Q. How many pitchers have won 300 or more career victories?

A. Tom Seaver's victory last night catapulted into an elite group. Including Seaver, 17 pit-chers in the history of pro baseball have that many victories. Another active player, Steve Carlton, has already reached 300 victories as has recently retired hurler Gaylord Perry. Two other pitchers, Phil Niekro and Don Sutton, are closing in on the mark.

Legendary Cy Young posted 511 wins in 22 years, the highest for any pitcher.

Spring Lawyer: bribery charge involves gratuity statute

FORT WORTH (AP) - An attorney says an indictment against a federal prison guard accused of accepting two checks from convicted drug smuggler Rex C. Cauble involves a statute that relates to gratuities.

Eddie Joe Roybal, a former guard at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, is accused of receiving two cashier checks from Cauble on May 31, while Cauble was an inmate at the camp.

The checks - for $6,550 and $5,000 - were bought May 28 from Western State Bank in Denton and were cleared through First National Bank in Big Spring

Cauble had controlled the Denton bank until a few days after the checks were drawn when the federal government announced an agreement in which the millionaire relinquished control of the bank and other properties Sam Buffone of Washington, D.C., Cauble's attorney, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that he believes the U.S. attorney was correct in not charging Cauble with offering a bribe to Roybal.

Feds uproof fields in national marijuana raid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, led by Attorney General Edwin Meese III, today launched a nationwide series of raids on marijuana fields in what they called the largest such eradication program ever undertaken. Meese and Drug Enforcement Administration head John C. Lawn led some 2,200 law enforcement authorities in the 50-state sweep with plans to "manually eradicate" up to a quarter million marijauna plants over a three-day period.

Meese, arriving in Harrison, Ark., to supervise the operation, walked from his jet to a grey sedan, nodding to reporters and also had started pulling up plants saying only, "Good morning." Meese went to state police headquarters for closed meetings with law enforcement authorities.

Plans for the attorney general to fly to an Ozark National Forest site where authorities were ripping up cannibis plants were scrapped, however, following heavy overnight rains that threatened flash flooding in the area.

Even before the 50-state eradication operation officially got under way, agents had cleared some plots in Newton County, Ark., in the northern part of the state, and had cleared other plots in Illinois. Federal, state and local authorities in California on Friday, police said.

There were no plans to spray the plants with paraquat or herbicides, but such future action was under review by the DEA. Lawn said that, where possible, seized marijuana plants would be burned.

Some of the raids were to target private, hydroponic or 'greenhouse" operations as well as those in open fields and on federal lands, authorities said.

In a statement released before the operation, Meese said "this massive coordinated effort signals the resolve of the Reagan administration to deal effectively with widespread cultivation and sale of marijuana grown within our

"We are sending a strong message, both to the domestic producers of marijuana and to major source countries outside our borders, that the U.S. government takes very seriously the need to attack production of this drug," the attorney general said.

The ambitious nationwide series of raids, Lawn said in describing details of the mission, had been in the planning stage for "six to seven weeks" and would be "the first one in which we are coordinating the eradication in all 50 states simultaneously.'

Saying there have been "increasing incidences of violence in recent years" in connection with such efforts, Lawn said federal, state and local agents were prepared to confront such obstacles as dynamite, booby traps, fishhooks hung at eye level, attack dogs and guns.

"These are not just itinerant farmers," the DEA chief said.

Asked whether authorities had obtained search warrants for raiding the private property of suspected marijuana growers, Lawn replied, "This program is going to use every legal tool that it has in its arsenal.

Saturday shootings appear connected

Police receive conflicting statements

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Two shootings Saturday night in the 1300 block of Utah Street appear to be related, according to Police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

"It appears to be a dispute among between families," Edwards said. However, he said investigating officers were getting conflicting statements from the people involved in the shootings. Police do not have anyone in custody in connection with either shooting, Edwards said.

Santos Lopez of 1111 W. Seventh remains in Malone-Hogan Hospital, where he is being treated by Dr. Don Crockett for a gunshot wound to the right hip. According to a hospital spokesmen, Lopez is in stable condition.

According to police reports, a man shot Lopez with a pistol at 11:10 p.m. Saturday outside 1314

Lopez told police he did not know his assailant, Edwards said.

Earlier that night, police had another report of a shooting in the same block. According to police reports, Walter Lamar Dugan of 908 Bell was shot with a 12-gauge shotgun outside 1321 Utah by a man Dugan suffered gunshot wounds to his back and left side and was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital for treatment. However, once there he refused treatment, Edwards

Dugan already had left for the hospital when police arrived at the shooting scene, Edwards said. Dugan was shot at 8:12 p.m., he "Evidently, the wounds were superficial enough that they let him walk out of there without treatment," Edwards said. A third man, William J. McNew of 1008 W. Sixth, told police a man he knows chased him with a shotgun about 8:12 p.m., about the same time Dugan was shot, reports The man threatened Dugan and hit him with a belt buckle on his left arm, where he suffered a scrape, the police report shows. McNew, however, refused medical treatment. Investigating the shootings is

The Boss is back

Washington crowd prepares for Springsteen's return

WASHINGTON (AP) - As staid old Washington, with its legions of lawyers, lobbyists and legal secretaries, goes nuts tonight over rock star Bruce Springsteen, it is time to recall the Boss' cameo performance in campaign '84.

Springsteen, the hard-rocking, Born-in-the-U.S.A, blue-collar hero from Asbury Park, N.J., sounded one of the few discordant notes in President Reagan's storybook, it'smorning-again-in-America campaign. The president had no problem surrounding himself with stars last year. Frank Sinatra warmed up some of his crowds. Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie joined him on the hustings. Even Michael Jackson trooped through the Rose Garden with his glove and epaulets.

Last September, at a rally in Hammonton, a farm town in southern New Jersey, Reagan and his speechwriters — apparently couldn't resist adding the homestate hero to his retinue, at least rhetorically.

"America's future rests in a thousand dreams inside your hearts," the president told thousands of loyalists. "It rests in the message of hope in songs of a man so many young Americans admire: New Jersey's own Bruce Springsteen. And, helping you make those dreams come true is what this job of mine is all about."

That was too much for Walter F. Mondale, who spent much of his hapless campaign accusing Reagan of trying to steal Democratic heroes such as Harry Truman and John F. Kennedy.

Two weeks later, Mondale went to New Brunswick, N.J., and accused Reagan of trying "to steal one of new Jersey's most important heroes.

Bruce may have been born to run, but he wasn't born yesterday. And when Bruce heard what President Reagan had said, here's what the Boss had to say to him," said Mondale, pulling out a U.S.A. Today article in which Springsteen was quoted as saying:

"There's something really dangerous happening to us out there. We're slowly getting split up into two different Americas ... I don't think the American dream was that everyone was going ... to make a billion dollars. But it was that everyone was going to have a chance to live a life with some decency and some dignity.'

"That's the real Bruce Springsteen, and he's for the Mondale-Ferraro ticket," Mondale said to cheers. But his press secretary later admitted there had been no formal endorsement.

Springsteen also told Rolling Stone last October: "You see the Reagan re-election ads on TV you know: 'It's morning in America.' And you say, 'Well, it's not morning in Pittsburgh. It's not morning above 125th Street in New York. It's midnight, and like, there's a bad moon risin.""

Will had been exposed to Springsteen's music at Washington's Capitol Centre last August as the guest of the Boss's literary-minded drummer, Max Weinberg. Through the cotton that he stuffed into his ears to deaden the din, the bow-tied Princeton Ph.D. liked what he

"I have not got a clue about Springsteen's politics, if any, but flags get waved at his concerts while he sings songs about hard times. He is no whiner, and the recitation of closed factories and other pro-blems always seems punctuated by a grand, cheerful affirmation: 'Born in the U.S.A.!'" said Will.

"If all Americans ... made their products with as much energy and confidence as Springsteen and his merry band make music, there would be no need for Congress to be thinking about protectionism," reasoned Will."... Springsteen's tour is hard, honest work and evidence of the astonishing vitality of America's regions and generations.'

Springsteen's fans overloaded the capital's phone circuits two weeks ago when the tickets for tonight's 40,000-seat Robert F. Kennedy stadium concert went on sale. Almost 2 million calls from out of town were made in a single hour.

One shameless scalper pandered in the classifieds of The Washington Post, "Wanna dance with The Boss? Front row dead center, $2,500 pair."

A local law firm assigned staffers and interns to wait in line for four days for tickets. Twenty-seven employees took turns in shifts and wound up with 68 of the coveted $18.50 ducats. The firm will raffle them off today.

Last year Pepsi-Cola, the corporate sponsor of Michael Jackson's Victory Tour, helped members of Congress and the White House staff secure tickets. But there was no set-aside for the

And Buffone would not say whether Cauble admitted to giving the checks to Roybal or whether the rancher from Denton was an informant for the government. An FBI agent said it was not known why the money was given to the guard, who has not worked at the prison since July 25.

Buffone said the indictment against Roybał cites a statute relating to gratuities. "It's like giving your mailman a bottle of whiskey for delivering your mail all year," Buffone said. He would not comment on why Cauble might tip someone who is guarding him.

In the portion of the indictment referring to Cauble, Tallant cited a subsection of the federal bribery statute. The offense carries a penalty of up to two years in prison and a fine of not more than $10,000. "It's just a different statute that we chose to proceed under," he said. "There are a thousand reasons why you might (charge) the lesser offense.

The prosecutor would not comment on what the reasons may be.

Cauble began serving his sentence at the minimum-security Big Spring prison camp in June 1984. He recently was transferred to the La Tuna Federal Correctional Institute, a medium-security facility near El Paso.

Roybal also is accused of accepting $1,000 from another former inmate, Gary Gunter, and of delivering controlled substances on two different occasions to Gunter. Gunter is now at the minimumsecurity Fort Worth Federal Correctional Institute.

Asner, speaking to a group of 200 protesters outside the plant that assembles the nation's nuclear weapons, accused the Reagan administration of "butchering" innocent people in Central America.

Schroeder returns home

JASPER, Ind. - Artificial-heart patient Bill Schroeder enjoyed his first visit home more than the debilitating effects of two strokes allowed him to show, his doctor and family said.

Schroeder, the second man to receive the artificial heart and its longest-living recipient, visited with friends and family at his house Sunday and rode in a parade crowded with cheering neighbors.

Japan's move is too late

BOISE, Idaho - Japan's decision to lift many of its trade barriers has fallen short of the steps some American governors say are needed to head off protectionist retaliation by the United States.

"There is really a very small window of time left for achieving results, not making small changes," New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu, said Sunday at the opening of the 77th National Governors' Conference.

Once a staunch critic of protectionist legislation, Sununu said, "My resolve in that direction is eroding very fast, and I'm beginning to lose patience with some of my colleagues who remain that way.

Festive demonstrators fanned out Sunday with the 24,000 panels and colorful strips of tapestry to surround the Pentagon, the Capitol, and the Mall near the White House and Lincoln Memorial. The tapestries, created by stitchers in 50 states and 20 countries, depicted what people would most fear losing in a nuclear war - items ranging from Cabbage Patch dolls to trees and Activities commemorating the 40th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, were continuing today across the street from the White House with a remembrance of the children killed in those 1945 blasts.

Police estimates of the number of participants in Sunday's demonstration ranged from 15,000 to more than 20,000. Organizers had hoped for 50,000.

At the Pentagon, where an estimated 10,000 people held the ribbon around the giant complex, demonstrators sang, "All we are saying, is give peace

"I wouldn't call this a protest," said organizer Marie

Grasso. "It's more an affirmation of life."

The tapestries were produced by professional and amateur craftsmen, including many children, who labored for two years in schools, homes, social centers and church basements, creating the anti-nuclear messages they embroidered, quilted and painted on their segments.

The ribbon wound through Washington Sunday morning and just after 2 p.m. linked up across the Potomac River with the segment that wrapped around the Pentagon, as thousands of colorful balloons were released into the skies

"Policy-makers can't help but notice this," said Gloria Ziegler of Janesville, Wis., who carried a tapestry quilted with flowers. "If they don't hear it today, it's a seed that's been planted and it will grow.'

Justine Merritt, a Colorado teacher who dreamed up the folk-art idea, had said each panel should depict what people could not bear to lose in a nuclear war. Kristin Ekman; a 12-year-old from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., carried a ribbon on which her Sunday school class had embroideried a Cabbage Patch doll. Anne Gibbons, a minister at Virginia Tech University in Blacksburg, Va., carried a blue denim tapestry adorned with various size randals - symbolizing her family members and her unborn child.

Soviets' No.1 problem

MOSCOW - A much-heralded crackdown on drinking in the Soviet Union has shut down hundreds of liquor stores, landed thousands in trouble with the law, and reportedly sliced alcohol sales by up to a third.

The measures, imposed June 1 in an attempt to curb a problem that is said to be responsible for most crime and absenteeism, included raising the drinking age from 18 to 21, cutting sales hours and imposing harsher penalties for being drunk in public.

According to reports in the state-run media, liquor sales since have fallen between 20 and 30 percent across the country.

Fatherhood too is responsibility

Frequently we disagree with the Rev. Jesse Jackson. Too often he shouts without thinking, but one Jackson statement deserves sober thought. He said, "Even a cockroach can make babies ... but it takes a man to help raise a family."

In view of the growing number of unwed girls who become pregnant, society must do more to make young males aware of their responsibilities.

When a teenage girl becomes pregnant, she frequently drops out of school, often is ostracized by the community and usually loses her chance to be self-supporting. In addition, she faces the prospect of raising her child without a father. She is more likely to live in poverty.

Society generally pays little or no attention to the father. Sometimes he proudly boasts of his conquest. Parents often excuse him as having sown his wild oats for, after all, boys will be boys.

In the black community, the problem is especially tragic. Some 60 percent of black females on public assistance became pregnant during their teens. They face a life of poverty that becomes a vicious circle.

The Urban League and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have joined in an educational program that does offer some hope. They are attempting to make young black males aware of their responsibility and to teach birth control methods.

It is a start, but the program must be extended to the white and Hispanic communities as well. It is a problem that eats at the health and economy of all Americans, for unwanted pregnancies ruin lives of girls from all strata of society. Yes, it does take a man to accept the responsibilities of fatherhood.

Strange games to play traveling

(While Art Buchwald is on vacation, we are reprinting a past column.)

Traveling can become very boring, unless you can invent games to pass the time.

I was introduced to one by an English writer, Guy Elms, who lives in Rome. He claims the game was invented by Graham Greene at a sidewalk cafe on the Via Veneto. It's called "Hating People."

Elms explained the idea of the game to me. "You play it in any public place — a sidewalk cafe, a railroad station, a train or at an air terminal, waiting for a plane.

"You select one person from a crowd, someone you don't know and you start to hate him."

"I don't understand," I said.
"All right, we'll play a game worse," I said.
now. Do you see that man over there? Let's hate him."

"They don't understand," I said.
"They don't worse," I said.
Elms said, "telling her a particular to the said.

Elms pointed at a young man sitting several tables down, reading a newspaper.
"I seek at him." Elms said. "The "Look at him," Elms said. "The ignorant clod. He doesn't read anything but the sports page."

"He looks innocent to me."
"Hah," said Elms. "He's a miserable wretch. Look at him.
He's trying to get the waiter.
Watch, he's waiting to be served too. He's going to order one cup of coffee and sit there all day. How cheap can you get?

"Now look at the way he's ogling the women. He's probably a sex maniac. I'll bet the police would like to get their hands on him. Now he's put the newspaper on another chair. He's the kind of person that litters up a beautiful city. Doesn't care about anybody but himself. Oh, how I hate types like that."

"He does look like a bad sort," I said.

"Bad sort?" Elms said furiously.

"He's a filthy rotter. He hasn't taken a bath in weeks "

As I was studying him, an old lady came up to the table and joined the man. He kissed her on both cheeks.

"There!" said Elms. "That's his game. He's a gigolo."

"No," I said. "It looks more like she's his mother."

"Maybe so," Elms grunted. "But it's typical of him. He makes his mother meet him on the Via Veneto, instead of going to her house. He's too important to visit her; she has to visit him. When I think of what his mother did to raise him and the sacrifices she made for him I get sick to my stomach."

I got angry too. "A man should have more respect for his mother," I agreed.

"Did you notice?" Elms said.
"He hasn't even asked her what she wants to drink. She probably walked up from the bottom of the Spanish Steps, but do you think he cares? He's spoiled rotten."

"They don't make them any worse," I said.

Elms said, "Now he's laughing, telling her a pack of lies. Can you imagine anyone laughing with his mother?"

"Or at her?" I snickered.
"The waiter is bringing his mother a drink. It looks like a Per-nod," Elms said. "She's become an alcoholic because of him."

"Do you think he'll pay for it?" I asked.

"Not if he can help it;" Elms said. "He'll probably think of some excuse and stick his mother with the check. After all, he's been doing it all his life."

A man stopped by at the table to say hello.

Elms became furious. "He doesn't even bother to introduce him to his mother. He's ashamed of her."

"It figures," I said, slamming my glass on the table.

"He's inviting the fellow to sit down. Can you imagine introducing your mother to a fellow like that?"

I said, "I'm going to poke him in the nose!"

Elms suddenly relaxed and seemed to lose interest in the whole thing. He said to me quietly, "Now how about the lady over there with the dog?"

Things are getting rough ... down on the farm

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary John Block put it bluntly: Many farmers, whose finances are shaky or methods are inefficient, are simply going to lose their farms.

Economic forces — high interest rates, falling land values, agriculture surpluses — are slowly overwhelming many small farmers, he told us. He also predicted that conditions on the farm probably will get worse before they get better.

It's not that Block lacks sympathy for small farmers; President Reagan is also compassionate, said Block. But he has more headaches than remedies, he admitted glumly.

The biggest problem, he said, is the overvalued dollar. U.S. products, therefore, are overpriced on foreign markets. Foreign customers simply can't afford to buy U.S. agricultural products.

Bad times have depressed farmland. In the past four years, agricultural real-estate prices have skidded by more than 20 percent in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. This means that farmers are not only stuck with heavy mortgages they took out when land costs were high, but they have substantially less collateral for the loans they need to keep operating.

An internal government report states bleakly: "Currently, there is little to suggest that these factors are likely to change significantly over the near term. Thus it seems likely that the financial condition of farm producers will continue to deteriorate this year. ... As much as 30 percent of all farm debt may be at risk of defaulting over the next two years if past conditions continue."

Needless to say, when farmers are suffering, their banks are in trouble, too. Bad debts and foreclosures don't make any money for rural banks, and they're going under at an alarming rate. Six farm banks failed on a single day in May, that used to be the average number of failures per year.

Our banking sources predict 100 bank failures this year across the nation — even more in 1986 — and farm banks will make up a disproportionate share of the failures.

Farm banks are also swelling the government's list of "problem banks," which soared to 975 recently — up 25 in a single month. In a sentence, America's farmers have a tough row to hoe.

COLA WAR UPDATE: The millions who guzzle carbonated drinks will eventually settle whether the scuttling of old Coke and its return to the market as Classic Coke was a setback for Coca-Cola. But it looks as if Pepsi-Cola will win the space race. True, both colas were launched aboard the space shuttle. But through the auspices of the Young Astronauts, Pepsi will have two cans in space; Coke only one.

whistle was blown on theft and black market activities aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk, Navy Supply Corps magazine features the ship on its cover—because it had won the annual Blue E medallion for "supply efficiency." A Navy spokesman explained: "Although allegations of fraud were made on the part of a few crew members, every indication is that the vast majority of the supply department of the Kitty Hawk have performed their jobs exceedingly well." Meanwhile, the gob who blew the whistle has been transferred ashore for his own safety.

SOVIET JEWRY: The flurry of contradictory reports on Soviet-Israeli detente points up a serious problem: the plight of Soviet Jews who want to emigrate but who have been refused visas. From a 14-year high of more than 51,000 exit permits granted in 1979, the number plummeted steadily to 1,000 last year — and only 499 in the first half of 1985.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Once again the greed and shortsightedness of the baseball owners and players are apparently going to succeed in punishing the nation's fans for their devotion to a game that has become a soulless money-making machine instead of a summer delight. The club owners' protestations of poverty have a tinny sound indeed: Attendance has never been higher and TV contracts have never been more lucrative. They insinuate that the players are undeserving millionaires — but who signed them to their fat contracts? In this sordid battle between millionaires and multimillionaires, the only real losers, as always, are the long-suffering fans.

Abortion will create guilt

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: At what stage do you think a fetus actually becomes a human being? This is not just an idle question, because I just found out I am pregnant. Since I am unmarried and don't have a job I want to get an abortion, since that is the easy way out. But I worry about it and don't want to feel guilty afterward. — F.D.

DEAR F.D.: Let me say to you as seriously and forcefully as I can: Don't take what seems to you to be "the easy way out" by having an abortion. It is the wrong path, and in the long run you will only regret it.

If it is not feasible for you to keep your child, then seek the counsel of a recognized adoption agency; there are hundreds of thousands of parents who deeply want to adopt a child and give him or her a happy home. Every week I receive letters from women like you who decided to go ahead with an abortion; their sorrow and guilt over what they have done testify to the fact that abortion is not a solution.

The Bible makes it clear that a fetus is more than just a piece of tissue — it has been given life by God, and God's purpose is for the little fetus to become a child. Furthermore, the Bible also indicates that a fetus has many of the characteristics of a person. God told Jeremiah, "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, before you were born I set you apart" (Jeremiah 1:5). John the Baptist, while still in the womb of his mother, "leaped for joy" when his mother met Mary, who was pregnant with Jesus (Luke 1:41-44).

Your greatest need, however, is to turn your life over to Jesus Christ. You have sinned against God and his law by having sexual relations outside of marriage and you need His forgiveness. Don't fall back into the same pattern of living, which is a dead-end road. God loves you, and right now He is ready to forgive you and receive you if you will turn to Him.

Today's highlight in history:
On Aug. 5, 1864, during the Civil War, Union Adm. David G. Farragut is said to have given his famous order, "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead!" as he led his fleet against Confederate vessels in Mobile Bay, Ala. The Union forces disabled the Confederate ship Tennessee and secured the bay.
On this date:

In 1861, the federal government levied an income tax for the first time.

In 1884, the cornerstone was laid for the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York Harbor.

In 1914, the first electric traffic lights were installed, in Cleveland. In 1953, Operation Big Switch was under way as prisoners taken during the Korean Conflict were exchanged at Panmunjom.

In 1962, actress Marilyn Monroe was found dead of an overdose of sleeping pills in her Hollywood home. She was 36.

In 1963, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and underwater.

"That was a good way to start a career," he said.

Torres, 28, is trying for the posi-tion of fireman with the Big Spring Fire Department. He has served 41/2 months of the one year proba-

He attended Howard College for one year and then enlisted in the Marine Corp for 6 years. As an infantryman, he worked with the M-60 machine gun which weighs over 20 pounds. He reached the rank of sergeant.

While playing war games on ships, he got to see many countries, including Japan, Okinawa, Australia and the Phillippines.

"This was a real good way to stop off and see the world, and that's what I always wanted to do," he

Torres decided to become a firemambecause "I've learned how to kill people, now I'd like to learn how to help and how to save people." he said

When he got out of the Marines, Torres stayed in California and attended college. He studied fire technology at Santa Anna Community College in Santa Anna.

He had hoped to attend the University of California at Los Angeles but became the proud father of twins and was financially unable to continue his education.

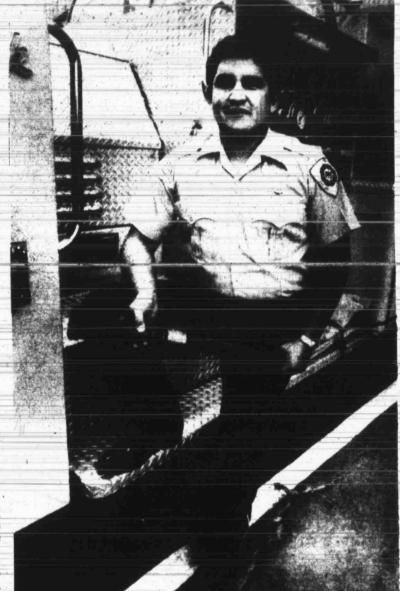

Torres is married to his high school sweetheart, Rosie, a 1975 graduate of Coahoma High School. She also attended Howard College and worked for the college until moving to California.

They have 17-month-old twins a son, Joshua Joaquin, and a daughter, Nadia Renee.

The family moved back to Big Spring from California in July 1984 and have been dorm parents for the Howard College Women's Dorm since November 1984.

He has done some volunteer work for the Red Cross since returning to Big Spring. He and his family participate in walk-a-thons. "It uinness Book record. just makes me feel good inside to help," he said.

In fact, it is a precursor of body steroid production, so it has a complex role in the body. We need only a limited amount of cholesterol and we get more than enough from what we take in as food and what our livers make for us on their own. The problem is that excess cholesterol circulates aimlessly in the blood until it finds the first convenient spot on artery walls to latch on and cause

Now, triglycerides. They are a bit different. With no specific role to play they get into the blood and then head for the nearest fat cells to be stored for future energy needs. And because we need only limited energy reserves, when we get too many triglycerides we get fat. Like cholesterol, triglycerides come from food we eat and from what the liver makes from fatty acids

So both substances create problems unique to themselves, and because we get both from food,, they are usually paired as a double restriction in any diet to lower blood fats generally.

Dear Abby

Mom says daughter is happy being single ful daughter who never caused me a moment's trouble all her growing-up years. She worked to help put herself through college, and now she has a degree and holds down a good job. She is totally selfsupporting, has a beautiful apartment, lots of friends, and she loves her work. She is morally straight, has a great sense of humor, belts out a song like Streisand and dances up a storm. And she's pret-

So what's my problem? She's 26 years old and there are no immediate prospects for marriage. This does not bother me, but it seems to bother a lot of relatives, who keep nagging her about not being married yet. They seem to think that any kind of marriage would be better than none, and tend to "worry" about her because she's still single.

I am not allowed to say anything because it might cause family problems, so I am asking you to deliver this message: Kindly keep your mouths shut, and give single people a break.

No name or address, please. My daughter would kill me. PROUD MOTHER

DEAR PROUD: Here's your letter. Let's hope it will reduce the number of concerned relatives who ask, "How come a nice girl like you money! isn't married?"

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, some girls I work with invited my husband and me to join a potluck dinner group that meets once a month. We accepted, and realized after about six months that this group was not for us.

They're all nice people, but most collect a few scents.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonder- of them have small children, who are their main interest, naturally. We don't have children yet - and aren't planning to have any in the near future.

> Every month we get a phone call reminding us where to meet and what to bring. I have tried to say we couldn't make it, but I get pumped for a foolproof excuse, which I can never come up with, so we end up going. I've tried to say we are busy with other things, but I've run out of excuses. I hate to hurt anybody's feelings, but I'd really like to know how to drop out of this group.

POTLUCKED OUT DEAR POTLUCKED OUT: Do't try to come up with an "excuse" give a reason - the real one: My husband and I have discussed it and we've decided to drop out.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "All Washed Up in Atlanta" made my day. For years I have refused to eat in fast-food restaurants where the cashier also handled the

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Stay away from unsatisfactory conditions from the past for they could cause you further dismay or disappointment. Look to the future and you will be able to achieve a great deal.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid a partner who is depressed, and look for new ways to make progress. Show gratitude in some way for help you have received. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A demanding partner should be handled tactfully while you take care of business problems. Avoid one who wants to argue. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Work is boring and all seems slow but outside partners can brighten the pic.

seems slow, but outside partners can brighten the picture later, and you get much done.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Keep rooted to your work and accomplish a good deal since pleasure could prove very costly and unsatisfactory now.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can't understand why a family tie is acting strangely, so ignore for awhile and make plans for amusement.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study reports and statements well for any possible errors in them. Some situation arises through which you can understand kin.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't argue over money with a good friend and later a bigwig can be most helpful to you. Don't be forceful. to you. Don't be forceful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get financial affairs handled properly now but safeguard your reputation in the world at large.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some secret worry can stop you from getting ahead as you would like to, if you permit this.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't permit one who has troubles to burden you with them and take care of your own affairs wisely. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't involve yourself into an argument between a partner and an official and keep out of trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep rooted to important duties ahead of you and forget about new pursuits, but handle civic affairs well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she should be taught to have more patience since studies may be difficult and delays may occur. However, your progeny is highly imagnative and can suddenly profit from some unexpected activity or source of revenue.

Reading will be a great hobby.* *

West Germans whip netters

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) - Boris Becker, West Germany's newest hero, powered his country to its first Davis Cup victory over the United States and into a semifinal matchup against

The 17-year-old Wimbledon champion trounced 18-year-old Aaron Krickstein in the fifth and decisive match 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 Sunday to give West Germany a 3-2 victory in the quarterfinal battle.

Czechoslovakia, led by Ivan Lendl, crushed Ecuador 5-0; Australia won both singles Sunday to nip Paraguay 3-2 and Sweden, the defending champion, romped past India 4-1 in other World Group

In the semifinals, which will be held Oct. 4-6, Czechoslovakia will be at West Germany and Australia at Sweden.

On Friday, Becker downed American Eliot Teltscher in the opening singles match before returning to rout Krickstein in the final.

The victory at the Rothenbaum Tennis Club was greeted by wild cheers from the crowd of 11,000 and a Dixieland band played "When the Saints Go Marching In.

After Becker beat Teltscher. West Germany's Hansjoerg Schwaier, ranked 39th in the world, defeated Krickstein in the biggest surprise of the Americans Robert Seguso and Ken Flach pulled the U.S. back into the competition with a thrilling victory over Becker and Andreas Maurer in the doubles on Saturday.

And when Teltscher stopped Schwaier 6-4, 2-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 on Sunday in a singles match interrupted three times by rain, the Americans had knotted the best-of-five-matches competition 2-2.

That left it to Krickstein, who never posed any threat to Becker and seemed outclassed from the Becker, who became the youngest Wimbledon men's winner in history last month, noted after his victory that Krickstein prefers to play a baseline

"If you make him move, he doesn't know what to do," Becker said of the young American who made his Davis Cup debut earlier this year against Japan.

The American team left without holding a formal press conference although Arthur Ashe, the non-playing U.S. Davis Cup captain, said: "They just played better than we did. They deserved to win." Becker, ranked ninth in the world, was kept in near-seclusion off the court to shield him away from an adoring public.

"Things are going pretty fast for me, I can tell you that," Becker said. "But I always thought I had complete control over the match.'

Czechoslovakia was never in trouble as veteran Tomas Smid crushed Ecuador's Martin Aguirre 6-0, 6-1 and Miloslav Mecir defeated Ricardo Ycaza 7-6, 6-3. They played only best-of-3 sets because the Czechoslovaks had taken an insurmountable 3-0 lead Saturday when Lendl and Smid beat Ycaza and Aguiree 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 in the doubles.

Paul McNamee and John Fitzgerald captured the 'reverse' singles Sunday to lift Australia over Paraguay. With Paraguay leading 2-1 after the first two days, McNamee tied it with a 6-8, 7-5, 6-2, 9-7 victory over Victor Pecci and then Fitzgerald wrapped it up with a 6-3, 9-7, 7-5 decision over Francisco

Rookie wins on LPGA tour

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - Te stage was set for Penny Hammel's collapse.

There was Hammel, a 23-year-old rookie on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, tied for the lead during Sunday's final round of the $175,000 Jamie Farr Toledo

No only had Hammel never won a pro tournament, her best finish had been a tie for eighth. And, to make matters worse, there was the foreboding presence of Nancy Lopez, the tour's second-leading moneywinner, sharing the lead.

Yet it was Hammel, and not the veteran Lopez, who took command down the stretch, completing a final-round 65 that gave her a one-stroke victory and the winner's purse of $26,250.

"It's sort of like what Nancy said," Hammel explained. "If you go into the last day and shoot a 65, it's kind of hard not to win the tournament.

Hammel won the tournament over the final in the final nine noles, which she played in

Big Spring Herald — 263-7331

5-under-par 31.

Lopez, a three-time winner in 1985, admitted that she "didn't really look at the leader board until I bogeyed 15. Then I found out I was two shots behind when I thought I was, at the worst, even.

Third-place Lori Garbacz, who was paired with Lopez in the group immediately behind Hammel, added, "I never would have thought that Penny Hammel would have come from behind to win it like that. But she was in a good spot. Had she been playing in the same group as Nancy and I, it might have been different."

Lopez, who shared the lead with Lauren Howe at 5-under after 54 holes, blitzed the front side for four birdies and owned a three-shot lead heading into Sunday's final nine.

But while Lopez, the tour's second-leading money-winner, was playing the first six holes on the back side in 1-over-par, Hammel was terrorizing par. She registered birdies on holes 10 and 11, then dropped a 12-foot putt for an eagle on the 12th to pull into a tie with Lopez.
"I really didn't notice her until the eagle on 12," confessed Garbacz. "Up to that point, I thought it was between me and After two pars, Hammel added a birdie on the 15th to go 10 under and take a two-shot lead over the faltering Lopez, who bogeyed the 13th and 15th holes.

"I didn't really think I could win until the 18th hole," said Hammel, who also earned a five-year qualifying exemption for the victory. "I didn't look at the scoreboard the whole day because my caddy wouldn't let me. On 18, I stroked my first putt and then tapped it in for par and I finally looked up and saw that I had a two-shot lead."

Garbacz said she told Lopez, you would start the day with a

Players may not be at ballparks tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) - One day before a strike Players Association, said. deadline, negotiators for baseball owners and players began today with no meetings scheduled and still deadlocked on the key issue of salary

Commissioner Peter Ueberroth continued to express optimism that there was time "to get the job done" and Lee MacPhail, representing the owners, said the two sides would meet before Tuesday's

"If we are not in a position to advise the players by Tuesday morning at the latest, or Monday night, that there is an agreement, the players will not go to the ballparks Tuesday," Donald Fehr, head of the Fehr said he has instructed players not to travel after tonight's games or on Tuesday morning without an agreement. Only a handful of Baltimore players traveled from Cleveland, where they played Sunday, on to Toronto, where they begin a series Tuesday. "We are running out of time," MacPhail admitted after the two sides met for nearly three hours Sunday. He said he would talk to Fehr today and said we will meet before the strike deadline.

"There won't be an extension," National League player representative Kent Tekulve of Philadelphia said. "We've been without a contract for seven months -that's enough of an extension.'

Both sides presented proposals Sunday, and both were rejected. Each side offered to moderate its stand on how much money should go into the players' pension fund - provided each side got everything wanted in salary arbitration.

The players, for the first time since bargaining began in November, said they would accept less than one-third of network television revenue for its pen-

MacPhail, president of the Player Relations Committee, proposed a new formula for deciding how much money should go to the pension fund. The present amount is $15.5 million each year, and MacPhail offered a new amount that would be based on how much salaries increased.

MacPhail said there would be a "floor" of $15.5 million but did not say how high the amount could go. But he said the offer was linked with the owners' desired changes in salary arbitration. "Their reponse to that was that academically, it sounded very good, but the fact that we said that this would be coupled with our salary arbitration proposal sort of resulted in their having less interest in it than they otherwise would."

MacPhail termed Sunday's session as a "good meeting" and Los Angeles Dodgers owner Peter O'Malley of the PRC executive committee said "I'm optimistic" after the meeting

Verplank became the first amateur in 29 years to win a professional tournament when he holed a 6-foot par-saving putt on the second extra hole at the Butler National Golf Club, and, in the process, denied Thorpe a spot in this week's PGA national championship.

"He may have an 'A' designation for amateur) in front of his name, but he plays like there's a 'P' behind it," Thorpe said Sunday.

There was some consolation for Thorpe, 36, not yet a winner in eight years on the PGA Tour. Since the amateur Verplank was ineligible for the prize money, Thorpe collected the $90,000.

"I'd rather have the title," Thorpe said. "The money, I'll lose it at the track or it goes to Uncle

'I guess in time the historical part of it will mean something to a student at Oklahoma State and the current national amateur champion.

"I just wanted to get into a pro tournament and play up to my abilities, my capabilities, and see what happened," said Verplank, who failed to qualify for the final 36 holes at the Masters and Colonial National Invitation and was low amateur in the U.S. Open

"I figured if I could play the way I know I can play, I could compete," he said.

He did better than compete. He beat a field that included Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Seve Ballesteros, Craig Stadler, Curtis Strange, Tom Kite and Ben Crenshaw

In the end, however, it was Thorpe, one of the few blacks on the pro tour, who was his last obstacle. Thorpe caught Verplank with a 35-foot birdie putt on the 15th hole of the final round, then preserved the tie and forced a playoff with an 18-foot putt to save par on the final hole of regulation play, which each finished in 279, nine under par. Thorpe played the last round in par 72. Verblank in 74.

Bill Robertson of Oakland, Calif., was first in the 242-pound class and Mario Martinez of San Francisco took the unlimited weight division for his fourth straight NSF gold.

Other fencing golds went to Margo Miller of Santa Monica, Calif., in the women's foil, Olympic bronze medalist Peter Westbrook in the men's sabre, Ed Kaihatsu of Chicago in men's foil, and the North men's foil team.

Mike Burley of San Antonio, Texas, who was fifth after four events, won the cross-country run to take the modern pentathlon crown with 1,374.28 points.

Bruce Merritt won his third gold in men's 500 canoe singles. But Merritt, of Ridge, Md., and brother Barry, Gaithersburg, Md., were upset by Fred Spaulding, Ventura, Calif., and Rod McLain, South Royalton, Vt., in canoe doubles.

ing Navy secrets to the Soviet Union, has waived his right to a jury trial because he believes one judge would be more impartial than 12 jurors, Walker's lawyer

The trial was scheduled to begin this morning before U.S. District Judge Calvitt Clarke Jr.

"Arthur is comfortable with the judge and feels he'll get a fair trial from him," attorney Samuel W. Meekins said Sunday. "He's not so sure a jury would be as willing to be fair.'

Some 125 potential jurors had been called for the trial.

"Although the jurors are separated from the public during the trial, they would know that if they let him off they would have to explain their action to family and friends over and over, maybe for the rest of their lives," Meekins said.

Challenger transmits sun's pictures to earth

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Challenger's astronauts transmitted the first pictures of the sun today from a telescope they had given up for dead as they sailed through the final full day of their extended scientific expedition.

"It's working," said astronaut John-David Bartoe, an astrophysicist, early today as he viewed TV images of a sunspot snapped by the telescope, which was measuring magnetic fields in the solar atmosphere. "Fantastic," replied Mission

Control. "The experimenters are delighted. "The image looks really, really great," added astronaut Loren Acton, a solar physicist. "You can see every little granule. There are little black spots all over the place." The activation of the instrument completed the spectacular recovery of Challenger from an unpromising beginning. The shuttle left the Earth 17 days late because of a launch pad engine abort and, once off the ground, an engine stalled, leaving the ship in a lower-thanplanned orbit. Some of the experiments also had to be repaired, but all 13 are now up and running, including two of interest to the proposed "Star Wars" missile defense program. Astronaut Karl Henize, an astronomer, probably expressed the feelings of the entire crew when he said today, "This is a great experience. I've enjoyed every minute of it since that first day."

The seven crewmen were scheduled to have ended their journey today, but with shuttle and experiments working so well, NASA on Saturday decided to keep the ship in orbit an extra day. Landing is set for 3:47 p.m. EDT Tuesday at Edwards Air Force Base,

The solar telescope, one of four mounted on a pointing device in Challenger's cargo bay, had been useless, its power system inoperative, since the beginning of the flight last Monday. After several attempts to revive it, Mission Control anounced Sunday no more efforts were planned.

But experimenters decided to give it one more try Sunday afternoon, and, inexplicably, the power
