 decisions, was far more impressed with Brett's hitting stroke than was the perennial American League All-Star third baseman.

Brett, who has three two-homer games this season but only 10 overall, had not homered since May 29.

AL Roundup

Yankees 5, Blue Jays 3
New York's Rickey Henderson hit the first pitch of the game over the right-field fence for his 10th homer and finished with three hits and two RBIs to support Ed Whitson's strong pitching against Toronto.

Whitson, 4-6, allowed only three hits in eight innings.

Don Baylor added a solo homer and a sacrifice fly to help the Yankees build a 5-1 lead. An RBI single by Willie Upshaw and a run-scoring double by George Bell, who homered earlier, got the Blue Jays close in the ninth, but some poor baserunning ruined their chance to pull even.

Orioles 5, Tigers 4
Baltimore, after surrendering a grand-slam homer to Darrell Evans in the first, came back with four homers, including Mike Young's game-winner in the bottom of the 10th inning, to beat Detroit.

Young's homer and another solo shot — by Cal Ripken with two outs in the ninth and the Orioles trailing

4-3 — came against 1984 Cy Young Award winner Willie Hernandez, 4-4.

Angels 7, Rangers 2
A two-run double by Reggie Jackson and a two-run homer by Rob Wilfong highlighted California's five-run first inning that lifted the Angels over Texas.

Jackson also had a run-scoring double as the Angels pulled ahead 7-0 in the second. Kirk McCaskill scattered eight hits, walked four and struck out three in eight innings to earn the win.

Twins 8, Indians 7
Greg Gagne had three hits and keyed a four-run Minnesota seventh inning with a tie-breaking double against Cleveland.

The Twins rapped Cleveland reliever Tom Waddell, 2-5, for four hits in the seventh to overcome a 7-4 deficit.

White Sox 12, Mariners 4
Ozzie Guillen highlighted a five-run fourth inning with a bases-loaded triple and Harold Baines had five RBIs, including a grand-slam homer, as Chicago ended a six-game losing streak with a rout of Seattle.

A bases-loaded walk to Tom Paciorek and a passed ball gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead in the fourth before Guillen's bases-clearing triple down the first-base line.

Brewers 4, Red Sox 3
Ted Simmons' sacrifice fly in the 10th inning lifted Milwaukee over Boston.

The Red Sox, who have lost four straight games and 11 of their last 14, were one out away from victory before Charlie Moore's double in the bottom of the ninth tied the score.

Weller is looking for people who are convinced they're drinking the best bourbon money can buy.

To start with, we respect your choice. You're probably drinking a very fine whiskey. That's exactly why we want you to try Weller.

Pour some Weller and add a splash of water. Then taste our 130 years of experience and our "whisper of wheat" formula. That's what makes Weller and Water wonderful.

We're very sure of our bourbon. That's why we're talking to people who are sure they're already drinking the best bourbon money can buy.

Just keep an open mind before you open a bottle of Weller.

City rallies to keep Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — City officials and corporate leaders, leading a battle to save the troubled Pittsburgh Pirates, told team President Dan Galbreath that a plan to buy the team could come within several weeks.

Mayor Richard Caliguiri said Galbreath was "quite pleased to see we have already had this meeting and that we will be going forward over the next few weeks to try to come to some conclusion."

Caliguiri met Tuesday morning with Westinghouse Electric Corp. Chairman Douglas D. Danforth, U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman David

M. Roderick and Allegheny County Commission Chairman Thomas Foerster to discuss efforts to find a buyer who would honor the Pirates' lease to play in Three Rivers Stadium through 2011.

"What Mr. Galbreath was looking for was a sign of interest, some recognition that we are serious about this. He received both of those," Caliguiri said.

"We have identified people that will be working over the next couple of weeks to look at all the possibilities and come back to the four of us with some alternatives so we can eventually make a decision and put an offer before Dan Galbreath," Caliguiri said.

But Galbreath said he can't wait "week by week" for a local buyer. After a decade of financial losses due to poor attendance at Pirate home games, Galbreath is eager to sell the National League team and has dropped a previous condition that the buyer keep the team in Pittsburgh.

CITY OF BIG SPRING
PUBLIC WORKS DIVISION
PUBLIC NOTICE
IN COMPLIANCE WITH THE MAXIMUM CONTAMINANT LEVELS FOR TRIHALOMETHANES

The City of Big Spring is required under the Safe Drinking Water Act to reduce the maximum contaminant levels for trihalomethanes below the 100 micrograms per liter limit. In order to comply with this public law the City of Big Spring will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant in the treatment process, and to maintain a residual throughout the distribution system. The combination of chlorine with ammonia does not allow the chlorine to alternately combine with the naturally occurring organic acids to form trihalomethanes. Thus, the system will be able to be in compliance with the maximum contaminant levels for trihalomethanes.

The change from the previous routine of water treatment to the use of Chloramines at the treatment plant can cause serious problems to persons dependent on dialysis machines then Carbon Filters are not employed to prepare for the dialyzer. A condition known as Hemolyticemia can occur. Therefore, the general public is hereby placed on notice that on July 15, 1985, the water treatment process within the City of Big Spring water system will convert to the use of Chloramines as a disinfectant. Dialysis patients may be affected by this change, therefore, it is imperative that the pre-treatment scheme used for dialysis units provides some means such as charcoal filters for the removal of the chlorinating (disinfecting) agent. In addition, the use of Chloramines for disinfecting the potable water system will require different pre-treatment prior to being utilized in aquariums and other uses where the disinfectant agent would prove a hazard to the proposed use. Anyone having any questions with respect to this process, are urged to contact the Director of Public Works or the Big Spring Health Department.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day brings some unique and odd conditions with which it will be necessary for you to deal in a guarded fashion, but the afternoon and evening bring interesting plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) One you know could try to pull a fast one in the morning, so be on your guard. Later be with good friends and relax.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The morning is not good for trying to impress others, but later it is easy to do so wisely. Handle credit matters carefully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Early makes fine arrangements for your advancement so that later all works like a charm for you. Be careful with a newcomer.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Be careful in handling a rather strange business matter so that it works to your benefit. Think positively.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be more careful in handling arrangements with a partner since rushing matters could prove dangerous. Watch out for a tricky person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may start your work somewhat unevenly today, but later you can gain much by serious application to it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may receive several invitations for pleasure today, so choose the one you like the most. Bring along your loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't get upset over some situation at your home since it will rectify itself very quickly. Plan for an evening out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Think some situation over very carefully and by evening you can come to the right decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Finances should be on your mind today, but don't fall for some scheme that could cause you a big loss.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Important that you are more serious during the daytime, but tonight you can show joie de vivre and be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to think carefully if you want to make a new plan for the future that will be workable. Drive carefully today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be a human dynamo and should have all the excess energy channeled in the right directions so that the most can be made of the wonderful potentials here, which increase as the years roll by. A born genius here.

City may charge residents to park by homes

ROCHELLE PARK, N.J. (AP) — So many cars are jammed into this small, crowded northern New Jersey town that officials are considering charging residents $35 a year to park outside their homes.
 "They have to find out if it's legal to charge someone to park on a public street," town Clerk Irene McDermott said Tuesday. "It's only in the talking stage."
 She said the five-member Rochelle Park Township Committee will consider the parking fee as a change in the zoning law at its Aug. 5 meeting.

Officials say the increasing number of four-car families with two-car driveways prompted consideration of the fee. Parking is banned on Rochelle Park streets between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m., and families with a number of cars jam the vehicles onto their lawns and driveways.
 The township gets about five requests a year to widen driveways, and most variances are granted. But planning officials urged the township to consider the fee instead.
 Mrs. McDermott said the fee is not an attempt to profit from parking problems, but rather to allow overnight street parking, but keep it in check.

 "They just don't want cars on the street," she said, noting that autos parked on the narrow streets could make it difficult to maneuver emergency vehicles through the one-square-mile town.
 Township Attorney Jay Atkins said he was studying the legality of charging to park on a public street as well as linking street parking to residency.

How does her garden grow?

Squash, anyone?
 Theresa Sundry, 28, of 3603 Hamilton has more than enough in her backyard garden, which might be more aptly named, "Land of the Giants."

Sundry grew giant-sized zucchinis this year — one 15 inches long, all at least "hand to elbow size" — with a little help from the heavy spring rains.

The rain, a little fertilizer and "something to keep the bugs off" were all she added to her five plants to produce a bumper crop.

"You can cut them like cucumbers, either small or big," Sundry said. "I just let them grow."

Sundry, who works at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said she took some of the squash to work. "They told me it was good," she said.

Although the zucchinis are large, they have not become "seedy," she said.

"Someone asked me why they were special," Sundry said. "You have to grow them big and show them to someone for them to be special."

 She also grows tomatoes and carrots, but these are the first giant-sized vegetables she has ever produced, Sundry said.

Two named to honor list

Two Howard County persons were named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the 1985 spring semester at Abilene Christian University.
 Those students were Leslye De Overman, daughter of Mrs. Jane Overman of 2719 Larry Drive and Thomas Andrew Spell, son of Tom Spell of Coahoma.

Charlie the Tuna: myth of an icon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — What will people a century from now think of the society that created the Jolly Green Giant, Chiquita Banana and Charlie the Tuna?

"The characters are icons of our modern culture," says Ellen Weis, 28, director of the Museum of Modern Mythology. She and two other graphic artists have preserved those characters and thousands of other aging ad stars in a third-floor warehouse loft.

"Their familiar stories are little allegories, modern morality plays. People will look at them a hundred years from now and be able to tell a lot about us," she said.

This week, the Doggie Diner symbol, a 10-foot, 500-pound replica of a dog's head that represented a local holdog chain, joined the collection.

"The Doggie head is a classic of outside advertising in the early '60s," said Ms. Weis of the hypothyroid hound. "You just don't see that now. For one thing, city ordinances no longer allow advertising on that scale."

There are more than 3,000 dolls, cereal boxes, statuettes and posters at the non-profit museum, including an 8-foot Jolly Green Giant and Speedy Alka-Seltzer, the little tyke who wore a headache tablet for a hat.
