How's that?

More teachers

Q. I understand that new state educational reforms are requiring that elementary classrooms have a student-teacher ratio of 22 to one. Will this effect the number of personnel in the local district?

A. According to administrator Bill McQueary, the new requirement means that 9 or 10 new elementary teachers will be assigned for the coming year.

McQueary added that it will not be known until the first day of school exactly how many new classes will be formed to meet the requirement. Lynn Hise, superintendent, said some classes may be combined in order to keep children at home campuses.

Calendar

Scout camp

TODAY

• Registration for the Big Spring Girl Scout Day Camp is from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and Saturday at the front entrance of the Big Spring Mall. The day camp is open to all girls ages 6 to 17.

• The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will dance to caller James Moore from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Square Corral on Chaparral Road.

• An LVNA meeting will be in the Coors Hospitality Room at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is open to all LVNs.

• The Senior Citizens' dance will be at 8 p.m. in Industrial Park Building 487. The Country Jammers Band will provide the music. The public is invited.

SATURDAY

• A flea and tick dip for dogs will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Highland Pontiac on FM 700. The cost will be $3 for small dogs and $5 for large dogs. Each pet needs to have had its rabies shot.

• World War I Barracks 1474 and its Auxiliary will meet at Kentwood Center at 10:30 a.m. After separate business meetings, a covered dish luncheon will be served.

Outside

Sunny

Today will be marked by fair skies and highs in the mid 90s. Winds will be variable and blowing 5 to 10 miles per hour. A 20 percent chance of late afternoon thunderstorms is also forecast. Tonight, lows will fall into the mid 60s. Saturday's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and highs in the mid 90s. Winds will be southeasterly 5 to 10 miles per hour.

Cuadra eyes downtown restoration

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra wants to make Big Spring bloom with tourists. He wants to create an "Old Town" historic preservation district in downtown Big Spring to draw tourists, he told about 25 business leaders, public officials and merchants.

The new owner of the Hotel Settles said he bought more than 15 buildings in the area, and has acquired the options to a total of 235,000 square feet. "I don't want it to stay empty."

Cuadra also will donate a block of parking space — which he valued at $100,000 — to the city, he said.

According to Cuadra, he has an option to buy the Art Deco-style bus station building if he can find another suitable building to serve as a bus depot. That block, bordered by Runnels, Johnson, Third and Fourth streets, would be razed, paved and landscaped for use by patrons of the renovated Hotel Settles and the Municipal Auditorium.

But his long-term plans to double the amount of tourist dollars brought into the city and add 1,000 jobs by creating a historic district depend on a cooperative effort with city merchants and officials, he said.

"It would absolutely revitalize the economy," Cuadra said. "Developers dream of an opportunity like this."

Cuadra said he wanted to put specialty shops, museums and restaurants in the area, similar to areas in Kerrville, Granbury, Georgetown and San Antonio. As part of that plan, original facades would be restored to buildings.

Cuadra's ideas were greeted warmly. "This is the catalyst we've been waiting for," said Troy Fraser, vice president of Fraser Industries.

Baseball fans cheer on their teams during Little League All-Star action earlier this week.

Stars of the Diamond

"Batter up!", cries the umpire, as the curtain rises on the boys of summer. Little League titans hurl and swat, dive and slide on the grassy diamond, a verdant green oasis in the West Texas desert.

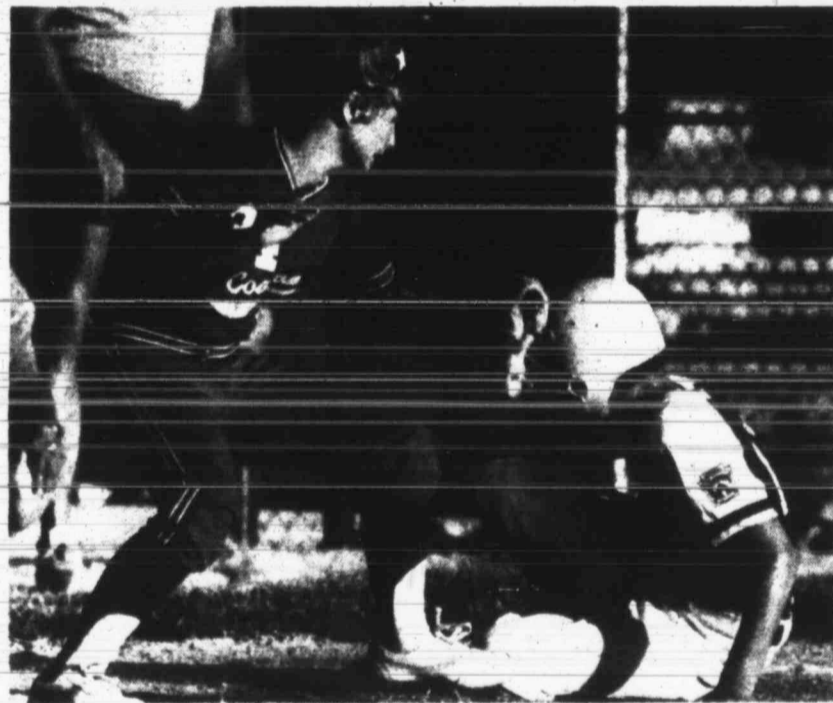

The crack of hardwood and little boys squeals fill the air of a cool July eve. "He was out by a mile," shouts a hoarse mama from the bleachers. Honks and cheers from the outfield drive-ins say otherwise.

Oblivious infants lounge in the gravel, cherry sno-cone painting their smiling faces. "Honey, watch your brother Johnny hit. Come on son, bring 'em home!"

Proud fathers swap tales of past glory in the twilight. "Remember that game in '63. Boy they don't hit 'em like they used to." Young Casey sends a fastball into the next county. "Welcome to the '80's, Dad."

Stickball behind the dugout for grade school heroes. Teenage girls roll their eyes. "Momma, is the game almost over." It's the sixth inning on a Big Spring summer night with the tying run on third.

It's a close play at third as two area Little Leaguers battle in the District 3 All-Star Playoffs in Big Spring. Action will continue through next week for teams from Midland, Lamesa, Coahoma, Odessa and Big Spring.

Board denies 2 a step up on career ladder

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Two teachers took aim at the "career ladder" reward system Thursday but school trustees denied their requests for bonuses under the program.

Mariann Heffington and Gwendolyn "Susie" Craig demanded to know why they were not placed at level two on the ladder. The women said selection was "arbitrary and capricious" and may have been done in "bad faith."

Placement at level two on the ladder means an additional $1,500 in pay, according to local school officials. The additional pay was included in the June paycheck for teachers placed at level two.

Alma Marshall of the Texas State Teachers Association represented the women. She said the matter will be appealed to the Texas Education Agency.

Craig and Heffington are special education teachers. Heffington is employed at Washington Elementary and Craig at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Superintendent Lynn Hise said specific state formulas are used to determine funding for the career ladder. He said there is a minimum stipend of $1,500 mandated for placement at level two, and a maximum of $2,000. The system was created by mandate of new state legislation.

He said a five person committee was selected to review teachers and make placement recommendations. This committee included three administrators and two classroom teachers.

The only grounds for appeal are the charges that the placements were made arbitrarily, capriciously or in bad faith, Hise said.

Marshall said she was questioning the "manner in which the judgment was made." She repeatedly asked for a printed list of criteria used for placement on the ladder.

"Under the open records law, we are entitled to the criteria," Marshall said.

Marshall said that the local district used stricter criteria in selecting teachers than is required by state law. School districts do have the option of employing stricter criteria, and this criteria must be spelled out.

Bill McQueary, former Big Spring High School principal and now superintendent of personnel, was a member of the selection committee and spoke in the committee's behalf.

"We did not use any stricter criteria," McQueary said.

McQueary said only state-mandated requirements for selecting teachers page 2-A

Wealthy oil-gas industry in for crude awakening

EDITOR'S NOTE — Tax breaks enjoyed by the oil and gas industry are being eyed by congressional tax writers. This final part of a five-part series examines the political realities of the battle over whether these tax breaks should be retained.

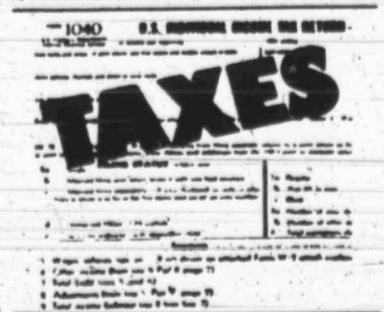

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Subsidized for half a century by tax breaks to fuel America's economy, the oil and gas industry is being eyed critically as Congress begins dissecting President Reagan's proposed tax reforms.

Whether those tax breaks survive may depend more on politics than economics.

"It's going to be a long, hot summer," says Lloyd Unsell of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, the chief lobbying arm for 15,000 independent oil and natural gas producers in the country.

"If I were you, I'd be scared to death," Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., a member of the Senate Finance Committee, told an oil investment seminar audience last month. "There isn't any industry more subject to demagoguery than the oil industry."

Reagan's tax reform package would increase taxes paid by oil and gas producers by $4 billion over the next five years. However, the original plan drafted last November by Donald Regan, then Treasury secretary and now White House chief of staff, raised them by 10 times that amount — $44 billion.

"Although the president didn't embrace the (first) plan, it remains the mark against which his own plan will be initially judged," says Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Rostenkowski, D-Ill, said his committee will use a "critical eye" particularly on tax breaks for oil and gas producers.

He has indicated that four members of his committee from oil and gas producing states will not be a part of his team negotiating a tax compromise with the Senate.

Critics of the industry say they have an uphill fight in removing the breaks.

"I suspect that the reform fever is going to turn into re-election hots," said Ed Rothschild of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition.

The final frontier

Pilots preserve aviation history by taking to the skies

DENTON (AP) — A fragile-looking biplane skids through deep puddles and trundles along the lush grass of a pasture north of Denton, its engine laboring for the speed to propel it beyond gravity's grasp and into the overcast skies.

The ancient craft slowly gathers speed when suddenly, improbably, at a pace lethargic even by the standards of automobiles, a gap appears between the front wheels and the grass and the plane is wondrously aloft.

With the faint grumble of the engine drifting across the field, the plane climbs past treetops and piroettes on its left wing to fly across the grass runway, hundreds of feet higher on this return run, and reach for the horizon.

The scene evokes images of an earlier era, when human flight still seemed to be the stuff of magic and fliers themselves belonged in that pantheon of demigods blessed with mystical powers.

Larry Strain gives the thumbs-up sign from the cockpit of his vintage biplane at Hartlee Field in Denton. Strain belongs to the Fighting Air Command, an organization created to preserve aviation's grandest moments.

But this pilot, Larry Strain, is no barnstormer flying by the seat of his pants and the grace of the not-so-benevolent god of aviators. He holds a commercial pilot's rating and works for the American Airlines Training Corp.

When he puts on his dated flying cap and cranks up the 1930s-vintage Stampe S.V.4, the plane flown by Tom Selleck in "High Road to China," Strain relives a slice of aviation history and immerses himself in a tradition that dates back to an age before instruments more complicated than an altimeter.

"You get into the cockpit of the Marchetti (a modern plane) and close the canopy and you're in a little envelope," ground crew member Pat Clark said. "This way, you feel the wind and you smell the engine. It's a lot more exciting."

Strain and Clark are vice presidents of the Fighting Air Command, an organization touted by its members as the only aviation museum in the world to fly both World War I and World War II airplanes.

Now 140 members strong, the Fighting Air Command was created in 1983 to preserve some of aviation's grandest memories by continuing to fly the planes that are the source of much of its history.

Last year, group members attended or gave 26 air shows across the country. This year, they have opened a museum that eventually will include 17 planes — including the first B-25 ever accepted by the Army Air Corps — and a wealth of memorabilia.

The group recently moved its operations from Addison to Hartlee Field, a training base during World War II four miles northeast of Denton, in accordance with its goal of operating rare historic aircraft at an original Army airfield.

Since moving to Hartlee, command members have erased traces of its former use as a soaring field in the 1950s and, more recently, a base for ultralight aircraft.

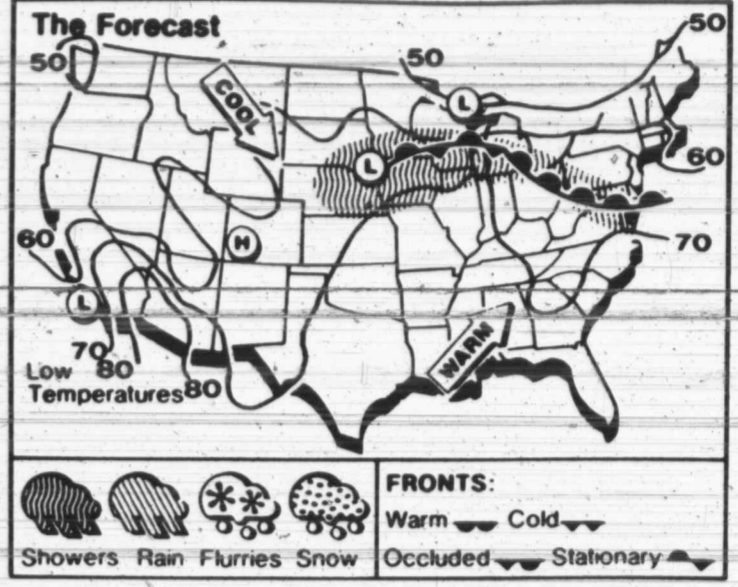

Markings on the two hangars have been touched up with special mixtures of paint designed to give the appearance of old age. The old parachute tower still stands. The gas pump still is emblazoned with a red Pegasus.

The ghosts of airmen — some 4,000 Army Air Corps pilots who graduated between 1941 and 1943 and two who died — surely cannot be far away. But the most tangible evidence of the past, of course, is the planes themselves.

Some of them — a B-25 "Mitchell" bomber, an SNJ-5 "Texan" trainer, a T-28C "Trojan" trainer, a TBM-3E "Avenger" torpedo bomber and a SF-260 Marchetti fightertrainer — aren't based at Hartlee, because they have trouble when rain turns the grass runways into mud.

Weather

Local

WEST TEXAS — Isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms, otherwise mostly sunny days and fair at night through Saturday. No important temperature changes. Lows tonight mid 60s Panhandle to lower 70s extreme south except upper 50s mountains. Highs Saturday upper 90s most sections to near 105 along the river in the Big Bend.

Forecast

Today's forecast calls for warm temperatures and fair to partly cloudy skies with highs in the mid 90s. Lows will be in the 60s. There is a 20 percent chance for late afternoon and evening thunderstorms, some possibly heavy. Tomorrow look for highs to continue to be in the 90s.

Police Beat

Local business burglarized

Outlaw Haven at 308 Benton was burglarized sometime Wednesday night according to police reports.

Cleta Britton of 2300 Marshall told police that someone broke into the store and stole: 12 firearms valued at $2,371; 20 frontier pocket knives valued at $209; 6 stainless Pakistan knives and cases valued at about $60 and $19 in cash.

Danny Collier, of Collier Operating Co. 310 S. Benton told police that someone broke into the business sometime Wednesday night and stole an electric guitar valued at $1,600, a 440 unisonic electric tuner valued at $39 and 2 shrade walter knife locks of unknown value.

Judy Crowner of Sterling City Route Box 5A told police that someone stole a 1982 yellow Yamaha motorcycle dirt bike valued at $1,000 from the backyard of Pete Denton, 3609 Dixon sometime between Wednesday and Thursday evening.

Estaleene Rice of 1406 East 14th told police that someone stole a lawnmower from her valued at $220 from her carport Wednesday night.

Kathy Nichols, employee of the 7-11 store at 1801 Gregg, told police that a person damaged a glass plate of the store valued at less than $200 early Thursday morning.

Carmen Salazar, manager of Greenbelt Homes, 2500 Langley, reported that a stormdoor valued at $90 was broken on the residence owned by the business at 2528 Langley sometime Wednesday night.

Kathy Kirkland of Box 669 N. Birdwell told police that a person tried to break into the residence of David Rhoton, 2 Village. During the attempt, a window was broken and two wooden window frames were damaged, all of unknown value.

Police arrested John Moreno Renteria, 30, of 1200 Grafia at the 1400 block of Settles Street late Thursday afternoon after he was stopped for a traffic violation for driving while his license was suspended, according reports.

tion were used in making placement decisions. "The committee used the requirements (outlined) in the March 1985 memo from the Commissioner of Education."

Placement was based on evaluation forms from the years 1982-83 and 1983-84, McQueary said.

McQueary said principals and supervisors were called in to discuss the evaluation forms. "What questions were asked of the principals and supervisors?" Marshall asked. "I've asked for additional criteria and I haven't gotten it."

McQueary said specific questions referring to each individual were asked. Marshall said by calling in administrators to discuss evaluations drawn up two to three years ago, "you entered into arbitrary" selection.

McQueary said the committee drew up a composite of what a level two teacher should be.

"What you thought a level two teacher should be should be written down," Marshall said.

The women charged — and McQueary agreed — that no special education teachers in self-contained classrooms were placed on the career ladder.

McQueary added that six special education teachers in the system who do not work in self-contained classes were placed on the ladder.

To a charge that no one on the selection committee was familiar with the problems of special education, McQueary said that all committee members "were thoroughly familiar with special education."

In closing, Marshall said she felt, "This committee did not apply with regulations. Arbitrarily and capricious, certainly. And in bad faith, I would think so."

McQueary said, "We pulled no names out of a hat. We used the only information source we had — the evaluation forms."

Board member Al Valdes said, "A lot of good teachers didn't qualify" for the ladder. "I oppose this (ladder) and I think this is not a fair way to implement it."

But Valdes said he saw no alternative to the action and he made a motion to uphold the decision of the career ladder committee.

Dewayne Fraser, in seconding the motion, said, "I agree the career ladder is not fair and it's not doing our school district any good. We could debate all night long but a decision must be made."

Billy Pineda, the only board member to vote against upholding the committee's recommendation, said there is a need for the evaluation process to be upgraded. "This still doesn't tell me what criteria was used. Put it in plain English," he said.

After the board's decision to uphold the career ladder committee recommendation, Marshall said that if the Texas Education Agency overturns their ruling, "Then you are going to have to come up with some money anyway. You are going to have to find some money from somewhere."

Tick-flea dip slated Saturday

The Big Spring Humane Society once again is attacking the flea and tick problem in the city by holding a dip Saturday at Highland Pontiac on FM 700 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"The flea and tick problem is really bad in Big Spring," Cheryl Beauchamp, treasurer of the society, said.

At the flea and tick dip, dogs will be put into a safe chemical that kills ticks and fleas on the animals and helps prevent future problems with the pests for about two weeks, Beauchamp said.

The cost of the dip is $3 for small dogs and $5 for large ones. Dogs should be brought on a leash and need to have had rabies shots.

The Humane Society tries to hold a dip once a month, she said.

Big Spring businesses helping with this month's dip are Rockwell Brothers & Co., who donated the tank for the dip, and Highland Pontiac, who provided the location.

Boy injured in shooting accident

A 12-year-old Big Spring youth was treated at Malone-Hogan Hospital Thursday after he accidentally shot himself through the foot.

Reports in the sheriff's office show that John Patrick Shanks of 606 Linda Lane was shooting cans at his uncle's home on Davis Road about 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The boy's uncle, Kevin Murphy, said Shanks had a Ruger single-shot pistol.

Shanks was taken to the hospital for treatment of the injury. He is the son of Donnie Shanks of 606 Linda Lane.

James Willie Matthews, 56, of 1311 W. Second, was transferred to county jail this morning following his arrest for driving while intoxicated. He was placed under a $1,500 bond for driving while intoxicated and a $500 bond for driving while license is suspended.

Police arrested James Abbott, 33, of 1314 State Park Drive, Thursday night for driving while intoxicated. He was transferred to county jail, placed under a $1,000 bond and later released.

Jerry Glen Dugan, 29, of Springtown, was transferred to county jail from the Parker County Sheriff's Office Thursday for revocation of probation. He was placed in jail here and had no bond posted.

Cuadra

The project also would receive a $2,000 stipend and would have state resources for studies, architecture and other areas available for free.

Although many cities apply for the project, City Administrative Assistant Pat Hardy, who serves as city liaison with the downtown merchants' association, said Big Spring had a good chance. "They told me last year they were looking for cities in West Texas."

The cost of contracting with the project manager would be about $40,000 a year, Hardy said. Cuadra pledged $5,000 a year for the program on the spot.

Although the business leaders, merchants and public officials present were unable to commit their various groups to the project, all said they supported the program and would bring it to the attention of the city, county, chamber of commerce, downtown association and others.

"We can raise the money," said Granville Hahn, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce president. "We have the resources."

"It's a bad time because of the economy," said Joneil Smallwood, owner of Smallwood's Western Wear. "But maybe we can do it despite the bad economy."

Among various proposals discussed was one by Hahn that the economic development committee be challenged to raise the money. Group members also suggested that the Heart of the City downtown association be in charge of some of the planning.

Members of the audience also suggested that the Main Street architect-project manager, if he is hired, be in charge of architectural planning. He could work together with an urban planning consultant, who would be responsible for the financial planning and overall development.

Discussing his own plans, Cuadra said the first two ground floors of the Settles Hotel would open within a year.

Response has been overwhelming, he said. He has received 28 calls in the last month to rent office space from local residents who do not currently operate shops. "I could have rented the building eight times over."

Among businesses being considered in the area is a smokehouse, the first in a chain of 30 his firm, MPG Management Inc. of San Antonio, is starting. The smokehouse will be located in a building across from Alberto's Crystal Cafe on Second Street and is scheduled to open in September.

Deaths

Albert Garcia

Albert "Boto" Garcia, 76, died Thursday morning in a local hospital.

Conservation farm bill

WASHINGTON — The year 1985 already is shaping up as one conservationists will long remember — the year Congress took serious aim at the erosion problem that washes away billions of tons a year of precious topsoil.

Action this week in the House and Senate agriculture committees, coupled with recent Reagan administration endorsement of a new land-retirement program, virtually assures that new farm legislation will contain the toughest anti-erosion laws in decades.

"It's a real high-water mark," said Maureen Hinkle, Washington lobbyist for the National Audubon Society. "It's the first time they have taken the appropriate steps to protect the natural resource" of farmland.

World's largest plane

MARIETTA, Ga. — The Wright brothers' maiden flight was shorter than the cargo deck of the C-5B, the new heavyweight champion of the skies making its debut amid debate over its effectiveness and whether it's even needed.

The C-5B, a modernized version of the military workhorse C-5A, was scheduled to roll out of its suburban Atlanta hangar today — all 247.8 feet of its length and 222.8 feet of wingspan.

The plane, built by Lockheed-Georgia Corp., is the largest aircraft in the world and can carry two M1 battle tanks. Four C-5Bs can haul an entire squadron of 24 Apache attack helicopters, with support equipment, air and ground crews, into a combat zone.

Male marriage nixed

BALTIMORE — A judge has annulled the marriage of a student who learned after the wedding that his wife was born a man.

Circuit Judge Hilary D. Caplan ruled Thursday that the marriage between M.K. Ofuso-Appiah and Delores Buchanan, 38, was void from the beginning because Maryland law prohibits men marrying men.

"The evidence here is that there was no sexual relationship, although it's hard for any court to believe it," Caplan said.

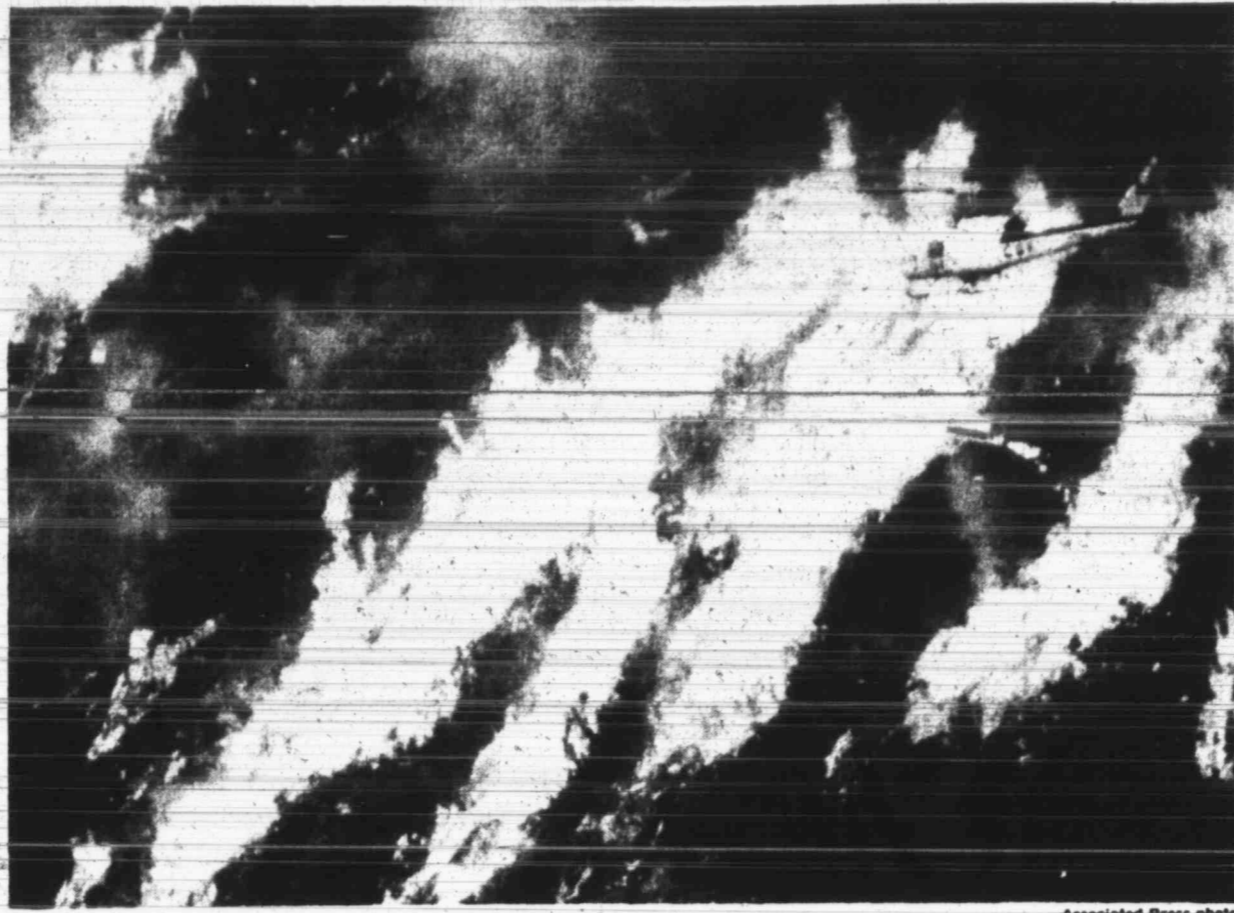

Ofuso-Appiah, 28, of Liberia, testified the couple had some sexual relations, but had not had intercourse. He also said he had never seen his wife in the nude during the seven months they lived together before separating.

Levi buyout planned

SAN FRANCISCO — Descendants of the founder of Levi Strauss & Co., the world's largest apparel maker, are considering making a $1.1 billion buyout offer that would make the 132-year-old company a family business again.

The company announced Thursday that its president and chief executive, Robert Haas, a great-great-grandnephew of Levi Strauss, was considering offering $50 per share in a leveraged buyout in which the company's assets would be used as collateral to borrow money to finance the purchase.

The descendants of Levi Strauss already own 40 percent of the company's 37.1 million shares.

Firefighters battle 1.2 million-acre wildfire

By The Associated Press

Moist air helped a legion of firefighters battle Western fires that have charred more than 1.2 million acres, but new blazes left one area looking "like a moonscape" today and one frustrated evacuee was arrested when she tried to drive past a police roadblock.

Humidity "has just given us a chance to take a breather and maybe make some headway," said Scott Brayton, a spokesman for the Interagency Fire Center, a logistics and information center in Boise, Idaho. "The general situation is still very critical."

However, the moisture that helped crews against the 13,800-acre Los Gatos, Calif., fire and a 150,000-acre blaze in Idaho, was only temporary. More hot weather was forecast today with temperatures in the 90s.

The 6th Army put 1,000 troops on alert in case help is needed, a spokeswoman said at the Presidio in San Francisco. Officials haven't decided whether to use the troops, and so far "we're holding our own," Brayton said of the force of at least 17,000 firefighters.

In Southern California, 150 trailer park residents fled a 300-acre fire near Malibu that authorities said may have been arson. About 400 Girl Scouts and residents of 75 rural homes were moved away from a 350-acre fire at Lake Hemet, 100 miles east of Los Angeles.

The respite allowed some of the 4,500 people evacuated Sunday around Los Gatos, 60 miles south of San Francisco, to return home.

But some of the evacuees were turned back by California Highway Patrol officers blocking unsafe areas.

One frustrated woman tried to drive her sports car into a restricted area and brushed the leg of an officer who was trying to stop her, said CHP Sgt. Greg Manuel. She was arrested for investigation of two counts of assault and one of resisting police officers, he said.

Crescent Valley trailer park residents were allowed to return after about seven hours, said park manager Angie Leano. "It looks like a moonscape. But what a job the firefighters did. All our mobile homes are safe."

Joan Martini was ecstatic to learn her home hadn't been burned. "I found out that my house was there and the road's there, everything's there, and it feels great. I feel wonderful."

Elsewhere, there were signals of victory. In San Luis Obispo, Calif., where a 75,000-acre fire was stopped just outside city limits, residents hoisted a banner reading: "We love firefighters. Thank you for saving our city."

More than 1,000 fires burned Thursday in Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Montana, Oregon, Utah and Washington. Others were contained or controlled in South Dakota, Nebraska and Wyoming. Fires in Colorado and North Dakota were out, the Boise center said.

About 42,000 new acres of range and brush erupted in flame in various states Thursday, adding to more than 1.2 million acres that have burned since late June, Brayton said. Wildfires have charred 380,260 acres since June 27 in California alone, destroying 175 homes and killing three people.

The largest group of firefighters ever mobilized, from all parts of the country, attacked 393 new fires Thursday, Brayton said. None were major blazes.

The Lexington Reservoir fire near Los Gatos was 60 percent contained Thursday after destroying 15 homes and five cabins. Property damage was set at $4 million and firefighting costs at nearly $1 million.

California's other major fire Thursday was south of Big Sur, where 20,560 acres were burning in three fires, the largest of which, the 16,500-acre Rat Creek blaze, was 20 percent contained.

Canadian firefighters also battled blazes in Alberta and Manitoba.

2 nabbed in murder case

KUWAIT — A number of suspects have been arrested in the bombing of two crowded seaside cafes in which 11 people died and 89 were injured, a security official said today.

Authorities halted outgoing flights at Kuwait airport and coast guard boats patrolled Kuwait's territorial waters in an effort to seal all exits from the Persian Gulf country.

No one claimed responsibility for the Thursday bombings, the latest in a string of terror attacks in this oil-rich nation of 1.5 million.

"A number of suspects have been arrested," said the security official, who spoke only on condition he not be identified. "The two time bombs that ripped through the cafes were 25 kilograms (55 pounds) of TNT each, placed by terrorists on the grass under chairs along the playgrounds of the cafes."

Iraqis sink supertanker

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iraqi warplanes fired a missile into the Turkish supertanker M. Ceyhan today, setting it ablaze in the Persian Gulf near Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal, marine salvage experts reported.

Bahrain-based maritime salvage sources said the 226,145-ton Turkish ship was "abandoned by its crew after the missile blast ignited a huge fire in the stern section."

The sources said the M. Ceyhan was raided at dawn about 100 miles south of Kharg at almost the same location where another Turkish supertanker, the M. Vatan, was raided last Tuesday.

'Black boxes' recovered

CORK, Ireland — The two "black box" recorders from the crashed Air-India jet were brought ashore today and flown to India, where officials hope they will reveal why the Boeing 747 plummeted into the ocean, killing all 329 people aboard.

Indian and Canadian officials told The Associated Press that the chief investigator for the Canadian Civil Aviation Safety Board, Pierre de Niverville, would also fly to Bombay to assist in analysis of the flight recorders.

The French vessel Leon Thevenin, the control ship of the underwater robot that recovered the two recorders from the 6,700-foot depths of the Atlantic off Ireland, transferred them in a sealed canister of sea water to an Irish vessel in Cork harbor.

Military aid to Asia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz pledged more American military aid to Southeast Asia today, saying the region was increasingly threatened by the Soviet-backed "bully," Vietnam.

"Regional bullies cannot be allowed to terrorize and intimidate their neighbors," he said.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, or ASEAN, Shultz also urged war on international terrorism and drug trafficking, pleaded for freer international trade and sounded some positive notes on recent U.S.-Soviet relations.

Coca-Cola buzz is pure genius

Old Coke, new Coke. Now you see it, now you don't. The cat-and-mouse game with Pepsi continues and Coke can't fool us. We know the score. Coke planned it all the way.

If you were a marketing genius, and your competitor was breathing down your neck in the first real challenge in years, wouldn't it make sense to plan a campaign this way:

Develop a "new" taste, one that is sure to distress your huge soft drink market. Make the "new" drink so far off the mark of the old that it pales in comparison.

Let people get so riled that they're cussing and fuming and organizing boycotts. Meanwhile, the news columns and airwaves are sucked into the fray, making the marketing and advertising campaign that much more fertile.

Let your consumers get so angry it makes them thirsty just thinking about it.

Then, bingo!, capitulate. Bring back the "old Coke." Call it a classic. Win the hearts of the American public. Capture the front pages of newspapers (and some editorial page pieces, too). Sell a lot of soft drink.

The new old Coke is a classic. So is the marketing strategy.

Summertime fun isn't in contract

You have heard about marriage contracts being negotiated, but I'll bet you never heard of a "vacation contract." Neither had I until the Gulls showed me the one they drew up before coming to the Cape.

"In the past we have had big fights about our summer," C.C. Gull told me. "So this year we decided to draw up a contract and spell everything out."

He showed me a legal document that had been witnessed by a notary. "It says here that I don't have to go to any cocktail parties on the Cape where the men wear green blazers and white slacks with whales on them."

"In exchange for that," Martha Gull said, "I don't have to clean any fish that C.C. catches."

"Article four states that no workmen or decorators will be allowed in the house while I am on vacation," Gull said. "And furthermore, the kid who cuts the lawn may not start his mower before 10 o'clock in the morning or while I'm taking a nap."

"I demanded article seven," Martha said. "C.C. may not come home from a tennis game and tell me what a wonderful woman player he had for a partner."

"I gave her that one," C.C. said, "on the condition she wouldn't make me drive into town for a pound of butter just as I was ready to leave for the court."

Martha said, "Tell him about amendment six."

"I must give her 24 hours' notice on people I've invited for dinner, and she has to give me a week's notice on house guests," C.C. told me. "We've drawn up a list of house guests who have to be agreed upon by both parties. They include friends of our children, relatives, including teen-age nieces and nephews, cousins, in-laws and people we haven't seen in five years who just found out we have a house on the Cape. Martha's mother may only stay for one week or seven days, whichever is the greater. My mother can stay for a similar period of time, but Martha has the option, if it gets to be too much for her, of taking off and visiting a friend on Long Island."

Martha picked up the document. "Article nine refers to missing clothing and other objects such as sneakers, tennis rackets, boat and fishing gear and any other vacation paraphernalia that C.C. has misplaced. I am no longer responsible for finding any of the above named things, nor will I be held accountable because said objects were lost."

"I agreed to the clause on the condition that she takes care of the kids on rainy days," C.C. said. "But he has to take them to the library."

"Article ten was the one we had the biggest row about," C.C. said. "It has to do with our sailboat. Martha wanted a clause stating that she no longer has to set foot on my sailboat, or any friend's sailboat, for the entire summer. I said she couldn't do that to me because she is a very important part of the crew, particularly when nobody else is around."

Martha said, "The compromise is that I will only go on board if C.C. can find absolutely no one to sail with. If I do and he yells at me just once, I am to be taken to the nearest port and put ashore."

Government helped send unsafe product overseas

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — The tragedy of the Dalkon Shield intrauterine contraceptive device has been extensively chronicled. But the fact that it is an international problem — and that the United States is partly responsible for it — has received little attention.

Out of 2.8 million Dalkon Shield users in the United States, 18 allegedly died from infections caused by the device and thousands of women were maimed. An uncounted number of spontaneous abortions and stillbirths were also attributed to the shield.

There were 1.7 million Dalkon Shields sold abroad. No one has any idea what the casualty rate was, though there is no reason to believe it was any lower than in this country.

The biggest single customer for the dangerous devices overseas was the U.S. Agency for International Development. From 1970 to 1974, AID distributed 700,000 of the contraceptives to countries that wanted them for their population-control programs. Yet the agency's tests of the shield for safety and effectiveness were not completed until 1975, the year after the manufacturer suspended sales of the device at the urging of the Food and Drug Administration.

How did AID come to ship hundreds of thousands of potentially deadly devices overseas without testing them first? No government agency was regulating IUDs at the time, and the manufacturer's assurances that the shield was safe alleviated concern.

Even so, as our associate Vicki Warren learned in interviews with AID officials and from a review of hundreds of pages of documents, the decision to rush ahead with widespread use of the shield did not go unchallenged. One AID official recalled "the serious reservations of some people" at the agency who "clearly disagreed" with the decision.

But there was heavy pressure behind the Dalkon Shield — from A.H. Robins, the manufacturer; from Dr. Hugh Davis, the device's inventor and a paid consultant to Robins; and from an outside source, Dr. Gladys Dodds, medical director of the Family Planning Association of Hong Kong.

Dodds was given some shields for use in her program, and the doctor's enthusiastic response apparently weighed heavily in AID's decision to buy some. Robins sent the agency an initial order on

Sept. 15, 1970. "This intrauterine device does look promising, and we wish to assist with its further testing," the agency director wrote at the time. "We will immediately send three of the cartons to Pakistan and send the balance to one or more countries where they might be put to best use."

Robins representatives quickly spread the word to potential AID clients that the Dalkon Shield was available, and Third World countries were soon clamoring for their share of the supposed miracle contraceptives.

They were not told of the dangers of the device. In fact, as late as 1973 — when the company had already been getting complaints about the shield for two years — a Robins official, R.W. Nickless, toured eight Asian nations to promote the product.

Officials in Washington were well aware of the risks involved in the contraceptives they were shipping abroad by the thousands. "There have to be a certain number of case reports before you can do anything," an AID official explained lamely.

The agency kept on sending Dalkon Shields overseas until June 1974, when Robins suspended sales of the contraceptive in response to the FDA's complaints. AID officials insist that current regulations and procedures would prevent a similar disaster from happening again.

DANGEROUS AIRPORTS: The Federal Aviation Administration has kept track of hijackings and attempted hijackings at airports around the world since 1970 — and the results may surprise you. By far the most incidents — 64 — have occurred at U.S. airports, more than the number recorded in Lebanon, India, Colombia, West Germany, the Philippines, Japan, Iran, Venezuela and France combined. Two cities are tied for first place in this dubious contest. New York's LaGuardia and Kennedy airports have totaled 19 incidents since 1970, as has Miami's International Airport. Athens airport had only two in that period until the TWA hijacking on June 14.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The Garrison Diversion Unit, a huge dam and irrigation system proposed for North Dakota many years ago, is little more than a billion-dollar boondoggle. It would benefit only 400 farmers, whose wheat harvests would add to a worldwide glut and cost the taxpayers millions more in surplus purchases.

Health, wealth not guaranteed

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: This religious television program was on the other night and the man on it said that it was not God's will for any of His people to be sick or poor. He said if we just had enough faith God would heal us and give us anything we wanted. Do you agree with that? — G.T.

DEAR G.T.: I respect the man's right to his opinions, but the Bible does not teach that it is always God's will for us to be healed or to be prosperous. In fact, when we follow Christ, we may be called upon to sacrifice some of the luxuries or goals others take for granted.

This is clear from the example of some of God's choicest servants in the Bible. Paul, for instance, seems to have had some type of recurring disease — what he called "a thorn in my flesh." Three times he pleaded with God to take it away, but God refused, saying, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness" (2 Corinthians 12:9).

Just a chapter before that, Paul detailed some of the sufferings and burdens he'd had to endure because of his faith in Christ (2 Corinthians 11:23-33). In all these, however, he saw himself as following the example of Jesus Christ, who said "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has no place to lay his head" (Luke 9:58). The Macedonian Christians were commended for their generous giving to God's work, in spite of the fact that they faced "severe trial" and "extreme poverty" (2 Corinthians 8:2).

At the same time, I do not want to be misunderstood. Yes, God can and may heal, and God can and may bestow material abundance. When illness strikes, we should pray for God's healing. But He does not choose to heal in every instance — no matter how much faith a person has. And God may use a physician or psychiatrist to accomplish his purposes; Luke (the writer of Luke and Acts) was a physician.

Two views of videotaped testimony

By DAVID NUNNELEE

BRYAN — Should a 5-year-old girl who claims to have been sexually abused by her father be sworn as a witness and forced to face him in court? Or, should the child be allowed to testify — apart from the defendant — on videotape or closed-circuit television?

That dilemma is at the heart of a Brazos County court case that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin has agreed to review. The court's ruling could affirm or strike down a state law that permits children's videotaped testimony to be shown to jurors despite objections of defendants accused of sexual abuse.

The statute, which went into effect on Aug. 29, 1983, allows the videotaped testimony of children 12 years of age or younger as evidence if the statements are taken with no attorneys present. The defendant is allowed to view the tape before it is offered into evidence, and the person who conducted the interview must be available to testify in court.

Both the prosecutor and the defendant may call the child as witness if recorded statements are allowed.

But defense attorneys claim that puts them in a bind.

"The whole purpose of the statute is to avoid putting the child on the stand," said Bryan attorney W.W. Vance. "And it puts the defense in the position of calling the star prosecution witness. How often would you call a witness who is hostile to your case? Not very often."

Vance decided against calling a 7-year-old girl to testify in the child molestation trial of Willie John Jolly of Bryan two years ago. The court has agreed to consider nine alleged points of error from Jolly's trial, which pivoted on the girl's videotaped testimony. After the judge allowed the jury to view the videotape despite Vance's objections, jurors convicted Jolly of aggravated sexual abuse and gave him a 76-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine.

In a similar case last month, Ricky Don Green of College Station was found guilty of sexually assaulting a 4-year-old girl after the jury viewed the girl's videotaped testimony. Green was sentenced to 99 years in prison. Green's defense attorney did call the girl to the witness stand, where she sat nervously in the lap of her grandmother. She was excused after failing to respond to questions from 272nd District Judge John Delaney.

"It was real difficult decision to make," said Joseph H. Nance, Green's court-appointed attorney. "I didn't want to, but I had no other choice. The district attorney left me no other choice."

Nance said he called the child in order to go on the record as exercising his right to cross-examination. Had he not called the girl, the court could have ruled the defense gave up that right, he said.

"I think the videotaped testimony is inadmissible and the law that allows it is unconstitutional," Nance said. "If we want to deny (the right of cross-examination), then we need a constitutional amendment."

In the Green case, the judge's refusal to order a second videotape — with attorneys present — denied him his right to cross-examine the child because she was too frightened to testify in court, Nance contended.

But Brazos County District Attorney Bill Turper said the law has enough safeguards to assure a defendant's right to confront and cross-examine a damaging witness. He pointed out that attorneys are able to question the children during pre-trial conferences.

"The law is set up to allow confrontation," he said.

Vance, who also is handling Green's appeal, said the Court of Criminal Appeals ruling could not only reverse the Jolly and Green cases but have a ripple effect throughout the country.

"This is the lead case in Texas," he said. "It's progressed faster and further here than any other."

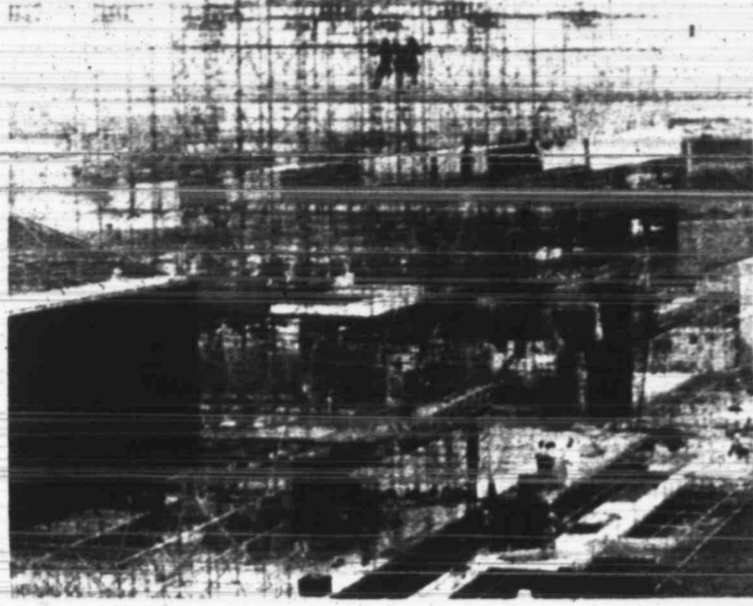

Vance said the case probably won't be argued until late this year.

"I don't condone this kind of action — child abuse. I think it's terrible," he said. "I'm concerned about the future. If it comes to the point where a jury bases its verdict solely by what it sees on a videotape, what kind of system of justice will we have then?"

Rock concert may attract billions

Pop stars gather to raise money to aid hungry Africans

Workers dot the massive scaffolding of the stage Wednesday for this Saturday's Live-Aid concert, a day-long concert to aid the Ethiopian famine relief effort, at JFK Stadium in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Live Aid," the biggest rock concert the world has ever known, will connect Britain and the United States in a Saturday jam session that may be heard by more than 1 billion people, all in an effort to aid hungry Africans.

Only 162,000 people will see the pop music extravaganza in person — 90,000 in Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium and 72,000 in London's Wembley Stadium. It begins in England at 7 a.m. and winds up here 17 hours later at midnight.

Conceived by Bob Geldof, the charismatic 32-year-old leader of the British rock group Boomtown Rats, the huge concert will feature the biggest stars in pop music performing free in hopes of raising up to $50 million — from ticket sales, souvenirs and appeals for donations from viewers — to help feed the starving in famine-ridden African nations.

"We have without a doubt the most important people over the past 25 years in pop music," Geldof said, tagging the project "a global jukebox."

It was Geldof who last year brought together 37 top English recording stars as a group dubbed "Band-Aid" to make the hit record "Do They Know It's Christmas" for famine relief. It was the forerunner of "We Are the World," a song composed by Michael Jackson and Lionel Richie in a similar effort in this country.

The two records raised more than $30 million, and hundreds of tons of food, medicine and clothing have been shipped to Africa.

The live acts start in Philadelphia at 9 a.m. During lulls between the musical acts, the crowd will turn to mammoth television screens around the stadium to watch by satellite what's happening on the Wembley stage across the Atlantic.

Organizers say 86 countries are carrying parts of the concerts live, while 40 to 50 other countries will take videotape. The all-music cable TV channel, MTV, in the United States is the only outlet planning to carry all the music from start to finish.

ABC-TV will carry three hours of the spectacle as a prime time special starting at 8 p.m. EDT, and will insert live feeds from around the world, including Holland, Japan, Germany, and the Soviet Union.

A group of independent TV and radio stations across the nation will broadcast all or parts of the concert until 6 p.m. when network rights will prevail.

The British Broadcasting Company (BBC) will carry the concert in England.

Rain or shine, the show will go on.

Madonna's nude pictorial sizzling at NY newstands

NEW YORK (AP) — Copies of Playboy and Penthouse featuring Madonna in the buff were practically walking off the few newsstands that had them Thursday, but many vendors had to keep customers at bay until their allotments arrive.

Eastern News Stands Corp., which operates more than 120 kiosks in New York City, had received a limited number of copies of both magazines Thursday, which it was selling only at a handful of stands in Manhattan, said M. Ahmad, who handles magazine distribution and billing.

"We're only supplying to the big stores because these are the hot spots for us," he said. Playboy and Penthouse have been racing to get the 6-year-old nude photos of Madonna into print. The September issue of Playboy appeared in New York City and Chicago on Wednesday; the September Penthouse was on the stands Thursday.

The sultry 26-year-old rock star has been mum. "Madonna has acknowledged in past interviews that she did pose nude for art classes" when she was a model, said Liz Rosenberg, publicist for the singer's record label, Sire. "Her feeling is she's never done anything she's ashamed of."

Eastern News Stands was hoping to get two or three times its normal orders for both magazines, said Louise Stefens, the company's magazine buyer. "We tell them we want as many as we can get but there are only X amount of copies at the wholesalers," she said.

Ashok Kumar, operator of a newsstand in the World Trade Center, said he had nearly sold out of his 200 copies of the magazines in three hours.

Kumar said customers' reactions to the Madonna pictures were "mixed."

"Some people say there's nothing to them; some people like them," he said.

George Williams, manager of the Eastern News Stand next to Radio City Music Hall, said he had received 75 Playboys and 60 Penthouses and had only about 30 left two hours later.

Williams said he had already reordered, asking for 500 copies apiece.

Rick Graff, proprietor of Rick's Newsstand in downtown Chicago, said he sold all 45 copies of Penthouse in about three hours and wanted more. He also had about 100 Playboys and had sold about half of them Thursday.

Meanwhile, other newsstand operators were waiting impatiently.

"People are crazy after this," said Zia Budb who runs a New York City newsstand and said he expected to have the magazines by Monday. "Not less than 100 people asked about it yesterday."

"I've had customers call to reserve copies," said Marlene Akers, proprietor of the Paperback Reader in Lincolnwood, Ill., a Chicago suburb. "The phone's been ringing off the hook, at least 25 people have called."

FAA seeks to limit carry-on baggage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration proposed regulations Thursday to limit the size and amount of carry-on baggage for airline travelers, saying passengers are hauling too many items aboard aircraft cabins.

"On both safety and security grounds... my instincts are to control excessive amounts of carry-on baggage," FAA Administrator Donald Engen told a group of airline representatives at a meeting to discuss the proposal.

The agency's plan would require all carry-on bags to fit into an area equal to the space beneath an average airliner seat with all baggage together measuring no more than 9 inches by 16 inches by 20 inches. That would normally mean one average carry-on bag, or several smaller briefcases or bags.

An additional lightly packed hanging garment bag — or a small soft-cover substitute bag — would be allowed on certain flights where storage space is available, but it must have soft sides, weigh no more than 20 pounds and contain no hard objects.

Currently, airline passengers are allowed to take as many items aboard an aircraft as they wish as long as the items in the view of the flight crew can be stored in a safe manner. Flight attendants and pilots have complained, however, that often the baggage is left in areas where it could hurt passengers, impede evacuation and at times even make an airplane too heavy for safe takeoff.

While the FAA has acknowledged concern about the problem, the agency had not given it top priority until recent weeks when Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, after the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 and suspected bombing of an Air-India jumbo jet, made clear she wanted the measure looked at in light of security at airports.

The question of how much baggage is being funneled through airport passenger screening stations became of increased importance, say government officials, after the FAA required additional inspection of bags that already have gone through X-ray screening in an attempt to thwart terrorist attacks.

FAA officials characterized the baggage proposal provided to the industry representatives as a draft that may still be subject to change. But several industry sources, including opponents and supporters of the tighter restrictions, who declined to be quoted by name, suggested the draft is almost certain to come out as a formal proposal in the coming weeks with a final regulation possible by fall.

Police arrest Colombians in drug bust

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Officers arrested 10 Colombians and discovered hundreds of pounds of raw and processed cocaine during raids on drug laboratories in New York and Virginia, a U.S. attorney said today.

Raymond Dearie, the U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of New York, said the "clandestine conversion laboratories" were shut down.

The agents found 147 pounds of processed cocaine, 100 pounds of cocaine base and over 5,000 gallons of various chemicals used in the manufacture of cocaine. The Colombians allegedly planned to manufacture cocaine at various locations along the East Coast and to distribute it from New York.

Dearie said the investigation began early in 1985, when the district attorney's office in Long Island's Nassau County received information that a 47-acre tract of land would be used to store and process large quantities of cocaine base.

Bakers Chapel remodels kitchen

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

A well-equipped kitchen is a necessity that most people take for granted, that is, people who aren't members of the Bakers Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church.

For this 94-member congregation, a new kitchen is a valuable tool. The church, which gets its main financial support from an annual barbecue, no longer has to struggle in old, poorly equipped facilities to make its meals.

Church members devoted $6,700, an investment not an expense, to remodel their old kitchen.

Bakers Chapel, located at 911 N. Lancaster, has been hosting the barbecue sponsored by its laymen for more than 20 years. All of its principal financial support comes from proceeds received at the event held every January, Naomi Graham, church member, said.

With the new kitchen just completed by Bob's Custom Woodwork of the Big Spring Industrial Park, the church plans to continue to provide Big Spring with good barbecue and Bakers Chapel with nice profits, according to Clinton Muse, president of the trustee committee.

Muse was assisted in heading construction arrangements by church member Willie Graham.

Before the total remodeling, Bob Noyes, owner of Bob's Custom Woodwork, said he "didn't even want to eat there anymore," because of the poor condition of the facilities where the food was prepared.

In the project, Noyes said new cabinets were installed, its plumbing facilities were completely redone, a new ceiling was added and new paint was put on by church members.

"We just completely modernized the entire kitchen," he said.

Noyes is not a member of the church, but he attends the barbecues and thought it was important the church have proper facilities to use in hosting the event.

He is "proud of both his business and the church's work on the project," he said.

Noyes had about seven who actively worked on the construction for him. The painting was done by the nine members of the Adult Sunday School Class, Mrs. Graham said.

Planning for the project began in December. Noyes started on some of the woodwork in his shop in mid-May. On-site construction began around June 1 and was completed after three weeks.

Mrs. Graham said she looks forward to the next barbecue and thinks the new kitchen is "lovely and well-constructed." She said it would improve and enhance the event that she already considers a "total success."

The church will decide in August whether it will have a fall barbecue in addition to the annual one. Barbecue tickets are sold by members of the church in advance, Graham said.

The last barbecue was attended by about 300 people, she said.

Church news briefs

Church plans Vacation Bible School

The First Church of God, 2009 Main, will have Vacation Bible School July 15-19 from 9 a.m. to noon.

The children of the church have participated in a poster contest. They will participate in Bible lessons with the theme "Footsteps of Jesus," as well as a craft, music, recreation and refreshment time.

Nelda Reagan is the school's director. She is planning a closing program for the evening of July 21. The public is invited to attend Vacation Bible School and the closing program.

Nazarenes plan Primary Camp

The First Church of the Nazarene will host Primary Camp for children ages seven through nine (first through third graders) July 15-19. The Rev. Harold Graves of Amarillo will direct the event.

The children will have five days of swimming, playing ball, meeting friends and studying about Jesus Christ at Camp Arrowhead. The church is paying half the fee for its members' children.

Those attending the camp must meet at the church Monday morning, ready to leave at 9 a.m. Each youth needs $3 for Monday's lunch.

Baptist Temple plans Sunday event

The congregation of Baptist Temple Church will participate in "Old Fashioned" preaching, singing and fellowship Sunday from 9:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. An "old fashioned" dress and dinner at the Fellowship Hall also will be held.

Preaching, singing highlight week

The Garden City United Methodist Church will have a preaching and singing mission featuring the Rev. and Mrs. Derrell Patterson of Idalou, Sunday through Wednesday.

The meetings will begin at 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. The public is invited.

The Pattersons are from Idalou United Methodist Church in Idalou, where he is pastor. Patterson has a bachelor's degree in religion with a music minor from McMurry College in Abilene and a master of divinity degree from Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. Mrs. Patterson has a bachelor's degree in Biblical literature from Taylor University in Indiana and a master's degree in New Testament from Asbury Theological Seminary.

Americans send flight of "Peace Cranes" to Soviet kids

By MARY BETH SHERIDAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An unusual friendship flight winged to Moscow this week — an air cargo of 200,000 paper cranes, symbolizing prayers for the lives of Soviet children and for peace.

More "birds" were to be flown there later, with the aim eventually of sending one for every Moscow youngster.

The paper figures were folded by thousands of American church people in 42 states and Puerto Rico, ranging from kindergarten students to senior citizens, from members of a Republican women's prayer group to nuclear disarmament activists.

What they all have in common, according to the project's director, is hope — or as Emily Dickinson once called it, "the thing with feathers."

"Each crane stands for a prayer for the life of a child," says Marilyn Lange, 33, the project's director.

She says the "Peace Crane" project avoids political conflicts and armament issues, focusing simply on concern for human well-being. She says the project also aims to teach Americans about a land many love to hate.

"While making cranes, you learn about the Russians," she said in an interview. "There are more than 50 million Christians in the Soviet Union. I would venture to say most Americans don't realize that."

She said detailed booklets were sent to interested groups, outlining discussion topics, film strips and prayer services relating to the Soviet Union to accompany folding sessions.

Folders must perform 28 separate steps to create the things with wings, if not exactly feathers. Many of the cranes, ranging in size from a half inch to 28 inches wide, have individual embellishments — pictures of Bugs Bunny and Santa Claus, for example.

"It's a symbol of all children and their futures in both countries," says Liz Whitney, 15, explaining why she produced 200 birds with the youth group at St. John's Lutheran Church in Summit, N.J.

The project started in 1983 when Ms. Lange, an advertising art director, attended a religious service commemorating the World War II atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 13, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is good for you to use for whatever practical duties you find difficult to accomplish during the busy week, so get at them early and you achieve fine results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Enhance your property and possessions in some way during the daytime. Evening is fine for being with good pals.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can handle small personal matters during the day and then concentrate on how you can become more successful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle that private worry wisely during the day and then you have free time to be with persons you like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) During the day, get clear in your mind what your personal wishes are and in the evening you enjoy yourself.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have many duties to handle in the outside world and should do them wisely. Go after personal wishes in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be tactful with your mate in the afternoon and enjoy some new kind of pleasure together. Seek a favor from your boss.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Clear up pending business duties during the day and then make new allies. The evening is fine for gadding about town.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure to keep promises you have made to outside partners during daytime and tonight have a happy time with your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have much work to do during the day, so relegate pleasures to the evening. Be careful spending money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get out for pleasure during the day, but get duties at home handled well tonight. Do what is asked of you by your mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get at those duties around the house about which you have procrastinated lately. Try to please a family tie.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get shopping and marketing done as well as other duties you have neglected of late. Budget your money carefully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early in life understand how to carry through successfully with practical affairs, but upon reaching maturity, will want to have more diversified interests. Be sure you give as fine an education as possible.

Vietnam vets omitted from war memorial list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Addition of hundreds of more names to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial could begin by Veterans Day, Nov. 11, the chairman of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund said Thursday.

About two months ago, the Memorial Fund asked architects to determine how many more names can be added after an Oklahoma man found that his son was omitted from the memorial because he died in a bomber crash on Guam, outside the official combat zone designated by Presidents Johnson and Nixon.

The Pentagon estimates that at least 330 casualties were left off the memorial because they died outside the official combat zone.

The memorial, a series of granite panels located near the Lincoln Memorial, is currently inscribed with the names of 58,022 Vietnam war dead or missing-in-action.

"We know we can add at least 500 names. We're sure of that," said Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund Chairman John Wheeler.

State board approves HS exit tests

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education gave preliminary approval Thursday to an "exit test" that high school students must pass before receiving a diploma.

However, the plan, which must be formally approved again by the 15-member board Saturday, was modified to allow students in some schools to skip some of the 72 questions.

"I think we have done everything we could possibly do to follow the Legislature's instructions," said Jon Brumley, Fort Worth. "I think we have balanced equity and quality as well as we could."

The 11-1 approval of Texas Assessment of Minimum Skills tests came after a two-hour closed session then another hour of debate over the public vote.

"This test should challenge their expectations," said member Rebecca Canning, Waco, who voted against approval. She failed in an attempt to require all students to answer more of the 72 questions.

The new test is the result of the major school reform bill passed by a special session of the Legislature last summer. It will be given first this October to 11th graders.

Police capture escaped con

BELOSSOM (AP) — Convicted kidnapper James Wesley Foote, who escaped from jail a week ago and walked his way across several North Texas counties, was captured Thursday here in his parents' hometown, authorities said.

Authorities tracked Foote down after being tipped that he was hiding in a house in this community outside Paris, about 150 miles northeast of the Johnson County Jail in Cleburne, Lamar County Sheriff's Lt. Jerry Robbins said.

Foote, who led a band of friends in the kidnapping of 13-year-old Amy McNeil, escaped July 4 by scaling a fence at that jail. The kidnapping ended in a shootout with authorities Jan. 13, and Foote was sentenced to life in prison.

Businessman Don McNeil of Alvarado credited the arrest to the $2,000 reward he offered for information leading to Foote, who had earlier threatened revenge against the McNeil family and Johnson County authorities.

McNeil said the reward would be paid to an unidentified tipster.

A host of kids line up for another group exercise during their stay at a comedy camp in Middletown. The camp is taught by a professional comedians and street performers.

Kids in comedy

Children return from camp full of laughter, fun

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — Anne Cassidy didn't laugh when her 9-year-old son came home from Comedy Camp and started walking into walls.

"He'd go around bumping into things, and I couldn't tell if it was real or imaginary," she said.

It was imaginary. Jacob, his 10-year-old brother, Ben, and 15 other students were learning such slapstick antics at the Odd-fellows Playhouse Comedy Camp, a three-week venture taught by professional comedians and street performers.

At Comedy Camp, usual summer activities such as arts and crafts or swimming are replaced by juggling, miming, tumbling and acrobats.

Walking on stilts, stage fighting and costumes come later.

Classes take place in "the big top," a musty basement at a local church, where costumes consist of T-shirts, shorts and bare feet.

The camp, which culminates in a two-day performance on July 26 and 27, is designed primarily for summertime fun, but the instructors also hope their charges, ages 7 to 16, will carry something more into their adult lives.

"Self confidence, that's it," said Jean-Jacques Plante, a Comedy Camp instructor from Montreal. "Even if these kids are going to be doctors or lawyers, they carry this with them. All these things make you feel better about yourself."

"Young kids, unfortunately, are bombarded by stereotypes of what everybody should be like."

Dic Wheeler, a Middletown resident and member of Odd-fellows, invited Plante and Corinne Eckenstein of Switzerland to join him in teaching the camp this summer. The three met at the Del Arte School of Mime and Comedy in California.

This year is the second the camp is being offered. Held weekdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., it attracts mostly children from central Connecticut, although some parents are willing to drive their children from other parts of the state each day.

"I want to be an actress some day," said 15-year-old Debbie Dion. She and a schoolmate, 15-year-old Tracey Raines, come to Middletown each morning with Debbie's commuting brother. They arrive two hours early and stay two hours late, but both say it's worth it.

"This opens up a lot of things,"

Debbie said. "Now that I have some experience, I can try to call cable (television) and audition for commercials."

While the children benefit from the course, the instructors admit they get just as much valuable experience, themselves.

"It is quite a challenge teaching little kids," Eckenstein said. "There's a sensitivity you have to create in yourself to work with kids. You have to be inside of them, have that personal connection to them so that they trust you."

"Some kids block certain things out and you have to awaken them to it," she said. "Some are so fragile with these things we do because of limited self exposure."

Plante acknowledged that the three-week course won't turn the children into professional comedians — or even make them completely comfortable with themselves.

"It's just about impossible to teach them to juggle seven balls behind their back in one week, but if they can learn to juggle one ball with presence, they become more aware of their body and themselves."

Girl Scout cookie champ wants to be president

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elizabeth Brinton says it's great to be the nation's top peddler of Girl Scout cookies, but being the first woman president would be nice too.

"There are three things I am thinking of doing. Either become a veterinarian, or have my own business, although I don't know what in, and sell, or be the first lady president," Miss Brinton said. "I enjoy politics."

The 13-year-old Falls Church, Va., scout sold 11,200 boxes of cookies this spring to usurp the champion title from arch-rival Markita Andrews.

The New York girl had been described as the best cookie seller of all time but lagged far behind this year with sales of 4,044 boxes.

On the average, girls sell about 90 boxes, according to Sonia Snyder of the Girl Scout Council of the Nation's Capital.

This was the first year that the local scout council kept individual sales records and offered the winner a new personal computer as an incentive. Individual records were not kept in previous years in order to emphasize the group benefits of selling, Ms. Snyder said.

"There was this girl announced in the New York Times as being the best cookie seller of all time. I knew I had beaten her in past years but they did not have a record to show it so I really wanted to beat her this year," Miss Brinton said.

So she spent up to 40 hours a week for six weeks selling the cookies, often at subway stations.

She would rush home from school, load 17 cases of Samoas, Thin Mints and other varieties into the family car and head to work.

"I'm a competitive person, but all in fun," Miss Brinton said. "I push a lot. You have to look people in the eye and make them feel guilty."

"By our measure, she really sold us out here," said Ms. Snyder. "She's a young lady who put a great deal of effort into it, a highly motivated youngster, and a charming young lady."

Miss Brinton is very active in the scouts, and has earned the silver leadership, the second highest award for a scout.

"I was a national representative for the lighting of the Christmas tree. I was beside President Reagan when he lit it and gave him a hug and all," she said.

Retail sales down in June

By The Associated Press — The nation's major retailers today posted poor sales results for June compared with a year ago.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., the leading retailer, and No. 3 J.C. Penney Co. both posted a sales decline of 1.5 percent for the five weeks ended July 6.

K mart Corp., ranked second, reported an increase, of 8.4 percent. But sales for stores that were open more than a year — called same-store sales — fell, by 1.3 percent, it said.

No. 10 R.H. Macy & Co. said its sales edged up 0.1 percent, with same-store sales down 1.5 percent.

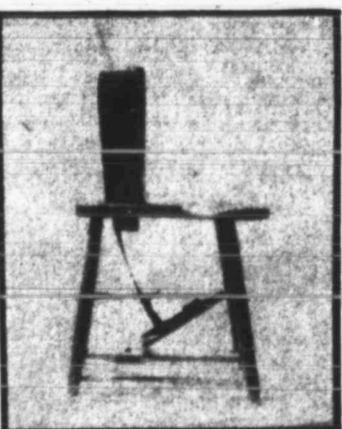

F.W. Woolworth Co., eighth-largest, said sales gained a slim 1.4 percent.

In each quarter, the retailers report sales for one five-week period and two four-week ones. The companies generally operate on a fiscal year that begins in February.

Lawmakers seek families for farm project

AUSTIN — Big Spring state Rep. Larry Don Shaw and state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, are looking for families with long ties to the land.

The two legislators are inviting long-time farming families to participate in the Texas Department of Agriculture's Family Land Heritage Program.

The program recognizes families who have had land in agricultural production for 100 years or longer. Registration deadline is Aug. 31.

According to Shaw, only two properties in his district have qualified for the program. The program was established in 1974 to honor pioneering families.

Program requirements include continuous agricultural production on the farm or ranch for 100 years, land ownership within the family, and complete operation or supervision of the farm or ranch by family members who are Texas residents.

Rep. LARRY DON SHAW

Sen. JOHN MONTFORD

In addition the farm or ranch must be 10 acres with a minimum income of $50 from agricultural products. If the ranch is smaller, sales must total $250 a year.

"These families are living, productive symbols of our family farm unit. We celebrate their past achievements and acknowledge the importance that such family farms hold for us in the future," Shaw said.

This year's certified registrants will be honored at a state ceremony in November at the Capitol in Austin.

To obtain an application, contact the county judge, the county historical commission chairman, the nearest Texas Department of Agriculture office. Or write to: Family Land Heritage Program, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, TX 78711.

Mexican government aids shaky economy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico, slashing oil prices and lowering the value of the peso on the tourist market, is administering vitally needed medicine to its still shaky economy, private analysts said Thursday.

But the analysts said the government didn't go far enough and should devalue the rest of the peso market, which is used for 80 percent of commercial transactions.

The partial devaluation, though, should be a plus for American tourists traveling in Mexico, giving them more pesos for their dollars.

"The government is taking the right steps given the situation," said Ignacio Trigueros, director of economic research at the Mexican Autonomous Institute of Technology in Mexico City. "The situation is not a good one."

Some analysts said the government was reimposing austerity measures in an effort to keep the economy from slipping into the doldrums of a few years ago.

Don Shuffstall, vice president of international banking for MBank in El Paso, Texas, worried, though, that lower oil prices would mean less revenues to pay the interest costs on Mexico's $96 billion foreign debt.

"That just makes it more difficult for them to meet the requirements" for paying their debts, he said.

In recent months, Mexico has been struggling with an array of economic problems.

The turbulence and glut in the world oil market has sharply lowered demand for its oil, the No. 1 source of foreign revenues to help meet its debt payments.

Speculation in the currency markets, apparently sparked by Mexicans' worries about the economy, has driven the currency to record levels against the dollar. Moreover, the economy has been growing at a faster pace than some consider healthy. Inflation has remained high as have government expenditures.

With the twin moves announced late Wednesday, analysts, some of whom would speak only on condition of anonymity, said the economy should slow from the pace of about 6 percent in the first half of the year.

Such a slowdown, they said, would relieve pressure on inflation. But other analysts said some of the inflation relief could be wiped out by a further currency devaluation, a move that tends to boost prices in the long run.

Analysts predicted an inflation rate for 1985 of 50 percent to 55 percent, under the 59.2 percent of 1984.

In its announcement, the Energy and Mines Department said it was cutting the export price of the light-type Isthmus crude by an average of $1.24 a barrel, from $27.75. The price of the heavy Maya brand was trimmed by an average of 77 cents, from $24 a barrel.

The price reductions, retroactive to July 1, vary depending on where the oil is sent. Oil shipped to Europe was reduced more than that bound for the United States.

About half of Mexico's oil exports go to the United States, making it the largest supplier to its northern neighbor. Mexico provides 13.8 percent of all U.S. crude imports, accounting for 4.8 percent of the daily domestic oil needs.

Mexico is the United States' largest supplier, exporting about half its oil to its northern neighbor.

The ministry statement said sales of oil to foreign countries had fallen off sharply, to 800,000 barrels a day in June from its target of 1.5 million barrels.

Mexico is not a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries but in the past has followed its pricing strategy. The new pricing announcement, however, indicated Mexico intends to act on its own.

Mayor protests election with hunger strike

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The mayor of this border city, along with his wife and four political candidates from one of the country's opposition parties, have begun a hunger strike to protest alleged electoral fraud by Mexico's ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party.

Francisco Barrio Terrazas took a leave of absence from his office Thursday to stage the protest, which is his second such fast in eight months.

Barrio said his party, the National Action Party, or PAN, was victorious in races for three federal and one state representative seats in last Sunday's Mexican elections.

The country's dominant party, known by its Spanish initials as PRI, however, also has claimed victory in the same races. Official election results are to be announced Sunday by the Federal Electoral Commission.

"I wish this wasn't necessary," Barrio said at a rally Thursday when the hunger strike began. "I wish the PRI had sufficient maturity to recognize its losses, or that any of their candidates were big enough to admit their losses."

Despite the contention that PAN has won the four seats in question, party officials fear their victories will be stripped away because the electoral commission is managed by the PRI-controlled federal government.

Barrio said he and his fellow fasters would not eat until 200,000 signatures are collected from registered voters, protesting the alleged electoral fraud.

Last December, Barrio staged a similar protest when he claimed electoral fraud by the Chihuahua State House of Representatives.

During that hunger strike, the mayor sought 44,000 signatures in support of a PAN candidate for state representative.

His goal was achieved less than 24 hours after he began his fast.

Barrio was elected mayor of Ciudad Juarez, a city of more than 1 million people just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, in July 1983.

The city is the largest in Mexico with a mayor that does not belong to the PRI, which has controlled state and national government in Mexico since 1929.

Joining Barrio in his current protest are his wife, Hortensia Olivas de Barrio, and PAN candidates Oscar Rivas, Hector Mejia, Edeberto Galindo and Juan Saldana.

Women hospitalized in 2-vehicle wreck

Two women were admitted to Malone-Hogan Hospital Thursday following a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of 14th and Gregg streets, according to an emergency room spokesman this morning.

The accident occurred yesterday around noon when the 1967 pink Plymouth Belvedere driven by Emma Leeson, 37, of 806 Pine collided into the 1985 Blue Dodge Ram-Charger pickup truck driven by Danny Johnson, 56, of Galveston, according to police.

Their were no passengers in Leeson's car. She and Mildred Johnson, 54, wife of Johnson and a passenger in the pickup, were both admitted to the hospital for fractures, lacerations and bruises, the hospital spokesman said.

Danny Johnson was only "shaken up," investigating officer Richard Lopez said yesterday.

School trustees planning several budget sessions

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Big Spring school trustees will hold several budget workshops beginning at 7 p.m. July 23 in the administrative offices across the street from the high school.

Trustees will meet July 23-25, and if necessary, again July 26, 29 and 30 to complete budget considerations. The budget for the coming year and tax considerations must be completed by July 30, according to a memo from Superintendent Lynn Hise.

The meetings are open to the public. School board members encouraged the public to attend the sessions to see how the budget is set up.

Trustees approved the employment of 24 people Thursday. They include C.E. Carmichael Jr., girls' basketball coach at Big Spring High; Malinda Claxton, Helen Crandall, school nurse; Donald Cook, Gregory Danjel, Rhonda Doe and Adele Fleming.

Also Rhonda Gibbs, Kimberly Helfenbein, Kristy Jasek, high school choir director; Sandra Klatt, Elizabeth Lowery, Martha Martinez and Carol McMahon.

Also Karen Meyer, Linda Rhoads, Michael Ritchey, Robin Ritchey, Florence Robertson, Nancy Skopak, Sheryl Swain, Jacklyn Swinney, Virginia Thompson and Raylene Woodall.

Resignations were accepted from Marcia Bennett, Adelaide Brown, Andre Harp, Diane McVay, David Reynolds, Nancy Reynolds, Medena Thurman and Richard Victor.

Trustees approved a change in the local homestead exemption. The exemption, set by law, is set at 30 percent of assessed value and will be allowed for the next three years. After that time it will be reduced to 20 percent.

The maximum had been 40 percent for 1982, 1983 and 1984.

Donald Crockett, assistant superintendent for business, said that a fire at Washington Elementary caused about $20,000 in damages earlier this summer. Crockett discussed repairs at the school.

Seizure is not a faint

Dear Abby

Love makes ring sparkle

DEAR ABBY: You were way off base in your answer to "Confused in Queens" who "loved" the man, but hated the engagement ring her fiancé had surprised her with. You said, "Tell him you love him and you know he wants to please you, so if it's possible to exchange the ring, you'd like to go with him and select one that's more in keeping with your taste."

Abby, whatever happened to "It's the thought that counts"? To me, the uglier the ring, the more special it would be. It may not be my taste, but it's obviously my future husband's taste, and to exchange it would be wrong. Living with a ring that is not my taste would be small potatoes compared to hurting my fiancé's feelings.

Your answer had an ERA ring to it

ROMANTIC
IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR ROMANTIC: ERA my eye! A woman who hasn't the courage (or good sense) to tell her fiancé how she feels about the engagement ring he surprised her with will surely withhold her feelings about the more important aspects of their relationship for fear of "hurting his feelings."

I am not suggesting she use a meat cleaver to make her point, but a marriage doesn't stand a chance unless both parties speak their minds about what they like and what they don't like.

Read on for an opinion from a jeweler:

DEAR ABBY: Having been in the retail jewelry business for many years, I've waited on hundreds of men who come in alone to buy engagement rings, and most of them haven't the faintest idea of what their intended would like.

I show them plain rings, fancy rings, all kinds of rings, and they all end up asking me, "What do you think she'd like?"

Of course I don't know the lady's taste, so I select a ring and tell him it can be exchanged. Then I suggest he bring the lady in and give her a voice in the selection.

No names, please. I don't want this to sound like a commercial.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can a heart condition cause a seizure? My granddaughter has petit mal seizures. Is a seizure the same as a faint? — Mrs. R.H.H.

They're quite different. Fainting occurs from a sudden expansion of arteries and veins. Circulation lessens and the heart slows down, a combination of events that deprives the brain of blood. You fall to the ground as a protective mechanism. When you are prone, the gravity problem ends, circulation is restored, and the faint is over.

Petit mal seizures result from abnormal discharge of electrical impulses in brain cells. They are brief spells, lasting from a few seconds to minutes, but the person does not instinctively fall to the ground or have arm and leg jerking as in a grand mal seizure.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there medicine besides dopamine for Parkinson's disease. Will you send me your material on this? — L.N.

Yes, there are other medicines. Parkinson's results from an imbalance of two brain chemicals — too much acetylcholine and too little dopamine. So medical strategies for control fall into two classes. There are drugs to decrease acetylcholine levels. Those are called anticholinergics, of which there are nine. I won't bore you with their names.

And, there are medicines to increase the brain dopamine levels, and levodopa is an example of that kind. I am sending a copy of the new booklet, "Coping with Parkinson's." Other readers desiring a copy can obtain it by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and $1.50 for printing and handling.

Holiday benefit held for area man

ST. LAURENCE — Members of this community gathered July 4th to raise money for the Dennis Braden family. Braden has been ill and money raised went toward hospital and medical expenses.

Highlights of the day included a mini-tractor pull, a Little Miss 4th of July beauty pageant, an auction, Black Jack tournament and several games.

A barbecue later that evening brought out 613 people from the community and neighboring towns. The winning pork from the pork cookoff was one of the items on the menu. Winners were the Coyanose Crowd.

Fireworks and a dance were held that night. Total net from the day was $1,200.

A fund for Braden has been set up at the First National Bank. Braden, a farmer in Coyanose, is undergoing therapy at the Texas Institute of Rehabilitation, Medical Center, Houston.

He and his wife, Sandra, have one daughter, Lyndsea.

Youth Horsemen to host playday

The Howard County Youth Horsemen met July 8 to plan a work day at their arena on the Garden City Highway Saturday. Members should be at the arena at 9 a.m.

The club will sponsor an open horse show July 20 at the arena.

Entries will be taken from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. The show begins at 10 a.m.

Blankets and halters will be awarded to grand and reserve champions. Trophies will be awarded for first place in each event.

The public is invited to the show.

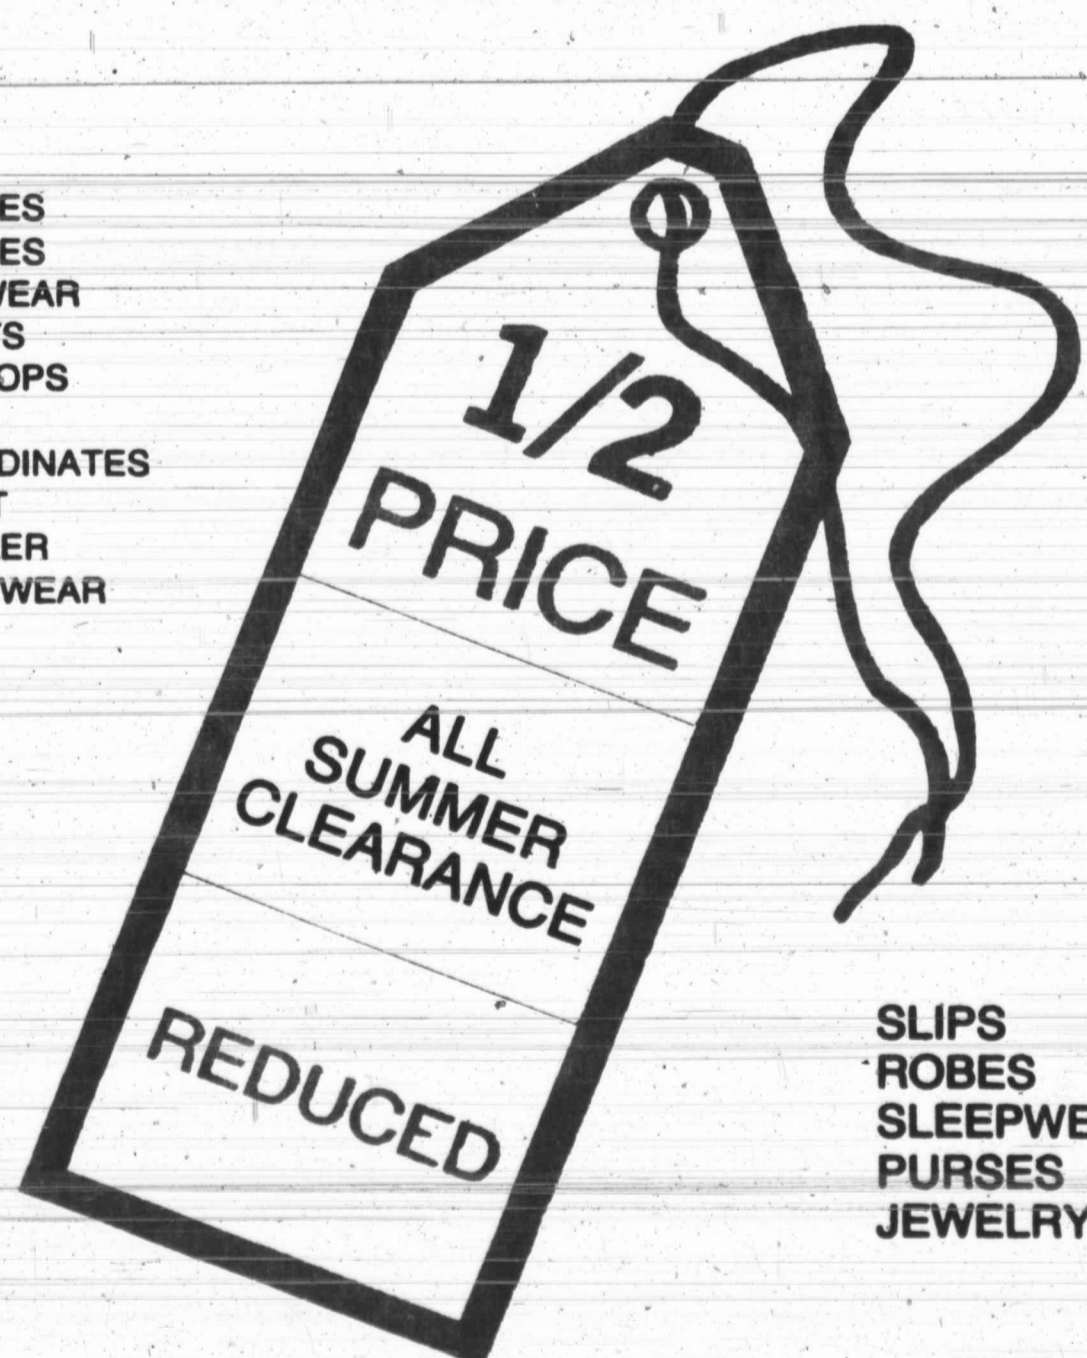

Horse enthusiasts may enter and show their horses. Contact Kenneth Williams at 263-6458 for more information.

The group discussed a playday competition with a team from the Permian Basin Paint Horse Club. A decision will be announced at the next meeting.

Donley looking at Cleveland

DALLAS (AP) — Doug Donley, former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver who became a free agent Thursday, said he will wait until next week before signing with one of five teams interested in him.

Donley exercised his option Thursday as a vested four-year veteran and declared himself a free agent rather than report to the Detroit Lions, who claimed him after the Cowboys placed him on waivers Tuesday.

He indicated he's leaning toward the Cleveland Browns, who were the first team to call upon learning that Donley would become a free agent. But he also received calls from Houston and Atlanta. He also told the Lions on Thursday not to count him out.

"Instead of negotiating with just one team, I wanted to talk to several teams. That's why I decided not to go to Detroit right away," he said Thursday.

Donley was notified March 30 by the Cowboys that he had flunked their physical because of a chronic shoulder problem. Dr. Marvin Knight persuaded Coach Tom Landry that Donley should no longer be allowed to play because the shoulder had been dislocated almost 50 times.

Donley disagreed with Knight's diagnosis and told Landry he could play several more years with the Cowboys.

After spending three months trying to decide between football and the real estate business, Donley decided to give the NFL one more shot, he said.

"My shoulder is fine," Donley said. "It feels no differently than it has the last four years when I was playing for the Cowboys. Nothing has happened to change my shoulder. It's all just been a bunch of hoopla."

A diamond full of Little League All-Stars paint a pastoral scene at the National League ball park Thursday evening. The National League All-Stars took advantage of their home field advantage to nip the Texas League All-Stars 4-3, in the second round of the District 3 playoffs.

Nationals down Texas stars, 4-3

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

Abel Hilario and Dimas Morales hooked up in a pitcher's duel as the Big Spring National League All-Stars squared off with the Big Spring Texas League All-Stars last night in Pittman Field.

In the end it was Hilario and his National League teammates that took a 4-3 victory over their local opponent in second round action of the District III Little League Tournament. The win vaults the Nationals into the winner's bracket versus Midland Eastern Tuesday night at 8 at Pittman Field. Both teams are 2-0 in tournament play.

It was the Texas Stars first game of the tournament. They'll face the Big Spring American League All-Stars Saturday at 8 p.m. at Pittman Field.

Hilario and Morales hooked up in a classic duel as both pitchers showed good control in going the distance. The 11-year-old Hilario was a master on the mound, allowing five hits, walking four and striking out four. He pitched his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the fourth inning.

Morales was no slouch himself. With the exception of a shaky first inning, the Texas League hurler was almost untouchable. In the first, he walked four batters while walking in two runs. The only hit was a single up the middle by Hilario.

Morales didn't walk a batter the remainder of the game. He finished the contest with 11 strike outs while allowing three hits.

The biggest hit Morales allowed came off the bat of Nationals catcher Neal Mayfield who blasted a solo shot in the top of the third, giving his team a 3-2 lead. Mayfield took Morales' first pitch deep over the center field fence.

The Texas Leagueurs tied the game up at 2-2 in the second inning with a two out rally. After Thomas Hernandez walked, Steven Robles and Richard Krison hit back-to-back doubles. Hernandez scored on Robles' double and Robles scored on Krison's hit.

Robles and Krison were the top hitters for the Texans. Each collected a single and double, driving in all of their team's runs.

After Mayfield's shot, the Nationals added the deciding run in the bottom of the fourth. Second baseman Michael Gonzales singled, went to second on a passed ball and stole third. He scored when Shane Bryan grounded out to the shortstop.

The Texans scored their final run in the bottom of the fourth, thanks to two National League errors. Robles' single scored Ricky Escovido.

The defensive play of the game occurred in the bottom of the fifth. Texas' Angel Villa led off the inning with a hard single to the fence. He tried to stretch it into a double. But Nationals center fielder Shane Myrick rifled a perfect throw to Gonzales to get Villa.

The Nationals were aided by a number of good defensive plays. Pitcher Hilario, shortstop Gerald Cobos and left fielder Jay Baskin played strong defensive games.

Astro's Ryan smokes New York in milestone strikeout game

HOUSTON (AP) — It took him 18 years and 10 months to be in a position to notch his 4,000th career strikeout, and when the opportunity came Houston's Nolan Ryan knew exactly what to do. Just as he had done so many times in his strikeout-filled major-league career, Ryan played New York Mets left fielder Danny Heep exactly as he planned Thursday night, sending the former Astro into the record books as the strikeout ace's 4,000th victim.

... King of the hill

Ryan needed only three pitches against Heep, a fastball which he took, and a curveball that Heep chased and missed.

"That's exactly what I wanted to do," Ryan said. "I went over those three pitches in my mind and I decided that's the way I wanted to do it if I didn't get behind him."

Following the historic strikeout, the normally stoic Ryan looked almost emotional as he doffed his cap to the standing ovation that greeted him.

"I think the fans came out to see me accomplish this tonight," Ryan said.

Ryan started the game with 3,993 strikeouts and an 85-strikeout lead over his nearest rival, Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, who currently is on the disabled list with a shoulder injury.

He pitched seven innings and had 11 strikeouts, running his career total to 4,004. It also extended his career total to a major-league-record 158 games of 10 or more strikeouts.

"He's a competitor," Mets outfielder George Foster said. "When you face Ryan, you have to be ready, or a lot of guys will be walking back to the dugout."

"He's one of the most consistent pitchers around to throw as hard as he does for as long as he has. He's lost some of his fastball but not much."

Montreal's Brad Mills was Ryan's 3,509th career strikeout on April 27, 1983, breaking the career strikeout record of Walter Johnson that had stood for 55 years.

Ryan's milestone strikeout ironically came against the team that he broke into the major leagues with in 1966.

"I didn't have any special team to get 4,000 against, but if it couldn't be the Dodgers, then it might as well be the Mets," Ryan said.

Ryan recorded his first major-league strikeout in a Mets uniform on Sept. 11, 1966, fanning Atlanta's Pat Jarvis. Ryan, who has five career no-hitters, says he never imagined early in his career that he'd still be pitching in his late 30s.

He attributes his longevity to a devotion to proper pitching mechanics and a lucrative salary structure that allows players to avoid off-season jobs.

"The two keys for me are due to the fact that I've concentrated so many years on good mechanics of pitching and also I've concentrated on being as well-conditioned as possible," Ryan said.

Ryan, who is signed through the 1987 season at a salary of about $1 million per year, says modern-day players have more time to train.

"With salaries the way they are now, a player doesn't have to worry about getting an off-season job and he can spend more time staying in shape," Ryan said.

Ryan has registered 300 or more strikeouts five times in his career, including a high of 383 in 1973 as a member of the California Angels. He's struck out 10 or more batters in a game 158 times in his career.

Mets' starter Sid Fernandez struck out seven Astros and was overshadowed by Ryan's performance, but he didn't seem to mind.

"This was Nolan's big night and I couldn't be intimidated, I had to go out and pitch my game," Fernandez said. "I was glad he got his 4,000 strikeouts and I was glad to be part of the game. It's something I'll always remember and tell my kids about. I don't have any kids. But when I do, I'll tell them."

World-class soap opera to resume

LONDON (AP) — Tears and acrimony have given way to conciliatory words and gestures.

The soothing effect of a year's passing has mended the stinging pain of Los Angeles.

Zola Budd and Mary Decker-Slaney will race together July 20, the first time since they tangled in the now-famous 3,000-meter women's final at the 1984 Summer Olympics.

"It will be a marvelous evening for me," said Budd.

"I bear Zola no animosity," said Slaney.

Billed as an "Olympics rematch," the race is the main attraction of a star-studded Grand Prix meet at London's Crystal Palace stadium.

Romania's Marieica Puica, the Olympic 3,000 winner, was invited to participate in the long-awaited showdown, but was withdrawn by her national federation on Wednesday.

That leaves center stage to Slaney, 26, and Budd, 18.

Center stage was theirs, too, inside the Los Angeles Coliseum on the night of Aug. 10.

Slaney, the U.S. middle-distance track queen known then as Mary Decker, took the lead at the start. The wispy Budd, running barefoot, as was her custom in her native South Africa, soon fell in behind the American.

As they came off a turn, with little more than 1,200 meters to go, Budd edged toward the inside and narrowed the opening in front of Slaney. As she kicked, Budd's bare foot brushed Slaney's right thigh.

Budd struggled to maintain her balance, Slaney lost hers and fell to the infield grass, writhing in pain.

Budd looked back in disbelief, but kept running. She crossed the finish line in seventh place, the crowd booing and tears racing down her face.

Puica, who had managed to avoid Slaney as she fell, went on to win the gold medal.

Budd tried to approach the injured Slaney as Richard Slaney, the British discus thrower she married on Jan. 1, carried her off the track.

"Don't bother," Slaney said, turning away the teen-ager who idolized her.

Later, she said she blamed Budd for the fall: "I hold her responsible."

Budd fled to South Africa, the country she left to gain British citizenship so she could compete at the Los Angeles Games.

Curiously, during a U.S. television interview last week in Seattle, Budd said she had deliberately slowed down after colliding with Slaney for fear of being booed even more harshly if she had won.

NL All-Star skipper tabs McGee, Guerrero

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Dick Williams rectified two fan oversights by naming Willie McGee and Pedro Guerrero to the National League All-Star team today, while two perennial American League All-Stars — Rod Carew and Reggie Jackson — will miss Tuesday night's game.

Williams and American League Manager Sparky Anderson filled out their rosters today by naming their teams' reserve players for the game at the Minnesota Twins' Metrodome.

Results of fan balloting for the two leagues' starting teams were announced Thursday. While neither McGee of St. Louis nor Guerrero of Los Angeles received enough fan support to make the starting team, they were among the five reserve outfielders named by Williams. McGee leads the National League with a batting average of .349, and Guerrero is tied with starting All-Star Dale Murphy of Atlanta for the league lead with 21 homers.

At the same time, Anderson passed over Carew and Jackson, both of the California Angels, as he announced the American League reserves.

Carew failed to make the squad for the first time in his 19 major league seasons, beginning in 1967. Carew is the all-time leading vote-getter in what is billed as North America's largest non-political election, having received 33,331,174 votes since fans began picking the team again in 1970. He got 728,070 votes this year, finishing second in balloting among first basemen behind Eddie Murray of Baltimore, who had 778,477.

"No, I'm not disappointed," Carew said. "Murray is having a

PEDRO GUERRERO
... hot hitting Dodger

great year and he deserves to be there.

Jackson, who has 15 homers and 44 RBIs, has been selected to 14 All-Star teams since 1969, including the past eight. He was fourth in balloting behind Dave Winfield and Rickey Henderson of the New York Yankees and Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox.

"I'd loved to have made it, but the fans picked some deserving fellows," Jackson said. "It would have been tough to keep a guy like Henderson off."

Williams' other reserves were outfielders Jose Cruz of Houston, Dave Parker of Cincinnati and Tim Lincecum of Montreal; infielders Jack Clark of St. Louis, Pete Rose of Cincinnati, Ryne Sandberg of Chicago, Garry Templeton of San Diego and Tim Wallach of Montreal; and catchers Tony Pena of Pittsburgh and Ozzie Virgil of Philadelphia.

Anderson's reserves were outfielders Harold Baines of Chicago, Tom Brunansky of Minnesota, Phil Bradley of Seattle and Gary Ward of Texas; infielders Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee, Don Mattingly of New York, Damaso Garcia of Toronto, Wade Boggs of Boston, Paul Molitor of Milwaukee and Alan Trammell of Detroit; and catchers Carlton Fisk of Chicago and Ernie Whit of Toronto.

The elected National League starters were catcher Gary Carter of New York, first baseman Steve Garvey of San Diego, second baseman Tom Herr of St. Louis, shortstop Ozzie Smith of St. Louis,

Blue Jays keep winning

By The Associated Press
 Jesse Barfield is giving the Toronto Blue Jays a shot in the arm this season in more ways than one. While contributing 13 home runs to the Blue Jays' offense, Barfield has also made some spectacular throws from right field to gun down runners attempting to take an extra base on his fine arm.

Thursday night, his 10th assist of the season helped Toronto defeat the California Angels 5-3 in a battle of American League division leaders.

In other American League action, it was Minnesota 5, Detroit 1; Oakland 9, Milwaukee 3; Kansas City 1, Cleveland 0; Baltimore 7, Chicago 6; New York 11, Texas 7; and Boston 7, Seattle 1.

AL Roundup

Barfield nailed Carew attempting to go from second to third base on a seventh-inning fly ball. Carew had led off the seventh with a double, his third hit of the game, and tried advancing to third when Juan Beniquez followed with a fly to Barfield. But the throw gained importance as both Reggie Jackson and Doug DeCinces followed with singles.

Meanwhile, Willie Upshaw snapped a 3-3 tie with a fifth-inning single and George Bell contributed a pair of RBI singles to lead the Blue Jays' offense.

Twins 5, Tigers 1
 Mike Smithson pitched a six-hitter for eight innings and Mark Salas doubled home a pair of runs to key Minnesota's three-run fifth inning and lead the Twins over Detroit. It was the Twins' fifth triumph without a defeat this season over the defending world champions.

The Twins broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth, getting to Randy O'Neal, 5-2, who had his winning streak snapped at four games.

A's 9, Brewers 3
 Mickey Tettleton homered, singled and scored three runs and Don

Texas Rangers shortstop CURTIS WILKERSON lies on the ground after being hit in the helmet by a pitch from New York Yankees pitcher Joe Cowley. Umpire MARTY SPRINGSTEAD and catcher RON HASSEY check to see if Wilkerson is alright.

Sutton won his sixth straight game as Oakland defeated Milwaukee. The A's handed Sutton, 9-5, an early six-run lead, scoring three runs in the second inning against Pete Vuckovich, 3-7, and three more off reliever Jaime Cocanower in the third.

Royals 1, Indians 0
 Danny Jackson tossed a six-hitter and George Brett's first-inning home run provided the game's only run as Kansas City blanked Cleveland.

Yankees 11, Rangers 7
 Don Mattingly hit a tie-breaking three-run double and Don Baylor capped an eight-run fourth inning with a pinch-hit grand-slam homer as New York beat Texas.

Mattingly's double — his major-league-leading 26th — followed an infield single by Ken Griffey off Texas starter Glen Cook, 2-1, that loaded the bases. It came after Mattingly narrowly missed a grand slam when his upper-deck smash just missed the right-field foul pole at Yankee Stadium. Mattingly's double, an opposite-field blast to left-center, gave the Yankees a 7-4 lead and Baylor later hit his slam to sew it up for the Yankees.

Dodgers foil Cubs strategy

By The Associated Press
Astros 4, Mets 3
 Houston's Nolan Ryan — who has struck out more batters, pitched more no-hitters and struck out 10 or more in a game more times than anybody in baseball history — didn't seem too impressed with his latest endeavor.

"It was good to see the fans get involved in something like this and I'm glad to see it turned out in a positive way with us winning," Ryan said in a typical low-key reaction to the writing of another chapter in the baseball history book.

The record will show that the 38-year-old Ryan fanned New York's Danny Heep to start the sixth inning Thursday night for the 4,000th strikeout of his 19-year career.

NL Roundup

And it will show that long after Ryan had left with 11 strikeouts and a career total 4,004, the Astros got a run in the 12th inning to beat the Mets 4-3, ending a nine-game winning streak, the longest in the National League this season.

Elsewhere in the NL, it was Los Angeles 3, Chicago 1; Pittsburgh 6, San Francisco 4; Cincinnati 2, Montreal 0; Atlanta 3, Philadelphia 2, and St. Louis 6, San Diego 0.

Cardinals 6, Padres 0
 St. Louis, hoping to run away in the NL East, used the talents of Vince Coleman, Willie McGee and associates to steal eight bases against slumping San Diego. The Cardinals, led by Coleman with 62 and McGee with 36, have swiped 169 bases.

Both Coleman and McGee had two hits, three stolen bases and scored two runs to back John Tudor, who won his ninth straight game. Tudor, 10-7, who worked out of a first-inning jam, retired 18 of the last 20 San Diego hitters to post his fourth shutout.

Jack Clark hit his 15th homer for the Cardinals, who extended their lead in the East to 3½ games over New York and Montreal.

One of the highs a major leaguer can experience is getting a crucial base hit right after they've intentionally walked the previous batter. Steve Yeager found himself in that position when Chicago walked Candy Maldonado to load the bases in the seventh inning.

Yeager foiled the strategy with a two-run single that broke a scoreless tie and led Los Angeles to its fourth straight victory.

Bob Welch, 3-1, lost his shutout bid in the eighth. Ken Howell pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings for the Dodgers to earn his ninth save.

Reds 2, Expos 0
 Rookie Ron Robinson is perfect record-wise as a major league pitcher, and Cincinnati teammate Ted Power hasn't been too shabby, either.

Robinson, 5-0, and Power combined on a seven-hitter for the Reds, with Power working out of an eighth-inning jam to get his 16th save and seventh in his last seven opportunities.

The Reds, who broke a three-game losing streak, got run-scoring singles by Dann Bilardello and Gary Redus in the seventh inning. Joe Hesketh, 5-4, took the loss for Montreal.

Pirates 6, Giants 4
 Tony Pena started running and didn't want to stop. Although his run was just insurance, Pena was trying to fire up a team that has been last in the NL West since April 1984.

After driving in the go-ahead run, Pena scored all the way from first base in the fifth inning on the third of four singles by Joe Orsulak, who also had two stolen bases.

Johnny Ray hit his fifth homer, a two-run shot, for the Pirates, while the Giants' Bob Brenly connected for his 11th homer.

Pittsburgh's Cecilio Guante handed San Francisco its fifth straight loss with 5 2-3 innings of six-strikeout relief.

Braves 3, Phillies 2
 When Atlanta's Rafael Ramirez looked up and saw five infielders, he wasn't sure what to make of it. Philadelphia Manager John Fiske decided to place outfielder Von Hayes behind second base and go with only two outfielders with the game tied, nobody out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth inning.

The game-winning hit, a drive to right-center field off Larry Andersen, 3-3, was Ramirez's third single of the night and extended his hitting streak to 10 games. Juan Samuel hit his eighth homer and Glenn Wilson drove in his 60th run of the season to account for the Phillies' runs.

LON HINKLE, of Dallas, laments a missed birdie putt on the eighth green during first round play of the Anheuser-Busch Classic.

Hinkle leads Bush Classic

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — After taking a week off from the PGA Tour to work on a problem with his swing, Lon Hinkle saw a definite improvement in the first round of the $500,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

"It was a real nice round," Hinkle said Thursday after he birdied three of the last four holes enroute to a 7-under-par 64 and a two-stroke lead over veteran Jay Haas and first-year players Mike Hulbert and Steve Pate.

"I made some good putts, and I'm very pleased," said Hinkle, who has three victories since joining the tour in 1972 but none since the 1979 World Series of Golf.

Hinkle, with 32s on each side, was one of 89 golfers to match or better par during Thursday's round over the 6,746-yard, par-71 Kingsmill Golf Club course, carded 32s on both sides.

After finishing 56th at Atlanta three weeks ago and then 52nd at Memphis, Hinkle passed up the Canadian Open and went home to Dallas to work on the flaw in his swing.

"It was an incomplete backswing," Hinkle said of the problem. "I have a tendency to start my downswing before I finish my backswing. I just have to slow down a little bit and relax."

"I was very conscious of my swing today," added the 35-year-old Hinkle, who is 65th on the money list year with a best finish of seventh in the Tournament Players Championship. Playing the back nine first, Hinkle made the first of his seven birdies on the 179-yard, par-3 13th.

A good approach shot on the par-4 16th set up his second birdie, and he used a 9-iron to get within five feet for a birdie 3 on the 408-yard 18th.

Hinkle moved to 4-under at the par-3 second hole and stayed there until the sixth, when he began his final assault. Following his drive on No. 6, Hinkle used a wedge to reach the fringe of the green of the 365-yard hole, and rolled in a 12-foot putt. He reached the green of the 516-yard seventh in two shots, and two-putted for another birdie, and concluded with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 452-yard, par-4 ninth hole.

"I've been through some highs and lows," Hinkle said. "I haven't been very high lately, but I'm holding my own."

Haas used a string of five straight birdies to carve out a 30 for the back nine after settling for an even-par 36 on the front. "I was pretty aggressive today," said Haas. "I haven't played in three weeks. My last tournament was the U.S. Open. Being off for three weeks, I guess I got my batteries recharged."

Haas, whose best finish this year was a fifth at the Masters, got four of his birdies on par-4 holes and also birdied the par-3 13th. Another stroke back at 67 were Paul Azinger, Frank Conner, Wayne Grady, Mark Hayes, Mike Reid and Larry Rinker.

The one day camps will be conducted at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It is open to youth ages 8-17 who haven't competed in basketball on a varsity level. Cost is $26 per person with a $6 deposit required to insure a spot camp.

The camp will last from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Instructors at the camp include former Howard College and Wayland Baptist guard Roy Green, Howard College guard Bruce Kimble, University of Hawaii guard Jerald Wrightsil and Angelo State Rambelles player Kristi Adams and Hardins Simmons University performer Laura Baum.

Rounding out the list of instructors are ex-Big Spring Steers player Mike Howie and Hawk-Queens guard Monette Wise.

Deadline to enter is July 31. To register call Howard College at 267-6311 ext. 315, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

AJRA Rodeo

The Big Spring American Junior Rodeo Association Rodeo will be held July 24-27 at the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl.

Contestants must be 19 years or younger and must not be married. Entry forms must be turned in by July 17. They can be mailed to Wandra Driver, Sterling City Rt, Box 41-A, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Lambert retires

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jack Lambert, whose snarling intensity was the defensive trademark of the Pittsburgh Steelers' four Super Bowl championships, retired after 11 seasons as one of pro football's top linebackers.

Lambert said he decided to retire because he has not healed from a dislocated big toe that benched him for most of last season.

Mayotte reaches semis

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Second-seeded Tim Mayotte survived a stiff challenge from Marc Flur to win their quarterfinal match in the Volvo Tennis Hall of Fame Championships.

Mayotte, ranked No. 18 in the world, weathered an erratic serve and beat Flur, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Sixth-seeded John Sadri upset No. 3 Scott Davis 6-3, 7-5.

Ban lifted on English soccer

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Effective immediately, English soccer clubs will be permitted to play games against foreign teams outside Europe, the International Football Federation said in easing a worldwide ban.

A FIFA communique said the action does not, however, affect the ban on playing European teams.

Baseball talks making very little progress

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association, says it isn't necessary for the union to acknowledge that owners have financial problems before an agreement is reached.

"Even if those disagreements (over teams' financial status) persist, we still must negotiate an agreement," Fehr said after a one-hour meeting between the two sides Thursday. "The only way we know how to do it, with the backdrop of the past several months, is to go back to the nuts and bolts, the issues, on as intensive a basis as the parties feel is likely to allow us to make progress."

The two sides canceled a meeting scheduled for today. They will not meet again until next Thursday, after the All-Star break and after the union meets Monday in Chicago to set a strike deadline.

"After the strike date is set, whether it turns into several days or several weeks or something in between, it isn't very much time, especially compared to what we have to do and compared with the remarkable progress we have not been able to make in eight months," Fehr said.

The players' chief negotiator added, however, that he has not given up hope for a settlement without a strike.

"Far more sophisticated agreements have been negotiated in shorter periods in other industries," Fehr said. "The auto workers take no more than three weeks."

Lee MacPhail, president of the Player Relations Committee, agreed with Fehr that the financial status issue shouldn't prevent a settlement.

"Their position is maybe we will never reach absolute agreement on the problem, but we still have to agree on the financial problems or not," MacPhail said. "There may always be disagreement by the two sides on that issue."

MacPhail added that the union's analysis of teams' financial material has held up progress in the negotiations.

"When that's done, we'll proceed rapidly, whether there's a strike vote or not," MacPhail said. "The clubs are just as frustrated as the players with the time it has taken. We knew it would take a long time when we brought the problems to the players. We were reluctant, but we had no alternative."

Ex-NFL star rates USFL high

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

National Football League types are fond of sneering at the infidels who decided three years ago that what this country needed was another pro football league. The Park Avenue party line is that the United States Football League is a home for second-rate talent.

Lynn Swann, once a pretty good NFL player himself, doesn't exactly agree.
"The most productive and improving area in the USFL has been the quality of talent in the field," said
Swann, who will broadcast the USFL championship game between the Baltimore Stars and Oakland Invaders for ABC Sunday. "There has been a marked improvement in the three years."

And, what's more, Swann said, the NFL knows it.
"I talk to scouts. I talk to owners. They want you to believe they don't pay attention but they are looking at the league constantly."

That is not to say that all the players you will see on the field at the Meadowslands Sunday belong in the NFL. "It's tough to say that two-thirds of them belong," Swann said. "It's tough to say half of them belong. But there are NFL players."

"Kelvin Bryant is a very gifted, instinctive, fluid runner. Chuck Fusina can pull a team together.
That's a talent. Guys like Gordon Banks, Ray Pinney, Bobby Hebert, Scott Fitzkee, Pete Kugler, Irv Eatman, Mike Lush, Jonathan Sutton, Antonio Gibson, and Sam Mills can play."

All that sounds like pretty positive talk for a guy the USFL has accused of being rather negative in his broadcasts. Swann's view of the league was one of the items the young league cited when it sued ABC for $7 million a couple of months ago. The ex-wide receiver pleads innocent to the charges.

"I think we've done the job that has been expected of us," he said. "If someone's a murderer, you say he's a murderer. If someone's on trial, you say he's been charged."

"There are good things and there are bad things about this league. The USFL wants to hear only the good things. That's unfair to the viewers. Our intention is to be honest."

So, in the interest of honesty, Swann honestly can't figure out how USFL players are going to be able to sit through an idle year while the league makes its planned switch from spring to fall football.

"It's tough for players to sit out a year or year and a half," he said. "Birmingham has a safety, Chuck Clanton out of Auburn. He didn't play his last year in college. Last year he was just OK for the Stallions.
This year, he made 16 interceptions and was great."

"Part of it was that layoff. He had lost some of that game edge. To feel comfortable you have to have all the learned skills respond instinctively. Going back is tough. It takes time to get back into it. Get away for too long and you lose certain things. You don't get it back right away."

Swann never thought about going back after abruptly leaving the Pittsburgh Steelers following the 1983 season. "I had nine seasons. I had four Super Bowl rings. I was ready to leave football," he said.

After Sunday, Swann will make some charity appearances and then sit in as a TV talk show host in Pittsburgh for two months. Then he'll return to Los Angeles for classes at The Loft, an acting workshop.
He has done episodes of "The Paper Chase" and "Hotel."

"I was supposed to read for 'Good Times.' They were casting for the boy friend of the daughter in the family. He was supposed to be a football player."

"When I got there, they wouldn't let me read, though. I asked them why and they said, 'You don't look like a football player.'"
