Bank said financially solid

Indictments possible in FBI probe of Coahoma bank

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Coahoma State Bank has survived investigation by state and federal agencies to emerge with new management and a "clean bill" of financial health, interim chief executive officer Gene Stephens said Thursday.

A probe by the FBI continues, and an agent in the Abilene office said Thursday that "possible improprieties" could result in federal indictments. The agent, who asked that his name not be used, said subpoenas have been issued by a federal grand jury in Abilene.

The bank has been subjected to investigations by the State Banking Department, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the last year, Stephens said.

Another FBI agent, U.A. Specht of Dallas, said the investigation at the Coahoma bank was not unusual and was not pointed specifically at the bank or its officers.

Specht said the allegations may involve borrowers, bank officers or employees of the bank. He refused to be specific.

The bank remains a "solid" financial institution, said Stephens, who has been on loan from the First State and Savings Bank in Mesquite.

S.H. Hart will take over Monday as president and chief executive officer of the Coahoma bank, Stephens said. The bank in Mesquite is owned by Briggs Todd, a member of the board of directors for the Coahoma bank. Stephens will return to the Mesquite bank Monday.

Stephens began work in Coahoma in April and took the place of Bill Read, former bank president, June 15. Vice president Johnny Justiss resigned at the end of May. Both are still on the board of directors, Stephens said.

The investigations at the bank began in January 1984 after the bank lost $250,000 in loans made to Anthony "Tony" Ginnetti, a former used car dealer, Stephens said.

Wanted: Stanton top cop

STANTON — City Council members cited lack of public notice as a reason for not accepting the police chief's resignation Thursday night at an emergency meeting.

The council decided to wait on taking action on Police Chief Ricky Kennedy's resignation so the public could be given ample notice of a meeting.

The council interviewed Roy Keele of Arizona Thursday night. Councilman Jimmy Mathis said the emergency meeting was called because the council wanted to interview Keele while he was in town. Four of seven council members expressed support for Keele's hiring at the Thursday meeting.

As of Thursday's meeting the council had received three applications for the position. It plans to hire a new chief at the regular council meeting Aug. 12.

Kennedy told the council he was resigning to accept a higher paying job in the Pecos County Sheriff's Office in Fort Stockton. Aug. 9 will be his last day, he said.

Keele said if he were hired he could begin on Aug. 15.

Keele has intermediate law enforcement certification for the states of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. He has been employed by the Pima County Sheriff's Office in Tucson. His lives in Arizona, but last served as the chief of police in Wink.

Keele told the council he wanted to locate in Stanton in order to be close to relatives.

The council also discussed a city sewage treatment plant project scheduled for completion by Aug. 9, a deadline set by the State Department of Water Resources and the Environmental Protection Agency. If the new system installed by the city is approved during an inspection the city will be reimbursed by the EPA for costs.

Jimmy Mathis, city administrator, said the city already had received $373,025 of the total $468,000 cost of the plant. The remainder will be paid after the inspection.

Graves and city engineer Don Bonifay told the council that problems have developed in the unit, but it should be ready for the inspection.

Old Settlers Reunion Bringing history together

By CAROL BALDWIN

Memories filled the Old Settlers Pavilion at Comanche Trail Park this morning as folks gathered for the 61st annual Old Settlers Reunion.

It's the memories that bring folks back, said Gertrude McCann, one of the event's organizers. McCann and other organizers can remember attending the event as children and napping out under the trees in the old Cottonwood Park.

Registration began this morning at 9 a.m. As Mack Underwood watched people filter into the wooden pavilion, he reminisced about his childhood and recalled sweeping out the Bradshaw Photography studios for a dime.

Before long Underwood was surrounded by people with memories of their own.

McCann said the Old Settlers Reunion is a chance to celebrate the heritage of West Texas. "This keeps us in touch with each other," she said. "Times are changing, but this gives us a chance to get together and visit and catch up on families and friends."

McCann had only one regret as she looked around the shady pavilion and watched the gathering crowd.

"It's sad to look around and see so many gone, so many who have passed on," she said.

But the feeling was fleeting, and McCann scurried off to prepare for an anticipated crowd of 1,500 people. She said she expected 500 to 600 people for the barbecue at noon today and hoped hundreds more would stop by to watch the fun throughout the day.

State jobless rate jumps slightly in July

DALLAS (AP) — Texas unemployment figures in July were up slightly from the preceding month, with 7.3 percent of the work force unemployed compared to June's 7.2 percent, officials said.

The Texas figure mirrors unemployment totals on the national level, which have held at 7.3 percent for the past six months.

"Texas indicators seem to show national data and Texas data running quite parallel," said Nic Santangelo, chief economic analyst for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in Dallas.

While more than 100,000 Texans entered the labor force last month, almost 90,000 found jobs, he said.

"This was the first sign of employment growth in the state since March," Santangelo said. Nationally, 245,000 jobs were created to swallow persons entering the work force, officials said. About 8.45 million people nationally are still out of work, however, statistics show.

While employment in manufacturing and mining has been down over the past 12 months in Texas and construction employment up only marginally, strong growth has been posted in the service sector in Texas and the nation, Santangelo said.

"We're still seeing very diverse trends throughout the state caused by the continuing problems of the oil and energy (sector), the peso devaluation, and the agricultural trade problems of the (Rio Grande) Valley," he said.

Of a total labor force in Texas of 8.03 million in July, 589,000 were unemployed, according to bureau statistics. In June, 573,000 workers in a labor force of 7.93 million were out of work.

A year ago, in July 1984, 475,000 people were unemployed out of a work force of 7.96 million, or about 6 percent.

Reagan's bumpy nose

WASHINGTON — President Reagan had a small "bump" removed from his nose after it became irritated by adhesive tape following his recent cancer surgery, but an examination showed that no further treatment is necessary, the White House said Thursday.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes at first told reporters that a biopsy — a laboratory procedure to test for the presence of malignancy — was being performed.

Later, however, Speakes issued a brief statement saying only that the tissue "was submitted for routine studies for infection, and it was determined no further treatment is necessary."

Speakes would not explain the apparent discrepancy between his earlier statement that a biopsy would be performed and his later announcement that doctors were checking only for infection. He declined to speak to reporters gathered outside his office, and other White House press aides said they were not at liberty to discuss the matter.

House OKs Medicare cuts

WASHINGTON — A House committee voted Thursday to cut spending for Medicare and Medicaid by $150 million over three years, but tempered the cuts with new programs of prenatal care for poor women and vision care for the elderly.

The House Energy and Commerce Committee approved 22-6 a package of changes in Medicare and Medicaid that overall are intended to bring spending on the programs within budget limits voted by the House for fiscal 1986, which starts Oct. 1.

The cuts include requirements for a second doctor's opinion before certain types of major surgery, which the committee estimated would save $215 million in unnecessary surgical operations over three years. In addition, payments to clinical laboratories would be capped for savings of $140 million.

Panel blasts agency

WASHINGTON — The record of the federal government's highway safety agency is "nothing short of disgraceful," the head of a congressional panel says.

Three weeks ago, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration refused to reopen a controversial defect investigation into complaints that millions of 1970-79 Ford cars have transmissions that may have a tendency to slip from park to reverse.

Rep. Timothy Wirth, chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee that monitors NHTSA, on Thursday called the Ford case the latest and "perhaps the worst" example of the agency's refusal to enforce federal auto safety laws.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas makes a point as Rep. William Gray III, D-Pa., looks on during a meeting of the Joint Budget Conference, Thursday on Capitol Hill. The conferees finally agreed on federal budget proposals.

The budget nobody wants

Congress recesses after approving savings budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, calling the budget passed by Congress only a "bit better" than none at all, questioned Friday whether even the scaled-back savings in the spending plan eventually will be realized.

The budget that won approval Thursday night reduces next year's spending by $57 billion but falls far short of the lofty deficit-reduction goals set early this year. Dole predicted the savings will actually turn out to be closer to $40 billion.

"I think we have to be very careful when we look at numbers, because I doubt Congress will do all the things we've been asked to do, and the deficit will really be much larger than anticipated in the debate on the budget resolution," Dole, R-Kan., said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

The final package would leave $172 billion in red ink for the coming fiscal year.

"Tonight, having lost the war, we're going to declare victory and go home," Rep. John E. Porter, R-Ill., said Thursday night after the budget was adopted.

Dole, asked if the spending plan was a "watered-down, nothing budget," replied: "It's a bit better than that."

He said lawmakers were heaving "a bipartisan sigh of relief" at putting the deficit issue behind them for the time being.

However, he said: "I'm an optimist, but I'm pessimistic about what will happen if Congress and the administration don't keep an eye on the deficit."

And President Reagan threatened anew to use his veto if future spending bills are not pared more closely.

Congress passed a $968 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, hours after negotiators settled on a fragile compromise. The House adopted it 309-119 and the Senate then voted 67-32 for approval.

It contains guidelines for $279.7 billion in savings over three years, short of the goal set by Reagan and congressional leaders at the beginning of the year to cut budget deficits in half — to $100 billion or less — by 1988. Red ink over the next three fiscal years will total $440 billion, declining only to $113 billion in fiscal 1988.

"It's the best that can be done under the circumstances," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. Though more cuts are needed it was still the largest deficit reduction effort ever passed by Congress, he said.

The final package leaves Social Security benefits untouched and proposes no significant new taxes.

Slowing the defense spending buildup accounts for more than half the savings, but Pentagon spending would still rise with inflation to $302.5 billion next year.

A variety of domestic programs were reduced, but Congress would not follow Reagan's call to terminate Community Development Block Grants, the Small Business Administration, the Appalachian Regional Commission, Amtrak subsidies, and Urban Development Action Grants.

OPEC members cut prices

CARACAS, Venezuela — OPEC members Venezuela and Ecuador have cut their oil prices in response to price reductions by their competitors. The loss of revenue to Venezuela, the United States' fourth largest oil supplier, could damage its efforts to repay a $35 billion foreign debt.

Venezuela's cut of nearly $2 per barrel of heavy crude had been expected, but will represent considerable lost revenue through the end of this year, said the minister of energy and mines, Arturo Hernandez Grisanti.

Venezuela's foreign debt ranks fourth among the Third World's debtor nations, following Brazil, Mexico and Argentina.

Obote's followers killed

KAMPALA, Uganda — At least five political supporters of deposed President Milton Obote have been killed and two members of his party are being detained, a Roman Catholic-backed newspaper reported today.

The report came as the new head of state and chairman of the military council, Lt. Gen. Tito Okello, met this morning for the second day with leaders of Uganda's four political parties, including Obote's Uganda People's Congress.

The leaders apparently were discussing formation of a new Cabinet to serve under newly sworn-in Prime Minister Paulo Muwanga, formerly Obote's vice president.

Jets bomb leftist quarters

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes today bombed the east Lebanon headquarters of a leftist group that has claimed responsibility for seven car bomb attacks in Israel's southern Lebanese security zone.

The group that was attacked said at least two people were killed and four wounded, but the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio reported 15 killed and 20 wounded.

Israeli military sources said a squadron of jets attacked the headquarters of the Syrian Social Nationalist Party in the Bekaa Valley town of Chaura, located on the Beirut-Damascus highway about 10 miles west of the Syrian border.

Group blasts slaying

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A leading anti-apartheid group today condemned the killing of a black activist lawyer as a "cold, cowardly and calculated assassination" it said many would blame on the white-minority government.

Police appealed for help tracing the killers of Nonyamezelo Mxenge, and in an apparent reference to the statement from the United Democratic Front, said it was useless to make "irresponsible, unfounded or unsubstantiated allegations."

E.F. Hutton got extra good deal

When a corporate chief commends a branch office for aggressive practices that earn an extra $30,000 a month, that's business. When the practice involved is overdrafting at the bank, that could be a crime.

And when the corporate chief doing the commending is George L. Ball, former president of the brokerage house E.F. Hutton & Co., that raises troubling questions about how and why the Justice Department let the whole company plead guilty to 2,000 counts of fraud without prosecuting individual Hutton officials.

In recent weeks, there has been a steady flow of leaked documents and newspaper interviews with Hutton employees that suggest the Justice Department was less than diligent, and Hutton less than forthcoming, in the investigation of the overdraft scheme. Documents released recently by Hutton — internal memorandums that Hutton admits were denied to a grand jury even though they were well within the scope of a subpoena — suggest that top managers were aware of and encouraged the practice of overdrafting accounts at banks around the nation to earn interest for the firm. The documents reveal that among those urging on the troops in their overdrafting was Ball, now president of Prudential-Bache Securities. Ball denies the activities he encouraged were those for which the firm was prosecuted.

Nonetheless, it is more difficult than ever to credit the Justice Department's original assertion that the overdrafting scheme was the work of a few middle-level managers. Even Robert Fomon, chairman of Hutton, is disbelieving. "The Justice Department's description seems incredible to me," he says.

Japanese know how to win a lost war

(As part of the celebration of the end of World War II, Mr. Buchwald has reached into his memory bag while he's on vacation.)

It seems like only yesterday that we signed a peace treaty with the Japanese aboard the battleship Missouri, and told them they would never be allowed to make arms again.

"What should we do instead?" a defeated Japanese admiral asked.

"Why don't you make automobiles?" one of General MacArthur's advisers suggested.

"Ah so. But Americans make automobiles. How can a poor defeated country like Japan hope to compete with your wonderful cars?"

"Well, of course you can't compete in the United States because Americans would never buy a Japanese automobile after what you did to Pearl Harbor. But perhaps you could make something that could be sold in Southeast Asia and other markets where people don't care about quality."

"Ah so. How do you build an automobile?"

"It sounds hard, but I'm sure you people can get the hang of it. Here's a book with the instructions. You see, you put the engine up here and then seats here, and wrap a body around it, paint it a nice color, and you have yourself a car."

"Can I keep the book?"

"Why not? Now that you are a poor defeated country, we have no secrets."

"You are kind, sir."

A year later, the first Japanese car came off a jerry-built assembly line. The Japanese admiral, who was now in charge of Tojo Motors, showed it to the American aide.

The ex-admiral bowed. "Forgive us for this unworthy thing we call an automobile, but we do not have much to work with."

The aide slapped the ex-admiral on the back. "Don't apologize. You did right well with what you had available. I'll tell you what I'll do: I'll bring some of our boys over from Detroit, and they'll give you a list of things you'll need to build a decent vehicle. We'll also send some of your designers and engineers over to the United States so they can get the hang of American know-how."

"Ah so? You would do that for a poor little struggling Japanese automobile company?"

"Why not? It isn't as if you're ever going to be able to sell any of those rickshaws in the States."

Several years later, the MacArthur aide, who was now working for a large New York bank, bumped into the ex-admiral in the Waldorf Astoria. "What brings you to New York?" he asked jovially.

"I am arranging dealership all over America for our four-cylinder Kamikaze 3x2. It gets 24 miles to the gallon and has front-wheel drive, disc brakes and a rear defrosting window. Here is a photo of it."

The American looked at it and shook his head. "You're wasting your time, Admiral. Americans will never buy a small car, particularly one with front-wheel drive."

"Ah so, but we only hope to take one percent of the market among the teen-agers and college students."

"It won't work. We have a love affair in this country with gas guzzlers and big fenders. As a friend, I'm telling you to save your money, and try to sell your product to the Third World. They will drive anything they can get their hands on."

The ex-admiral bowed and said, "Perhaps you are right. But as long as I am here, maybe I will find someone who is interested."

It was 1981, and both the American ex-aide and the Japanese ex-admiral had aged considerably. When the American walked into the luxurious offices of the ex-admiral, the Japanese stood up slowly and bowed.

"Ah so. And what brings you to Tokyo, my good friend?"

"I've been sent by the President of the United States," the American said. "He knows we go way back, and felt I should bring his message personally."

"What message?"

"He wants you to stop making so many damn Japanese cars."

"But if we can't make cars, what else can we make?"

"He wants you to start making arms."

"But we don't know how to make arms."

"The President told me to give you this."

"What is it?"

"A book of instructions."

Rulemaker breaks own rule limiting pork barrel projects

WASHINGTON — Among the spendthrift sultans of the House of Representatives, Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., is the pasha of pork.

As chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on water projects, the tall, courtly Alabamian holds the power of life or death over more pork-barrel projects than any other member. His nod of approval can mean a dam or a dredging project in the district of a colleague in need of help for reelection. Bevill's opposition, or even uninterest, can send a representative back to his constituents empty-handed.

So when Bevill lays down a rule for pork-barrel applicants to follow, they obey it without question. Unless they happen to be the chairman. After all, if the rule maker wants to break his own rule, who's going to challenge him?

Traditionally, a dam or bridge or other pork project is first authorized by the appropriate committee — Public Works, for example. Then, after hearings and debate, the Appropriations Committee must agree to put up the money to pay for it.

But recently, Appropriations has been a little high-handed, using the money bills to write the legislation itself, much to the disgruntlement of the authorizing committees.

Somewhat surprisingly, Bevill made what looked like an altruistic effort to diminish the Appropriations encroachment on the latest bill allocating funds for water projects. Apparently abdicating some of his own power, he passed the word to other subcommittee members that no amendments would be allowed that could be construed as "authorizing legislation."

But lo and behold, while the other subcommittee members were obediently restraining themselves, Bevill inserted an amendment directing that a $9.5 million Army Corps of Engineers school be located on the campus of the University of Alabama at Huntsville, next door to Bevill's district.

That might seem like writing legislation by means of appropriation — the very tactic Bevill had forbidden on the bill. But a Bevill aide told our associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg that the money came from a "revolving fund" of corps money that had been appropriated earlier and not spent. So Bevill hadn't really broken his rule.

"Certain technical difficulties" held up the funds. One of those difficulties, according to Bevill's aide, was that the money couldn't just be given to the university; bids had to be solicited from other interested parties. So Bevill's recent amendment will sanctify the university's sole-source contract.

Another problem, one corps official said, is that specific congressional approval is needed for the corps to build a facility on land not owned by the federal government. In other words, the corps wasn't authorized to build the center.

To Bevill's critics, that would seem to put the matter in the hands of the proper authorizing committee, not the Appropriations committee. Bevill was unmoved — and he's the chairman.

House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., was a bit miffed by Bevill's action. Michel had requested funds for study of a home-state river and had been refused under the Bevill rule. "It sure makes it curious why ours wasn't allowed," said a Michel aide.

Once the pork-barrel bill — with its Bevill amendment — reached the floor of the House, there was no chance that any of it could be challenged. It was protected by — what else? — a special rule forbidding challenges to amendments. This is the traditional procedure used to protect pork projects from being shot down.

Footnote: For what it's worth, the Army Corps of Engineers supports the University of Alabama site for its training center as "probably the most practical location."

WATCH ON WASTE: The Hamilton (Ohio) Tool Co. submitted a bid for a new currency production system to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. But the bureau decided a whole new system would be too expensive, so it would just buy a printing press. The contract went — without competitive bidding — to a German company, with which the bureau had tried in vain to negotiate for the entire system. Hamilton Tool Co. complained to Rep. Tony Hall, D-Ohio, and the General Accounting Office. The GAO decided Hamilton was right; the contract was canceled and that's $2 million lower than the German firm's.

DUMPING ON DUMPERS: California generates a big portion of the nation's hazardous waste, but the state's crackdown tactics against polluters are worth copying. A Los Angeles firm, the American Caster Corp., was recently found guilty of illegal dumping. Its president and vice president were given six-month jail terms, and the company was ordered to place full-page ads in local newspapers calling attention to its embarrassment. "The illegal disposal of toxic wastes will result in jail," the ad said. "We should know — we got caught!" The ad described "midnight dumping" of dangerous wastes as "a violent crime against the community."

'Rambo' casts incorrect light

By SCOTT FITZGERALD America's movie industry used to harmlessly release one big summer box office smash that lured us out of the oppressive heat and into the make-believe world of cool cinema.

Steven Spielberg cornered this market for years until America's hero for the common man — Sylvester Stallone — had to get his two cents in.

Spielberg's products were tolerable. His infatuation for science fiction and seeing the world through a child's eye were okay.

Stallone though with his latest patriotic product, "Rambo: First Blood Part II," has become downright insulting and a threat to national harmony.

This film maliciously violates the credibility of Vietnam vets who have recently earned self-respectability.

They are portrayed in "Rambo" as merciless governmental puppets who are apathetic to the plight of those prisoners of war who are still listed as missing.

The film also depicts the Russians as conniving individuals intent on global gain. What Russians are doing in Vietnam in the postwar era, the film fails to explain.

In this current age where talks and negotiations between the superpowers are the only means of worldwide survival, it's not too smart to take a cheap shot at the "enemy."

The film is an embarrassment to the movie industry. Why such ridiculous violence, inaccuracy and bloodshed was allowed to be offered to the general public, I'll never know.

It should have been censored. Stick the film back in the reel cans and bury it in a nuclear waste site dump.

As for Stallone, I thought of Howard County Judge Milton Kirby recently telling me why he sentenced a man to jail for a short stretch.

"I'm gonna let him cool off a bit," Kirby said.

I'd sentence Stallone to a vault full of dry ice.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment nationwide at 7.3 percent in July, the lowest in 18 months at that plateau, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today. It created 245,000 jobs during employment in July, the first time this month since June 1981.

Most of the jobs were in the services sector, the goods-producing sector of the economy. The number of jobs in the services sector offset the total of 100,000 jobs lost to the labor force in June. The pool of the unemployed is slightly higher than in June.

The civilian labor force was up more than 500,000 in July. The department's monthly report shows the 60,000 American jobless in July. Most of the jobless were laid off or discharged in the summer jobs.

One disturbing feature of today's report was the number of people laid off or discharged. That total reached 230,000.

If such layoffs continued for several months, it would be a disturbing development, the Bureau said. Total civilian unemployment in July was 492,000 to 106.8 million.

Although many layoffs held essentially steady, 230,000 have been laid off or discharged in the month. That total is up from 200,000 in June.

Manufacturing in July, but that is a small part of the total. Economists had expected a possible manufacturing jolt in July, but the strengthening economy in June kept the economy growth rate of just 1 percent.

July jobless rate remains steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment nationwide remained at 7.3 percent in July, its sixth month at that plateau, the government said today. But the economy created 245,000 jobs and manufacturing employment held steady for the first time this year.

Most of the job gains, as usual, were in the service field and not in the goods-producing sector, said the Labor Department.

The number of new jobs largely offset the total of people coming in to the labor force in search of work. The pool of the unemployed rose slightly to a total of 8.45 million.

The civilian labor force grew by more than 500,000 workers, the department's monthly survey of 60,000 American households showed. Almost all of that growth was accounted for by teenagers looking for summer jobs.

One disturbing piece of news in today's report was the number of people laid off or fired from their jobs. That total rose by 200,000.

If such layoffs continued over several months, the trend could be a disturbing development for an economy still emerging slowly from the last recession.

Total civilian employment rose 492,000 to 106.8 million.

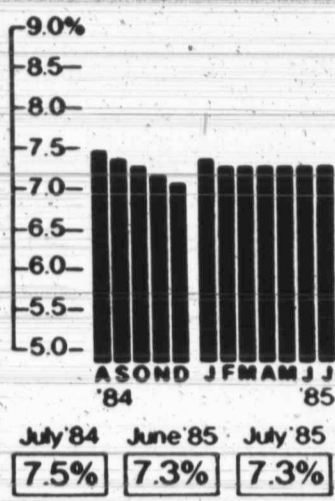

Although manufacturing jobs held essentially steady, a total of 230,000 have been lost since the beginning of the year. Some 75 percent of those job losses have been in durable goods, especially electrical equipment and machinery.

Manufacturing jobs fell by 7,000 in July, but that number is considered statistically insignificant.

Economists have been looking for a possible turnaround in the manufacturing job losses as a signal that the economy might be strengthening after a weak January-June performance, when the economy grew at an annual rate of just 1 percent.

National Unemployment

In addition, the average factory workweek held steady in July, another sign that manufacturing employment may be stabilizing.

But Janet L. Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics, said there is still concern over manufacturing jobs.

"Employment, while continuing to increase in the service-producing sector, remains clouded by weakness in manufacturing," she said in prepared testimony before a joint congressional committee.

Dear Abby

Woman wants sober husband

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and head over heels in love with a man who is 35. We've been dating for four months and I can't get him off my mind. I wish I could, because he told me right from the start that he didn't want any commitments. He was married to his ex-wife twice and says he is still in love with her and probably always will be.

Lately when we go to a nightclub, he drinks too much and I end up driving him home and putting him to bed. When he's drunk he says he's falling in love with me. Once he asked me to move in with him. I told him to ask me again when he was sober. He never did.

I really care a lot for this guy, Abby. How can I either get him to love me enough (when he's sober) to marry me, or get him out of my system?

FRUSTRATED
DEAR FRUSTRATED: If you really care about him, try to get him into an alcohol rehabilitation facility where he will be treated for alcoholism and taught how to stay sober a day at a time — which is all any recovering alcoholic can do.

You can't make anybody "love" you, or marry you, but with counseling you can get a person out of your system if you're determined to do so.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago we lived across the street from a prominent attorney (a widower) who died suddenly. His relatives were cleaning out his home and they gave me husband a drawer filled with socks — old and new. He was told,

"Take what you want and toss the rest." As he was sorting through them, he found $2,000 in bills stashed in the socks.

We immediately contacted the executor and returned the money. And would you believe, the deceased's only child (a married daughter, living in another state) never as much as said "thank you."

More surprising, nearly everyone we told said, "You should have kept the money. It was yours." What do you think?

R.M., BLOOMINGTON, ILL.
DEAR R.M.: Your first impulse was right. For you to have kept the money the old gentleman had been literally socking away would have been dishonest.

DEAR ABBY: Recently one of your readers wrote, "America is the only country in the world where mothers will drive their kids to the YMCA so they can get some exercise."

Well, I want to tell you that America is the only civilized country where parents let their kids get up before dawn to deliver newspapers.

I was born in Europe, and when I went back there and told people this, they couldn't believe it!

JEANNE DUPREY, SEATTLE
DEAR JEANNE: Why is that so hard to believe? Many of America's most successful businessmen started out as young boys with a paper route. What better way to learn responsibility, the value of a dollar and the importance of sticking with the job come rain or shine.

Lupe Dominguez named president of local ABWA Cactus Chapter

Lupe Dominguez was installed as president of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association at a meeting July 15 at the Golden Corral.

Speaker was Craig Brace, director of wellness at Malone-Hogan Hospital. He described wellness as an active process where an individual makes choices to move toward a more healthy existence.

The five dimensions for well being are self responsibility, physical fitness, stress management, nutritional awareness and cultural awareness, he said.

Brace gave several examples in each area on how to alter lifestyles in order to begin living in a more healthy environment.

Loretta Burns was vocational speaker. She is the secretary to J.D. Nelson, president of Security State Bank. She told members that the position was new for her.

Dominguez was elected as the voting delegate to attend the national convention which will be held in San Antonio in October.

The chapter will have a garage sale Sept. 6 at 807 W. 18th. All proceeds will go toward the scholarship fund.

Anyone interested in applying for a scholarship should submit an application to Pam Welch, Drawer 2830, Big Spring.

The next meeting will be Aug. 19.

Menstrual cycles

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A couple years ago you had an item, suggesting how a mother might introduce the matter of menstruation to a young girl approaching that time in her life. I liked it so much, and wonder if you might repeat that item for myself and others who may be uncertain about doing that. — Mrs. P.

I have had other requests from time to time to do that, so I will. To be most meaningful it should be simple, straightforward, brief. You could search the literature and prepare a lengthy presentation, but don't do that.

Point out that she is becoming an adult, that her body is getting ready to pass on life to another human being as you did for her. Each month she will be making an ovum, and each month her uterus will prepare for that ovum by building a special lining. When some day she has found a partner with whom she has fallen in love and married, he will give his genes to her own and a new human will begin formation through the act of physical love.

Until that happens, the ovum and the protective lining will be expelled each month as the menstrual period. You should tell her that this is a most normal event, one that every woman experiences and one that need not limit her activities in any way. And tell her that if she has any questions about it to ask you and not her friends, who can be fountains of misinformation.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My wife is 33 years old and in good health. The problem probably isn't a big one, but it is becoming worse. At night, while she is sleeping, she has "mini-convulsions" or "twitches." Everything from a finger to a hand or an entire arm, or a foot or an entire leg will be doing it. This isn't for a little while. This goes on all night long. Should I be concerned? — C.S.H.

I would be concerned enough to have her make an appointment with a doctor.

I cannot from this distance tell you why this is happening. It could be from bursts of brain cell activity, and there are many possible explanations for that. Or it might be an innocuous thing. As an example, many people have nocturnal myoclonus, which is a repetitive muscle twitch, causing partial awakening. Those kind usually are in the legs. Let's stop wondering about it and find out what is causing these "mini-convulsions."

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Has anyone ever determined how long you can smoke before getting lung cancer? — M.A.

The risk for cancer depends on how many "pack years" of smoking you have accumulated in life. A pack a day for a year is one-pack year. Two packs for one year or one pack for two years is two-pack years. The gravest risk for cancer development is estimated to be at 20-pack years. You get there by smoking two packs a day for 10 years or one pack a day for 20 years.

If you ask this to put off an end to your habit, forget it. You are going to get bronchitis and emphysema even if you miss the cancer. Smoking accounts for 85 percent of lung cancers. That should make you want to quit yesterday.

Beaming pictures to the shuttle

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A team of Carnegie-Mellon University artists who have beamed pictures to art shows are planning to send video images of world peace to astronauts aboard the space shuttle Challenger.

"Nobody has ever sent a picture to the shuttle before. We're it," said artist Brue Breland. "It's a brand new medium. It's communications art. We're at the forefront of an artistic revolution."

Images converted into sound and transmitted on FM frequencies to the spacecraft can be converted to video through a special machine. The crew can tape the sound, but they won't know what the images look like until they get on the ground again because they don't have a screen to display them.

The artists plan to beam the signal to the shuttle this afternoon.

Airline fights pilots' firings

CHICAGO (AP) — United Air Lines says it is likely to appeal a federal judge's order that it reinstate 500 newly trained pilots who were dismissed after they refused to work during a 29-day strike.

In a court ruling resolving issues remaining from the strike against the nation's largest airline, U.S. District Judge Nicholas J. Bua said Thursday its denial of employment and seniority to the pilots was a violation of labor law.

The strike began May 17 when more than 5,000 pilots walked off the job in a dispute over salary levels. The striking Air Line Pilots Association agreed June 14 to end the strike and allow a judge to decide back-to-work issues.

United said in a statement it would comply with Bua's order pending an appeal.

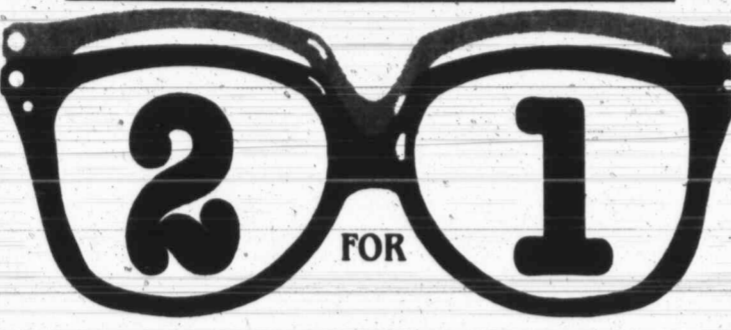

Bua also ruled that pilots who were hired as permanent replacements during the strike are not entitled to seniority over the pilots who refused to work. But he ruled that United could pay higher salaries to the replacements.

The salary dispute was resolved May 24 when both sides agreed to adopt the two-tier wage scale for five years.

Ends August 17!

Howard signs Carolina star

Howard College head basketball coach Ed Sparling announced the signing of Walter Walker of Statesville, North Carolina to a scholarship Thursday.

The 6-1, 200 pound multi-sport star from Statesville Senior High School was named to the 2nd team All-State squad in addition to all-conference honors and several tournament MVP awards in basketball. Walker was also named conference player of the year in football and was the county high jump champion on the track team.

Walker averaged 24 points and 4 rebounds per game during the 1985 basketball season. Sparling plans to use Walker at a point guard position.

"I am extremely pleased to have an athlete of Walter's caliber joining our squad for the 1985-86 season," commented

WALTER WALKER

Sparling. "He has proven himself to be one of the finest scholar-athletes in the Western Piedmont area and should make an immediate contribution to our program."

NFS looks for record crowds

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — National Sports Festival officials gasped a deep breath, awarded four sets of gold medals, then geared up for a weekend home stretch that will have hundreds of athletes competing in more than a dozen events.

Men's gymnasts, rhythmic gymnasts and women's water polo teams won gold medals Thursday.

Competition starts today in five more sports that will close out the 12-day festival — fencing, roller skating, weightlifting, women's gymnastics and wrestling. Nine gold medals also will be awarded in those five sports.

Today's competition also continues in boxing, canoe-kayaking, men's water polo, modern pentathlon, soccer and women's gymnastics. Hockey players get a day off, but resume battle on Saturday.

Only the wrestlers were restless. Wrestling is one of five of the festival's 34 events — and one of just two land-based sports — not being showcased at either Louisiana State or Southern universities. The others are canoeing, kayaking, rowing, shooting and yachting.

The wrestlers are living and competing at the Louisiana School for the Deaf, where 1984 Olympic heavyweight champion Bruce Baumgartner said a brand new $3 million gymnasium seats only about 1,500 spectators.

"I feel we've been kind of shuttled off in a corner," said Baumgartner, who expected better treatment because each of the 10 freestyle champions here also win berths on the U.S. team that will compete in October's World Freestyle Championships at Budapest.

"This is a fine freestyle team and it's our world trials. I hope we get a lot of fans," Baumgartner said Thursday. "They didn't even put up temporary bleachers, like they promised they would."

"The people of Baton Rouge have been really good horses," said Bill Scherr, who is assured a medal at 198 pounds because only two competitors are entered in his weight class. "But it seems that wrestling again gets the back seat."

There were hints that the big crowds hoped for at some of the games events won't materialize. Thursday night's boxing drew just 1,500 at Southern University. But men's gymnastics attracted about 6,000 to Louisiana State.

WILLIAM DAWSON of the U.S. Air Force, based at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio lands a blow to the head of NATHANIEL FITCH of the U.S. Army based in Fort Bragg, N.C., during boxing action at the National Sports Festival. FITCH went on to win the match.

National champion Brian Babcock of Garden City, Kan., won the men's all-around gymnastics gold with 56,900 points, edging Charles Lakes of Newhall, Calif., by 20 points. The West was team champion with 268,150, followed by the North with 267,250, South with 266,600 and East with 260,050.

"Any competition is important since it gets you public exposure," said Babcock, who was satisfied with the turnout at LSU's Assembly Center.

In boxing, the only knockout came when Arthur Johnson of St. Louis stopped Darryl Dawson, from South Bend, Ind., at 2:02 of the third round in their 106-pound bout.

Boxing winners by decision were Eddie Cook of St. Louis at 112 pounds; Clay Jenkins of Franklin, Tenn., at 119; Bernard Roach of Fort Bragg, N.C., at 125; Derrick Robinson, St. Louis, at 132 pounds; Elvis Yero, Miami Beach, Fla., at 139 pounds; Darryl Lattimore of Washington, at 147 pounds; Mylon Watkins, Tacoma, Wash., at 156 pounds; Loren Ross of Fort Hood, Texas, at 178 pounds; Orbit Pough, Miami, at 201 pounds; and Nathaniel Fitch of Fort Bragg, N.C., in the super heavyweight class.

Those winners will meet survivors of tonight's semifinals in Sunday's championship bouts.

Thursday afternoon's gold medalist was 20-year-old Marina Kunyavsky of Los Angeles, who was born in the Soviet Union and moved to the United States only four years ago. She swept the four rhythmic gymnastics disciplines — rope, clubs, ball and ribbon — to collect 73.00 points.

"I didn't go for the gold medal, I was going for a place on the World Championship team," said Kunyavsky, who qualified along with three Americans for the World tournament in Spain in October. Earlier in the week, Kunyavsky had a bad back, but she said, "I felt much better than three days ago and you could tell it by my performance."

Silver medalist Stacy Oversier, 18, of Los Angeles, also will go to Spain, but bronze winner Teresa Bruce, 18, of Hillsboro, Ore., won't.

Coaches pleased with Woolfolk

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oilers running-backs coach Al Roberts is pleased that the New York Giants put "thoroughbred" Butch Woolfolk out to pasture in a March trade that sent the three-year veteran to the Oilers.

When the Giants shifted to a one-back offense, Woolfolk became expendable and the Giants sent him to the Oilers for a 1985 third-round draft choice.

Roberts said Woolfolk was preceded to the Oiler training camp by a long list of rumors that he had poor work habits, couldn't catch passes, that he was losing speed and wasn't a good blocker.

Roberts said all he found was a sensitive football player who tended to be too critical of himself if he made a mistake.

"He is a sensitive thoroughbred and when he makes a mistake, he takes that to heart because he's such a student of the game," Roberts said.

Roberts cited a recent camp incident when Woolfolk ran an incorrect pass route.

"The next several plays for Butch weren't as good so I went back to talk to him and he said he maybe was trying too hard," Roberts said.

"I told him to make the mistake, let it clear out of your brain, clean out the garbage and vacuum your mind and let's go forward. The next eight to 10 plays were wonderful."

"So now as soon as I see him make a mistake I tell him it's garbage and let's go. That has got some chemistry started for he and I to work close together in the future."

The Giants will get a chance to see what they gave up Saturday when the Oilers and Giants kick off the National Football League season in the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio.

Medical student fighting for job

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP) — Six months ago, former University of Nebraska defensive end Scott Strasburger had decided he was finished with football.

Even though some people were convinced he had the ability to give pro football a shot, Strasburger had supposedly made up his mind to give up the sport in which he excelled at Nebraska and instead concentrate on a career in medicine.

But now the Holdrege native finds himself well into the Dallas Cowboys' training camp at California Lutheran College in Thousand Oaks, Calif. Strasburger said there is nowhere else he'd rather be. "I really had decided not to pursue playing football," Strasburger said in a telephone interview. "I had made up my mind that I was through. But, the closer the draft got, the more I started to change my mind. This was something where the opportunity was now. It's something I decided I at least wanted to try. I figured I had a couple of years I could put into it before I really got started on my medical training. So, here I am."

Strasburger was a ninth round selection by the Cowboys. He is in competition for one of the outside linebacker spots, a position he said is very similar to the defensive end he played for the Huskers.

There are four other outside linebackers ahead of him. They are veterans Anthony Dickerson, Mike Hegman and Jeff Rohr and second-round pick Jesse Penn of Virginia Tech, who Strasburger said is sure to make the team because of his high draft selection.

Strasburger said he's in a no-lose situation.

"If things don't work out, I'm just going back to med school at Nebraska," he said.

TOM ENLOE of Olney holds on to a 42 yard pass in the first period setting up a touchdown for the North team in Irving's Texas Stadium Thursday at the Coaches Association All-Star game. MICHAEL HORACE of the South stars brought ENLOE down at the 3 yard line.

North stars win, 14-7

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tom Enloe of Class 2A Olney struck a blow for the smaller-classification schools in the annual Texas High School Coaches Association-North-South All-Star football game.

Enloe caught the game-winning 22-yard touchdown pass and set up the North's other score with a 54-yard first-quarter reception in a 14-7 victory over the South Thursday night in steamy 99-degree Texas Stadium.

North quarterback John Stollenwerck of Highland Park, who hit Enloe on both passes, was named the offensive player of the game as the North extended its record to 28-17-4 in the All-Star game.

Stollenwerck hit 8 of 19 passes for 152 yards. Enloe had a total of 3 catches for 91 yards.

Enloe, who will attend Cameron University, made the spectacular game-winning catch with 6:14 left in the fourth period.

"It was more of a good catch than a good throw," said Stollenwerck. "Tom went up between two defenders. We had been working on that deep pattern all week."

Enloe, a quarterback in high school, called both the plays.

Enloe said, "I told the coaches I could beat them on the fly (deep) pattern. I just took the ball away from two of them for the touchdown."

"Once the ball is in the air it is mine or it's anybody's. The only other touchdown pass I've ever caught was two years ago in the quarterfinals against Eastland."

The South tied the score 7-7 in the third quarter on a 26-yard scoring pass from Ronald Jiles of Houston Madison to Hart Lee Dykes of Bay City.

Stollenwerck's first-period 54-yard pass to Enloe gave the North position for Corsicana's Bill Jones, who punched it across from a yard away.

The South's score was set up when Stollenwerck fumbled and Heath Sherman of El Campo recovered at the South 39. A 19-yard Jiles to Daryl Owens pass, plus a roughing penalty positioned the South at the North 27. Two plays later Jiles found Dykes wide open for the touchdown.

Amateur leads Western

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Scott Verplank, a 21-year-old Oklahoma State student, was asked about those famous names in the field — Seve Ballesteros and Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus — who followed him on the leader board.

"Heck," said the grinning Verplank, "I haven't even seen those guys yet."

Verplank, the current national amateur champion, found himself leading the prestigious Western Open golf tournament with a first-round score of 68, four under par, while Nicklaus, Watson and Ballesteros each faced the possibility of not making the 36-hole cut.

"I've been playing 72-hole stroke play tournaments all summer, so this isn't all that much different," said the low-key Verplank, the first amateur in six years to lead a pro tournament. "I'm trying to keep it as much like what I'm used to as I can. I'm not playing the other guys. I'm just playing against the course and against myself."

"It's just a little better golf course than I'm used to, and a little better field."

He paused, thought about it a bit, and then added: "No, it's not the same. You don't have any Jack Nicklaus in amateur tournaments."

Verplank, who has won four important amateur titles this summer and will defend his national amateur championship later in the year, is the first amateur since Bobby Clampett to lead a tournament. Clampett, ironically, shared the first-round lead in this event in 1979.

"Yeah, I'm a little surprised to be leading — and that's not saying I've got any kind of chance to win," Verplank said.

The last amateur to win a tour event was Doug Sanders in the 1956 Canadian Open.

Verplank, who hit only three greens over the front nine, played the back at the tough Butler National Golf Club in 33 to move one stroke in front of a group of four tied at 69. They are Danny Edwards, Larry Rinker, Dave Ogrin and rookie Ernie Gonzalez, who birdied the last four holes.

Tied at 70 were Jim Simons, Mark Pfeil and Lance Ten Broeck. U.S. Open champ Andy North led another group at 71.

Watson, the defending champion, took two double bogeys on the way to a 74. Ballesteros was one stroke higher at 75 and Nicklaus, who won his first U.S. Open crown before Verplank was born, struggled to a 76.

Soviets confirm in Seoul

TOKYO (AP) — A senior Soviet Communist Party official says the Soviet Union will participate in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, the Japanese Kyodo News Service reported today.

In a dispatch from Moscow, Kyodo said Soviet Communist Party Central Committee spokesman Leonid Zamyatin made the comment, the first of its kind in Moscow, in a meeting with managing editor Kazumi Fukase.

Only a year ago, the Soviets and most of their allies skipped the Olympics in Los Angeles, an apparent retaliation for the U.S. boycott of Moscow in 1980.

Ueberroth offers own solution

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said he will offer his own proposals to negotiators in an effort to end the impasse in baseball contract talks and urged an extension of the Aug. 6 strike deadline.

Ueberroth said his proposals would be submitted by 8 a.m. Friday and will include a request that play continue beyond the deadline while an effort is made to settle the most serious issue, the owners' contribution to the pension plan.

Becker leads W. German team

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Wimbledon sensation Boris Becker trounced American Elliot Teltscher in straight sets 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 today in the first singles round of the U.S.-West Germany Davis Cup quarterfinals.

The 17-year-old from Leimen displayed the same daring, diving play that earned him the nickname "Boom Boom" when last month he became the youngest man — and the first German — ever to win the Wimbledon singles title.

Hansjoerg Schwaier of West Germany and Aaron Krickstein of the United States were to play the second singles match later today.

Reds handle Astros, 5-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Right-hander Andy McGaffigan gave the Cincinnati Reds exactly what they wanted Thursday night. McGaffigan, making his second start since being recalled from Class AAA Denver, fanned a career-high 11 Houston batters and went the distance for the first time in 24 career starts as the Reds beat the Astros 5-2.

McGaffigan, primarily a reliever last season for Montreal and Cincinnati, was called up July 24 to join the starting rotation because the Reds were missing two pitchers with arm troubles.

"If you're a starter, that's what people look for — complete games and strikeouts," said McGaffigan, 1-0, who allowed eight hits. "Strikeouts aren't important to me, but they're nice."

McGaffigan used a deadly changeup along with his fastball and slider to get 10 swinging strikeouts.

"I was around the plate with my pitches and Houston was real aggressive," McGaffigan said. "When you get that situation — a pitcher around the plate and hitters a little over-eager — that happens. They'll swing at pitches outside the strike zone."

McGaffigan started out poorly, giving up five hits in the first two innings, including a two-run homer by Mark Bailey, his seventh. But a tip from catcher Dann Bilardello helped him get in a groove in the third.

"After he gave up the two runs, I tried to get him to work quicker," Bilardello said. "It looked like the whole team was kind of dead. I knew from catching him in Denver that he worked quicker."

The right-hander gave up three hits the rest of the way, allowing just two runners to reach scoring position.

"We let him off the hook," Astros Manager Bob Lillis said.

Blyleven going back to Twins

By The Associated Press
Bert Blyleven, who pitched himself to prominence during six seasons in Minnesota, is now going back to the Twins for "another four, five or six years."

"I'm excited because I signed with them in '69 and I spent six years with them," Blyleven said after the Twins acquired him Thursday for the $20,000 waiver price from the Cleveland Indians.

The Twins, in sixth place in the American League West, 10 games behind California, were equally glad to see Blyleven, who won 20 games for Minnesota in 1973 and pitched in the All-Star Game that year.

"He has several good years left in him and he's joining a club that can score runs," Minnesota Manager Ray Miller said. Blyleven was to join the Twins today in California for a three-game series against the Angels.

The deal was one of three made Thursday.

In a transaction that was officially listed as separate from the Blyleven move, the Twins sold pitcher Curt Wardle, outfielder Jim Weaver and infielder Jay Bell to the Indians for a total of $20,000. Weaver and Bell were assigned to the minor leagues.

And in the National League, the Montreal Expos traded veteran first baseman Dan Driessen to the San Francisco Giants for pitcher Bill Laskey, first baseman Scot Thompson and a player to be named later.

Blyleven, 34, is 9-11 with a 3.26 earned run average this season and leads the majors with 15 complete games. He has one of the best curveballs in the big leagues and was Cleveland's representative in the All-Star Game this year.

Blyleven has a career record of 204-178 with more than 2,700 strikeouts during stints with the Twins, Texas, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. He was 19-7 with a 2.87 ERA last year for the Indians.

He says he feels as though he could pitch "another four, five or six years" in the majors.

The Twins were one of several teams that had tried to get Blyleven prior to the June 15 trading deadline. The Toronto Blue Jays and the Angels also had been reported close to acquiring him.

Simoneks to conduct workshop, seminar

Jerry and Sharon Simonek will be conducting a personal and spiritual growth and development workshop and seminar Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Men's Bible Class of the First United Methodist Church. The public is invited.

The event is sponsored by the Unity House of Prayer. The program includes the science and practice of developing and strengthening physical, emotional and mental insight, health and prosperity, said Simonek.

"I've found that there's a lot we can do to enrich our quality of life," he said.

In the seminar, the couple will teach about holistic health. According to Simonek, the body and mind are inseparable.

The couple also will be dealing with tools of "what you can do and how you can do it to enrich your life," said Mrs. Simonek.

"It's all showing that you have control of your life in a holistic sense," she said.

One goal of their workshop is to get people "to change negative affirmations to positive affirmations," said Simonek. "We all have the ability to transform our lives." They will demonstrate the powers of the mind and ways of utilizing the powers, he said. "It's all based on God," said Mrs. Simonek. "We'll be basing a lot of this (workshop) on scripture," he said.

The couple has been married 15 years. They have a 14-year-old son named Troy.

Simonek is a yoga instructor, and Mrs. Simonek is a polarity teacher and therapist.

They have been doing seminars and workshops for the last five years.

Polarity is based on positive and negative aspects of the body in balancing energies, said Mrs. Simonek.

"People around here are unaware that there are other ways of healing people other than with doctors and medicine," said Simonek.

They have been doing yoga for 14 years. They started out by reading a book. "It was one of those things that began to grow on me quite rapidly," he said.

They then got involved in the more devotional aspects of yoga, "which enriches ones purpose and meaning," he said. Later they became interested in the body aspects of yoga.

"As we add flexibility to our body, we also add flexibility to our mind," said Simonek.

Four women attend 1985 Mission Education Event

Four women of Wesley United Methodist Church attended the 1985 Mission Education Event of the Northwest Texas Conference July 19-21 at South Plains College in Levelland.

Attending were Ethel Pringle, Sue Born, Mary Ruth Thurman and Madeline Boadle.

The educational event was designed for United Methodist Women and other persons involved in mission studies and programs.

Participants took one study and had an opportunity to attend a two-hour sampler of another study.

The studies were: "Daniel,"

"Native Peoples of North America" and "Caring for God's Earth."

Time also was spent in option groups on current issues and of- ficer training. The total school was training for church service.

The theme, "Creating a Future with Justice," related the three studies stressing that partnership and a caring community can replace historic oppression and discrimination.

Participants will bring their knowledge and skills to the programming of their local church mission work in the coming year.

Religion roundup

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of Reform Judaism says the demands of Israel's chief rabbis that recently-arrived Ethiopian Jews undergo a religious conversion rite if they wish to marry is "demeaning and degrading."

"Such a demand is offensive and humiliating to a Jewish community that has guarded its Jewish identity for some 2,000 years in the face of persecution, poverty and isolation," says Rabbi Alexander M. Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — A South African woman says black people there are at a point where they have nothing to lose in their struggle against apartheid and are "willing to lay down their lives."

Edwina DeGrant, now a teacher in neighboring Zimbabwe, told a United Methodist missionary conference that "for decades there have been warnings that South Africa is a tinderbox waiting to explode — that time has come."

She said "South Africa is in a state of war" and only a total withdrawal of economic support of the South African government by other nations or a bloody revolution can end apartheid.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A confidential report to the Vatican by the World Union of Catholic Women's Organizations says many women leave the church because it is insensitive to their desire to "participate fully."

The 1982 report, obtained and recently made public by National Catholic News Service, criticizes the scarcity of women in decision-making positions, refusal to permit girls to serve at the altar and to admit women as deacons.

The international women's body said it is "deeply concerned with the fact that the church is losing a considerable number of women and will continue to do so unless more sensitivity is shown towards women's concerns and aspirations to participate fully in the life and mission of the church."

NEW YORK (AP) — Five Christian students from Nanking, China, are spending two months touring the United States to get acquainted with America's diverse religious life.

They are the first student delegation sent by the China Christian Council. They are studying for the ministry at Nanking Seminary. Two are the only Christians in their families. One was converted in 1981 by Bible reading.

The Rev. Franklin J. Woo, China program director of the National Council of Churches which is sponsoring the tour, says:

"It is hoped that that the bond established between these future leaders of the church in China and Christians in the United States can be a firm foundation for a long-term relationship of mutuality."

ERA pays for all the surprises homeowners insurance doesn't always cover... like the interior plumbing and fixtures, built-in appliances, the hot water heater, furnace, electrical wiring, exposed duct work, the central air conditioning, water softener... even swimming pool components.

The ERA Buyer Protection Plan covers more homes and more working components than any other home protection plan. And it's available from ERA in all 50 states.

So if you're in the market to buy, call the qualified professionals at your neighborhood ERA office.

We've got what it takes to protect home buyers... even after the sale. There really is a difference in real estate companies.
