CANTERBURY NORTH — the second phase of the Canterbury Retirement Center — is nearing completion. The 59-apartment building at 1600 Lancaster Street should be completed by Sept. 1, according to Canterbury director Bob Shaplund. J.W. Cooper Construction of Odessa is the major contractor.

Ex-guard accused of accepting bribes

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

A former Big Spring Federal Prison Camp guard was indicted Monday for accepting $11,550 in bribes from the alleged "King of the Cowboy Mafia," Denton rancher Rex Cauble.

The correctional officer, Eddie Joe Roybal, was named in a four-count indictment by the federal grand jury in Abilene. Two counts charged Roybal with accepting bribes and two charged him with providing controlled substances to inmates, according to Big Spring Camp Superintendent John Gluch.

Roybal, who worked at the camp for slightly more than a year, was no longer employed there as of Thursday, Gluch said.

He was not in police custody Monday afternoon, Gluch said.

Cauble, a former inmate at the minimum security camp, was transferred in June to a medium-security prison, the La Tuna Federal Correctional Institute near El Paso.

Federal prison officials would not explain what caused Cauble's transfer at the time of the move, except to say that he was moved "for security reasons."

Monday, Gluch would not comment on the reasons for Cauble's transfer to La Tuna except to say, "I think you can put two and two together."

Cauble, imprisoned for a conviction under the federal racketeering law, was accused of masterminding a widespread drug-trafficking operation. Under the law, the Denton multi-millionaire recently had to forfeit about $20 million in assets, including his famous Cutter Bill's Western Wear stores.

All four offenses cited in the indictment occurred within a two- to three-week period near June 1, according to Jimmy Tallent, an attorney with the U.S. Attorney's office in Fort Worth.

According to Tallent and court records, Cauble on May 31 gave Roybal two cashier's checks totaling $11,550. Tallent would not comment on what Roybal was to provide to Cauble in exchange for the money.

The other three counts involve a former Big Spring Camp inmate, Gary Gunter, according to Tallent. Gunter now is an inmate at the federal correctional institute at Fort Worth. The Fort Worth facility is minimum security but has walls, unlike the Big Spring camp, Gluch said.

In count two of the indictment, Roybal is charged with providing a controlled substance to Gunter on June 11, according to Tallent.

In count three, Roybal is accused of accepting $1,000 from Gunter on June 20. Tallent would not comment on what Gunter was to receive for the money.

Count four of the indictment accuses Roybal, also on June 20, of providing 65 capsules containing "a blue and white granular substance" to Gunter on June 20.

The drug charges carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, a $25,000 fine or both. The penalty for bribery varies depending on the rank of the person being bribed and the offense, according to prison officials.

The investigation by the FBI is continuing, Tallent said. He would not comment on whether he expected more indictments against Roybal or new indictments against Cauble, Gunter or other prison camp officials or inmates.

The prison camp is cooperating with the FBI investigation, Gluch said.

Roybal had never worked in the federal prison system before his job with the Big Spring camp, according to Gluch.

Employees undergo a background check and urinalysis when first hired, and then remain on a probationary basis for a year, while a more extensive background check is conducted.

Farms face the pinch of debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its most comprehensive look yet at the financial pinch on American farmers, the Agriculture Department says 214,000 producers are so deeply in debt they can't make their payments.

Compiled as part of a detailed survey of farms this spring, the figure represents just over 12 percent of the 1.7 million farms covered by the study.

But even more telling is the news that the stress is greater among so-called commercial size farms, those selling at least $40,000 or more in farm products. These farms form the heart of the nation's food production system.

Among those farmers, one in three is suffering financial problems, either because of too heavy a debt load, inadequate cash flow, or both, the study said.

The findings were similar to those published in March, when the department issued its first assessment of farming's current financial problems. That paper was based on the ratio of a farmer's debts to his assets, with farms owing more than 40 percent of their worth deemed financially vulnerable.

The latest study adds cash-flow data to the mix to get a more complete picture of how well farmers can cope with debt. The new report includes, for example, off-farm income from a second job which many farmers use to make their loan payments.

GOP leaders stinging from Reagan rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deeply divided Republican legislators met with President Reagan today, many of them bitterly questioning his leadership after he sent the latest congressional budget effort into a tailspin by rejecting a proposal for higher taxes and a delay in Social Security benefit increases.

"Some of us are terribly frustrated by the failure of the administration to accept what many of us thought was a good proposal from the standpoint of the deficit," said Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Wyo., following a White House meeting between Reagan and GOP congressional leaders. "Now, obviously, we're split. It's pretty bleak."

"It was an unpleasant session, basically," he said. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., did not even attend the approximately one-hour meeting.

Walter Riker, a Dole spokesman, said congressional business kept the senator away from the White House, not any pique at Reagan's decision on Monday.

"We made the offer, the president said no. That's over," Dole had said Monday. "I think for a while, at least... there'll not be too many Republican senators listening to pleas from the White House on anything."

Dole said some GOP senators expressed disbelief Monday when the president torpedoed the Senate's three-year, $338 billion deficit-reduction package without offering Congress any new plan for reviving stalled budget negotiations or stopping the flow of government red ink.

It was the second time this year the president has walked away from a politically sensitive deficit-reduction package pushed by GOP senators.

Later today, the president planned a luncheon meeting at the White House with Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, and Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Medicare promise goes unmet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicare and Medicaid are 20 years old today, but Medicare's original promise of protection for the elderly from the cost of catastrophic illness remains an unmet goal, the chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging said today.

Americans are paying as much for health care now as they did before the programs were enacted in 1965, according to Rep. Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif., citing Massachusetts studies of the elderly. Soon they will be paying even more, he said.

In addition, he said, a substantial portion of the elderly are at risk of being impoverished by chronic illness because Medicare does not pay for long-term nursing home care.

"This study clearly documents that aged Americans cannot and should not feel they are adequately protected from the financial burden of needed health care," he said. "America's aged are still at risk."

Roybal's committee explored the status of Medicare and Medicaid at age 20 in a hearing today, but Democratic congressional leaders first held what they said was a bitter-sweet celebration of the birthday.

Shuttle sickness

Space Shuttle 51-F lifts off skyward with a crew of seven in its 2nd launch attempt. The shuttle is facing numerous problems, said NASA officials. The shuttle has lost power to one of its main engines, two of the three telescopes aboard aren't working and a major experiment had to be scrapped. See related story Page 3A.

New Miss Texas

North Dallas model wins Lone Star pageant

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A North Dallas model who believes that people "should stand by each other and keep peace" won the Miss Texas USA pageant Monday.

Christy Fichtner, 22, Miss Dallas County, took the title over 112 other contestants and won prizes totaling $90,000.

The blonde-haired, green-eyed beauty who recently completed her freshman year at Southern Methodist University is 5-foot-8 and weighs 118 pounds. She said she is a professional model in Dallas and New York.

"I would like to leave a message that this country is built in freedom and love and that citizens of this country should stand by each other and keep peace," she said when asked what message she would take to the Miss USA pageant next year.

Miss Fichtner's prizes included an $18,000 cash scholarship and a white Subaru.

Miss Fichtner will compete in the Miss USA pageant next year in Miami.

The pageant was judged according to swimsuit and evening gown competitions and an interview with a panel of nine judges.

First runner up was Kim Acker, 23, of Fort Worth. Others were Kay Hicks, 24, 2nd runnerup of Clear Lake City; Angel Hightower, 23, 3rd runnerup, of Dallas; and Tonya Beddingfield, 22, 4th runnerup, of Houston.

Laura Martinez-Herring of El Paso, the current Miss USA, surrendered her crown to the new Miss Texas USA. Miss Martinez-Herring, 21, was awarded the Yellow of Rose of Texas governor's award for her contribution to the state of Texas during Monday night's ceremonies, which were hosted by television personality Bob Eubanks.

Former banker charged with embezzlement

ABILENE (AP) — A former vice president of Abilene National Bank has been charged in a 28-count federal indictment of alleged embezzlement, false entry and income tax violations, authorities said.

Craig H. Thomson was accused in a 30-page indictment Monday of making loans totaling $225,650 and accepting kickbacks of $105,900, in 1980 and 1981 at ANB.

Thomson's attorney, Lynn Ingalsbe, said, "We'll plead not guilty to all counts at the proper time and place and will have no other comment at this time."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Alexander of Dallas said the case is separate from, but similar to, indictments against three other former ANB officers — Don Earney, James L. Kington and Eddie Dunn.

Alexander said the bank embezzlement trial of Earney and Kington has been postponed to Oct. 22. It had been set for trial on Aug. 5 in Abilene federal court.

"The investigation is continuing," Alexander said. The prosecution also plans to pursue indictments against clients of the bank, he said.

Alexander said that Thomson made loans for bank clients, used part of the loan proceeds for pay for stock in ANB, and kept part of the money for himself, the Abilene Reporter-News said.

Attorney agrees to handle county suit

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Abilene attorney Malcolm Schulz has agreed to defend the county in a civil lawsuit filed by a San Angelo woman, County Judge Milton Kirby said after a closed-door meeting Monday.

The suit, filed in Abilene federal court, names Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard and former deputy O.D. Majors.

"He (Schulz) said he would take it, file answers, review the stories (versions of the incident) and recommend that we hire another attorney if any controversies arise from the stories," Kirby said about the case concerning the death of 16-year-old Joe Garza. Garza was shot and killed at a roadblock on Highway 87 south of Big Spring while fleeing Big Spring police last November.

Schulz met with commissioners for about a half-hour Monday afternoon. Commissioner O.L. Brown was absent.

"I told them (commissioners) what I think needs to be done," Schulz said afterwards.

He said he had come to Big Spring originally to talk with Majors. He spoke with the former deputy before meeting with commissioners.

County Attorney Tim Yeats said he requested that the court meet with Schulz "as kind of an afterthought" following last week's meeting. During that meeting, commissioners passed a motion that offered Schulz the offer of the job of defending parties named in the suit and that Yeats be given the authority to hire the Abilene attorney.

"He's doing a lot of footwork now on statements given about the incident," Yeats said.

Commissioners, Yeats said, will officially hire Schulz in their next meeting scheduled for August 13.

Federal law requires that defendants named in civil suits must file an answer within 20 days. The county has until Aug. 7 to answer in an Abilene federal court.

Adelina Garza, the mother of the victim, alleges in her suit that her son was shot by Majors after he began to slow a car he was driving in preparation to stop at the roadblock.

She also alleges that Majors fired his shotgun twice into the vehicle "without warning or provocation" striking Garza in the head and fatally wounding him.

Big Spring Police had requested assistance from other law enforcement agencies during a high-speed car chase which began in the 500 block of Gregg Street. Police had initially stopped the vehicle for a traffic violation.

Police today also arrested Andres Juarez, 26, of 1010 N. Second in the 300 block of N.W. Third on suspicion of second offense of failure to maintain liability insurance.

Police also arrested Henroid Jones, 21, of 1605 Lincoln at 501 Birdwell on suspicion of theft.

Richard Johnson of 2513 Rebecca told police two people assaulted his daughter "with their hands and feet" outside the house at 11 p.m. Monday. She was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital to be treated for bruises.

Sheriff's Log

2 jailed on suspicion of theft

Howard County Sheriff's Deputy Barney Edens arrested two male juveniles Monday on suspicion of stealing a pickup truck Sunday night, according to a sheriff's department report. Richard Burrows of Gail Route reported the pickup stolen from the William Road and Montgomery Street area.

The boys also are suspected of committing a string of burglaries from vehicles that belong to Jerry Hughes, Les Kinchloe and Susie Marquez, all of Gail Route, according to the report. The burglary incidents were reported to have occurred from Thursday night through Sunday night.

Parents of the suspects have been notified, and the boys will report to the juvenile probation office sometime this week, said Sheriff A.N. Standard.

C.H. Hyden of Gail Route Box 387 told sheriff's deputies that someone he knew stole a Ruger six-shot .22 caliber revolver and holster Monday from the Hyden Farm in Luther. The gun was valued at $210.

Hyden also reported that a four wheeler parked at the farm had been damaged. Damage was estimated at $700, the sheriff's report said.

Weldon Price of Abilene told sheriff's deputies that someone he knew removed $150 to $200 from a cash register at the Brass Knocker on Highway 350 at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Rios named Herald news editor

Luis Rios has been promoted to news editor of the Big Spring Herald, managing editor John Rice announced today.

Rios, 25, has been employed at the newspaper as copy editor and reporter since July 1984. He is a Colorado City native. He has worked for the San Angelo Standard-

Times and the Colorado City Record.

As news editor, his duties will include decisions on what state, national and international news from the Associated Press wire is published each day, and he will be responsible for the news layout and headline writing.

Firemen douse car blaze

Firemen Monday afternoon doused an electrical fire on a car at the intersection of Seventh and Gregg.

According to reports, the 1977 Ford, owned by Juan Mendosa of 901 N. Gregg, caught fire when the battery cable sparked against the frame where the battery was located, igniting the brakeline under the car. Firemen arrived at the scene at 2:11 p.m. to find flames shooting from underneath the rear of the car on the driver's side, the report stated. However, firemen reported no damage to the car.

The three firefighters returned to the station at 2:28 p.m.

Ad done in bad taste?

NEW YORK — Is she pregnant, or isn't she? Matthew Myers thinks she is. He thinks it's a scandal.

Sara Ridgway insists the woman is not pregnant. The woman's billowing pink blouse bulges in front simply because she is leaning backwards, said Ms. Ridgway said.

The woman in question appeared in a Newport Lights cigarette advertisement in several magazines in June. The photo was cropped at the woman's waist, but the top part of a bulging shirt is visible.

A pregnant woman in cigarette advertising "implies it is all right for pregnant women to smoke and may be unfair and deceptive in violation of FTC regulations," said Myers, director of the Coalition on Smoking or Health, a Washington-based lobby.

Crews battle wildfires

Fire crews in central Idaho's tinder-dry mountains retreated from two major wildfires raging over more than 30,000 acres Monday, while a firefighters' plane crashed Monday in Washington state, leaving both people aboard missing.

Firefighters also battled blazes in Montana, Oregon, along the Wyoming-South Dakota border, and in Canada's British Columbia. "It doesn't look good," said Pam Gardner, spokeswoman for the Payette National Forest in Idaho, where a 14,600-acre blaze in the French Creek drainage burned out of control on its southwest side. "There's all sorts of thunderstorms building, and it looks like we could get more dry lightning."

Hudson back in the U.S.

LOS ANGELES — Screen star Rock Hudson, battling for his life against AIDS and a liver disorder, flew home today aboard a chartered jetliner and was carried on a stretcher to a hospital-bound helicopter, officials said.

Hudson, 59, star of the "McMillan and Wife" and "Dynasty" television series, was returning home for treatment at the UCLA Medical Center, publicist Dale Olson said Monday.

He left Paris, where he was undergoing treatment at the American Hospital, late Monday aboard a chartered Air France jetliner that landed at Los Angeles International Airport, where he was transferred to a waiting copter.

Airport workers said Hudson was moved between aircraft on a stretcher. Reporters were kept at a distance.

Challenger loses engine, experiment, telescopes

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Spacelab scientists, working at low altitude after the harrowing shut-down of one of Challenger's main engines, were faced with the loss of their major experiment today when they were unable to properly operate a $60 million device intended to point telescopes precisely at the sun.

They also had trouble with two of the three solar telescopes on the pointing device. One lost power and the other was periodically overheating. Specialists at Mission Control were troubleshooting, hopeful they would find solutions to all three problems.

Officials said before the mission that testing the German-made pointing system was the most important goal of the mission. It is to be used on several flights in the future, including a shuttle mission which is to study Halley's comet next March.

Lee Briscoe, one of the flight directors, said a number of computer software and procedure approaches will be attempted in an effort to repair the system.

Most of the 13 experiments switched on as planned, including a generator that shot brilliant electron beams out of the shuttle's cargo bay in a study of properties of the ionosphere, the atmospheric layer that transmits radio signals around the globe.

"Brightness...beautiful," exclaimed astronaut Loren Acton, a solar physicist, as he photographed the beams.

"Sorry it's taking us so long to get on the sun," said crew member Karl Henize, an astronomer operating the pointing system. He said he had made some "rough tracks" on the sun and a star, but was having trouble locking firmly on the targets.

The shuttle's systems worked smoothly after Monday's dangerous and unprecedented "abort to orbit" and the astronauts — including five scientists — settled into a round-the-clock, two-shift routine.

"We're still going to get a lot of science out of this flight," said flight director Cleon Lacefield, who guided the ship through its engine cutoff.

During the tense first minutes after launch, the crew also disconnected a temperature sensor to prevent a second engine from shutting down before Challenger could reach orbit, Lacefield said.

If that second engine had failed or been cut off, Challenger would have faced a risky emergency landing on the Mediterranean island of Crete, or, more likely, Lacefield said, "We would have been in the water."

It was not known whether the engines actually overheated or the gauges showing 200 degrees over the normal 1,720 degrees were malfunctioning, he said. In 18 previous shuttle missions, "we have never had an engine overheat."

After the crisis had passed, the $1.2 billion spaceship, cruising at 17,400 miles per hour, took up an orbit ranging from 124 miles to 165 miles above the Earth — far below the 241-mile orbit in the Spacelab flight plan.

Three engine firings today boosted the orbit to 195 miles, and Briscoe said that would be as high as the ship would get. Lacefield said earlier the the $78 million Spacelab mission would be "full duration."

The lower altitudes were sure to curtail some experiments, but more troublesome to the scientific planners was the reduction in fuel available for the shuttle's Orbital Maneuvering System.

The main engines propel the shuttle to orbit and are not used again. The two smaller OMS engines are used during the flight to steer Challenger into the proper alignment for the Spacelab experiments.

During the crisis Monday, 4,400 pounds of OMS fuel were dumped to shed weight during the final boost and 750 pounds were burned to steer the ship into its new orbit. About 16,800 pounds of fuel had been earmarked for experiments and 11,300 of that remained.

"We're looking at allocating the fuel to give science as much as we can," said National Aeronautics and Space Administration shuttle director Jesse Moore.

NASA can't play it too tight with the OMS fuel, since Commander Gordon Fullerton needs those engines to slow the shuttle for its descent to Earth.

While experts at the Johnson Space Center in Houston refined the schedule, other NASA technicians analyzed data that might explain the crisis that began 3 minutes and 30 seconds after the 5 p.m. liftoff.

In the midst of the shuttle's climb, instruments at Mission Control said engine No. 1 was overheating. Heat sensors often fail, so controllers looked at a backup. Five minutes and 45 seconds after liftoff, the second sensor showed overheating and computers cut the engine off.

"We show a center engine failure," Fullerton said, without emotion.

Meeting for human rights

HELSINKI, Finland — With the superpowers already sparring over arms control, a 35-nation conference marking the 10th anniversary of the controversial Helsinki human rights and security accords got under way today.

Both Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze and U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz are scheduled to address the conference.

Shevardnadze, named July 2 to replace Andrei A. Gromyko as foreign minister, is making his international debut at the meeting. Gromyko is the new Soviet president.

Guerrillas attack Soviets

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Afghan guerrillas launched a major attack with rockets and machine guns on the Soviet air base in Kabul and fighting raged across the city as Soviet forces retaliated with missiles and artillery, Western sources said today.

Western diplomatic sources, who declined to be identified further, described the fighting as the worst in the capital in years.

They said large guerrilla forces attacked Kabul airport and the adjoining Soviet air base Saturday night and the fighting rapidly spread across the northern areas of the city.

Sikhs fight before temple

AMRITSAR, India — Sikh moderates and extremists traded rocks and gunfire inside the Golden Temple complex today, and paramilitary soldiers entered the holy shrine to arrest 62 activists, city police said. As many as 40 people were hurt.

At least 50 shots were fired by the rivals, police said. They identified all those arrested as members of the militant wing of the Sikh political party, Akali Dal.

The fight generated tension in this Sikh holy city 250 miles northwest of New Delhi. Panicked shopkeepers shuttered their stores and people fled indoors in neighborhoods surrounding the Golden Temple, the holiest Sikh shrine.

Paramilitary troops were reported still inside the temple complex after the clash, guarding a party faction meeting called by moderate leader Harchand Singh Longowal.

The battle broke out shortly after Longowal entered the complex with armed bodyguards to address Akali Dal leaders. A bodyguard of Longowal fired shots in the air to disperse militant youths who surrounded the 55-year-old leader's car as it approached the main temple hall.

Japanese program set to increase trade

TOKYO (AP) — In yet another bid to head off a trade war with the West, economically powerful Japan launched a three-year trade program today that one Cabinet minister claimed would make it "the most open market among developed countries."

Under pressure from its Western trading partners, the government released a 47-page document outlining 87 measures aimed at streamlining Japan's import procedures, specifically those concerning certification of products and simplification of technical standards.

Appearing later in a nationally televised news conference, Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone appealed to the U.S. Congress to avoid trade protectionism, and asked the Japanese people to cooperate in liberalizing import markets.

"We must defend the free trade system to the last. We are fighting a life and death battle against protectionism... we know clearly that if we let the protectionist bills pass in the U.S. Congress, the global economy will face another recession," Nakasone said.

Japan's surplus with the United States in 1984 was $36.8 billion, and some members of Congress have said it could reach $50 billion this year. Japan faces as much as 86 different bills in Congress designed to restrict its imports to the United States.

Japan also chalked up a $10 billion surplus with the European Common Market last year. Officials declined to say how much Japan intends to trim from its $45 billion global trade surplus over the next three years.

Time runs short in South Africa

The state of emergency declared in South Africa is, as Bishop Desmond Tutu put it, an "act of desperation" by a government that will not recognize time is running out on halfway reforms.

A year of such reforms, designed to appease growing pressure for racial justice, has whetted black South Africans' appetite for freedom without confronting the fundamental issues of apartheid. Fearing the growing strength of the rebellion, the Botha government has now lashed back violently, instituting far-ranging repressive measures that repeal basic human rights and step up police and security actions in the black townships. At best, the state of emergency can buy time for further reforms that lead toward human dignity for all South Africans. At worst, it will only delay the day of reckoning to the point when the issue will be decided at a higher plane of violence.

The record of the South African government does not inspire confidence it will use the decree well. The state of emergency gives virtually unlimited power of arrest and seizure to the police and security forces, whose respect for rights and life leaves much to be desired. By casting the emergency decree broadly, the government has given itself the power to attack not only the black rioters who burn and murder in the townships, but also the black and white moderates in the press, churches and government who use their pulpits to push for an end to apartheid. No wonder the state of emergency has been attacked widely in the South African press and by the leading organizations of big business.

Sadly, the Reagan administration could not bring itself to do even that much.

"The situation has deteriorated to the point that the South African government felt compelled to institute new measures," the State Department lamely said on July 20, as if to imply that repression is the only answer to demands for democratic rights. On July 22, the White House did a little better, laying much of the blame for the violence at the door of South Africa's government. Still, it could not bring itself to condemn the repressive order.

What Washington ought to be saying is that time is short in South Africa. For the moment, at least, there is still slim political ground on which Botha, were he courageous, and black moderates from the churches, trade unions and tribal groups, could meet to chart a path toward the end of apartheid. To delay is to leave the field to radicals on the right and left who look to violence as the only arbiter.

Endless summer of phone calls

(What Frank Sinatra and Art Buchwald have in common is that people prefer their golden oldies. Here is a previously published column of Buchwald's while he's on vacation.)

MARTHA'S VINEYARD — What I did on my summer vacation:

I was a telephone answering service. Only people who have children between the ages of 14 and 30 will appreciate what an important function I performed.

I always started after dinner as soon as my daughter Jennifer asked, "Can I use the car?"

"What time will you be back?" I asked.

"Not late. If Debbie calls tell her I went with Tony over to Mike's, and if she doesn't get us there we'll be at David Crohan's Bar in Oak Bluffs."

"I gotcha," I said, writing it down.

Half an hour later the phone rang. "Is Jenny there?"

"Is this Debbie?" I asked.

"No, it's Sarah. And she was supposed to meet me at the Cafe du Port in Vineyard Haven," she said.

"Well, she went with Tony over to Mike's."

"Which Mike?"

"She didn't say which Mike. Is there more than one?"

"There are three. If she calls back, tell her I went to the party at Ben's."

"The party at Ben's. I've got it." Fifteen minutes later the phone rang again. It was Ben, who wanted to tell Jenny about the party.

I explained that she was with Tony at Mike's, but was going to David Crohan's Bar.

"Well, if Angel calls," Ben said,

"tell him I need ice and wine." "Why would Angel call?" I asked.

"To find out where Tony went." "I gotcha," I said, writing it down. "Tell Jenny about your party and Angel about bringing ice and wine. Do you have any message for Debbie?"

"Who's Debbie?" Ben said.

"I don't know, but she's supposed to call Jenny and I'm to tell her she's with Tony and they went over to Mike's and then they're going to David Crohan's Bar."

"Well, don't tell Debbie about the party because I don't know how many people will be with her."

"My lips are sealed," I promised.

I got into a hot tub when the phone rang again.

The party on the other end asked for Jenny.

"Who's calling?" "Gordon Manning."

"You can find her at Mike's, David Crohan's Bar or Ben's party, depending how lucky you are."

"I'm calling from New Hampshire."

"That's too bad. There's lots of great things going on here," I told him.

"Well, will you tell Jenny I'm coming down on Tuesday and ask her to leave my beach pass with Ellen in Edgartown? But tell her not to tell Betsy I'm coming. You got that?"

"Of course I've got it. You think I'm a dummy? Listen, I have to get off the phone because I'm expecting a call from either Debbie or Angel or the police in Chilmark, depending how lucky I am."

Dining on airplanes may be hazardous to your health

WASHINGTON — The next time you feel a little queasy flying your favorite airline, the cause might not have been the air turbulence or your white-knuckled nervousness, but the in-flight meal.

The Food and Drug Administration has designated a "danger zone" for food storage at 45 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Between those two temperatures, bacteria growth occurs that can lead to food poisoning.

FDA inspectors are currently conducting spot-checks of on-board food temperatures at Chicago, Baltimore, Atlanta and Dallas airports. The agency's stated goal is to spot-check 408 planes by Sept. 30, although only 82 had been inspected at this writing.

Looking on the bright side, an FDA spokesman said "70 percent of the planes passed with flying colors." But that means 30 percent flunked.

This is a higher percentage than the FDA uncovered in a check of 142 planes from 19 airlines in the New York area a year ago. That check turned up only 28 planes from 10 airlines, or roughly 20 percent, that failed to meet the FDA standard for food storage. So the current failure rate is running 50 percent higher.

According to a summary of the 1984 spot checks, prepared at the request of Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Ohio, the FDA found instances "in which foods such as steaks, chicken, fish, milk and non-dairy creamers were being loaded on aircraft with little or no dry ice and stored at unsafe temperatures."

Our associate Tony Capaccio obtained the FDA inspection reports and reviewed their conclusions with William Adams, chairman of the In-Flight Food Services Association, which represents airline caterers. Adams made the point that the FDA sampled only a fraction of the nearly 350 million meals served in the air last year.

"I don't know of any food-related illness because of temperature," Adams said, adding, "But that doesn't mean the possibility isn't there."

Here are some of the reports' findings:

- Inspectors found storage problems with five Eastern Airlines flights, bound to Bermuda, Atlanta, Miami and Fort Lauderdale. On two of the planes, for example, steaks waiting to be served in flight were found to have internal temperatures of 54 to 59 degrees. An Eastern spokesman said the problem was "extremely minor," but that the company had followed up with re-educational efforts.

- On one Pan American flight from Chicago to New York, FDA inspectors found three chicken and steak dinners in the front galley at 70 degrees, and three of 35 chicken dinners in the rear galley at 66 to 70 degrees. The FDA "Notice of Adverse Finding" said that Pan Am personnel were told of the problem, "but indicated that due to the length of time required to re-stock the plane, the meals would be served" anyway, so the flight could leave on time. Adams said there would be no health hazard if the meals were served within two hours.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Long-distance companies pose dilemma

By BILL McCLOSKEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — From coast to coast, Americans are being confronted with a long-distance telephone dilemma — what company do they want to use.

The court-ordered breakup of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. cleared the way for more extensive competition in the long-distance market, and local telephone companies are now in the process of asking consumers to make their choice of a long-distance carrier.

Here are some of the questions asked most frequently about the process, and the answers.

Q: Do I really have to make a choice?
A: No, but if you don't return a ballot you'll be assigned to a long-distance company.

Q: Won't I just be assigned then to AT&T?
A: Not necessarily. Assignments will be based on each company's share of the business of those who returned a ballot. Thus, if half your neighbors who return ballots pick AT&T, then you've got a 50-50 chance of being assigned to AT&T.

Q: If I don't select a company, will I still be able to make long-distance calls?
A: Yes.

Q: Can I make calls through a company other than the one I pick?
A: Yes, by dialing a five-digit code, to be listed in your telephone directory. In some cases you must make arrangements with the alternate company.

Q: What if I threw the ballot away or lost it?
A: You'll get a second one automatically, but to be on the safe side, call your local phone company and ask for another.

Q: When will the ballot come?
A: About 90 days before the new system is hooked up in your area. The transition, which will include about 80 percent of America's phones, is supposed to be complete by the end of September 1986.

Q: Will I know about an assignment before the changeover?
A: Yes, the local company will tell you your assigned company and give you another chance to make your own decision.

Q: What are my options?
A: All companies that offer equal access service in your area will be listed on the ballot.

Q: How do I choose a company?
A: You should decide what's important to

|| You should decide what's important to you: price, quality, service, special bonus offerings, etc. Call the long-distance companies and ask what they have to offer. There are usually up to a dozen companies to choose from, so it might take some time. || you: price, quality, service, special bonus offerings, etc. Call the long-distance companies and ask what they have to offer. There are usually up to a dozen companies to choose from, so it might take some time.

Q: What should I ask?
A: Your long-distance bills from the last few months will give you a good start. Ask the long distance companies how much they charge from your phone to the numbers you call. Specify the time of day you make the calls. Rates have changed recently, so don't judge by the prices on your phone bill, ask each company for current rates. Ask about volume discounts. Some companies will take something off the bill if you make more than a certain amount of calls.

Q: I make a lot of calls, that would take forever.
A: Washington Consumers' Checkbook will run your bill through a computer and tell you what each option would have cost you for a representative month or two. The minimum charge is $10. You can call them toll-free at 800-441-8933 for details.

Q: Can I save money even if I make only a few calls a month?
A: Yes. Marty Howard, special projects director for the Checkbook, said the average difference between the highest and lowest priced company is 29 percent. Even on a $10 monthly phone bill, that's a savings of $2.90 a month.

Q: I don't make many long-distance calls. Am I going to get stuck with some monthly minimum?
A: No, you can't be assigned to a company that makes a monthly charge. You can select Today is Tuesday, July 30, the 211th day of 1985. There are 154 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
Ten years ago former Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa disappeared as he was trying to recapture control of the union he once headed. Hoffa was last seen getting into an automobile that had pulled up in front of a restaurant in suburban Detroit. His exact fate remains a mystery.

On this date:
In 1619, the first representative assembly in America convened in Jamestown, Va.

In 1729, Baltimore was founded.
In 1792, the French national anthem "La Marseillaise" was first sung in Paris.

In 1818, author Emily Bronte was born.

In 1864, during the Civil War, Union forces tried to take Petersburg, Va., by first exploding a mine under Confederate defense lines that left a huge crater. The attack failed.

In 1916, German saboteurs blew up a munitions plant on Black Tom Island near Jersey City, N.J.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill creating a women's auxiliary agency in the Navy. The legislation was called Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service, or WAVES.

In 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson signed Medicare into law.

Ten years ago: Representatives of 35 nations, including President Gerald R. Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, convened in Helsinki, Finland, to participate in a conference aimed at ensuring peace in Europe.

Five years ago: In a statement issued by the White House, President Jimmy Carter acknowledged that he had discussed with his brother Billy classified State Department cables concerning a trip Billy Carter made to Libya.

One year ago: The Environmental Protection Agency proposed new rules aimed at drastically reducing the amount of lead in gasoline to reduce the health risk posed by lead in the environment.

Dear Abby

Guests want to wear out welcome

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for two years to a man who never got along very well with his family. (I've never met any of them.)

His mother wrote to us saying she would like to visit us toward the end of the summer, so we invited her to come for four or five days. She wrote back saying she was coming for a two-week visit and was bringing her sister and her sister's daughter with her!

We wrote her saying we had a very small house and were not able to have guests for two weeks, but the three of them could come for one week only. Well, she wrote back and said she had to stay for two weeks to get a reduced air fare!

Dear Abby, are we stuck with three people for two weeks? We just can't handle it! His mother is not elderly, poor or disabled, if that makes a difference. Help!

NO NAME, OF COURSE

DEAR NO NAME: Even though this woman is your husband's mother, it doesn't give her the right to stretch a four-to-five-day invitation to two weeks and bring two additional guests to boot.

Tell her that if they stay two weeks, you will be glad to make reservations at a nearby motel for the second week. And if you can't pick up the tab, send her the motel rates and ask for her preference.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the boat in your answer to "Bewildered," the couple who were sure that if they left their considerable estate to their only daughter, she would spend it all on her "no-good husband."

You said, "There is no way you can control the way your daughter spends her inheritance." This is not so.

You should have suggested that they consult a lawyer experienced in wills and trusts, and consider leaving the inheritance in a trust for the benefit of their daughter for her lifetime. The trustee (probably a bank) could be directed to distribute the money, from the income or principal, only for the daughter's benefit, as the trustee decides is appropriate.

While the son-in-law would probably benefit in directly from this arrangement, the daughter would get the primary benefit, and the principal of the trust would give her financial security for the rest of her life.

DONALD R. WASEL, ATTORNEY AT LAW, HARRISBURG, PA.

DEAR MR. WASEL: You are right, of course. And judging from the number of letters I received from lawyers and trust officers, I not only missed the boat, I missed the entire fleet.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago I might have felt the same as "Disappointed Mom," but I hope that she will be thankful for her daughter's good qualities as you advised.

My daughter is nearly 20. She graduated No. 1 in her class and had her pick of the top colleges. She was beautiful and talented, but never seemed interested in boys the way most girls were.

After her freshman year of college, she told me she had fallen in love with another woman! My world fell apart, Abby. If she had had a normal heterosexual relationship, I would have overlooked everything else.

I still pray that some wonderful man will come along and sweep her off her feet. I love her with all my heart, but don't think I will ever be able to accept her lifestyle.

STILL HOPEFUL

DEAR STILL: If you love her, you will learn more about her "lifestyle." Do yourself — and your daughter — a favor, and write to PARENTS FLAG, P.O. Box 24565, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024.

The information is comforting, enlightening and free, but please enclose a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Fibroadenoma usually benign

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I developed fibroadenoma in my breasts. The growths became noticeable after I tried to breastfeed my baby, my first, incidentally. I am planning to have a biopsy, even though my doctor told me that the fibroadenoma is non-cancerous. He just wants to be absolutely sure. Can you tell me about this and the biopsy need? — Mrs. O.Y.

Fibroadenoma is a common female breast growth and is almost always benign. It is the kind of tissue growth that depends on the woman's hormone production. That means it can increase at pregnancy and continue on into breastfeeding.

The doctor can get a pretty good reading on such growths and distinguish them from cancer. A fibroadenoma can be moved around independently under the skin. Cancerous growth doesn't feel that way, but more as though it is a part of surrounding tissue.

Still, biopsy of adenoma is standard procedure. If it does prove to be benign it can be left in place to regress with time, as these tend to do. When removed they may grow back anyway.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My mother-in-law believes that soapsuds enemas can cure anything, from a sore finger to a cold or the measles. And if you are really sick two in a row will do the trick. My husband and I laugh and think the idea is absurd. Is this an old medical idea that used to be prevalent? — Mrs. C.B.

Your mother-in-law was raised in an era that equated daily elimination with health. Anything less was a sign of poison accumulating in the body. In your grandmother's time the red enema bag and its painfully familiar tube was a decor fixture of the American bathroom.

Actually, enemas cure nothing, and overused they are harmful irritants, causing loss of body minerals and interfering with normal bowel activity. Today, enema is reserved for occasional severe constipation. Other uses include its preparation for bowel X-rays or for more convenient delivery of certain medicines — steroid enemas, for example, in treatment of ulcerative colitis.

I like your mother-in-law, but I must advise you to keep the enema bag safely out of the way, especially when she is tempted to use it on young children. That should never be done without specific advice from a doctor. You might let her read the booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation," which offers more modern approaches to such problems than her beloved enema. Other readers may order a copy by writing to me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printings and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you explain why hair turns gray, especially for people at a young age? Mine has been graying since I was a teenager. My father's hair is still a youthful brown. I am in good health. Why can't my hair look its 20 years instead of a premature 50? — T.

Pigment cells at the hair roots impact color. Hair gets white when no pigment is being made, and that usually is part of aging. Sometimes, however, heredity plays a role in how the pigment cells work or don't work. To find out you have to look beyond your father and into both his and your mother's family albums.

Local patches of white hair mean that the same process is going on that produces white patches of skin — vitiligo. The cause is either case is the same — absence of pigment production. Premature whiteness of hair doesn't mean failing health.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please tell parents to be careful about leaving little disc-shaped batteries in reach of children. Our infant son swallowed one and it burned his esophagus. Many parents are not aware of the acid in batteries. Fortunately, we were able to figure out what was wrong in time to get him to the emergency room and get things taken care of.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "You Can Control Angina." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.25.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

AT&T denied rate request

AUSTIN (AP) — A Public Utility Commission administrative law judge says that AT&T Communications of the Southwest does not need an interim rate hike while the PUC considers its permanent rate increase request.

Judge Phillip Holder denied AT&T's request for an interim rate increase of $123.3 million.

Holder's ruling can be appealed to the full PUC.

Holder said the company did not show the interim increase was necessary.

"Extraordinary relief is not necessary to preserve the status quo — the continued provision of service to customers during the pendency of this docket," said Holder's order.

AT&T filed a request in early April for permanent rate increase of $139 million, plus the $123.3 million it said it needed for an interim hike.

The hearing on the case was held in June and July and an examiner's report on the company's permanent increase request will be issued in September.

A final ruling by the full commission is expected in October.

Glasscock Co. pupils receive scholarships

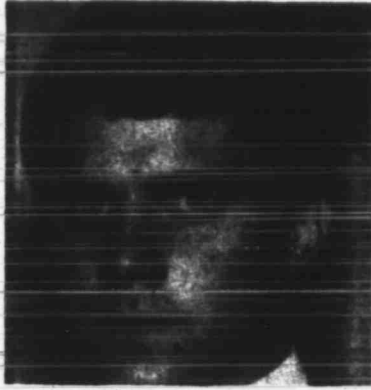

GARDEN CITY — Two Glasscock County 4-H members received scholarships from livestock shows this year.

Stephanie Frerich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Frerich of Garden City, received $8,000 from the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

Douglas Hoelscher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hoelscher of Garden City, received a San Antonio Livestock Exposition Scholarship for $6,000.

Both received their awards at the 1985 Texas 4-H Round-up in June, two of the 93 youths who received a total of $545,000 in the ceremony.

During her years in the 4-H Club, Stephanie received the

member of the State Council and the District 6 Vice President, she went on a trip to Chicago and participated in the state food show and state dress revue.

She will attend Texas A&M University in the fall.

Doug's 4-H career included the county gold star award, the 1985 San Antonio Kiwanis Club and the Glasscock County Steer Showmanship Award. In contests, he also showed the Grand Champion Steer in the Glasscock County Show, the Reserve Grand Champion Barrow at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition in 1981 and had the District-winning record book in beef in 1984.

He will attend Tarleton State University in the fall.

Harte-Hanks to publish new magazine

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. has announced a new Sunday newspaper magazine called "Texas Weekly" that will be distributed in 13 newspapers.

Philip Schoch, editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times, on Monday was named editor and publisher of the new newspaper supplement, which debuts on Sept. 8.

"We are extremely excited about this new product and the opportunities it affords us," said Tucker Sutherland, president of newspaper operations for Harte-Hanks.

"Texas Weekly" will focus on articles about famous Texans, Texas travel, landmarks, recipes as well as features about Texas people, places, business and sports.

The staff will be headquartered in San Antonio and the magazine will be printed at the Abilene Reporter-News, a Harte-Hanks newspaper.

Sutherland said the initial editions will be distributed to more than 350,000 households through 13 Harte-Hanks daily newspapers in Texas. It will also be made available to selected Texas markets in the future, he said.

Schoch, who was part of a special team that developed "Texas Weekly," will assume his new duties in San Antonio immediately, the company said.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Commercial printing is a specialty at Tallant

"When a customer buys printing (he) buys three things: service, quality, and price," says Dick Gibbons of Tallant Printing.

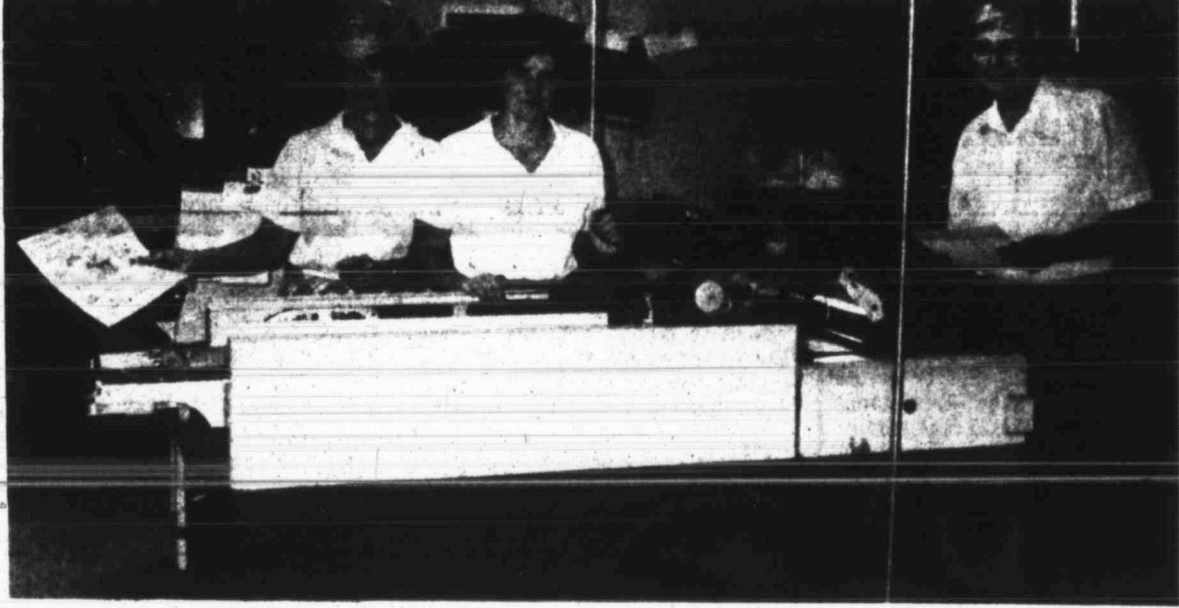

Tallant is a complete commercial printing firm that has served Big Spring at 218 W. 3rd for 10 years. The company offers high quality service at competitive prices and prints anything from letterheads, envelopes, and business cards to invitations and multi-part carbonless forms.

form work...and are equipped to handle all office printing needs," Gibbons said. If the service is needed, Tallant Printing also helps customers with their ideas and design preparation.

In addition to the printing service, Tallant offers a full photocopy center and office supplies. The photocopy center can make reduced and enlarged copies of originals. For large quantity purchases of office supplies, Tallant offers a 20 percent discount.

served Big Spring 10 years, Dick and Billie Gibbons have owned and operated the business for four years. Gibbons began in the printing business as a junior high school student 39 years ago and made it his career. The Gibbons and their co-worker, Gayla Brooks, have about 45 years of combined experience in the printing field.

The next time you have printing needs or run short of office supplies, contact Tallant Printing at 218 W. 3rd or call 267-7468 (dial PRINT). Tallant is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 31, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's full moon can bring all sorts of startling activities, so prepare for something unique to occur, and you will find it can be arranged so that you extend your interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look to new friends for those novel ideas that appeal to you, and then make good use of them. Dress in style.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Civic and practical affairs should be handled wisely at this time, and you can make great progress. Contact a powerful person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have fine ideas and can put them in operation quickly and gain the progress you desire. Make new contacts who have information.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A clever person in business can give good pointers so that you can become more successful, so listen carefully.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Your judgment is good and you have clever ideas so think constructively and put them in operation quickly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have good ideas just how to profit more from your talents and can make a big name for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get in touch with good friends and plan recreations that are mutually liked. You can come to a real understanding with the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more cognizant of what kins' needs are and try to help them today. The evening is fine for inviting friends into your home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more friendly with contacts in the outside world and you get better results. Fine for handling important communications.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use a more modern system in handling property affairs and get better results. Consult with experts for ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have good ideas just how to gain your personal aims and find that a conservative friend can also be of help to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may have rather strange ideas on how to make your existence better, so weed out the bad and concentrate on the good.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will fit right into new age thinking and acting, so send to the most modern schools for best results through the lifetime. One who will also gain the favor of bigwigs who will appreciate the fine potential here for the future.

A good tournament

This past week I had the chance to cover my first national tournament of any kind; in any sport, and let me tell you it was indeed a treat.

The 1985 United Girls Softball Association National Tournament at Roy Anderson Complex turned out to be everything I anticipated and more. It was well-run, well-played and well-attended.

Four days and 70 games later, four teams were proclaimed the best fast-pitch softball teams in the United States.

Abilene North in Division I, Denison in Division II, Midland Blue in Division III and Odessa Black in Division IV will wear the crowns for one year.

It was sight to behold seeing the look on each youngster's face when the fact finally sunk in that they were the National Champions.

But a tournament be only as good as the hosting place and Big Spring turned out to be a terrific spot. The people of the community all banded together to make this tourney a smashing success.

From Tournament Chairman Jackie Thomason, League President Marvin Wise and Treasurer Gladys Thompson to the members of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp Jaycees, it was all a joint effort. Not to mention all the league mothers, fathers and intrested citizens who donated their time with the concession stands, scorekeeping, announcing and whatever else was asked of them.

Also lending a helping hand was the National Board of Directors of the United Girls Softball Association, headed by President Bill Clayton of Jacksboro. Everyone contributed their part to have a successful tournament.

Tournament play itself was a doozy. Although Big Spring teams didn't fare that well, its coaches and team members showed everyone that the Spring City has some good ball players.

In fact, Big Spring placed five players on the National All-Tournament Team. From Division I, Debbie Cunningham was named to the elite team. Division II pitcher-shortstop Pam Gill was selected the the team as well as Division III shortstop Katrina Thompson.

Big Spring must have excellent shortstops because Division IV Shortstop Debra Rubio was also named to the squad as well as centerfielder Jancy Cunningham, Debbie's cousin.

It was an enjoyable four days filled with new faces, friendly people and good clean competition. Perhaps National President Clayton summed it up best by saying "This is one of the better prepared tournaments that I've attended."

I second the motion.

Sports Briefs

Lowriders tournament

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Lowriders will be hosting a softball tournament August 2-4 at Hertenburger Field. Entry fee is $100 per team and deadline to enter is Thursday. To enter call Ronnie Arispe at 728-8679.

To enter call one of the following numbers: 806-872-2051, 806-872-2946, 806-872-6041 or 806-872-8524.

Basketball day camp

The Howard College Summer Day Basketball Camp will be held August 10 for girls and August 17 for boys. The one day camps will be conducted at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and is open to youth ages 8-17 who haven't played basketball on a varsity level. Cost is $26 per person with a $6 deposit being required to insure a spot in the camp. The camp will last from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Deadline to enter is July 31. To register call Howard College at 267-6311 ext. 315 between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Red Sox sweep Sweetwater

The Big Spring Red Sox upped their record to 23-2 by sweeping the Sweetwater Astros in a doubleheader this past weekend. Home runs were the name of the game in the Sox 12-3 opening win. Fernie Paredes, Ron Finnell, Henry Holguin, Lupe Ontiveros and Ernie Garcia all hit homers. Garcia's shot was a grand slam. Finnell was the winning pitcher.

The Red Sox won the second game 8-7 behind the pitching of Raymond Dominguez and reliever George Solis. Ontiveros blasted a three-run homer in the contest.

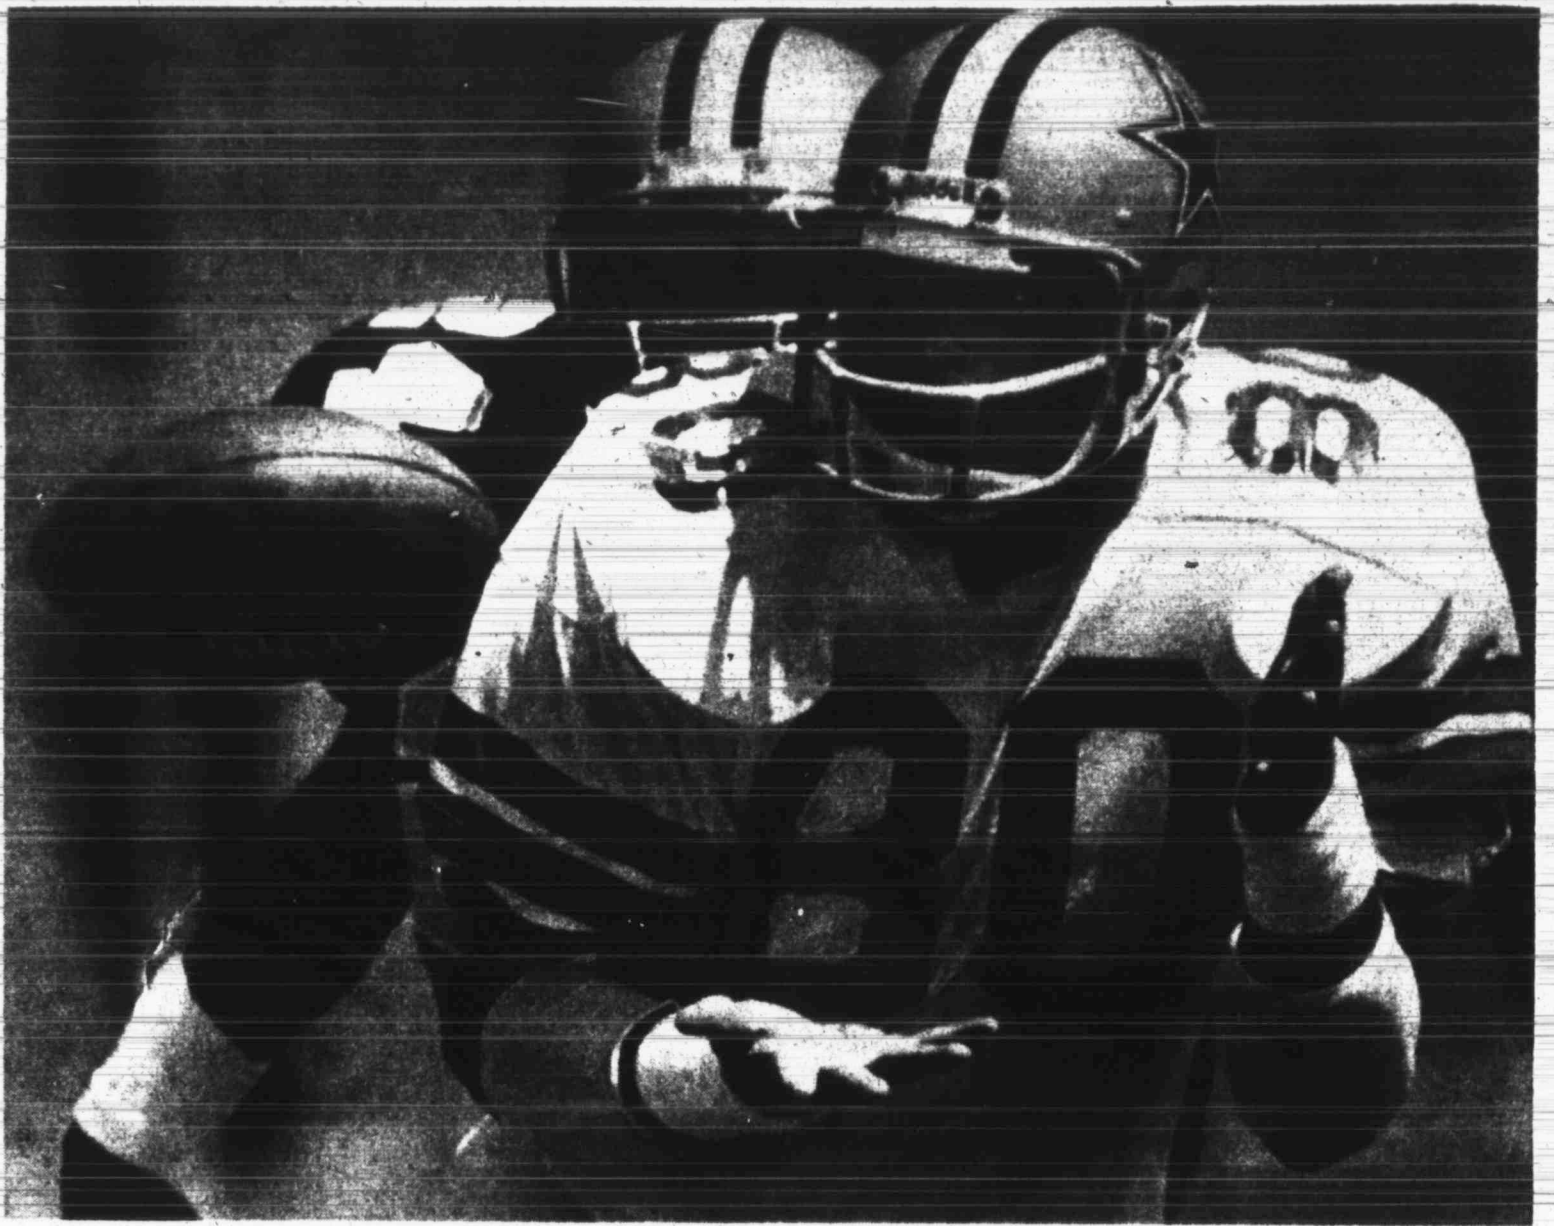

Eastern nips Pecos, 3-2

District 3 Little League champion Midland Eastern squeaked by Pecos 3-2, behind the 6 hit hit pitching of J.J. Johnson and a sixth inning rally that knotted the bi-district playoff series at 1-1 Monday night at Pittman National League Field.

The game was tied 2-2, in the bottom of the sixth, when Midland Eastern lead off man Joe Dominguez rapped a single to get the rally started. Following a strikeout, Abel Rodriguez slapped a double off losing pitcher Mike Lujan, putting men at second and third with one out. Raymond Ramos provided the game winner with a single into right that scored Dominguez from third and ending the game at 3-2.

Johnson had an outstanding night on the mound for the Eastern squad, giving up only two walks, while striking out 8 in the complete game victory. Johnson was also so helped time and again by excellent defense by his infielders.

James Silvas had a home run in the losing effort for Pecos. The series will end tonight, with the last game scheduled for 8 p.m. in Pecos. The winner will advance to the state Little League tournament in Waco.

Dallas Cowboys wide receiver TONY HILL (80) reaches to catch a pass during an intersquad scrimmage Monday at the Cowboys training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif. Moving in on the play is corner back EVERSON WALLS.

Training Notes

Bingham to leave Oilers

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Gregg Bingham, a cornerstone in three consecutive Houston Oilers playoff teams, won't get his day in the Astrodome as he had planned for the final game of his pro career. "I always envisioned going to the stadium for that last game," Bingham said Monday after asking the Oilers to trade him. "I won't get that day in the Astrodome and it puts excess pressure on my wife and family. "It's sort of an unhappy ending to a happy playing relationship."

Oilers

Bingham, an alternate last season for the Pro Bowl, cited "irreconcilable differences" with Head Coach Hugh Campbell. "Saturday, just before practice, Hugh Campbell asked me to request a trade," Bingham said. "The reasons are personal. Let's put it this way, there were irreconcilable differences between him and me that had been brewing for a long time."

Campbell said the Oilers, in the midst of a youth movement, had decided to go with younger, quicker Avon Riley at Bingham's inside linebacker position. "I told him (Bingham) that he was one of the most intense players I'd ever coached and I admired his ability to play hard on every play but that I was going to make a change at the inside linebacker position," Campbell said. Campbell said he knew nothing about "irreconcilable differences" with Bingham.

"He loves the football part so much now that I think it's easier for him to blame something other than physical," Campbell said.

Oilers owner Bud Adams offered Bingham an administrative post with the team if he decides to retire.

Bingham and 11-year veteran linebacker Robert Brazile were key players on the 1978-80 playoff teams and Brazile gave Bingham a vote of confidence.

"The only thing Greg has lost is his hair which it was his option to cut it," Brazile said, referring to Bingham's burr haircut.

"This is a guy that when I stepped in I had to play with. We played the right side and I would say we could write the book on the right side."

'Manster' blasts agents

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle Randy White says Tony Dorsett isn't the only National Football League player who has had bad experience with agents. "There are a lot of players who have been the victims of bad agents," White said. "Some of 'em just take the money and run. "They are not concerned about players after they get the signing bonus. You hate to see a guy like Tony get ripped off," he said.

Cowboys

Dorsett was to meet with the Internal Revenue Service in Dallas on Monday to discuss his financial problems. Dorsett's new agent is Howard Slusher, who also represents White.

"Slusher is a good man," White said. "He'll help Tony. You have to feel bad for Tony. He's certainly had his share of adversity."

Dorsett was subject to $1,000-per-day fines while he missed training camp but Coach Tom Landry says he wants to talk to Dorsett before he makes any decision whether to fine him.

"I can't tell what I'm going to do until I talk to a player," said Landry. "I don't want to hear anything second hand. I need to know it from the horse's mouth."

"I've got to know the facts," said Landry. "I'll talk to Tony this week."

Dorsett called club President Tex Schramm Saturday night and said he wasn't reporting to training camp despite the possible fine.

Slusher convinced White to hold out all of training camp last year. "Tony's situation is different from mine and I really don't have any insight into what he will do," White said. "I just did what I felt like I had to do under the circumstances to get a fair settlement."

Dorsett would like to renegotiate his seven-year contract that brings him some $400,000 per year. He is in the fourth year of the pact. At one time, he had a 15-year deferred contract at $100,000 per year, but decided he wanted the money up front.

Dorsett was hit in Dallas with a $400,000 back tax notice by the IRS. The agency, which seized two of his houses in north Dallas, also has attached his paychecks since last October.

Ladies Golf Association alive and well

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

It has been going on since the 40's and today it's trying to make a push to become as active as it was back then.

Forty years and a name change later, the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association is still alive and well in the Crossroads Country. The group was called the Big Spring Ladies Golf Association until the park's name was changed to Comanche Trail over a decade ago.

For the past few years the golf association has tapered off with its tournaments and playdays. But now the 18-member group is striving to become as active as it was in the early 40's. In fact, it has caught the attention of one of the first members of the club. Seventy-seven-year-old Opal McDaniel has hinted that she might rejoin the club.

One of progressive acts is this weekend's Two Member Ladies

Scramble Golf Tournament at Comanche Trail Golf Course. Entry fee is $50 per team and deadline to enter is Wednesday. Entries can be called in to Comanche Trail Golf Pro Al Patterson at 263-7271 or Ruby Honea at 263-3274. A luncheon at the Brandin Iorn Inn will be held following play.

The tournament is just one of many activities the association has planned for the season, according club president Betty Ray Coffee.

"We're planning more things in order to get reorganized. We're hoping to build our membership up to 30 by next year," said Coffee.

Part of their current push has been to select new officers, headed by Coffee as President. The other are: Tammy Newsome, Vice-President; Luan Touchstone, Secretary and Treasurer, Delores Hull.

This year the association has had best-ball playdays every Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Comanche Trail. Coffee says this has been a big hit with the members. "We usually have at least 12 players for our playdays. We play scramble teams, blind hole tournaments, pair-up tournaments and lowest putts. We try for a good variety so we can keep up interest."

Thursdays has been set aside for couples play. A scramble format is used. Following play, a pot luck supper is served. Coffee said that the association is thinking of scheduling a playday and luncheon with members of the Big Spring Country Club Ladies Golf Association. "They us to have playdays with Country Club members. I think it would be a good idea," said Coffee.

Also in their spare time, association members have been remodeling their club meeting room.

Being more active also calls for association members to get out and compete in other tournaments. For instance, this weekend three couples teams placed in a tournament in Stanton. Marvin Williams and Anette Kestermeier placed third in the championship flight Jackie Roach and her father Jerry placed second in the second flight.

Tied for third in the second flight were the teams of Jim and Annie Ward and Ramona and Gerald Harris.

Today eight club members will be competing in a tournament in Lamesa. These are just a few of the tournaments the association has competed in this year.

The LGA is counting on this weekend's tournament to be a success. "We want at least 25 entries," said Coffee. "We already entries from Midland, Stanton, Lamesa, Wichita Falls and Big Lake. Our goal is to learn and practice the rules and etiquette of golf and support local and sectional golf tournaments."

N. Korea wants part of '88 Games

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea, reiterating its argument that South Korea is unfit to be host to the 1988 Summer Olympics, proposed Tuesday that half the games be held in North Korea and half in the South to head off possible boycotts and promote unity.

"If our proposal for co-hosting is realized, all the countries, including those who have opposed Seoul and planned to boycott, will participate in the 24th Olympiad, and the Olympic movement will be saved from crisis," Vice Premier Chong Jun Gi said in a press statement.

Chong's statement, broadcast by Pyongyang's official Korean Central News Agency, proposed calling the 1988 Games the "Pyongyang-Seoul, Korea, Olympiad."

Staging them in both Koreas, he said, "will greatly help to remove the misunderstanding and mistrust between North and South and exert favorable influence upon the dialogues now being held in various fields."

North and South Korea, which were divided at the end of World War II and fought a bloody war in 1950-53, recently have been discussing economic cooperation and efforts to reunite divided families as part of efforts to reduce tensions and possibly promote eventual reunification.

The South's capital of Seoul has been designated host of both the 1986 Asian Games and the 1988 Summer Olympics. South Korean officials have said they do not expect a serious boycott problem.

Chong said Seoul was chosen as Olympic host by "splittists" who want to see South Korea's position improved by attendance.
