How's that?

K mart

Q. What does the "K" stand for in K-mart?
A. K mart stores began in 1899 as the S.S. Kresge Co. The company was founded by Sebastian S. Kresge. With Harry B. Cunningham as president, the name was changed to K mart, keeping Kresge's initial. The first K mart discount department store was opened in 1966 in Detroit.

Catender Dance

TODAY

Flooding kills 100 people

Dam breaks; waters pour into Italian tourist area

ROME (AP) — The retaining wall of a dam crumbled today after recent thunderstorms, and flood waters poured into a popular tourist area in northern Italy's Dolomite mountains, killing at least 100 people, officials said.

Italian state television quoted the civil defense minister, Giuseppe Zamberletti, as saying at least 100 people perished, and other officials said the toll in the disaster may be as high as 200.

The dam site, near the village of Stava in the Val di Fiemme, is 193 miles northeast of Milan. The closest major city, Bolzano, is 29 miles away.

The Civil Defense Ministry said initial reports were that the dam collapsed but that later information said an earthen retaining wall gave way, pouring mud and water over as many as 20 houses and four hotels.

The waters of a mountain stream, swollen by recent storms, rushed toward the break and a big gush of water burst out in the first 20 seconds, the Civil Defense Ministry said.

"Many families were wiped out with their houses," said Alma Bernard, who owns a hotel in Tesero, a little over one mile from the disaster scene. "Earth and mud cover the village," she said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

The Italian news agency ANSA said 50 bodies had been recovered so far.

A mass of water and mud was reported to have rushed 3½ miles down the valley.

The four hotels hit by the wave of water are located at an altitude of about 3,600 feet in an area dotted with mountain lakes beneath snow capped peaks of the Dolomites. The hotels had a total of about 160 guests.

Man dies in collision

Fatality becomes area's fourth one this week

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

The Crossroads Country recorded its fourth fatality in a week with the death of Kenneth Hendry, 31, of San Angelo Thursday evening in Garden City.

Hendry died instantly after the pickup truck he was driving collided head-on with another pickup on Highway 158, five miles east of Garden City. Justice of the Peace J.E. Wooten of Glasscock County pronounced him dead at the scene at 5:15 p.m.

William Fair Jr., 25, of Lamesa is listed in critical condition and suffering from "multiple trauma" at Lubbock General Hospital, a hospital spokesman said this morning. He was initially brought to Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring following the accident and later transferred to Lubbock.

Keith W. Truitt, 18, of O'Donnell is listed in "critical but stable condition" at Malone-Hogan Hospital, a hospital spokesman said this morning. He underwent surgery Thursday evening and is suffering from internal injuries, a broken left leg and multiple lacerations and abrasions, the spokesman said.

Fair was driving westbound and "crossed the center stripe and struck" Hendry's vehicle "approximately head-on," according to the Department of Public Safety report, Capt. Tony White of Midland said. The accident occurred at about 4:15 p.m., he said.

Truitt was a passenger in the truck driven by Fair, according to the DPS report.

Fair was thrown out from his vehicle upon impact. Hendry and Truitt were pinned inside their vehicles and had to be removed by the jaws of life.

Louis Latimer, a Sterling County emergency service ambulance driver, said they were notified by the Glasscock Sheriff's Department of the accident and also were requested to bring the jaws of life.

Needing a job?

Try Capitol Hill says one official

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enough is enough, says Rep. Silvio Conte, claiming that Capitol Hill is awash with excess employees.

He says there are so many garage attendants he's afraid he'll run over one of them some morning on his way to work. The size of the congressional police force — 2.3 officers for each member of Congress — make him feel like a hostage.

Elevator attendants operate elevators that already are automated, and there are 72 doorkeepers — 30 more than when Conte first came to Washington in 1959.

"I have gone around and checked the House and Senate and there isn't one additional door," Conte said Thursday while serving notice he intends to cut into the 31,000-member Capitol Hill work force.

The Massachusetts Republican's remarks came as the House approved, 263-135, a money bill of more than $1 billion for congressional operations and support functions for fiscal year 1986. The measure was sent to the Senate.

The measure included a provision prohibiting the Library of Congress from printing Playboy in Braille.

The action, 216-193, to slash $103,000 from the library's account covering Braille translations came after Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, complained of articles portraying "wanton idleness and illicit sex" in Playboy.

"I would say most of the blind people in my district think there is a better way to use their money," Wylie said.

But Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., called Wylie's amendment absurd, and told his colleagues that classics such as James Joyce's "Ulysses" "get kind of earthy-sometimes."

And Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., complained the action moved Congress into the "censorship business."

Reagan expected at White House by Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, described today as "fast returning to championship form," could be back in the White House as early as Saturday — one week after his cancer surgery.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said this morning that Reagan "has been holding forth with the doctors and nurses in his suite in an animated discussion of current issues."

The morning White House medical update said Reagan had a breakfast of fresh papaya, poached eggs, buttered whole wheat toast with honey, coffee and skim milk.

The 74-year-old president, Speakes quoted his physicians as saying, "is fast returning to championship form." Speakes said Reagan is "anxious to return home and get back on the job as soon as possible."

On Thursday, Speakes again quoted the president's doctors as saying Reagan would be released seven to 10 days after last weekend's operation, which could make his return to the Reagan appeared publicly Thursday for the first time since he entered the hospital July 12, giving reporters an OK sign from his third-floor balcony at Bethesda Naval Hospital when they asked how he was feeling. In other moves that accentuated the positive: —Vice President George Bush, one day after paying his first visit to the convalescing president, made telephone calls to foreign leaders in which he was quoted by a spokesman as saying, "The best medical evidence is that the president will make a full recovery and resume duties here at the White House next week."

—The White House announced that Reagan will meet in September with the new Soviet foreign minister, Eduard Shevardnadze, and an administration official said privately the president may also address the United Nations General Assembly in New York that month as he has in the past.

—White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan, addressing members of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, predicted the president "will be full of vigor" after a three-week stay at his ranch in California beginning in mid-August and "we will pursue a very active course this fall" in pursuit of Reagan's tax overhaul plan.

—Speakes said Reagan attended to more business Thursday than on any day since his operation and would probably

Michener's Texas

Prize-winning author sketches saga of Lone Star State

AUSTIN (AP) — James Michener, a "new Texan," has this to say to old Texans: "I have written a novel made up stories about your great state, and I would be distraught if Texans did not like the book."

The Pulitzer Prize-winning author of 31 books has put his Texas manuscript in the hands of editors.

It's a book, he says, about much more than just cattle and oil. And typically, he's already set out on his next epic — Alaska.

"Alaska is very similar to Texas," says Michener. "It's a frontier. Alaska is 1888, it's just unbelievable."

Several years ago, Michener, now 78, was weighing possibilities for a new "big book," wavering between Texas and the Caribbean. An invitation from then-Gov. Bill Clements of Texas tipped the scales.

Michener had traveled in Texas since 1936, "so I was far from a novice," and he began research at the University of Texas at Austin in October 1982. Michener had ties with UT-Austin in that he and his wife, Mari, had given the school 400 works of 20th century American art in 1968.

"I think it should be understood that this was an intellectual invitation — no perquisites or funds or anything else were involved. They, I think, would be available but guys like me don't do that," said Michener. "We write on our own and we take our chances."

The only promise, Michener said, was that he could have an office at UT-Austin and library privileges.

Later, private funds donated to UT were made available to finance Michener's research, and in October 1984 it was announced that he would assume a permanent role in a UT program for creative writing.

Michener and his wife have since bought a house, "so presumably we will be staying here for a long time. These things work out by accident. When I came here, we had no intention of staying."

When he wasn't poring through books on Texas, Michener was: —Riding Interstate 35 with a state trooper and a barge down the Gulf of Mexico, courtesy of Texas

Author James Michener says his latest novel, with the state of Texas as its focus, is in the hands of editors. He already has begun work on his next epic, about Alaska.

A&M University.

—Watching high school football — one San Antonio school he remembers in wonderment "had 11 assistant coaches" — and a quail hunt on the King Ranch in South Texas.

—Sharing duty with a Texas Ranger in Big Bend country.

—Visiting an armadillo farm.

—Pacing the boundaries of the Alamo.

—Bouncing down the Frio River in the back of a pickup.

—Attending so many cattle sales "you wouldn't believe it because I wanted to know how these doctors are laundering their money."

"I was a very willing visitor. I would suppose that I have been out on 40 or 50 soires like that, at least if they coincided with what I was interested in or coincided with what I was obligated to know about," he said.

But with his project winding down, Michener took time recently to answer questions from local journalists and, at a separate function, from members of the Headliners Club in Austin.

On both occasions, Michener refused to glorify Texas for the sake of applause.

"There are many things you in Texas prize and cherish that the rest of us take as ordinary experiences," he told the Headliners and was greeted with laughter.

Michener spoke of various regions contributing to the leadership of the country — New England "intellectual," Virginia "social and spiritual," New York "financial, theatrical and managerial" and California "wonderful lifestyle and television and cinema" — and he was asked what role he might expect for Texas.

"I don't think football is enough," he said, and again there was laughter, "but I don't yet see specifically what it is going to be."

Asked by Liz Carpenter, former press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson, if he had witnessed a changing Texas from his first visits, Michener said:

"The people you've allowed into your state without a passport have modified Texas to an extent, but like a good soup stock, it's strong enough to accept anything thrown into the pot and still be a Texas soup."

Michener said his new novel, which will be published this fall, starts with the arrival of the Spaniards in Texas in the early 16th century and focuses upon the Spanish-Mexican heritage for the first three chapters, "and then moves into the arrival of other groups. It ends in November of 1985."

"I would say the happiest moment I've had working in Texas was when I decided very early" that his book "was not going to be a book about Spindletop (oil) ... but you have to have a main thread, and I had very early decided on cotton," Michener said.

"It does not focus overly much on oil and cattle, because other writers have done that better than I could do it, and it doesn't need to be done. It is written primarily, I think, for a non-Texas audience. I think you will know most of what's in it," he said.

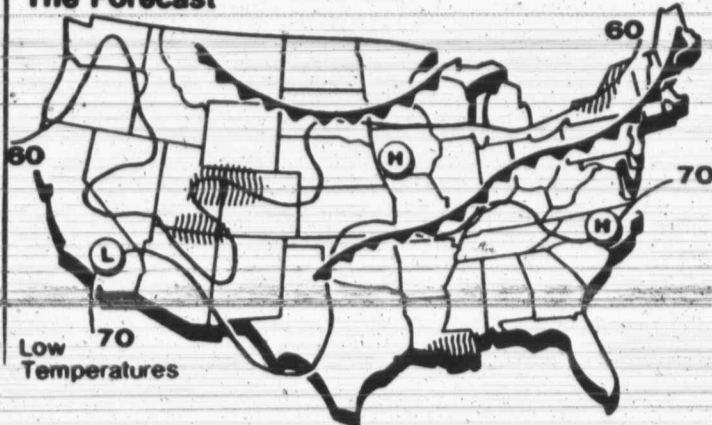

There's a chapter on water, "which might be one of the good ones," Michener says, "a handful of historical characters" — Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin — "who make appearances," and a chapter where the hero is a longhorn bull.

In writing his next novel about the Pacific Ocean and Alaska, Michener said he will have "round out the work I began almost 40 years ago with 'Tales of the South Pacific,'" which won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction in 1948.

"My landscape is by no means unlimited," Michener said. "It's very limited, really, but it's a rich one and I've got enough ideas to keep me busy the rest of the century."

Local

Today, look for temperatures to reach 100. There is a 20 percent chance for thunderstorms to continue through tonight. On Saturday, the chance for thunderstorms will increase to 30 percent, and the highs will be in the upper 90s. The extended forecast calls for mostly sunny days and fair nights.

State

More dry, humid weather was expected across Texas today with temperatures again topping the 100-degree mark in many areas. Early in the day, scattered low clouds advanced from the Gulf of Mexico into sections of South and South Central Texas.

While most of the state was expected to remain dry, an upper level disturbance in the northern gulf region triggered very heavy thunderstorms over southeastern portions of the state and from near Victoria to west of Freeport and near Beaumont.

Overnight temperatures were in the 70s statewide except in the Davis Mountains of West Texas where a few mid 60s were reported. Winds were generally southerly to southeasterly at speeds of 5 to 10 mph.

The National Weather Service was calling for mostly clear skies and fair conditions today through Saturday with temperatures continuing to reach the upper 90s in most areas of the state and beyond the 100-degree mark in extreme southern areas of the state and in the Big Bend valleys.

Some scattered afternoon and evening showers were expected in some areas of the state today decreasing through Saturday.

Overnight lows were expected to range from the 50s in the mountains of West Texas to the 70s elsewhere.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS — A slight chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms, otherwise partly cloudy days and fair nights continuing Sunday through Tuesday.

Panhandle and South Plains: Highs lower to mid 90s. Lows mid to upper 60s.

Far West, Permian Basin and Concho Valley: Highs mid 90s. Lows upper 60s to lower 70s.

Big Bend: Highs upper 80s mountains to around 102 along Rio Grande. Lows upper 50s mountains to lower 70s along the river.

make a decision by the end of the week on a successor to Budget Director David A. Stockman, who is leaving one of the key positions in the administration to become a banker.

The president regaled nurses with a recital of two poems by Yukon writer Robert W. Service — "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" and "The Cremation of Sam McGee." Speakes lightheartedly described Reagan's delivery as "flawless."

Speakes also said it was undecided whether Reagan would deliver his regular Saturday radio address. The president confined himself to gestures in answering reporters' questions during his balcony appearance. When he was asked if he was hoarse, his wife, Nancy, standing at his side, said, "It's easier for me" to speak.

Reagan made a non-committal gesture from his balcony when reporters asked when he would be coming home. The first lady said, "As soon as they say it's OK."

Since the White House has said that Reagan will meet with visiting Chinese President Li Xiannian on Tuesday morning, it appeared likely that he would return to the White House on Monday at the latest, barring a hitch in his recovery.

"We'll make a big to-do of it," Speakes said.

Bush said he telephoned world leaders because some people reading White House medical reports were "wondering whether these reports are really euphorically optimistic."

Marlin Fitzwater, the vice president's press secretary, quoted him as saying of Reagan, "He is vigorous in his conversation and asking about when he can leave the hospital. The medical information that has been made public is accurate."

The president himself was quoted by his staff as saying, "I'm feeling great."

Mrs. Reagan said they both were in good spirits. Asked what the president looked forward to most, she replied, "Just being home."

The president returned to a solid food diet Thursday for the first time in eight days, indicating that his digestive process was returning to normal.

A White House statement said Reagan "continues to recover well from surgery."

"After a lunch of soup and crackers, he spent much of the afternoon reading news magazines and tending to routine paperwork," the statement said. "He also walked about in the suite and reviewed the many get-well cards and floral arrangements that have been sent him there."

Robert C. McFarlane, the White House national security adviser, briefed the president firsthand for the first time since he entered the hospital last Friday, Reagan had been receiving written briefings on national security developments.

Speakes said they discussed arms control, terrorism and the seven kidnapped Americans still missing in Beirut.

Conte succeeded in persuading the House to trim 10 garage attendants, through attrition. The savings would total about $230,000.

Declaring the 64 garage attendants are "just too many," Conte said, "I am concerned about those poor people. ... They must have terrible problems because they sit in those chairs all day long ..."

Later, he said he feared he would run over a garage attendant driving his car into one of the underground lots.

Congress, however, rejected an amendment that would have trimmed roughly $107,000 in expenses for the elevator operators.

GM selects plant site; details not available

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. knows where it wants to put its Saturn carmaking complex but has reached no agreements with local officials, a GM spokesman said today.

"We know where we think we want it to go," spokesman Stan Hall said. "But no decision has been made."

Hall said the preferred place might not land Saturn if GM isn't satisfied with the site negotiations.

"We may not be able to go there, for any number of reasons," Hall said, declining to elaborate.

No GM official has disclosed publicly the sites the company has examined. Mentioned widely in various news reports as possible finalists are southwestern Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

GM wants to reach a labor agreement with the United Auto Workers union before announcing the site decision, Hall said.

Previously, GM had said reaching an agreement wasn't required for announcing the site. The company now wants to announce the two at the same time, Hall said.

"Everything converged," Hall said.

GM and the UAW have been bargaining for months to arrive at a letter of intent that would be the basis for later contract bargaining. The union leadership agreed to a plan earlier this month, but the ruling UAW Executive Board refused to accept it because of wages and other economic issues.

John Parish, press secretary to Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander, told the Lansing State Journal that GM has been in touch weekly with Tennessee's Department of Economic and Community Development.

"They have not told us what their decision would be," Parish said.

Kentucky has not been in contact with the automaker for three weeks, said David Lovelace, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

Michigan Gov. James Blanchard said last week that his state was among "one or two" finalists and he expected a decision within 10 days.

Three dozen states submitted detailed offers to lure Saturn and the 6,000 jobs and local economic boom expected to go with it.

The company missed a tentative May 1 deadline to announce a site, claiming it was swamped with offers.

Police seize 'coke' money

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities seized $3.9 million in alleged cocaine trafficking profits that a former official with the Mexican federal police deposited in two McAllen banks, a U.S. attorney said.

Rodolfo Moises Calvo, who worked with the Mexican police several years ago, allegedly controlled the bank accounts that drug agents seized in June, U.S. Attorney Henry K. Oncken said Thursday in Houston.

Oncken on Thursday filed papers in court seeking forfeiture of the money, which authorities say is linked to a ring run by drug kingpin Rafael Caro Quintero.

Authorities have been investigating the Quintero ring for two years.

The money and certificates of deposit were placed in various accounts at McAllen State Bank and Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association.

A clean-shaven family

MILWAUKEE — When Manuel Garcia returned home from the hospital, his head shaved because of hair loss from cancer treatments, he found an array of shiny pates waiting to greet him.

Garcia's family said at least 50 relatives and friends shaved their heads as a way of making Garcia feel like one of the crowd.

The special tributes began Sunday. Garcia said he was in the Milwaukee County Medical Complex that day when four visitors walked in.

"All I could see was baldheaded people," Garcia said.

He started laughing. His friends started laughing. The nurses finally had to tell them all to keep quiet.

Manson returns to jail

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Charles Manson, leader of the murderous Manson Family, was returned to San Quentin Prison on Thursday after nine years in the state's psychiatric prison in nearby Vacaville, prison officials said.

Department of Corrections spokesman Bob Gore described the move as "a routine shift." He said Manson was under heavy guard during the 50-mile automobile trip, with extra officers in pursuit cars.

Lt. Joe McGrath of the Vacaville prison said Manson had been "in and out of the psychiatric unit" at Vacaville over the past nine years, but he said confidentiality laws prohibited release of specifics of any treatment.

McGrath did say that in his last few years at Vacaville, Manson has been "less of a problem," and was finally ruled suitable for return to San Quentin.

Corpse goes for a ride

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — A man who went to sleep in his car after driving eight hours to seek work found his traveling companion dead in the passenger seat when he awoke and drove back home with the body, authorities said.

Dan Starks told police that he and Larry Lathrop, both 34, had slept in the car Monday night after reaching St. Louis on a job-hunting trip. Lathrop had complained of a headache and stomach ache after the drive, which was made with the windows open because of a faulty exhaust system.

"He was in a daze. He didn't know what to do," said Lumir Medulan, Starks' girlfriend's father, after Starks drove straight to Medulan's house, stopping three times for gasoline with the body beside him.

GE settles massive suits

ASHLAND, Ky. — A $10 million out-of-court settlement by General Electric Co. ended the last of an eight-year string of civil lawsuits on behalf of victims of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire, the plaintiffs' attorney said.

Class-action suits by the families of the 165 people killed and by 81 of those injured in the 1977 nightclub disaster have involved 1,100 defendants all told, netted $50 million in settlements and been a major project for Stanley Chesley for years, the Cincinnati lawyer said Thursday.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., talks to reporters after a closed session of the Senate Republican conference on the budget on Capitol Hill Thursday.

Budget ballyhoo

Congressional leaders try to revive talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole said today that Congress can do without criticism from presidential Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan as legislators search for fresh ideas to revive budget talks aimed at stopping the government's flood of red ink.

"We can't do it without Ronald Reagan; we could probably do it without Don Regan," Dole said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

Dole was commenting on Regan's angry, podium-thumping denunciation Thursday of Congress for failing to come to grips with cutting federal spending. The president's top aide also said it would be "disgraceful" if Congress broke off its budget talks.

Dole and Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., the House Budget Committee chairman, have indicated there still may be room for the House and Senate to work out a compromise version of varying fiscal 1986 budgets passed by each chamber.

Nonetheless, Dole says it is less than an even bet the effort will be successful.

Dole said today that the Senate "probably" will make "a legitimate counter-offer" to the House next week.

He added, "I don't think we can let passion overtake our responsibility."

But the smoke has yet to clear from an acrimonious session Wednesday when the talks broke down after Senate negotiators rejected a House compromise offer as being too little on serious domestic spending cuts.

Senators also said the offer violated an agreement with the president on military spending.

Regan, however, fanned the embers Thursday with his remarks and ranked Dole.

"There's enough blame to reach around to everyone" for lack of progress on the budget," Dole said today.

He added: "I don't get too excited about Don Regan blasting the Congress. It seems a little late for that ... particularly when he goes after Senate Republicans."

"I think he better come to the Hill and get acquainted with some of the senators who made the hard choices" in voting for the Senate budget, including a Social Security freeze the president backed, Dole said.

"We did a lot of things we didn't want to do. And the White House may have to do some things they don't want to do. This is tough business, it's not easy business. We want to work with the president."

On Thursday, Regan told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce:

"The federal government, the world's largest economy, the strength of the free world, is about to go into a new fiscal year without a budget. How ridiculous can you be?"

His voice rose as he said, "Did we not submit a budget? We did. Where is it now?"

Pounding the podium, Regan shouted, "It has not been passed by the Congress. No budget has been passed by the Congress. Why not?"

Dole and other GOP senators shrugged off Regan's remarks.

Dollar rises in trading

LONDON — The dollar rose against all major currencies except the Canadian dollar in early European trading today in what dealers described as a technical reaction to its prolonged slide. Gold prices dipped slightly.

Dealers said the dollar was also boosted by comments Thursday from U.S. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker. He predicted a stronger U.S. economic performance in the second half of the year and indicated the Fed doesn't intend to push the dollar lower through monetary policy.

Thursday's confirmation of sluggish economic activity in the United States during the first half of the year had little effect on the dollar, dealers said.

Korean delegates meet

PANMUNJOM, Korea — Red Cross delegates from South and North Korea deadlocked today in talks called to arrange an exchange of folk art troupes and hometown visits by separated families.

South Korea's chief delegate, Song Yong-dae, told a news conference after the closed-door session that no progress was made because the North stuck to its position that the proposed exchange of visits, agreed upon in principle earlier, should be confined to Pyongyang and Seoul. South Korea wants to include provincial areas.

Song said the meeting ended without setting a date for the next session. He said North Korea's communist government wanted to set the date through consultations later by telephone.

Chinese flood kills 275

PEKING — Dams burst, the earth caved in and 275 people died when torrential rains caused the worst flooding in several decades in southwest China this month, the Civil Affairs Ministry confirmed today.

About 30,000 homes were destroyed or damaged and the lives of 1.5 million people disrupted by the floodwaters in Guizhou and Sichuan provinces, the ministry said.

"The floods have abated now," ministry spokesman Zhang Xingguo told The Associated Press. The rains began about June 28 and caused the most serious damage in the first week of July.

Apartheid policy blasted

NAIROBI, Kenya — Israeli delegates to the U.N. women's conference today condemned South Africa's apartheid policy as abhorrent and anti-Semitic. On the fourth day of the conference marking the end of a decade dedicated by the United Nations to women, delegates also debated resolutions equating Zionism and racism.

At the Nairobi University campus, dozens of women from around the world staged an anti-Israeli demonstration, waving placards saying "down with Zionism."

A larger group protesting apartheid, South Africa's legalized racial segregation system, rallied at the university after police refused to allow it to march through downtown Nairobi. The protesters were led in song by black nationalists from the African National Congress and the South-West African People's Organization.

House approves aid to farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moving to aid farmers with newly harvested crops, the House approved $1 billion in emergency funding for the Agriculture Department to resume making price support loans to producers.

The action came a day after the government halted crop loans to farmers because the Commodity Credit Corp. was broke.

The emergency money measure went to the Senate, where it was expected to win approval today.

The House took advantage of a time-saving procedure and approved the $1 billion appropriation by unanimous consent. The CCC, which finances the government's crop support loan program, ran out of money because of a heavy drain from the newly harvested wheat crop.

Under the program, farmers can use their grain as collateral. At the end of the loan period, however, producers can give their crops to the government as repayment if market prices fall below the loan rate. If prices are higher, they sell their product, repay Uncle Sam and pocket the difference.

There's no nuke like a close nuke

If there's a silver lining behind every black cloud, perhaps we should consider the possibility that the converse is true. There's a little black cloud sprouting from word of that great silver boost to Abilene's economy.

The presence of the B1-B bomber squadron stationed just 110 miles to our east puts innocent little Big Spring mighty close to what now is an enhanced Soviet nuclear target.

Because they have military bases, both Abilene and San Angelo are "high-risk" areas, just as Big Spring was with the presence of Webb Air Force Base. But the B1-B escalates Abilene's ranking. It is now one of just four cities in Texas given the highest ranking of "counter-force high-risk."

What that technocratic label means is that Abilene's likely a priority target for the Soviets. If push comes to nuke, it'll be a big goal of the first strike nation to down the military capabilities of the enemy.

Of course, if push comes to nuke, it's likely the survivors will envy the dead. So how really important is it that Abilene gets hit a fraction of a second before everyone else?

Congress shouldn't limit plant closings

In the wake of Ronald Reagan's landslide victory last fall, you might expect Congress to shy away from saddling business with onerous new regulatory demands. But a bill to interfere with plant closings and worker layoffs looks like a good bet for passage by the House of Representatives. And its chances of becoming law are better than ever before.

One reason is that the bill, the latest in a long line, has been diluted considerably, so that it can be depicted as an eminently reasonable compromise. The changes have attracted some 105 co-sponsors, including six Republicans.

Past versions were radical infringements on the right of owners to close down their operations in deference to the dictates of consumers. They required a year's notice to employees and the payment of 85 percent of each worker's wages for a year, besides forcing firms to help in retraining and relocating employees.

By comparison — only by comparison — the new bill looks mild. It requires employers to provide 90 days notice before closing a plant or laying off 50 or more workers. They also must "consult" with employees on these plans and on alternatives. It also sets up a commission to study how the government should deal with the problems caused by plant closings.

This fast provision betrays the bill's real purpose, which is to establish the legitimacy of federal interference in these decisions. Once enshrined in law, the principle can justify a multitude of additional, more costly requirements — of the kind that were contained in past bills.

The burdens placed on corporations by this measure, emphasizes Rep. Will Clay, D-Mo., one of its main sponsors, are only "minimal first steps." The second and third steps, should this bill be enacted, aren't hard to imagine.

Even considered alone, these first steps shouldn't be taken. No one denies that a plant closing can cause distress and hardship for the workers and communities affected. But restricting corporations from shedding unprofitable operations will provide only short-term benefits, if any, while sowing long-term harm.

The central point is made most succinctly by Clemson University professor Richard McKenzie: "Any restriction on plant closings is also a restriction on openings." By raising the cost of shutting down a factory, this bill raises the risk of starting one. It is, in effect, a tax that will discourage such ventures. The inevitable result will be fewer plants and fewer jobs.

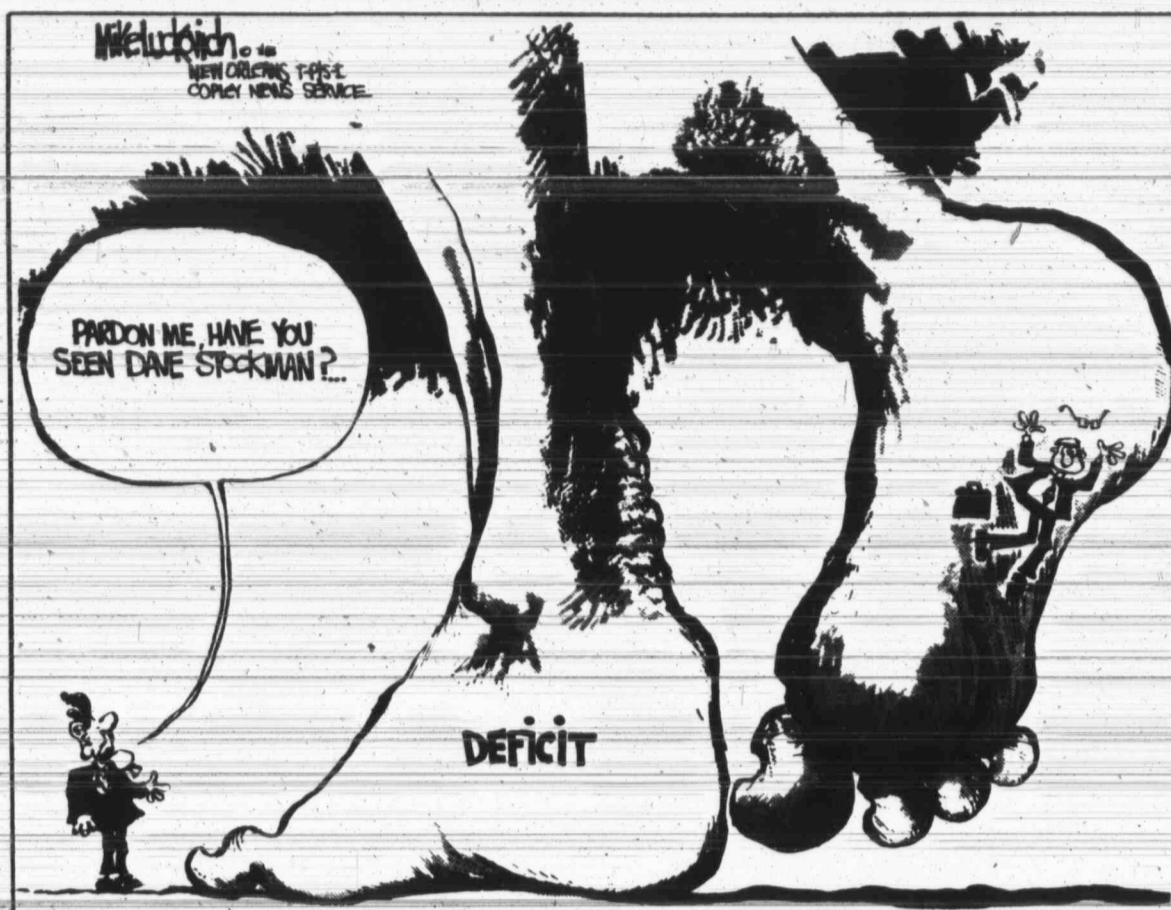

Companies also will be spurred to look for other ways to cut their employment in this country. They can replace people with machines, farm out work to subcontractors and shift operations abroad, where the laws are less unreasonable — all of which will minimize their vulnerability to this sort of regulation. That means an additional loss of jobs for Americans.

The proposal imposes a heavier burden than apparent at first glance. That 90-day notification period can be extended indefinitely by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service if it says the company hasn't consulted with its workers "in good faith." This provision assures a plague of litigation that will cause still more delay. And the language is so broad as to implicate not only closings and layoffs but almost every management decision.

If workers want protection against sudden layoffs, they have every right to bargain for it in labor contracts. These concessions can't be extracted at no cost to anyone. It's only fair that the workers who get any benefits from advance notification should bear the cost — not corporations or consumers, as they would under this proposal.

Besides systematically raising costs, this bill will make it harder for companies to respond to changes in consumer demand and competitive conditions. The freedom to cease operations is as crucial to a market system as the freedom to start them. Abridging it will not only diminish economic liberty but also stifle economic growth.

Jack Anderson

Former Sandinista leader unpredictable pragmatist

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — One of the early heroes of the Sandinista revolution in Nicaragua was a colorful and enigmatic leader best known as "Commander Zero." His real name is Eden Pastora, and he now is fighting against the Sandinistas he once served.

The profile we've pieced together, from interviews with past and present associates and from the CIA's secret files, leaves the mystery of Pastora unsolved. Is he a democrat, a Marxist or merely an adventurer? Dirty Harry or Davy Crockett? Eden Pastora Gomez was born about 48 years ago, the son of a Costa Rican mother and a Nicaraguan father who was killed by an officer in Anastasio Somoza's National Guard when the boy was 7. Educated by the Jesuits in Managua, young Pastora is remembered by a classmate as "a very bright kid."

He was studying medicine at the University of Guadalajara in 1959 when word of a student massacre led him to join the underground Sandinista movement. He was one of several student revolutionaries who were sent "to the exterior," meaning Cuba or the Soviet Union, to win support for the cause, while the older men fought as guerrillas in the mountains.

In 1963, a curious incident occurred that may have cast a long shadow over Pastora's later relations with his Marxist compatriots: The young rebel and a companion, Alejandro Martinez, were sent by Fidel Castro to Mexico to pick up $80,000 at the Soviet Embassy. The money was to be delivered to Castro, who would then disburse it to the Sandinistas.

But Castro never got the $80,000. Pastora refused to let Martinez accompany him to the embassy, and returned five hours later. Less than a month after that, Martinez was arrested in Havana, accused of being a CIA agent and of having stolen the Soviet money. He spent several years in prison before he finally won an interview with Castro and told him that Pastora had taken the $80,000. Castro evidently was convinced, because Martinez was released forthwith.

Pastora is the quintessential pragmatist, especially in matters of fund-raising and buying weapons. "We'll buy from the United States if they'll sell to us," he told our former associate Bob Sherman, who interviewed him in his jungle camp in the late 1970s. "We'll go to the American Mafia and the Soviets, if necessary." Pastora added.

In the summer of 1978, the rebel leader became famous when he and a small force of Sandinistas seized the National Palace in the heart of Managua and liberated 59 rebel prisoners.

During the months of civil war that followed, Pastora commanded the Sandinistas' southern front with mixed success. When Somoza fled and the Sandinistas entered Managua in triumph in 1979, Pastora still was pinned down by the national guard in the south. His late arrival in the capital may have cost him a top spot in the ruling junta.

As it was, he served in a couple of second-echelon jobs and finally resigned in July 1981. He traveled to Cuba, Libya and Costa Rica, where he publicly denounced his former comrades-in-arms in April 1982, and formed his own anti-Sandinista force. In the years since, Pastora has excelled at raising money and recruiting soldiers, but has had little success in the field.

A quixotic blend of showman, soldier, patriot and womanizer, Pastora is a genuine "caudillo," or leader of men. He has more lives than a cat, and President Reagan is known to be more than a little concerned that some unforeseen twist of fate could put Pastora in the presidential palace in Managua. No one can be sure which way Pastora would lead his country.

UNDER THE DOME: It's only July, but already the first 1986 congressional calendars are rolling off the presses for distribution by the honorable members. For the first time, a picture of the Vietnam veterans' memorial will be included in the 12 illustrations. But only part of the memorial will be shown: the statue of three soldiers in combat fatigues. The more famous part of the memorial — the long black wall bearing the names of more than 50,000 Americans who died in Vietnam — will not be in the picture. Reps. Tom Foley, D-Wash., and Robert Badham, R-Calif., who oversee the House printing contracts, say they chose the photo for design reasons.

CRIME WATCH: A racist, anti-Semitic criminal gang called the Aryan Brotherhood is trying to penetrate the Justice Department's witness-protection program. The hate group has made no secret of its intention to wreak underworld vengeance on squealers by killing prison inmates who have cooperated with prosecutors. The Aryan Brotherhood apparently intends to offer its services as hired guns to mobsters and others with scores to settle.

Around The Rim Recollections of age 14

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

My 14th year doesn't stand out. I wanted to be an exceptional basketball player, make good grades in school and hold my own against the older or tougher guys.

There were healthy frustrations that I had to deal with, as I'm sure most 14-year-olds could tell you.

First a morbid fascination dawned on you as you become more aware of your physical self. Yes sir, son, your turning into a man. See how you're getting taller, heavier and your voice is changing.

After accepting my changing body, my eyes began roving.

I wondered if other persons my age had the same kind of problems I did. If boys were turning into men at this stage, maybe girls were turning into women.

Yea — I was curious all right. Who wasn't?

I encountered loneliness when I was 14. Sometimes I thought everyone was against me. And sometimes I knew I was too shy. Then I had to answer tough moral questions like "should I do this or that" or "maybe I shouldn't do anything, because then I won't get into trouble."

We all remember the logic. One event stands out though. I remember watching evening turn into night. El Paso summer night. You can't beat the panorama of West Texas skies. The locusts were performing their last symphonic sounds of the day.

I was lying down in our backyard grass and looking straight up in the sky. The stars began to twinkle. I was trying to figure out why the willow tree, masked against the sunset, looked so beautiful.

I told our pet dachshund dog that I was aware of some kind of harmony out here on the good earth. Life was getting pretty fascinating for me at 14. And I was eager to see more of what it had to offer.

I wonder if Eric Deaver, who burned to death as a passenger in a van that caught fire after it flipped end over end off Interstate 20 on Monday, was aware of things I was at his age.

Bush walking thin line while Reagan ill

By MICHAEL PUTZELQc

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush is trapped in an unenviable delicate position as he stands in for the ailing President Reagan while trying to avoid the appearance of grabbing power during the president's illness.

He has an opportunity, with attention suddenly focused on him, to demonstrate the leadership he someday hopes to offer. But he must not seem too eager.

During his moment as acting president, Bush made no move at all, not even to assure the nation the system was working as it should. He left that to the president's men.

"He's being very good about not pushing in to things," said one senior White House official, speaking of Bush on condition he not be identified. "Instead of just running in and saying, 'I'll take over, and I'll do this or I'll do that,' he's asking, 'Do you want me to do things?' or, 'Tell me what you need.'"

That may be helpful to the White House staff, but it hardly presents Bush as a leader, which he may not be now as vice president but which he hopes to show he is when he runs for president to succeed Reagan.

"If I'd been George Bush and my president had just had major surgery," volunteered one congressman privately, "I would get over to Bethesda Naval Hospital and assure myself the president was all right."

But Bush did wait — until Wednesday — and still was Reagan's first official visitor other than Mrs. Reagan and the president's top staff aides, including chief of staff Regan.

"He approached it on a personal basis," said Marlin Fitzwater, Bush's press secretary. "When a friend has had an operation, you go to visit him when he's well enough and when the family says it's appropriate."

The vice president has stepped in to chair meetings with members of the Senate Finance Committee who had been scheduled to meet with Reagan this week, and he is set to welcome the teacher picked to be the first citizen-passenger aboard the space shuttle.

He also has let it be known more often than usual when and where he would be available to be photographed and answer questions. But in each case he has stressed the good and speedy recovery of the president and not what he was doing in Reagan's place.

"There really has not been a void to fill," one vice presidential aide explained. "He feels the best thing he can do is continue to be the same solid, supportive vice president he was before."

Even during the eight hours on Saturday when he was acting president, Bush made no move to assert his authority.

In fact, although he interrupted his plan to spend the weekend on the Maine coast and returned to Washington, aides said he made that decision out of personal concern for the president before he knew Reagan would transfer power to him for the period the president was unconscious.

And after learning he had full presidential powers — at least temporarily — Bush dismissed his staff and went out to play tennis with some friends on the private court on the grounds of the vice presidential mansion.

When his aides returned in the afternoon, they found Bush and his companions sitting by the side of the house, having decided it was too hot and muggy to continue their game.

"He said he didn't see any reason for them to stay around," one source said. So the acting president's staff left him again, although the physician and military aide always assigned to the vice president remained on the grounds.

The military aide carries "the football," the attache case containing the auxiliary codes the acting president would need to launch the nation's nuclear weapons. For the first time, Bush's codes were operational, but if having that dread responsibility had any effect on him, aides said they saw no evidence of it.

U.S. economic growth declines

National rate grew at 1.7 percent rate during 2nd quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy grew at a sluggish 1.7 percent annual rate from April through June as a foreign trade hemorrhage continued to rob U.S. manufacturers of sales, the government said Thursday.

Faced with the latest bad news, the Reagan administration conceded that its initial forecast for 1985 growth would have to be revised downward, but Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige insisted he saw signs of better days ahead.

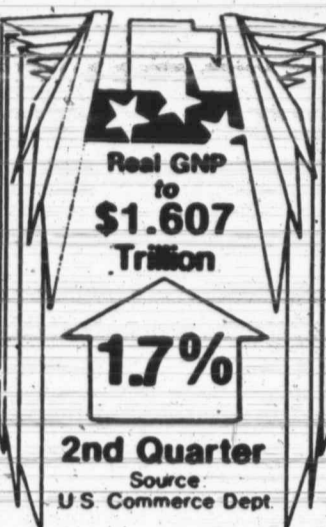

However, private economists were not so optimistic, contending that the country's disastrous trading performance would continue to be a drag on growth for most of the year.

The Commerce Department announced that the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, grew at an annual rate of 1.7 percent during the second quarter following an even weaker 0.3 percent pace during the first three months of the year.

The two weak quarters mean that for the first six months of the year, the economy has expanded at a disappointing annual rate of just 1 percent — far below expectations of both private and government economists when the year began.

Baldrige told reporters the administration will be forced to revise downward its current 3.9 percent estimate for GNP growth for the full year.

While he refused to say what the new yearly figure would be, he predicted growth at a rate of 4 percent "plus or minus" in the second half of 1985.

"We see all the building blocks for increased growth," Baldrige said, citing low inflation levels, continued strong consumer confidence and low business inventories. "These factors are clearly going to be enough to overcome any drag on the economy from the trade deficit."

But many private analysts were less optimistic.

"At this point the factors dragging down the economy are more powerful than those pushing it up," said Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers. He said he did not expect any major upturn in activity until the final three months of the year.

Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc., said the economy was likely to remain in a growth recession — a period of rising unemployment — but not a full-blown recession.

"Without further declines in interest rates and the dollar, it will be difficult to move into a range of growth that will reduce the unemployment rate," he said. The jobless rate has been frozen at 7.3 percent for five months after having dropped as low as 7.1 percent last November.

In another sign of weakness, the government said production at the nation's factories, mines and utilities increased a slight 0.1 percent in June, matching a revised 0.1 percent May increase.

Since last fall, industrial production has shown little improvement as domestic manufacturers have continued to lose sales to foreigners because of the strength of the dollar against foreign currencies.

Drought reigns over Northeast; heat, sun leave crops parched

By The Associated Press

The winds and air masses that steer rainstorms have brought water shortages to the Northeast and crop-wasting drought to the Dakotas and Montana, with a dry summer sun also parching crops and people in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Crop losses in one Wisconsin county alone are put at $23 million.

Water-short Northeasterners are paying the price now for what happened several miles overhead last winter and spring, Ken Bergmann, meteorologist with the Climate Analysis Center of the National Weather Service said Thursday.

Normally that time of year, upper-level winds at 30,000 feet steer huge rainstorms up the Eastern seaboard from their birth in the Southeast. But this past winter and spring, that pattern appeared far less frequently than usual. More often, it was shifted to the west, so storms formed in the Texas and Oklahoma area and moved toward the Great Lakes, Bergmann said.

Rainfall over most of the East Coast has been normal the last two months, he said, but the water deficit from the earlier dryness has not been fixed.

Mandatory conservation is in effect in the New York City area, 218 northern New Jersey communities and 25 in mostly eastern Massachusetts, where eight other towns have voluntary restrictions.

Despite heavy rain this week — up to 2.2 inches Monday and Tuesday — a 4-month-old drought emergency remains in effect in New York City, largely because most of its reservoirs are 100 miles to the north. The city, for only the second time in history, is drawing water from the Hudson River — 100 million gallons a day.

Hundreds of inspectors are checking compliance with the drought emergency requirement that temperatures remain above 78 degrees in buildings cooled with city water. Fines of $100 to $500 can be levied for violations.

Fines also are being issued for leaks, washing cars and streets, watering lawns, turning on fountains using public water, illegal use of fire hydrants and filling private swimming pools.

Current dryness in Montana and the Dakotas comes from a high pressure ridge over the Rocky Mountains.

Thieves driving farmers off the land

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Thieves often join in the farm harvest, pilfering sacks of soybeans and driving away pieces of machinery to the tune of $500 million a year, and experts say the farmers are often unwitting accomplices.

Unlocked doors, machinery left in fields and keys left in vehicles all help thieves, experts say, and so does the growing tendency for farmers to be away much of the day at other jobs.

"People create a lot of opportunities for crime," said John van Es, a rural sociologist at the University of Illinois.

In fact, farmers are about as likely to be the victims of property crimes as people in large cities, said Joe Donnermeyer, director of the National Rural Crime Prevention Center in Ohio.

Rural crime rates rose faster than urban crime rates during the 1970s, though both have decreased slightly in this decade.

In Illinois, for example, the rural crime index rose 22 percent between 1973 and 1983, while the crime index for cities decreased 2 percent.

Across the country, the most prevalent rural crimes are vandalism and theft. Police say thieves may sell small farm items at nearby auctions or truck large items across the country for fencing or exporting. Often, they take the items for their own use.

Donnermeyer said rural crime may be a $500 million a year problem.

Experts say farmers are targets for several reasons: Highways make it easy to get and out of rural areas; there are few police patrols; tough security is unlikely on farms, and farms are isolated.

"The lifestyle of rural people is changing; they tend to be away from home more — shopping, going to school, even working at a job in another town," Donnermeyer said. "The property is vacant and the criminal figures he won't be seen."

Van Es said one survey of Illinois farmers showed that 45 percent left their machinery out at night; 76 percent had no deadbolt locks on their homes; 80 percent had not marked machinery, livestock or personal items for identification; and 92 percent had no alarm system.

One-fourth of the farmers said they left their houses unlocked, even when they were gone for the day.

FUN AND GAMES — St. Thomas Catholic Church's annual summer festival is today and Saturday. Games and entertainment will be at 4 p.m. tonight and Saturday.

St. Thomas hosting its annual summer festival

The St. Thomas Catholic Church, 605 N. Main, will be hosting its annual summer festival today and Saturday.

A tamale sale marked the beginning of the festival this morning. Games and entertainment will be at 4 p.m. tonight and Saturday night, according to the Rev. Robert Vreteau.

The ladies of the parish are sponsoring the tamale sale. Vreteau said that over 650 dozen tamales were made.

The games both nights will include a cake-walk, dime-pitch, darts, and many others.

Church members have been preparing booths for the festival several days this week, Vreteau said.

A Mexican dinner will also be available beginning at 11:30 a.m. Saturday and continuing throughout the day.

All proceeds will be used for improvements to the church's properties and buildings, Vreteau said.

Youth minister begins marriage in Coahoma

By KIM KIRKHAM
Religion Editor

Newlyweds Geary and Tammy Martin are making the youth at the First Baptist Church of Coahoma their family.

GEARY MARTIN
...youth minister

Moving to Coahoma just five days after his marriage May 10, Martin, 21, is the youth minister at the church.

During his senior year in high school, the 1981 graduate decided he wanted to help young people through ministry.

"The main reason I wanted to work with kids is to show them love they can receive in Christ, let them know someone really cares for them," Martin said.

"I was taught a lot of love at home and I didn't see it in the world," he said. Both of his parents are Christians and his father worked with the youth at a church he attended while growing up in Amarillo. The music director at the church, Lynn Garrett, also influenced Martin's ministry.

Martin receives much encouragement from his wife, he said. "She's interested in the same stuff I am." Their goal is to help the youth come together as a family. "I want them to draw closer to each other, help them to grow spiritually," Martin said.

To keep young people interested in church, "I make them feel important," said Martin. "As a church group, they can still have fun."

Martin will begin his fifth year at Wayland Baptist University in Plainview this fall. He plans to graduate in May. Tammy will begin her second year at the school this fall.

Martin was the youth and music minister at the First Baptist Church in Mobeetie during the summer of 1983. For three months last year, he served as interim youth minister at the First Baptist Church in Abertathy.

Martin's love of music is helpful in his ministry. He enjoys singing and playing the trumpet. He also collects matches and plays on the church's softball team.

Bible school begins July 29 at Baptist church

East Fourth Street Baptist Church, 401 E. 4th, will be having Vacation Bible School from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. July 29 through Aug. 2.

Children ages three through sixth grade may attend. Transportation is available by calling the church at 267-2291 or Scott Pond at 263-3657.

Baptist Church in Greeley. College Baptist will go to Greeley Aug. 9-17. A revival will be conducted with Fuller preaching. A Vacation Bible School also will be conducted, and landscaping will be provided for the church grounds.

The mission trip will cost $2,000, including gasoline for vehicles and campers, meals and Vacation Bible School supplies.

Pace presents program to Mighty Oaks

Sgt. Fred Pace, crime prevention officer for the Big Spring Police Department, spoke to the Mighty Oaks of East Fourth Street Baptist Church at a covered dish luncheon July 9 in the church's fellowship hall.

Pace told about crime prevention for senior citizens and showed a film. He also displayed a safety boat horn to use instead of mace.

The group worked on their fund-raising project, a full-size quilt. They will sell it for $50.

St. Paul offering classes for all ages

St. Paul Lutheran Church will be having Vacation Bible School from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. July 28 through Aug. 1. Classes will be offered for all ages, including adults.

Last week, St. Paul hosted a handbell choir and New Creation, a singing duet.

Youth sponsoring car wash Saturday

The youth of Evange Temple Assembly of God will be having a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church, 2205 Goliad. Cost is $4 per car. Proceeds will help pay for camp expenses.

'Lil' Big People' hosting Talent Show

The youth group of Immaculate Heart of Mary, "Lil' Big People," will be hosting a Talent Show Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of Immaculate Heart of Mary School, 1009 Hearn. Admission is $1.50, and the public is invited. Much of today's music and comedy acts will be performed.

Religion roundup

NEW YORK (AP) — Florida registered the largest gain in Jewish population last year, increasing nearly 80,000 to a statewide total of 558,820, giving Florida a 5.2 percent concentration of Jews, third largest in the nation, says the 1985 American Jewish Yearbook.

New York is first, whose 1.8 million Jews represents 10.6 percent of the population, and New Jersey second with 433,475 Jews making up 5.8 percent of the population. California has the second largest number of Jews, 792,515, but only a 3.2 percent concentration.

Nationally, Jewish population was estimated at 5.8 million, up 89,000, says the yearbook, published by the American Jewish Committee.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Freedom From Religion Foundation has asked the U.S. attorney-general's office to start requiring Roman Catholic clergy to register as "foreign agents" now that the Reagan administration has established full diplomatic relations with the Vatican as a foreign power.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Peace Institute, which Congress established last fall with backing of most major religious bodies, remains non-operational because of inaction by President Reagan, says a prominent United Methodist.

"What we need is something to put flesh on the bones," says James H. Laue, of St. Louis, chairman of the board of the National Peace Institute Foundation, which had shepherded the drive for the institute.

Although Congress appropriated $4 million for the institute's work this year, the president has yet to submit names for its 15-member board of directors to the Senate, leaving the institute languishing.

It's "sitting there waiting to be used," he says, adding that it could have been of great help in the recent hostage crisis in Beirut.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. William F. Schulz is the new president of the Unitarian Universalist Association, and at the age of 35, believed to be the youngest person ever to head a major denomination.

He was elected president of the 176,000-member, liberal body at its general assembly, succeeding the Rev. Eugene Pickett. Schulz previously had been executive vice president.

Womens club approves outline of '85-86 events

Louise Nuckolls, incoming president of the Big Spring Business and Professional Womens Club, presented an outline of the program for the 1985-86 club year at the club's July 9 meeting. The program was prepared by the program committee and approved by the members.

The theme for the year is "Transforming Your Community: Local Action: Opportunities and Challenges." The goals are to increase membership and positive action, assist in community affairs and give scholarships.

Standing and appointed committees were named. Business meetings will be at 6:30 p.m. the second Tuesday of each month at the Howard County Library. Dinner meetings being at 6:30 p.m. the fourth Tuesday of each month.

The club will host the annual Big Spring State Hospital picnic at 6 p.m. Aug. 12 at Comanche Trail Park. Mamie Roberts is the chairman of this project.

National Business Womens Week will be observed with a breakfast. All business women are invited. Further plans will be announced at a later date.

The next meeting will be in September.

Dear Abby

Family discord builds on sour note

DEAR ABBY: The letter regarding the expensive piece of jewelry that "disappeared" while a teen-aged relative was visiting brought back some bitter memories.

When my son was 6, he and an older cousin I'll call Bobby were playing in Bobby's father's car. Bobby's sister, a waitress, had left her uniform in the back seat of that car, and when she retrieved it, five $1 bills were missing from the pocket.

Both boys denied ever being in the back seat of that car, but later Bobby changed his story and said that my son had been in the back seat. The scene that took place when my son was confronted by those holier-than-thou relatives I shall never forget if I live to be 100.

My dear mother repeatedly offered my son $5 if he would only confess to taking the money. My son, with tears in his eyes, repeatedly refused her offer, saying, "But Grandma, I didn't take any money."

I knew my son was innocent and prayed nightly that someday the truth would be revealed.

Many years later, when my brother's family moved to a new home, a dusty bucket was found in the corner of the basement. And in it were five very moldy $1 bills!

They told my mother about this find, but to this day my son, who is now 42, has never had an apology from any of his accusers.

I write this to urge the owner of the piece of jewelry that disappeared mysteriously to refrain from jumping to any conclusions, as false accusations can ruin a lifetime of family harmony.

IT HAPPENED IN MARYVILLE, TEXAS

DEAR IT HAPPENED: Your poignant letter is sure to awaken in many adults the painful memory of having been falsely accused as a child. Thanks for writing.

Dr. Donohue

Summertime can be fungus time

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can be done to avoid fungus infection of the ear, a chronic summer problem for me? Is there a special fungus that causes this, and how can I avoid it? I even try cotton plugs but still have it happen. — Mrs. W.M.

To avoid fungus infection of the ear you have to keep the ear canal from becoming an inviting environment for the fungi. The ear canal is like a little pouch with a small opening. Normally, the lining is somewhat protective against organisms, but let something happen to alter the lining and the invasion begins. Maceration (a kind of softening) is one of the changes that fungi really appreciate.

Causes of maceration are many. A moist environment creates it. In fact "swimmer's ears" is fungal infection from that cause. When you poke around in the ear canal you macerate the lining. Some people do it by abusing ear drops.

Use of ear plugs when swimming is an effective preventive measure. And after showering you should carefully dab-dry the ear canals with a soft swab. I would advise you to abandon the cotton ear plugs. Cotton is a notorious absorber of moisture and can actually draw it into the ear. Pledgets of lamb's wool are best.

People who wear hearing aids should be sure they keep the ear molds clean. And diabetics are particularly susceptible to ear fungus infection, so must take extra care.

I cannot say which fungus is causing your summer problem, but the usual culprit is aspergillus niger; candida is another. In fact, it might be necessary to identify the organism through lab analysis of an ear canal scraping.

FOR L.Y. — Often a foreign object lodged in the nasal passage can cause a strong odor. Conjecture would be futile. Certainly report your young child's condition and get the answer.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hostesses give mother, son baby swing at shower

Mrs. Jesse Baker and her son Radon Khas Baker were honored at a shower Saturday in the Fellowship Hall of East Fourth Street Baptist Church. A corsage made from baby socks, ribbon and net was presented to the mother.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Milton Kirby, Mrs. Bob Brock, Mrs. H.D. Steward, Mrs. Bob McCormick, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. Royce Griffith, Jeanette Mansfield, Mrs. Mike West, Marial Denton, Mrs. Jerry Roach and Mrs. Lena Macomber. Their gift was a baby swing.

Special guests were the baby's grandmothers, Mrs. Lee Winchester and Mrs. Audie Baker, and his three-year-old brother, Cory Joe Baker.

The guest register table and refreshment table were covered with pale blue cloths edged in white lace. A wicker basket with blue cloth lining, trimmed with blue bows with a baby doll inside, was used as a centerpiece on the refreshment table. Blue candles in crystal holders flanked the centerpiece.

The register table was decorated with blue flowers in a milk glass vase and two ceramic teddy bears. The guest register book was made by Kirby using a baby bib for the front cover.

Soviet official says arms treaty bars release of Russian scientist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., says a top Russian science official offered him an unusual explanation for why his government will not release Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov: It would violate an international nuclear arms treaty.

Wednesday. Sakharov, a physicist who helped develop his country's atomic bomb, has been living in internal exile in the Soviet city of Gorky since 1980. He incurred the punishment because of his stands against nuclear weapons and for human rights.

human rights with Aleksandrov. He said although he did not mention Sakharov by name, Aleksandrov interjected it into the conversation. "He said, 'Well, of course we can't release Sakharov,'" Simon reported.

That treaty, signed by the United States and the Soviet Union and dozens of other nations in the late 1960s, is aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons. Simon also reported that Aleksandrov made some disparaging comments about Sakharov's personal life during the conversation.

ANDREI SAKHAROV Russians bar scientist's release.

Texas Vietnam veterans gather for reunion

TYLER (AP) — Thousands of Vietnam veterans from Texas were expected to begin gathering today for a reunion marking the 10th anniversary of the end of the conflict.

disassembled and transported, will be located behind the Mayfair Building. "There's never been a reunion like this in Texas," Taber said.

done so only because of permanent injuries that force them to remain in Veterans Administration hospitals around the country.

"If they're having a hard time, I'll go out at 2 or 4 in the morning and talk to whoever wants to talk or just cry or get something off their chest," he added.

The three-day reunion was to get under way at noon and continue through Sunday in the Mayfair Building at East Texas Fairgrounds.

Among them those attending is Carl McClung of Tyler. "We were brothers over there, man," said McClung. "Why it's taken 10 years (for people to accept Vietnam veterans), I don't know."

"I've got many of my brothers who'll be down there in the hospital the rest of their lives," he told the Tyler Telegraph. "We just have to care for our own. My life is totally dedicated to the Vietnam veteran community."

McClung said he expects much of the emotion penned up inside veterans to show when they arrive in Tyler seeing friends and names of friends on the 250-foot black wall of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial replica.

Casey, Christa, Charla, Chanda, Chelsa celebrate 10th birthday

DALLAS (AP) — Jerry and Debbie Davis never set out to prove they could cope with diapers times five or chicken pox in quintuplicate or $250-a-week grocery bills.

But while young Casey, Christa, Charla, Chanda and Chelsa celebrated their 10th birthday Thursday, the Lewisville couple was getting rave reviews for parenting.

think they did a very good job of treating their kids as kids." Jerry and his wife, Debbie, say life with the quintuplets is hectic, and the last year has been the toughest yet.

"Beautiful," enthused Dr. Charles Rosenfeld, the neonatalist who cared for the state's only surviving quintuplets.

"You can't help but compliment the parents," Rosenfeld said. "I

Unknown leads Open

SANDWICH, England (AP) — Tom Watson was in the mood to tame a tiger.

The Royal St. George's Golf Club course, known in calmer times as a par-70 layout of 6,957 yards, became a rain-drenched monster during the opening round of the 114th British Open on Thursday and devoured many of the game's top players, including Watson.

"Seventy-two won't be that far out," Watson said of his round. "This golf course can be a tiger. On the first round, I found the heavy rough, and I deserved what I got."

The tiger was reduced to a tabby, however, by Irishman Christy O'Connor Jr., the nephew of 1965 Open runnerup Christy O'Connor. O'Connor ran off an Open-record seven consecutive birdies on the way to a 64 and a four-stroke lead.

"I just tried to make as many birdies as I could. I tried to keep going the way I was. I never played safe," said O'Connor, who had 10 birdies, four bogeys and four pars.

He broke, by one stroke, the course record set in 1934 by Henry Cotton, who was on hand to welcome O'Connor at the end of his round.

Watson, seeking a record-tying sixth British Open title, fared better than did a trio of former champions. After stumbling to a double bogey on the first hole, Watson played even-par golf the rest of the way, and pronounced himself pleased with his long iron play.

Baugh aces Boston Classic

DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — Laura Baugh had a lot of fun at a pre-tournament party, and the good times continued through the first round of the $225,000 Boston Five Classic golf tournament.

Baugh, a non-winner in 12 years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, used a hole-in-one in building a round of 5-under-par 67 Thursday that gave her a one-shot lead heading into today's second round over the 6,008-yard Tara Ferncroft course.

"I played real well," said Baugh, who has a recent history of poor opening rounds. "I got a little nervous out there. I partied a little couple of nights ago and my nerves are still a little shaky. I don't remember how everybody else was but I had a great time."

Baugh putted well, birdied two of her first four holes and had three birdies in the last five holes. She was 6 under par until she bogeyed her final hole when she put an approach shot in a bunker.

Therese Hession, another non-winner, shot 68 while Silvia Bertolaccini, Rosie Jones and Myra Blackwelder were tied at 69. Defending champion Laurie Rinker shot 71, and Kathy Baker, winner of last week's U.S. Women's Open, was at even par 72.

Baugh's ace came on her seventh hole of the day, the 156-yard 16th. Her 5-iron shot went into the hole on the fly.

"It was not going to go very far," she said. "It had quite a bit of action on it. It was uphill and into the wind."

Baugh said it was the sixth hole-in-one of her career and her second as a pro.

Baugh, who turned pro after winning the 1971 U.S. Women's Amateur title, took 1982 off from the tour for the birth of her daughter, Chelsea. Last year, she won a career-high $47,232, 47th on the earnings list, and this year is 43rd with $32,426.

After concentrating on her long game, Baugh is beginning to spend more time on her putting.

"If I continue to practice my putting and not let my long game suffer too much, I think I can improve," said Baugh, who has nine runnerup finishes in her career. "I am excited. I think it's time I started playing better."

Nationals eliminated from L.L. tournament

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

To say that Neal Mayfield has had tough luck on the mound in the District III Little League Tournament would be putting it mildly.

The Big Spring National League All-Star pitcher made his start in the tourney Wednesday and lost a 3-1 decision to Midland Eastern. Last night he dropped a 2-0 game to the Midland North Central All-Stars, thus eliminating the sole remaining local team from tournament play.

Just like in the first game; Mayfield pitched a solid game. He rendered only four hits and fanned five. But just like in the first contest, his teammates failed to generate much offense.

Even more amazing is the fact that Mayfield held down a team that had scored 56 runs in their previous three games.

In their two losses the Nationals drummed up just six hits. Meanwhile Mayfield gave up seven hits and allowed two earned runs in the games.

The main reason the Nationals didn't have much success at the plate was North Central hurler Chris Hallomb, who went the distance while gaining his second win of the tourney. The wiry right-hander used his looping side-arm delivery to baffle the National hitters.

He gave up six hits, struck out seven and walked one.

Catcher Brad Brunson promptly singled, scoring Schroeder with the game's first run. Next Hallomb grounded out to second, scoring Pepper with the final run of the game.

The Nationals mounted serious scoring threats twice in the game. In the second inning shortstop Gerald Cobos hit a bloop double down the right field line, to start off the inning. Shane Myrick followed with an infield hit. Then Hollomb struck out the next two batters, bringing Shane Bryan to the plate.

Bryan hit a hard single to left field. But Cobos hesitated momentarily while rounding third and was thrown out at the plate.

The other National threat came in the fifth. T.J. Lane walked and Abel Hilario singled with two outs. But again Hollomb worked his way out of the jam by fanning Mayfield.

The Nationals end the tournament in fourth place with a 3-2 slate. North Central, now 4-1; will play Midland Mid-City (2-1) tonight at 8 p.m. at Johnnie Hobbs Field, site of the American League.

Blister breaks Cardinals

By The Associated Press

It hasn't been a happy week for Joaquin Andujar.

Last Friday he lost only his fourth game in 19 decisions and on Saturday he dropped out of the All-Star Game when he learned he wasn't going to start, then was widely criticized for the decision.

On Thursday night, he was cruising along with a shutout over the Los Angeles Dodgers, but developed a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand and had to leave the game with two outs in the sixth inning. The next batter, Greg Brock, tied the game with a single off Ricky Horton and the Dodgers won the game 2-1 in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Len Matuszek.

In other NL games, it was San Francisco 1, Chicago 0; San Diego 3, Pittsburgh 2; Montreal 3, Houston 0; New York 7, Atlanta 6; and Philadelphia 6, Cincinnati 3.

JOAQUIN ANDUJAR ...leaves game in sixth

Hesketh, 6-4, who won for the first time since May 24, took a five-hit shutout in the ninth. But after allowing two singles, Hesketh was relieved by Jeff Reardon, who got the last out for his 23rd save.

Joe Niekro, 7-8, gave up just three hits in seven innings, but Ashby's passed ball in the second, his throwing error in the fifth and another passed ball in the seventh led directly to Montreal's runs. Herm Winingham and Mike Fitzgerald had sacrifice flies for the Expos.

Padres 3, Pirates 2 ... Carmelo Martinez broke a 2-2 tie with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning with his 12th homer to lift San Diego over Pittsburgh.

The Pirates, who scored their first run on a double play, took a 2-0 lead in the fourth on Sixto Lezcano's third homer of the season. But the Padres tied it in the bottom of the inning on Kevin McReynolds' two-run double.

Mets 7, Braves 6 ... New York's 16-13, 19-inning victory over Atlanta on July 4 may have been bizarre, but the Mets' latest triumph was a close second.

The two teams committed four errors apiece, with the Braves' miscues giving New York six unearned runs as the Mets won for the 13th time in 14 games and moved to within 1 1/2 games of the East Division-leading Cardinals.

Darryl Strawberry's two-run single keyed New York's five-run fifth inning, which erased a 4-1 Atlanta lead. Two runs scored when Atlanta third baseman Ken Oberkell, who was charged with two errors in the game, failed to catch a two-out infield pop-up near the mound with the bases loaded.

Expos 3, Astros 0 ... Montreal got strong pitching from Joe Hesketh and scored all of its runs with the help of fielding miscues by Houston catcher Alan Ashby to hand the Astros their fourth straight loss.

Phillies 6, Reds 3 ... Philadelphia snapped a five-game losing streak as Juan Samuel had three hits and two RBIs against Cincinnati.

Samuel tripled in a run in the second inning, singled home another in the eighth and also had a double, pacing a 12-hit Philadelphia attack. Mike Schmidt contributed his 12th homer — career No. 437 — and Glenn Wilson had a two-run double to lift his RBI total for the season to 63, tying him with Jack Clark of the Cardinals and Cincinnati's Dave Parker for third place in the NL.

Jerry Koonsman, 4-2, won his 220th career game. The 42-year-old left-hander allowed three runs and seven hits, struck out three and didn't walk a batter in 7-2-3 innings.

Giants 1, Cubs 0 ... Mike Krukow pitched a seven-hitter for San Francisco and Jeff Leonard's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth knocked in Chill Davis from first with the only run of the game.

Front-running Blue Jays lose fourth game-in-row

By the Associated Press

When the Toronto Blue Jays rebuilt their bullpen in the off-season, it was to avoid weeks like this.

For the fourth straight game, the Blue Jays lost, beaten by Oakland 6-4 Thursday night. For the third straight game, they lost a lead in their opponent's last time up, as the A's scored three times in the ninth inning.

For the third straight game, the loser was Gary Lavelle, who was acquired along with Bill Caudill and who has helped bolster Toronto's relief this year, until his current cold streak.

Despite Lavelle's recent misfortune, which began with a pair of ninth-inning losses last weekend against California.

Mike Davis started the rally with a single, and when Mike Heath laid down a sacrifice bunt, catcher Ernie Whitt's throw to second caromed into left field.

Davis took third and came home on a grounder to tie the game 4-4.

Heath scored when Alfredo Griffin followed with a triple over the head of right fielder Lou Thornton, who had been inserted as a defensive replacement for Jesse Barfield at the start of the inning.

Barfield doubled and came around to score on a pair of groundouts in the third. The A's tied it 1-1 in the fourth with an unearned run, scored on second baseman Damaso Garcia's throwing error.

Toronto scored two runs in the fourth on Al Oliver's third homer since being acquired last week from the Los Angeles Dodgers. Oakland closed to 3-2 in the fifth on Bruce Bochte's RBI single.

AL Roundup

Rangers 3, Tigers 2 ... Run-scoring singles by pinch-hitter Buddy Bell and George Wright keyed a Texas rally with two out in the seventh inning as the Rangers snapped their four-game losing streak at the expense of Frank Tanana, 4-9, and Willie Hernandez.

Charlie Hough, 8-10, gave up six hits, walked four and struck out seven in seven innings. Greg Harris finished for his seventh save. Only one of the three Texas runs — Gary Ward's sixth homer in the second inning — was earned.

It was the fourth loss in five games for the Tigers. "We're under .500 (24-25) against the AL West again," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson moaned. "The only reason we're not out of it is because of what Toronto is doing."

After the game, Bell was rumored to have been traded to the Cincinnati Reds, but neither the Rangers nor Reds would confirm the transaction.

Twins 8, Yankees 4 ... Kent Hrbek's grand-slam homer sank the Yankees. With the score tied 4-4 in the seventh inning, a single by Kirby Puckett and two walks issued by reliever Rich Bordi brought on reliever Brian Fisher. Hrbek hit Fisher's first pitch over the wall in left field for his 10th homer this year.

Hrbek has been suffering from an inflammation in the right shoulder area, and prior to being the designated hitter Thursday, hadn't started since July 9.

White Sox 10, Indians 0 ... Britt Burns is 6-6 against the rest of the AL, 4-0 against Cleveland with three shutouts. He extended his string of scoreless innings against the Indians to 32 with a five-hitter.

Ten Chicago batters came to the plate in the six-run first inning. Cleveland starter Vern Ruhle failed to retire any of the seven hitters he faced, allowing six singles and a walk.

Orioles 8, Royals 3 ... Cal Ripken, Mike Young and Wayne Gross clouted solo home runs and Eddie Murray rapped a two-run double. Ripken, 12-for-28 in his last seven games, singled prior to Murray's double in the first inning and hit his 16th homer, giving him 21 RBIs in 24 games.

Scott McGregor, with three innings of relief from Sammy Stewart, who notched his seventh save, improved his record to 8-7.

Red Sox 10, Angels 1 ... Jim Rice and Bill Buckner powered an eight-run third inning with two hits and two RBIs apiece. Bruce Hurst improved his record to 6-7 with a seven-hitter, his fourth consecutive triumph.

Rice and Buckner topped Boston's 15-hit attack with three singles. Wade Boggs extended his hitting streak to 21 games, tops in the majors this year.

Mariners 5, Brewers 2 ... Jim Presley hit two home runs, Bob Kearney hit one and Mike Moore, 8-5, scattered seven hits.

Presley opened the scoring with a bases-empty homer in the first, then completed it with his 20th homer of the season, again with the bases clear, in the ninth.

Mid-City in Eastern's 8-0 whitewash.

Zarate's mastery upheld the dominance the Eastern pitchers have shown so far. In his first win Zarate fired a no-hitter versus the Big Spring Internationals. In four games, Eastern pitchers have allowed an unbelievable three hits and five runs.

Zarate struck out 14 batters, bringing his tournament total to 26 in 12 innings. Eastern scored all of its runs in the first three innings. They got seven hits in the contest. Jimmy Martin took the loss for Mid-City. He was relieved by Shawn Johnson, who hurled the final four stanzas.

Eastern (4-0) is the lone undefeated team in the tournament. They can win the tournament if they defeat the winner of tonight's Mid-City-North Central contest Saturday at 8 p.m. at Pittman Field, home of the National League.

Old opponents renew rivalry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jose-Luis Clerc and Guillermo Vilas, a pair of Argentine stars trying to rejoin tennis' elite, renew their rivalry today in the $200,000 D.C. National Bank Tennis Classic.

Clerc and Vilas haven't played each other in three years, a lull during which their respective careers soured. Clerc, once No. 5 in the world, is trying to overcome a string of injuries that dropped him to a ranking of 33rd.

Clerc, who has beaten Vilas in three of their last five meetings, including the 1981 finals of this tournament, has gotten as far as the quarters only three times this year. He said he is more concerned with his own game than with Vilas.

"To me, it's just another match in my life," he said.

And Vilas, the No. 2 player in the world in 1977, plunged to 58th as age and physical problems took their toll. He's up to 37th now after reaching the semifinals of the U.S. Pro Championships last week.

"The clay court, the heat and humidity here, it's like being home in Buenos Aires," said the 32-year-old Vilas, who has gone through an intensive training program under a new coach. "When I was younger I could just play. Now I have to work harder to get the same things out of my game."

Clerc, seeded No. 6 here, advanced by holding off Yugoslavia's Slobodan Zivojinovic 7-6, 6-2 on Thursday. Vilas, unseeded, was idle Thursday after a 6-4, 7-6 second-round victory on Wednesday over Francesco Cancellotti of Italy.

"The best thing I had out there was my serve," said Clerc, who matched the big Yugoslav service for service before taking command with the first set tiebreaker.

Two other Argentines advanced to the third round with straight-set victories Thursday. Martin Jaite beat Peru's Jaime Yzaga 6-3, 6-4, and Marcelo Ingaramo ousted Spain's Diego Perez, 7-5, 6-3.

Moving into the quarterfinals Thursday was No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors, who had little trouble handling 16th-seeded Lawson Duncan, 6-1, 6-2. Jakob Hsialek of Switzerland, who nipped France's Guy Forget, 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, is the next opponent for Connors, who is trying to win his first tournament this year.

"As long as I keep taking my game up a notch, I'm not worried," said Connors, who has won this clay-court tournament twice. "It doesn't matter whether I win or lose. I'm trying to play up to my standards, and if I do that, it's pretty satisfying."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"WHERE DO YOU PUT YOUR NOSES?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

7-19 Copyright 1985, Columbia Pictures, Inc.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon, you will have the opportunity to make some future plans for attaining your desired outlet for your special talent. Reduce overall conditions to the practical.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your head is filled with ideas for the days ahead that can bring you greater success and later you can make a definite plan.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk over with family ties just what they would like to accomplish in the future and then take time for amusements.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Carry through with regular routines in outside world, then try to meet the needs of kin. Take time to visit the sick.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Do whatever will add to the value of your possessions and property and later study periodicals for more ideas.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Your ideas are excellent in the morning, so carry through with them and tonight you can handle worldly affairs well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You see now how to expand your talents so that you gain more in the future, so come to right decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact as many good friends as you can and make dates when it is best to see them, then devote yourself to the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get those outside duties handled early, then after lunch you get good results with personal affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to make your dreams materialize in the near future in the morning. Later, get great results in practical matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Follow your hunches and they can bring good results in whatever means the most to you. Get shopping done early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being with friends who are known for their generosity is good in the morning. Then do what they have suggested later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Morning is best spent planning for the future. Later, you can gain the cooperation of your associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the ability to learn quickly and well so be sure to send to the right schools and give other advantages as well. The mind should be made up early as to which career to follow. Provide religious training.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
