White lauds Stacy Dam project

Governor calls for support of state water plan

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Gov. Mark White Wednesday night said Stacy Dam was only the beginning of water relief for West Texas.

He and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, keynote speakers at a dinner celebrating a compromise clearing the way for construction of the dam after seven years, pushed support of a statewide water package in the midst of celebrations for Stacy Dam.

White praised the Stacy Dam project, labeling it "the largest reservoir project in West Texas in 25 years," and said it had the potential to become one of the greatest economic forces in the area.

"But I must remind you, we're not through yet," he said. The water package, which will be voted on in a statewide election Nov. 5th, will benefit the whole state, not just West Texas.

"We have to make certain the people in Houston know this is not just a West Texas problem. We have to make certain Galveston and Corpus Christi know they are going to benefit from the project," White said.

"We can never run out of water, not for a single day. Corpus Christi knows," he said, referring to the drought the Gulf

Gov. Mark White strikes several poses during his speech Wednesday night at the Big Spring Country Club. White praised Stacy Dam, promoted the state water plan and supported a state Supreme Court decision upholding "no pass, no play."

Coast city went through last year.

During a reception prior to the dinner, White said the water package would pass this time because it was a "better package and had stronger statewide support."

The water plan, he said in his speech, was part of the "promise and hope" with which the 21st century would be "ushered in ... for millions of Texans, the same promise and hope with which another century was ushered in for another generation."

And he stressed that West Texans should feel proud that Corpus Christi was selected as the home port for U.S.S. Wisconsin, saying their tax dollars also went into the incentives the state offered to get the port.

White also commended the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which is building the dam and hosted last night's dinner, and the Lower Colorado River Authority for compromising to build the project. The authority had blocked a state water permit and construction of Stacy for more than seven years.

Authority officials were present at the dinner.

"The district and the authority working together — oh! what a happy day," White said. "I'm not too certain that if things keep going this way, there won't be peace in the Middle East."

White, Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis — called by the district's board chairman John Taylor "a powerful triumvirate" — were instrumental in forging a compromise between the two groups. White joked that they got into a room and prayed together.

White also praised Lewis' efforts in the Stacy Dam compromise. "I also discovered in my education of the Legislature that if it doesn't pass both houses, it doesn't count."

Commenting on Wednesday's state Supreme Court's decision in the no pass, no play case, White said: "You have to quit running the ball four downs in a row. You've got to pass the ball or you won't get to play."

Texans, he said, should be trained so they can participate in flying and maintaining the B1-B bomber squadron that will be based in Abilene. "We need to make certain Texans are the best trained, best-educated people in this country so we don't have to worry where do we go without oil and gas."

"We shouldn't lower our standards, we should raise them. ... A coach in track doesn't lower the bar so everyone can jump over it. That's not life," White said. "He raises it so a little higher than you think you can reach."

During a reception with the Howard County Democratic Club, Hobby said he agreed with the court's decision, but didn't know what the issue was doing before the court. "It's

Mexico announces drop in oil prices

From staff and wire reports Mexico, the United States' biggest foreign oil supplier, has sharply reduced its crude oil prices in reaction to OPEC's failure to shore up sagging oil prices worldwide.

The cut by as much as $1.24 a barrel, announced Wednesday night, is expected to put further pressure on an already saturated world oil market. Saudi Arabia reportedly threatened this week to quadruple its production if other OPEC countries insist on undercutting each other's prices.

It was not immediately clear exactly what the impact of the Mexican move on prices at the gas pump would be.

Permian Basin Petroleum Association executive vice president Ed Thomsson said the Mexican oil price cutback should have some effect on West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude prices.

"We don't anticipate any sharp price decreases for WTI oil but it should drop some, reflecting the world-wide pricing decreases," he said. "The latest price cuts were not that unexpected. PEMEX was just getting their oil prices in line with the rest of the world."

West Texas Intermediate crude serves as a benchmark for all domestic oil sales.

"Even though prices may still rise because of other reasons — for example, summer demand for gasoline is higher than winter is — still, this could help American consumers from paying as high a price as they otherwise would have," said Tribby Lundberg, editor of the oil industry publication Lundberg Letter.

Mike Russell, of Wright Oil in Big Spring, said he didn't feel that the Mexican price cuts would affect the price at the pump much locally.

The price will drop 2 or 3 cents at the pump in a month naturally, but the majority of the savings will be absorbed by the major oil companies who are refining the crude," he said.

David Petty, an independent consultant from Victoria in South Texas, predicted that the cuts would not affect the price at the pump very much.

"Last year when the price per barrel dropped from $35 to $28 per barrel, gasoline price didn't drop

Committee OKs cloud-seeding funds

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Cloud-seeding operations are on target for the Big Spring area if action taken by the U.S. House Appropriations Committee Wednesday gains final congressional approval by Sept. 30. Owen Ivie, executive director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring, said news of the committee making a $600,000 appropriation for the weather modification and testing program was received gladly in his office.

U.S. Rep. Tom Leffler, R-Hunt, made the proposal for the federal funds for a joint Big Spring-San Angelo rain enhancement program. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, worked to get the appropriation for the Atmospheric Water Resources Management Program, as it is titled, with Leffler.

A spokesman from Stenholm's office said the amount appropriated was not as much as the two Congressmen had wanted, but it will be enough to operate the project.

Leffler and Stenholm are now working to build support for the program in the Senate through Texas Sens. Phil Gramm and Lloyd Benson, the spokesman said.

The appropriation will be administered through the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and will provide the funding for the first year of the program, which is projected to run for five years, Ivie said.

Funds for a similar program were curtailed with President Ronald Reagan's budget cuts in 1981, he said.

The program will involve the Texas Department of Water Resources, possibly the city of San Angelo and the water district, Ivie said.

If the appropriation is approved by Congress, the funds program will be matched by the involved parties with equipment and personnel, Ivie said.

"It's believed that we can increase rainfall by as much as 10 to 20 percent" with the cloud-seeding, Ivie said.

The object of the program will be to "scientifically prove that weather modification can be positive," he said.

Reform or revolt?

Tax plan will have adverse affect on real estate industry

EDITOR'S NOTE — Many analysts are predicting that President Reagan's will adversely affect the real estate industry. Part IV of a five-part series looks at the reasons behind the negative predictions.

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's tax overhaul would eliminate several incentives for investing in either residential or commercial property, and likely will trigger a slowdown in construction accompanied by a substantial increase in rents, private and government analysts say.

Though it would retain America's favorite tax break — the mortgage interest deduction for individual homeowners — the value of that writeoff likely would diminish for most because they'll find themselves in a lower overall tax bracket.

Many families no longer would be able to claim much, if any, mortgage interest on a second, or "vacation" home. Only the principal residence would automatically qualify, while there would be an overall cap of $5,000 for interest paid for any other purpose, such as cars, credit cards or personal loans.

Moreover, the plan would scuttle the deductions for property taxes. For those living in areas with relatively high property taxes, that alone means the cost of owning a home could rise by hundreds of dollars a year, if not more. For older Americans who have paid off most or all of their mortgage, that could mean losing their biggest tax deduction. And the cash resale value of homes would be limited by that extra burden.

Though many analysts believe that the values of both homes and commercial property will decline under the Reagan plan, they foresee a major increase in rents as owners scramble to recover from their tenants the money lost under the new tax structure.

would eliminate another major incentive for property investors — the special low tax rates on capital gains, or the resale of property. Though the maximum capital gains rate on other types of investments would actually be lowered from 20 percent to 17.5 percent, property owners would have to pay the full, regular tax rates on their profits, after adjustments for inflation. That, too, could mean more pressure on tenants as landlords lower their long-term expectations for resale of their properties.

Under current law, for example, a person who buys a $100,000 rental property and sells it later for $150,000 would be able to pocket at least $40,000 of the $50,000 profit. The after-tax figure could drop to as low as $32,500 under the Reagan plan.

Investors also would be hit by longer depreciation schedules mandated by the Reagan proposal. Current law allows low-income housing to be depreciated over 15 years and other structures over 18 years. The new plan effectively would require depreciation over 28 years for all buildings.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, told Treasury Secretary James A. Baker at a Senate hearing that "over a period of four or five years, you're going to have a very substantial increase in rents. A person might be saving $200 in taxes, but find himself paying another $500 to $600 in rents."

Baker conceded, "I suppose it's a possibility that there will be some modest increase in rentals. But I don't think that, on balance, whatever we see there is going to outweigh the benefits to the middle class."

Government and industry experts have yet to offer specific estimates of just what the plan would and wouldn't do to property values, rents, and the pace of construction. But there is general agreement that all three would be adversely affected, at least for several years.

The administration's own real estate economists at the Housing

Department have said the program will boost rent levels — exclusive of inflation — by 20 percent over seven years. Industry groups have taken a more dire view, with some estimates ranging to three times that amount.

"If the property investor wants to maintain his yield," said Steven A. Wechsler, general counsel of the National Realty Committee, "he will have to increase his cash flow. And the only way to do that is to increase rents."

"Values will dip, and in some cases considerably," he said. "There will be a substantial reduction in new construction. It will be a particularly severe blow to multifamily units."

Wechsler and others say the tax plan could produce a major shift in who owns residential and commercial property. "Anybody will have a more difficult time entering the business," he said. "You'll have to have deeper pockets."

"Real estate has traditionally been a local business," he noted. "But you'll see more sales to the tax-exempt sector, especially pension funds, along with foreign investors, banks and insurance companies."

Tom Robinson, an attorney with the National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts, agreed that such groups "easily could be the big players in the future," rather than individual landlords.

"After all," he said, "we'll not be repealing the law of supply and demand. Presumably rents will return to the level of profitability to attract investors," but even so "certainly some people think property will be most attractive to the non-taxable" sector.

Jeffrey Applegate, political economist for E.F. Hutton & Co., said "the Reagan proposal is more favorable toward financial assets and less favorable toward non-financial ones, especially real estate" and will "significantly reverse the post-1981 proliferation of tax shelters, many of which were real-estate based."

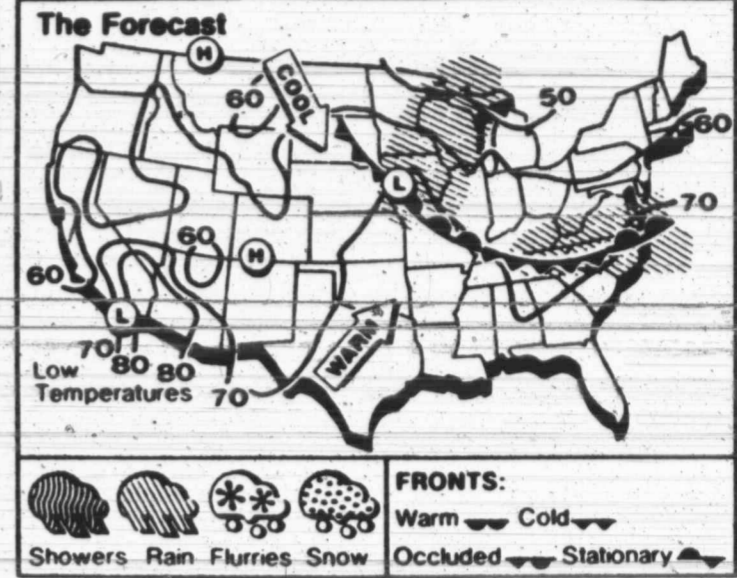

According to the National Association of Realtors, the Reagan plan would hit especially hard the people who own second homes for both rental and vacation purposes. Under current law, an owner who occupies, say, a beach house for 14 days or fewer each year and offers it for rent the rest of the year can take unlimited deductions for interest expenses, property taxes, maintenance costs and full depreciation. That's true even if the unit goes unrented most of the time.

Under the president's proposal, if an owner occupies the second home as little as one day, he can claim such deductions only for the days he actually had a paying renter. The NAR estimated that "overall the tax plan would raise the after-tax cost of owning a second home by 25 percent. The resulting decline in demand likely would cause a 20 percent reduction in values."

Another feature of Reagan's plan would eliminate tax credits ranging from 15 percent to 25 percent for renovating older buildings, particularly historic structures. Oppenheimer Properties, Inc., says the 25 percent credit was the key to its $135 million rescue of the turreted, 91-year-old St. Louis railroad station. The revamped facility, featuring a 550-room hotel and 160,000 square feet of retail space, is due to open in August.

According to the National Trust for Historic Preservation, spending on historic structures has totaled $5.4 billion since 1981. NEXT: Oil and Gas

Police Beat

1 arrested on assault charge

Someone Tuesday attempted to burn a 1980 beige AMC Jeep CJ-5 in front of 2900 Melrose, Toni Hamby told police.

According to the police report, the Jeep was rolled away from the carport, lines and hoses were pulled from the engine, and gasoline was sprayed next to the vehicle in an attempt to burn the vehicle.

Police Wednesday night arrested Douglas Bailey, 17, of 1508 Bluebird at his home on a warrant for aggravated sexual assault.

The warrant was issued in connection with the aggravated sexual assault Monday evening of a juvenile girl on the west side of the city, according to Capt. Lonnie Smith.

Bailey was later released on a $15,000 bond. He was transferred Wednesday to the sheriff's office from the police department.

Janice Creel, an employee of the Sears store at 403 Runnels, told police someone broke into her green 1976 Ford pickup truck between 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Taken were a power motor for a tailgate lift, valued at $500; and a Citizens Band radio, valued at $75.

Anita Lemon of 104 N.W. Fourth told police someone she knows stole $400 in cash from her in the last two weeks.

Paul Bishop of 1018 Ridge Road told police someone stole an evaporative water cooler from 1511 11th Place six weeks ago. The cooler is valued at $200.

Gerald Yarbrough of Forsan told police someone damaged the windshield on his 1978 Ford pickup truck at 9:20 p.m. Wednesday on S. Highway 87 and Hearn.

Mike Friend of the Mid-Continental Inn told police someone stole a radar detector from his black 1980 Chevrolet pickup between 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and midnight today, while his car was at Mitchem's Auto Garage. The radar detector is valued at $200.

J.R. Herring of 608 11th Place told police someone threatened his daughter at 11 p.m. Wednesday by attempting to set his Doberman Pinscher on her.

Man injured in truck rollover

A 36-year-old Big Spring man was injured Wednesday night when his tractor-trailer and flatbed trailer overturned.

Juan Renteria, 36, of 1305 Colby was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to the hospital spokesman.

The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m. at the intersection of W. FM 700 and W. Highway 80, according to police reports.

Renteria was driving a 1979 white International vacuum-tank tractor-trailer and towing a 1981 red Aztec platform flatbed.

He was traveling east on W. Highway 80, about to make a right turn onto FM 700, at a speed greater than what he could control with the type of load he was carrying, the report stated.

The load shifted, causing the vehicles to lean to the left; they then rolled over and rested on their left side. Police measured 128 feet of skid marks from where Renteria began losing control of the vehicles to the rear of the towed trailer, according to the report.

2 women injured in collision

Two women were injured shortly before noon today in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of 14th and Gregg streets, according to police. According to patrolman Richard Lopez, a tan Plymouth traveling north on Gregg Street spun completely around and collided with a Dodge pickup traveling south on Gregg.

The Plymouth spun when its driver slammed on the brakes to avoid striking a white Cadillac traveling west through the intersection on 14th Street, Lopez said at the scene.

Injured were the wife of the pickup truck driver, who was riding as a passenger, and the driver of the Plymouth. They were taken in separate ambulances to Malone-Hogan Hospital.

According to Lopez, the two women appeared to have neck and back injuries.

Oil

Continued from page 1-A sharply because refining costs stayed the same. Even a $2 dollar cut per barrel that we are seeing now probably won't effect the price a the pump more than a nickel.

"The big price cuts are coming in the heavy crude market, which is much more expensive to refine, so the consumer doesn't benefit that much. But we could see substantial savings at the pump if the lighter grade crudes prices continue to fall."

Drilling in the Permian Basin, which has levelled off considerably since talks began on dropping tax incentives for domestic drilling, has been slow but stable.

"People in West Texas are taking wait and see attitude right now. It's such a touch and go situation with the OPEC pricing and the tax proposals, but a lot of people may have to start drilling in the next three months because we are not replacing our reserves," Thompson said.

"Outside investors are not going to put any money in drilling right now because they don't know what tax rules their going to be playing by," said Petty. "They may wait until the end of the year to start drilling or maybe not at all depending on the price changes and the outcome of the tax proposals."

In Vienna, Austria, an spokesman at the OPEC secretariat declined to comment on the price changes.

Mexico, the world's fourth largest oil producer and exporter, is not a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries but had followed the cartel's pricing policies until several months ago.

The announcement implied that after the 13-member OPEC failed at a meeting in Vienna, Austria, this week to agree on defending oil prices, Mexico was now acting on its own.

On Saturday, Mexican Oil Minister Francisco Labastida Ochoa said Mexico would have to "fully defend its national interests" if OPEC did not reach an accord on prices. He did not specify, but analysts said at the time it was clear that he meant Mexico would reduce its prices.

Financial analyst Nicky Peck said in Hong Kong that the cut had been expected since the OPEC meeting.

In addition to cutting the price of crude by as much as $1.24 a barrel, the Department of Energy announced a new pricing system that discriminates among geographical areas.

It said Mexico hoped that would help it regain its markets, which have been shrinking because of competition through "irregular commercial practices such as discounts, barter deals and processing agreements" by both OPEC and non-OPEC members.

The announcement promised that Mexico would not exceed its export ceiling of 1.5 million barrels a day so as not to aggravate the world surplus.

Stacy party was truly 'happy day'

The guest list read like a Who's Who for West Texas. From the chief executive of the State of Texas on down, the Stacy Dam and Reservoir Appreciation Party was packed with broad representation from Austin and from this region of the state.

For Gov. Mark White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, the dinner Wednesday at Big Spring Country Club was an opportunity to commend the work of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in seeing the West Texas water project through to reality. It was also a chance for them to talk up the statewide water plan scheduled for a public vote in November.

Present at the dinner were city officials from San Angelo, Snyder, Midland and Odessa, and smaller towns like Ballinger which will have the lake in its backyard.

State Rep. John Montford of Lubbock was there along with half a dozen colleagues from the Texas Legislature. State water agency officials also made the trip from Austin. And of course Big Spring, home base for the water district which will build the mammoth dam on the Colorado River, was represented.

The water district-hosted party boasted not only the state's big guns in White and Hobby, but some curious alliances as well. The Lower Colorado River Authority sent representatives, for example. It was the LCRA which protested so vigorously the permit application for Stacy.

Last night, all that turmoil was behind both water agencies. Even White, marveled at the new-found harmony. "The District" and the "the Authority" are here together, he said. "Oh, what a happy day." Indeed it is.

Reagan judges' rulings end in harassment of the press

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The media is under constant pressure to suppress stories for a variety of causes that, supposedly, would serve the public interest better than publication of the truth.

Americans may have thought this issue was settled by our founding fathers, who set in cement the people's right to the truth. But an erosion has taken place lately, caused by court rulings that encourage libel suits and puncture holes in the First Amendment.

It is no longer possible for the press to expose criminal conspiracies, political scandals and government wrongdoing without risking costly, protracted libel litigation. A recent appeals-court ruling held that the mere publication of "hard-hitting investigative stories" is evidence of malice.

The judges, of course, are products of the political system. Some would prefer docile publications that extol rather than expose public officials. Their rulings are forcing news organizations to spend years defending themselves against flimsy libel suits that used to be routinely dismissed.

Criminal societies, violent cults, subversive organizations and other predatory groups have been quick to take advantage of these rulings. They are now using the libel laws to silence media critics, stifle critical inquiry and block investigations.

Leading the attack on the press is a former University of Chicago law professor, Antonin Scalia, whose anti-press views found favor inside the Reagan administration. He was appointed to the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and, according to news reports, is now lobbying for the next Supreme Court vacancy.

William Safire, a columnist and himself a conservative, has described Scalia as "the darling of the secrecy-and-libel set" and "the worst enemy of free speech in America today."

We already have run afoul of Scalia, who ruled against us in a libel suit brought by a powerful publishing consortium. The judge didn't challenge our reports that the consortium is spreading neo-Nazi ideology, including a book dedicated to Adolf Hitler. Scalia ruled that the group, no matter how odious its politics and practices, is entitled to its day in court.

The case has now been accepted by the Supreme Court, which will determine the constitutional issue: the right of everyone to a trial vs. the right of the press to freedom from legal harassment.

Meanwhile, the cost of telling the truth has become prohibitive. Small news organizations simply can't afford the high cost of defending libel suits. A California weekly was hit with six suits, totaling more than $1 billion. Five were dropped, the sixth is on its last legs. Yet the legal bills would have put the paper out of business if a San Francisco law firm had not offered pro bono service.

A Kentucky weekly was sued seven times. Five suits were dropped; one was dismissed; the paper won the only suit that went to trial. But the legal expenses have just about wrecked the paper.

Newspapers lose even when they win; they must still pay the legal fees, which account for 80 percent of all libel costs. To avoid these staggering costs, many publications and radio-TV stations will no longer oppose the bad guys.

This may be a victory for the Scalias of this world, but it is a defeat for America. If the bad guys go unpunished and unchallenged, they will gain strength.

BARGAIN OF THE WEEK: Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock, threw a party for 300 with no budget beyond a $1,000 cash contribution, according to the Air Force. Yet the event included an Air Force band flown in from Louisiana, a parade of antique and modern aircraft, a 10-foot concrete map of Texas, fresh paint for the reviewing stand and a four-star dinner for all hands. How did they do it? Most of the money was made the old-fashioned way: The partygoers paid $18 per plate for the chow. And the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce provided a big chunk of the materials and labor.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI: The Democrats, far from surrendering to the national arena to the Republicans, have just begun to fight. But as usual, they're fighting themselves. The latest occasion for internecine bickering is the $1,000-a-plate Washington gala in October. Sentimentalists want to give proper respect to ex-president Jimmy Carter and his vice president, Walter Mondale. Hard-eyed realists want to ignore the 1980 and 1984 losers and concentrate instead on potential 1988 presidential candidates. Interestingly, no one seems to care one way or the other about the party's 1972 candidate, former Sen. George McGovern.

WOMEN'S GROWING ROLE: The International Fund for Agricultural Development believes it has the key to prevention of future famines in Africa: educate the women. Because African men are leaving the farm by the thousands to seek jobs in the cities, women are assuming an increasing responsibility for growing and harvesting food crops, according to the fund's director for Africa, Bahman Mansuri. So the organization has developed programs to help women perform their new role more efficiently, and also is giving women financial aid for farming and marketing food products. Ninety percent of Africa's food processing already is handled by women.

WATCH ON WASTE: The government spends about $3.5 million a day on our inland waterways. Yet the businesses that use these waterways pay a total of only $100,000 a day.

Double-dip taxes a must in reform

To lower tax rates, as President Reagan wants, you have to broaden the tax base. That means closing some loopholes through which a lot of income now escapes federal taxation.

Of the dozens of deductions eliminated in Reagan's reform plan, only one involves a large amount of money — that for some state and local taxes.

Not coincidentally, it's the most controversial provision. Thanks to bitter resistance from states with high taxes, its chances of survival are doubtful. But without it, Reagan's proposal for individual income taxes adds up to mere pocket change. Unless Congress scrubs this deduction, there will be no tax reform worthy of the name.

One reason is money. Repealing this deduction, which covers property, income and general sales taxes, would bring in an additional $33 billion next year and $40 billion by 1990. That pays for roughly two-thirds of the reduction in marginal tax rates. Finding comparable revenues elsewhere would require imagination and heroism unknown on Capitol Hill.

There are other grounds to be rid of this deduction. It is of no use whatever to the two-thirds of all taxpayers who don't itemize, who are concentrated in the lower income brackets. Most of its benefits go to the affluent — and the more affluent the taxpayer, the more it's worth.

Consider three taxpayers, each of whom buys a car carrying a sales tax of $500. Taxpayer A doesn't itemize, so it costs him a full $500. Taxpayer B, in a 30 percent tax bracket, does itemize. He, too, pays $500, but the reduction in his federal taxes cuts his net cost to $350. Itemizing Taxpayer C is in a 50 percent bracket, so his real expense is only $250.

The result of this loophole is that the non-itemizing taxpayer, who is more likely to be poor, pays double the amount paid by the itemizer, who is more likely to be well-to-do. In the same way, proportional or even progressive state taxes are transformed into regressive ones.

Not only wealthy individuals but wealthy communities benefit. If Shaker Heights levies a property tax increase to pay for a new swimming pool for the public high school, the federal government will end up picking up close to half the bill, due to lost tax revenues. Chicago taxpayers, poorer and less likely to itemize, pay a much bigger share of the cost of the city's obligations.

The arguments against the change have more to do with self-interest than principle. One is that it is deeply unjust to be taxed on the same income twice — once by the state and once by Washington. But a lot of income already is taxed twice. Social Security taxes may not be deducted from gross income for income tax purposes. Nor may most state and local taxes — gasoline and liquor taxes, among others, don't qualify.

Anyway, state governments are in a weak position to make this argument. Most of those with income taxes — including New York, whose governor has been the loudest complainer — don't allow federal taxes to be deducted in computing state income tax liabilities.

Other critics protest that states with heavy tax burdens, like New York, will have to reduce aid to the poor if their residents have to pay the full cost of their taxes. But the annual cost to a typical New York family of four earning $35,000 a year would be just $131. If this fear-some burden mandates lower state government spending, there is no shortage of dispensable middle-class subsidies. The constraints are political, not budgetary.

If the states warrant help in paying for welfare programs, it makes much more sense for the federal government to provide it directly. The administration says that for every dollar Washington loses from this deduction, the states get less than 50 cents. That's not a winning formula for the poor.

Nor is it a sensible way to finance the federal government. Any progress toward revamping the tax code for simplicity, fairness and economic vitality has to start with this deduction. A vote to keep it is a vote for the awful status quo.

Un viaje para Mexico

Por LUIS RIOS

Ya me andaba perdiendo en el mundo de Mexico.

Hace mas de las dos semanas que andaba yo en vacaciones y por eso no se encontraba este articulo. No, todavia no me corren de aqui. Haceran el esfuerzo, pero yo me quedare.

Esas vacaciones me las pase en el maravilloso sol y playas de Acapulco y en la gran ciudad de Guadalajara. Fui a conocer esta pais; este pais de tan gran belleza y caracter.

Pero despues de mi viaje, regrese con algo mucho mas bonito. Regrese con un poco de entendimiento de los mexicanos, sus maneras y su modo de vivir en este pais. Mexico es uno de gran riquezas pero tambien es un pais con gente mendiga y pobre.

Lo que aprendi fue que el modo de vivir de los mexicanos resulta de su cultura.

En Acapulco me fije que hay dos pueblos entre la ciudad — hay el lujoso Acapulco de los turistas. Este es el Acapulco vanidoso con sus gran hoteles, restaurantes y divertimientos.

Al entrar a Acapulco del aeropuerto internacional queda el Acapulco de los verdaderos mexicanos — el barrio de los pobres. Sus casitas caidas y rotas y los habitantes nomas viviendo por ese mismo dia.

Han sufrido una vida de pobreza y sus caras reflectan esos anos de tanto trabajar para mantener sus familias. Uno sabe que asi existe la mayoria de los mexicanos.

Tambien me pase para el pueblo de Autlan en el estado de Jalisco. Me dijo mi tio que yo era el unico americano en ese pueblo.

Aqui si mire como los mexicanos verdaderamente viven. Al amanecer, las mujeres hacen su viaje al mercado para comprar las provisiones para ese dia. Toda la comida se compra en el mercado y las tiendas que quedan en las esquinas de las cuadras.

Me dijo mi padre que cuando el vivia alli se vendia la leche, tortillas y comida por la calle. Y el modo de vivir no ha cambiado. Fijese todavia le llegan a su puerta de casa vendienole tamales, tortillas, leche o lo que quiere uno.

Tambien me dijo mi papa que Mexico era un pais muy pobre; que las calles eran de piedra y de tierra; y las casas eran de cemento emplastado.

Ya mas o menos esperaba eso cuando hice mi viaje. Pero lo que no esperaba era como la gente ha adaptado el modo de vivir en este pais de tanta pobreza y tan poca riqueza.

Perq como me dijo me abuelita — "Este es Mexico; el pais y lugar de tu padre."

Y yo se que eso es todo lo que importa.

Hobby: Good riddance to newest Republicans

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby of Houston Wednesday said "good riddance" to Democrats who switched political parties.
The defections, he said, strengthened his party. "The people who defected — their natural ideological home is the Republican Party. ... I have a few more names I'd like to add to the list."

Hobby, however, would not name names. In town for a dinner honoring public officials contributions to the Stacy Dam compromise, he and state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, told members of the Howard County Democratic Club they were proud to be Democrats.

"We don't belong to the same party whose president proposed a Constitutional Amendment for a balanced budget and then proposed in the same speech a $200 billion deficit," Hobby said. "We don't belong to the party whose outgoing governor proposed a $1 billion budget ... like Gov. (Bill) Clements."

Hobby praised the past Legislative session as one of the most productive, citing a proposed state water plan, indigent health care and a program to combat hunger. "All this was passed in a time of greatest fiscal stringency."

"The majority of senators (in the Legislature) are Democrats. We are interested in strong fiscal responsibility and at the same time, we are not losing sight of our compassion," Montford said.

"It'll be a cold day in hell before I switch," Montford said to applause.

Montford and Hobby also were stumping for a state water plan, which Montford sponsored. The package will go before the voters as two constitutional amendments in November.

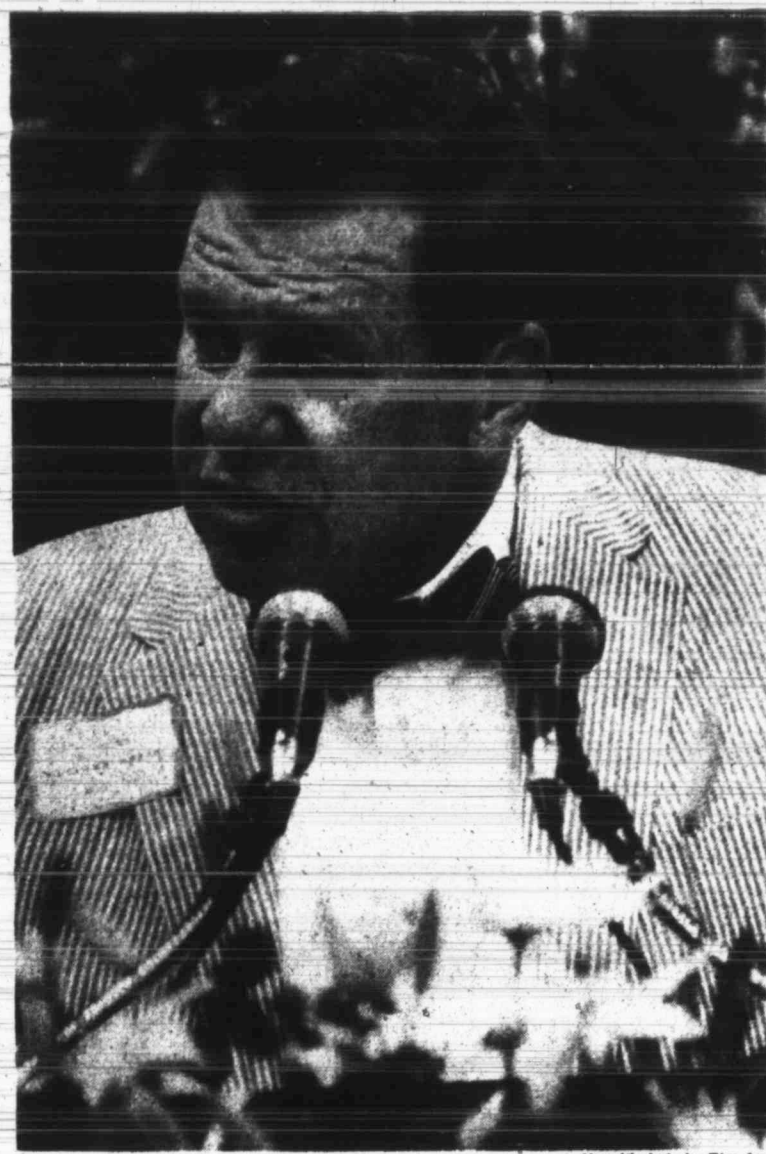

State water plans have failed three times in the last 25 years, including a recent attempt. But both men gave the package a high chance of becoming law because of its balance.

"It's fiscally sound. It addresses all types of water problems all over the state" including water shortages in West Texas, flooding in Houston and bay and estuary protection, Montford said.

Hobby called the proposal "the most complete undertaking any state ever attempted." Their optimism, he said, was based partly on the lack of opposition so far by the Sierra Club and the League of Women Voters, groups that have helped kill past packages.

"I don't presume to know that the Sierra Club won't oppose it. But they have indicated they will not," Hobby said. Their opposition, he said after the meeting, hinges on the appointee to a vacant spot on the Texas Water Commission.

"I'm sure Gov. White will appoint a good person to the commission," he said.

ridiculous." He and state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, who introduced Hobby, also had pushed for the water plan at the reception. Montford joked that the plan wasn't grandiose — "We're not melting the polar ice caps and floating them down to Texas."

"It doesn't even pump the Mississippi dry," Hobby joked. Taylor, who introduced White and served as the master of ceremonies, said he thought West Texas would support the water package. "... I thought Alf Landon, Thomas Dewey and Bill Clements would win their elections, but I do believe that come November, West Texas will overwhelmingly vote for the statewide plan."

Taylor presented both White and Hobby with carved wooden windmills, the district's symbols, in appreciation for their efforts in arriving at the Stacy Dam compromise. They were designed by Bill Brooks.

Other legislators present were state Sens. Ray Farrabee, D-Wichita Falls; Grant Jones, D-Abilene; and Bill Sims, D-San Angelo; and state Reps. Kelly Godwin, R-Odessa; and Tom Craddock, R-Midland.

Officials were present from member cities Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder; potential member cities, Midland, San Angelo and Abilene; and Coleman and Ballinger, the nearest cities to the Stacy site.

4 in running for budget director post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis are the top candidates to succeed Budget Director David Stockman, according to White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan.

Two other administration officials are also in the running, Regan said in an interview with The Associated Press on Wednesday.

Regan said he wants to have someone in the Cabinet-level job before Stockman leaves Aug. 1, or at least to have a person designated and able to begin work while awaiting Senate confirmation.

"I know one thing," Regan said. "We won't be able to clone Dave Stockman. The man has been phenomenal."

The 38-year-old Stockman, architect of President Reagan's efforts to scale down the federal government, announced Tuesday he is leaving the administration after 4 1/2 years to join the New York investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers.

Discussing possible successors, Regan said, "We have a long list of candidates, as you might well imagine." He said the list is "headed by Mac Baldrige and Drew Lewis ... and a lot of people have suggested to me names like Jack

Commerce Sec. Malcolm Baldrige

Former Transportation Sec. Drew Lewis

Svahn, Jim Miller. They're all good people.

"We've just got to make up our minds — what type of (budget) director do we want, who best fills that job," said Regan.

Svahn is Regan's chief domestic policy adviser, Miller is chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and Lewis now is chief executive officer of Warner Amex Cable Communications, Inc.

As treasury secretary during Reagan's first term, Regan was said to have had differences with the brush budget director. In Regan's view, was Stockman too outspoken?

"Only initially, and after we settled our differences, we worked well together," Regan said.

The chief of staff said Stockman's departure would not hurt efforts to produce a House-

Senate compromise on a budget that can meet Reagan's goal of substantially reducing the federal deficit.

"If anything, it helps it because Dave will work faster to try to achieve (a compromise) before he leaves," Regan said. "But I think the elements of budget compromise have been pretty well put in place now."

Regan and congressional budget negotiators reached a preliminary agreement on the framework of a compromise to cut federal spending by at least $50 billion without raising taxes or freezing Social Security increases.

The White House says it now is up to House Democrats to come up with additional cuts in domestic programs to make up for the money that would have been produced by the Social Security freeze.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, expressed "serious, serious skepticism" whether the House could find enough spending cuts to satisfy the Senate.

However, a senior White House official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said an analysis by Stockman shows "there are ways to do it."

Soviet pilot killed in crash

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Soviet air force pilot was believed killed when his SU-15 jet fighter crashed in the Baltic Sea after pursuing a Swedish fighter plane monitoring a Warsaw Pact naval exercise, the Defense Staff reported today.

The incident occurred Sunday when a Swedish Air Force fighter approached a Warsaw Pact naval exercise in international waters southeast of the island of Gotland, Defense staff press officer Jan Tuninger said.

Tuninger told The Associated Press both the Swedish and the Soviet pilots were following routine procedures and a spokesman for Sweden's Foreign Ministry said that no diplomatic repercussions were expected.

"It was apparently an accident. It is not a diplomatic issue," said Jan Eliasson, head of the Foreign Ministry's political department. He said there had been no contacts between Sweden and the Soviet Union about the incident.

When the Swedish plane neared the naval exercise, two SU-15 fighters apparently were dispatched to identify the plane, as is common under international military routine, Tuninger said.

The Soviet fighters flew to the left and rear of the Swedish plane, also according to international rules, he said. The pursuing plane, flying at an altitude of only about 200 yards and a speed of about 360 miles per hour, suddenly crashed into the sea, he said.

The pilot failed to eject himself and presumably was killed, said Tuninger. He said Soviet ships quickly arrived to search for the pilot and did not request Swedish assistance.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO IMPLEMENT RATES
General Telephone Company of the Southwest in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas gives notice of its intent to implement new exchange access rates for the provision of shared tenant and tenant resale services.
These proposed rates are applicable to customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, excluding hotel/motel customers, who provide local exchange telephone service of General Telephone Company of the Southwest to their tenants or patrons on a resale or shared use basis. This resale or sharing arrangement is normally provided utilizing a customer-provided PBX or other similar stored control switch capable of common control processing or other features commonly associated with a PBX — "Smart" switch.
These proposed rates are designed to recover costs on a usage basis for local exchange telephone service access and are identical to General Telephone's "Optional Measured Service" rates. The monthly access rate will be $28.95 per trunk line and the usage rates are as follows:

Over	Up To and Including	Band	Set Up	Full Rate Period Each Minute
0	7 miles	A	$.025	$.015
7	14 miles	B	.035	.021
14	21 miles	C	.050	.030
21	28 miles	D	.070	.042
28		E	.090	.054

As this is a new service offering, we are unable to determine the number of customers who may be affected. Currently, there are no known prospective customers. Until any customer utilizes this new offering, there will be no effect on the revenues of the telephone company, and in any event, the telephone company does not expect revenues to be affected by more than 2 1/2 percent. These proposed rates, where applicable, will provide tariffed local exchange access to customers who then will provide shared or resale services to tenants.
These proposed rates have been suspended by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and will become effective as proposed or modified by order of the Commission on a date to be determined by the commission.
The proposed rate schedule is on file with the Commission for public inspection and is also available at any business office of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.
Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumers Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Dear Abby

Sailor's bracelet may make it home

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to your column in the Fresno Bee, I became aware that you were able to help an American soldier return the identification papers taken from the body of a dead German soldier during World War II. Perhaps you can solve a similar dilemma of 41 years' standing.

I would like to return a sterling silver ID bracelet to the family of a young sailor whose body my husband helped to prepare for burial at Naval Base Hospital No. 18 on

Guam in 1944. The bracelet was engraved "MICHAEL HUDZY (and his serial number) 33773514."

Sometime later, my husband was horrified to find this ID bracelet in his jumper pocket where he must have dropped it in order to free his hands for other things. He was afraid to turn it in for fear of being accused of theft, as he truly didn't remember putting it into his pocket. He kept it all these years hoping that somehow, someday he could return it to the boy's family.

Through the years I have written to the Veterans Administration and the Department of Records in Washington, asking for the boy's address through a G.I. insurance policy — anything — but my letters were never answered.

Not long before my husband's death in 1978, he mentioned again his desire to return this bracelet, feeling it must mean something to someone, somewhere.

I still have it. Can you help me return it to the family of Michael Hudzy?

I'm signing my name and address. Please contact me if you hear from his family and I will send it to them.

MRS. J.P.W.,
FRESNO, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. J.P.W.: It's a long shot, but if I hear from the sailor's family, I will put them in touch with you. Bless you for your perseverance.

Dr. Donohue

Nicotine gum: Why a prescription?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My sister was advised by her doctor to quit smoking. When she asked about the nicotine gum to help quit he said he's be happy to write a prescription for it. He said he'd rather she chew the gum the rest of her life than to resume smoking. Yet on the prescription there was a "no refill" note. The gum has worked well. My question: Why is a prescription needed? Why can't this be an over-the-counter item available to anyone to give up a dangerous and nasty habit? — B.S.

The gum is a temporary aid in getting over cigarette addiction. It's better than smoking. You don't damage your lungs by chewing it, but nicotine in any form has unpleasant reactions whether inhaled or chewed. It causes too much stomach acid, a factor in ulcer formation. It narrows blood vessels, a factor in high blood pressure and poor circulation.

But of course the dose you get in the gum is less than you get from puffing cigarettes, so on balance it's worthwhile using it to quit. What some people don't realize is that it is only an aid and only a part of a wider program to quit. You need the same kind of motivation you need when quitting cold turkey.

The recommendation with regard to use of the gum is to use it for only three months. If it has worked you should by that time be safely on your way to a smokeless life. No, I don't think it should be an over-the-counter item. In fact, I don't think cigarettes should be either.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Justice of the peace discusses job duties

Justice of the Peace China Long presented a program about the duties of her office at the June 17 meeting of the Cactus Chapter of American Business Women's Association at Hickory House.

Long handles class C misdemeanors, sets bail, presides over small claims court, serves as county coroner and performs wedding ceremonies. She shared some amusing cases with the members.

Debbie Walling presented the vocational talk. She has been employed by City Finance for six years and presently is manager. She is responsible for approving loans and renting televisions, stereos and video cassette recorders. She told members that she finds her job interesting.

Loretta Burns, chairman of the nominating committee, reported on nominations for new officers. The new officers for the 1985-86 club year will be: Lupe Dominguez, president; Elaine Tubb, vice president; Brenda Claxton, recording secretary; Robbie Stewart, corresponding secretary; and Jean McKindree, treasurer. The new officers were installed by President Vicki Morrow.

A Mexican theme highlighted the May 20 meeting at the home of Betty Williams.

The home was adorned with Mexican decorations, and Spanish background music was played. Members wore Mexican dresses and brought Mexican dishes to eat.

A program about the different committee heads was presented. Each job was described with its meaning and how the committee and chairman could best serve the club.

Four guests attended the meeting: Cynda Stanley, Martha Beene, Candy Schumpert and Angela Kohl.

Mid-City stops Tower, 4-0

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

It was a case of winning the battle and losing the war as the Midland Tower All-Stars fell to Midland Mid-City 4-0 last night in District III Little League tourney action at Johnnie Hobbs Field.

Tower hitters got more hits and their pitchers got more strike outs than their opponent, but it was the cool, calm Mid-City squad led by pitcher Jim Martin that took the win.

Martin pitched six masterful innings, allowing only three hits, walking one and fanning six. He was in command the entire game, always staying in front of the hitters.

The Tower hits came in the first, third and fifth innings. They threatened only once, that coming in the fifth. But Martin and crew held tight to preserve the shutout.

On the other hand, Tower starting hurler Robert Thorns and reliever Ronnie Rains did a bang up job themselves. Mid-City got only one hit for the game. A single by shortstop Brad Odom in the bottom of the fourth.

Thorns, a wiry 11-year-old right-hander with a good fastball, was spectacular at times in his three innings on the mound. He left the game in the top of the fourth having collected eight of the nine outs by strike outs. But he also left with two men on base and the score 2-0.

The first Mid-City run came in the second when Gary Young walked and scored on a series of passed balls. Thorns never got a out in the fourth inning.

David Worley walked to lead off the inning for Mid-City. He scored on Odom's single and Odom went to third on a bad throw. Martin then drew a walk and out came Thorns. Reliever Rains got Young to fly to right field. The right fielder dropped the ball, scoring Odom with run number three, as Martin moved to third.

Martin soon scored on the catcher's errant pickoff attempt at third base. This was all the scoring the Mid-City 'Stars would need.

Tower's only serious threat came in the fifth inning. Tim Lasater walked and was followed by a triple to left field by Clayton Davis. Lasater tried to score on the play but was cut down at home on a nice relay from the third baseman. Martin then struck out the next batter and got the following batter out on a ground ball, ending the threat.

Tower, now 1-1 in the tourney, will play Lamesa (0-1) Friday at 8 p.m. at the Johnnie Hobbs Field.

The win was the first game of the tourney for Mid-City. They will take on Midland North Central (2-0) Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Johnnie Hobbs Field.

Hawks sign 4 more from Alamo City

The San Antonio recruits keep coming in for Howard College baseball coach Bill Griffin and his Hawks.

Griffin recently released the news that four more players from the Alamo City have indicated they will play baseball for Howard College the upcoming season.

Robert Rodriguez, Michael Bains, Frank Medina and Damon Amaya are the latest signees for HC.

Rodriguez is a pitcher-first baseman that attended Thomas Jefferson High School. The 5-8, 178-pound lefty sported a 9-0 record on the mound this past season including a 1.40 earn run average. He was an All-City and All-District selection.

Bains attended Marshall High School. The 5-8, 150-pound second baseman was a three year starter and All-District performer.

Last season he batted .305 and drove in 18 runs.

Medina is a 5-10, 175-pound graduate of Central Catholic High School where he played infield and batted .426. He stole nine bases and drove in 23 runs.

Amaya is transferring from Oklahoma City University. Like Bains he also attended Marshall High School. In high school he was All-District for two years and All-City his senior season. The pitcher-outfielder batted .452 and drove in 33 RBI's his senior year at Marshall.

This brings the total number to eight of the players Griffin has signed from San Antonio. In all he has signed 12 players for the upcoming season.

1985 All-Star Game

Nettles takes over for Schmidt at hot corner spot

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago's Ryne Sandberg has no argument with baseball fans who decided that Tommy Herr of St. Louis deserves to start at second base for the National League in Tuesday night's All-Star Game in Minneapolis.

Sandberg, the Most Valuable Player in the NL last season, was nosed out in the late going by Herr, who leads the major leagues this season with 66 runs batted in.

"Tommy Herr is definitely having an all-star season and that's what the game is for," said Sandberg, who is hitting .282 with 12 homers and has stolen 25 bases. "In this case, the fans did their job."

Herr, who also is second in the NL in batting at .340, came from 32,000 votes behind to beat Sandberg by 58,629 in the tightest NL race.

Ozzie Smith, who will be making his third straight start, received 1,349,362 votes, well ahead of Garry Templeton of San Diego — the man for whom he was traded in 1982 — who had 820,449.

Another new starter, San Diego's Graig Nettles, will occupy third base, but that represents a break with tradition. The 40-year-old Nettles broke a string of six straight selections for Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt, who has been playing first base for the last month. Nettles, an American League starter in 1975 and a 1980 replacement for an injured George Brett, received 1,032,335 votes to 739,793 for Schmidt.

The other five NL starters, all repeaters from last year's squad which defeated the American League 3-1 at San Francisco, include San Diego first baseman Steve Garvey and New York Mets catcher Gary Carter, each two-time winners of most valuable player honors in All-Star games. Carter, who will make his fifth straight start, was MVP last year as a Montreal representative.

Garvey got 1,310,111 votes in outdistancing Keith Hernandez of the Mets, who finished with 841,951, while Carter got 1,129,018 votes to 777,485 for San Diego's Terry Kennedy.

The outfield includes center fielder Dale Murphy of Atlanta, starting for the fourth straight year and the leading vote-getter with 1,425,952 votes. The other starting outfielders will be Tony Gwynn of San Diego, last year's batting champion who got 968,262 votes, and Darryl Strawberry of New York, who received 907,107 despite missing six weeks with a thumb injury.

Henderson, Murray rally to gain starting positions

NEW YORK (AP) — Rickey Henderson of the New York Yankees and Eddie Murray of the Baltimore Orioles rode last-week vote surges to win election to the American League starting All-Star team, announced today by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

Henderson, the leading hitter in the major leagues, finished second among AL outfielders with 820,338, behind teammate Dave Winfield's 929,016, and pushed past California's Reggie Jackson. Henderson had been fourth in the balloting a week ago, 15,000 votes short of the top three.

Boston's Jim Rice had 723,022 to grab the third starting job, just ahead of Jackson, who finished at 704,156 in his bid for a 12th All-Star start. Rice will be starting in the game for the fourth time, the first since 1980.

Murray made up a 30,000-vote gap to overtake California's Rod Carew, finishing with 778,477 to gain the first base job.

Carew finished with 728,070 and had his streak of 15 straight All-

Star starts snapped. He had been named every year since 1970 when the balloting was returned to the fans, winning election at second Boston Red Sox first baseman BILL BUCKNER dives for home plate with what would have been the tying run in the ninth inning at Oakland Wednesday. A's catcher MICKEY TETTLETON's glove, with the ball in it, settled on BUCKNER's forearm for the out and an A's win, 5-4.

Astros blast Philly, 10-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Having a lot of runs on the board makes it a lot easier to pitch, Houston Astros hurler Mike Scott says.

A bases-loaded triple by Jose Cruz triggered a five-run first inning, and the Astros went on to shut out the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-0, Wednesday night in the last game of a three-game series.

"When I get ahead like I did tonight, it makes a big difference in the way I pitch," Scott said. "I don't worry about guys hitting it out. I just try to throw strikes."

"You can come with a fastball on the first pitch to a guy like (Mike) Schmidt and even if he hits it out, you still have a four-run lead."

Scott, 8-4, struck out seven and walked one on his way to his second shutout and second complete game of the season.

Phillie manager John Felske was impressed.

"Scott pitched super. His cut fastball was really effective against us tonight. They were due to explode," Felske said.

Houston hitters supported Scott with 14 hits as the Astros snapped a three-game losing streak. With the victory, Houston improved to 42-42, six games behind the division-leading San Diego Padres. Philadelphia slipped to 37-45.

Felske said he was glad the Phillies won the first two games of the series with Houston, but said it's not enough.

"We need to put a winning streak together of six or seven games and hopefully get back in the race," the Philadelphia skipper said.

After its five-run first inning, Houston came back with its five other runs in the fifth inning.

Bill Doran led off the Astros' first with the first of his two doubles for the night. Ty Gai

NL Roundup

Dodgers 5, Pirates 4

Pedro Guerrero knew he wouldn't be able to run around the bases. As it turned out, he didn't have to.

"Man, I was hurting," Guerrero said Wednesday night after hitting a two-run homer that helped the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4.

Guerrero suffered back spasms as he connected for his 21st home run, and the pain made him hold up in the batter's box. Then, he slowly limped to first, second, third and finally home.

"I thought it was a line drive, and my first thought was just to get to first because I knew it was a hit," he said.

Guerrero left the game after he rounded home. Team doctors said he will be checked on a day-to-day basis.

Mets 2, Reds 1

Rookie pitcher Rick Aguilera turned in his second straight strong performance and veteran Keith Hernandez doubled in the tie-breaker for New York's ninth straight victory.

Aguilera, 3-2, allowed six hits including Dave Parker's 15th homer — in pitching his second straight complete game. He retired the last 10 batters in order.

Midland N. Central 29 Odessa Western 1

Jeff Johnston threw a four-hitter and his teammates blasted out 29 hits as Midland North Central won its second game of the tourney with a 29-1 rout over Odessa Western.

Western, making its first appearance in the tournament, scored its lone run in the first inning. After that it was all North Central.

North Central sent 12 men to the plate in the second and third innings, racking up 17 runs after three innings of play.

Chad Thomas led the North Central hitting as he went 5-for-6 at the plate, including a two run homer. Greg Peppers banged out three doubles, driving in four runs.

Expos 6, Braves 5

Montreal's Mike Fitzgerald has hit five homers this season, all in the last 10 games. This time, he connected off Atlanta relief ace Bruce Sutter in the 11th.

Atlanta sent the game into extra innings when Bob Horner hit his 12th homer, a two-run shot in the eighth off Jeff Reardon, the Expos' top relief pitcher.

Cardinals 7, Giants 3

Sluggo Jack Clark and light-hitting Ozzie Smith each belted two-run homers as St. Louis completed a three-game sweep of visiting San Francisco.

Clark's home run, his 16th, capped a three-run uprising in the third that broke a 2-2 tie. Smith hit his fourth homer in the second off loser Vida Blue, 5-3.

Rookie Vince Coleman stole two more bases for St. Louis, raising his major league-leading total to 59.

Cubs 4, Padres 3

Dave Lopes tied the game with a two-out, two-run homer in the seventh and Keith Moreland followed with a homer that led Chicago past San Diego.

Lopes, who had singled in the Cubs' first run in the fifth, hit his seventh homer. Moreland also hit his seventh. Both blows came off Dave Dravecky, 8-5.

AL Roundup

Toronto 11, Seattle 1

The Toronto Blue Jays acquired Al Oliver to put more punch into the lineup, and he's already holding up his end of the deal.

Picked up in a trade Tuesday with the Los Angeles Dodgers for Len Matuszek, Oliver celebrated his return to the American League after four years with a home run and three RBIs to help his new team to an 11-1 victory over the Seattle Mariners Wednesday night.

"I'm really glad to get a chance to play, and even gladder to get a chance to get some RBIs," said Oliver, who hit his first home run since the 1983 season.

Oliver had not played a game since May 5, when he was with the Dodgers.

"I've maintained my condition over that time," Oliver said. "I've stayed in shape. I was hoping for a chance like this."

Oliver's two-run homer highlighted a five-run fifth inning that gave the Blue Jays an insurmountable 7-1 lead.

Angels 2, Brewers 1

Reggie Jackson hit his fourth home run in five games and Ron Romanick hurled a five-hitter to pace California over Milwaukee, the Angels' eighth victory in nine games.

Romanick, 10-4, lost his shutout bid on Paul Householder's leadoff homer in the eighth, his second of the season.

Jackson broke a scoreless pitching duel when he led off the sixth with his 15th home run off right-hander Ray Burris, 4-7. The homer was career No. 518 for Jackson, leaving him three shy of Ted Williams and Willie McCovey, who share eighth place on the all-time list.

Tigers 1, White Sox 0

Lou Whitaker's two-out single in the eighth inning drove in Tom Brookens from second base with the game's only run as Detroit edged Chicago in a classic pitchers' duel between the Tigers' Jack Morris and Tom Seaver of the White Sox.

With two outs, Brookens doubled and came home on Whitaker's soft single to short center — only the fourth hit off Seaver, 8-7.

Yankees 6, Royals 5

Dave Winfield's single off Kansas City relief ace Dan Quisenberry in the bottom of the ninth scored Rickey Henderson from second base with New York's winning run.

Henderson, who reached base on all five trips to the plate with two singles, two walks and an error and scored four times, opened the ninth with a single. One out later, he stole his third base of the game and 41st in 44 attempts, then scored the winning run on Winfield's hit following an intentional walk to Don Mattingly.

A's 5, Red Sox 4

Dusty Baker homered and doubled to lead Oakland over Boston.

Baker's 11th home run gave Oakland a 1-0 lead in the second inning, and the A's collected five hits and three runs in the third to help make a winner of Bill Krueger, 6-8, who pitched six innings, allowing six hits and one earned run.

Rangers 4, Indians 1

Charlie Hough allowed just two singles to Brett Butler, in the first and ninth innings, and Pete O'Brien and Oddibe McDowell hit home runs as Texas beat Cleveland and snapped a four-game losing streak.

Hough, 7-10, struck out four and walked two in completing his ninth game of the season. He had a shutout going until wild-pitching a run home in the ninth.

Twins 2, Orioles 1

Tom Brunansky hit his 19th home run on a 3-0 pitch from Mike Boddicker in the top of the ninth inning following a leadoff single by Mike Stenhouse, boosting Minnesota over the Orioles.

The hit by Brunansky was only the fourth off Boddicker, 9-8.

Frank Viola, 10-6, was the winner with one inning of relief help from Ron Davis, who gained his 10th save. Viola allowed seven hits and struck out three while walking one.
